P'burg considers hiring debt collector

By MARY MEADOWS
STAFF WRITER

The Prestonsburg City Council is considering the use of a third-party debt collector to bring in more revenue for the city.

During an Oct. 15 meeting, the council heard a presentation from Bobby Munroe of the DataMax Corporation, a North Carolina company that helps local governments collect debt and increase revenue.

The council tabled its decision on whether to hire the company, with

Mayor Les Stapleton reporting that he would provide them copies of a proposed contract, and Council Member Don Willis requesting a list of references from other local governments that have received these services from DataMax.

Munroe said his company is working with

FLOYD CHRONICLE
AND TIMES STAFF REPORT

Members of the Martin Fire Department learned life-saving skills this week with a vehicle extrication class.

The class was taught on Monday by Nathan Looney, an instructor with the Kentucky State Fire Rescue Training Area

11. Participants learned several skills that could help them respond to wrecks, including winching, stabilization, dash rolls and the removal of vehicle glass, doors, roofs and steering wheel pulls.

"These are some of many skills that are used to remove victims who are trapped in their vehicles after motor vehicle collisions," the fire department reported on social media. "We are always fighting against the golden hour getting these victims out of vehicle which required great proficiency. Our rescue is fully equipped to handle these type of emergencies with several extrication tools and stabilization devices."

Halloween events planned in Wheelwright

Vendors sought for safe trick-or-treat

By MARY MEADOWS
STAFF WRITER

The City of Wheelwright is hosting several Halloween events this month.

The city is hosting its annual haunted house and a safe trick-or-treat event from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Oct. 30.

Attendance is free at both events, and free food and refreshments will be provided on a first-come, first-served basis.

Officials invite local individuals, businesses or groups to participate in the safe trick-or-treat.

"Anybody that wishes to give out candy, they can come and get them a table," Mayor Don Hall said. "That way the kids can just come into the gym, go around and trick or treat and go down to the haunted house or get a pop or however they want to do it."

The Wheelwright City Commission approved spending up to $1,500 for this event. City Clerk Beverly Taylor said the city will give away candy treat bags, free refreshments and 500 hot dogs at this event. Volunteers will prepare about 40 lbs. of hot dog chili, she said.

Those are two of three Halloween-themed events that will be held in Wheelwright this month.

Commissioner Sam Little said he is planning the city's first-ever Zombie Walk, which is scheduled to start at 3 p.m. on Oct. 27 at the city swimming pool.

Trophies and prizes will be awarded to the best-dressed zombies, Little said.

For more information or to inquire about participating in the safe trick-or-treat, call city hall at, (606) 452-4202.

SOAR Continued From Page 1A

Rainey said BitSource provides the ultimate example of entrepreneurs and innovation at work. BitSource is a local coding company that has gained nationwide recognition for its strategy of re-training out-of-work coal miners to work in coding.

"This is an historic day for entrepreneurship in Kentucky," Rainey said.

Rainey said that, in deciding to go with SOAR, KY Innovation looked at the organization's ability to leverage its regional resources and the strong partnerships which SOAR has built in region.

Arnett said the expansion, including the opening of new offices, allows a better ability "to put boots on the ground," to better focus on local projects and to provide easier avenues to get resources to businesses.

SOAR will triple its staff and open eight new offices in Appalachia, Arnett said.

Those new offices will include four offices in Pikeville, Paintsville, Hazard and Cumberland; three branch offices at Manchester, Beattyville and near Natural Bridge State Park and four "interstate" offices in Ashland, Morehead, Richmond and London.

Jeff Whitehead, director of East Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program, said that, when it comes to partnering businesses and industry in Appalachia, "the answers are going to come with leaders that live here."

He said EKCEP is there to do their part in helping with RISE Appalachia.

"We are there at the table offering our support. There is a solution to be discovered," Whitehead said.

Arnett said the initial focus of RISE Appalachia will be with existing businesses to provide technical support.

Arnett said businesses interested in working with RISE should visit the SOAR web page at, thereisafuture.org, and go to the business database at, thereisafuture.org/innovation.

The offices will launch in 2019, Arnett said, so there will also be a place on the website for any interested potential employees to enter a resume.

"If its not a full-time opportunity ... you can add value to entrepreneurs, we can find a place to get you involved," Arnett said.

more than 60 companies in other states and he is beginning to reach out to entities in this state.

"The way it works is we identify businesses coming in Prestonsburg without a business license. These are companies coming in from Florida, North Carolina, Tennessee, dropping their products off and never getting a business license. You never get revenue from that business," Munroe said.

He explained that the company's services will come in addition to other things Prestonsburg is already doing to ensure businesses pay their license fees. City officials will continue that work, he explained, as DataMax identifies companies that are passing through the city without operating from a storefront. He talked about vendors dropping off items to restaurants and stores as an example and said this identification will also include companies that work with the local school district and other entities.

He said his office recently found $98,000 that one vendor owed another city and that company "gladly paid" the license fee for that city.

He said Prestonsburg will be able to retroactively charge these businesses for five years.

He said DataMax will send the city a list of 20 to 30 new businesses every month and city officials will identify businesses that are paying their fees and send the list of those that don't back to DataMax for collection.

"It's all performance-based. If we don't collect anything, you don't owe us a dime," he said.

He said the company will split all revenues "50-50" with Prestonsburg for the five years of retroactive collections and two upcoming years of collections, but thereafter, the city would get all of the revenue from these business license fees.

"We do 100 percent of the work, and the split is 50-50," he said, pointing out that Prestonsburg could gain between $100,000 and $1 million annually from this service.

He said the company has never had a dissatisfied customer.

"But we have never had a municipality that we didn't find revenue for, ever," he said. "And even though it's a two-year agreement, going forward, we've never had anyone stop the agreement because we're finding new businesses every month and we're bringing money to the city every month."

Munroe said he met Stapleton at a conference several weeks ago and was invited to address the council about the proposal.

Council Member Shag Branham questioned the 50-50 split, asking whether that could be negotiated and pointing out that collection agencies typically charge 30 percent.

Munroe said the rate would be negotiable on consumers, but not on businesses because the license fee is set at a flat rate. He pointed out that any collections for individual consumers would have to be detailed in a separate contract with the city.

Stapleton said Munroe would be invited back to a future city council meeting.

U.S. Senator McConnell to visit Pikeville

A FLOYD CHRONICLE AND TIMES STAFF REPORT

The Majority Leader of the U.S. Senate will visit the region next week.

U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell (R-Kentucky) is the featured speaker at the Southeast Kentucky Chamber of Commerce's membership luncheon on Tuesday, Oct. 23, at noon at the Hilton Garden Inn in Pikeville.

McConnell is expected to provide a legislative update at this event, which is sponsored by Baird & Baird, PSC.

McConnell, a former Judge-Executive of Jefferson County (1979-1985) and Deputy U.S. Attorney for Legislative Affairs, was first elected to the Senate in 1984 and started his tenure in 1985. He has served in numerous roles during his 33 years in the Senate, and he endorsed Donald Trump for the Republican primary in 2016.

He is the second Kentuckian to serve as majority leader in the U.S. Senate and is the longest-serving Republican leader in the government's history, as well as Kentucky's longest-serving senator.

McConnell has led the Senate through several controversial measures this year, including the recent confirmation of Supreme Court Justice Brett Kavanaugh, a failed effort to repeal the Affordable Care Act and, last December, the passage of the country's first significant tax reform bill since the 1980s.

McConnell touted Kavanaugh's confirmation on Twitter this month, saying he is "among the very best our nation has to offer" and reporting that the Senate has confirmed President Donald Trump's judicial nominees "at a historic pace" of 84 judges.

McConnell reportedly said in September that he does not plan to try to repeal the health care act again this year.

The tax reform bill he championed in the Senate cut corporate tax rates and gave a 0.4 percent tax cut for people earning less than $25,000 annually, a 1.6 percent cut for those earning between $49,000 and $86,000, a 1.9 percent cut for those earning between $86,000 and $149,000 and a 4.1 percent cut for those earning between $308,000 and $733,000, the Tax Policy Center reported.

dents in need.

The donation totaled $900, with $700 coming from the Jenny Wiley Festival Car Show and $200 coming from the city.

Soul Food works to "share the love of Christ and feed children in Eastern Kentucky who would otherwise go hungry on weekends." The organization was founded in 2014 by Alisa and Bob Gound of Johnson County and it expanded into Floyd County in 2016.

Stapleton said Soul Food can purchase enough food to feed one child for an entire school year with every donation of $120.

The $200 donation from the city was in addition to $700 raised for Soul Food during the Jenny Wiley Festival Car Show. Pictured with Karen Paige-Hall are City Comptroller Michael Ellis and FRYSC officials Jerri Turner of Allen Elementary, Rebial Reynolds of Prestonsburg Elementary and Cissy Williams of South Floyd Elementary.

Karen Paige-Hall, a Family Resource Youth Service Center assistant in Floyd County, became emotional when she talked about how these donations will help children.

"We have 171 children in Floyd County and every Friday they go home with a bag of-I'm going to get emotional because these children," she said.

"It's okay," Stapleton told her.

She continued, "They make sure they come and get their bag of food, and we have children that make sure their little brothers and sisters (get it). They'll say, 'Look at your list. Is my little brother in here?' Because they need this food. They really need this food. This goes so far in helping, and we really appreciate it so much."

SOMETIMES MIRACLES COME IN THREES – FIRST TRIPLETS BORN AT PMC IN OVER 17 YEARS

By: Amanda Jo Lawson

Pikeville Medical Center (PMC) delivered and cared for the first set of triplets in over 17 years.

PMC OB/GYN Angela Maggard, MD, recently delivered the three bundles of joy at PMC by Cesarean at 32 weeks. The three tiny miracles Emelia, Makinley and Keaton were born on September 11, to Shawn and Telisha Bentley.

PMC provided care to all three infants in their Level II Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU), an intensive care unit specializing in care of ill or premature newborn infants.

Bentley had struggled with infertility for years before she decided to make an appointment with Dr. Maggard.

"I prayed for answers and prayed to be able to have a baby," said Bentley.

Dr. Maggard has quite a reputation for treating patients who suffer with fertility issues. She prescribed Bentley, Clomid, an oral medication used to help ovulation in women who face fertility issues.

After several weeks under Dr. Maggard's care, Bentley learned of her pregnancy. She says she was thrilled to know she was pregnant but she had not expected to receive the news she was carrying three babies.

"I was so excited to find out I was going to have triplets," said Bentley. "I was comforted in knowing I would have the care and guidance of PMC and Dr. Maggard, for my miracle journey," she added.

Dr. Maggard and her dedicated team were able to care for Bentley and her triplets at PMC during her pregnancy, keeping them close to their home and family. "Patients facing infertility do not have to travel or spend thousands of dollars to receive quality gynecologic care," said Dr. Maggard.

She says patients can begin their journey at PMC and can continue their care throughout the entire pregnancy. The hospital is staffed with a skilled compassionate team of professionals who keep a close eye on mother and baby.

They are prepared to answer any questions and help coach the family through this exciting experience.

PMC's OB/GYNs and Neonatologists worked with an experienced, committed team to develop a plan to deliver and care for the babies.

The staff worked closely to care for the multiple preterm newborns. This was a special time when the premature babies did not have to be transferred to another hospital.

"Anytime we have a new baby born at PMC we celebrate, because they are all special," said PMC Chief Nursing Officer Michelle Rainey. "Three babies born to one mother is something that does not happen very often. I am proud of the physicians and staff for the exceptional care they gave this family. They took every opportunity to make sure their experience was a positive one."

Each patient has a reason they choose their physician and hospital they depend on for the birth of their baby. For the Bentley family, their decision was based on PMC's Level

II NICU and the dedicated neonatologist. The fact they could stay close to home for care was an extra blessing.

"I have worked in the NICU for 26 years and I have had many great days, but the triplet day was the best," said PMC NICU Director, Sandy Crum. "Parents choose PMC to deliver babies because they know they can trust us. You don't have that everywhere."

Crum says when she thinks of 9-11 she remembers one of the most devastating days in modern American history. Now when she thinks of 9-11, she will think of the PMC triplets.

Dr. Maggard has been practicing medicine for 20 years. The Bentley triplets made her fifth set of triplets.

"In the past, I provided prenatal care, but deliveries were performed out of town," said Dr. Maggard. "I want people to know we can help them with fertility issues and complicated childbirth here at PMC. I love helping people have a baby when they have struggles. I feel this is how I make a difference."

Bentley says throughout her pregnancy she felt like the only patient at PMC. The team truly cared about the well-being of her and her children.

"I am glad my family and I were able to receive quality care close to home. It was wonderful knowing I did not have to travel out of town or deliver my babies away from our families," said Bentley.

She said she is forever grateful to PMC for the care they provided for her and her babies.

The Bentley triplets are doing well and still under the care of PMC.

Patients struggling with fertility issues or facing complicated childbirth are in great hands at PMC. For more information visit, pikevillehospital.org or call 606-218-3500.

PMC PROUDLY ANNOUNCES THE ADDITION OF AARONDA WELLS, MD, PEDIATRICIAN

By: Amanda Jo Lawson

Dr. Wells received her Bachelor of Science in biology from Morehead State University in Ky. She completed her medical degree from the University of Louisville School of medicine. Dr. Wells completed her residency at Wright State University's Children's Medical Center in Dayton, Ohio.

She taught me to believe in myself, know my worth and to not be afraid to be an advocate for our children."

She looks forward to providing care to patients at PMC.

"My goals are to simply provide excellent medical care in a loving compassionate Christian environment and be a physician that my patients know they can depend on in their time of need," added Dr. Wells.

She said patients can expect that she will care for their children and love them like they are her own family.

"I always hope to be an advocate for my patients no matter what their need may be," said Dr. Wells.

Several factors drew Dr. Wells to PMC.

"I chose PMC for a few reasons," she said. "I have been an affiliated physician at PMC for 18 years and could not imagine practicing anywhere other than PMC."

Wells' journey at PMC began as a young adult when she worked in the NICU.

"I love that I already know, admire and respect so many people who work at PMC," Dr. Wells added.

Wells said practicing for over 18 years in Pikeville, she has loved watching her patients grow from infants to young adults.

Wells, the daughter of Aaron Ricie and Pat Derossett of Allen, was born at PMC and grew up in Eastern, Ky. Wells has been married to her husband, Jim, for 22 years. Together, they reside at Stanville. They have two daughters, Morgan and Meredith. In addition, they have four dogs. They enjoy spending time together with family and friends.

When she is not caring for patients, Dr. Wells enjoys her family, dogs, boating, camping, reading and shopping with her daughters. She enjoys Christian music and attends Betsy Layne Freewill Baptist Church with her family.

To schedule an appointment, call 606-218-2207.

at Wright State University's Children's Medical Center in Dayton, Ohio.

Dr. Wells is board certified by the American Board of Pediatrics. She is certified by the Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure.

She serves as the senior examining physician at Big Sandy Advocacy Center. In addition, she is a member of Kentucky Medical Association, Pike County Medical Association and American Academy of Pediatrics.

Dr. Wells is an associate professor for pediatrics at the University of Pikeville School Of Osteopathic Medicine. Wells is a preceptor for family residency program at PMC.

"I have always loved children. I grew up wanting to be a doctor," said PMC Pediatrician Aaronnda Wells, MD. "I have always felt a connection with children of all ages and love their curiosity and spontaneity."

Dr. Wells says her mentor was Dr. Ruth Ann Shepherd. Dr. Shepherd was the founder and original neonatologist, at Pikeville Medical Center Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU).

"Dr. Shepherd is a driven, dedicated and loving woman who, through her life, improved the lives and healthcare for children in our area and all of Kentucky," said Dr. Wells. "During my time with her, she taught me all things are possible with dedication and hard work."

EDITORIAL

Show support for Vietnam vets

According to the Kentucky Historical Society, approximately 125,000 Kentuckians served in the military during the Vietnam War. More than 1,000 of them died in the conflict.

This coming week, Appalachian Hospice Care is hosting the Traveling Kentucky Vietnam Memorial Wall, a project that is an attempt to pay tribute to all the veterans from the commonwealth who served during that war.

So many individuals, families and communities were impacted in Kentucky during the Vietnam War. Each and every person who served left something behind. Some gave everything in service to their country.

And, unfortunately, when those who did survive made it home, they often found themselves on the defensive, as opposition to the conflict itself turned on the soldiers. Many were never welcomed home the way our fighting men and women are typically welcomed home today.

The very nature of the Vietnam War and the way it was fought also led to serious ongoing issues for those who made it home. Some were harmed by the side effects of substances such as Agent Orange.

Others had to fight the battle against post-traumatic stress disorder and similar issues in a time when there was little understanding of the condition, much less how to treat it.

However, we're now more than 40 years removed from the end of that conflict, and the passage of time has unfortunately dulled the impact that Vietnam once held. As a result, it sometimes becomes easy to forget that the war was not just an event in our nation's history but a real event that affected the real lives of people right here.

On Oct. 25, there will be a public reception at Jenny Wiley State Park's Stumbo-Wilkinson Center where the public will have a chance to view the Kentucky wall and pay their respects.

However, the day before, on Oct. 24, is a real opportunity for this community to show support for those who served in Vietnam. At approximately 1:15 p.m. that day, the wall will be escorted through downtown.

We would love to see the streets lined with people paying their respects and showing their support.

Let's make sure that this event doesn't go by without those who served and their families feeling the support that they often didn't get in the years after the war. Let's make sure that they know how much this community cares.

GUEST COLUMN

All shook up

By JK COLEMAN
APPALACHIAN NEWSPAPERS

Can you remember what you were doing at about noon on Dec. 21, 1970?

I was only six years old, so for me, it probably involved Rock'em Sock'em Robots and pajamas with the feet in them. If you were Elvis Presley on that day however, you were in a cape, shaking hands with the president in the Oval Office while buzzing like a chainsaw.

Elvis walked out his front door and made his way to the White House gates unannounced, telling guards there that he needed to meet with Richard-by-God Nixon. And when you're The King you don't need no stinking appointment. Turns out he wasn't there for the publicity, he just wanted himself a Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs badge. Which he got. Which is nice to carry around in one's pocket, especially if your other pocket just happens to be full of narcotics. In return, 'Big E' presented 'Tricky Dick' with a shiny Colt .45 pistol.

Last week, a rapper named Kanye West got a similar meeting with an American president, though his meeting was by invitation and set up well in advance. Unlike Presley, had West had shown up at the White House fence out of the blue with a gun and a letter demanding to see Donald Trump, chances are he would have been tazed. But Kanye is married to Kim Kardashian and evidently that's enough to get you by the Secret Service these days.

From what I understand, once inside Trump's office, West went on some embarrassingly nonsensical rappish rant that may just bring Vanilla Ice out of retirement.

I've never heard a Kanye West song in my life and I guarantee the president hasn't either. But you can bet your bottom dollar he's heard Ice Ice Baby, and he won't make this Kanye mistake again.

The clowns at CNN are all shook up, hurling racial insults at Kanye that make what Jimmy The Greek said that time seem like patty cakes in comparison. If you'll remember, Jimmy said that blacks are better athletes than whites, basically, and got canned immediately by CBS due to the outrage. But liberals at CNN can call Kanye an uneducated negro and suddenly that's funny. It's downright pathetic, not to mention ironic, that these liberals, having hung their hats on their claims that Donald Trump is a racist, are the first ones in line to ridicule a black man for having beliefs that differ from their own.

Elvis wanted his meeting with the President kept secret, and the pictures of him with Nixon seem to depict that; a simpler time, when people weren't all about show. A time when no one got offended over much of anything and everyone stood for the anthem. When music lyrics were relatable and when there was no CNN.

And most of all, a time when I played Rock'em Sock'em Robots while wearing my PJ's with the feet in them and listened to Kentucky Rain.

Public hearing set for Martin

A FLOYD CHRONICLE AND TIMES STAFF REPORT

Martin residents are invited to attend a public meeting to offer comments and learn more about the Martin Redevelopment Project.

The US Army Corps of Engineers is hosting a public meeting at 6 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 25, at the Martin City Hall.

The meeting is geared to give residents the opportunity to offer comments on the potential impacts to the historic properties and archaeological sites that could be damaged or destroyed during the redevelopment project.

An update about the real estate acquisitions in the city is also expected to be provided. Corps officials previously reported that it now has all the funding it needs for all site acquisitions in the city, but those acquisitions will be completed in phases, as the project progresses.

Audit released for sheriff's department

A FLOYD CHRONICLE AND TIMES STAFF REPORT

Kentucky Auditor Mike Harmon cited the Floyd County Sheriff's Department for inappropriately collecting delinquent unmined coal taxes in a recent audit.

That was the only issue of noncompliance reported in an audit of the department's 2016 unmined coal tax settlement, which was released last week.

"The sheriff transferred the certification of delinquency for unmined coal tax bills prior to the end of the collection period required by the statute," a press release about the audit said.

It reported that the department transferred unmined coal tax bills to the county clerk, reporting that they were delinquent, on Sept. 18, 2017, but the receipt of the unmined coal property was dated for April of that year. Harmon reported that the tax collection period should have been from May through June 2017, and collections can still occur, with a penalty, through Oct. 15, 2017, before the bills were reported as delinquent.

"The unmined coal property tax bills should have been collected for another 30 days," the audit said. "As a result, tax payers were prematurely subjected to additional fees and sale of bills to third party purchasers once bills were turned over as delinquent to the county clerk."

Sheriff John Hunt told auditors that the department will collect the unmined coal taxes at the appropriate time, the audit said. According to the audit, the sheriff's department collected more than $217,400 in unmined coal taxes and penalties from Aug. 2016, to Sept. 2017. The taxes were split between the county taxes, special taxing districts, the Floyd County School District and the state. The school district received the majority of that total, about $119,000.

Town of Martin Project Public Meeting Notice

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (USACE), Huntington District, is hosting a public meeting for the Town of Martin project. The purpose of the meeting is to solicit comments on potential impacts to historic properties and archeological sites in accordance with Section 106 of the National Historical Preservation Act and to discuss status of real estate acquisitions.

In the past, the USACE evaluated alternative flood damage reduction measures for the Town of Martin project area. The project area has been devastated by numerous floods during the past years. The April 1977 flood is the flood of record and caused severe damages to residential and non-residential structures in the project area. In the past, several flood reduction measures have been implemented such as the construction of the Phase 1 Redevelopment Site. Recent supplemental funding has been allocated towards the Town of Martin project to continue and complete flood reduction measures.

A public meeting with USACE staff available to discuss the project will begin at 6 p.m. on October 25, 2018 at the Fire Station on the Redevelopment Site (1 Randy Caudill Loop, Martin, Kentucky).

Questions regarding the public meeting can be sent to Ms. Rebecca Rutherford, Chief, Environmental Analysis Section, Planning Branch, Huntington District Corps of Engineers, 502 Eighth Street, Huntington, West Virginia 25701-2070.

What the Bible says about prayer

WE ARE INVITED TO PRAY

...and call on me in the day of trouble; I will deliver you, and you will honor me." – Psalm 50:15

Then you will call on me and come and pray to me, and I will listen to you. – Jeremiah 29:12

Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. For everyone who asks receives; the one who seeks finds; and to the one who knocks, the door will be opened. – Matthew 7:7-8

WE ARE COMMANDED TO PRAY

But I tell you, love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, – Matthew 5:44

Take ye heed, watch and pray: for ye know not when the time is. – Mark 13:33

Then Jesus told his disciples a parable to show them that they should always pray and not give up. – Luke 18:1

And pray in the Spirit on all occasions with all kinds of prayers and requests. With this in mind, be alert and always keep on praying for all the Lord's people. – Ephesians 6:18

Be joyful in hope, patient in affliction, faithful in prayer. – Romans 12:12

Devote yourselves to prayer, being watchful and thankful. – Colossians 4:2

...pray continually, – 1 Thessalonians 5:17

Therefore I want the men everywhere to pray, lifting up holy hands without anger or disputing. – 1 Timothy 2:8

Is anyone among you in trouble? Let them pray. Is anyone happy? Let them sing songs of praise. Is anyone among you sick? Let them call the elders of the church to pray over them and anoint them with oil in the name of the Lord. And the prayer offered in faith will make the sick person well; the Lord will raise them up. If they have sinned, they will be forgiven. Therefore confess your sins to each other and pray for each other so that you may be healed. The prayer of a righteous person is powerful and effective. – James 5:13-16

Squandering our resources

When we understand the value of money, we try not to waste or squander it. In the same way, our time, our energy, and our inner resources have value and are often squandered. If you are a "morning person," you probably have more energy and positive thoughts in the early part of the day, and therefore it's best to get your difficult tasks done early. It is also worth noting that certain thoughts or moods can drain us of our mental and spiritual resources. Positive thoughts and good moods tend to make us more productive and tend to spread positivity to those around us, whereas negative, pessimistic thoughts and bad moods tend to do the reverse. One way to improve our lives that costs nothing is to simply be more positive. Don't dwell on negative events or the things that aren't working, but rather try to find simple solutions. It may also help to limit the distractions in our lives. Text messages, emails and other electronic distractions often squander our inner resources because they call us away from more positive activities to focus on trivialities. Our attention is one of the most valuable resources we have, and it can be squandered simply by letting modern technology dictate where our attention goes. Pay attention to your inner, spiritual resources, and consider whether you might be a better steward of God's greatest gift, your soul.

– Christopher Simon

"Teach us to number our days, that we may gain a heart of wisdom."
– Psalm 90:12 NIV

Do not pray for these people

By JAMIE BECKETT
CHRONICLE & TIMES

Do not pray for these people.

That's a statement we don't often expect from God. Most of us have been taught we should take everything to God in prayer (and we should). However, in this particular situation, God didn't want to hear prayers for the Jewish people.

God was speaking to the prophet Jeremiah when He said, "So do not pray for this people nor offer any plea or petition for them; do not plead with me, for I will not listen to you (Jeremiah 7:16)." As pointed out by Minister Bob Werntz, God told Jeremiah not to pray for them not once or twice, but three times! Jeremiah could have indeed wasted his time and breath by attempting to pray for the people. However, it would have been of no use. God told Jeremiah that He would not listen. And if God wasn't listening, then He definitely wouldn't be answering those prayers.

Bob gave two very insightful sermons on Sunday concerning why our prayers might go unanswered. God may delay answering, or even say no, but there is also the probability that He doesn't choose to answer our prayer. Why? Bob gave us four possible reasons: 1) we've been disobedient, 2) we're keeping a secret sin, 3) we've neglected mercy and 4) we despise God's Word.

In the Bible, there are times when God was willing to reconsider. Abraham negotiated with God over the city of Sodom. God stated He was going to destroy the city and Abraham attempted to bargain. "Then Abraham approached him [God] and said: 'Will you sweep away the righteous with the wicked? What if there are fifty righteous people in the city? Will you really sweep it away and not spare the place for the sake of the fifty righteous people in it (Genesis 18:23-24)?" "The Lord said, 'If I find fifty righteous people in the city of Sodom, I will spare the whole place for their sake' (Genesis 18:26)." Abraham continued. What about forty-five? What if there are only thirty? Twenty? Ten? God conceded each time. But there wasn't ten righteous people within the city and God destroyed it.

However, in the situation with Jeremiah and Judah [the southern kingdom of Israel after it was divided], God told Jeremiah upfront not to pray for the people because He will not listen. Why was it different this time?

Will we be like the people of Judah and ignore
God's Word?

The people had turned away from God. They were worshipping idols. People taught their children about the idols instead of Jehovah God. "The children gather wood, the fathers light the fire, and the women knead the dough and make cakes to offer to the Queen of Heaven [a fertility god]. They pour out drink offerings to other gods to arouse my anger (Jeremiah 7:18)." They desecrated the temple by placing idols inside it. They used storage rooms in the temple for prostitution. During rituals to the god Molech, people sacrificed their children to him by placing them into fire.

The Jewish people despised the Word of God. God sent prophets to warn the people of impending doom and yet they did not listen. "From the time your ancestors left Egypt until now, day after day, again and again I sent you my servants the prophets. But they did not listen to me or pay attention. They were stiff-necked and did more evil than their ancestors (Jeremiah 7:25-26)." They ignored the commandments of God. God gave them one last chance to turn back to Him, but they didn't. Instead, they listened to false prophets who were telling them that everything was okay. They persecuted God's prophets. If they had only listened to Jeremiah, they could have been saved. But they didn't. In the end, Judah was taken into captivity by the Babylonians. And while the Jews despised Jeremiah, the Babylonians saved him.

We no longer have prophets to speak to us and warn us about impending doom. However, we have the Word of God. We have the commandments of the Lord. It's available at various stores in large and small print as well as different versions – King James, New International, The Living Bible, etc. We still have the freedom to open the Bible and read it as we choose. Will we be like the people of Judah and ignore God's Word? Will we rebel against God? If so, then He will not hear our prayers either. "If anyone turns a deaf ear to my instruction, even their prayers are detestable (Proverbs 28:9)."

Paul: Despite optics, glass half-full in America

By CHASE ELLIS
APPALACHIAN NEWSPAPERS

PIKEVILLE — Sen. Rand Paul, a Kentucky Republican, joined the Pikeville Rotary Club during its meeting Wednesday to ask whether the people of the world are now better off, and to discuss the progress being made in the country.

Paul said the history of mankind has been "one of poverty." He spoke on extreme poverty, which he defined as living on $2 or less per day. Paul said the number of people living in extreme poverty in the world has drastically decreased.

In 1800, he said, 85 percent of mankind were in "extreme poverty," but that number now is closer to 9 percent.

"If you were to turn on the television news, you would be excused for thinking that the whole world is going to hell in a hand basket, that everything is terrible and getting worse," Paul said. "The opposite is actually true. We have virtually nobody living on $2 per day, we do have some homeless, but we have virtually nobody."

Paul said we now live in a time where there is an "abundance of food."

In the 1960s, Paul said, there was a focus on large families because of lower life expectancy, and now families are becoming smaller as life expectancies rise.

"There is not a country in the world with an average life expectancy under 50," Paul said. "Really we have come a long way, but we should not discount it because some of it is because of media. I am not saying the media is doing a bad job, but controversy and violence sells."

Paul said the focus is on crime, but he claimed "98 to 99 percent of the people you know don't commit crimes."

"The norm is actually civilized people. (George) Washington said, 'Democracy requires a virtuous people,'" Paul said. "Part of the civilizing force that makes us a great country is the cultural ideal of right and wrong."

Paul spoke on the need to combat opiate dependency and the "opiate scourge," and said despite his famous stances against spending, "I will vote to spend on that."

"But there's not any amount of money that is going to fix it. It is going to take your communities rising up," Paul said. "It is going to take charismatic leaders to go into the schools and religious leaders encouraging people."

He also spoke on what he called an implicit "incitement to violence," through New Jersey Democratic Sen. Cory Booker during the confirmation process for now-Supreme Court Justice Brett Kavanaugh.

"There has been a lot of anger recently and you've seen some that anger on TV and I have experience it first-hand," Paul said. "This whole thing with the Kavanaugh nomination ... it got out of hand. (Booker) was like, 'Get up in their face!' What does that mean? That's not politely telling you that you disagree with them, vote against them or organize a campaign against them. 'Get up in their face' implies, well, get up in their face."

Sen. Rand Paul stopped in with the Pikeville Rotary Club for its weekly lunch meeting on Wednesday to discuss the optics of America and how the "glass is half-full" for American citizens.

Paul said not to encourage angry people, including "people who are unstable or have psychological issues."

"It is an incitement to violence. I was at the ballpark when we were shot up at the ballpark," Paul said.

Paul was referencing the 2017 Congressional baseball shooting during which a man from Illinois opened fire on Republicans practicing for the annual charity Congressional Baseball Game.

"That man was an angry, angry man. Angry people live amongst us and we don't want to encourage them," Paul said. "The whole Kavanaugh thing was disgraceful, the yelling and the screaming."

Paul asked, if someone worked at a bank and was then accused of anything by someone from high school, 30 years later, should that person then be fired.

"Can you imagine what a world it would be? Can someone come around 30 years later and accuse you of something and the bank is going to fire you? We can't live in a world, that is like 15th century Venice," Paul said. "There is a presumption of innocence and this is exactly what we fought for in the civil rights era. The thing that protects you if you are a minority, whether you're a minority because of skin color ... a different religion ... or you're a minority because you home-school your kids, your protection is in the presumption of innocence."

New members appointed to Prestonsburg Utilities

A FLOYD CHRONICLE
AND TIMES STAFF REPORT

The Prestonsburg City Utilities Commission grew by two members this week.

On Oct. 15, the Prestonsburg City Council appointed two new members to serve alongside three others on the commission.

The council approved an ordinance increasing the number of utility commission members during last month's meeting. On Monday, they unanimously approved the appointment of Wayne Brown, the brother-in-law of Council Member Don Willis, and Philip Elliott, the husband of City Attorney Jennifer Burke Elliott. Stapleton said those were the only two names he received for the appointments.

Willis abstained from the vote for Brown and Elliott walked out of the council meeting room when members considered a vote for her husband.

"I don't vote, but just if you wanted to say something. I do love him," Elliott said.

The ordinance amended a 1956 city ordinance that created the utilities commission to add two members, for a total of five. It also increased commissioner pay from $60 annually, as set in 1956, to $60 monthly.

Elderly, disabled may sign up for heating assistance, starting Monday

SPECIAL TO THE FLOYD CHRONICLE AND TIMES

Big Sandy Area Community Action Program is offering pre-registration for the Subsidy portion of the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program.

The pre-registration will begin on Monday, Oct. 22, and last until Nov. 2, and is open to elderly and disabled residents.

"The elderly and the disabled have less mobility and it's harder for them to stand in long lines," BSACAP Executive Director James Michael Howell said. "Pre-registration should cut down on those long lines and help more people access the services."

Howell added, "We want to stress that, although we're offering the pre-registration, no applications will be approved until Monday, Nov. 5, the first day of the subsidy component. No vouchers will be sent to vendors until after Nov. 5."

Pre-registration is available to applicants who receive a fixed income and are either 60 years of age and above or who have disabilities. To be eligible to pre-register, applicants must bring proof they are receiving disability benefits and/or are at least 60 years of age and on a fixed income. Applicants must also present the following:

- Most recent heating bill or proof that heating expenses are included in rent (for example: lease agreement or rent contract)
- Proof of physical address – bring metered utility bill
- Proof of household income for prior month
- Birth dates for all household members

• Social security card or official documentation with social security numbers for each member of household.

Applicants must apply in their county of residence. Applications will be taken in Floyd County from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on week days at 60 Court Street, Allen.

All other applicants may begin applying for Subsidy on Monday, Nov. 5, through Friday, December 14. As in past years, applications will be taken alphabetically, according to last name.

For more information, call, (606) 874-3595.

Volunteers sought to help children

SPECIAL TO THE FLOYD CHRONICLE AND TIMES

Judi's Place for Kids, a child advocacy center that helps children who have been abused throughout the region, is seeking community volunteers who want to help.

The nonprofit organization is starting a training session in Floyd County on Monday, Oct. 22, for its Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) of Eastern Kentucky program.

"The program is comprised of community volunteers that share their time and experiences to advocate for the best interest of children involved in the family court system," a press release from Judi's Place said. "The program recruits, trains and supports volunteers as they speak up for children and give them a voice in family court. Advocates are appointed to a case and remain on the case until the child has a safe, secure, and permanent home." Judi's Place has hosted several CASA volunteer training sessions in the region.

"Volunteering 10 hours per month can make a difference in the life of a child in your community," the press release said.

To inquire about becoming a CASA volunteer, call, (606) 886-8520, or visit, eastkycasa.org.

Highlighting prevention: Mountain Regional Prevention Center educates public during about substance abuse

BY MARY MEADOWS
STAFF WRITER

The Mountain Regional Prevention Center debuted a new educational tool during the Jenny Wiley Festival last week.

The center opened "Hidden in Plain Sight," an exhibit that highlights ways in which people can hide illegal drugs and alcohol.

Officials decorated a room in the facility as a bedroom and filled it with everyday items that had been converted into secret hiding places for drugs and other substances.

Name-brand water bottles, chewing gum, lip balm, cheese puffs, potato chips, sunscreen, deodorant and other types of household items were featured with hidden compartments in this exhibit, as well as other things people have in their homes. All food items featured in this room were name-brand and contained food as well as hidden compartments. A clock, a computer mouse, a surge protector outlet, a watch and, among others items, a large metal bolt appeared to be in working order, until the hidden compartments were opened or center officials pointed out that they were actually digital scales used for drug trafficking or devices used to grind and crush drugs for illegal use.

Center Director MaShawna Jacobs said she saw a similar exhibit at a conference recently and decided to offer it in this region.

"People think, 'My kid's not doing this,' but if you look at the stuff that are hidden in homes, in refrigerators, I mean, canned biscuits, peanut butter, Pringles, people are doing this," she said.

She opened a can of what appeared to be Pringles to show there are potato chips there, but then showed how the can included a hidden compartment that could be used to store drugs.

Prevention Specialist Marisa Sammons said the exhibit can help parents learn how easily their children can hide illegal drug or alcohol use.

"This is why we call it 'Hidden in Plain Sight,'" she said. "There are things that are right in front of you that may actually be used to hide drugs. We're trying to teach parents what to look for, whether it's a watch or a water bottle. You never know."

Holding a bottle of name-brand water, Sammons said, "They feel real. They sound real. You can shake it and see there's water in there, but if you open it like this, you'll see that it's not."

She showed a hidden compartment hidden beneath the label on the bottle.

"So, if you found this in a kid's room, how would you know it is different? You wouldn't," she said. "That's the sad part."

She and Jacobs also talked about a new product called "Jewels," which they said are sold in at least one local store. These "Jewels" appear to be computer flash drives but are actually e-cigarettes that Jacobs said have become popular in local schools. She said she received calls from several principals recently, asking for presentations about them.

Jacobs said she hopes to make the exhibit mobile so schools can borrow it to educate staff members and parents.

"It's important not just to show it, but to know why, you know, why kids are doing this," she said.

When she offers information resources about substance abuse at local events, Jacobs said some

Telethon set to raise funds for Judi's Place

SPECIAL TO THE FLOYD CHRONICLE AND TIMES

The community is gearing up for the 2018 "All For Children Telethon," a fundraiser for Judi's Place for Kids.

The telethon will be held from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 23 at the Mountain Arts Center in Prestonsburg.

The event will be broadcast live on Gearheart Communications television and radio stations and through the "Heroes and Icons" channel on WYMT. It will also be streamed live on social media pages hosted by Gearheart.

The public is encouraged to view the event in person at the Mountain Arts Center, and admission is free. Donations will be accepted in person, by phone, on-line and by text, Judi's Place announced in a press release.

With offices in Pike and Floyd counties serving children and families throughout the region, Judi's Place is a children's advocacy center that helps children who have been abused and their non-offending family members. The center also offers the Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) of Eastern Kentucky program, with volunteers who assist in court cases that involve allegations of abuse and/or neglect.

Last year's telethon raised $25,000 for Judi's Place, and officials hope to increase donations to $30,000 this year.

parents decline the pamphlets because their children "would never abuse drugs."

She said she would not make that statement about her own kids.

"I go set up at events and festivals and it's so funny, some of the parents who come by, they'll say, 'Oh, I don't need that. My kids don't do drugs.' So, they just walk on by," she said. "And I always tell them, well, you know it may not happen to your kid, but you may know somebody that may need this information. Just take it and you can pass it on."

Those parents don't realize how easily kids can be convinced to try drugs, she said.

"You never know," she said. "That's the one thing. The peer pressure out there is so great. Kids will try to convince them, saying, 'Oh, this is not going to hurt you. This is natural, or, you know, my doctor gave it or so-and-so's doctor gave it.' But, parents just need to be aware of these things."

She said people also don't realize how easily they can become addicted to drugs.

"People just don't realize," she said. "We're all an accident, surgery or hospital stay away from being dependent. One in five goes on pain medicine for 10 days or longer and, in a year, they will still be on it," she said.

The Mountain Regional Prevention Center, which hosts educational exhibits like this during every Jenny Wiley Festival, also provides educational tools for schools and groups. It is operated by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center to promote and coordinate "comprehensive alcohol, tobacco and other drug abuse preventions services" in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Pike counties.

RE-ELECT

Chandra Varia
School Board Member District 2

Proven Leadership. Proven Dedication

Paid for by the Candidate

To the voters of Floyd County,

I have been busy over the last month getting out into our communities to meet with you and ask for your support as I seek re-election as your Floyd County School Board member for District 2. Some of you may have already seen me. Some of you I might have missed. Work schedules being what they are, I hope you will forgive me if I miss you.

Since I began serving on the school board seventeen years ago, I have done my very best to serve the students, parents, teachers, and employees of the Floyd County Schools system, and with your help I will continue to do so. While I am visiting you, I want to hear your stories and your concerns. Learn of your children's joy and successes. For me to best serve you as your School Board Representative for District 2, I need to hear from your thoughts, and what you believe to be the most pressing issues for Floyd County Schools.

As always, I continue to believe, that together, we can create a school district that thrives, where our children succeed beyond our wildest dreams.

Thank you for your support!

Sincerely,
Chandra Varia

most good. What you offer others will lead to an opportunity that is worth considering.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) - Much can be accomplished if you focus on what's important and ignore those who are difficult to get along with. It's the results that matter.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) - Work alongside your peers, and keep an eye on who does what. Don't let anyone take credit for your input. An emotional matter shouldn't be allowed to interfere with your productivity.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) - You'll be able to bring about positive change if you are intent on putting your ideas and plans into play. Don't leave anything to chance or fear doing things your way.

Turkey Recipes

FROM A
Child's Point of View

TURKEY

First, I would go to the barn and catch a turkey. Next, I would take his feathers off and put cheese on him. Then, I would put him in a big big thing where the cookies go in. Last, I put it in the stove.

Then when he is done I would eat it.

– Alexis Puckett, age 5

TURKEY

Get a turkey by going to WalMart and buy it. Before you cook it you need to: put sauce on it like mustard and get all the grits out of it.

Cook the turkey at 100 degrees for 100 minutes in the fire (you cannot play with fire you must be careful with it so you don't die). The turkey is done when I look at it. You can eat a fork with the turkey. For dessert I would go with another turkey. – Jayson Bartley, age 6
