ADJOURNMENT OF CIRCUIT COURT IS SET FOR SATURDAY

Grand Jury Quits Nine-Day Session;
259 True Bills Returned; Prison
Terms Meted

CIVIL TERM, OCT. 5

The criminal term of circuit court, in session here for 24 days and several nights in handling a heavy docket, will adjourn Saturday to take care of the civil term beginning October 5. Among a few cases set over were that of Epp Laferty, former Prestonsburg policeman, now a resident of Garrett; Hillar Akers, deputy constable; Fred and Bill Hall, all three charged with murder. Up to Wednesday the court had sentenced 27 to the reformatory, of which number were three life sentences, one of 21 years and two of 10 years each. Last week's Times carried the jury list for the October term which begins Monday.

The Floyd county grand jury, in a nine-day session, disbanded Thursday, Sept. 24, after having returned 439 true bills containing 12 willful murder indictments. According to one grand juror, who is 76 years old and has had considerable jury experience, Monday's meeting of last week, which resulted in 73 indictments, was more than he had ever known returned for one day's time.

A Pike county jury, empaneled in the trial of Gus Johnson, charged with the slaying of Alvin Patton at Martin recently, rendered a verdict of guilty and a prison term of five years. They deliberated from Tuesday night at 7:30 until the opening of court at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning without reaching a verdict, but Judge Caudill ordered further deliberation, and the jury reached its verdict one hour later.

Last Saturday night Walk Stumbo, of near Harold, charged with the murder of Lawrence Roberts on primary election day, was given a sentence of three years in the state prison. The trial of Daniel Akers and Basil Hamilton in connection with the same case was held over on account of jurors being disqualified, who heard the Stumbo case.

Bob Collins, charged with the alleged slaying of his brother, Orin, and Wilbur Mixx, at Estill recently, at the climax of a carl game, will probably go on trial this week.

JASON D. SMILEY DIES BY ACCIDENT

RUN OVER BY MOTOR

Jason D. Smiley, 35 years old, general mine foreman of the Pike County Coal Company at Betsy Layne, was killed Sunday, Sept. 27, when run over by his motor from which he had fallen. Mr. Smiley had been supervising the pulling of steel from the mine which had been abandoned due to the recent burning of the tipples.

Mr. Smiley, it is reported, had been transferred to another coal property in Pennsylvania and was making his last trip from the mine before leaving for Pittsburg. He had been an employe of the Pike County Coal Company for about 12 years.

Funeral services were held at Dana, Ky., on Prater Creek. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Dana.

Mr. Smiley is survived by his father and mother, Alex Smiley, and Sarah Akers Smiley, his widow, Mary Kidd Smiley, two sons, Garland and Toy, and two daughters, Geneva and Mary Louise, all at home, and the following brothers and sisters: Varney A. and I. A. Smiley, both of Prestonsburg; Orvil and Melard Smiley, both of Esma, Heida and Elizabeth Smiley, of Dana.

BLACKCATS MEET WHITESBURG SAT.

Blank Russell High Maroons, 20-0
On Local Gridiron Last Saturday

The local school team, after taking Russell in tow during the first half of a football game here last Saturday and coasting during the last half of the game, will find time for breezing in an engagement to be played with the outstanding team from Whitesburg at Gase Park here next Saturday. Whitesburg boasts of a spectacular passer, broken field runners and an all-around good team. They have already downed Van Lear, near here, to the tune of 18-0.

Coach Greenwell's charges raised the curtain on the football season here in a very satisfactory manner by taking the "gravy-end" of a 20-0 score from the Russell Maroons.

From a large squad, Coach Greenwell has a choice of two backfield combinations and two strong line aggregations that he swapped about frequently during the game. Dick Allen was captain for the game and did the position justice in every respect. A passing combination of Mayo and Craft came to light last Saturday and will bear watching.

Ten out of 14 passes were completed by Prestonsburg. Two passes by Russell were incomplete and two intercepted, one of which was returned for a touchdown. Russell's inexperience and inability to get going, coupled with the Blackcats' pigskin teasing, was attributed to Russell's downfall. McBrayer, Bess and Munsfeld showed good form for Russell. The whole Prestonsburg team displayed ability in their various assignments with no likelihood of a "one-man" team.

Line-up if the two teams are as follows:

Russell	Pos.	Prestonsburg
Lambert	LE	Goodman
Walker	LT	Burchett
Snedger	LG	Fitzpatrick
Duke	C	Holcomb
J. Chatlin	RG	Sturgill
A. Chatlin	RT	Meadows
Stringer	LE	Allen
McBrayer	RH	Prater
Duncan	QH	Mayo
Bess	FB	Craft

Officials: Referee, Brannon (Centre); Umpire, Patton; Headliner, Collins; Timer, Jones.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

BY Gordon Wilson Ph.D.
WESTERN KENTUCKY
TEACHERS COLLEGE
BOWLING GREEN, KY.

Before the days of public education there were schools supported by tuition, called "subscription schools." My first day on the road to education was passed in just such a school. As the free schools, those supported by the state were taught in the fall, spring was the time for subscription schools. Some time after Christmas these private terms began. In older times some teachers made their living by conducting free schools in the fall and subscription schools in the spring. One such educational pioneer was Uncle Spillman Washer, of Fidelity, who taught more than 50 years, covering many counties in that long period. He was well grounded in arithmetic, writing, grammar and history. Spelling, after the custom of the time, was taught by means of Webster's small dictionary and the blue back speller. There were no grades as such, but one judged how far along he was by the length of the words being spelled.

For instance, to be over to "bake" was as definite as saying "fifth grade" now.

Unlike the fall terms, the spring subscription schools attracted even grown people, in the months when farm work was slack. I have seen 20 or 30 full-grown young people, many of them past 20, in these schools. My first introduction to "Evangeline" and "Snow Bound" was through hearing the older boys and girls read them aloud in a subscription school. I also saw my first copy of Shakespears at this same school and was allowed to touch the book.

These spring schools were bound by no rules except the limitations of the teacher's knowledge. We sometimes had classes in rhetoric (per locic and loose sentences, similes and metaphors, grand and simple style), algebra, and even Latin. Really, I learned most of the Latin I have ever known in just such a school, where the teacher wanted to keep his learning polished up.

And it was great fun to have a few weeks devoted to writing school. Sometimes we did nothing else for a week or two. I can recall right now some of the specimens we copied. "I WILL TRY has done wonders." "This is a specimen of my penmanship," and all sorts of Benjamin Franklin's maxims. To this day ZIPPORAH seems a name in a copy book rather than the scolding wife of Socrates. Hold on! I mean Moses. Subscription schools have gone since education has become democratic and universal. The private schools are having a hard time of it, since money is needed to run them. But in their day, from subscription schools to private colleges, they did a great work and stood as a bulwark against ignorance.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

Good batter cakes like waffles are one of our most acceptable dishes. They may be served for so many informal occasions. Prepare the batter ahead of time, if need be; as soon as mixed, cover and place in the refrigerator. When ready to bake heat the griddle just hot enough to make cold water thrown in it sputter a good deal. Drop the batter by spoonfuls on the griddle, bake 3 or 3 minutes, then turn with a large spatula and continue baking until the second side is browned. Serve at once.

STANDARD BATTER CAKES

- 1 cup milk.
 - 1 1/2 cups flour.
 - 1 to 2 tablespoons fat.
 - 1 egg.
 - 2 teaspoons baking powder.
 - 1 tablespoon sugar if desired.
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt.
- Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Beat the egg slightly and add to the other liquid ingredients, then stir them gradually into the dry. Add the melted fat. Bake on a hot griddle, lightly greased if necessary.

QUICK BUCKWHEAT CAKES

- 1/2 cup flour.
 - 1/2 teaspoon baking powder.
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt.
 - 2 tablespoons sugar.
 - 1 1/2 cups buckwheat flour.
 - 3 cups buttermilk.
 - 1 teaspoon soda.
 - 1/4 cup water.
 - 2 tablespoons melted fat.
- Sift the white flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Mix with the buckwheat flour. Pour the buttermilk in a bowl. Dissolve soda in the water and add to the buttermilk. Mix and add melted shortening, then the dry mixture. Beat until smooth. Bake and serve at once.

BACON PANCAKES

To the dry ingredients for standard batter cakes, add 1 cup of bacon fat until crisp and cut in small pieces. Finish and bake as usual. Serve with cheese sauce.

RAISIN CRUMB BATTER CAKES

Soak 1 cup of soft bread crumbs in water 10 minutes. Press out all moisture and mix with 1 cup sour milk or buttermilk, 1 well beaten egg, 1/2 cup of flour sifted with 1 teaspoon of baking soda and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Add 1 tablespoon of hot melted shortening, 2 tablespoons sugar and 3/4 cup of seedless raisins, slightly chopped. Bake and serve with butter and syrup.

APPLE BATTER CAKES

Select tart, juicy cooking apples. Pare, core and cut in rather small thin slices enough of them to give 1 cup. Get ready the ingredients for the standard batter cakes and add apple to the wet ingredients. Add the wet to the dry and finish as for plain batter cake. Serve with butter and sprinkle over cakes when served a previously prepared mixture of 3 parts sugar with 1 part cinnamon.

PINEAPPLE BATTER CAKES

Prepare like standard batter cakes, except that instead of 1 cup milk, 1/4 cup of pineapple juice, 3/4 cups of milk and 3/4 cups of pineapple pulp are used. Mix these with the beaten egg and melted shortening and then add this combination to the dry ingredients. Place one batter cake on the serving plate, cover generously with pineapple sauce, place over this another cake and sift over the top of it confectioner's sugar.

For the pineapple sauce, thicken a mixture of 1 cup of pineapple juice and 1/2 cup of the pulp with 2 tablespoons of flour. Cook until nicely thickened and serve piping hot.

GROWTH OF AIR TRAVEL

In 1934 commercial air craft in the United States carried 461,743 passengers. The following year 746,986 passengers were carried, and this jumped, on an estimate based on the first months, to 900,000 passengers for 1936.

It was just a little over 10 years ago that commercial travel began; in that year less than 6,000 passengers were carried by air craft. After the Lindbergh and other spectacular air journeys, the public seemed to have an increased confidence in air travel and the number using such facilities increased rapidly.

Now, it is possible for a traveler to get on a good commercial plane, which travels 200 miles, an hour, is sound proof and furnishes every convenience to its 24 passengers. Some planes even provide sleeping quarters. Safety is assured, for in 1935 there was only one death for each 24,000,000 passenger miles.

In recent months plane service from the west coast to the Philippines was inaugurated. For several years travel to Central and South America has been possible by air. Trans Atlantic flying is expected to be inaugurated soon.

Air travel has just started. Larger planes will be constructed and more as the years go by citizens on this earth will resort to the upper levels of the atmosphere in making their journeys.

Electoral Votes Count in Electing President

A president may be elected by a minority, or less than half of the total number of popular votes cast. This is possible, explains a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, because the president and vice president are not elected directly by popular vote, but by electors who are chosen by popular vote. A candidate for president receives all or none of the electoral votes cast by a state, except in rare instances when the electoral vote of a state is split. Hence, it is possible for a minority of the voters of the country as a whole to elect a majority of the presidential electors.

In the election of 1824 none of the four candidates for president received a majority of either the electoral or the popular votes, and John Quincy Adams was chosen by the House of Representatives in accordance with the method prescribed by the Constitution for such cases. Since then James K. Polk, Zachary Taylor, James Buchanan, Abraham Lincoln, in 1860; Rutherford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield; Grover Cleveland, in 1884 and 1892; Benjamin Harrison, and Woodrow Wilson, in 1912 and 1916, were elected president without receiving a majority of the total popular vote.

But in the disputed election of 1876, Samuel J. Tilden actually received more popular votes than Hayes did, and yet Hayes was declared elected, the electoral count being finally determined as 185 to 184. Likewise in 1888 the Cleveland electors received 5,540,000 popular votes to Benjamin Harrison's 5,444,337. But Harrison was elected, 233 electoral votes to Cleveland's 168.

Bequeathed Bridal Crown for Other Happy Events

Visitors to the Lake Vattern country in central Sweden have the opportunity of seeing a fairy tale brought to life.

In the picturesque island city of Visingso there lived 300 years ago a lovely girl, Ebba Brahe, the daughter of a nobleman, but, not of royal blood.

She was adored for many years by King Gustavus Adolphus, relates a correspondent, and they planned to marry, but affairs of state finally drove him from her, and it was necessary for him to take a bride of royal lineage. The bereft Ebba eventually married the powerful statesman and warrior, Jakob De La Gardie, and when she died she bequeathed her golden bridal crown, set with strands of rock crystal, to be worn by every young maiden of Visingso, as she walked to the altar.

Interested visitors to the little Brahe Church may ask the sexton to unlock the heavy oak chest which stands in the sacristy, and view for themselves this lovely and touching relic, which has been worn proudly by generations of happy brides through three centuries.

Prescott's Writings

William Hickling Prescott was born in Salem, Mass., in 1796, where he continued to live during the years he won his fame. He wrote 16 thick volumes which are classics without reading a word of them. One eye was destroyed, another made useless, by a school-fellow's prank when he was 16 and a freshman at Harvard. Nevertheless he completed college and chose to make history a profession. Assistants read to him six hours a day the vast sources of material which he assimilated—memorizing as much as 50 pages of printed matter at a time and dictated into enduring accounts of Spanish conquest in the Americas. His first volume was completed a century ago.

Crossing Niagara Falls

Frenchman Jean Francois Gravellet, 35, known best as Charles Blondin, provided astounding, almost unbelievable news for the world by walking across the chasm at Niagara Falls upon a tight rope in 1859. It was only the beginning. On later crossings he trundled a wheelbarrow, carried a man on his back while blindfolded, wore stilts. An Italian woman, Marie Spelterix, was routed to emulate him, walked across with her feet in baskets.

Women Wore Men's Shoes

During Ohio's yesteryears the forests were so swampy that women could scarcely walk to church or to other gatherings in their pretty footwear. So instead they wore the rough heavy shoes used by the menfolk. Close to their destination they would deposit the rough shoes in a fence corner or some other near-by place and put on their dainty shoes to wear inside. Thus their Sunday footwear lasted years and years.

Montreal's Historic Crosses

Many of the historic crosses in Montreal were raised by the pioneer inhabitants to commemorate being spared from the St. Lawrence River's ravages before it finally was brought under control. Founded by the man who erected its first and most famous cross, Paul de Chomedey, le Sieur de Maisonneuve, Montreal is frequently called the "City of Crosses." Maisonneuve's cross was erected almost 300 years ago.

SILVER DOLLAR BRADY RENTS PENTHOUSE FOR PRIZE HORSE

Silver Dollar Brady, wealthy cowboy from Dallas, has the world's first hotel "penthouse corral" 17 floors above Chicago. Brady and his horse are shown here "at home" looking out over the skyline.

"More Silver Dollars in circulation will bring back-better business conditions a whole lot faster."

That's the idea of Silver Dollar Brady, who arrived in Chicago with the intention of getting more Silver Dollars in circulation.

Brady, big, six-foot wealthy rancher from the West, walked into the Hotel Sherman, his prize horse trailing behind. First, he registered with the horse at his heels . . . then both man and beast went into the coffee shop and had a bite to eat.

He had wired for reservations for himself "and horse," and was given a penthouse high above the street on the 17th floor, with a special corral, hay, oats and all, for his horse.

"The trouble with paper dollars is, you don't feel 'em in your pocket," Brady said. "Now, it's different with Silver Dollars. You know you got 'em. They seem to mean a whole lot more. But because they mean more, you spend 'em a lot quicker."

Brady said he was going to get merchants to pay their bills in Silver Dollars.

"Then you just watch business boom," he said.

Brady himself wears a valuable belt made of old and rare Silver Dollars.

MARTIN COUNTY DRY BY ONLY 23 VOTES

At a special local option election held in Martin county last week, the county was voted "dry" by the close margin of 23 votes. Those familiar with the situation said that if those representing the "wet" cause had made an aggressive fight the county would have remained liquor.

Most of the citizens of Martin county are a temperate people, but most of the rural folk vote "wet" in order to concentrate the traffic at the county seat where it could be better controlled. They argued that by selling liquor according to law would eliminate the moonshiner from the creeks and hollows and thus rid the county of the bootlegger.

Because of legal technicalities the Martin county election has been contested and the case will eventually go to the Court of Appeals, it is said. It is possible that another local option election will again be held in that county.—Paintsville Herald.

NINETY-FIVE PER CENT OF PEOPLE READ PAPERS

Only half of the adult population is able to read with ease, but still 95 per cent of the total population reads newspapers. This is the finding of a nation wide survey by Columbia University, the University of Chicago and the American Library Association.

It was also found that 75 per cent of adults read magazines, mostly of the pulp type, and that 30 per cent read books, mostly of the "cheap" fiction type, only a third representing the best in research, scholarship and creative ability.

California leads the nation in the use of the public library with a per capita circulation of 9.14, with Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Wyoming ranking next. New York placed nineteenth with each person reading on the average of about 4.33 books per year.

Another Reduction in Light Rates

The people of Prestonsburg and Floyd county are to enjoy a new and additional cut in electric light rates, due to the progressive and good business management of the Kentucky and West Virginia Power Company. This company, under the splendid business management of Mr. R. E. Hodges, of Pikeville, has within recent months, voluntarily reduced its rates to Prestonsburg consumers, in substantial amounts. These reductions, we are informed, apply to the entire territory of the Eastern section of Kentucky covered by this company and is in keeping with their policy of improving the service, which in our city is the best. Let Prestonsburg citizens show their appreciation of this public service corporation by aiding it in every reasonable way in the protection of its property upon our streets and highways; we are sure our people will show their gratitude by a genuine spirit of co-operation.

PREVENTING FIRES

This week is Fire Prevention Week. All over the United States there will be much written and talked on this subject. It will mean little or nothing to Prestonsburg unless readers of The Times take some action. The enormous fire loss every year from preventable conflagrations is shocking. It can be avoided, in part by every citizen. Each has an individual responsibility to minimize fire risks on his or her own premises. Each thing pertaining to fire, which is a dangerous, if serviceable, slave of mankind. Fires like accidents occur when and where least expected. The very person reading this article with satisfaction that everything is shipshape may be the next victim. Now, regardless of insurance, an economic loss occurs which means lessened wealth. We should take thought, at this season, and resolve to do our bit in preventing unnecessary fire loss.

LEGION REVELRY

To witness an American Legion convention is to marvel anew at the way human beings can take a distressing memory and dance a maypole dance around it.

The Legionnaires are bound together by a common experience; and, save for a lucky few, this common experience was in the highest degree unpleasant. Not one of the veterans would be glad to live it over; not one can fail to hope and pray that his own son may be spared a repetition of it.

And yet, with nothing but this background to tie them together, men of the Legion make their annual convention one of the most hilarious, rousing, care-free good times ever seen on this planet.

They come to their convention with bands and drum corps. They turn city streets into playgrounds. They whoop and dance and parade and have more fun, as the saying goes, than a barrel of monkeys. And you seldom get so much as a hint of a dark background that each of them must carry in his memory.

There is something amazingly elastic and resilient about human nature. It can bounce back after the most harrowing experiences. You can knock it down and kick it and step on it and push it around until you are blue in the face; but you can't seem to break that main-spring that enables men to crack jokes about it afterward.

It is true of the Legion; it has been true of ex-soldiers everywhere. Men of the G. A. R.—so old now, and gray and dignified—used to cut similar high jinks at their annual get-togethers; if you could dig up the right set of records you would probably find that the paid-off veterans of Caesar's legions used to turn Rome upside down when they came in from the farm for a night or two.

There are good citizens who deplore such doings. They feel that men should be sobered by their memories of war; that veterans' reunions ought to be solemn and exalted occasions in which the costs of war are soberly weighed and the survivors prayerfully dedicate themselves to the cause of peace.

Well, maybe they ought. But they aren't because human nature isn't made that way. It is made, instead to bounce back from tragedy and loss; to shake off the dire things that happen to it and to rise undismayed and buoyant ready for another round.

In the process of bouncing back, it cracks jokes goes in for horseplay, and pretends that it was all a grand lark—and thereby proves that human nature is, after all, unconquerable.

For the world lets loose terrible things on mankind—wars and revolts.

Mankind's salvation lies in this very ability to roll with the punch—to get together, two decades afterward, and make the reunion a carnival of fun instead of a long chorus of "Wasn't it terrible." Ashland Daily Independent.

ment of this new family there came to grace the home and make it happier. Monte Scott, William Fox, George Archer, Donald Davidson and a baby girl, Josephine, who died in infancy. Today sorrow bears heavy here, for where there is much love and devotion, it follows as the night the day, there must be much pain and sorrow. The Lord bless them in this hour!

It was a friend to all. In the make-up of his soul he could not be confined to an office, and while he had within him the making of a great attorney, he chose to do that which took him to the street, and farm, and the out-of-goers. He lived by the side of life's roadway—where men go by—all men—and like the great friend of all, he knew them all—the poor, the rich, the great, the small, the good, the bad. He knew them and they knew him. He was a friend, and, therefore, he had friends. Many have said, "He had more friends than any other person in our county." His natural ability to greet one with a smile, a witty remark, an humorous comment, a slap on the back, a happy "hello," leaves in our memory the impression of a character who as one empty remarked, "loved to live," and from the number of friends he had as demonstrated by this great audience and this marvelous floral offering, we can also say that he "lived to love."

I cannot pass without a word of comment on his devotion to his mother and the members of his family. It would be unfair to say that he loved his mother more than the others love her, or that she loved him more than she loves the others, but the opportunity which was his to express his devotion to her who gave him life was never overlooked. An affectionate kiss, an inquiry as to her needs and desires were the characteristic of each day's activity. He loved dearly his mother and her home, and this same devotion he gave unsparingly to his brother and sisters and their families.

Truly he loved to live. He had said, "I'm not afraid to die, but I don't want to." It was evident after diagnosis of his case that he was fighting a losing battle, but he never gave up. He fought to the very last. Though his body was racked with pain and burned with an awful fever, he still fought on, and on, and on. "After life's fitful fever, he sleeps well." "He giveth his beloved sleep." Defeated in his attempt to live here, we trust that he yet lives, and more abundantly.

To you who are so deeply distressed, I only hope that God in Christ Jesus who understand all broken hearts, may be a comfort and strength. May he be your fortress and strength, a very present help in trouble.

Scott is gone? No—he will live as long as we have the capacity for memory! We will rever and honor his memory as one who lived among us as a friend—a friend to all. Peace to his memory!

Sarah Doudney expresses a great thought in the following poem, and with it I close this tribute:

Sleep on, beloved, sleep, and take thy rest;
Lay down thy head upon the Savior's breast;

We loved thee well, but Jesus loved thee best,
Goodnight! Goodnight! Goodnight!

Calm is thy slumber as an infant's sleep,
But thou shalt wake no more to toil and weep,

Thine is a perfect rest, secure and deep,
Goodnight! Goodnight! Goodnight!

Until the shadows from the earth are cast,
Until He gathers in His sheaves at last,

Until the twilight gloom is overpast;
Goodnight! Goodnight! Goodnight!

Until the Easter glory lights the skies;
Until the dead in Jesus Christ arise,

And He shall come, but not in lowly guise;
Goodnight! Goodnight! Goodnight!

Only goodnight! beloved, not farewell,
A little while and all His sons shall dwell,

In hallowed union indivisible,
Goodnight! Goodnight! Goodnight!

Until we meet again before His throne,
Clothed in the spotless robes he gives his own,

Until we know even as we are known,
Goodnight! Goodnight! Goodnight!

IN MEMORY OF ALLENE RICE

On Sunday morning, Sept. 20, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Rice and took from them their little daughter, Allene.

Her death came as a surprise to all, as she had been sick only a short time, and had been able to play until the day before her death.

She was six years, eight months and 20 days old. She leaves to mourn less her father and mother, one sister and three brothers, and a host of relatives and friends.

Funeral rites were conducted by Rev. G. W. Rose and burial was made in the family cemetery on Little Point. She will be sadly missed in her home and by her schoolmates and friends.

But weep not, dear ones, for we are sure our loss is heaven's gain. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

WALTER SCOTT HARKINS, JR. (1898-1936)

Funeral oration of Rev. Harry F. Josephine Davidson Harkins on July 3, 1898. There were already in this town. For several years he has been happy family three children, Joseph D., Mary Elizabeth and Josephine. Scott being the youngest has held that not unusual place in the hearts of all the members of the family—that of baby. This family circle remained unbroken until the passing of the beloved father in 1920.

Behold, a man, a friend of publicans and sinners."—Matt. 11:19.

My friends, it is my purpose to do what I have never done before—weave into the memoir of a man's life a text of the holy scriptures. The passage which I have read to you was uttered in criticism of Jesus. I would not have you think that any man was equal to Jesus in any way, but the statement that Jesus was a friend fits admirably into a discussion of the life we have before us.

"Behold a man, a friend of publicans and sinners." This is the rendition of the King James version. Another translator puts it, "a friend of tax-gatherers and notorious sinners." It may well be used thus: "A friend of officials and the common people." With this in mind let us proceed.

The man of whom we speak today, and whose untimely passing multitude of friends lament, is Walter

He was a Bible student. Many have said that he knew more about the Bible than any other man in our town. For several years he has been a member of the Board of Stewards of this church. He always had a word of encouragement for his pastor and if the sermon was one of condemnation of sin, or addressed to the church people concerning their negligence, he always remarked, "Preacher, you were hard on us today, but I guess we needed it." In the circle of the church he will be missed, for he was a friend to the church.

In the world of education Scott Harkins had advanced and grown. His early education was in the local schools, later attending several institutions of higher learning. He was granted the Bachelor of Arts degree from Centre College and the degree of Bachelor of Laws from the University of Michigan. He was a member of the school board of the city for several years. He was a friend of education.

During the World War he entered the service of his country and was commissioned a lieutenant September 16, 1918. He remained in charge of military training at Camp Benjamin Harrison at Indianapolis.

In political and civic circles Scott Harkins was especially proficient. He was recognized as a leader—one who could do things. His services were coveted by those needing support. He never aspired to high office but was content to stay in the background and let others have the glory. He loved his country. He was a friend to his country.

On December 29, 1936, a new allegiance and devotion came with the establishment of another home by his marriage to Miss Marguerite Fox, of Danville, Ky. Here the word friend is not strong enough, for the bonds of love and devotion were so strong that even death cannot break them. In the growth and development of this new family there came to grace the home and make it happier. Monte Scott, William Fox, George Archer, Donald Davidson and a baby girl, Josephine, who died in infancy. Today sorrow bears heavy here, for where there is much love and devotion, it follows as the night the day, there must be much pain and sorrow. The Lord bless them in this hour!

BENCH :: SPLINTERS

Yow-sah! The Blackcats played "to beat the devil," or rather, the Red Devils, as they have been known, of Russell high school from that "boiler bustin'" town down Ashland way here last "Sattiday" p.m. They say the "proof is in the puddin'" as the local eleven "smack lips" over a 20-0 victory over a team with a pregame rating of being "plenty tough."

Prestonsburg had the edge in experience, passing, running the ball and "look'n' purty." The Cats started a smooth, purring performance by setting a break in the opening moments of play when P'burg kiked. Russell received and fumbled with the "Cats o' P'burg" recovering the ball and easing the fumble over Russell's goal line for a marker. The home pigskinners did not suffer a halt in their aggressiveness during the first two quarters and registered 20 "grunts" to the accompaniment "side line squeals. Russell was never in a scoring position. The Blackcats must've had a heck of a "Hallow'en hump" on their backs as attempts by Russell's Maroon backfield to display some pigskin magic through the medium of spinners and lateral, withered to puny "olinks," as they were, when they came in contact with the light but stalwart wall of the P'burg line.

Announcement was made of the arrival of a WPSF mascot, a horned toad from the Texas Centennial. Jane Carroll Hager is custodian of the mascot.

Mrs. John Hale and daughter, Miss Ivola, and Mrs. Grover Lowe spent the day Thursday in Ashland shopping.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wells spent Wednesday in Huntington.

FIGURES TO TAKE HOME

P'burg gained from scrimmage 200 yards; Russell gained about 40 yards.
P'burg completed 10 of 14 passes tried. Russell tried four, two incomplete and two intercepted.

Whiteburg has a triple threat man who can pass with either hand and doesn't mind showing his wares.

An announcing system is in use at the game, so that the voices of the "moke twins," Curtis Clark and Franklin Moore, can jar the fly specs off the fence in the farthest corner of the field. Nevertheless, if you don't understand what's going on among the tangling mass of footballing humanity on the field, they can easily explain it play by play.

Clach Greenwell purchased last week some shoes, footballs, ankle wraps and a medical kit, costing $64. It takes some of that greenback "glad stuff" to run a football team, alright!

W. Sturgill, regular guard, will be out for five weeks, due to a dislocated shoulder sustained in practice Monday, but Bill Tompkins, end from last year, will probably see service from now on.

3,000 ATTEND MEETING

An exceptionally large crowd attended the association meeting of the Freewill Baptist Church held on Left Beaver, near Gibson, Ky. It is reported that there was at least 3,000 people present. The meeting began Friday, lasting through Saturday until Sunday evening.

Many residents of Prestonsburg attended this good "old time" gathering.

"How Much Do I Save" THROUGH REDUCED RESIDENTIAL ELECTRIC RATES

THE new domestic rate for residential customers will become effective on October 1, 1936. With the publication of these new rates many of our customers are asking, "How much do I save through the reduced rates for residential service?"

You probably know the approximate quantity of electricity you use each month. If not, examine some of your recent bills and from the number of kilowatt hours shown on them, figure out for yourself what that amount of electricity will cost you after October 1, 1936.

After that date the customer charge will be discontinued, which makes the monthly rate very simple. Here it is:

First 30 kilowatt hours—5c a kilowatt hour.
Next 40 kilowatt hours—4c a kilowatt hour.
Next 230 kilowatt hours—2½c a kilowatt hour.
All over 300 kilowatt hours 1½c a kilowatt hour.

The minimum charge is $1.00 a month.

This kind of rate is known as "quick-breaking" type of rate. You need only use 10 cents worth of electricity a day or $3.10 worth a month to be eligible to receive the low 2½ cent rate in the third block.

The new rates represent the most extensive reduction in the history of the company and are the culmination of a progressive reduction which began in April, 1935.

The table at the bottom of this advertisement shows the yearly savings for various monthly consumptions since the beginning of the progressive reduction.

This reduction, which is voluntary on the part of this Company, is not justified by our present earnings but is being made in anticipation of a more extensive use of electricity by our customers.

With these low rates, the time has come for every one to add to the convenience and comfort of living through the use of electrical labor saving appliances. It is sound economy to buy all household services from a single source and in this way secure the advantage of the low 2½ cent block which is equivalent to a "wholesale" rate.

R. E. Hodges,
DISTRICT MANAGER.

CERTIFIED WPA WORKERS

The program of re-interviewing or interviewing approximately 85,000 certified WPA workers will be launched in Kentucky September 29 by the National Re-employment Service, according to Myer Freyman, state director. The work is to be completed by December 1.

The program which is on a nation wide scale, is for the purpose of affording accurate and up-to-date information on the occupational classification of these workers. Such information when made current will facilitate the planning of projects to absorb these relief workers and will aid in the placing of them in private employment.

Plans and procedures for the program of bringing up to date pertinent work histories of all certified persons eligible for employment on WPA projects in Kentucky and interviewing and registering all those not already registered with the National Re-employment Service, were studied in detail by district managers of the NRS at a conference to be held in Louisville Friday and Saturday, September 18 and 19.

Additional interviewers and clerks have been employed and are being trained to assist in handling the work. The interviewers will be stationed temporarily in every county of the state to carry out the work and WPA workers will be directed to them on an orderly schedule so that a steady flow of work may be maintained without confusion and congestion.

All certified persons now working on WPA, NYA, Re-settlement Administration, United States Forestry Service, and other non contract projects will be re-interviewed on the sites of the project except those persons working on projects in cities where district offices of the National Re-employment Service are located. In the latter instances, workers will be directed to the employment offices. In cases where persons are already registered with the NRS, the registrations will be brought up to date but in all other instances new interviews will be given.

Certified persons not yet assigned or awaiting re-assignment to work will also be interviewed or re-interviewed but will be directed to the Employment Service after the task of re-interviewing persons working. Certified persons working in private industry or on contract projects are not included in the program.

All schedules of interviews will be worked out by the National Re-employment Service in cooperation with the WPA. Each worker will be notified of the time and place of his interview.

THE REASON

A well known object president, attending a banquet, was astonished to see that the negro porter who took their hats at the door gave no checks in return. A fellow diner explained that the negro had a wonderful memory. "He has been doing that for years and prides himself upon never having made a mistake," he concluded.

As the college president was leaving, the negro passed him his hat. "How do you know that this is mine?" inquired the learned one.

"I don't know it, suh," admitted the porter.

"Then why do you give it to me?"

"Because you gave it to me, suh."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends who assisted us and spoke so many words of sympathy to us during the death of our darling daughter Alene, who died Sept. 20. Also for the floral offerings. May God's loving arms protect each and every one of them and guide them along life's way is our prayer.

Early Coins

In the reign of William and Mary copper coins were struck in England for New England and Carolina. Lord Baltimore had silver shillings, 6 pence and 4 pence made in England to supply the demands of his province of Maryland, Vermont and Connecticut established mints in 1785 for the issue of copper coin. New Jersey followed a year later. But Congress had under advisement the establishment of a mint for the confederated states, and in this same year agreed upon a plan submitted by Thomas Jefferson. The act went into operation, on a small scale, in 1787. After the adoption of the Constitution in 1789 all the state mints were closed.

The Word "Dun"

The word "dun" is supposed by some to be derived from the French "donnez." The British Apollo of 1780 says, however, that the word owes its origin to a Joe Dun, a famous bailiff of Lincoln in the time of Henry VIII. He is said to have been so successful in the collection of debts that his name became proverbial. Whenever it seemed almost impossible to make a man pay, people would say, "Why don't you Dun him?"

Pyrethrin, Insect Killer

Pyrethrin is used to kill insects. Many tons of pyrethrum are brought into this country annually from foreign countries, chiefly from Japan. It is a strange crop to most farmers in this country. The pyrethrum belongs to the great Compositae group of plants, which include the chrysanthemum, aster, daisy, dandelion, ragweed, and wormwood. The pyrethrum has flowers that resemble the ordinary field daisy.

Punctuation Marks Separate

That famous eccentric of Newburyport, Mass., Lord Timothy Dexter, put out a book titled, "A Pickle for the Knowing Ones," without a punctuation mark of any kind throughout the text. But in the appendix, were several pages taken up entirely by a mass of all kinds of punctuation marks, and the reader was invited to put them into the book as it pleased him!

DRIVE STARTED AGAINST THE HATED FARM THIEF

The Kentucky Farmer's Home Journal, 71 year old farm publication, has launched a state wide drive against farm thievery throughout the state. This war against thieves has been waged in 13 counties, and it is the hope of Mr. Vaughan Spencer, publisher of this paper, to extend the campaign to cover every county in the state by the first of next year. Thousands of Kentucky farmers have joined in the efforts of Mr. Spencer to stamp out farm thievery, and hundreds more are joining every week.

This campaign is the first of its kind in Kentucky. Statistics reveal that farm thievery has been growing within the last few years. The annual loss through the theft of farm property runs into billions of dollars and organized farm thievery has become a serious menace to the countryside. Mr. Spencer was born and reared on a Kentucky farm, and realizes what it means to a farmer to cultivate a crop of tobacco and have it stolen; to raise chickens and have them taken from their roosts by the dozens; and to have fattened hogs and cattle driven from their pastures and butchered the thief who preys upon the farmer. That is why the Kentucky Farmer's Home Journal is dedicating itself to this cause—because it realizes the need of drastic and immediate measures against the farm thief, and because it wishes to see the farmers' property protected.

Because farm thievery is so widespread in Kentucky, the Kentucky Farmer's Home Journal is offering a $25 reward for the arrest and conviction of thieves stealing from the premises of all farmers who join this great campaign. A metal thief warning sign to display on his front gate is furnished to each member. Money for payment of rewards is in the bank.

YOUNG AMERICANS INVITED TO JOIN SEVENTH CAVALRY - FAMOUS MECHANIZED UNIT

Ambitious young Americans of this locality desirous of seeing the country will be given an opportunity of enlisting in the famous First Cavalry, which is the only mechanized cavalry regiment now organized in the entire United States army, and the Thirteenth Cavalry which is being mechanized. At Fort Knox there are vacancies today in the mechanized cavalry for mechanics, chauffeurs, typists, draftsmen, radio operators, buglers, carpenters, stenographers, and men familiar with other trades. Many of these vacancies carry extra ratings and pay.

Both the First Cavalry and Thirteenth Cavalry are stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., 30 miles south of Louisville on the Dixie Highway.

Both regiments will be equipped with modern motor vehicles, armed with modern motor vehicles, armed with machine guns, both for combat and to transport the supplies. All of the soldiers ride in vehicles. No one marches on foot.

Soldiers are given medical attention and dental treatment without charge to them. Everything that can be done to preserve their health and strength is done by the government for their welfare.

Opportunity is provided for athletic and other healthful recreation and each soldier is encouraged to take part in his favorite sport. There are baseball diamonds, swimming pools, boxing rings, football fields, tennis courts, and other facilities for this type of recreation.

Because of its modern equipment and the need of training with other troops this brigade is frequently sent to other posts and localities throughout the country where it works with horse cavalry, infantry, artillery and air corps. In this way the soldiers not only get a chance to see the country and form new friends, but to learn about these other branches of Uncle Sam's forces.

Some of the most distant places familiar to our men are Fort Riley, Kansas; West Point, New York; El Paso, Texas; Fort Benning, Ga.; Camp Peely, Ohio; Baltimore, Md.; and Fort Monmouth, N. J. During the past summer the Seventh Cavalry Brigade marched more than 2,000 miles through the states of Tennessee, Kentucky and Michigan.

Men who have education will find many opportunities for advancement in these regiments. At present many enlisted men are studying for Reserve Commissions. A high school education is desirable but men with common school training and a knowledge of some vocation will also find opportunities.

Interested men should obtain application blanks from the local postmaster, fill out and send to the Commanding Officer Seventh Cavalry, Commanding Officer Seventh Cavalry Brigade, Fort Knox, Ky. Those desiring to do so may report in person to headquarters of either First Cavalry, of Thirteenth Cavalry, Fort Knox, Ky., for examination, the result of which will determine applicant's suitability for enlistment.

Applicants for enlistment must be at least 18 years old, and if under 21, must have consent of parents.

Safety authorities of the Travelers Insurance Company, in studying the accident records, have put drivers who are prone to accident in three classes: First, the mentally incompetent driver; second, the physically incompetent driver; third, the driver who has both the brains and the physique to drive carefully, but who is too unsocial and stubborn to use these gifts. Of the three, the last-named type is the most deadly.

Grave Dug, Funeral Rites Planned For Living Youth

Akron, O., police are investigating police had no report of an accident today a telephone message from a in which Conley was injured or restaurant there to Roscoe Hutchinson, local merchant, which turned out to be a hoax.

Last Thursday afternoon, Hutchinson received a telephone call from a man who gave his name as Quincy Barker. Hutchinson was told that a double nephew of his, William Henry Conley, had met death in an automobile accident at Akron, and the body was being sent to Morehead and would arrive here Saturday morning.

Hutchinson did not doubt the message, because he knew Quincy Barker. He notified the boy's parents, Al pha and Nora Conley, of Crockett, Morgan county. All funeral arrangements were made, the grave dug, and the rites were to be held Sunday.

Mrs. Conley sustained a nervous breakdown upon hearing of her son's death and was in a serious condition Friday and Saturday. The body did not arrive Saturday morning. Mr. Hutchinson waited until Saturday evening and when it did not come, he wired the express agent at Akron asking him to trace it. The express agent wired back that it had not been shipped, and later sent another message stating that Akron Morehead Independent.

Hutchinson traced the Thursday call and found that it came from a pay station in the Silver Dollar restaurant at Akron, O. Quincy Barker was contacted and he said he did not make the call or know anything about it. Hutchinson said that Conley carried a considerable amount of insurance, and that he was not satisfied with letting the matter drop. He asked Akron police to investigate Friday and Saturday. In the meantime, dirt has been thrown back into the grave that dug for Conley in the family cemetery at Crockett. Young Conley came back from the dead! Perhaps the happiest woman in the world today is Mrs. Nora Conley who knows that her boy still is another message stating that Akron Morehead Independent.

WAYLAND SCHOOL

The second week ends with an enrollment of 852 not including the combined school and Bradley Ford school. Enrollment in each room ranges from 35 to 45. This means that the congestion problem is not serious. However, enrollment in each grade continues to increase.

Next week will begin the installation of visual education in the Wayland school. Its operation will completely modernize classroom instruction. It includes loud-speakers and screens in every room including the auditorium, educational talking pictures for community and school use, draperies for the stage, and light proof shades for every window. The control of this magnificent installation is from the principal's office.

Any or all rooms may be reached from the office. Only 35 schools in Kentucky have the opportunity of having access to visual education. The Wayland school boasts that it will be one of the 35 and that it will be the first school in Floyd county to use this modern type of education. It is hoped that this type of classroom technique will prove of great value to the school and the community.

A number of clubs have been organized in the high school. The science club is sponsored by Willie Adams. This club is maintained for only science students. The work of this club will be centered around beautifying the school plant. The club has already elected its officers. The dramatic club will be under the direction of Scott Osborne, the English instructor. Mr. Osborne has high hopes for his club. He will train students in the school who are interested in the stage. The Glee Club is under the direction of Robert Wallace. Mr. Wallace will conduct separate clubs for the girls and boys. He will furnish music for the school on any occasion. The High Y Club has just been organized under the leadership of Chelmer Frasure. The district secretary of the Y. M. C. A. visited Wayland Monday and gave many good suggestions for organizing the club. The first topic for discussion will be "Accident Prevention and How to Drive Safely."

The first meeting of the P. T. A. was held Sept. 16. The following committees were appointed: entertainment, ways and means, refreshment and membership. Mr. Orville Murray is the new president. Mr. Murray is taking great interest in the organization. He hopes to make this the most successful year the Wayland P. T. A. has had. The organization sponsored an amateur show last Friday night. This show was under the direction of Mr. Harrison Elliott, one of the teachers in the school.
