EIGHT PRISONERS ESCAPE JAIL HERE THURSDAY MIDDAY

Fourth in Series of Escapes;
Twelve Others Foiled in
'French Leave' Taking

THREE RETURNED

Three of the escaping prisoners, their names given as Wilburn Ross, Arnold Patton and Harry Johnson, were apprehended near East Point after Glen Hyden, jail cook, had followed them afoot on a 12 mile jaunt through the hills. Hyden and an assistant had them cornered in Robinson's store when Mrs. B. L. Sturgill, who had spent the afternoon directing posses in pursuit to strategic points in an effort to return the fleeing men, arrived with Prestonsburg policemen Will A. Wills and W. A. Spradlin and they returned the captives to the Floyd county jail at 10:30 p. m. Thursday night.

Officers expressed belief that the others would be returned "very shortly."

Spectacular noon-day jail escape was effected here Thursday rendering a moment of confusion among about 15 or 20 visitors in and around the Floyd county jail as eight inmates of the bastille successfully made a break for freedom.

Jailer B. L. Sturgill, aged sick at the time of the escape, heard the noise, jumped out of bed, ran to the doorway and fastened the door, blocking the way for approximately a dozen or more who were on their way out. "The stairway was full of them, lined to the top," he said, in describing the scene that first greeted his eyes at the door.

Dick Allen, assistant jailer and a helper, Glen Hyden at the noon hour went into the jail to get pans used in feeding the inmates, in preparation for serving the prisoners their dinner. As Mr. Allen

TAYLOR-ALLEN

Of interest to their many friends in this section and Central Kentucky was the marriage of Miss Elmeta Taylor, of Paris, Ky. and Mr. George E. Allen, Lexington, which was solemnized at Lexington, Ky., Saturday March 27, in the presence of a few close friends and relatives.

Miss Taylor is the daughter of Mr. James E. Taylor, of Paris. She attended school in Paris and has recently completed a course in Nurses' Training at the Good Samaritan hospital, Lexington, where she is a ward supervisor.

Mr. Allen is the oldest son of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Allen, of Langley. He attended Pikeville and Centre Colleges, later studying engineering at the University of Lexington. He has been employed in Lexington for the past two years.

Miss Mary Eunice Green was the bride's only attendant. Mr. George Perry Snyder, former classmate and present business associate of the groom, was Mr. Allen's best man.

The Rev. J. S. Green performed the ceremony in the presence of the following

Helen Marie Frantz, Eunice, Mary Jo Frantz, George P. Snyder, F. Frantz, all Messrs. Ben Harold Zopp,

MRS. MARY PRATER, STEPHENS BRANCH RESIDENT, DIES WED.

Mrs. Mary Prater, 66 years old, well-liked and familiarly known as "Aunt Mary" to a host of friends, died at her home on the head of Stephens Branch Wednesday night. She was the widow of Ellis Prater, who preceded her in death 14 years ago.

"Aunt Mary" was a member of the Regular Baptist Church for a number of years. She was one of Floyd county's finest women.

The cause of her passing was not stated in the report received here.

Mrs. Prater was the mother of a number of children, it was stated, seven of whom survive her. They are: Mrs. Jim Click, Maytown; Mrs. Jim Hale, of Kiser; Mrs. Wallace Burchett and Mrs. Jake Click, of Alphoretta; J. W. Prater, of Hueysville; Ballard Prater, of Alphoretta, and Willard Prater of Risner.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home near Alphoretta at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon with the Rev. M. C. Wright, the Rev. Alex L. Allen and the Rev. Hag Ousley officiating. Burial will be made in the Stephens Branch cemetery near the home under the direction of E. P. Arnod.

A. J. E. SPRADLIN DISCOVERED DEAD IN BED SUNDAY

Funeral Services Tuesday for Popular Prestonsburg
Man

Andrew J. E. Spradlin, 31 years old, was discovered dead in bed at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alex L. Davidson on Riverside avenue here Esater Sunday afternoon at about 5 o'clock.

Although he had been in ill health and had recently suffered periods of severe illness, his passing was a distinct shock to his many friends who knew and liked him for his qualities of courteousness and generosity.

Mr. Spradlin, while an infant, was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Davidson. During the past autumn he was with his foster father at Bowling Green, Fla., and returned to Prestonsburg shortly before Christmas. While here for the past few months he had made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Davidson.

He was in his room listening to a radio and reading early Sunday morning when the members of the family retired. Due to his physical condition, it was explained, it was customary not to disturb him while he was resting during the day.

In the afternoon Mrs. Davidson went to the room to call him and received no response. Mr. Davidson then went to the bedside to arouse him and made the discovery.

It was authoritatively stated that he had been dead for some time.

A funeral service was held at the Davidson home Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock with Rev. A. T. Malmberg, Rev. H. F. King and Rev. Robert A. Potter officiating. The service was marked by a profusion of floral tributes.

Burial took place in the

FISCAL COURT IN SPECIAL SESSION

Request WPA Work on Turkey
Creek; To Construct
Bull Creek Bridge

The Floyd county fiscal court in a special session held here March 25, passed a resolution urging WPA officials to begin work on the Turkey Creek project and passed an order to appropriate money to construct a bridge across Bull Creek on the Prestonsburg to Dwale road. Also, the county attorney was directed to start condemnation proceedings in connection with procuring right-of-way for the Wilson Creek road.

In regards to the Turkey Creek road, that was brought to the attention of the court by a number of citizens from that section, the resolution stated that the road would open up a rich farming section and would afford the only detour during road construction on Route No. 80 up Right Beaver.

The Turkey Creek road begins at a point near Maytown, extends to the head of the creek, over the hill and down Stone Coal hollow meeting Route 80 at a point near Garrett. The right-of-way was donated by the farmers.

It is understood that a WPA project has been approved for some time covering the above described road. A reliable source gave an authoritative estimate, setting the cost of the Bull Creek bridge at about $1,500.

A few right-of-way claims were ordered to be allowed at the special session.

Library Donated To Superintendent's Office

A very welcome addition to the county superintendent's library, for use in the office, was received Wednesday from Mrs. Lloyd, of the Caney Creek Community Center.

It is a 20-volume, Young Folks' Library, and is illustrated throughout. It is a veritable encyclopedia of knowledge in historical and educational value, and is very much appreciated.

W. J. Reynolds was a business visitor in Prestonsburg Thursday.

Reasons Cited For School Non-Attendance In Report

The prime cause of non-attendance of school children in Floyd county cases is the parents' lack of interest, the next outstanding reason is poverty of the family, and the third reason given is the students' inaccessibility to the school and the fourth cause of absence is sickness, according to a report from the county truant officers, Leonard Martin and S. A. Combs.

During the past school term, Mr. Combs stated, charges were preferred against about 75 parents for violations of the school laws. Trials were obtained for 60 and 59 of that number were convicted.

A visit to the office of Mr. Martin, just across the hall from the county superintendent's office in the Odd Fellows building on Main street found Martin, Combs and two NYA clerical helpers busily engaged in a school alphabetical problem—that of arranging a census and a pre-school census.

This is preparatory to a complete report, to be sent to the state headquarters in

350 LEGIONNAIRES HEAR LEGION HEAD

National Commander Harry
W. Colmery at Jenkins
Rally 'Oh Wednesday

For the first time an American Legion national commander has ever visited Eastern Kentucky south of Ashland, Harry F. Colmery, present national head, was greeted at Jenkins Wednesday, March 31, by over 350 legionnaires of area "C."

The Eastern Kentucky legion members and the state officers heard Colmery outline the Legion's program of organization in an address at 7 o'clock in the Jenkins high school auditorium. His speech came as a climax to the day's activities that began in the afternoon with a parade along Main street.

An afternoon session of welcome was held in the Jenkins theatre.

High points of the Legion's program includes support of a strong national defense policy, help for the disabled, universal service in time of war and Americanization. Stating that membership was at the highest point in history for this time of the year, he said that it was still increasing rapidly.

Following the banquet, Mr. Colmery left at 10 o'clock for Washington. The conference military ball was held from 10 p. m. until 2 a. m., in the Masonic hall.

Quite a number of Legionnaires from Floyd post No. 129 at Prestonsburg attended the Jenkins meet.

Wayland Debaters To Go
To Lexington Meet, April 7

Taking second place to Paintsville, a team beaten twice previously during the regular schedule, the Wayland debaters will carry the colors of Floyd county to the state debating tournament at Lexington April 7-10. The position of runner-up was allotted to Wayland after a defeat in the district tourney, recently, at Salyersville at the hands of the Paintsville team.

The Wayland team deserves plenty of commendation for an enviable record this year with only four defeats in 23 matches.

KENTUCKY RESIDENTS HONORED BY CHAPTER

Visitors From Prestonsburg and Paducah Introduced

Kentucky day was observed by Everglades Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, on Monday in Old Fort Dallas, when the following served as hostesses: Mrs. David D. Koger, Mrs. Hewett Brown, Mrs. John Lee and Mrs. Grover L. Howard. Kentuckians introduced included Mrs. Walter S. Harkins, Mrs. French Combs, Mrs. Martin Leete, all of Prestonsburg, and Miss Emily Morrow of Paducah.

Miss Marita Vann sang and Mrs. Martha W. Green gave an original poem, "Kentucky," written by Mrs. Koger. Miss Emily Goldsmith presented 4-H club girls in a program, and June Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilson, presented dance numbers.

Reports on the state conference in Winter Haven, Fla., were given by Mrs. Charles H. Anderson, Mrs. Herbert Garvin, Mrs. William D. Bordeaux and Mrs. Edward Comer. Mrs. Guy V. Williams, state regent, has been made honorary state regent and president of the state Officers club. Mrs. Howard, state corresponding secretary, has been elected to membership in the same club. Mrs. Williams presided at the tea urn.

The above clipping was taken from a Miami, Fla., newspaper and will be of interest to friends in this section.

DISTRICT OFFICE BEING CONSIDERED FOR PRESTONSBURG

Floyd Fiscal Court Makes Bid for Aged Assistance
Quarters

Due to the fact that the Division of Old Age Assistance of the State Department of Welfare at Frankfort is contemplating the establishment of a district office for Eastern Kentucky, it was announced this week, the Floyd fiscal court recently adopted a resolution as an inducement to the state headquarters to locate the office in Prestonsburg.

In the resolution the court offers to contribute adequate office space with heat, light and local telephone service without cost to the department or any of its employes.

The fiscal court desires the office to be situated, the resolution states, within the boundaries of Floyd county and it further said that Prestonsburg appeared to be the most near the center of the proposed district.

H. T. Hill, of the local aged assistance county office, said this week it was his understanding that the state office was so burdened at present with extra work which might be handled in district offices the proposed "branching out" and establishment of a district office here and at other strategic points in the state would be of great help in the routine of taking care of the applicants more rapidly.

Establishment of a district office here would mean the employment of an office force in addition to the field workers now employed, it is understood.

The resolution to Floyd county is now under consideration in Frankfort.

460,000 MINERS AWAIT AGREEMENT IN COAL PARLEY

Largest Strike Might Be
Shortest; Prediction Pending
Outcome

DEMANDS LISTED

"We ain't striking, we haven't got a contract and just ain't got nothing to work for," a miner standing on the streets of Prestonsburg Friday morning bluntly explained his position while his "higher-ups" and the coal operators are in conference in an attempt to come to an agreement on a new contract.

According to latest reports the miners' demands now are given as follows: An increase of 50 cents on the basic daily wage, $5.50 in the north and $5.10 in the south under the old contract.

An increase of 70 cents for operators of loading machines and an increase of 10 per cent for yardage and removal of rock, etc.

Pay equivalent to time and one-half for all overtime.

The old agreement expired at midnight March 31 and, technically, the strike started immediately after its expiration pending settlement of negotiations, but on April 1 the miners were having a holiday celebrating the birth of the "eight-hour" day in 1898.

Friday finds over 460,000 United Mine Workers in soft coal fields idle, but opinions of some operators are in this field and workers alike were to the effect that an agreement would probably be reached in time for the miners to return to work Monday morning. If this agreement is realized, the present strike will not only be the most far-flung the nation has ever known but will, also, be the shortest strike the industry has ever known.

It is estimated that approximately 17,000 men were not working in the southeastern part of Kentucky. Between 5,000 and 6,000 of that number is said to be the Floyd county territory, with the remainder in the adjacent territory almost 60,000 are idle in the state.

GREEN M. CLARK DIES MARCH 26

Green Mcquay Clark, age 24 years, died Friday, March 26, at the Pikeville hospital from an injury which he received while working at Inland Steel Co. at Wright. He was taken day to the hospital and operation was performed, removing one of his legs in an effort to save his life. He was one of Floyd county's finest young men. He was the son of John Clark and the late Mrs. Maude Clark, of Allen and a grandson of Lindsey and Rebecca Mayo Clark, deceased. Surviving him are his father, John Clark, two brothers, Walter of Allen, and Ernest of Galion, O.; three sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Etsbig, of Harold, this county, Mrs. Lula Hall of Wheelwright, and Mrs. Fannie Crisp, of Allen.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 o'clock Sunday, March 28 at the Methodist Church at Allen, with Rev. Isaac Stratton, of Banner, and Rev. Payne, of Martin, in charge. Burial was made in the Mayo cemetery near Allen.

Mrs. Joe Ward, of Martin, spent Wednesday in Prestonsburg visiting with friends.

Sunday School Lesson

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON GOD THE CREATOR

International Sunday School
Lesson for April 4, 1937

Golden Text: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth."—Genesis 1:1.

Our lessons for the second quarter of this year are taken from the book of Genesis, which means literally the Book of Beginning. The name may be taken to mean "the beginning of the world and also the beginning of the recorded word of God, the Bible.

There are three great thoughts in the first chapter of Genesis, which we would all do well to ponder. The first of these is stated in the first verse of the chapter, "In the beginning," before anything was, there was a creator, "God," who "created the heavens and the earth."

The second thought is that God had a purpose in creating the world; and, third, that the crowning act in all creation was man, made in the "image of God."

It is true that the story of creation, as contained in Genesis, has caused much argument. The critics ignore entirely the spirit and purpose of the ritual and arbitrarily pick upon this passage or that, interpreting liberally, in an effort to disprove its assertions. However, there is no occasion for believers to be worried about this attack.

The Book of Genesis was not intended as a scientific document; it was written in spiritual terms and for religious purposes. In attempting to write the record of creation in a few words is like reducing the map of a continent into a single square inch.

The time of creation should prove no problem. Some authorities place the time at about 6,000 years ago, or in the year 4004 B. C. However, the Bible gives no time but states "in the beginning" God created our earth and science places that beginning at an almost inconceivably distant period.

Very early in the book, the supreme fact of an active Creator is set forth, whose intelligence and planning was responsible for the world in which we live. No thoughtful student, contemplating the universe today, can honestly believe that it was the product of mere chance. The order and regularity of creation denies an origin governed entirely by accident. As well might the maker of a watch, a typewriter, or other intricate modern machine, place the scattered parts in a box and shake them, with the expectation that they would assemble themselves properly, as to believe that the world was a mass, flung into space, to create itself.

The wonders of astronomy, or of chemistry, or of any other phase of creation revealed to the intelligent application of the human mind, all point to an intelligent, beneficent and planning intelligence in their creator. Dr. J. Patterson-Smith says, "The Bible says that God created the heavens and the earth and then created man. Exactly what the scientist says, but he loves to find out how God did it. And God is helping him to find out. That is all. The Bible does not conflict with him. He sees that creation would be just as divine and miraculous if it were slow and gradual. The Bible story with marvelous—surely with inspired—reserve, lays down no theory to hamper scientific study. Science can never have any quarrel with its simple pronouncement: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth."

The supreme act of creation was God's making of man, in his own image. Therefore man has: (1) an immortal soul; (2) an intelligent mind; (3) a conscience; (4) an individualistic personality; (5) a will of his own; (6) an idea of moral righteousness; and (7) the capacity to love. Does the realization that you and I are created in the likeness of God mean anything to us? Of course, since God has no physical image, man's likeness to him lies in his intellectual, moral and religious powers and capacities, making possible the revelation of God to man and the communion of man with God.

So, we find man supreme in the world today, able to reclaim deserts and affect the physical geography of the globe. He dominates all other animals and uses the vegetable world to contribute to his own needs and happiness. In many instances he has brought the forces of nature under his control. He is master of all, and yet, alas, so often is not master of himself. It might be well for us, in connection with this lesson, to remember that: "What we are is God's gift to us; what we make of ourselves is our gift to God."

IN THE MATTER OF SUBMITTING BIDS FOR THE OFFICE OF COUNTY TREASURER OF FLOYD COUNTY.

Whom It May Concern: This is to certify that pursuant to section 929 Carroll's Kentucky Statutes, 1930 addition, the Fiscal Court of Floyd County, will at its regular April term to be held on April 1937, elect a County Treasurer for Floyd County, Kentucky for a period of four years from and after said date. Said Court will convene at the County Court Room at the Court House, in the City of Prestonsburg, Floyd County, Kentucky, on said date and any person or persons interested in submitting a bid for the office of County Treasurer of Floyd County, Kentucky or any person desiring to be elected to said office, shall on or before the date above set out, to wit the hour of 9:00 A. SAFETY ON THE HIGHWAY

The following article was written by Miss Sue Martha Ransdell, high school student during the recent Safety campaign. This article won a first prize.

Safety on the Highway
A subject of vital importance to all of us is the subject of "Safety On the Highway." It is imperative then that we learn something of its meaning.

In the year 1934, there were 101,000 persons killed in accidents, of some form; 320,000 persons were permanently disabled, and 9,350,000 were temporarily disabled, making a total number of 9,821,001 persons injured or killed in accidents in that single year. Of that number, 33 per cent were accidents caused by motor vehicles.

Accidents not only affect us from the standpoint of the number of lives lost, but they also affect us from an economic standpoint. On 1934 the total of expenses resulting from the loss of lives in automobile accidents, was $2,400,000,000. Total amount of property destroyed by automobile accidents was $800,000,000. Altogether this subject of "Safety on the Highway" is so vital and realistic that it presents many methods of arousing interest and gaining definite information. If we were to study the causes of automobile accidents most of them could have been prevented by a little care and thoughtfulness on the part of the motorist, pedestrian and parents. Therefore let us consider some few possible methods or rules that if carefully observed might reduce greatly this frightful rate of automobile accidents in our country today.

First, let us consider the operator of the automobile. The safe driver has been taught to operate an automobile properly. He knows the traffic rules and regulations and follows them. It is essential that he have good hearing, good sight and sound health. He is able to judge speed and distances and to react quickly to emergencies.

The wise owner of an automobile keeps the steering mechanism well oiled and checked often. In that he avoids risk of a locked steering wheel. He has his brakes tested and adjusted frequently. He keeps his headlights properly focused and carries extra bulbs. He replaces worn tires and tubes, never taking a chance on having a puncture or a "blow-out." He repairs gasoline leaks and short circuits immediately. Many lives have been lost and many automobiles destroyed in neglecting these important details.

The careful pedestrian obeys traffic police and traffic signals. He looks to the left and then to the right when crossing streets. He crosses streets only at intersections or at marked foot-works. He is alert and pays particular attention to turning vehicles. He leaves an automobile or other vehicle from the side opposite traffic. Perhaps if everyone who walks the public highway or streets knew these few simple rules we would not have had several fatal accidents to pedestrians in our community.

The thoughtful parent trains children to look to the left and then to the right when crossing streets. He teaches children to obey traffic rules and traffic signals. He teaches children to play in safe places—not in the streets. He teaches older children to be responsible for younger children. He, above all, sets a good safety example for children.

If everyone in the United States could become acquainted with these rules, I'm sure that our rate of accidents on the highway resulting from automobiles would greatly decrease. As the situation stands now, with the death toll from accidents in a year being greater than the deaths caused by the world war, the statement that "accidents are mankind's public enemy number one" is indeed true.

WILSON SLATED FOR U. S. NAVAL SERVICE
A communication from the naval recruiting station at Macon, Ga., states that Woodrow Wilson, of Auxier, this county has been ordered to report to the Navy Recruiting station at Louisville. After being enlisted, recruits sent to the U. S. Navy training station at Norfolk, Va., where they will undergo intensive training for three months. Upon completion of this training, they are then sent either to one of the various naval schools for further training or direct to sea on one of our many warships.

Women of the Stone Age Had Own Beauty Secrets
The ladies of Cleopatra's court took milk baths regularly. The idea wasn't as you may suspect, originated by more modern beauties. Neither did the sirens of the modern stage figure out for themselves that mascara makes lashes look longer, eyes more luminous. Women who lived hundreds of years ago didn't have fine, scientifically made mascara and eyelash dyes, but they did have burnt cork and wood, and they blackened their lashes and brows with these. states a writer in the New York World-Telegram.

It is said that women of American Lidian tribes smeared their lips with black paint for state occasions. Generally, however, they used the juice of wild berries to dye their lips bright red. Women of ancient Rome and Etruria had no tissue cream, but anointed their bodies and their hair with oil, painted lips cheeks with red berry juice. Before, women of the stone age washed bits of white rock and used their faces with the dust.

MANY AVENUES OF DEVELOPMENT

Residents of Prestonsburg are interested in its growth and development but most of us give little thought to the type of development that we encourage.

There are citizens interested in only one phase of growth, that measured by the dollar. They consider a town something to brag about when it gets more income and ignore practically all other phases of improvement that might be possible. A new industry is something to talk about but few other developments rate anything.

While every section should have a balance between its agriculture and industrial activity and the establishment of this ratio is important; there are factors in any part of the world that are vital to the successful growth and development of a city or county that are not measured in dollars. These relate to the cultural development of the people and, in the long run, they are the most important.

Contrary to the average idea the development of cultural matters does not require a great amount of money. There are hundreds of ways in which any citizen of Prestonsburg, for example, can contribute to the improvement of social and cultural levels here. All that is needed is the will to improve conditions and a desire to speed development. Many of these contributions relate to the life of children, whose rights are seldom seriously considered, even by thinking folks.

WHY YOU CAN'T BELIEVE ALL

One bright boy rises to remark that "you can't believe all that you see in the newspapers," and no newspaper man refutes the statement. Truth of the matter, most of the news in a newspaper is based on what some member of the vast public says, and the fact that people sometimes twist the truth, and fool newspaper men, explains the remark.

Another common remark that one hears is "I see where The Times says—" and the speaker will go on to narrate some news article that has been printed, never stopping to consider that a vast majority of the items that appear in print are simply reports of what others say or claim, which the newspaper presents to intelligent readers, leaving them to pass their own judgment.

LIGHT PRUNING FOR FRUIT TREES BEST

College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

The purpose of pruning young apple trees is to train them into desirable forms, consisting of well-placed branches strong enough to support large crops at maturity. The smallest amount of pruning that will accomplish this end is best, says A. J. Olney, head of the horticultural department of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. As there are two types of cuts, thinning, in which the entire branch is removed, and heading, in which only part of a branch is removed, the owner must decide which is best in each case. In the bearing tree, a light yearly pruning is desirable. The fruiting wood of old trees may be invigorated by moderate thinning and heading back.

(To the peach tree, pruning is more important than to the apple tree. If they are neglected during their first years they become very thick, with too many scaffold branches. As a result the crop is produced in the very top of the tree, making spraying, thinning and harvesting expensive, reducing yields and causing the breaking of limbs. Peach trees may well be pruned and trained to a bowl-shaped form in this state, Mr. Olney believes. A system of thinning and light cutting back is probably best. Usually, pruning is done in late fall and winter. Summer pruning is confined to special corrective work, thinning of 2 year old trees, and of bearing trees which were severely cut back following loss of a crop from winter or spring freezes.

To Present Operetta, "Ask The Professor"

By Dick Dickerson
"Ask the Professor," a two-act operetta, is to be presented by the boys' and girls' glee clubs of Prestonsburg High school near the middle of the direction of Miss Kathryn April. This operetta is under Stumbo. Well suited for young and old, it is well provided with fun, sorrow and music. The songs and dances are amusing as well as amazing. The characters have been selected and practice began last week.

The operetta is based on the story of a washwoman's daughter who has enrolled in a fashionable girls' school. Much to the surprise of every one she becomes the leader in her studies and is crowned queen of the school.

Right Out Of The Air

By R F SERVICE

Don Voorhees

Don Voorhees rates as just about the most versatile maestro in radio. He is heard Saturdays playing for Ed Wynn and Sundays for Col. Stoopnagle and Budd. On Wednesday nights he directs the "Cavalcade of America" programs over CBS, and plays classical music, his hot music being used on the two comedy programs.

Amos 'n' Andy, Carlton Kaddell has been awarded the assignment on a series of transcriptions which will be used on 300 stations from coast to coast.

Betty Wragge

Betty Wragge reached a new high in radio acting during a recent "Pepper Young's Family" broadcast. The script required the pretty ingenue to talk as if she had a "code in her head." To get this effect, Betty spoke into the mike while holding her nose—creating a picture that almost broke up the rest of the cast.

Not content with five hours of almost continuous rehearsal for his "Thrills" program, Maestro David Broekman often plays a couple of sets of handball between the dress rehearsal and broadcast.

Ed Wynn

Ed Wynn takes the palm as the most restless star in radio. He paces back and forth, hands behind his back, cigar in mouth, before and after his NBC broadcast. It's not nervousness, for the lisp-jester maintains his composure perfectly under fire. It's a habit he formed during vaudeville days.

That appearance of Jack Benny and Mary Livingston on the Monday night Radio Theatre may lead to other radio stars getting lead roles in these legitimate productions. Burns and Allen are prominently mentioned for a spot now.

Radio comedies spend an average of 15 minutes on the air.

ing their scripts, but not East and Dumke. The "Quality Twins" start outlining their next show even before the current one is over!

Jimmy Melton

The prize remaining unfilled spot on the air has gone to Jimmy Melton, radio's popular tenor. Jimmy has just been signed as master of ceremonies of the Saturday Night Party, his first assignment of this kind. The movies snatched Jimmy from radio about two years ago. He has developed a smooth style as emcee in his absence from the microphone.

Clean comedy is the only kind that ever really succeeds, in the opinion of Joe Cook, who has been tossing out comedy for about 30 years now. Joe has never used a single off-color line.

Floyd Gibbons brings guest stars with a story as well as talent to his Speed Show on Saturday nights. This is a current trend in radio, getting all the human interest possible out of guest stars.

Helen Jepson

Helen Jepson, for instance, got her break at Metropolitan Opera through radio work and when she came back to the air for a guest spot on the Speed Show her story packed a wallop.

Phil Baker and his two stooges, Beetle and Bottle, sprinkle their conversation these days with knowing reference to "camera angles," "close-ups," and "long shots." They're anticipating their future appearance in the movies.

Jimmy Dorsey

Like "swing" bands of New York night club fame, Jimmy Dorsey and his orchestra often get together for "jam sessions." These periods when the musicians "swing out" just for their own amusement are usually sandwiched in between the rehearsal and broadcast of the Bing Crosby Music

"Basket Makers," Weavers of Non-Leakable Vessels

When the cliff dwellers, from whom the Pueblo Indian of the Southwest is descended, came to Mesa Verde, now a National park in Colorado, says a writer in the New York Times, they found earlier occupants, who had perhaps been there for centuries. These were known as "Basket Maker 111." One of their circular, subterranean houses originally thatched over, resembles the kivas, ceremonial rooms of the cliff dwellers and the Pueblo Indians of today.

The Basket Makers were experts at weaving baskets, some of which are so tight that they will hold water. The Basket Makers also made sandals and were perhaps the first to fire pottery.

The Pueblo Indians took over the cliff dwellings, changing and adapting them to their own needs. They improved on the building of houses, constructing them above ground so solidly that the walls in many cases are standing firmly.

The houses were built in clusters, sometimes one on top of another. The rooms are small, with small windows and doors, some of which are found sealed, the chambers having been used as tombs. In the back of the houses, against the canyon walls, are smaller rooms where grain was stored and turkeys were cooped (probably that their feathers might be used in making robes).

Local Woman Named As Member of State Committee

In a letter from W. H. Hansen, State Supervisor of Safety, Mrs. J. D. Mayo, chairman of the Safety Committee of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club, was notified of her appointment to membership on the Education Committee of the commission. Mr. Hansen said in a recent letter: "The report of the work done in your county is very interesting. It is gratifying to know that work of this type is being carried on in the state." MEMBERS RECEIVED AT EASTER SERVICE

Three members were publicly received and two infants baptized at the Easter morning service at the Presbyterian Church. Holy communion was likewise observed.

The new members are Alice Gray Burke, Patricia Rimmer and Frank Heinze. John Ellis Branham, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Branham, and Lois Imogene Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Collins, were baptized.

Using as a text the words of Christ: "And they are the sons of God, being sons of the resurrection," Robert A. Potter, minister, pointed out that the resurrection into another world was made possible because of two prior resurrections, that of Jesus Christ, and that of the believer through him. It was not difficult to realize the resurrection of Jesus, or the future resurrection of the believer, but Christians needed to do what is difficult: to realize they are often now sons of the resurrection.

Special music numbers included a soprano solo by Mrs. Merle Wilson, and a duet by Mrs. J. D. Thomas, and her daughter, Theda Bibb.

THE CLARK FAMILY

PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM COUNTY JAIL

Continued from page one and Hyden entered the cell block on the second floor, Mr. Allen told The Times, Henderson "Goose" Salyers threw a blanket over his head, others surrounding him, took the keys and knocked him into a corner. During this melee, some of the prisoners, it is said, threw milk bottles at Hyden and drove him to one side. Upon the moment, those intent on escape began filing down the steps, through the main entry within the jail and out the front door to freedom.

It happened so quickly that people standing around outside of the jail did not realize what was happening until the men were well on their way to freedom.

Twenty-seven prisoners were confined in the jail at the time of the break. Names of those making the break Thursday are as follows:

Henderson "Goose" Salyers, on a robbery charge; Arnold "Preacher" Patton, robbery; Wilburn Rose, robbery; Lat Dameron and Herbert Amburgy, charged with disturbing religious worship; Ora Amburgy, charged with assault and battery; Harry Johnson, charged with carrying a concealed deadly weapon, and John Adkins, under conviction of one year in the penitentiary for robbery.

Within a few minutes after the inmates' dash for freedom, Mrs. Ella Sturgill, wife of the jailer, responding quickly and courageously to the situation, with the assistance of officers, began a hot pursuit of the fugitives. Four pistol shots from long range by Constable Epp Lafferty failed to halt three who were "busy picking 'em up and laying 'em down" along the hillside.

Leaving the back edge of town the escaping prisoners dashed to the hills and began traveling in three directions while a hundred or more citizens lined the wall of the courthouse yard and seemed to get a "kick" out of watching the men dart along the hillside in their desperate bid for liberty.

Last reports indicate that the break was successful, although posses attempted to encircle the fleeing prisoners and apprehend them.

This is the fourth break, and the largest, from the Floyd county jail within the past 18 months, it was said. The third escape, very similar to Thursday's, netted freedom to four: Pearl Tussey, Warnie Slusher, Jimmie Caudill and Robie Scott. Scott was later caught and probated. Tussey was apprehended at Longview, Texas, but was not returned. Caudill, charged with murder, and Slusher, badly wanted by C. and O. officials, have not been heard from, it is reported.

BEAVER VALLEY HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. Lacy Kinney, who underwent a major operation is improving rapidly.

"ELECTRIC COOKERY is SO CLEAN ... I could cook in white kid gloves..."

MAYBE you think this sounds silly, but actually the lady could cook in white gloves if she wished to do so. OUTDATED JOBS

When we consider passing institutions, we may remember only the picturesque side of customs that used to be, forgetting that every change in customs threw people out of jobs or else reduced them to a lower social rank. It is well to recall some of these important achievements that once loomed large but are now small or even forgotten. The man under a hardstick at a log-rolling does not seem so important now as he did when a strong back was the measure of a man. Who of you could pilot a raft down a treacherous stream, or build an ark, or Kentucky boat? Who knows how to wield a cradle in cutting wheat or a flail in threshing it? Could you carry a corner at a house raising or make correctly the whole set of rafters for a house or barn? Can you rive boards with a frow or hew logs for a house or other building? How many of you know how to make maple syrup or soft soap? I know that many people have lovingly kept alive the old-time processes of carrying on a house and farm, but most of us have been out of practice so long that we could not be sure of ourselves.

In home industries of all sorts there has been a shift of emphasis until many of the great arts of the world are likely to be forgotten by the average person. Cotton cards are museum things to nearly everybody now living. Wool rolls to be spun on the spinning wheel would be a seven-days' wonder to many people under 40. Probably two-thirds of the population of the state at this very moment have never pieced quilts, and almost a hundred per cent would not know how to weave a coverlet. In other times these arts were necessities; today they are not for most of us, but where still lingers around these customs an enchantment that no amount of modern conveniences can quite dispel.

Though most all of our contemporaries can drive an automobile, the time was, only a few years ago, that a man who could run a steam engine was a wonder. How would you like to be called on to pilot a steamboat down the Ohio or the Mississippi, even though you may have driven a car for years? Incidentally, wouldn't it be difficult to direct a caravan of prairie schooners across the plains in the style of the forty-niners? A hundred years ago the clipper ship just yielding to the steamship, but very few are left today who could ever understand the language of the old sailing vessels. To the average harbor comes occasionally a sailing vessel, often a tramp, a smacking of the old, old times, but as strange to most of us as a raft of logs, such as the two huge ones I saw last winter.

Sometimes there are spasmodic attempts to reintroduce old-time arts, but at best we all know that these attempts are destined to a short life unless they are connected in some way with some permanent institution that can promote and protect them. I miss the sound of the spinning wheel, but I know that there is small likelihood of my hearing it again in the way I heard it as a boy. I like the taste of viands cooked on the fire, but I am content to eat what we cook when we camp out and then depend on the gas stove for the rest. One can become sentimental about these old things without losing sight of the advantages of their successors.

Giving "Tips," Ancient Custom in English Inns

This curious story is often told to account for the origin of tips: It was formerly customary to have boxes in English inns and coffeehouses for the receipt of coins for the benefit of the waiters. "To insure promptness" or "to insure prompt service" was printed on the boxes to remind guests that a coin deposited inside would bring excellent results in the way of special service. Sometimes the phrases on the boxes were abbreviated to "T. I. P." and "T. I. P. S.," and from this circumstance, according to the story, tip and tips came into use.

The quotations given in the Oxford dictionary show, however, that tip in this sense is probably derived from an old English verb, "to tip," meaning to give. "Tip me that cheate booty," give me that thing," wrote Samuel Rowlands in "Martin Mark-all, the Beadle of Bridewell," published in 1610. In "The Beaux' Stratagem," produced in 1706, George Farquhar wrote: "Then, Sir, tips me the Verger with half a crown." By 1755 the world had acquired its present sense. "I assure you," said a writer in that year, "I have laid out every farthing . . . in tips to his servants."

Buying a home is a good way to make the community prosperous, whether you believe it or not.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

Cherries have long been a welcomed fruit both fresh and canned. Everyone likes the flavor of a luscious cherry pie with flaky crust and juicy filling, but for variety try some of the following recipes of red and white cherries.

Cherry Dumplings

Make a biscuit dough, using 1 1-2 cups flour
1 1-2 tablespoons butter
3 teaspoons baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup milk
Roll out and cut in large circles. Fill each with well-drained canned cherries, then bring in the sides and pinch the top of each dumpling together in a deep baking dish. Cover with 2 cups of sugar and dot with 2 tablespoons of butter. Pour boiling water over all until the dish is half full and bake 1 hour.

Cherry Muffins

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
3-4 cup chopped cherries.
1 egg beaten
1-4 cup shortening melted.
Mix milk, egg and cherries. Combine with the sifted dry ingredients, using as few strokes as possible, addible, adding the shortening last. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full and bake in an oven 400 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

Cherry Muffins

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
3-4 cup chopd cherries
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 egg beaten
1-4 cup shortening melted
Mix milk, egg and cherries. Combine with the sifted dry ingredients, using as few strokes as possible, adding the shortening last. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full and bake in an oven 400 degrees 25 to 30 minutes.

Cherry Sandwiches

1 tablespoon chopped meat nuts
1 cup cottage cheese
1-4 cup chopped cherries
Mix the sandwich filling and spread between slices of whole wheat bread, from which the crusts have been removed.

Cherry Salad

2 cups canned sweetened cherries.
1 cup diced bananas
1-4 cup chopped nuts
1 cup diced marshmallows
1-2 cup mayonnaise
1-2 cup whipped cream
Lettuce
Drain the cherries and mix with the other ingredients, except lettuce and nuts. Be sure to drain the cherries well and the cream stiffly whipped. Add the dressing a little at a time, taking care not to use too much.

Cherry Cakes

Cream 1 cup of butter with 3-4 cup of brown sugar, gradually fold in the yolk of 1 egg and 2 cups of sifted flour, stir and knead thoroughly until the mass is soft and pliable. Roll in small balls, place on a greased pan and flatten with a fork. Press a candied or halved maraschino cherry in each cake and bake in a moderate oven.

Cherry Fruit Cup

1 cup canned cherries
1 cup sliced peaches
8 mint canflies
1 cup pineapple
1 cup diced grapefruit.
1 cup cherry juice
Drain the fruit from juice and chill. Dissolve mints in cherry juice juice, then chill. For serving, arrange the fruit in sherbet glasses and pour juice over the fruit.

Sugared Cherries

Wash and pit a pint of ripe cherries, cover thickly with granulated sugar and place in refrigerator for awhile, stirring occasionally. Serve very cold in small sherbet glasses.

Cherry Lemonade
2 cups sweetened cherry juice
1 cup lemon juice
1 cup sugar
Make a syrup of the sugar by adding 1-2 cup water and boiling 3 minutes. Combine all the ingredients and pour over cracked ice.

Cherry Pie
1 quart cherries, stoned
1 cup sugar
4 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
Line a pie pan with pastry. Blend sugar and flour, mix thoroughly with cherries. Fill pie pan. Dot with butter. Add top crust. Press edges together and flute edge. Bake 10 minutes in oven 400 degrees, then reduce heat to 400 degrees and cook for 30 to 35 minutes.

Cherry Surprise
1 package cherry flavored gelatin
2 cups liquid
1 cup cherries
2 bananas diced
1-2 cup nuts
Add enough water to the juice to the can of cherries to make a pint. Heat to the boiling point and dissolve the gelatin in it. Chill. When slightly thickened add cherries and bananas. Pour into molds. Chill. When ready to serve unmold and serve with whipped cream.

THE FARM AND HOME

Kentucky ships from 6,000 to 10,000 acres of strawberries every year to northern and eastern markets, including Canada. Much of the marketing is handled thru co-operative associations, employing sales managers to sell through daily or weekly pools.

If grass is not clipped until it is at least 4 inches tall, the growth is used to store plant food and renew the plants after the winter. This may result in a better, stronger stand of grass later in the season.

A milk ordinance is a set of sanitary standards for the milk supply. Usually the ordinance is concerned with health protection, and not with the richness of the milk. It also sets up a minimum butterfat requirement and minimum not fat requirement.

"Extracted honey" is the form in which about three-quarters of the product is bought. Buyers of large quantities may get it in 60-pound cans, barrels, or kegs. Over the grocery counter it is sold in glass jars for small quantities.

Eggs can be cooked in many different ways. For breakfast they can be served "sun-baked up," hard or soft boiled, scrambled and poached. For lunch, egg omelet, salad or sandwiches are used. Many may like raw eggs and crackers, which make a complete meal.

Turkey is plentiful, fairly inexpensive food at the present time. Cold storage birds are not, contrary to common belief, injured by necessary freezing; if birds of fine quality are properly stored they may be just as good several months later.

Beautiful Glacial Gorge

Charmed Indian Hunters
It was in March, 1851, that a group of pioneers, organized as the Mariposa Battalion, followed the trail of a band of Yosemite Indians into the valley to avenge the deaths of settlers killed by the Indians in raids on Savage's trading post near Mariposa. Early day historians record that the discovery of the magnificent glacial gorge so thrilled members of the Battalion that they gave up their Indian hunt and went back to Mariposa to spread the news of what they had seen, according to a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

They told of sheer walls of granite rising from 3,000 to 5,000 feet on either side of a wide gorge. Roaring down from dizzy heights over the perpendicular cliffs were six of the most spectacular waterfalls ever seen by man, one of them the highest in the world. In the valley below the Merced river wound its swift way through lush meadows carpeted with wild flowers, and through groves of majestic pine, fir, cedar and oak trees.

Ahwahnee, "deep grassy valley," the Indians called it. A melodious name expressive of the distant roar of the falls, the whisper of the wind through the forest and the magnificent solemnity of the place. They had other mystic names, too, for the mighty granite monoliths that towered above the valley and for the waterfalls. But to the Mariposa Battalion it was Yosemite, "full grown grizzly bear," named for the tribe of Indians who inhabited it.

NOSE PORES

A Real Test of Your Cleansing Methods

Your nose pores are the largest on your body and the first to show any signs of clogging. If your nose pores are enlarged or conspicuous, it's a sign your cleansing method is inefficient. What you want is a penetrating face cream—not one that just lies on the surface of your skin. Lady Esther Face Cream is a notably penetrating face cream. Gently and soothingly it penetrates the little openings. It takes hold of the imbedded waxy matter—breaks it up—dissolves it—and makes it easily removable. Thus, your clogged pores function freely again and reduce themselves to their natural invisible size. As Lady Esther Face Cream cleanses the skin, it also lubricates it. It resupplies it with a fine oil that keeps it soft and smooth. Get Lady Esther Face Cream today and put it to the test. You will be surprised the difference one cleansing makes in your skin.

SYNOPSIS

Kezia Marsh, pretty, selfish and twenty, arrives home in Corinth from school and is met by her older brother, Hugh. He drives her to the Marsh home where her widowed mother, Fluvanna, a warm-hearted, self-sacrificing and understanding soul, welcomes her. Kezia's sister, Margery, plump and matronly with the care of three children, is at lunch with them. Hugh's wife, Dorrie, has pleaded a previous engagement. On the way back to his job at the steel plant founded by one of his forebears, Hugh passes Doc Hiller, a boyhood friend whom he no longer sees frequently because of Dorrie's antipathy. Fluvanna Marsh wakes the next morning from a dream about her late husband, Jim, whose unstable character she fears Kezia has inherited. Ellen Pendleton comes over. She is an artistically inclined girl who is a distant niece of Fluvanna's. She happily tells Fluvanna she has become engaged to Jerry Purdue. Ellen fears that her father and mother, Gavin and Lizzie, will not approve the match. Hugh and Dorrie go out to the Freshland Farms to dance with their friends, Cun and Joan Whitney. Whitney, who has been out of work, has a new position. Cun and Dorrie dance together and then disappear for a while. Dancing with Joan, Hugh is amazed to find her in tears. Apparently she has some secret worry over her late husband, Jim, whose unstable character she fears Kezia has inherited. Ellen speaks about her engagement to Jerry Purdue, Lizzie is disagreeable until Jerry sympathizes with her imagined ailments. The matter is left pending. Unexpectedly Hugh has to visit a neighboring city on business. Returning home to ask Dorrie to accompany him he finds her telephoning. In confusion she quickly hangs up without saying good-bye. She finally agrees to accompany him. They spend a delightful day and Hugh is happy. At a family party, Kezia encounters Jerry. Ellen is disturbed when Jerry is absorbed by Kezia. Kezia goes out of her way to charm Jerry. Fluvanna is concerned about Kezia, who is evasive about dates she has been having at night. She muses over the resemblance of Kezia to her late husband, recalling how temperamental, moody and imprudent he had been. She recalls the tragic picture of his death—how after drinking and gambling to excess he is faced with financial ruin, how he tries to force her to mortgage her resources to pay his debts and threatens her with a gun, how in a struggle for its possession he is fatally wounded. Overworked and worried over business, Hugh stays at the office Saturday afternoon. Doc Hiller advises a let-up. Hugh and Dorrie are dinner guests of the Whitneys.

"A perfect dinner," commented Hugh. "Jonny, you make cooking an art!" "It should be," she said blithely. "We practice it enough." "Notice that vinegar for the salad?" asked Cun. "She makes it in June from the rose petals—much milder than any other." "And the strawberries?" Dorrie exclaimed. "Fall bearing ones." "I never see them. Where did you get them?" "From the Mennonite farmer who brings me eggs each Saturday. There's a settlement of them a few miles south. They're very unworldly—so carefully honest about every penny." "Religion means everything to many people," said Joan. Cun settled in his chair more comfortably. His eyes sparkled, his florid skin was pinker than usual. "I grant you that, Jonny. But I can't see it. Too many hymn-singing hypocrites in church when I was young... blasted my youthful illusions!" Joan looked at him steadily. "You don't believe in anything, do you?" "I've never felt the need of it. Life has been pretty good to me and when it's over, I want it to be over!" Dorrie's eyes were applauding. "My sentiments, Cun. Religion is the refuge of a defeated soul." "Exactly," nodded Cun. "A person has been overthrown by life, and prays for a heaven which will be a wish-fulfillment of the things missed on earth." "Then there is no reality in religion? Merely wish-fulfillment?" questioned Joan. "So glad to have it explained—I never understood." Dorrie took no notice of her irony. She went on: "It's good for some individuals. We have a case in our family—Hugh's mother. Oh, don't look shocked! Your mother isn't sacrosanct, is she? I'm only saying it before Joan and Cur... Hugh's mother has had a tremendous help from religion." "Then I would say there is reality in it," Hugh defended. "How can one tell there is not? It's supposed to be experienced—a spiritual adventure which convinces people!" Joan jumped up from the table. "Gracious! Weren't we stupid to get in an argument over religion when it always ends in a yammer? Cun, tell Hugh about your new work while I clear away." "We went over that the last time," answered Cun. "What do you say we do the dishes for Joan? Wash and dry 'em?" "That's a valuable idea," approved Hugh. "Dorrie, you're always getting out of work—oh, yes, you are!—you can begin washing the glasses. Jonny will give you an apron to cover up that creation you're wearing!" "Oh, Cun, Dorrie will spoil her manicure!" said Joan. But Dorrie entered into it gayly, took the dishpan, filled it with hot water, sprinkled some soap chips in it. "Bring on the glasses." "Wash 'em clean, my girl, or you'll get fired!" "Wash them clean?" Dorrie laughed as she rinsed a goblet and handed it to him to dry. "Don't you trust me, Cun?" "No, not now." Joan and Hugh were clearing the table, going back and forth between the kitchen and the dining-room. When Hugh came through with some plates, Cun and Dorrie were talking in low voices. She said at once in louder tones, "Get a dry towel, nitwit. That's just sopping"—the quick abandonment of a secret conversation for a casual one. But they were always chaffing one another, Hugh remembered. Dorrie emptied the dishpan, glanced at the clock. "Twenty minutes—no more! Who said I didn't know how to work?" "Don't misquote," said Cun, his eyes merry. "Always getting out of it, I said." "That for you!" She snapped her fingers at Cun. "Hugh will tell you I'm a thoroughly efficient person. Come on, Joan, let's go upstairs and repair the damage. Hurry, before I get any more mean cracks from this husband of yours! Does he bully you this way?" "Most of my waking hours, eh Joan?" said Cun. "She's too loyal to give me away." "Don't count on me too much," said Joan over her shoulder as she followed Dorrie out of the room. Hugh rather enjoyed the bridge game. He and Joan had unusual luck, won rubber after rubber. Dorrie seemed absent minded and several times made rather obvious misplays. Late in the evening she denied Cun's heart bid with one of spades, went back to spades when Cun raised his heart bid, and was promptly doubled. The spades were bunched in Joan's hand and with the double she drew, she went down disastrously. "If you'd led clubs last, you'd have saved two tricks," said Cun. "Forget they were high?" "So they were. Sorry, Cun, I played it like a—"

STAR DUST Movie • Radio

LITTLE did Jack Benny know what he was letting himself in for when he decided to go to New York for a few weeks and do his broadcasting from there. So many requests for tickets came in, and from very important people too, that the largest studio at Radio City wasn't anywhere near big enough to hold them. So, National Broadcasting company had to rent the biggest ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria and send the Benny broadcast out from there. Jack is one of those big, affable, patient fellows who can remember practically everybody he ever met, and he has met thousands in his years of vaudeville, musical comedy, pictures, and radio.

First results of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts awards are beginning to be noticed at the studios. Luise Rainer, whose performance in "The Great Ziegfeld" was voted best of the year, has been given a five-year contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Paul Muni, who got the year's award for the best actor for his work in "The Story of Louis Pasteur," evidently figures that he won't be out of a job for a long time, so he is talking to contractors about building extensive dog kennels at his house. Someone has given him a valuable schnauzer, and he is shopping around for some other dogs.

For the fifth successive year Walt Disney won the award for best cartoon, Mickey Mouse in "Country Cousin" being the one singled out as the best of the year. You will have a chance soon to see all of the Disney winners in one evening, as United Artists is going to combine the prize-winning comedies of the past five years, calling them the Walt Disney Revue.

Edgar Bergen, the ventriloquist who has become such a favorite on the Rudy Vallee radio hour, has joined the wonderful array of comics, opera singers, and dancers that Sam Goldwyn has lined up for his Goldwyn Follies. Bergen's skill as a ventriloquist was developed when he was just a youngster. He liked to play jokes on his mother, making strange voices call to her from various parts of the room. Later he worked his way through Northwestern university giving shows at college parties.

Jane Withers just dares any kidnaper to come around her house threatening her now. In addition to her usual bodyguard, a Texas Ranger who looks as if he could rout an army single-handed, her father is usually around, and he has been sworn in as a deputy sheriff, complete with guns. Furthermore, there is an electric signal beside her bed which rings a bell in all the police stations near Beverly Hills. Everybody is betting that the mischievous Jane will never be able to resist pushing the button just once, just to see the police come dashing to her rescue.

ODDS AND ENDS: Janet Gaynor slipped out of Hollywood and went to New York for a vacation, and now she says she won't come back until she can play in a comedy... Skippy, the famous wire-haired terrier whom you know as Asta in "The Thin Man" pictures, has a big part in the R-K-O picture, "China Passage"... Joan Crawford has launched a new style, wearing old-fashioned bead bracelets that match the color and design of her print dresses... Sonja Henie cancelled the rest of her personal appearance tour and hurried back to Hollywood to make pictures. Maybe the rumor that Tyrone Power was rushing other girls had something to do with her impatience to return... Bobby Breen is going to star in a new radio serial called "The Singing Kid" for National Broadcasting... Another program to watch for is Paramount's Sunday morning hour that will be staged at the studio.

Harmonizing With Spring

THIS week's crop of fashions seem fully as sweet and gay and long-awaited as lovely Spring—with which they're meant to harmonize. Mary, Sue and Emily, three charming standees, know how to have day in day out chic without forfeiting that pretty silver lining in their new Spring purses.

Hints From Mary's Boudoir. "I'm especially fussy about the slip I wear, perhaps that's why I always sew-my-own! I never miss the few hours it takes, and I can spend the difference for a finer, better-wearing fabric. A slip that's well-behaved is a joy to yourself—others as well—and just as easy to have. So take a tip from one who knows: choose this model and a good fabric and you'll have no further slip troubles."

A Lift for M'Lady. "A new frock means more to me than a new fabric and a change of color—it means a lift, a new lease on life!" So says Miss Sue, a snappy sophomore who sews. "I decided 1252 had the kind of newness I want: the clever cut of the waistcoat bodice first caught my fancy, and the saucy swing skirt made me sign on the dotted line. I go for simple necklines, and I like lots of buttons too. You should see my version in royal blue silk crepe—really, it's something to be proud of."

Designers Win Praise. "Smart Matron your granny," retorts Emily to an intended bit of flattery regarding her new welcome-to-spring frock. "If I look as young as I feel I'll be mistaken for a Laf-a-Lot! But honestly, this new dress gives me a more dressed-up feeling than any I can remember in Springs gone by. I think Sew-Your-Own designers are smart to give us '40's some of that swing the youngsters rave about. Do you suppose they sympathize with the poor young men who are urged nowadays to 'Swing, Swing, dear Mother-in-law?'"

Pattern 1909 is for sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 46 bust). Size 16 requires 2 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. Pattern 1252 is for sizes 12 to 20 (32 to 38 bust). Although the weather was bad, the people of Brush Creek enjoyed Easter fine.

Prominent Woman is Victim of Cancer

Mrs. Essalona (Bone) Prater Allen, 68, a woman of excellent character, and a member of one of Floyd county's most prominent families, succumbed Tuesday, March 23 at Martin at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. P. Dingus. Her death followed an illness of 13 months, due to cancer.

The body was prepared for burial by G. D. Ryan and then taken to the Allen cemetery at the mouth of Bruh Creek for interment. Funeral services were conducted by Revs. A. L. Allen and A. J. Moore.

The victim was a faithful member of the Bethel Church of Regular Baptist denomination and was well-liked by all who knew her. In her neighbors' homes, she left a welcome seat, a void that can never be filled.

She was first married to Jack Prater, who preceded her in death 33 years ago. Unto this union were born three sons: Troy and Ransford, who died in infancy, and James, who now lives at Hueysville. She later was united in marriage to James Allen, who preceded her in death 13 months ago, at the age of 88 years. Unto this second union were born two daughters, Gladys, who died in infancy, and Mrs. D. P. Dingus, of Martin. Besides her son and daughter, James Prater, and Mrs. D. P. Dingus, also two grandchildren survive: James Ishmael Prater and Nancy Sue Dingus.
