DISTORTION FADING IS NOT FAULT OF RADIOS, SAYS CROSLY ENGINEER

That loud, mushy, distorted music or speech you hear over your radio here of evenings is not the fault of your radio, and there's little or nothing you can do about it.

So, in a column written by the Crosley Radio Corporation to R. H. Koch, radio service man here, in response to Mr. Koch's recent inquiry after the exact cause of faulty radio reception here after dusk and shortly thereafter, in particular. The radio corporation's reply follows:

"All broadcasting stations with a service range of 100 miles or more have spots or streaks in their service in which fading is quite noticeable. This fading is not necessarily a change in volume but is often indicated by a change in frequency instead. This change usually occurs in a mushy and distorted manner and is caused by exactly the thing that causes the variation in volume. It is, therefore, technical in nature and is known as 'distortion fading.' Usually there is a ring completely around the station at a very definite distance away from the station in which the fading occurs.

This fading is the result of a reflection wave, called the 'sky wave,' reflecting with the more direct, or 'ground wave,' radiated by the transmitter. Radio signals come to the receiver over several different paths. One path follows the earth's surface. Another follows a path into the sky until it strikes the 'Heaviside' layer or ionized atmosphere, where it is reflected or refracted back to the earth where it can be picked up on receiving set.

Usually these two waves do not interfere with each other, but come to the receiving antenna together and cause no trouble. In some localities, however, the difference in distance traveled changes the relation between the two waves so that they neutralize each other in a manner which greatly reduces their signal strength. This neutralization is usually accompanied by distorted mushy signals, since the 'Heaviside' layer is not stationary, but is constantly shifting, this reflected wave swings back and forth in a manner which results in the phenomenon of fading. If the 'Heaviside' layer did not shift then there would be definite localities in which it would be impossible to hear the station and on each side of this position there would be areas where the distortion would be noticed.

"There is no known complete remedy for this condition. WJAV has already installed a special antenna system which very materially reduced the fading where it has been most severe. A very marked improvement was noticed in most localities when the vertical radiator was put into service. It was known, however, that fading would continue or would be produced in some of the areas."

OUTLAWS SHIRKING ON WPA PROJECTS

Loss of Job May Be Penalty for Loafing; Critics Answered

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 18—George H. Goodman, Works Progress Administrator in Kentucky, today warned against shirking on Works Progress Administration projects and set suspension without pay or permanent discharge as alternative penalties.

A small proportion of the workers, Mr. Goodman said, have hampered efficient operation of projects. The warning, he pointed out, was aimed not at any general attitude or action infusing PWA, but at the few workers who haven't shown the right attitude.

Foremen and supervisors who tolerate loafing or misconduct on the job will be held to account under the same penalties, Mr. Goodman emphasized.

In an order sent to all Works Progress officials in Kentucky Mr. Goodman quoted a recent communication received by him from Harry L. Hopkins at Washington as follows:

"It is the policy of the Works Progress Administration that projects shall be operated with the maximum degree of efficiency that is compatible with carrying out the primary purpose of the works program, which is to transfer people from the relief rolls to useful work. In the great majority of cases, workers to whom employment has been given have shown that they desire to render conscientious service.

"Reports have been received, however, that in certain instances a small proportion of workers have detracted from the efficiency of operation of projects by their unwillingness to deliver a fair day's work coupled with a belief that their employment would be continued regardless of his attitude. Workers employed on Works Progress Administration projects are expected to render as conscientious service to that administration as they would to a regular government department or private employer. Habitual and intentional shirking will not be tolerated.

"In cases of demonstrated shirking or misconduct, employees may be suspended without pay for periods not exceeding one month, or may be discharged. Since foremen and supervisors are responsible that conscientious service is rendered by all employees under their jurisdiction, those who habitually permit shirking by workers who are under their direction may be similarly suspended or discharged. Employees discharged for these reasons will not be again employed by the Works Administration, either on the same, or another project, nor will they be certified for employment to any other government agency which is participating in the works program unless they can show that the discharge was not warranted." Commenting upon criticism of the policy of paying workers whether they worked or not during inclement weather, Mr. Goodman said:

"I have seen some critical comments about the 'loss' of the wages paid to workers who worked only half time. Of course they get the full amount of their security wage, whether they work or not, so long as the reason for not working is no fault of their own. The PWA program does not hold workers responsible for the weather. Regardless of weather, they have to eat.

"Those security wages are not lost. The works program, it must be remembered, is operating first to provide a security of income for the men and women who were on relief.

"It is being provided until such time as private employment in commerce, industry, and agriculture is able to take back the workers, it released from its payrolls.

"We have wiped out the dole for approximately 65,000 needy unemployed Kentuckians by providing the Work Program. The security wages wipe out the handout system of direct relief. We pay the wages for work, when the weather permits work. We pay the wages, anyway, if weather permits work.

"Having scaled the security wage as a steady income during work." ing the period the work under the Works Program would be impossible to wages when foremen have send the workers home cause of inclement weather. The wages are not scaled permit savings to tide workless periods.

"The security wage is a principle. I am not surprised that critics who are used thinking from the point view of the prevailing wage scale take a crack at it. In sharp contrast with the usual practices in construction work. The construction industry, as carried on by private employers, is noted its irregularity of employment. During the course year, if a worker is to get half his time at work, he is lucky. If he two thirds, he is a major exception.

"The worker under private industry is up and down his income when he is on off the job, whether the son is his fault or not.

"We have said to approximately 65,000 able-bodied tuckians who are in 'You can earn your own by working on useful projects for security. You will be paid re until you get a job in industry. This job isn't attractive as a job in private industry. It isn't supposed to be, but you don't have on a dole and a pauper wage like a pauper when work."

THE GREEDY DOCTOR

Dr. Samuel Harmon was not the only leader of a fake accident ring whose greed led to his downfall because he appropriated too much of the "take" to himself. But Dr.
Harmon's case sheds interesting light upon the lack of honor among thieves.

Dr. Harmon first got into the business of faking accidents when he sprained his ankle while playing golf. He made it appear that the ankle had been injured when he was struck by an auto and through collusion collected damages.

This was only a small beginning for one as ambitious as Dr. Harmon.
He didn't need to have himself "hurt" again. As a doctor he was in a position to suggest to poor patients who had received injuries at their homes or elsewhere, that they could translate those injuries into cash.
For instance, one lady fell on a rug
in her home, tearing the ligaments in her shoulder. When Dr. Harmon treated her, he told her she could have the shoulder fixed without its costing a cent. In fact, he said, she could make some money.

That night, according to arrangement, the woman fell beside a car as it backed out of a driveway. Under the doctor's guidance and help of a shyster lawyer, she sued for damages. Three months later, Dr.
Harmon brought her some papers to sign and gave her a few dollars. He didn't tell her about the much larger sum which he had kept.

In this way the doctor's activities expanded steadily. Soon he was directing a ring which at one time or another numbered 50 men and women. Later, when they added up the money which the doctor and his accomplices had succeeded in extorting through fake claims from honest victims, it totaled nearly fifty thousand dollars.

Unfortunately for the doctor, fake claim practices are becoming harder and harder to get away with. Inevitably the time came when those who paid the damages found the chance to fight back. They closed in.
An investigator showed how the doctor had kept from his associates all but a fraction of the damages collected. They became so angry upon learning of the doctor's duplicity that they told everything.

The doctor, faced with an array of incontrovertible evidence, pleaded guilty, and went to the penitentiary along with dozens of his duped accomplices.

Wynn, famous comedian of stage, screen and radio, returns to the air after a seven months' rest, in a new comedy role, "Gulliver, the Traveler." This photograph was taken as "Gulliver" signed a contract with his new sponsor, D. S. Eddins, president of Plymouth. Wynn's new program, from 9:30 to 10 P. The program will also include Annie Hayton's orchestra, the King's Men and a feminine ensemble.

Mr. Hornsby served a delicious luncheon to the following club members: Mesdames Charles Sturgill, Charles Hornsby, Charles Sereian, B. Music, G. E. Cecil, Earl Castle, T. J. Chandler, M. M. Collins, and T. F. Hatcher. Miss Audrey Sturgill, Garretts high school teacher, was also present.

Work continues steady at the Glogora Coal Company's mine here. Orders now on hand for the company's coal are sufficient to keep the mine going regularly for another month. It is said. And if the present cold weather continues for any length of time, it is believed by those "in the know" that the coal business in this section will not be bothered by the old bubaboo, "slack run," before the latter part of April.

Mrs. Ransie Marcum, well-known woman of this place, left last Monday for the Paintsville hospital, where she will take medical treatment for a few days. She had been ill at her home here for several days before leaving.

G. W. Harris, newspaper dealer here, has been confined to his home for a few days with a severe attack of tonsillitis.

G. B. Carter, of this place, who has been a patient in the Paintsville hospital for several weeks, was able to leave it last week for a visit with Louisa, Ky., friends and relatives.

A portion of Glo's streets, which have more than their portion of deep, black mud, have been improved somewhat during the last few days by the pouring into mudholes of rock and slate.

Mrs. Arvid Little, store employe here of the Wells-Elkhorn Coal Company, was operated on a few days ago at the Paintsville hospital, where she is convalescing nicely. Mrs. Little has been in poor health for some time, and her many friends and relatives in this section are now hoping that she will soon regain her health and be able to take up her work here again.

Miss Imogene Martin, of this place, entertained at her home here last Saturday night with a party, which was well attended and praised by everyone present as an evening of excellent entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Pryor and family long-time residents of this place, moved a few days ago to Huntington, W. Va.
