J. May through whose efforts the Johns Creek flood control and conservation project is realized.

As state and federal engineers viewed possible routes to the site of the Dewey dam Monday Floyd and Johnson county officials and citizens view with each other in laying claim to the more practicable road.

Floyd county's delegation contended that the route from the Mayo Trail at Cliff via the river road to tuxier, thence along the old county sad to the site, crossing only one fill en route, will be less expensive and more serviceable.

This they set up against the route advocated by Johnson county—from two Lear arross the mountain, down whose efforts the Johns Creek flood control and conservation project is nearing reality, heard Herbert W. Witte, resident engineer, explain the complexities of the Dewey dam and its functions at Thursday evening's meeting of the club.

Using for illustrative purposes a number of key construction drawings and a colored architectural perspective drawing of the completed dam, Mr. Witte outlined principal construction features of the project, covering each functional part and the general basis for the development of design.

This they set up against the route advocated by Johnson county—from Van Lear across the mountain, down Daniel's Creek and on to the site, including the crossing of two hills and the necessity of building a bridge

Engineers were non-committal as to their preference.

First use of whichever road is chosen will be by the contractor on construction of the dam in moving machinery and other supplies to the scene of operation. Interest in the contractor's choice of routes was pacity.

HENRY: "I've heard that same thing several times lately . . . that alcoholics are really sick people. It was news to me. Do you agree with that statement, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Yes, it's true, Henry. It's no notion of mine ... it's a statement made by scientists who have studied the subject." HENRY: "What did they find out, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Well, as a result of their medical research, they found out that approximately 95% of the people who drink, drink sensibly. 5% do so unwisely, at times.

Included in that 5% is the small percentage known as alcoholics."

HENRY: "But why are they called sick people?"

OLD JUDGE: "Because it has been discovered that, in many cases, excessive drinking is a symptom of some physical or emotional maladjustment ... not the cause of it."

HENRY: "Now I understand it, Judge. I am glad to hear of the modern approach to this problem and that so much is really being done to help these folks."

Let's Tackle Inflation

While We Can

You don't want your dollars to buy less and less and less!

You don't want your savings to melt away! Or the value of your life insurance to dwindle!

Yet that is what inflation can do to all of us. Therefore, thoughtful people everywhere are concerned with ways to smother it before it gets out of hand.

One major cause of inflation is a shortage of goods when people have money to spend for things they want.

That cause can be eliminated by the production of goods - fast - in quantity.

BUT THERE'S A BOTTLENECK

During the war there wasn't enough labor and materials to meet the needs of war and still produce all the civilian goods people wanted and could buy.

Therefore price controls on civilian goods were substituted for competition to keep prices down.

Today this country has all the labor and materials necessary to turn out the things

Yet goods are still scarce. Store shelves are still bare. The national pocketbook continues to bulge. Inflation grows.

Why? Because price controls in peace. time hinder the production of goods. Business cannot live by producing at a loss. And so, goods that can't be made to sell at the prices fixed by the government just don't get made.

Nor will the raising of price ceilings solve the problem. When costs and selling prices are subject to change at any moment by government action, production has to be on a day-to-day basis.

That means uncertainty . . . reduced output...more inflation.

ISN'T THIS THE ANSWER?

Remove price controls on manufactured goods and production will step up

Goods will then pour into the market and, within a reasonable time, prices will adjust themselves naturally - as they always have - in line with the real worth of Competition has never failed to produce this result.

This is the way you can get the goods you want at prices you can afford to pay.

Please think this over. Then tell your representatives in Congress what you believe should be done. You owe it to yourself . . . and to your country's welfare.

LET'S SMOTHER INFLATION... A postcard addressed to the National Association of Manufacturers, 14 West 49th Street, New York 20, N. Y., will bring your copy of a booklet explaining in detail why price controls cause inflation.

The Outlook is More Cheerful for Those Waiting for Telephones

During the past two months many thousand telephones have been installed in the territory served by Southern Bell for many of those who have been waiting longest for

In the many places where new central office equipment must be installed-a longtime task-we will make better progress as more and more equipment becomes available. However, where new buildings or building additions are necessary still more time will be needed.

The project, as recommended, includes such interesting items as: (1) Two hundred miles of improved channels extending from Catlettsburg to Louisa and thence up the Levisa Fork to Russell Fork and up the Tug Fork to Sprigg.

(2) Two double chamber locks on the Big Sandy and four single chamber locks on each of the two forks, all locks to be 80x100 feet or sufficient to pass four barges and the tow boat at one lockage.

(3) One hundred miles of riprapping for bank protection plus considerable dumped bank protec-

Alterations will be required on 43 bridges, of which three are suspension bridges, 12 highway bridges, and five railroad bridges, one of which is narrow gauge, in order to provide channel widths of 200 feet on Big Sandy and 150 feet on the two forks and vertical clearances of 25 feet above navigation stage. Because most of the tangible benefits will accrue to coal consumers in many states. it is recommended that the cost of these alterations be included in the cost of the project and paid for by the government.

It is good to be home. It is good to be back with my family and my friends. It is good to be home again with the people of our Kentucky hills. It would be a pleasure to settle down and just relax for a while and not move from this spot. But "the moving finger writes, and having writ, moves on." And such is this case, for to doff the khaki and the blue and retire from foreign service, is but to don the cloak of battle again and carry the victorious torch of liberty to higher, safer and firmer ground.

Again our glorious heritage of democracy has been preserved for us by blood, sacrifice and deprivation on foreign soil; by tears and sweat and aching hearts at home. But, PRESERVATION of it, time and time again, is not enough. It must be made to glow in the darkness of the world and lead us on to a greater and fuller life. It must be made to lead us to a life that is deserved by our stalwart people. We must cleanse the bloody sword of victory before replacing it in its sheath.

Until that bloody sword has been entirely cleansed, I cannot rest, I cannot relax. I am starting out now and I shall go from hill to hill and from valley to valley; the same hills and the same valleys from whence went so many examples of fine young manhood, fine, strong boys to make whatever sacrifices that were needed. I shall go into the fields and talk with the farmers and into the coal banks and talk with the miners and into the homes amid the family circle as they huddle close to the open fire. And I know that in many of these homes I shall find families that are still saddened by their loss on the field of battle. And I know I shall find many family circles broken by the absence of one or more of their boys who lie buried on foreign soil in war-torn Europe or on a lonely island of the vast Pacific.

I shall meet and talk with and listen to our people, for how can one propose to represent the people unless he knows the feel of the calloused hand of the farmer whose hours of labor are longer than the light of day. How can he, unless he knows the feel of the hand of the miner, with coal dust ground into flesh too white from lack of the noon-day sun? One must know the feel of the hand of the merchant as he waits on his trade and listens to the problems of the countryside. One must shake the hand of the housewife as she toils to keep clean her children and her home. And I shall stay in the hills; I shall stay in the fields and at the crossroads until I know the people and the people know me. Then the people will know I am sincere and that my heart beats with their hearts. And I know that that sincerity is so great that it will radiate confidence. Then those calloused hands will grasp mine and the people can and will say, "Howes, son, I am with you; go on and fight them, fight for what's ours, fight for what's right, fight for our people in these Kentucky hills, fight for the rights of our boys and don't let up until victory is ours."

Long has there been a flame of desire burning in my heart to help my people. I am proud of our heritage in being born of strong mountain stock. We live in the greatest section of the greatest state in the greatest nation of the world. We have the greatest, truest and bravest people in the world right here in our hills. Just look at the war records of the boys from these hills—the greatest percentage of sacrifice, combatant service and Purple Heart awards of any other section of the entire United States. We all must be proud of that distinction. We are proud of the record of the boys. We are proud of the families of these boys-proud of their fathers, mothers, wives and sweethearts who stayed behind worrying day in and day out—carrying a heavy heart in their bosoms every hour-living in dreaded fear of that fateful telegram—a telegram telling the worst news that can be heured upon a person—that their loved one the light of their life—had laid down his life for his country—laid down his life that others might live in peace and security — a peace and security he could never again, in this world, enjoy. His life was gone. We who are privileged to survive and return are prone to want to forget. We must not forget, Many can never forget. Those who have suffered the most cannot, the rest must not. For when we do, we are forgetting our Lord who favored us with victory—who favored us with brave hearts-who favored us with strong and brave boys to go forth in battle and win, many times against insurmountable odds-with brave and strong mothers, fathers, wives and sweethearts to keep the home-fires aflame; with loved ones at home who would go forth and produce all that was needed to win-to guarantee victory.

We, as a nation, face many problems. Last September I made this statement and I still believe it: "A nation that can accomplish so much and overcome the great tasks forced upon us by foreign countries, in which we stood to gain nothing of a material nature, can and must overcome the simpler domestic problems of unemployment and scarcities and even the fear of unemployment and the fear of scarcities of essentials needed for a full and free life. Our American spirit is the one thing that must be used as a basis for this freedom in our pursuit of peace and the maintenance of that peace."

Many of you are familiar with the passage, "The letter kill th; but the spirit maketh alive." That is creed; that is my platform.

I am Howes Meade, a lawyer from the hills of Kentucky. Many of you will remember that I announced my candidacy for Congress last September, while I was still serving overseas with our Navy. Now that I have returned I am starting out to do exactly as I stated at that time—to see the people and meet with them and talk with them and listen to them.

I want to know all the people and I want all to know me. I want the people to know my qualifications—I want them to know what I stand for—I WANT THE PEOPLE TO KNOW WHAT RESTS IN THE HEART OF A MOUNTAIN BOY.

As stated in my announcement last September, my father was Lloyd G. Meade and I am the grandson of Henry S. Howes. My family has lived in these hills for over 150 years. I am married and have one child, a daughter 7 years old. I was practicing law when we became engulfed in war. The day after Pearl Harbor I volunteered for the army. I was rejected but continued to volunteer and was received by the Navy in 1943, and went on active duty immediately.

I was born 33 years ago in the Happy Hollow section of Paintsville, Johnson County, Kentucky. I attended the public schools, Mayo College, and was graduated from the Kentucky Military Institute in 1929. After my graduation I enrolled in the Western State Teachers College at Bowling Green and left during the height of the depression and accepted employment in the Second National Bank of Paintsville, Kentucky. For a number of years I was manager and auctioneer at the stock yards in Paintsville. In 1936 I resumed my college studies at the University of Louisville, where I was an honor student, and was graduated from its School of Law in 1939. I have been very active in my church, the First Methodist in Paintsville, serving on its official board and as president of the Men's Bible Class. I have been active in civic work as president of the Kiwanis Club, and for a number of years as chairman of the Red Cross drives. I have been a life-long Republican and a party worker since before I was old enough to vote. I have served as campaign chairman in Presidential and Congressional races.

To the farmers I offer a long and substantial friendship in the development of our mountain farms and in the daily swapping and trading of livestock.

My father was a member of the United Mine Workers and I have defended the miners and other workers in local, state and Federal courts.

To the returning service men I offer a common understanding of our present and future problems that has been thoroughly instilled during our service.

To all I offer my legal and business training and experience, coupled with youth and the energy that goes with youth, plus an ironbound determination that our hard-earned peace shall not now be marred by an economic setback such as followed the last war. We have earned prosperity and we shall have it. I know the problems confronting the farmers, the miners and the returning service men. I believe in doing something about them other than just talking. These problems can best be dealt with through the medium of a Congressional office. I am a candidate for that Congressional Office.

THE PROBLEMS OF PEACE BELONG TO ALL OF US JUST AS DID THE PROBLEMS OF WAR. I will greatly appreciate hearing from anyone and everyone and will promptly answer all letters received.

To all the People who Came To See the New Studebaker--The Skyway Champion On My Opening Day, Saturday, Feb. 9:

I am grateful to you all for the interest and courtesy that was manifested.

I only wish that I had the cars to deliver to the many visitors who wanted one of the new Skyway Chmpions. I am also delighted with the many compliments my gracious visitors passed on this splendid car.

So many of the people to whom I had sold other makes of cars in the past told me that I could certainly sell them a new Studebaker because I had never misrepresented anything to them concerning anything I had ever sold

Again, I say that I am grateful for the confidence expressed in me; and I may say that I am confident that your confidence will be even greater in the new Studebaker when you drive it.

I am sorry that we ran out of carnations; however, I vas able to obtain only six dozen.

It will always be a pleasure to have you visit our show room at any time.

Very sincerely, A. C. CARTER future, the speaker added.

Continuing with a discussion of eatures not envisioned by those unfamiliar with plans for the project, Mr. Witte pointed out that the project includes construction of a massive control house 140 feet high by approximately 45 feet square; a bridge 160 feet long from the gate-house to the demitten the child. house to the dam; then the spill-way, concrete-lined for 810 feet and extending altogether 1150 feet. The outlet works near stream level will pass the normal controlled flow of water to a stilling basin, thence into the Johns Creek channel below the dam. The intake tower, Mr. Witte explained, will house control gates and operating mechanism. From it the water will pass through a concrete-lined horseshoe tunnel 11½ feet in diameter and 463 feet long, and will be discharged into a stilling basin where its energy will be dissipated to prevent channel damage down stream.

The spillway will be blasted down in some places through approximately 100 feet of rock at the southwestern end of the dam. When and if water passes through it, the flow will attain a velocity of 70 feet a second. The stilling basin to receive this flow will have a concrete thore three feet thick.

Mr. Witte obligingly answered all questions, one of which was to inquire what the actual depth of water at the dam will be at the conservation or minimum stage. This depth, it was said, will be approximately 50 feet and bottom lands immediately above the barrier will be injuried to a depth of around 25
