FLOYD MINERS IDLE AS WAGES, HOURS PARLEY CONTINUES

Between 5,000 and 7,000 Mine Workers of County Await Settlement

REMOVAL OF PENALTY CLAUSE BEING SOUGHT

Signing of Contract Expected This Week; Bituminous Industry at Standstill

Between 5,000 and 7,000 Floyd county miners were idle this week while mine workers' representatives were in futile parley with coal operators' delegates in New York, on the wage and hour scale.

Wednesday night, the eight negotiators representing both miners and operators of the bituminous coal industry remained deadlocked after three weeks of futile effort to reach an agreement.

Phillip Murray, who declared that operators had said "no" to 26 proposals by the union, said Tuesday that proposed elimination of the penalty clauses from district agreements was the stumbling block. He added that the miners' "final proposition" was removal of the old agreement for two years and elimination of the penalty clause for illegal strikes.

He said the miners, to protect the industry against "raids" by other unions, had suggested a union shop and recognition of the U.M.W.A. as the exclusive bargaining agency.

Murray reported that the operators advanced not a "single argument" against the union shop proposal, but insisted it in the sub-committee. They wanted the penalty clause to remain.

Miners, the coal industry and in general this week anxious for a definite settlement of differences. The more optimistic predicted that an agreement will be reached by Sunday.

HONORS HUSBAND

Mrs. A. J. Davidson gave a surprise birthday party in honor of Dr. Davidson Monday, April 3, at their home. The home was beautifully decorated with many spring flowers. Guests were entertained throughout the evening at bridge, bingo, rook, and Chinese checkers, after which several prizes were awarded. Refreshments were served to a large number of guests.

This Town-- That World

RECIPE FOR PEACE

An independent—very independent—member of the British parliament recently said the world may have peace when Franco's widow tells Stalin on his deathbed that Hitler has been assassinated at Mussolini's funeral.

COOKERY RECIPE

J. J. (Jimmy) Hatcher gives his recipe for a successful man: "Call the good people you can to help you."

All those who like a little money before they vote, give 'em some. Those votes you can't beg or buy—deal.

SERIOUS MATTER

The trouble with us men—or are we?—is that we plod along too much in the same old groove, don't step out for new styles every few months, like our "wimmen-folks" do. Now, there are a few things we could do that would get us up on a par with the gentler sex.

First instance—don't go back to the Revolution for cocked hats? The girls this year have those "darling" little hats from Queen Victoria's day on, so why not?

Second instance—don't perukes for us men, especially those whose faces are creeping up on us? What once was the hairline? The daughter, sweetheart and the clan are having all these

SHINE BOY WHO PAID MORTGAGE ON HOME NOW IS 'FAMILY MAN'

With money he earned shining shoes, he paid off a $500 mortgage on his parents' home here, has been the principal support of his family since he was 10—so, last week, he decided he could take on another dependent.

Result—Saturday evening, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Goble, Daniel (Danny) Goble and Miss Pauline Campbell were married, the Rev. C. C. Goble, Prestonsburg, officiating.

Of the more than 200 persons who attended the nuptials, approximately 135 enjoyed the dinner served at Danny's expense.

"I knew the boys would be belling me and wanting a treat," explained Danny this week, "so I just saved up about $25 and threw 'em a big party."

The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Campbell, of West Prestonsburg. Mr. and Mrs. Goble are at home to their many friends.

ISBELL RE-HIRED FOR NINTH YEAR

Court Votes Farm Agent Appropriation; Awaits Education Board Action

For the ninth consecutive year, the Floyd fiscal court Wednesday approved the appropriation necessary to retention of services of County Agent S. L. Isbell.

Voting unanimously for Magistrate Daniel Akers' motion to re-hire Mr. Isbell, the court increased its appropriation to $1,200 a year. The motion was seconded by Magistrate Joe Prater.

Though the health department's appropriation was considered without opposition, it was decided that the court should, before appropriating funds, await the county board of education's action. Work of the department among the schools of the county has hitherto been considered of importance sufficient to cause the board to contribute to the service.

July 1, County Agent Isbell begins his ninth year of work in this county. He thus exceeds by two years all previous records of farm agents in the Big Sandy valley. Last year, when the fiscal court appropriation for his work was not readily made, farmers from all parts of the county appeared in behalf of the agent and his work.

MAY SPEAKS TONIGHT AT ARMY DAY DINNER, BROADCAST IS SLATED

Congressman A. J. May, chairman of the House Military Affairs committee, will be the principal speaker at the Army Day banquet held in Washington, D. C., tonight (Thursday). His address will be broadcast over an NBC network at 11 o'clock (EST). Army Day observes the anniversary of this country's entrance into the World War.

FOR CIRCUIT CLERK

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY:

I am a candidate for re-election to the office of Clerk of the Floyd Circuit Court. I have done my best to serve you during my term of office as I thought you expected to be served. Almost every family in the county has had occasion to be in my office or in the courtroom, and know I have met you all friendly and with a smile and ready to accommodate you, regardless of whether you were rich or poor, black or white.

I think that a public office belongs to the people and not to the officeholder. When I am re-elected, I promise you better service because the experience I have had will enable me to serve you more efficiently.

If I have given you the service you expected of me, I deserve your support in the campaign, and I earnestly believe that I deserve your vote.

I am your friend and servant,

TROY B. STURGILL.

BUREAU OF MINES EXAMINER SAYS WEEKSBURY FIRST-AID CLASS BEST INSTRUCTED HE HAS EVER EXAMINED

"I have examined school classes in First Aid in the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky, and this is the best instructed class I have ever examined," L. H. McGuire, examiner for the U. S. bureau of mines, last week told seventh and eighth grade students of the Weeksbury school who had completed a First-Aid course under the tutelage of Carl G. Ford, principal.

Teachers who received their training this year and who, in turn, assisted Mr. Ford in the conduct of the classes are Dixie Tackett, Illa Triplett, Nancy Powers Webb, Fanny Bryant, Alta Leslie, Moses Hall, Truman Darnon, Chloe Meade and Mayme Gilbert. They have taken examinations which will qualify them for instructors' certificates under the U. S. bureau of mines.

The Weeksbury school is considered a pioneer in this type of instruction in Kentucky. The first course in First-Aid was held last year, those making passing grades receiving certificates from the state department of mines and minerals and the Koppers Coal Company which co-operated in conducting the special study.

"It is hoped," Mr. Ford said, "that from this beginning the work will spread throughout the schools of the county. As teachers are transferred from this school to others and as our present students become teachers themselves, the work of First-Aid, of prime importance in this particular section, will spread."

Students passing the examination given last week by Mr. McGuire and George Pow, Elk Horn Coal Corporation engineer, Wayland, to the upper four classes in the school will receive the highest awards given in the subject of First-Aid.

Following is the list of Weeksbury students who will receive awards for passing the examination by the United States bureau of mines (those under 16 will receive letters of recognition from the head of the bureau of mines and those 16 and above will receive the same type of certificates that miners receive).

Fifth Grade—Helen Gooden, Vivian Lay, Sybil Meade, Joy Hibbits, Iona Young, William Lay, Billy Jean Harmon, Jewel Scarborough, Ernestine Harmon, Ruby Ramey, Dawn Rita Shupe, Betty Lou Sturgill, Juanita Hall, Orlena Freeman, Mabel Brooks, Betty Fraley, Beatrice Perkey, Pauline Hurt, Myrtle Johnson, Bobby Kelly, Curtis Dale, Billy Perkey, Eugene Osborne, Olaf McDavid, James Hill, Orville Blevins, Bruce Daniels, Jimmy Smith.

REV. HARMAN, 71, PASSES AT LOUISA

Pneumonia Claims Father of Wayland Man Monday; Rites Wednesday

The Rev. V. D. Harman, 71, father of Dan J. Harman, Wayland, died at his home in Louisa Monday afternoon following a two week's illness of influenza complicated by pneumonia.

Born near Fallsburg, a son of the late Daniel and Louisa Elk Harman, he had been a minister for 38 years and had held pastorates at various Methodist Episcopal Churches, South, in the Big Sandy valley. He retired six years ago because of ill health and had lived in Louisa since that time. He was a member of the Masonic lodge at Wayland.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Bertha Marcum Harman; three daughters, Mrs. Dewey Isaac, Louisa, Mrs. E. W. Kirk, Cadmus, and Mrs. J. B. Arnett, Everett, Wash.; two sons, Dan J. Harman, Wayland, and Gladstone Harman, Irad, Ky., and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Greene and Mrs. Maggie Stewart, both of Augusta, Ky.

Funeral rites were held Wednesday

CAUDILL ADVISES RUM SALE PROBE

Tells Grand Jury Whisky Is Connected With Most Crime

"Liquor is the cause, either directly or indirectly, of practically all crime in Floyd county, and it is your duty, as grand jurors, to investigate thoroughly the conditions of its sale and use," Circuit Judge John W. Caudill in effect Monday told the grand jury, convening for a nine-day session.

He emphasized that it is against the law to sell either liquor or beer from midnight to 8 a. m. on week days and from midnight Saturday till 8 a. m. Monday morning. Establishments that sell only intoxicating beverages are not allowed to open on Sunday, and those selling liquor or beer in connection with a restaurant or other business enterprise are required by law to keep intoxicants under lock and key during these periods, he stated.

Additional grounds for the issuance of indictments mentioned by Judge Caudill included the selling of liquor to an intoxicated person, to a minor,

P'BURG TO PLAY VAN LEAR HERE

Saturday Afternoon Clash Will Be High Point of Spring Training

A game between the Prestonsburg high school Blackcats and the Van Lear Bank Mules on the local field, 2 p. m. Saturday, will climax the spring training of Coach Bill Messer's gridiron squad.

This fall's team will be well fortified at guard and tackle positions, occupied by hold-overs from last year's eleven. The center and ends were lost by graduation, however. In the backfield will be two letter men, Hunter and Herald, but the two other starting berths are still open.

Coach Messer and the athletic association are anticipating the backing of the school board for the installation of lights on the playing field, making possible several home night games next fall. Catlettsburg's schedule, released last week, shows a night game to be played here October 14.

Whether the Everts game will be played here or there has not been determined.

MAN LEFT PENNILESS BY ROBBER WALKS 10 MILES TO TELL STORY

Shady Dutton, who faces trial here Friday on a charge of armed robbery, will receive no mercy at the hands of the man whom he robbed of 76 cents in the Martin railway yards almost two years ago.

J. B. Bowling, Shady's victim, Tuesday walked from his home at Drift to that of Galloway Gray, special C. & O. officer, at Allen, a distance of 10 miles, in an attempt to reach Prestonsburg in time to appear as a witness against Dutton. He walked because he had no money—just as Dutton left him that night, he explained.

But the trial was continued till Friday, this week, and Mr. Gray said this day, and Mr. Gray said this week that Bowling will not have to walk a step to get here for the hearing.

'MOUNTAIN MUSIC' THRILLS VISITOR

National Folk Festival Director Says Old Ballads, Hymns Among Finest

Admittedly "spellbound," Miss Gertrude Knott, founder of the national Folk Song Festival, Washington, D. C., Monday heard a number of Floyd county's Plain-Song Chanters and singers of traditional hymns and ballads at the home of Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James render "mountain music" which she declares to be among the best in the land.

Miss Knott stopped here, en route to Washington from Chattanooga, Tenn., where she heard the group which will represent Tennessee at the national festival. The Floyd county singers are the only representatives invited from Kentucky, she said.

Also appearing on the "opening day" of the April circuit court term Monday, Miss Knott addressed officials and spectators, stressing the importance of Floyd county's contribution to American folklore, and emphasizing the fact that work of Mrs. James and others over the county in resurrecting and "discovering" forgotten hymns and ballads are restoring a very real part of America.

"You should have a 'little festival'

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL TO AWARD DIPLOMAS

The Mayo State Vocational School extension class in Business Relations, taught by J. Snead Yeager and C. D. Milby, at its eighth session here Friday evening, appointed a committee to arrange a commencement banquet to be held at the Auxier hotel, April 21, at which 30 Prestonsburg business men and women will receive diplomas.

It is expected that 200 people, including members of other classes from Paintsville, Pikeville, Wayland, Wheelwright, Jenkins and Hazard, will attend. These class banquets stress closer cooperation and a better feeling between neighboring towns, and Mr. Milby states that the Prestonsburg banquet promises to be the most enthusiastic one held thus far.

NEW TRIAL PLEA ASSAILS SPECIAL JURY SELECTION

Officials File Affidavits in Hopkins Case; Deny "Irregularity" Charge

SALISBURY CONVICTED IN ARREST OF GIRL

No Murder Cases To Be Investigated By Grand Jury At Present Session

Affidavits, pro and con, were filed last week after motion and grounds for a new trial for Harry Gordon Hopkins, given a 21-year pen term in the slaying of Dewey Salisbury, former Floyd county deputy sheriff, alleged as "grounds" for a re-hearing that there were "irregularities" in the drawing of a jury for the special March term of court at which Hopkins was given trial.

Circuit Judge John W. Caudill, Sheriff Dial Salisbury and Deputy Sheriff W. M. Hagans joined in testifying that no "irregularities" existed.

The allegation of "irregularity" arose from "discovery" of the drum in an unused toilet opening Judge Caudill's office when Special Judge Campbell Vansant sought the names of new veniremen for the trial of Tom Layne. A key carried by Sheriff Salisbury opened the drum, but the Sheriff testified it belonged to his own box in which he kept valuables and personal papers. He declared he had never before touched the jury drum.

Judge Caudill told THE TIMES, and testified, in effect, that the jury drum was taken to the unused room opening onto his office at the February term of court when he drew the names of jurors for special March session that both the main office room and the toilet were under separate lock that he at all times retained in possession the key to the drum.

That he left the jury "wheel" in a new location only because the Circuit Clerk's office was ordinarily open to the public, with the rear portion of it occupied during the day by WPA indexing workers. He said that the drum was first taken to his office when he found Circuit Clerk Sturgill absent from his office and only a deputy there.

O. H. Stumbo, deputy in the office of the Circuit Court Clerk, on the

FARMERS WHO HELD DOWN COSTS MADE MONEY FROM LAMBS

Farmers who held down costs of raising lambs and had a lower depreciation on ewes, made money from sheep last year, according to a study which the farm economics department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture made of 32 flock records kept in Bourbon, Fayette, Harrison, Jessamine and Woodford counties in Kentucky. Owners of the 10 best-paying flocks made an average profit of $3.32 per ewe.

Lowering the cost of producing lambs included raising more lambs per ewe. This meant saving all lambs at birth, with a liberal sprinkling of twins.

Higher prices were received from early marketings, and the most successful sheep men sold their lambs in May, June or July. This called for early breeding in the fall, and keeping the ewes in good condition, so they would have plenty of milk for their lambs; and also attention to rapid development of the lambs.

Greater care in selecting lambs at selling time resulted in heavier weight per lamb at market. Most profit was made where lambs were sold when in good condition, those not in proper condition being held back until they were better finished.

DRUNKENNESS CAUSES 20 PER CENT OF HIGHWAY DEATHS

Something more than the spending of taxpayers' money for expensive roads is needed to reduce highway accidents, it is indicated by recently published statistics on highway deaths for 1938.

Twenty per cent of the deaths on the roads and streets in 1938 was caused by drunkenness, with intoxicated pedestrians equally at fault. Drinking drivers were responsible for a greater number of fatalities of the year, but the intoxicated pedestrians, in which the driver was not at fault, were a close second, the report shows.

Sober drivers need to be as concerned about dodging intoxicated pedestrians, as need sober pedestrians need to worry about dodging drunken drivers. More accidents involving drunken pedestrians or drunken drivers occur on Sunday than any other day, and 86 per cent of such accidents happen at night.

These startling figures are regarded by safety experts as indicating that it is virtually impossible to build "fool-proof" roads at any cost and that broad educational efforts are most needed to promote highway safety and reduce traffic deaths. The fact that 86 per cent of the deaths involving intoxication occur in the hours of darkness is also taken to indicate that the cure for night highway accidents is not to be found in expensive highway lighting.

"A drunken driver is an accident going some place to happen."

TODAY'S ROADS

US. 23—Louisia to Paintsville—Very rutty and badly broken. Drive slowly and cautiously.

Prestonsburg to Pikeville—Pavement badly cracked in several sections and guard rails are broken down in several places along the highway.

If driving at night, take extra precaution on these two sections of this highway as the road is in very bad condition and there is no adequate lighting to warn one of the dangerous spots.

KY. 11—Beattyville—Booneville road. Bridge closed for repairs. Free ferry provided at Beattyville. Gross load limit, 10,000.

US. 51 and 45—W—Bridge out at Fulton. US. 51 detour at Riceville and follow markers to Tennessee state line.

STRENGTH IN NUMBERS—POWER IN LUNGS

Turkey Creek and Stone Coal have proved again that there is strength in numbers. The louder the yell, the more efforts expended to silence it!

SPEEDY COP

To take it from one observer, we not only have the most orderly town, but the fastest (on foot) policeman in the county. During the recent tournament here a drinking youth, whose vocal cords had got out of control, was taken into custody by Policeman Tavis Flanery. It seems that, while pushing their way through the crowd in front of the gym, the drunk jerked loose, ploughed his way through the people, and was off. But not without Tavis close on his heels. The youth made it to the highway, according to the observer, and really began truck-in', but it was only a matter of seconds till he was back-tracking it toward the lock-up under the long arm of the law.

THE HARDWARE BUSINESS

Judge Gilbert says there are enough pistols in Harlan county to fill a box-car. Is that all? Heck, in Floyd we could find that many pistols in one funeral procession.

STOP THAT SLICE!

Now that all Floyd county's golfers will play on one course, near Allen, we need a candidate who will advocate wire-netting being put along the highway there to protect motorists.

MUSIC'S DAIRY

Grade "A" Milk--Permit No. 1

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our customers who have been so faithful in co-operating with us for the past 10 years.

You have made it possible for me to improve and produce milk from cows that have been tuberculosis-and-blood-tested.

Our milk has been handled with the greatest of care and persons handling milk have health certificates This gives to our customers the assurance of PURE MILK, FREE FROM DISEASES.

For 10 years, I have never missed a day of delivering milk. In summer I have two deliveries, our customers having the choice of night or morning.

TEN YEARS of service at TEN CENTS per quart! NEVER UP OR DOWN, OR IN OR OUT.

I appreciate new customers, but feel it's the customers' privilege and duty to select the dairy that they wish to patronize.

One and all are cordially invited at all times to visit my dairy, cows and barns and equipment. In the past many customers and friends have visited my dairy, and I wish it were possible for all to do so in the future.

The completion of the buildings in 1938 brought my dairy up to the standard requirements of the Board of Health to produce Grade "A" raw milk of the best possible quality to our customers.

A satisfied customer is one who uses our milk the year around. I have no samples—it's all the same kind of milk. I sell milk for a living and not a sideline. I devote my entire time to my farm and the improvement of my dairy.

Thanking you for your past patronage, I feel more capable of serving you better in the future.

"YOU CAN WHIP OUR CREAM, BUT YOU CAN'T BEAT OUR MILK."

STRIKE OR LOCKOUT?

Of course, the big question in all the coal camps, today, is, How long will the Lockout—or Strike (take your choice)—last?

We do not think it will last as long as it will take this little epistle to break into print, but who knows? We have been fooled before, and it is entirely possible that we will be again.

FOR POLK WARDEN

It's about the time of year for the tall stories to begin to be told around the "Fountain" here about the big fish that never have been caught and then, too, the boys will have to fill the all-important office of Polk Warden. Likely candidates around here are McKinley Parrigan, Henry Campbell and "Uncle" Jack Rollins. My dough goes on "Uncle" Jack.

THIS HELP

It is entirely possible that Norman Allen, of The Times, feels just a little elation over the fact that the business men of Prestonsburg have at last awakened to the fact that, if they capture much of the business that is going out of the county, they must do something other than sit still and hope.

It is my belief that a more strenuous effort should be made on their part to get acquainted with the coal miners of this county. It seems sort of funny to say that about all the professional men we know in the county are the politicians and, if it pays them to get acquainted with us, why wouldn't it pay the business men to do the same thing? Next week, it is our intention to write a full column on this subject; but, in the meantime, Norman, keep at it; you have the brains and ability to put the thing over, and, if you keep everlastingly at it, you will succeed.

Yes, yes, my dear fellows, that man does speak right up and say his piece, regardless of who gets hurt or helped and I often wonder if a politician can do that and get away with it. JUST A 'SORE THUMB' ON THE STATUTE BOOKS

The Kentucky anti-thumbing law has been in effect for several months now, and we point our ever-hearing ear (the good one) in your direction and quizzically ask, "So what?"

We wonder. How many—in this or any other county—have ever been charged with, or convicted of, hitch-hiking? Is thumb-waving less prevalent now than it was before the passage of the law? Could our law-makers spend their time and the people's money in no better way than to pass a worthless law? Yes, we wonder.

THE TIMES does not question the intended value of such a law, and undoubtedly our lawmakers had good intentions. But, offhand, we could name a place where the same things reportedly are used as paving stones.

Hitch-hiking has grown to such huge proportions that it is now a menace, not only to the motorists, but to the thumbers themselves. The dangers of picking up unknown persons are familiar to everyone. Yet some of them practice their art in the middle of the road, and it has become necessary for motorists to dodge oncoming traffic as well as the would-be passengers.

After viewing the situation from the sidelines, the hitch in the hitch-hiking statute, to THE TIMES, adds up to this: If a person is traveling via the thumb, the chances are he has no money; if he is broke, he can not pay a fine; his incarceration would prove a liability, not an asset. The easiest, and most economical, solution to the problem is "forget it."

Don't ask us how we would combat this evil; but certainly we would not fight it by passing a useless law.

TO HELP LOCAL BUSINESS

If those doing business regularly in Prestonsburg are to be required to pay heavy taxes and contribute generally to the upkeep of the community as a whole, it would seem only just that those who occasionally do business here should pay at least some form of tax.

Business men of this place contribute on a rather large scale to Prestonsburg's treasury and to the civic progress of the town. They want to be enabled to maintain this status of living and letting live. And so it is not unreasonable to ask in their behalf that they be given some protection from the city government.

Your itinerant peddler pays nothing, as matters now stand, toward maintenance of the community's welfare. A dash into town, some high-pressure salesmanship, the writing of C.O.D. orders, then the getaway without any cost above that of transportation and ordinary living expenses—that describes the type of competition which annually deprives legitimate business men here of several thousand dollars in trade.

If the business man paying rent, local salaries, taxes, contributing to the salary of a night-watchman, aiding local churches and schools—surely, if the "boys" at home do all that, as they are confidently expected to do, the visiting salesman should be required to pay some sort of tax for rights he enjoys no less than do established business men.

Another consideration due local businesses is an ordinance—an enforced ordinance—which would limit parking on Court street from the Bank Josephine corner to the "traffic light" to one hour during business hours. Need for such "street clearance" is not created by out-of-town cars; Prestonsburg's own clutter up the scene until visitors have extreme difficulty in finding parking space within a reasonable distance of where they plan to trade.

Clean the streets—of local cars indolently and selfishly left parked in front of places of business for hours on end, of rubbish accumulated as marks of slovenly municipal "housekeeping"—collect from "outside" salesmen a tax in line with that collected from our own merchants—and Prestonsburg will have taken a long step toward helping business here.

Points By Other Editors

WITH OUR FINGERS CROSSED

Last week the Herald published a statement by F. C. Harrington, new national WPA administrator, about penalties to be inflicted upon any and all persons connected with WPA for political activities. True, we published this statement with our fingers crossed and considerable doubt in our mind that Director Harrington's statement is anything more than the same old bunkum so frequently sent out heretofore from Washington by everybody concerned, from the President on down.

When the federal work relief agencies were first started, we had a disagreeable and disillusioning task of serving on the first county committee supposedly created to see that the federal work relief went to the most needy and most deserving persons. The thing soon proved to be a farce, political henchmen of the powers which had been controlling the county's patronage, or all sorts, for many years taking the authority right out of the hands of the committee members, who had reluctantly accepted the duty after receiving letters from high officers of the federal government urging them to so act "as a patriotic service."

The Herald editor resigned from the re-employment committee when appeals to the President, to director of the WPA, Harry Hopkins, and others at Washington to permit the committee to function in accordance with instructions from the President failed to bring results.

The WPA has been political from start to finish, as everybody knows. The disrepute it got into last summer, resulting in nation-wide scandal and a rather comprehensive investigation in Congress which, for a time, threatened to unseat a Senator or two, shocked the good citizens of the land who are not politicians by trade. Mr. Harrington, a new broom on the job, is perhaps trying to sweep clean; but his edict that politics must be divorced from WPA is one of those things about which we will have to be shown before we take much stock in it.

Another hot primary election is at hand in Kentucky and, while the national political scheme is not so vitally affected as was the case last summer when the leader of the United States Senate was opposed for re-election, there is some indication Washington will again attempt to dictate to Kentuckians whom they should elect. In such case, we fully expect the WPA to be as deep in political mire as before, though doubtless many self-respecting, independent citizens whose fortunes force them to take advantage of federal aid will throw off the yoke of dictatorial political pressure and vote as Mr. Harrington says they should vote, according to the dictates of their own consciences.—Lyon County Herald.

Shooting and Fishing

By J. C. (Of Nimrod) WARD

Here in Kentucky, little is known of this cousin of the little wild onion, the redoubtable ramp. The mountainous sections of central and northern West Virginia, in fact, are the only places I know of, where this distinctively odoriferous plant may be found. It grows along the banks of rushing trout streams, and in the shady, secluded sections of lonely hollows.

Hard to find, and difficult to obtain, it is its own reward to the successful seeker. Mountain men like it cooked with fat pork, a pone of cornbread, and a steaming pot of sassafras tea. The fact that the odor of the ramp lingers after eating, in such fashion that one can only remain in the proximity of the eaters after he himself has eaten, provides a bond in common that is conducive to friendship. To say that it smells, is putting it mildly. The most rampant of wild onions, the most odoriferous garlics, have been known to bow their heads in shame at the strength of a full-grown ramp.

About this time in the spring, the ramp comes into its own, a potent spring tonic good for man or beast. And after the first mouthful has withered a man's sense of smell, it is the finest eating you ever tasted. The flavor is so exquisite that no one minds the several days of isolation that one's sense of fair play imposes after indulgence. Many is the time I have been sent home from school for eating ramps. It was always a great joke in the spring to get to school before the teacher and rub the crushed stems on his or her desk, where it would linger for days; in fact, those were the only times I can remember when I was there in the morning before school time.

There is no odor in this world, or any other, like that of the ramp. When the Great Chemist compounded the ramp, he took one whiff and then burned the formula, Strong men, facing that odor for the first time have been beaten to their knees, tears streaming from their eyes.

I once heard of a mule falling over a cliff in Webster county; he landed on a narrow projection—just below that was barely wide enough to hold him, and instinct told him not to move. But his fall had crushed a small ramp near him, and as the fumes arose to his nostrils he gallantly arose and plunged over the cliff.

In truth, the odor is so strong that I have frequently smelled it on my school fellows when they were only THINKING about ramps.

In Richwood, W. Va., there is a Ramp Club of 150 members which has an annual feed in the spring on this succulent vegetable, which they call a "ramp whiff," and some of these days I'm going back to one of these events. It will mean a vacation for me, because when I return to work, I know the Boss will not want to inflict me on the non-rampous trade for at least a week, and I can catch up on some of my fishing.

CLUB TO MEET

The next meeting of the Floyd County Game and Fish Club will be held Saturday night, April 8, at the Beaver Valley Golf & Country Clubhouse at Allen. Several matters of importance are to come up, chief among them being an open discussion of ways and means to combat forest fires. A report is also expected from the committee on the Left Fork of Beaver fish project. The membership drive is going along nicely and every member is earnestly urged to attend this meeting.

LOB CASTS

It is bad enough to return, fishless, from a fishing trip. It is even worse when you have broken your only rod; but it is simply terrible when one's own buddies intimate that but for the strength of the cloth in a pair of old army pants, your correspondent might have been tossed to a watery grave in the Big Sandy last Sunday. . . . Anyway, I wouldn't even let a big bass take my rod from me, and then whip me with it like a corn-field sow. . . . Dick Davis can make one of those Ves Fraley sunken-limb strikes seem so real that you will drop your rod and grab the net, before you can remember that the river is full of them. . . . When do we get some coons? . . . Charley Horn is way ahead in the sale of membership cards. . . . Last Saturday, a week ago, I saw a dead ring-neck pheasant on the highway 20 miles out of Ashland, killed by a passing car. . . . A 21-pound mudcat was caught on a trot-line above Pikeville, near Ratliff's Tavern last week. . . . When do we get some coons? . . . Approximately 25 pairs of quail were received Monday of this week for distribution in Floyd county, and it is interesting to note that each land owner upon whose property the birds are to be released, must sign an agreement with the Division of Game and Fish that he will permit legal hunting by duly licensed hunters. . . . Al Foss's new Hawaiian Wiggler seems to have what it takes for bass. I like the yellow head with the yellow skirt; would hit it myself if I were hungry. . . . When do we get some coons? . . . Gephart has a new rod handle shaped like a pistol-grip; should be popular in the Big Sandy valley. . . . Till Saturday night at Allen—ADIOS.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

CHURCH-DOOR JOHNNY

Earlier in this series I spoke of the formality of sending notes or of making dates through a friend. I remember that there was another type, a sort of makeshift for bashful boys who hardly knew how or what to write or who sadly lacked the nickel to give the boy who delivered the note and waited for its answer. This method was to stand just outside the church, preferably in the evening, and take a girl's arm as she came out with her parents or with other girls. This deaf-and-dumb method was quite effective in its way, though frowned on by the more staid and dignified ones of our neighborhood. The most embarrassing thing was to seize a girl's arm and start walking away into the darkness, only to realize that some other fellow had her other arm. Always one or the other grew faint-hearted and gave up the struggle, the blushing young woman remaining neutral.

This practice was particularly suited to the small village or compact neighborhood, where many people came to gatherings on foot. It would have been unthinkable to follow a girl out to her father's wagon and ride home with her. To the wagon was as far as any regular fellow could go. But how attractive was to walk home, even along with the family, under the stars and moon, the moon so famous in popular songs then and now!

I cannot recall whether the girl thus sought out ever rebelled; hence the practice must have been a kind of freemasonry that the elders did not understand. Maybe the young swain looked across the church and said more in his bashful look than he could have said in formal notation. Anyway, the girl acquiesced in a system that seems a little too quaint today, and she seemed to enjoy it thus sought after.

Not all the boys were bold enough to seize or capture a young lady she emerged from the church. Old boys would shove them just as soon as a girl came by, causing both boy and girl to blush to the roots of the hair. I have known boys who seemed to have accidentally walked into the church with the girl as she was trailing her family; very rarely had the nerve to sit with her as he had followed her in. From painful experience I know that when he had done this, the best defense when the boys teased him was to remain silent; for his words were passed from mouth to mouth when he said anything.

Growing up is hard work, I am afraid that the youngsters do not get enough sympathy while they are engaged in such toil. In our time, older people seem hardly to be they once were, and, besides, opportunity for boys and girls to get together is much easier than formerly. Since life is pitched on a nearly normal scale today, it is odd that one still finds boys who can hardly get into

NEWS OF BIG SANDY

PAINTSVILLE PACKERS AWARDED CONTRACT

Paintsville — Business history was written for the farmers of Eastern Kentucky Wednesday when the Kentucky Packers, Inc., of Paintsville, were notified that the company had been selected to furnish Kentucky state institutions with their fresh meats.

In securing this state business the company has reversed the procedure which has been followed in Kentucky for many years. Heretofore, this business has gone to firms in Louisville, St. Louis and Chicago, and in countless instances the cattle used in taking care of the business came from the mountains, and were shipped to distant points for processing and returned to the state for consumption.

ROAD BIDS ASKED

Paintsville—The state highway department this week is asking for bids for improvement of the Paintsville-Blaine road, beginning at a point on the Mayo Trail approximately four miles out of Paintsville, thence running northward a distance of 3.350 miles, or one-half mile beyond the Sitka postoffice.

The Paintsville-Sitka road has previously been designated as a state project with federal aid. It runs from the junction of the Mayo Trail to Blaine in Lawrence county. It penetrates a very rich section in both Johnson and Lawrence counties, and its completion will furnish an outlet for farmers along the route where enormous amounts of fruits and vegetables are produced each season.

'ROUND KAINTUCK WITH SCISSORS 'N' PASTE

Louisa—A 150-gallon copper still and two copper worms—part of one of the best moonshine outfits ever found in the mountains—were confiscated by agents of the State Revenue Department Tuesday, March 28, in the extreme head of Waterhole Fork of Little Fork in Elliott county, just over the line from the head of Caines Creek and about 300 feet from the Lawrence line.

"It was an old stand and had been in operation at least five years, possibly 15 years," according to the two revenue agents who made the raid.

They employed Justice of the Peace Mart Hays, of Martha, to bring the copper still and worms to Louisa in his truck Wednesday morning, and later they will be shipped to Frankfort.

The Waterhole distillery, said to have been a prolific source of supply of moonshine liquor for portions of Lawrence, Elliott and Morgan counties for many years, was the object of an intensive search.

The still was found in a deep ravine in the extreme head of Waterhole Fork and about two miles and a half up the creek from Sarah postoffice. No one was about, but apparently a run had been made last Thursday or Friday and another run would have been made Monday, the agents said. The distillery was ideally arranged for efficient operation and had been operated regularly, according to the agents.

WPA ROLLS CUT

Louisa—Although the county WPA office here has not yet received orders to cut relief rolls because of a 50 million dollar cut in President Roosevelt's 150-million dollar relief request by the House appropriations committee Wednesday, relief rolls in the county are being reduced steadily as a result of case reviews of all WPA workers made a few weeks ago.

Thirty-nine WPA workers were dropped from the rolls in Lawrence county this week, others previously had been dropped and the total cut may reach 100 here, Joe D. Mollette, WPA area engineer, said Thursday.

Case reviews of WPA workers were made about a month ago to determine those not in "actual need." It is this latter class that is being dropped, Mr. Mollette explained.

fancy "hair-do's"—so, why not us?

Why not a dash of color in the pallid masculine cheek, a little powder to rim that "eight o'clock shadow," a whiff of perfume to make us seem like Spring, sweet Spring wafting its way around the corner? The feminine side has a "corner" on all the artistic talent, these days.

Why not the turned-up toes for our "boots" that the boys of yesterday had? The girls have taken out the heels of their shoes. We ought to have something new in footwear ourselves.

Why not "hike up" our pants—up, say, to our knees? Both Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's lady can lower or "hike" their skirts at will—or, rather, at the will of the fashion-makers—so, why can't we?

The girls wear slacks. What about tights for our many forms? (Ugh!) The fact of the matter is, masculine fashions have been in the doldrums for years, haven't changed enough to be visible to the naked eye since the days of the English Walker shoe, the full-peg-top trousers or the celluloid collar that our Dads yanked off and took down to the creek as much to cool off as to clean.

We men need emancipating to the extent that we may also become slaves to fashion.

In response to a "blanket" invitation to amateur players of early music and dancers of the old "running-steps," a number of citizens interested in the work of preservation and restoration of early music and customs gathered at the home.

Programs will be given at the various churches in the county within the next fortnight to acquaint the public with the work being undertaken and the need for financing Floyd county's delegation to Washington.

TO GRADUATE JUNE 5 FROM BEREA COLLEGE

MISS BERTHA ALLEN

Berea, Ky., March 28—Miss Bertha Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blucher Allen, Hueysville, will be among the 150 seniors who will graduate from Berea College, June 5. She will receive an A.B. degree in education.

Miss Allen has been on the Berea campus for four years, having entered the college department as a freshman in the fall of '35. Since that time she has been very active in extra-curricular affairs. Four years a member of the college dramatic club, she has played roles in many of the leading productions. She is a member of the Young Women's Christian Association, Education Club, and other campus organizations.

Miss Allen graduated from the Knott county high school at Hindman.

STROKE CLAIMS WILLIE ESTEP, 58

Native of Scott County, Virginia, Passes at Home of Daughter

Willie Estep, 58, well-known Floyd county man, died Thursday, March 30, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harold Bailey, at Garrett, after suffering his second paralytic stroke within two years.

He was the son of the late Nathaniel (Can) and Mrs. Mary Estep. His parents came to this county from Virginia while he was in his childhood.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Harold Bailey, Garrett, and Mrs. K. C. Beverly, Charleston, W. Va.; one son, Barte Estep, Paintsville, and two sisters, Mrs. Leck Martin and Mrs. Alpha Risner, both of Garrett.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon at the Garrett Methodist Church, with the Rev. C. C. Newsome officiating. Burial was made in the Martin cemetery at Garrett, under the direction of the Arnold Funeral Home.

EN ROUTE TO HOSPITAL, MAYTOWN MAN INJURED

En route to the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, for treatment of a minor ailment, Clyde Dudley, Maytown, Monday was in the hospital for something more serious—a broken shoulder.

The truck in which he was riding toward Martin wrecked on the curve below the Maytown hill, and so the "patient" was required to become more of a patient.

PREPARATION

A college student had failed to pass a very important examination and wishing to break the news gently to his parents he sent this telegram to his elder brother:

"Have failed to pass exam. Prepare father."

The brother replied:

MAYTOWN WOMEN IN CLUB MEETING

Langley, Ky.—April meeting of the Woman's Club was held with Mesdames Y. O. Turner and Graydon Akers in the teacherage Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The occasion was an All Fools' Day party, and, judging by the crazy costumes which were worn, a number of foolish persons attended. From the time the guests entered through the window, since the front door was closed with electricity, until they departed, one good time was thoroughly enjoyed. Games and contests brought April Fool prizes to teams, also to individual members. Mesdames Mack May and Frank May. Later in the evening, Rev. C. C. Newsome spoke, developing the argument that the church, the home and the school must co-operate in training children for character. Afterwards, Rev. Newsome successfully demonstrated some tricks which only women, according to popular belief, are able to perform.

The hostesses served delicious refreshments in two courses, and were assisted by Mrs. Laura Allen.

The May meeting will be with Mrs. E. R. May, Miss Bola Turner, assistant hostess.

On April 25 the Maytown Club goes to Pikeville, where they will be guests of the Pikeville Woman's Club and render the following program on that occasion:

Greetings, Mrs. F. A. Vernon; vocal duet, Mrs. Elsie Boughton, Mrs. Henry May; two original poems, Miss Myrtle Kesee; solo, Miss Peggy Jo Allen; Piano selection, Miss Marie Sexton; short talk, Mrs. V. A. Hays; vocal solo, Mrs. W. W. Cooley; reading of original poems, Mrs. V. O. Turner.

Mrs. Turner, whose name and poems appear in several editions of the state anthology, is becoming well-known for her readings, which have a wide range, varying from comedy to pathos. Much of her work has been published, some of it winning prizes in various contests. She is a Kentucky Colonel, a Berea graduate, with several years of teaching experience, and all who hear her read are charmed with both her poems and delivery.

BINGHAM WINS TRIP TO FRANKFORT

Reed Bingham, Maytown sophomore, will be sent to Frankfort April 14 by the Woman's Club, to participate in the state pilgrimage to the capitol, as sponsored by the department of American Citizenship. Mr. Bingham is considered one of the outstanding high school students, and received all except two votes of his class in the contest. Besides being prominent in scholastic attainments, he is also a promising athlete.

To Whom It May Concern:

To correct rumors to the effect that our dairy is not up to Grade "A" specifications, we quote the following statement issued by Dr. Marvin Ransdell, director of the Floyd County Health Department, who has Floyd county dairies regularly inspected and is responsible for the grading of milk supplied by dairies:

"To Those It May Concern:
"This is to certify that the dairy herd of Mrs. Josephine Leake was tested for Bang's Disease (contagious abortion) October 4, 1938, and all gave a negative reaction.

"Mrs. Leake is also producing a standard Grade "A" milk graded according to the Standard Milk Code."

This we offer to the public as proof positive our dairy furnishes milk as good as the best. We earnestly—and honestly—solicit your business.

Bill Henry Says

ILL TAKE moonshine in preference to the legal kind . . . So far as Prestonsburg is concerned, and I'd take a bet on the whole of Floyd county, the repeal of prohibition is a nightmare . . . Changes in our laws are intended as an improvement in our standard of living as well as increasing revenue . . . In our case health and happiness have taken a decided dip on the downward path . . . More alcohol is being consumed, and the sad part is the ease with which the youngsters can obtain it—they look mighty young, some of those boys entering the liquor stores . . . It is doubtful whether Floyd county has gained anything in revenue; too much money is being taken from the regular channels of trade through numerous, heavy fines on the citizen who forgets himself and becomes a bit unsteady on his feet . . . Governor Chandler finds it convenient to be out of the state at least fifty per cent of the time . . . It is mighty nice of Mr. Chandler to give Keen Johnson an opportunity to show the people what a good governor he might be . . . What about the poor devil of a taxpayer who is footing the bills—and what has happened to Governor Chandler's promise at the time he was asking to be elected, in which he stated he would faithfully stick to the business of running the state? . . . What the good citizens of Kentucky need is a permanent vacation from that whole crowd.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is not a candidate for a third term . . . He will refuse to be drafted—if such action is taken . . . only in event of war would he consider remaining in office . . . if that should happen the likely ticket would be Franklin D. Roosevelt and William O. Douglas . . . In any event John Nance Garner will not be the Democratic standard-bearer—he has never been able to balance himself on top of the fence . . . when the going has been smooth he has been right out in front as that "old pal of mine," but when the ship has been buffeted about by heavy storms he has been "indisposed." . . . While President Roosevelt has been advising the South "to take itself out of hock to the North," certain northern states are banding together to oppose any such action on the part of the South . . . They claim lower costs of production in the south would be unfair competition . . . The lower costs of production they speak of are due to lower wages, but the present freight rates more than offset the wage difference, and the northern states are going to keep it that way as long as they can.

HITLER realizes now that he has made a mistake . . . not because he asked for the return of the Free City of Danzig, and a strip across the Polish Corridor for a highway connecting Prussia with East Prussia, but because he didn't settle this prior to his taking Czechoslovakia . . . the chances are there would have been no hitch then . . . It is a different story now, the Poles figuring it is just a step towards the complete domination of their country . . . Danzig will still be returned to Germany, and a strip across the corridor will be awarded her, but since England and France have come to her rescue Poland will be able to dictate terms . . . Hitler will be told he is welcome to all his Germans, but not one Pole . . . any action on his part to the contrary will mean war . . . Hitler does not want war, it will mean the end of his reign.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors who so graciously and willingly aided and assisted us during the death and burial of our dear wife and mother, Corn B. 30 C. C. C. CAMPS TO OPERATE IN KENTUCKY AFTER APRIL 1, SAID

Thirty Civilian Conservation Corps camps are scheduled for operation in Kentucky during the thirteen enrollment period, April 1 to September 30, this year, it was announced last week.

A maximum of approximately 6,000 C.C.C. enrollees will be engaged in conservation work in Kentucky during the new period.

The camps will be located as follows:

Six in the Cumberland National Forest, one on state forest land, 10 on demonstration areas where soil erosion control measures will be practiced, three in National parks, three in state parks and two camps will be engaged on drainage projects.

The new operating program in Kentucky provides for several changes in camp locations but the total number of camps remains the same as that in operation in the state during the winter period. The following five new camps will be established:

Pike and Letcher counties; P... county, Chappell; SCS-21, ... county, Princeton; SCS-22, ... county, Danville, and SCS-23, Grayson county, Letchfield. These camps will replace five camps ordered closed including S-53, Harlan county, Putney; P-73, Johnson county, Paintsville; SCS-4, Shelby county, Shelbyville; SCS-13, Trigg county, Cadiz, and SCS-14, Calloway county, Murray.

A total of 1,500 C.C.C. camps will continue in operation throughout the continental United States with an enrollment of 300,000 young men and war veterans.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

BUCKINGHAM AND STATE FINANCES

When it comes to high finance, take a banker! When it comes to Commonwealth financing, take John E. Buckingham, who is State Treasurer. It was his plan of financing that is making the state solvent. In the past, people who dealt with the state were forced to charge a premium because they were paid in state warrants that either had to be discounted at a bank or held for from two to four years for payment. The state has saved millions of dollars on the highway contracts alone, because contractors know that they will get their money when their work is finished and not have to discount the warrants at a loss.

All this leads up to a transaction made last week by the state. They paid off $1,472,000 in state warrants bearing 3 per cent interest, and issued $1,300,000 in 1½ per cent interest bearing warrants. This deal reduced the state debt $172,000 and saved the state $19,500 a year in interest. In the past, warrants were sold at a discount. Today, they bring par value and have a ready market.

Mr. Buckingham plans to issue $1,000,000 more of these 1½ per cent warrants in the near future and says that is the amount the state debt will be at the close of this administration. The $1,300,000 that has already been issued, and the $1,300,000 to be issued next month.

Plead Guilty To Armed Robbery in Abduction of Wells

Pikeville, Ky., March 30—The Pike circuit court here today gave life terms to Joe Raymond Uwawaniwich, alias Joe Johnson, and Carl Breninger, alias Joe Stevens, for armed robbery of Walter Wells, 19.

Uwawaniwich, who gave his home as pawhuska, Okla., and Breninger, who said his was Morristown, Pa., were arrested last week by West Virginia state police after Wells reported he had been abducted and robbed by two armed men who forced him into his automobile on a Pikeville street.

Both men pleaded guilty to the armed robbery charge before Circuit Judge R. Monroe Fields.

error, against him for Senator, and faces an election this August. He wanted the Governor to intervene in the investigation.

Listen carefully to campaign promises and think about them. The average check to an "old age pensioner" is around $9 and there are 40,000 who average that each month. If this were doubled it would be a much larger burden on the taxpayers who, we believe, are already carrying too much of a load. We know that the "old age pension" is a dangerous thing to run a campaign on unless carefully thought out.

WHEN I GO TO CHURCH

Most every preacher longs to attend church on occasions where and when he is unknown and unbothered with the trial of having a part in the service. An opportunity to slip quietly into a service and worship God along with the congregation does not come often to the average minister.

Whenever I am in a strange city I like to select a church from the newspaper directory and make my way there, along with others, in search of that peace of soul which comes only from worshipping Him. Away from my own pulpit, in a strange yet familiar environment, I make continental discoveries within the realm of my own soul. One tires of hearing oneself every Sunday. Other preachers always do me good.

When I go to church I like to select a church that is either old enough or new enough to be of interest. I like to enter into the sanctuary without being mauled by an usher. A hand-shake and smile from the usher is sufficient. I dislike signing cards informing the church that I am a "visitor." I like to be treated like a common, ordinary worshipper. For this reason, I rarely let it be known that I am a minister.

I like to sit and meditate while the organ plays softly. The Episcopal custom of bowing one's head upon entering the sanctuary has always appealed to me. Would that more of our churches would adopt this custom.

When I go to church I like to hear some one pray who takes me in with him to petition God. I have a high regard for beauty of expression but rebel against too many formal, memorized phrases—even if they are high sounding. Let the prayer be simple, sincere and voicing the unuttered hopes and longings of my soul and the souls of others there.

Let the choir sing an anthem which makes God great to me. Let there be no director waving a stick to sidetrack me from the message of the music. Stick-waving may help choirs, but it confuses me and diverts my attention. I don't object to a few musical blunders in the anthem—mistakes, at least, prove that the choir is human, after all.

I don't go to church to hear a lot of announcements. Let the service be of the heavenly world—not a rummage-sale world. Put the announcements in the bulletin.

I like to hear the scripture read by a preacher who has a voice and proper respect for infection. Let him not hurry through the scripture lesson but, rather, give the reading of the lesson a place of eminence in the order of worship.

When I go to church I like to hear a man preach. Let him be a man with adequate learning, filled with love and the all-consuming fire of a messenger of Glad Tidings. Let him not bother me with a lot of milk-sop platitudes. Let him not be a timid, self-conscious hireling but let his message flame with the grandeur of God. Let his manner be vibrant, yet composed and radiating genuine humility.

Let me leave the service with the message and music ringing in my being. Let me silently take an inventory of my soul as I walk from the church.

Other hand, stated that Judge Caudill told him, on March 6, that he had, two days earlier, drawn the special jurors' names from the drum. Finding no one in the Clerk's office, this statement quoted Judge Caudill as saying, the Judge left the envelope containing the jurors' names with Deputy Sheriff Lackey Salisbury in the Sheriff's office. On the day of their meeting, Judge Caudill told Stumbo to get the envelope from Deputy Sheriff Salisbury, according to this statement.

Deputy Sheriff W. M. Hagans filed an affidavit to the effect that Judge Caudill drew in the courtroom a venire of 30 names for service at the special term.

And while all these charges and counter-charges awaited Judge Vansant upon his return here to weigh motion and grounds for new trials, Jake Salisbury had ready for inspection his plea for a new trial after having received last Thursday a one-year pen term for false arrest of Doris Reynolds, Martin.

In the trial, which was heard by a Johnson county jury, the Commonwealth contended that Miss Reynolds, with a group of boys and girls of her community, left Martin around 7 p. m., drove to Betsy Layne, where they stayed approximately 15 minutes, and on their way home were halted by a fat tire; that Jake Salisbury and the late Dewey Salisbury drove up, arrested them and, without filing any charges, jailed them here.

The defense was based on the contention that the defendant was not an officer, had nothing to do with the arrests and did not bring Miss Reynolds and other members of her party to jail here.

Officers slated for trial on malfeasance charges in connection with arrests alleged to have been illegal were, at their request, given severance from Salisbury's case.

Seeking a new trial from Special Judge Vansant, Salisbury cited alleged "inflammatory" statements made by Grover C. Allen, attorney employed to assist Acting Commonwealth's Attorney W. W. Burchett in the prosecution; and claimed that the court erred in permitting testimony concerning arrests of persons other than Doris Reynolds to reach the trial jury. He also contends that the indictment against him was not pending and that he was not "before the court" when the special term was called.

Another "ground" filed in the new trial plea of Hopkins was that, after the defendant was called to testify, the Commonwealth was permitted to present clothing worn by the victim when killed.

Hopkins was released under $10,000 bond, Salisbury under $3,000, pending Judge Vansant's ruling on their pleas for new hearings.

After a jury had failed last week to agree on his guilt or innocence in the slaying of Willie Cole, Everett Collins was released under $10,000 bond.

The regular April term was convened Monday morning, with the Rev. Alex Stephens, Dock, member of the Floyd county board of education, foreman of the grand jury.

For the first time since he has been in office, said Circuit Judge Caudill, and probably for the first time in years preceding his term, the grand jury has no murder cases to investigate at this session.

Six murder cases are slated for trial during the term. They are: Pete Wilson, negro, April 10; John Gillespie, April 11; Bob Taylor, April 12; Basil Hamilton, April 17; Morrow Conley, April 20, and Tim Jones (second trial), April 24.

Wayland—Miss Ann Dugan, state adviser of home economics clubs, recently attended a silver tea given by the Rip and Tear home economics club of Wayland high school to which all the county home economics clubs were invited.

After tea and refreshments were served, Miss Dugan addressed the gathering. The audience included the following visitors:

Misses Alice Harris, Anna Louise Hagans, Mabel Jane Conley, Madge Boyd, Ernestine Brown, Barbara Butler and Pauline Nunnery, from Prestonsburg.
Mrs. Hess, Mrs. Haymond, Mrs. Frank Harmon, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Hatcher, Billie Brown, Clara Bellomy, Norma Leslie, Nannie Caudill, Gertrude Griffith, Pauline Music, Ethel Gibson and Lillian Brown, from Wayland.

Accompanying Miss Dugan were Katherine Black, Janice Mullins and Irene Bates, of Whitesburg.

ACP DEADLINE SET IN FARM PROGRAM

April 15 Last Day for Filing of 1939 Work Sheets, Says Isbell

April 15 has been designated by the Floyd County Conservation Association Committee as the deadline for farmers of the county to sign work-sheets as participants in the 1939 agricultural conservation program, County Agent S. L. Isbell announced this week.

Work-sheets filed after that date will be eligible only for participation in the 1940 program which begins November 1, this year, he said.

More than 1,500 Floyd county farmers already have signed as participants in the 1939 program, and the County Agent's office is anxious to have all other farmers interested to join before April 15.

PIKE COUNTY GETS DEER FROM STATE

Strength of Eastern Kentucky Game and Fish Clubs Noted

Frankfort, Ky., March 30—All deer propagated on state game farms have been liberated in Letcher, Pike, Harlan and Whitley counties, Major James Brown, director of the Division of Game and Fish, announced today.

Only enough white-tail deer were retained at the Jones-Keeney game farm in Princeton, Ky., to be used as brook stock for future propagation.

The Letcher Fish and Game Club obtained six deer from the Division and these animals were placed on display near the courthouse over the week-end for the citizens of the county to view.

Milburn Polly and Arnold Collins, two members of the Letcher club, drove across the state to Princeton to bring the deer to Whitesburg.

The mountain counties have some of the strongest game and fish clubs in the state and more interest in the conservation of wildlife is being shown by these clubs than has been noted in the central section. If interest could be aroused in the Bluegrass, northern, southern and Western sections to a pitch that it has reached in the mountains, quail propagation would be doubled and even tripled and other wildlife would be greatly benefited.

APPENDICITIS CLAIMS FORMER FLOYD MAN AT PORTSMOUTH, OHIO

Garfield Johnson, 58, South Webster, O., former Floyd county man, died Monday night at a Portsmouth, O., hospital, after suffering a ruptured appendix.

A son of "Big" Jefferson Johnson, Weeksbury, who died 15 years ago, he was born and reared there, and 30 years ago moved to Shelby. Fifteen years later, he went to Ohio and had lived there since that time.

He was the father of Mrs. Henry Gray, West Prestonsburg, and two brothers, Warfield Johnson and Jefferson Johnson, now reside at Weeksbury. His widow is a sister of State Senator Joe P. Tackett.

NEWSOM JAILED HERE AFTER GIRL WOUNDED

Mack Newsom was in jail here this week as Ruth Daniels, 19, was recovering at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, of a flesh wound across her back from a revolver bullet. He was jailed by Constable Willie Johnson.

A report received here said the shooting took place Saturday night at Wheelwright Junction during a scuffle between Miss Daniels and Newsom for possession of the weapon. She was able to leave the hospital Tuesday.

HEART LEAKAGE FATAL TO 80-YEAR-OLD MAN AT STUMBO HOSPITAL

Heart leakage, from which he had suffered for some time, resulted Monday at the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey, in the death of Elijah Hicks, Lackey, at the age of 80. He had entered the hospital only a day prior to his passing.

Since the death of his wife 18 years ago, Mr. Hicks had resided with a daughter, Mrs. Maude Brewer, Lackey. He formerly was engaged in farming and was well-known in the Right Beaver Creek section. For a number of years he had been a member of the Regular Baptist Church.

Surviving are two sons, Jack of Bypro, and Mitchell of Lackey, and three daughters: Mrs. Brewer of Lackey, Mrs. Sally Martin, Estill, and Mrs. Cynthia Martin, Wayland; also four brothers and two sisters: Epperson Hicks, Millstone, Ind.; Bob Hicks, Lackey; Morgan Hicks, Handshoe; Reuben Hicks, Estill; Mrs. Bill Shepherd and Mrs. Leander Carpenter, both of Royalton.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday from the Church of Christ, Bosco, the Revs. M. C. Wright, E. H. Howard, Roy Belomy and Ed Howard officiating. Burial, under the auspices of the Glo Pallbearers' Association, was made in the Hays cemetery, Bosco, the Arnold Funeral Home directing the interment.

ENTERTAINS BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Robert D. Francis entertained her bridge club Wednesday night. Refreshments were served to Mesdames J. W. Howard, A. Mandt, J. D. Harkins, Jr., James Stephens, M. J. Leete, Jr., Carl Riffe, and Miss Gertrude Baughard.

INSURANCE FIRM SUED BY WIDOW OF MEADE

Originally filed in Johnson circuit court, the $10,000 death claim suit in which the New York Life Insurance Company is named defendant by Mrs. Edna M. Meade, of Paintsville, Ky., was transferred last week for trial during the May term of Eastern district court at Catlettsburg.

Claiming that her husband, J. Hobart Meade, was shot and killed by an unknown person on December 15, 1935, Mrs. Meade asks $10,000 double indemnity benefits under a $5,000 life policy held by her husband at the time of his death. In an answer to the petition, filed by the insurance company through Attorneys Bruce & Bullitt, of Louisville, liability under the policy is denied by allegations to the effect that Meade's death was suicide.

MRS. COMBS TO SPEAK OVER WHAS, APRIL 13

Mrs. Jane Combs, of the Prestonsburg high school faculty, will broadcast from WHAS, Louisville, on Thursday, April 13, from 12:05 to 12:15 (EST) in the capacity of state chairman of the American Citizenship department of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs. Her subject will be, "Our Living Constitution."

Her address is a part of the sesquicentennial celebration of the framing of the Constitution and of the first inauguration of George Washington as president. The celebration ends April 30.

DUNHAM'S SWINGSTERS TO PLAY AT RUSTIQUE

The Easter dance at the Club Rustique Saturday evening, is expected to be attended by the largest crowd of the season.

Music will be furnished by a return engagement of Dan Dunham's 12 Generals, decidedly the best swing band yet to play in Eastern Kentucky.

A feature of the band is Bill Miller and his trombone playing "Teatime," theme song of the band, which is his own composition.

CLEAR CREEK CITIZEN, HEART DROPSY VICTIM

Mose Hendtrson, 26, Clear Creek, died at the Beaver Valley hospital Sunday, after a several months' illness of heart dropsy.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Henderson. His mother is a daughter of "Aunt" Julia Meade, of Abbott Creek.

In addition to his parents and grandmother, he is survived by several brothers and sisters.

Funeral services were conducted at Clear Creek Tuesday, and interment was made there under the direction of the Arnold Funeral Home.
