LIFE SENTENCE IS METED YOUTH FOR KILLING OF WARRIX

Commonwealth Asks That Death Penalty Be Imposed In Slaying

JURY OUT OVERNIGHT BEFORE MAKING VERDICT

Speedy, Undelayed Trial Follows Slaying of Warrix Only 12 Days Ago

Nineteen-year-old Mims Porter must spend the rest of his life in the state penitentiary for the .22-caliber rifle slaying of Sol Warrix, decided a Floyd county jury, Wednesday, after being asked by the Commonwealth to impose the death penalty if sufficient evidence had been introduced.

The case was given to the jury at 5 p. m. Tuesday, but a verdict was not returned until 9 a. m. Wednesday.

The trial was a speedy one for Floyd county, following the slaying of 31-year-old Deputy Constable Sol Warrix at Allen 12 days ago, as he and Town Marshal Laferty were investigating a car wreck.

Hours were taken up with testimony during the trial by attempts of defense attorneys, Edward L. Allen and W. S. Wallen, to establish Mims Porter's age at less than 17, so that he would not come under the jurisdiction of the circuit court, but within the jurisdiction of the juvenile court.

When placed on the witness stand Porter testified by prosecuting attorney C. C. Hall and B. M. James, father of the accused, testified that Mims Porter was born in 1922, making his age 15 years. Continued questioning revealed, however, that Pharis Porter was the father of nine children, and of the entire nine, the birth date of Mims was the only one of which he was sure.

Commonwealth testimony by Goldie Elkins, grand jury reporter, was to the effect that Mims testified his age to be 19 when questioned September 19.

"GONE WITH WINDY"

No sooner had Town Marshal J. B. Hall, of McDowell, returned home after placing five youths in the town lockup on drunkenness charges, than he was informed by neighbors that the youths, led by one nicknamed "Windy," had escaped jail.

Marshal Hall stated that after he turned the lockup key on the five youths he returned home, to be informed that the youths had returned to their homes before he arrived at his. He added that the only youth known to him was nicknamed "Windy."

BELFRY DOWNED IN CATS' OPENER

Blackcats Lead a Touchdown Parade, 25-0, to Swamp Belfry

Although their offensive attack bogged down in the second half, the Prestonsburg Blackcats had an easy time defeating the outweighed football warriors of Belfry, 25-0, in the local season opener here at Gasco Park last Saturday.

Led on early touchdown drives by Craft and Rice in the first quarter, the Blackcats settled all doubt as to the outcome of the contest. Dick Allen scored the third touchdown in the second quarter and Craft added the final marker early in the third.

Although Belfry prevented the 'Cats from continuing their touchdown parade in the last quarter, and gained quite a bit of ground themselves the Prestonsburg goal was (Continued on page four)

MINE RESCUERS OF WHEELWRIGHT ARE 1ST PRIZE WINNERS

Wheelwright's Team May Compete in National Meet At Kansas City

Competing before thousands of persons gathered at Pikeville last Saturday for the Safety Field Day contests staged in the ball park, Inland Steel Company's Wheelwright team was judged the winner of the mine rescue contest. The team from Jenkins 204 mine Consolidation Coal Company, took first prize in the first-aid contest.

The team from Wheelwright, composed of Gene Linkos, captain; Harvey Maynard, Dan Autore, O. A. Durham and Robert Blevins, was awarded $125 in cash as first prize. Two cups and flashlights for members of the team were also awarded.

It was reported that Wheelwright's Mine Rescue team would go to the National Safety Council contest at Kansas City, Mo., next month. These men also will act as judges for the West Virginia state contest, which is to be held at Mt. Hope, W. Va., soon.

The event, sponsored by the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Mining Institute, was termed by veteran mining men as the greatest ever held in Kentucky.

The huge crowd witnessed brilliant exhibitions of mine rescue and first aid.

Winners of the contests, determined by over 100 judges, were awarded valuable prizes which were presented immediately after the close of the program.

Second prize in the mine rescue contest, $100, went to Jenkins 204 team, while the team from Stone mine of Eastern Coal Corporation won third prize of $75.

In winning the first aid contest, this team was presented with a cash prize of $125, two cups and first aid kits and the Red Cross medals for its members.

Other prize winners in this division were:

KEFFER CONFESSES SLAYING CALLIHAN

Man, Wanted in State-wide Search, Surrenders, Confesses Here

Bob Keffer, wanted since August 20 when the body of Robert D. Callihan, 65 years old, was found in a blood-soaked bed at the Keffer shanty-home in "Greentown," Rock Fork Creek, near Garrett, came to Prestonsburg Wednesday morning, surrendered to Sheriff M. T. Stumbo and was at once released under $5,000 bond.

Though Floyd county authorities conducted an intensive search for Keffer, at one time an officer making an arrest at Grayson but releasing the prisoner when told he was mistaken in the identity of the man, the slayer came here, calmly confessed to the killing and added, "I never stirred from home."

Keffer told officers here that Callihan came to his home, armed with a knife, and threatened him, "I hit him to save my own life," he added. He did not name the weapon with which he beat Callihan to death.

The confessed-slayer's home is on Quicksand Creek, Knott county, but he had maintained a residence on Rock Fork while he was working and in order that his children might attend Garrett high school. Callihan had gone to Garrett from Ashland in search of work only a few days before his death.

For the benefit of indigents who are unable to pay the regular fees for a tuberculosis X-ray test, Mrs. John B. Floyd, of the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association, will conduct an X-ray clinic here, Oct. 21 and 22, Dr. Marvin Ransdell, director of the Floyd county health department, which is sponsoring the clinic, announced this week.

Only indigents who have been given skin tests by the health department and found tuberculin or who have been referred to the clinic by a physician will be given the examination. Expense to the patient will be $1.25 to cover cost of X-ray plate only. Those previously tested and found affected but who failed to get an X-ray picture at last year's clinic will not be re-tested. They are urged to attend the clinic next week.

OLD TIME RELIGION AND HOSPITALITY ARE JOINED

The old-fashioned brand of Kentucky hospitality and the old-time religion were fused as one over the past week-end to make of the New Salem Association of the Regular Baptist Church, near Garrett, one of the most successful to be held in the 112-year-old history of the Association.

New Salem Association is the mother Association in Kentucky of Regular Baptists. It includes not only all of Eastern Kentucky, parts of Virginia and West Virginia, but extends clear onto the Pacific coast to shelter one representative body of Kentucky Baptists who have strayed to the state of Washington, far from the native but never far from their religious convictions.

This settlement is famous throughout the state of Washington as "Little Kentucky," and many of its settlers bear the Kentucky name of Hall.

It originated in Floyd county in 1825 at the mouth of Mud Creek. And since that good day no Association has had a larger attendance, more perfect order or a more bounteous hospitality. It is estimated that, during Friday, Saturday and

PAINT CREEK MEN SUSTAIN INJURIES

Coal-Conveyor Drops And Injures Music When Cable Breaks

Two Little Paint Creek men barely escaped death at a country "coal bank" Friday morning when a cable on which bucket-conveyors of coal parted, permitting two of the buckets, one of which was loaded, to drop down the hillside upon them.

Clyde Music, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Music, and a graduate of Prestonsburg high school last spring, suffered two arm fractures and his companion, Herbert Baldrige, was rendered unconscious for several minutes. Baldrige, however, was not seriously hurt. Young Music is recovering at the Golden Rule hospital.

Pulleys operating the conveyors were being manipulated by Mrs. Alex Crider, near whose home the "bank" is located. Her shouted warning to the men of impending peril when the cable broke was not heard. A bucket which missed the men by inches sheared off a six-inch locust tree, it was said.

In the Sunday School at 9:45 o'clock Rally Day will be observed. There will be a program upon the theme "Marching Forward," the promotion of classes, and a special offering for the cause of Christian education.

World-Wide Communion Sunday will be observed at the 11 o'clock hour, with music and meditation appropriate for the time. Presbyterian U. S. A. churches throughout the nation and in other parts of the world are observing the day.

Bible memory work will take up a good part of the promotion-rally program. The class of Mrs. Stephen (Continued on page four)

The figure six figured largely Sunday in the affairs of Frank Stamper, of near Prestonsburg. Mr. Stamper, who is 66 years old, on that day became a father for the 26th time. Mrs. Stamper—he has been married twice, his first wife dying about 20 years ago—is 36. Of his 26 children, 16 are living.

Sunday's arrival has been named Shirley Ann, and is doing well. The youngster is Mrs. Stamper's 13th child.

HICKS SMOTHERED TO DEATH, BELIEF

Machine Operator Pinned Beneath Slatefall in Garrett Mine Friday

Pinned beneath a slatefall in the mines of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation, Garrett, Friday, Mitchell Hicks, 26 years old, is believed to have smothered to death in "bug dust" before a rescue crew could liberate him.

Mr. Hicks, a son of Alfred Hicks, of Garrett, was a coal-cutting machine operator, and had many relatives and friends in the Right Beaver Creek section. Besides his father, he is survived by his widow, two children and several brothers and sisters. A brother was killed in a mine accident at Garrett about two years ago.

Funeral rites were conducted at Garrett, with burial being made there under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

BUSINESS DOORS CLOSE AS HUGHES FUNERAL IS HELD

Last Rites Are Held for Dr. Hughes in Crowded M. E. Church, South

Remembering how in past years he closed his business during funerals for prominent citizens, Prestonsburg's businessmen closed their doors last Friday at 2 p. m., to join with other citizens in paying their last tribute of respect to Henry E. Hughes, well-known local druggist, who succumbed in an Huntington hospital last week. Dr. Hughes was 51 years old.

The Methodist Church, scene of the funeral, was crowded to the galleries with friends, who supplied numerous wreaths of flowers.

Three Masonic lodges, representing Prestonsburg, Pikeville and Paintsville, joined in the burial rites, with the Pikeville Commandery, Knights Templar engaging in the first Commandery rites ever held in Prestonsburg.

At the funeral Rector Catlin, of the Pikeville Episcopal Church, assisted by the Rev. H. F. King, officiated in the beautiful Episcopal service.

"Doc" Hughes, as he was affectionately called, was a member of the Episcopal Church, a charter member of the local Kiwanis Club, and a member of Zebulon Lodge No. 278, Free and Accepted Masons, holding the important office of junior warden in his home lodge.

Mr. Hughes' business career in Prestonsburg was synonymous with the town's growth. Coming here in 1918 from Matewan, W. Va., he first worked in the drug store owned by C. L. Hutsinpillar and N. M. White, Jr. Later he opened the old drug store, then known as the "Red Front." His last place of business was in the Masonic building after it was completed.

Well-known in Prestonsburg for his philanthropy to churches, "Doc" is also remembered for his kindness and courteousness.

Doctor Hughes was a son of John and Ada Hughes, of Staunton, Va. (Continued on page five)

THREE MEN SLAIN AS MURDER ORGY DEATH TOLL RISES

Crime Wave Has Taken Five Lives Within The Past Two Weeks

TWO MEN ARE KILLED ON 'GARBAGE HOLLOW'

Roosevelt Elswick, Wallace Sword and Bill Bingham Are Victims

Three Floyd county men met death by gunfire to continue a murder orgy which has claimed five lives in the county within less than two weeks.

The dead are: Roosevelt Elswick, 25, shot three times in his head.

Willis Sword, 27, four times in body and head.

Bill Bingham, shot in abdomen and knee.

Elswick and Sword were slain on Garbage Hollow, near Wheelwright, recent scene of the gun battle in which Gus Johnson and Roy Reed were killed. Four persons, three men and a woman, Elswick's former wife, are in jail here held for the double slaying.

Bingham was fatally wounded when he and his brother-in-law, Vernon Combs, met in the furniture department of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation store at Garrett Friday morning. Combs surrendered and later was released under $5,000 bond.

As a result of the five murders and lesser offenses committed in the county within the last two weeks, Circuit Judge John W. Caudill said Wednesday that a special session of the grand jury may be called during the October term.

The Garbage Hollow slayings took place at the home of Levi Johnson early Friday morning. Lafayette Johnson, cousin of Levi, admitted that he killed Elswick. Bullets from a .38-caliber revolver and a Germa Luger were said to have killed Sword.

Those jailed here in connection with the affair are Lafayette Johnson, Levi Johnson and Mrs. Ruth Elswick. (Continued on page four)

COUGH DROPS

After a belated entrance at Gasco Park Saturday, our attention was caught by witty Oscar Bond's strenuous efforts in broadcasting the 'Cats-Belfry football encounter—especially when he tongue-twisted: "We've put a good field on the team." The climax came later as he massaged a tiring throat and asked over the public address system, "Does anyone in the crowd have a cough drop?" and some fan yelled back, "Is there a drop of anything in the crowd?" —jbg—

MO SCRIP, PLEASE

We like the name of Mr. Moscrip, Inland Steel employe at Wheelwright. We can imagine Mr. Moscrip entering the company's office and being asked, "What do you want?" to which Mr. Moscrip would probably reply, "I want some mo scrip." —jbg—

LESSON

Floyd county's would-be bad men might take a lesson from Central Kentucky's Garr brothers who slew General Denard. The Garr brothers led peaceful lives prior to the slaying, yet their action has been smeared on newspaper front pages all over the nation. Floyd's game, although they kill right and left, for mere pastime, seldom gain daily newspaper notice. It seems to us the cause lies in the fact that, in Central Kentucky, a killing is news, while in Floyd county it is more of a week-end habit. —jbg—

Shooting and Fishing

(By OL' NIMROD)

All over the county people are commenting on the rapid growth of the Floyd County Fish and Game Club. Already 168 members have been enrolled, and more are coming in at every meeting. It seems now that this club, with more members than any other club Floyd has ever had, is really destined to lead Floyd county from the "dark and bloody hunting grounds" and to its rightful and proper place in the sun as the "Happy Hunting Grounds of Kentucky."

At McDowell, on Left Beaver at one of our meetings, Cass L. Collins, of Minnie, dropped in and asked if this outfit made any effort to keep down forest fires. We told him that was one of our primary plans, that woods fires destroyed nesting birds, drove out small game because they destroyed the cover, as well as the farmers' fences and timber, and left nothing but black-scarred timber shoots, bleak soil and blackberry vines. Typical of his pure Anglician, Eastern Kentucky breed, Mr. Collins inquired how that would help him. We told him that, if he and his neighbors would join up and help us, we would furnish his wooded areas with coon and squirrel, his fields with quail and rabbit, and have qualified men (outside of politics) appointed as volunteer game wardens to protect his game in closed seasons and protect his property against woods fires; that every member of this club would ask his permission before hunting on his land and guarantee that no fences would be torn down and no live stock shot.

Mr. Collins replied maybe not so grammatically, but nevertheless succinctly, "Boys, danged if that ain't a purty good proposition, you can give me a card for myself and two for my boys. Ray Cook will be to your next meeting and he'll take one for hisself and like as not Ballard Moore will take one, too. That's what we been needin' in this section for a long time."

So, when you see Roy Lee Keeling or Joe Ward, of the Warfield Gas Company, or Wayne Stumbo, the new volunteer game warden at Drift, ask him for full particulars on this question and let your conscience be your guide. Come on, boys, and join up with us, live and act like real Kentucky sportsmen, and soon we'll have our fields and streams alive with game and fish, and again our great commonwealth will be the "Happy Hunting Grounds of Kentucky."

LOB CASTS

The Warfield-Floyd County Fish and Game Club trap-shoot came off as scheduled Sunday at 2 p. m., at Winchester, and how those Floyd county gunners did bust those helpless clay pigeons—Joe Ward breaking 18, was high gun for the day, with Green Allen second with 16; Wayne Stumbo, third, with 12; and Hob Stumbo, fourth, with 11.

GAME AND FISH BODY IN MEETING AT DRIFT

Drift, Ky., Sept. 20 (Spl.)—A meeting of the Floyd County Game and Fish Association was held at the Drift theatre Sunday morning. A large crowd was present and several new members were added.

The people in this section are really taking an interest in the Asbers than any other community in society, and Drift has more mem-Floyd county.

Roy Keeling and Joe Ward directed the affairs of the meeting.

BABE DIES

Carl Dean Ousley, seven-day-old son of J. E. Ousley, of Garrett, died

state of mind, who knows when we may again need these keen-eyed sons of Ethan Allen and Daniel Boone?

Walter Clark's crew of Warfield's right-of-way cutters, killed a copperhead on the Tickey Johns Hall branch of Big Mud last week that measured three feet and two inches. The infuriated moccasin, disturbed by Glover Spencer, who was carrying water, chased that worthy down through the hollow, up over a cliff and finally treed him in a dogwood bush, when R. C. Leard, Worlie Mace and Bill Compton arrived at the scene, the huge reptile had reared up to its full height of nine feet and was savagely striking at the apples under Glover's feet. The rescuers menaced the snake with their bush-hooks and scythes, but he scattered them with a lash of his ten-foot tail. Glover finally distracted the snake's attention by pulling and throwing hickory nuts until Wilson Stepp got a pair of chain-tongs around its neck and turning the huge python on its back, Mr. Wallace plunged a bush-hook into its vitals, settling the hash of probably the most dangerous varmint on Toler's Creek.

Big Sandy's waters are moderately clean this week-end and many are the fishing tales you'll be hearing next week. As a matter of fact, Ol' Nimrod has a can of worms dug preparatory to taking off for the Lick Creek holes. But, particularly, Ol' Nim's truthfulness can be depended upon.

The Game and Fish Club's next meeting, Sunday morning, October 3, at 10:30 a. m. at the Beaver Valley Golf Club, is particularly important in that a vote will then be taken on the permanent location of the club, as well as a location for trap-shooting and rifle-pits. All members, and especially the Wayland Gun Club and officials of the Beaver Valley Golf Club, are urged to be present. Please make an extra effort to be there at this time, as more recommendations are to be made for volunteer game wardens.

HONEY MAKES MONEY IN LETCHER COUNTY

A ton and a quarter of honey from 46 stands, is the record made this year by Lawrence King of Letcher county, according to County Agent Boyd E. Wheeler. The exact amount he took from his bees is 2,597 pounds, for which he already has been offered 25 cents a pound. One hive produced 243 pounds.

Several Letcher county bee owners have done well this year, says Mr. Wheeler. Many hives produced 100 to 150 pounds each, and bees are adding to the income on many farms.

"Was Mrs. Cayne at home?"
"Yes, sir, she was; I recall that because Mr. Holbrook asked me was she in her room and I told him yes."
Mr. Cayne gave Rachel a significant look. "There, you see, if Elinor was in her room the boys couldn't have got at the safe . . . but maybe she wasn't there all the time," he said, after he had dismissed Towers.
"I'll call up Mr. Terriss right away," said Rachel. "He could have the Buckham boy investigated."
"I know what sort he is. He's one of these half-baked artists and lives in Greenwich Village. I don't doubt he'd take anything he could get."
"But he couldn't get at the safe with Mrs. Cayne in her room," Rachel reminded him. "As soon as she comes in you can find out about that."
He gave her a stern stubborn look. "Mrs. Cayne's not to be bothered."
"Don't you intend to tell her that her bracelet's been stolen?" exclaimed Rachel.
"No. It would only make her nervous and excited. She might even get sick. She did get sick when the first things were taken and I had to quit telling her about it. I was afraid of the effect it might have on her general health."
"Really," stammered Rachel. "I—I wouldn't have thought—"
"You see, Miss Vincent, my wife—my wife is very unhappy just now. She's always been beautiful, you can see that, and very young-looking. She's as tickled as can be when people take her for Holbrook's sister, and they do sometimes. But age comes right along, no matter what a woman does, and she's beginning to see gray in her hair and lines under her chin and it—well, it worries her out of all proportion. She takes up all these beauty fads; why, she works at it harder than most men work for a living, and it disturbs her mind so that she's liable to take a wrong slant on anything."
Look at all the mirrors in the room! And you've been here long enough to see that the first thing she does whenever she comes in the house is pick up her hand-glass and give her face a good hard inspection. And there's nothing, nothing I can do to help her."
There was such grief, such pity and such tenderness in his voice that Rachel did not know how to answer him. In a moment he went on. "If women could only understand that beauty's only a loan and never a gift! If they'd only believe that it doesn't matter to a man's affection, no, nor to how the world values them! I've thought a lot about all this, I can tell you."
"I can see you have," said Rachel, humbly. "The poor old dear," she thought, "he really is sweet." Aloud she suggested: "But, Mr. Cayne, you can find out indirectly about the two boys—whether Mrs. Cayne saw them, I mean?"
"Yes, I suppose so. Look here, Miss Vincent—you don't think it's the servants, do you? I somehow can't stomach suspicioning them, they've been with me so long and they've always come through no matter what I wanted."
"No, I don't think it's the servants, Mr. Cayne."
"That Terriss, he's always harping on them. But now this Buckham boy—I shouldn't wonder a bit if we'd got the right track at last. He's hung around more or less for quite a while."
"Then," said Rachel. "I'll tell Mr. Terriss to look up the Buckham boy. And I'll go out and telephone right away; if I use the phone here, Mrs. Cayne might come in."
Mr. Cayne stopped her for a last word. "You can understand now why I don't take Holbrook and put him in the kind of school he ought to go to. It's because it would worry Mrs. Cayne so, she has a lot of pleasure going around with him and he knows how to divert her mind, talks to her about how good-looking she is and praises her clothes. He's devoted to his mother, Holbrook. If I could only get that art bug out of his head—he's a pretty good boy except for that."
Rachel stopped at the kitchen. "I've got to do an errand for Mr. Cayne."
"For goodness sake, give me that curry," said Lena. "Curry takes time to cook, that's what spoils it generally. What's up in there?"
"Tell you when I get back," promised Rachel.
The public phone that Rachel used was in a drugstore halfway down the block. It seemed to take an age to get there, another age to get the connection, but at last she heard Terriss' dry voice. "I thought it was about time something else went," he said, when Rachel had told him about the bracelet. "Haven't you got any lead at all?" His tone implied that he merely asked the question as a matter of form.
She told him about Roy Buck-ham, and then, "But there's something more."

"What more?"
"Mr. Terriss, maybe I'm crazy, maybe I oughtn't even to think of this, but Holbrook tried to borrow money from me a few days ago and Lena tells me he's borrowed money from both her and Towers until they wouldn't lend him anything more."
The answer that came back was so amazing she could scarcely believe her ears.
"Well, at last! I'd been waiting and wondering to see if you'd never catch on! I've been dead certain it was the boy all along. Now we're going places! Come on, give me the whole story, how much did you slip him?"
"I didn't give him anything!" Quickly she described the whole incident, ending with "Why didn't you let me know you suspected the son, I'd have watched him lots more closely."
"On account of Mr. Cayne's attitude—if I'd told you to keep an eye on the kid and you'd spilled it to the

"I'm sorry, madame," she excused herself. "I had a stain on my uniform and was changing." She thought grimly, "I'll never believe a servant again on oath after hearing myself tell such slick lies," as she addressed herself to the ritual of getting Mrs. Cayne ready for dinner. This minor drama did not proceed well, Mrs. Cayne was nervous and jerky and waspish and Rachel was absorbed in her own thoughts. She managed to run the bath and perfume it and to lay out the lingerie and slippers without mistake, but at the dress closet she stopped, she could not remember which of the 30 or more gowns had been chosen. Rachel looked at the slippers, they were dark blue satin strapped with gold kid. "Probably that dark blue mouseline," thought Rachel, and arranged it carefully on the bed.
Elinor Cayne came in, warm, rosy, perfumed, pulling about her one of the loose robes of wash velvet she used as bathrobe. She flung it down and Rachel advanced with girdle and slip, then dropped on one knee to slip the thinnest of stockings over the brightest of red-enameled toes. Over Rachel's head Elinor noticed the dress and the storm broke.
"I never saw a girl so inattentive and stupid in my life, I tell you over and over again, you simply don't listen—"

This was not easy, she found herself pulled in too many directions. To follow Terriss' instructions and search Holbrook's room, and then, if the boy was guilty, to reveal it—she didn't want to do it, she had too profound a conviction that Holbrook was guilty. When his father knew, how it would beat down his pride and affection! Yet perhaps Terriss was right, to know it now might save knowing worse later. But she didn't want to stick her unpracticed hand into human lives with a chance of marring them. It was too much responsibility. Better, perhaps, to walk out of the house and never come back, she could take a boat and go to Anne, she could cut the whole tangled miserable business away from herself. Yet that would be shirking, too. And then the thought of Curt Elton came to her, there was the one person who might be told and who would understand and advise. Tomorrow was Thursday, her day out. She would tell Terriss she had had no opportunity to search Holbrook's room until after she had talked to Curt.

CHAPTER XI

They lingered over dinner together in the quiet restaurant where they had lunched the first time and he had brought Rachel a quaint round bouquet of red and yellow carnations set in circles, spicy sweet.
"I couldn't afford orchids, and anyway these look like you," he had said.
"I like these better than orchids," Rachel replied. "They're fascinating."
She laid the flowers at the side of her plate and now and then, as all flowers do, they drew her eyes and attention. They helped to normalize her strained and acid thoughts. Curt's presence helped much more.

Once more she told all except the essential fact of her relationship to Elinor. He sided with Terriss.
"But, Curt," she objected, "I have this awful hunch that it's Holbrook and if I find it out his father has to be told. It will be horrible, Mr. Cayne'll suffer so."
"You're too sensitive and your imagination's running wild. Look at it from the other end—if you can prove Holbrook didn't do it, then you've freed Mr. Cayne forever from the danger of having a criminal child. What you tell me about the boy sounds as if he was spoiled and silly and effeminate, but he doesn't sound exactly like a crook."
"All right, all right, maybe not, but what does he do with his allowance? Lena says he gets at least a hundred and fifty a month."
"That's something for Terriss to discover. I must say I don't like his trying to get money out of you, but there again, he's spoiled and he may have wanted to buy something his father wouldn't approve of, or throw a party unbeknownst to his father. Boys at that age often do things like that, they want to appear grand and lavish to their friends. What sort are his friends?"
"They look like any other boys to me, weedy and pimply and know-it-all; not terribly common, but I wouldn't say any of them would ever be intellectual giants."
Curt laughed unreservedly. "Nothing sinister in that picture. Don't you think you're overplaying your imagination about Holbrook? If I were you I'd simply give his room a thorough search."
"It seems so sneaky and underhanded."
"It's what you hired out for, my dear girl. You may find nothing. Even if the boy did steal the bracelet, he may have eaten the ticket or thrown it down a sewer. Or he may have dealt with a smart fence and got no ticket."
(TO BE CONTINUED)

"It's What You Hired Out for, My Dear Girl."

old man, then you and I both would have been in a spot. Don't tell me you haven't seen how unreasonable Cayne is about his family!"
"Yes—I've seen. Mr. Terriss, what am I to do? I can't tell him that it might be Holbrook, I can't do it."
"Jeez, no! Don't you peep one word nor bat an eye unless you catch the kid with the goods, and even then, don't you do it. You call me up and I'll get right over there and we'll see the old man together. You've got to have the evidence, evidence he can't go back on, or he'll never believe it."
"But what sort of evidence, what do you mean?"
"Three minutes are up, deposit another nickel, please," warned the operator.
"The kid most likely is hocking that stuff with some crooked pawnbroker. I've watched the police reports on all pawnbrokers and nothing's been turned in, so that proves that whoever's got it is crooked, one of the kind who breaks up jewelry, melts the metal and sells the stones, see? Or else maybe the girl has stolen the stuff to give to a kid, but the operator I've had on him says no."
"You've been having Holbrook followed?"
"Of course I have, ever since the last piece of jewelry was taken, I mean the spoons, just before you went into the house there. Mr. Cayne don't know about it, though."
Rachel was thinking hard. "Mr. Terriss, if Holbrook did it, couldn't you—couldn't you talk to the boy—and warn him—and get him to stop it? And not let Mr. and Mrs. Cayne know? They're so—so fond of him—he's the only child—"
"No, Miss Vincent, that's bad dope. I can't say anything about the mother, because the old man keeps her wrapped in cotton wool, but his father'd have to know it. It's up to him then to take the boy in hand, see? And he can tell his wife or not. But if the boy's the thief, as I've thought all along, better his old man should learn it now before the boy starts lifting somebody else's stuff."
"But the boy may not be the thief."
"Don't give me an argument, just search his room like you were hunting for chinchies, Miss Vincent, and report to me soon's you've finished."
Rachel rushed back to the apartment, her head whirling. Mrs. Cayne had come in and was waiting impatiently, so there was no chance to speak to Mr. Cayne, but Rachel took time to write on a piece of paper, "Have notified Terriss," and slipped it under his door as she ran to answer the imperative bell.

"I never saw a girl so inattentive and stupid in my life, I tell you over and over again, you simply don't listen—"

Rachel looked up and lightning flashed between the two women. For a moment Rachel thought her mother was going to slap her across the face and she made an involuntary movement to catch and hold that slender little hand, then remembered and drew back. But it was her expression that stopped Elinor. They stared at each other, there was revelation, held immobile for a long shocking instant.
"What is the matter?" asked Rachel, at last, rising.
"That dress isn't the one—I told you the blue and gold brocade with the velvet flowers."
"I'm sorry, madame," said Rachel. She picked up the mouseline and hung it in the closet, laid out the brocade in its place. Still under the spell of that venomous gesture which had been so near, she turned and went out of the room. Dazedly she went back to her own room, closed the door and sat down in the darkness. "She was going to strike me," she thought, over and over, "she was going to strike me, she's my mother. My own mother."
It required all her will to re-enter that room and to her relief Elinor was concentrated on her make-up and took no notice of her. The silence was ominous, but Rachel preferred it. Rachel put the bathroom in order and returned to lift the brocade and hold it while Elinor stepped into it. The two women avoided looking at one another, but at the last moment, powdered and tinted and resplendent in the rich gown, Elinor flashed a resentful glance at Rachel and said, "I'm going to speak to Mr. Cayne about this," and went out so quickly that Rachel could have smiled. "She's afraid of me," she thought, "she feels something different. And she isn't allowed any freedom with the servants. I suppose," she granted with unwilling justice, "that's enough to make any woman peevish. I oughtn't to blame her too much. Mr. Cayne's sweet, but he's an old tyrant, too. Oh dear, I wish they would be definitely one thing or another, all these shades and varieties are too hard to deal with."
She had a moment of revolt. "I'm getting old too fast, I shouldn't be so reasonable about these people, I'm as tolerant as Anne, it's not like me!" And then, thankfully, soberly, "If I only could be like Anne! If I needn't be a bit like this—this mother I wanted so much!" More soberly still, "I must stop wallowing in these hysterical ideas and make up my mind what I ought to do."

Adding Minerals to Soil Is Found to Improve Food, Research Worker Asserts

The average person's life can be lengthened about a dozen years through the scientific addition of minerals to the soil, believes Dr. Charles Northern, who is an Alabama physician and a research worker in the field of mineral colloids.
"Crops grown in poor soil produce poor food products, lacking in minerals and vitamins," Dr. Northern explained. "Our problem was to discover a means of adding this mineral content to the soil."
Dr. Northern set down several concrete results of his experiments. In Florida, orange groves infested with scale became clean and bore fruit with a greatly increased vitamin content after mineral colloids were added.
Land used for growing potatoes, celery, cabbage and other vegetables was enriched with the minerals. Laboratory tests of the new crops showed twice the mineral content of vegetables grown on adjoining soil.

UTILITY RATES

The Kentucky & West Virginia Power Company's affairs, according to Howard Henderson, of The Courier-Journal, may be in for a thorough airing as the Public Service Commission seeks a reduction in power rates for Eastern Kentucky.

It is none of The Times' business who gets investigated, other than that every investigation furnishes news, and this newspaper could not but be gratified on its own behalf and on that of its friends by news that cost of electricity to consumers may be reduced.

But we would arise to a point of order. Why, pray, are not the rates prevailing here on gas and water being investigated? The power company has made some voluntary reductions—as a matter of precaution, perhaps, but beneficial to us consumers. In the meantime, what have the water company and the gas company done?

Take a poll of the sentiment of Prestonsburg residents and learn which of the three utilities firms is most popular. We hold no grudge against any of the three, but our vote is for the power company. The water and gas interests are standing pat on the terms of their franchises insofar as rates go and have never offered a reduction. Have they given the consumer every possible consideration? Are their rates as cheap as they can make them and yet earn a fair profit on their investments?

It was reported, months ago, that the City Council planned to have this matter thrashed out, to have the Public Service Commission ascertain if water and gas rates here are reasonable and in line with utility costs elsewhere, the matter of investment and overhead expenditure being considered alongside the total amount of business done.

If the Council did ask for an investigation, nothing happened. Now would be a good time to have it all started anew.

THREE MEN SLAIN

(Continued from page one) wick. Along with Mrs. Elswick to the county jail here came her six-months-old son. She and Elswick, victim of the fray, had been estranged since 1932 when he was given a 21-year pen term for murder in Pike county. She told authorities here that she had been Levi Johnson's housekeeper for the last two years. Lafey Johnson said he accompanied Charley Johnson to the Levi Johnson home, that Elswick was there when they arrived. While he was drinking a cup of coffee, he said, Elswick and Charley Johnson became engaged in a scuffle, with Elswick finally firing two shots at Charley. Lafey said he then fired on Elswick, who died instantly of three shots through the head.

The record is not clear as to Sword's death, except that he accompanied Elswick to the Johnson home and was struck by four bullets—one in the head, one in his neck, one in the chest and one in the leg. He lived until the day following the shooting.

Sword told Sheriff M. T. Stumbo, who with Deputy Sheriff Willie Johnson made the arrests in the shooting within a few minutes after an hour later than the fight took place, that after he was shot he ran outside and crawled under the porch floor but was pulled outside and again shot.

Levi Johnson said he was in bed when the others arrived and did not arise until the shooting was over. Mrs. Elswick was quoted as saying that he ex-husband was choking her when the others arrived, that guns were pulled and shooting began, whereupon she fled from the room.

Bodies of the victims were taken to Island Creek for burial. Sheriff Stumbo said that the cot from the Johnson home which was used in bearing Elswick and Sword to an ambulance at the mouth of Garbage Hollow has, within the last two and one-half years, borne nine gunshot victims, six of whom succumbed.

Combs claimed that the fatal wounding of Bingham at Garrett Friday morning was done in self-defense. He said that Bingham approached him, gun in hand, and that they grappled. The two, it is said, had previously had trouble.

Mr. Bingham was a son of the late Sol Bingham and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ollie Neeley Bingham, his mother, Mrs. Julia Johnson Bingham, and the following brothers and sisters: Jack, Alex, David and Sam Bingham, all of the vicinity of Garrett; Mrs. Darcus Ratliff and Mrs. Dora Combs, of Stone Coal; Mrs. Fannie Manns, Williamson, W. Va. Funeral rites were conducted Monday and burial was made on Stephens Branch under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

LIFE SENTENCE

(Continued from page one) mber 9 by the grand jury in the unsolved death of Ballard Stratton, whose battered body was found on the railroad tracks at Allen, near the Porter home.

School attendance officer Leonard Martin testified that attendance records showed the youth's age more than 18 years.

When on the stand young Mims claimed the death gun was not his. His father later testified that his son had sold his .22-calibre rifle two weeks before the slaying of Warriss. Defense witnesses testified that the shot which killed Warriss was fired from the road. The commonwealth proved it came from the Porter home, and was fired by Mims. The defense maintained that at the time the shot was fired, the youth was attending a movie in a Martin theatre.

Also indicted for the Warriss slaying are the following relatives of Mims: Pharis Porter, father; Martha Porter, mother; Ralph Porter, brother; and Lige, an uncle.

BELFRY DOWNED

never seriously threatened. Capt. Hershel Fields, the only veteran on the Belfry squad, stood out as one of the finest players on the field. For Prestonsburg, Holcomb, Dotson, Rice, Craft, Allen and Fitzpatrick were outstanding.

Although showing weakness in punt-returning, blocking, and in tries for extra point, the Blackcats demonstrated that with more practice, a stronger black and gold team will take the field against future opponents. Dick Mayo, veteran back, due to illness, was unable to play with the 'Cats in their opener.

In the first quarter, Craft, after a series of end runs, preceded by excellent interference, scored the initial touchdown. The try for extra point failed. The second score came when Rice intercepted a pass in Belfry territory. In the second quarter, with six minutes to go, Allen caught a perfect 35-yard pass tossed by Craft to run untouched over the goal line. For the third time the try for extra point failed. The final score was Craft's second touchdown of the day, made early in the third quarter, when, after the way was cleared by interference, which functioned erratically throughout the game, reversed his field and scampered across the goal line.

Belfry, aided by four successive fumbles on the part of the 'Cats, played Prestonsburg on even terms throughout the last quarter, having the ball in Prestonsburg territory as the game ended.

A STATEMENT OF FACTS CONCERNING

Morell Supply Co.

operating a hardware store in Prestonsburg, Ky.

Due to a good many rumors of various natures that have been circulated during the past few weeks regarding the future status of Morell Supply Company as a hardware store, I feel that the time is now opportune to advise our loyal customers of our complete intentions for the future; also to set forth the facts:

1. We fully intend to continue the hardware business in the same location under the same ownership.

2. We are in sound financial circumstances and have no reason to sacrifice any assets of the company.

3. There are 250 shares of capital stock in our firm which is all owned as follows:

J. M. Morell, Sr.	241 shares
James Morell, Jr.	3 shares
Wm. F. Morell	3 shares
Mrs. J. M. Morell, Sr.	3 shares
Total	250 shares

4. We have made only one major change in business—we have sold our REFRIGERATOR business only, to Howard Bros., of Paintsville, Ky., who have taken over our warranty contracts and will fulfill our obligations under same. This move will allow us to devote our entire time and effort to the hardware store and serve the public much better in this capacity.

5. We are changing only one policy of our business, effective October 30, 1937. We are going on a cash basis both in selling and buying. The only charge accounts we will carry after that will be the schools of the county. It is impossible for these institutions to pay cash.

This change will enable us to buy and operate for less expense and the customer will receive the benefit of this saving in the lower price of merchandise.

When the present manager, James Morell, Jr., decided, for reasons of his own, to seek a livelihood in another part of the country, we did consider the advisability of selling our business, but after having more time to give it serious thought, we began to realize the folly of such a move.

While the hardware business in Prestonsburg is no big business, it does, under proper management, afford a decent living when business conditions are average.

We appreciate the patronage of our customers in the past and hope to merit a continuance of it in the future.

Cutwork That Is Anything but Work

"Cutwork without bars?" Exactly—and that's the very reason this lovely Wild Rose design for doilies or buffet set is so easy to do. So encouraging, too, for the beginner who'd like to try her hand at it. Aren't they life-like—these roses? Delicate shades of pink would be most realistic, of course, but the pattern is no less lovely if worked in thread to match your linen. A refreshment table set with these would be most tempting! In pattern 5503 you will find a transfer pattern of a doilie 11 by 17½ inches and one and one reverse doilie 6 by 9 inches; material requirements; illustrations of all stitches used; color suggestions.

To obtain this pattern, send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) to The Sewing Circle Household Arts Dept., 259 W. Fourteenth St., New York, N. Y. Please write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

We Humans

In going through life we often bewail our misfortunes, but seldom dwell upon our blessings; the illness is reckoned a day, the bad debt to computed a cent, the sleepless night is spoken of with deep self-commiseration; but we forget to reckon the many months of our health; we take as a thing of course, and not worth mentioning, that we enjoyed hours of calm and refreshing sleep undisturbed even by a dream. —Wamego Times.

How

Constipation Causes Gas, Nerve Pressure

When you are constipated two things happen. FIRST: Wastes swell up the bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. This nerve pressure causes headache, a dull, lary feeling, bilious spells, loss of appetite and dizziness. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, bringing on sour stomach (acid indigestion), and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath.

Thus you spend many miserable days. You can't eat. You can't sleep. Your stomach is sour. You feel tired out, grouchy and miserable.

To get the complete relief you seek you must do TWO things. 1. You must relieve the GAS. 2. You must clear the bowels and GET THAT PRESSURE OFF THE NERVES. As soon as offending wastes are washed out you feel marvelously refreshed, lines vanish, the world looks bright again.

There is only one product on the market that gives you the DOUBLE ACTION you need. It is ADLERIKS. This efficient carminative cathartic relieves that awful GAS at once. It often removes bowel congestion in half an hour. No waiting for overnight relief. Adleriks acts on the stomach and both bowels. Ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only.

Adleriks has been recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years. No griping, no after effects. Just QUICK results. Try Adleriks today. You'll say you have never used such an efficient intestinal cleanser.

Source of Errors

General and abstract ideas are the source of the greatest of men's errors.—Rousseau.

HOW LONG CAN A THREE-QUARTER WIFE HOLD HER HUSBAND?

YOU have to work at marriage to make a success of it. Men may be selfish, unsympathetic, but that's the way they're made and you might as well realize it.

When your back aches and your nerves scream, don't take it out on your husband. He can't possibly know how you feel.

The Medwicks and Di Maggios Cross Swords

THIS all started when a customer with an Italian monicker took his pen in hand to say that probably he would have to look out for M. Finns in his spaghetti from now on. Nevertheless, he could not help it. He had to tell the world that Jersey Joe Medwick was a better ball player than Jolting Joe Di-Maggio.

Since then things have been happening. Each hour new regiments of Jim Farley's finest limp into this office with new tons of letters dealing with the controversy. Irate Di Maggio fans keep buzzing the phone all day issuing challenges to the Medwick brethren. Holland tunnel and Washington bridge have become clogged with New Jersey neighbors bound for Manhattan and the Bronx so as to indulge in face-to-face combat with belittlers of their Joe.

So, in the interests of peace—as well as to give the Japs and Chinese some chance to attract popular attention with their own brawlings—this reporter undertook to do a Mr. Secretary Hull.

Personally, if he were choosing up sides and had the first two picks with pitchers excluded, he would take Charley Gehring and Lou Gehrig ahead of the two Joes. But he did not offer this plan. Instead, he decided that if anything could cause the warring parties to compose their differences it would be the mature opinion of other big-time players.

So he invited various baseball celebrities to take down their hair and answer one question—"Who is the better player, Di Maggio or Medwick?" Their answers are appended herewith:

Gus Mancuso Lauds 'Jolting Joe's' Prowess
GUS MANCUSO—"Medwick is the better hitter, but Di Maggio hits the longer ball. Di Maggio is the better all-around ball player."

DICK BARTELL—"Medwick leads in more departments of hitting—total bases, hits, runs batted in—so he must be the better hitter. Di Maggio gets more walks because it is almost impossible to walk Medwick."

CARL HUBBELL—"We see so little of Di Maggio over here it's hard to say, but he must be great. Both are tough on pitchers."
BILL TERRY—"Why can't we come up with a Di Maggio?"
BILL McKECHNIE—"If I were given my choice right now I'd take Di Maggio. Medwick is great, but Di Maggio is a wonder."

TOM WINSETT—"Everybody knows Di Maggio has a better arm. He's a different type of hitter, too—a smooth swinger who generates more power."

Even Connie Mack Speaks His Mind!

COOKIE LAVAGETTO—"Both of 'em can do everything. I'd say Di Maggio has a shade more power. As a National league player, however, I'd pick Medwick. But as an Italian I'll string along with the other Joe."
JOE CRONIN—"I haven't seen much of Medwick, but Di Maggio is by far the better fielder."

CONNIE MACK—"I don't see how any player, particularly one in the National league, can be compared to Di Maggio. He's wonderful, simply wonderful. I'd rank him with the greatest outfielders of all time."

GABBY HARTNETT—"They're both great hitters, but if I had to take my choice I wouldn't hesitate in picking Di Maggio."

There you have it, gents—and ladies. The celebrities quoted here were picked at random. The majority of them favor Di Maggio. What is more, players from the opposition circuit have kicked over the traces of league loyalty to render him proper acclaim. Since Babe Ruth is the only other player to have had similar tribute paid to him in recent years, that should settle it.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

THE Dodgers and the St. Louis clubs definitely will play night baseball next year . . . As usual the Dodgers will not be worth losing sleep over but it will provide the boys with a gag when the usual runners are left stranded. "Afraid to go home in the dark," you know . . . Bob Olin, who had Tommy Farr on the floor several times during their fight, is challenging all heavyweights within sight . . . Fritz Malsel, Jr., enters Western Maryland college this fall and the boys say he is due to be as good a third sacker as was his daddy when he starred for the Yankees and Orioles . . . Horton Smith is terribly tired, he says, and plans to take a long rest after the Belmont Open.

Minnesota may have an even better football team this season than the Gopher elevens which have lost only one game in three years . . . Four good men are gone but the best frosh club ever to come out of the Minnesota prairies will plug those gaps, and ten sturdy lads, ineligible last fall, also are raring to go . . . Northwestern, with Don Heap back to lead the charge, will be dangerous but will lack reserves sufficient to repeat last fall's brilliant showing . . . Illinois is a dark horse with very little known about the Zuppke prospects . . . Chicago, which faces Princeton on its home field October 16, should be easy for the Tigers . . . Indiana, coming fast under Bo McMillan, should show improvement over 1936.

Carl Snavelly, Cornell football coach, is developing into a fine golfer. He scores consistently in the seventies . . . Friends say that Gil Dobie, slammed around by an auto last year, is far from a well man . . . Syracuse townsmen claim that Lou Little has a real find in Spasato, soph halfback, and that the kid will be a Columbia regular this fall.

Charley Root leads the National league in control. The veteran Cub pitcher yields only one base on balls every six-and-a-half innings . . . Gene Tunney was by far the best looking of all the champions introduced in the Yankee stadium ring recently.

Bernon Prentice, president of the Sea Bright Lawn Tennis and Cricket club, told it for the first time the other day. When the Brazilian Davis Cup team was here to play the United States a few years ago, the U. S. L. T. A. threw a dinner party and had the dining room appropriately decorated. At least they thought they had it appropriately decorated. Manuel Alonzo, widely traveled in South America, arrived early, glanced around the room and then rushed up to the chairman of the committee.

"Those are Chilean flags," he blurted out excitedly. "And Chile has just declared war on Brazil!"

Your Writer Picks an All-Star Team

All star major league team for 1937, as picked by Hugh Bradley for St. Louis Sporting News, which is taking a poll of baseball writers—Medwick, lf; Di Maggio, cf; Paul Waner, rf; Rolfé, 3b; Cronin, ss; Gehring, 2b; Gehrig, 1b; Hartnett, c; Hubbell, Ruffing, p . . . A fan who professes to have no resentment concerning the gentleman but who has observed that Arthur Donovan referees nearly all the big money prize fights in New York asks, "Is it possible that the great sporting city of 8,000,000 inhabitants can develop only one referee capable of handling a major prizefight?" . . . I refer the question to Ballyhoo Bill Brown, the Red Baiter of the New York State Athletic commission. Personally, I think Arthur is a swell guy as well as a referee who always does his duty.

Cornell's frosh football team is overloaded with star material again this year. Bill Murphy, a Jersey youngster, is said to be tops but also keep an eye on Jack Bohman. He's as hard as nails and can kick 'em a mile . . . Upper New York state papers are boosting Rabbit Maranville to succeed Burleigh Grimes as Dodgers manager . . . In Cincinnati they insist that Burt Shotton will succeed Charley Dressen, who will be taken into the Giants' organization . . . Minnesota football coach, Bernie Bierman, says that Wisconsin will have the most improved football team in the Big Ten this year . . . The average age of New York pro Giants' football players is twenty-four years . . . Johnny Spider Spisek, Manhattan's right halfback, builds model airplanes as a hobby.

Old Man Studies has sidelined Tom Wood, giant Princeton tackle who had been counted on to fill George Stoess' vacated post. If the Tigers could have teamed Wood with Charley Toll they would have had the largest tackle pair in the East, the combined weight of the two being a cozy 480 pounds . . . Watch Vito Ananis, soph back at Boston college. Tony Sarasky, who went to high school with him, tried to get the youngster into Fordham but there was a slip-up somewhere . . . Does anybody remember that, on July 29, three weeks or so before the event, this space said that Johnny Goodman would win the national amateur golf title?

There you have it, gents—and ladies. The celebrities quoted here were picked at random. The majority of them favor Di Maggio. What is more, players from the opposition circuit have kicked over the traces of league loyalty to render him proper acclaim. Since Babe Ruth is the only other player to have had similar tribute paid to him in recent years, that should settle it.

Achievement of Peace

YOU may either win your peace or buy it; win it, by resistance to evil; buy it, by compromise with evil. You may buy your peace with silenced consciences; you may buy it with broken vows—buy it with lying words—buy it with base connivances—buy it with the blood of the slain, and the cry of the captives over hemispheres of the earth, while you sit smiling at your serene hearths, muttering continually to yourselves, "Peace, peace," when there is no peace; but only captivity and death for you.

Trans-Siberian R. R.

The Trans-Siberian railroad covers a distance of 5,550 miles across both European and Asiatic Russia. The work of building it was begun at Moscow and was rapidly extended. Orenburg was reached in 1877. In 1880 the bridge over the Volga was built and the section connecting the Volga and Obi river basins was begun. In May, 1891, the first work on the real Trans-Siberian railroad was begun. As a single-track line it was completed in 1902. The cost was $175,000,000.

This was the regular meeting of the association and was in charge of Paul Hager, of Paintsville.

Members of the Rebekah lodge, the lodge's auxiliary, under the leadership of Mrs. Annie Atkins and Mrs. David Shaw, served lunch to the members of the local organization and their visitors.

Delegates were present from Hazard, Paintsville, Prestonsburg, Sasafaras, Garrett, Wayland and Martin. A number of Theodora Girls, a new junior auxiliary, were also present at the meeting.

Great strides have been made by the Pikeville lodge during the last several months and it now enjoys a big membership.—Pike County News.

APPLE BUTTER COW BEING DEVELOPED IN PIKE CO.

We've heard of buttermilk cows but always thought it was sort of a gag.

Now comes L. D. (Dock) Ramey with the assertion that he will soon have a cow which will produce apple butter.

According to Ramey, he has a small Jersey on his farm in Pike county on Coon Creek, near Zebulon, which is fond of apples. The cow recently observed some member of the family bringing the fruit to the ground with a battering-pole and conceived an idea of her own, he says.

Now Bossy, when she gets an appetite for apples, walks to the tree and hurls her body against it. She feasts on the apples which fall until they are all gone, then does her batter battering acts to bring down more of her favorite fruit.—Pike County News.

CUMBERLAND HOME

(BY FLOYD WARRIX)

In the Cumberland hills
The pine trees grow,
A welcome shade
For the streams below;
A dense abode
For the owl and crow—
Kentucky hills!

Let the echoes drone
From hill to hill!
The lonely cry
Of the whipporwill;
The solemn trinkle
Of the mountain rill—
O, mountain home!

From your heart of rocks
The Sandy flows,
From your lofty peaks
The camp fire glows,
The hunter's horn
With loudness blows—
Kentucky wilds!

Through your matted forest
The savage trod,
Who is now asleep
Beneath your sod.
Within the home
He called his God—
O, antique home!

O, you paradise!
Where cooling breeze
Reveals the smell
Of flowers and trees.
May you remain
So ruin can't seize—
You, my abode!

PATTY SUE DAVIDSON IS FLOYD'S LONE SUFFERER OF SPINAL MENINGITIS

Floyd county's only reported spinal meningitis sufferer, Patty Sue Davidson, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Davidson, was said last week to be recovering at her parents' home after having received treatment at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin. The family and all known contacts are under quarantine imposed by the Floyd county health department.

Dr. Marvin Ransdell, director of the health department, said last week that all through the past summer an average of two meningitis cases a week have developed in the county. Most were mild cases, however, and all recovered. The new non-serum treatment being administered meningitis sufferers has proved highly successful, it was said.

An unusually large number of diphtheria cases have been reported in the county already this year, Dr. Ransdell said. Approximately 15 children have been ill from the disease at Wheelwright Junction. One case of scarlet fever was reported last week at Garrett.

HEINZE AND POTTER NAMED OFFICERS OF THE RED CROSS

F. L. Heinze, of the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company, has been appointed chairman, and Rev. Robert A. Potter, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, publicity chairman for the twenty-first roll call of the Red Cross in Floyd county.

Miss Annette McClaren, special Roll Call representative from Washington, D. C., will visit the chapter and assist in perfecting plans for the Roll Call from November 11 to 25.

Floyd county's goal has been set at 2,000. Every effort will be made to reach it by Thanksgiving. Various committees will be appointed at an early date.

ALEX L. MARTIN, DRIFT, APPOINTED FIELD AGENT AT LOCAL S. S. OFFICE

Appointment of Alex L. Martin, of Drift, as a field worker in Floyd county, department of old-age assistance, was announced this week by Mrs. Anne Cameron, Paintsville, district supervisor.

Employment of Mr. Martin brings the number of field workers in the county to four. H. T. Hill, Katherine Stratton and German Vance are the other workers.

On August 1, 427 applications for old-age pensions had been approved and checks mailed to the applicants. These applicants received a total of $4,165 for the month. Other cases are being investigated as rapidly as possible.

The number of persons receiving old-age assistance in the county will not exceed 500, it was said this week. The office here in the Odd Fellows building is open to the public each Wednesday when all field workers are required to be present and furnish all possible information to response to inquiries.

McCLELLAND WILL RESIGN PRESIDENCY

To Quit Pikeville College Post, Effective October Fifteenth

Pikeville Ky., Sept. 18—Dr. Frank D. McClelland, president of Pikeville College for the last four years, and seven years prior to that time dean of the institution, resigned his position as head of the school last week at a meeting of the board of trustees at Ashland, it has just been learned here. Dr. McClelland states that he resigned to accept a position as director of personnel at Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn.

Dr. McClelland served seven years as dean of Pikeville College under the late Dr. James F. Record. When Dr. Record retired from active connection with the college, Dr. McClelland took over the reins. That was four years ago. Dr. McClelland's resignation becomes effective October 15.

Maryville College is a four-year co-educational college which has been established and working under the auspices of the Presbyterian church and has a modern and up-to-date plant. The enrollment is limited to 850 students.

As director of personnel Dr. McClelland will have complete charge of the student body, including enrollment, scholastic records, attendance and guidance of students.

Dr. McClelland grew up with the school here where he received the greater part of his education.

he was assistant editor of the school paper, a member of the Student Senate, clubs, and the musical organization, was on the tennis team, and played intramural basketball. At Pikeville Junior College, which he attended for two years, he was a member of the glee club and editor of the school annual. He is one of 26 transfer graduates.

One hundred and sixty-nine members of the new class of 222 are enrolling in September, while the others will arrive for the second division which begins in October. The group represents 31 states, the District of Columbia, and two foreign countries. Morell is one of two students in the group from Kentucky. Ninety-six are registered as co-operative students who will spend half their time on jobs, while the others will remain at the college throughout their first year. Antioch's total enrollment will probably reach 685. In 1935-36, the college had 581 jobs in 26 states for its men and women students.

TOWN-WORLD

in Floyd county, men have been slain with but slight provocation. But the crime wave has caused no special attention. Indeed, is it not a usual thing? As long as Floyd county juries continue to claim that "killing can not be stopped," it never will be.

—jbg—
THEY'RE JUST PLAYING, ANYHOW

It seems to us that the action taken by most officials and the majority of the county's trial juries is significant in that it affirms, and continually reaffirms, the idea that murder is a recognized game in Floyd county, and shucks, why, bother? Just let the boys play! It's true the local juries render mild slaps on the wrist in the form of a few years' exile on a prison farm, but the prodigal is soon welcomed home to all his former privileges—maybe he won't play so rough next time! We bear no animosity toward any individual slayer, but we do want strenuous action on the part of officials and jurors to prevent other murders. Severe penalties will serve as warning on future killers.

GUN TAXATION

We have been wondering why a prohibitive tax was not placed on guns and ammunition long ago. It seems to us that a government that allows almost anything, except the air we breathe, to be taxed, should make a slight effort to deprive gunmen of their favorite toys. It is true such a tax would be detrimental to Floyd's sportsmen, but we believe that a true, nature-loving sportsman can't help but be in favor of such a law, if it will curb the wanton taking of the lives of his fellow-men. Of course, if this suggestion meets with favor, a long fight must be waged before state governmental legislation can be secured. Why not write a letter to "Town-World" stating your views?

WE KNOW FROM EXPERIENCE

Rare, indeed, is the college "prof." who never asks his students to do anything he wouldn't do himself. However, Niel Plummer, assistant professor of journalism at the University of Kentucky, is the exception. Every time a member of his feature-writing class submits an assigned story to a magazine, Plummer does the same. As encouragement to his students, he keeps prominently posted the rejection slips he has received from magazines all over the country.

TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

Vote for and elect me Sheriff. I will give four years of honest service, sober with sober, efficient deputies, men who are of good principle in every respect. I will pay them out of the income of the office a salary sufficient to live upon. Then they must do their duty or I would be obliged to discharge them for failure of duty or misuse of office.

I will collect taxes at or near the people's homes and I guarantee that they will not have to come to Prestonsburg and spend five dollars paying three dollars worth of taxes. The people will not be taxed one extra dollar for the privilege of keeping a dog. Let Old Ring go free.

I will not arrest one man for a crime and let another go free. We should all have the same protection under the law, and all be punished for a crime the same, regardless of position. There is a class who wants to punish the poor and let the richer go free.

The Stumbo Ring boasts of their money and how they are going to buy into office. They even say I will not fight, but I will show them that I CAN fight and WILL. When the thinking men and women of Floyd county and I get through with them, they will think they had a fight. They go about telling how closely related we are. That is told for my hurt only.

People, people, you must not listen to the sound of the Stumbo Ring, because they have had thirty-two years' experience. Why, I am only forty years old, and at that they have had a finger in Floyd county's treasury since I was eight years old. You might say that the young Stumbos have been practically raised from the support of the people. Why do we have officers if we cannot vote them out? Why not appoint them Kings and call them King Stumbo the 4th or 5th? But why not vote them out? I am a man who will stay with them until I am counted out. Their barrels of money cannot buy me. I was born full of honest principles that cannot be bought with any sum of money. I am with them to the finish.

They speak of me having some brothers of bad character. They say I might make them deputies. That will never happen, but, if I did, my nine brothers altogether are not as bad as some of that Stumbo Ring. I could name several of them, which I may do later.

Just a few hints to get you voters started to thinking. I will give you the rest later.

Your support and influence appreciated.
