PISTOL FIRE TURNS CHURCH MEETING TO ROUT, WOMAN SLAIN

15-Year-Old Girl and Aged Woman Are Critically Wounded

LEVA RUDD, 25, SLAIN BY ESTRANGED SPOUSE

Ruby May, Daughter of Floyd Countian, is Shot in Right Lung

A burst of revolver fire turned into a scene of wild confusion the closing moments of an open-air meeting of the Regular Baptist Church on Cow Creek, Magoffin county, Sunday, and one woman was instantly killed, a 15-year-old girl, daughter of a Floyd county resident, was probably fatally wounded and a 60-year-old woman was shot in the leg.

Four bullets fired at close range by her estranged husband, Dorsey Rudd, 25 years old, caused the instant death of his 21-year-old wife, Lena Adams Rudd. Another bullet, believed by authorities to have been intended for the Rudds' seven-months-old daughter in the arms of Ruby May, 15, passed through the girl's right lung. Her condition was reported as being critical. Rudd's sixth shot went astray, striking Mrs. Boyd Picklesimer, 60, mother of Hayes Picklesimer, cashier of the Kanawha Valley Bank, Charleston, W. Va., in her leg.

As Rudd fired the last shot, his father-in-law, Lonas Adams, well-known Salyersville man, wrested the revolver from his grasp but was restrained from harming him. Rudd was immediately arrested and rushed to Magoffin county jail at Salyersville where he was held over Sunday afternoon removed him to Paintsville for safekeeping.

The May girl who was wounded is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burns May, formerly of Salyersville, but now of Betsy Layne where Mr. May is employed by the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company. She is a niece of Mrs. Harold Ensminger, of Prestonsburg, and a granddaughter of Smith Kelley, well-known man in the Floyd county gas industry.

Doctors Amazed

Floyd county doctors were amazed this week when they learned of the birth of a hefty pair of twins, one weighing 8 pounds and the other 8½ pounds, to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lewis, of the Home branch of Buffalo.

Dr. O. T. Stephens, the attending physician, said that the weight of the babies was very unusual, as most twins weigh only 4½ or 5 pounds each. Other doctors who agreed were Drs. Ransdell and Davidson.

The twins, a boy and girl, are named Norcie, 8½, and Woodrow, 8.

GARRETT, VICTIM IN MINE TRAGEDY

Former Emma Man Fatally Crushed by Slatefall in Wheelwright Mine

Jesse James Garrett, 29 years old, formerly of Emma, was crushed to death by a slatefall in No. 1 mine of the Inland Steel Corporation at Wheelwright Friday.

Mr. Garrett was born and reared on Calf Creek, near Emma, and had many relatives and friends in the county. He was a son of George Garrett. Besides his widow, Mrs. Lula Newman Garrett, and his father, the victim is survived by one son, Arnold, five brothers and two sisters: Mrs. Lula Gibson, Bartee, Fred, George, Jr., Margaret and Elmer Garrett, all of Emma, and Willard Garrett, of Wheelwright.

Funeral rites were conducted Sunday afternoon at the graveside in the Woods cemetery on Calf Creek, the Rev. Isaac Stratton, of Banner, officiating.

G. E. CECIL GARRETT, MINE SUPERINTENDENT, PASSES AT PAINTSVILLE

G. E. Cecil, 54, superintendent of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation mines at Garrett for the past six years, succumbed at the Paintsville hospital Saturday at 4 p. m., following a month's illness of pneumonia and complications.

The body was removed to the Cecil home at Garrett Sunday, where Mr. Cecil's friends and acquaintances paid their last respects.

Mr. Cecil was buried at Wellston, O., his old homeplace, Tuesday. Those who attended the funeral from Garrett said that more than 100 pieces of floral decorations were at the scene of the funeral, attesting to the esteem in which Mr. Cecil was held.

In addition to his widow, who remains in Ohio, Mr. Cecil is survived by a brother, Oscar, at Van Lear, and other relatives whose names are unavailable.

SAILS FOR GUAM

Mrs. Frances May, granddaughter of Judge and Mrs. A. T. Patrick, sailed from San Diego, Cal., September 8, aboard the U. S. S. Henderson bound for Guam, for a three-year tour with her husband, Marrs May, who is stationed there as U. S. Naval Aeronautist aboard the U. S. S. Cold Star.

WRECKER EQUIPMENT BOUGHT BY HOWARD'S

Day and night automobile wrecker service was announced by the local Howard Motor Company this week, following the purchase of $1,700 worth of new equipment.

The equipment, mounted on a 1-1-2 ton truck, equipped with 23 safety lights, consists of a crane which operates on a power take-off from the truck motor. A gear and chain-drive transmit power to the transmission on the crane, which is geared for two speeds.

GRAND JURY MAKES 97 INDICTMENTS IN SESSION OF 6 DAYS

Jurors Will Re-convene Monday for Session to Last Three Days

After returning 97 true bills which named 107 persons as defendants, the grand jury adjourned Saturday after a six-day session, and will re-convene Monday for an additional three days. George Crum, of Cliff, is foreman of the jury.

Four indictments named seven persons on wilful murder counts These seven are: Jesse Vance, Eval Frasure and Ernest Frasure, slaying of Alex Hall on Mud Creek; Marion and Phil Thompson, slaying of Frank Meadows; Mart Jones, murder of Leevi Hall; Mary Belle George, fatal shooting of her husband, Charlie George, on Little Paint.

Other major indictments follow: Dewey Osborne, housebreaking; Green Haywood, Bill Bradley and Shirley Crisp; breaking and entering a railway car; George Burchett, child desertion; Shady Dutton and Grady Marcum, assault and battery with intent to rob J. F. Bowling; Ed Lands, child desertion; Tommy Vinson, striking and wounding Violet (Continued on page nine)

Free Tickets for Dick

If Dick Allen, son of Attorney and Mrs. E. L. Allen, Prestonsburg, had not favored Joe Cronin over Bill Jurgas for the shortstop position on the Courier-Journal's All-America baseball team he might have won a free trip to the world series.

As it was, he didn't do so badly; he was "in the money." For his efforts he will receive two tickets to the Louisville-Centre football game.

NOTICE

Subscribers of The Floyd County Independent this week are being mailed The Floyd County Times, and in the future will receive a paper until the full period of their subscriptions has expired. Time during which they have failed to receive the Independent will be added to their expiration date, so that full value will be received for money expended in favoring The Independent with their patronage.

The Independent management wishes to acknowledge with thanks the forbearance of subscribers during the time they have not received the paper, and trusts that the arrangement now in effect will prove satisfactory.

Correspondents of both The Times and Independent are urged to mail all news-letters not later than Monday morning, since the paper will be published hereafter on Wednesday and instead of Thursday. This change in publication date is being made in order to accommodate advertisers.

Floyd High School Students Could Fill Large University

If all the students now enrolled in Maytown, 100; Garrett, 260; Lackey, 68; Wayland, 225; Auxlar, 160; Baranza, 30; Wheelwright (colored), 36; Beaver, 12.

The 12-room building now under construction at Garrett for relief of congested conditions caused by a student body totaling 1,350 will be completed October 1. County Superintendent Hall said.

The Wheelwright-Weeksbury high school, Weeksbury grade and Wayland gymnasium building projects will be completed by October 15, it was stated.

Floyd county's colored high school students are for the first time being given an even break with other boys and girls of their age and educational ambitions, Superintendent Hall pointed out this week in announcing that a four-year high school for negro youths has been established at Wheelwright.

The building housing the school was constructed last year at a cost of $9,000, but only two years of high school work was afforded then. Election (Continued on page nine)

LOCAL MERCHANTS TO HEAR SPEAKER BEFORE ORGANIZING

K. W. Fife Is Notified That State Association Speaker Can Be Here

Plans for the forming of a Merchants' Association here progressed this week when K. W. Fife, one of the leaders in the plan, received a letter from Mrs. Ruth Gilbert, field secretary of the Kentucky Retail Merchants' Association, Mrs. Gilbert said that she would be able to address a local gathering of merchants here within the next two weeks.

Her reply was in answer to a letter sent by Mr. Fife several days ago, asking that a speaker be sent to address local merchants at a Kiwanis Club meeting. Mrs. Gilbert has also been wired asking that September 24, at a Kiwanis meeting at 6 p. m., be set as the date to appear here. As yet no reply to the last message has been received.

Mrs. Gilbert's letter to Mr. Fife is reprinted below:

Dear Mr. Fife:

On August 2 you wired the Association for a guest speaker for the 13th. At that time it was not possible to comply with your request. (Continued on page 4)

Naughty! Naughty!

What's in a name? Don't refer to Shakespeare. Consider this case, for instance.

Naughty Gearheart, of Left Beaver Creek, was indicted last week by the grand jury of the Floyd circuit court for defacing or tearing down reward notices posted in an effort to effect the capture of Matt Jones, slayer of Policeman Levi Hall, of McDowell.

Now, if there's nothing in a name, would it be all right to change Gearheart's name to Goody and write it twice above this story for a headline?

STELLAR GRIDMEN LOST BY PHS 'CATS

Russel Rice and J. Carter Are Unavailable for Opening Belfry Gamae

With the first game of the 1937 football season but a week away, W. M. Messer, coach of the Prestonsburg Blackcats, "viewed with alarm" the chances of his team as they prepare to move into action in a schedule which includes not only games with other teams of the Big Sandy conference but also a contest with the redoubtable Tigers of St. Xavier, Louisville.

It is a coach's special prerogative, that of singing the "Blues" when speaking of his team, but local fans themselves are not caroling "Happy Days Are Here Again," since hearing that Jack Carter and Russel Rice, two of the eleven's huskiest and best, are gone. Carter is in the Paintsville hospital suffering an appendicitis attack. Rice, one of the team's finest prospects at the (Continued on page 8)

COINCIDENCE LINKS TWO AUTOMOBILE MISHAPS IN WHICH CHILDREN HURT

Near-tragedies, strangely allied by coincidence, resulted when an hour Saturday afternoon within a distance of three miles on Right Beaver Creek when two children were struck by an automobile.

The 12-year-old son of Dock Crace, of Glo, was first injured when struck by an auto driven by Jim Clark, son of Deputy Constable Frank Clark, of Lackey, on the highway opposite Glo. Dragged for some distance, the boy was partially scalped and suffered cuts and bruises. He was taken to the Paintsville hospital where it is believed that he will recover.

An hour later, when the father of the driver in this first accident was returning from the Stumbo Memorial hospital, whither he had gone for a warrant for his son, the taxi in which he was a passenger struck Franklin E., 5-year-old son of Lloyd Hughes, of Lackey. The accident, it was stated, was unavoidable since the child ran directly into the path of the car. The driver, Bill Rector, was not arrested. The tot suffered a fractured leg and multiple lacerations about the head, but was able to be taken from the Stumbo Memorial hospital Wednesday.

Young Clark admitted that he was on the wrong side of the road when he struck the Crace boy, but claimed that he had swerved to the left in an attempt to miss young Crace and that the boy crept in front of the car. His auto plowed into the ditch at the upper side of the road, and Clark and his younger brother abandoned it. They later were apprehended and placed under bond.

Father of the Clark boy was quoted as saying that, though his son possessed a driver's license, he is only 14 years old.

Houseguest Here

Mrs. Lula D. Trautman, of Newton-Hamilton, Pa., last week was the guest of Mrs. Maggie Leete and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Stephens. Thursday night, Mrs. Trautman and her hostess, Mrs. Leete, were entertained to 6 o'clock dinner by Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Friend.

THOMPSONS GIVEN 21 YEAR TERMS FOR MEADOWS SLAYING

Thompson Brothers Receive First Pen Sentences of This Term

JURORS DELIBERATE AN HOUR BEFORE VERDICT

Nine-Year-Old Troy Compton is Star Witness for the Commonwealth

After deliberating almost an hour, a Floyd circuit court jury, Wednesday night, meted 21-year penitentiary sentences to brothers Phil and Marion Thompson for the slaying of Frank Meadows, 19, on Sowders Creek, 12 miles from here, on June 24.

Commonwealth's Attorney O. C. Hall, assisted by C. P. Stephens, led an array of witnesses, whose ages ranged from 9 to 72, to testify for the state.

After 72-year-old Matthew Meadows, father of the slain youth, testified, 9-year-old Troy Compton was led to the witness stand and defied all defense attempts to shake his unflinching testimony.

When queried by defense attorney B. M. James, "You didn't see the shooting, did you—you just heard about the trouble, didn't you?" young Compton half arose from his seat to firmly reply, "Yes, I saw the shooting!"

The commonwealth proved that Meadows was slain by the Thompson brothers, who fired three pistol shots before Meadows returned their fire with a shotgun. The slaying occurred near the Compton home on Sowders Creek, June 27.

According to Attorney C. P. Stephens, Meadows was armed with a shotgun for a hunting trip and the youthful Thompson brothers had no motive for the killing other than "devilment."

Dr. J. H. Allen testified that Meadows died from two pistol wounds, one entering the mouth, and the other entering the left shoulder and ranging downward.

Defense witnesses attempted to prove that Meadows started the trouble by firing first. Jailer B. L. Sturgill, called as a defense witness, said that after being lodged in jail here, he saw that Marion Thompson had been wounded about the head (Continued on page 4)

This Town-- That World

PARADOX

Today, the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution, is being celebrated throughout the land as a tribute to the great document. It seems also a paradox that at the present time the Constitution should be undergoing its severest test.

TURNABOUT

If Wheelwright had been Floyd's county seat, would Prestonsburg and the rest of the county have been content to trade at Paintsville as Wheelwrights and other Left Beaver towns—are forced to trade at Pikeville, through lack of good Floyd county roads?

ARROWOOD

While attempting this—a first column—the writer is reminded of Editor-Columnist Henry Arrowood of the Paintsville Herald, who recently said, "Newspapers in Floyd county without Allens and Gobles, would be like insane asylums without Arrowoods."

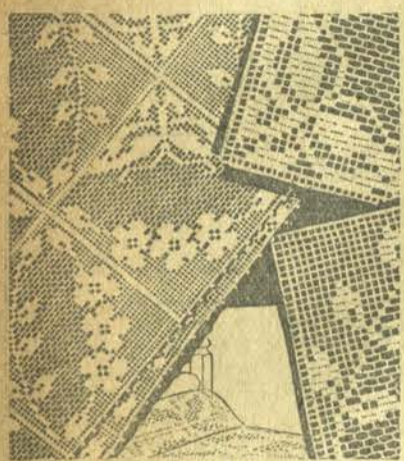

GLAZIER

Which also brings to mind a recent statement made by Mr. Glazier of the Leader Store to the effect that all newspaperdom is insanity—"but it's a systematic insanity." (Thanks, Mr. Glazier—if we had some glass to blow we'd call on Wimpy.)

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

NO matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Sentinels of Health

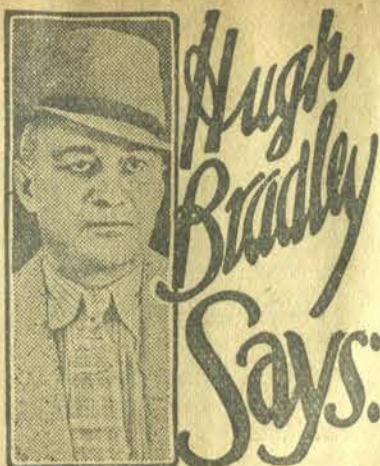

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter. The kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbances.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Doan's Pills. They have had more than fifty years of public approval. Are the country over. Insist on Doan's at all drug stores.

Louis Proves Worse Than Most Severe Critics Suspected

WHILE Joe Louis and Tommy Farr were taking care of their international relations at Yankee Stadium recently, two widely divergent viewpoints were developed. One held by a majority of the woefully small crowd was that the visiting notable deserved the decision. The other, entertained by the state's duly appointed referee and judges, was that they could do their duty only by declaring that the champion had successfully defended his honors.

Since then four other viewpoints have been added to the general confusion caused by the light fantastic performance within the ring. I list them forthwith:

V. P. (1)—The great radio audience's impression that it was a whale of a prize-fight.

V. P. (2)—The casual notion that Farr must be a considerably better fighter than even the ten unknown gees who previously had licked him ever suspected.

V. P. (3)—The well-founded belief that Louis looked even worse than a baldheaded space filler who thought he could do the job in five rounds.

V. P. (4)—The sum-it-all-up idea that the thing would be made to order for reviving Britain's faltering boxing industry if re-enacted in London next winter.

V. P. (1) can be disposed of summarily. It was by no means a great fight or even a good one. Even the Baer-Braddock waltz, previously held up as a horrible example when mention was being made of heavy-weight championship flopperfoos, was a bargain in comparison to it. No more than 10 mildly authoritative blows were struck within the course of the 15 rounds.

V. P. (2) is not to be given the air so easily. Farr, as was known in advance, is mainly a young man composed of elbows, cunning and heart. He used all three of them effectively. That his performance against the champion was by no means equal to that of the Schmeling who knocked out Louis or the Pastor who provided a boxing lesson cannot be held against him. Neither can the point score which shows that Referee Donovan gave him only one round out of the 15 and called only one other even.

Then what? Well, for instance, let us go into V. P. (3) which deals with the Louis situation.

Joe won eight rounds out of the fifteen on the Bradley score card. They were rounds two, three, four, five, seven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen. He was given the advantage of the doubt in the second and twelfth rounds which were slow, dull and unsullied by blows of any significance. He was backing up, looking puzzled and fighting only in flurries in the fifteenth which went to Farr as did six others.

Something—perhaps too much success, perhaps vain efforts to make a boxer out of him—has changed the giant once known as the Brown Bomber.

Rhythm Was Missing Against Tonypandy

When he is hit on the head he has a habit of dropping his hands and tugging at his trunks. He still does not know what to do in clinches.

Most important of all, the rhythm and speed are missing. He stood flatfooted against Farr, pawing timidly. When he got ready to punch, he raised on his toes. Farr kept watching the feet all the while. When Louis moved them Farr moved too and so was in position to avoid the punches. Even the Louis who fought Braddock whipped over blows with lightning speed from almost any stance.

Joe no longer punches to the body, blows which formerly weakened a victim for the decisive slug to the head. When he fought Paulino, whose main defense was a pair of elbows held high and close, he banged away to the body. Then, when Paulino dropped the defense for a moment, he dabbed with lefts to lugg as quickly as any cat to the clincher on a pause.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

BILL ROGELL of the Tigers still is the American league's best double-play shortstop. The worst outfield arm in the circuit belongs to Chicago's Rip Radcliff. Jake Wade of Detroit is the easiest pitcher in the league to run on. Johnny Murphy is the toughest Yankee pitcher to run on. New tips as to football tips—Pittsburgh in the East, Washington on the Coast, Texas Christian in the Southwest, Minnesota in the Midwest and Harvard in the Ivy league. Cornell may surprise.

Plans for the Argentines to play a polo-series in Mexico depend upon a decision by the Mexican government. The Gauchos would play on borrowed mounts since their own high-class stock will be sold. Juan Castex Pradere, spare on the Argentines, entertains his friends by eating glass and lighted cigarettes.

At the age of sixty-three Devereux Milburn, the former polo internationalist, can play 36 holes of close-to-par golf daily. Often fits in six fast periods of polo after his golf, too. Mario Bigangario, Italian sports writer, also is an interpreter in Brooklyn's Snyder Avenue court. The original Kid Norfolk is holding down a job with the WPA. Reds and Giants were so sore at one another in 1919 that when Cincinnati players came to the Polo grounds they brought their own supply of bottled drinking water. Boxing Commissioner Bill Brown of New York seems to think that Max Baer is a fit opponent for Jim Braddock, but refused to let him fight the local boy, Bob Pastor. Bob must be a pretty good fighter when all things are considered.

Connie Mack seldom offers cash for players, but he would like to buy Rudy York of the Tigers. Patty Berg is not the only golfer in her family. They say up Minnesota way that her fifteen-year-old brother, Herman, Jr., is the real Berg prospect.

Recalls Prediction on Harry Danning

Quotation from story written at San Antonio, Texas, on March 12, 1931, by H. Bradley: "There's a kid here nobody seems to notice but if you're wise you'll stick along with him in his opinion that he's going to be a Giants' star some day. His name is Harry Danning." Top choice for the East's best tackle at this writing is Red Cheshbro. The giant Colgate star has hands like a meat chopper, a terrific drive and dotes upon taking opposing lines apart. That women's title test at Memphis in October should be one of the grandest amateur golf events in years if the U. S. G. A. does not muddle things as usual. Keep an eye on Betty Dietrich, new Westchester links queen, and Marion Turpie, whose putting has made courses do new tricks. Nomination for baseball's best money player—Little Jimmy Ripple of the Giants.

Harry Danning

Football Coach Andy Kerr says: "Colgate is not officially interested in Bowl games." Colgate has received bids to various bowls for the past several years and has turned them down. But a Rose Bowl bid might be considered in spite of the university's policy because (alas, for purity) it's a big dough game. Also thinks that football over the country is standardized with no section having a monopoly on the best teams. Says the East has more colleges and therefore cannot center its material at a few spots as can the Pacific Coast. Coach Mal Stevens is plenty fed up with those gees who say N. Y. U. students of physical ed are up at Lake Sebago now for early football practice. Really it's part of the prescribed course.

Bob Zuppke's favorite dish is a raw hamburger sandwich over which he spreads two raw eggs, which he breaks himself to make sure they are fresh. He then smother the cannibal sandwich with onions. Hans Steinke, veteran of the wrestling mat, is drawing $300 a week as a pirate in a movie titled "The Buccaneer" in Hollywood.

Stub Allison, California football coach, advocates bowling as an excellent conditioner for football. He takes his squad to the alleys a couple of times a week during pre-season practice. The Green Bay Packers predict the Brooklyn Dodgers will win the eastern division championship in the National Professional league. This year marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the opening of athletic relations between the Army and Notre Dame and between the Navy and Notre Dame. The first games were in baseball in 1913. Manager Bill McCorry of the Albany club is fifty, but he has pitched two games this year. Roger Peckinpaugh is a partner in a Cleveland desk firm. Harold Conn, the Tigers' new batting practice pitcher, was rescued from the Orlando club of the Florida State league, where he was manager. Howard Jones has abandoned the two team idea for his University of Southern California football squad, one for each half of the name, and will return to the old system of the eleven best men composing a varsity.

They're Not All Professors—Those Absent-Minded Ones

Absent-mindedness isn't confined to the professors, says the Commentator.

The late Dwight W. Morrow once telephoned his secretary from Philadelphia, to inquire, "What am I in Philadelphia for?"

Secretary Henry A. Wallace, when he was in Czechoslovakia, packed his passport in a trunk that was shipped to London, while he set off in the opposite direction.

And J. David Stern, publisher of the New York Post and Philadelphia Record, was hurrying along the street when he met a friend. "Come on and have lunch with me," the friend said. "If we go nearby," Stern said. "I'm late as it is."

They entered the nearest restaurant and sat down. Stern complained that he didn't know what was the matter with him, he didn't seem to be hungry. "Beg pardon, sir," the waiter said, "but it's no wonder, sir. You just finished your lunch about ten minutes ago."

Clouds Pass By

The clouds I feared and worried about, and concerning which I wanted so much precious strength, lost their frown and revealed themselves as my friends. Other clouds never arrived—they were purely imaginary, or they melted away before they reached my threshold.—J. H. Jowett.

Helper of Humanity

He who helps a child helps humanity with a distinctness, with an immediateness, which no other help given to human creatures in any other stage of their human life can possibly give again.—Phillips Brooks.

A Great Motto

ONE of America's great business organizations has adopted a motto for the guidance of its people—a little five-letter word with a big meaning. It has been cut in huge granite letters over the entrance of a recently constructed building used as a training school. It is made the theme of many employee discussions. It hangs over the desk of company executives. The word is THINK.

Educators, philosophers, preachers throughout the ages have written and talked about it. Rodin gave the world a famous statue called "The Thinker." "Think" is a significant word. It represents the only means by which human progress can be accomplished. It annoys people who have lazy minds, because thinking means mental effort. Practically all the accidents in the world are caused because people don't think. Thousands fail in life simply because they don't think. Others give great inventions to the world because they do think.—The Pick-Up.

A Safety Tip FOR YOUR WEEK-END TRIP

TAPPING RUBBER TREES ON FIRESTONE PLANTATIONS IN LIBERIA

From the Firestone plantations in Liberia comes an ever-increasing supply of the world's finest rubber. Money saved here and in manufacturing and distribution enable Firestone to sell a safer, first-quality tire at lower prices.

Here's Why FIRESTONE STANDARD TIRES GIVE YOU MORE FOR YOUR MONEY

DON'T take chances on your Week End trip. Protect yourself and family by equipping your car with a set of new first-quality Firestone Standard Tires. Firestone builds extra quality and extra safety into these tires and sells them at lower prices because Firestone controls rubber and cotton supplies at their sources, manufactures with greater efficiency and distributes at lower cost.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord because every fiber of every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping Process. This counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because there are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE—because of the extra-tough, long-wearing tread.

You need all of these features to make your car tire-safe on your Week End trip. Firestone gives them to you at lower cost. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires—today's top tire value.

Sunday School Lesson

CHOICES AND THE NATION
International Sunday School Lesson for September 19, 1937

Golden Text: "Choose you this day whom ye will serve."—Joshua 24:15.

The first six verses of the eleventh chapter of Deuteronomy gives an accounting by Moses of the things which God had done for the children of Israel. Stopping the recounting suddenly, Moses declares, "But your eyes have seen all the great acts of the Lord which he did," and (Deut. 9) "Therefore shall ye keep all the commandments which I command thee this day, that ye may be strong, and go in and possess the land, whither ye go over to possess it." Obedience to God brings its results in our lives, strengthening us and enabling us to perform great things for him.

As a reward for this obedience, God had promised the Israelites possession of one of the choicest of lands—a land flowing in milk and honey—a land of hills and valleys and a land which depended upon the mechanical irrigation necessary for the lands of Egypt. In this land they would feel their independence upon God with more reality, for it was he who would keep it fertile and send needed showers. But they could hope for prosperity only if they did not forget God. Otherwise, the rains would not fall in due season, nor would the land yield its fruits, and "ye shall perish quickly off the good land which the Lord thy God giveth you."

The people of the Hebrew nation were given their choice—blessing as a result of obedience, or a curse if they disobeyed God's commandments. As a reminder of this fact, Moses ordered that Mount Geerizim should be blessed, Mount Ebal be cursed. These mountains, 3,000 feet high, were in the land of Canaan near the Gilgal of Shechem. Thus as they looked at these two towering peaks, when they arrived in the Promised Land, they would have brought to their minds the consequences of their choices.

Life is made up of a succession of choices. Every day and practically every hour of that day we are confronted with the necessity of making a choice. Our choice determines our destinies and, therefore, the necessity for the right choice cannot be over-emphasized. Choice is a matter of the will and whatever others may force us to do, they can never compel us to make certain choices. All the commandments in the Bible, as far as we are concerned, are futile and impotent unless we choose to obey them. Whether we will have the blessing of God upon us or not depends entirely upon us: God will never force himself upon us.

As the individuals in a nation choose, so will the destiny of that nation go. What, as citizens, then, is our responsibility in this regard? We feel that one in so great a multitude would have little influence in molding the destiny of the whole. But what, after all, is a nation? A nation is made up of many individuals, of which you and I are a part. The way our nation goes depends upon the way its citizens go, and you and I are citizens. The way our nation thinks upon its varied problems is determined largely by the way the majority of its people think, and, therefore, neither you nor I can afford to say that what we think does not matter. The opinions of the public make up public opinion. Persons—individual men and women—make up the public and what they think forms public opinion.

Young people usually want to make successes of their lives and, therefore, must make choices. Some things must be done that they do not particularly want to do, while other things, which they would like very much to do, must be left undone. If they would have strong bodies when they come into maturity, good health habits must be formed, cigarettes and alcoholic liquors must be left alone and wild oats left unsown. Life simply cannot be trifled with.

Nations, too, must choose and this great nation of ours, it seems, will soon have to make a choice: between God and the material things of life. The challenge comes to us, as individuals, and to our nation, as it did in the days of Joshua, when he cried unto the Israelites, "Choose you this day whom ye will serve." As we make that choice, so will the fate of our nation be decided. If we choose God and the things of God, we will secure his blessings upon us. If we choose the world and the things of the world, we shall receive his curse. History bares out this statement.

John Oxenham has beautifully expressed the choice before us in the following lines:

To every man there openeth
A way, and ways, and a way,
And some men climb the high way,
And some men grope below,
And in between on the misty flats
The rest drift to and fro.

And to every man there openeth
A way high and low;
And every man decideth
Which way his soul shall go.

Look out for choices, they run into habit, character, destiny.—Babcock.

Turtle Can Live a Long Time Without Any Food

The snapping turtle's body is inclosed as in a box between two bony shields. The skull of the turtle is more compact than that of other reptiles. There are no teeth, the jaws being encased in horny sheaths, usually with sharp cutting edges. The eyes are furnished with two lids, and a nictitating membrane or fold of skin similar to that with which birds cover their eyes. Turtles breathe by swallowing air.

The common snapping turtle inhabits the rivers of North America east of the Rocky mountains from Canada to Mexico. It attains a length of 25 inches or more and is dusky brown with dark spots on the head. The head and tail are long and not capable of being drawn into the shell.

The common soft-shelled turtle, olive-brown with dark spots, the head and neck olive green with lighter stripes, lives in some sections, says a writer in the Indianapolis News, in shallow, muddy water and is ferocious, throwing itself on its prey. There is also a species of leather turtle. Its general color is olive, spotted in the young. It has no spines or tubercles, and grows to about 12 inches in length. Turtles excel most animals in their tenacity of life. They can live for a long time without food; they are difficult to kill, and even after the brain has been destroyed, life lingers sometimes for a long while in the body. It is said that a headless turtle has been observed to walk 200 yards 24 hours after decapitation; the heart, removed from the body, will, if carefully suspended in a moist chamber, beat two or three days. All turtles are oviparous. The eggs have a firm shell, and usually are laid in the sand or mud to be hatched by the warmth of the sun.

Gold is one metal that is usually found pure. Gold is the only metal, except for a few extremely rare ones such as platinum, that is usually found pure. Occasionally a piece of naturally occurring metallic copper or silver is found, and once in a while someone finds an iron meteorite before it has rusted away. But most of the time the metals less noble than gold are found combined with other elements as ores. To convert them to free metals, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune, it is necessary to give them rather drastic treatment, such as that of the blast furnace.

Gold can be made to combine with other elements by the use of indirect methods. These compounds are so unstable, however, that they can be converted back into the metal by heating them over a candle flame. Gold is almost completely resistant to the ordinary processes of corrosion. Consequently it usually occurs in one of two ways. It may be found as metallic granules dispersed through some type of igneous rock. Or, if the original rocky matrix has been worn away by weather, the unaffected gold particles are deposited in the gravel of some river bed.

Gold Is One Metal That Is Usually Found Pure

Eligibility to original membership in the Society of Cincinnati was the privilege of all Continental officers who had served with honor and resigned after three years' service as officers, or who had been rendered supernumerary and honorably discharged, in one of the several reductions of the American army, or who had continued to the end of the war, and all French officers who had served in the co-operating army under Count d'Estaing, or auxiliary army under Count de Rochambeau and held or attained the rank of colonel for these services, or who had commanded a French fleet or ship of war on the American coast. This privilege descends to the oldest lineal male descendant, if judged worthy, and, in failure of direct male descent, to male descendants through intervening female descendants.

Electricity
Hard to define in a scientific way it can simply be said that electricity is composed of electrons, the unit of negative electricity, and protons, the positive electron. Both units are so inconceivably small they may be regarded as mere charges of energy. To Dr. William Gilbert, who became physician to Queen Elizabeth in 1601, goes the credit of calling that "something" electric. He originated the term electric as a name for any substance such as amber that was stimulated by friction. "Electric" comes from the Greek "Elektron," meaning amber. This was because Thales, a Greek philosopher, way back in 600 B. C., discovered that a piece of amber rubbed with cloth possessed the power of attracting feathers, pieces of paper and other light bodies.

Murderer Revealed Crime
A strange case of the lack of observation occurred during the assassination of President Marie Carnot of France in Lyons on June 24, 1894. Accompanied by three friends, two grooms and surrounded by mounted police, he was riding in his state carriage when a man jumped on the running board and fatally stabbed him. The first inkling of the tragedy, according to a writer in Collier's Weekly, came from the murderer, who attracted attention to himself when, running down the street, he shouted, "Vive l'anarchie!"

DEMOCRATIC CLUBS TO CALL CONVENTION

Young Democratic Clubs Will Meet in Louisville Oct. 8

To Whom It May Concern
By authority of the State Executive Committee of the Young Democratic Clubs of Kentucky a state convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of Kentucky is hereby called to meet in the city of Louisville in the state of Kentucky on the 8 day of October, 1937, at 2 o'clock p. m., at the Kentucky Hotel, to transact such business and to take such action as may be deemed advisable.

The basis of representation at such State Convention shall be two votes for each officially recognized county delegation, and one additional vote for each 25 paid-up members for the year 1937 to Wayland Rayburn, Murray, Ky., state treasurer. Said dues shall be 20 cents per member, 10 cents of which shall go to the National organization of the Young Democratic Clubs of America and 10 cents of which shall remain in the state treasurer's hands.

A statement shall be filed with Mr. Wayland Rayburn, Murray, Ky., on or before the 1st day of October, 1937, signed by the treasurer and secretary of the local club, setting forth the number of delegates, number of enrolled members, and the amount of dues they have paid, which statement shall be regarded as the credentials entitling the

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or less frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS TO BUILD

I am authorized by order of the Fiscal Court of Floyd county, Kentucky, by order entered at its Special Session held at the courthouse in the city of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, on Tuesday, September 7, 1937, to advertise for bids for the construction of a new addition to the Floyd county courthouse. Said structure consist of 13 rooms and to be constructed of brick and tile. All bids must cover material and construction, which must be according to plans submitted. Plans and specifications of said building will be available at the office of Town Hall, Superintendent of Floyd county schools, or at the office of Archer & Dean, Architects, Huntington, West Virginia.

All bids must be sealed and filed with A. B. Meade, Clerk of the Floyd County Court on or before Tuesday, October 5, 1937, at 11 o'clock a. m., on said date. Said bids will be opened and contract awarded to lowest and best bidder by the Fiscal Court of Floyd county on Tuesday, October 5, 1937 at the hour of 1 o'clock p. m., on said day.

The successful bidder will be required to execute a fidelity bond, in a penal sum to be determined by the court, for the faithful performance of said contract. Contractors will be required, by contract with the fiscal court, to carry compensation insurance on all employees working on said building.

The Fiscal Court of Floyd County reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Given under my hand this the 14th day of September, 1937.

FORREST D. SHORT,
County Attorney,

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS TO BID

The undersigned, Forrest D. Short as County Attorney of Floyd county is authorized by virtue of an order of the Fiscal Court of Floyd county, entered at its special session held in the courthouse in the city of Prestonsburg, Floyd county, Kentucky, on Tuesday, September 7, 1937, to advertise for bids for the construction of two fills and two approaches to the Banner bridge, located at or near Banner, Floyd county, Kentucky, according to plans, specifications and details which will be furnished on request by W. C. Rimmer, Architect and Engineer, Prestonsburg, Ky.

All bids must be sealed and filed with A. B. Meade, Clerk of the Floyd County Court on or before 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, October 5, 1937.

The successful bidder will be required to execute fidelity bond, or personal bond, with surety, approved by the Fiscal Court of Floyd county for the faithful performance of his contract. The contractors will be required to carry compensation insurance upon employees working upon said approaches and fills.

By virtue of an order of the fiscal court entered at the time and place and on the date above mentioned, I am further authorized to advertise for bids for labor and materials in creosoting floors and all other wood works and braces used in the above named and described bridge; said floors to be creosoted both underneath and on top.

Bids may be submitted by filing with A. B. Meade, clerk of the Floyd county court on or before Oct. 5, 1937 at 12 o'clock on said day, at which time bids will be opened and contracts awarded.

Bids on the two propositions above named must be submitted in separate bids.

The Fiscal Court reserves the right to reject any and all bids. The bids will be opened and contract awarded by the Fiscal Court of Floyd county at 1 o'clock p. m. on Tuesday, October 5, 1937, unless all bids are rejected by the court.

Given under my hand this the 14th day of September, 1937.

With the addition to be built to the newly-renovated courthouse, providing offices for the school superintendent, commonwealth's attorney, and health department, a modern structure throughout will be had. And with the abolishment of the "horse and buggy" wall about the courthouse to provide adequate parking facilities, a modern setting will be obtained. The TIMES offers congratulations to all those responsible.

STARS

If it were possible for one to be on a star 75 light years away, (a light year being the distance light travels in one calendar year) and if it were also possible to see human beings, would it be possible for one to see Abraham Lincoln?

HUMOR

Upon seeing a young male high school teacher, accompanied by a girl, evidently a few years older, strolling along Court street the other night, Henry Fitzpatrick recently provoked mirth by staring at the girl, and then calling to the teacher, "How's your mother tonight?" The fortunate lass failed to notice.

After the jury returned the verdict, the defense announced immediately that the case would be repeated.

Other hearings of the present term of court to the time of the Thompson trial have been for minor offenses, no other penitentiary sentences being given.

Taylor Rathif was assessed a $100 fine Wednesday upon his conviction of drunken driving. His trial on a charge of voluntary manslaughter in the death of Floyd Laferty has not been set for hearing.

Malcolm Davis, who last winter shot and seriously wounded Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Adams when the two, he claimed, invaded his home on Middle Creek, was fined $300 for shooting and wounding with intent to kill. He filed a motion and grounds for a new trial.

was unexpected. All of Rudd's bullets are said to have taken effect in her back, one breaking her neck.

Rudd was said to have adopted a nonchalant attitude toward the whole matter when first arrested, but was later reported as having stated that several mne threatened him with knives. Magoffin county authorities were quoted as branding the slaying as one of the most vicious in the history of the county. Commonwealth's Attorney Earl Cooper declared he would demand the death penalty and nothing less for the slayer whose trial is expected to be held next month. "I intend to tell the jury," Commonwealth's Attorney Cooper said, "that it must either give this man death or give him an acquittal." Funeral rites for Mrs. Rudd were conducted Monday afternoon from the home of her aunt, Mrs. W. B. Reed, Salysersville, and burial was made in the family cemetery at

HOW MUCH CAN YOU SAY IN 3 MINUTES?

For Example:

Suppose Husband in a distant city calls Wife at home, like this:

He: "Hello, darling."

She: "Hello, George. I'm surely glad to hear your voice. How are you getting on with the 'big deal'?"

He: "Great. It looks like success in capital letters, and I think the deal will be closed tomorrow."

She: "That's fine, dear. But then, I knew you'd do it. Are you staying at the Governor Hotel?"

He: "Yes, and my air-conditioned room is very comfortable. How are the kids? Is Junior's cold better?"

She: "Junior's feeling fine now, and Betty is thrilled over a new red swim suit. When are you coming home?"

He: "I'll leave here tomorrow evening, but if my plans have to be changed, I'll call you."

She: "All right. Wait, Betty and Junior want to say 'hello' if we have time."

Of course, Betty and Junior will have time to say "hello" to dad, for although 120 words have been spoken—many a question and answer conveyed—about FOUR times as many words can be said in an average three-minute telephone conversation.

The pleasure you will get from talking with a friend or relative in another city—the profit you can add to your business—will far outweigh the small cost of a long distance telephone call. Ask the "Long Distance" operator about the call you want to make. The low cost will please you.

TRAINS HELP EDUCATION

Ask your School Board

Every twenty-four hours the railroads of the United States pay nearly a million dollars in taxes. Almost half of this amount is allocated to educational purposes.

Chesapeake and Ohio annually contributes about two and a half million dollars towards the maintenance of schools in the communities served by this railroad. A part of Chesapeake and Ohio's taxes are used in your own schools—ask your School Board!

Chesapeake and Ohio is not in the school business, but it is estimated that its school taxes pay for the education of fifty thousand children each year.

Chesapeake and Ohio is glad to be a good citizen, sharing in the life and responsibilities of your community.

THE OLD-FASHIONED COUNTRY SUNDAY SCHOOL

Few of the Sunday Schools today are like those we used to attend. On the first Sunday in April we assembled and organized for the year, with an abundance of good-smelling Sunday School books and picture cards and enough zeal to last until the winter froze us out. April meant spring, and spring meant wild flowers around the church and small fish building their nests in the shallow places of the creek. April meant new leaves on the trees and the odors of blossoming plants and the flickering lights through the windows. The lessons and the sermons afterwards sometimes turned on horrible things, but it was easy to look out the windows and forget all horrors in a blissful enjoyment of spring. All through the summer and fall the attendance kept up pretty well, thought something exciting or sensational in another neighborhood might draw away some of the youngsters. The preacher came pretty regularly through the summer and staged a protracted meeting in the hottest season. All of this kept our Sunday School going, but I doubt whether the working of miracles could have kept it "evergreen," that is, alive through the winter. Winter was in our neighborhood for visiting and rabbit hunting and parties. No night ever got too cold or snowy for parties, however easily a mere Sunday school might freeze out.

Right today I could go thru the catechism we used each Sunday when I was a little boy. It was not the Shorter Catechism or any other published version but concerned itself with the first, the oldest, the strongest, the wisest, and other famous men of the Bible. It became much a matter of associative memory that the teacher had suddenly asked us who had swallowed a whale, we would have instantly laid this crime at poor Jonah's door. Now that catechism was not a part of the lesson proper. The lesson, for the very small ones, least, was printed in question and answer form, so that Mother or Big Sister could teach us. But these questions and answers were soon over, and while the classes of older people were wrangling over some abstruse point of theology, the teacher had to do something to keep the little wrigglers from wriggling. Hence this abbreviated catechism. I always shone on those drills, for I had a big voice and could drown out any number of aspiring Bible students.

For rewards we got cards, much like those mentioned in TOM SAWYER. While none of the boys I knew traded for cards, some of them could have done so admirably if they had not feared parental authority and the "wrath to come." One year I attended Sunday School every Sunday and had a perfect lesson, whatever that meant. As a reward I got a small Bible. No retainer of a king ever felt any bigger than I did when I marched down the aisle to get this reward.

At Sunday School, as at church, people were kept divided into the two sexes, just as the Lord made them. The men sat on one side, from the "Amen Corner," with its elders and respectable gentlemen, back to the disorderly bunch near the door. The women were stratified on the other side of the church. We even invented "Awoman Corner." Only daring young men with their sweethearts would sit on the women's side. Many a time I have seen a young gallant show his girl to her place and then retire to the opposite side. In some churches there was a middle row of seats, a kind of neutral ground, where both sexes could sit without attracting attention.

Then there was the choir, after the organ was installed, where one could sit with his girl and fan her with an open-and-shut fan while the service lasted.

But time passes, and so does any or every custom. I suppose one could hardly tell nowadays which side of any church was foreordained and predestined for men or for women. And I also suppose, from inadequate knowledge, that the Sunday School does not freeze out now, when motor cars can roll over the good road to the "church in the valley by the wildwood."

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

Rice is an inexpensive wholesome food that offers many possibilities in the planning of well balanced meals. The most important of all dishes is boiled rice as it is the basis of most all rice dishes, therefore, it is necessary to master the art of cooking it properly before attempting any other rice dishes.

Boiled Rice

Wash the rice in cold water several times. Have ready boiling water—8 times as much water as rice, adding 1 teaspoon salt to each quart of water. Add the rice to the water slowly, taking care not to let the water stop boiling. Let cook undisturbed for 25 minutes or until the rice is tender. When done empty the rice into a colander and pour hot water through it until the grains separate. Drain, place the colander in a saucepan; let stand on back of stove 10 minutes.

Rice Cutlets

2 cups cooked rice
1 cup cooked carrot pulp
1 tablespoon milk
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
3-4 cup bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg—few grains pepper
Mix cooked rice, carrot pulp minced onion, pepper, salt, egg and milk together. Form into even sized baths and shape into cutlets. Roll in bread crumbs and let stand 5 minutes. Fry in a little fat until golden brown on both sides and arrange on a hot platter; sprinkle with parsley. Serve with apple or currant jelly.

Rice Gumbo

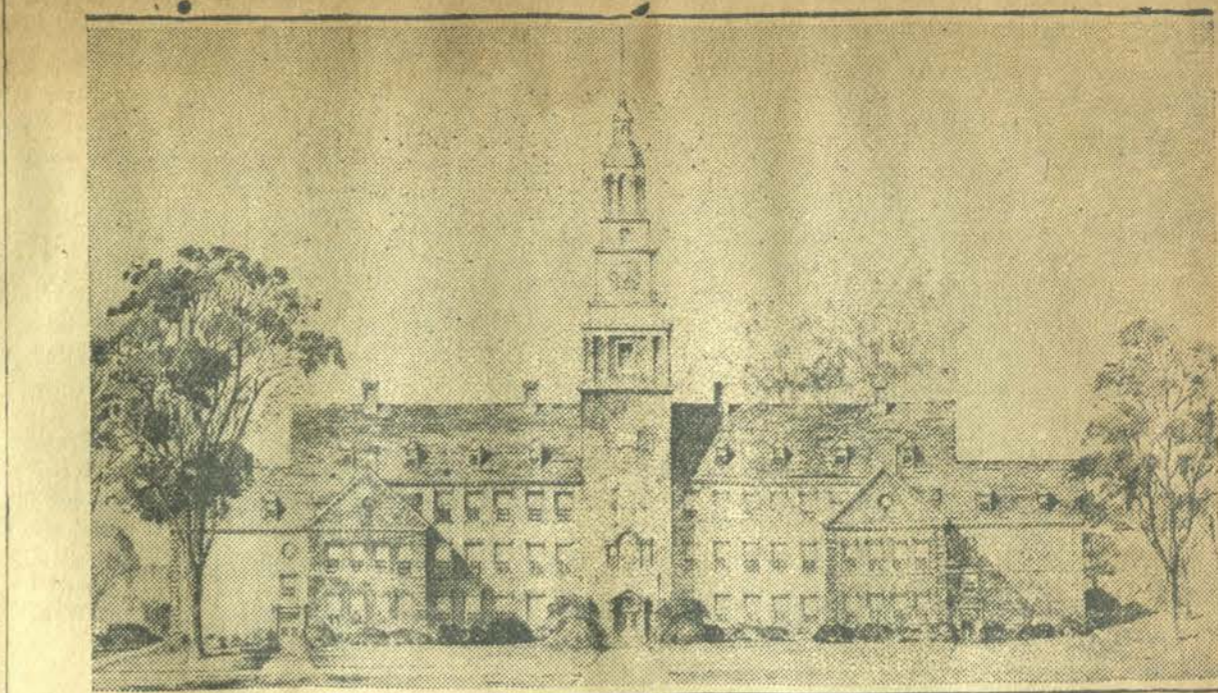

3-4 pound of ham diced
4 cups of tomatoes
2 cups of water
1 pound beef diced
2 tablespoons parsley chopped.
4 cups okra cut crosswise
Bay leaf or celery seed
1 green pepper, chopped fine.

Cooked rice
1 onion sliced
Pepper, and 1-2 cup celery cut in pieces

Cook the ham and beef in a little fat, until brown. Add pepper and celery. Cook mixture for a few minutes and add water and tomatoes. Cover the skillet and simmer until the meat is almost tender. Then add okra, pepper, salt and bay leaf. Simmer uncovered until the okra is tender and the stew has thickened. Serve on boiled rice.

Rice, Cheese and Egg Caserole

Eggs, grated cheese
Cooked rice—butter
Fine bread crumbs
Thin Cream
Add a little of the thin cream and melted butter to the rice. Line the baking dish with rice. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Drop eggs into dish, add a little thin crumbs. Dot with butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dust with grated cheese. Place in shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until eggs are firm.

An architect's view of the new $400,000 academic building that is being erected at Berea College.

Exercises for the laying of the corner-stone of the new building have been set for Saturday afternoon, September 11 at 4:30 o'clock.

The new building, President William J. Hutchins said, will house many classes of the lower division, some of which have been carried on for many years in small and inadequate buildings. The new structure is expected to be ready for the opening of school in the fall of 1938.

Rice Waffles

1 1-2 cups cooked rice
3 tablespoons fat
2 eggs, yolks and whites separated.
2 cups milk
1 1-2 cups flour sifted, with 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar, pinch of salt. Add milk, rice and beaten eggs to the sifted dry ingredients. Add the melted fat and fold in well beaten eggs.

Rice Fritters

1 cup flour
1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder

1-4 teaspoon salt
1 egg
2-3 cup of milk
Grating of nutmeg
1 cup cooked rice
1 teaspoon sugar
Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Beat egg, combine with milk and add gradually to flour mixture, stirring until smooth. Add rice and nutmeg, beat well. Drop from spoon into hot fat and fry until light brown. Drain on ungreased paper. Serve hot. These may be served as a vegetable with cheese sauce or tomato sauce, or for dessert with a sweet sauce or stewed fruits.

Rice and Liver Loaf

Chop with a knife in a chopping bowl: 1 pound of calf's liver and cook in 3 tablespoons of bacon drippings in a hot pan until brown. Add 1 tablespoon of grated onion, 1 teaspoon of salt, 1 tablespoon of fine chopped sweet pepper and 1 teaspoon of celery salt. Stir until all are wet through. Add 1 cup of water or stock, cover and let cook 5 minutes. Drain off the liquid, mix the seasoned meat with a generous cup of boiled rice, thicken the liquid with 2 tablespoons of flour rubbed smooth with a little water and stirred over a fire until it boils. Add additional seasoning of 1 teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, mix with meat, shape into a loaf and bake on greased paper in a bread pan until brown on top. If mixture is too soft add extra rice.

"All the same," chimed in Mrs. Towers, "it's Mr. Cayne who knows what they've got. He'd miss a dish-rag if it disappeared irregularly."

Towers made a warning sign. "He's got a keen eye, Mr. Cayne, that's a fact. Well, Rachel, I guess I better show you the bedrooms. The missis and I have got to get at that stack of dishes in the pantry."

Mr. Cayne's room communicated with his wife's, it was done in black oak and Jacobean linen, heavy and severe. Rachel noticed that there was only one mirror, a relief from Mrs. Cayne's bewildering panels. Then into Holbrook's room, which looked like a girl's—furniture painted white, a gray rug, rose-colored curtains. But there were shelves full of books and Rachel would have liked to read the titles, for these were the only books she had seen in the apartment. Under Towers' direction she folded the bedcovers, laid out slippers, pajamas and dressing gowns, lit bedside lamps. Holbrook had pale gray pajamas piped with rose, Oriental sandals and a dark rose-red brocade robe—Towers sniffed as he displayed them. "His mother likes him to doll up like that," he commented, "not that he needs any encouraging."

Mr. Cayne's pajamas were cotton, his dressing gown a worn and weary dark wool. While they were in his room he came to the door. "Is that the new maid, Bert?" he said. "I want to speak to her a minute."

He waited until Towers had gone back to the kitchen. "How are you getting along?" he asked, anxiously. "Have you noticed anything suspicious?"

Rachel tried to be a real detective for a moment. "No, Lena alluded to the thefts indirectly, but Towers signaled to her to be quiet. But that was only because I'm a new servant and they're very loyal to you."

"That's what I told Terriss, that's what I told Terriss."

CHAPTER IX

"All we go?" asked Curt. "I'm going to see the maid's only day out this week. I want to give her a time. How about the Plaza and a spot of tea-dancing? Look at me, I have a new suit and necktie, I'll almost do you credit."

"I'm afraid I'll run into my madame and her darling child," said Rachel. "We'd better go somewhere not so grand, though it is a pity to waste all your style! You had your hair cut, too, I notice."

"And the barber flung smelly violets, perfume on me before I could stop him. I've aired myself violently since, but I know I'm still a bit whiffy."

"Oh, perfume! Mrs. Cayne is a gale of gardenia, it almost makes me sick sometimes."

"Rachel, I'm glad to see you!" "It's like returning to sanity to see you. That's a strange household, Curt. Or maybe I'm strange."

"You're not strange, my dear—but I think—perhaps, in spite of your looking so smart and sophisticated, you've not had a—shall I say?—a great variety of experience. We'll go in here for tea; this is quiet. And you tell me why your Cayne family is cuckoo."

"They're not cuckoo, they're only badly adjusted."

"Badly adjusted to one another? You mean they're unhappy?"

"I don't believe they think they're unhappy."

"If they don't know it, then it doesn't matter. There's no reason why you should care whether they're happy or not."

Rachel backed quickly away from her indiscretion. "No, of course not, but I don't like it."

"Rachel, are you developing a social conscience?"

"Don't make fun of me when I'm enjoying my day out and the lovely soak I had in my own tub and fluffing up my hair and putting on my best frock to have tea with my boy-friend."

"Your boy-friend thanks you for that word."

"I should have said one of my boy-friends, though I gather that in the best servants' circles it is considered bad form to have more than one."

"But what about the burglaries? Nothing happened?"

"Nothing so far. And I don't believe the Towerses did them. Mr. Terriss thought maybe they'd been speculating, or had bought some property and were stuck for taxes, or were sending money to old parents on the other side, but none of that's true. They've got a great big solid savings account and some government bonds. And the chauffeur and his wife are the same, all four of them are terribly snooty about these little suburban lots some of their friends have bought. They say it's a sucker's game—ain't it funny?"

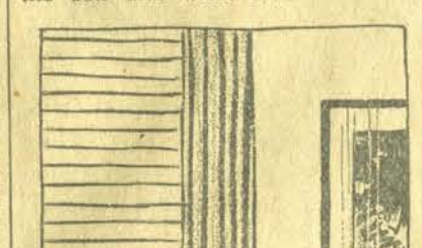

"Are you sure they're not kidding you?"

"Yes, I am. They like me, Curt, and they think I'm one of them. Besides, I've seen the bank books, Lena showed them to me and urged me to begin to save, too. They're really sweet, Curt, they're all concerned over my poverty and thriftlessness. We get along awfully well. And you ought to see me in my uniforms—gray poplin in the morning and a nifty gray taffeta in the afternoon, with a little tricky dotted swiss apron and collars and cuffs. If I had a long-handled duster I could go on the stage and sing in musical comedy. And my manner is marvelous. 'Yes, madame, no, madame, of course you're right, madame.' When I leave I'm going to get my picture taken in my afternoon outfit; Vinco could sell it to somebody who makes maids' uniforms for a bunch of money."

"I notice that neither your appearance nor your ego has suffered. Apparently you're the belle of the servants' hall. So why all that wall about returning to sanity and a strange household?"

Rachel armed herself with caution. "Maybe you're right about my never having had much experience. And then maybe it's because I'm looking at the Cayne family from within and beneath. But—they're all wrong. The son wants to be an artist and his father won't hear of it. The mother sides with the son and what I've noticed is that they don't sit down and drag all their thoughts and feeling to the surface the way my—mother—and I always did; they hide them and fight subterraneanly, scoring infinitesimal points, or else they have raging arguments—and—oh well, it seems so petty and so unnecessary. And it gets them nowhere."

"It's a very usual situation, I should say. You're taking it too seriously. You're there to find out who stole the cigarette box and Mrs. Cayne's ring and not to practice amateur psychiatry. Why bother about the family quarrels?"

She turned the matter away lightly. "I don't really take it very seriously, Curt, but I'm there under their roof and Towers and his wife talk about them all the time and it does seem a pity."

"Lots of things are a pity. It's a great pity you won't have dinner and go to a show with me—there's something I could weep about."

"Go ahead and weep. I am sorry, but Pink and I are having dinner together and afterwards Terriss is coming so that I can report to him fully."

Curt chuckled. "You sound so important and Sherlockish! A full report oughtn't to take so long. How about it if I call up a little after nine? We could take in a late movie and split a herring at a night club. Don't you realize how much I've missed you?"

"How you flatter, mister! I'd love to gad around a bit, but there again—suppose I run into my esteemed employers and they see I'm leading a double life? Not so good."

"I'll call up anyway. You haven't any other date?"

"No." She knew he was thinking of the man she had talked of wanting to evade. She had not seen Oliver Land nor heard from him since the night he had staged his trick to get money from her and she wondered what Curt would say if she told him about that.

He began to talk about other things and kept it up all the way down to the apartment. "Remember, I'll call you up about nine-thirty," he said as he left her, "and I'll find some place not infested with Caynes for us to go."

Pink had just come in, she was on the crest of the wave, her immediate superior in her department was about to be transferred and Pink was heading for his place through a dire mesh of office politics and intrigue. She was far too absorbed in her own affairs to want to know about Rachel's and Rachel was glad enough of this, for Pink's curiosity once aroused was as far-reaching and thorough as her enthusiasms and her opinions.

Rachel sat still and seemed to listen while Pink sparkled and gestured, but she was busy with her own thoughts. The apartment's studied bareness and simple old furniture had never looked so good to her. "I had to learn that by contrast," she thought, "I took it for granted before. Like simple food and Pink's table manners and no heavy perfume about and Pink, even when she's raging, isn't thoughtless of other people's feelings. It all belongs together. Curt belongs, too. But most of all Anne. Curt was right, I've had no variety of experience. Well, I'm getting it now."

Terriss was in time, dry and blank as before. Pink gave him one look and came to instant decision. "I'm going over to the Steeles'," she said. "Back about half past ten. What time do you have to check in at your job, Rachel?"

"Before twelve. But Curt Elton—"

"Oh—a date with Curt! Well, phone me at the Steeles and say good-bye."

A gleam in interest showed in Terriss' eyes as Pink departed. "That young lady is very full of pep," he commented; then, recalling himself to business: "Go ahead, Miss Vincent, give me a general outline and I'll take up special points as they come along. Don't tell me what you think, but what you've actually seen and heard. You said over the phone the other day that the butler and cook both have bank accounts. How do you know?"

"Lena showed me their books. They're in the Bowery Savings bank. He has eight thousand and she has over six thousand. They've each got five thousand dollars' worth of government bonds; I saw those, too. They save practically all their wages. They each carry a thousand dollars' worth of straight life insurance to have real nice funerals, Lena said. I wrote down the numbers of the bank books after I'd seen them."

"Have they talked about the thefts?"

"Towers not at all, Lena very little and when she does it's in hints about the disgrace of being wrongly suspected and how, if it wasn't for Mr. Cayne, they'd find another place. They simply worship Mr. Cayne. That I'm sure of."

"But they don't care so much for the missis, hey?"

"No—I don't believe they do."

"She's sharp with them, makes them stand around?"

Rachel chose her words. "She requires a great deal of service and she doesn't realize how much work a few extra orders can make."

Terriss frowned. "Mr. Cayne may be easy for his help to work for, but he makes it hard enough for me. He wouldn't let me crack down on the servants, and he's never let me say a word to Mrs. Cayne nor the young man. Either of them ever speak of the thefts before you?"

"No, not a word. Mrs. Cayne is very careless with her jewelry, she has a great deal of it and leaves it about where anyone could pick up a piece or two. The little safe where it's supposed to be kept isn't locked half the time. Mr. Cayne showed it to me one day when she was out. It's a joke, you could open it with a bent pin."

"Do you think Mrs. Cayne even knows about the thefts? I asked Mr. Cayne, but he made me an answer that was neither yes or no, and showed that he didn't like the question. So I was stopped there."

"Why, I don't know, Mr. Terriss, I never thought but that Mrs. Cayne knew about them, but it's true—she might not."

"Has the son any intimate friends, any young fellow he pals around with who's at the house very often? Or has Mrs. Cayne got any of these female hangers-on that most rich women have, in and out, familiar, getting presents of her old dresses and the like?"

"Not that I've seen. The son's had young people in twice for cocktails, in the afternoon before his father got home. Mrs. Cayne goes out a good bit, but it's usually to some big beauty establishment, she's—she's awfully interested in keeping fit."

Terriss looked at Rachel with curiosity. "Does she and Mr. Cayne get along pretty good?" he asked.

"They don't agree about the son, but I only get this second hand, Mr. Terriss, from what Towers and Lena say."

"The son don't go to school?"

"That's the trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Cayne. Mr. Cayne wants him to go to college or at least to a business school and he wants to go to an art school and his mother sides with him, so this winter he's gone nowhere! He's awfully spoiled."

"A rich brat, hey?" Terriss considered again. "If I could only talk plain man-to-man stuff with Mr. Cayne! But he won't stand for it. You're doing all right, Miss Vincent, you're not half as dumb as I'd expected. Now you fly at it for another week and concentrate on the family's friends, specially the boys. Get their names and addresses if you can, the names anyway. Don't let up on the servants either; they may be slicker than I think, and their having bankbooks don't prove anything. Ask 'em about pawnshops, tell 'em you've got something you want to hock, show 'em an old piece of jewelry or something to back it up. If they give you any names slip right out and phone me what they say. Ask the chauffeur and the laundress, too. The whole four may be in cahoots. See if they've got any private phone numbers written down anywhere and copy 'em for me."

Then Rachel said something she had meant to say, but which she knew, now, had underlain all her answers to his questions. "I don't like doing this, Mr. Terriss. I wish I needn't go back."

"That's what I've been expecting," said Terriss, slowly and gloomily. "I guessed all along it was just a kind of a whim. Young people nowadays got no guts, they don't want to do a job thorough. Any little fancy they take it's a reason for quitting and letting you down. I've been leery of you all along, Miss Vincent, I didn't believe you could stand the gaff. But I did think you'd last longer than three weeks."

"I'm sorry—" she began, but he waved his hand and went on talking.

"When I was young a job of work you undertook had to be finished, whether it was fun or not. Fun! I'm sick of the word. You thought all this would be a great big lot of fun and now you see there's some actual labor and thinking involved and that scares you. Okay, you can quit right now, in fact you'd better quit if you're that way."

"I didn't mean that," said Rachel, "I only meant—I wasn't looking for fun, and well—I've tried honestly to do what you want, but I don't think I'm any good at it, it seems so hopeless—"

He was tremendously disturbed, his careful mask gone. "It's not hopeless at all. You're doing fine, didn't I tell you so? I didn't intend to speak so severe, Miss Vincent, but I was taken aback, and disappointed! I sized you up to have character! Yeah, character and class! I realize you're not a trained operative, but you got sense! You got a good memory! You know how to get at people! Look at what you've done with that butler and cook in this little time! Don't say you're quitting on me when you're doing so well."

Here's What to Sew

THIS is not a wishing-page, Mi-lady, even though it is from a book of exclusive fashions by Sew-Your-Own! You can run any one of these frocks through your machine in short order. The patterns are so easy to follow (even the simon-pure will say they're simple).

Here is one frock that belongs in every woman's wardrobe. You'll look prettier in the kitchen, more comfortable at work—and in your silk crepe version—prettier in afternoon leisure or shopping on the avenue. The shoulder-sleeve-in-one construction makes easy sewing, and the full cut skirt with two kick-pleats serves well when one's in action.

Simple 'n' Charming. A lusciously feminine frock for you, young but knowing ladies of fashion, is the model looking right at you from above center. You probably can't remember when you've seen one you've liked as much. That vivacious charm plus striking simplicity are the things about it that will make you remembered as the lady in red, or the lady in black, or the lady in what-color-have-you! It is especially easy to sew, too, thank you.

New School Frock. You cute, little lady of fashion, this is your lucky day. You and Mommy will agree on this dress just like two pals should agree. It buttons down the front, the way you want it to; its waist is snug. Makes up attractively in either cotton, silk, or light-weight wool.

Pattern 1267 is designed for sizes 34 to 48. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 35-inch material, plus 1 1/4 yards contrasting.

Pattern 1362 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material—with short sleeves 4 3/4 yards.

Pattern 1213, is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14, and 16 years. Size 10 requires 2 1/2 yards of 35 or 39-inch material, plus 1/4 yard contrasting with 1 1/2 yards of 1 1/2-inch bias binding.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

QUAKER STATE MOTOR OIL

How long should a quart of oil last? No one can answer that question specifically because driving habits differ. But there is one thing certain... you will go farther with Quaker State because it gives you "an extra quart of lubrication in every gallon." You can easily prove the economy of Quaker State by making the "First Quart" Test. And remember... the oil that stands up longest is giving your motor the safest lubrication. For the purpose of the United States census, an illiterate is a person who has reached the age of ten without being able to read and write in any language. On this basis the percentage of illiterates in this country in 1930 was 4.3 of the population. Nevertheless, the United States is probably one of the ten most literate of nations, although close to the bottom of the list.

Germany ceased keeping statistics on illiteracy in 1913, when her male percentage as revealed by army recruits was .05.

In Canada, according to the census of 1931, the percentage of illiterates in the whole population over 10 years was—unable to read or write, 3.79; able to read only, 0.47. The percentage unable to read or write is raised from 1 to 4 by races other than English-speaking.

In France 8.89 per cent of army conscripts in 1924 were illiterate. Italy's illiterates are 27 per cent of the population of school age or over. Denmark, a country with a long record of compulsory education, is very low in illiteracy, and there are no satisfactory statistics on the subject. The same may be said of Sweden.

In Soviet Russia education is obligatory. Universal compulsory primary education—four years—was introduced at the beginning of 1931. It is now being extended to a seven-year period. According to the census of 1926 the percentage of illiteracy was 48.7 of the population. By official estimate of December, 1933, it was less than 10 per cent.

Illiteracy among foreign-born whites in the United States in 1930 averaged 9.9 per cent and ranged from 0.3 per cent among Scots, and 0.6 per cent among English and Canadians to 36.9 per cent among persons from the Azores.

WHY NOT

Trade where you can depend on the merchandise you buy to be of good quality?

We now have a very complete line of first-class fall underwear for the whole family. (As the people say, Francis Cash Store will come near having it). So why wear yourself out before getting here to make your purchases? We have built our trade by selling the merchandise which will give you your money's worth.

For ladies we have Nelly Don and Levine Dresses, Bradley's Knit Goods, Miss New Yorkers Silk Underwear, and Star Brand Shoes.

For men—Curlee Suits and Top Coats, Nunn and Bush and Peters Shoes and Dobbs Hats Arrow Shirts and Wilson Brothers line, also Berea-Made Ties.

For Girls—Shirley Temple, Deanna Durbin and Cinderella Dresses Also Star Brand Shoes.

Remember—our shoes are all guaranteed not to have paper in them and to be SOLID LEATHER, which it takes to stand the rain, snow and mud which is just ahead. So play safe and come to us and you won't be talking about other stores for selling you shoes that are no good, which we wear daily. If you don't you will have yourself to blame. The price on ladies' and men's shoes start at $1.95 per pair.

We do not let any one undersell us on quality merchandise. We have 200 pairs of girls' and ladies' galoshes made by Ball Band to sell for 85c pair, which is cheaper than the mail order houses.

Below you will see some of our prices which we want you to see before buying (and try to beat them)!

DEATHS

Richard Harris Succumbs in Oklahoma Hospital; Body is Returned Here

Funeral services for Richard Harris, 56, kinsman of many Floyd countians were held Thursday at 2 p. m. in the home cemetery on Cow Creek, with the Rev. George Redding and the Rev. Isaac Stratton officiating. The Arnold funeral home was in charge of the burial rites.

Mr. Harris, who had been serving as supervisor in a Texas C. C. C. camp, succumbed in the U. S. Army hospital, Ft. Sill, Okla., to which he was taken after suffering a stroke. His death followed on Sunday, three days later. The body was brought here by Surgeon Jennings of the Fort Sill hospital.

Mr. Harris, who never married, is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. W. A. Dingus, Prestonsburg; Mrs. George Campbell, El Paso, Texas; R. T. Harris, El Paso, Texas; and G. E. Harris, of Cincinnati.

INFANT PASSES

The baby of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Kipton died at Harold, Monday, following a short illness. Funeral services were held the following day. Burial rites were in charge of the Arnold funeral home.

JAMES ROBINSON, JR.

James Robinson, Jr., 58 years old, Mossy Bottom farmer, died at the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey, Monday, a victim of typhoid. Surviving Mr. Robinson are his widow, three sons, Willie, Dan and Noah, and one brother, John Robinson. Funeral rites were conducted Monday afternoon from the home at Mossy Bottom, the Rev. Albert Stephens of the Regular Baptist Church, of which Mr. Robinson was a devout member, officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of G. D. Ryan.

Last of Contest Cases Wiped From Docket As All Contestants Agree

Last of the contest cases arising from the recent primary election were wiped from the docket of the Floyd circuit court when J. B. (Jimmy) Hall, Lee P. May, T. Y. Martin and Mitch Thomas signed an agreed order to dismiss their suits against Wayne Stumbo, victorious candidate for the Democratic nomination for sheriff.

Special Judge Sanders Clay had already heard a portion of the evidence in the case, and Monday an investigation of the ballots was made. In the probe into the ballot boxes S. C. Ferguson, J. M. Weddington and George Sizemore acted as tabulators in behalf of the contestants, while J. M. Stumbo and Ben Martin served for the contestant.

D. A. R. CHAPTER IN FIRST MEETING OF YEAR, SEPT. 14TH

John Graham chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met Tuesday evening for the first meeting of the year at the home of the agent, Mrs. E. H. Sowards.

Members present: Mrs. Sam L. Spradlin, Mrs. Saffie Humphreys, Mrs. A. C. Harlowe, Mrs. E. P. Arnold, Mrs. Grace D. Ford, Mrs. R. G. Francis, Mrs. Jo M. Davidson, Mrs. C. P. Stephens, Mrs. Lon S. Mcles, Mrs. H. L. Mayo, Mrs. Joe Hobson, Mrs. O. T. Stephens and Mrs. Lula D. Trautman.

Plans were discussed for organizing a C. A. R. flag codes are to be presented by the chapter to every room of the high and graded schools here, to promote Americanism and flag education.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Gordon Francis, who read a highly interesting paper, "Real Daughters of the Revolution." Mrs. Grace D. Ford read a paper on "Distinguished Members." "Great Pioneer Women" was given by Mrs. Harlowe, and "Revolutionary Heroines" by Mrs. Moles.

Mrs. Lula D. Trautman, of Newton-Hamilton, Pa., delivered an interesting talk. Especially inspiring was her description of "Hemlock service." She concluded her talk by reading the poems, "My Old Kentucky Hills" and "Candle Flame," products of her own pen.

DRIFT CLINCHES PENNANT BY DOUBLE VICTORY OVER PIKE

Drift journeyed to Pikeville Sunday for a double-header with the Pikeville Reds and the two teams deadlocked for first place in the Big Sandy league. When the smoke of battle had cleared away, Drift had smashed the "Reds" of Red Hagans into a double defeat, 6-0 and 8-3.

In the first game "Kitt" Stumbo possible chances. The outcome of the trial at all times, not a Pikeville player reaching third, and he won his own game by smacking a triple with two on. "Ted" Stumbo turned in two sensational catches in center field, while "Cott" Shelton made a great catch of a liner in deep right. H. Stumbo and "Blacky" Moore played sensationally in the infield, coming up with some almost impossible chances. The outcome of the game was never in doubt after the first inning. Kitt seems to be entirely recovered from his injury that kept him on the bench almost two months. Sunday's game was his second shut-out and he slammed two triples. In the second game young Lloyd Stumbo won his seventh straight game without a defeat in the second half. After the first three innings Pikeville never had a chance with young Lloyd's "smoke ball." Two walks, a hit and two errors gave Pikeville three runs, only one of which was earned in the first three innings, but with Moore, Vincent, G. Stumbo and K. Stumbo smacking out extra base hits, this lead was soon overcome and it was just a case of "how many" Drift would make. "Stagalee" Johnson, Pikeville's star pitcher, and one of "Zach's" engine-nees, was treated plenty rough by the "Mudders" from Left Beaver. Great support by the Pikeville team held Drift's score down. Pikeville, winner of the first half, and Drift, winner of the second half, will play a three best out of five series for the Big Sandy championship, starting Sunday.

JOHNSON FARMERS TO RESTOCK SHEEP

Six Carloads of Johnson Farm—Inspect Bluegrass Sheep Flocks

Floyd county farmers might profit from the example of Johnson county farmers, who are determined to restore their county to its former status as a sheep-producing center. With this end in view, six automobile loads of Johnson county farmers visited the University of Kentucky Experiment Station last week to inspect the University's flock, and then went on to view privately owned flocks in other Bluegrass counties.

The visitors, under direction of R. C. Miller, University sheep specialist, saw various types of sheep in Fayette, Woodford and Owen counties preliminary to purchases to be made by themselves and other Johnson county farmers. Justice L. Paddock, Johnson county agricultural agent, who accompanied the motorcade, said 1,000 head of sheep would be shipped to the farms of this county within the next few days. That is more than twice the number of sheep now in the entire county. Where once there 5,000 sheep now only 400 graze the mountain pasture land. Visit Significant The visit of the Eastern Kentuckians on a sheep-buying mission is significant because the Kentucky mountain region formerly supplied the Bluegrass region with ewes. A natural sheep-raising section, the hill pastures supported thousands of sheep but the industry began to wane some 30 years ago until comparatively few sheep are to be found in the region.

It is the purpose of the farmers in Johnson county and business men of Paintsville to lead the way back to sheep culture throughout the mountains as a steady source of income. Although Eastern Kentucky for decades was the breeding ground of ewes used by Central Kentucky farmers for the production of celebrated Kentucky lambs, mountain farmers began to lose interest when lumbering became a profitable industry in that section. Then came the railroads and the development of the coal industry. Sheep were neglected for timber and coal.

Now the timber lands are cut over and only the large mines are on a paying basis; so farmers and business men began looking around for some means of producing additional income. Sheep is believed to be the answer to the problem. It is easy and economical to grow in the mountains. Pastures are plentiful as a result of the government's soil conservation program, which has restored much of the land to grass, lespedeza and grazing mixture. This is ideal for sheep as is the hill land. Sheep raised on rolling land, according to Mr. Miller, have less trouble from parasites such as stomach worms and they have less foot trouble than sheep raised on level land. The sloping land causes the parasites to wash off the grass. Although the mountain region formerly produced a large quantity of ewes for export, the region never ranked high in the production of quality lambs, Mr. Miller said. There was no scientific breeding of sheep there as there is in Central Kentucky now. This select breeding has gained for Kentucky top ranking as a quality lamb-producing state.

The old-time mountain sheep would produce only three to five pounds of wool, while modern Western sheep produce from seven to nine pounds annually. There is no reason, according to Mr. Miller, why growers can't fatten lambs and increase the yield of wool in Eastern Kentucky as well as in other sections. With present railroad facilities and good highways it is no problem to market the Eastern Kentucky sheep.

The visiting farmers intend to buy Western sheep with which to give impetus to their industry. They looked over Central Kentucky flocks to determine the best kinds to buy. They will import pure-bred rams, mostly Southdowns and Hampshires, to produce a quality type of sheep in their section.

Among the party visitin were C. C. Craig, assistant county agent of Johnson county; Dr. Lloyd G. Meade, Paintsville, representing the Kiwanis Club; J. G. McNally, Smith-Hughes agriculture teacher in the Oil Springs high school, and Walter McKenzie, Smith-Hughes teacher in the high school at Flat Gap, Johnson county.

DRUM, BUGLE CORPS TO PLAY NOV. 11TH

The drum and bugle corps composed of members of the Sons of the Legion here will make its first public appearance on Armistice Day, it was announced this week by John W. Hensley, director. Floyd Post plans an impressive Armistice Day program, and these boys are expected to take a prominent part in the day's activities. The drum and bugle corps was organized about six weeks ago.

Quiet

"I want a shave," said the man as he climbed into the barber's chair. "No haircut no shampoo, no bayrum, no witch hazel, hair tonic, hot towels, or face massage. I don't want the manicurist to hold my hand or the boot-black to handle my feet. I don't want to be brushed off, and I'll put my coat on without help. I just want a plain shave with no trimmings. Understand that?"

"Yes sir," said the barber quietly. "Lather, sir?"

Until better snake-killers came along Dave Allen, 60-year-old tenant-farmer, of Hippo, this county, may be the title of champion snake-killer of Floyd county.

Mr. Allen specializes in copperheads. Up till Tuesday, Sept. 7, he had killed two weeks assisted 15 of the region in shuffling from their own a mortal coil. And not one of the snakes measured less than two feet.

So reports J. W. Hays, of Hueys, a neighbor of the Brush Creek farm where Mr. Allen is a tenant. Mr. Hays accompanied Mr. Allen on his current snake season, and that day...

URGE USE OF ALL SOIL ALLOWANCES

The Floyd County Soil Conservation Committee is urging farmers to use all soil building allowances of all soil building allowances for the coming year. Thus far, according to reports made by men directing the use of compliance on about 40 per cent of the land has been used in the county. Farmers should make every effort to take up the rest is urged by James Stephens, president of the county committee. The committee includes: J. C.
