$267,508 FUND TO BE SPENT ON HIGHWAYS

5 PROJECTS LISTED BY SUPERVISOR FOR OPERATION

The $267,508 allocated to Floyd county by the Works Progress Administration will be spent during the current fiscal year on the construction of highways and bridges. W. A. Toney, Floyd county WPA construction supervisor, said Tuesday in announcing five projects as ready for work.

Congressman A. J. May recently suggested to County Judge E. P. Hill, Jr., that an effort be made to have this fund, or a part of it, spent on blacktop surfacing of WPA roads already completed, thus preserving gravel surface applied on farm-to-market routes in the county. The suggestion was given favorable consideration by Judge Hill, but it was held that the funds now available should be spent in sections where highways have not been built, leaving the higher type of surface till such time as when it may be applied without depriving unimproved sections of work-projects.

The fund will provide work for 350 men during the fiscal year. Projects listed for immediate work under the new allocation follow:

TIGHT RACES MARK GOP PRIMARY

THREE NOMINATIONS WON BY SCANT MAJORITIES

Even if the action was not so fast as that flashed by their Democratic brethren, Floyd county's Republican candidates supplied the primary election thrills in the matter of driving finishes, none of three major G.O.P. winners emerging with leads of more than 75 votes.

Closest of the Republican races was Ralph Allen's victory over Ted Akers for County Court Clerk by 10 votes. Taylor Begley defeated Sheriff Dial Salisbury for the Republican nomination for County Judge by 50 votes, and Harry R. Burke defeated Edward L. Allen for the Republican nomination for County Attorney by 63 votes.

On the Democratic side of the house, the County Attorney's race was tightest, with Woodrow Burchett finishing up 241 votes ahead of one-time County Attorney Joe P. Tackett. The Coroner's race, between Rev. M. C. Wright and G. D. Ryan was next in the matter of being close, Wright winning by a 270-vote margin.

County Clerk A. B. Meade for the third time won the Democratic nomination for County Court Clerk, defeating Edward B. Leslie by 433 votes. Dr. W. L. Stubbs won a three-cornered race for the Sheriff's nomination, defeating Ex-Superintendent John Stephens 523 votes and Ex-Sheriff Taylor Stubbs by 609. The Representative's race among the Democrats likewise was a three-way affair with Jerry Fonce Howell scoring ahead of J. M. Turner by 545 votes and in the lead of Morton "Shikepoke" McGothen by 668. Guy Horn ran well ahead of the largest field in the "derby" to defeat Roe Turner by a 675-vote margin.

Heaviest lead piled up by any Democratic candidate was that of County Judge E. P. Hill, Jr., seeking re-nomination for the office he now holds. He led his nearest opponent, Doug Hays, by 2,328 ballots. Next by way of wide margins of victory was that of Clive Akers who

To the Voters of Floyd County:

I thank each and every person who was instrumental in securing my nomination. I deeply appreciate the things you did for me and I fondly hope and trust that I can repay you. I want you to continue the good fight and November will bring the same results. We will continue the same until the end and give to Floyd county an administration of its fiscal affairs like unto that of the past eight years. Though Forrest D. Short is dead, yet he shall live again through me. The meek and lowly shall continue to be served.

Those who were against me, I am sure, will now be with me and to them I want to say that I hold no feeling of bitterness. When elected County Attorney I will serve all the people with equal and exact justice. Give me your vote, support and influence and you shall never have cause for regret.

Obediently,
HARRY R. BURKE

MARTIN WOMAN, 1ST STRICKEN IN FLOYD BY SPOTTED FEVER

Illness of Miss Alafair Flanery, 43 years old, at Martin marks the first appearance in Floyd county of the dread Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Miss Flanery's case was described by her attending physician, Dr. Claude Allen, as "almost classical." She was bitten by a tick at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Flanery, of Buck's Branch near Martin. She has been ill for more than two weeks at the home of her sister, Mrs. Henry Salisbury, Martin.

Her condition was said to be improved Tuesday.

Only a few cases of the malady have been recorded in the medical history of Kentucky, its occurrence being largely confined to the far western states where the resultant mortality rate has been recorded as high as three out of four sufferers. In Kentucky, however, the death rate is from 25 to 35 per cent of those stricken, Dr. Allen said.

The disease develops, usually, from three to 10 days after the bite of a tick has been incurred. Symptoms include a severe headache, pains in the joints and muscles, with a temperature ranging from 100 to 103 for the first two or three days of illness, then an increase of temperature to 105 and even higher. The spotted fever patient is marked by red spots on the arms and legs and, sometimes, on the body.

DURING THREE WEEKS OF DENTAL CLINIC CONDUCTED HERE

Eight hundred and thirty-nine children from 25 schools of Floyd county were examined at the clinic conducted here during the three weeks ending Friday by the dental bureau, State Board of Health.

Of the 839 examined, 333 were treated, 1,189 corrections being made. One child required 18 corrections, including 15 fillings.

Transportation to the clinic was provided in school buses. The clinic was sponsored by the Floyd county health department, and the Prestonsburg Co-Operative Business Association contributed $100 to defray expenses of the work. W. B. Boyd, manager of the Broadway Theater, gave each child attending the clinic free admission to his theater.

TRAVEL BULLETIN
TODAY'S ROADS

Prepared By
Eastern Kentucky Automobile Club

How will the defense program affect motor vehicle ownership and operation?
Greater Automobile Use Found Necessary by Defense Workers—The rearmament program has added materially to the number of men driving to work by automobile and in many cases has increased the distance they have to travel, a survey of automobile usage in the United States just completed by the Automobile Manufacturers Association reveals. The study shows clearly the adverse effect the proposed 1c per gallon increase in the federal tax on motor fuel would have both on wage earners and farmers. It is based on extensive highway surveys carried out jointly by state highway departments and the U. S. Public Roads Administration and on additional data compiled under auspices of the association.

In almost all cities local transportation has become primarily automobile, it was found, and in cities up to the 500,000 population class as many as 70 per cent or more of the people entering the business sections of the city on a typical day do so by private automobile.

It was discovered that 2,100 American towns and cities ranging in population from 2,500 up to the 25,000-50,000 class, have dispensed with or have grown up without interurban mass transportation systems of their own, and their combined populations of nearly 12,000,000 persons depend for routine movements upon private cars.

The study confirmed statements made by officials of the National Grange and other farm leaders that the passenger automobile has long since passed out of the luxury classification and that any increase in the federal tax on gasoline would increase the farmers' cost of production. It reveals that 78 per cent of the trips made by farmers and 72 per cent of the trips made by industrial wage earners are for necessary purposes.

SOUND DRIVING PRACTICES SIGNAL YOUR INTENTIONS—Because we can't expect other persons on the highway to be mind readers, motorists who have to adjust their actions to ours have a right to know what we are going to do.

Puzzles and conundrums have their place. But the little highway game of "What Do You Think I'm Going to Do Next?" is as dangerous as dynamite.

Why expect other persons on the highway to be mind readers? If they could guess our intentions half as well as some of us expect them to do, they could have enviable contracts in vaudeville. It may be perfectly clear to the driver in the delivery truck that he's now about to dart out from the curb, turn right or left stop as suddenly as his stopping distance will allow, swing to the left and pass the car ahead or dart into a driveway on the left side of the street. But to the driver behind him there is nothing clear about it until the act is in progress—unless it's a driver of sound driving who always signals his intentions.

Hatcher Mentioned As gubernatorial Candidate
(Cincinnati Enquirer)
Ashland, Ky., Aug. 5.—Freeing of the Ashland-Coal Grove bridge here today may have been the beginning of a campaign by Democrats to nominate George G. Hatcher, Secretary of State, for Governor two years hence.

Many of Hatcher's friends from Ashland and Eastern Kentucky have mentioned him frequently as the probable Democratic choice for Governor in 1943. They point to his record as Assistant Clerk of the Court of Appeals and as Secretary of State and to his familiarity with business conditions as fitting him for the Governorship.

It is a bit early, Hatcher's friends concede, to say who will get the nomination, but they let it be known that they would work for him and are confident that he could be nominated and would be a certain winner.

Hatcher, whose home is in Ashland, is a member of one of Eastern Kentucky's most prominent families and his friends feel that he could easily win the Eastern half of the state and hold his own in the Northern, Western and Southern parts. His cousin was the late James Hatcher, state Railroad Commissioner, and a power in Democratic politics in Eastern Kentucky for half a century.

Hatcher, a staunch Democrat, is said to be in high favor with the state administration and since he has not been involved in any party wrangles, his friends say he would, if nominated, cement all factions.

Hatcher declined to comment on the projected boom for him. All he would say was, "I already have a job and I must look after it."

Prestonsburg Bench Cools Off As Subs Join in Victory
Prestonsburg used 17 men Sunday in romping to an easy 10-2 victory here over Allen.

With the Allen boys committing eight errors, the league-leaders were never under tension after the big six-run third inning, and every man on the squad was given a chance to show his wares. Leslie, who has been devoting more time to politics during recent weeks than to baseball, hurled the first five innings for Prestonsburg, allowing seven hits and Allen's only runs. Patton finished, holding the visitors to one lone bingle.

FREE NATIONS SHALL RULE THE FREE NATIONS shall rule the world when final adjustments are made after the close of this world war.

This is no time for cowards and weaklings. Brave hearts alone can free mankind from the shackles and miseries of warring peoples.

Hitler, Stalin, Mussolini and the rest of the tyrants must end their careers in deserved disgrace.

There are only two governments powerful enough to achieve world freedom, the United States and the British Empire.

Without a change in ideas the first reckoning will have to be made with Japan whose navy is a standing menace to the United States.

hundred millions of people is the worst of impudence and cannot be tolerated.

The United States may be waiting for more thorough preparation but the wait should not be too long.

A thorough preparation in planes, tanks, guns, ammunition and other equipment, and a forward march without delay will save the people of the United States.

OF REGISTRATION AND PURGATION By J. HOWARD HENDERSON

CONGRATULATIONS to S. S. Pinney, Nat Young and Dr. W. B. Robinson, valuable members of the Montgomery county board of registration and purgation.

Working but twenty-one days the board removed approximately 1,900 names from the registration books of Montgomery county.

County Judge Earl Senff deserves congratulations for a willingness to have the work done before the recent primary.

In Franklin county, for instance, the election lists are cluttered up with at least 2,000 illegal voters.

That is not proof that the election was free of illegal voting. To have used repeaters to vote out the full strength of the registration books would have created an open scandal.

When the Montgomery county board started its work it called before it a number of well informed citizens, who, working over the registration lists in the section they knew, furnished the board with a tentative list of doubtful names.

Magistrate, Dist. 3, Republicans—Ed Holbert, 437; Hays Johnson, 371; Beverly Reynolds, 354; Willie R. Johnson, 796; Scott Hall, 139; Van Moore, 313.

On primary day the board sat in session at the courthouse all day, with Judge Senff, to hear complaints by any voter whose name had been stricken but who claimed the board had made an error.

As a result of its fine work Montgomery county can boast that it has a good registration machinery as there is in Kentucky.

The State Purgation Board could render a real service if it would ask other county boards to do what Montgomery's board has done.

Clear Creek Subdues Drift Sunday, 6 to 3 Score

The pitching combine of L. Stumbo and B. Moore Sunday held Drift to six hits, and stretched Clear Creek's winning streak to two games—a feat hitherto unaccomplished by Clear Creek this year.

Clear Creek took possession of the game in the first, when they batted around, scored five runs and were never headed.

Clear Creek's five runs in the first were scored on a walk, three errors, a hit batsman, a stolen base, a single and a double. Another run came in in the sixth, and the final in the eighth.

Drift scored a run in the first, one in the fourth, and one in the seventh.

Edgar Johnson was the leading hitter of the game, getting three hits, with B. Moore getting two.

Have seen and used quite a bit of different kinds of heat in my younger days, even canned heat in prohibition days, yet none was as potent as the brand Doc Walk used in his closing campaign.

What this section needs now is more shade trees deeper swimming holes and a lot of rain.

Last week old Doc Stork lit in Frazier's Branch and before he could get away delivered five "bundles from heaven." Good work, old boy, come again—but not to our house.

A FULL-TIME JOB

Being a citizen in a democracy is a full time job. In other forms of government, the citizenry make up the background, appearing only in mob scenes to cheer on the rulers of the nation.

But there is no room for part time citizens in our form of government. Our government is us—what we make it. Ours is the fault if the wheels of government do not run smoothly, for the laws we made are the roadbed, and the men we elected are the machine.

Are you a part time citizen? Do you you fulfill all your duties as a voter—or do you just show up at election time to cast your vote without due consideration of the full qualifications, record and principles of all candidates?

Are you a part time citizen? Do you obey the laws you have had a hand in making—or is it your only thought. When you break what seems like an inconsequential little law that if you can get away with it, it's all right?

Are you a part time citizen? Do you evince interest in all issues or only in those problems which directly concern you—and then object when other groups do the same and infringe on our prerogatives? Only as citizens work for the common good of all can democracy progress.

Are you a part time citizen? Do you lend an ear to alien subversive elements who tell you how much better conditions are or would be for you were there a different form of government? Do you thoughtlessly pass on these tales without checking on their accuracy or considering their source?

Are you a part time citizen? Do you stand up for democracy or do you condemn its mistakes without consideration for the good it has to offer? Do you stress only its shortcomings and never its long range program which slowly but surely, and in spite of stumblings, discriminations and detours is making this country of ours the best in which to live?

Now as never before the United States needs the full time allegiance of all its people. Don't be a part-time citizen.—Big Sandy News.

Large Audience Hears Miss Hager in Recital

A large and appreciative audience was present at the voice recital given Friday evening, Aug. 8, at the Methodist Church by Miss Jane Carroll Hager, soprano. One of the outstanding musical events of the year, the recital was successful in both performance and interest to the audience. The light and wholly delightful flute-like quality of Miss Hager's voice was particularly well adapted to the Mozart, Alleluja, The Waltz Song from Romeo and Juliet, and L'Ardiva.

Miss Hager is a pupil of Mrs. Kathryn S. Frazier, who assisted in the recital as accompanist and organist.

The entire program follows: "Alleluja from Motet: Exultate, Jubilate," Mozart; "Ave Maria," Bach-Gounod; "The Lord's Prayer," Molitte—Miss Hager.

"Pilgrim's Chorus" from "Tannhauser," Wagner; "Reve Anglique," Rubinstein—Mrs. Frazier.

"Nymphs and Shepherds," Purcell; "Nina," Pergolesi; "Ah! Je Veux Vivre," from Romeo and Juliet, Gounod—Miss Hager.

"Song of the Basket Weaver," Russell; "Mighty Lak a Rose," Nevin; "Pizzicato," Delibes—Mrs. Frazier.

"Lo! Hear the Gentle Lark," Bishop; "Let My Song Fill Your Heart," Charles; "Summertime," from Porgy and Bess, Gershwin; "L'Ardiva," (Magnetic Waltz) Arditi—Miss Hager.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE USERS

Never before in history have our long distance switchboards been so busy. Long distance calls this year have already far exceeded 1940's record-breaking average, and the volume grows greater every day.

Industries with vital defense orders and booming Army and Navy posts are relying heavily on long distance service. In addition, calls from the general public have increased by leaps and bounds.

Despite our "all-out" effort to meet these rapidly expanding demands, our facilities are at times operated at near capacity. Occasional delays may be expected on some long distance calls. "Hold-the-line, please" service is not always possible.

To relieve the situation we are engaged in an expansion program costing millions of dollars. Many thousands of miles of new long distance circuits have been placed in operation this year, and more are on the way. Additions to many switchboards have been installed. Others are being set up as fast as they can be secured and our men can place them in operation.

But manufacture and installation of telephone equipment takes time, and defense priorities are making it increasingly difficult to secure essential materials.

Long distance telephone users can do their part in this present emergency by avoiding as much as possible placing calls during the peak long distance hours of 9 to 11 a.m. and 7 to 8:30 p.m.

The understanding and cooperation of those we serve will be most helpful and will be genuinely appreciated.

Bids were asked this week by the State Highway Commission on the grading, draining and surfacing of 3.4 miles of the Left Fork of Middle Creek road from Goodloe post-office toward the Magoffin county line at the head of Lick Fork, near the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company mine site.

The bids will not be opened till September 5, and another winter "in the mud" is seen for that section.

The WPA, using state machinery, this week was surfacing the last half-mile of the main Middle Creek highway, but W. A. Toney construction supervisor, said that the state had indicated it will build the bridge across Middle Creek, a distance of approximately half a mile below the Floyd county end of the route.

Magoffin county's "missing link" of the Prestonsburg-Salyersville route (the Middle Creek highway) remains unimproved.

Former Floyd Countian Is Wreck Victim In Indiana

Carl Martin, native Floyd countian, was killed Saturday in an automobile wreck in Indiana, relatives here have learned. Particulars of the tragedy are lacking.

Besides his parents, Mr. Martin is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Delong Martin, one daughter, three sisters and a brother: Mrs. Willie Goble, Lancer; Mrs. Russell Harris, of Ohio; Miss Esta Martin, of Indiana. Name of his surviving brother is unavailable. Another brother, Lacy, was killed in an auto wreck, a few years ago.

Summer Dessert Prescription!

PRESCRIPTION for a delightful climax for dinner on a hot mid-summer night—"Rx... Take one sponge or angel food cake and cut in squares. Mold with lemon custard and chill. Serve for dessert when weather is warm."

Here is a prescription that can be followed with real pleasure—for the delicate quivery texture and the fresh tang of the lemon in this molded cake and custard dessert foster an illusion of coolness no matter what the thermometer may read.

The preparation of this dessert is simple, too, so simple in fact—that you can easily fit it into any crowded summer schedule. If you wish, the sponge cake may be purchased from a baked goods counter. The lemon custard, however, which gives the dessert its superlative flavor, can be quickly made in your own kitchen.

Particularly is this true, if you own a modern electric range. As you know, time-worn custom has necessitated the use of a double boiler when making custards. However, when cooking with the low, evenly distributed heat of a modern electric range, only a medium-weight, ordinary saucepan is needed. The low, constant, controlled heat coagulates custards to a smooth creamy consistency without a trace of curdling. This low surface heat, only one among the several heat settings found on the electric range, is also a real safeguard in the cooking of milk and egg mixtures, making it possible for the amateur cook to prepare these easy-to-burn products with ease and assurance.

A very real help, too, are the pilot lights now found on the surface units of some models which show what heat is being used.

But back to our cake custard dessert; it should chill at least 2 hours to be firm enough to unmold but may chill overnight or longer. Here is the recipe:

PETITE CAKE MOLD
(Serves 8)

- 4 egg yolks (well-beaten)
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
- 3 tablespoons cold water
- 4 egg whites (beaten stiff)
- 1 small unfrosted cake or a portion of a large one (angel food, sponge or plain cake)

Mix beaten egg yolks with ½ cup of sugar, lemon juice and rind and place in saucepan on electric surface unit. Cook over a low heat, stirring frequently, until the mixture is thick enough to coat a spoon, about 12 to 15 minutes. Meanwhile sprinkle gelatin over cold water and soak for 5 minutes; then add this to the hot custard mixture and stir until dissolved. Beat egg whites until stiff—then to them gradually add remainder of sugar while still beating constantly. Fold this egg white mixture into the custard and remove from heat. Brush 8-inch ring mold or small angel food cake pan lightly with salad oil. Cut cake into small squares, arrange in mold, and cover with the custard. Chill in refrigerator until firm—at least 2 hours. Unmold and serve with whipped cream if desired. Garnish with cherries or fresh fruit of any desired variety.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

JUST LIKE US
WHEN I used to live in the Fidelity neighborhood, I thought that we were peculiar people, unlike any one else in the world. By degrees, I fear, we had come to regard ourselves peculiar in a way, much as the Hebrews regarded themselves. We feared that even the people up or down the creek were not quite like us; the county seat and farther away were practically hopeless. Since I left Fidelity, however, I have been startled to find that we were ludicrously like other people, for all their better houses and better chances; or, if you want to swap ends of the comparison, even the best of the other people were strikingly like us of little old remote Fidelity.

When I was eighteen, I went away from Fidelity forever. My first trip took me some 65 miles away in a straight line to a county farther west in Kentucky. There I attended a private academy for a time and taught my first school in the following fall. To my surprise I found the people of the small county seat town where the academy was located and especially the people of the farming neighborhood where I taught so much like those back home that a given family could be exchanged with one at Fidelity without causing any noticeable difference. I suppose now, after more than a third of a century, that I expected to find people who differed widely from those I had known; one old lady that I knew used to pray publicly for her son in different places, when he was actually in Louisville. Whatever I may learn in my life, that first rude shock to my feeling that Fidelity was different will be my greatest mental acquirement.

Since that first time away from home I have lived among strangers and visited among many more, only to find Fidelity forever bobbing up. The people who came to consult my father, the country doctor, represented every type of the genus homo that I have found elsewhere. The names may differ, the clothes certainly differ, and there are some minor differences in language, but underneath these non-essentials personalities seem to be the same.

In recent years I have wondered still more at the epitome of human life that we saw daily in our isolated section. For instance, our negroes talked like those in the writings of Joel Chandler Harris and DuBose Heyward and Julia Peterkin. With the exception of a few words that are peculiar to the Sea Island part of the South our negro language could be transferred bodily to the writings of these same authors. Lodges, burial societies, banter, sorrow, spirituals, church, cryptic philosophy that white folks probably have never understood, hoodoo, conjure—what that is distinctive of negro life did we not know? Slavery had not been important at Fidelity, since only a small portion of the landowners had slaves, but our small section, I repeat, was a cosmos.

Not only was this true about negroes, but it was equally true of other people, striking personalities in history or in books. We could have been expected to be most like the South, but how could good Yankees get into our remote nook among the hills? It seemed fairly hard for the mail carrier to get to us twice a week, but distance meant nothing to persistent personalities that somehow came to be a part of our daily lives. Some one has said that one can stand on Canal Street in New Orleans for half a day and see every known kind of person. That, hardly sounds unreasonable when we consider the importance of the city as a sea port second only to New York. It is equally true that one could station himself at the country store in Fidelity (or Podunk) and see go by in procession all the kinds of people that have ever been or will be. That is what makes a cross section of any area a true picture of the whole human race.

Nearly 1½ million officers and men of our armed forces were transported by the Railroads during the first six months of 1941! This required 2,861 special trains and also many special routings—without the slightest interference with other traffic! Yes, the Railroads are meeting the extra demands of National Defense and taking them in their stride!

Who operates the world's greatest laundry? No, it's not the Chinese—it's the Pullman Co! Their laundries have an average of more than one-half million pieces of linen for each work day!

Imagine a stack of Railroad Time tables over 150 miles high! The American Railroads distribute enough time tables to build such a structure—about 80,000,000—every year!

The highest point reached by a railroad in the United States is the summit of Pike's Peak in Colorado, 14,109 feet above sea level, reached by the Manitou & Pike's Peak (cog) Railroad.

Ever wonder why coal from mines along the Chesapeake and Ohio has that extra heating power? It's because coals from this region have a low ash and moisture content and just the right combination of hydrogen and carbon!

WHAT A HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR SHOULD KNOW ABOUT TUBERCULOSIS

By RUSSELL PATTON Maytown High School

More than one-half of all city dwellers have been at sometime infected by tuberculosis, although the disease may have remained quiescent. This fact shows the terrible frequency of the disease; but also brings the comforting thought that the human body with its wonderful faculty for adjusting itself to new conditions, frequently succeeds in overcoming it. In 1900, 200 out of every 100,000 people in the United States died of the disease, but in less than three decades, the rate was cut to 80 out of the same number. This is due not only to the growing immunity of city population, but to better living conditions, control of milk supply, and more knowledge of the disease and the methods of treating it.

Tuberculosis was well known to doctors of the ancient Greeks, but the cause of it was not understood until 1882, when Robert Koch, a German country doctor and brilliant scientist, discovered the bacteria which are responsible for the disease. When the bacteria enter the blood stream, which they usually do by the mouth or nose, they may stop in any of the organs or in the bones and there set up a center of infection. Bacteria usually pass harmlessly through the blood until they settle in the filter they have to pass, which is the lungs. Then, tuberculosis of the lung, the commonest form of the disease, may develop.

Around the colony of bacteria the body forms a conglomerate of cells, known as the tubercle. The cells decay, leaving inflammation and lesions in the lungs, which in most cases scar over without the person ever knowing that he was once infected. If, however, the bacteria are not killed, the tubercles and the resulting decay increase and tuberculosis becomes recognizable. One of the most important symptoms is continued loss of weight, which has given the disease its popular name of consumption. Other danger signals are: a continued feeling of fatigue, poor appetite, night sweats, fever, especially in the afternoon, and usually, though not always, a persistent cough. As soon as tuberculosis is well established, the cough or any sudden strain may cause hemorrhage from the lungs. The disease may prove fatal within three months, in which case it is known as "Gallop-Consumption."

With chronic tuberculosis the patient may live as long as ten or fifteen years or he may be completely cured.

There is no quick or certain cure for tuberculosis, but if the patient lives and sleeps out of doors, diets carefully, takes frequent sun baths and, above all, is free of mental worry, there is a fair chance of complete recovery. The patient should enter a sanatorium as soon as a doctor has diagnosed active tuberculosis. Generally speaking, the best climate is a dry one. The deserts of the Southwest are ideal for tubercular cases. Mountain air is a so good. Persons with arrested cases of tuberculosis, even if only one lung is left, can live a normal life provided they avoid, so far as possible, damp climates and undue exertion.

The prevention of tuberculosis is being studied in all civilized countries with success. It is not hereditary, but may be easily transmitted to a child if there is an infected person living in the same house.

Monroe county farmers sold about 20,000 broilers for 21 to 25 cents a pound. According to County Agent

By providing the city population with ready access to sunshine, better living and factory conditions and by avoiding overcrowding, resistance to the disease is increased. Its spread is checked by free clinics and sanitariums. The National Tuberculosis Association raises several million dollars every year for these purposes by selling its famous Christmas seals. If they knew that this disease alone causes about one-tenth of the deaths in the human family they probably would buy them. No one, no race, no sex is immune from tuberculosis attacks, and its ravages are so serious that, in several countries, associations for the study and prevention of the disease have been formed. On the other hand, there has been a steady decline in the death rate in various parts of the world for nearly a century. It is generally agreed that the falling death rate within more recent years is due in considerable degree to modern methods of prevention and control, based on newer knowledge concerning tuberculosis and its cause. It is also an accepted theory that the human race has gradually been building up a resistance to the disease through a process of natural immunization. The people who harbor the germs of tuberculosis are much more numerous than those who acquire the disease.

Lung tuberculosis is by far the most prevalent type of the disease, and the usual source of infection is the sputum of active sick persons. Countless tubercle bacilli are contained in the sputum and are ejected through coughing, sneezing and spitting. When dried, and carried through the air as dust, or in the form of minute drops, sputum is an important germ carrier, especially in homes, conveyances, public halls, and other enclosures. Out-of-door dust is less dangerous, because sunshine is a destroyer of bacteria. Sputum deposited on handkerchiefs, clothing, towels, furniture and carpets, and other objects is what sanitarians call "dangerous dirt." Carelessness in this respect has caused many a child, playing about a room, to become infected, though the infection may not develop actively until years later. A great many cases of tuberculosis in adulthood are the result of infection in childhood. There is also some transmission through contaminated food and water.

Whether the bacilli enter the body by way of the mouth or nose, focal areas are established, possibly in the tonsils or larynx, and from these poison centers the germs are carried in the blood circulation to sites of infection, notably the lungs. The larynx often becomes infected from the lungs. When the tubercle bacillus attacks the skin, finding entrance through a cut or scratch, the disease is known as lupus. Scrofula is tuberculosis of the lymph glands.

The death from tuberculosis is continually decreasing and will continue to improve our living conditions. If our doctors continue to gain more knowledge of the disease and the methods of preventing it, tuberculosis will soon be a thing of the past, provided we improve our living conditions also.

If any one in any way happens to get in contact with this disease, he should sleep out-of-doors in a suitable climate, get plenty of fresh air, diet carefully, take frequent sun baths and be free from mental worry.
