G. O. P. VOTERS TRAIL DEMS IN FLOYD BY RATIO OF 3 TO 1

540 Voters Register During
Extra Registration Period
Just Closed

REPUBLICANS TAB 280
DEMOCRATS ARE 260

14,071 Democrats and 5,017
Republicans Are Eligible
To Vote Nov. 2

Although eligible democratic voters in Floyd county outnumbered republican voters in the recent primary election almost three to one, tabulation of registration during the extra registration period, which began August 15 and ended last week, revealed that of the 540 newly registered voters, 280 are republicans and 260 are democrats.

The grand totals of Floyd county voters, including those previously registered, are: democrats, 14,071 and republicans 5,017. L. P. Jones of Banner Meade's office said this week.

The Clerks office is now busy placing the new registration cards in master binders, which will go out to the precincts in the coming November election. Three typewritten lists of eligible voters will also go to each precinct in which the voters live.

Of the new registration period just ended, Tickey precinct number 16, led in the number of registered republican voters with 54. John Ant, number 22, was second with 29 republicans; Lee Alley, number 44, was third with 23 republicans. In practically all the other precincts democrats led by smaller majorities.

Harve, precinct number 20, had a democratic registration lead of 26.

Practical effort was made during this late registration period by voters to change their party affiliations.

This Town-- That World

GOT IT!
Imagine the terrible shock we had the other day when we received the following letter in our mail box:

Belle, West Va.
October 6, 1937
Floyd County Independent,
Prestonsburg, Kentucky,
Sirs:

Over a month ago I sent you three cents for a copy of your paper. I never received it. I think three cents is enough. It cost me six cents that week, and this makes nine cents. I don't care much about the three cents, six cents, or nine cents, but mostly just the principle of it. I will expect to receive a copy of your paper within the next few days.

Sincerely, A. A. M.

AT LAST
Flash! Stop the press!! Big News!! Hoo-ray, Floyd county has had not a single, solitary murder this week. We don't know but what all the gunmen have just temporarily run out of ammunition, but news of no killings this week is big news to us. Especially so when for the past six or seven weeks we've never missed a week in which we've had to write murder stories galore.

RECTION
Oscar Bond claims that this column owes him a correction. It seems after Oscar broadcasted the report of the Prestonsburg-Belfry football game over a public address system, as column said he 'tongue-tied' the following announcement: "In the Van Lear game we'll put a good field on the team." Now that Prestonsburg has played Van Lear on one of the muddiest gridirons ever seen Oscar claims he was right. And from what we saw of the game, we too believe there was more field (mud) on the team than there was team on the field.

BLACKCATS TAKE CONFERENCE LEAD

34-0 Win Over Van Lear
Gives P. H. S. Blackcats
Two Wins

On a rain-soaked field here last Saturday, the Prestonsburg Blackcats defeated the Van Lear Bank Mules 34-0, to take the lead of the Big Sandy football conference with two wins and no defeats. Quarterback Dick Mayo, who starred for the Blackcats in the St. Xavier game at Louisville last Friday, led the Blackcat attack, scoring three touchdowns.

Prestonsburg gained an early lead soon after the starting whistle when Mayo scored the initial touchdown on a 17-yard dash. Ray Craft added the second touchdown and later broke loose in the second quarter for 35 yard dash and the third touchdown. Tries for extra points were good and the first half ended with Prestonsburg leading 21-0.

Mayo stole the show during the second half to again score touchdowns on dashes of approximately 70 and 40 yards. One touchdown made by Mayo on a punt return was nullified by a penalty.

The lines of the two teams were about even weights, but the Van Lear backfield was the lightest seen on the home gridiron in many years.

Ankle-deep mud on some parts of the gridiron and a driving rain aided the Blackcats, as the lighter Van Lear backfield continuously failed to make successive gains through the Prestonsburg line. Most of the game was fought in Van Lear territory. Van Lear never seriously threatening the Blackcats goal line.

JOPLIN TO TALK AT CHURCH RALLY

Sunday School Convention To Be Held Here October
24th

A leader in the Sunday School field in Kentucky, the Rev. George A. Joplin, D. D., of Louisville, is one of the speakers for the county-wide Sunday School rally to be held at the Missionary Baptist church in Prestonsburg, October 24.

Dr. Joplin, who is field worker for the Kentucky Sunday School association, is to tell in one address of "The Profit from Bigger and Better Sunday Schools."

Sunday school leaders, teachers and students from all the Sunday Schools of Floyd county are invited and urged to attend the gathering. The rally will be the first of Floyd County schools for several years.

Inspirational singing, special music, roll call of Sunday Schools and popular talks are to mark the meeting.

Between sessions there will be a basket supper. All those attending are requested to bring lunch-filled baskets.

FLOYD COUNTY TIMES MOVES ITS EQUIPMENT TO INDEPENDENT BLDG.

The Floyd County Times this week began moving its equipment from the Court street building opposite the courthouse to the newspaper building on Third avenue, formerly occupied by the Floyd County Independent.

Although the newspaper will continue to be printed under the name of the Floyd County Times, it represents a consolidation of the two papers, the Times now having the combined circulation of both.

Persons who were subscribers to the Floyd County Independent will continue to receive copies of the Times until their expiration date. Persons who were subscribers to both will receive one copy of the Times each week until value for money received has been returned on both subscriptions.

The Times now offers better circulation for its advertisers at the same rate, and to its readers it offers better news.

Old Organ To Be Used At Club Program Here

Mrs. Edith James And Mrs. C. P. Stephens To Present Program At Dinner For Guest Speakers, Mrs. Paul Wickliffe And Mrs. E. R. Heller

The first portable organ, "toted mule-back from 'yon-side the hills," to enter Prestonsburg, years before the building of railroads, will be used at the Auxier hotel here at 7 p. m., Friday to entertain the Women's Club and their guests at a dinner which will feature as speakers, Mrs. Paul Wickliffe, president of the Kentucky Federated Women's Clubs, and Mrs. E. R. Heller, K F W C, past president, and state commander of the Women's Field Army for the control of cancer.

The organ will be used in the musical program to be given by Mrs. Edith James and Mrs. Claude Stephens. It was brought to Prestonsburg long ago by an itinerant Sunday school missionary and presented to "Aunt Mammy" Beavers, one of Prestonsburg's most revered citizens.

Mrs. Heller will use as her subject "What Every Woman Should Know About Her Health." Mrs. Wickliffe will give the response to a welcoming address made by Mrs. E. P. Arnold, president of the Prestonsburg's Women's Club.

For their program Mrs. James and Mrs. Stephens will be dressed in costumes worn when they appeared in the recent dedication ceremony for the first McGuffey shrine in Kentucky, erected by Miss Jean Thomas at Ashland.

Mrs. James' and Mrs. Stephens' opening number will be the same they sang at Ashland and will close with a group of Stephen Foster melodies, at which time the old organ will be played by Mrs. James.

The local Woman's Club, although sponsoring the program has not limited attendance to it. Any woman interested in the program is invited to attend the dinner-meeting, provided her reservation is made early.

CARTER IS LAUDED BY WOMAN'S CLUB DIST. UNION HEAD

60 Floyd County Children
Attend Clinic, Reported
To Club

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Marjorie Ransdell, Thursday evening with Mrs. Emery Clark, Mrs. Ralph Davis, Ms. Dick Davis and Mrs. Wm. Hubbard acting as hostesses.

Miss Ella Noel White, county chairman of the Crippled Children's Clinic reported a total of 110 crippled children from this district attended the clinic, 60 of them being from Floyd County. Five went immediately to the hospital in Ashland for correction, others to follow as soon as there was available room. About 300 persons were served a lunch at this clinic.

Mrs. J. D. Mayo, Public Welfare Chairman reported the cooperation being given by the local and county school officials in the safety campaign also the splendid way in which Mayor Carter is cooperating by having the traffic hazards of the local streets and side walks corrected thereby making for a safer town both for drivers and pedestrians.

A request from Mayor Carter for a committee of women to supervise the clean up of the town was approved by the club, also the plans to have a city wide system of collecting and disposal of garbage.

A vote of hearty commendation was given Mayor Carter for the splendid way in which he is cooperating with the woman's club.

Part of Ancient Stable Is Brought Here From Emma

Century-Old Nails, Hammered Out In 1798 Removed From John Graham Stable At Emma To Prestonsburg

A part of the old John Graham stable which was built 139 years ago at what is now Emma came to Prestonsburg a few days ago.

This part of the pioneer structure was represented by a handful of hand-made nails which were hammered out by a blacksmith in Abingdon, Va., and brought over narrow trails horseback, in 1798 by Ben Burchett, a veteran of the Revolutionary War.

L. C. Leslie, Emma, dean of Floyd county teachers brought the nails here. Two weeks ago, ruins of the old stable were partially razed at their site near the Ben Bevins home, at Emma. Yellow poplar logs used in the construction of the barn were as sound as when first laid. Mr. Leslie said, only time and wind and rain had worn them thin.

The old stable was first moved in 1898, when it was exactly 100 years old, from the site on which workmen for John Graham, Floyd county pioneer, built it.

Though the village of Emma is perhaps richest of all Floyd county communities in historical interest, no Floyd county organization to date has taken effective measures to preserve to posterity the relics and records which would make of the place one of engrossing interest to tourists as well as to residents of this section.

MILTON S. BURNS DIES AT LOUISA

Native of Prestonsburg, Is Heart Attack Victim In
His 82nd Year

Milton S. Burns, native Prestonsburg man, and retired attorney and banker, died suddenly at his home in Louisa early Sunday morning of a heart attack. He was 81 years old.

Mr. Burns, one of the Big Sandy section's most widely-known men, was the son of the late Judge John M. and Mrs. Kizzie Clay Burns and was born at what is now known as Garfield Place, home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude P. Stephens, on Second avenue here. When he was quite young his parents moved to Catlettsburg, a few years later moving to Louisa.

For 55 years Mr. Burns practiced law in Louisa. He was one of the Founders of the First National Bank there and served as president of that institution for more than 20 years, retiring last May because of failing health. He had been a member of the Presbyterian Church since early manhood and for a time was president of the Lawrence County Sunday School Association.

His wife, Mrs. Cora McHenry Burns, died three years ago. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. H. G. Wellman and Mrs. Kizzie Clay Lindsey, both of Louisa.

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday afternoon from the home, the Rev. Dr. Frederick Shannon, nationally renowned pastor of Central Church, Chicago and life-long friend of Mr. Burns, officiating, assisted by the Rev. S. W. Funk, pastor of the Louisa M. E. Church South.

FLOYD RED CROSS PLANS ROLL CALL

Roll Call To Extend From Armistice Day To Thanksgiving

Preparations for the annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross, to be conducted from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, are being made by the Floyd County chapter.

Announcement of publicity sub-chairman to work with Robert A. Potter, publicity chairman, has been made by Miss Ella Noel White, executive secretary of the chapter. They are: Mrs. J. D. Thomas, in charge of window displays and flags; Mrs. Stephen Ballenger, information leaflets; Judge John Caudill, speakers' bureau and Mrs. Everett Sowards Roll Call Sunday.

The Red Cross came much closer home to Kentuckians last year during the unprecedented Ohio Valley flood. In this major disaster of American history the Red Cross helped to care for more than 1,000,000 persons—in addition to those given aid in 127 lesser disasters in the country.

Senator Alben W. Barkley paid high tribute to the Red Cross for its rehabilitation work in the Ohio Valley. "The spirit of our people is rising," he said; "and they are displaying the heroism that enabled them to conquer to settle and to civilize the Ohio Valley in the beginning. It is largely due to the encouragement and the rescue work of the American Red Cross and these agencies that so enthusiastically and perfectly cooperated with them."

Individual citizens joining the organization this year are urged to display the Red Cross insignia indicating membership in their windows.

BURCHETT ANNOUNCES DEMOCRATIC MEETING

Woodrow Burchett, Floyd County's Democratic campaign manager, announces an important democratic meeting and rally at the courthouse here Saturday, October 16, at 7:30 p. m. held in the interest of the straight Democratic Ticket. All democrats are urged to attend and hear the speeches. All democratic nominees will be present.

TUBERCULAR X-RAY CLINIC IS PLANNED FOR ALL INDIGENTS

Is For Those Who Are Unable To Pay Regular X-Ray
Fees

HEALTH DEPARTMENT
IS CLINIC SPONSORS

Dr. John B. Floyd, Of The Ky.
T. B. Association, Is Conductor

For the benefit of indigents who are unable to pay the regular fees for a tuberculosis X-ray test Dr. John B. Floyd, of the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association, will conduct an X-ray clinic here, Oct. 21 and 22. Health department which is sponsoring the clinic, announced this week.

Only indigents who have been given skin tests by the health department and found tuberculin or who have been referred to the clinic by a physician will be given the examination. Expenses to the patient will be $1.25 to cover cost of X-ray plate only. Those previously tested and found affected but who failed to get an X-ray picture at last year's clinic will not be re-tested. They are urged to attend the clinic next month.

In preparation for the clinic, the health department began conducting skin tests at various schools of the county, on Right Beaver Creek with Garrett, Wayland, Estill, and Glo schools. Other clinics will be arranged later in the month.

ROTARIAN MAGAZINE WRITER WONDERS IF—
"HOME-TOWN EDITORS WILL GO TO HEAVEN?"

The small town paper is glorified by W. Earl Dye in the July issue of the Rotarian, who writes an article entitled "The Home Town Editor Speaks." The article follows:

When you married the "finest girl in the county," where did you look for that notice that meant so much to you—and so little to nearly every body else? In your home-town paper.

When your home was invaded by a blue-eyed girl, or a bouncing boy, to whom did you immediately give details about the time of arrival, sex and weight? The editor of the home paper.

In after years, when some young fellow took the blue-eyed girl to a home of his own, or the boy, now a man, was given a partnership in your business, to whom did you tell the news—which once more meant much to you and so little to everyone else? To this same editor of that same home-town paper.

And when trouble invades your home and you add to your earthly possessions that desolate bit of real estate in the cemetery, and somehow the sun doesn't seem to shine so brightly as it did and there's a flutter of crepe on the front door, and the chair that has been beside you for years is vacant—when this happens, who is it that makes it his business to "write up the obituary?" Again—it's the editor of the home paper.

See By the Paper . . .

Did you ever stop to count the times you begin conversation with the words, "I see by the paper . . . ?" Staying at home, you may not appreciate your home-town paper, but just take a trip, and be away from your intimate friends for several months, and then pick up a copy. You will welcome it as you would your closest friend.

I have always disliked publishing information about misdeeds or misfortunes of others. When I could do so, I have left such matter out, or have given the main facts, without going into details. To my way of thinking, there is something wrong with a journalism that brings tears to the eyes of an old man, or cause a mother to feel stabbed to the heart by publicity given to an erring son or wayward daughter.

I do not, however, mean that a newspaper should entirely suppress crime news. A hard and fast line between what news to print and what to omit cannot be drawn. The mitigating circumstances, and the far-reaching effect, must be studied and decided upon.

Paper Is Safeguard

In the main, it is the province of a newspaper to print the so-called crime news as it occurs. In so doing, it provides a safeguard to the community at large, which is invaluable. Men are deterred from criminal actions by fear of publicity. Judicious use of printers' ink can do more toward law enforcement than a dozen peace officers.

Newspapers, like all human agencies, make mistakes, but such errors are generally traceable to misinformation given the newsmen.

I remember one such instance which happened to me in my early portorial days. During the absence of the editor a communication came telling of the marriage of a young couple in a near-by community. The letter was apparently in the handwriting of one of our correspondents, and in good faith I published the story. A few days later, a sandy-haired citizen, accompanied by his elder son, his wife, his daughter, stormed into the office.

"I've come here to see the rascalion who put a notice in the paper about my daughter's marriage," he roared. In his hand was a long, old-fashioned "blacksnake" whip, held at a dangerous angle. Before I replied, I stepped to the door leading to the shop and asked the two men at work there to come up front. Then I told my visitor that I had edited the item and, summoning all my nonchalance, casually inquired whether anything about it was wrong.

As he cooled down a little—helped perhaps by the sight of a stove-poker in the hands of our Irish-foreman-printer, he explained that the report was false and that his daughter was not married. I had saved the letter which told of the marriage, and showed it to him. It then developed that it had been written by a young lady who had been going with the same fellow as the man's daughter.

Another apparently gross error, charged to me, happened when my make-up man transposed two hand-fuls of type. When the paper came out, an irate hostess called me and wanted to know why I had put the names of her bridge-party guests in the "Farm News" column—just under an account of a sale of registered bulls.

I am confident that all newspaper editors will go to heaven. No matter how eloquently the editor may boast for the development and progress of his community, no matter how diligently he may labor to build up his home county, no matter how loyally he supports a friend in politics, extolls the virtues of a famous native son, stretches the truth to praise a local prima-donna-to-be, or gently lays a metaphorical wreath on the grave of the departed, he seldom hears a "Thank you." Rarely does anyone say "Well Done." Almost never does he hear, "We appreciate that."

But let him make a slip. Let him say that Sam Jones did something he didn't do, or Mrs. Smith Brown said something she didn't say! Everyone in town then takes a whack at him. And that is why I believe that all newspaper men go to heaven—they get their share of hell on earth!

Wary Weems Wins

This fellow Weems at Scott's Store is really Scotch when it comes to dealing with "short change artists."

Recently, when three men bought a pair of socks, tendered a $10 bill in payment, handed a $5 bill back out of his change and asked for more change, then wanted to know if they had given Weems a $10 bill and asked for it back, all of these transactions being made in order to confuse the merchant—when the matter got far enough along, Mr. Weems promptly called a halt to the proceedings and began looking for a policeman.

The trio left town on the run. But they returned, it was later reported. Were you caught short?

RESOLUTION

Whereas, Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom did, on September 21, 1937, claim the earthly life of our brother, Henry E. Hughes, who for a comparatively short time had been a member of Zebulon Lodge No. 273, F. & A. M., leaving a host of friends who knew him intimately as "Dr. Hughes," and who will long cherish his memory as a congenial friend and associate;

Be It Resolved, That his wife, Mrs. Nannie Hughes, and his two children, Robert H. Hughes and Dorothy Hamilton Hughes, have lost a kind and loving husband and father, who always had their welfare uppermost in his mind.

That the community has given up one of its most valuable citizens, who grew with our town and contributed liberally to its civic organizations;

That Zebulon Lodge has witnessed the commitment to the dust of a faithful member and brother, who at the time of his death left vacant the station of junior warden.

BUSINESS HOUSE OPENS HERE

The Stafford Supply Co., Prestonsburg's newest place of business, opened last week in the Floyd County Independent building, to serve Prestonsburg and Floyd county as a wholesale house, selling only to merchants. The Prestonsburg house is a branch of the firm's headquarters at Paintsville, and is managed here by Clifton Horn.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Pieratt and Mrs. Valentine Hopkins have returned to Mt. Sterling after a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. N. M. White, Jr. They were extensively entertained while here.

There's Only One By SOPHIE KERR

"That bracelet's worth five thousand!" said Cayne. "He sold it for two hundred and fifty!" "Edelweis claims he gave him two hundred and twenty-five. But he'll sell it back to you for the twenty-five extra because he don't want any trouble, see?" "Can you get it for me?" "Certainly."

Peter Cayne took out his wallet and gave Terriss two hundred-dollar bills, two twenties and a ten. "Then get it at once. I don't like to think of my gifts to my wife being in that scoundrel's hands." "To say nothing of the value of it!" exclaimed Terriss, with what he meant for sympathy. "Okay, Mr. Cayne, I'll go right down there. He's holding it till he hears from me."

"When you bring the bracelet bring me your account and I'll pay it." He sagged down into his chair and swung half round with his back toward them. Terriss rose and went to the door, then turned and looked back. "And Miss Vincent, here, she's washed up too. Will it be all right for her to get her things and leave, or do you want to make some excuse to Mrs. Cayne and the servants about firing her? You don't want them to know why she was there. I guess."

With an effort Peter Cayne came back to them. "I promised you a bonus, didn't I, Miss Vincent. If you found the thief?" "I won't take it," said Rachel. "I wouldn't think of taking it. I can't tell you how sorry I am, Mr. Cayne."

"You thought he was a good boy, didn't you? You didn't see any signs? I keep trying to find excuses for him, maybe he wanted to help out some of his friends and didn't want to tell me, he knew I didn't like 'em, they seemed a cheap crowd to me—did he ever say anything that made you suspect?" Terriss interposed before Rachel could answer. "It was his trying to borrow money off Miss Vincent that gave her the hot tip. And he's borrowed off your servants till they won't lend him any more."

"Mr. Terriss—you shouldn't—" "Oh God!" groaned Peter Cayne. "He tried to borrow from you, Miss Vincent? Did you lend him anything?" "No—and I wouldn't have told you."

"Better I should know it. I don't want to be shielded by outsiders from what's going on in my own family. This'll kill his mother if she finds it out, she's so wrapped up in him."

"Mr. Cayne," said Rachel, "I'll go up and get my clothes and tell Mrs. Cayne that I've found another job, or that I've been called away by sickness in my family, I'll make some excuse and I'll leave at once, if you don't mind. And please forget about the bonus. I couldn't take it."

"That's very irregular, Miss Vincent," snapped Terriss. "You can't afford to be sympathetic. You're earning your living."

"I'll never earn it in this way again," said Rachel, fervently. She rose, eager to end the miserable interview.

"Don't take it that way, Miss Vincent," said Peter Cayne, dully. "It's better for me to know the whole thing. You did what I wanted, you found the thief. Just don't let Mrs. Cayne suspect anything queer, will you? I'll take care of the rest of it."

Rachel. "You'll have me arrested?" "Nobody heard the door open behind them, but they heard Peter Cayne's voice booming over them. "What's going on here? What's all this?" Elinor Cayne pushed Holbrook behind her and stood up defiantly. "Peter," she cried, "I want you to send for a policeman. Rachel has stolen my bracelet, the one you gave me a long time ago, the big gold one with the four square sapphires." Her voice faltered, changed into fear. "Peter—what's the matter with you?"

For he was staring at her as if he had never seen her before. He repeated her words; almost whispered them: "Rachel has stolen your bracelet, the big gold one. Oh Elinor, my poor darling—" "But she stole it," persisted Elinor. "I don't know what she's done with it, she won't tell me. You ought to send for a policeman—at once."

"No," said Peter Cayne, "we can't do that. Rachel didn't steal your bracelet, my dear." "But she did, she did! She's been prying into things ever since she came, she's a horrible person. Peter, she's been impertinent—and—and lazy—and now—she's stolen my bracelet."

"No," said Peter Cayne again, "Rachel didn't take your bracelet. Don't bother about Rachel, she's leaving. And don't bother about the bracelet, my dear, I know where it is, you're going to get it back. I know all about it."

He had spoken very gently, very tenderly, but his words threw Elinor into utter panic. She turned and caught Holbrook in her arms, her lovely face was all hatred and despair, she screamed out her own betrayal: "I don't care—I don't care—it's all your fault—you're to blame—you make me tell about every cent I spend—you're so cruel—so mean—if you bring the bracelet back I'll sell it again—I'll sell every piece of jewelry I've got if I want to—you can't stop me—I'll tell everyone what an old miser you are—I hate you—I loathe you—Holbrook's the only person in the world who loves me and understands me—"

"Elinor!" cried Peter Cayne, "stop—you don't know what you're saying! Don't try to shield the boy, I know he did it, I didn't want you to know it—"

"Don't be an old idiot—listen to me! I took the bracelet, I took ever so many more things, rings and old spoons and pins, anything I thought you wouldn't miss, and I sold them to have a little money of my own that I didn't have to tell you about—something to make my life endurable—parties with young people—people I loved being with—I am so sick—so sick of being shut up with an old man like you—it's not fair to me—"

"Let me get this straight," said Peter Cayne. "You and Holbrook got together and decided that I was a miser because I wouldn't let you spend my money on parties for Holbrook's friends. Every time you've gone out without telling me, his friends were giving a party, you were paying for it. Is that it? You looked around and took what wasn't likely to be missed and then he sold it to a disreputable fence and you had a good time on the money. My wife and my son!"

His voice was cold now, his eyes hard, but Rachel knew that something within him was dying. "Don't make it sound so dreadful, Mr. Cayne," she begged, shakily. "They didn't realize—"

But Elinor Cayne cut across the plea for pity. "What's this girl got to do with it? What's she doing here anyway? You've banded the servants to spy on us, they all hate me, Towers and Lena and Yates and now this girl."

Cayne went on as if he had heard neither woman. "I wouldn't have believed this unless I'd heard you say so. I—I can't believe it yet. I think you're shielding Holbrook. It was bad enough when I thought he was to blame, but you—Elinor, I don't know, I don't know! You must be crazy."

"It's a wonder I'm not crazy! I'm like a prisoner, everything must be your way, wherever we go and whatever we see it's because you want it! Holbrook, too—never any freedom, never any rights of his own, you force him to do the things he loathes—"

"Well," said Peter Cayne, "if he feels like that and has any guts, why don't he get out and dig for himself? I'd never have put up with being bossed as you say he is when I was his age. But of course you've babied him and spoiled him. He's more like a girl than a boy. I never thought I'd have a sissy for a son."

"Don't dare talk like that!" shrieked Elinor. "Holbrook's a genius, he's like me, he's sensitive, he must have understanding and sympathy and care! What do you know about anything except your hard old business? You ought to be proud of Holbrook—"

Rachel looked at the disheveled Holbrook, clutching his mother's hands, cowering before his father, she trembled with something worse than fear. It was the realization that this was her mother, this was her brother and that she innocently had brought them to this pass. "I am watching death," she thought, appalled. "Everything that seemed decent in them is dying and everything Peter Cayne lived for is dying too. And there's nothing I can do, nothing." She went out of the room and down the hall blind with tears she could not hold back.

Elinor's voice was shrilling on, higher and higher, bitter, venomous, mad! Towers and Lena were down the hall trying to hear what was going on. They wanted to question her but she waved them away. "I can't tell you, it wouldn't be right," she said. "It's all between them now." "I knew he'd catch her in something sometime," said Lena. "The poor dear man, working day after day to pile fine things on her and she with a heart like a block of ice—"

Rachel went into her own room, shut the door. She wanted to get away quickly, quickly. Her suitcase was under the bed, she pulled it out and began throwing her clothes into it, but even her will to escape failed her and she sat down on the one chair and rested her head on the dresser, sobbing.

Someone opened the door and came in and she roused herself to face Elinor Cayne, her face twisted from its beauty, her fair skin blotched with angry red, her blue eyes sharp with fury. Rachel saw these ravages in an agony of pity. "Oh, I am sorry," she said. "I know about you now," said Elinor Cayne. "I thought there was something queer about you from the first day. I never trusted you and I never liked you. And now I know—"

ARE WE ON OUR TOES?

Records of coal produced at mines on the C. & O. railway in the month of August, 1937, discloses the following:

- Cars loaded, figured on a 50-ton base: Total C. & O., 81,749.2 cars. Kentucky Division (Big Sandy)—13,851.6 cars. Inland Steel (Wheelwright) 2,851.6 cars. Koppers (Weeksbury) 950.8 cars. Clear Creek (Payne-Baber) 197.2 cars. Elkhorn Block 166.6 cars. Blue Beaver 111.0 cars. Superior 42.4 cars. Total Left Beaver Production above road improvement—3,330.6 cars.

The Kentucky Division produced 16.94 per cent of the total C. & O. Wheelwright produced 17.2 per cent of the Kentucky Division. Wheelwright tippie is the largest producer over one tippie on the entire C. & O. railroad.

Approximately 191,530 tons of coal were produced in August in that section of Left Beaver Creek in Floyd county, which has no direct improved highway to Prestonsburg.

THE MYSTIC MISSED

Cledo, mental marvel, who recently starred at an Abigail theatre stage-show, and who claims to answer all questions of any kind concerning any subject, certainly missed fire to one of the questions asked during her theatre program here. Cledo's answer to the question, "Who will win the world series?" was one word: "Giants." All of which makes us fear for Cledo's powers of prognostication.

NEWS

We'll long remember a favorite illustration used by one of our college professors for all incoming journalism freshmen. Said the "prof": "News is that which makes a maiden aunt arise and say, "Omgosh", and news comes from all over the world." The prof would then add, "The word, news itself illustrates its worldwide coverage: N stands for north; E for east; W for west; and S for south."

TO THE VOTERS OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG:

As a candidate for Mayor of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, I am asking the citizens thereof to vote for me without regard to politics upon the following platform which I shall endeavor to fully carry out, as follows:

1. I propose to operate the city's fiscal affairs upon the budget plan and to make it live strictly within the budget with economy as the direct objective in every particular.
2. I favor strict and vigorous enforcement of the law.
3. All needed public improvements will be made under strict and careful supervision.
4. I will cooperate to the fullest extent and to the limit of the city's financial ability with the WPA in the completion of all work projects.
5. I propose to compel the Water Company to comply with its franchise by providing standard fire plugs of a size and capacity approved by fire underwriters and thus make possible reduction of fire insurance rates throughout the city.
6. I shall use every power of my office, with the cooperation of the City council to provide a thorough program in the interest of public health and sanitation.

Upon this platform I base my candidacy and pledge its enforcement. BURL SPURLOCK.

CARTER IS LAUDED

New members approved, Mrs. Whaley, Mrs. Chalmer Frazier, Miss Oval Bingham, Miss Naomi Goble, Mrs. Mary Rose, Mrs. Pearl Allen and Mrs. Bess Golden.

A program of unusual interest featuring talented young women with Mrs. Dick Roberts in charge was greatly enjoyed, as follows: Two violin numbers by Miss Oval Bingham with Mrs. Whaley accompanying. A reading, "The Smackin' School" by Ann Allen, a reading "Ready for Promotion" by Mrs. Dick Roberts, "Kentucky Courtin'" by Sue Martha Ransdell, and a trio composed of Vivian Caudill, Alice Burke and Alice Barbara sang, "Beautiful Dreamer."

In a talk entitled "Kentucky Schools," Miss Naomi Goble pointed out the advantages to be obtained in the higher schools of learning in our own State saying that the colleges in Kentucky now rank with the best in the South and that it is no longer necessary to send our students "up North, over East or down South" their higher education as was the practice several years ago.

Members present, the Mrs. E. P. Arnold, Mrs. S. A. Combs, Mrs. R. V. May, Mrs. A. C. Harlowe, Emery Clark, A. J. May, J. D. Mayo, R. C. Rimmer, B. F. Combs, H. F. TOM RAMEY, ETC.

(Continued from page one) Bob Pinson of Betsy Layne former president of the Betsy Local, has been selected by Mr. Ramey to assist him. Carson Hibbits of Jenkins, has been given a similar post. John Lucas who has been in the Big Sandy field for several years will remain on the job according to Mr. Ramey.

Tom Ramey began work in the coal mines of Letcher county. Following the advent of the United Mine Workers in this field, Mr. Ramey took unusual interest in the organization and Sam Caddy, president of District No. 30, placed him in the job of field worker. During his term of office as field worker Mr. Ramey has won the respect and admiration of every one he came in contact with. His reputation for "square shooting," has become a by-word among the miners.

During the recent attempt of District 30 to organize Harlan county mines, Ramey was given the task of organization there, under the supervision of John Hanratty, who was at that time in charge of the Big Sandy division. His record in Harlan county attracted so much attention that he drew the praise of both local and international officers of the United Mine Workers.

When part of the Harlan Field was given back to District 19 of the United Mine Workers, miners in that section wired the international organization, protesting the removal of Ramey from the field. Following the investigation of International Board Members of the Big Sandy as well as the Harlan County field, Mr. Ramey was informed of his new appointment.

DAN WHEELER DIES SUDDENLY

Paintsville Man Is Victim Of Heart Attack; Former Police Judge

Paintsville, Ky., Sunday, Oct. 11.—Daniel J. Wheeler, prominent attorney of this city, who had been in ill health for the last five years, died Sunday evening at 9:30 o'clock from a heart attack.

Mr. Wheeler is said to have remarked to friends Sunday that he felt better than he had for some time. Last night he ate supper and retired early and some time later his grandson found him unconscious in his room and he died before medical aid could be summoned.

Mr. Wheeler was born in this county and resided for a time at Salyersville. Later he moved here where he served as police judge until about five years ago. Mr. Wheeler, for several years made it a point to visit all of the patients in the local hospital.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Pauline Cooper Wheeler, by one daughter, Mrs. W. T. Davis of Ashland, and four sons Orion, Clarence, Hannibal and Bruce Wheeler.

Funeral is to be held Wednesday from the M. E. Church with burial following in the Mayo cemetery.

DRIFT WOMAN, ILL 5 YEARS OF CANCER, DIES

Body of Mrs. Lennie Harris, 66 years old, who succumbed Oct. 6 at the home of her son, Marion Mullins, of Drift, to a five-year illness of cancer, was taken to Kite, Knott county, where funeral rites were conducted Friday by the Revs. Wall Mullins, Ellis Hopkins and Tom Caudill. Burial was made there under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

Surviving her are three sons, Marion, Miller and Irvin, all of Drift, and two daughters, Mrs. Lindsey Caudill, of Busseyville and Mrs. Hazel Thornsbury, of Kite. Mrs. Mullins for 25 years was a member of the Regular Baptist Church.

MISS GOODMAN SUCCUMBS

Miss Georgia Goodman, daughter of George Goodman of Dwale, succumbed at the Beaver Valley hospital Martin, Sunday following an operation to remove an intestinal obstruction.

The body was removed to the Goodman home and funeral rites were conducted there Monday, with burial following in the Dwale cemetery under the direction of E. P. Arnold. Surviving are her father and several brothers and sisters.

BEST BAND IN DIXIE HAVE OWN QUARTERS

The "Best Band in Dixie," University of Kentucky's crack musical group, will have quarters of its own in a few days. It has just been announced. Facilities are being prepared in the basement of Memorial Hall and in a few weeks the band will be lodged there.

For the past ten years the address has been the "Art Center" located on the corner of Euclid Avenue and Harrison Avenue. Congestion in that building caused by the departments of Art and Music, the radio studios and Guignol theatre, has made other quarters desirable and an unused basement in the campus auditorium building is now being converted for that purpose.

McPEEK, CONLEY WED

Miss Flossie Conley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Watt Conley, of West Garrett, was married a few days ago to Mr. Ted McPeek, also of West Garrett. Both the bride and groom are numbered among the finest young people of the county. They will reside at West Garrett, where Mr. McPeek is employed by the Central Elkhorn Coal Company.

FOR SALE—Cheap—3 acres, 6 room house, barn etc., gas in house, electric and phone available, good orchard, 2 wells, 1-2 mile to paved street, see or write Mrs. Job L. Spurlock, West Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

FOR RENT—5-room apartment with garage, Mrs. J. J. Hatcher.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hatcher returned Friday from a visit in Spencer West Va.

HUEYSVILLE

In honoring her little niece, Miss Eloise Allen on her fourth birthday, Mrs. Luther Salyers gave a party last Tuesday evening. The little Miss received many pretty and useful presents.

Games were enjoyed and later in the evening refreshments were served these little guests:

MARGARET BECKER RANKS HIGH AT U. K.

Margaret Sutherland Becker, Wheelwright, freshman in the college of Arts and Sciences at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, and daughter of Mr. LeLand S. Becker, Wheelwright, was among the 18 students out of approximately 800 who took the freshman classification tests to score in the upper 10 per cent of the class, Dr. A. J. Asher, assistant professor of psychology at the University, has announced.

The three tests given were the Kentucky general scholastic ability test, which measures a student's ability to do academic work. The Kentucky English test, measuring the student's knowledge of English fundamentals, and the Iowa mathematics placement examination which measures the knowledge of mathematics at the high school level.

Democrats Ahead Five Votes In Lawrence

Louisa, Ky., Oct. 10.—Lawrence County today claimed the record of being the most evenly divided county politically in Kentucky. Only five votes separated the Democratic and Republican parties when the deadline for registering expired last midnight it was reported by County Clerk Home Ball.

Total registration listed 4,194 Democrats and 4,189 Republicans. At the August primary, only ten votes separated the two parties, but the Republicans then held the lead.

MEDIUM HOG BEST FOR HOME KILLING

With butchering time near, circular 261 of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture called "Killing, Cutting and Curing Pork," recommends finished hogs weighing 175 to 200 pounds. Heavier hogs often have too large a percentage of fat. The circular contains information on kinds of hogs to kill, butchering equipment, preparation of the hog, time to butcher, killing and dressing, cutting the carcass, curing the meat, and the making of bacon, sausage, head cheese, pickled pigs' feet, scrapple and lard. Ask a county or home demonstration agent for a copy or write to the college at Lexington.

Birth Announced

Birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Claybourne Stephens at the Paintsville Hospital on Sunday, Oct. 10, is announced. The newcomer was named Linda Sue in honor of her maternal and paternal great-grandmothers.

FORESTRY SCHOOL WELL ATTENDED

Schools Were Established For Five South-Eastern Ky. Associations

The Division of Forestry of the State in carrying out their educational forestry has just completed a series of forest fire control training schools of Deputy Fire Wardens and co-workers in the five protective Associations, namely Red Bird, Big Sandy, Pike Letcher, Kentenia and Gatliff, in southeastern Kentucky.

This series of schools was for the purpose of bringing together the Deputy Warden and other co-workers in each Association for practical instruction in forest fire prevention and suppression methods.

These schools enable members of the organization to become better acquainted with one another and their problems and afforded an excellent opportunity for the exchange of profitable ideas and solutions.

The program consisted of instructive talks by Assistant Director H. B. Newland, Frankfort; H. W. Berckman, District Forester, Putney; the Chief Warden in the Association and the Superintendents of the CCC camps located in the protective area.

After each talk an open discussion was held to amplify the subject taken up by the speaker. Following lunch which was served on the ground, the deputies were divided into crews and a mock fire was staged to bring out the proper methods of actually suppressing a forest fire. In this way mistakes were easily detected and proper methods demonstrated.

As a final feature of each training school sound moving pictures on forestry were shown.

Schools were held at the following places on the dates indicated: Emlyn, Sept 22; Pineville, Sept 23; Watts Creek, Sept 24; Inez, Oct. 5; Nigh, Oct. 6; Wooton, Oct. 7; Peabody, Oct. 8.

NEW BEREA CHAPEL CORNERSTONE LAID

Berea, Ky., Oct. 10.—Cornerstone-laying exercises at the new Danforth Chapel were held here this afternoon with William H. Danforth, St. Louis, donor of the new structure and trustee of Berea College officiating.

Others on the program were president William J. Hutchins who presided; Charles T. Morgan, alumni secretary and two students, Miss Blanche Pitt, Trinity, Ala., and David Beldon, Paintsville. Dr. W. G. Muelder, professor of Bible and philosophy, offered the prayer of dedication.

The chapel is a part of the new Jessie Preston Draper Memorial Building being erected on the college campus. The total cost of the two structures will exceed $400,000. They are to be completed by the fall of 1938.

HEALTH NEWS

Compiled by Dr. Marvin Ransdel
Director, Floyd County Health Dept.

THE GREAT IMITATOR

While the whole world is working to lessen the toll of life taken by such dangerous maladies as heart disease, cancer, pneumonia and tuberculosis, another mighty killing infection continues to keep up a fearful rate of destruction, largely because of the deceptive character of the disease and the lack of general public knowledge concerning it. This disease is syphilis.

The nations which fought in the World War suffered in their populations almost as heavy a death toll from syphilis as they did from bullets, shells, air bombs, and all the diabolical mechanics of modern warfare. Syphilis does not respect any age, sex, race, or social class. It is one of the chief enemies of mankind the world over.

It is a disease which has inflicted misery and death for hundreds of years; in past centuries, because no one—not even physicians—knew the nature of the disease or how to cure it; and in this present age, because the knowledge which science has attained for its prevention and control is not generally and effectively applied.

What Causes Syphilis

Syphilis is caused by a germ which may enter the body at any point through the skin or mucous membranes. Since the germ, spirochaeta pallida, is microscopic in size, this may occur through an opening in the skin so small that the eye cannot see it. The moist mucous membranes of the nose, throat, and genital organs are particularly susceptible, and the organism can penetrate even though there is no perceptible break in these tissues.

The germs of most epidemic diseases are carried from the sick to the well in certain special ways. In typhoid fever the water, the milk, or the housefly is usually responsible. In yellow fever, it is a mosquito; in bubonic plague it is a rodent flea. The venereal diseases also have their special carriers—sexually promiscuous men and women. These people are very likely to become infected with syphilis or gonorrhea, or both, and spread the infection. Every man and every adolescent boy should know these facts so that he may be forewarned of almost certain danger, not only to himself, but also to his future wife and children. Every woman and girl should know the seriousness of these diseases and their manner of dissemination.

On good evidence it is believed that one in every 20 persons, or 5 per cent of all the men, women and children in this country are infected with syphilis—a higher rate in some localities, a lower rate in others, while the incidence of syphilis varies greatly with the race, age, location and customs of the individuals studied, these figures mean that there are now, in the United States, about 6,000,000 sufferers from this disease. We cannot say as definitely how much gonorrhea there is, but there are probably two to three times as many cases as there are of syphilis. A large portion of these infected persons are an unrestrained menace in the community because they are not under treatment by competent physicians and are not taking precautions against spreading their infections. Many are attempting self-medication or "drugstore treatment" or are going to advertising quacks—measures which are useless and detrimental to the patient and to all those with whom he comes in contact. It has been estimated that 400,000 cases of fresh syphilis develop in the United States every year, but only 42 per cent undergo treatment. The remainder go untreated because free of visible skin lesions, and constitute the cases of latent or concealed syphilis.

While most cases of syphilis are acquired by direct contact between sexually promiscuous persons, the disease may also be communicated by the intimate contacts involved in family living. A husband who has become infected may give the disease to his wife, or an infected wife may give it to her husband. Syphilis may be passed from one person to another by kissing. Fathers and mothers have infected their children in this and in other ways of contact. It has been shown that 92 per cent of all acquired syphilis is contracted through sexual intercourse with resulting sores on the genital organs, while only 8 per cent of cases of acquired syphilis present extra-genital sores. The majority of the latter cases are contracted through kissing or perverted sex practice.

Occasionally syphilis may be accidentally acquired by indirect contact with an infected object. Dishes, forks, knives, spoons, cups, handkerchiefs, pipes, whistles, dental instruments, other objects have been reported to cause. Fortunately, infection from such sources is comparatively rare because, while the germ of syphilis is difficult to kill once it has entered the body of a victim, it is easily killed outside the body by drying in ordinary air, exposure to sunlight or to soap and water, and by such prophylactic measures as are practiced by the careful dentist and physician.

What About Children?

Syphilis can be transmitted to children before and after birth. A pregnant syphilitic woman may infect her child while it is yet in her womb; in fact, she is almost certain to do so if she is not treated during pregnancy. From 25 to 40 per cent of such children are born dead, and many born alive die early in infancy. Those who survive may suffer all the destructive after effects of the disease—defective bodies or minds, blindness, deafness, and other seriously deforming results—if they are not properly treated. Fortunately, through timely and adequate treatment of the woman during her pregnancy, the child can be given a 95 per cent chance of being born healthy and free of the disease. Recent statistical reports reveal that if a syphilitic woman receives a minimum of 10 injections of the anti-syphilitic drug (arsphenamine) during early pregnancy she will probably give birth to a normal and non-infected child. Every woman should insist that the physician or clinic looking after her during pregnancy include a blood test in the general examination given her.

There is a record of one family of six children in which every child was afflicted with what was supposed to be tuberculosis. Upon investigation, however it was found that the mother had syphilis and that she had been infected by her husband. The children were suffering from this disease and not from tuberculosis. Under treatment the children improved. Understanding on the part of the parents might have prevented the infection of the children or at least have given them a better chance for cure through early treatment.

The Great Imitator

Syphilis is all the more insidious because often those suffering from it are not aware that they have it. They may be a constant source of danger to others and, because they do not know that they have been infected, they fail to get the treatment that would check the ravages of the disease or effect a cure. A person may have been infected innocently and have no idea that the disease is entrenching itself in the body, slowly bringing serious harm to the heart, blood vessels, nervous system, and other vital structures and organs.

A deceptive thing about syphilis is that it is not ordinarily possible for the lay person to detect those who are suffering from the disease. Most people suppose that the condition of the victim's skin proclaims his misfortune to the world, but this is not so. The skin may or may not be affected. Often those suffering from the most severe attacks of the disease show no skin blemish and are not incapacitated in any manner which may be detected other than by a suitable medical examination or blood test.

So frequently is syphilis the cause of illness attributed to other causes that many hospitals of the country any many of our leading physicians make blood test a routine practice in the thorough examination of a patient.

This dangerous disease has rightly been called "The Great Imitator," for it may be mistaken for many other diseases, as, for example, the cold sore, psoriasis, tuberculosis, cancer, sciatic rheumatism, arthritis, and various other diseases of the skin, heart, lungs, kidneys, and brain. Syphilis is the common cause of locomotor ataxia and of general paresis, or general paralysis of the insane.

Tidbits of Ky. History

COOKING ON THE FIRE

First the step stove, then the range, and finally the kerosene and gas stoves have about pushed into oblivion the old method of cooking on the fire. When I was a boy, though nearly every house had a step stove or a range, these were many left-over utensils from the early days. On Sunday nights in winter Mother got supper on the open fire. Some coals on one place of the hearth served the coffee pot; the teakettle sat in a corner with the coals raked around it; and the oven that used to be the only one of its kind on the place was brought out and coals placed under it and on the lid. No biscuits of our time can equal those that were baked in that oven; and no sweet potatoes, either, can acquire a flavor like that of oven-baked "taters."

And how good was the pumpkin we used to cook in a big kettle on the fire in the kitchen! Though the family was large, we cooked enough for a good-sized neighborhood and kept it back in a jar, from which a quantity was taken each day for cooking down and sweetening with sorghum molasses. How eagerly we watched the cooking of lard on this same fireplace! Some poet might chant, with appropriateness, a hymn of praise of the old kettle, which did duty in many a way. It heated the water for the hog-killing, it boiled the weekly wash, it cooked down the pumpkin from watery masses of meat to slimy residue, it was the rendering vessel for lard at hog-killing time, it was the chief vessel in the annual soap-making. Truly it was a practical vessel, called to good and faithful service. What matter if some of these uses seem slightly confused and confusing? Were they not all dignified and serious parts of farm life?

And what has taken the place of the old teakettle that boiled in front of the fire? The elder race of poets looked upon this vessel as a symbol of the household spirit. I fear the old teakettle is lost along with andirons and ovens and coffee-boilers.

Modern means of cooking have many advantages, especially by their keeping the cooks from burning their faces, but the person on the sidelines, as I was in the olden days and still am, misses some of the picturesqueness of the old, old cooking utensils and the flavor of the food prepared over the fire.

HUNTING and FISHING

By OL'NIMROD

Years ago, one fall, when the leaves were turning brown and yellow and autumn winds were bringing hints of frost with yellow pumpkins in the corn rows, I grabbed my gun and hiked up to Uncle Bim Rod's my uncle on my daddy's side, you know—and Aunt Marybelle's for a hunt. It seemed like ages since I had seen them and I could remember clear as yesterday, the 22 cartridge belt I had fashioned out of an old piece of harness leather. I remember the brass hells of the 22's gleamed in the morning sunlight as I trudged up through the dew-laden grass of the old apple orchard, headed for the wind-swept ridges above, where scaly backed hickories, walnuts and the now almost-forgotten chestnut tree grew in profusion. Here and there were clumps of paw-paw bushes with melted frost clinging to their black-and-golden sides. Some of them had fallen and the fall had bursted their black sides, to disclose the golden yellow fruit inside. Here and there carefully siddened black seeds showed where a possum had rested the night before, and now and again I saw a shallow hole where a fox or a skunk had dug out a nest of yellow-jackets.

Up the hill above me a dew-laden branch suddenly shook, almost immediately a bough in a nearby hickory shook and I saw the sleek, grey rascal slide into the tree and up into the top. He wasn't in sight for a minute, then a twig bent abruptly in the air and I saw the curled body and wildly-waving tail as he reached the top. I had been a bit out of breath, but leaning against the trunk, I tried him and the next moment he was flipping over end, could never be equaled by deer or kadiak bear.

Without stopping, I hurried back to the house, bursting into the kitchen with my trusty .22 in one hand, the deceased bushy-tail in the other. I paused in the door for the plaudets of the family. Hastily wiping the remains of a buck-wheat cake from his chin and sucking the coffee from his mustache, Uncle Bim "smacked a calloused hand on my shoulder and 'lowed I "was just like my poppy." Hastily ducking my head, I avoided Aunt Marybelle's kiss, remembering the time she had nearly put my eye out with her snuff-stick. In moments of great affection Aunt Marybelle invariably forgot to remove her snuff-stick—I don't mean a mere sliver—I'll never forget the time when, in a burst of enthusiasm over a speech, Aunt Marybelle attempted to kiss John L. Lewis, John L. dodged and the point struck Gen. Hugh Johnson between the shoulders. Thinking he had been stabbed, Gen. Johnston knocked William F. Green for a row of C. I. O's.

Uncle Bim who lives in the mountains of Webster County, West Virginia likes his little nip now and then (we like it now.) He was telling me not long ago of a family named Hoseny who lived near him. The old man Hoseny hadn't tasted water in twenty-eight years. In the field he always kept a jug of corn likker and when he got dry he'd go over in the shade under a bush and throw the old jug up over his elbow. One day they were picking huckleberries when Uncle Bim heard the old man cackle. Looking around, he saw the old man holding at arm's length a four-foot diamond-back rattle snake which had struck and became fastened to his wrist. "Thinks he's pizen don't he," chuckled the old man. Ten seconds later the snake dropped off dead, poisoned.

Last week's meeting was a complete success. All five of us went home disgusted. You can't support a game and fish club and be somewhere else on meeting days. You've kicked and fussed about having no fish and game, but you've got to have a club to get that stuff these days. You've got the club now, but you won't have it long if you don't attend meetings; after all, this club is for you—and you and you—who fish and hunt.

For the coon-hunters, John Stephens is going to get prices on coons, if you wish. The club can chip in on a couple of pairs for chasing or stocking.

Before the last rise, bass were hitting everything you threw at them. Oscar Bond and Ed Burke report good catches between Allen and Prestonsburg—We had hoped the Wayland branch of the National Rifle Association would join up with us—Levi Taylor is the new volunteer game and fish warden at Drift—The Left Fork of Beaver would be a good stream to stock with bass, if we could get Jack May interested in two or three dams built with P. W. A. labor.

At this time of year a weighted tandem-spinner or a sinking River Run are hard to beat—I always liked a Shannon-Twin spinner, too. It's always a good idea in the fall to take along a minnow seine—Watch this column next week for a new department which you will all welcome—So Adios, muchachos.

THIRD RADIO LISTENING CENTER ESTABLISHED

A new University of Kentucky mountain radio listening center will be established next week in Breathitt county, it was announced recently by University officials. This is the third such center to be established in Breathitt county.

Operator of the new center will be William Clark, who is developing a settlement project near Rock Lick on Frozen. The location is about four miles from an improved road. There is now one radio within a half-mile, but no more for many miles.

Mr. Clark expects to keep the center open at regular hours for the people of the community to come and listen to worthwhile programs. It will be available for use twelve months of the year.

Other U. K. Listening centers in Breathitt county are operated by the Rev. Samuel Ward at Houston, and the Rev. Samuel VauderMeer at Morris Fork.

NOTICE OF SALE OF ELECTRIC FRANCHISE

On the 5th day of October, 1937, the Fiscal Court of Floyd County adopted a resolution directing the sale at public outcry of a county electric franchise. This resolution is in words and figures as follows: WHEREAS, it appears that it is to the interest of the public that a franchise be advertised, sold and granted, authorizing grantee to use the public roads of Floyd County for the erection and maintaining of lines for the transmission and distribution of electric power; Now, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Fiscal Court of Floyd County:

1. Section 1: That there be sold at public auction to the highest and best bidder the right, privilege, franchise and authority to construct, maintain and operate in, above, under, across and along the public roads, public ways, bridges and places of Floyd County, Kentucky (As the name now exist or may hereafter be laid out) lines for the distribution of electric energy, either by means of overhead or underground conductors, with all the necessary or desirable appurtenances for the purpose of supplying electric energy to said county for light, heat, power and any other purpose or purposes for which electric energy is now or may hereafter be used, and for the transmission of the same within, through or across said county.

2. Section 2: Said lines and appurtenances shall be constructed so as not to interfere with the proper use of the public ways, bridges and roads. The location of all poles or conduits shall be made under the supervision of the proper committee of this court. Grantee agrees to move any poles or fixtures that interfere with proper construction of operation of County roads.

3. Section 3: The rights, privileges and franchise hereby granted shall be in force and effect for a period of twenty (20) years from the date of the passage of this order.

4. Section 4: Said grantee shall save the county harmless from any and all liability arising in any way from negligence in the erection, maintenance or operation of said lines and appurtenances.

5. Section 5: Whenever the grantee shall begin the erection of any lines or other equipment, it shall promptly and diligently prosecute the work to completion and leave the roads, public ways and places where such work is done in as good condition of repair as before such work was commenced.

6. Section 6: Whenever in this order either County of Floyd or the grantee is referred to, it shall be deemed to include the respective successors or assigns of either, and all rights, privileges and obligations here in contained by or on behalf of said county or by or on behalf of said grantee shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the respective successors or assigns of said county or said grantee, whether so expressed or not.

7. Section 7: This franchise shall be accepted by the grantee within sixty (60) days from the date of this order granting it.

8. The Fiscal Court reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

9. The County Clerk of Floyd County be, and he is hereby, directed, after having advertised the time, place and terms of sale and the rights to be sold by posting five (5) written or printed notices, one at the front door of the court house and one in four (4) other public places in the county, the first date of posting such notices to be at least fifteen (15) days before the date of sale, and by publishing the same in The Floyd County Times for not less than three (3) consecutive issues, next before the date of sale, to offer at sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder at the front door of the courthouse in the city of Prestonsburg, Floyd County, Kentucky, between the hours of 10:00 o'clock in the morning and 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon, on some convenient date to be named in such notices and advertisements; and receive bids at public outcry for the right, privilege, franchise and authority to erect and operate such electric lines along such roads and places, as set forth above.

No person, however, shall be entitled to bid on such franchise unless such person shall deposit with the clerk before the commencement of the bidding a certified check for the sum of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars; and said franchise shall be sold for cash in hand, and such certified check shall not be returned until the amount of the bid has actually been paid to the clerk in cash.

10. The clerk will report his acts, together with all bids received by him for such franchise, to the Fiscal Court at its next regular or adjourned or called meeting to be held immediately after such sale.

Pursuant to the direction of the Fiscal Court of Floyd County as set forth in the foregoing resolution, the undersigned will on Saturday the 30th day of October, 1937, at the front door of the courthouse in the city of Prestonsburg, Floyd County, Kentucky, and between the hours of 10:00 o'clock in the morning and 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon, offer for public sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder an electric franchise on the public roads of Floyd County which electric franchise shall be in the terms set forth in the foregoing resolution, and said sale to be made in all respects in accordance with the resolution above set forth, and all bidders will be required to comply with the terms of such resolution.

Such Clerk of the Floyd County Fiscal Court, BANNER MEADE, County Clerk of Floyd County. Cost of adv $30.00

D. A. R. HOLDS OCTOBER MEETING AT HOME OF MRS. THOS. HEREFORD

Daughters of American Revolution met for their October meeting at the home of Mrs. Tom Hereford with Mrs. Oliver Webb as hostess.

Ms. Everett Sowards, regent called the meeting to order and Mrs. N. C. Harlowe lead the prayer.

The business session was made interesting by the reading of letters one of which was from "Hand Book", instruction from National Society of Daughters of American Revolution concerning girl homemakers, whereby scholarships are offered to students of Girls Reserve and they are encouraged to complete for prizes.

Mrs. Oscar Stephens read a letter concerning "Flags Code" and posters for each High School and Graded School to be used in school to stimulate love of county and patriotism and correct use of the American flag.

After the business session, Mrs. L. S. Moles gave an interesting paper on "Hobbies of Our Congresswomen" and told in brief, though high-minded and intellectual they served in capacity of congress as representatives and depicted them as of various
