WIFE-SLAYER, JAILED HERE, REMORSEFUL

'I'd Rather Be Dead,' Collins Says on 4th Wedding Anniversary

Wednesday morning, July 10, fourth anniversary of his marriage to the woman he shot and killed at Hi Hat Monday morning, 24-year-old Hatler Collins, of Hall, Knott county, was in the Floyd county jail remorsefully declaring, "I'd rather be dead than know I killed her."

Collins, captured in Pike county and jailed here Tuesday afternoon following a two-day man-hunt, fired a bullet from a .44-calibre revolver into the back of his 18-year-old wife while the couple was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Johnson, of Hi Hat. Two shots were fired, it was said, one missing, and the young woman fell dead after running a few paces.

Sheriff Troy B. Sturgill and most his entire force of deputies searched the Left Beaver section all day Monday and Monday night and shortly thereafter Tuesday Deputy Sheriffs Bill Bryant, Willie Cook and Cain Blackburn found Collins at the home of his brother-in-law, Marsh Adams, on the head of the Long Fork of Shelby Creek, Pike county.

Officers said the slayer was unarmed, that he was sitting on the porch, barefoot, when he sighted them and that he had donned his shoes and was waiting for them when they reached the house.

Coroner Allen Triplett, of Bevinville, who conducted an inquest over the body of Mrs. Collins, said the couple came to his home Saturday and asked him to prepare a divorce petition for them. They apparently were agreed to an amicable separation, he said. Collins was not intoxicated at that time, he said.

Coroner Triplett said Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, parents of the slain woman, signed affidavits attesting they were eating breakfast when they heard two shots in the yard where Mr. and Mrs. Collins were talking.

In an interview at the jail Wednesday morning, Collins, sore of foot after the miles-long trek across hills, replied to questioning about the slaying with the statement, "I don't know. I was drunk and I can't remember nothing. I know if I had been in my right mind I wouldn't have done it for the world and now I wish I was dead."

Collins stated that he was not attempting to evade arrest. "When I heard what I'd done, I was just trying to get away from her folks. But now I wish I hadn't."

He said he left his revolver with his mother, Mrs. Roxie Collins, on the head of Right Beaver in Knott county.

Asked if the report he had killed one of his two children on the morning of the shooting, said goodbye in announcing his intention to kill his wife and himself were true, he answered, "No, I don't believe I did that. I believe I would remember if I had."

Then Collins added, "If I had planned to kill her I wouldn't have done it in front of the family."

Officers quoted Collins as saying on one occasion that he intended to shoot over his wife's shoulder and that a brother of Mrs. Collins knocked the barrel of the weapon down.

The accused man said he and his wife were separated for about 18 months of the first two years of their married life, but that they were not separated at the time of the shooting and that they came to this county from their home in Knott county together.

Surviving Mrs. Collins, besides her parents, are two children, Susannah, almost 3, and Marsh, 1; a sister, Paulette, and six brothers, Raymond and Harrison, of New Jersey, Johnny, Tracey, Jay and Onus Johnson, all of Hi Hat.

Funeral rites for Mrs. Collins were conducted Tuesday while officers were en route here with her husband and burial was made at Bevinville under direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

Court Asks Repair Of Span Promised
Five Years Ago

The Floyd fiscal court in its first meeting of the new fiscal year Monday called on the state Highway Commission to fulfill the five-year-old agreement of the Commission to repair the bridge across the Big Sandy at Betsy Layne.

The agreement, made in 1941, set up the bridge repair as state Project No. 3625, the resolution adopted by the court pointed out.

The court ordered construction of a bridge across Bull Creek in School District 111 and the repair of the Ivel and Needmore bridges, providing the County Board of Education will contribute half the expense. County Superintendent-elect Palmer L. Hall told the court he will recommend to the Board of Education that it assume such expense which is not to exceed $100 on each bridge.

Flying Service Buys Three Planes; Signs Dealership Contract

The Valley Flying Service, recently organized here to supply the section with chartered plane facilities and flying instruction, announced Tuesday that it last week placed an order for three new Aeronca planes and that it signed a contract as dealer here for Aeronca.

R. W. Scott, of the flying service, said two new planes will be kept at the field on the Auxier road, near here, at all times as demonstrators and trainers. One of the planes ordered is promised around July 25, a second a week later and the last, by August 15.

Mr. Scott said several persons are taking flying instructions under the tutelage of Charles Meadows, veteran pilot, and that one student, J. T. Hughes, Prestonsburg, will soon be ready for his maiden solo flight.

THREE RESIGN MARTIN BOARD

One Would Withdraw Resignation; Judge To Name Successors

Filling vacancies created in the Town Council of Martin by the resignation of three of its five members was a task creating another headache for County Judge Alex L. Davidson this week as opposing factions in the community sought appointments for their friends.

The Council members who resigned are Ted Salisbury, Demra Taylor and W. J. Ryan. Mr. Salisbury sought Monday, however, to withdraw his resignation and therein may be a basis for a court case. County Judge Davidson said he entered an order Saturday accepting the resignations and lodged the order with the County Clerk for entry but that this entry on the court records was not made till Monday. The legal decision apparently to be sought is to determine if the Judge's action of Saturday was in effect, even though it had not been permanently recorded by the Clerk.

Validity of Salisbury's resignation as made at Martin may be attacked, it was indicated by a member of the Council, who said the resignation was presented merely to another Councilman and not formally.

Judge Davidson said he had informed persons seeking to influence his appointment of successors to the three that their efforts are unnecessary, that he intends to try to find three of Martin's best citizens and name them to fill the vacancies, regardless of their relationship to community politics.

POLICE JUDGE VOIDS WRITS

For Sparks, Wells; Holds Testimony Is Insufficient

Police Judge J. D. Harkins, Jr., of Prestonsburg, directed Tuesday that peace warrants sworn out recently by John J. Ryan, Transport Workers Union representative, for McKinley Sparks, Sparks Brothers Bus Company official, and his brother-in-law, E. Wells, be dismissed.

Judge Harkins entered the order after a study of transcribed evidence produced in a hearing held before him on the warrants June 25. "The court," his judgment stated, "is of the opinion that the evidence does not sustain the charges made and is not sufficient to require the defendants, or either of them, to execute bond to keep the peace."

The peace warrant action by Ryan was an aftermath of an altercation which took place June 20, near the Sparks Brothers garage here, between Ryan and Robert Smedley, United Construction Workers representative, on the Union side of an argument, and Sparks, Wells and Fonso Harrington on the other.

Hope of settlement of the strike affecting the Sparks line and the Kentucky-Virginia Stages rose again this week as a committee representing the transport workers was invited to Lexington today (Thursday) to confer with bus company representatives.

Malone Named Head Of Allen Golf Club

W. A. Malone, Allen hardware dealer, was named president of the Beaver Valley Golf Club at Allen in a meeting of club members last week. Other officers are: C. H. Corbin, Prestonsburg, vice-president, and R. D. Francis, Prestonsburg, secretary-treasurer.

It was announced, following the meeting, that the annual membership fee is $30, $5 of which is paid the federal government in taxes. Play has already begun on the course, which is in excellent condition.

ALL-STAR TILT AT PIKEVILLE

Select Group To Play Pikeville, First-Half Championship Winners

The all-star game of the Big Sandy league will be played at Pikeville Sunday afternoon at 2:30, league managers in a meeting here Monday night decided.

Pikeville, winner of the first half race, will play a team composed of players selected from five other teams of the league, Wayland and Paintsville, with games scheduled for Sunday, are not participating in the all-star event.

All-stars selected to furnish Pikeville competition are:

Prestonsburg — Henze, Curnutte, Roark, V. Miller, Blackburn.

David — Evans, B. Branham, Burke, Durham, Vasvary.

Drift — Henry, Kit and I. Stumbo, Baker and Wohlford.

Inez — Slone and Kirk.

Harold — Branham and Crum.

Losses July 4 and last Sunday cost Prestonsburg the first half championship. With a half-time lead over Pikeville, Prestonsburg lost the Independence Day tilt here to David in 11 innings, 3-2, with Ballard Branham, former Prestonsburg high school star, hurling five-hit ball for the winners. Patton went eight rounds for Prestonsburg and his successor, Bradley was charged with the loss.

Then at Pikeville Sunday, a former Piedmont league hurler, Peterson was too hot for Prestonsburg, the Pike team winning, 6 to 2. Until the eighth when Blackburn and May hit him for triples, Peterson had not allowed a Prestonsburg batter to first. Patton and Bradley pitched for Prestonsburg.

In other July 4 games, Pikeville and Inez split a doubleheader. In this game Weddell, Pike mound stalwart, being saved for the Prestonsburg game Sunday, sustained a broken ankle sliding into a base and will probably be out for the remainder of the season. Paintsville defeated Drift, 5-3, and Harold and Wayland divided a double bill.

Sunday, Inez defeated David, 5-2; Wayland scored early to beat Drift, 8-5, and Paintsville rolled over Harold, 12-1.

Floyd Soldier, Flown To States, Succumbs In Washington, D.C.

Cancer, which had its inception while he was in overseas army service, resulted in the death July 1 at Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C., of Cpl. Edgel Johnson, 28 years old, formerly of Wheelwright.

Cpl. Johnson was an army veteran of four and a half years and was sent by plane to this country for treatment. His body was accompanied to this country for burial by Sgt. Carey Suggs, of the army.

Surviving him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Johnson, of Wheelwright, three brothers and five sisters: Mrs. Marshall King, Kite, Ky.; Mrs. Cort Huffman and Miss Eliza Johnson, of Wheelwright; Mrs. Luther Thornsburg, Bypro; Mrs. Ellis Mullins, Melvin; Mitchell Johnson, Wheelwright, Crit and Tait Johnson, both of Melvin.

Burial was made at Melvin, the Call Funeral Home directing.

Prestonsburg Enters Church League 1st Game Here Saturday

Prestonsburg's entry in the Big Sandy Church League will play its first game of the season here Saturday afternoon with Wheelwright, one of the original four teams forming the league, furnishing the opposition.

Wheelwright leads the league with four games won to one lost. Weeksburg and Pikeville complete the league roster, with McDowell's place in the organization taken by Prestonsburg.

Wheelwright's Osborne hurled three-hit ball July 4 to subdue Weeksburg, 4 to 1, and avenge an earlier defeat by the Weeksburg team.

SUIT NAMES STATE BOARD

Davidson Would Cancel Five Liquor Licenses To Floyd-co. Dealers

Five suits seeking cancellation of as many whiskey licenses recently granted to Floyd county retail dealers were filed Saturday in the Franklin circuit court by County Judge A. L. Davidson against R. E. Keon, Richard Slack and Charles F. Brown, Jr., of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, the board as a whole and each of the licensees.

In three of the suits Davidson stated he had denied applications of D. M. Parson, B. J. Robinson and Stella Napier because their locations were in extreme sections of Floyd county and "a large number of drunks from adjoining dry counties raise hell in general and get back across the line before the officers can apprehend them."

His petition added "It is also unfair to the people of these sections to be molested by this type of citizen."

The other two permits which the board granted over his denial went to Elmer Napier, Prestonsburg, described by Davidson "as a young man attending college and not fit to handle" a liquor business, and to Gus Carlos, of Allen, whose place, the judge said, was "within less than 200 feet of a church."

Judge Davidson's petition added that Carlos' application for license was denied by him because "the governing authority of the church filed written protest as required by law against issuance of said license."

He termed action of members of the board in issuing the licenses as "arbitrary and illegal and done in violation" of the statutes of this state.

Kentucky statutes, Judge Davidson pointed out, gave applicants the right to appeal from his order of disapproval by filing with the Board within 10 days from entry of the order of disapproval a certified copy of the disapproval action. This, the petition stated, was not done.

Again, his action stated, the statutes provide that no license shall be issued until the expiration of 10 days from the date of an order by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board authorizing the issuance of such license. In the Floyd cases at issue, however, Judge Davidson contends, all licenses were issued on the same day as the authorization order.

The suits were filed by the Prestonsburg law firm of Howard, Mayo & Combs.

Garrett Edges Emma Sunday by 8 to 6

Emma, Ky., July 8 (Sp.)—Emma was hot against Dinwood July 4, chasing the visitors, 14 to 3, but in Sunday's game against Garrett the boys cooled off a bit, nullifying Leslie's excellent mound effort with six errors and losing, 8-6.

The game with Dinwood ended with two Emma batters out in the second inning and after Emma had scored 14 runs. The losers, apparently despairing of getting the side out, left the field.

Patton and Arrowood divided the mound duties for Garrett and held Emma to four hits Sunday. The game was played under protest, the losing nine holding that Patton was ineligible.

ENJOY OUTING

An all-day outing and picnic were enjoyed by the Young People's class of the Assembly of God Church, West Prestonsburg, on the Salyersville road Sunday, June 30. Those enjoying the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hale and daughter, Rita, Mrs. Thelma Miller, Isabelle Miller, Ann and Jackie Conley, Cora Perry, Maggie Cornett, Harold Wright, Billie Hale, Jack Fannin, Jesse Wright, Ballard and Gene Wright.

Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Harlowe attended the funeral of Elliott Marcum at Salyersville. Also attending from here were Mrs. John R. Clarke, Mrs. J. W. Howard and Mrs. Osa F. Ligon.

U. S. Attorney Named In Vehicle Accident

Trial of United States District Attorney Claude P. Stephens on three charges growing out of a traffic accident in Lexington July 6 will be held in Lexington police court July 23.

Stephens was booked on charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated, assault and battery and damaging a motor vehicle following a collision early Saturday afternoon. Larkin Lall, 45, of 964 Highland Park Drive, driver of the second automobile, which police said overturned following the crash, suffered a fractured back. Attaches at St. Joseph's hospital described his condition as good.

Kenneth Lall, 8, and Marlon Lall, 12, passengers in the automobile driven by their father, suffered minor cuts and bruises and were dismissed from the hospital after having received emergency treatment.

COBURN DIES IN CAR WRECK

Indiana Man, Former Resident of Section, Killed, Brother Hurt

Cecil Coburn, 30 years old, was killed and his brother, John M., was seriously injured Tuesday in a truck wreck in North Carolina, relatives in this county have been notified. Particulars of the tragedy are lacking.

Mr. Coburn, a native of Handshe and a son of the late "Red" Joe Coburn, was a resident of Indiana at the time of his death but had been selling fruits and vegetables bought in the south to consumers in this section. He and his brother are well-known, particularly in the Right Beaver section of the county.

Surviving him are his widow, three children, his mother, Mrs. Lizzie Coburn, and the following brother and sisters: W. O. Coburn and Mrs. W. E. Adams, both of Sardinia, O.; John M. Coburn, of Indiana; Alonzo Coburn, Coretta, W. Va.; Miss Nanie Coburn and Mrs. Elzina Neely, both of Ohio; Arthur and Earl Coburn and Mrs. Nora Ellen Whitaker, all of Handshe.

Funeral arrangements had not been announced Wednesday.

SCHOOL TERM BEGINS 15TH

Teachers To Meet Here; Work Shop At Martin, Plan

Floyd county's rural schools will open their term Monday, July 15, concurrently with the beginning of the term as Superintendent of Schools of Palmer L. Hall.

All rural schools in the county except eight where buildings under construction are not yet completed will be in session Monday morning, Mr. Hall said.

A general meeting of rural teachers will be held here Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m.

The teachers will be in school Monday and Tuesday, then they are all being required to attend the workshop at the Martin consolidated school during the four following days.

The workshop, Superintendent-elect Hall said, is "something in the nature of the old-time institute" with teachers' problems, demonstration teaching and a general teacher gathering featuring the program.

Mrs. Naomi Wilhoit, state supervisor of elementary education, will be present and Eastern and Morehead State Teachers Colleges and the University of Kentucky will each send one or more staff members to assist with the workshop course. Lillian Russell, book company representative, recognized as an authority in the field of Reading, will spend two days at the workshop. Children from one of the model rural schools will be used for demonstration teaching. Transportation to and from the meeting will be provided by school buses.

Working with the visiting educators will be two teachers of the model school, Mrs. Kelsa Gearheart Elliott and Mrs. Frankie S. Best, the six principal-supervisors, the superintendent and members of the superintendent's office staff.

Schools which will not open Monday because of uncompleted construction are Ivy Creek, Spewing Camp, Lancer, Buckeye, Mouth Tinker Fork, Buckingham and Riley's Branch.

Of the approximately 150 teachers employed for this first nine-month rural school term for Floyd county about 50 are "emergency" teachers.

PROFITED NOT 1 CENT, AVERS CONGRESSMAN

Senate Committee Links P'Burg Man To Munitions Firm

Congressman A. J. May, of Prestonsburg, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, rose to a point of privilege in the House this week to answer in detail charges that he had figured in the war-production successes of an Illinois munitions combine and in the Cumberland Lumber Company in which Dr. Henry M. Garsson, of the munitions organization, was a key figure.

Of his role in the operations of the Evans and Batavia Metal Products Company, Mr. May told the House, in part:

"Congress was so concerned over the fate of small business that we passed a law authorizing the War Department to finance small business concerns, paper empires if you please, to which war contracts were awarded, to the extent of making advances of a large part of the amount of the contract. In this way the whole Congress was trying to promote and encourage the production of war materials by small business concerns. Was it an impropriety on my part to call some high-ranking officer in the War Department and urge speed in getting munitions of war to our battle fronts? Was it wrong for me to ask that fair and equal treatment be accorded small business concerns that had no cost-plus or cost-plus-a-fixed-fee contracts? Was it wrong for me who had been as much responsible as any member of this Congress for sending the flower of our young manhood to foreign lands to fight and die, to try to see to it that they were furnished the necessary munitions and weapons to carry on the battle and protect their lives? Shall I, who have given the best years of my life to the preservation of my country in time of peril, be now the victim of a conspiracy of falsehood and malice? No, let the truth be told.

"I had been informed and had reason to believe it to be true that certain of the officers in the Procurement Division in Chicago had opposed the processing of contracts to the two companies in question; that after they had obtained contracts these officers used their efforts to curtail or cancel them and had further, for my reason, that they did not want to deal with 'damned Jews and Kikes' who owned them. It seemed to me, and I have not changed my viewpoint, that at a time when the nation was in peril, when munitions were being manufactured by these two companies—among which were incendiary bombs for bombing Japan and 8-inch shells and badly needed—all of which was told by War Department officials they were producing efficiently, it was no time for exercising prejudices and discrimination because of race, creed or color. I therefore took it upon myself to make several calls over a period of time, urging that these men be treated with fairness and if you who are listening will read the evidence produced before the War Production Administration hearings, you will see that I specified in my conversation, which was recorded without my knowledge on May 1, 1943, that I said, and I quote, 'I am not asking any favor for them, I just want them to get an equal chance. I ask you, gentlemen, whether you see anything objectionable, vicious, or criminal in such action, and further, how many among you have not done the same thing? If so, you too may find your conversations recorded.'

"Perhaps I may have been somewhat impetuous in urging General Campbell and General Porter to rush the production of war materials in order to get the bloody war to an early end; but I did not then feel, nor do I now, that I did any wrong, nor do I have any pang of conscience about it. If the war was still on and any delay in production was called to my attention, I would do the same thing again. I did not secure, nor have anything to do with procuring war contracts for anyone. All I did was to try to expedite the business after contracts had been awarded. That was what I was trying to do in all instances, and the same things I have done in scores of instances when complaints were made to me."

Of his connection with the Cumberland Lumber Company in which the Illinois firm under investigation figured, he said in part:

"The first time I ever saw Joe Freeman was at an Embassy reception here in Washington when he was introduced to me by Former Senator McAdoo, of California. "At that time lumber was one of the most critical materials needed, and the army and its war contractors were using 90 percent of the entire country's supply. Furthermore, the army was controlling the entire lumber production. Lumber in storage had gone down from about 17 billion board feet to about 5 billion feet and the demand was so unprecedented that most businesses were using green lumber."

"I got the option and later assigned it without compensation to me."

FOR SAFE DRIVING GET THE NEW B. F. GOODRICH SILVERTOWN TIRE

You don't know safety till you've ridden on B.F. Goodrich. This new tire has been safety-tested by police, taxi, and our own test fleets. These men who know tires know the new B.F. Goodrich Silvertown OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES, that it's better in many ways. Get this tire and you'll know it too!

Let us equip you now with the tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES!

Stocks are rolling in—see us today!

You may have to buy some things "blind" these days—but not the new B.F. Goodrich Silvertown tire! It's been tested and proved by millions of miles of carefully recorded tests and millions more miles of consumer driving.

When you buy B.F. Goodrich you know what you're getting. You're getting the new wider, flatter, "road-level" tread that gives you more rubber where you need it—on the road. More rubber to drive on, more rubber to stop on, more rubber to share the wear.

Perhaps we have your size in stock—if not, an order placed now means earliest delivery.

Let's Give The REPUBLICAN PARTY A Shot in the Arm With New, Young, Strong and Vigorous Blood

Howes Meade Is What We Need

For FULL and COMPLETE VICTORY

HOWES MEADE IS 34 YEARS OF AGE. THE COUNTRY IS IN NEED OF STRONG, YOUNG LEADERS

Howes Meade is the only qualified lawyer seeking the nomination. A lawyer is needed in this lawmaking body.

Howes Meade is the only veteran of World War II seeking the office. He alone feels for his fellow veterans. He alone knows what the fathers, mothers and wives had to endure, because every male member of his family served overseas at the same time.

Howes Meade is the only true friend of the Laboring Man. His father was a member of the United Mine Workers of America. Labor knows that it needs friends in Congress. Labor must start now with a friend and follow through in November.

Howes Meade is the only cattle trader and farmer seeking office. He alone can know the needs of the farmers.

Howes Meade is the only candidate who set foot on soil during war. Future peace can best be assured by man who knows foreign lands first hand.

Howes Meade can and will make the "fightingest" candidate in November. He furnishes the Republican Party the new blood it needs.

Let's Pep Up the Republican Party by Electing the Newest and Best Offered, Howes Meade Candidate for Republican Nomination for Congress of United States, August Third

Let's Vote Whiskey Out

By J. E. FELTY, JR., Allen, Kentucky

The time has come for the voters of Floyd county to become righteous-ly indignant at the liquor traffic which is undermining her foundations, smearing her name, and sending her boys and girls down the road of disease, sorrow, and everlasting shame. The rotten conditions which exist in Floyd county, due largely to legalized whiskey, should make her people ashamed to allow such an evil to thrive within her borders. The time has come for us to VOTE THE "RUMMIES" OUT!

What whiskey does to an individual, to a home, to a country, to a state, and to a nation is a crying shame. Broken characters, despoiled lives, vitiated homes, poverty and everything else shameful can be laid at the door of the use of alcohol.

Floyd county can become, if whiskey is outlawed by her voters, one of the finest counties in the state of Kentucky; but if the whiskey traffic is allowed to flourish, she will soon become (and I'm afraid already has) the cesspool into which will be dumped all the filth and iniquity of surrounding counties which have determinedly chased from their borders this money-mad, blood-thirsty business.

Someone said, years ago, "History reveals this state control of liquor inevitably is transferred into liquor control of state." How true is this of Floyd county! I admire Judge Davidson's fight against whiskey permits, but a liquor controlled Alcoholic Board has so tied his hands that he, himself confesses, "It seems that I can't do anything." A sad state has been reached in the affairs of a democratic county when a few, who will "sell down the river" thousands of boys and girls, and ruin a whole county for the sake of a few pennies which one day will be thrown against the walls of frustration, as these same fellows wall, "we have betrayed innocent blood," control her affairs.

We sound out a call to all the against the "wet outfit" knows that they will buy, steal, crook, or lie in an effort to "gram a bottle of booze down the voters' throats." Now in our fight against whiskey, we do not have to resort to underhand, crooked schemes. We play the game fair and square and we WARN the whiskey crowd to do likewise, for we are determined to prosecute any "illegal schemers" in the next election.

Thinking people are getting tired of seeing the country's grain, to the tune of 56,000,000 bushels in the first six months of 1946, being allocated to beer and whiskey production while 45,000,000 people starve for that same grain. Such a price is far too high to pay for such UTTERLY UNNECESSARY production. Thinking people are getting tired of asking for bread and sugar and cow feed only to be turned away empty-handed because the "alcoholic industry" is allowed to waste such precious foodstuffs.

We intend to vote the whiskey business out of Floyd county just like the voters of Trimble, Letcher and Scott counties voted it out of their boundaries. After being dry for three years these counties, because they were petitioned by former saloon keepers, voted again to determine whether they wanted to remain dry or to return to open saloons. People of these counties were THREE TIMES MORE DETERMINED TO KEEP LIQUOR OUT as they were to put it out three years ago. Three years ago the combined dry majority of these three counties to put liquor out was 653. This spring, the voters showed their immense satisfaction with the better conditions under local option by voting against the saloons returning to the tune of a combined 3,000. I AM SURE THAT FLOYD COUNTY, WHEN SHE VOTES WHISKEY OUT, WILL BE SO SATISFIED WITH THE BETTERED CONDITIONS THAT NEVER AGAIN WILL SHE ALLOW WHISKEY TO RETURN.

of any sum of money whatever. When the title was examined and found good by the attorneys for the land company, a survey made and the acreage ascertained, the land was bought and paid for, the title conveyed direct to the Cumberland Lumber Company. The new owner was anxious to get started into production of lumber and asked me to recommend some person to carry on logging operations, which I did, and I was again helping one of my constituents to have a job with the prospect of years of work. The job then shut down because they could not get machinery, such as tractors, trucks, skidders, etc., and remained idle for months while overhead expense continued. They then changed managers and started to produce. Later they found that most of the lumber was being sold without their knowledge on the commercial market, and the proceeds were being deposited in bank—not to the credit of the Cumberland Lumber Company, but to the manager's own credit. I then advised Mr. Garson to bring suit for possession of the property and for an accounting by the operator, which he did, and as a result of the law suit, the property was sold for $40,000 in cash and remitted by their lawyers to the Cumberland Lumber Company which left a total loss of about $8,000 on the entire Cumberland Lumber Company transaction.

"I neither asked for nor received compensation or fee for anything I did. All accounts, bank statements, checks, and correspondence were delivered voluntarily to the Mead Committee through its assistant counsel, Mr. Flanagan, just prior to the time I testified before the committee. At the time I did testify that all these documents were in the hands of the committee and, as the counsel knows and has stated, they fully explain all the transactions, showing no irregularities of any kind and a full accounting by me of all the funds I received. For this reason, I am at a complete loss to understand why the Mead Committee failed in their hearings Saturday morning to explain either through the chairman or counsel that the testimony given them on June 4 was in their files as were all the documents, checks, statements, and bank records. Not one cent was either paid to or received by me for compensation of any kind.

"The newspapers have carried photographs of an endorsement on a certain check of one of these companies purporting to bear my name signed as president of the Cumberland Lumber Company. I have not and never have been president of the Cumberland Lumber Company and certainly would not have signed my name as such. I do not know who did it but I did not. I did not endorse that check 'A. J. May, President.' The payee of the check was the Cumberland Lumber Company and it was placed to their credit. I advanced funds for the Cumberland Lumber Company on several occasions and the check for $3156.47 was reimbursement to me for such advances for which I have deposit slips. A complete audit of all my dealings with the Cumberland Lumber Company is being made and will be submitted to the press."

Meanwhile, the following developments took place during the week in the course of the Mead Committee investigation:

Last Friday, Maj. Gen. L. H. Campbell, Jr., wartime chief of army ordnance, complained that Congressman May put "special pressure" on him to help the Illinois firm. "It was unfair to me," he said, adding that he "got red under the collar" over Mr. Mays insistence.

Saturday, Edward Schaffer, of the General Accounting office, told the Mead committee that the name of A. J. May appeared as endorser on checks and drafts from the munitions firms to a total of $18,635.07. One such check in the amount of $3,156.47, from the Erie Basin Metal Products Company, Schaffer testified, bore the individual endorsement of A. J. May in addition to the signature on behalf of the Cumberland Lumber Company. It was cashed, he said, at The First National Bank, Prestonsburg.

These funds, Schaffer said, were advanced for lumber which, as of last April when he examined the company's books, had not been delivered. The Cumberland company, he testified, later returned $23,000 to Erie Basin.

L. W. Fields, Whitesburg, told Senate war profits investigators Monday that Congressman May promoted a timberland deal in 1943 on representations that he had the proper contacts for war contracts and that "we'd both draw big salaries."

The testimony, before the Mead War Investigating committee, came near the close of the day which saw May, chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, complain bitterly that he was the victim of a "conspiracy of falsehood and malice."

Fields identified a letter to him from May, dated Oct. 3, 1943, which represented the Congressman as putting up money for the timberland deal and being "in position to lose more money than anybody" if it should fail.

"I have already paid $10,000 on the purchase price," the letter said, and "expect to put up another ten for operating capital, including purchase of machinery."

Secretary of War Patterson testified Tuesday that Congressman May called him three times, the first in March, 1943, to enlist his aid for the companies, but he said emphatically that the calls had nothing to do with the awarding of army contracts.

Patterson said May asked him once to cancel a proposed cutback in production schedules of one of the Illinois firms, Batavia Metal Products, Inc., and again to help the company obtain an "E" award.

On both occasions he intervened in behalf of the companies, the first time because the company was making badly needed shells and the second time because he believed the production award was "thoroughly deserved," Patterson said.

But the Secretary said he turned down a third bid for help from May last September when May, who is chairman of the powerful House Military Affairs Committee, called him over to his office to protest against a War Department order holding up further government payments to the combine.

Then he referred to previous testimony alleging that May put pressure on him to help the combine get a lucrative contract for producing 8-inch shells.

"There is not a word of truth in that," the Secretary said. "Congressman May never spoke to me about awarding that contract or any other contract. It is idle gossip and utterly untrue."

Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Pennington left Monday for his father's home, near Bowling Green, Ky., after learning their young son, Gary, is ill there of "strep" throat.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bourland and son, of El Paso, Texas, have been visiting Mrs. W. A. Dingus.

Mrs. Josephine Leake, of Pontiac, Mich., has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Lou Emma Baldrige, of Graham street, for several days.

DESERVES YOUR SUPPORT FOR CONGRESS

1. He Is Honest. Unless men in places of responsibility can be trusted, free government can not survive.
2. He Is Capable. Few men in the nation are more able to fill this office. His reputation as a speaker and leader of ability is established throughout the country. He has traveled widely and is informed on the problems of modern life.
3. He Is Experienced. A man of mature years is needed for Congress. Dr. Gabbard's interest in the homes, schools and churches of America reaches the foundation of the nation's life. A new emphasis is necessary on these basic institutions.
4. He Is Courageous. The problems of peace are demanding, and will demand, even greater courage than war. Dr. Gabbard will stand fearlessly for what is right.
5. He Is a Christian Man. Since the days of Moses, some of the greatest public servants have been ministers. Our day, above all days, calls for Christian statesmen. If "righteousness exalteth a nation," our congressmen should be leaders of righteousness.

WIRE YOUR FARM

DOLLARS & SENSE

ELECTRICITY can work wonders for you and your family, can bring more profit to your farm, but it can only do so to the degree that you plan ahead. You must plan to provide large enough wires for it to follow and plenty of outlets for you to take it from the wires and put it to work. That is a job for a good electrical contractor—a man who has the know-how of handling electricity, so that you get an ample supply and that it comes to you safely.

Electricity on the farm makes available a low-cost dependable form of energy. If wisely and liberally used, it will save labor, increase production and make farm life more enjoyable.

Electricity is ideal for producing light, heat, cold and POWER. It is safe, dependable, and the cost is low.

Use Electricity to automatically operate farm and home equipment. The more liberally it is used, the lower its unit cost. The Electric Way is the Modern Way—Always.

Washington Writer Tells of Hackworth Views, Personality

(Editor's note: The following, from The Courier-Journal, is reprinted here, the better to acquaint Floyd countians with a man whose distinguished career does this, his home county, honor.)

By DONIE CARMACK Courier-Journal Washington Staff Writer

Washington, Feb. 9—Even in 1938, when war was breaking over the horizon in defiance of treaties and law, Green H. Hackworth, American member of the new United Nations Court of International Justice, was reaffirming his belief that "the pendulum must, it would seem, ultimately swing in the direction of the sanctity of treaties and of international law and order."

The international jurist and legal adviser to the State Department, who has sat in on all United States foreign policy since 1925, was making a speech at the University of Virginia on peaceful settlement of international disputes. He quoted Will Rogers, who said, "The trouble with Austria was that her neighbors were so close to her," to point up his own realistic view that "as long as nations and peoples have relations with each other, international differences are bound to exist."

But the Kentucky-born justice, with a 30-year career in the State Department, has held unflinching faith in arbitration of disputes wherever there is a will to find a way. With the majority of the world's nations now pledged to keep the peace, his election marks the historic entry of the United States into a world court of justice, one of the five main organs of the United Nations. Though he was judge on the old Permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague, the United States was never a member.

An ardent liberal in international law, Hackworth advocates the development of it to keep step with the events to which it must be applied—and out of which new phases of it must emerge.

"Although the changing scene of international affairs has greatly widened," he wrote, "nevertheless international writers still repeat familiar rules of peace and war that arose in an age when the shore could be protected at most at a distance of three miles (the range of cannon), when all the known land was capable of permanent occupation and when oil, and even coal, were not thought of as necessities of war."

International law, he continued, cannot remain static. If rules to govern the conduct of nations are stated in terms too sweeping or too far in advance of the time, nations will flout them, even as they flout an archaic rule.

On the bright side of the international ledger, Hackworth holds that arbitration of disputes at least provides a possibility that amicable adjustment might be reached, that airing of differences gives public opinion a chance to assert itself and, finally, that the mere passing of time may cool a zest for war. The judge often has pointed to our unfortified borders of nearly 4,000 miles to the north and nearly 2,000 to the south as unexcelled examples of how na-can live peaceably together. The last of eight monumental volumes, "The Digest of International Law," by Hackworth was published less than a year ago.

Charles Evans Hughes, when Secretary of State, selected Hackworth to head the State Department's legal office. Succeeding secretaries have kept him in the same position which, though little publicized, wields great influence in international affairs, and especially the ticklish ones. Few but his friends know whether Hackworth is a Democrat or a Republican.

He is the sort of unseen public servant who prefers even the small salary of the government, with its enormous responsibilities, to the fancy incomes offered by big international law firms. At 62, he has spent half his life in the State Department.

By statute, he drafted all treaties and other international agreements, handled all questions of citizenship, naturalization, extradition and complaints regarding the action of government authorities. The department's register devotes a full page just to listing the legal adviser's duties.

The new justice, now in London, plans to sail for home on the Queen Elizabeth Wednesday if the United Nations conference adjourns by then. He and his wife, the former Clara Christy, of Huntington, W. Va., who attended the San Francisco Conference with him, will move to The Hague when the tribunal convenes in the old court's quarters, probably the middle of next summer. Their son, Earl C. Hackworth, also a lawyer in the State Department, but not in the legal division his father headed, will accompany them to the court's opening.

The Hackworths live in Chevy Chase, Md. The judge, say people who know him, is quiet and reserved, but with a dry wit. His diversions are golfing, movies and concerts—he's a great admirer of Lauritz Melchior—but he has had little time for them, Mrs. Hackworth said. It usually was 8 p.m. when he arrived home from the State Department.

His pride and joy, she added, are grandchildren Bobby, 8, and Rickey,

4 children of the Hackworths' daughter, Mrs. Robert Swope, who lives in nearby University Park, Md.

Hackworth was born in Dock, near Prestonsburg, Ky., and later lived in Greenup county, where his father, Jonathan T. Hackworth, taught school. Neither of his parents is living. His uncle, Will Haywood, who is postmaster at Dock, is his only relative still in Floyd county, but Mrs. Hackworth has kin all through the Ashland and Huntington country.

A year after their marriage, they came in 1909 to Washington, where Hackworth was with the Civil Service Commission. He entered the State Department's legal office as a clerk in 1916. A graduate of Valparaiso and Georgetown Universities, he did graduate work at George Washington University here.

His career has taken him to numerous international conferences, including the Moscow Conference in 1943, Dumbarton Oaks in 1944 and the Inter-American Conference in Mexico in 1945. He aided in drawing up the original text of the United Nations Charter, and headed the jurists' committee that drafted the court statute.

As one of the 15 justices on the new International Court of Justice, the American member will draw 44,000 Netherlands florins (about $21,000) as annual salary. The president, elected by the court itself, will receive an additional 15,000 florins. The secretary-general of the United Nations will determine by lot which of the elected judges will serve for three, six or nine years. Future justices will serve nine years.

Split-Second

Fire Fighting

EASY! Randolph extinguishers are easy to operate. Simple thumb-trigger release provides panic-proof fire-fighting.

FAST! A touch of the trigger sends clouds of carbon dioxide gas past all obstructions... instantly removes the oxygen surrounding the blaze. Smothers stubborn flames in split-seconds!

NEAT! Dry and odorless, carbon dioxide does not damage food, woodwork, machinery. Leaves no foams or liquids.

SAFE! Will not conduct electricity; sub-zero temperature shields the operator from intense heat. It's non-toxic, 100 pct. free of irritating fumes.

EFFICIENT! Randolph CO2 will not freeze or deteriorate. Eliminates annual repairs and refilling.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HOW TO KEEP 'EM ON THE FARM

Editor, Floyd County Times:

Far be it from me to tell you how to run your business as I have never been able to run my own satisfactorily. But it always seems as if the other fellow can see at least a few good angles for us to work or take advantage of. I don't know if what I was thinking of is practical or if you have already thought of it and discarded the idea.

The spirit of your paper always relays the feeling that you and your staff are interested in the veteran. So, I thought to approach you with this idea which someone should work, if it is possible. As I am a veteran myself this might have the odor of selfishness to you and it is partially so. On the other hand, it seems to be of mutual benefit. That is why I supposed you might lend an ear.

As our county is largely a mining section with its farming thrown in as a booster of veterans, mostly have taken up mining with at least some farming in mind as their livelihood. Now, with unsettled conditions in the mining industry, most all miners, veterans also, will find themselves actually doing a lot of farming. As you know this already, you can also see that one just taking up this mode of living is going to be handicapped greatly by the cost of fencing, tools, seed, etc. You know, everything seems to be harder to start than to stop and in this case money is involved which more than likely should be spent for food. The soldiers, vets, could likely get the Red Cross to tide them over if they were forced but they would like to be self-supporting, naturally.

Under the above conditions, our veteran, if he wishes or is forced to take up farming as his chief means of support will be forced to forego an advantage of one thousand eighty dollars a year minimum which the G. I. Bill of Rights allots a veteran for on-the-farm training. He will be compelled to do this unless enough of them ask the Veterans Administration for their rights, for the on-the-farm training program. No doubt most any veteran can qualify for this training.

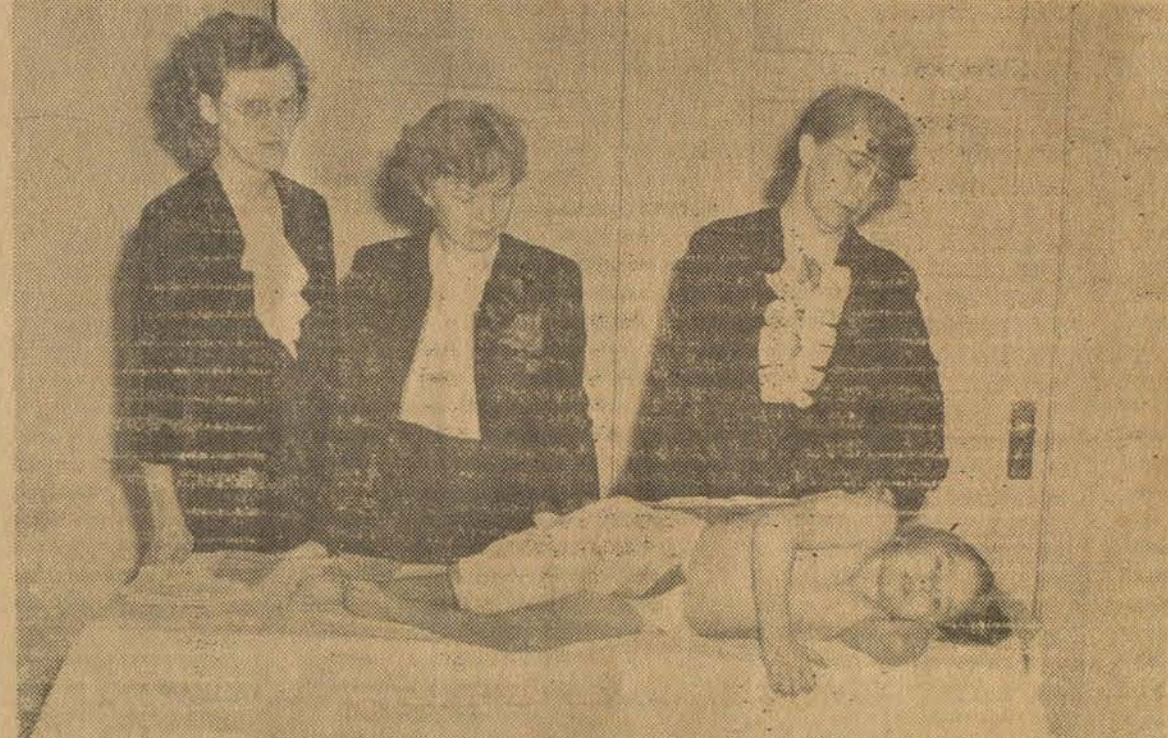

This particular county so far has been denied the benefits to the veteran under the program, due to the fact that this region is not considered an agricultural section. Yet, we have a County Agent, Home Demonstration worker, stock markets, etc. enough to justify us in being allowed our privileges of monetary assistance and skilled instructors under the G. I. Bill of Rights. I would like to ask you, Should our boys have to leave their home county, relatives and perhaps the environment they like best, just to qualify for benefits given by Congress to farmers? Aren't we able to do something about this? Our fathers raised us by farming. Should those who wish to farm be forced to leave Floyd county and go to an agricultural region that perhaps is crowded and needs very little in the way of skilled farmers or instructors? Don't you think our section needs the money, the instructors and scientific farmers that the on-the-farm training under the G. I. Bill of Rights is bound to bring?

are Miss Mary Katherine Shroat, of the crippled children's unit at the hospital, Miss Vera P'Pool, of the Kentucky Crippled Children's Commission, and Miss Eloise Draper, physiotherapist, Kosair Temple hospital, Louisville.

The child, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bradley, is improving as a result of the Kenny treatment, the father said here recently. This photo was taken during an orthopedic clinic conducted in Ashland under auspices of the Crippled Children's Commission.

Inspectors Suggest Hazard Elimination At Clear Cr. Mine

Improved ventilation, elimination of ignition hazards, and better haulage conditions and practices are recommended for the 850-ton-a-day Clear Creek mine of the Hi Hat Elk-horn Mining Company at Hi Hat, in a federal coal mine inspection report released recently by the Bureau of Mines. This Floyd county development employed 237 men at the time of inspection a few weeks ago.

Ventilation was inadequate in some sections and the air currents were not being directed to the working faces, Inspectors Edward J. Marron and William J. Buswing reported, because room crosscuts were not closed, line brattices were not used, and the means to deflect the air to the working faces were not provided. They recommended that these and other substandard ventilating conditions be corrected.

Proposing that smoking and the use of open lights be banned in the mine, and that several safeguards be adopted to prevent electric arcs and sparks, Inspectors Marron and Buswing also suggested measures to help prevent and to control mine fires.

The haulage examination disclosed the need for unobstructed clearance and more shelter holes along haulage ways, elimination of foot-catching and stumbling hazards, several safer practices, and other haulage betterments. Timbering should be improved by the prompt use of safety posts, removal or support of unsafe roof, and frequent roof tests during the working shift, the inspectors said, also enumerating such safety proposals as full compliance with explosive standards, better control of coal dust, wider use of safety clothing, a positive means of identifying men in the mine, and the adoption and publication of special mine safety rules.

Recent improvements included a sufficient number of cut-out switches for the main trolley circuit, escapeway signs, and the display of safety bulletins.

Floyd Girl Weds Ohioan At Columbus, June 8

A double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Herbert E. Boxman at the Fifth Street Methodist church, Columbus, O., Saturday, June 8, at 8 p.m., united in marriage Miss Bertha Gearheart, of Hueysville, and Mr. Guy McMillin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy McMillin, Sr., of 72 Rodgers avenue, Columbus.

For the wedding the bride wore a blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of Poinchole rosebuds, centered with a white gardenia. She carried a white Bible, a gift from Mrs. Isabelle Point, sister of the groom.

Mrs. Norman Barbee served as brides-maid and wore an aqua blue suit with white accessories, and a corsage of red rosebuds. Mrs. Robert McMillin was maid-of-honor and wore a rose suit with white accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds. Mr. Norman Barbee was best man. Mr. Robert McMillin, Mr. Raymond McMillin and Mr. Charles Hacker served as ushers.

A reception for 25 guests was held at the bridegroom's home. After a visit with the bride's parents at Hueysville, Mr. and Mrs. McMillin returned to Columbus where they will reside.

The bride is a graduate of Garrett (Ky.) high school. Both the bride and groom are employees of the Fifth Avenue Floral Company, Columbus.

FAMILY RE-UNION

Wayland Mine Record For Safety Improves; Precautions Suggested

Although commending the improved 1945 safety record of the Wayland No. 28 mine of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation, a federal coal inspector proposes further precautions in timbering and haulage operations in a formal re-inspection report made public this week by the Bureau of Mines. The mine employs 639 men and produces approximately 3,300 tons of coal daily.

Floyd Students Participate In Section's Music Festival

Students from four Floyd county high schools participated in the Eastern Kentucky Music Festival at Pikeville College recently. The four schools are Prestonsburg, Betsy Layne, Martin and Wheelwright.

Mrs. Carlos Hale Haywood, Betsy Layne music director, accompanied a large group from that school which presented "Gaiety Polka" (Hartley), cornet solo by Donald Rupp; "Rustic Dance" (Howell), clarinet duet; "The Lord's Prayer" (Malotte), vocal solo by Jewel Sellards; "Prayer Perfect" (Stenson), girls' glee club; and "The Home Road" (Carpenter), mixed chorus.

Miss Margaret E. May, Martin director of music, brought a group which presented the following numbers: "Kentucky Babe" (Geibel), male quartet; "O, Mighty Land" (Sibelius), girls' glee club; "Here in This House" (Beethoven), mixed chorus; "To a Wild Rose" (McDowell), girls' trio.

Prestonsburg, with Mrs. Oval Bingham Hall as director, presented: "Sax Queen," saxophone solo by Wanda Lou Ensminger; "Valse Fantastique" (Hartley), baritone solo by Denver Sammons; "Spring Fancy"

(O'Neill), tuba solo by William Runnels; "Joy of Spring" (Buehler), cornet trio; "None But the Lonely Heart" (Tschalkowsky), girls' trio; "Deep River" (negro spiritual), a capella group; "Just a Wearying for You" (Bond), girls' glee club.

The Wheelwright group, accompanied by F. P. Allred and Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James, music directors, featured: "Scarlet Dances" (Chaminade), piano solo by Mary Louise Osborne; "To the Moon" (McDowell), piano solo by Clara Nell Blackburn.

Jesse Elliott, Floyd school supervisor of instrumental music, also attended the festival.

The judges this year were Lewis Henry Horton, assistant professor of music at the University of Kentucky, who also conducted the All-Festival Chorus, and Marvin George, head of the music department at Morehead State Teachers College. Forrest E. Albert, Pikeville College music director, was chairman.

Besides the four Floyd county schools, seven others participated: Belkry, Fleming, Louisa, Salyersville, Pikeville high and Pikeville College Academy.

WAKE UP, KENTUCKY

By EWING GALLOWAY

The shameful lack of educational facilities in backward districts in Kentucky is largely a story of bad roads. Read this from Mrs. Leslie Powell, of Omstead: "My children do not attend school very regular. As they have about three-quarters of a mile of mud road, they have to walk to meet the bus. They go to school at Omstead. People living on this road—it is a public road—have offered to pay to get it paved, but the county does not do it."

"They have a bus on the route, that belongs to some person, not the county. It's a wreck and should be in the junk yard. Stays broke down half the time. My children have had to walk home several times when it was broke down—sometimes three miles from home, and it would be after dark when they came in. And some mornings they would stand out waiting for the bus until 10 or 11 o'clock, and sometimes it wouldn't come at all. So who can blame some parents for not sending their children to school at all?"

"When the county took it upon themselves to consolidate the schools they took the job of furnishing ways for the children to get to the schools."

Ed Rittenberry writes: "I live in what is known as Happy Hollow, near Auburn. We did have a school at this place up to a year ago. We don't have any school this year. We did everything we could to get the county to furnish us a teacher. They wouldn't do it. The people in this community even bought rock to put on the road. Then the county wouldn't send a bus to pick up the children. There are a large number of children who are not going to school this year and won't ever go if there isn't something done for them."

Mrs. M. B. Carter, also near Auburn, says: "We have a country school, and from three to five children are going to it. I have two myself that go. They walk over a mile in mud up to their knees and wade creeks. They have one more week of this and school will be out. Most people don't bother to send their children to school at all. They can't read or write. When a woman in this neighborhood has a baby it is impossible to get a doctor. She has to do the best she can. When anyone dies their body is hauled to a graveyard in a two-horse wagon."

"The only advice I can give these people, for the present, is for the 'stuck-in-the-muds' to acquaint their local officials and state legislators with community problems and to strongly urge that improvements be made."

Taking remote rural districts off "Tobacco Road" is one of the main objectives of "The Committee for Kentucky" in its program for the general improvement of all of Kentucky, but this program is necessarily long-range. For the present, the Committee's task is giving the public a true picture of deplorable conditions in the state. Broad reforms will come through state legislation and organized local effort under determined and courageous leadership.

The isolated and underprivileged can help themselves by airing the true facts, and by co-operating with and demanding better things from their local public officials. Help from Frankfort means a lot, but the state government can't do it all.

Keep on fighting for a better Kentucky. The Committee for Kentucky will do its part. It will be out in front for you until the state no longer has to apologize for itself.

(Letters to this column should be addressed care of the "Committee for Kentucky," 427 So. Fourth St., Louisville 2, Ky.)

War Department Announces Plans To Return War Dead

With the passage by Congress and the approval by the President, May 16, of the bill authorizing the return and final burial of all personnel of the armed forces who died overseas since September 8, 1939, the date of the limited national emergency, the War Department announced that all next-of-kin will be asked to state their wishes about disposition of the remains. The program will be carried out by the office of the Quartermaster General and the commanding officer of the Quartermaster Depot, Schenectady, N. Y., will be the source of all information regarding final disposition of the remains in the New England area.

The War Department has been advised by the casket-makers that, due to their inability to obtain the necessary steel supply, the first remains are not expected to be returned until about the end of the year.

The legal next-of-kin may express their desires within the following options:

1. The remains may be returned to the United States, or any possession territory thereof, for interment by next-of-kin in a private cemetery.
2. The remains may be returned to a foreign country, the homeland of the deceased, for interment by next-of-kin in a private cemetery. Shipment to a foreign country is dependent upon the ability of the United States government to obtain entry there. If entry can be obtained, shipment will be made to city or town designated by next-of-kin.
3. The remains may be returned to the United States for final interment in a national cemetery. This is restricted to burial of remains of members of the armed forces only. When this option is desired, the remains will be transported to the continental United States and interred in the national cemetery selected by the next-of-kin.
4. The remains may be interred in a permanent American military cemetery overseas. The establishment of permanent American military cemeteries overseas in the European area and the Philippine area is contemplated should the number of requests justify their establishment. If this be the choice the remains will be interred in a permanent American military cemetery abroad.

The wishes of the army next-of-kin will be sought by the Quartermaster General and the navy will send out the inquiry to next-of-kin of navy, marine and coast guard deceased.

Return and final burial plans include civilians who died overseas and who were serving with the Red Cross and War Shipping Administration as well as newspaper correspondents and other civilians attached to the armed forces. Inquiries to their next-of-kin will be sent out by the office of the Quartermaster General.

The cost of return and final burial is estimated to be between $195,000,000 and $215,000,000. Congress requires that the task be completed within five years, but Major General T. B. Larkin, Quartermaster General, anticipates that it can be completed in less time.

All costs of burial overseas in an American military cemetery or in a national cemetery in the United States will be paid by the government. If burial is in a private cemetery in the United States the government will pay up to $50 of the interment expense upon application to the office of the Quartermaster General.

The first caskets in which the final burial will be made will be shipped overseas in the late fall. Caskets are of seamless steel construction and hermetically sealed. As soon as the casket industry reaches peak production the War Department expects to receive 25,000 caskets each month.

Graves registration and complete verification of all records are now in progress both in overseas theaters and in the office of the Quartermaster General in Washington. In each theater there is an American Graves Registration Company, and until overseas theaters are abolished, graves registration is a responsibility of theater commanders. When a theater is closed, graves registration responsibility will then pass directly to the Quartermaster General, who has been designated as chief of the American Graves Registration Service.

Return of remains will be progressive, which means that information on the final disposition of remains will be sought from next-of-kin only as the record of each cemetery is completely verified. Therefore, inquiries to next-of-kin will be mailed only as verification by cemeteries in different parts of the world is accomplished, which may mean that the next-of-kin of different deceased, who may live adjacent to each other may receive inquiries at widely separated times. The War Department states this should not be a matter of concern, as all legal next-of-kin of deceased whose remains have been recovered and identified will be asked to state their wishes. The first inquiries will be mailed within a few weeks.

It is pointed out that final disposition obviously involves only those remains which have been recovered and are buried either in temporary military cemeteries overseas or in isolated graves. Many thousands of military personnel were buried at sea or were lost at sea when ships sank. Others were lost in beach landings and their bodies never recovered. Many fliers died in plane crashes over enemy territory and no trace of their bodies has been found but search for their graves is still going on and will continue, the War Department states. It is estimated that of the 328,000 reported dead of World War II there are approximately 75,000 whose bodies were not recoverable.

The War Department will make frequent announcements regarding all activities relating to return or burial overseas, so next-of-kin may be readily informed by all news media of successive steps in the program for returning the nation's honored dead of World War II.

HONOR GRANDDAUGHTER ON BIRTHDAY

A birthday party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Whitaker on Abbott Creek in honor of their granddaughter, Shirley Ann Whitaker, on her sixth birthday. Canvass of Sawmills To Begin This Month Canvass of sawmills in representative counties of Kentucky by the United States Forest Service for the purpose of determining 1945 lumber production, will begin this month, with H. L. Mitchell, director of the Central States Forest Experiment Station, Columbus, Ohio, in charge of the work. Small sawmills will be contacted in about half of the counties and a complete coverage will be made of the larger mills. Among the 60 Kentucky counties to be canvassed are Floyd and all others of this section. Data obtained by the special agents is accorded confidential treatment subject to the provisions of the law. Reports are used solely for preparing statistical information and cannot be used for purposes of taxation, regulations, or investigations. All employees engaged in the canvass are under oath for the purpose of protecting the confidential nature of the information.

They Live--If You Remember
Few things are more precious than the memory of loved ones who have gone. Grace and dignity should be the keynote of the final rites. To neglect this means years of bitter memories and regrets. At our home you are sure of completeness in every detail and at prices well within reasonable limits.
