

This Town---That World

WOE IS ME!

Any poor sap who would try to excuse himself from a newspaper office and take his alleged vacation in Cincinnati, meanwhile having to suffer through two games such as last Sunday afternoon's--well, you should excuse him for this or any other pitiful excuse for a column.

The doubleheader was terrible, folks. I'm telling you that--but you needn't mind about telling me how terrible this column is.

COOL OFF, WAY BACK

Some day when you haven't anything much important to do, visit the Floyd county courthouse. Cool off by delving deep into the antiquity of this section. In either Clerk's office you will find old records dating back to 1800 and earlier.

Just try, while perusing these old deeds, court orders and the like to visualize the old boys and girls as they appeared when these ancient documents were filed. Did they wear the traditional hickory shirts, moccasins, hoop-skirts, etcetera of the age?

Let your imagination play free--then step out, blinking, into the outdoor, 1940 brand of sunshine. How cool it was, back in the dim, distant past!

PURE FICTION, THIS

It seems that an American, foolish fellow, was on his way to Europe--by steamer. Alone, and lonely, he was. So, way out in mid-ocean, this fellow-countryman gets lonelier. So he goes down into the lounge salon. And there he encounters the lone occupant of said salon. And, after some hedging, he breaks the ice with:

"Would you join me in a whisky-and-soda?"

To which the dour, old gentleman replies, "No, sir, no--tried it once and didn't like it."

Knots and time flowed and sped past, and our American friend became lonelier and lonelier. What to do . . . What to do . . .

"Would you, sir, care to join me in a cigar?"

"Har-r-umph! No, sir. Tried it once and didn't like it."

Elapsed more time. And this American became lonelier yet for company.

"Would you," he ventured as a final offer to his dour companion, "care for a game of billiards?"

"No, tried it once and didn't like it. But my son will be along in a few minutes--he'll join you."

"Your ONLY son, I'm sure," rejoined the American.

WARNING!--NO PUSHING ALLOWED

Carl Wright, one of our very finest, though he has not been employed (officially speaking) by THE TIMES, is leaving soon for Florida where he will be a linotype operator. And Carl, during his spare moments here, has been doing some clipping from THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES. A stack of clippings, has Carl. Clippings which tell of one, two or three men having been shot; of a man or so having been cut. Clippings which relate Floyd county's tragedies of gun and knife and club.

Said Carl, when asked what he wanted with such morbid relics of past events:

"I just want to show the boys that they can't reasonably afford to push me around down there."

SOLEMN AFFAIRS, BOTH

Life is like a newspaper. You have your beginning, you grow and wax stronger, becoming a factor for good among your fellows, or you merely grow older, become weaker, fall and die--even as a newspaper.

Whatever you do, so we are taught, is written in the Book of Life. Whatever a newspaper sets down in type is imperishable, since it may be preserved in the original, re-printed, quoted or stored away in the secret recesses of the sub-conscious.

Having writ, you cannot erase a word of it" as Life goes on. And, gone "to bed" for the final edition, the newspaper has "said and done."

HOLBROOK DIES OF INJURIES

MIDDLE CREEK MAN SUCCUMBS AFTER FALL SUNDAY

Jonathan Holbrook, 48 years old, well-known Middle Creek man, succumbed Monday afternoon at a Paintsville hospital to injuries suffered early Sunday morning when he fell over a cliff near the home of his brother, Henry Holbrook, on Middle Creek.

According to reports the victim had left his home to visit his brother at about two o'clock Sunday morning. He was found at the base of the embankment at 8 a. m., Sunday by his brothers, Grover and Kelsey Holbrook, both of Middle Creek, and taken to the hospital. Paralyzed below the waist, his back was broken and the spinal cord was almost severed.

A life-long resident of Middle Creek, Mr. Holbrook was the son of the late L. B. Holbrook, who died several years ago, and Mrs. Cynthia Holbrook, who survives. He had been in charge of the Inland Gas Company pumping station at Hillsdale, Middle Creek, for several years.

Besides his mother he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Julia Holbrook, and four children, Grover and Clarence Holbrook, both at home, and Garmo Holbrook and Josephine Dyer, both of whom reside in Indiana; four brothers, Grover, Henry, Kelsey and Walter Holbrook, all of Middle Creek, and one sister, Mrs. Greenville Spradlin, Prestonsburg.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home of his mother on Middle Creek at one o'clock this afternoon (Thursday), with the Rev. W. B. Garriott, pastor of the Prestonsburg Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be made in the family cemetery, under the direction of the Arnold Funeral Home.

TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

I take this method of thanking the voters of Floyd county for their loyal support in the recent primary election. I appreciate it deeply. For those who saw fit to vote otherwise I have only the kindest feelings, recognizing the right of everyone to vote for his own choice. We will all be together for victory in November.

PLANS MADE FOR FISH FRY

FLOYD SPORTSMEN TO ENTERTAIN HERE SUNDAY

All arrangements were completed at Tuesday evening's meeting of the Floyd County Fish and Game Club for the big fish-fry to be held on Sunday, August 18, in the Porter bottom here.

This site, directly across the highway from the home of Circuit Judge Henry Stephens, was selected because of the convenient location, availability of parking space for an unlimited number of cars, the fact that there are plenty of shade trees for comfort and that the contour of the land will afford to the hundreds of persons expected to attend an unobstructed view of the many contests to be staged.

The program is to start at 10 o'clock in the morning and continue throughout the day. The club has ordered 300 pounds of fish which will be fried on the grounds and served in sandwiches, also large quantities of soft drinks and ice cream will be available. Prominent Floyd county sportsmen will direct the various contests, the winners of which will be given prizes. The complete program is as follows:

Coon chase, start 10:30--in charge, Arb Hayes.

Rolling Pin contest (for the ladies), start 1:30--in charge, S. L. Isbell.

Bait Casting contest, start 2:30--in charge, E. R. Burke.

Trap shooting contest, start 3:30--in charge, Chas. Horn.

Foxhound contest, start 4:30--in charge, C. H. Warren.

REA EXTENSION THRU FLOYD IS SEEN

TEN COMMUNITIES INTERESTED IN PLAN

Plans for the organization of a Floyd county co-operative whereby a large part of the rural territory of the county may procure electricity under the Rural Electrification Administration were formulated last week at a conference of REA representatives and officials of the Kentucky & West Virginia Power Company in the office of County Agent S. L. Isbell.

With present plans looking to electrification of at least 10 communities of the county, Gerald Dunn, Ashland, assistant superintendent of the Big Sandy division, Kentucky & West Virginia Power Company, said that, in communities where his company could not build lines because of the low number of consumers per mile and because of the tariff schedule fixed, his company will agree to stay out and to co-operate with the building of REA lines. At the same time he expressed on behalf of the power company his appreciation of the co-operation extended by County Agent Isbell in getting rural power lines built for the service of farm families.

Names of communities which the REA may be able to serve and of committeemen who volunteered to assist in forming the co-operative in their respective communities follow:

Abbott Creek--Milt Stanley, Polk Hill, Fred Wright, H. R. Burke. Already, 25 farmers have signed as members of the co-operative there.

Middle Creek, Right Fork--Ed Holbrook, J. W. Richardson, G. R. Spradlin.

SHOPPER LEAVES HOME, WISHES HE WAS NOT THERE

(By BILL HENRY)
(Editor's note: Bill Henry was traveling representative for eight years for two of the largest manufacturers of dresses and shoes in the United States. The Floyd County Times has the greatest confidence in his knowledge of merchandise.)

Ashland, Ky., (12 noon), August 14. I started out bargain hunting and the first thing I ran into when I left Prestonsburg in the wee, sm' hours this morning was a good old-fashioned rain storm. I thought as I drove along, of the people who could snooze away in their comfortable beds until the last moment, then if they needed something in a hurry, pick up the telephone and have it delivered immediately, or throw any old wrap over their shoulders and run across the street to a friendly merchant.

That is something pleasant to think about after you have worried and fretted for a week, getting ready to travel miles and miles; only to find when you get to a strange city, where no one knows or cares whether you are coming back, that what you thought you could get was the very dress, hat, shoes, bedroom suite you saw on display at one of the local merchant's a day or two before.

While driving through the storm was uncomfortable, I managed fairly

GROUP IS FORMED TO AID WPA

Hatcher Is Named To Head Group In County

With the Floyd fiscal court deferring action on rent payments for use of buildings in the county by certain WPA projects, an organization was effected at a meeting at the courthouse here Thursday evening to aid in the sponsorship of such projects.

J. J. Hatcher was named chairman of the committee, which is composed of Mayor E. P. Arnold of Prestonsburg, Dr. O. T. Stephens, Dr. Marvin Ransdell and H. T. Hill. W. H. Wheeler was chosen secretary of the organization.

At the same time, expected location of a WPA mattress factory at Martin was discussed. Product of the factory, working approximately 20 persons, would be distributed to the needy.

Dr. O. T. Stephens, chairman of the City Board of Education here, said that the school board is co-operating fully with the WPA garden lunch room project for the school which is expected to become active with the opening of the school term here.

Mayor Arnold pointed to the achievements of WPA and added that he believed the fiscal court would be glad to pay rent and to bear such other necessary expenses, if the court could be made to realize the importance of these projects. "The fiscal court," he declared, "cannot afford not to pay the rent on such a project as that in which commodities are distributed to the poor."

Others taking part in the discussion were Cal Day, chairman of the Pike county committee; Miss Rose Farmer, area supervisor of library projects; Miss McCormick, area supervisor of garden lunch room projects; Mrs. O. T. Stephens, Prestonsburg city school attendance officer; W. M. Hagans, office deputy for Sheriff Dial Salisbury; Dr. Marvin Ransdell, director of the Floyd county health department; P. J. Hatcher, chairman of the committee.

Next meeting of the organization will be held at the courthouse August 22, at 7:30 p. m.

It was also unanimously voted that plans be started at once to give Floyd county, this fall, a county fair second to none in the state.

MINER JAILED AFTER TWO SLAIN

HINDMAN BANKER'S SON HELD HERE AS SLAYER

To jealousy was ascribed this week the slaying of two Wheelwright men and the wounding of a third.

The dead are Clyde Robinson, 26, Inland Steel Company miner, and Clarence Little, 18, who was hit by a stray bullet. W. N. (Bill) Wells, 40, was shot through his arm.

Jailed here as the gunman who fired six shots from a revolver, killing the two men and wounding the third, Bordie Amburgy, 29-year-old miner-son of "Bob" Amburgy, Hindman bank official, Wednesday morning told THE TIMES that he had no statement to make concerning the shooting.

One report received here says that Amburgy Saturday night found Robinson at his home and that ill-feeling resulted from this incident.

Monday afternoon, according to the statements of several witnesses, Robinson and three others were engaged in a rook game on the sidewalk fronting the old school building on the mountainside overlooking Wheelwright. Amburgy sat on a step leading toward the building and slightly above the players.

Suddenly and without warning, these witnesses told County Attorney Forrest D. Short, Amburgy began firing. The card-players scattered, some sprawling downhill toward the street level below, some running wildly around the hillside.

Robinson was shot two times, one time through the body from side to side. Wells, another participant in the game, was shot through his arm. Little, at the bathhouse door, round the hillside from the shooting scene, fell with a bullet through his chest. He died en route to a Pikeville hospital. Robinson fell fatally wounded, nearby, and shortly expired.

Okley Church, Dock Conway, Canton Martin and Jay Little signed sworn statements before County Attorney Short to the effect that Amburgy began firing without speaking and while Robinson and the three others were occupied with their card game. Some of the witnesses said Robinson carried an automatic pistol but asserted that it was not fired.

ORDER ISSUED BY PRESIDENT

FOR THE DISTRIBUTION OF RELIEF SUPPLIES TO WAR REFUGEES

President Roosevelt last week issued an executive order, setting up machinery to distribute relief supplies to European war refugees under the act of Congress which appropriated $50,000,000 for this purpose. The President named Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to co-operate with the American Red Cross in purchasing foodstuffs and other materials for refugee aid.

At the time the appropriation was under consideration, prior to the fall of France, both President Roosevelt and Chairman Davis made it clear that the American Red Cross was not asking for financing from the government nor was the government proposing to finance the Red Cross. The Red Cross, Chairman Davis declared, intends to continue as an independent agency supported by the voluntary contributions of the public.

Also last week Chairman Davis, in an official report on the progress of relief activities in Europe, vigorously denied that Red Cross supplies had been seized by any of the belligerent nations. He reported that the goal of the $20,000,000 War Relief Fund was "in sight." The majority of the chapters have attained their quotas and brought their campaigns to a close, he said. As of July 26 the fund amounted to $19,823,510.

Referring to rumors that Germany had confiscated American Red Cross supplies and funds, Mr. Davis declared, "I want to assure the American people that there is no foundation whatsoever for such reports. I am able to state categorically that the German authorities have not seized one cent of Red Cross funds nor have they taken a single item of our supplies."

INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS

Because it is necessary for the City of Prestonsburg to receive at least $125,000.00 net cash from the sale of its Waterworks Revenue Bonds, and because of certain contracts in connection with the purchase of the waterworks system, and to insure true competitive bidding, all bidders are required to bid for exactly the bonds authorized, and no bid providing for any change in principal amount, rate of interest, maturity, or any other alteration whatsoever will be considered. Each bidder must further agree that actual payment for the bonds must be made at the Kentucky Title Trust Co., Louisville, Ky., at such time as the City may designate.

Each bid must be in dollars for the bonds, and must be for at least par and accrued interest. Each bidder must sign a copy of these instructions agreeing that the conditions herein shall be made a part of the bid.

Hunting Season Opens August 15

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 12—The hunting season opens in Kentucky on August 15 with the red and gray squirrel first on the list for the nimrods.

The squirrel season, which was changed by the last Legislature, opens August 15 and extends through October 31, both dates inclusive. The bag limit is six a day or 12 in possession at any time. Attention is also called to the fact that it is strictly against the law to buy or sell squirrels at any time.

Reports received by the Division of Game and Fish from its conservation officers and from interested sportsmen throughout the state, indicate a goodly number of both red and gray species of the squirrel family.

The hunters' attention is also called to the fact that all shotguns must be plugged with a solid wooden or metal plug so as not to hold more than three cartridges. Any person caught hunting any species of game with a gun that is not plugged to hold three shots is liable to arrest and upon conviction may either be fined not less than $15 nor more than $100 or suffer a jail sentence.

ALONG THE BIG SANDY

PIKE COUNTY MINE IS RE-OPENED

Pikeville—The old Hatcher mine at Big Shoal, closed down since March, 1938, resumed operation on a small scale Wednesday, under the guidance of the Major Elkhorn Coal Company, a new firm.

Officials of the company announced that about 50 men were working as the mine resumed operation.

They indicated that the payroll will be increased from time to time, as the extent of operation demands. In the past, when the mine was in full operation, about 200 men were employed.

The new company is a member of the Big Sandy Operators' Association, and has embraced a contract with the United Mine Workers of America.

The mine, long regarded as an important asset to business in Pikeville, was first operated by the James Hatcher Coal Company and in recent years by the Cameo Elkhorn Coal Company.

For the past several months, workmen have been busy at the mine, preparing for operation and installing equipment necessary for the reopening.

PIKEVILLE TO HOLD SAFETY DAY MEET

Pikeville—At least 10,000 persons, coal operators, miners and their friends from throughout this section of the country are expected to attend annual Safety Day exercises here on Saturday, September 21.

Officials of the Big Sandy-Elkhorn and Pond Creek-Tug River Coal Mining Institutes have been busy for the past several weeks arranging an all-day program.

A. D. Sisk, secretary of the Big Sandy Institute, announced that entry blanks are being received daily from first aid and mine rescue teams throughout the field.

Mr. Sisk said a new feature, a patriotic program, will be added to the schedule of events this year. Boy Scouts will have a prominent part, he said.

JOHNSON HIGH SCHOOLS OPEN MONDAY

Paintsville—Johnson county's four high schools opened simultaneously Monday morning, August 12 for the 1940-41 school year. These institutions, located in the rural sections of the county, are Oil Springs High, Flat Gap High, Jennies Creek High and Meade Memorial at Williamsport.

An increased attendance is expected at each school this year. The teaching personnel of the four schools has not been fully completed, but is expected to be this week.

METHODIST CHURCHES TO CONSOLIDATE

Paintsville—At a meeting of the members of the Mayo Memorial Church last Sunday a vote was taken to determine the census of church members on the question of combining the two Methodist Churches into one organization.

The vote was unanimous that the two churches unite into one church organization.

The action taken by the Mayo Memorial Church Sunday is definite. Nothing more is required by the church to effect the merger. It is up to the membership of the First M. E. Church to take action, and it is reported that members of that church organization favor the plan.

The Mayo Memorial Church at the corner of Third and College streets is probably the most imposing church edifice in the Big Sandy and is spacious enough to comfortably house the combined membership of the two churches and this building would probably be used in the event a union is effected.

4-H District Fair Covers 53 Counties

Fifty-three counties have been invited to participate in the annual 4-H Club District Fair at Lexington August 27, 28 and 29. In these 53 counties are more than 20,000 boys and girls belonging to 4-H clubs.

The exhibits will include clothing, canned and baked foods, and room improvement equipment, for girls; and livestock, crops, fruit and vegetables for boys. There also will be a style revue, judging contests, demonstrations, and recreational events.

The Fayette County Future Farmers Fair will also be held during the three days, and the Kentucky Jersey Cattle Club will have its annual Jersey show the last day.

RETURNS HOME TO TENNESSEE

Rev. and Mrs. O. L. Minks, who have been visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Archer, of Prestonsburg, returned to their home at McMinnville, Tenn., Monday. They were accompanied by their son, Jack. Another son, Bobby, has been spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Archer, and will remain for some time yet. He is at present attending a camp for boys.

Rev. Minks is prominent in civic affairs in the city and county in which he resides. He is responsible for the formation, in his county, of a club, known as The Better Government League, the purpose of which is to promote a better understanding between the people and law enforcement officials.

AN OPEN LETTER to All Kentucky Beer Retailers

Your license is a valuable and protected permit to engage in a legitimate business . . . but in that business, among your group, are a few persons who fail to realize that their license is also a privilege which may be revoked if it is not respected.

The vast majority of retail beer licensees are aware of this fact and conduct their establishments in accordance with law, order and public sentiment. But Kentucky's $20,000,000 beer industry insists that all retail outlets be operated strictly upon the principles of good citizenship.

Toward this end there has been formed the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee, which is assisting law-enforcement officials in every way possible to clean up or close up outlets guilty of law violations or anti-social practices. Our work will be pressed vigorously as the campaign progresses.

This program is designed to protect the public interest and to safeguard your business from the selfish and unlawful acts of a small minority. We feel certain, therefore, of your support.

EXCUSE IT, PLEASE!

Bad manners play a clear-cut, major part in the occurrence of all highway accidents. By bad manners, we mean disregard for the other drivers on the road, characterized by bad temper, impulsiveness, breaking of established rules and customs, carelessness.

It is our firm conviction that closer observance of the little niceties which bespeak good manners will help to reduce highway accidents.

Heading the list of the causes of highway accidents is "speed too fast for conditions," a classification covering a multitude of highway errors. In our opinion, a much more understandable cause in all these cases is highway discourtesy, speeding through crowded areas, through intersections, over icy or wet roads; all reflect a complete disregard for the rights and lives of others. Driving on the wrong side of the road ranks second in the highway accident register, is typified by such bad driving as passing on hills, turns, crossing over white lines. Violation of right-of-way, high in the list of accident causes, is a very common breach of highway manners; disregard of stop signs is another. All show an astonishing lack of concern for courtesy toward others.

Nor does the pedestrian present a clean slate when it comes to the consideration of highway manners. That such is the case is well demonstrated by the fact that more than two-thirds of pedestrian fatalities were caused because of a violation or engagement in some obviously unsafe act. Jay walking, children playing in roads, failure to walk correctly on highways are all violations of highway courtesy.

Passing on a curve may well cause another car to head into a ditch or tree and severely injure those in that car whereas the driver in the offending car escapes unscathed. Crashing a red light may cause a pedestrian's death while the car operator goes unharmed. Do you think these things and all the other social errors on the road can be "excused?"

Little Potatoes Poison Livestock

Several cases of animals poisoned by potato vines or by the little green potatoes seen on top of the ground at digging time, have come to attention of the department of animal pathology at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Potato tops when wilted about digging time are known to be poisonous to stock. Turning livestock into the patch after digging sometimes results in the loss of hogs from eating little green potatoes.

P'burg Girls' Team Advances Step In Tourney

Past the first hurdle on their way through the tri-state softball tournament at Huntington, with St. Louis their next stopping-place unless they meet defeat in one of their two remaining games this week, was the Prestonsburg girls' softball team.

The girls defeated the Powers Laundry team, Huntington, Tuesday night, 13-6. They return for the second round of play Thursday night. Only four of the original starters remain in the tournament.

Though they played through a steady drizzle, the Prestonsburg girls made a favorable impression in their win over Huntington's last team remaining in the tournament. They meet the Fairmont, W. Va., girls Thursday evening.

Anne Hagans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hagans, twirled impressive ball for the winners in their first contest of the meet.

For in your kidneys there are nine million tubes which must work day and night to filter the fluids and keep the system free from wastes, acids, poisons which, if permitted to remain, may cause serious kidney and bladder troubles.

It is no wonder then that Nature often calls for help to clean out the kidneys. So if you are troubled with Getting-Up-Nights, Leg Pains, Backache, Nervous Headache, Dizziness or Loss of Energy, due to functional kidney disorders, try KIDANS, the famous kidney remedy, which aids Nature to flush out the kidneys, to filter all wastes, to prevent kidney stagnation.

KIDANS is Safe and Reliable. Thousands report entire satisfaction. Taken according to directions, KIDANS will give splendid results. Try KIDANS. Buy it at our Special Price Offer on two boxes. Use one box. If not satisfied, return unopened box and GET YOUR MONEY BACK.

Corn Worm Infestation Can Be Reduced

Worm infestation in corn can be reduced as much as 80 percent by a method in use at the horticultural department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture.
The process is to cut the ends of the ears, as far back as "brownish" substance caused by worms appears, four to five days after pollination. Drop the ends in a basket, and burn to destroy the worms and eggs. Corn 90 percent infested often has been saved almost entirely by this method.
This method is applicable especially by the home gardener, who will not mind having the ends of the ears snipped. However, selling the corn thus treated has been tried successfully. Commercial users apparently do not object to it.
Dusting the corn with insecticides has not been found successful so far, it is reported. Not merely must the dusting be repeated every three to four days, but unless the exact time is found to get the worms, it becomes useless.
A detailed report of the new method, covering the college's work on the subject for the past three years, has been prepared by Dr. E. M. Emmert of the horticultural department. Copies of the report may be obtained by writing to Dr. Emmert.

THE GARDEN

STORAGE FOR WINTER VEGETABLES

Last week, the matter of storing the "warm" crops, notably sweet potatoes, was discussed and several simple ways were described. Although these are passably successful, yet if any considerable amount of such vegetables are to be stored, a specially designed structure does is more satisfactorily. Besides, having a "warm vegetable" storage place disposes of the matter of keeping safely the canned vegetables; this is sometimes a thorny problem.

The storage should be such that a 50-degree temperature can be held with ease. This means that the walls, the ceiling and the floor should be tightly built. In "professional" houses, this is the construction. The walls are made of 2 by 4's, sheeted on both sides, then covered with paper, and the inside finished with matched lumber, and the outside with clear sheeting, with striped joints, or with weatherboarding.

The ceiling is composed of sheeting nailed to the rafters, a layer of paper, and covered with matched lumber. The floor construction is the same, but tongue-and-groove No. 1 flooring is used over the paper and the sheeting. Besides, a small stove is provided, to be fired in emergency.

A "warm" room so built in a house cellar, for example, can be held at just the temperature, regardless of the rest. Likewise, so can a room partitioned off in an outbuilding, whose construction is too flimsy.

Dryness of air is assured by providing ventilation, the admittance of outside air, and the passing off of moisture the stored vegetables emit. Advantage is taken of the fact that moist air rises. Thus, vents are placed at the highest point in the ceiling, whose combined area in square inches is that of the floor, in square feet. Air intake is effected by vents in the floor or at the floorline, located next to the heating stove, to remove the chill, when ventilation is given in cold times.

A thermometer should always be at hand, and it should stand at 50 degrees. The humidity should be watched, when there is any sign of condensed moisture on the ceiling, the first fire should be started and the vents opened and kept open, until the ceiling is dry again, and all signs of mustiness are gone. Then, all vents are closed.

Such a "warm" room will prove a source of satisfaction to have, and every gardener should scout the possibilities of having one of his own. For large quantities of potatoes or squash to store, a special building should be constructed. The Farm Engineering Department of the College of Agriculture is prepared to render plans and advice, for houses of whatever size desired. The address is Lexington, Ky.

Shopper Leaves Home

as note books, face tissues, tooth paste, small jars of creams . . . various little items where the retail price is the same throughout the entire United States. Otherwise, the same rate of mark-up prevails as in the general stores.

One gets the feeling the geographical location of Ashland and Prestonsburg should be reversed, if additional freight mileage is supposed to affect retail prices; when the price tags stare you in the face you wonder how the merchants in Prestonsburg can operate on so small a percentage of profit. Ashland has certainly expanded in population, but it reminds me of an overgrown youngster at the voice-changing stage . . . the body is large and it is trying to live up to its size rather than its actual capacity commercially. In a few minutes I'll be off to Huntington, if, after pushing and elbowing my way through crowds of strangers all afternoon who will be clawing at each other to get to the bargain counters, if, (in big letters) there is anything left of me, I will finish this article from there. I have been writing this, sitting in a hotel lobby, with a portable typewriter poised precariously on the corner of a writing desk, and I'll tell you right now I don't like it (the portable typewriter.) It bounces around like a jumping-jack and I feel like mailing it, parcel post, C.O.D., to Norman Allen of the Floyd County Times, who loaned it to me. By the way, as I came through Catlettsburg this morning I wondered why there had been so much howling for a seawall to protect it . . . there is nothing to protect any more, a few more years, at the rate it is going "they can give it back to the Indians."

Those two little dots just above represent Huntington, W. Va. Don't get me wrong, the town is nice, the people are nice and they have many beautiful buildings; but have you ever strained your eyes, hour after hour, looking at an array of bright colors, stretching your neck to see over crowded shoulders, staring into the glare of flashing, artificial lights . . . then you can appreciate what I mean. My eyes, after five hours of looking, from the time I arrived here from Ashland, until now, it is 6 p. m., see nothing but spots.

Huntington, of course, has numerous stores, it has been "grown up" for a long time. However, what I came here for was not to count the buildings, or find out whether the drug stores were selling silk hosiery, but to see to what extent the merchandise offered the public here differs from what the merchants of Floyd county are able to offer. It is not necessary that one actually "know" materials, although it does help.

Today, labels are placed on most anything we have occasion to buy, telling you in a word or two what it is. As an example, some dresses I looked at this afternoon were marked "special" at $2.95. They were pretty and the store I happened to be in was doing a rush business in them, but there were two things very, very wrong about them; the material was not pre-shrunk and they were not tub-fast. There will be many surprised and disgusted ladies after the first washing when they find that particular dress comes above their knees. I have personally purchased dresses in Prestonsburg, not just once but many times (my wife sends me shopping), for as low as $2.45 that not only matched what I saw today in color and style, but carried labels guaranteeing them to be pre-shrunk and tub-fast. I saw shoes this afternoon, shelves upon shelves of them. I watched in one large shoe department and the only difference I could find was that they simply had a larger stock of the same styles and numbers to be found in Prestonsburg. One thing that I have paid particular attention to is the difference in the friendly, personal service I receive from the merchants of Floyd county and that cold, business-like I-never-saw-you-before feeling I get when I shop here.

I'm going to start home now. Prestonsburg looks better to me than I ever thought it could look. I want to get back where, when I walk down the street, I can wave a hand in friendly salute and call people by their first names. To hear some one say, "Hello, Bill," sounds awfully good to my ears. The moment I get home, I'm not only going to give Norman Allen back this portable typewriter, but I shall charge him up with a complete over-haul job on my car . . . I'll no doubt hit every one of those same holes on the way back.

As I sit here writing this I think of the merchants in Prestonsburg, and I feel like making a special visit to each one, just to say, "Mister, I'm glad you are here." I think of the real, everyday bargains the general stores are offering, and until you write their names down on a piece of paper you would not realize how many of this type of store Prestonsburg has:

- Francis Cash Store
- The Leader
- Paul Francis
- Cox Department Store
- Glazer's Store
- I. Richmond Company
- J. H. Nunnery's Department Store
- Anderson's Department Store
- Scott's Department Store

I remember that Prestonsburg is the home of the largest and finest hardware and furniture stores in Eastern Kentucky:

- Morell Supply Company
 - Valley Wholesale Furniture Co.
- In comparison to the ready-to-wear shops I saw on my tour today, I much prefer:

- The Margaret Mann Shop
 - Bertha Walls' Dress Shop
- I saw many brightly lighted windows of jewelry stores and flower shops, but the selections for value offer nothing better than:

- Leete's Jewelry Store
- I have had three meals "down the river," one in Ashland and two in Huntington. I was surrounded by a lot of nice fixtures . . . But when I am hungry I can't satisfy my appetite looking at those . . . I'll take the home-like atmosphere at:

- Dick's Restaurant
- Smith's Restaurant
- Conley's Restaurant

I was almost blinded by the bright lights in the 10 cent stores, but there for the purpose to try to make you think you are buying a diamond instead of an inexpensive item. I would rather have the honesty and friendliness of:

- The J. B. Dick 10-Cent Store
 - The Ben Franklin Store
- In the grocery stores there are loads of cans and fresh vegetables. The quantity is just because they are serving a large population. I get the same things and a smile with them from:

- Fred's Market
 - Perry's Grocery
- Washing machines, ironers, refrigerators, car loads of them. All manufactured by the same firms who supply our own local merchants. Their prices are no better here, and if anything went wrong with one, I'd have an awful time getting their repair man up the Big Sandy. I'll buy mine from: Cumberland Maytag Shop

- Henry Porter and Co.
 - (Frigidaire)
- The barber shops here may have enough help that you do not have to wait long, but I have never found that I lost any time at:

- Hall and Baldrige's Barber Shop

In the evening at home, I don't have to walk blocks upon blocks to see what is "on" at the theaters. I know I can depend on a good program, for I realize our local operators have to please me, so I will come again and again. I also know the interior of our home theaters compare with the best:

- Abigail Theater
- Broadway Theater
- Patty Theater

After the theater I want to be able to stop in at a drug store where I can relax and not be made feel I have to swallow my drink in one gulp just to give some one else a seat. I feel comfortable in my home drug stores, and when I take a prescription to them I have perfect confidence in:

- Hughes Drug Store
 - Hutsiniller Drug Store
- At the same time I think of the merchants, I can't help but appreciate the many individuals who are always ready with a helping hand to make their community better. I am proud, and I know Floyd county is, of such men as:

- Mayor E. P. Arnold
- (The E. P. Arnold Funeral Home)
- J. J. (Jimmie) Hatcher
- (Hatcher's Insurance Agency)
- N. M. (Bud) White
- (Distributor, wire rope; oil and greases; explosives.)
- C. H. Smith
- (Distributor, Gulf Oil products)

I haven't forgotten the automobile agencies. I "sort of" left them to the last because I know on my trip back tonight the old bus is going to remind me with every squeak that it is high time it is being retired to "Green Pastures." I know, when the time comes, I can get the right car for my needs from:

- Carler Motor Sales
- (Buick and Olds Dealer)
- Howard Motor Company
- (Ford Dealers)
- Valley Chevrolet Sales
- (Chevrolet Dealers)
- AU REVOIR

A portion of this mass testimony indicated that Amburgy was drinking, shortly before the shooting took place. Amburgy was arrested, a few minutes after the firing ceased, by Police-men Gus Little and "Con" Cheek and brought to jail here.

NO EXCITEMENT

One witness to the tragedy told County Attorney Short that he called to Amburgy, asking what was happening. "Oh, no excitement at all," the witness quoted Amburgy as saying. "Just having a little fun."

Surviving Robinson are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherd Robinson; three brothers, Marvin Robinson of Cliff, Claude Robinson of Jenny's Creek and Frank Robinson of the U. S. Navy, and one sister, Mrs. Ruth Daniels, of Paintsville.

Funeral rites were conducted for Mr. Robinson Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. W. B. Garriott, pastor of the Methodist Church here, officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery.
