

DEFENSE EDICT MAY PUT END TO DRILLING

Government Forbids Gas Operations on Small Acreage

A complete cessation of drilling operations in the Eastern Kentucky gas field is seen as a result of the governmental decree recently issued to the effect that no gas well may be drilled on a tract of less than 640 acres.

The order, in effect, freezes gas operations. It permits the completion of wells already begun but restricts future drilling, it was said.

Gas men of the section were concerned with the possible interpretation to be made of the 640-acre rule.

And, it was further pointed out, even if such tracts are available, drilling operations now must await governmental sanction.

The ruling applies to companies and individuals alike who are engaged in drilling for natural gas.

Oil wells may be drilled on a tract of only 40 acres, the new ruling provides, but all surrounding landowners must consent to the drilling.

The restriction of drilling has already seriously affected drilling contractors and their employes, and may mean loss of employment to some gas company employes.

Approximately 70 persons representing Floyd county's nine high schools attended the banquet held Wednesday evening at Martin high school, inaugurating the work on the 1941-42 edition of "The Floyd Countian," an annual publication of county high schools.

Prof. Monroe Wicker, principal of the host school, was toastmaster, and talks were made by various officials, instructors and citizens.

Major convictions up till Wednesday morning follow: Maynard Dudley, carrying concealed deadly weapon, $75 fine, 10 days in jail, disfranchised two years; Eugene Williams, carrying concealed deadly weapon, acquitted.

The following cases were dismissed: C. J. Sipple, operating motor vehicle without operator's license; Joe Dinkins, Jr., petit larceny; Henry Blackburn, aiding a prisoner to escape from custody; Grover Holbrook, Jr., Bill Dotson and Virgil Holbrook, aiding prisoner to escape from custody; Mike Jones, removing or having ballot outside election room; Marion Brown, selling moonshine liquor; Homer Whitaker, selling liquor; Clarence Dye and Willie Shortridge, breaking and entering automobile; B. B. Salisbury, accessory to murder after the fact; Ollie Hall, murder.

Twenty-two more indictments, all returned since last Wednesday, brought the total number of true bills written by the grand jury before its temporary adjournment Saturday afternoon, to 47. The jury will re-convene for an additional three-day session, Jan. 26.

Mrs. Katherine Lykens, Last of Her Family, Dies at Hunter

Mrs. Katherine Lykens, 85 years old, last of the family of the late Green and Rhoda Sizemore Salisbury, pioneer residents of the Left Beaver section of this county, died Saturday at her home at Hunter, a victim of pneumonia after three years of ill health.

"Aunt Kate," as she was affectionately known, was a member of one of the county's largest families, and had a host of friends and relatives in this section. She is survived by her husband, J. W. Lykens. Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday from the home, the Revs. Tom Mosley and M. C. Wright, of the Regular Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was made under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home in the Lykens cemetery at Hunter.

'HOB' ALLEN, SLATE VICTIM

Well-Known Man, Instantly Killed In Drift Mine

Graydon (Hob) Allen, 36 years old, machine helper, was instantly killed in the mines of the Sampson Elkhorn Coal Company at Drift Wednesday afternoon when crushed beneath a fall of slate.

His neck was broken by the fall which came as he preceded a coal-cutting machine moving in to work. The tragedy occurred at 1:30 p. m.

The victim was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dick Allen, and was well-known in this county where he had many relatives and friends. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Margaret Adams Allen, five children, two brothers and one sister: Glad Allen, of Dana, and Mrs. Jesse Clarke and Fred Allen, both of Drift.

The body was prepared for burial by the Arnold Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements had not been completed, Thursday noon.

2-YEAR TERMS DRAWN BY 2

Former Officer's Trial On Murder Charge Set for Jan. 20

Convicted of damaging a telephone box owned by the C. & O. Railway Company by shooting into it, Claude Mosley and Curt Moore, of Left Beaver Creek, were given two-year pen terms by juries of the Floyd circuit court this week.

A third penitentiary sentence, that of Jimmy Dove, of Stephens Branch, for child desertion, was suspended when he agreed to support his children.

Trial of Jim Hall, former Floyd county officer, charged with murder, was continued from Saturday till Jan. 20. The murder trial of Pert Hall was continued till April, as was that of Mrs. Maude Leslie and her son, David.

Major convictions up till Wednesday morning follow: Maynard Dudley, carrying concealed deadly weapon, $75 fine, 10 days in jail, disfranchised two years; Eugene Williams, carrying concealed deadly weapon, acquitted.

STATE PLAN TO BUY BOND

Woman's Club Here Awards 3 Prizes For Decorations

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club this week announced its plan to purchase soon a $1,000 Defense Bond.

Prizes for the most attractive Christmas doorway decorations were awarded at the club meeting held Thursday evening, Jan. 8, at the home of Mrs. A. B. Combs. Mrs. Ray Collins was awarded $5, first prize; Mrs. W. A. Rose, $3, second, and Mrs. L. S. Mcles, $2, third. Judges were Mrs. John S. Layne, Ashland, and Mrs. Mark G. Nichols, Webster Springs, W. Va. The contest was sponsored by the club, and prizes were contributed by the Kentucky & West Virginia Power Company.

Mrs. Combs' co-hostesses were Mrs. J. R. Hurt, Mrs. W. C. Rimmer, Mrs. R. V. May and Miss Ella Noel White.

A delicious dessert course was served to the following members and guests: Mrs. J. D. Thomas, Mrs. George Cohen, Mrs. Chalmers Frazer, Mrs. Dave Stephens, Mrs. A. C. Harlowe, Mrs. J. R. Hurt, Mrs. W. C. Rimmer, Mrs. A. B. Combs, Mrs. N. G. Davis, Mrs. W. Claude Caudill, Miss Ella Noel White, Miss Theda Bibb Thomas and Miss Vivian Combs.

Floyd county farmers are in dead earnest about this matter of "Food for Defense."

Last Thursday, which dawned with a temperature of two degrees below 25 farmers and one farmerette came to Prestonsburg, some traveling as much as 35 miles, to attend the poultry leaders' meeting held at the office of County Agent S. L. Isbell.

These leaders in the campaign to produce Floyd county's pledge of 403,000 dozen eggs this year, together with others who have since contacted the County Agent, have volunteered their services in aiding and encouraging their neighbors in the undertaking.

C. E. Harris, poultry specialist, Lexington, told the leaders of the need of good poultry-houses, ground limestone or oyster shells on feeding grounds and the reduction of losses of poultry by death, in order

The new agreement entered into Monday between the Floyd fiscal court and the State Finance Company, Maysville, provides for the amortization of the county's $65,000 floating indebtedness by means of 4 1/2 per cent bonds, last of which will mature Jan. 1, 1947.

The plan, as outlined in the agreement, is to provide for payment of this indebtedness "without interfering with the proper administration of the county's governmental and other essential activities."

Bonds in sufficient amount to pay off existing floating indebtedness and interest to Jan. 1, 1942 will be issued if the plan is approved by the state finance officer and if at least 75 per cent of holders of warrants and judgments agree to accept them in lieu of their present claims.

The bonds will be $1,000 each and the first payment of $10,000 on them will become due Jan. 1, 1942. Each year thereafter until 1947, $10,000 will be due, the final payment of $15,000 becoming due Jan. 1, 1947. None of the bonds may be called until 10 years have elapsed except at the rate of 105 per cent of their face value.

To meet the payment of this bonded indebtedness, it was agreed that the county levy a direct tax each year, thus create a sinking fund of not less than $10,000 a year, plus interest, and deposit this amount, as it is collected from month to month, with the State Treasurer, to be held in trust for the sole purpose of meeting the bonded

REVERED MAN IS CLAIMED

Chas. Oppenheimer, 76, Former Merchant, Succumbs Here

Charles Oppenheimer, former Prestonsburg merchant and one of the community's most deeply revered citizens, died Monday afternoon at the Prestonsburg General hospital after an illness of months. He was 76 years old.

Born in Berghofen, Germany, May 16, 1865, Mr. Oppenheimer came to this country at the age of 17 and soon became a naturalized citizen. He came to Prestonsburg 28 years ago and for years was in the mercantile business here. A member of the Methodist Church for 57 years, he was superintendent of the Sunday School of the Prestonsburg Methodist Church for 23 years. He also had been a member of the Masonic lodge 52 years and served Zebulon lodge here as tiler, an office to which he was recently re-elected, although his illness prevented his attendance at the lodge.

His innate kindness and deeply religious spirit endeared him to all who knew him.

Before coming to Prestonsburg, Mr. Oppenheimer resided at Lawton, Carter county. He was first married to Miss Nannie Womack, of Reedsville, Ky., in 1885. To this union were born seven children, of

Keenan To Lead Boy Scouts Here

Leaders of the Boy Scout movement here for 1942 are Jack Keenan, scoutmaster; George Straughan, Ralph Taylor and Russell Rice, assistant scoutmasters.

Co-operating with them is the following committee from the Kiwanis Club: C. H. Smith, George Straughan, Town Hall, J. D. Harkins, Jr., and N. M. White.

Mr. Keenan, former scoutmaster at Oak Park, Ill., succeeds Carey Burchett, who resigned as scoutmaster, Jan. 1. The Boy Scouts here are conducting, each Saturday, the collection of waste paper. Funds derived from sale of the paper are being used toward completion of the Scout cabin.

N. M. White, chairman of the Kiwanis Club committee working with the Scout leaders, said this week that troops will be formed, shortly, at Auxier, David and West Prestonsburg.

NEWSOM DIES OF GUNSHOT

McDowell Man Found, Fatally Wounded, On Little Mud Cr.

Found wounded on a Little Mud Creek mountainside where he had lain for several hours Saturday after having been shot through his leg by the accidental discharge of his shotgun, Curtis Newsome, 21 years old, of McDowell, died at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, Sunday morning.

His leg was amputated in a vain effort to save his life. Loss of blood suffered before being taken to the hospital was given as the cause of death.

The victim was a son of the late Henry Newsome and Mrs. Virgie Newsome Moore, who survives. He is also survived by his step-father, Buck Moore, of McDowell. Funeral rites were conducted at Dony Monday, with burial following in the family cemetery under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

VOTE TO END COMPETITION

Over Floyd Tourney Sites; Betsy Layne Gets '42 Meet

Floyd county high school principals, meeting at Martin Wednesday night, unanimously voted to put an end to the competition that arises each year over the location of the annual basketball tournament.

After deciding that this year's tourney will be held at Betsy Layne, they agreed on a policy of rotating tournament sites from year to year. Martin, under this plan, will be host to next year's tournament, with Wayland, Maytown, Garrett and McDowell following in order. When and if a gymnasium sufficiently adequate to accommodate tournament crowds at Wheelwright, that school will break into the order of rotation at any time after the meet scheduled for Martin is held.

Prestonsburg high school did not contend for the district tournament.

Commenting on the arrangement for rotation of tournament sites, County Superintendent Town Hall said Thursday, "I believe this will bring more harmony in the future. The arrangement, in reality, hurts no school and eliminates the fight between all the schools each year, before tournament time."

Also agreed upon were financial arrangements of district tournaments. After $175 has been deducted for expenses, the host school will receive one-fourth of the proceeds, with the other participating schools sharing equally in the remainder, the agreement provides.

FLAMES GUT CHURCH, RAZE REA OFFICE

Damage of $34,000, Partially Covered By Insurance

The Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church was in ruins after flames which broke out Sunday, shortly before the evening worship hour, were subdued.

The fire followed by three days that which destroyed the old Marrs residence on First avenue which housed offices and equipment of the Big Sandy REA Cooperative, shortly before midnight Thursday.

The Rev. Campbell Jeffries, pastor, estimated damage to the church and its contents at $25,000, with $10,000 of the loss covered by insurance.

Equipment and materials lost in the REA office blaze was valued at $6,000. The loss was fully covered by insurance, it was said by A. C. Lockridge, superintendent for the cooperative. F. C. Hall, local manager of the Marrs estate, valued the building, a six-room residence, at $3,000, with $2,000 insurance.

The church fire was first discovered in the annex constructed several years ago, and the fire department left after the fire had apparently been extinguished. From 30 to 45 minutes later, the second alarm sounded and the fire department arrived to find the roof ablaze and the fire raging throughout the structure. It is believed, the Reverend Jeffries said, that the original blaze worked through the framework beneath the plaster and on to the roof. The fire started from a gas stove in the annex.

Only the pulpit, furniture, books and equipment in the pastor's study were saved.

Origin of the REA office blaze, which was discovered at 11:45 Thursday night, is not known. The fire broke out in the north-east, or rear, corner of the building. The only stove left lighted, Mr. Lockridge said, was in the front part of the structure. The fire department arrived in time to save the building, it was said, but found the fire plug on First street frozen and lost precious time in moving hose to a plug on Court street.

All records of the cooperative were lost, as also were meters, insulators and other equipment stored in the building. The cooperative this week was re-located in the Spradlin building, formerly occupied by the Koch Radio Shop, on the Mayo Trail.

The Baptist Church was constructed in 1910, shortly after the Reverend Sledge had created much religious interest locally. When first built, it was a sparsely-settled part of Prestonsburg, but in the last few years, with the building of the Mayo Trail past it, it was in the center of a business district.

The lot on which the church was located was donated by the late W. H. May.

Commenting on the arrangement for rotation of tournament sites, County Superintendent Town Hall said Thursday, "I believe this will bring more harmony in the future. The arrangement, in reality, hurts no school and eliminates the fight between all the schools each year, before tournament time."

 OFFICIAL ORGAN FOR FLOYD COUNTY, KY.
 $1.50 Per Year Payable In Advance

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Ky., under the act of March 3, 1879.

THIS IS WHY

YOU either have relatives in the armed forces of this country, or your friends have. These boys, in your months to come, may be called upon to face a cruel enemy, an enemy armed with bullet and plane and torpedo and shell. Many of them will lie wounded in hospitals far from home.

That is what war has in store for them.

Many of us will want to be at the side of "our" boys. But age and other handicaps will keep us at home.

Nearest to them, however, when the boys are in want, hungry, wounded, perhaps dying, will be nurses and the merciful offices of the American Red Cross.

Then why shouldn't we all give "till it hurts" to help the Red Cross?—for the Red Cross will be nearer the boys than their parents and many of their nearest and dearest will ever come until the boys return home from a victory which they will surely win.

IS IT WORTH A MILLION?

IF the State Highway Patrol is to be worth this year $700,000 more to Kentucky than it was in 1940-41, its complete re-organization and a re-definition of its powers and duties must be made.

A cool million dollars is the appropriation budgeted for this fiscal year for the Patrol. It embraces an increase of $700,000 over the $300,000 spent on the Highway Patrol during the first fiscal year after the preceding Legislature voted the 1940-42 appropriation.

That means that, in the opinion of the Governor who submitted this and other items of the state budget to the Legislature for approval, and in the opinion of the Legislature which did approve it, the State Highway Patrol is worth an average of approximately $8,500 to each of Kentucky's 120 counties.

This THE TIMES cannot see.

THE TIMES admits that its perspective does not embrace all Kentucky in this matter. Its knowledge of State Highway Patrol activities and service extends no farther than the boundaries of Floyd county. Yet, as far as that knowledge goes, this newspaper ventures the opinion that, if the Highway Patrol is entitled to $1,000,000 this year, other departments—Agriculture, Health, for instance—are entitled at least to as much.

The new budget, incidentally provides for an outlay this fiscal year on health departments and units of $506,000; on Agriculture, $62,100.

And, in the days ahead, health and farm production are two prime requisites along the road to victory.

Whither went that promise to increase the common school fund ten percent, which would have meant almost a million dollars more where it was really needed?

The Highway Patrol is paid out of highway department funds, it is true. But those funds, it would seem, could be better allocated to the construction of needed roads and the maintenance of roads already built.

Service of the Patrol in this county hitherto has not been sensational. Checking of accidents after they happen is not a service to thrill the public, although it is a service. Checking of drivers' licenses is a matter of routine.

To be worth anything approaching a million dollars a year, the State Highway Patrol needs to widen its authority, to do more toward general law enforcement; in short, to become an enforcement agency modeled and acting along the lines of the Pennsylvania state police or those of other states where a state police is not an experiment.

Why sinicures for some at the public expense when the majority of us work and save to pay taxes to help in the National Defense effort and receive no surcease from taxes from a state government that might have saved us all money, if the Legislature were not jumping to the Puppet-Master's manipulation of the strings?

FLOYD COUNTY AND THE DEFENSE EFFORT

CONGRESSMAN A. J. MAY should not, and in all probability does not, need telling that Eastern Kentucky needs and deserves some part of the industrial development growing out of the nation's National Defense preparations and out of the exigencies created by the war crisis.

Just now, the production of synthetic rubber is planned on a vast scale. Coal and oil, we are told, are basic ingredients in the making of such rubber.

THE TIMES does not have the formula at hand for the production of synthetic rubber, but it knows, without benefit of formula, that if coal, as an ingredient or as a producer of the oil that is an ingredient, is needed—Floyd county has it.

This county's resources are well-known to Congressman May. The patriotism of its people is the same as his. He surely knows our needs for new industry if we are not to stagnate in an eddy as the industrial stream races past to other more favored sections.

Then let us hope that Mr. May will use his influence to help Floyd county. THE TIMES believes he will, for Floyd county is not asking something at the expense of the nation as a whole. We want to be of service, ask no gratuity.

DON'T BURDEN JURIES BUT RELIEVE THEM

WELFARE COMMISSIONER FROST was everlastingly correct as far as he went in protesting against a bill in the Legislature empowering juries to recommend parole; but a little elaboration is due him on why and in what way he thinks "juries make more mistakes than anybody I know of who enforce the law."

Are their mistakes in passing on the question of guilt or in fixing the penalty? We can't believe Mr. Frost meant that jurors, fairly chosen, are wrong in their verdicts; he is not in a position to know that. The Judge charges the jurors as to the law of the case. It is up to the Commonwealth's Attorney to prove the accused guilty. If he doesn't, no stump speech delivered in front of the jury box can change the law though it does sometimes fool the public.

Fixing the sentence, on the other hand, is essentially a judicial function imposed upon Kentucky jurors, who would be disqualified by the slightest information of any use for an intelligent consideration of the proper punishment. That is why the inconsistent law leaves the probation to the judge and why, it is to be inferred, Commissioner Frost concludes that the parole power should remain vested in an authority with the duty and privilege of investigating cases thoroughly. We concur absolutely in his conclusion. A jury should not be burdened with such an administrative problem; rather, juries should be relieved of a judicial function, the responsibility for fixing the sentence laid on the bench where it belongs with that of probating it.—The Courier-Journal.

A REMARKABLE RECORD

THE magnitude of Canada's war effort against the Axis frequently has been noted. Observers have been astounded by the size of the contribution which the Dominion has made in relation to its limited population and wealth.

Canada is now in her third year of war. For the first time, figures are available on the extent of her contribution in the first two years. They are interesting in themselves, and especially if translated into terms of what a comparable effort on the part of the United States would entail.

Considering that our northern neighbor has a population of 11,500,000 and a national income of some $6,000,000,000, compared with a population of 130,000,000 and a national income of at least $90,000,000,000 for the United States, the 344,000 men in active service provided by Canada would be equivalent to about 4,600,000 for America.

Similarly, the $2,180,000,000 spent by Canada in two years of war would be equal to an amount of $32,000,000,000 spent by the United States. We, of course, have appropriated much more—but actually spent much less thus far. If we were to lend to our government an equivalent of what the Canadian people have loaned to theirs, the figure would be a staggering $22,000,000,000.

Like all the other democracies, Canada was not prepared for the impact of war. Unlike most of the others, Canada lost little time in buckling down to the tremendous tasks ahead. Equally astonishing have been the rapidity with which she mobilized her resources and the degree to which she has produced results.

And Canada's efforts have really just begun. Another year will see even greater expansion of her industries, greater concrete contributions to her allies on all fronts. This is a remarkable record, precisely what the world expected from this heroic nation.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Prestonsburg's a Mountain Town But It's Just Like Any Other

(James B. Goble, Floyd county's contribution to daily newspaperdom, sent the stock of The Courier-Journal and its "Op Ed" page up several points locally with the following article Monday morning concerning his "old home town."—Ed.)

So you think all Eastern Kentucky is a land of so-called hillbillies, of log cabins and creek-bed roads?

Think again, brother.

It's true you'll find them in many up-hollow sections, but not in the towns.

Take Prestonsburg, for instance. It's a town without a hillbilly—whatever one is—but with more than its share of teachers, lawyers and college students.

It's a town without a log cabin, but with large stone and brick schools, modern stores, theaters, the fine home of Congressman May, the huge Harkins law office.

It's a town without creek-bed roads, but with paved streets.

It's not perfect. You can find a scandal or two. But, brother, that's something you can find anywhere.

It's just plain, simple small town. It's Ishmael Triplett teaching the high school youngsters. It's a crowd in front of the W.P.A. office. It's

Mrs. Arnold making a speech on Wednesday night. It's tea on Daughters of the American Revolution. It's County Agent Isbell talking to a farmer. It's Norman Allen, the weekly editor, hunting for news.

It's everybody following the new fire truck . . . a boy throwing rocks at a bird . . . the Thanksgiving football game with Paintsville and devil take the loser . . . the two traffic lights on the main highway . . . a whittler on the courthouse steps . . . firecrackers on Christmas . . . the big celebration on the Fourth of July.

It's Edith James and Winnie Johns at the handcraft shop. It's hand practice on Thursday night. It's church bells each Sunday. It's hospitality and handclaps and friends.

It's like Louisa and Paintsville and Pikeville and Whitesburg and Hazard and all the other towns in Eastern Kentucky—and all over the nation.

Outside these hill-rimmed towns, way, way up the hollows, you'll find an occasional log cabin and all the rest. But in the towns? Well, go up there some time, and take a look.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D. Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

MEASURING THE CHILDREN

EVERYWHERE now there are health nurses, who weigh and measure us until we hardly feel that we have had our day's allowance of experience until we have had our weight checked. Especially is this true of those of us who have a waist that bulges or protrudes or just plain sags. We are told to weigh before eating or after eating or when hungry or otherwise. Bathroom scales are just too tempting for us all. I like them, because I can weigh without knowing that my shoes or my pocket knife will add a few unnecessary ounces. And I especially like to step up on scales that also measure your height at the same time that you are seeing whether that long agony of dining without white bread or sweets has taken away any ounces. I know that my height has not changed since the early nineteen-hundreds, but, anyway, it is lots of fun to think you may have added a half inch to a height none too great. None of this compares, though, with the measuring bouts we used to indulge in every time some one came to sit till bedtime or when some one came bringing a child that had really grown since we last saw it.

In our particular house there was a closet door that came to be the measuring stick for all of us and the visitors. The door was exactly six feet tall, just the height of my father, who was one of the tallest men in our community. So often had we measured people that the three-foot line was very well marked; in fact, it was a furrow almost entirely across the door. It came to be a base line for us who had got to be big children. Not to come up to it was to be a little fellow indeed. But none of us except Father could reach the top of the door, which, strangely, looks mighty short today when I see the old house where I was born. Ranged all up the door were the heights of the various ones of us, labeled, but it did us good to make another mark a little higher up.

Do you remember how tall the grown-ups looked when you were a small child? My mother was exactly five feet tall, but to my children she was a giantess. One of my earliest dreams was to be so tall that my head would touch mother's arm when it was held out straight from the shoulder. By eating heartily, for the purpose of growing and "just 'cause," I one day found that I was "way up in the world and actually could feel Mother's outstretched arm tickle my hair when measured. I am none too tall now, but an eight-foot giant never felt bigger than I did then. That form of testing my getting to be a big boy had to yield to something else. It would have been an insult to test myself by that childish method again. But I looked in vain at the top of the closet door, where Father's height was marked. My body grew in length, breadth and thickness, but only short, stocky legs were mine. When I see tall fellows, even yet, I just remind myself that if I had legs like them, I would look down upon them as they have always looked down on me. Many of the people of the Bible seem like old friends of mine, but I must confess a sort of fondness for short-legged Zaccbaeus, whose name many of my ancestors, probably quite appropriately, bore. Could it be that I measured so much that I was punished for wanting to be tall?

MONEY TALKS

By FREDERICK W. STAMM, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

THE UNITED STATES is now at war on two oceans. In the months ahead it is not at all unlikely that we will find ourselves fighting on three continents.

Last week I stated that to defeat the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo Axis will require diversion of from two-thirds to three-fourths of our industrial facilities to munitions making.

As events of the past two weeks unfold, we get a clearer picture of what will be necessary to carry on this war. Officials in Washington believe that it will take an expenditure of upward of fifty billion dollars annually or about half the national income. Part of this money will come from taxes and the remainder from government borrowing.

We must expect a sharp increase in all taxes in 1942. Financing a modern war means that all past tax policies must be discarded and new ones formulated. There is no doubt but what additional income taxes will be much higher for the middle class, and we also may expect a payroll tax of around 10 per cent. There is now talk of a general manufacturers' sales tax. It would not surprise me to see some type of sales tax enacted before 1942 comes to an end.

Defense bonds must be purchased in larger quantities by individuals, banks, and all savings institutions.

Other things we may expect are labor "regulation," to assure farms and factories of adequate manpower. This is especially apt to happen if we increase our armed forces to from five to ten million men. Secretary of War has already stated that we must conserve farm and factory labor and especially skilled labor. Labor behind the lines is important in modern warfare. In World War I it was estimated that it took five men at home, in factories and farms, to keep one soldier in the field.

We may also expect food rationing if the diversion of manpower to military service impairs our food production.

Our merchant marine must be doubled if our armed forces are to be sent abroad. These are but a few of the things we expect as the war progresses. As others occur, I shall discuss them with you.

Knott Countian Dies At Lackey Hospital At Age of 78

Gilbert Martin, well-known Knott county farmer, died Monday at the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey, a victim at the age of 78 of diabetes from which he had suffered for the last three years.

A son of the late John and Polly Hagans Martin, he was well-known in this section and owned considerable real estate in the vicinity of Mousie, Knott county, where he resided. He was a devout member of the Regular Baptist Church.

Surviving him are one daughter, Miss Judy Martin, and two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Elliott, of Martin, and Mrs. Laura Stone, of Knott county. He was an uncle of Mrs. Annie Stumbo, Floyd county Sheriff.

The funeral was conducted Tuesday from the residence, the Revs. Earl Howard and A. L. Coburn, of the Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

Mrs. Draxie Stafford Dies After 5-Year Illness

A five-year illness of rheumatism resulted Saturday in the death at her Betsy Layne home of Mrs. Draxie Stafford, 47 years old, widow of Charles Stafford.

A native of Virginia, Mrs. Stafford was a daughter of the late Andy Sarge and of Mrs. Anna Sarge, who survives. She had been a resident of Betsy Layne for 18 years, was a member of the Church of Christ and was held in high esteem by all who knew her.

Besides her husband and mother, Mrs. Stafford is survived by one son, Raymond, of Everett, Mass., three daughters, Miss Florence Stafford, Mrs. Gera Hunley and Miss Juanita Stafford, all of Betsy Layne; two brothers and four sisters: W. T. Sarge, Bartlett, Va.; Ernest Sarge, Burdine, Ky.; Mrs. Perry Ramey and Mrs. Hammond Little, both of Linc Acre, W. Va.; Mrs. Lon Dameron, Kingston, W. Va., and Mrs. Roy Coleman, Pikeville, Ky.

Funeral rites were conducted Monday from the Betsy Layne high school gymnasium, the Revs. Lee Ford and Charles Elswick officiating. Burial was made in the Bowles cemetery under the direction of J. W. Call & Son.

Cooperative Loan Group Sets Meeting Date

Farmer-members of the Big Sandy Production Credit Association will hold their annual meeting Saturday, Feb. 14, in Paintsville.

Luther J. Conley, Floyd county representative for the association, reports that this year's annual get-together is to be held in the high school building. The all-day session is scheduled to start at 10 a.m.

"Our board of directors," Mr. Conley said, "has been busy lining up an interesting and important program for our annual meeting. The events of the past few weeks have impressed upon the association members the work that they will be expected to do under the 'Food for Freedom' program."

Election of directors who will guide the activities of the cooperative credit organization during the coming year will be held at the meeting.

Problems of Consumer, David Club Topic

David, Ky., Jan. 12 (Spl.)—"Consumer Problems" was the subject of the program at the meeting of the David Woman's Club, held Jan. 7 at the home of Mrs. Joe Kiesling. It was decided during the business session that the Club should set aside a certain sum each month for the purchase of Defense Stamps and, eventually, a Defense Bond.

Those who assisted in the program were Mrs. George Tufts; "Purchasing Canned Fruits and Vegetables," Mrs. Virgil Warrick; "Credit for the Consumer," Miss Blanche Garrett; "Buying Shoes;" and Mrs. Loren Roberts; "Our Taxes and What They Buy." Others present were: Mrs. Otis Bussey, Mrs. Wm. Hess, Mrs. Lon Hill, Mrs. Ora Howard, Mrs. Paris Bartley, Mrs. John Cecil, Mrs. Joe Kiesling, hostesses.

Legislator-Husband of P'burg Woman, No Dilly-Dallier

The former Eula Mae Nunnery is one Prestonsburg woman who need have no fears of her husband idling his time away.

For while Eula Mae teaches school here her husband, Hiram Montgomery Brock, Jr., 24, is representing in the General Assembly at Frankfort his Harlan county constituents by day and by night is a student at the University of Kentucky law school in Lexington.

Brock, Kentucky's youngest legislator, explains that he manages to serve his district in the legislature and also continue his efforts toward obtaining his LL.B. degree from the University of Kentucky next June by means of a carefully planned schedule.

He is carrying 12 hours of work a week in law school. He has arranged his classes so that they come at 8 a. m., and on week-ends. Thus he can attend classes, have time to travel to Frankfort and answer the roll call when the lower chamber convenes late in the morning or in the afternoon.

Representative Brock is confident that he can keep his scholastic and legislative schedules from conflicting for the remainder of this semester at the University, but next semester probably will be "tougher."

Toward the end of the session the General Assembly is more than likely to meet at night in a final effort to clear up its business, and the student-representative will have to decide whether to miss this excitement or run a risk of exceeding his prescribed number of "cuts" from classes. He says he'll cross that bridge when he comes to it.

Representative Brock is the son of former State Senator Hiram M. Brock. He was graduated from Harlan high school in 1934 and received the A. B. degree from Eastern State Teachers' College in 1939. In that same year he married Miss Nunnery, daughter of J. H. Nunnery, prominent Prestonsburg merchant.

His nomination as Representative without Democratic opposition by Republicans of the 98th Legislative district in the November election was the first such nomination in the district's history.

A survey made in Hancock county found farmers planning a 34 per cent increase in soybean growing.

WAYLAND HOT-SHOTS

By R. H.

(Views expressed herein are those of the writer and not necessarily those of The Times.)

With the big shortage of coal in October and November, as described by the press and the captive coal mine owners, the mines at Wayland of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation worked only six days in December.
The coal miners want the steel industry to produce more steel so the coal miner can get enough work to keep his family from being without things they need.

The newly-elected City Council of the town of Wayland has hired a chief of police and other officers.
Dave C. Ladd, of Fleming, was employed as chief. J. C. Rose and Troy Mullins are the other members of the police force.

From all reports from Estill Cox, our night foreman, Sam Noe, Delbert Davis, Ollie Holder and Joe Hicks, members of the Scotchers, killed Estill's dog patting on him,
trying to get an extra shift work.
Estill says now he believes he is going to have to buy a hard-shell cap for his boy before they pat him on the head and make him dodge too much. He fears Cap Ramey is going to pep him up with Pepsi-Cola so much he will have to go to Hot Springs to sweat it out.

Freddie Franklin says the best time to go frogging is in cold weather. He said his grandpa went the other night when the creek froze over; and from his report his grandpa just walks along the bank a little ways, then gets his lawn-mower and cuts their legs off. He says the frogs jump in and freeze before their hind legs get under water, so the lawn-mower just gets their legs.

There is one thing sure and certain. The high cost of living and the radio are turning us all into a home-loving people.

If seeing is believing, men should believe in women, these days.

When the W.P.A. men break up their shovels, I don't know what they will do unless they lean on one another.

The Beauty Shop at Wayland is not doing very good business at present. Jack, the beautician, has been out of the right kind of oil.

his high-scoring Prestonsburg Black Cats to Martin to battle the Purple Flash. Prestonsburg specializes in a fast-breaking, razzledazzle type of basketball that's very effective in winning ball games. Heinze, Clarke and Sturgill are three of the highest-scoring players in the valley.

The Purple Flash will be at full strength and expects to extend the visitors to the limit in the coming engagement. Martin lost to this high-scoring aggregation earlier in the season at Prestonsburg, 45-40.

The greatest attraction in basketball to come to Floyd county this year will be Jan. 25 in the afternoon when the "All-American Red Heads," a professional girls' team, will meet an all-star group of men picked from Floyd county. The game will be played under men's rules.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

AMERICANISM IN A FLOYD COUNTY SCHOOL

From January 14, 1942, until the end of this school year, there will be no further financial drives or sollicitations of funds by the P.-T. A. of the Martin consolidated high school.

Instead of the old faithful "Help Support Our School," their motto now is, "Help Defend Our Nation and Our Liberty." Upholding this belief, they are turning their attention from school funds to national funds by urging everyone, especially students, to buy Defense Stamps and Bonds. Students are urged to sacrifice occasional movies and other small luxuries to buy these stamps. An attempt is being made to obtain stamps for sale at the school.

The Martin P.-T. A. is sponsoring a contest for the students to purchase Defense Stamps and Bonds.
The student who purchases the greatest value of stamps in the above-mentioned period will receive a prize of a $5 album of these stamps at the end of school. It is hoped that the contest will inspire parents as well as children.

John Doe realizes that the purchase of bonds and stamps is quite indispensable to the raising of immediate national funds, but he may not realize that he is one of the one tions of the United States and its instrumentalities and earned income credit) in the computation of the normal tax net income; and a graduated surtax on the amount of net income in excess of the allowable credits (personal exemption and credit for dependents) against net income in the computation of the surtax net income.

A WOMAN'S WORD

By BETTY MYERS

We women always feel better if we can be doing something about whatever we are worried about.
Right now, we are worried about the war; and here are some of the things we are wanting to do about it. First, give Uncle Sam our waste paper. We would give him old magazines and papers and books that we would not part with for any other purpose. Second, we also want to get off a truck load of old metal lying around. We have thought of a lot of things we would part with in that line right now, if we thought it would get TO and THROUGH the Japs.

Will the proper authorities find out and publish for us the information concerning how and where we may deliver these products? We do not want to sell these things, we want to give them to Uncle Sam, that dear, old, kindly, generous, loving and long-suffering relative we have neglected so long. We realize he is the finest relative we have now. We hope it is not too late.

Thank you, and, REMEMBER
PEARL HARBOR!

paign.

Tackett and Akers Among 50 Going To Connecticut

Fifty more young men, trained in National Youth Administration defense work shops at Bowling Green, Richmond, Ashland, Vine Grove, Carrollton, and Louisville, left Kentucky Wednesday, Jan. 7, for an NYA resident center in New London, Conn., where they will live about two weeks before the Connecticut Employment Service places them in nearby defense jobs. The youths had work experience in machine shop, sheet metal and welding.

They are being transferred to Connecticut through an arrangement with the State Employment Service to bring qualified workers and jobs together. Already more than 400 Kentucky boys have been transferred to Eastern states and now have jobs as skilled or semi-skilled workers. It is expected that approximately 100 additional youths will leave for Eastern states next week.

Kenneth Tackett, of Prestonsburg, and Fred W. Akers, Dana, were in the contingent which left Wednesday.

TREND TO PRIORITIES AND SHORTAGE

EVENTS have been happening so swiftly and the entire industrial picture changing so rapidly that it is quite impossible to predict today what will happen tomorrow. However, we can be very certain that the situation will not improve, and any article which is now short and hard to secure, it is reasonable to suspect that such a shortage will become more acute as the war progresses.

We do not wish to be an alarmist, but the old adage, "That an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" can be very well applied to the motorist in preparing for the day, which apparently is not very distant, when many car accessories will be most difficult, or all but impossible to obtain.

If you are one of the car owners who must operate your car, and could be greatly inconvenienced without it—then may we suggest that you start immediately—today—putting your car in the best condition possible to weather the "Storm of Shortage" which we inevitably face in the months and possibly years ahead.

Materials which go into the manufacture of batteries are now being curtailed and requisitioned by the government. While there is still a fair stock of batteries in the hands of dealers, if you plan to operate your car and expect to need a battery any time within the next few months, it may be wise for you to purchase one while you can.

Anti-freeze is another item very essential to motorists, which is not only very short at the time but will become increasingly difficult to get. Practically the entire stock of the distributors and auto supply houses is now exhausted and very little left in the hands of garages and filling stations—with no commitment from the manufacturers for future supplies. The OPM now prohibits any person to use or deliver methyl alcohol to be manufactured as an anti-freeze agent. Motorists who use alcohol for this purpose and who possibly would need another re-filling because of evaporation, to get them through the winter, would be most wise in contacting their service station immediately.

In case you are unable to secure any type of anti-freeze through your regular service station and your car is in danger of being damaged by freezing—contact your Automobile Club and we may be able to put you in touch with some dealer who can supply you.

PUT AND KEEP YOUR CAR IN GOOD RUNNING CONDITION.

Social Security Data To Be Unavailable For Tax Returns

Social Security Board records cannot be used in preparing income tax returns for 1941, it was said by Elbert M. Bohon, manager of the Ashland field office of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance.

"We have had numerous calls from individuals who sought to use our records in connection with the filing of income tax returns, Mr. Bohon said.

"Our records are not posted for several months after the wages are earned and will not be complete until some time after tax returns are due from individuals. Those who desire statements of their wages up to the early part of 1941 may obtain this information by using the wage record card which we will supply for this purpose, but it is impossible for us to provide currently or until the latter part of 1942 any statement of earnings including wages paid in 1941 for employment covered by the Social Security Act."

SHIKE'S POKES

(Views expressed in this column are those of the writer and not necessarily those of The Times)

Someone inquired the other day if I was going to "quit my quipping" in THE TIMES, since we are at war. No, I am not. One of the most valuable assets of the American people, in times of great adversity, is their sense of humor. The ability to see the humorous, as well as the serious side, of a problem has helped this great country of ours over many a rough spot in the past. This sense of humor will help us win this war. You can't defeat a people with it. Germany never had it—Japan doesn't know the meaning of it and Italy is not permitted to develop it, even if they could. None of these countries know what humor means to us nor how it bolsters our morale when things are not going so good. I'm thankful that I live in a country that can laugh as well as cry. Such a country has a human understanding of the right way for people and the ability to appreciate the happy things in life as well as the difficult ones. No one knows what is ahead of us—but watch us take it and win. So the "Shikepoke" will be with The Floyd County Times for the duration, whether I be in Floyd county, in a U. S. training camp, Luzon, England and who knows, I might even write "my news" in Tokyo, for we all know there is going to be a total eclipse of the "Rising Sun."

Hey, didn't Lindy try to join the wrong army? With my estimation of Lindbergh, he should be fighting with the "Yellow Race"—and if he wants to enlist, give him a pursuit plane. Remember—he has said all along that England and her allies would not win the war. So what the hell do we need with an officer that dumb and yellow?

Remember, everybody—there is no scarcity, and the price remains the same on Defense Bonds and Stamps.

Why are all the newspapers devoting so much space to America's ten best dressed men? The man in uniform will win any Gallup poll—in a gallop.

Tom Adams will either have to get a road map or quit "sparking" up at McDowell. It's bad, getting lost on these cold nights.

Mack Lewis' Ford refused to run last week—too cold. After working on it all day Saturday, Mack had it in good running condition until it met a rock cliff, head on, Sunday. Now its indisposed again.

And while talking about Mack some of the fellows were telling about accompanying Mack home during the holidays and when crossing the Kershaw Bridge he saw the reflection of the moon in the water and asked, "Is that the moon down there?" When told that it was, he wanted to know what in hell he was doing 'way up here."

Herb stayed up all night to catch the 7.30 bus, then stayed by the fire and missed it.

Yoo-hoo, Lt. Stanley Hays, up there in Iceland! Keep everything under control. "Daddy" Doug is chief deputy sheriff down here in ole Floyd and he sez "diag gone." I've got everything under control—without a pistol, too.

Just received a newspaper clipping from Forrest Halbert in Detroit, Mich. It is from a Detroit paper and is a Detroit reporter's report on the mountain people of Eastern Kentucky. This reporter sez it's pure fiction about the Eastern Kentucky mountaineers being a healthy, sturdy, unafraid race. Instead, he sez we are ignorant, superstitious and diseased. If that reporter could even read, he'd have to eat his words. Personally, I'm of the opinion that if that reporter's brains were nitro-glycerine, it wouldn't even make a noise. For one thing, he should remember that there are more soldiers from Floyd county alone guarding our great outpost in Iceland than there are from the whole state of Michigan. The army doesn't pick ignorant, diseased men for the above mission. No "America Firsters" dared to speak in Eastern Kentucky. Detroit received them with open arms. The G-men will never have to come up into Eastern Kentucky to get a fifth columnist or a saboteur—we'll ship them out in a pine overcoat. The people of Eastern Kentucky are true Americans and are ready, willing and able to give their all to Uncle Sam. There are no "isms" in this section. That Detroit reporter's section is over-run with "isms."

Garrett Tackett from Harold, seems to be getting up in the papers. We hear that he chartered a bus from Drift to Pikeville.

The Gunboat Twins—Harve and Henry.

The big game hunters, Henry Skeens, John Horn, Vance Porter and Deward Wilcox—while returning from work on a snowy morning last week—saw what they thought was a big, fresh 'possum track and they all started trailing it—right up to a big "hollow" tree. Deward climbed up as high as he could and said he had a "twist" on it. While Henry was cutting a "twisting pole" Vance explored a little farther and discovered their "game" under a rock ledge—an old "dommer" hen.

It must be love—they tell me that O. Williams can't work, eat or sleep. Butch, too?

Hitler rushed to the Russian front and demanded a stiffening of the German lines. Yeah, his army stiffened. Rigor mortis!

Japan claims it attacked the U.S. to get more room for her people. That's just what we'll give them—6 feet for each man and a chestnut overcoat to boot.

The "Better Half" sez to tell Aunt Het that, if Uncle Sam needs the "Shikepoke" to lick the Axis, she'll manage the twins and let me go to the Navy.

But it doesn't look like I'll have to. Perry Osborne has told me and the "little Shikepoke" so much about Navy life that he insists that when Perry goes he also is going to the Navy. He sez I can stay home with the twins and he and Perry will "sink" the Japs.

Here Are Some Helpful Hints To Remember When Dialing

- 1 REFER TO YOUR NEW DIRECTORY
Calling from memory often results in getting wrong numbers. So be sure of the number by first looking it up in the directory before starting to dial. This will save time and the embarrassment of getting wrong numbers.
- 2 LISTEN FOR THE DIAL TONE
If you start dialing a number before you receive the dial tone (a steady humming sound) your call cannot go through. So always wait for the dial tone before you start dialing.
- 3 BE SURE TO DO THIS
In dialing a number, do not release the dial until it reaches the finger stop. Then release it and allow it to return of its own accord before you start dialing the next figure.
- 4 HANG UP BEFORE REDIALING
When you make a mistake in dialing hang up for a moment. Then pick up the receiver and listen for the dial tone. When you hear it, start dialing again. Before dialing a second call, always hang up for a moment to clear the previous connection.
