PASSENGER CAR AND TRUCK COLLIDE HERE

Five United Mine Workers in Smash Near Frenchburg Friday Night

Floyd county's epidemic of motor accidents which began two weeks ago with two fatalities at Hueysville continued through the last week-end and on into this week as one man was killed near Hueysville Sunday afternoon and at least seven others from this county were injured in other mishaps.

Within a thousand feet of where Charley Howard, 15-year-old boy, was fatally injured by a hit-run driver Nov. 13 and of where Orlena Kilburn, seven-months-old babe of Mr. and Mrs. William Kilburn was fatally hurt on the following day as four others of the family were injured, Norman Hall, 27, Hueysville miner, died Sunday when trapped inside his pick-up truck after it had plunged over an embankment on the Salt Lick road into Beaver Creek.

In Prestonsburg Tuesday, at the intersection of the Mayo Trail and Friend street, a pick-up truck driven by Theodore Warrax and an auto driven by Lee Fitzpatrick collided, injuring the drivers and the Rev. Will Warrax, a passenger in the truck.

Five representatives of the United Mine Workers of America from Wayland and Garrett were injured Friday night near Frenchburg, Ky., when their auto slid from an ice-covered road into the hill. The injured are: Joe Hicks, president, Wayland local; Huey Bays, president, Central Elkhorn No. 5 local; Bill Bamer, Garrett local, Elk Horn Coal Corporation; J. C. Finley and

POTTER PATTER
After receiving our farewell salute, Presbyterian Pastor Potter, transferred to Joplin, Mo., admitted that everyone hated to see him go, but the Reverend added, "not enough to come to church."

IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS
Remember when peace-loving nations held disarmament conferences instead of war-loving countries now holding intervention get-togethers when any handy scrap starts brewing?

BUT WHY THE FIVE $100 BILLS?
We've been dizzily going around in circles ever since receiving in our mail an order for bogus bills. Enclosed in the order was a fairly good drawing of a pattern $50,000 bill embellished by an eagle and curlicues to resemble the real thing. The sender asked to be notified as soon as we had printed five $50,000 bills and five $100 bills. Excerpts from his instructions read: "Want extra nice prints on money colored paper and i want stout nice paper." Now if the person mailing us the order, whose name we are withholding, will call at The TIMES office, bringing his keeper with him, we'll attempt to explain that we don't

CITY WOMAN PREFERENCES HILLSIDE TO BUSESSES

Hueysville—(Sp). An instructor in a "settlement" school, for the past seven years, at Decoy, Ky., 23 miles from here, Miss Olive E. Davis walked into this place Friday of last week to catch a train, thereby ending a three-days journey afoot over the roughest mountain roads in this section of Kentucky.

She could have had an automobile or bus at the very door of the school, but she doesn't cater to such conveyances. It's much safer afoot, she says.

Miss Davis was on her way to Indianapolis, Ind., to visit friends. She originally hailed from Chicago, Ill.

To Restrain Uninsured Taxicabs From Operating In County

An injunction suit designed to restrain uninsured and unlicensed taxis from operating on Floyd county highways may be led this week, it was said, in the clerk's office of the Floyd circuit court by the Sparks Bus Company following acquittal of two taxi-owners in county court here Tuesday, on a charge of operating without license or insurance, the other for picking up passengers on a bus route. Nine other taxi cases then were dismissed by John Allen, county judge pro-tem.

Dr. Moore, Pikeville, Commissioner of Motor Transportation, appeared at the hearing here as a witness against the taxi-owners. The taxi operators contend they are unable to procure insurance.

3 MARTIN HOMES ARE RAZED BY FIRE

Bed-Ridden Man is Taken By Rescuers From Burning House

Fire of unknown origin early Tuesday night destroyed three homes at Martin, causing a total estimated damage of $4,500.

One of the three structures, located at the rear of the coal dock in the Martin railway yard, was occupied by John W. Wheeler, bed-ridden by tuberculosis, who was carried from his flaming residence. Nothing was saved from either his home or that occupied by Irt Eden and family where the blaze started. The Eden family was attending the Martin theater when neighbors discovered the blaze. The third building destroyed was that occupied by Frank Rudder, miner, a part of whose household belongings were saved.

A bucket brigade, hastily organized, was powerless to halt the burning of the three frame structures, but succeeded in saving two other homes in the row back of the yards. The houses were owned, it was said, by the Utilities Elkhorn Coal Company.

Families whose homes were burned were left destitute, it was reported here from Martin, particularly that of the invalid. They were given shelter in neighboring homes during the night and were furnished necessary clothing until other relief could be procured.

LACKEY YOUTHS JAILED, ESCAPE

Depot Looters Break Wayland Jail; One Is Recaptured

Two Lackey youths, alleged to have broken into the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company depot at Lackey two weeks ago and to have stolen a freight shipment of shoes valued at $53 were arrested last week, by Special C. & O. Agents V. W. Midkiff and G. L. Gray, of Allen, yet one of the pair remains at large. The officers lodged the two in the Wayland city jail overnight before bringing them to the county jail here, but when they went to Wayland on the morning following the arrests, all they found of their prisoners was a hole in the wall.

"Check" Wiley, one of the alleged burglars, was re-captured Saturday night by Frank Clarke, Lackey officer. Homer Smith, who is accused as his confederate, had not been arrested Tuesday, this week. Sheriff Henry Sturgill, of Knott county, came to Prestonsburg Monday to claim Wiley for Knott authorities who charge him with grand larceny and malicious shooting and wounding. He is to be given trial at Hindman at the present session of circuit court, then returned here for trial in January.

Wiley and Smith are also alleged to have stolen more than $100 in scrip from Napier's store at Lackey on the night of the depot robbery. Merchandise taken from the depot was recovered by Midkiff and Gray from an old air course to the Central Elkhorn Coal Company mine No. 5, near Lackey.

The railway agents, here Monday, indicated that the stringent provisions of the habitual criminal act may be invoked upon Fonso Crisp of Martin, who now is in the county (Continued on page 2)

Floyd School Future To Be Discussed Here

TAKE ROLES IN ARMISTICE PARADE

A more appropriate "war nurse" than Sue Martha Ransdell, daughter of Floyd County Health Director, Marvir Ransdell, could not have been picked for the Red Cross float in the Armistice Day parade here. Franklin May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colonel May, is the "wounded soldier."

CONSOLIDATION OF HIGH SCHOOLS IN FLOYD CONSIDERED

H. W. Peters May Discuss Plan In Talk Here Tuesday Evening

SCHOLASTIC SURVEY JUST COMPLETE

County Citizens, School Officials Are Urged to Attend Meeting Here

Plans for the consolidation of certain high schools of the county will be a part of the discussion to be held at a meeting here Tuesday evening, November 30, at 6:30 o'clock of H. W. Peters, state superintendent of public instruction, with Floyd county school officials and citizens.

At the meeting, which will be held in the auditorium of Prestonsburg high school, Superintendent Peters will review findings made during a survey of the county school system during recent months, will offer suggestions and entertain expressions of sentiment of school authorities and citizens in response to these suggestions.

Though Mr. Peters has not definitely stated that school consolidation will be considered, this phase of a school program looking to the future was discussed here by state department of education officials here last spring.

Stating that "there is nothing mandatory about our suggestions but, rather, they are proposed for guidance in the future," Mr. Peters in a letter to Superintendent Town Hall wrote: "We have made a study of school conditions in Floyd county and now we are anxious to present our findings to a group of representative citizens of the county. We want your advice and consideration in making our proposals."

The school survey which extended throughout the state over a period of months was mainly financed by the federal government.

TRADE AT HOME?

We've gotten used to merchants who advocate "trade at home," occasionally getting their printing done out of town, but we think its adding insult to injury when their carrier-boys litter our threshold with their out-of-town printing.

Of course, there are times when we may be rushed to our capacity by job-printing, such as during an election, and are therefore unable to do a job in the proposed time, but our howl concerns the orders taken out of town without first giving us a chance to bid upon them.

So often have we seen this "furrin'" printing that we can tell at a glance, by the general typography, in which nearby town it was printed.

If merchants are really sincere in their "trade at home" plea, we wonder if it would be all right for their prospective customers to scan the merchant's circular to see if it bears the identification line: "Floyd County Times Print." Customers, we know, prefer the merchant who "practices what he preaches."

But, if they will persist in out-of-town printing, will they please have their carrier-boys "stay away from our door?"

THEY WILL COME BACK

The following editorial, from the pages of Heywood Brown, since its first printing, has been reprinted in numerous newspapers all over the nation. It is reprinted here:

The armies of Japan press deeper and deeper into the heart of China and the rulers of Nippon would have us believe that they will not come back. They will come back.

High on the slopes of Olympus sit the sisters three. Cloth spins the web of life, Lachesis measures its length and Atropos waits with shears in hand to cut the thread when the appointed time is come.

They are ancient and to the Greeks they seemed a somber trio. That is not true, for they sing at their work and little jokes pass between them. When war lords cry out, "History is on our side and we will follow the course of destiny," the old girls giggle.

They have seen the elephants of Hannibal go up the Alps and over. They have watched the legions of Caesar tramp through the sacred groves of the Druids. They heard the tears of Alexander and saw the bloodstains on the snow in the retreat from Moscow.

The proud armies of Japan will sink and return, for the ebb is higher than the flood. The bird of destiny is on the wing and he is singing home.

Let the warlords of the world history, for it is written that in the field is nothing more than a flourish of trumpets and when the last note dies away there is no and the silence comes. The tattered banners of the brave brigades will never wave again. There is no bugle shrill enough to rouse once more than night which was Napoleon or a word of command sufficiently imperious to loose again the men of the Hun.

Deep in the dust lie the eagles of the conqueror and grass grows in those places where the aspirations of the aggressor have been given back to the earth.

All victories are Pyrrhic, for an army does not march upon its belly, but upon the necks of its own people. A bomb is dropped in Nanking and in Osaka an increasing burden falls on the back of the working masses. The leaders of Nippon will learn too late that the came bayonet thrust which pierces a Chinese coolie tinges with blood the moon which hangs low above the mean houses of the toilers of Japan.

They say that to his people the Mikado is a god, but even gods have been cursed and cut down when they visited too heavy a tribulation upon their worshipers. Men will strive a little while for the sake of an emperor. For a span of days of months or even years they may bed down with privation if such a fate is painted up and passed off to them as glory. But there will come the morning when each worker in Japan will wake and know her suddenly as a hag and harlot.

The conflict in the Far East will not be settled by the planes which dart in circles above Nanking, but in the rice fields of Japan. The thread will snap. Behind the far-flung army lines will come the roar of the aroused millions drowning out the sound of the siege guns.

And to his own the Mikado will have to make such answer as he can when they cry out for bread and peace.

The bird of destiny is on the wing. The armies of Nippon must follow the course he sets. They will come back.

Gregorian Chants for 1937

(The issue of The Louisville Times for November 20, carried the following editorial concerning Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James, of Prestonsburg, who recently took a group of Floyd county songsters to Louisville for a WHAS broadcast.)

Comes Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James, of Floyd county, to Louisville with a group of Floyd county men who sing songs which, Mrs. James explains, students of music have found closely akin to the Gregorian chants which were sung centuries ago.

None of the singers, Mrs. James explains, knows music. All of them have learned to sing by imitating others.

The songs and the correct method of singing have been handed down from generation to generation, along the creeksides in the remoter parts of the Kentuckian mountains.

Analysis of the notes by competent musicians reveals a musical curiosity in that the singing stands tests for purity of quality.

Only men sing, where the chants are preserved, on ceremonial occasions, such as, for example, the funeral that is preached a year after the person's death, when the wailing melancholy of "My Body's Bound to Moulder in the Clay" is heard.

It is interesting to hear such music on the air, thrilling to hear it in the presence of the singers.

Preservation of songs, not merely words, which have long since been lost by the outside world; preservation so faithful that it astonishes and delights those who know the literature of music, is an achievement, from the point of view of the outsider, but only natural functioning to the singing highlander.

SHIKE'S POKES

My sympathies to Mr. Bayes, W. J. Ford, Bill Bamer, Joe Hicks and J. C. Finley, U. M. W. of A. delegates to Frankfort, who were injured in a car wreck in Menifee county.

Stores in this section report a large increase in the sale of winter underwear.

Boy, you sure know "how long" they are in this weather.

An "ole grate" stacked high is the best fire—but it's "awful bad" to get up in the morning and start—just like a model T.

The Floyd County Times is giving us a union page. Come on, all you unions! Let's make this section a big success!

Practically every local union in Floyd county was represented in Frankfort at Mr. Burrow's labor conference. Harlan county was there, too—100 per cent strong. Those fellows have "come a long way" in the last year.

LACKEY

Woman's Club Activities

The Department of Domestic Arts has caused the Lackey Woman's Club, as a whole, to steadily improve in the sewing art. No club can boast of having accomplished more than this small group of ladies (or group of small ladies) from Garrett, Estill and Lackey. As a result of meetings with each of the following as hostesses, Mesdames Litteral, Reed, Murray, W. T. Hatcher, Hays and Bamer, two quilts have been completed and another almost half done.

The club not only excels in the art of sewing, but also in presentation of programs that are really worth-while. For the September program, "The Constitutional Sesquicentennial," under the leadership of Mrs. Bayless Litteral, proved to be one of the best the club has yet witnessed. The material presented concerning the origin of the Constitution, its making and final adoption, showed that Mrs. Litteral had put forth much effort in collecting this historical data.

At the close of this very interesting program, a delicious salad course was served by Mrs. M. M. Collins, hostess.

The program for October, "What We Can Do for Our Community," with Mrs. Charles Hornsby as leader, proved to be second to none. Concluding the discussion by most of the club members, Mrs. T. J. Chandler served refreshments.

Mrs. R. H. Messer has recently been appointed recording secretary in the stead of Mrs. Raymond Turner, who has moved to Ashland.

The year books are completed, and if any member desires one she is urged to bring a quarter and get a copy. Particular attention should be paid to the quotations introducing each program. Most of them are entirely original, contributed by Miss Audrey Sturgill, talented daughter of the club president, Mrs. Ruth Sturgill.

Y. P. E. Plans Christmas Play

Supreme Court Studies Floyd Countians' Cases

The government asked the Supreme Court, Tuesday, to refuse to review the convictions of the 16 Floyd countians under two-year federal prison sentences whose cases are now before the high tribunal.

The court is expected to decide December 9 what it will do about the Floyd countians' petition asking that their case be reviewed.

The convicted men claim that each of them has been placed in jeopardy 21 times for the same offense "if the overt acts applied to every court in the indictments.

The special charge on which they were tried charged the use of the U. S. mails for sending fictitious relief orders to the state relief administrator.

In addition to the series of box-car robberies, Crisp is accused, with Junior Greer, of Martin, of breaking into the Martin school building, of cutting a strip from the school's $247 stage curtain, of wrecking a typewriter and of taking athletic and laboratory equipment. Young Greer was given a juvenile hearing here Monday and was placed on probation after being given a reform school sentence.

HEALTH NEWS

Compiled by Dr. Marvin Ransdel
Director, Floyd County Health Dept.

A warning that many public eating and drinking places in Floyd county, by failing to observe the dishwashing regulations of the county health department, are helping to spread disease germs, was issued this week by Dr. Marvin Ransdel, director.

He said infected utensils may be responsible for transmitting whooping cough, mumps, measles, trench mouth, diphtheria, scarlet fever, common colds and other diseases of the upper respiratory tract. In places where the disinfecting of drinking glasses is questionable, he advises the use of single-service paper cups.

"When our lips come in contact with the mouth secretions left on a glass by a previous user, we stand a good chance of picking up his disease germs," Dr. Ransdel said. "The mere washing of glasses is not enough. Most places do wash their glasses but few disinfect them and that is what must be done if the glass is to be safe for use."

He said the department has been quietly conducting a survey of public dishwashing methods here. In some eating places the bacteria count of rinse water exceeded 1,000,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter, and in bars as many as 500,000 bacteria were found on the rim of a glass. The rinse water was so contaminated in some instances that the bacterial count of "clean" glasses was actually higher than that of unwashed glasses.

"Germs to be killed must be subjected to boiling water, or live steam or to a chemical solution for 5 to 8 minutes," he said. "The health department has three methods of disinfecting and these methods must be used unless disposable paper service is provided."

Dr. Ransdel urged the public, for its own protection, to demand sanitary eating and drinking utensils and avoid beer taverns, cafes and soda fountains that ignore sanitary rules.

Comments From The Capitol

Unless there is some unexpected trouble lurking in the omg, the legislature will convene January 4 without the customary wild day and night of caucusing and organizing which usually precedes the opening of a session of the Kentucky General Assembly. In past years Senators and Representatives milled and milled from dawn to the opening day, laying plans and selecting leaders, passing and bestowing favors and presiding administration's plans are so well laid that there will be little left for the Senators and Representatives to do, other than rise over to Frankfort, get their name in the pot and stick strictly to business, with the exception of selecting a representative to be floor leader in the house, virtually all posts are filled or rather the man has been selected to fill the post and all that is now necessary is to go through the routine of selecting him by vote. The Senate will be much the same as in the last session, with the exception of president pro tem. By virtue of his office as lieutenant governor, Keen Johnson will be president of the Senate. Senator Edwin C. Dawson, of New Haven, is listed for the president pro tem job. Ralph Gilbert is billed to succeed himself as majority floor leader. In the House John Kirtley will again occupy the Speaker's seat. The majority floor leader there has not been mentioned. John Honnicutt, Ludlow, is seeking the post.

The state income tax yield for the first year of its existence exceeded expectations by more than two million dollars and it was well that it did. With the bulk of the last installment of the tax already in the cash register there were $4,639,228.55 accounted for, all taken in within the compass of a year. That amount represents $2,423,338.55 more than was anticipated. This offset the shortage from receipts from whiskey tax. When anticipating the whiskey tax for the year the anticipators apparently failed to take several things into consideration, any one of which might cut into the production on liquor. One was the filling of warehouses, another was the making of more liquor than was demanded on the market and another was the high price of grain which caused several plants to either halt activities or curtail production.

Governor Chandler, who launched the largest building program ever attempted by any chief executive of the state, added another project to his list this week, a new prison for women. This new institution will be located in Shelby county, some fifteen miles from the new penal farm in Oldham county. This plant is located in the Pine Bluff Community on a 280-acre farm donated to the state by the Federation of Women's Clubs of Kentucky. This farm was obtained by this organization during the World War for the purpose of making a home for unmarried mothers. This plan was never carried out. Plans for the new women's prison have been completed. They call for $130,000 cottage type prison. At present there are about 100 women prisoners in the state. They are confined in an old school building in Frankfort.

Last week this corner made a few passing remarks about the state's tobacco situation. Since that time, and as the time for the market to open grows closer, the assurance that this will be a banner year on the breaks so far as pounds are concerned, is verified by reports from all sections. Latest figures obtainable show that there will be no less than 343 million pounds of Kentucky grown tobacco to go to the market between December 6 and the end of the sales season. That this will be a top year is shown by the houses' preparation. Most of the leaf plants are planning on having extra personnel. Government unemployment agencies are furnishing a lot of the labor that will be used.

RANDOM SHOTS: Gov. Chandler has appointed a three-man board to study the unemployment situation of the state. It is composed of Dr. E. L. Palmer, chairman, who is with the University of Kentucky Bureau of Business Research; Ben Spicer, president of Transylvania Printing Company, who will set as employer representative, and B. S. Heffield, secretary of the Louisville Typographical Union, who will be the employee representative. The deadline for filing expense accounts accumulated by Senatorial and Representative candidates in the last election is near. Up to date there are a few missing. Perhaps the biggest jolt Secretary of State ever received was Thursday when Attorney General Hubert Meredith filed his account for the last election. The Attorney General did not spend a single cent to be elected. Tom Hawkins, his opponent, spent only 45c. That was by far the cheapest race ever run. The winner, General Meredith, accumulated a majority of more than 100,000, which is a record. Now will someone say that a lot of money is necessary to win an election? Off-cially there are 25 counties in the state that it is not known whether they hold a November election. The state board of election commissioners, which takes official cognizance of such things, know of the record, that elections have been held in these counties and know who was elected, but they have not been officially notified by the county commissioners. The gold leaf coiling in the chamber of the Court of Appeals is being cleaned. That room has been occupied now for 28 years and until now the gold leaf has never been cleaned. When bed bugs were recently found to be occupying a major portion of the Court of Appeals' available space, the place was ordered cleaned from stem to stern. Wanted: A county attorney! Owsley county is without a County Attorney, and is looking for one. The present county attorney was elected Circuit Judge, and the only other lawyer in the county states that he will not accept the appointment. This has happened perhaps only once before in the history of the Commonwealth. Carl Schneider, recently elected Representative from Louisville's Fifth District, a district which has long been Republican, resigned to look after an increased chemical business. This means a special election immediately.

PIKEVILLE DOWNS 'CATS BY 1 POINT

Fitzpatrick Leads Prestonsburg's Offensive On Snow-Covered Field

A Blackcat tumble on the Pikeville five-yard line after a drive from midfield, nauted a touchdown march in the Prestonsburg-Pikeville football melee on Pikeville's snow-covered ground last Saturday, and allowed Pikeville to down the Blackcats by the narrow margin of 7-6. Pikeville scored first, late in the first quarter from the two-yard line. Their kick for extra point was good. Prestonsburg scored in the second quarter from the Pikeville one-yard line, Craft taking the ball over, after Fitzpatrick, who led the Blackcat offensive, placed the ball in scoring territory. Mayo's pass to Allen for the extra point was incomplete. With less than four minutes left to play and Pikeville leading by one point, Mayo, on the last down with six yards to go, hurled a desperation pass from the Pikeville 48 yard line to Craft that gained a first down. Passes and a running attack carried to the Pikeville five-yard line before a Blackcat fumble gave the ball to the Panthers in the last minute to play.

For Prestonsburg, Buddy Fitzpatrick led the ground-gainers, repeatedly reeling off long runs. Wiggins was outstanding for Pikeville.

In their final game Thanksgiving Day, the Blackcats tackle the Paintsville Tigers, who, on dope, are figured two touchdowns better than Prestonsburg. The Tigers, playing teams also played by Prestonsburg—Belfry, Pikeville, and Hazard—have run up larger scores on their opponents than did the Blackcats. Last Saturday the Tigers, paced by their hard-running back, 194-pound Castle, defeated Hazard by the greatest score ever made on Hazard at home.

In their other games Paintsville has been downed only once by Covington, who is now claiming the state championship. Prestonsburg has dropped games to St. Xavier, Williamson, Whitesburg, and Pikeville. Due to an open date, Paintsville has been preparing two weeks for the Blackcat tussle.

Tickets for the Thanksgiving melee at Paintsville have been requested from the towns of Prestonsburg, Paintsville, Jackson, Hazard, Pikeville, Jenkins, and Van Lear, as the game will decide the winner of the Big Sandy football conference.

"FRIEND" WRITES OBITUARY OF MRS MARY L. JARRELL

Mary Lafety Jarrell, was born September the 10th, 1869 and was called by our Lord and Master to her home in the great beyond, on October the 5th, 1937, at the home of her step son, W. G. Jarrell, at Martin, Kentucky, at the age of sixty eight years, three weeks and four days. After several weeks illness, she passed away as peacefully as a child to the land of dreams. She was married to Harvey Jarrell July 26th, 1884, and was a true and affectionate wife until death. She leaves to mourn their loss, her husband Harvey Jarrell, one step son and one adopted son, five brothers, five sisters and a host of other relatives and friends.

She was converted in her early teens; baptised and united with the Lafety class of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South on Bull Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky and was a faithful, devout member and a happy Christian until death. She was so loyal and faithful to her Master. The Church and her friends, that we cannot estimate our loss of this beloved sister. We feel that the world has been so greatly enriched by her life, and that the influence of her noble Christian character, and religious activities in her home, in her community and in the church has been such that it has gone out to tell for good, and has been a great blessing to mankind. She dearly loved her Church and the Sabbath School, and was loyal, true and faithful in attendance until a few weeks before her death. She will be greatly missed not only in the church and the Sunday School, and in her home, but in the homes of her neighbors and friends, and around the bedside of those that were sick and in need of help in her community. Thank God, for her courageous and religious activities, and the great inspiration of her life to all who know her.

Her funeral was conducted at the Jarrell's cemetery on the head of Bull Creek, October the 6th, 1937, by Rev. C. H. Peters, pastor of the South Portsmouth, M. E. Church, South assisted by Rev. James Roark and Rev. R. A. Jarvis. Her funeral was conducted in the presence of a very large crowd of relatives and friends that came to drop a tear of sympathy, and to pay their last tribute of respect to this noble Christian woman.

We extend our sympathy to Harvey Jarrell, the husband of the deceased, and doubt that any other burden ever come into the life of Bro. Jarrell, that was so heavy as that the death of his dear companion. But we hope that he will have strong Christian courage to support him, and that he will have unwavering faith in God that will give him the victory over this, life's hardest trial. And while this burden seems so heavy to bear, to remember that God does all things well, and that all things work together for good to all who love Him. We pray the blessings of God our dear heavenly Father to rest upon Bro. Jarrell and the leadership of the Spirit of our Christ, comfort and lead him gently all the way to the end of life's journey, and may he meet sister Jarrell again on love's eternal shore. She is not dead, her life's gone down. To rise upon the golden shore, And bright in heaven's jeweled crown She shines forever more.

Girl Wins Aunt Jenny's Scottie

Jean Jarvis, of Kansas City, won herself a lovely Scottie dog because she submitted the name "Stymie" for the animal in a naming contest held on the "Aunt Jenny" radio program. She said she was stymied and therefore named the dog after her dilemma. The canine's father was one of the champions of the American Royal Dog Show last year and papers for the pup's registration have been filed. The winner is only 14 years of age.

City Judge Henry (Foxhunter) Alexander is scouring the countryside for a dog that he lost the other day. He was unable to find it. He was unable to find it. He was unable to find it.

BALLED AND CHAINED, USES WHEELBARROW

The city of Clinton is mighty nice to its prisoners if they treat them all like they did one young fellow on the street gang last week. Because of repeated attempts to escape from the gang on previous occasions a ball and chain was locked to his ankle to thwart another attempt, but he wasn't in such a bad shape after all, for he was given a wheelbarrow to haul the big iron ball around in.

ATTENTION: LOCAL MINISTERS

Jackie Skeeter (Nee Gaynell Pack) now of Huntington, formerly of Oxford and River, Ky., always puts her Saturday night winnings at poker in the collection plate where she teaches Sunday School. And if she doesn't win she puts as much as she can in the plate anyway. So I guess the Sunday School treasurer hopes she wins big or loses big either one.

15 FREIGHT CARS WRECKED

Paintsville, Ky., Nov. 20—Fifteen freight cars were derailed near here at 4:10 o'clock this morning when a fast C. & O. manifest wrecked on a switch at West Van Lear, tossing grapefruit, oranges and other commodities in every direction.

D. A. Barnett, conductor, and Floyd Schump, conductor and engineer, were in charge of the train.

Passengers from the morning and afternoon Big Sandy trains were transferred by bus at Paintsville. The wreck was not cleared up until Saturday night to allow trains to pass over the track. It was said by Yardmaster Semmie Stapleton here that it would be two or three days before the wreckage will be cleaned up.

The train was running on the fastest stretch of line between the north and south.

3 KENTUCKIANS ADD THEIR CHANTS TO CITY'S HUBBUB

Hillmen Record 6th Century Chants At New York University

New York City's medley of noise was augmented last week by the strange and plaintive chant of three Kentucky hillmen. Soberly they sang:

"You have fixed my feet till I can't walk,
"You have fixed my tongue till I can't talk;
"Lord, spare me over till another year."

The chanters were the Rev. John William Dawson, gaunt and vigorously mustached parson of the Dry Fork Primitive Baptist Church, of Morehead, Ky., "Aunt" Martha Williams, of Boyd county, Ky.

Their songs were recorded at New York University as authentic folk lore. The words of their hymns are said to date back to Elizabethan times, having been passed on by word of mouth, and the tunes date back to sixth century Gregorian chants.

Parson Dawson said the origin of the hymn quoted was the plight "away back" of a "man named Robbie Ferguson who was called by the Lord to preach and wouldn't go. Finally he was made to apparently die. His folks laid him out for dead and he became as cold as a rock. After two hours or more the words and music of the hymn came to him."

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

VICTUALS, GRUB, AND FOOD

What we eat may not vary much in calories or vitamins, but it varies enormously in dignity. It is a well-known fact that the very idea of eating is itself capable of many interpretations. Some eat to live, some live to eat, but most of us have habits that lie somewhere between abstemiousness and gluttony. Similarly, we may not always eat in the same sphere. Sometimes we range from the super-dignified to the plebeian. I must tell you about these various levels of eating, so that you

MRS. BERTHA SMITH ACQUITTED BY JURY

Mrs. Smith Claims Killing of Husband Was Acci- dental

Mrs. Bertha Smith, 26, Pikeville, formerly of Allen, this county, was acquitted by a Pike county jury last week of the slaying of her husband, Oak Smith, 42, wealthy gas driller, at the Smith home in Pikeville last July.

Mrs. Smith, testifying in her own defense, said that her husband came home drunk and attacked her sister, Mrs. Aubrey Young. She testified that she obtained a revolver which she thought was not loaded and only intended to scare him. She testified that she did not know how the revolver was discharged.

Smith died a short time after he was shot en route to a hospital. The prosecution contended that Mrs. Smith killed her husband because of jealousy.

The pistol was one her husband had borrowed and the shot that took his life was the only one she ever fired from a pistol, she said.

She was formerly Miss Bertha Martin, of Allen, Floyd county, and she was married to Smith about eight years ago when she was 18. She described her husband as addicted to drink and abusive when drunk.

may know where you are, socially and otherwise.

Most words borrowed from the Latin have a tendency to be dignified; it is otherwise with victuals. It has now fallen on evil days. When you hear it, you recall certain homey foods, foods associated with the old-fashioned country home, with its well-stocked smokehouse and with plenty of frying-sized chickens running around in the front yard. Cabbage and cornbread and fried ham and fried pies are assuredly victuals, the kind that Aunt Mary used to cook and serve in abundance rather than in style. You are invited to "take out and help yourself." No napkins are needed, since most of the men at the table have red bandanna handkerchiefs and the ladies wear aprons. The word "victuals" may sound harsh to modern ears, but to many it brings a watering of the mouth, a longing for "square meals" of other days. The word, though, is "not nice" now and is tolerated only out of courtesy to Grandma.

"Grub" has a plebeian smack, with a hale-fellow-well-met sound. Grub is coarse but substantial food, cooked usually by a man for men. It is found at logging camps, at wheat-threshings, at log-rollings (whenever and wherever such now occur), and at other activities where men are both the workers and the cooks. Potatoes cooked in plenty of grease or boiled in the jackets, beans and bacon, plain hockeak, and sliced potato pie are grub. You know you are getting enough to eat. Grub tastes better when eaten out of tin pans with iron forks and knives and spoons, with coffee served in tin cups. Table manners were not meant for grub, but many people have lived and died without having eaten anything else.

"Eats" are of recent origin and have a sophisticated air. We could almost say that eats are of college or high-school rank. Picnics are responsible for eats. You take along sandwiches and pickles and olives and peanut butter and fancy cakes of all kinds. Eats are served in fiber plates or are eaten right out of the hands. If coffee is on the menu, it appears in paper cups, or, if the crowd is select, from actual china. The lunch is not complete without ice cream, served in cones or small cups. Eats are decorous, even to the paper napkins. By a figure of speech or transference of meaning, you may call boarding-house food eats. This should be used sparingly, unless it is to designate special preparations on the part of the landlady. Ordinarily it is better to call what is served at the boarding-house "grub," or, using a part of the whole by another figure of speech, "hash."

Shooting and Fishing

By J. C. (OL' NIMROD) WARD

South-Eastern Gas Company headquarters at Martin have been practically disrupted, insofar as legitimate gas business goes, for the past two weeks, due to Tom Allen's prodigious preparations for a Pennsylvania deer hunt. Patrons calling to pay their gas bills are frequently dumbfounded by such illogical questions out of an apparently blue sky as, "Was it a running shot? Did you hit him the second shot? How many points did he have? What did you do with the farmer's dead cow?" etc., etc.

Trucks have been backing up to the office day and night, discharging cargoes of red hats, red hunting shirts, red suits, red socks, red boots, red Remington rifles—uh, uh! I'm getting that way myself—cases and cases of .35000 super-colossal-magnum Remington cartridges have been fired into the supposedly vital areas of imaginary deer carcasses, and reports of dead and wounded cattle have filtered in from as far south as the Tickey John Hall Branch of Big Mud. How long this state of affairs can endure is not known. In spite of the fact that "Mayor" George Ryan has ordered all cow-owners in Martin to confine their stock strictly to the house, until Mr. Allen has gone, Lawrence Kestley's pet bull calf broke out of the kitchen last night and went high-tailin' down the street, but was finally re-captured and returned to the safety of the kitchen by a number of public-spirited citizens. Mr. Allen had fortunately gone to Pikeville for another truck-load of ammunition.

It is fervently hoped by the livestock owners of Martin that Tommy gets both his bucks and doe, and can come quietly back and settle down to the comparative safety of hum-drum gas business. His friends, too, hope that the wild unnatural gleam will be gone from his eyes, and that he will again be just one of the boys.

LOB CASTS

What's the matter with the Trading Post? Don't you boys have something you want to trade off? Who'd have thought there were so many Jimmy Gables in Floyd county? Maybe there should be an open season declared and thin them out. Surely they couldn't make the song-bird list, like a shikepoke. Cold and snowing today, so get out a bunch of fishing pictures taken in Canada, and live over again the memories of years ago—that big broadsided fellow had lain in such deep water alongside a wind-swept rock-bridge, that I couldn't get a plug down to him, so the guide had bent on a windless, weighted hook and a live chub minnow. The first time we trolled by, the big boy had displayed no interest, but the second time he took with a rush and I let him run till he stopped to turn the minnow and swallow it, then a flick of the wrist set the hook and the fight was on. Back and forth under the boat he surged, the tip of the little True Temper nearly touching the butt. But the tension in that fine steel tip would not be denied and soon he was fighting in ever-decreasing circles near the surface. Even then the scrapping, red-eyed battler would not break water, and finally a quick swing of the long-handled net and four pounds of bronze back small-mouth lay on the floor-boards, thumping his broad tail in pitiful protest. I'm older now, and trust that my appreciation of the wonderful things of nature is deeper, and now I wish I had only the photograph of that noble small-mouth—wish that he were still lording it over his fellows in that cold, little Canadian lake. November 24 ushers in that fateful day on quail and rabbits. Remember your bag-limits, and even if you don't have your limit of birds, don't follow up that covey from which you have already taken half the birds. Leave them for seed and find another covey—don't take those extremely long shots that only result in cripples and lost birds. Let's hunt like sportsmen and gentlemen, and may your game-bags be pleasingly plump when dusk turns you back to the house.—Adios.

Third Auto Victim

Bill Ford. All were taken in the ambulance of the Ryan Funeral Home to the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey, except Mr. Bamer, who was taken to the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin. The latter suffered a broken leg. Mr. Hicks received serious head injuries and Mr. Bays sustained severe loss of blood from a leg injury. The others were cut and bruised.

Faulty steering mechanism is blamed for the Hall death. As his truck was rounding the "Narrows" on the Salt Lick road, it veered toward the declivity. Hall's half-brother, Stumbo, and a cousin, Melvin Litton, leaped clear. It was said at the Ryan Funeral Home, where the body was prepared for burial, that water in the victim's lungs indicated that he drowned.

Surviving the victim are his widow and two children. A native of Johnson county, he was employed as a miner by the Central Elkhorn Coal Company at West Garrett. Until recently, he was a next-door neighbor of the Howard boy, first of Hueysville's list of motor victims. Funerals were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the graveside in the Martin cemetery, West Garrett, the Revs. E. H. Howard, M. C. Wright and A. L. Allen officiating. Interment was made under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

NOT SO HOT

We're continuously hearing our friends speak of the modern marvels of the movie and the radio. Now we admit that they're nice things to have, but shucks, they don't seem so hot. After all the years science has worked and improved upon them, a movie can't make a wagon wheel rotate in the right direction, and radio's biggest star is a block-headed wooden dummy.

ONLY ONE TO A CUSTOMER?

Frank Layne in advertising the Thanksgiving dance (Nov. 26) at his Club Rustique, says: "Couples $2.00 plus tax;" then quotes, "Extra Ladies $.50."

STUDY IN BLACK AND WHITE

The above drawing was carved on an linoleum block as an experiment by Mrs. W. P. Mayo, who used her son, Dick, Prestonsburg high school athlete, as her model. Mrs. Mayo, gifted in the painting of murals and water colors, is attempting this block carving as a new venture.

UNCHOSEN!

On Carter boulevard the other day we saw stranded, a towering T-model Ford with two strangers busily at work, one patching a frayed inner tube for the bumpy tire that had long since lost its tread, and the other carrying a large tin of gas from a nearby filling station. On the rear of the car was painted, "In God We Trust; He Cares for His Chosen."

HE HAUNTS US

Stafford Supply Company's manager, Clifton Horne, our next-door neighbor, keeps facetiously asking us for prices on a page and a half ad. Of course we could sell him an ad like that, but we wonder if Mr. Horne ever approaches a book seller and asks him for a book and a half; or if he asks a car dealer to sell him a car and a half.

Threesome Gives Recital At Salyersville, Ky.

Mrs. Claude P. Stephens, Mrs. Tom James and Master Bobby Salisbury Friday evening, November 19, gave a recital at the Salyersville high school under the sponsorship of the high school seniors. Their first group of songs consisted of two duets, "Oh, Sweet Mystery of Life," and "Rolling Down to Rio," by Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. James, and "The Nightingale and The Rose," by Bobby Salisbury.

The second group was early American songs (in costume) "What Wondrous Love," "Old King Cole," and "Froggy Went a-Courtin'."

They, in costume, closed the program with a group of Stephen Collins Foster's songs, "Beautiful Dreamer," Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. James; "Harri Times Come No More," Mrs. James and Bobby Salisbury, and "Ring, Ring De Banjo," Mrs. Stephens, Mrs. James and Bobby Salisbury.

Lackey Is Becoming Basketball Conscious With Two Net Teams

With its high school basketball team twice a winner in three starts, and its independent team victorious in its season opener, Lackey is becoming basketball conscious.

The high school team, Lackey Lions, has played three games in four days, downing Wayland, 26-21, Maytown, 25-17, and losing a thriller to Garrett, 17-40.

So far this season the Lions have played their best game against Maytown. Trailing in the first quarter, they overcame Maytown's lead in the game's last stages to win by eight points.

The Lackey Independent team, in its first game, last week downed the fighting Independent team of Garrett.

Floyd Youth Tells Of Medical College Life

(Editor's Note: Seldom has any editor had the pleasure of reading so interesting and human a letter from a college student as the following, written by a young Floyd countian, now a freshman in medical school. For obvious reasons the student wishes his name and the name of his school kept anonymous.)

The letter, in part, follows: Sixteen years of school-days are behind us; five harder years are ahead of us before we finish.

We are your doctors of tomorrow. The first day in medical school we got our introduction to medical ethics:

"Do not lie to your patient, and, above all, do not lie to yourself—it must follow as the night the day."

We will not forget that day when we were led into the room where the corpses were kept and drew lots to decide which each one would dissect.

Twenty-five bodies, quiet in death, reposed on as many tables. The thump of our hearts was the only sound we heard.

The low voice of the instructor reached us from the far end of the room.

"When you are working on the cadavers, do not forget that they were once living human beings like yourself. When you are through with them they will be given a decent burial, and a prayer by an ordained minister. Show them no disrespect."

We show them anything but disrespect.

We know them as being poor individuals in life, who at death had neither money nor friends to bury them, and, being destined for Potter's Field, were given to aid the doctor's knowledge of the human body.

We pity them for the suffering they must have had in life, and respect them for the service they give us in death.

If we are told to remove the heart or lung from the body, we do it. After the first week we study it as we did our ABC's in grade school—except that we do not forget that it is the heart from a human body, a body that was perhaps someone's father or mother...

The above takes up only half of our time in the first year of medicine; half of the remaining time is used studying structures of the body too small to be seen by the eye—the parts that really make up the working man and woman. The remainder of the time we study the affects of certain foods on the body and the different actions of the many foods we eat.

This is what we get during the first year of medicine only. During the next four years we will study other things just as important. Classes begin at 8 o'clock in the morning and end at 4 in the afternoon. When we get out of class we count the day as half over—for we have to study until 11 or 12 at night.

By the end of five years of this we expect to understand why a doctor can tell you what is wrong with you when you ask him. And by that time we will be saying to you:

"It's nothing to worry about; just take this medicine after each meal, and you will soon be all right."

Basketball Sked Set

Basketball practice began at Wheelwright high school Monday, November 8. About 25 boys turned out the first day and the squad now numbers some 30 boys. Coach Harlowe plans to cut the squad down to about 15 boys in a week or so. The boys this year are not very tall, Luther Latham being the only boy six feet tall. But the abolishment of the jump rule will help considerably, and some of the boys are pretty fast, so by the time the season opens Harlowe should have a fast, smooth-working quintet.

The first game is the Tuesday before Thanksgiving, when the high school team takes on the Alumni. After that comes the following games: Dec. 3, Wayland, there; Dec. 4, Johns Creek, here; Dec. 11, Garrett, there; Dec. 18, Wayland, here; Jan. 11, Virgie, there; Jan. 15, Garrett, here; Jan. 17, McDowell, here; Jan. 21, Lackey, here; Jan. 22, Auxier, there; Feb. 4, Lackey, there; Feb. 8, Virgie, here; Feb. 19, Auxier, here; Feb. 22, Helliier, here.

These 14 games will compose only about half the schedule. Games probably be scheduled with Pikeville, Prestonsburg, Martin, Maytown, Jenkins, and several other towns. An independent team is now being organized and it should be a pretty good team, since there are several really good players in town. The team is planning to inaugurate its season this coming Tuesday night with a game with the Prestonsburg Independents.

It is earnestly hoped that the athletic fans of Wheelwright, parents, students, patrons in general, will patronize the games this year better than they did last year. At least try to attend the first few games, and I am sure that the boys will play the kind of basketball that will make you want to come back for more.

Game and Fish Department Report Hunting Conditions

Released this week by the Division of Game and Fish, a report on hunting conditions for Floyd and Kentucky's other counties, shows an abundance of rabbits, quail, squirrels, ducks, and furbearers.

The Division expects the finest mall season in years, brought about by placing 5,200 brood quail in open shooting territory under strict supervision.

The general report on the rabbit crop is good and in several sections, abundant.

In making this report, the Division points out the necessity of buying licenses in order that this work may continue, as the Division's revenue is derived from this source.
