

WAR ENGINEERS DISCUSS FLOOD DAMS IN SANDY

BUSINESS LEADERS CITE LOSS FROM HIGH WATER

WILL MAKE SURVEY

Flood dams on the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy river moved a step nearer Wednesday afternoon following a public hearing in the circuit court room in Pikeville before Lt. Col. John F. Conklin, of Huntington, W. Va., district engineer for the war department.

During the hearing, which was attended by more than 50 persons interested in the protection of farm and business property along the river from Elkhorn City to Catlettsburg, a number of detailed reports were read pointing out the destruction which comes with the high tides. A report prepared by F. G. Blockwell, T. W. Oliver and Mayor K. J. Day set out the damage which comes periodically to Pikeville and the immediate environs and was presented to the engineer by Mr. Day.

Present Brief

Congressman A. J. May, of Prestonsburg, and Congressman Flannagan, of Virginia, also pointed out the loss in the Big Sandy valley and recommended that five small dams and three large dams be constructed in the Levisa Fork and its feeders to hold back the high tides and to provide water during the dry seasons. Numerous reports and recommendations were made by other visitors.

Following the session which lasted for more than four hours, Colonel Conklin stated that he was convinced of the loss due from high waters in this section and set out three projects which might be developed. Two of them, however, that of deepening and widening the river bed and making dikes were termed illogical. The only logical step, he stated, is constructing dams at various intervals in the stream. Col. Conklin stated that he will dispatch an engineer to this section in the near future to make a complete survey and furnish recommendations to the proper authorities.

Visitors at the meeting yesterday were:

Col. John F. Conklin, district engineer, Huntington; Major F. F. French, chief engineer division; Harry Pochras, principal engineer; E. E. Teeter, associate engineer; C. J. Neckamp, Catlettsburg; Hugh Chatfield, mayor of Catlettsburg; Lee Long, representative Clinchfield Coal Corporation; F. B. Preston, Paintsville; J. O. Sage, C. and O. Railway Company, Huntington; E. P. Shreve, Nation Park Service, Clinchfield; Ira T. Yarnall, U. S. Forest Service, Eastern Region, Washington; E. P. Turner, principal assistant engineer, N. and W. Roanoke; H. R. Lewis, Pomeroy, Ohio; T. J. Trent, McAndrews; J. Earl Walker, Paintsville Rotary Club; J. R. Arrowood, Paintsville Kiwanis Club; Congressman A. J. May, Prestonsburg, and Congressman John W. Flannagan, Virginia.—Pike County News.

WILLIAMSON MAN SECURES PATENTS

Harrison Maynard, Williamson, W. Va., formerly of Johns Creek, has received a receipt from the patent office at Washington for a Patent Pending Serial No. 15,156 on a bed for closed automobiles by adjusting the seats.

Mr. Maynard has also patented a steel mine tie which is being manufactured by the Bethlehem Steel Company on a royalty basis, and is being used in a great many mines.

MAY-ARCHER NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED AUGUST 16

Announcement was made this week of the marriage of Miss Marguerite May and Mr. Arthur Johns Archer, of this city, the ceremony being performed at Inez, Ky., by the Rev. D. L. Moore. Both the bride and groom are members of prominent Floyd county families. The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. May and granddaughter of the late J. P. Salsbury, and is a young lady of much charm. Mrs. Archer will graduate this year from Prestonsburg high school. Mr. Archer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Archer. He is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school. The young couple will at present reside at the home of the bride's parents. They have the best wishes of a host of friends.

MRS. MAYO CHOSEN DIRECTOR OF ART

The Courier-Journal of recent date carries a report to the effect that Mrs. W. P. Mayo, of this place, who has been appointed state chairman of art for the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs has, by virtue of this office, been asked to conduct the art exhibit of the Woman's Institute which is being put on for all Kentucky, Southern Indiana and Northern Tennessee, and to be held in Louisville the week of October 5.

Mrs. Mayo hopes to have the greatest art exhibit ever held in Kentucky. The exhibit hall of the Woman's club building has been procured for the exhibit. There will be several worthy prizes. All artists of the Kentucky district are urged to send entries; young and un-known artists, as well as the established ones, are especially invited. This is to be a mart as well as an exhibit.

Mrs. Mayo has made very practical and simple plans for her club work for the year. She believes that every club in the state can carry out her plans. She says: "My aim is to create a wider interest in art. Of course, everybody can't create art, but we can all appreciate, enjoy and own a piece of art. And to further this idea, I am asking that all of our 161 clubs hold a local exhibit of privately owned art work and current works of their local artists, especially encouraging young talent. Second, that 25 per cent of our membership visit an art museum during the year. Third, that 10 per cent of our membership buy a piece of art, preferably Kentucky artists' work, during the year."

Of course, there are some other requirements, but it is this mixing with art that she is urging in order to bring about in Kentucky a more wide-spread understanding and appreciation of art, so that life for every one may be happier, richer.

DEMOCRATS NAME RICHMOND MAN CAMPAIGN MGR.

J. J. Greenleaf Chosen as State Campaign Manager by State Central Committee

At a meeting held in Frankfort last Thursday, J. J. Greenleaf, Richmond attorney, who acted as campaign manager in Senator Logan's successful fight for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, was chosen as Kentucky state chairman to lead the campaign for President Roosevelt and the other Democratic nominees at the November election.

REV. KING TO REMAIN AS PASTOR OF LOCAL CHURCH

Members of other denominations, the citizens in general, as well as the congregation of the M. E. Church, South, will be pleased to learn that Rev. H. E. King has been re-assigned as pastor of the Prestonsburg M. E. Church, South, for another year.

W. S. HARKINS, JR., MUSIC FATALLY INJURED IN MINE IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Undergoes Operation for Appendicitis in Huntington, W. Va., Hospital Last Saturday

W. S. Harkins, Jr., prominent Prestonsburg attorney, (and better known to his many friends as Scott) underwent an operation for appendicitis last Saturday at Memorial hospital in Huntington, W. Va. Since the operation, Mr. Harkins' condition has steadily grown worse, and it is reported today (Thursday) that he is in a very grave condition. Mr. Harkins, who is well-known throughout the Big Sandy valley, has many friends and relatives who are hoping to receive more encouraging news regarding his condition.

(As The Times goes to press news reaches us that Mr. Harkins had passed away.)

FLOYD POST 129 PICNICKS SUNDAY

American Legion and Associates Enjoy Outing At Abbott Heights Golf Course

Members of Floyd Post No. 129, American Legion, the Woman's Auxiliary and the Sons of the Legion held a picnic at the Abbott Heights Golf and Country Club Sunday afternoon. Owing to a misunderstanding of the time for the picnic, the crowd attending was somewhat of a disappointment, but those who did attend spent a very enjoyable afternoon. Commander Marvin Marshall urges every Legionnaire to attend the meeting, and to bring an ex-service man who is a prospective member.

ANNUAL GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST TO BE PLAYED

Saturday, September 12 heralds the beginning of the annual club championship at the Abbott Heights Country Club. This is to be an elimination contest for the purpose of selecting a club "champ."

Starting on Saturday and lasting through Sunday, the semi-finals will be held for the finishing "go-round" Saturday and Sunday, the 19th and 20th.

MUSIC FATALLY INJURED IN MINE

Dies as Result of Accident Sustained in Coal Operation at Bonny Blue, Virginia

Marvin Music, 25 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Music, of Bonanza, this county, was killed in a Bonny Blue mine of the Blue Diamond Coal Company, at Bonny Blue, Va. After the day's work was over, the workmen were getting in the man trip to be taken to the outside, and as Music attempted to step in a mine car his foot slipped and he fell against the wire. He failed to respond to first-aid treatment, and died shortly after the accident. Mr. Music is survived by his father and mother; four brothers, Ermine, Raymond, Sam and Warren; and six sisters; Flossie, Mabel, Cynthia May, Mary Catherine, Hazel and Grace, all of Bonanza.

Burial was made on the home place at Bonanza.

JAMES CARTER, 15, ILL OF PNEUMONIA

James Carter, age 15, son of Mayor and Mrs. A. C. Carter, was taken to the Bluefield Sanitarium September 1 to have his tonsils removed. Pneumonia developed Wednesday, Sept. 2, and for the past week he has been in a serious condition. Mr. Carter and son, Leo, returned to Prestonsburg Tuesday night, and went back Bluefield Wednesday afternoon. Mayor Carter stated that his son was so much improved that he expected to bring him home within the next 10 days.

Both Mayor and Mrs. Carter have been in Bluefield during the illness of their son.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS STARTED

Thursday of this week marked the beginning of work on two new native stone school buildings, one to be erected at Martin and the other at Water Gap, this county. They will cost about $6,000 each and will employ 25 men for a period of approximately 90 days each.

This work will be supervised by Clyde Ramey, of McDowell, and Elmer Rice, of Water Gap.

LOST—a diamond ring. Finder in-quire Floyd County Times. Reward.

WORK ON BETSY LAYNE ROADS WORK STARTED

Work on the roads in Betsy Layne, employing a working force of 35 men, was started Tuesday of this week.

This project covers 3.08 miles and will furnish employment for approximately three months. H. H. Layne is to superintend the work.

Breathitt leads the fifth district of the WPA with 30 projects under way, and Floyd is second with 28 projects.

CIRCUIT COURT HELD IN GYMNASIUM HERE

The courthouse at Prestonsburg being under repair due to a fire some time ago, the September term of the Floyd circuit court is being held in the high school gymnasium near the graded school building, while the grand jury will be in session in the county courtroom.

In charging the grand jury, Judge Council stressed gambling of all kinds, liquor violations, pistol toting, driving while under the influence of liquor. Approximately 20 murder trials are on the docket for the September term. The grand jury now in session made 9 additional indictments for murder.

HOLDS "OPEN HOUSE"

On Saturday, August 29, the Prestonsburg Training Work Center held open house at its headquarters in the Odd Fellows building on First avenue, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. Over 100 interested spectators viewed the large display of attractive garments made by the 32 workers of the Center. A prize was awarded Mrs. Belle Woods for having made the best buttons from empty spools in the training work center.

Mrs. Bessie Reatheford, supervisor of the project, is to be congratulated upon this practical and efficient demonstration and the high quality of the work she and her assistants are turning out.

MRS. JANE SALMONS FIRST TO RECEIVE ASSISTANCE CHECK

Prestonsburg Woman First Among 1,200 Applicants to Receive Assistance Check

Among the 1,200 applications for old-age assistance already on file from Floyd county, the claim of Mrs. Jane Salmons, of "Ball Alley," near here, has been the first to be approved by the Department of Welfare at Frankfort.

It is estimated by Harry Hill, one of the three county investigators, that eight hundred more claims will be filed, bringing the county's total to around two thousand. At present there are over 66,000 applications in the state.

According to Mr. Hill, each application must be investigated thoroughly, before approval, and some of these already filed have been false claims concerning age statistics, it is said. Each of such cases handled only tend to retard someone else from receiving their government assistance that is justly due them.

JOBLESS MINERS TO WORK

A project has been created to take care of 40 unemployed miners by building a road from Ligon to Garrett, a distance of approximately five miles using 46 men and costing in the neighborhood of $25,000.

This work is scheduled to begin Thursday morning, Sept. 10, with Fred Music in charge, and will last six months.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Arnold were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Dimick, of Huntington, W. Va.

ROBINSON TAKES GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP AT BEAVER VALLEY

Defeats Walker, Runner-Up, in Close Match at Beaver Valley Course; Sunday and Monday

LOCAL MEN ENTERED

(By Carl Corbin)

The Big Sandy championship golf tournament held Sept. 5, 6 and 7, on the grounds of the Beaver Valley Golf Club, near Allen, crowned a champion, Robinson, of Pikeville, from the cream of the valley golfers.

Earl Walker, of Paintsville, Robinson's opponent, played fine golf for the first 18 holes, which ended with Walker being down one hole. The long, straight drives of Robinson coupled with some of the most amazing approaches ever seen on this course, began to tell and the match ended on the 39th hole.

Arthur Meeks, of Paintsville, was medalist with a sub par 67 as well as a new course record. Meeks also gave a good account of himself in the tournament, eliminating John Bowman, and Dr. Hall. Lon Hall, of Paintsville, played consistent golf, meeting the stiffest competition, and finally succumbed, one down, to Walker.

One of the outstanding men of the elimination play was none other than Prestonsburg's Deacon Clark, who first eliminated James Morell, of Prestonsburg, then Ken Arnold and Dr. Thompson, of Pikeville, but by this time the strain was terrific and the Deacon finally fell before the persistent and unperturbed play of the genial Robby.

The best match of the tournament was that between Brook, Jr., and Lon Hall; 19 holes were required to give Lon the edge over the brilliant playing of this young high school boy from Wayland. Another year of golf added to the two he has had, and instead of being content with par, as he now is, he will be hard to take. Brook and P. W. Jr., both high school boys of Wayland are the pride of the Beaver Valley course, and we are about to give up and say, "Yes, it's a young man's game and an old man's fancy."

The good matches in this tournament were too numerous to mention, but in following Lon Hall through the semi-finals one could see four of the best. This southpaw gave us some of the best golf played. First, young Brook made him go 19 holes and he was one under par. Bill Malone gave him a good battle, 3-2, then the young Caddy Adkins, from Beaver Valley carried him to the 17th. The same day he had to give way to the methodical playing of Walker on the 18th.

The playing of Adkins and Porter, of Beaver Valley reminds one of last year's champion, Blair, and they will do better next year.

The galleries were full of has-beens like Holbrook, Watkins, Dr. Hall, Jones, Corbin, Haganas, Bowman, Hatcher, Arnold, Powell, Brooks, Sr., Pew, Sr., who previously had been eliminated by the youngsters.

Pikeville, we salute you, for without question you have the best golfer in the valley, and we anticipate with pleasure the meeting next fall on your wonderful course.

Prizes for the tournament were presented as follows: To Robinson, the winner, the Big Sandy cup; to Walker, the runner-up, a cup; to Meeks, a medal for medalist, and to E. E. Clark the vote of all as showing the best sportsmanship of the tournament.

BETSY LAYNE SCHOOL OPEN

The Betsy Layne consolidated school opened Monday, September 7, with an enrollment of 571 students. Of this number 150 are in high school. Much interest was shown on opening day, with many parents and citizens present. An added feature of the school this year is the bus service for all high school students from Allen to Harold. The one bus is serving approximately 100 students daily, to and from school.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Honoring Amos 'n' Andy. SANTA MONICA, CALIF.— Because Amos 'n' Andy paid a mythical visit to this community, the grateful populace will dedicate a bronze tablet in Palisades park, which is not only a beautiful park but is regarded by some enthusiastic citizens as being practically the main entrance to the Pacific ocean.

That's California pride for you—the kind that inspires us to pass resolutions endorsing the sunsets.

Well, I don't believe there's a small city in this country that has finer sunsets than Santa Monica. And when better ones are available for towns of this size, Santa Monica will have them. Our boosters' clubs will attend to that.

What I'm getting at, though, is that any fellows who've given as much joy to the world as Amos 'n' Andy deserve a whole set of plaques. If they don't wear out, thinking up their stuff until I get tired of hearing it, they'll go on forever.

"Hello, Kingfish."

Vocal Contortionists.

WHY must tenors make such funny faces when they sing? And why must a lady vocalist clutch both hands to her tum-tum when she reaches after a high note, as though she'd just felt the first pangs of cholera morbus? And why must there ever be any professional pianist who also is a professional dandruff fancier and looks as though he should be gone over with one of these sand-blasting machines that they use to clean off office buildings. Just ordinary soap and water wouldn't do.

And, oh, why does a basso insist on singing at great length of the joys of life at the bottom of a coal mine and, for an encore, rock me in the cra-hadle of the da-heep until I'm as seakick as a cow? Hasn't anybody since Rutherford B. Hayes was President, thought up a new song for bassos? And isn't anybody going to do so before the sands of the desert grow cold? It looks like years and years to wait.

France's Diplomatic Game.

WHILE France was asking us to enter into a "neutrality pact" as regards Spain, it would appear she even then was extending very material "sympathies" to the loyalist side. Anyhow, Italy thinks so, and Germany, too. And now Portugal sprouts unrest and Great Britain issues threats.

Since we already were neutral—and, if we have any sense, will keep on being as neutral as a stop-and-go signal—America didn't need to enter any pacts. And if we continue minding our own business we'll have neither a sick headache nor a fresh batch of uncollectible foreign loans when the present mess is over.

Wholesale Mersey.

WHO killed Cock Robin? Who cares? Dead, isn't he? His widow and orphans can go on relief, can't they? But how about pretty Boy Sparrow? There's the one to think about—so young and so gifted and ambitious.

The Women's Aid Society for the Freeing of Criminals—How soon can we get that poor lad out into the sunshine once more? He takes aim so much better in the sunshine. Must we wait until he breaks out?

The state parole board—Not at all, ladies, not at all. Just be patient a little while, then leave it to us.

Gov. Mushy J. Sapp—But why wait? When I think of that bleak Alcatraz and that hard-hearted Uncle Sam I'm proud to have some wholesome sentiment in my soul. Pass me that pardon blank.

Pretty Boy Sparrow—Well, happy days are here again. Say, I never did like that canary much either. Where's my tommy gun?

The Wisdom of Frogs.

A LADY naturalist at the Smithsonian in Washington has been experimenting and she says that frogs not only listen to political speeches on the radio but, by their croaks at the finish, indicate a deep appreciation of same. This helps to confirm an opinion I've had all along, that the only end of a frog which should command my entire approval is the end the legs grow on—especially when fried in cracker crumbs.

On second thought, though, maybe the frog has more brains than I'm giving him credit for. When I applaud at the end of a broadcast there's no chance for an encore.

"What Does It Prove" Bout Gives Sailor $30,000 for Trouble

WHILE beating his Basque Woodchopper par in slapping over the Boston Bartender at Yankee Stadium, Joe Jouis was far short of his top Chicago Kingfish performance. Yet, even though it took one minute and two seconds of the third round before he could convince a trembly-legged, eye-scarred, thirty-three-year-old veteran that he had enough, this falling short of perfection should not be held against Joe. He did the job assigned to him and probably the whole Vassar Daisy Chain team could not have done it any better

Whether he is, by any chance, the same gifted athlete he was before the Schmeling mistake is something that need not be gone into here. Certainly he entered the ring more blithely than for any other New York appearance up to date. Even before he got his first glimpse of that dreadful Sharky man, who, by the way was the round-heeled riot of two rounds and 1.02 later, he was grinning.

That, of course, may have been because he was getting his first glimpse of Leon Ketchel, the human beanpole who some day may be stood up to be bowled over in the same alley and under the same benevolent auspices as last night. It also might have been because a youngster, whose best ballyhoosers had been doing masterpieces about his "shellshocked" reactions, was at last coming to realize that instead of going into a battle he was facing a pink tea.

Anyhow it hardly matters. Keeping his right up high, as he did not against the fairly young and fairly agile Schmeling, Louis started slowly. Perhaps a punch into those whiskers he has never yet had time to grow might have caused him some inconvenience and slowed him up even more. But, even though the leaden-footed, half-bald Sharky made some motions, which indicated that Joe still has a bit to learn before being better than even money against such two-legged gents as Ettore, Pastor and John Henry Lewis, nothing much happened.

Sharkey went through the first round as if surprised that the bad news was so long delayed. So, he pawed his bemused way into the second round, scarcely landing a blow. He went down from a right to the jaw, got up and went down again shortly thereafter from a right, a left and a feinting of futility. In the third round he again was bowled over twice, once sprawling over the lower strand of ropes.

After this he got up. He was not as badly beaten as was Louis in the Schmeling fight and it is probable that he expected to go on. But Referee Donovan had already counted ten. So that was that. The battle of "What Does It Prove?" was over and, even though the radio and movie concessionaires may squawk to the high heavens, there will be no rematch. Sharkey now can go back to Boston and impatient customers who have been screaming can get some service again.

Sloughed Sailor Need Have No Regrets

While explaining how he held the Brown Bomber to a mere count of ten kayo three years after the stalwart Carnera won the championship from him by means of a slashing, lone uppercut, the sloughed sailor need have no regrets, though. He got a very handsome $30,928 for his scant moments of light exercise. So he departs with the pleasant feeling that in a town where 6,000,000 people take daily chances of being bowled over by autos, merely because they cannot afford carfare, at least 6,000,000 people are envying his pretty opportunity and his bright reward.

Not in the Box Score:

Dartmouth football fans are worried about Mutt Ray, who recently underwent a back operation. The crack center is far from right and chances are he will see little action this fall. The two star guards, Latta McCray, severely injured in a skiing accident, and Joe Hanrahan, who was stopped by the June exams, also may be unavailable.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

BITSY GRANT'S European tennis tour cost him $250, exclusive of incidental expenses. His partner in the insurance business, who was supposed to take care of his renewals, fell ill while Bitsy was away and let a number of policies lapse.

Bobby Riggs and Wayne Sabin, the young California doubles combination being touted for next year's Davis cup competition, have been parted by Jack del Valle, their "angel." The break came during the Rye matches and Del Valle explained it by saying he believed Sabin's influence on Riggs was not beneficial. It probably will be patched up before the national championships.

Although the Giants are in the midst of one of the most magnificent pennant drives of recent years gossipers still operate on them. The latest lowdown is that Hank Leiber and Harry Gumbert will be traded to the Cards for Jim Collins next winter. The whispered reason for this is that Terry and Leiber do not "get along." Another keyhole item is that several Giants' officials consider Mel Ott to be "an overrated player" and will peddle him to another club in 1937 if Terry agrees.

Pop Warner and Gil Dobie will be personally matching their football coaching wits for the first time when Boston college meets Temple in October. This is Warner's forty-second year as a coach while Dobie has been on duty for a mere 35 seasons. Eddie Borden, the sports writer and fight manager, will shortly publish a new boxing magazine tagged Bang. Princeton insiders are breaking down and admitting that the Frosh football supply is the best since the class of '36. They add that this manna will be very much welcomed by Coach Fritz Crisler since practically all of the present regulars will be blotted out by graduations next June.

Ohio State fears Grid Date With New York U. Strange as it may seem Ohio State fears that early football date with N. Y. U. this fall. Buckeye track athletes, here for the World Labor meet, reported that folks around Columbus feel the Violets are going to be so tough that there is practically no betting money in sight. Yale men refuse to talk about gridiron prospects but there is a persistent rumor that Ducky Pond will surprise the nation with a powerful team this fall. Especially if some of the scholastically doubtful scops regain good standing. Don't expect Lou Little to be overactive at Columbia this fall. Reports from his Leominster, Mass., home town are that his injured hip still pains him mightily.

Ohio State Fears Grid Date With New York U

Although Jess Sweetser, president of the Metropolitan Golf association, is playing as good golf as any New York amateur this summer, his temperament still gets in his way during tournament competition. In spite of his many years of campaigning he still enlists in the club-thriving ranks when the breaks go sour. For a lad who's had a taste of Hollywood, Buell Patrick Abbott, the Californian who recently won the national public links title, has mild aspirations for a movie career. "All I want," he says, speaking of that fabled city where salaries always are quoted in the higher G's, "is a contract for $350 or $400 a week for four or five years. Then I'll quit."

This has been a singularly unfortunate summer for Bill Cook, captain and future coach of the Rangers. His mother died two months ago, just after the popular hockey veteran had moved his family east to the new house he bought near Hamilton, Ont. His two children had to have their tonsils out and, although that's ordinarily a simple operation these days, his younger daughter had a relapse and had to return to the hospital. Then Mrs. Cook became ill and had to undergo an operation.

Although he appears to be a quiet, well-mannered fellow, Wally Berger of the Bees likes practical jokes even better than base hits. His pet prank is to put eels in the pullman berths of his teammates. Handbooks take five-cent bets in Montreal. Watch North Carolina State's football team this fall. Hunk Anderson, the old Notre Dame, will be working with 26 letter men, most of them juniors.

Experts whisper that the best buys on the Philly m-i-l-winter bargain counter will be Pitcher Claude Passeau; and Catcher Bill Atwood. The Cubs and Giants already have been fingering the $50,000 price tags.

Household Questions

Do not uncover a steamed pudding for the first half hour of cooking.

To prevent the juice in fruit tart boiling over, mix a little cornstarch with the sugar before adding it to tart filling.

Aluminum pots and pans that have become discolored may be brightened by rubbing with a cloth moistened with lemon juice.

Green bananas may be ripened by placing in a paper bag and keeping in a dark closet for a few days.

Leftover juices if boiled and used instead of water to dissolve gelatin will give gelatin a richer flavor.

When making cole slaw, or cabbage salad, add half a small onion, shredded fine and mix with the cabbage. It improves the flavor.

To remove water spots from silk, dampen evenly and press material while still damp. This may be done by sponging carefully with clear water or by shaking it in the steam from a briskly boiling tea kettle until it is thoroughly damp.

THE CONQUEST OF TYPHOID FEVER

What Is Typhoid Fever?

Typhoid fever is a preventable disease that can and should be stamped out. Each year about 50,000 persons in the United States and Canada have typhoid fever, and about 5,000 die of it. The average duration of sickness from it is eight weeks.

To Prevent Typhoid

First—Be sure that you use pure water, pasteurized milk or milk from hygienic dairies, and clean food that is protected from flies.

Second—Be vaccinated against typhoid fever and have all members of your family vaccinated.

Third—All persons having the disease or suspected of having it should be reported at once to the local health board.

Waste matter from persons having typhoid fever should be mixed immediately with chlorinated lime or carbolic acid to kill the typhoid germ.

Typhoid Fever Vaccination

Typhoid vaccine is made with dead typhoid fever germs. This vaccine is injected under the skin in the upper part of the arm, in three doses, usually at weekly intervals. A slight redness soon appears at the point of injection, but disappears in a few days. In some cases a slight headache and a tired feeling follows, lasting about a day. In very rare cases, these signs may extend over several days, but the vaccination has been proven to be harmless. It ordinarily protects against the disease from two to three years or longer, although those definitely exposed to typhoid infection should be revaccinated more frequently.

Typhoid fever is now rarer in the United States army than in the most healthful cities and towns. This is because all soldiers in the army are vaccinated against typhoid fever. After the war, the death rate from typhoid fever dropped most among men at ages 21 to 35—the very group that was vaccinated by the million in the army before going to France.

Typhoid Germs in Water

The contents of poorly constructed privy vaults and sewer and human discharges left on the ground drain into water systems and may infect them with typhoid germs. These germs may be taken into the body with drinking water or with water used in preparing uncooked foods. Many typhoid epidemics are caused in this way. Where there is an efficient system of water purification, typhoid fever has greatly decreased. A sanitary toilet, for the safe disposal of human waste matter, should be provided for every unsewered rural or urban house. It should be constructed according to the specifications of the board of health.

Typhoid Germs in Milk

Typhoid fever germs often get into milk through carelessness or lack of cleanliness upon the part of those who handle it. Flies sometime infect it when it is left uncovered. When milk is pasteurized—heated to 145 degrees for 20 minutes—typhoid fever germs are killed. Use pasteurized milk, and keep it covered in a cool place.

Other Sources of Typhoid

Typhoid fever germs often enter the intestine with food, especially raw foods. Outbreaks have been traced to clams, and to oysters fattened in polluted stream or from sewage-contaminated beds.

Human Carriers

Certain people, apparently healthy, carry typhoid germs in their intestine or urinary tract and cause many cases of typhoid fever each year through handling foods with unwashed hands. They are called typhoid carriers. Many cases result from personal contact with these carriers or with patients suffering from typhoid fever.

Vacation Typhoid

People who live in cities where the board of health sees to it that their water and milk supplies are pure do not realize how vital these are to their health. Often in the country no such safeguards exist, and city people succumb to typhoid infections. So often does this happen that these cases have come to be known as vacation typhoid.

A Safe Vacation

In arranging for a vacation, even for a day, select a place where the drinking water and milk supply are pure. You should be sure that the water is protected against contamination from faulty drainage, and that the milk comes from clean barns and is carefully handled. Be sure that the kitchen and dining room are properly screened to protect the food from flies.

When camping, it is always best to boil or purify water used for drinking by the use of tablets which can be bought for chlorinating water, or by adding three drops of tincture of iodine to each quart of water, or six drops to each quart if water is cloudy or contains sediment.

Things to Bear in Mind

REMEMBER—Typhoid fever can be controlled by the use of pure water, pasteurized milk and clean foods; by the proper disposal of sewage; by screening privies and food against flies; by destruction of the fly and its breeding places; by search for and care of carriers and by the general practice of anti-typhoid vaccination.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE LAW EXPLAINED BY DR. LLOYD

This is the second of the series of questions and answers about the actual working plans of Kentucky's Old-Age Assistance Law, prepared for interested Kentuckians by Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, director of Old-Age assistance of the Department of Public Welfare.

Q. How soon can I get old-age assistance?

A. In order to protect the taxpayers' money and to give the available money to those who need it most, each case must be carefully considered and an investigation made by a field worker in the home of the applicant. Over 64,000 applications are now on file in the various county offices, and from one to 10 field workers in each county are making every effort to have applications approved as soon as possible. The length of time between applying and receiving a check depends somewhat upon the information available in each individual case.

Q. What information must the field worker have about my case?

A. They must be able to establish that you are 65 years of age or over; that you have been a resident of Kentucky for five out of the past nine years; that you have been a continuous resident for the 12 months preceding your application, and that you are in need of financial assistance.

Q. How can I prove my age is over 65?

A. The best means is by a birth certificate. If this is not available, there are other records which can be used, for instance: marriage records, insurance policies, legal documents which show your age, or affidavits from acquaintances who are aware of your age.

Q. If I have no birth certificate and no legal records to prove my age, how else can I prove it?

A. The Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., has a complete record of past censuses which include the ages of persons throughout the United States in every enumeration. In writing to them the following information should be furnished: 1. Name in full; 2. maiden name, if a woman; 3. date and place of birth; 4. full name of father; 5. full name of mother; 6. name of husband or wife; 7. exact place of residence on as many of the following dates as possible: June 1, 1850; June 1, 1860; June 1, 1870; June 1, 1880; June 1, 1900; April 15, 1910; January 1, 1920; April 1, 1930. Address should include town, city, township, precinct and state, and with whom living at the time. The census records are confidential, but information will be given out regarding a person enumerated to the person himself, to a member of his immediate family or to a legally authorized representative.

Q. Will I get two checks each month—one from the federal government and one from the state?

A. No. The Public Assistance provisions of the Social Security Act do not enable the federal government to grant assistance directly to individuals, but rather provides a method by which the states may be helped to finance such assistance. In order to receive federal aid, a state must submit a plan and have it approved by the Social Security Board as meeting certain conditions specified by the Social Security Act. Kentucky has an approved plan for assistance to the needy aged and federal funds are available to help carry it out. However, the state and local units of the government administer the program. Needy aged residents of Kentucky who are eligible for old-age assistance will receive one check, mailed to them by the state, each month during which time they are eligible.

Q. How much money will I be entitled to?

A. It depends upon the individual case. Some aged people have friends and relatives who can supply part of the money necessary each month. Some aged people live in their own homes and have small gardens or small incomes. The amount of money granted each month to each case depends upon the individual's actual need.

Q. Must I hire a lawyer or some official to help me make out my application?

A. No. The field worker in each county is able and authorized to help make out your application. You do not need to hire anyone to help you with it.

Shawnee, Okla.

This is no time to slack down. It is the time to pep up, stick out your chest like a pouter pigeon and go ahead.

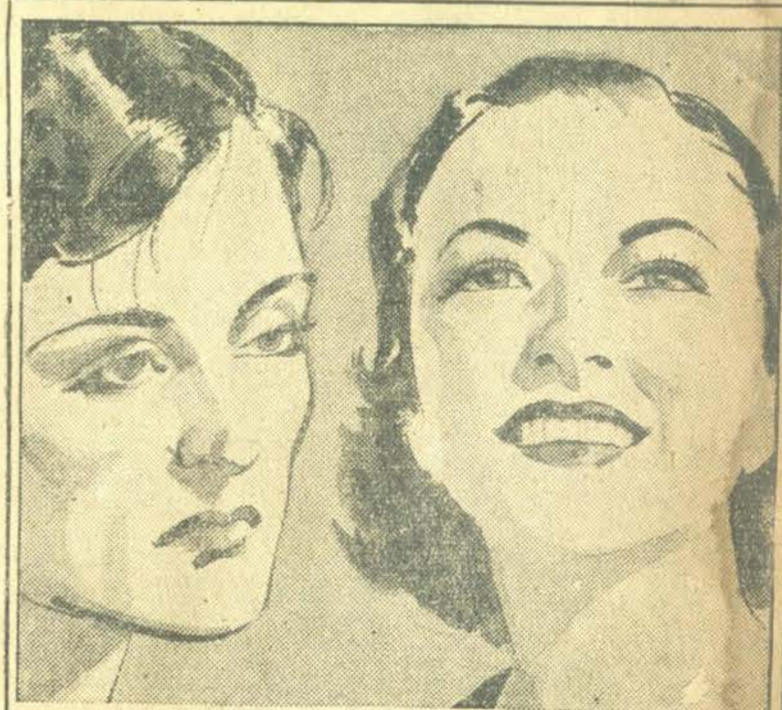

James E. Barrett, managing director of the Oklahoma Biltmore Hotel, says that in the matter of converting the tourist visitor into a prospective resident of the community, the hotel is the town's first booster.

No real citizen takes a real interest in his home town until he does something for it.

Some people say money doesn't go as far as it used to, but it's a cinch it goes faster.

So long as there is a margin between what our cities are as places dustrious worker who wins success in which to live and work and by hard plugging. what they may become, there is plenty of work in every community. The amount of business a merchant can do is governed to a great extent by the amount of newspaper advertising he uses.

Tragedy in Two Lives

About two weeks ago an impoverished young mother confessed to officials of Seattle, Wash. she had killed her 16-year-old daughter with an axe and a bread knife. "I thought I was doing Rose kindness by killing her," the 33-year-old mother is quoted as saying. She added, "I was tired of living like an animal and raising her that way."

"Incidentally, the girl attended a birthday party and after she had gone to bed, the mother, according to her story, ate a grapefruit with a lot of sugar on it and I got a funny feeling and funny ideas came into my head." She said, "I have been on relief, getting $10 a month for a year and a half" and asked "What chance did Rose have to be anybody or have anything?"

Such tragedies reveal disorderly mentalities but perhaps much more. Undoubtedly the mother's mind was affected but who can say what part was played by the circumstances in which she and her daughter found themselves. It is easy to stand off and dismiss an incident like this with the remark, "She is crazy," but such things happen entirely too often in this world to be treated so lightly.

A Killing Combination

The automobile has undoubtedly revolutionized social life in the United States. Its effects are felt in every hamlet of the land where good roads and cheap cars and trucks have speeded up the economic processes. Even the morals of youth, we are told, have been affected by customs that developed with the automobile.

There are benefits that must be attributed to the transportation provided by motor vehicles when one considers the social, economic and cultural fields of human activity. They are too apparent to be denied.

The motor car, however, has given us an unusual problem, which it seems demands greater thought if we are to save the lives of some of the thousands who are killed every year in accidents along the highways. Solution of this problem remains uncertain. Highways are being improved, automobiles are more powerful and the American's lust for speed greater than ever. Together, the three make a killing combination without precedent in the nation so far as we have been able to discover.

Counsel of Moderation

It is both interesting and, to most folk, surprising, to see the advertisements of one of the largest firms of liquor distillers counseling moderation in drinking. Yet, on analysis, it appears to be the most intelligent move which the liquor business has ever made.

Most folk will agree that drinking cannot be prevented by law. The unfortunate experiment of national prohibition provided proof enough of that. Almost every nation has made efforts by political methods to control the traffic in "hard liquor," but nowhere has any means been found effective except that of education in temperance. America has always been a whisky-drinking nation. The manufacture and sale of whisky has again been legalized, except in a few states which are still "dry" by popular vote. It is not the moderate use of whisky which lies at the root of the still active agitation for prohibition; it is intemperance and excessive drinking.

It is, therefore, a highly intelligent move on the part of the distillers to join in the counsel of moderation to warn their customers against excessive indulgence. They want to continue in business, but not at the price of making drunkards.

Their situation is comparable, in some respects, to that of the builders of automobiles. The increasing number of cars, with greater engine power, and vastly higher possible speed, has been accompanied by a huge toll of human life from motor accidents. Now the automobile makers are giving vigorous support to the campaign for moderation in driving, just as the whisky makers are counseling moderation in drinking.

When all's said and done, the problem of temperance, whether in drinking, in eating or in any other human activity is an individual one. Every man must solve it for himself. There is no mass method of making people behave according to a fixed rule or act at all times in their own best interests. But every effort such as this, one of the whisky distillers, to instill the principle of moderation in all things, is a step in the direction of sanity and human progress. —Publisher, Autocaster Service.

National Straw-vote headquarters state by state tabulation.

In casting a ballot in this nationwide presidential poll, the voters are under no obligation to sign their names. The space on the ballot for the name of the town and the state, from which the voter expects to vote in November, is placed there to assist in the accurate tabulation of the national vote. Voters may be sure that their ballot is properly tabulated if they will assist by writing in the name of the town and state where they expect to vote in November.

Turn now to page 8. Clip out the ballot; vote for your favorite candidate. Then mail or send it to The Times office.

LOUISA MAY CONSTRUCT ITS OWN ELECTRIC LIGHT AND WATER PLANTS, IT IS SAID

Louisa, Ky., Sept. 9.—The Louisa city council in session Tuesday night adopted two ordinances authorizing the holding of an election in the city of Louisa to submit to the the question of constructing municipal electric and water plants to serve the city.

The ordinance authorizing an election on the question of constructing an electric plant was adopted 1 to 1, and the water plant ordinance was adopted unanimously.

Following adoption of the two ordinances, it was stated by city officials that the election would be called to be held simultaneously with the general election in November.

Plans for the proposed plants, which previously had been approved by the council, were drafted by the Utilities Construction Company, of Lexington, following an engineering survey made several weeks ago. Passage of the two ordinances Tuesday night merely authorize the calling of an election on the questions.

Landon Gains In Second Week Of National Poll

BALLOTS FROM 41 STATES SHOW HEAVY VOTING AT MANY POINTS

New York, Sept. 7.—Nearly a quarter of a million ballots (211,247) had been tabulated here, state by state, at the end of the second week in the nationwide Presidential poll which is being conducted by smaller town daily and weekly newspapers throughout the country.

These votes, from 41 states, are divided between the six Presidential candidates as follows:

Landon	126,786
(60 per cent)
Roosevelt	69,698
(33.1 per cent)
Lemke	10,189
(4.8 per cent)
Thomas	1,580
(0.9 per cent)
Colvin	759
(.4 per cent)
Browder	1,697
(.08 per cent)
Total	211,247

The vote to date, 41 states, as between Roosevelt and Landon only—total vote of 196,672 ballots:

Landon	126,786
(64.5 per cent)
Roosevelt	69,886
(35 per cent)

The vote to date, 41 states, as between Landon, Roosevelt and Lemke only—total vote of 206,861 ballots:

Landon	126,786
(61.2 per cent)
Roosevelt	69,886
(33.8 per cent)
Lemke	10,189
(5.0 per cent)

Of the 41 states from which ballots have been received, in five of them the returns were so scattered and so few in number that while they have been included, they are not considered indicative by those in charge of the tabulation. These five states are Mississippi, Nevada, Oregon, Vermont and Arkansas. The other 36 states are divided as follows:

Landon	26 states
Roosevelt	9 states
Tied—Nebraska	1 state
Total	36 states

Sharp Landon Increase

In presenting these totals, at the end of the second week of state by state tabulations, there is recorded the sharpest variation in leading candidate gain ever recorded in similar nationwide balloting. Last week's tabulation, state by state, was 74,703 votes; this week, 137,544 votes for a total of 211,247 votes.

The Times is cooperating in this nationwide poll and offers its readers the opportunity to cast a ballot for their Presidential choice for the next four years. It is an opportunity for all voters here to show their fellow voters in other states who we here in Floyd county intend to vote for at the national election polls in November.

All legal voters are invited to clip the Presidential straw-vote ballot which will be found on page 8 of this issue of The Floyd County Times; to vote it as they wish, then mail or bring the ballot to The Times office. The local vote in this Presidential balloting is tabulated and announced here weekly, then the ballots are sent on to New York,

LANCER BABY PASSES

James, six months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smith, of Lancer, near here, died Friday, September 4, a victim of pneumonia.

Surviving the little victim is the father and mother, also two brothers and three sisters.

Funeral rites were conducted in the Smith home by the Rev. Isaac Stratton, assisted by Rev. Harmon, of Banner, and Rev. C. F. Conn, of Lancer, and burial was made on Sugar Leaf Creek.

In Maryland it is illegal for a woman to rifle her husband's pockets while he is asleep.

WOMAN'S CLUB ENDORSES PRINCIPLES OF BIRTH CONTROL LEGISLATION

At the regular meeting of the Woman's Club last Thursday night at the home of Mrs. E. P. Arnold, a most instructive and convincing paper, "Why the United States Needs Birth Control Legislation," by Mrs. J. D. Mayo, district chairman, and a discussion following by the newly elected president, Miss Ella Noel White, the club voted unanimously approving the principles of birth-control legislation and pledging themselves to work for the bill before the next legislature. Mrs. Mayo explained that, by the passage of this bill it will be lawful for clinics to be conducted whereby indigent mothers will be taught how to plan their families according to their means and their physical strength. This in turn would bring down the infant and maternal death rate and tend toward a much stronger and better race of people for the United States.

Mrs. W. P. Mayo, newly elected vice-president of the K.F.W.C., and state chairman of art, in charge of the program, gave her plans for work this year. Mrs. Mayo is eager to make Kentucky art conscious by exhibiting works of local artists, by reporting purchases of art and by visiting art museums.

Mrs. E. P. Hill, past president of the club, gave a very fitting pep talk, urging each member to support the efforts of the club president and make the burden an easier one for the already very busy president.

Standing committees for the year were announced, also a committee to oversee the transportation of crippled children to the clinic to be held in October in Paintsville. Each year the club assists in this work, Miss Ella Noel White being county chairman.

Another committee was appointed to appear before the city council asking that an officer be stationed at the intersection of Court street and the Mayo Trail to assist the little school children in crossing the street during the morning, noon and evening hours.

Delicious refreshments were served to about 25 members and guests. Mrs. F. P. Hill, Mrs. Bascom Clark, Mrs. J. R. Hurt and Miss Ella Noel White acting as hostesses with Mrs. Arnold.

FORMER UNION SOLDIER SAYS HE IS REPUBLICAN—AGE GIVEN AS 102

An echo of the August primary was sounded in the office of the Magoffin county clerk this week when it was found, while going over the registration cards, that probably the oldest man in Kentucky had registered in Bloomington precinct.

James Whitt, giving his postoffice address as Womble and his age as 102 years, gave his party affiliation as Republican. Mr. Whitt was a voter before the Civil War, before the two parties of Democrats and Republicans as they now stand had come into existence. He probably voted for Lincoln and for Grant. He has been a farmer all his life, with the exception of the period he served in the Union Army during the Civil War. He was a member of Company G, 24th Regiment, Kentucky Infantry, under Capt. Hedge and Col. Lewis B. Grigsby, and was one of the Union soldiers who under General Garfield drove the Confederates out of the Cumberland and the Big Sandy valley. In 1935, he informed a reporter of the Ashland Independent, that he had never asked for nor received a pension from the government.

Mr. Whitt, in May of 1935, was claimed by Morgan county as its oldest citizen, and was said to have lived near West Liberty for 83 years. He is now making his home with his son, Tom Whitt, of Whann's, Sellersville Independent.

Blackcats Sked Tough For 9 Veterans Back

With the return of nine lettermen from last year's squad, including Fitzpatrick, Archer, Mayo, Cline, Meadows and other outstanding performers, Coach Greenwell has a squad of 35 men out for football practice.

The average line weight will be 160 pounds, while the backs will be "even-keel" at 150 pounds. According to Coach Greenwell a new shift—a modification of the Warner system—will be employed in the grid-iron campaigns of the wily Blackcats.

The boys will cavort upon the fields where pigskin artistry and ball-toting endeavors are the tops in "bran-spank" shiny new uniforms.

The 'Cats will follow the rule of selecting a captain before each game. The coach will have to depend on Mayo for leadership and quarterbacking responsibilities. Meadows, all-conference tackle last year, is coming back to make a strong bid for all-state.

Below is the re-game schedule as near as we can get it:

Eat a Sandwich at 4

LOOK at that muscle! Nothing beats a 4 o'clock sandwich and a glass of milk to help build husky, healthy bodies . . . and sandwiches are so easy to make. All you need is a loaf of bread with butter, and cold meat, cheese, peanut butter, jams, or other spreads. Bread supplies needed food-energy. With a glass of milk, bread helps children do their best work in school. Let your children eat a 4 o'clock lunch—and guard against afternoon fatigue yourself by joining them in eating a sandwich with a glass of milk at 4.

It is thrifty to serve bread, rolls and other baked wheat flour products of all kinds, because you get so much for your money.

THE LIVERY STABLE

However much a garage may mean today, it lacks some of the romance that used to attach to the livery stable. To begin with, a livery stable was a sort of symbol of the good-sized town; in many counties there would be one at the county seat and nowhere else. It was a great meeting place for the horses and vehicles from all over the county, and, incidentally, for their owners. Men coming to town to attend county court, or to bring a load of wheat or tobacco to market, or to attend a political rally left their horses and their vehicles at the livery stable and then attended to their business. It was a bit aristocratic to do this, for the less well-to-do merely parked their vehicles on some vacant lot and came back to the wagon and ate their lunch after feeding the stock. But to put your stock into the livery stable did so shamefacedly.

And what rows of buggies and wagons and surries used to be lined up at the livery stable! Many times it was necessary to number them, so there would be no mistake about getting the right ones for their owners. Again I make an exception, for some livery stables allowed the owner to hitch his horse for a time and rarely find two or three bearded men the provender himself. There was no way of knowing whether your horse had paid for your horse's dinner or not, unless you tied a tell-tale bundle of fodder or oats on town.

your buggy as you left home. Corn, you know, can easily be hidden beneath the seat of the buggy.

All this talk about a livery stable is from one angle; there was another one even more famous. "Drummers" drove "double" rigs from the livery stables, and if they were exceptional, they had a driver, either black or white. To see a livery rig coming made all the farm hands stop work as if to pay courtesy to one who was rich enough to afford such a conveyance. On special occasions, when visitors had come from a long way off, we would have people come to our house driving actual horses from the livery stable, sometimes with all sorts of paraphernalia, like horse blankets or even horse hats.

The livery stable was the official loading place for all kinds of people. Men of the town who had no job or needed none congregated there to spin yarns and play checkers, seem-ly to be found. News-mongers and restaurant keepers knew this and went, so that you could find in fresh supplies of beefsteak hear of a thing probably first of all and sausage, delicacies in the county in the summer. However, it was about a quarter of a century ago the livery stable began to lose prestige, for automobiles by that time had begun to increase in number. The lazy, easy-going days vanished, for nobody wants his garage to be a mere loading place. As cars have increased, the horse has come to occupy less and less prominence. Those who own horses contrive in some way to get to town without driving them. In just a few places there is left what was once a great institution, with a few rickety buggies and a few farm wagons lined up on the street in front of it and with a dozen or so horses inside, bravely trying to eat their fodder and forget the prominence they once had. And rarely you find two or three bearded men in front who are passing out the same yarns they made famous when the court brought hundreds of horses and buggies to tale bundle of fodder or oats on town.

Five to Four Decisions

How do votes in Presidential Elections compare with 5 to 4 decisions of the Supreme Court?

Since 1824 no President has received as much as a 5 to 3 proportion of the popular vote. Seven received slightly more than and all the rest received less than 5 to 4 majorities of the popular vote.

Presidents Van Buren, William H. Harrison, Pierce, Lincoln (twice), Grant (in 1868), McKinley (twice), Taft and Coolidge were elected by popular votes of less than 5 to 4 majorities.

Presidents John Quincy Adams, Polk, Taylor, Buchanan, Hayes, Garfield, Cleveland (twice), Benjamin Harrison and Wilson (twice) not only had less than 5 to 4 but less than 4 to 4 proportions of the popular vote.

Presidents Jefferson (in 1800) and Adams (in 1824) each had less than a majority of the electoral votes and were elected by the House of Representatives (as our Constitution provides in such emergencies).

Over half our Presidential Elections (22 out of 37) have been deecided by less than 5 to 4 majorities, and less than one-sixth (only 10 out of 65) of the decisions of the Supreme Court declaring acts unconstitutional have been by 5 to 4 majorities.

Our government (with a few exceptions cited in the Constitution itself) is based on majority rule. This applies not only to Supreme Court decisions but also to Presidential Elections.

PLAYERS! LEARN WITH THE AMERICAN BOY

Boys and young men who want to improve their crawl stroke, their tennis backhand, or their ball carrying, can enlist the aid of the nation's foremost coaches and players by subscribing to THE AMERICAN BOY magazine and following the sports interviews and fiction stories that appear each month.

For the coming year staff writers have gone to two of the greatest football teams in the country—Minnesota and Southern Methodist—for first hand tips on strategy, blocking, ball carrying, passing and the fine points of line play. They have written the story of Bobbie Wilson, All-American halfback.

They have interviewed famous track coaches like Bernie Moore and Bob Simpson. Have gone to the University of Oklahoma to learn how college champions wrestle, to Notre Dame for the story of the building of a great basketball team. They have sought out famous baseball players, swimmers, tennis champions and All-American backs, to get their story of how to play the game.

AMERICAN BOY fiction is jammed with instructive background details telling how to play a better game. And the rest of the magazine is jammed with adventure, exploration, vocational help and articles vital to boys.

Ohio State University's track head, coach of the famous sprinter and low hurdler, Jesse Owens, and himself a former hurdlng star, first learned to hurdle from articles in THE AMERICAN BOY. "I used to cut out hurdlng pictures and duplicate them in front of a mirror. Then on the track I'd follow that form."

Today thousands of future champions are just as eagerly following THE AMERICAN BOY. Send your subscription to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7434 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. HOW ONE VET SPENT HIS BONUS

Ephrata, Penna.—The federal government knows what John Rausser, disabled World War veteran, did with his bonus money, because he sent in a full list of his expenditures, even to the cancelled checks.

Aside from a pair of pants and some shirts and Sox he bought for himself, Mr. Rausser spent the money for his wife and five children, and paid about 5,300 in overdue bills.

He bought his winter's supply of coal for $30.40 and added the notation: "That worry is off my mind."

His daughter, Bertha, got a hair wave, $3; his boy, Sammy, got a wagon, $7, and another boy, John, got a $12 bicycle, and Susie, another daughter, Susie, bought the guitar she wanted for $4.90.

There were teeth for Mrs. Rausser and some other things she needed, furniture, and they bought some "more peepies" for their hen coop. "I gave $5 to our church," he noted. "It was good to me."

Seven dollars went for my "wife's aunt's bills," and a photographer was paid for a family picture the veteran wanted so long.

"The playthings I bought for my kids I don't regret," he wrote. "It may never happen again that I can buy them presents, and I feel sure you don't blame me."

H. L. Grossman, manager of the Philadelphia office of the Veterans Bureau, forwarded the report to Washington and said he used it as evidence that the "veterans are dependable adults who know what it is all about."

Mr. Rausser receives $30 a month for disability; his wife earns between $8 and $9 in a garment factory.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

Cereals come to us in many forms, which means we need never tire of them. They are being used more and more because of their source of energy. They also contain the important vitamin B which promotes growth. The main service of cereals will always be breakfast, but there are many ways of combining them with other foods for the later meals of the day.

Wheat Cereal Au Gratin
2 cups cooked wheat cereal.
1-2 cup grated cheese.
1 can tomato soup.
It is best to use the cereal while it is still warm. It should be cooked and salted according to the directions on the package.

Place 1 cup cooked cereal in a baking dish. Cover with 1-2 of the tomato soup and sprinkle with 1-2 of the grated cheese. Add the rest of the cereal. Cover with remaining soup and cheese. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes in an oven 350 degrees.

Grapenut Waffles
2 cups pastry flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder.

1-2 teaspoon salt.
1-4 cups milk.
1-3 cup melted fat.
2 eggs.
1-4 cup grapenuts.
Sift and measure the flour, add dry ingredients and sift again. Beat egg yolks and add the milk. Stir liquid ingredients into the dry ones, add melted fat. Hold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and grapenuts just before baking. Bake in hot waffle iron for 2 or 3 minutes.

2 cups uncooked oatmeal.
1-4 cup sugar.
1 teaspoon soda.
1 cup flour.
11-2 cups sour milk.
1 teaspoon salt.
2 eggs well beaten.
2 tablespoons melted fat.
Soak the oatmeal for several hours in the sour milk. Sift together the flour, soda and salt and add to the oatmeal mixture. Add the sugar, melted shortening and well-beaten eggs. Stir just enough to moisten the dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tins and bake in an oven 400 degrees.

GUNLOCK RANCH

by Frank H. Spearman

Copyright Frank H. Spearman
WNU Service

SYNOPSIS

Sleepy Cat, desert town of the Southwest, is celebrating the Fourth of July. Jane Van Tassel, beautiful daughter of Gus Van Tassel, hated owner of Gunlock ranch, has arrived from the East for the first time. She watches the Frontier Day celebration in company with Doctor Carpy, crusty, tender-hearted friend of the community. Henry Sawdy of the Circle Dot ranch, tricked in a fake horse race the day before by Dave McCrossen, foreman at Gunlock, plans revenge. He enters Bill Denison, a handsome young Texas wrangler, in the rodeo which McCrossen is favored to win, and lays heavy bets on him. Unknown to the crowd, Denison is a champion horseman. McCrossen and the young stranger tie in the various events. Denison then drops a cigarette carelessly. Racing down the track full tilt, he picks up the cigarette. The verdict goes to Denison when McCrossen refuses to attempt the stunt. Entreated by the crowd, Denison agrees to perform another trick. Jane Van Tassel is asked for her bracelet and throws it on the track. Just as Denison rises to pick it up a yell from Barney Rebstock, a McCrossen henchman, scares the pony, nearly costing the rider his life. Gun play is prevented by the intervention of Doctor Carpy. Back on Gunlock ranch, after a year's absence, Chicago, because of her father's illness, Jane gets lost riding in the hills and meets Denison, now a neighbor, who guides her home. Not knowing her identity, he speaks bitterly of Van Tassel. She tells McCrossen who brought her home and he denounces Denison as a cattle thief. Later she asks Doctor Carpy why her father is unpopular and he tells her it is because of Van Tassel's ruthless and unscrupulous character. McCrossen tries to woo Jane, but is sharply rebuffed. Once again she loses her way in the hills and meets Denison. On impulse she gives him her bracelet for guiding her home. Their interest in each other growing, she reveals her identity to him. Jane is distressed to learn from Carpy that her father had wronged Denison. The Texan had worked at Gunlock as foreman and been promised a share in the profits. When he quit, Van Tassel reneged. In reprisal Denison has been running cattle off Gunlock ranch. Shamed and humiliated, Jane avoids Denison, but longs to see him. When at length they meet, he confesses his love.

house. She was roused from her thoughts by the approaching clatter of galloping hoofs. Raising herself to support her head on her elbow, she listened. The clatter came nearer, the galloping faster. In a moment she heard a man pull his horse sharply up and spring from the saddle under her window. "Miss Jane!" he called. "Wake up, please!"

She knew the voice. "I'm awake, Bull. What is it?"
"The boys are ridin' in behind me."
"All of them?"
"Everybody. They'll be here inside twenty minutes."
"What time is it, Bull?"
"From the moon, about two o'clock. The boys'll want somethin' to eat. They're ridin' right out again. I'll call Quong."
"What's the matter, Bull—what are they riding out again for?"
"The fire has crossed the river."

CHAPTER VI

Bull Page, the messenger of alarm, turned in with Quong and Jane to make ready a hasty supper for the hungry, weary men.

McCrossen was in command of the fire fighters and, at the head of the table, looked his part. As he rose from the supper table, his eyes were never brighter as he walked, smoky and covered with the marks of the day's hard fight, but smiling and fresh, over to where Jane was standing.

While Jane asked questions, McCrossen lighted a cigarette. "Not a bit of danger, Jane, to Gunlock—not while I can get out on the fire line, anyway. I've fought these infernal blazes all my life, and I don't figure this one's goin' to beat me. The only thing that worries me, Jane, is to think of your beln' here alone at home while we're fire-fightin'."

"Of course, I can't help some worry now, with the ranch threatened," she returned thoughtfully.

"Jane," he said impressively, "you needn't worry. I like to fight for a girl like you. While I'm able to raise an arm, Jane, I'll be out there thinkin' of you." His hands closed firmly on her shoulders.

She shrugged them and edged uneasily away. "Saddles, boys!" shouted McCrossen in his rich, hearty voice. "Look alive, there, everybody! Come over to where my horse is, Jane. I want you to say good-bye to us! Give the boys a word of cheer."

"Where are you going?" she asked.
"Over the Divide. I want to do some backfirin' north of the pastures. Come along, girl," he insisted, taking her arm firmly.

All at once he caught her in a vise-like grip of his arms and kissed her twice before she could escape. She slapped him indignantly and pushed him violently away.

McCrossen laughed. "Slap me again, Jane; that was worth a string of slaps, girl. But why not take a little practice? You'd get to like it, same as I do!"

Toward the night of the second day, the fire crew struggled back to the ranch house, McCrossen at their head. The store of beer prudently laid in from town was rapidly depleted—circumstances seeming to forbid the restrictions that Jane usually imposed.

Next morning, the sun rose hot and in an atmosphere without a breath of wind. Faces were brighter.

But after breakfast, the mail carrier, Ignace, from the Reservation, on his way to town, brought disquieting news. A fire had broken out in the timber along the eastern boundary, and every buck had been called out to fight it. McCrossen listened carefully. "Which way was the wind, Ignace, when you left?"

"From the east."
"Hell's bells," exclaimed McCrossen, "just where we don't want it." He questioned the carrier closely. The big ranch was now threatened on the southeast, and McCrossen started with the freshest of his men for the new danger point.

In the afternoon Jane rode into town to order some supplies sent out. While she was in Rubido's store, a white man from the Reservation came in. The clerk who waited on him asked him about the fires down his way.

"Not so good," said the man. "A new one broke out this morning between the Reservation timber and Bill Denison's ranch. Bill's in getting men together now."

Jane, in another aisle and unobserved, walked quietly outdoors and down the street for McAlpin's livery barn.

"Mose," she said to the hostler on duty, "is Bill Denison in town?"
"He is. His horse, Music, is here—Bill rode in pretty fast, an' I been rubbin' Music down. Bill says—"

"Mose, I want to see Bill. Go up the street and see if you can find him. Tell him I want to see him and I'll be up at the hotel."

Half an hour later Jane, sitting with the door open in Doctor Carpy's office, off the hotel lobby, heard footsteps approaching and, turning, saw Denison. She rose quickly, extended her hand, took his without a greeting, and spoke rapidly and nervously. "I heard you were in town," she said, "and that you were in danger at the ranch—I suppose, for that matter, we all are. But they said you were taking out men, and I wanted to see you, Bill, and ask what we could do to help. You won't take that amiss, I'm sure."

"How could I take anything amiss from you?"

"In a common danger," she said, flushing in some confusion and interrupting him to hide it, "we ought to help one another in the hills. What is there I can do? What is the situation, Bill?"

"Well, I suppose I might say, it's like the situation of a man with a loaded pistol pointed at his head," he answered. "I'm all right as long as the gun doesn't go off. The wind's got its finger on the trigger, and you know how these hill winds are—blamed uncertain when they get going—"

"But what can we do at the ranch to help make you safe? Is there anything, Bill? Anything to help?"

Both were conscious of slight strain. Denison shuffled awkwardly. "Why, Miss Jane—"

"Since when Miss Jane?" she asked with asperity. "I didn't know—" he began.

"Neither did I know, Bill. Now answer my question. If you're in danger, tell me what I can do."

"Have the boys keep a close eye on the two Reservation fires. If either of 'em get around Gunlock Knob, it'll be kind of bad for both ranches."

"Yes, but, Bill, how am I to know when or whether they do get around the Knob? How am I going to know whether you yourself need help?" She was beginning to realize that it was impossible to get anything but evasive generalities out of him. "Tell me this: If you need help from us, will you send me word? Right away?"

He thought for a moment. "I'll send word over to you at the ranch house, Jane."

She could not escape the significance of his tone in uttering her name. But she kept her balance and spoke steadily:
"Keep your promise, Bill; I shall be waiting for the word when it comes." Along the hill trail as Jane rode home the air was heavy with smoke drifting slowly up from the south. It was laden with the pungent smell of brush fire and acrid with the creosote of burned slashings from cut-over lands on the Reservation.

Reaching home, she was not surprised to find everything there abnormally quiet. McCrossen, with most of the men, was up in the hills. The sole exception to the general atmospheric gloom was Quong. Nothing had yet daunted the busy China boy.

When Jane dressed at daybreak and looked out, the wind had shifted and was blowing fresh from the south.

McCrossen and his men were up betimes. He reported to Jane that they had checked the fire up toward the pass. He was in good spirits. Jane went to her breakfast feeling reassured. She was finishing her coffee when Quong stuck his head through the kitchen door into the dining room and said: "Man to see!"

Jane walked to the front door and found a man on horseback.

"What can I do for you?"

"I've just come from Bill Denison's. He says if you can spare a dozen men quick, he can, maybe, save his ranch buildings."

"Tell him I'll do everything I can to get them over right away. What's your name?"

"Scott, ma'am."

Jane ran over to the corral, where McCrossen was closing the wire gate. "Bill Denison has sent a messenger over—"

"I saw him," interjected McCrossen curtly.

"—asking for help," Jane went on rapidly. "If we can get a dozen men over to him quick, he can save his ranch buildings—"

"A lot of gull, ain't it, Bill Denison lookin' to Gunlock for help?"

"No matter what differences there have been," insisted Jane firmly, "in the hills we're all going to stand together in a time like this. Get the men together, Dave, and get over quick and do what you can."

McCrossen, drawing from his pocket a plug of tobacco, bit off a chunk. "I don't approve of that."

"It's not a question of your approving, Dave. I want you to go. Right off; now!"

McCrossen was in no hurry. "Who's goin' to look after Gunlock if I go over to Bill Denison's?" he asked, regarding Jane sullenly.

Jane was nobody's fool on the danger of the situation.

"Dave," she exclaimed, impatiently, "you know the worst threat to us, with this wind, is from the south. If the Denison ranch burns we're in danger ourselves. Will you saddle up quick and get over there with the boys?" she demanded.

McCrossen made no move to go. "I'll tell you right now I've had a damned sight more experience in these forest fires than you have. And I say my place's right here!" He spoke loudly and angrily.

Jane grew white. "I want you to know I'm boss of this ranch. My father has told you so—and this order is going to be obeyed or I'll know why."

McCrossen faced her with as much animosity as he dared show. "Well, if you want to know one reason why your order won't be obeyed, just look at me—I'm a reason. I know where my place is when Gunlock's in danger," he thundered.

"Stop your talk!" exclaimed Jane. "Will you do as I tell you or not?"

"I will not."

"Then you're discharged as foreman of this ranch. Take your things and get off it by tomorrow morning."

"Like hell I will!"

Tennyson Hot-Headed

Thomas Hardy has commented dryly that "it is as risky to calculate people's way of living from their writings as their incomes from their way of living."

I heard in London, from a delightful old man named Macmurdo, who had been the intimate of the Brownings and other Victorian notables, of an incident in which the poet who wrote "kind hearts are more than coronets," threw the mustard pot at his children's tutor (Macmurdo's brother-in-law) one morning at breakfast, because the tutor, in the course of an abstract discussion, stood firmly by opinions in opposition to Tennyson's own.

"Simple faith" may be "more than Norman blood," but illustrations are legion that the man who said it was the quintessence of autocratic arrogance and undisciplined temper.

IMPROVEMENT OF RURAL SCHOOLS IS CONDUCTED IN ESTILL COUNTY

"One of the most interesting experiments in teacher improvement in the rural schools of Kentucky that has ever been attempted," according to Dr. W. S. Taylor, dean of the College of Education at the University of Kentucky, is being conducted in a model one-room school in Estill county, under the direction of Miss Ethelene Daniels, fifth grade teacher in the University of Kentucky elementary school. This teacher improvement program, of six weeks duration, is being given in a rural school at Ivory Hill, eight miles from Irvine, Model one-room schools in Estill county are Miss Daniels' goal.

The ambition and vision of Miss Mamie West Scott, county superintendent of Estill county, are responsible for the program now in progress at Ivory Hill, and it was last year, while Mrs. Scott was a student in the University College of Education, working toward her Master of Arts degree, that her plan was discussed and agreed upon, and Miss Daniels selected as the demonstration teacher for the project.

According to the plan, Miss Daniels was placed in a typical one-room school to demonstrate what could be done in such a situation. Mrs. Scott arranged to send the teachers in the county to spend a minimum of one week in the school, and approximately 37 children of the district, but when the school became so fascinating to the children, other children from other districts began to drift in and even now, though there are only 37 children of school age in the district, they have an average daily attendance of approximately 41.

When Miss Daniels went to Ivory Hill it was unattractive, and the grounds were unkempt, with the children's help and the aid of the Sunday School, which meets there, Miss Daniels raised a small sum of money for painting the interior of the building. Mrs. Scott supplemented the sum and the result was a completely redecorated building. Inexpensive sash curtains at the windows, a home-built bookcase, a place for hats and lunch baskets and coats and other home-like touches have made the interior of the building attractive and livable.

Each week Mrs. Scott has sent a new group of teachers to study the methods used by Miss Daniels. These teachers spend the entire day watching and observing and then after the children have gone home Miss Daniels spends an hour or two with the teachers talking through the problems of the day.

The University of Kentucky has also established a radio listening center at Ivory Hill which assists in the program work of the school.

"The program has tremendous possibilities in all of the counties of Kentucky," according to Dean Taylor, who has visited the school and who watched 16 teachers spending their time under Miss Daniels' tutelage.

The people of this community extend their sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Musie and family upon the death of their son, Marvin, who was killed recently in the mines. Marvin was one of our community's finest young men and one whom we all admired.

The NYA project which is sponsored by Mrs. M. A. Stanley, has been granted an extra time allotment which means an increase of four dollars per month for each youth. These boys and girls have entered into the work with great enthusiasm and many community improvements have been realized.

The matrimonial idea had been quite prevalent during the past few weeks, the result being the following nuptials:

Miss Ruth Baays, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Baays, and Mr. Otto Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Green.

Miss Virginia Harmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Harmon, and Mr. Wayne Music, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Music. Mrs. Music is a former student of Bonanza school.

Mrs. Lillie Spradlin and Mr. Alec Ratliff.

M. A. Stanley, who recently suffered a paralytic stroke, is improving nicely and is able to be out again.

Mrs. Lou Baldrige spent a part of last week visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ray Stephens, of Prestonsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hackworth and daughter, Janis, of Ivyton, spent the week-end with Mrs. Hackworth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spradlin.

Miss Naomi Spradlin, who is teaching on Mud Creek, spent the week-end with homefolks here.

Mrs. Henry Stephens, Jr., and sons, of Prestonsburg, were visiting relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Stanley were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Conley.

Tommie Hall, who is teaching on Mud Creek, spent the week-end with homefolks here.

Tom Hill, who is teaching at Needmore, also spent the week-end with homefolks.

Several persons from Bonanza attended the memorial meeting held at the Whitaker cemetery Sunday.

Miss Doreus Montgomery, Messrs. Bill Montgomery and Henry Lewis Helbrook, of Bonanza high school, spent the week-end with homefolks.

J. H. Conley, road overseer here, has been visiting relatives on Beaver Creek.

MRS. UNDERWOOD HONORED WITH MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Mrs. Sam Hale, Misses Ruth Crabtree, Bettie Adams and Bertha May Parsley were hostesses on Tuesday evening to a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Everett Sowards honoring Mrs. Raymond Underwood, nee Miss Ruth Hubbard, a bride of recent date. The Sowards home was beautifully decorated for the occasion, with a profusion of summer flowers. Mrs. Underwood was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. At the close of the evening cake, ice cream and punch were served to the following guests:

Mrs. Eva Price, Mrs. Ruth O'Neil, Mrs. M. J. Leete, Mr. Dove Vaughn, Mrs. Malcolm Harris, Miss Cynthia Bingham, Mrs. Vivian Harris, Mr. Winston Ford, Miss Frances Jones, Mr. H. B. ### SIMILAR NAMES MAKE NEWS

That there should be two men with similar given and surnames, exclusive of John Smith, is about one in a thousand, but that they should marry girls with similar given names is more than one in a million.

This remarkable coincidence was revealed when the filing of a divorce suit was published last week by The Enterprise. Mrs. Emily Fraley, of Heidelberg, filed suit against her husband, Price Fraley, who is now a resident of another state. Friends of Price Fraley, of Beattyville, who married Miss Emily Horton, have been sympathetic much to the charge of Mr. Fraley. Thus the one incident in a million where two men, unrelated, although of the same name, marry girls with similar names make the front page, and, perhaps, Ripley's "Believe it or not."—Beattyville Enterprise.

BOYD INFANT DIES

Irene Boyd, 10 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Boyd, of Allen, this county, passed away on Sunday, Sept. 6. Her death was due to intestinal and stomach trouble, according to word received here.
