Roadhouses Cited As Crime Scenes by Grand Jury In Final Report

Final report of the grand jury of the January term of the Floyd circuit court Friday morning recommended that a subsequent grand jury make an investigation of alleged excessive claims being allowed for delivery of WPA commodities in Floyd county...

The grand jury which ended a nine-day session Friday reported to Circuit Judge Henry Stephens, Jr., that it had not had sufficient time in which to make a thorough probe into these matters...

The report, in full, follows: "The grand jury of the regular January term, 1940, of the Floyd circuit Court, desires to make this, its final report. We were empaneled, and instructed on January 1, 1940, and immediately thereafter started our investigations, remaining in session in all, a term of nine days, during which time we have called 241 witnesses and have returned 153 true bills. Of the number of indictments returned a large majority are for felonies committed within Floyd county, several of which were for homicides committed. In our investigation of crime, we have noted that most of the felonies committed were at or near road houses or places of public entertainment and we would commend the action of the county officials in attempting to regulate such places of public entertainment."

This Town-- That World

PAROLED, PARDONED GONE AND WENT

Convict No. 28317 left "prison" this week. And thereby hangs a story.

He first went behind the walls, became a non-entity, operating as nothing more than a number, something like 21 years ago. That was at Paintsville, Ky. If his career had been followed as it should have been in "the public prints," he probably would, as now, be the most infamous criminal in these "parts."

He was a bright, glib chap in those days. Those who put him inside admired him most. And for several years he was bright and glib, a "smoothie" if ever there was one. Then the days began to pall upon him, the "prison" life began to take its toll. He became, along toward the end, a downright degenerate. In the prison factory he was inefficient; sometimes, you couldn't tell whether he was up or down. The old boy might have had a few years more in him, but the prison doctor had to be helped too much by doctors from the outside--and those "outside" boys charge you know.

While he was going, he was a eloquent cuss. He poured out volumes and volumes of "stuff"--some good, some bad. Now that he is gone, a few folks may remember some of the things he got across to the public. His memory remains with us here; we hope that something he wrote will remain with you. . . . Anyway, Saturday, his "deliverance" came. He made way for a new "prison" (Please turn to page eight)

FLOYD RESIDENTS' KIN CLAIMED BY ILLNESS OF YEAR AT ASHLAND

Mrs. Minnie Blevins Gibbs, 53, of Ashland, sister of Sam. Lindsey and Roy Blevins and Mrs. Wannie Brown, all of Betsy Layne, died at her home early Tuesday afternoon. She had been in poor health for the past year.

A native of Johnson county, Mrs. Gibbs had lived at Ashland for 14 years. Also surviving are her husband, Frank Gibbs; four sons and three daughters, all of Ashland; one other brother, Troy Blevins, of Ashland, and two other sisters, Mrs. Bernice Sellers and Mrs. Alice Blevins, both of Paintsville.

Funeral services were conducted this (Thursday) afternoon from the Missionary Baptist Church, Ashland, and burial was made in the Dixon cemetery there.

DOUBLE WEDDING IS SOLEMNIZED JAN. 18 AT STEPHENS' HOME

Home here of Circuit Judge and Mrs. Henry Stephens, Jr., was the scene on January 18 of an event of social importance throughout this section. It was the marriage of Judge and Mrs. Stephens' son, Edgar Preston Stephens, to Miss Rose Ranier and of Miss Joan Williams and Mr. Jack Salisbury.

Both nuptial ceremonies were solemnized by the Rev. Campbell Jeffries, pastor of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church. Marriage of Miss Williams and Mr. Salisbury was first consummated, and this union was followed, shortly afterward by that of Mr. Stephens and Miss Ranier. The only attendant was Miss Dona Bailey.

Mrs. Salisbury is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Williams Betsy Layne, Ky. Mr. Salisbury, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Salisbury, is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school and continued his studies at the University of Kentucky.

Mrs. Stephens is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Ranier, of Prestonsburg, and is one of the town's most attractive girls. She is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school. Mr. Stephens was graduated from the Kentucky Military Institute at Lyndon, Ky., and from the University of Kentucky, Lexington. He is associated with his father in the First National Bank.

FIVE-YEAR TERMS METED BY JURIES

Officer Gets Sentence For False Arrest; Bradley Is Convicted

Charged with arresting another without authority of law, Deputy Sheriff Tom Parsons (or Akers) was convicted by a jury of the Floyd circuit court Thursday, last week, and given a five year penitentiary term.

Two days later, Aaron Bradley, accused of wilful murder in the slaying near Estill of Earl Huff, received the same sentence.

Today (Thursday) the trial of Lacey Triplett on a charge of shooting at without wounding Joe Bradley in an exchange of shots near Estill, was drawing to its close. Bradley, given trial earlier in the present court term, received a two-year sentence.

Both Parsons and Bradley will appeal from the verdicts against them.

The officer, named particularly in the alleged "false" arrest of Miss Margaret Elliott, contended that he drove up to where the late Dewey Salisbury and Jake Salisbury had arrested a number of young men and women, that he did so because he thought there had been a car wreck, that he did not leave his auto at the scene of the arrests and had no part in the proceedings. After five persons had been brought to his car and lodged inside, his testimony continued, they left, walked back to where the other cars were parked. A few minutes later, he continued, Miss Elliott and Johnny Ison came to his car and said, "Well, if we have to go, we want you to take us." He claimed that, after the party arrived here, he had no personal knowledge of where they went. Parsons went into the jail, his testimony maintained, to telephone for a doctor to attend Ison who had been struck in the head.

The Commonwealth produced testimony, however, claiming that Parsons assisted in the arrest and was on the scene of the arrests at all times. One witness testified that he was present, revolver in hand. Prosecution evidence also contended that the defendant was present in the jail while Dewey Salisbury was booking the prisoners.

Grover C. Allen, of Jackson, assisted in the prosecution. C. B. Wheeler was defense counsel. (Please turn to page eight)

"Yes, I Am!" -- "No, You're Not!" Are Claims Of Rival Debaters

Hall and Hunt in Week-Long Argument Over Hunt's Status in Church of Christ--Crowds Hearing Them Require Larger Quarters in Martin School Building

Special to The Times Martin, Ky., Jan. 31--Martin's church troubles this week resolved themselves into a battle of words between two ministers, the Rev. Roy Hall and the Rev. Julian Hunt, on the subject, "Resolved, That Julian Hunt Is Not a Member of the Church of Christ."

The Reverend Hunt, of course, has the negative side of the question. The debate, scheduled to continue for six nights, started off Monday evening in the auditorium of the old school building here, but was moved to the new auditorium as the crowd overflowed the quarters in the old building.

Approximately 15 ministers from three states, Kentucky, West Virginia and Ohio, are attending each setto. These two debaters may address as "Brother," but the appellation does not obtain when the two address each other.

Each session, the exchange of ideas and retorts courteous grow warmer. The Reverend Hall maintains that his opponent is not a member of the Church of Christ, but has the "earmarks of belonging to the Christian Church."

The Reverend Hall, in early debates this week, stated his objections to church support of orphans' homes and colleges. "Orphans' homes are nothing but big rackets," he alleged. He added that he doesn't believe in Ladies' Aid Societies or Christian Endeavor groups. His opponent accuses Hall of trying to bribe him by offering him a salary of $45 a month.

JOBLESS BENEFITS GRANTED MINERS

In Ruling Handed Down By Letcher Circuit Judge Fields

Circuit Judge R. Monroe Fields, of Letcher county, Tuesday ruled that Kentucky miners thrown out of work March 31 by the expiration of the existing two-year contract between coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America are entitled to unemployment compensation.

The court order reversed and set aside the ruling of the Unemployment Compensation Commission of Kentucky which denied the miners compensation for the "holiday" period.

Although Judge Field's decision directly affects only miners of Letcher county who were parties to the appeal, actually it affects other thousands of miners throughout Eastern Kentucky coal fields. A test case, the litigation will be taken to the Court of Appeals.

Judge Fields held that Carl Hall, who brought the suit, and other claimants similarly situated, were entitled to compensation for total unemployment growing out of the cessation of work at the mines of the Consolidated Coal Company in Letcher county, which began when the contract expired. Judge Fields previously had held that the United Mine Workers could not sue on behalf of its members, but that Hall could bring the action for himself and other miners similarly situated.

The contract that expired March 31 was arrived at through collective bargaining. Judge Fields held, between employers and employees in the entire bituminous coal area of the United States, and shortly before the expiration of the contract, representatives of both sides met at New York City to negotiate for a new contract.

At this meeting, he continued, repre-

DECISION RE-OPENS CHURCH AT MARTIN

Ruling Enjoins Hunt Brothers From Preaching In Building

Padlocked since last November on orders of the Floyd circuit court and because of a dispute as to who should or should not have rights of peaceable possession of the Church of Christ at Martin, the place of worship was reopened Saturday when Circuit Judge Henry Stephens, Jr., ruled that the original trustees shall surrender to Ane Muncy, Charley Caudill and Bascom Crisp custody and control of the church property as trustees, and that the Reverends Julian and Keenly Hunt are permanently enjoined from molesting or interfering with these three trustees in the peaceable possession and occupation of the church property.

Thus was the case decided in court--and not by "fist and skull," as one litigant stated another had threatened as a possibility.

Judge Stephens' decision was rendered after the action taken by Elzie Click, one of the original trustees, had been dismissed on Click's own motion.

Effect of the decision is to permit the Rev. A. E. Harper to preach in the church, unmolested, and to bar the Hunt brothers from the place of worship as long as their absence is desired by those in opposition to them.

Judge Stephens' ruling provided that the defendants recover their costs from Ida M. Parker, but not individually. Mrs. Parker's petition for an appeal to the Appellate Court was granted.

ROY C. LEARD, 62, CLAIMED BY DEATH

Warfield Sp't Dies At Huntington After Year's Illness

Roy Clarence Leard, Superintendent of the Warfield Natural Gas Company here, died at his home in Huntington, W. Va., Saturday following an illness of more than a year. He died on his 62nd birthday.

In ill health for more than a year, Mr. Leard had been on "sick leave" from his duties, Glover Spencer being Superintendent-in-charge. His death was ascribed to sclerosis of the liver, his condition becoming critical a few weeks ago.

Beginning his work in the oil and gas industry with the South Penn Oil Company, Mr. Leard became associated with the Columbia Gas & Electric Company, of which the Warfield Natural Gas Company is an affiliate, in 1912. His experience in the industry was probably as wide as that of any man in this section.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Anna Leard; four daughters, Miss Marie Leard, at home, Mrs. Clyde Morris, of Beckley, W. Va., Mrs. Guy Meabons, of Charleston, W. Va., and Mrs. M. W. Armstrong, of Frankfort, Ky. A sister, Mrs. H. E. Hazlett, Newell, W. Va., and one brother, N. H. Leard, Fort City, Pa., also survive.

Funeral services were conducted from the residence, 825 Ninth street, Monday afternoon, the Rev. T. Harry Patterson, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, Huntington, officiating. Burial was made in Woodmere cemetery. Services at the cemetery were conducted by the F. & A. M. lodge.

Attending the funeral and burial from Prestonsburg were the following Warfield Natural Gas Company employees: Glover Spencer, Willie Mellon, J. D. Thomas, Wilson Stepp, Caudill Stanley, E. B. May, W. G. Stiles, Arnold Compton, Ralph Taylor.

HOUSING PROBLEM STUDIED BY PCBA

Business Group Here Active In Keeping Business At Home

The Prestonsburg Co-Operative Business Association will make every effort possible to find living accommodations in Prestonsburg for army engineers engaged in preliminary work on the dam at Dewey, this county.

Moreover, the club will work toward a full realization for Prestonsburg and Floyd county of the business benefits to accrue from the location of the dam in this county and within a few miles of Prestonsburg.

To achieve these ends, the business men at their meeting Friday night appointed committees to work with the Floyd fiscal court in having a road built from Prestonsburg to the site of the dam.

Dr. Marvin Ransdell, Dr. C. L. Huttsimpiller and Dr. G. A. Culbertson were named to locate landlords who have residences, rooms or apartments for rent, and they are asking owners of vacant property to contact them at once.

The committee named to contact the fiscal court relative to the road is composed of C. H. Smith, A. C. Carter, John Warrick and E. P. Hill, Jr.

OFFICERS JAIL SLONE FOR THE SHOOTING OF HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW

L. C. Slone, of Garrett, was jailed here Sunday, a few hours after he had shot his brother-in-law, Orville Hall, three times in what authorities described as "a drunken row."

Hall, shot through the left lung, the shoulder and arm, was said to be "doing fine" Tuesday at the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey.

County Attorney Forrest D. Short said that he had been told that Hall had thrown Slone onto the ground and was beating him on the head with a blackjack when Slone began firing. He added that he had not confirmed a report reaching him from persons who quoted Hall as saying that the fight was his fault and that he did not want Slone prosecuted.

The shooting took place shortly before midnight, Saturday. Slone was arrested by Policeman Tracy Salisbury and Deputy Constable L. A. Allen. He was released under $2,000 bond.

BROADWAY THEATRE'S OPENING, SCHEDULED FOR FRIDAY, FEB. 9

Prestonsburg's newest theatre, "The Broadway," will open Friday, February 9, showing "The Amazing Mr. Williams," M. C. Elliott, owner, announces.

Construction of the building, installation of seats and projection and sound equipment was being pushed this week in order to "get in under the wire" before the date scheduled for the opening.

The Broadway, 100 feet long by 46 wide, will seat approximately 500 persons. The seats are of the new arch-spring type, Simplex projection machines and Four-Star sound, both said to be the newest in their field, were being installed this week.

Mr. Elliott will be in active charge of the theatre.

'CATS NIP LOUISA, MARTIN QUINTETS

Meade Memorial, Dorton and Inez Scheduled For Coming Week

By downing Louisa there Friday night, 34-23, and then walloping the Martin high school Purple flash, 54-28, Saturday night, Coach Bob Harlowe's Prestonsburg Blackcats won their fifth straight victory over the week-end. Other victims of their current win streak are Paintsville, Belfry and Pikeville College Academy.

In the Louisa game both teams began slowly and at the end of the first quarter the Blackcats were leading, 7-4. At the intermission they had built up a comfortable 20-8 lead.

In the third period, with many Prestonsburg reserves seeing action, the 'Cats scored three points, while the losers were making six. Both teams played on fairly equal terms in the final quarter, each making nine points.

Thirty-eight personal fouls were called during the game, 22 of which were on Prestonsburg. Hunter and Salisbury were sent to the showers via the foul route, and Louisa lost Lyons. F. Heinze, Blackcat forward, captured scoring honors by sinking four field goals and three free tosses for 11 points. Simpson, Louisa forward, was runner-up, with nine points.

In the only game scheduled between the two teams for the current season, the 'Cats experienced little difficulty in swamping Martin, 54-28, on the local floor. Unable to pierce successfully the Prestonsburg defense, the visitors were limited to one field goal in the first half. Their second two-pointer was made midway in the third period.

With Heinze and Damron, Prestonsburg forwards, hitting the net consistently, the Blackcats went into the lead soon after the game began, and at

COURT ADVERTISES FOR BIDS ON WPA FOODSTUFF HAULING

Program of Rural Road Improvement Outlined at Monday's Meeting

RESOLUTION FROWNS ON LARGER TRUCKS

Approximately 125 Miles Of Road Embraced in Floyd Program

Following the report made by the Floyd circuit court's grand jury, placing the cost of WPA commodity deliveries in this county as "excessive," and recommending that a future grand jury investigate the matter further, the Floyd fiscal court Monday voted to advertise for bids and to contract for delivery of these commodities to "the lowest and best bidder."

Magistrate Joe Prater introduced the motion calling for a vote on the order. Magistrate Daniel Akers seconded it. The order authorizes County Attorney Forrest D. Short to advertise in THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES for bids to be filed not later than February 10. Contracts to be let under provisions of the order will be from month to month until terminated by either party to the contract or contracts on 10 days' written notice.

At the same time the court allotted the rural highway fund of Floyd county this year to the construction and maintenance of approximately 125 miles of county highways.

A "rider" to the resolution specifying where the fund which amounts this year to $22,869.96, shall be spent provides that, if $2,000 is not paid on the bridge across the Big Sandy river at Betsy Layne, the resolution is null and void.

The court also passed a resolution for transmission to the Kentucky Legislature, protesting the proposed increase in the size and tonnage limits of trucks. The resolution reads: "Be it resolved by the Fiscal Court of Floyd county, Ky., that all legislation now pending, or hereafter introduced, in the General Assembly of Kentucky allowing an increase in length or load capacity of trucks be and the same is hereby condemned by the Fiscal Court as being improper and unfair, as well as hazardous to traffic."

Of the action of the fiscal court, ordering commodity delivery on contract awarded to low bidders, County Attorney Short said: "This is what Judge Hill and I tried to get done, back in July. The record for our meeting that month shows that just this sort of order was voted down by the Magistrates."

Road projects listed for improvement through use of the rural highway fund and the mileage affected on each project follow:

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

WILLIAM TRIMBLETOE

Who was William Trimbletoe? I have never found any learned references to him, as well known as he was to us children of other generations. Like Jack Horner and Old Hother Hubbard and Tom the Piper's Son, he apparently lived his life and departed, leaving no heirs and no biographers.

We knew him around the fire in winter evenings, when we played games. He gave his name to a counting-out game. Each child participating laid down on a chair or some one's knee a dirty finger. The one who was it touched a finger with each word as he repeated this rigmorale:

"William Trimbletoe, he's a good fisherman;

Catches hens, puts them in pens. Some lay eggs, some none. Wire, briar, limber lock, Three geese in a flock; One flew east, one flew west, One flew over the cuck-oo's nest. Clock fell down, Mouse run around,

O. U. T. spells out and gone, You old dirty dishrag, YOU!"

The grubby finger touched on YOU there were lots of ways to run your words together to make them come out on the right child—belonged to the one who must go across the room and turn his back to the others.

After the others had named themselves and the OUT child names of birds, one of the children asked, "Which had you rather come home on, a bluebird or a redbird?" (or any other two). The child guessed. If he guessed his own name, he was told to "come home on your tiptoes." If he guessed another, that one had to go and bring him home. Then the leader asked, "Whatya got there?" The answer was invariably, "A bag of nuts." "Shake him till he spits." Then followed a violent shaking, for the one being brought home liked to prolong his agony to show how brave he was. A fair-sized fight often resulted, or a change to another game. But nice little boys and girls soon ended the first chapter of the game so that the exciting thing could be done over indefinitely.

Foolish? Yes, as most things are in print. But to play it or even to remember it, takes one back to a childhood that had to devise games and stunts and stories to while away the long winter evenings. Books were scarce; games, except checkers and dominoes were almost all of the traditional kind; there were no picture shows or radios. People knew how to invent or to pass on forms of entertainment that seem pretty dull today but were the means of making life endurable.

Dear old William Trimbletoe, whoever he was! He ought to have a memorial of some sort, a memorial to childhood and its games and plays!

I have been informed on good authority that no door in the graded school building has been or is nailed shut. I am very sorry to have made this error. From the hall this door appeared to be nailed. I hesitated to enter the room to make a closer examination, because this room contained someone's lumber and bathroom fixtures. The fact still remains that the fire escapes are not usable. Even though the doors to these escapes are locked, in case of fire, I am afraid that some upper grade boys might forget the condition of the fire escapes and break down the doors and plunge to their death. Even though we never have had, and hope we never will have, a fire in our school, we should have fire escapes to protect our children, "just in case." No one can say when or where the next school fire will be.

It should be added that Mr. Wicker, principal of the school, is to be commended for not permitting cigarette smoking in and around the school building, thus reducing the fire hazard.

Roy Denny spent an enjoyable day at Drift last Sunday.

Beautiful Glacial Gorge

Charmed Indian Hunters

It was in March, 1851, that a group of pioneers, organized as the Mariposa Battalion, followed the trail of a band of Yosemite Indians into the valley to avenge the deaths of settlers killed by the Indians in raids on Savage's trading post near Mariposa. Early day historians record that the discovery of the magnificent glacial gorge so thrilled members of the Battalion that they gave up their Indian hunt and went back to Mariposa to spread the news of what they had seen, according to a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

They told of sheer walls of granite rising from 3,000 to 5,000 feet on either side of a wide gorge. Roaring down from dizzy heights over the perpendicular cliffs were six of the most spectacular waterfalls ever seen by man, one of them the highest in the world. In the valley below the Merced river wound its swift way through lush meadows carpeted with wild flowers, and through groves of majestic pine, fir, cedar and oak trees.

Ahwahnee, "deep grassy valley," the Indians called it. A melodious name expressive of the distant roar of the falls, the whisper of the wind through the forest and the magnificent solemnity of the place. They had other mystic names, too, for the mighty granite monoliths that towered above the valley and for the waterfalls. But to the Mariposa Battalion it was Yosemite, "full grown grizzly bear," named for the tribe of Indians who inhabited it.

BETSY LAYNE LOSES TO INEZ AND VIRGIE; DROPS PCA, AUXIER

Tuesday night, January 16, the Betsy Layne Bobcats held the Inez Indians to a 17-16 score, losing by only one point. The Bobcats showed their best form of the year, playing top ball until about the final three minutes of the game when the Indians gained the lead.

The score at the end of the first quarter was 8-3, in favor of the Bobcats. The 'Cats excelled the Indians in floor work and hitting the hoop. The score at the half was 9-3 with the Bobcat still in the lead. Both teams were fighting desperately.

The Indians were masters of the ball the third period and ran the score up to 10 to 11 with the Bobcats still leading. About the middle of the final period the Indians had pulled up to 17-14 lead. Akers shot two foul points, making the score 17-16 with the Indians leading. The time ended before either team scored.

Report, from other games that Inez has played reveals that Coach David Leslie's Bobcats played the hardest and came nearer handing them a defeat than any other for the entire season.

January 18th the Bobcats invaded Virgie's gymnasium and were handed their eighth defeat of the year, 34-33. The game was very slow and poorly played, both teams being off form.

Pikeville came to Betsy Layne January 19 and suffered a 34-23 defeat. The Bobcats were on the long end of the score during the entire game and were never threatened.

On January 20 the Bobcats went to Auxier and won a hard-fought, well-played game from the Auxier Hornets. The Auxier B team stung the Betsy Layne B team to the tune of 14-13, while the Bobcats came on later to win, 27-23. The Hornets made a last minute rally and came near endangering the slim lead of the Bobcats.

PACED BY HALBERT, MARTIN HI DEFEATS WHEELWRIGHT, 39-32

Paced by Halbert, who collected 12 field goals and two foul shots for a total of 26 points, the Martin high school Purple Flash stopped the eight-game winning streak of Coach Walter Price's Wheelwright netters, 39-32, Friday night at the Martin gymnasium.

Both teams began slowly, and Wheelwright took a two-point lead when Cordell took a long one. Then Halbert, Martin forward, began his sensational shooting by making a long one-handed shot while he was being fouled. He failed to cash in on the free attempt, but came back to score a two-pointer, giving his team the lead which was never relinquished. At the end of the quarter the Flash held an 8-5 lead.

In the second period the home team continued to increase the lead as Halbert prolonged his scoring spree by sinking four more field goals, giving him a total of 14 points for the first half. At the intermission Martin held a 22-15 advantage.

Wheelwright was able to score only one field goal and a charity toss in the third chapter, and the Martin lead was increased to 31-18, the biggest advantage enjoyed by the winners during the game. Halbert personally accounted for all of his team's nine points which were made during this quarter, being aided by some excellent passwork by the entire Martin team.

Cordell, Wheelwright forward, sparked a rally for his team in the final quarter, when the visitors outscored the winners, 14-8. Throughout the game he scored 15 points, eight of which were made in the fourth period.

In the preliminary game the Martin reserves took the measure of the Wheelwright B squad, 17-14.

Saturday night Wheelwright hit the comeback trail and met with little trouble in swamping Maytown, 36-14, on the Wheelwright floor.

The winners went into the lead soon after the opening whistle and they were never headed. Both teams used substitutes freely with 20 players seeing action in the fracas. Each team used ten players during the game, and all of Wheelwright's scored at least one point.

Cordell, who started a one-man run on the pants market, and Ferguson, Wheelwright forwards, led in the scoring with seven points each. Martin and Bingham each scored four points for the losers.

The line-ups: Martin (39) Pos. W'wright (22) Halbert (26) F. Cordell (15) Stamper (4) F. Ferguson (2) Wilson (2) C. Holcomb (6) Goodin (2) G. Martin (4) Spurlock (5) G. Morich (5) Substitutions: Martin—Rice; Wheelwright—Hanger, Bowe. Referees—Elam, Ferguson.

'Modified' Form of NRA Was In Effect Here 25 Years Ago

A modified form of the NRA, which was in effect in Prestonsburg almost 25 years before the founding of the ill-fated New Deal agency in 1934, lasted less than a year, examination of former City Councils' records reveals.

The measure, regulating the retail prices of meats, was passed by the Council on August 1, 1910 and was repealed July 3, 1911. It stated specifically that "...all persons engaged in butcher business or person who retail beef, pork or mutton within the corporate limits of the city of Prestonsburg shall pay an annual license... of $25; providing that such person shall not sell beef, pork and mutton exceeding the maximum price of 15 cents per pound, and ranging in price from seven to 15 cents per pound, respectively, according to standard cuts and grades." This same ordinance provided that no license would be necessary for wholesalers who sold quantities of less than one-fourth of a beef, one-half of a hog, or one sheep. Any person found guilty of violating any of the provisions of the ordinance was subject to a $10 fine.

Because of the passage of many now out-moded ordinances, several of which never have been voided, certain provisions are probably being regularly violated. On December 5, 1910, the council voted it unlawful for any person to throw snowballs within the corporate limits, and provided a $1 fine, plus costs, for each offense. At a meeting January 8, 1940, the Council deemed it unlawful "for children or other persons to play with wagons on sidewalks, or with other vehicles, or coast along any of the sidewalks for the purpose of playing or sport," and placed a $1 penalty on each offense.

On March 3, 1913, there was passed an ordinance, which, incidentally, never has been repealed, making it "...unlawful, a nuisance, and deemed indecent and immoral for any person or persons to dance... what is known as the Tango, or other dance of whatever name or alias, by the movement of which dance, or steps thereof, there is suggested... whether said dance occasions bodily contact or otherwise." Conviction of the violation of this ordinance carried a $15 fine. "It shall be the duty of the Marshal," the ordinance continues "to enter any such places where such dances are permitted or done... and to arrest any person offending."

One of three ordinances passed January 6, 1913 pertaining to trains passing through the corporate limits made it unlawful to "back or shift any train, locomotive, or car of any kind... unless said locomotive, train or car be preceded by an employe... on foot to give warning to all persons of the moving of said locomotive, train or car." The other two provided for the maximum speed of six miles per hour for trains passing through the city limits and for maintenance of safety gates at crossings. Fines for each offense were set at $50-$100.

A curfew law was enacted January 8, 1910 and made it unlawful for children or persons under 16 years of age to be on the streets after six o'clock p. m. unless they were in company of their parents, guardian or some person from the same household who also was more than 16 years old. According to this order either or both the parent and child could be fined $1-$5, and if the Marshal failed to do his duty to strictly enforce the provisions he, too, could be fined $1-$5. On March 7 of the same year the law was amended to seven p. m. Four years later it was again amended, making the deadline six p. m. during the winter months and eight p. m. during the summer.

Traffic problems made their appearance in 1914 and it was voted at a meeting, September 8, to charge $1 license fee on all bicycles in town, and a $5 fee for motorcycle. At the same session a speed limit of five miles per hour was set, with a $5 fine for "any person to run an automobile more than ten miles per hour on streets and alleys or more than five miles per hour in turning corners of streets and alleys or going across street crossings," with a penalty of $2.50-$5, plus costs, for each offense.

In 1920 the speed limit was increased to 15 miles per hour, and all autos were required to have two headlights, one or more colored tail lights, and a muffler.

In 1916 it was made unlawful to "swap horses or jockey or ride horses with the view of showing off or jockeying or trading horses on the county bridge or the street leading to Main Street from the bridge, or on Main Street or Court Street." The council decided that the practice had become a nuisance and dangerous to the citizens of the town.

A GOOD LAW—REVISION WOULD HELP

The marriage law which becomes effective in Kentucky March 1 may confidently be expected to constitute one of the Commonwealth's greatest steps forward in the matter of public health and the health of future generations.

But one phase of the marital relation which should have been included within the purview of this bill remains untouched. That is the situation sometimes created when husband and wife become separated, remain separated for months, perhaps, then finally become re-united.

In many instances the husband or wife, or both, while separated, may contract venereal diseases. Then, reconciled, they return to co-habitation, to perpetuate the ravages of the disease which one or both may have contracted.

Ask any public health officer or any physician how many couples, in their experience, have returned to each other, with one or the other, or both, suffering from syphilis or gonorrhea. THE TIMES has learned, within the last week, of four such cases. How many others are there in the entire state? Your guess is as good as ours.

At any rate, the law should be extended to embrace such cases and to oblige couples, upon reconciliation, to undergo the same tests as those to which they would have to submit, were they being married for the first time.

If contracts are awarded for each of the Magisterial Districts, then each of the successful bidders will be required to assist in delivering commodities from the depot to the storage house in addition to delivering to the points of distribution.

the half they held a 27-7 advantage. Five of Martin's total of the seven points made in the first half were made on free pitches.

Although several Prestonsburg substitutes were sent into the game in the second half, the 'Cats continued their fast scoring pace. Heinze and Damron led in the scoring for Prestonsburg, each making 14 points. Salisbury made 11, eight of which were made in the second half. Halbert, who scored nine points, was Martin's chief offensive threat.

Friday night the Blackcats will meet Inez in the Warfield gymnasium. In a game here early in the season the Indians swamped Prestonsburg, 46-25. Saturday night the 'Cats will be hosts to the Dorton quint in the local gym and Tuesday night they will entertain the strong Meade Memorial five.

Because of injuries suffered in the Martin game, Damron and Layne probably will not get into the game against Inez and Dorton. Damron is out because of a broken nose and Layne will give a cut lip more time to heal.

representatives proposed that in the event no agreement be reached by March 31, work in the industry should be continued under the existing wages, but the operators rejected the proposal. This offer, on the part of labor representatives, was made March 15, according to Judge Fields.

It was through no fault of their own and not because of a bona fide labor dispute that the claimants lost their employment, Judge Fields held "after careful consideration of the facts presented in the record and considering the public policy of this state as expressly declared by Section 2 of the Unemployment Compensation Law."

Kentucky's Unemployment Compensation Commission's ruling last fall denying them compensation, affected approximately 25,000 miners with claims approximating $1,500,000. The commission held they were idle because of a "bona fide labor dispute."

ment by making strict provisions concerning their regulation.

"In the short space of time allotted for the investigation of crime, we have not been able to investigate the fiscal affairs of Floyd county to our satisfaction; however, the records produced before us convince us that excessive claims are being allowed for the delivery of commodities throughout the county and excessive claims have been paid to the Magistrates for what is designated as Official Services. We continue this investigation for a subsequent grand jury with the recommendation that the clerk of the Floyd county court be requested to make up and furnish to the next grand jury a list taken from his records showing to whom and in what amounts claims have been paid for delivering commodities and we further request that he be requested to produce the records showing the amount of money received by the Magistrates and for what purpose each of said amounts were paid. We believe this to be necessary in ascertaining if the law is being violated and whether the taxpayers are securing value for their money spent. Relative to the matter above stated, we would suggest that the Magistrates follow the recommendation of the county officials by advertising to the lowest and best bidders the handling of commodities or any other expenditure where the taxpayers' money is involved and where a saving may be effected to the taxpayers.

"It has been called to the attention of the grand jury that teachers of Floyd county have been required to contribute funds to secure the election of Board Members in Floyd county in order to maintain their good graces with the governing authorities of the Floyd county schools. The grand jury further requests that future grand juries investigate the violation of elections and election laws and more particularly the violation of school laws herein referred to.

"The grand jury would further request that the Health Department of Floyd county be requested to inspect the public buildings of our county, including the jail, at regular intervals, with the view of improving the sanitary conditions and with the view of securing a balanced food diet for the prisoners.

"The grand jury would further report that they have inspected the jail and other public buildings of the county and find them to be in as good condition as could reasonably be expected under the circumstances. The city jail, we find to be in a poor state of repair and very poorly and unsanitary kept and we would recommend that those in authority of said institution be required to provide better facilities for the accommodation of prisoners. We have noted with interest the co-operation between those whose duty it is to combat crime in our courts and we highly commend their work and sincerely believe that with a continued spirit of co-operation that is now manifest, that crime conditions in Floyd county must of necessity improve."

During the last three days of its session the grand jury returned four murder indictments, three of the defendants being Floyd county officers. Allen Slone and Chuet Messer, Lackey officers, were charged with the slaying of Mart Wicker, and Deputy Sheriff J. B. Hall was named in separate indictments in the bullet-deaths of Casper

Osborne and Perry Johnson at Wheelwright Junction. The fourth man indicted of murder was Ernest Hunter in the slaying of Riley Bradley on Stephens Branch.

Nine indictments were filed to take the place of those quashed last week against Floyd county officers accused of arresting another without authority of law. The indictments were dismissed, then re-instated, it was said, because some question as to the validity of the original indictments was possible. Those quashed had been made to replace those which disappeared from the office of the Circuit Clerk, and the method used in replacing them had been questioned.

These indictments are: Tom Parsons (or Akers), Jim Roberts and Herman McKinney on four counts; Tom Parsons (or Akers.), Sam Roberts and Jake Salisbury on five counts.

Names of others indicted last week, the charges preferred against each and the amount of bond a k e d for release of each defendant after his or her arrest follow:

Lawrence Thacker, child desertion, $500; Jerry Mullins, child desertion, $500; Ray Barron, cold check, $500; R. A. Triplett, forgery (four counts) $500; E. D. LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HITS AT COURIER-JOURNAL

Langley, Ky.,
January 29, 1940

Editor of The Time:
Relative to the publicity the Courier-Journal is giving Floyd county and Congressman May, I wish to say (not in his defense for he doesn't need it, he is quite capable of defending himself) in the defense of the backwoods of Floyd county and Eastern Kentucky in general, that the Courier-Journal and the city of Louisville have as much housecleaning to do as does Eastern Kentucky.

It is a common occurrence to pick up the Pictorial Page of the Sunday Courier-Journal and find the picture of a little log hut at the mouth of some little hollow with a cow hitched to the door and a little patch of corn nearby, with the notation: A Typical Kentucky Mountain Home. I suppose the Courier-Journal thinks the mountain people doesn't have any other kind of houses.

I know Kentucky doesn't rank at the top in education but all the illiteracy doesn't come from the mountains. The teachers in our schools are required to have the same qualifications as those in the Bluegrass part of the state. We have the same compulsory school law. We have free school buses to convey the children to and from school. We have the same intelligence to learn.

We have good roads since the mountain people have demanded their share of the distribution of taxes.

We have some of the richest land in the world, not only in fertility of soil but minerals as well. As for crime in the mountains that the Courier-Journal likes to elaborate on, the city of Louisville has more in one day that is never published than the mountains have in months. Just why, may I ask, is crime in the mountains so elaborated on?

Referring to Congressman May's interest in the White Sulphur Springs Mining Company, I venture to say the whole Courier-Journal staff would be in on the deal if they had the opportunity. However, I see nothing wrong with it myself. If you have something to sell you always sell to the one you get the best bargain from. That is only a matter of business. Besides, if we would pick the beam out of our own eyes before trying to get the mote out of our neighbor's we would be going along hand in hand and all be happier.

Again, referring to crime and old feud: in the mountains that it likes to elaborate on, if the mountaineers have a difficulty to settle they do it in a manly way by walking out and fighting it out instead of back-biting and slandering their neighbors like C.J. is trying to do Congressman May over an old grudge that happened on the floor in Congress a few years ago. I could explain more fully but I hesitate to do so for the man that May had his difficulty with was then owner of the Courier-Journal and I believe is now dead.

The people of Floyd county are proud of Congressman May with just reason to be. In the few years he has been in Congress he has done more for the people of Eastern Kentucky than have all the other Congressmen put together.

Sincerely yours,
MRS. ED SUTTON.

Father of Experiment Stations

Norman Jay Colman (1827-1911) is sometimes called the father of the experiment stations because he was the author of the Hatch bill which authorized their creation in the states and territories. As commissioner of agriculture under President Cleveland he succeeded in raising the bureau of agriculture to an executive department represented in the cabinet. He was the first secretary of agriculture and was editor of Colman's Rural World, a Mis-pick-up and delivery service, similar to that being afforded Prestonsburg on express, the club asked J. D. Harkins, Jr., secretary, to communicate with railway officials so that the movement may be started without delay.

The district census bureau headquarters here reported to the club that office furniture and accessories which it had either purchased or leased for use of the office had arrived and has been installed.

Continued complaint of radio owners about interference here led the club to adopt a resolution requesting the Kentucky & West Virginia Power Company to investigate the trouble. The company also was asked to locate a service man in Prestonsburg. It was pointed out that the present arrangement, with the nearest service man located in Paintsville, is unsatisfactory.

The next drawing date was set for March 2 when $150 in cash will be awarded. The proposal that trade coupons be awarded instead of cash was promptly voted down.

Reporting on the success of the 1939 county fair, County Agent S. L. Isbell said that the success apparent while the fair was in progress was only a part of the interest created. Good effects of the fair may yet be noted in all parts of the county, he said.

Women of the Stone Age Had Own Beauty Secrets

The ladies of Cleopatra's court took milk baths regularly. The idea wasn't as you may suspect, originated by more modern beauties. Neither did the sirens of the modern stage figure out for themselves that mascara makes lashes look longer, eyes more luminous. Women who lived hundreds of years ago didn't have fine, scientifically made mascara and eyelash dyes, but they did have burnt cork and wood, and they blackened their lashes and brows with these, states a writer in the New York World-Telegram.

It is said that women of American Indian tribes smeared their lips with black paint for state occasions. Generally, however, they used the juice of wild berries to dye their lips bright red.

TRAVEL BULLETIN
TODAY'S ROADS

Prepared By
Eastern Kentucky Automobile Club

The lack of confidence instilled by obscured vision is provoking to the driver, perilous to all traffic both vehicular and pedestrian alike, and is the cause of many accidents.

Although apparently insignificant as a statistic, it is a huge factor in many accidents during adverse weather conditions.

Further proof that any existing condition which interferes with a driver's normal vision increases the probability of an accident, can be seen from the day and night accident and traffic records. Approximately half of all accidents occur during darkness, the period in which only one-third of the daily traffic moves.

Safe driving is impossible if the windshield is muddy, icy, or covered with sleet or snow, or if driving in a fog, smoke, rain, mist, or with inadequate headlights. Moreover, in winter poor visibility generally accompanies slippery or icy pavements which, with the best sight distance possible, is precarious to all motoring.

The combination of poor visibility and treacherous slippery pavement requires the entire attention of the driver. One can improve his visibility by cleaning his windshield and repairing his headlights, but in addition, he must also operate with extreme care to completely overcome the two odds.

McDOWELL DEFEATS VIRGIE QUINT, 27-21, IN ROUGH STRUGGLE

The McDowell high school basketball team, after having lost by one point to Virgie on the Virgie floor several weeks ago, came back to defeat the same team Saturday night, 27-21, in the McDowell gymnasium, in a game that was exceedingly rough.

Sparked by Myers, the home team went into a 9-3 lead at the end of the first quarter. In the second period the visitors out-played McDowell and held a 14-13 advantage at the half. Midway in this period Tackett, McDowell guard, suffered a cut under his eye and was forced to leave the game.

In the third quarter neither team was able to threaten seriously, McDowell cashing in on three free tosses while Virgie was making one field goal. At the end of the period Virgie was still out in front, 17-16.

Soon after the beginning of the final quarter McDowell took the lead and gradually increased it as the game progressed. Myers, McDowell center, led in the scoring, making 13 points, 10 of which came in the first half. Casle, Virgie guard, made two field goals and four charity tosses for eight points.

In a preliminary game the McDowell second team nipped out the Virgie reserves, 12-10.

FARMERS ORGANIZE TO SELL MOLASSES

Two cooperative marketing associations sold 2,600 gallons of sorghum molasses in Kentucky in 1939. They are the Kentucky Sorghum Growers' Association at Hawesville and the Kentucky Sorghum Syrup Producers' Association at Frenchburg. Organized after the season for making and selling molasses had started, they found a ready sale for their products and could not supply the demand for molasses.

Noting the possibilities in the production of sorghum molasses, marketing specialists in the Department of Markets and Rural Finance at University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and county agents helped cane growers with some of the more important problems in making and selling molasses. Among these problems was the manufacture of a molasses that would not turn to sugar. Sugaring long has been a major problem in sorghum molasses production.

Also, there was the problem of standardizing the quality, and grading and labeling the product, and the use of various sizes of containers to meet the needs of different sized families. Selling by the association, was done in quarts, half-gallons and gallons.

Reports received at the College of Agriculture indicate that the molasses sold by the two Kentucky associations last year was highly satisfactory to consumers. Plans for this year include enlarged acreages of cane, and the selling of molasses over a wide territory.

Director, Floyd County Health Dept.

SYPHILIS

The word "syphilis," until recent years, has been taboo in almost every civilized nation of the world and mentioned only in hushed whisper among members of the same sex. As far back as the very introduction of the disease to the civilized world at has been accompanied by shame and secrecy and has been concealed by practically all its victims. Through the combined efforts of ignorance, superstition, and social intolerance this terrible disease has been allowed to incubate and spread among all civilized peoples for almost five centuries. As a result, about one person out of every ten or fifteen in the United States is now a victim of syphilis. Many countries have even a higher incidence.

During the past few years the progressive people of the United States have finally awakened to the dangers of this enemy among them and have started a vast campaign of publicity in newspapers, magazines and, and on the radio. This campaign is intended to bring syphilis into the light and to eliminate the old puritanical, hush-hush, holler-than-thou attitude of the past. If syphilis and the extent of its damage, they reason, are brought before the public eye and if the term "syphilis" is made a word of everyday usage, it will greatly facilitate the control of the disease.

As yet this campaign is very young but its results already are apparent. Syphilis is being discussed by people everywhere and it is slowly becoming just another communicable disease such as measles, scarlet fever, or diphtheria.

Many persons infected with syphilis have acquired the disease perfectly innocently from an infected husband or wife, or from contaminated articles such as drinking cups, towels or clothes, or even from casual contact. No greater sin can be committed by a misguided, intolerant society than to condemn and socially ostracize these innocently infected individuals.

ON THE RECORD

Just as a matter of record, there were five New Year's babies in Floyd county, this good leap year of 1940, according to Mrs. Ben Norris, county registrar of vital statistics. The No. 1 New Leap Year baby listed is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hargus Harris, of Lancer, born at 2 a. m., January 1.

IN THE MAIL

Boys will be boys, and they will have their fun.

Now come Lawrence Keathley, Richard Spurlock and Russell Hagewood dunning me—dunning me for $10—claiming that, of all things, I owe THEM the sum of $10 because I "forced" them to read my paper, these two years past.

They're just muggin', though—the mugs! Fact of the matter is, all three of these creditors of mine have read "the paper several years more than two, and would not be denied the privilege of beggin', borrowin'—oh, hateful word—this paper for the next two years; for twice more than that ten bucks they maintain I owe them. (Is that putting the boys on the spot, or is it?)

We enjoyed hearing from you, boys—but, please, don't send us any more bills on out-of-town printed statements.

Yet!—Thanks for giving us the opportunity of giving ourselves a plug.

THE NAME, PLEASE!

If the writer of that "Super-Critical" letter will crawl out from behind the ambush of anonymity and supply his or her name, THE TIMES will gladly print this outstanding contribution to belles lettres.

OF THE DESERVING

Sigel Bailey, 22, Hueysville, was graduated from Garrett high school last week. He was an honor student.

No! much news about that.

No, not till the full story is told—and I don't know the full story. So you, reader, fill in out of a sympathetic imagination where we leave gaps in the narrative.

First of all, Sigel is a cripple. Infantile paralysis got him when he was a child. Twenty years ago, in this county, they didn't get polio sufferers to crippled children's hospitals as quickly as they should if at all. So one of the young man's legs yet is a dead weight. Without his crutches he would be helpless.

Now Sigel lives with his father, Kelly Bailey, a WPA worker until the time limit caught him, up in the head of a hollow of Raccoon fork of Salt Lick. It's a mile and a half to the highway where the school bus passes, but the youth for two years now has hobbled the three miles a day, down and up a rocky branch road to the bus. It was hard going several times, what with weather such as we've been having, the last month. But he didn't miss "connections" more than two or three times—and you have to get up before daylight to walk a mile and a half on crutches to catch that Salt Lick bus.

His father who worked on the WPA and one or two of his sisters who worked in the neighboring homes have kept the boy in clothing while he has been in school. But the father now is unemployed. He has if other children.

Sigel wants to go to college, but he has his pride. He wants at least to be dressed as well as other boys who have little to spend on clothing. You know how youngsters are. Even your oldest oldest would want the little Sigel wants.

Then what is to be done? Sigel has a chance to go to Caney Creek—Mrs. Lloyd like, boys like him. But he must have a clean shirt, pants in their entirety, a coat not like Joseph's.

THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES is not a Mr. Fixit, but it does have an idea that somebody, somewhere would jump at the chance to help this deserving boy go ahead with the education which will enable him, in the years to come, to buy his own clothing, to be self-sustaining and to help his father and his gallant sisters in return for the sacrifices they have made for him.

(As an afterthought, THE TIMES wonders if some of these Sewing Circle garments could not be used by boy, like Sigel Bailey.

HELP ON WHEELS

Another afterthought: You've got to admit that this school bus system is a great thing. Can you imagine a boy like Sigel Bailey ever graduating from high school without this sort of free transportation? That's bringing education to the people on wheels!

RIPPING, EH, WOT?

He hit the net for seven points to share scoring honors against Maytown Saturday night, and walked plumb off with the pants-ripping feature of the fray. He's one of "Sir" Walter Price's charges up at Wheelwright, i. this Cornell boy, and he flashed good form during the game in more ways than one. He ripped his pants four times at odd, not to say awful, moments. First went the seat of his regular pants. Time out. On went a substitute pair. They split down the front. Time out. Substitution of pants, and these split as he came back down stairs to resume play. A sawed-off pair of overall pants had to be substituted then till somebody raided various wardrobes and at last found a pair large enough.

Five-Year Terms Meted

Bradley, testifying in his own defense, contended that he shot Huff only after the latter had pointed a revolver at him, threatening, "Bradley, get ready!" After he had begged Huff not to shoot and after Huff had re-iterated his threat, he fired, according to Bradley's testimony. Bradley admitted that, before the shooting, he and Everett Kendrick had had an argument over beer, and that he had slapped Kendrick with his open hand.

Several Commonwealth witnesses concurred in testifying to the following version of the trouble:

After Bradley, Huff and Carroll Clay had gone to the restaurant of Besie Swindall, about 10 p. m., and he had drunk some beer, Bradley and Kendrick engaged in a dispute over beer. Bradley drew a pistol and struck Kendrick on his head, the weapon slipping from his hand to the floor near where Huff stood. After ejecting Kendrick, Bradley returned and attempted to regain his pistol from Huff, who took it across a counter. A small girl thereupon kicked the gun into an adjoining bedroom. Bradley then left the building, walked to the car in which he, Huff and Clay had driven to Mrs. Swindall's place and procured his shotgun. Returning inside, he slammed the door shut and announced that nobody was leaving till he got his pistol. Starting through the restaurant, gun in shooting position, Bradley started his search for the weapon. At that time Huff appeared in the door of the bedroom, the pistol in his hand but not in firing position or pointed toward Bradley.

"Here, Aaron," Huff said; whereupon

Bradley fired. A single load of buckshot struck Huff in his throat, killing him instantly.

Bradley denied having a pistol at the time of his altercation with Kendrick. He also testified that he had loaned the shotgun and all his cartridges to Huff, earlier in the evening. He claimed that his reason for returning the shotgun from the car to the building was to prevent Kendrick, who had left the restaurant, from getting the gun and shooting him. It was pointed out by the defense that the pistol held by Huff when shot was found beneath his body, cocked. The Commonwealth retallated with testimony to the effect that the body lay for two hours or more before being moved and that no watch was maintained over it.

Edward L. Allen acted the prosecution. Defense attorneys were C. B. Wheeler and B. M. James.

Pete Wilson, negro, was given a four-year term last Thursday for manslaughter, a charge growing out of the slaying of another of his race at Tram.

Other convictions during the past week: Walter Collins, carrying concealed deadly weapon, $50 fine, 10 days in jail.

16 Guntoters Located

During the nine days of the grand jury session, only 16 indictments for carrying concealed deadly weapons were returned. This number is slightly above the record of previous grand juries. Circuit Judge Stephens emphasized the importance of finding and indicting the gun-toter, and the grand jury undertook closer questioning of witnesses relative to this offense. Success did not attend this phase of the jury's investigations, however.

Robert Judd, carrying concealed deadly weapon, $50 and 10 days; Pete Blackburn, carrying concealed deadly weapon, $50 and 10 days; Richard Elam, jail escape, three years; John Haddix, malicious mischief, $75 fine.

To serve a total of 14 years in the penitentiary, six men convicted at this term were sentenced Saturday by Judge Stephens. Names of prisoners and terms to which they were sentenced: Theop Branham, breaking and entering, one year; Joe Hall, shooting and wounding, two years; Woodrow Stephens, child desertion, one year; Richard Elam, breaking and entering, two years; Chester Wiley, breaking and entering, five years; Clyde Wright, voluntary manslaughter, three years.
