HATCH BILL—WHOSE?

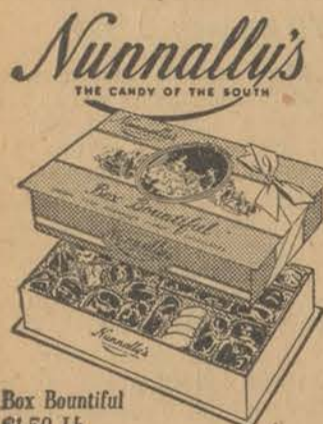

Both the Democratic and Republican National Committees frankly admit that MORE than the $3,000,000 limit fixed by the Hatch Act was spent in the recent presidential campaign.

LABOR PEACE

THE COURIER-JOURNAL: "Labor needs peace, and John L. Lewis is the enemy of labor's peace."

TOM RANEY: "The great majority of our union resent you or any other wise-cracking editor advising the miners that the union would be best served without Mr. Lewis."

Of course, Mr. Lewis is a great man for the cause. But the goodwill of the American newspapers and of the President of the United States should not be completely disregarded!

ALLEY CATS

Residents of Beverly Hills (Calif.) recently voted to install electric lights in the alleys. We presume the house cats will soon be making arrangements to do their howling elsewhere.

PUBLIC CONFESSION

I hereby retract, and brand as untrue, unfounded and false, any adverse statement that has heretofore appeared in this column concerning that splendid and noble citizen, the Right Honorable Bradley Boyd.

MAYTOWN

Mesdames John Treffey and H. L. May were shopping in Huntington, two days last week.

Miss Erma Stewart, who recently succeeded her brother, Roger Stewart, as a member of the Maytown faculty, spent the week-end in Morehead, attending Homecoming Day.

A group of the younger set enjoyed an impromptu social in the home of Miss Pauline May, Friday evening. Miss May, a high school sophomore, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. May, Jr.

Little Miss Elizabeth Atherton Vernon, of Pikeville, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. May from Tuesday through Friday of last week, while her parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Vernon, attended the medical convention in Louisville.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Little Miss Greta Faye Frasure, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Frasure, entertained a group of her friends on her seventh birthday Wednesday evening. The children were entertained with games by Mrs. Frasure, who presented each with a favor, after serving dainty refreshments.

CHURCH NEWS

Preaching services will be held Saturday night at 7, Rev. Newsome delivering the sermon. Everyone is invited to attend.

Several members of the board of stewards attended the quarterly conference in Martin Sunday afternoon. The entire circuit is asked to increase its donation to benevolences this year, and the Maytown stewards request those who support the Maytown church to make a special effort to give monthly, so that all obligations may be met as they come. This will not work a hardship on anyone, and if all contribute do so regularly, there should be no calls for additional funds. Conference claims, presiding elder's fee, church insurance, literature, and all other items will be paid when due, without separate campaigns to raise the amount for each, if donors will remember to pay regularly. The new year began with September, and a majority of the members are paying each month. It is hoped that those who are behind will make a special attempt to meet their pledges and keep them up to date. The Senior League is at work on rehearsals for its annual Christmas play, which will be given during the Yuletide season. Miss Moseleete Ferrell and Delmont Bailey have the leading roles. Elaborate decorations and lighting effects as were used last year will again be a feature of the program.

AUXIER

(Last week's correspondence)

The Auxier school's Halloween Carnival was very successful. Sherman Mayo was elected carnival king and Miss Mildred Music, queen. The prince and princess were Jerome Music and Sue Hager.

Misses Betty Poole Johnson and Patsy Pfennig, Pittsburgh, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Johnson.

Miss Virginia Lee Patton, who is a student at Pikeville College, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Patton.

Miss Ella Virginia Miller entertained with a party Saturday night in honor of friends and relatives who were visiting here from Pittsburgh.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Childers, who has been very ill, is showing slight improvement.

Auxier consolidated school welcomes a new student, who is a good athletic prospect.

Misses Virginia Lee Auxier and Ruth G. Johnson visited in Prestonsburg Saturday.

Miss Virgie Lee Adkins, of Prestonsburg, spent the past week-end with Miss Nathana Burton.

Mrs. Martin Baldrige, Of Little Paint, Is Victim

Mrs. Elizabeth Baldrige, wife of Martin Baldrige, died at her home on Little Paint Friday at the age of 87 following a brief illness.

A daughter of the late Thomas and Mary Fulton Music, of Wise, Va., Mrs. Baldrige had resided in this county for many years. She had been a member of the Methodist Church since the age of 17, and was deeply revered by all who knew her.

Surviving are her husband, three sons and three daughters: Johnny Baldrige, at home; Mrs. A. G.

one great-great-grandchild. The funeral was conducted Sunday afternoon from the home, the Revs. Isaac Stratton and C. C. Newson officiating. The sermon was preached from the text, Job 14-14, selected Mrs. Baldrige some time ago. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of the Arnold Funeral Home.

BILL HENRY SAYS:

(The views herein expressed are those of the writer and not necessarily those of The Times.)

I AM PRO-LABOR. I BELIEVE LABOR HAS MUCH DUE IT— BUT CAPITAL HAS TOO

This column has given much space to the discussion of the rights of labor and will continue to do so. At the same time, I refuse to close my eyes to the faults of any group, though it be the one I happen to be championing. I do not believe I could honestly be a friend of labor if I refused to be honest with myself—any man who refuses to grant the opposition its just dues is a fool and a coward. I am not interested in discussing at the present time as to which side, capital or labor has committed the most fouls. I will shout from the house tops that labor is not getting what is coming to it, but at the same time I insist any new gains must be obtained the American way and not through any Communistic and Fascistic methods.

It does not matter what kind of a group, whether representing capital or labor, uses methods unfair and un-American to obtain their ends . . . if they refuse to abide by such rules as they know to be right, they should not be allowed to receive any benefit whatever from such action. The question of whether the demands of such a group is right or wrong should not be considered, so long as the methods used are inimical to the interests of all the people.

I refer specifically to the recent strikes of labor in ship-building yards and airplane factories. The present administration has given labor every safeguard necessary for the adjustment of its grievances. The only excuse that could possibly be offered for the recent strikes is that some organizer has not been satisfied to take a reasonable time to get what he is after, but he must put on a big show to prove what a very necessary man he is . . . in his own mind. I refuse to believe that labor as an organization approves the tactics of the radical minority within its ranks . . . I refuse to believe that the German people approve what Hitler is doing, but, until they get rid of him, the world will hold them responsible . . . And so, with labor, they will suffer the consequences of the mis-deeds of their "black sheep" until they clean house.

Capital, John L. Lewis and William Green are all living in the same house. I say this because labor has suffered at the hands of all three. Capital has been selfish, grudgingly handing out a few paltry dollars and taking it all back through manipulated and controlled markets. John L. Lewis (with the aid of a friendly government) has obtained better wages for his followers and then sat back and watched it taken away from them in the form of increased dues and assessments. William Green has set on his throne so long he isn't even active any more—except to draw his pay check. My accusation is supported by evidence of the fact that, after many years of leadership of John L. Lewis and William Green, Capital is still handing out "wages" instead of sharing with labor a fair percentage of profits.

Stockholders, as conveniently applied to the money investor, have been well taken care of—in fact, they have come ahead of the great masses of people who made their dividends possible . . . a short-short story of greed on the side of capital and incompetent leadership in the camp of labor. No man, or any number of men, is capable of deciding what is a fair wage. If I should enter business and invest $100,000, I would be entitled to a fair interest on my money, a return sufficient to take care of replacement of equipment and a reasonable profit. Labor would be entitled to a decent minimum guarantee with an equal share in the profits.

Because I argue the side of the majority of the people, I am "stamped" as pro-labor. I do not consider I am pro-anything except pro-American. While the politician is throwing up a smoke screen around the Constitution for the benefit of his wealthy friends in my small way I refuse to let him forget just why America was settled. I can find nothing in the Constitution which grants privileges to one group over another. Neither do I find anything in the Constitution granting the title of decent citizens to any group who will hold up the production of necessary materials in times of emergency as is the case in the airplane factory strike on the west coast. To settle their differences by arbitration would probably require a few days or perhaps a few weeks, but what are weeks and months in comparison to what was years before?

Whether it is capital or whether it is labor getting the idea they are going to profit in a big way at the expense of their country at this particular time I would advise them to think twice.

Bank Uses Pipe Organ Chimes For Cheer

Pikeville, Ky.—After several years of trying it, John M. Yost has concluded that music and religion are good partners in the banking business.

Yost is vice-president and cashier of the First National Bank of Pikeville, believed to be the only bank in the country which has a pipe organ and chimes. The music is amplified by a public address system and can be heard out over the countryside.

Every morning at 8:30—a half-hour before the bank's doors open—employees meet for a brief religious service, opened with a hymn and Scripture reading. There is usually another song or two and then some poetry or an inspirational talk.

The daily service usually is concluded with a discussion of current events.

"These little meetings seem to do something that makes us all feel better and more like going through the day's work," one employe remarked.

Banker Yost believes it's good business and that it keeps employes cheerful. Besides, he points out, the townspeople enjoy the organ music and chimes.

But the pipe organ is not all, as the bank also owns two acres of land, devoted almost exclusively to a fine flower garden. Blossoms brighten the institution's interior and dozens of blooms are sent regularly to churches and hospitals.

The bank also holds regular flower shows in its lobby.

Yost started the music programs and worship services several years ago. He believes it brings goodwill as well as good business.

His hobby, besides music and flowers, is helping young people finance college educations.

It is said that none of the several hundred boys and girls to whom the bank has made loans has failed to repay an obligation.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many good friends, who so loyally assisted us during the illness and upon the death of our mother, Mrs. Susan Quisenberry. Also we wish to thank Rev. J. C. Hager for his words of consolation. We thank all who contributed to the beautiful floral offerings, and those who used their cars to assist us. May God in His infinite mercy bless each and every one of you.

New Type Of Pneumonia Is Caused By Virus

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 14—A new type of pneumonia caused by a virus instead of bacteria was described today before the annual meeting of the Southern Medical Association.

Heretofore pneumonia was believed entirely due to one or more of 33 specific types of pneumococcus bacteria, but Dr. Warfield T. Longcope of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., declared that the new type of the disease, which is sometimes fatal, cannot be attributed to any of these.

It is an insidious form of the disease, he said, because it may develop for as long as three weeks with a dry cough, irregular fever, sometimes high fever, blueness of the skin and nausea before a chest examination reveals true pneumonia.

The disease is highly contagious, Dr. Longcope declared, many cases having occurred among nurses, physicians and medical students working among infected patients.

Neither sulfapridine or sulfathiozole, the two drugs which have markedly reduced the pneumonia death rate during the past two years is effective against the "X" or virus type of the disease, he added.

Until recent weeks it had been impossible to study the virus experimentally because the disease could not be transmitted to animals. Within the past few days reports have been published that it can be inoculated into the mungoose and produce typical pneumonia reactions. Serum from these animals and from patients convalescing from the disease apparently neutralizes the virus, the Johns Hopkins scientist declared.

Motion pictures of tiny blood vessels showing how malaria parasites in the blood vessels actually make the heart work itself to death, were shown today by Dr. Melvin H. Kinsley, University of Chicago anatomist now working at the University of Tennessee.

By the use of a delicate technique using light transmitted through a quartz rod and highly magnetized color pictures, he demonstrated how the malaria germ creates a thick sludge in the blood which blocks the circulation and makes the heart work twice or three times as fast as hard to pump blood and its oxygen burden to distant tissues of the body. Thus, what has been formerly believed to be blocking the heart by blood clots is actually an overload on the pumping system.

Dr. Kinsley and his associates, Drs. Warren K. Stratman-Thomas, malaria expert of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and Dr. Theodore S. Elliot of the University of Tennessee, also showed in their experiments on monkeys that heparin, a new drug to stimulate the heart, actually stimulates the malaria parasites in the blood stream and kills the animals by absorption of oxygen from the blood by bacteria. The same effect, they believe, occurs in man.

They added that in persons with malaria the lining of the blood vessels become sticky and white blood corpuscles, which eat up invading bacteria, become attached to the lining, explaining the deficiency of the white cells during the course of the disease.

Physicians who heard the report declared that the work of the University of Tennessee scientists is especially significant in planning military procedures in the moving of northern soldiers into southern camps which have a malaria hazard to which the men are not accustomed.

JR. SPORTSMEN ORGANIZE

MAYTOWN YOUTHS, FIRST TO FORM ORGANIZATION

The first Junior Sportsmen's Club in Floyd county was organized at the Maytown high school Thursday, Nov. 14. V. A. Hayes, of Maytown, one of Floyd county's outstanding sportsmen, was the organizer of the club.

The club consists of 50 members with the following officers: Austin Cassidy, president; Thomas C. May, vice-president; Okla Branham, secretary.

E. R. Burke, conservation officer for Floyd, Johnson and Magoffin counties, made a talk on his personal experiences in hunting and fishing in Floyd county, back when game and fish were plentiful, and gave reasons for the scarcity at the present time. He gave the figures on the sale of hunting and fishing licenses in Floyd county from 1933 up to the present time, and the progress that had been made in the state since Major James Brown had been appointed Director of Game and Fish in 1936. Mr. Burke also pointed out the fact that it was the first time that a Floyd countian had been appointed a state conservation officer in the district, and that Merle Wilson, another Floyd countian, is a district director of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen. Mr. Wilson made an interesting talk, explaining the relation of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen to local Junior and Senior Game and Fish Clubs.

The Maytown club is to have regular weekly meetings, and at its next meeting will select a member of the club as its junior game warden. Any member who knows of a violation of any game or fish laws is to report to his junior warden, and the junior warden is to make his report to the state conservation officer or one of his voluntary wardens.

MANHATTAN SHIRTS FOR MEN

Make way for TOMORROW!

TODAY Buddy is a little boy, facing his first day at school, feeling woefully small. But he's truly important! For Buddy is an investment—yours and ours—in the America of tomorrow . . . Soon Buddy and thousands like him will have grown up to inherit the job of making this country tick. And he'll be ready because his neighbors—such as the folks down the block, the corner store, the movie theatre and the railroad—help support the schools that give Buddy a free American education . . . Today Buddy never heard of taxes. Later, when he understands, he'll thank you, whether your investment in him was one dollar or a thousand.

Last year Chesapeake and Ohio paid $157,432.40 to Floyd County

Yes, Chesapeake and Ohio is one of the neighbors in this county whose share of tax revenue helps in providing schools . . . building roads and other improvements . . . maintaining clinics, visiting nurses and other welfare services . . . supporting free libraries.

We usually think of railroad service in terms of passengers and freight swiftly and safely transported. But the railroad also serves, as its money goes to work through state and county administrations for all governmental functions, helping to make first-class citizens of Buddy and his pals.

Boy, I'll bet that "Ill" Duce is plumb sick—the Greeks are taking his army apart and the British are going in and destroying his fleet. Hitler must have called in one of Russia's "Yes men" to pat him on the back, for the British seem to be pouring it on. And, by the way, that convoy that Hitler destroyed last week—all but four ships have now reached port.

That old-time hitching post had one advantage—you didn't have to put a nickel in it to hitch your horse.

I feel the same as Dr. Benes—the fall of Nazi Germany is really inevitable, even if tomorrow or the day after they should gain some victory.

Windy Willkie didn't run as good a race as Al Smith in '28, even if he did have Al, Joe Lewis and the other Lewis—John L.—in his corner.

Briar Buck is right—several of our prominent Democrats had to ride the "Willkie Barge" up Salt River, and, boy, is it hurting them?—I tried to tell them better. Just remember Al Smith, boys—he took a walk and can't even thumb back.

The classic remark of the past campaign was uttered when Sam Caddy, president of District 30, U.M.W. A., said it was all right for John L. to play around with economic royalists

It looks darn funny to me, all these fires, explosions and accidents in the defense factories. A fifth column would be my guess.

It makes me sick, hearing a lot of fellows yelling about FDR changing Thanksgiving. Didn't Abraham Lincoln change it, one time. Yes, he did—and, according to available records, the early Thanksgivings were in February.

I notice by the papers that the city of Ashland has appointed a woman cop. Henry Skeens reports that there has been a woman cop on Squaw Branch for the past several years and, to further complicate matters for Henry and Vance, it is reported that Georgia is trying to get in as a deputy under Rosa. That will make slow driving and sad singing on the "shoot-in" crew.

REFORM

Safety lessons are not intended to be Sunday School lessons. Nevertheless many present-day motorists could profit by such warnings.

It is the exception rather than the rule that drivers deliberately crash, inflicting death or injury upon their fellow men. The same motorists who regard highly the spiritual aspect of the Sunday School teachings—the commandment "Thou Shalt Not Kill," the Golden Rule, and other religious doctrines closely connected with preservation of life—may lack the moral influence such as reverence, respect and consideration for others. The result of this disregard of right from wrong and safe from unsafe driving practices is that many evil habits have become prevalent among motorists.

From a recent study of accidents, it is apparent that the evil which could stand much reform is "Intemperance." Everyone has his own idea about drinking and driving. These notions range from one extreme—that a few drinks up to 15 shots of whisky, improve one's driving ability—to the other—that all accidents are the result of intoxicants. Nevertheless, thru the haze of alibis and cover-ups following accidents, the fact stands out that the drinking driver is a menace to the traveling public.

Goodman Says W.P.A. Works, In Line With Defense Plans

Kentucky, in the last five years, has been given 9,390 miles of improved highways, roads and streets, through use of W.P.A. labor, George H. Goodman, State Administrator, announced last week, adding that "it is amazing how the permanency of the work we have done falls in with the Government's present defense program."

Roads, bridges, public buildings, and improved health facilities are a fact, he said, rather than a series of proposals. In addition to highways, roads and streets constructed by W.P.A., 2,417 bridges and viaducts, 49,191 feet in length have been constructed, while 799 bridges and viaducts measuring 27,879 lineal feet have been constructed. New culverts improving Kentucky highway facilities number 54,120, Goodman announced, while old culverts measuring 42,727 lineal feet have been rehabilitated. Adequate drainage for forty miles of highway was completed, and drainage for 64 miles was reconstructed.

Various towns have been improved and lifted out of the mud by construction of 349 miles of sidewalk, 276 miles of curbs and sixty-six miles of gutters, Goodman said. Twelve miles of sidewalks, 19 miles of curbs and three miles of gutters were constructed.

The school system of the state has profited, it was said, to the extent of 240 new school buildings erected from the ground up by W.P.A. Additions have been made to sixty schools, and 784 school buildings have been reconstructed, rehabilitated and modernized.

Three new libraries have been built and twenty more reconstructed. Six auditoriums were completed and six reconstructed. Additions were made to 2. For the health of Kentucky children, thirty-six gymnasiums and fifty-nine other recreational buildings have been erected. Nineteen gymnasiums were reconstructed and additions built to 11. Other recreational buildings reconstructed numbered 98. New office and administration buildings total 31. Sixty-four have been re-habilitated and additions have been made to six.

New hospital buildings number five, while 26 have been rehabilitated. Nine new jails have been constructed, and six have been rebuilt. Forty-one fire houses have been rehabilitated. Among other structures completed by the WPA in the five-year period in Kentucky are garages, storage buildings, various types of public buildings, stadiums, grandstands, bleachers, swimming pools, wading pools, golf courses, sewage treatment plants, an incinerator, pumping stations, water treatment plants, water mains and distribution lines, water storage dams, storm and sanitary sewers, and an airport.

All this work and more has been done by men or women, who otherwise would have been reduced to the bread lines for subsistence, Goodman said.

The WPA program started in the summer 1935.

BETSY LAYNE

Sunday School is progressing nicely with large attendance.

Church service was held here Sunday night by the Reverend Elswick, of Zebulon. There will be a service here Nov. 21 at the Methodist Tabernacle.

Rev. A. L. Jackson, who has been very ill for the past two weeks, is reported some better.

Citizens of Betsy Layne are proud to see a new building constructed here by James A. George where we can have a nice, clean, respectable place for our boys and girls to go. He has always kept a nice place, and we feel certain that he will continue to do so.

Mrs. Tom Deskins, of Ohio, was visiting her sisters, Mrs. Polly Loar and Mrs. Lou Crum, last week.

Ray Stratton, of Betsy Layne, who is in college at Pikeville, went to Ashland to appear on the Eastern Kentucky Education Association program with the Pikeville College glee club, Nov. 8.

Lester Thacker, of Caney Creek, school, was visiting his parents over the week-end.

Mrs. Babe Merrill and daughter, of West Virginia, are here on a visit with her mother, Mrs. Bill Wallace. They will remain here until after Thanksgiving.

We are sorry to report the illness of Mrs. Molly Layne, who is in the hospital at Ironton O.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

THE MOVING-PICTURE SHOW AT FIDELITY

You can hide a country village for a long time from the things that everybody else knows about, but by and by the world learns about it and comes with its best and latest inventions. For years we had heard of the moving picture and had somewhat doubted the truthfulness of our informers. By and by, 35 years ago, a tent show came to us, bringing the miracle that has done so much to change our social life and our very conception of things. The Midyett Company (the actual name) brought its big tent and set it up on a level space near where the Fidelity high school now stands. From all the creek bottoms and high ridges the crowd gathered, probably all of them as skeptical as I. What we saw became a landmark in our getting acquainted with the big world beyond our farthest hills. Long before talkies we had what surprised us: colored slides were thrown on the board representing scenes suggested by well-known songs—"Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" "Old Kentucky Home," "Swanee River," and the like—and the graphophone played the song, properly synchronized, we would say now. The master of ceremonies appealed to our seriousness by playing at the very beginning of his program the Twenty-third Psalm and the Lord's Prayer on his graphophone. The talking machine was still so new that we enjoyed this nearly as well as the later and more unusual show.

The moving pictures were just moving pictures, not a play or anything of the sort. They would be mere extras now, news reels or some such thing. The only one I now remember was a parade of Ringling Bros. Circus, the sort of thing all of us had seen in the flesh but never before on the silver screen. Punch and Judy came immediately afterwards, somewhat obscuring the impression of the silent and marvelous movies. I have forgotten most of the moving pictures. I am sorry to say, but I think I could reproduce word for word the Punch and Judy act, time-worn though it was then.

About a year later an advertiser for Western lands came to us and showed us colored slides by the dozens, so compelling that one of our neighbors sold out his farm and at once betook himself to the Far West, only to come back home again after a single season. After the colored slides of the finest fruit I have yet seen and of the largest grain fields that probably exist in the world came some moving pictures of work in this fabulous West. Just in the midst of the first reel the machine broke down; all of us felt that we had been cheated though we had not paid a cent for our entertainment.

And then came a showboat, a genuine showboat of the old tradition. Some of the neighboring families were spending a Saturday on the river, with large picnic dinners as a natural part of the day. About the time we were eating our dinner a deep-toned whistle down the river made us forget even our appetites. It was a small showboat, coming to anchor at the very landing where we were picnicking. The few heads of families present soon discovered that we must have a show all to ourselves. They went aboard the showboat and consulted the owner, who told them that because of the smallness of our crowd it would be necessary to charge us 20 cents apiece. That meant 40 cents for most of us, as we had our best girls; but what is 40 cents when you want to do something handsome for HER? Our twenty people, then, got all of the high jinks of the showboat, with its crew of three, that others had to take in a stuffy crowd. There were many short reels, the only one I remember being a pillow fight in an orphanage or boys' school or something. We hobnobbed with the owner and his wife and the champion fiddler and felt sorry for the others we met on the roads, who were coming to a regular, not a command performance.

FOR THE PRICE OF A SINGLE CIGARETTE

... ELECTricity will do more work in two hours than the strongest man could do.

THIS charming scene appeals pictorially, but is likely to be a slightly inept performance. . . . The lady might be posing for a movie "build-up"—or she might be wishing for a strong-armed male to do the work. . . . But regardless of how hard the strongest man may labor at any job, ELECTricity will do more work than he possibly could in two hours—for the petty cost of a cigarette!

It is delightful to run a home The Electric Way. . . . Time Releasing for the modern woman of many interests. . . . And at our low rates, ELECTricity painlessly dispatches countless chores around a house for the price of a single "smoke."

Kentucky & West Virginia Power Co.

"Page 'ELEC'! This is no job for a lady!"

In the last Ten Years
YOUR ELECTRIC COST HAS BEEN CUT 44 PER CENT
