and resisting of an officer charged by Gray began with the high school senior custom of parading and reveling through the town at the close of high school. The festivities started on Monday evening of last week, it was said, by some of the teachers.

Policeman Gray testified that he was at home in bed, about 5 a.m., when he heard pistol shots on Highland avenue. Quickly putting his clothes on, he drove up U.S. 23 and, picking up some information from a boy not connected with the festivities, came on to meet Sgt. Nease Gilliam near the Norton Floral Shop.

Here the celebrating centers were intercepted, but young Spurlock, according to Gray, backed his car from the highway onto Arnold avenue, up which he sped to a point near the home of Frank Layne.

The youth was arrested, he stated, because his was the only car which left when the officers halted the group, and because he resisted the officer. Gray denied he drew a gun.

The elder Spurlock in a brief statement contended that his son had been singled out of all the group for arrest and that the youngsters were mistreated. Student-testifying at the hearing said there was no drinking and that reports the cars were being driven four abreast and at excessive speeds were untrue. They said they heard no shooting.

The boy who was arrested said he and the others had agreed to drive to the Porter Addition before ending the party with breakfast. When Policeman Gray and Gilliam drove up he thought Gray had a gun. "We started backing up and went up Second (Arnold) avenue." Another car was behind him, he added.

One witness, Jimmy Mayo, said he saw Gray with a gun, and that Policeman Gilliam took his keys which he later returned without arresting him. Others said they did not see a revolver drawn.

It was contended that the celebration was a local custom. To this Councilman Paul C. Combs replied, "We are civilized people. We can't set or allow a custom that is paramount to the law."

Trimbly county farmers set 157,000 strawberry plants this spring, a figure considerably below that of past years.

same situation faced the same four officers in the discovery of a 120-gallon still on the Jarrell Fork of Bull Creek recently.

Liquor otherwise figured in the week's news.

Saturday night, Sheriff's deputies had rough going with 73-year-old Jane Webb, of the Middle Creek road, who, they said, threatened to fire on them if they entered her home. After Sheriff Meade was called, a search of the premises uncovered eight half-pints of Bond & Lillard. Meade said some moonshine had been emptied before he arrived. Mrs. Webb was placed under bond. Sheriff Meade said this was the third time he or his deputies have arrested her on a liquor charge.

A holder of an inactive certificate—issued since 1930—may receive a new certificate in its place.

"A critical shortage of teachers still exists in the elementary field," observed Dr. Doran, who pointed out that "approximately two-thirds of the students completing teacher preparation courses are preparing to teach in high schools."

The shortage, however, is part of a nation-wide pattern, paralleled by the greatest increase in public school enrollment in history, accompanied by a declining college enrollment, Dr. Doran said.

He revealed the results of a study made by his division, which pointed out that "for a whole school generation, 12 years, a lack of teachers has continued to plague school administrators, parents and children."

There were 23 emergency teachers—those who did not meet the legal minimum qualifications—for the year 1941-42. Seven years later the total was 5,000 and this year 2,971 of the 19,739 teachers in elementary and secondary schools are serving on emergency certificates.

However, three county systems—Fayette, Clinton and Union—and 36 independent school systems staffed their schools last year with all fully qualified teachers. Other systems employed from one to 117 emergency teachers. In Elliott county, 62% of all teachers were employed on emergency certificates while Floyd county had 117 emergency teachers, the largest number in the state.

Competition from Western Kentucky coal was given as another factor damaging to this section's mining industry. Coal from that field can be delivered to Chicago for $3.90, plus freight—a figure way below that at which coal can be profitably marketed here.

Despite the trend to unemployment, initial (new) or re-opened unemployment claims filed at the Kentucky Unemployment Service office here during May were fewer than April, Mr. Anderson said. In April 876 initial cases were filed, as compared with 832 last month.

"The way it looks today, though," Anderson said Wednesday, "June will far exceed May in initial claims filed."

He said that, beginning Thursday of this week, itinerant unemployment service will be established at Hi Hat and that a representative of the office here will be there every other Thursday. The Hi Hat office will serve all the Left Beaver Creek Section beginning with McDowell and also sections of Mud Creek which are nearer Hi Hat than Prestonsburg.

The unemployment trend in this county was reflected in these figures supplied by Mr. Anderson:

January, 408 initial claims, 2,408 weeks of unemployment claimed; February, 499 claims and 2,756 weeks; March, 608 claims and 3,995 weeks; April 876 claims, 5,205 weeks; May, 832 claims, 5,929 weeks of unemployment.

LETTERS

TO THE EDITOR

SAYS SHERIFF OVERPAID

Editor, The Times:

According to the Floyd County Good Government League the Sheriff of Floyd county collected the sum of $24,649.17 for the year 1951. Under the Constitution of Kentucky the Sheriff is legally allowed $7,200 a year. In other words, he drew $17,449.17 for the year 1951 more than he was legally entitled to receive.

The people of Floyd county are going to get tired of this sort of thing. It has been going on for a long time. It's about time that it stopped.

If the taxpayers of this county are interested in where their money is going they should join and support the Good Government Taxpayers League.

HENRY HOWARD

ABSURDITY OF PANTY RAIDS

Editor, The Times:

As a third-year college student I look upon these abominating panty raids with scorn and disdain. I am sure there are many other students in colleges throughout the United States who have the same attitude. Those students who are reserved and reposed should be admired. Students should have enough stability to stand on their own two feet, and not be led wrongly by the crowd. I believe in the students participating in college activities, but only those activities which are in keeping with the law of the college; and the true laws of decency.

These panty raids are absurd for four reasons. They are definitely and absolutely useless. What do those who take part in these raids hope to accomplish? They acquire nothing but ridicule and discipline from others. If these uprisings helped the students, then they would be thoroughly justified; but they do not aid in any respect. Such actions on the part of students are considered contrary to the laws of the college. Students are usually required to sign the applications that they will respect and obey the laws of the institution which they enter. I suppose the participants in these raids have forgotten their written statements.

These raids result into conflicts with the police officers and the laws of the land. Many students have openly and deliberately attacked the police officers with rocks and eggs. These raids not only break the college and civil laws, but they break the laws of morality and decency. The act of stripping clothes from the opposite sex portrays the characteristics of low morals, and little consciousness of decency. This is not becoming for ones who are to be the leaders and servants of the Public of Tomorrow.

Wheelwright Juniors Win Third in a Row

Wheelwright, Ky., May 26 (Spl.)—The Wheelwright junior baseball team rolled over a high spirited Weeksburg junior team, 7 to 1, in a game played at Wheelwright last Thursday night. For Wheelwright this was their third straight win without a loss.

Vondall Lee Hall twirled his teammates to their third win. For Hall this was his second win.

Hall got off to a shaky start as Bobbie Blevins, scrappy, little shortstop for Weeksburg, laced the first pitch of the game into right field for a clean single, stole second, advanced to third on a fly ball to deep center and later in the inning capped his rumpage by stealing home for his team's first and only run of the game.

Blevins and Charles Blackburn, fleet-footed outfielder, were the hitting sars of the game as Blevins collected 3 for 4 for the losers and Blackburn hit 2 for 4 for the winners.

Weeksbury outhit Wheelwright 7 hits to 5, but the brilliant baserunning and fielding of the Wheelwright nine was the difference between a loss and victory. Don King stole two bases while Bobby Hall, C. Blackburn, E. Little, Gullett and Don Wallen swiped one each for the winners. Weeksbury attempted eight steals. They connected on the first two but were cut down on the last six by Morris Ray Hall, Wheelwright catcher.

Any high school team wanting a game with Wheelwright, call Everett Hall, phone 2678 or write P.O. Box 305, Wheelwright.

March of Dimes Netted $6,398 in Floyd County With W'Wright, Leader

The grand total of the March of Dimes drive stands at a net figure of $6,398.04, according to the deposit ticket exhibited by Jesse Elliott, drive chairman. Half of this amount—$3,199.02—is on deposit in the Bank Josephine, as W. A. Spradlin is permanent treasurer. Russell Hagedorn, of the First National Bank, is the March of Dimes treasurer. The other half of the return from the drive goes to the National Foundation and the amount deposited in the Bank Josephine is retained to be expended locally.

Wheelwright turns up as the largest single community contributor but Dan Reed, working in several communities, was the collector of the largest sum. John Kurtyka, chairman of the drive in the Wheelwright community, whose efforts were sponsored by the Kiwanis club there, was pointed out by Elliott for commendation, since it was through his efforts that the Wheelwright donations topped the list.

Forty-two farmers in Spencer county attended a demonstration where trees and bushes were sprayed with 2,4-D and 2,4-5T; hand, tractor and airplane sprayers were used.

NO ADVANCE SHERIFF FEE

To Be Exacted from Plff. Before Warrant Is Served, Attorney General Advises

Frankfort, Ky., May 26 — Does a plaintiff have to pay a sheriff in advance for making a misdemeanor arrest?

The question was raised in correspondence received at the Attorney General's office—and the official view is "No."

County Attorney Sampson B. Knuckles, Barbourville, asked about the increase in fees given sheriff by the 1952 legislature.

He pointed out the new law says the plaintiffs must pay in advance and added:

"It has been the practice among some sheriff to refuse to serve warrants in such cases until the witness swearing out the warrant pays the fee for such service. Has the sheriff any legal right to do this?"

"How may we expect our criminal laws to be enforced as to drunken car drivers, bootlegger transactions, church disturbances, etc., if a citizen swearing out a warrant to cause the arrest of such offenders is required to pay $6 for that privilege?"

Assistant Attorney General H. D. Reed, Jr., already had answered that point in a letter to W. Fred Hume, a Providence attorney.

Reed said the Commonwealth or the City prosecuting such cases is the plaintiff.

He added that another statute, which was not repealed by the fees amendment, specifies that no officer was entitled to a fee for making misdemeanor arrests unless the fee was collected from the person arrested. That statute also specified there should be no fee unless the defendant is convicted.

Knuckles also wrote that he has prepared about 500 notices to delinquent taxpayers and asked whether the new law granting sheriffs $1 for each notice served means a sheriff may get $500 for the job. Reed already had answered that question in replying to a query from County Attorney John H. Thomas, Calhoun.

In that letter Reed expressed the opinion that the $1 fee would not apply for serving notices on delinquent taxpayers because sheriffs are fully compensated for that service under chapter 134 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes. Reed also pointed out the bill covering fees for the arrests and notices doesn't become effective until June 19.

Knuckles also inquired about another amendment granting sheriffs 7 cents a mile for serving notices, subpoenas, and summonses, and requiring these fees to be paid by the litigants at the time the sheriff delivers the official papers.

Assistant Attorney General M. B. Hoffield, who had replied to Knuckles' first two questions by sending him copies of Reed's opinions, wrote that no such mileage payments can be made until after final judgment in the cases, for the defendant might be ordered to pay the costs.

There is another statute requiring individuals to deposit a $5 fee with the court clerk in civil suits, unless the individual claims he is a pauper.

Approximately 1,000 people contributed money, materials or labor to the agricultural pavilion built in Pulaski county.

Summer Enrollment Seen at Pikeville

Pikeville, Ky., May 26 (Spl.) — A large summer enrollment at Pikeville Junior College is indicated by the size of advance registration, Dr. A. A. Page, college president, said today.

"Emergency" teachers will be working to complete the two-year course for the Provisional Elementary Certificate before the requirements are raised next fall. Four years of college work will be required for the certificate after September 1, 1953.

Business courses and work for students in other courses of study also will be offered, the Pikeville president said. Some requirements of the premedical, pre dental, scientific, pre-engineering, home economics, pre-law and pre-agricultural courses at the college may be worked off this summer.

One student in every six at Pikeville's first session last summer was a Floyd countyman, Dr. Page said. Of the 24 Floyd county students at the college last June 22 were enrolled in the teacher's course, one in the scientific course and one in a business course.

Sudan grass has been recommended to Daviess county farmers as emergency pasture due to the lespedeza shortage.

The mine tour provided the pupils the opportunity to watch coal cutting and loading machines and shuttle cars in action. They also witnessed shooting and blasting operations. The tour of installations included visits to the company's outside shops, bathhouses and laboratory.

The tour of the properties was conducted by Seth Kegan, personnel director, and MIT Bentley, assistant mine superintendent.

Somebody's Going to be Surprised!

Well, it's Junetime—and the top is down—and his heart is filled with memories... and where do you think he's going?

He's going halfway up the hill, to a spot where a lane strays into the wildwood and he can glimpse the top of a fieldstone chimney above the trees. That's his lane—and he's going home!

It has been a well-guarded secret. Just two people have known about it all these months—himself and his Cadillac dealer.

To make doubly sure, he has hinted at everything under the sun as a fitting tribute to this wedding anniversary—except a Cadillac!

Well, it won't be long now. He's getting closer and closer. And now the stones in the driveway crunch under the wheels... he gives the familiar three "roots" on the horn... and then she sees him, with his cap in his hand, bowing and pointing to the driver's seat.

Surprised? Never so much in all her life. And never more thrilled—for it's the "car of cars" for the "day of days"!

And is he happy? Maybe it has taken him ten years—or fifteen—or even twenty... to make his dream come true.

But during all this time he never wavered in what he wanted. He wanted to make one anniversary mean something special above all the rest... by the gift of a Cadillac.

Perhaps, as you read this, you are looking forward to some very special anniversary of your own.

If you are—and you're planning on giving the gift of gifts—then you'd better come in and see us soon.

We've kept many and many a secret, for many and many a man—so you may trust us not to tell!

We'd be delighted to see you... at any time you find convenient.

BARNES SAYS LIEN SECTION IS MISUNDERSTOOD IN STATE

"Some of Kentucky's public assistance recipients as well as few of our citizens are misinterpreting the newly enacted claim and lien section of the state's public assistance law," V. E. Barnes, commissioner of the Department of Economic Security, said in Frankfort recently.

Barnes' department includes the division which handles old age assistance, aid to the needy blind, and aid to dependent children programs.

Barnes emphasized that contrary to apprehensions of some misinformed people, aged blind recipients need have no fear of the state depriving them of their property during their lifetime. "Furthermore," he said, "the law also provides that burial expenses and the cost of the last illness of any recipient shall be paid before the state's claim."

"The state's claim and lien will be only for the amount of assistance paid after July 1, 1952. Under the law, the recipient will retain ownership, possession, and use of his property and does not sign over the property. The claim does not arise and the lien is not enforceable until after the death of the recipient, unless there was fraud on the part of the recipient in obtaining public assistance."

"The surviving husband or wife, unless she or she remarries, and surviving dependent children are also protected by the law, which says that the lien shall not be enforced during their lifetime so long as they occupy the property," he explained.

The law as amended by the 1952 General Assembly was not intended as a hardship on old and needy people and in no way can cause a hardship. Nor does the law entail any sacrifice or self-deprivation on the part of the recipient, Barnes said. "The provision, which goes into effect July 1, is intended to protect the Commonwealth's program of helping deserving needy people. The lien provision is an additional guard against fraud. It reemphasizes the responsibility of children to help care for their aged or blind parents to the extent of their ability, and further assure the taxpayer of the careful management of public funds," Barnes continued.

He reminded that Kentucky exercised a claim and lien provision during the first four years of the public assistance program, until 1940 when it was taken out of the law by the State Legislature. He noted also that approximately 35 states have found the administrative safeguard provided by a lien clause advisable.

Barnes pointed out that instructions have gone out to all field personnel in the Division of Public Assistance designed to protect the recipients' interests. When a person requests that his assistance grant be withdrawn due to the Claim and Lien Law, field workers must hold a personal interview with the recipient before the grant is withdrawn. This will insure that the recipient clearly understands the provisions of the law, Barnes said, and that deserving needy people will not be depriving themselves of support.

Recipients or prospective recipients who may be in doubt on any point of the law are urged to inquire at the nearest county office of the Division of Public Assistance or write to the division's central office in Frankfort.

A total of $2,789,574 was paid out in public assistance grants to Kentuckians during the month of April, Mr. Barnes said.

Total payments were distributed among the three types of recipients as follows: $1,864,041 to the aged; $846,373 to dependent children; and $79,160 to the needy blind.

During the month, the agency chief said, 63,080 needy aged persons received an average payment of $29.56. An average of $41.83 was paid to 20,233 families of dependent children, while 2,533 needy blind received an average check of $31.25.

In the first four months of 1952, a total of $11,341,485 was paid to public assistance recipients who qualified under the state-federal programs administered by the Department of Economic Security, Barnes said. Of that total, the needy aged received $7,586,834 for a monthly average of $29.60 per person. The families of dependent children received $3,437,538, an average of $41.86. The needy blind in the state have received $317,113 thus far this year, averaging $31.36 per month, the commissioner said.

Three Tragic Days

MEMORIAL Day week-end — days made memorable by tragedy. Three hundred three dead, 218 on the nation's highways.

Among the millions who traveled the country's roads during the week-end were quiet citizens, the old and the young, many thousands going home to do homage to their dead, other thousands plainly on holiday.

And other thousands simply "off to the races".

It is quite possible that only a small percentage of all these millions who stepped into motor vehicles over this tragic holiday week-end were under the influence of intoxicants. The greater part of this stream of traffic was composed of men and women and children who had no thought other than to reach their destination and reunion with relatives and friends or surcease from the daily grind. But the relative few who were intoxicated wreaked on these others and on themselves a ghastly toll, and that other group which needs no stimulation to go mildly mad when behind the wheel of an auto did the rest.

Shells were not falling on our lines of communication in this country, last week-end, but masses of steel traveled them with projectile-like speed, and some were not "guided missiles." Roads too narrow for heavy traffic and excessive speed, autos too powerful for the weaknesses of humans to handle, the mania for speed and more speed, the tensions of the age, disdain or forgetfulness of the rights of others—these were some of the factors which contributed to the 218 highway deaths reported as of Sunday.

Kentucky alone lost 15 of its citizens during these three days.

But the story is an old one. What can be done to reduce this loss of human life? More education in safety? The policy hasn't paid off yet, although this is a movement still in "low" and gaining momentum very slowly. Less powerful engines? The public wants more power. Wider, straighter highways? But the record doesn't show these achieve much other than to invite still greater speeds. Stricter enforcement of driving regulations and other laws which could make motoring safer?

Basically, education would appear to be the solution. Classes in safe driving should be a part of the curriculum in the high schools of the country. Youngsters should be educated to danger as well as to safety. Some may even need to see the ghastliness of highway deaths; the grim realism of death is the only thing the unimaginative can comprehend.

Add to education strict enforcement of the law against reckless and drunken driving, and eventually we may see some improvement in a situation which almost daily leaves this community or that, or even the entire nation, aghast.

Give the People Their Vote

KENTUCKY long ago discarded the convention system of nominating candidates for other offices, on the well-taken grounds that the method is unfair, undemocratic and fails to represent the popular will. But it holds on to the same system in using its vote to nominate for the most important office of all—the Presidency of the United States.

Clinging to this vestige of political antiquity, we still express swonder at the mere ripple of interest the voters themselves take in their county caucuses which lead up to those state conventions wherein the delegates to the national nominating convention are chosen. But there is nothing mystifying about this apathy on the part of the individual voter.

He has been rolled over and been chewed up too often by the machine to ask for more. Kentucky has had numerous instances of this type of politics in both parties. In Texas, only last week, the machine thwarted supporters of General Eisenhower and Senator Kefauver, although the Republicans and Democrats backing these two candidates were clearly in the majority. They held "rump" conventions but the final decision rests with the machine, not with the majority.

We ask young men and women to register and vote. We are doing our duty in asking other Americans to do theirs. But we have little business asking them to take part in the convention fiasco where the expression of the popular will is lost in the clanking of the political machinery.

Kentucky should give the voters a Presidential preferential primary, with the delegates to the national convention to be elected by popular vote, and bound by that vote. Then we will see the individual voter of the state taking part in a very vital matter.

MARTIN

Mrs. Ella Smith and husband had as their guests recently two of Mrs. Smith's daughters, Mrs. Ruth Pratt Craig, and family, and Mrs. Dorotha Pratt Taylor. Mrs. Taylor and family reside in Dayton, O., while Mrs. Taylor, who has been employed by the federal government for the past 10 years, five of which have been with the Atomic Energy Commission at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky., resides at Mayfield, Ky. This is Mrs. Taylor's first visit to Martin in five years and she was very surprised to see so many changes in the town. Mrs. Craig and Mrs. Taylor also spent an afternoon visiting Mr. and Mrs. Glover Spencer.

Dramatic Display Coming to Prestonsburg

To show local homeowners latest advancements in all-electric living, Wm. Arrowood Hardware Co., in cooperation with Hotpoint, Inc., one of the nation's leading appliance manufacturers, is bringing to Prestonsburg a complete pushbutton kitchen and automatic home laundry "on wheels." The dramatic display, installed inside a giant truck trailer with folding sides and sliding ramps, will open for public inspection Thursday, June 1 in front of the Arrowood store from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The trailer is touring communities in this area to demonstrate time and work-saving advantages offered by new electric appliances that are controlled by simple dials and lighted pushbuttons. The kitchen and laundry on the trailer are equipped with an automatic dishwasher, garbage disposal unit, refrigerator-freezer, pushbutton range, automatic clothes washer, rotary ironer, and Hotpoint's new "moistureless" clothes dryer that flushes heat, moisture, and lint down the drain.

All appliances will be connected to power and water lines so visitors can see them in actual operation. Cabinets, wallpaper, and curtains give the two rooms the appearance of a regular kitchen and laundry installed in a family's home.

According to William Arrowood, owner of the store, the modern concept of electrical living has gained wide acceptance in this area in recent years as increasing numbers of Prestonsburg area families have discovered the higher standard of living these electrical "servants" make possible.

Mr. Arrowood said that local families considering modernizing present kitchens or building new homes will have an opportunity to discuss equipment arrangement and investment costs with Hotpoint planning specialists from Chicago who will also demonstrate the new kitchen and laundry appliances.
