More significant, however, this week in particular, is the following "Legend of the Dogwood," once earlier printed in this column:

It is said that during the time Christ lived among men the dog-wood attained the size of the oak and the elm and the other large forest trees. So large did it grow, and so strong and firm was its wood, that it was chosen to furnish the timber from which the cross was made.

in such a fashion greatly distressed the dogwood tree and that Jesus, the dogwood tree and that Jesus, when He was nailed upon the cross, sensed this distress. Even during the agony of His crucifixion, His gentleness and His pity for all the sorrows of the world caused Him to say to the dogwood tree:

"Because of your sympathy for My suffering, and because of the re-gret that you feel at the part you gret that you feel at the part you have had to play in it, I promise you this: So long as you flourish upon the earth, never again snall you attain such a size that you can be used as a cross. From this time onward your trunk and your limbs shall be slender and so twisted that man cannot use you for this pur-man cannot use you for this purpose.

"And so that you will always remember Me, I promise, too, that your blossoms shall always be in the form of a cross, with two short petals and two long ones. And to help you remember My agony and the regret that you felt at having to share in it, at the outer edge of each of your petals, in the center of it, shall be the print of the nail. And in the center of your flower, which shall appear stained with blood and brown with rust, there shall be a crown of thorns.

brown with rust, there shall be a crown of thorns.

"From this time forward all who look upon your beauty shall remember that it was upon this dogwood tree that I was crucified, and all men shall know that you must be cherished and protected from all harm and that you shall stand always as a reminder of My agony and of My death upon the cross."

HE WOMEN of America know what they want.

This was indisputably demonstrated in a recent national survey made by THE WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION to determine the American woman's approval of, or desired changes in, her household appliances.

The indication was overwhelming that women throughout the country are planning to take advantage of the labor-saving, the health-giving convenience of complete home electrification.

Ninety-four women out of every one hundred who own electric refrigerators find them completely satisfactory. Foremost among the suggestions for improving refrigerators concerned special compartments to store frozen foods—a feature that will be built in many new models.

Of the improvements desired in a new range, the majority asked for the very "improvements" that have for years been built into Electric Ranges but have not been found in other cooking devices. Among these were oven-clock control, automatic oven light, simmer speed units and giant units.

The practical, tested features of modern electrical appliances answer the needs of Tomorrow's Homes.

Telephone Service

MORE equipment-more people-more of everything is being added as fast as possible to furnish more and better service.

During the year, central office equipment and other types of telephone plant will be added in nearly every place served by us. In many other places new buildings will have to be constructed or enlarged and equipment installed, before those now waiting for telephones can be served.

In the meantime, central offices are crowded with more calls than ever before. As a result, you may sometimes experience delays on your calls.

When that happens, you can help by answering your telephone promptly and when you make a call by giving the other party at least a minute's time to answer before hanging up. It will also help if you will always make sure of the number by looking it up in the directory before making a call.

Telephone folks are trying hard to give you good service with a smile and appreciate your cooperation.

But where soil conservation has been practiced over large areas, the lowering of the "water table" has been a less serious problem. THE EDITOR'S COLUMN

In addition to being a business corporation, Swift & Company is people—62,000 folks like you and me who have pooled their savings to build a business. These savings are invested in plants and equipment, in livestock and other raw materials, and in all the many things that make up Swift &

Without people there could be no business, no Swift & Company. There must be people (shareholders) to supply the capital; others (farmers and ranchers) to supply the raw materials; many thousands (employes) who work with their heads and hands for the company; and the millions of consumers who buy the meat and other products.

The success of a business enterprise depends on how these various groups of people get along together. In other words, there must be goodwill and cooperation between the owners of Swift & Company and livestock producers, employes, and the company's customers.

To maintain goodwill we know that Swift & Company must: 1) pay fair prices for raw materials, including livestock; 2) pay a good day's pay for a good day's work; 3) provide the money to keep plants and facilities efficient; 4) pay Federal, State and Municipal taxes; 5) earn a profit to give our owners a fair return on their invested savings.

The management of Swift & Company recognizes this five-fold responsibility to the various groups of people who make our business. It is to their interest that we manage our business efficiently, that we earn a sufficient profit to let us continue contributing to the well-being of more and more people.

WORTH THINKING ABOUT

In view of the recent talk about the business, profits, etc., of the meat packers, it's worth remembering the basic economics of all businesses in this country.

To be successful, any business must do four things it must purchase its raw materials at prices comparable to the prices paid by its competitors: 2) through know-how, efficiency, good operating, it must manufacture products of comparable quality at a manufacturing cost no higher than that of its competitors; 3) in doing this, it must pay its workers wage rates comparable to the going wage-scale paid by others; 4) and it must sell its product at prices that a large part of the public is willing and able to pay.

In the livestock-and-meat industry, this simply means that prices must be high enough to earn both cost and a decent profit for the livestock producer, the meat packer and the retail merchant—and low enough to keep the great masses of people eating meat.

OBJECTIONABLE ODORS AND FLAVORS IN MILK can be prevented by removing the cause.

Feed is the cause of most of the trouble. The most pronounced flavors and odors are produced by garlic, onions, turnips, cabbage, rape, kale, and certain weeds such as bitterweed and stinkweed. Sudden changes to such feeds as green alfalfa, green sweet clover or silage may produce temporary flavors in the milk. Odors may also be absorbed from the barn by milk. SUPPLEMENTARY PASTURES AND FULL FEEDING by Dean E. A. Trowbridge, University of Missouri Experience and research prove that pastures grown on fertile soil, producing grass of sufficient quality and quantity, will provide all essential food requirements of cattle. In grazing, gains up to 60% of the grazing season's total gains are usually made before July first. During the hot, dry days of July and August, gains are frequently low or lacking, and indeed an actual loss of weight often occurs; but with fall, gains again resume. These facts show the importance of providing sup-plementary pasture for the summer. In Missouri,

Lespedeza is an efficient summer crop, and when used as supplementary pasture it allows other native pasture grasses to build up and provide good growths for fall and winter.

When cattle are pasture-fed until two to two and one-half years old, on good pasture, plus good winter roughage, they should gain on an average of a pound a day. With a sixty-day period of full feeding (requiring twenty bushels of corn), most well-bred cattle will finish out and grade "Good" at a weight of 1050 to 1200 pounds. Yearling cattle, after a full season of grazing good pastures, need from 100 to 130 days on full feed (twenty to twenty-five bushels of corn and a hundred pounds of supplement), and should then grade "Good" at a weight of 850 to 950 pounds.

Now... no wheat used in beer or ale

And wheat alone can solve the problem of feeding the world's hungry

Actually wheat has never been a large item in the brewing process—only $\frac{8}{10,000}$ of the entire U.S. wheat crop was used in 1945:

In accordance with United States Government-policy, the brewing industry has used no wheat whatever since March 1, 1946.

OTHER MATERIALS CUT 30%

The other grains used have been reduced by 30%—that is, to 70% of the 1945 amount.

Wheat alone can solve the problem of feeding the hungry. The grains to which the industry is now restricted, are of a variety and grade not normally consumed by the people of the world as food.

LESS BEER AND ALE

Altogether, the brewing industry is using 30% less materials than in 1945. This results in a proportionately lower production. But since the current demand for beer and ale is about 25% greater than a year ago, the real shortage is nearer 50%.

Consequently, your dealer will not be able to supply you with all the beer and ale you would like. We know you will understand the reason for this.

Your attention is earnestly directed to the recommendations of President Truman's Famine Emergency Committee, which are summarized in the box below.

This statement tells in clear, simple terms what each of us individually can do to help during the emergency.

What the President's Famine Emergency Committee asks us all to do

- 1. Save and share wheat and fat products . . . Go light on all foods that take wheat, fats and oils-save breads, macaroni, cakes, cookies, pastries and deep-fried foods. Use drippings for pan-frying. Save salad oil-use boiled dressings.
- 2. Buy and serve more plentiful foods . . . Balance diets with the more plentiful foods, such as potatoes, fresh fruits and vegetables.
- 3. Waste NO food . . . Dress up today's leftovers for tomorrow. Make every crust count with melba toast, crumb-toppings, bread puddings and stuffings. Take no more than you can eat. Clean your plate. Turn in unusable fat salvage promptly.

THE REV. H. T. PFIEFER

FROM EX-GANGSTER TO CHRIST

Hear this one-time gangster from the Chicago underworld, once armed with the tools of his profession, now armed with the promises of the Scripture, relate from night to night stories from his life as he weaves them into the Gospel Message.

A combination of his newly learned HUMILITY with a forcefulness and aggressiveness developed in his former way of life, makes the Evangelist's message most interesting.

FROM CRIME TO CHRIST-FROM CELL TO PULPIT

Rev. Pfieffer has spoken in many of the large cities-you should consider yourself fortunate and avail yourself of this RARE OPPORTUNITY as he relates the contrast of his joy in Spiritual conversion to his 29 years of crime.

Rev. Pfiefer will also speak each Sunday morning at 11:45.

Our annual Sacrament and feet washing comes during this revival on Sunday, MAY 5 at 11:45 a.m. Why not come and spend the day and get acquainted and hear Rev. Pfiefer? We invite all Christians to take part in this great service. We draw no lines between Christians-If your heart is as our heart, give us your hand.

I will HOLD to the BOTTLE,
For the devil is with me.
His saloon and his beer joint, they beckon me. Thou preparest an empty table before me in the presence of my family. Thou anointeth my head with bruises. My pocketbook is empty. Surely evil and misery shall follow me all the days of my life. And I shall dwell in the house of the devil FOREVER.

The fugitive was spotted by Albert Potter, Jailer Collins said. The reward of $500 offered by the jailer for Caudill's arrest will not be claimed by the official's relative, it was said.

Brought to jail here, handcuffed, by Policeman Martin and Deputy Jailer Potter, Caudill remained manacled for a few hours while a search was made for a key to the handcuffs. When the key was finally located, jail attendants found that Caudill had contrived to change shirts by slitting the shirtsleeves with a razor and to shave the mustache he had grown during his flight from capture.
