$85,000 BUILDING OKED FOR TOWN BY SCHOOL BOARD

City Body Votes to Pay From $25,000 to $35,000 As Share of Cost

22 ROOMS

Voting to pay from $25,000 to $35,000 as their share in the cost of constructing a most modern 22-room brick building to house the Prestonsburg city school grades. The city school board trustees agreed to accept the tentative plans and specifications for an $85,000 structure in a meeting at the local high school building Friday morning, Dr. O. T. Stephens, board member, announced shortly afterward.

Congressman A. J. May, Mayor A. C. Carter, and WPA officials met with the board. Besides 22 class rooms, the plans call for an auditorium seating over 700 and a basement underneath the entire building. The new fireproof edifice will take the place of the present over-crowded building constructed of handmade brick in 1904.

The WPA authorities in Washington, City Superintendent Ishmael Trippett said had approved the erection of a school building for Prestonsburg. At the time of the approval in Washington some time ago the plans, shown locally, displayed the outlay of a $100,000 structure.

The WPA proposals, the titles of them varying slightly have been presented to the school board. The board members met Thursday night and Friday morning, reaching an oked of one of the proposals Friday.

CONSIDERING NEW COURTHOUSE WING; TO COST $12,500

Will Contain Eight Rooms for Four of Floyd County's Officials

A report is circulated here this week to the effect that the Floyd fiscal court is considering construction of a wing on the courthouse on the east side of the courthouse entry similar to the one on the left. The proposed addition is estimated to cost about $12,000 by County Clerk A. B. Meade and will contain office space for the county superintendent, the county health department, the county agent and commonwealth's attorney.

According to the tentative outlay it will contain at least eight rooms and will be two stories in height, of brick construction. The court will decide definitely, it is understood, when the magistrates meet here on May 22.

At present, the offices mentioned are scattered about the town and anybody coming to the county seat on "courthouse" business must necessarily traverse the streets to five different points to contact the officials.

In the meantime, following closely upon the heels of the completion of the recent interior alterations and building of a spacious porch and entry way, the workmen are now busily stuccoing the main building at a cost of about $3,000.

The courthouse remodeling began after the building suffered a disastrous fire last year.

GEORGE PEABODY FELLOWSHIP OFFERED TO LOCAL TEACHER

Mr. Jack Allen, a member of the Prestonsburg high school faculty, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Allen, of this place, is the recipient of a graduate fellowship awarded to him by Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, Richmond, Ky. The fellowship entitles Mr. Allen to a year's free scholarship at the George Peabody College for teachers at Nashville, Tenn.

The Nashville school granted Eastern only one graduate fellowship and one faculty fellowship and the Kentucky school in turn favored Mr. Allen, which is, indeed, an honor. He is, this week, filing a letter of acceptance.

Mr. Allen, a student at the Richmond school in the years of 1931-35, has been a teacher in the local high school for the past two years. He teaches in the school from which he graduated in 1931. His ability as a teacher, has won the admiration of fellow faculty members and pupils alike.

RELEASING INTEREST IN BRIDGE CONTRACT

S. G. Rice announces this week that he is releasing his interests in the Banner bridge contract, in order to care for other business, to Riley Hall or Allen, this county.

This is subject to approval. Mr. Rice said, of the fiscal court in its meeting May 22.

The new partnership will then be I. N. Hall and Riley Hall. Amount of the contract is $25,990.

FLOYD'S COUNTY SCHOOLS ANNUAL EXPECTED MAY 15

Fourteen hundred copies of the Floyd county schools all-county annual are expected to arrive this coming Saturday, May 15. Every high school in the county has its own portion of the annual.

Its contents are from Prestonsburg, Betsy Layne, Martin, Auxier, Maytown, Garrett, Lackey, McDowell, Wayland, Wheelwright, Bonanza, Weeksburg and the Weeksburg colored high school. Weeksburg is a one-year high school and Bonanza has no graduating seniors.

The 156 linen-finished pages contain pictures of all high school classes and school extra-curricular clubs as well as the likenesses of each school's graduates. The pages lie between black covers touched with gold letters and decorations.

PRESTONSBURG RAPS CITY'S WATER RATES

The Public Service Commission in Frankfort, Ky., Wednesday, May 12, received a complaint from the city of Prestonsburg regarding rates charged by the Prestonsburg Water Company, which has its headquarters in Springfield, Ky.

The commission sent a copy of the complaint to the company, along with an order summoning it to file an answer within 10 days, according to a report reaching here.

Recently the water company filed suits here in circuit court against the Prestonsburg board of supervisors and against the county board of supervisors. These are docketed for May 20.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bond spent the week-end in Lebanon, Ky., with Mrs. Bond's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Crawford.

GRADES FACULTY TACKETT RECEIVES HERE IS CHOSEN TWO-YEAR VERDICT

Messer to Act as Grades Head and High School Coach

Friday night, the Prestonsburg school board of education, composed of five members, Richard Spurlock, Heber Burke, Lon Miles, Dr. O. T. Stephens, and Mrs. W. M. May met at the high school building and selected the city graded school teachers for the next year.

Selection of the high school teachers was deferred by the board but it moved to have City Superintendent Ishmael Trippett to meet with the county board and make the choice.

W. M. Messer, high school coach and teacher, during the term of 1935-36 was chosen as grade principal and athletic director for the high school next year in the place of Richard Greenwell, who is the present athletic director. Both Messer and Greenwell are well-liked by the board and have good records at P. H. S., a member of the board stated. No reason was given for the change.

Teachers named and the grades tentatively assigned are as follows: Eighth grade, Evelyn Salisbury, Irene Stephens, Edna Collins; sixth grade, Anna Martin; fifth grade, Fannie Jarrell; fourth grade, Margaret Collins; third grade, Anna M. Melton, Pauline Burchett; second grade, Anna Laura May, Frances Jones; first grade, Shirley Hughes, Kitty Sandige. At the West Prestonsburg school: first grade, Edna Burke; second and third grades, Hebe Spradlin. Miss Burke is replacing Miss Enjah Hunley at West Prestonsburg, a report from the board meeting states.

Mrs. Joseph D. Harkins and son, J. D. Harkins, Jr., left Thursday for Ann Arbor, Mich., where Mrs. Harkins will be the guest of her son, Walter, for the Beta house party.

Will Seal 300 County Mines; Underground Fires Reported

Under ground fires in two mines in Floyd county are reported this week by Waites E. May, county supervisor of the mine sealing project, and it is said that several thousand acres of coal is in danger of being destroyed if the fire keeps on burning in one, the Autocrat Coal Co. mine at McDowell. The other mine, the Maguire-Elkhorn Coal Co. mine below Martin, is burning internally, but most of the coal, Mr. May stated, was mined out before the mine was abandoned.

The Autocrat mine was closed down and abandoned following differences between the union and company officials, it is understood. The fires, their origin unknown, Mr. May said, have been raging in this mine since its abandonment about six months ago. The McDowell mine is one of the best in Floyd county. Sealing the mine, he stated, would extinguish the fire.

Of the six mines already sealed, one of them, the Beaver Pond mine near here, was on fire and several acres of good coal was destroyed before the mine was sealed. The fires are put out by sealing all openings to the mine and cutting off all oxygen to the mine interior.

On Trial for Charge Slaying; Defense Pleas Temporary Insanity

Going to trial on his 35th birthday, Monday, May 10, charged with murder, Emmet Tackett, Ligon, Ky., was given two years imprisonment in the state penitentiary by a Floyd county jury in circuit court here on the following day after deliberating the case for more than five hours. Tackett was tried for the fatal shooting of McKinley Osborne at Tackett's place of business at Ligon a few months ago.

The jury evidently believed the defense plea of temporary insanity and found Tackett guilty of voluntary manslaughter.

At the beginning of the hearing the defense filed a challenge to the panel as a whole because a jury from this term's venire had tried Tackett and found him guilty on a minor charge. Defense attorneys Allen and Tackett pleaded to have the case tried at another term of court, nevertheless the trial proceeded.

At the time of the trouble, it said, Tackett operated a pool room and an adjoining store where he sold whiskey and beer. The fracas between Osborne, his brother, Carl and Tackett is said to have started over the breaking of some bottles in which the accused man was struck over the head a number of times with a cue stick.

Commonwealth witnesses testified that Tackett went into the store, procured his gun and fired upon the Osbornes, one of the shots striking McKinley in the back of the neck. Following this, they said, Osborne fell to the ground outside the establishment and Tackett came out, fired another shot, the last entering Osborne's eye and emerged at the back of the head.

ANTIQUITY SHOW AND QUILT DISPLAY ARE GREATLY ENJOYED

The past came to life at an antique and quilt show given last Friday by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Prestonsburg Presbyterian Church in the church parlors. During the afternoon and early evening guests from Prestonsburg, Paintsville and Pikeville enjoyed the well-arranged collection of materials from other years, and coverlets of diverse patterns.

Some of the articles exhibited had been brought to America during colonial and pre-national days. These included: a Paisley shawl, brass candlesticks, and a pewter tea set belonging to Mrs. Claude Stephens. The articles were brought to America in a sailing vessel during the first half of the seventeenth century.

An arithmetic work book, the property of L. Pittman, in 1804 was brought by Mrs. W. C. Rimmer; a Richmond, Va., newspaper of 1790, The Virginia Gazette, was loaned by Mrs. B. M. James; and a coffee jar, running back one hundred years, by Mrs. E. H. Sowards. Mrs. George Stephens had several dresses of bygone years in the display.

The quilts were striking and colorful in appearance, and there were several of peculiar note. These included: a coverlet of gorgeous wool flower garden design, loaned by Mrs. A. C. Harlowe; one containing in its materials bandanas of slaves of Civil War days, Mrs. Ishmael Trippett; quilts of beautiful and unusual designs, including a dogwood quilt, Mrs. Ida Hager, of Paintsville; a cherry quilt of Mrs. Fannie Archer of Paintsville; and an English daisy of Mrs. Boone Howard of Salyersville.

HUNTING TRIP NETS FIRST "RATTLER" OF SEASON NEAR HERE

The first "rattler" of the season, and a "whopper" at that, so it is reported, was captured by Sam Fraley, Tuesday, while hunting on "Gobblers Knob" near Prestonsburg. The bull rattlesnake had 11 rattles and a button which, old-timers say, indicate that the diamond-back reptile is 12 years old.

The snake measured about four feet and six inches and was as large as an ordinary man's wrist.

The technique of snake catching, Mr. Fraley explained, is to pinch the reptile's head with a forked stick, truss it and then remove its fangs with a handy pair of pliers. From there you will have a nice destroyer that serves even better than a cat, but he continued, that he would probably make a belt from the skin of his snake and be satisfied with the spoils of his catch.

O. E. S. to Hold School of Instructor in Pikeville

District No. 7 Order Eastern Star of Kentucky will be held at Pikeville Saturday, May 22 both afternoon and evening. Banquet at 6:30 o'clock in the Orange Crush building. Members of Alpha chapter No. 24 desiring to attend, call Virgie McCombs not later than May 17 for reservations.

CAUDILL ORDERS SESSION EXTENDED TO EIGHT WEEKS

Rules Congested Docket; Special Judge to Hear Fifteen Cases

700 CASES

Due to a congested docket, Judge John W. Caudill, Saturday, ordered that the present term of circuit court be extended an extra two weeks from May 17 to May 29. This term of court began April 5.

Last week court was adjourned from Wednesday noon until Friday morning because the docket was clean for the time being, but a special grand jury, in three days session, returned 44 new indictments. A large number of civil cases are to be heard from now until the new deadline.

Judge Caudill ordered Saturday that 11 equity cases, two common law and two criminal cases be heard by a special judge during the extension. Judge J. B. Hannas, Ashland, Ky., was designated by Chief Justice Alex L. Ratliff and Circuit Court Clerk Troy B. Stungill was notified here Wednesday. Listed as one of the criminal cases is the trial of Milton Tackett for voluntary manslaughter in the death of Reid Gannells. The Gannells man was killed by a car near Emma, September 24, 1934.

The present term is carrying both the civil and commonwealth dockets. There are over 700 cases on the dockets.

WOMAN'S CLUB IS MRS. HEINZ' GUEST ON MAY NINTH

Enjoy Impressive Program in Observance of "Mother's Day"

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. F. L. Heinze Thursday night, May 6, at which time an appropriate program in observance of Mother's Day, was given with Mrs. E. P. Hill in charge.

Mrs. R. V. May presented real life biographies of seven mothers who lived to see their sons receive the highest honor conferred upon an American—that of being President of the United States. The following women have been thus honored: Jane Knox Polk, Hannah Simpson Grant, Eliza Bollen Garfield, Uellie Baier Washington, Mary Allison McKinley and Sarah Delano Roosevelt.

Miss Virgie McCombs gave "Mother Memories" by Margaret Sangster in a very impressive manner.

The club voted to contribute $10 to the Cancer Control Fund, which is to be used for further research in cancer control. Seventy per cent of this fund remains in the state where the money is raised, the remaining 30 per cent going to the American Society for Cancer control.

Mrs. Chas. Hughes, Mrs. Merle Wilson and Mrs. L. C. Keeling acted as co-hostesses, serving delightful refreshments.

Final plans were made for a "Welcome" sign to be erected over the bridge at Cliff

Giants to Dish Out Lots of Hard Luck Before Season Ends

PROBABLY the other National League clubs knew it all along, but no matter. It will do no harm—and, incidentally, will be a big help in getting this piece started to remind them to avoid black cats, putting hats on beds, walking under ladders and other innocent seeming yet dangerous pastimes this season.

The reason is the Giants. In spite of occasional spring rumors to the contrary there definitely will be no need for the Cubs, Pirates and Cards to saddle themselves with extra jinxes just to be sure of getting some competition when they come to the Polo Grounds. Instead, judged by what they have showed thus far it is obvious that the league titleholders are going to continue furnishing more than enough hard luck for all other contenders.

By that I do not mean that the mere statistics of early season triumphs over the second-division Dodgers is proof that Bill Terry has another pennant winner. I doubt that he has, but it nevertheless is plain that he does have just such a club as won two flags for him when better opponents faltered.

The team hustles. It is smart. Probably there still is a lack of hitting power — for instance Ott could easily be the difference between first place and fourth—but the Giants still play the league's best defensive baseball. Also they still need only the tiniest opening in an opponent's guard to enable them to slice themselves a victory. Added to that there may have been some improvement here and there. Lou Chiozza is not as finished a third base performer as Travis Jackson, but he has added needed speed. Then Hal Schumacher, who made his mates uneasy each time he went to the mound in 1936, seems back in form.

Bill Terry

But don't go to asking too many questions about the Dodgers. The Brooklynans have so many other worries that it would be unfair to take their minds off their work just so that you can give a good example of what killed the cat. In a word, the Dodgers continue to be the Dodgers.

Manush, so long as his legs hold up, will provide line-drive assistance that the directors would not obtain for the fans twelve months ago. The experienced Woody English probably can combine with young Cookie Lavagetto to produce more double plays than could the keystone combination so generously allotted to the fans by the owners in 1936. Yet the truth is that the improvement is not enough to make any appreciable difference. Like the Ebbets field teams of 1936 and all too many other recent years, the Dodgers just do not have class.

They try hard, just as did the sorely battered outfit which played the second best ball in the league from July 4 on last year. The addition of such fighting veterans as Manush and English makes a difference now just as it would have last spring. There also are schedule blessings, such as the fact that the club meets favored Westerners on the home terrain, before venturing upon a long campaign on foreign terrain.

That may mean—indeed probably will mean—the Dodgers will do relatively well in the early stages of the race. After that weaknesses that were evident to all on opening day and pitching problems that soon must crop up will tell the story.

A summer book rating of the (so-called) Ivy League football teams makes Penn the favorite and Yale the second choice, with Princeton figured to battle Columbia for show money. Incidentally N. Y. U.'s Mal Stevens says that Captain Clint Frank's Yale backfield should be the best seen on an eastern gridiron in many years.

Unsung heroes always are being uncovered at the strangest places and now Princeton has come up with one in the form of a wrestling coach. He is Jimmy Reed, former Lehigh two-time national champion and Olympic star, who produced at least one titleholder during each of the five years he has been at Nassau. His mat teams have been undefeated during the past two seasons in dual meets and the Tigers got so excited about it that 2,700—one of the biggest Princeton indoor sports crowds on record—of them witnessed one meet last winter.

PRIMO CARNERA has written to a close friend that he is considering returning to this country as a wrestler. . . Judge Landis' favorite dish is Spanish bean soup. . . He refuses to talk about it but wealthy friends insist that Bill Terry's dearest ambition is to be president and part owner of the Brooklyn baseball club. . . One success secret of Jockey Harry Richards, who is riding so many winners this year, is that he never shifts his hands on the reins. It also was a success secret of Isaac Murphy, who probably was the greatest American jockey of all time, and is earnestly recommended to those riders who pester good horses by continually fiddling with the reins.

Fight Manager Jimmy Johnston, Jr., is a candid camera addict. He takes pictures of his babies daily. . . Friends say Paul Schissler undoubtedly would consider an offer to take on a college head football coaching job. Schissler had an excellent record at Oregon State and, considering the handicaps under which he worked, an even better one during his two years with Brooklyn's progriders. . . American leaguers are complaining about Bill Dineen, once a great pitcher and umpire. They say the veteran can't move and is practically no umpire at all when not behind the plate. . . If the Davis Cup committee pairs Bobby Riggs and Joey Hunt for the doubles match against Japan it will be like hitching a dog and cat in tandem, for they have just about that much love for one another. Still, so far as doubles ability goes, it would be a good team and might prove as successful as that celebrated, non-speaking double-play combination of Joe Tinker and Johnny Evers.

Bob Pastor boxing in California gets a cool $12,500 for meeting Bob Nestell, while waiting for Louis, Schmeling and Braddock to settle their heavyweight mess. . . In spite of persistent rumors, Giants' First Basemen Leslie and McCarthy have nothing to worry about so long as they continue their present good work. Giant officials declare they lost interest in Dolph Camilli of the Phils two years ago. . . They also added that no other deals are contemplated. . . Casey Stengel, who was deposed so that Brooklyn could have a "fighting" team this season, was called by John J. McGraw "the best winning and best fighting player ever to be with the Giants." . . Jake Flowers, former Dodger and Card infielder, has written a wrestling scenario which might interest some wide awake movie concern. . . Turfmen, who have high hopes that the present campaign will surpass it, say that New York's best race season was in 1906.

5,000,000 Line London Streets to View Coronation Procession

London, England.—(Special)—A full day of mortal toil for the principals concerned, and a day and night of heroic vigil for thousands of spectators were required before George VI and Elizabeth, his queen, returned to Buckingham palace, full-fledged ruler and consort of Britain by virtue of one of the most splendid and spectacular coronations the world has ever seen.

Five million persons, it was estimated, lined the processional route, over which the King and Queen in the ancient coronation coach rolled solemnly the six and one-half miles from the palace to Westminster abbey in mid-morning and back again in the early evening.

The solemnity of the occasion was observed by the crowd, even by the 300,000, mostly non-Britons, who had come from across the seas to witness it. But the cheers were setting of the sun on May 11. All night they had to stick to their watch and all the next day. Yet they did not even see the coronation ceremony itself. They witnessed only the procession as it passed up the Mall.

Queen Precedes King.

The ceremony at the abbey was only for the peerage, the persons of royal blood and the king's representatives. With the clergy, they were waiting at the west door of the handsome Gothic edifice, taking their places inside as the approach of the coronation coach, an ornate vehicle made for Queen Anne in 1761, was noted. Once inside they were doomed to sit for seven hours in their heavy trappings of crimson or purple velvet and ermine, never moving from the 19-inch seat spaces allotted them until the end of the day, after the King and Queen had departed.

When the coach pulled up, Queen Elizabeth proceeded ahead to the recognition chairs, there to await her lord. When King George entered, to the sound of anthems and prayers, he was introduced to the four sides of the assemblage by the archbishop of Canterbury, who assumed the mastery of the ceremonies from that point on.

It was the archbishop who, a few minutes later, was to ask the king: "Sir, is your Majesty willing to take the oath?" The king answered, according to the ritual, "I am willing," and the Archbishop questioned him:

"Will you solemnly promise and swear to govern the peoples of Great Britain, Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the Union of South Africa, of your possessions and the other territories to any of them belonging or pertaining, and of your Empire of India, according to their respective laws and customs?"

"I solemnly promise to do so," the king replied. "Will you to your power cause law and justice, in mercy, to be executed in all your judgments?" the archbishop asked. And the king replied, "I will." He promised further to uphold the clergy and the Church of England.

King Given His Vestments.

There followed a long drawn out communion service during which the king was presented with the various jewels with which the office vests him, and was anointed upon the hands, breast and face with the holy oil. Among the jewels presented him were the staff and sceptre, with the cross and golden spurs, handed down from the time of St. Edward; the three jeweled swords signifying mercy, temporal justice and spiritual justice; the sword of state; the king's gold and diamond orb, surmounted by the Christian cross; the crown of state and the imperial crown of India. The jewels used in the ceremonies are reputed to be worth at least $25,000,000.

Then as the king knelt before the altar, the archbishop placed the Crown of St. Edward upon his head, but only for a fleeting moment for its weight is unbearable. He prayed:

"God crown you with a crown of glory and righteousness, that by the ministry of this our benediction, having a right faith and manifold fruit of good works, you may obtain the crown of an everlasting kingdom by the gift of him whose kingdom endureth forever."

The choir sang: "Be strong and play the man; keep the commandments of the Lord thy God, and walk in His ways." Solemn, thought-provoking advice for the man who must wear the crown of one of the most important nations on earth in times when the seething caldron of the world's hate threatens hourly to boil over.

Max Baer

Heir presumptive to the most important throne on earth is charming, ten-year-old Princess Elizabeth.

hale and hearty and the attitude was one of celebration as the roar of the guns in the historic Tower of London split the air of the spring afternoon. It was the signal that George VI had worn upon his head for the first time the Crown of St. Edward, or Crown of England, and called for the cry from 5,000,000 throats as one, "God Save the King!"

Hotels Sold Out.

This was probably the most important point in the entire coronation ceremony, which was heavily religious throughout and extremely burdensome to the principals as well as to the 9,000 peers and their ladies who gathered in old Westminster abbey to do homage to their king and to display for one day jewels and trappings the cost of which ran far into the millions.

It was the climax of the occasion for which souvenir manufacturers had been planning for many months; for which every hotel and boarding house room in London and its environs was sold out; for which apartments rented up to $3,000 for a single day; for which the government had spent $2,600,000, with a prospect of getting back perhaps $400,000 from the sale of seats along the processional route at $2 to $250 a head.

Souvenir manufacturers, distracted at first over the abdication of King Edward VIII—for they had struck his likeness off on millions of medals, spoons, plates and other articles—later became jubilant. For the souvenir collectors were so anxious to obtain the mistaken souvenirs that the latter sold at a premium.

That the sentiment for the crown, which is the chief bond holding the Empire together, lives healthy and strong was apparent from the thousands who, not being able to afford reserved seats, took their stand along the curbs long before the Hanging Pictures—Never allow picture frames to touch the wall if it is damp. The frame will soon become damaged. With a small tack or gramophone needle, attach two small corks at the bottom of your frame. These will keep the frame off the wall.

Beef Juice—To make beef juice add 1 pound of fresh, raw, finely chopped round steak without fat to 6 ounces of cold water. Add a pinch of salt, put the beef and water in a glass jar and stand it on ice, over night. Shake and strain it through coarse muslin, squeezing hard to obtain all the juice.

With Fancywork—Before starting to draw the threads on linen for hemstitching, wet a small brush, rub it over a bar of soap until a lather is produced, scrub the threads of linen that you wish to draw, and they will pull out easily.

Boiled Whitefish—Clean a whitefish. To sufficient water to cover add salt and vinegar and a bunch of parsley and a quartered onion. Cook until the flesh separates easily from the bones. Drain and place on a hot platter, garnished with parsley and serve with a sauce.

Outer Leaves of Lettuce—The outer leaves of lettuce, often trimmed off and thrown away, are more than 30 times as rich in vitamin A as the inside leaves.

Butter Layer Cake—When raspberry jam that is not of firm consistency is to be used for filling a sponge sandwich cake it is ad-visible to butter the inner surface of each layer before spreading it with jam. This will prevent the moisture from soaking into the cake and making it sodden.

Removing Mustard Stains—Mustard stains can be removed from table linen by washing in hot water and soap and rinsing in warm water.

Washing Windows—Add a little starch to the water used for washing windows. It not only helps remove the dirt, but gives a lasting polish.

Soaking Salt Fish—When soaking salt fish add a small glass of vinegar to the soaking water and it will draw out more of the salt. WNU Service.

Sunday School Lesson

THE FORBEARANCE OF ISAAC

International Sunday School Lesson for May 16, 1937

Golden Text: "Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the sons of God."—Matthew 5:9.

Our lesson today centers about Isaac and his love of peace. This patriarch has been minimized in retrospect because of the greatness of his father, Abraham, and of his son, Jacob. He was a man of superior ability, of great patience and perseverance and probably would have loomed larger if he had not been so closely associated with his greater predecessor and successor. While Abraham and Jacob acted important parts in the history of the Jews the role played by Isaac was just as noteworthy, although not as spectacular.

While we do not know a great deal about Isaac, we do know that he was the long-promised son of Abraham and Sarah. Early in life Isaac learned from his father the lesson of obedience to and trust in God, having willingly acquiesced in the apparent necessity of becoming a sacrifice at the divine command. Later, he married Rebekah, obtained from her his father's inheritance from his kinsmen in Haran, the old ancestral home, so that he would not intermarry with the Canaanites.

While Abraham wandered from place to place, Isaac was more settled. He was forced by famine to leave his home and go to Gerar, in the country which then belonged to Abimelech, King of the Philistines. While there he waxed great, and grew more and more until he became very great; and he had possessions of flocks and herds and a great household," so much so that the Philistines envied him. The Philistines, if you remember rightly, were prior settlers in the land and they regarded the presence of the Hebrews as an intrusion upon their rights.

To curtail the prosperity of the foreigner, they resorted to the practice of destroying the wells which were indispensable for the life of the cattle. Isaac had his servants to dig again the wells of water which his father Abraham had dug before him. So, time and again, we find these covetous neighbors presenting Isaac with the alternative of moving to another location or of attempting to live in the midst of people they would have to constantly fight.

Isaac was by nature peace-loving, desirous of friendship and invariably he moved on hunting new sites, rather than living in an atmosphere of contention. He abandoned a well named Esek, which meant contention, and moved on to another. For this the Philistines contended also and Isaac named the well Sinnah. Hatred. From there he moved again and dug another well, which he named Rehoboth, which meant room or enlargement, and here Isaac received assurances from God that this was the place he was to stay and that God would bless him here.

It is significant to note just what Isaac did immediately upon coming to Beersheba. First, he built an altar. Next, he talked, or prayed, to God. Then he erected his tent, or established his home, and then he dug a well that he, as well as others, might have an abundance of water. "Many people of our time despite their high civilization, are far behind the humble Hebrew patriarch in the true ordering of their lives. Most of them see only their tent—the circle of their own interests: they have no place for either altar or well. They forget God who should be first in life, and the people of tomorrow who ought to benefit by their sojourn here. Others dig the well, thus providing a social blessing, but they have no place for an altar. The only true life is that which combines, and in the right order—altar, tent and well."

Isaac's attitude was prompted by his desire for quietness and peace, as well as by a strong faith in the providence of Jehovah. For ought that Isaac knew, these strivings at the well may have been God's way of keeping him moving until he finally reached the location for his life's efforts, which God in his judgment would be better able to select than Isaac trusting to human selfishness and passion.

"The noblest kind of sacrifice is the denial of those who have the clearest rights," says J. Strachan. "Isaac was again and again placed in circumstances in which others would have quickly drawn the sword. The question arises whether he surrendered too much for the sake of peace. If a man cannot waive his rights without neglecting his duty, violating his conscience, surrendering his religion, losing his self-respect, betraying the rights of others, he is bound to resist. Otherwise he may yield, and scarcely any price is too high to pay for peace."

Our modern society should profit by Isaac's example. International rivalries for lands, markets, oil and power, expressed in political maneuvers, seeking advantage the stimulation of animosities and passion and the preparation for war are in direct contrast with Isaac's peace-loving attitude.

Add water to make a dough, cutting and mixing the paste thoroughly. Flour a board and roll the paste out very thin. Fit into muffin rings, brush with melted butter. Bake in an oven 425 degrees until done. Cool. Fill one shortcake with sweetened strawberries and cream. Cover with inverted shell, cover with whipped cream and garnish with a large strawberry.

Strawberry Cocktail
Peel carefully and divide into sections 1 medium sized grapefruit. Drain and cube 4 slices of canned pineapple, add an equal amount of large ripe straw berries, halved with just enough sugar to sweeten slightly. Arrange in cocktail glasses and pour over the chilled juice of the pineapple, to which has been added enough orange juice to flavor delicately. Arrange

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

Strawberry season will soon be at its height and between frozen dishes, shortcakes, whips and other combinations, we need never be at a loss for a different way to serve them. Delicious strawberries should be clean, firm but not hard, free from decay and a good red color. Try one of the recipes the next time you have strawberries.

Strawberry Shortcake
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 1-2 cups shortening
Cold water to mix
Sift the flour, baking powder in a bowl, chop in the shortening with a knife until well mixed with the flour.

grapefruit sections over the top and place a sprig of mint in the center of each glass. Serve very cold.

Strawberry Meringue
2 egg whites
Few grains of salt
2-3 cup of confectioner's sugar
Teaspoon vanilla
Beat the egg whites and salt. When partially beaten begin adding the sugar in 2 tablespoon portions, beating after each addition. Just before the final portion add the vanilla. Cover an oiled baking sheet with ungreased paper. Place mounds of the meringue mixture on the paper to make circles about 2 inches in diameter. Bake in an oven 275 degrees for about 45 minutes or until the shells are dry on the surface. Remove from paper while warm. If they stick moisten the reverse side of paper with a wet cloth. Scoop out the center with a spoon and cool before filling with sweetened berries and cream. Garnish with a perfect berry. Serve cold on lace paper doilies.

Strawberry Whip
1 pint strawberries
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon gelatin
1-4 cup cold water
Salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1-2 pint cream
2 egg whites
Wash and stem berries. Add sugar. Crush and cook for a few minutes. Add gelatin, which has been soaked in the cold water. Mix well and strain. Cool. Place in refrigerator to set. Add salt and lemon juice, and whip until light. Fold in whipped cream and stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into tray and chill.

Frozen Strawberry Salad
1 tablespoon butter
2 egg yolks
3 tablespoons flour
1-2 cup sugar
1-2 cup lemon juice
2-3 cup of milk
2 cups strawberries
1 cup whipped cream
Salt
Mix the butter in a double boiler. Blend and add well-beaten egg yolks, flour, sugar and salt. Add the milk gradually and cook, stirring constantly until thick. Cool, beat in the lemon juice and prepared fruit. Fold in the whipped cream. Freeze. Serve on lettuce with fruit dressing. Garnish with whole strawberries.

Spring Salad
On salad plates arrange crisp lettuce leaves in groups of three. Fill one group with sliced strawberries. Fill another group with thinly sliced unpeeled radishes and cucumbers. The last, fill with cottage cheese moistened with cream, seasoned and sprinkled with paprika. Top the center with a large ripe olive.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills, Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nationwide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

HEART DISEASE A KILLER

Heart disease is rapidly becoming the chief cause of death in the United States, being far ahead of cancer, second on the list of diseases which kill the greatest number of people in the United States every year. Incidentally, of the 10 leading causes of death in the country, only one, tuberculosis, has shown a steady decline during the past three years. Whether this is to be attributed to the steady campaign which is waged against the white plague or not, we have no way of knowing but we suspect there is some close connection.

Concerning heart disease, Dr. Harry L. Smith, of the Mayo Clinic, reports that coronary sclerosis is often called the "disease of the intelligentsia" because of the susceptibility of physicians, bankers, lawyers and clergymen. The characteristics of the disease include the hardening of the nerves, ligaments and blood vessels around the heart and its incidence is highest among those who do mental work and lowest among those who do manual labor.

The Times naturally hesitates to attempt any conclusion from these observations but, apparently, the disease attacks individuals who are prone to forget the importance of physical exercise while consuming their energies in the anxiety of mental worries. It would appear that, somewhere along the line of popular education in this country, the physical nature of man has been neglected. If this is true, and we believe that it is, we might save the lives of future professional men by stressing athletic interests during childhood, with the hope that, when they grow up, the individuals will have sense enough to continue what has been wisely begun.

THE VICTIMS INCREASE

Talk about safety all you please but the automobile continues to take its victims in Floyd county and all over the United States, and the people of the land seem to regard it as an inevitable toll.

The National Safety Council reports that 8,500 persons died in traffic accidents in the first three months of this year which is more than 25 per cent above the figure for the same period of 1936.

What about it? The answer is nothing much! We will sit quietly in our homes or die on the roads, as the case may be, but the next year will see the fatalities increase. A few words of warning, an exhibition of grief here and there as death strikes home and the automobiles speed on their way.

EASTERN KENTUCKY CLUB LEADERS IN STATE CONVENTION

Mrs. W. P. Mayo
First Vice-President

Mrs. W. P. Mayo, first vice president of the State Federation, assisted Mrs. Paul Wickliffe in presiding over two sessions of the convention. Mrs. Mayo as state chairman of art, had charge of the Art Mart and exhibit which was held during the convention at the James Hatcher Hotel. Mrs. Mayo is herself an artist of note and presented one of her paintings as a prize to the governor whose district was first perfect in contributing to the P. A. F. While governor of the Seventh district, Mrs. Mayo did much to put it on the map.

Mrs. Katherine Langley
General Chairman

Mrs. Langley, president of the Pikeville Club which she founded many years ago, is former Congresswoman and an able leader in numerous fields of club work. She was general chairman of the convention and did much to make it a success. She gave the welcome address Tuesday evening, and following the program opened her lovely home for a reception honoring the visitors with the Pikeville club as host. Mrs. Langley is a most interesting speaker and vivid personality.

Mrs. Edgar Ruley May,
Vice-Chairman

Mrs. May, district governor of Maytown, is the state's youngest Governor. She appeared on the convention Thursday morning and evening and was vice-chairman of Arrangements. She is an avid booster of the mountains and has the distinction of royal ancestry according to her family tree, which has been published in several editions. She is a member of the sixth generation directly descended from Ruben Gunn, son of a grand duke in Germany, who landed in Charleston, S. C., in 1769.

Mrs. Stanley Combs, Chairman of American Citizenship

Mrs. Combs, of Prestonsburg, was state chairman of the department of American Citizenship and had charge of a tree planting service on the convention program Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Combs is found in each edition of "Who's Who" beneath the name of her father, Dr. Thomas Smith, now of Detroit. She is the daughter of Grace French Smith, poet, and is herself one of the best high school teachers in Floyd county, an enthusiastic leader of extra curricula activities and a splendid speaker. Mrs. Combs was chairman of the Committee on Credentials for the convention.

Mrs. Hey Baker Browning,
Guest Soloist

Mrs. Browning, of Ashland, formerly of Prestonsburg, was heard during the convention alone and with the quartette from the Three Arts Club in Ashland. She needs no introduction to Eastern Kentucky readers, being well known personally and by radio audiences, since she has broadcast over various stations. She is a graduate of the Cincinnati College of Music and is one of the most active club women in Kentucky.

LOCAL FIRM REPORTS CAR SALES INCREASING

Howard Motor Company, local Ford dealers, according to S. B. Howard and John Warix, of the firm, can lay claim to record sales for the past month. During the month of April, the report states, the records show 28 new cars and 40 used ones sold.

Working toward a goal of selling 40 new cars and 60 used cars in May the company is anticipating a bigger month than ever. So far 25 cars toward the total number has been sold this month.

S. A. Ballinger, county WPA engineer, said, after Friday's meeting that building plans will be worked out in detail by the state WPA office at Paintsville and will be presented to Washington authorities for final approval for the proposed building. "Barring any hindrances," Mr. Ballinger said, "the plans will be approved in about six weeks and actual construction will start about July 1."

Congressman May told the board that the plans would meet no obstacle in Washington.

What is the "Low-price Field"?

YOU hear a lot about "the low-price field" these days. A good many cars claim to be in it. So whenever the low-price field is mentioned, remember:

Until Ford came, no average American could own a car.

Today all Ford prices are still low — with the prices of the 60-horsepower Ford V-8 $30 to $60 lower than those of any other car of comparable size.

But with Ford, "low price" doesn't merely mean low figures on the price tag. It means much more than that. It means low prices and low costs all the car's long life. Low prices for service — for parts — and, above all, for operation.

Both Ford V-8 engine sizes are economical to operate. The 35 horsepower gives greater gasoline mileage this year than ever, and the "60" delivers the highest mileage in Ford history.

Private owners, cab companies, fleet operators all report that the "60" averages from 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline.

Check and see how much Ford saves you.

The dedicatory service held in connection with the regular morning worship consisted of remarks by the minister, Robert A. Potter, in regard to the appropriateness of the dedication of hymn books to those who have largely taught us to sing—our mothers: the reading responsibly from the hymnal of a song of the mother of Christ, Mary's Magnificat, the singing of the hymn: "Ye Servants of God."

A quartet, composed of Mrs. E. H. Sowards, Mrs. J. D. Thomas, T. S. Spradlin and E. E. Clark gave "My Mother's Prayers Have Followed Me." The junior choir sang "What is a Mother's Love."

Speaking from the theme, "The Meaning of the Teaching Effect of Christ's Training in the earliest years of life. Despite the fearful responsibility of motherhood mothers could find hope, he said, in the fact that there were favorable factors working with them in bringing up their children aright: the inclination of the child, recent progress in right methods of dealing with children, and God's inherent interest in "His children," a love preceding the mother's love, and greater by far.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore BY Gordon Wilson, Ph.D. WESTERN KENTUCKY TEACHERS COLLEGE BOWLING GREEN, KY.

SOME BURIAL CUSTOMS

Burial customs, are among the most persistent things we know. Many persons, will not sweep under the bed of a sick or dying person, for fear that such a deed will hasten death. Mirrors are turned to the wall in the room where a dead body is lying, and a picture of a dead person is likely to be swathed in many layers of cloth or turned to the wall. It is thought that the person who sees himself in a mirror while the corpse is still in the house will be the next to follow. I have never known it to happen, but taking a corpse out of a house head first would be regarded by most people as a major calamity. Just how far back into the past this custom of removing the corpse from the house goes, back no one knows; it is probably as old as any form of house. In some Kentucky neighborhoods that I have known the pallbearers ride in the wagon on the coffin, seated three on each side. The custom of filling up the grave in the presence of the whole family is gradually disappearing in many sections. A few months ago I was present at a funeral where the family left, but the neighbors remained to help in their turn at filling the grave. On one occasion I saw the grave filled by the pallbearers, and what makes me remember it is that I was one of them, and the day was exceedingly warm.

A custom that I have not heard of in recent years was that of having the funeral many months or even several years after the burial. I have attended such, but that was a long time ago. Just how this custom started I do not know; it probably grew out of pioneer times, when the roads were bad by the weather would not permit a long service in the open air or the poorly-heated churches. It was customary to hold a brief service when the burial took place, but the funeral often lasted a whole day, with dinner on the ground. Julie, a negro who worked for us, came in a towering mood one Monday to do the washing. The day before, the funeral of her mother, Aunt Milly, had been held at Mt. Zion. Julie and Lucy, her sister, had made many preparations for the event, including slaughter and barbecuing of a sheep. When the dinner was spread out, after the morning services, some rude boys of color made a dive for that mutton and soon had it reduced to bones. There was also some sliced potato pie, a gallon and a half of it, said Julie, that disappeared quite mysteriously. She and her sister, not to mention all the children and the relatives, were completely left out. That seems a comic version of a funeral, but those of white people sometimes were not vastly different. Sitting up with the dead is still a living custom, though hardly so common as formerly. I have seen it made a delightful and even gay occasion, with plenty of food for a midnight lunch and a good yarn-spinner to enliven things. In some families I have known, this custom has been given up very reluctantly. In its way it was a neighborly thing, designed to show bodily thing. If the young people who came were not always sad, we must remember that it was not their sorrow. They often took this custom as well as others as their proportionate share of the responsibilities and duties of their neighborhood.

THE FARM AND HOME

(Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station)

Fertilizer applied to lawns now will stimulate crab and other wild grasses, rather than help the bluegrass, which grows most in spring and fall. Wait until frost kills the wild grasses before applying fertilizer and sowing bluegrass seed.

Watermelons grow best in well-drained, slightly acid, sandy loam soils that contain an abundance of organic matter. The use of four to six tons of well rotted manure and about 500 pounds of complete fertilizer to the acre is recommended.

Placing hives in the shade especially of trees, tends to bees from getting lazy in hot weather. Bees fly two to three miles, sometimes farther, seeking honey-making plants. This fact should be considered in locating hives.

Paradichlorobenzene crystals are among the best controls for moths. Have winter garments cleaned and sealed in parateboard boxes, heavy garment bags, tight trunks of cedar chests, putting in before sealing the crystals tied in pieces of cheese cloth.

Serving different cereals and fruits and varying the method of preparation help to keep children interested in breakfast. Adding slices of lemon or orange during cooking changes the flavor of stewed prunes, apricots or apples. Prunes and apricots may be cooked together.

The buffet service is a delightful and convenient method of serving a large number of guests or an uncertain number. The menu may be much simpler than those of a regular meal at the table, but the meal may be just as attractive.

Warning Issued By Social Security Board on Use of Account Number Cards

Employers, businessmen and workers, were cautioned today against mis-use of social security account number cards, by William M. Duffy, field representative of the Social Security Board in Louisville.

Instances of alleged counterfeit social security account cards being used for identification in washing checks and similar purposes have been brought to the attention of the Social Security Board, said Mr. Duffy. These cards have no particular significance for other than identification purposes under the Social Security Act. They do not certify the financial responsibility of the individual.

Account numbers, explained Mr. Duffy, are being used by the board in administering the Federal old-age benefits plan and by the state in administering their unemployment compensation laws.

With this warning, Mr. Duffy requested that all employers return social security account cards in their possession to the workers to whom they belong. "Several instances in which cards have been retained by employers have been brought to my attention," he said. "While this has resulted generally where postoffices have sent the cards to employers for distribution to workers and employers have not known what to do with them, this is not always the case. In every instance these cards should be turned over to the workers promptly."

Why Laxatives Fail In Stubborn Constipation

Twelve to 24 hours is too long to wait when relief from clogged bowels and constipation is needed, for then enormous quantities of bacteria accumulate, causing GAS, indigestion and many restless, sleepless nights. If you want REAL, QUICK RELIEF, take a liquid compound such as Adierika. Adierika contains SEVEN cathartic and carminative ingredients that act on the stomach and BOTH bowels. Most "overnight" laxatives contain one ingredient that acts on the lower bowel only. Adierika's DOUBLE ACTION gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old poisonous waste matter that may have caused GAS pains, sour stomach, headaches and sleepless nights for months. Adierika relieves stomach GAS at once and usually removes bowel congestion in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight results. This famous treatment has been recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years. Take Adierika one-half hour before breakfast or one hour before bedtime and in a short while you will feel marvelously refreshed. At all Leading Druggists.

Sloan relaxed. "My advice is to get out of town for a few days. Get a new perspective on your worries, whatever they are. We see things in proportion after a change of scene." He nodded at him kindly. "I can spare you next week."

He turned it over in his mind as he walked home. Probably Sloan was right and new scenes might be a help, might ease the burden.

The radio was chanting with a plangent sonority, "I got those Decatur Street blood-ooes!" when he came in. Dorrie, near it, a newspaper in her lap, was gazing out the window. She started at his entrance, rose, dropping the paper. "Oh, Hugh," she said in soft surprise.

"Didn't you expect me yet?" "Of course—five-thirty. But I hadn't realized it was so late." She put her hand absently to her hair, patted it back.

"Hughie, I haven't any dinner ready. I've run out of ideas about food. And see—I burned my hand this morning."

"I'm sorry." "On the toaster. I touched it when I put it away—had left the current on. It smarted so I had to bandage it. Will you be very nice and take me out to dinner?" "I have my moments!" He endeavored to speak lightly.

"You're sweet." She smiled into his eyes. Release flooded his heart, tingled through his veins. "Where shall it be? The club?"

"Most anywhere. They say that tea room near the bridge has a special dinner."

He wanted her to sit down, wanted to tell her about the vacation, but she slid out of his arms with a feline grace. "I'll make myself beautiful," she murmured, starting for the stairs.

As he stood heavily where she left him, her haste to get away closed down on him. Presently he picked up the paper, sat down by the window. His eye traveled over the headlines—the orders received by the steel mills which would put several hundred more men to work, the dying out of the last epidemic in infantile paralysis, the suicide of a prominent banker, the President's latest speech. On the third page a small item caught his roving eye: Joan Whitney, 120 Mimosa street, vs. Cunningham Whitney, 120 Mimosa street, on the grounds of mental cruelty. They were married April 6, 1924, and have no children.

Ellen, half-hidden in a big chair, clutched the magazine she was reading and braced herself, for her mother had come into the room. She settled herself in a chair opposite Ellen. "What are you reading?"

"The Modern Arts Magazine." Lizzie's lips thinned disapprovingly.

"It's harmless, isn't it?" demanded Ellen with sudden spirit. "I suppose you have to have something to occupy your mind."

It was hard to concentrate with Mother staring at her, and she read it only because she hoped Lizzie would go away if she saw her absorbed.

"How he could treat you that way—the cad! My blood boils when I think about it!"

Ellen threw the magazine down. Some more bloodless surgery was to be attempted—cutting—dissecting—probing! And there was no anesthetic to deaden you to the pain of the knife held by maternal hands. "It's exactly what you wanted," she said in a low voice. "You didn't approve of him."

"I was very nice to him—very!" "And if he likes Kezia better, he has a right to change his mind. Let's not discuss it any more."

"Ellen, you never give me your confidence," complained Lizzie. "You always keep me at arm's length."

Ellen was silent for a moment, then she leaned forward pleadingly. "Mother, couldn't I . . . please don't say 'no' right away . . . couldn't I take that last year of art school this fall? I know it is October, but I'd only be a few weeks late. I could make it up. They go abroad in December. Please talk it over with Father!"

"I'm very unhappy here . . . please let me go away!" Lizzie straightened herself regally. "Now we've been all over that before. No daughter of mine can go around studying naked statues in France and Italy with a troop of dissolute students."

"They're not dissolute." "I don't care how well you are chaperoned, or how famous your instructors are—I won't hear of it."

Perhaps some summer you can go with me to Europe. Your father will never leave long enough to take me, so we'll go together! Just be patient."

"But it's not the same. I want the instruction in the class. I want to graduate from Pearson school."

"But why in the world do you want another year? You can't seriously mean to be an artist?" "Why not?"

"An artist?" Lizzie's voice whined like a saxophone off key. "With all your father's money! Such nonsense!"

"It's not nonsense, Mother. It's seeing things further than anyone else sees, expressing things that others feel dimly . . . it's something too tremendous to put into words."

The silver voice ran off Lizzie like rain off water-proof. She reached up and swatted a fly on the curtain. "I'm sure you paint very pretty pictures now," she said flatly.

Ellen knew her cause was lost. She wondered dreadingly if Lizzie had ever been in love—not liking, not acceptance, but had known this lovely terrifying thing she felt for Jerry. She couldn't have—or she would remember.

CHAPTER X

On Monday morning Hugh departed on a week's hunting trip with Doc Hiller and two of Doc's friends, both of whom Hugh had met on several previous occasions. Hugh sat beside Doc who drove; Rappaport and Akin were in the rear, together with duffle bags, grips and gun-cases, and Rap's English setter, Laddie. Two restless setters were boxed on the trunk rack in the rear. Toward noon they had covered a hundred and fifty miles and were approaching the hunting preserve; Doc became more and more enthusiastic.

"This little burg is Tunketstown. A mile from here we turn off on the roughest road you ever saw—narrow as the gate to heaven, and second gear most of the way! Three miles of that before we come to the lake and you see the lodge."

They were driving through country where rising hills were gayly flying the last banners of autumn. They had the colors of a Paisley shawl, infinite shades of yellow, rose, scarlet, green and mauve. "At the next curve you'll see it," said Doc. He had cast aside his professional manner and was a boy out on a lark. Hugh Marsh was unexpectedly with him. He had met Hugh in an elevator a few days ago, said to him: "I'm going on a hunting trip Monday, bird hunting, ruffed grouse. Going up in northern Pennsylvania where our club has twenty-two hundred acres." An impulse had made him speak of it suddenly that way.

Hugh's eyes had kindled. He had laid his hand on his arm. "Take me along, Doc! I'm no hunter, but I need to get away. Couldn't I go as a guest? Pay my share?" "Go?" He had almost choked. Hugh—go? The darned old idiot! No one he would rather have with him! "Sure you can go!" he had answered. And they had gone into Hugh's office and talked over the equipment he would need.

Doc Hiller had explained about this club to which he had belonged for three years and suggested that Hugh join it. The dues were only fifty dollars; the comfortable lodge house could take care of twenty men; they had dammed the stream and stocked the lake for trout fishing; in November the members went for grouse and quail, and in December for deer and black bear. It was a hunter's paradise. The air was like wine; the fellows were a good sort—no game hogs. They had a colored cook who could cook like nobody's business. Hugh would be so tired he would sleep like a baby, eat well, and forget he ever had a steel plant to worry over!

Hugh had drawn his hand across his eyes with a tired gesture. "Just the thing—just what I want."

Doc shut his teeth grimly. He knew what was eating the old boy. He had guessed it before the hints came.

"Here we are," he sang out. (TO BE CONTINUED)

"It's Exactly What You Wanted," She Said.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Humane Fox Hunting. SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—In England it has been decided that fox-hunting is humane. This opinion emanates from the hunters. The foxes have not been heard from on the subject.

Maybe you don't know it, but there's a lot of fox-hunting among us, especially down south. Being but a lot of stubborn non-conformists, southerners do not follow the historic rules. A party at large wearing a red coat, white pants and high boots would be mistaken for a refugee from a circus band. And anybody blowing a horn as he galloped across hill and dale would be set down as an insane fish peddler; and if you shouted "View, halloo! Tantiy, tantiy! Yoicks, yoicks!" or words to that effect, they'd think you were a new kind of hog-caller.

Down there they've chased the fox until he's wise. The foxes have learned that the hounds can't follow trail on a paved highway and so quit the thicket for the concrete when the chase is on. A fox has been sitting in the middle of the big road listening to the bewildered pack.

On second thought maybe Brer Fox isn't so smart, after all—not with automobile traffic what it is. 'Tis a hard choice—stay in the woods and get caught or take to the pike and get run over.

Courageous Republicans. WHO, besides the writer, can recall when the Democrats held their jubilation rallies the night before a presidential election and the Republicans the night after the returns were in, when they had something to jubilate over? Now the situation is just the other way around. The Literary Digest poll was practically the only thing the Republicans had to celebrate during the entire fall season of 1936.

Still, we must give that diminished but gallant band credit for courage. Here, in an off-year, they're spiritedly planning against the next congressional campaign.

English Recruiting. THE English are still having trouble inducing young fellows to join the colors. First, the government tried to increase enlistments by giving every recruit a giddy new blue uniform, absolutely free of charge, and still the lads refused. So now, as an appeal which, 'tis believed, no true Britisher can withstand, the military authorities announce that, hereafter, Tommy Atkins will have time off for afternoon tea.

This may be a new notion for peacetime, but, during the great war, the custom was maintained even up at the front. Many a time I've seen all ranks, from the brigadiers on down, knocking off for tea. However, this didn't militate against his majesty's forces, because, at the same hour, the Germans, over on their side of the line, were having coffee—or what the Germans mistake for coffee. And the French took advantage of the lull to catch up with their bookkeeping on what the allies owed them for damage to property, ground rent, use of trenches, billeting space, wear and tear, etc., etc.

Did it ever occur to our own general staff that guaranteeing a daily crap-shooting interval might stimulate volunteering for the American army?

The Job of Censorship. ONE reason why moving pictures are so clean is because some of the people who censor them have such dirty minds. To the very pure everything is so impure, is it not? That's why some of us think the weight of popular opinion, rather than the judgment of narrow-brained official judges in various states, should decide what should and what should not be depicted. Anyhow, there are so many movies which, slightly amending the old ballad, are more to be pitied than censored.

Sponsors of radio programs also lean over backward to be prudishly proper. But without let or hindrance the speaking stage, month by month, grows fouler and filthier. Suggestive lines once created a shock in the audience mind. The lines no longer suggest—they come right out and speak the nastiness.

Sauce for the goose isn't sauce for the gander, 'twould seem—or maybe, after the reformers got through saucing radio and screen, there wasn't any left over for the so-called legitimate stage.

Parading the Fashions

A STYLE show De Luxe for De Ladies on this De Lightful Spring day!

Betty Ann feels just a bit the most elegant of the three for her housecoat is superlative. She has "skirts" like the ladies in the feminine yesterdays; her basque is form-fitting; her sash has a bow, and her sleeves puff. The illusion is so perfect that she is about to reach for smelling salts or a sprig of old lavender.

Matrons Have Vanity, Too. Mama, very young for her years, can not resist styles that bring more compliments her way. The no-belt feature of this one is definitely new, and does wonders for the figure a bit past the slim stage. The continuing collar, which in soft pastels is always flattering, gives the break required by the all-in-one waist and skirt. The fitted top and flaring bottom make for style plus comfort, a demand matrons, even though youthful, always make.

Parties and Picnics. Winifred on the left is privately making up her mind to have a housecoat, too; though she is mightily pleased with the way her print has turned out. She chose this style because the fitted, broken waist line and front seamed skirt are so very slenderizing. She's on her way to the 4-H meeting now and has only stopped to remind Betty Ann of the picnic "The Jolly Twelve" are having on Tuesday.

The Patterns. Pattern 1285 comes in sizes 12-20 (30 to 40). Size 14 requires 3 3/4 yards of 39 inch material.

Pattern 1282 is for sizes 14-20 (32 to 44 bust). Size 16 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. It requires 2 1/2 yards of ribbon for tie belt.

Pattern 1983 is for sizes 36 to 50. Size 38 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. With the short sleeves it requires only 5 yards of 39 inch material.

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

BRUSH CREEK

Mrs. Kendall Patrick, Mrs. Joseph Hakes, Amanda Hakes and Miss Madge Potter were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leck Bailey.

A large crowd, exceeding that of many months attended Brush Creek church. Everyone enjoyed a fine service despite the fact a few were disorderly due to their use of "ole who-shot-John" and leading a "Don't let this happen again. We're giving you alcohol users fair warning. If you have to get drunk don't come around our churches."

The Brush Creek road project is now beginning to show a great deal of progress, considering the available equipment and number of men. We certainly need it, for we've endured these mud holes delays long enough on our way to hospital and school.

Mr. Curtis Ousey is now the Fysh camp manager for the Inland Gas Corporation. He apparently takes the place of Mr. R. E. Moore who recently moved to his privately owned home. Mr. Moore, though, is employed as before.

Guy Shepherd and Amos Bailey were visiting in Magoffin county Sunday.

LACKEY

The seniors of Lackey high school enjoyed a trip to Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, at Richmond, Ky., Thursday and Friday, May 6 and 7. The party was chaperoned by Mr. J. C. Wells principal of Lackey high school. The object of the trip was Senior Day, held every year at Richmond. An educational chapel program was given by the students of Eastern and a delightful lunch was provided by the school. Those who attended from Lackey high school were: Elta Conley, Thelma Hays, Ceredo Reed, Virginia Richmond, Josephine Collins, Joan Williams, Tom Allen, Charles Collins, Joe Prater, Manis Smith, and the chaperone, Mr. Wells.

A summary of the work of the Girl Reserves:

The girls of Lackey high school have worked faithfully this school year to hold true the pledge of a Girl Reserve.

It has not only helped other people, but has helped to bring the girls closer together and has taught them to love and co-operate with one another.

The year has been filled with parties and other activities. A reading room for the girls and a sitting room for the teachers were planned and constructed. Pies, cakes and candies were made and sold to make money for the use of the club.

All the school has been interested and has taken part in the programs given by the club to promote love and co-operation.

The senior class presented the play, "Crashing Society," a three-act comedy. Following is the cast:

Immediately after the shooting it is said that Tackett walked across a nearby mountain, a distance of about one and one-half miles, got into an awaiting car and drove approximately the same distance to give up to the officer. From there he was taken to the Stumbo Memorial hospital at Lackey.

One of the high spots in the trial occurred at about 11 p. m. Monday night when the defense placed Doctors W. L. Stumbo, J. E. Looney and McCann, whose testimony substantiated the defense plea. The trial procedure was held up to await the arrival of the doctors.

"We'll let the Supercharger be our Salesman"

Graham cars cost only a little more than the lowest-priced cars. Your present car should more than cover the down payment. See your Graham dealer today and have your car appraised to take advantage of the greatest of motor car values.

THE proof of the pudding is in the eating! Tributes to the super-performance, the super-economy, the driving ease and riding comfort of new Graham Superchargers come from Supercharger owners themselves. Whatever the driving conditions—from downtown traffic crush to one-lane country road—the Supercharger brings you a margin of performance, a margin of economy, a margin of safety, a margin of motoring efficiency and luxurious comfort no other car can offer. Only behind the wheel will you come to a full understanding of Supercharger superiority over other automobiles. Only by actual driving test will you be convinced that no motoring in the world can compare with Supercharger motoring. Drive a great, low-cost Graham Supercharger yourself today. Compare it with any other car you have ever known. We are content to let the Supercharger be our salesman.
