GRAND JURORS IN SPECIAL SESSION IS ADJOURNED THURS.

Grand Jury Report, Also Jurist Raps the Operation of Road Houses

46 INDICTED

Returning 46 true bills after examining 88 witnesses in a three-day session here, the special grand jury made a final report Thursday evening to Judge John W. Caudill, of their investigation in what the jurors termed a present "crime wave" and indicated their regret that their time was limited.

The words of the grand jury report laid the present crime conditions at the feet of operators of roadhouses and places of public entertainment. They stated that whiskey was being sold illegally throughout the county and that the special call was warranted.

The grand jury charged three with murder, a dozen or more of assault or wounding charges, five of keeping disorderly houses, four for drunken driving, and nine people were indicted for illegal sale of liquor among the indictments.

In discharging the jury, Judge Caudill complimented them on their work, and said relative to the liquor investigation, "There are 37 liquor stores in Floyd county, and, beside that, there are two bootleggers to each place selling whiskey."

On the roadhouse phase of the investigation, Caudill said, "I don't like to pass, but I call these roadhouses 'hell holes.' The grounds for nearly every one of the number of divorce cases that I have recently tried, have originated in roadhouses."

Those serving on the special venire were: Bill Merritt, Sene Miller, Sam Vaughan, Mrs. Anna Hall, Mollie Hall, Tina Meade, Webster Akers, Millard Hamilton, W. J. Vaughan, Hrd Johnson, Jas. Williams, and T. Y. Martin. W. J. Vaughan served as foreman.

HALL AND RICE 'BID ACCEPTED FOR BANNER BRIDGE

Names Figure of $29,990; Says Construction to Start Soon

The Floyd fiscal court, in a special meeting at the courthouse Tuesday, May 13, accepted the bid of I. N. Hall and S. G. Rice, that named the figure of $29,990 for the construction of a heavy traffic bridge across the Big Sandy river at Banner, this county.

Other bids tendered the magistrates were those of H. L. Mayo, next low at $29,990, and Code's Construction Company of $31,120.

The magistrates ordered that the successful contractor be paid as the work progresses. The amount to be paid during the fiscal year of 1937-38 is not to exceed $18,000 and the balance of $7,990 is to be paid from the revenue derived from the 1938 levy of taxes. The balance will be paid after July 1, 1938.

Hall and Rice are required to execute a fidelity bond of $25,000. The contract becomes in force and effect after the bond is executed.

"We expect to start work as soon as our bond is arranged," S. G. Rice stated Wednesday, "probably within the next 10 days."

The magistrates also allowed 34 claims totaling almost $2,000. The largest claim was that of $405.33 to W. C. Rimmer for engineering work on the Banner bridge.

They urged surmounting of the Laynesville streets by the WPA and agreed to sponsor the project.

FOREST FIRES FOUGHT BY MODERN METHODS

Twenty-seven forest fires burning over 2,571 acres and causing damages estimated at $2,667 have been brought on protected property in the Big Sandy Association so for this spring, according to Claude Ward, chief fire warden, of Inez, Ky.

Chief Ward goes into detail by saying that 1,168 man-hours of fire fighting have been expended on the 27 fires, averaging about 44 man-hours per fire.

"Man has been the arch of fender because of carelessness, and I intend to prosecute the individual or individuals responsible for each fire regardless of whether it was due to carelessness or maliciousness.

"My crews and the CCC camp P-73, Paintsville, have functioned well, arriving at fires promptly and working indefatigably to suppress and control all blazes reported to them either by the towermen or persons near the fire.

"Credit, however, must be given the district forester's office for supplying us this spring with new fire fighting apparatus, consisting of fire rakes, pole axes, brush hooks, files and Indian fire buckets and pumps.

"If each citizen will endeavor to cooperate with us in suppressing fires, forest fires in the Big Sandy Association will be rare."

Chief Ward continued, "the chief cause of forest fires this spring has been due to carelessness in brush burning. Brush should be piled and then burned only when there is no danger of it spreading. Continued on page four

Traditional May Day Frolic Combined With Folk Games

A series of "Play Day" programs, quite a bit in the style of "May Day" programs usually staged annually but featuring folkore, songs and dances, are being conducted by the recreational department of WPA, under the supervision of Mrs. Elth F. James, in conjunction with the Floyd county health department.

In most of the schools, Mrs. James said Wednesday, the old English May Day program is being observed with crowning of the May Queen, Maypole dances, etc., interspersed with our own traditional dances, ballads and games. The music and athletic departments of the schools are co-operating in giving these play and health day grade school celebration.

The Martin school gave the first in the series on Feb. 23 in their gymnasium featuring a beautifully presented health pageant. On Feb. 30, Bosco had an interesting and lively program.

The most recent of the affairs was staged Saturday, May 1, at Harp, and was attended by approximately 300 students and parents. A parade led by the Betsy Layne high school band, was held and Miss Robinett was crowned queen. Her attendant was

Drift was scheduled to have their program on Thursday, May 6. No report on their planned activities for the day was received as we go to press. Maytown and Prestonsburg, according to a tentative schedule, will hold their exercises on the same day. Continued on page four

ART EXHIBIT TO BE HELD AT PIKEVILLE

Mrs. W. P. Mayo, chairman of Art of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, announces that the third annual state-wide art exhibit by that organization will be held at Pikeville, Ky., May 11-13, during the state convention.

The Federation's previous success caused the sponsorship of the Kentuckiana Woman's Institute to ask this organization to put on an art exhibit for them during the Institute's week at Louisville last October. The Federation has also been asked to take charge of the art exhibit of the Kentucky State Fair this September.

The Federation's own exhibit is emphasized as a mart as well as an exhibit. Several paintings have been sold the two previous years. The state chairman of art will select two paintings from this exhibit to be used as prizes for the two clubs having done the most in the field of art during the past year. These two paintings will be paid for by the Penny Art Fund. (Again this year, and for the third time, Kentucky has won one of the national Penny Art Fund prizes. Hurray!)

A very favorable room on the first floor of the Hatcher Hotel has been procured for this exhibit. It is hoped that every section of Kentucky will be represented. Prof. Rannels of the Art Department of the State University, will be present to judge the paintings.

Mrs. Mayo invites the general public to come in and enjoy this exhibit of Kentucky Art.

UNUSUAL VERDICT IN HATFIELD CASE RENDERED MONDAY

Second Life Term Carries Added Two Years; Habitual Criminal

PARSONS SENTENCED

Monday, May 3, in the circuit court here a Floyd county jury returned a verdict against Jack Hatfield carrying a sentence of not only life but also added two years in the state penitentiary on the same indictment.

The words of Circuit Court Clerk Troy B. Sturgill explained the very unusual sentence, "The jury found Hatfield guilty, as to instruction number 1, of robbing Troy Conley's store at Bosco and gave him two years, then found him guilty, as to instruction number two, under the habitual criminal act which carried a mandatory life sentence." The indictment cited four previous convictions in Floyd and Knott counties, including robbery, forgery and manslaughter, court officials said, covering a period of the past 14 years.

This was Hatfield's second life sentence. In the March term of Knott circuit court at Hindman, he was given his first life sentence on his conviction of robbing the store of John Bud Wicker and a citation of the habitual criminal act.

D. H. Hall, Hartsville attorney, who prosecuted the case in the Knott circuit court, quoted Hatfield as saying, upon receiving so much "time," "I think you guys have got it in for me."

Parsons Sentenced

For the slaying of Johnny Beran, age 26, who was acting as peacemaker in a difficulty between John Parsons and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Parsons, Parsons entered a plea of guilty and was given an agreed sentence of life imprisonment. The fatal shooting happened at Allen on April 28.

$23,000 PAID TO FLOYD TEACHERS

County Board Requests Bids On Betsy Layne School Building

The purses of the consolidated school teachers are enriched this week by about $23,000 for their seventh month of teaching. The county board passed on the pay in their meeting here Saturday and the checks were issued, County Superintendent Town Hall said, to the teachers this week.

The board voted to advertise for bids on 14-room brick school building at Betsy Layne, to be located on the site of the old building recently destroyed by fire. The deadline for bids is noon of May 15, at which time, Supt. Hall said, the "board hopes to let the contract if reasonable bids are before them." He said that the new builder: Transportation, Mrs. F. Heinze; Platform, Mrs. E. Floyd county lying between P. Hill, Jr.; Music, Mrs. W. Allen and the Pike county P. Mayo; Social, Mrs. Robert V. # what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Touring Accommodations.
SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—
 For the sake of comparison two of us, out lately on a little trip, stayed one night at a way-side motor camp and the next night at the most expensive tourist hotel in three states, rates $25 per day per sucker.

At the tourist camp, the company was mixed but neighborly and, for the most part, pleasant. The only really discordant note was a lady in the adjoining cabin who, at all hours, kept waking her husband up, apparently for the purpose of telling him another thing about him that she didn't like.

Irvin S. Cobb

At the exclusive establishment were many guests who seemed to be suffering from severe attacks of nervous culture, being fearful, I'd say, that, if ever they behaved naturally, they'd give themselves away. Mainly they were dull. Waxworks, even when animated, usually are dull.

But stopping at a $25 a day hotel has one advantage, I find. Afterward, you can go around bragging that once you stopped at a $25-a-day hotel. This should be a great help socially.

Dealing With Snakes.

A CONNECTICUT congressman is pushing an act to prohibit importation of venomous serpents from other countries for exhibition purposes. His fear is that an earthquake or something might shake the zoo apart and liberate a lot of deadly reptiles that would start multiplying and constitute a new menace to the lives of such of the populace as have thus far escaped being killed by automobiles.

Without presuming to assume that the gentleman is a bit of an alarmist, I'd like to point out that he can obtain millions of adherents for this measure among old-fashioned Americans by tacking in an amendment to his bill providing that the bars likewise shall be put up against foreign-born communists.

How Times Change.

I JUST read what I once knew for myself but had forgotten in the rush and bustle of these latter days. It related to the attitude which America, considerably less than half a century ago, held toward unescorted woman. For instance, as recently as 1890 not many respectable hotels would permit one of them to register.

Some time after 1900—in fact, as I remember, it was about 1910—a prominent lady was asked to leave one of the smartest hotels in New York city because she dared to light a cigarette in the public lounge. As for women drinking at a bar—well, not even the most forward-looking liberal could conceive of so incredible a sight as that.

And now just look at the darned things!

Hardships de Luxe.

WHEN our plutocratic classes decide to go simple, they go simple, regardless of what it costs 'em.

A rich couple have just completed a trip out here, following the ancient trails of the early pathfinders. Like true pioneer stock, they roughed it in specially built twin trailers, each about the size of a pullman but much more complete, and were towed by a couple of Rolls-Royces. The servants, only six in number, had to put up with two much cheaper cars.

During the entire trip there was no dressing for dinner and thus, with true democratic spirit, was the primitive plan of the expedition carried out. Every hardship encountered enroute—such as the champagne getting all jolted up and the caviar coming unglued in the can—was cheerfully endured. An armed guard was maintained at night to repel kidnapers and hostile Indian tribes.

I wonder how Jim Bridger and Kit Carson ever stood it with no butler along—in fact, not even a second man.

Tweeds and Peats

The famous Harris tweeds came into being through an accident of nature. The freezing winds which swept across the barren islands of the Outer Hebrides, off the coast of Scotland, made it imperative that the natives have warm wind-proof, weather-proof garments. With nowhere else to turn, the women of the islands took advantage of the unusually thick fleece which was the winter coat of their sheep, and from it they wove for their men the first crude Harris tweeds. Because they had nothing but the natural dyes made from lichens and crotle, and nowhere to steep their wool except over peat fires, Harris tweed has always been characterized by a peaty outdoor odor. These tweeds had been worn in the Outer Hebrides for many years before the fashion centers of the world discovered them and elevated them to the front rank of sports fash-

Talk About Smart Frocks

"AUNT ALMA, there's just one thing I don't like about my new dress—it's so attractive I'm afraid Sis over there will appropriate it when I'm not looking. Outside of that I'm crazy about it, and I think you're swell to make it for me. Why?"

"What's this, what's this? If that isn't a laugh. Aunt Alma! Imagine me wanting anybody's dress. Why since you've taught me to sew—my own I never want anything. I just make it and that's that. This sport dress, for instance, took me only one afternoon."

Praise From Auntie.

"I think you do wonderfully well with your sewing, my dear. You'll be making my clothes the first thing I know. I feel especially pleased with my new spring dress and I have both of you to thank for suggesting this style. It does right well by my hips, and it's so comfortable through the shoulders. I guess I should diet but in this dress I feel nice and slender. Don't you see, girls, how important it is to choose a style that's particularly becoming? It's abiding by this theory that gives some women such enviable chic."

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Colorful Apples—If apples are put in water containing a little lemon juice a few minutes before cooking, they will keep their color.

When Washing Paint—Add a little turpentine to the hot soapy water. It greatly simplifies the job and makes much less "elbow grease" necessary, especially when the paint has that rather greasy film caused by the fumes from fires or gas stoves.

Date Pie—Two cups milk, half pound dates, two eggs, one-quarter teaspoon salt, nutmeg. Cook dates with milk twenty minutes in top of double boiler. Strain and rub through sieve, then add eggs and salt. Line pie plate with paste, pour in filling and bake in quick oven at first to set rim, decrease heat afterwards.

Angel Cake—One cupful of white of eggs, one and one-quarter cupfuls of granulated sugar. One cupful of flour. One-half teaspoon cream of tartar. A pinch of salt added to whites before whipping; flavor to taste. Cook in a very slow oven. Yolks of the eggs may be used for mayonnaise.

Bechamel Sauce—Melt a quarter cup butter in saucepan, add one-quarter cup flour, stir until smooth. Add gradually one and a half cups of highly seasoned chicken stock while stirring constantly. Add one-half cup of hot cream and beat until smooth and glossy. Season with salt, pepper and fine grating of nutmeg. If a yellow sauce is desired, remove sauce from range and add the beaten yolks of two eggs diluted with one-quarter cup warm cream. Do not allow sauce to boil after adding egg yolks.

Stuffed Celery—Prepare inner stalks of celery. Fill them with equal parts of creamed Roquefort and cream cheese, mashed till smooth with paprika, and serve side by side on a boat-shaped dish, or diced, in place of celery and cheese. Or if preferred use creamed cream cheese for the filling after flavoring it to taste with pepper, salt, paprika, chopped chives or shallots and pimiento. A touch of tomato catsup can also be added.

Dust-Proofing Pictures—Has the dust got into your picture frame? It should be examined periodically and new brown paper backings should be stuck on to make it dust-proof.

ABRAHAM A MAN OF PRAYER

International Sunday School Lesson for May 9, 1937

Golden Text: "The supplication of a righteous man availeth much in its working."—James 5:16.

(Lesson Text: Gen. Chap. 18)

Sitting in the door of his tent, under the oaks of Mamre, near the city of Hebron, Abraham saw three strangers approaching. In true Oriental custom, he ran out to meet them, bowing before them and beseeching them not to pass on until they had refreshed themselves by resting and partaking of food. When they consented, Abraham received them hospitably, had water brought for their feet and had a sumptuous feast prepared for them.

In appreciation of this hospitality, Abraham is informed by his guests that Sarah, his wife, should bear him a son. Overhearing the remark while in the tent, Sarah, knowing that both she and Abraham were beyond the age when they could expect children, laughed within herself. Here the divine character of the visitors is first revealed, when one of the men asked Abraham, "Wherefore did Sarah laugh?" It is most probable that Abraham himself did not know that she had laughed. However, the promise was kept and Sarah did conceive in her old age.

When his guests were ready to depart, Abraham escorted them perhaps to the village of Beni Navim, three miles East of Hebron, where, through gaps in the hills the Dead Sea could be seen and, in the distance before them lay the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, within a half mile of each other.

Until this time, Abraham had not learned of the purpose of the visit of his divine guests. In verses 17-19, God is spoken of as talking to himself about the wisdom of taking Abraham into his confidence and informing him that these two cities, Sodom and Gomorrah, were to be destroyed. Deciding that it was necessary for Abraham, who was to be the father of a great and mighty nation through which all the nations of the earth were to be blessed, to understand God's dealings with His people, God told Abraham that, because of their wickedness, Sodom and Gomorrah were to be destroyed.

While they were talking two of the men departed and went on toward Sodom. Jehovah remained to talk further with Abraham, who was distressed at learning the fate which was to befall the inhabitants of the doomed cities. Knowing the mercy of God and having full confidence in his reasonableness and justice, Abraham begins to plead that the righteous be not destroyed with the wicked. He begs God to save Sodom if 50 righteous ones are found in the city, and God agrees. Encouraged by this promise of God, Abraham boldly makes one request after another, that the city be spared for the sake of 45 righteous men, then for the sake of 40, 30, or 20, of 10 Jehovah promises that he will not destroy the city for the ten's sake, and then departs from Abraham. The presumption is that there were not even 10 righteous men in the city of Sodom, for if there had been, the city would have been spared.

Through these pleas of Abraham two things are clearly shown. First, the nature of God—He is a God of mercy as well as of justice. He would rather pardon than punish but if punishment is needed, he punishes severely. Second, the value and effectiveness of intercessory prayer—God is 'prayer-hearing and a prayer answering God.' The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.—James 5:16.

Continuing on to Sodom the two visitors spent the night with Lot, Abraham's nephew. The inhabitants of Sodom tried to seize and mistreat them and, as a result were stricken with sudden blindness. The wickedness of the city having thus been proved, Lot was warned to gather his family together and flee to escape the impending destruction. Only Lot, his wife and their two young daughters were permitted to escape. Lot's wife, disobeying the instructions of the angels not to look back on the scene of destruction, perished.

The historical fact of the destruction of these two cities has been proven in recent excavations. Plainly they were destroyed by some great conflagration, for everywhere ashes were found. Article made of pottery, weapons and jewelry worn by women in the time of Abraham have been found on the sites of these ancient cities.

Why did Abraham intercede for Sodom and Gomorrah? He knew their wickedness and knew they deserved the punishment they received. He prayed for these people because he loved his fellow men and could not bear to think of their suffering, even though he knew it was because of their own wrong-doing. With many of us, prayer is a very perfunctory thing—with Abraham it was not—he meant every word he uttered and he was willing to do all he could to have his prayer answered.

According to W. H. Griffith Thomas, 'Enkangement of soul, increase of sympathy, a deepening of tenderness, a growing unselfishness, and a gradual conformity to the image of Him whose main thought is (and was) always for others, will mark the life of the believer who makes prominent the work of intercessory prayer.'

PRESTONSBURG, THE BEAUTIFUL

"Now is the time for all good Prestonsburgers to come to the aid of their city." No, we are not to be destroyed, not even besieged, but we ARE to be seen. The critical eye of Kentucky will be on us. As the club women from all over Kentucky come to the State Convention of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, which is to be held at Pikeville on May 11-13, they will pass through Prestonsburg. Let us show them a lovely city.

We want to be at our best. Nature is doing her part, for this is the loveliest time of the year. If there is a time that Prestonsburg can be beautiful, it is now. About the only trouble is, she needs cleaning. The hedges should be sheared, the walks swept, the streets cleaned and certainly the rubbish burned or otherwise destroyed.

The beautification project of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club of planting 270 trees along the highway calls especial attention to Prestonsburg, so whether we wish it or not, these women from Louisville, Lexington, Covington, Paducah, Ashland and Frankfort, and all the small places will remember us. Let us give them a beautiful city to remember us by.

Men, women and children, if you have pride, prepare to show it now.

OBSERVING MOTHER'S DAY

Along with other memorable dates in each year comes Mother's Day to capture the attention of men and women of Prestonsburg and to remind them of the debt they owe to their own mothers. To living mothers the day brings, perhaps, some joy and gladness over tangible evidence of children's love and to the memory of those who have passed on is added the respect and admiration of mature appreciation on the part of their offspring.

It is eminently right and proper that men and women, boys and girls, should take part in the observance of this day set apart to Mothers' living and dead.

It is a noble sentiment to inculcate in the hearts of human beings, some of whom, somehow seem to have missed the acquisition of abiding affection based upon complete understanding.

Mother's Day, however, affords men and women an opportunity to develop a broader love of particular mothers when it invites them to attach their reverence to motherhood in general and transfer their solicitude to the welfare of all mothers. If it can accomplish this completely, the role of all mothers will be made easier and the joy of all mothers increased.

Let us honor mothers of all ages, but let us also be concerned with the health and welfare of the mothers that are to be. The experience which nature reserves for women brings with it dangers that can be avoided but alas, too often, even in this era of civilization, we are the cause of suffering and death. The preservation of a mother's life to give her child the love and care it can secure from none other is worth our enterprise and, if our expression of love for mother means anything, it will save some of the women now doomed to become the victims of childbirth.

The saving of a mother's life is an important event to the child, as well as to the mother herself. Society has a deep interest in child welfare because many problems that involve young children, and even older boys and girls, are caused by the loss of their mother's care and loving guidance. Two-thirds of the fatalities connected with the coming of children are preventable and should be prevented.

There is more behind Mother's Day than a sentimental affection for one's mother. The facts may not be pleasant and we may wish, sometimes to let them rest but sooner or later they will intrude upon the consciousness of men and Mother's Day will take on a fuller meaning with health, life and happiness guaranteed to all women who venture near the valley of the shadow in order for a little child to be born.

Right Out Of The Air

By R F SERVICE

Don Ameche made his radio reputation as an actor and then got a film contract. His newest radio triumph is the big new variety show over the NBC Red network at 8:00 p. m., e. d. s. t., on Sunday. Don will be master of ceremonies, introducing guest stars and his regular cast.

Don Ameche

tain that inexperienced radio speakers like the ones on their program don't "scare" as easily as the professionals.

***Many radio artists when they broadcast, imagine the groups gathered around a loudspeaker in millions of living rooms. Grace Moore, now heard over the Columbia network every Saturday night, envisions a semi-darkened balcony with row of faces in a great concert hall. She actually sang once in the hall in Europe, but she can't remember in what city.

Grace Moore

***Rudy Vallee's coronation broadcasts from England establish another radio record for him. Rudy has done more first things on his variety hour than any other radio performer.

Charles Martin

represented by Johnny the Call Boy.

***All kinds of offers to come east during the summer couldn't get Don Wilson, the announcer, out of California. He's heard on the air from there the year around.

***Frank Black, noted maestro, is gaining a reputation as radio's busiest traveler. After his Sunday Magic Key program in New York, he leaves for Chicago to do his Monday night series there—and sandwiches in trips to NBC stations around the country as well.

***Conrad Frank Black Thibault, famous baritone, doesn't let radio and Hollywood interfere with his concert schedules. He travels entirely by plane.

***Irene Nobilette, of the team of Tim and Irene, now heard Sundays over the Mutual network is regarded by many radio experts as the leading comedienne of the airwaves. She's adding to her reputation during the summer months with her husband, Tim Ryan.

***If Johnny Green isn't conducting an orchestra next fall it will be because he has succumbed to offers to write movies or musical comedies in England.

***When one radio comedian pays tribute to another, that's news. Consequently when Edgar Bergen, the ventriloquist, who gave Charlie McCarthy nationwide fame said that Bob Burns, the Music Hall's man from Van Buren had the smoothest delivery of any comic he ever heard, the professionals sat up and took notice.

Unpainted buildings are usually given two coats of paint, the first being mostly oil and the second regular paint. Two thin coats are better than one thick coat or even two thick coats. Cracked, blistered or peeling paint should be brushed or scraped from old surfaces.

FIGHT FOREST FIRES

Continued from page one and getting out of control. He warns, "Be sure every brush fire is attended until dead out; that every cigarette stub is torn apart or mashed out, that every camp fire is covered with dirt before leaving it unattended; in short, that all fires in the woods be 'dead out' before leaving them unattended.

Continued from page one brick school building at Wheelwright, a 12-room frame building at Weeks-bury and a frame building for a gymnasium at Wayland. The Knott county board of round the McDowell high education proposed to sell school, either by agreement their interest in the Lackey or condemnation proceedings, consolidated school to the Floyd board, and take the student body.

Knott county students from Lackey and tutor them at Hindman. In 1928 the Knott county board, Supt. Hall explained, invested $1,500 in the purchase of the Lackey school grounds and the school has been operated under a joint contract between the two county school boards.

The Knott board of education wanted $1,500 as a sale price. The Floyd body rejected the proposal Saturday and indicated a desire for furtherance of the contract. Mr. Hall said that withdrawal of the Knott students would mean discontinuance of the Lackey high school.

Levy Lowered

The consolidated school levy for the Harold-Laynesville district was cut by vote of the board members from 75c to 50c per $100. The revenue to be derived from the lowered levy was deemed sufficient to operate the school for the coming year. Supt. Hall was authorized to secure sufficient ground around the McDowell high school, either by agreement or condemnation proceedings, for a play ground for the student body.

UNUSUAL VERDICT Continued from page 1. Parsons was returned, Parsons was brought before the court by Jailer B. L. Sturgill, assistants, but upon entering the courtroom, went into a spasm of pulling his hair and falling, quivering, to the floor. He was returned to his cell.

Brought before Judge Caudill Wednesday, Parsons seemed calm and received his sentence after entering a plea of guilty.

Jailer B. L. Sturgill said Parsons had been acting "queer" since being jailed on the charge.

John Laferty, town marshal of Allen, said that (referring to the Beran saying) "this is the fourth shooting scrape for Parsons."

Other Trials Tom Fitzpatrick, Martin was sentenced to two years Friday for the cutting and wounding of his son, Harold, age 12.

The trial of Will Branham, Wheelwright, was continued to the September term. The Epp Laferty trial was carried over to the September term with a rule to try the case. Court was adjourned Wednesday noon until Friday morning as the court had caught up with the docket.

SIX WOUNDED IN KNOTT SHOOTING

Bradley is quoted as saying that all eight men went fishing. After they had caught several fish, they began dividing them up and got one man's share. The slighted one began grabbing some of the fish and the shooting followed. Name of the person who was slighted was not revealed.

One rumor has it that one of the party did all the shooting. There seems to be a number of versions of the affair with very little definite information.

One pound of coal contains as much power as 15 Million Pounds of water falling 1 foot.

Coal!

"THE FIRST AND BEST SOURCE OF POWER...."

BEFORE his death Thomas Edison said: "The first and best source of power is coal... water power is a political issue, not a business one. Rates (for electricity) are fixed at any point by the cost of generating power from steam."

Ever since the production and transmission of electricity became commercially feasible, science and invention have steadily progressed in improving the extraction of energy from coal. Less than fifty years ago it was necessary to use eight pounds of coal to make one kilowatt-hour. Today there is under construction in the system from which this company draws its power supply a power plant that will produce a kilowatt-hour for every pound of coal burned under the boilers.

In spite of this extraordinary improvement, the plant is only recovering one-fourth of the power the coal contains. Engineers are now able to assert that, on the average, water power can no longer compete with coal if all the costs of production are included in the cost of water power.

It seems almost unbelievable but there is locked up in one pound of coal about 10,000,000 foot pounds of energy. Stated in simple terms, a pound of coal contains power equal to that supplied by 10,000,000 pounds of water falling one foot. In competition with a modern steam plant, the huge power plants now being constructed by the Federal Government at enormous cost to the taxpayers are already obsolete. As science and invention continue to improve the extraction of electric power from coal the relative economy of steam power production over water power will grow even more marked. Thomas Edison was right when he said: "The first and best source of power is coal."

THE SOUTHERN COLONEL

Everywhere the Southern Colonel is known: A few deft strokes of the pen can reveal him, slouch hat, goatee, mustache, dignity, love of good horses. I strongly suspect him a lineal descendant of Sir Roger de Coverley and of Uncle Sam, another folk type of ours. The type must have been known in the earlier years when actual country gentlemen came from England to America and renewed their former life, this time along the James River rather than in rural England. The type does not seem to have been discovered by literary men until 1832 when John Pendleton Kennedy, a native of Maryland who often in Tidewater, Virginia, created several Southerners in his novel SWALLOW BARN. Colonel Tracy, an easy going courteous gentleman, with a fondness for lawsuits, owns a plantation house near Swallow Barn and dispenses hospitality to the little world around him. Colonel Merriwether, the other outstanding Southern gentleman of the book, is younger but has many of the same characteristics. There are also two old-fashioned lawyers who figure in the story, lawyers such as could be found only in the Old South. Since Kennedy's time the type has been so well known and regarded that it is almost dangerous for a literary man to assume that there might be other kinds of Southern gentlemen, before the war, or since.

This early form of the Colonel was picturesque without being in any way pathetic. It remained for Thos. Nelson Page and other writers of a generation ago to add to this accented portrait by showing the Colonel in his poverty and disappointment after the war. Page very deftly does this by having a faithful old slave tell how great a man his old master was. Irwin Russell, from the far South also let the old slave tell of grand times in the plantation house. The Colonel of our childhood had served in the Confederate Army; he may have been an officer or not, but by my time all living Confederates were regarded as officers. Almost before we realized that a great institution was passing, the Confederate soldier was almost non-existent.

But the type continues, in tradition and in literature. Actual men who look like the conventional type are few and have never been so numerous as folks from other sections would imagine. Some how, however, most people ignore the ninety and nine who have other features and recall only the one that lives up to the type that tradition has built. Occasionally we see a younger man, a generation or two younger than the men who fought with Lee, who consciously or unconsciously looks the part. Three days before I wrote these very words I saw a man who could not have been born earlier than 1870 but who seemed to have stepped right off the battlefield of Shiloh or Manassas. In a large public assembly he attracted more attention than the occasion that brought nearly a whole city together. I looked at him when I should have been listening to a thrilling program, he seemed to live up completely to the traditional conception of the Southern Colonel, goatee, slouch hat, eagle eyes and all.

MANY KY. COUNTIES HIT BY FLOOD, SAYS RED CROSS REPORT

Fifty-seven counties in Kentucky experienced flood damage and in all of these counties the Red Cross has done rehabilitation work. Our work in 19 of these counties has been closed. Work in 23 additional counties will be closed by May 15. As the work closes our trained case workers are being concentrated in the counties where the number of families requiring relief is the largest. By May 15 it will be noted that our work will be completed in all but 15 counties of the state. In all counties, except Jefferson, registration has already closed. In Jefferson county, the last day on which registration for flood relief in Louisville and Jefferson county will be received is Friday, April 30.

As of April 21, we had 78,571 families registered with us for rehabilitation relief. As of the same date we had completed 33,562 of these families, leaving a balance of 45,009 cases to be acted upon. Cases are being closed at the rate of more than 6,000 per week. If present plans materialize, all case work in the state will be completed by June 15 with exception of Jefferson and McCracken counties, where it will be completed by June 22.

Only two warehouses remain open at this date. Concentration camps with the exception of two have been closed and these two will be closed in a few days.

Building and repair of damaged or destroyed homes is progressing rapidly and thru-out the state increasing activity in this repair work is apparent.

Many thousands of disbursing orders have been issued to flood families for household goods, clothing, maintenance, food, seed and livestock. Expenditures in excess of $2,700,000 have already been made.

We wish to express our appreciation for the splendid cooperation we are experiencing throughout the state. The flood sufferers themselves as well as all agencies—private and public, civic and church groups, clubs and service organizations have shown a fine cooperative spirit, and it is because of this condition that our work is progressing so effectively. We would appreciate it greatly if you would call our attention to any seeming injustices on our part to reach families in need.

THE FARM AND HOME

(Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station)

People complained about the heat last summer, and yet they insist on keeping their houses at a high temperature thru-out the winter. Living in overheated rooms is debilitating, reduces vitality and resistance to infection, and opens the way for colds and pneumonia.

Beekeepers, whether beginners or old timers, will find a lot of information in the new beekeeping circular of Prof. W. A. Price, state entomologist. Ask any county or home agent for a copy, or write to the College of Agriculture, Lexington, for circular 228.

Many farmers cooperating in the agricultural conservation program are planning to sow alfalfa this spring. A good practice is to broadcast or drill 300 to 400 pounds of superphosphate, scatter two tons of limestone and sow 12 pounds of alfalfa seed to the acre.

Money is valued only for what it will buy, now or later. Many things on the market are all right in themselves, but for some families they won't add one iota to long-term happiness or satisfaction. A good rule for spending: buy only those things that make for a more effective life.

Short Clipping Injures Grass
 A plea against clipping laws too closely is made by N. R. Elliott, landscape specialist at the Kentucky College of Agriculture. When grass is cut short so much of the leaf is removed that the remainder cannot manufacture sufficient plant food to feed the plant and provide for additional growth, he declares. Also the sun often burns the grass when it is clipped short, causing it to turn brown and sometimes die. For spring he advises that the mower be adjusted to leave at least 1-2 inches of grass, and when hot weather comes it should be left 2 to 2 1-2 inches high.

Fluvanna gasped as revelation came. "Kezzie! . . . Not Jerry?" "I suppose we couldn't keep it much longer. You'd have heard. In fact I'm surprised Lizzie hasn't been over already, ranting to you!" Fluvanna shook her head, gave a hopeless sound in her throat. "Don't you realize what you've done? It's not Lizzie—it's Ellen! The poor child had confided in me all spring. She was in love for the first time in her life! . . . Oh, Kezzie—Kezzie!"

Kezia drew her mother's hands down from her face, which she had covered. Her voice was light and winning. "Sweetest darling Mother, you'll allow him to come to the house? . . . You said you would! And you'll be nice to him when he comes?"

Fluvanna thought, "Was she really thinking of marrying him?" "Yes, he may come to the house. There must be no more secret meetings."

"You lamb!" She kissed her mother. "And you'll not say anything to make him uncomfortable? He's very sensitive. He said it almost made him shriek the way the Pendletons looked down on him!"

It was Fluvanna's swift thought that receiving Jerry casually and pleasantly might remove the piquancy of the situation as far as Kezia was concerned. "I'll be careful of his—sensitivity," she replied.

Kezia looked at her doubtfully. Then, "I knew I could count on you to understand," she murmured. "I'll go out and help Anna get the lunch on the table."

She went out directly lunch was over. About one o'clock it began to rain, a cold drizzle. The rain was too late to help the baked farms and gardens, but was soothing to taut nerves, strained with too much heat and sunlight. Fluvanna wandered about the house rather forlornly.

She would take a hot bath, and then a nap. No, she would lie down first. That odd pain which she had so often lately, was coming back. She went into her room and closed the window where the rain beat in. Someone came in the front door without ringing the bell. She heard Dorrie's voice down home.

"Up here, Dorrie." She sat down suddenly in a chair, overcome with weakness.

"I brought you a cake I made myself," said Dorrie. "How delicious that will be! You're so thoughtful, Dorrie." Dorrie was a good child.

"I haven't had a maid lately. I've been doing everything myself." Dorrie seemed to seek approval.

"Did Tillie get another place?" "She had to go home because her mother was sick. I wanted to do it . . . thought I'd feel better."

Fluvanna bit her lip with the sudden pain, closed her eyes. After a moment she heard Dorrie's voice, sounding as if it were far-off, "You look so strange."

She did not answer. Then seeing Dorrie's eyes fixed on her in a kind of fright, Fluvanna answered with an effort: "Don't mind me. I'm terribly upset and worried."

"You know about it?" asked Dorrie, a little sharply. Fluvanna nodded. Dorrie must have heard about Kezia and Jerry too. That was the reason for this visit, the cake was an offering of sympathy. "It's all so sad—so cruel." She sighed.

Something leaped in Dorrie's face; something rebellious and unkind. "Hugh told you! He said he hadn't!"

"No, not Hugh. I just heard it today. I suspected something—things puzzled me. I asked Kezia. It took her a long time, but finally she told me."

Dorrie's lip curled. "Kezia!"

Why did Dorrie speak in that tone? Why did she stare at her with such a hostile gaze? Suddenly the pain in Fluvanna's chest gripped her; her heart began to beat with quick hammer-like strokes. Faster and faster until the pain seemed to be bursting her lungs. The room revolved swiftly like a whirling black disk with a circle of light at the center. The circle of light became smaller and smaller until the blackness blotted it out altogether. She knew nothing more.

Later she became conscious of Dr. Carey holding her wrist, his finger on her pulse. His face was grave.

"I must have fainted," she murmured.

"You must have indeed." "A day or so later he said, 'You'll have to face it, Fluvanna; that heart of yours is a leaky old organ. With care it might see you through some little time—a year, two—three. And then again . . .'"

She listened to him with no feeling of shock. Had not some inner presentiment told her that it would not be long? "And then again—?"

"Three months—six months." "I won't burden my children with such news. Death shouldn't be heralded months in advance. It's an individual—matter." She smiled a little.

So her son and daughters only heard that the fainting attack was brought on by exhaustion and the hot weather. There was some talk of a trip and a change of climate, but this Fluvanna vetoed and the matter was dropped.

CHAPTER IX

As the weeks wore by Hugh experienced the disintegrating effects of split emotions. Try as he would he could not reconcile the situation into ease of mind. It was like a broken dish which had been unskillfully mended. You saw at once the ugly dark line where it had been joined together. Grudgingly he admitted that Dorrie seemed to be making an effort to efface her conduct; she was conciliatory, consulted his wishes in a new way. This last was disconcerting for it continually reminded him of the reason. She had been wont to demand, not to appeal. She did not try to get another maid when Tillie left, studied a cook book, and had new dishes for dinner. She carefully recounted where she had been each day, as if to reassure him.

He had a new wife—but at what price?—he told himself. Although his longing for her did not cease, became more powerful as he became more aware of it, it was a hideous thing, humiliating him because he was helpless before it. He was often short and curt with her, then to make up for it, was carefully polite.

One day he went into a new restaurant for lunch. The owner had achieved the synthetic atmosphere of a Moorish inn, stone floors, rude fireplaces, and jugs before a drinking fountain in the wall. The place was dimly lighted and it was not until he had ordered that he saw Ellen Pendleton eating luncheon with Ronny Wakes. They occupied a red leather wall seat just opposite him.

Ellen was talking animatedly to Ronny, her frequent laughter a little feverish in its gaiety. Preoccupied with his own affairs, he had seen and heard nothing of Ellen for some time, and when Ronny left the table to telephone, Hugh crossed over.

"Hello, stranger. I haven't seen you all summer."

"It has been a long time." Hugh fumbled. "Everything going well?" he inquired after a pause.

"Everything." "I must be getting back to the office. By the way, you're with Ronny. How come?"

Ellen's lashes swept her cheeks, then she raised her eyes unflinchingly. "I suppose because he asked me."

"I'm squelched! But I thought—I was given to understand—that your interest lay in another direction. That soulful young chap, Jerry."

He saw an odd thing. A quiver of pain, so sentient, so defenseless, crossed her face that he thought she was going to faint. Then she was controlled; she even smiled. "Haven't you heard? His interest lies in another direction."

"I haven't heard a thing," he replied frowning. "Mind if I say he has rotten taste?"

She laughed on a low note. "Loyal as ever! . . . But—people change."

"Yes—they do," said Hugh slowly. His own predicament made him more alive to the remote suffering in her eyes. "Call on me if there's anything . . ."

Ellen shook her head firmly. "Thanks—there's nothing."

Ronny came back from the telephone with apologies. Hugh spoke to him and then took his departure. He found himself wishing he did not have to go back to the office; the work had gone flat to him and he found himself struggling to concentrate on the simplest problems. When he hung up his hat, Miss Ruskin passed with a paper in her hand. "Mr. Sloan wants to see you, Mr. Marsh."

He went into the office of the president. Sloan was telephoning but he nodded him to a chair. "Marsh," he began briskly when he hung up the receiver, "how would you like to take a vacation?"

Hugh felt a faint perspiration break out on his forehead. "You mean you're not satisfied with my work?"

Sloan gave a short laugh. "Look in the glass, my boy. You've been off color for a month. Run away for a week or so, play golf, keep out in the open air, forget the business. You're heading for something—an illness, I would say—if you don't snap out of it."

The thought clicked in Hugh's brain that twice lately he had heard of men sent on vacations by thoughtful companies, men who in a few days received a wire that their services would no longer be needed. "I'm all right," he answered brusquely. "I feel better working."

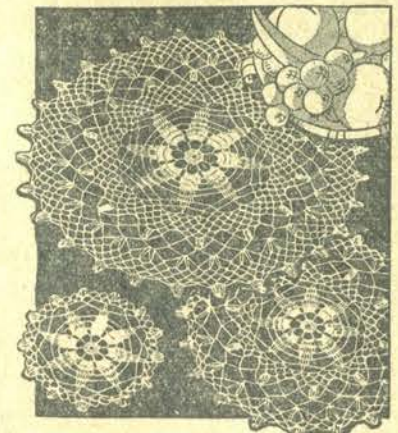

His superior played with his fountain pen. "Something bothering you?" he inquired. Hugh did not answer. "Financial?"

"No."

FIRESTONE TIRES AND AUTO SUPPLIES
SAVE MONEY IN EVERY FARM OPERATION

EVEN though the prices of farm crops are advancing, the best way you can make more money is to SAVE IT in production costs.

YOU SAVE 25% in fuel costs and 25% in time by putting Ground Grip Tires on your tractor and all wheeled farm implements. They ride and pull easier and reduce repair bills.

YOU SAVE because one set of Firestone Tires will fit several implements. Your Implement Dealer or Firestone Tire Dealer has a plan whereby he will cut down the wheels on your present implements to a uniform diameter and weld a flat, steel rim to the end of the spokes. And by the use of Firestone Demountable Rims the tires and rims can be taken off one machine when not in use and applied to another.

YOU SAVE because Firestone Ground Grip Tires are built with EXTRA construction features.

These outstanding advantages are patented and used only in Firestone Tires. Gum-Dipping saturates and coats every cord with pure liquid rubber. This process counteracts internal friction and heat and makes the tire much stronger to resist the strains of the extra pull. The two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread bind the tread and body together into one inseparable unit of tremendous strength. The scientific arrangement in spacing of the deep, rugged bars of the self-cleaning tread gives greater traction and drawbar pull.

YOU SAVE by buying NOW as tire prices are sure to advance. The price of crude rubber has advanced 110% and cotton more than 26% during the past two years. Tire prices are bound to go higher. Buy Firestone Ground Grip Tires NOW for your cars, trucks, tractors and all wheeled farm implements and make money by reducing your cost of production. See your Implement Dealer, Firestone Tire Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store TODAY.

The Farmer's Choice FOR RURAL HIGHWAYS

IT REALLY doesn't pay to drive on tires after the "non-skid" is worn off—in fact, the last 1,000 miles of wear in a tire are only worth about 38c. Why take the risk of a dangerous skid or perhaps fatal blowout when new Firestone Standard Tires cost so little? More and more farmers are buying Firestone Standard Tires because they get the benefits of Gum-Dipping, the Firestone patented process that counteracts internal friction and heat which ordinarily destroy tire life. They get longer non-skid mileage and unusually low cost per mile with dependable SAFETY.

It is almost unbelievable that so much tire could be bought for so little. Firestone developed this tire primarily for rural highway use and a tire of first grade quality could only be made to sell at these low prices by building them in tremendous quantities. That's why you SAVE in first cost and in cost per mile. You also SAVE yourself from accidents because they give greater protection against dangerous skidding and blowouts.

Farmers everywhere are making Firestone Dealers and Firestone Auto Supply and Service Stores their headquarters for all automotive supplies. You get greater values in everything you buy and you get all your needs in one place—including tires—tubes—batteries—spark plugs—brake lining—fan belts—car radios—home radios—garden hose and garden tools—seat covers—light bulbs, and more than 2,000 other useful articles. You can be sure when you buy Firestone products you are getting the greatest value for your money. If you have not received the new 1937 Firestone Auto Supply Catalog, write for it today—address Firestone, Akron, Ohio, or Los Angeles, California.

GARRETT

Garrett Wins Oratorical Contest

For the first time in the history of the Floyd County Forensic League the trophy for trophy for oratory became the permanent possession of a member school when Garrett took first place in the contest held at Garritt Wednesday night, April 28. Permanent possession can be obtained only after 3 victories in the art of spellbinding. Twice before Garrett had been victorious with Devert Owens as representative in 1934 and 1935. Willoughby Patton, a senior, ably stepped into his predecessor's boots to bring home the bacon this year.

Second place was taken by Audra Mae Elam, Martin representative, with the subject, "Current Threats to American Democracy." (This was the title of Patton's oration, also). Third place went to Luther Prater, of Bonanza, for an excellent delivery of "Aversions of Democracy." Prizes of $20, $10 and $5 are being awarded the successful contestants by the Floyd county board of education.

Judges were: Mel Pophry, Paintsville, attorney, and former judge Texas court of appeals; Orville Wheeler, supt. Paintsville schools, and W. I. Cantor, pastor Southern Methodist Church, Paintsville.

Officials in charge of the contest state that this was one of the most successful ever held in Floyd county so far as oratory was concerned. Ten orations of superior order were delivered on the general topic: "Current Threats to Democracy." Delivery was excellent by a good majority of the contestants. Winners had plenty of competition.

In the order of their appearance the following representatives used the following titles:

- Byno Meade, (Wheelwright), 'Termites of Democracy'
- Minnie Martin, Maytown, 'Conservatism'
- Luther Prater, Bonanza, 'Aversions of Democracy'
- W. F. Hall, McDowell, 'Current Threats to Democracy'
- Thelma Hays Lackey, 'Current Threats to Democracy'
- Jarvis Hornby, Wayland, 'The Twilight of Democracy'
- Beatrice Crisp, Auxier, 'Current Threats to Democracy'
