VAUGHAN DIES IN CRASH

Yonts, Driver of Truck Figuring in Tragedy, Is Jailed Here

Harry Vaughan, 52 years old, of Prestonsburg, was instantly killed late Tuesday afternoon when the auto in which he was driving to Prestonsburg from Ligon, where he was employed as a miner, was struck by a truck at a curve at McDowell, on the Left Beaver highway.

Mr. Vaughan's neck was broken and his head was crushed. His son-in-law, Woodrow Chaffins, also of Prestonsburg, suffered a broken arm and other injuries but was not believed to be in danger, it was said Wednesday at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin. His grandson, Jimmy Vaughan, 14, escaped injury by falling from the rear seat of the auto into the floor.

Ellis Yonts driver of the truck, was jailed here Tuesday night by Deputy Sheriffs Douglas Hays and Bas Fraley and was booked on a charge of manslaughter. Survivors of the wrecked auto were quoted as saying the truck, owned by Otis Vanderpool in the operation of a coal mine, was driven at a high rate of speed and swung wide on the curve, striking Vaughan's auto after it had been pulled far to the side of the highway.

For the slaying of Pebbles Tackett, a white man, at Weksbury, Arthur Rogers, negro, was given a five-year penitentiary term Thursday last week, by a jury of the Floyd circuit court.

The defense claimed Rogers fired only after Tackett, a Pike countian, had attacked the Fambro woman, hitting her with a shoe and threatening to cut her head off. The Commonwealth sought to show that the killing was committed without provocation, but Commonwealth witnesses, standing approximately 100 feet away while the shooting took place, admitted that Tackett had seized the woman.

FLOYD QUOTA SET AT 2,649 TONS OF SCRAP

Newspapers Offer $5,000 In Prizes as Mills' Need For Junk More Urgent

Fifteen thousand Floyd county school children Wednesday afternoon began a mass assault on the quota of 5,298,600 pounds of scrap—100 pounds for every man, woman and child—assigned this county in the Kentucky Newspapers' Scrap Metal Campaign.

By nightfall, it was estimated 250 tons of scrap metal and rubber had been accumulated at the schools of the county.

Although Wednesday's scrap drive had already been planned before the county's quota had been fixed for the last three weeks of next month, state salvage headquarters assured County Salvage Chairman S. L. Isbell that collections made now or at any time up till the close of the campaign on October 31 will be credited against this quota.

The scrap metal campaign sponsored by the newspapers of the state is dedicated to the herculean task of "scrapping the bottom" in Kentucky till a total of 285,000,000 pounds of scrap is amassed by the end of October.

To stimulate interest in the movement as steel mills of the nation are threatened with a lack of scrap, the state's newspapers have offered a total of $5,000 in prizes.

See ad, Page 6, giving details of contest.

Floyd county already is well along in its drive to get its junk metal and rubber into the production of materials of war, but the next few weeks must see more intensive work than ever before if the county is not to fall short of its quota, Mr. Isbell said.

Mr. Isbell said, "We can get this scrap in—100 pounds of it for every person in the county," Mr. Isbell said. But it's going to require work from every one of us."

A war poster reads: "Women in the War—We Can't Win Without Them!" To which somebody cracked, "Who'd want to?"

ON THE HOME FRONT

I GO "ALL OUT"

To prove that I'm "all out" in this scrap salvage drive, I intend to give up one of my most cherished possessions.

Just The Signal For The New Shift To Start Workin'-- For VICTORY-- And PEACE!

The whistle of bombs falling at Pearl Harbor signalled the beginning of this grim game of war. There is no whistle to signal the stop of work, or the end of fighting for any of us till the "game" the Japs started last December 7 ends in the total defeat of them and their fellow-conspirators against the peace of the world.

Good Americans will keep that in mind.

They will emulate the example of the defenders of Bataan where there was no place for the slacker or time for "overtime."

Emulating the example of those who are on battle fronts held by American soldiers, sailors, fliers and marines, they will buy War Bonds and Stamps — for these boys, working and fighting at less than $2 a day, are buying Bonds and Stamps.

Those in the Service know what it's all about. Do you? And what are you doing about it?

Our best is not good enough for those willing and ready to make the Supreme Sacrifice. But let's not fail them, insofar as we are given the power to help.

Fifth Columnists at Home

SABOTEURS of the war effort are those WPA clients who, knowing they do not need food and clothing from WPA, accept it; and equally guilty are those relief officials who make it possible for these necessities of life to be taken from the mouths and bodies of our own soldiers and those of our allies for the use of persons who have other means of survival.

While our own nation marvels at the fortitude and stark disregard of death the Russians are displaying at Stalingrad, it is a good time to develop a deep contempt for those unpatriotic enough to rob these people in a far-off land who are fighting a great part of the war for us, and to make that contempt felt all the way to Washington.

Robbery is being done by those in our own land who take food and other necessities of life as governmental largess while they do not need them and while our allies do.

THE TIMES has been, and always will be, in sympathy with those who cannot help themselves. There are widows, orphans and the aged who cannot work when work is available. This newspaper still believes in the principle behind WPA. It does not subscribe to the theory that, simply because some of us have plenty to eat and wear and have money in the bank, neither we nor the government of which we are a part owe a means of subsistence to those more unfortunate who would do honest work if work could be had, or who are unable to work.

But the good intentions of WPA often fail. All institutions and systems of government are subject to corruption. There always is a Fifth Column ready to undermine any good work undertaken.

THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES contends, with all respect to those entitled to food from the WPA, that those who can hire a taxi to come to this or any other town to get a sack of cabbage or a hunk of cheese, or those who own their homes and in affluence drive up to the commodity distribution point for their allowances, are spending good money and gasoline and rubber to take from the mouths of our soldiers and the soldiers of our allies food that they will need in the months of war to come.

It may be that no particular person is to blame for these injustices. Commodity headquarters have no alternative but to fill the needs of those certified as needy. To those who have certified these as needy there surely must have been made convincing representations of need.

Needed, then, is a purging of the list of commodity clients. This and all other counties need the money they are paying on freight for feeding some ne'er-do-wells; this and other countries need the food for their armies that some ne'er-do-wells are eating.

PRECIOUS TIME AND PRECIOUS METAL

THAT incredibly brave stand at Stalingrad, that yielding only house by house, reminds Americans how far they still are from the grim extremities of war. One reason, of course, is just such heroic Russian resistance against fierce odds as is now being demonstrated on the Volga. First the British and now the Russians have given us time—the Russians at perfectly staggering cost.

Our cities have not had to be yielded in bitter house by house fighting, our fields have not had to be scorched, but an event in Louisville yesterday made it plain that we have been very extravagant of the time bought at such terrible price. Our houses and our fields have not only escaped the scourge of war, they have not even been stripped of the useless junk that can be forged into weapons, as every German and every Japanese home and farm was stripped long ago.

Those who attended the meeting here of Kentucky newspaper editors, county salvage chairmen and others interested left it under no illusions about the seriousness of this thing. Already the shortage of scrap iron and steel impedes war production. Already every discarded, rusting bit of metal in attic or fence corner, every useless iron fence, every futile piece of metal grill work is a reproach to civilian America, an omen of a longer and harder war, until it is on the way to the junk yard.

The Courier-Journal spoke recently of plans to be announced to put an end to this shame as far as Kentucky is concerned. These were made public at yesterday's meeting and may be read elsewhere in the paper. The newspapers and radio stations of this state have accepted a challenge where the collection of scrap iron and steel is concerned. They are determined to get the message into every home, to put themselves earnestly behind the excellent work that has already been done in scrap collection. They know that when Kentuckians fully understand, the rest will be easy.—Courier-Journal.

SERVE AND LEARN

FOR some young men, the navy has a fascination from the outset. Others will be attracted by the unusual opportunities to learn useful trades, and to earn pay increases with each promotion. Any young man, whatever his predilections, will find in the United States navy a chance to help keep America free and strong.

Among those who have not followed the development of the navy, there is an impression that a sailor is just a chap who helps to handle a ship and on occasion helps to fire a battery. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The navy is one of the most highly skilled bodies of men in the world.

Most of the enlisted men of the navy are technicians. Each of them has a special skill. And he is paid while he learns. There are 50 distinct lines of specialization in the navy. Any of them has a definite usefulness in civilian life, some, of course, more than others.

The navy trains men as molders, carpenters, boiler-makers, machinists, printers, radio technicians, pharmacists, aviation mechanics, shipfitters, and in many other useful crafts. The man who serves some years in the navy is never without a trade for the remainder of his life.

We must win this war, to survive as a free people. The young men of America have the largest part in the task of winning. For those young men eager to help in the job, there is no better way than to enlist in the navy. And there is no better way to acquire a valuable skill while fighting for American freedom.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Prestonsburg Scouts Aid in Distributing Price Leaflets

The Boy Scouts of America have received high praise from Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Civilian Defense Director James M. Landis for the job they are doing in distributing price control information to 25,000,000 homes throughout the nation.

Troop 20, of Prestonsburg, under the leadership of Jack Keenon, Scoutmaster, and Assistant Scoutmasters G. M. Straughan and Ralph Taylor are participating in the distribution of these leaflets. They are distributing about 800 of them to homes in Prestonsburg.

"What You Should Know About Price Control" is the title of the leaflet which a million and a half Boy Scouts are delivering from door to door in every community of the United States. By mobilizing their resources, the Scouts have already managed to complete 80 per cent of the job. Preliminary reports indicate that the leaflet has been distributed to approximately 20,000,000 urban and rural homes in the past few weeks.

"War-time price control can work," Mr. Henderson said, "only if the people of the country help make it work. To smash threat of inflation in the United States, the people must know exactly how the government is controlling the prices of the things they buy every day. By putting this leaflet into millions of American homes, the Boy Scouts of America are helping OPA do an important part of its job of telling the public what price control is all about."

"The nation's civilian defense effort already owes an immeasurable debt to the Boy Scouts of America for the help they have given in the past," Mr. Henderson said. "The service the Scouts are now performing places them in the front ranks of those who are fighting the battle against the rising cost of living."

Former Water Company Employe Succumbs Here Last Week

J. D. Belcher, 85 years old, former water company employe here, died at his home Wednesday, last week. Mr. Belcher had been confined to his home since loss of his sight six years ago, but had been seriously ill only a few weeks.

A native of Lawrence county, he moved to Prestonsburg in 1917. He was a member of the Methodist Church and had many friends here. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mollie Burchett Belcher, and the following children: Mrs. Arthur Smith, Columbus, O.; Mrs. A. J. Bryson, Ashland; Mrs. G. E. Priestley, Pikeville; Mrs. Clyde Smith, Prestonsburg; John D., Jr., and Marion Eugene, both in the Hawaiian Islands with the U. S. army; Jack Howard Belcher, Lima, O.; Gordon Wade Belcher, at home. He also leaves one sister and five brothers.

The funeral was conducted Friday afternoon from the Freewill Baptist Church here, the Revs. Howard Church and James Roark officiating. Burial, under direction of the Arnold Funeral Home, was made in the Mayo cemetery, three miles south of Prestonsburg.

Appalachian Coals, Inc., Compares Performance Of 1918 and 1942

Cincinnati, O.—How is the coal industry performing now as compared with its performance in 1918? That question is being asked these days as the bituminous coal fields face a shortage of manpower, decreased efficiency due to absenteeism and other problems which affect production. Week by week, the industry is doing quite well, according to Appalachian Coals, Inc., this city. This agency reports that bituminous coal production amounted to 11,250,000 tons during the week ended September 5 as compared with 11,069,000 tons produced in the corresponding week of World War I.

However, the A.C.I. marketing agency for Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia producers adds that 402,568,000 tons were produced during the first 35 weeks of 1918 while only 389,013,000 tons were mined in the corresponding period of 1942. This means that absenteeism, shortage of labor and machinery, and other adverse factors have taken a tremendous toll. It means, too, that redoubled efforts on the part of both labor and management probably will be required during the last 17 weeks of this year if adequate production is to be sustained.

On Sept. 5, the country was 13,555,000 tons behind its 1918 production, or more than a normal week's production in arrears. Estimated productive capacity of the nation's mines is about 12,000,000 tons per week. However, in addition to capacity, the industry needs ample labor, supplies and transportation. At the moment, it needs full-time work of its employes more than anything else, according to leading producers affiliated with Appalachian Coals, Inc.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

SELF-PITY

MANY middle-aged people find themselves pitying the poor little fellows they were some twenty or thirty or forty years ago. Comparing their comforts and achievements with the meager things they once knew, they come to the conclusion that as children they must have been dreadfully sensitive to their condition and must have suffered from the lack of necessary things. Unable to span the years since childhood with anything like an understanding memory, they see the past only in terms almost as unfair to us as the type that pictures everything as rosy.

Recently I have been trying to see why certain things seem so important in my childhood, so that they found a place in my diary, often recorded at great length. Some of the things thus set down lovingly would today not engage my attention five minutes. But how easy to forget that I am now more than three times as old as I was then, that I have gone to school eleven years beyond the eighth grade, as it would now be called, that the more than half a lifetime I have had since then has brought nearly every kind of experience that can come to one! Then life was new, everything I did or thought was an adventure into the unknown, the first flowering of a spring that might well have been the first flower of its kind for my whole life. The every-day happenings of the neighborhood, trivial though they seem today, were put down as great events and thus have become documentary evidence to me and to others that we lived thus and so and not as some imaginative people would have us believe.

What did a boy actually do in the early nineteen-hundreds? I know, partly because I can remember and partly because my daily records, written without a grain of imagination, tell just exactly how many tobacco hills we made, how many square feet there were in our plantbeds, how much each hog weighed at hog-killing time, how many wagon loads of hay or corn or wood we hauled. And the best of it all is that all of it is recorded as if it were the law and the prophets, with a meticulousness that even put down the half pounds of the hogs weighed on the farm scales.

Running through all these boyish records and data are entries that show that I was having a great time, that I was a part of the farm and not an interloper. There are no deep, dark questionings of farm conditions. Every day seemed a freshly-minted coin, glistening and bright and worth its face value. Death, sickness, destructive fires, the moving away of dearly-loved neighbors, marriages, births, dinners, sermons, spelling-matches—my, what isn't in the record of the life of a boy on the farm? Earth may have been a "desert drear" to some of the brethren and sisters who testified at love-feasts, but it would be hard to find any such sentiment in my scrawly writing, now nearly forty years old. This was the only life I had had; I was not taking any chances on not getting all it had to offer. And that is one of my reasons for saying that nothing is more profitless than a lamenting over one's early days, seeing them in terms of middle age and relative comfort and recognition.

MONEY TALKS

By FREDERICK W. STAMM
Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

KENTUCKY farmers are finding that migrant farm laborers can do the work of experienced hired hands they have lost to the army, the navy, and the defense industries. Migrant farm labor is not a new thing in this country. For years beet farmers of Colorado and Utah and the fruit and vegetable farmers of California and Texas have brought Mexicans north during the harvest season and have sent them home after the crops were taken care of. These Mexicans made it possible for western farmers to get their vegetables and fruit to northern and eastern markets on schedule.

This year there is an acute shortage of farm labor in the East. New Jersey truck farmers have used migrant farm hands imported from the South.

Shelby county, Kentucky, farmers, working through the U. S. Employment Service's farm labor agency, headed by Horace Cleveland, have brought over 200 farm laborers from Eastern Kentucky to help harvest tobacco, hay, corn and other crops. Many of these men had never cut tobacco, but it didn't take them long to learn. Although a few of the men did not stay on the job, most of them were glad for the opportunity to help in this essential part of the war program. In fact, the plan has been so successful that Mr. Cleveland plans to recruit a number of Eastern Kentucky farmers whose crops were ruined by the recent flash floods, to aid in harvesting the hemp crop in and around Henderson.

This is one of the most interesting and valuable farm programs I have heard of for many months, and I would advise all farmers who are short of hired hands to get in touch with the U. S. Employment Service's farm labor agency. Farm crops must be harvested if we are to carry on this war successfully.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Times:

I was very much interested in knowing that three Floyd county boys mentioned in a recent issue of your paper, are at the army training camp at Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Our youngest son, Walter H. McNeil, has been at Sioux Falls for several weeks and is now in TSS 805.

Walter was inducted at Grundy, Virginia, in the latter part of April and was first sent to Fort Lee, then to Keesler Field, Miss., and from there to Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

We were very much amused at a complaint published in your paper several weeks ago written by a couple of young men from Keesler Field, talking of the long hours and hard work. This was quite different from what Walter said about it.

I noticed in one paragraph of the young men said, "since they aren't organized, they had to put in long hours." I was indeed sorry that you did not remind these young men that neither Schickelgruber's Satellites nor Hirohito's Hellions have any union in their armies. I believe that a good many of us still take too much for granted and we do not realize that this war means either our way of life or utter slavery—there is no middle ground.

Autoists Advised To File For Tires Before Present Rubber Is Worn Out

The Floyd County Rationing Board this week suggested that automobile owners who think they are entitled to new tires or re-capped tires should file their applications with the board before their tires are completely worn out.

It is of importance, it was pointed out, that tires be protected, since tire carcasses are almost as valuable as new tires. The re-cap quota allowed Floyd county is adequate, while the new tire quota is not.

The board, it was stated, is anxious to keep transportation in the county functioning. At the same time it was pointed out that to wear tires down beyond re-capping is a violation of an OPA order. Such violation, if brought to the attention of the board, will result in the tire-owner, even if eligible, being refused new or re-capped tires. The point at which re-capping can most economically be done is when the tire is worn smooth across approximately three-fourths of the tread and not beyond the point where there yet remains one-eighth of an inch of tread rubber above the breaker strip or outside ply of cord.

For the convenience of the public, the rationing board has installed a telephone. The number is 5041.

SNAKES KILL WORSHIPPER

And Three Indicted In Harlan County On Murder Writ

Harlan, Ky., Sept. 19—Three men were held to the October Harlan grand jury today on a charge of murder following the death of James Couch, 30, as a result of rattlesnake bites.

The men, who waived examining trial before County Judge F. M. Meadows, were George W. Hensley, 50, Harlan, Bradley Shell, 45, and W. B. Creech, 60, both of Pine Mountain. They were held in jail in lieu of $1,000 bond each.

Coroner Fielding Hensley reported Couch, who died yesterday, was fatally bitten by a rattlesnake, which he handled at a religious meeting at the Little Pine Mountain Church of God on Laurel Branch.

The three men named in the warrant charging murder, which was sworn to by Henry L. Couch, brother of the dead man, were alleged by the coroner's report to have participated in the meeting.

Judge Meadows and sheriff's deputies destroyed four large rattlesnakes which were said to have bitten Couch.

Under a 1940 Kentucky statute, the use of snakes in religious ceremonies is forbidden.
Mont Corbin of Adair county threshed 600 bushels of wheat from 20 acres, and Sam Banks 449 bushels of oats from eight acres.

Ellery Queen's Mystery Magazine

Edited by Ellery Queen, famous detective of the radio, the movies, and best-seller books, it is devoted exclusively to the best in detective crime short story literature. And we mean literature. The fact that a story owes its plot to crime and detection need not prevent its being well written. Short detective fiction that is well written is not too readily available. But we are finding them--in books, in magazines, in the files of famous authors, we reprint in the approved Reader's Digest manner the best detective fiction to be procured. Such masters as Dashiell Hammett, Agatha Christie, Stuart Palmer and Ellery Queen are to be found in it. But stories are selected on their merits, not on authors' names. Tough and suave, casual and swift, comic and tragic, they are mingled with refreshing variety and stimulating change of pace. Rare gems, fit for the most critical, delightful to the most naive. You will find the new magazine well printed--sharp and clear, kind to the eyes. You will find the size same as The Reader's Digest--convenient to hold, to handle, to slip into your pocket. You will find the cover as pleasant to look at as a book jacket. And you will find the contents the most satisfying quarter's worth of good entertainment you have found in many a day. UNHAPPY WIVES FIND NEW HOPE IN SPECIAL VITAMIN COMBINATION

Clinical Tests Demonstrate Sterile Women May Be Aided--Happy Homes Are Dependent on Babies

Nothing equals a baby to bring complete unity and happiness into the home and tie husband and wife into a stronger bond of enduring love and mutual interest.

New vitamin of the B Complex group has a striking effect on sterility. Twenty-two women, with known sterility records for as much as five years were selected for the test. After weeks of heavy dosage with Paraminobenzoic acid (a vitamin of the B Complex group) more than half of these women became mothers. Many of these women had been told their condition was hopeless. The vitamin is absolutely harmless and decidedly beneficial to general health as well. Thus it is apparent that highly fortified vitamin combination may be just the thing needed by the childless wife and quickly bring the happiness of a baby into the home. If you are childless and have even given up hope, if you wish to eliminate one of the greatest causes of unhappy marriages, by all means give the Perlex Combination Vitamin System a short trial in the privacy of your home. To introduce this new vitamin combination quickly to a million women, the Perlex Company, 314 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Illinois, will send a regular $2.00 supply for only $1.00 and a few cents postage. You need send no money--just your name and address. Perlex comes in a plain wrapper--directions are quite simple, and no special diet or exercise is required.

Many homes break up from lack of children and contribute to the amazing American record of one divorce for every five marriages. Unhappy wives, childless due to a vitamin-deficient functional weakness, may now enjoy the desires and activities of Nature's most wonderful creation--a normal, fully-developed, vigorous woman. Sensational clinical tests demonstrate that, in vitamin-deficient instances, a

With the desperate demands of war taking up every scrap of metal that can be found—and with our freedom from Nazi conquest depending on whether or not that metal can be found—it is vital that our metal products be conserved.

George A. Moore, Priorities Field Service district manager in Cleveland, late last week told a meeting of merchants that every pound of metal diverted from war use would lengthen the conflict by just so many days and the American casualty lists by just so many names. Then, speaking of plumbing and heating appliances, he added:

"If anyone thinks that the people do not sense the inconsistency in reading on one page of their newspaper an article in which their President urges them to scour their homes for every bit of useless scrap that can be found in order to manufacture a maximum of steel to win the war, and then finding on another page a large advertisement of some prominent merchant urging them to come to his place of business to purchase articles made out of good usable steel for purposes far removed from the winning of the war, he is guilty of a gross underestimate of their intelligence.

"And if anyone believes that there isn't a growing irritation that will swell into a roar of anger when the casualty lists begin to mount—against these merchants who display many flags before their stores, but who are actively pushing the sale of every restricted article in their stock, he is harboring a very dangerous delusion."

His point was that the WPB placed in the hands of merchants the responsibility for conserving the supply and that many of them had found ways to press their sales and still stay within the letter of the law—even going so far as to advertise the restricted products while using the words, "sold only in accordance with government regulations."

Then he called on the merchants to sell as few of the restricted items as they could and so observe the spirit of the war-necessitated regulations.

Simplification schedules have been issued to cover saws, axes, hatchets, adzes and light hammers.

War expenditures for August were $5,182,000,000, including Treasury disbursements and RFC expenditures.

Fifty-four more defense rental areas have been designated.

The new all-purpose ration book has been sent to the printer. It is the first of four designated to provide a swift means for rationing any article almost at the instant a shortage is foreseen. It contains 192 coupons on eight pages. Your sugar ration books will be known as No. 2.

Green tea drinkers are going to have to learn to like black tea. The green tea supply has been frozen. Upstate New Yorkers and those in the farm areas of the north central states drink the most green tea.

Authority to ration farm machinery and equipment has been sub-delegated to the secretary of agriculture.

Dried prunes and raisins will be placed under price ceilings at the grower level.

Coupon rationing of fuel oil in 30 eastern and mid-western states probably will begin about Oct. 15, but will cover all oil used after Oct. 1. Until and including Sept. 30, the average householder may purchase up to 275 gallons without coupons.

The OPA has ordered more vigorous grading requirements of both beef and veal by every meat packer. Choice grade (AA) meat must now be inspected by Department of Agriculture graders. Action will be taken on the three lower grades, if necessary.

Hominy feeds have been exempted from the General Maximum Price Regulation.

Apple butter prices will be adjusted upward approximately 10 per cent from current maximums at the packer level.

Reported violations of price ceilings on school supplies by school systems which sell supplies to pupils is under OPA scrutiny. Markups, reductions in count or quality were charged. Schools facing dealer markups above the March level should complain to OPA.

This nation is facing a serious shortage of scrap metal. A shortage that threatens to slow down war production of ships and tanks and guns. Blast furnaces are cooling off for lack of scrap! Scrap is needed at once, by the ton, to win the war and Kentucky can and WILL supply this urgent need.

Lying in the barnyards of Kentucky farms, in tool sheds, under bridges, buried in gullies, and attics and basements and garages, all over the state, is the very material that is so urgently NEEDED. It is within YOUR power to round it up and turn it in. Spend the next two weeks rooting for it—dig it out and be ready for the big state-wide scrap metal collection drive that starts October 12th. It means money to YOU! It means VICTORY to your country!

Read the Simple, Fair Contest Rules

1. ELIGIBILITY—

Every person residing within a Kentucky county is eligible to contribute to the county's total collection.

Persons and their families engaged in the business of buying and selling scrap iron or collecting it on a commission are NOT eligible to compete as individuals or firms. They may, however, help to increase the county's total by initiating scrap collection, the contest credit to go to the original owner who turned it in. All the organizations, competing as such for one of the prizes, are eligible to collect scrap metal to be entered in the name of that organization. The same material, however, may NOT be credited to both the organization and the individual. Every individual living in the state and not engaged in the business of collecting scrap metal, is eligible to compete for the prize to an individual.

Every state Junior Organization (in units) such as 4-H Clubs, Boy Scouts, F.A.A. Clubs, Girl Scouts or Camp Fire Girls, is eligible to compete for Boys' and Girls' prizes.

2. PROCEDURE—

The County Salvage Committee in each county in the state will be in charge of collection of all scrap metal entered in the contest.

All scrap metal turned in must be credited to the one turning it in by means of an official receipt indicating the pounds received at delivery point. Credit in the contest will be given ONLY on the basis of these receipts. Be sure to get and vote your receipt.

Credit in the Scrap Metal Contest will be granted only on scrap turned in from Oct. 12 to Oct. 31 inclusive.

3. CONTEST JUDGES

The judges of this contest will consist of a committee of three, to be named by Judge E. C. O'Rear, State Salvage Chairman, and Mrs. T. C. Carroll, State Salvage Chairwoman.

The decisions of this committee of judges as to the winners in the contest will be final.

Western Union Quits Special Rate Service

No special-rate social and holiday greeting telegrams, tourate and reservation messages or Sing-O-Grams can be sent after midnight Sept. 18, it is announced by Miss Vera Vinson, local superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company. Cancellation of all flat-rate telegraph service in the nation has been announced by the telegraph company to prevent any possible interference with efficient handling of the large and growing volume of vital war communications.

"Western Union told the War Production Board as long ago as March 10 that it would cancel these services as soon as they threatened to interfere with government or war messages," Miss Vinson said. "As long, however, as Western Union could handle these special services without any danger of delaying war messages, the company has refrained from discontinuing them because they gave pleasure to so many people, and thereby contributed to public morale."

100,000 WORLD WAR 1 VETS ASK FOR PART IN WAR NO. 2

A hundred thousand trained men, all aging, some sadly overweight, meagerly clothed, are clamoring at the army's gates.

And how to get them into the ranks once more was a major problem before the American Legion's national convention which opened Saturday in Kansas City.

"For years, The Legion has been asking that America be prepared," said Warren H. Atherton, chairman of the Legion's National Defense committee, said. "Well, all we're asking now is a chance to serve."

"We'll pull doorbells and haul scrap iron if they want us to, it's high time we were getting the lead out of where it sits and put it where it hits."

Already 67,450 veterans of the first World War are back in service, he estimated, but approximately 100,000 others whose applications are on file have not been considered because of minor disabilities or age.

"We're going to consider an attempt to have physical requirements relaxed to allow these men to serve in some capacity. I think most of them would gladly waive any claim to disability benefits, or any other consideration to which they might be entitled."

Many could train troops, or assume administrative duties to release other men for active duty, he added. Others could teach pre-induction military or naval courses in high schools—and the committee may recommend establishing refresher courses to aid such men, he said.

"HEY POP . . . what time do we get to Paducah?"

Junior's game shows a growing change in our lives. Needing to conserve tires, gasoline and cars, we're becoming "armchair travellers." Many people now tell us that they are spending more time at home . . . reading, studying, sewing. This means more risk of eyestrain . . . more need for measures like these suggested below.

Simple ways to avoid wasting light and help your eyesight, too

- 1 Keep lamp bulbs and bowls clean . . . dust free. Wipe them frequently with a damp cloth and you'll get a lot more light from present lamps, to make seeing easier and to protect eyes from strain.
- 2 If lamp shades are dark, or turned yellow inside, you may be losing as much as 50% of the light! Clean or brush shades regularly; or if they're too bad, replace with fresh ones.
- 3 Place lamps to make light more useful. By arranging furniture, one lamp can often serve two or more people effectively. But be sure it isn't too far away from either!
- 4 Turn off lights when you don't need them. Electricity and eyesight are both vital today; conserve them. Be sure you have enough light when you read, sew or study; but don't leave unnecessary lights burning!

SERIOUSLY SPEAKING

By E. F. EPLING

It isn't easy to write a column just any old time, for the thought keeps weighing down, "What if I've trampled on some one's toes?" So, you see, it's a little touchy, whether writing or speaking, not to hurt the corns or bunions on the feet of the American public. Insofar as a true course is maintained and, if and when a blow is delivered on a yellow-streaked enemy of this land that's nourishing him, then we'd not be trampling but delivering the goods.

Delivering the goods is what Hitler and Togo dread just now. While our men are delivering over there, we'll be producing and delivering over here.

For one of the biggest deliveries, just watch the scrap roll in.

The worries of the world press down on rich and poor. There's no joy in anything, it seems; but as you ease the load of another's daily cares, there's joy you never knew before.

There are many lines of defense incorporated in this war of survival. A democracy gives us all the privileges and most of the doubt. For one of the greatest pursuits of peace and happiness is the right of worship.

While we speak of our men or boys we've not forgotten the ladies, for they're doing their part, and better than some of us men.

Efficiency is another line of defense. When we're sick, we can't work, and not only our families are depending upon us to do all we can—our country may fall on this one weak link in the chain. We can't help getting sick sometimes. But at other times we bring it on ourselves.

THE GEM OF MY LIFE

(An original poem written by Former Circuit Judge A. T. Patrick, Prestonsburg, and read at the funeral of his wife).

Gleaming brilliantly beneath the skies, Her bright, beautiful sparkling eyes; My young heart was throbbing with affection, Only for her sweet, charming selection.

Long, long ago the sweet fancy of my soul, Still lingers yet, now while we are old.

Time nor seasons' passing can never efface My abiding love for her beautiful face.

Six decades here we have lived side by side, We are swiftly journeying through eventide; And stronger our ties bind us closer together, As the hours move the day to live another.

Neighbors recognize her Christian consistency, She was a helpmeet never without constancy; She taught her children truth, Christian virtue, She loved them all so dearly—that they knew.

We may be dissevered in the grave to lie, But our love for each other can never die. I know our sad parting here will soon be, Soon she'll be waiting and watching for me.

In a blissful land beyond the sky, far away, To live with angels through endless day; In this life here with our love long entwined— A sad realization will come, I loathe the time!

Our hearts have beaten accordingly profound, Unsought, the news of the end will us astound! And now the golden cords have been broken! Her last sweet, lovely word has been spoken.

Her beautiful life here has now come to its end! She has departed—my best and truest friend, And she has gone to a blissful home—she flew away; I crave to meet her there some perfect day.

The gem of her life, loving Jesus, His will to obey, Her faith in Him grew as she prayed each day. A child of the King, she lived beneath the cross And only Jesus can sustain us in our great loss!

Sweet music is echoing from the crystal strand, Of angels on golden harps, in the blissful land; Among the throng, she waves the banner of victory, And joins in the refrain, Jesus abides with me.

WAYLAND-GARRETT

(Last week's correspondence)

Sgt. W. E. Bowe, of Wayland, received an urgent call cancelling his short furlough, and it is believed that he is likely "going across." Sgt. Bowe was visiting his mother, Mrs. J. H. Williams.

Cadet Teamus Bowling has been transferred from Kelly Field, Texas, to an advanced air school in Oklahoma. Cadet Bowling completed his basic training six weeks ahead of schedule. He is now in the air, fast becoming what we at home believe to be one of our best bomber pilots.

Martin County Oil Man Is Seriously Injured

Inez, Ky., Sept. 12—J. M. Howe, oil driller of this county, is in Memorial hospital, Huntington, W. Va., seriously injured, when hit on his head by a broken belt from an oil rig on which he was working this afternoon.

Howe received two broken vertebrae in his neck, a broken nose and other serious lacerations. Howe was reported to have been working on an oil well owned by Frank Yates, of Ashland, when the accident occurred. Yates rushed the injured man to the Huntington hospital.

He was poorly dressed, and his hands showed that his work was hard. He was just a small truck gardener. But R. V. Trooper, farm agent in Bell county, he said: "So far I've only been able to buy a thousand-dollar bond. You fellows will have to give me time."

NELSON SAYS MINERS 'VITAL PART IN WORLD-WIDE EFFORT'

Washington, Aug. 27—(Special)—Donald Nelson has delivered a personal message to the coal miners of America in which he described them as a "vital part of our world-wide effort" to win the war.

Speaking for the War Production Board, of which he is chairman, Mr. Nelson told the coal miners, "Your job is one of the biggest that there is in this big concentrated effort of ours."

Continuing, he added, "Coal is your business. You know what it looks like, and you know how to work it. I want to tell you today that the coal you men are mining right here is more valuable to us than gold itself. It is more valuable than gold to everybody who is fighting to save this country of ours, to you, to your neighbor, and to our industries which are forging the weapons that we will use to defeat our enemies."

"You men in the mines are making power for democracy," said Mr. Nelson. "You are making power that will roll over the Japs, the Nazis, and the stooges of Mussolini, and the strength that this nation needs to fight with until those gangsters run up a white flag and yell for mercy."

"Today, coal production is a direct part of our war effort. As far as we at home are concerned, this war is concerned, this is a war of production, of full production, of fighting production that goes on night and day, seven days a week. Our needs are great. Our will to work and to win must be even greater."

er. If we fall down on the job, any of us, we are selling out our families, our country, and our hopes for a better world. If we lose, we are the ones who will be gully.

"That goes for all of us," Mr. Nelson said with emphasis. "I want to repeat that. We are all responsible, you and I, labor and management, every man and woman in every factory, in every mine, and in every office in this land. No one will fight our war for us. We must fight it ourselves. And we must win it by our own efforts. That means our own efforts today. Time is everything now. We are working to make up for lost time."

"Here in Washington," Mr. Nelson added, "we are planning and fighting to get the whole war job over with as fast as possible. The war and the job of winning it is the most important thing in our lives. It is the most important thing in your life, too. Your whole future life depends on this year of 1942, and on what we are able to accomplish together."

"You men in the mines, you are a vital part of our world-wide effort. General MacArthur needs more than brave men with him in Australia. He needs the material to put in the hands of those men. He needs soldiers in steel helmets, but just as much, he needs tanks, guns, ships, and planes."

"Without coal," Mr. Nelson concluded, "we'd be in a very bad way. We could lose the war without coal. You men know that, and we count on you, just as you count on us."

demonstrate your appreciation of victory won.

This America needs those extra dollars you spend for whisky, wine and gin or whatnot that makes you sick and unable to work on Monday morning. You could surely put some of them in BONDS. From my own experience this has kept me from working several times in the past, but not when America calls.

Let's get down to business and think about our boys. Do you believe they had any days off in the Philippine Islands or New Guinea? No—seven days a week and possibly 24 hours a day. Let's keep that coal rolling and our supply open. What could you do to a dirty, yellow bunch of them dam Japs with nothing to do with?

WAYLAND HOT SHOTS

By R. H.

I see by THE TIMES where one mine had 151 men off, one day last week. That slows up production. Hope those men working in mines will realize that this nation that proclaimed its freedom now needs every laboring man's services. AMERICA is at WAR. Our troops are being transported overseas, with supplies, guns, tanks, munitions, planes in great quantities. And do you know what for? To fight for the freedom that our forefathers founded. The battlefields are in Europe. The shipping ports are in America. We laboring men must keep our seaports stocked with supplies, so that your sons, your brothers, our AMERICAN troops may be armed so that no enemy can deprive us of our liberty. So I say to you, your help is needed. The American people have a far greater right than any other nation to call upon the laboring men for their services, and by their responding to the call you, you and you can

Floyd County Goes To War

Where Floyd Countians in Armed Forces Are, What They're Doing Told

Within three months of his "Wings" and a Lieutenant's rank in the U. S. air corps is Walter Davidson Howard, of Miami, and a grandson of Mrs. Josie D. Harkins, Prestonsburg. Now at Randolph Field, Texas, he is slated for an instructor's post, according to word received here.

Most widely traveled man at Godman Field, Fort Knox, Ky., is Master Sergeant Rex M. Crabtree, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Crabtree, Prestonsburg. His traveling is a result of his being crew chief of one of the large transports used at the field. Formerly an employee of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation at Wayland, Sgt. Crabtree is with the 99th Base Squadron.

Among the recent arrivals at the Quartermaster Replacement Training Center, Ft. Warren, Wyo., are four former residents of Floyd county. They are:

Pvt. Earl P. Crisp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Crisp, of Allen; Link D. Smock, son of Mrs. Sarah E. Parsons, Justell; William Henry Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Jones, Prestonsburg, and whose wife, Mrs. Marguerite Jones, also lives in Prestonsburg; and Thomas Riley, son of Mrs. Sallie Riley, of Amba.

While at the QMRTC Pvt. Riley, Jones, Smock and Crisp will undergo an intensive dual training program, combining instruction in basic military (drilling, road marching, rifle marksmanship, etc.) with instruction in one of the many specialist schools of the QM Corps. Upon completion of their training they will be well qualified to serve with other quartermasters who are daily carrying out their mission of supplying food, clothing and transportation for America's fighting men throughout the world.

Pvt. Smock, Crisp and Riley are members of Company F, while Pvt. Jones is a member of Company C, all of the 2nd Quartermaster training regiment. Their regimental commander is Col. H. B. Crowell and Brig. Gen. J. A. Warden is commanding general of the Center. This is the only Quartermaster Center west of the Mississippi.

A recent addition to the U. S. navy is Homer Julian Thacker, son of Mrs. J. B. Hall, of Banner. A graduate of Betsy Layne high school, he completed his training as a machinist in the NYA centers at Richmond and Prestonsburg. Prior to his enlistment, he was employed in the Glenn L. Martin airplane plant at Baltimore, Maryland. He enlisted as a machinist with a petty off-

Assigned to duty with the Armored Division at Camp Polk, La., is Staff Sgt. Charles C. Burkett, formerly of Floyd county. His mother, Mrs. Norma Robinson, resides at Coalwood, W. Va.

Frank Shuffelbarger, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Shuffelbarger, of McDowell, has been selected for advanced navy training. He is receiving the specialized course as an electrician's mate at the Naval Training School, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis.

DRIFT WINS RUBBER GAME

Defeats P'burg, 4 to 1, In Delayed Game, Ending Season

Prestonsburg and Drift's baseball series ended Sunday afternoon, late, in a drizzle and in a 4-1 victory for Drift in the fifth and deciding game.

Reinforced by a pitcher and an outfielder from the Mountain State League, Drift presented its strongest line-up of the season, Raney, a 19-game winner for Huntington, W. Va., Mountain State league leader, held Prestonsburg to three singles and Prater's double, while Ray Patton, Prestonsburg righthander, permitted the winners only four singles and one two-bagger.

Drift got off to a two-run lead in the very first inning on a walk to Moore, Montgomery's error on H. Stumbo's grounder and Calhoun's double after Hoffman had grounded out and K. Stumbo had struck out.

Prestonsburg scored its lone run in the sixth when Collins, leading off, drew a walk, Montgomery singled and A. Patton was given a base on balls. Curnutte grounded to Calhoun, Collins beating the throw to the plate. With the bases still full and nobody out, Raney bore down to retire the side without further damage.

Drift's other scoring stanza was the seventh when T. Stumbo led with a single but was forced at second by C. Patton. Raney struck out but Moore was hit by a pitched ball. H. Stumbo's single past third scored Patton. Walks to Gunther and Kit Stumbo forced Moore in with the last run of the game.

Launch Scrap Drive

The formula given by a Nebraska editor after his state produced 104 pounds of scrap per person was, "Hard work." He pointed out that, regardless of newspaper and radio publicity, if the people are not willing to get out and sweat and get their hands dirty in order to keep the furnaces going in the nation's steel mills, no scrap campaign can succeed.

Their young imaginations fired by the opportunity to be of service to their country, and spurred on by local contests, Floyd school children already have made a splendid record. Wednesday afternoon, wheelbarrows, buckets, sacks, sleds, wagons, trucks—every conceivable method of transporting junk—were in use in every school from the larger consolidated districts to the up-the-creek rural schools.

This afternoon (Thursday) at 3 o'clock, Charles Leonard, Louisville, appeared at the courthouse here as a speaker-organizer to give the Floyd scrap drive added impetus.

Preparing for Wednesday's school rally, county-wide, 130 teachers of the county met Saturday afternoon at the Prestonsburg grade school auditorium with Salvage Chairman Isbell and County Superintendent Town Hall to plan methods of work and transportation.

"Start a Third Front at Home," was the theme of the meeting. To get every bit of scrap in Floyd county into war production was the goal set.

Mr. Isbell presided at the meeting. Talks were made by County Superintendent Town Hall, Rural School Supervisor Palmer L. Hall, County Attorney W. W. Burchett, Eva Allen, teacher of the Open Fork (Middle Creek) school, Curtis Owens, principal of the Garrett consolidated school, V. O. Turner, principal of the Maytown consolidated schools, Ishmael H. Triplett, superintendent of Prestonsburg schools, Mrs. O. G. Conley, teacher at Bonanza; Miss Otha Howard, teacher at Brush Creek, James Stephens, chairman of the Floyd ACP committee, and Monroe Wickert, principal of the Martin consolidated school.

Floyd county now leads all other counties in the total of scrap collected by WPA trucks, W. A. Toney, Floyd WPA supervisor, announced this week. Total WPA scrap collections in this county as of Sept. 16 were 378,211 pounds of metal and 18,766 pounds of rubber, as compared with Meade county's 344,829 pounds of metal and 6,588 pounds of rubber. The 62,068 pounds of metal accumulated by the WPA in this county during the week ending Sept. 16 was double that of Meade, Floyd's nearest competitor.

George F. Shaw, state supervisor, emergency scrap collection, wrote WPA superintendents over the state: "Our commitments to Bud Toney, John Burchett and their gang in Floyd. Their week's collection of 62,068 pounds is the most we have collected in any one week in any county. . . Floyd is a challenge to all of you."

Robert P. Bonnie, chairman of the Kentucky Industrial Salvage Committee, sent out an urgent bulletin to 700 to 800 industrial plant managers, appealing to them to get behind the newspaper-sponsored campaign in which $5,000 in prizes will be awarded.

Mr. Bonnie said his bulletin was based on two important points:

1. Highest officials of the War Production Board point to the alarming shortage of scrap metals which is about to curtail disastrously the production of steel for ships and munitions, and they fairly cry out to the entire nation to come immediately to the rescue.

2. The Kentucky Newspapers' Scrap Metal Campaign offers those firms and companies enrolled in the Kentucky Industrial Salvage Committee's movement an opportunity to have their salvage poundage credited to their respective communities, with attractive prizes for those in the lead.

Records of the Salvage Committee, Mr. Bonnie said, indicate that scrap materials totaling about 25,000,000 pounds (only about 10,000,000 pounds less than Louisville's quota alone in the October drive) have been moved in the last few months from the factories, mines, mills, quarries and other industrial enterprises in Kentucky.

"Such poundage is almost puny," Mr. Bonnie said, "in the light of the pressing need, and it is also believed to be small when compared with the available, and as yet un-moved, salvage."

AUTOS MUST KEEP ROLLING

Commenting on a survey made by one of the large rubber companies of the effects of gasoline rationing and rubber conservative measures upon the nation's urban transit habits, it was stressed that private automobiles must be kept moving through stretching the miles in the tires now in service.

The total seating capacity of all the nation's 57,000 common-carrier buses, its 40,000 railroad coaches, and its 41,000 surface, rapid transit and electric suburban cars is only seven million.

He compares that total with the 29 million private passenger automobiles to show how overwhelming the burden on common carriers would be if even an important fraction of the latter should go completely out of service for the duration.
