

This Town-- That World

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

Among the neglected business opportunities of the age is this matter of producing a device for cooling fishing water by artificial means. A "run" of two or three months a year would net a zillion, about the time the water gets too hot for the bass to hit at the surface.

SOME PEOPLE ARE LUCKY

My latest tormentor is Frank Harmon, of Wayland, who writes from Rockwood, Maine, to say: "We are on Moosehead Lake. Salmon and trout fishing is fine. Got eight beauties today. Have a guide and am going after some big ones tomorrow."

I got that far and was about to break off reading the letter to consult a road map when my glance fell on the next paragraph:

"Have not run across a Democrat yet in Maine, and it sure does my heart good. Am thinking of settling down up here."

A few more letters like that one, brother, and you'll be looking at one.

THE OLD ORDER FASSETH

Times do change, now, don't they? Time was when folks stopped, to discuss the weather or to inquire about the torpidness of a body's liver and such personal matters. Now, they hail you with a "How's your television performing?"

My rectifier is better, thank you.

HAIL, BLITHE SPIRIT!

A rather lengthy session the other day with a guy who had too many things on his mind for any one man to bother with set me to thinking about a character I once knew.

My friends, this was a character with a capital C. He left no footprints on the sands of time, he built no bridges, neither did he burn any. Except for his progeny, you may say, he might have never lived, he achieved so near nothing during his years on earth.

But I claim Bud Prater, big, old, burly Bud, did leave something worthwhile behind, although I'll admit he didn't make a conscious effort to do it. For, even yet, folks who knew him get a laugh out of his way of looking at matters.

There was a happy man. But for the few I've known like him I'd argue with the poet who sang, "Man wants little here below..."

3-CAR CRASH INJURES TRIO

Johnson Countians May Lose Arm as a Result Of Wreck; Two Jailed

Two Johnson countians were jailed here late Tuesday afternoon, shortly after their auto had figured in a three-car smash-up near Betsy Layne in which three persons were injured, one seriously, and all the automobiles involved were damaged a total of $2,000.

Gaylord Castle, of Thealka, driver of a 1951 Mercury, the car which state police said started the accident chain, was booked at the county jail on charges of drunk driving and driving without an operator's license. He executed bond Wednesday morning. At the same time one of his four companions at the time of the wreck, Jimmie Melvin, paid a $22.50 fine for drunkenness.

Most seriously hurt was Tom Ward, 33, a passenger in the car driven by Castle. His arm was al-

NIGHT BLAZE HITS ESTILL

Mining Town Landmark, Old Clubhouse, Razed; Heavier Damage Averted

Fire which destroyed a 40-room frame building during Sunday night's storm for a time threatened to wipe out a large section of the town of Estill.

Residents of the town credited a kindly vagary of the high wind and efforts of the Lackey and Wayland fire departments with preventing a destructive conflagration. The wind veered away from a row of frame dwellings nearby, it was said.

The building destroyed was owned by Cluett Messer and originally was the clubhouse of the Wells-Elkhorn Coal Company. Lost with the building was the grocery store of C. C. Martin and the household effects of John Reynolds, who occupied an upstairs apartment.

Cause of the blaze has not been definitely fixed. One theory was that it had its origin in defective wiring; another, that the fire started from lightning.

No estimate of the loss was available. Mr. Martin said his and Messer's losses are only partially covered by insurance. Furniture from a neighboring house was badly damaged as the dwelling was evacuated in the rain.

NO. 55 COSTS HALBERT $55

In Moonshining Case; Drunk Drivers Appear Often on Jail's Books

Mine check No 55 on a dinner bucket found a few weeks ago at a Buck's Branch moonshine still by sheriff's deputies cost Eugene Halbert a fine of $50, plus costs, in county court Monday. Halbert executed a replevin bond and left with the bucket which through the check placed him at the still.

The jail record here this week bore its share of drunk and reckless driving cases. Jailed on these charges were:

Ola Jones, who was fined $112.50 by Magistrate M. C. Wright; Melvin Bush, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Willie Johnson and Constable Johnny Caudill; Junior Myhner, jailed by Deputy Sheriff Scott Compton; Lowell T. Cole, arrested by State Trooper C. D. Potter and fined $52 and costs in county court; Glenn Taylor, arrested by State Trooper Ed Craft.

Other cases booked at the jail: Walter Estep, fishing without license and "graveling" or taking fish with a gaff, arrested by Conservation Officers Raymond Copley and Bernard Baldrige, executed bond; Floyd Felts, embezzlement, arrested by Willie Johnson and J. M. Hall; G. C. Blair, attempted rape, booked by Deputy Sheriffs Frank Parsons and John Hopson; Joe Shepherd, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Compton on a whiskey possession charge, fined $20 and given a 30-day jail term by Magistrate M. C. LAST MATCH IN BOX SEVERELY BURNS TOT; RECOVERY IS EXPECTED

Little Norma Alice Woods, two-year-old daughter of Astor and Hazel Woods, of Cow Creek, was severely burned, Friday of last week, when her dress caught fire from the lone match in a box with which she was playing.

Upon awakening from an afternoon nap, she procured the match box from a bedroom table. The box contained only a single match but from this she set her dress on fire. She beat back the upward swing of the flame and, although her hands were severely burned, the action probably saved her face.

Mrs. Woods, in the kitchen, heard the child's screams, rushed in and extinguished the flames. At the Prestonsburg General hospital it was said the child will recover.

THURSDAY

LAW VETERAN IS RESTORED TO PRACTICE

May Congratulated On Victory; Spends 77th Birthday Here

Ex-Congressman A. J. May, of Prestonsburg, was restored Friday by the Kentucky Court of Appeals to good standing as a lawyer, the profession which he began here on Sept. 4, 1899 and from which he rose to national political prominence.

As he quietly observed his 77th birthday here Tuesday, spending most of the day at his court street office, he thumbed through a sheaf of congratulatory messages from officials, educators and ministers who had been interested in his case.

He will not resume his legal practice until the mandate of the Appellate Court is officially recorded here.

His only comment was, "This is proof that justice usually triumphs in the long run."

His conviction in 1947 of a charge of conspiring to defraud the federal government resulted in his automatic disbarment under a law then in effect but which was repealed by the 1948 Legislature. In the brief applying to the Court of Appeals for reinstatement of the veteran attorney, the Prestonsburg law firm of Howard & Francis pointed out that the trial court conceded there was "no evidence that Mr. May deceived any money or thing of value growing out of the alleged conspiracy."

In its order discussing the case the court cited the case of O. A. Stump, of Pikeville, who was disbarred from legal practice, later received restoration of this right but finally restored to good standing. In this case, it was cited, the high court said, "We would not be so strict and would not close forever the door of opportunity in the face of one convicted..."

Mr. May was restored to citizenship November 14, 1950, by Governor Earle Clements.

On January 25, 1951, he tendered his resignation as a lawyer, but the

FLOYD HAS 4 IN BAR EXAM

'Miss Kentucky' of 1950 One of Group Aspiring To Legal Profession

New blood and beauty too may be added to the Floyd County Bar Association as the result of this week's state bar examination.

Four new entrants for the tests are recent law school graduates from this county and one of this quartet is Miss Mary Louise Osborne, of Bypro, Miss Kentucky of 1950 and representative of the Commonwealth that year in the Atlantic City beauty contest.

She and another of the four Floyd countians taking the examination, Charles Tackett, of Prestonsburg, recently received their law degrees from the University of Kentucky.

The other two are Former County Clerk Jarvis Allen, who was graduated from Miami (Fla.) University, and Barkley Sturgill, Prestonsburg, graduate of Washington & Lee University.

They and 120 others took the bar examination. Outcome of the tests will be known in about six weeks.

One of the four, however, may be temporarily lost to the practice of law. Charles Tackett was commissioned an infantry second lieutenant, day before he received his law degree, and has been notified to report at Ft. Benning, Ga., in September.

Tackett ranked first in his law class at the University of Kentucky throughout the first half of his senior year.

July 8th Is Date Set For Blood Unit Visit To Garrett Hi School

The Red Cross mobile blood unit's next Floyd county visit will be to Garrett, at the high school auditorium, on July 8, it was announced this week.

The bloodmobile was scheduled to make its first Garrett visit after Shelby Draughn, adjutant of George S. Owsley Post, American Legion, had written Mrs. A. H. Mandt, county blood procurement chairman, that the Post and the Woman's Legion Auxiliary there are anxious to sponsor the work in the community.

Hitherto, Garrett and other nearby communities have contributed blood at Wayland, where Frank Morgan is chairman of the blood program. Mr. Draughn is chairman of the program at Garrett, and the two communities are working together.

J. D. FRANCIS QUITS POSTS

English, Coal Group's Labor Advisor, Retires, Effective on June 1st

James D. Francis, of Huntington, W. Va., retired at his own request Tuesday as chairman of the boards of the Island Creek Coal Co. and the Pond Creek Pocahontas Company.

Directors of the companies at meetings in New York announced his executive duties will be taken over by Raymond E. Salvati, who also will continue as president and chief administrative officer of both concerns.

Mr. Francis will remain a director and a member of the executive committee. Now 68, he asked to be relieved from active duties in order to devote more time to his family, his personal affairs and business, and his public, civic and religious activities.

All officers of the companies were re-elected with the exception of the chairman of the boards.

Mr. Francis, in suggesting to the boards that the executive duties be placed on Mr. Salvati, said: "It will be better for the organization for younger men to grow, develop and take their places as the leaders in the companies and the industry."

Formerly a resident of Pikeville, Mr. Francis joined Island Creek and Pond Creek and their subsidiaries in 1911 as counsel. Mr. Salvati has been with the organization for 30 years.

The retiring chairman of the boards of the coal firms is the father of David L. Francis, president of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at David.

REPORT HINTS LEWIS PLANS

The United Mine Workers' district office at Pikeville said Wednesday that details of what the miners will seek in a new contract with the operators was not discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of officers of Union Locals at Martin, but it was reported here that the discussion indicated John L. Lewis, president of the UMWA, will ask curbs on multiple shifts in what is interpreted as an effort to divert business in the industry to more and smaller mines.

What is in the UMWA chieftain's mind is not definitely known, but it is reported that he may ask that a penalty be paid by the operators on a second shift and that the penalty be greater, possibly doubled, for a third shift.

Denying discussions of contract details, Carson Hibbitts, of the Pikeville office, pointed out that the present contract will exist until 60 days after termination notice is given by one or the other parties to the pact, and that no such notice has been filed by either the union or the operators.

Tom Raney, international board member, who conducted the Martin meeting, could not be contacted.

POISON STORY IS UNFOUNDED

Officials Explain Tests Made at Dewey Lake To Determine Fish Supply

Local officers of the Division of Game & Fish scoffed at rumors circulated this week to the effect that plans to poison Dewey Lake to rid it of an over-supply of rough fish are being considered.

"Biologists from the Division at Frankfort simply are making the same study made last year, by the same method of poisoning a small area," E. R. Burke, supervisor of the Seventh conservation district, explained.

Half a dozen men from the Frankfort office, assisted by Conservation Officer Raymond Copley, treated the Goble Branch area with rotenone, Tuesday morning. Next month, a spot in the upper part of the lake will be similarly treated. Fish thus poisoned are counted, weighed and measured and the various species noted. Thus biologists arrive at definite conclusions as to control and restocking needs.

A complete and official report on their findings is expected for publication within the next few days.

One phase of the findings already noted is proof of carp spawn this year. Study of the lake last year failed to reveal spawn of that species, last season.

Action Begun Near Year After Collision of Autos; Carelessness Is Alleged

Three suits filed in circuit court here within the week seek to recover from Roy Gayheart and Richard Akers, of the Price vicinity, a total of $9,631.75 in personal and property growing out of a year-old automobile collision.

The plaintiffs, Lowell and Belve Adkins and Albert Meade, allege their injuries and the damage done to Belve Adkins' auto resulted from the careless operation of Gayheart's car by Akers. They also allege both owner and driver were drunk.

Amounts asked in these separate petitions follow:

Albert Meade, $5,000 personal injury and $600 for medical expenses; Lowell Adkins, $2,000 personal injury, $300 medical expense and $81.75 loss of wages; Belve Adkins, $500 personal injury, $150 medical expense, $1,000 damage to auto and $163.00 loss of wages.

It May Rattle and Squeak But It Gets the Fires Out

Corbett Taylor, one of the leaders in Lackey's fire protection work, stands in front of one of the town's two fire trucks.

If you like your figures and are inclined to calculate the returns on your investment, you'll like that makeshift fire department which is the town of Lackey's and which ranges out over the countryside to fight fires wherever called.

For the equipment—two old automobiles cut down and converted into trucks, two centrifugal mine pumps and 800 feet of hose—has been acquired at a cost of only $1,500, and within the year has saved an estimated $100,000 worth of property from destruction by fire.

The idea of a fire department for Lackey, one of the smallest incorporated communities in the county, was conceived by the town's Police Judge, Brady M. Collins. Others joined in the move. Collins gave an old car to start the thing off. Taxes paid by residents of the town and cash contributions of others financed the purchase of hose and other necessities which the group could not devise at their own time and expense.

Some called the fire department "a rattletrap," but it worked. In fact, it got to places where larger trucks couldn't go. It can throw 300 gallons of water per minute from either a shallow well or from a nearby stream. It is especially designed for those areas where there are no fireplugs and standard equipment.

The second car, or truck, this also donated by Collins, and the second pump were added when it became apparent that, some day or night, the water supply from one source—a well, say—would be exhausted. So the additional truck, hose and pump were put into use, so that one outfit could pump water from a well while the other was setting up to take water from another source—most likely, Beaver Creek.

"The only thing we need right now," Collins said recently in discussing the set-up at Lackey, "is more hose."

A volunteer squad of half a dozen men are ready to go to the aid of any community where they're needed. "Be sure to add our telephone number," they requested. It's Wayland 3885.

FIELD DAY PLANS TOLD

County Agent Says Program To Interest All Members of Family

Tentative plans for the second annual Floyd county Farm Family Field Day, announced this week by County Agent Harold B. Rice, include events of interest to all members of the farm family, such as farm machinery exhibits, agricultural and homemade demonstrations, games for the children, contests and prizes.

The meet will be held Thursday, July 31, on the farm of Miles Gibson, near Maytown, the County Agent said. Each family will be asked to pack a basket for the picnic lunch to be held on the grounds.

Demonstrations to be seen include 2-4-D treatment of weeds and undesirable grasses on a lawn, also the application of 2-4-D to stickweeds and fencerow growths; fertilizer on corn and pastureland; hybrid corn; packing and wrapping foods for home freezing; and also cooking demonstrations, these last two features to be demonstrated by home economists of the Kentucky & West Virginia Power Company.

Another demonstration will be the restoration of a rusty roof by painting a portion of it with metallic zinc paint. This, it is said, will prolong the life of a metal roof eight to 10 years.

Games for the younger folk will include volley ball and horseshoes.

FLOYD LABOR SCENE TAKES BRIGHTER HUE

Many Mines Working This Week! Idle Pay At Five-Year Record

Although unemployment pay totals for June mounted toward a five-year high, there was a brighter side to the labor picture in Floyd county this week.

On this brighter side was the fact that several mines which had been idle in recent weeks are working, some on full five-day schedule.

The more sombre phase of the overall picture was seen in the fact that 1,237 new unemployment claims had been filed here during the month, as of Wednesday noon, and the number of weeks of unemployment paid for had passed the 6,000 mark.

Only 39 new claims had been filed up till Wednesday noon of this week, however. Last week saw the big rush, with most of the Inland Steel Company's miners filing for idle pay.

That mine was back at work this week. So was the Liberty Elkhorn Coal Company, near Langley. These two companies provided approximately one-third of the new unemployment claims filed during the month. Koppers at Weeksburg, Princess Elkhorn at David—two operations which have suffered practically no loss time—the mines of the Reed interests, also steady producers, Elk Horn at Wayland, Clear Branch and other large mines, as well as several truck operations, were working this week.

"But the price is very low," said one operator who said his coal was moving to Tidewater.

However busy the mines were this week, they will be idle next. For the miners go on annual vacation, starting Saturday.

At the Kentucky Employment Service here it was said that some of the 39 new unemployment claims filed this week were interstate cases, filed by persons returning from work in plants outside Kentucky.

The first week of June saw 239 new claims entered at the office here. The second week's 503 was high for the month, and from that the new cases dropped to 456 the third week.

Glenn S. Anderson, manager of the Prestonsburg office of the Kentucky Unemployment Service, said he had expected the steel strike to send back to the county a number of persons who would be filing here for unemployment pay, but such had not been the case. Hundreds from this area are employed in plants affected by the strike.

Unemployment, Mr. Anderson said, also is heavy in neighboring Johnson county. Workers from the local office will be in that county today (Thursday) and Friday. The Margoffin case load is low, as low as 100 claims.

JURY DECIDES MAN DROWNED

Girl Finds Man's Body In Shallow Stream; No Evidence of Foul Play

A 50-year-old man who was found dead in the shallow water of Abner Fork of Left Beaver Creek, near Melvin, early Wednesday morning, was not a victim of foul play, a jury empaneled by Coroner James J. Carter held.

The victim, 50-year-old Worley Robert Evans, of Melvin, was found lying face down, in approximately six inches of water. Carter said there were no marks on his body and that abrasions on his face apparently resulted from a fall onto a rock in the bed of the stream.

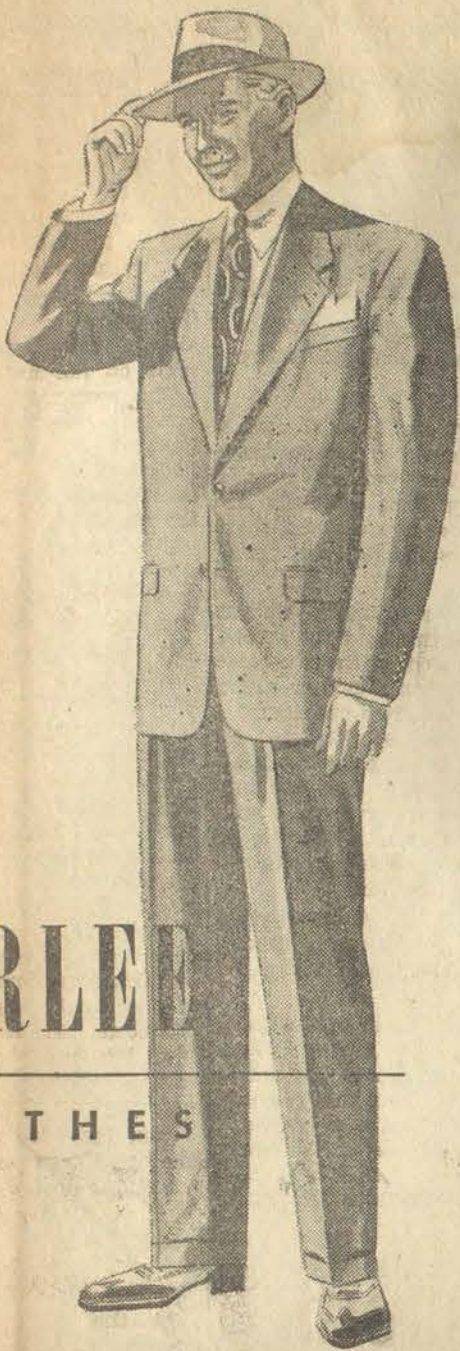

The coroner's jury held that Evans "met death by drowning." Dr. Bossenger, of Melvin, who examined the body, expressed the opinion that Evans may have died of a coronary occlusion or from drowning while in a state of collapse. Evans apparently fell over a bank about 10 feet high into the stream. Coroner Carter said there was water in the victim's lungs.

Gratho Hamilton, Melvin youth, testified at the inquest he saw Evans at 9:20 Tuesday night and that Evans was not drinking at that time. Evans rooms at the home of young Hamilton's father.

The body was discovered at 8 a.m., Wednesday by Miss Gladys

He would do a day's hard work and take his pay in five or six pounds of salt bacon, and go laughing home, happier than you or I would be with a twenty for our eight hours. Winter days, when there wasn't much to do and when the meal in the barrel ran low, Bud sat before a big fire in his cabin—you couldn't call it more than a cabin—and, shaking the roof with his roars of laughter, "row with the young'uns," and worry not one whit about the morrow.

Once when a stranger met him and asked about where a certain man lived, Bud answered, "Hell, mister, he don't live nowhere. Fellers like me and him—we just breathe." And he went on his way, laughing at the look on the face of the other.

Such men did not make America great, and I would not prescribe his philosophy as relief from our "dull load of care," but he had something most men would pay a lot for—the ability to accept life as he met it, and to meet it laughing.

Old Bud now owns the same part of this earth Croesus and Rockefeller and all the great of the earth own—approximately six feet.

period to other homes. But after Bascom, the youngest of Samuel May's 10 children, married Annie Mayo and moved into it, he never moved out.

"The Weaning House," rich in family traditions, and with all its memories, is more than a place for mere day-to-day living. For its story dovetails into the story of a man's life, that of Bascom May, now a spry 85, and of his family.

He observed the 85th milestone of his life, Monday of this week. Yet when you talk to him the story becomes a chapter in the May history for he will tell you, among other things, of his brother, Solomon P., who was killed at Mt. Sterling in the Civil War. That is in itself a chapter of the family's history. Or there is the old brick house built by another Samuel May, father of the Confederate leader, Col. Andrew Jackson May. That house is approaching the century and a half mark and stands, in lonely vigil on the rolling landscape of the May farm.

Bascom May was born in 1867, the son of Samuel and Mary Osborne May. The old record book of the family writes this name as Osborne, which is one of the many variants of the spelling. He was the youngest of 10 children. Solomon P., his eldest brother, had been killed, a few years before Bascom was born, in the fighting around Mt. Sterling while serving under Col. Andrew J. May. Thus Bascom May probably has the distinction of being the only man living in this section who had a brother as a Civil War soldier. Solomon P. May, born in 1844, was 17 years old when Union troops occupied Prestonsburg. Being a partisan of the South and an admirer of his relative, Col. Andrew J. May, the Confederate leader, Solomon was determined to evade the Union draft. So he entered into a conspiracy with his mother to outfit the Union soldiers from Prestonsburg if they ever come looking for him.

As part of the plan he took one of the most promising gaited horses on the farm and hid it in the May Branch woods. Always it was bridled and saddled, awaiting the day when its young master would come to it in flight. In the darkness of night Solomon stole away to feed the horse.

One day, mother and son looked up the road to see three soldiers coming. Solomon retired to the inner rooms near the rear of the house while his mother stood in the doorway, leaning against one side of it while with her arm she touched the other side of the entrance—barring the lieutenant and two common soldiers.

"Why are you men here?" she demanded. "We have come for your son Solomon. He is wanted for the Union army," the lieutenant replied.

Mary May turned and called into the house: "Solomon, the soldiers have come for you."

"All right, mother, as quick as I can get my clothes together," he answered. That was the signal they had agreed upon for his exit from the house. The other signal for her to speak was when she saw him cross the point into the May Branch woods.

The three Union troopers stood waiting for Solomon to gather his clothes. The mother peered across the farm and watched anxiously the far-away point. At last she saw Solomon emerge from the woods, wave and disappear.

"You may come on in now," she said to the soldiers. "But I don't think you will find Solomon".

Searching the house and realizing they had been tricked, the three went back to Prestonsburg. Solomon was astride his horse and headed for enlistment under Col. May. He was enrolled in Co. A, 10th Kentucky Infantry, C. S. A.

In the fighting around Mt. Sterling Solomon lost his life and was buried near where he fell. The bereaved father went there after the internecine struggle had ceased and bought a plot where he re-buried his son.

Since it was Bascom May's 85th birthday, Monday, his people were gathered for the occasion. His son Joe from Atlanta assisted in recalling the other chapters of May history. There was Thomas May, Bascom's grandfather, born on Shelby Creek, near the mouth of Robinson Creek in Pike county. He had come there with his father John (1760-?). "He was red-headed," volunteered Bascom as the story unfolded. It seems that Thomas (1787-1867) was a thrifty lad who, although in love with Dorcas Patton (1790-1822) on Beaver creek wasted no time in courting. But there came a day when he cut his foot with an ax, while at work on a mill wheel. Realizing that it would be some time before he would work again, he told his father: "I'm going over on Beaver to see if I can talk Mary into marrying me while my foot is cut". And, riding away, he returned in a few days with his bride.

But it is in Samuel May and his large family that we became interested as the story was unfolded. There were 10 children.

Solomon, born "April 16th, 1844, Tuesday about 10 o'clock in the morning" was the eldest of Samuel and Mary Osborne May's children. Dorcas was born in 1845. David, born in 1847, lived to be 96. Elizabeth was born in 1849; Mary, 1852; Thomas, 1855; Martha, in 1857; Samuel, 1859, William Harvey, 1862. All are dead.

Samuel May was a self educated man. An old book is existent in the family that sets out arithmetical problems of his own construction and their resolving.

"He was a farmer, blacksmith, cobbler, preacher and surveyor," his only surviving child recalls. When his children grew into adulthood and married, he either gave them a farm or $3,000 in cash. That money came out of the soil or from stock raised on the farm.

And that is how Bascom and Annie May, who were married 61 years ago, and who have never been weaned away from the tranquil delights of the Weaning House, have lived comfortably and well all these years—from the soil.

Guam is too hot, Okinawa has rotten chow, Philippines have mosquitoes as big as flies, Japan is nice, Korea is either too cold or too hot, too muddy or too dusty. That's the romantic Pacific. I'm ready for the Atlantic now."

Board of Bar Commissioners refused to accept it, recommended disbarment instead. The Court of Appeals, however, refused to go along with this recommendation, saying May was "disabled" from practice rather than disbarred.

Last December 12, Mr. May applied to the Court of Appeals for restoration of his rights to practice law. The request was turned over to the Board of Bar Commissioners for investigation and a recommendation.

On April 16, the commissioners refused to agree to the former Congressman's restoration. They recommended his application be refused on the ground that restoration of a lawyer to citizenship after a felony conviction, or his pardon, does not restore his good character and make him fit to practice law.

"We readily agree it does not," the Appellate Court said, again overruling the recommendation of the Commissioners.

"But the fact that one has transgressed does not forever place him beyond the pale of respectability. Such a conception of morals is not in keeping with Christian principles."

The high court said the sole question was whether his conduct since his conviction five years ago, and his release from prison two years ago, "has been such as to prove he is now a man of good moral character and entitled to confidence."

The high court said it could not follow a rule so strict that it would close forever the door of opportunity in the face of one convicted of crime.

"Even wrongdoers convicted of crime are given another chance. Here it is admitted that Mr. May's conduct since his conviction and disqualification has been exemplary and he is entitled to public confidence."

Judge Bert T. Combs, Prestonsburg, disqualified himself from sitting on the question.

most torn off at the elbow and he was taken to St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, where some hope of saving the arm later was expressed.

Others hurt were: Conrad Anderson, Spider, Ky., fractured elbow and cut on his left arm; Eva Baldrige, Paintsville, sprained ankle, cuts and bruises.

State police explained the wreck in this way: Castle's car at first forced a 1941 Chevrolet driven by Estill Reed, of the Betsy Layne vicinity, from the highway, then rammed into a Pontiac driven by Anderson. After hitting the Anderson car the auto driven by Castle turned turtle and reportedly skidded 50 feet on its top before stopping.

Castle was driving at high speed, it was said.

Escaping with little or no injury were a girl named Harris from this vicinity, reported a passenger in the Melvin car, Mrs. Andrew Wago and Dillow King, Kite, Ky., both passengers in the car driven by Anderson.

In District ABC Finals; Adkins Stays on Mound And at Bat in Victory

Wayland's team of the Big Sandy Baseball League won the district ABC championship at Drift Sunday afternoon by defeating Price, of the same league, 6 to 3.

The championship trophy was awarded the Wayland team by Bill Henry, Mt. Sterling, Kentucky ABC commissioner, former Governor A. B. Chandler was unable to be present for the post-game ceremonies. Certificates were also awarded to 16 members of the all-star team.

Wayland will play in the state tournament which will start at Mt. Sterling July 7 and last through July 14. Winner of the state meet will go to Wichita to compete for the national amateur baseball championship.

Adkins, Wayland pitcher, hurled and batted his team to victory in the title tilting Price to five hits and himself driving in three runs with a homer with two on in the seventh. G. Hall, who pitched for Price until the eighth, was the losing twirler. He was followed by Sword.

The outstanding game of the tourney was perhaps last Thursday night's in which Pikeville downed Drift, 5 to 4. In that game Stewart, the winner, struck out 14 men while Drift's Don Hewlett was fanning 11. Other scores, beginning with the opener:

Elkhorn City 6, Hi Hat 2; Wayland 9, Allen 6; Price 3, Pikeville 5; Wayland 8, Elkhorn City 6.

BETSY LAYNE

STUMBO, CLUB SPEAKER

The Betsy Layne Woman's Club held its regular monthly meeting Thursday night, June 19, at the home of Mrs. O. J. Williams. Mrs. Arthur Van Kammen was program leader, with a program in the Legislation Department, the topic being "Legislation in the State". The objective of this program was to study pending legislation on the state level and to become articulate concerning it. The club was happy to have Ted Stumbo, State Representative from this district as speaker on the subject. Mrs. Van Kammen introduced the speaker, who gave a discussion on recent Senate and House bills. At the end of the discussion, questions concerning specific bills were asked and Mr. Stumbo clarified points concerning these bills that were not clear to members. The club members were very appreciative of this fine discussion of state legislation by Mr. Stumbo, and, as a result of this talk, feel they have become more familiar with state legislation.

Mrs. Beecher Hardwick, club president, presided at the business session. Mrs. Hardwick briefly discussed parliamentary procedure, giving the members a refresher course in the current parliamentary procedure used in club meetings.

Mrs. O. J. Williams, the club's delegate to the General Federation of Women's Clubs' 61st Convention held in Minneapolis last month, gave a report on this National Convention. Mrs. Williams gave a brief outline of the train trip to Minneapolis, pointing out the points of interest along the route from Louisville to Minneapolis. The highlight of the Convention was the election of Miss Chloe Gifford, to the office of 3rd Vice-President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. This is the first national office held by a Kentucky woman in 25 years. Mrs. Williams gave a brief resume of the campaign and election and noted that voting machines were used.

Miss Alice Williams next gave a report on the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs Convention held in Covington-Cincinnati, June 4-6. The club had two delegates, Mrs. Hardwick, the club president and Mrs. Williams attending the convention.

The report was concluded by the presentation of the 100% honor certificate awarded the club at the convention for fulfilling all the requirements of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs. The press book, programs and materials pertaining to the State Convention were displayed in connection with the General Federation Convention display.

The meeting was closed with plans being made to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the club, with a tea and reception honoring charter members, mother club and other district clubs.

A salad plate was served the following members: Mesdames Beecher Hardwick, T. J. Chandler, Edward Lykins, W. P. Howell, Glenn Blackburn, Arthur Van Kammen, Elizabeth Fritchard, Miss Alice Williams, guest Miss Carol Wright and the hostess Mrs. Williams.

The next regular meeting will be July 17, 1952 at the home of Mrs. E. P. Davis, with Mrs. R. L. Anderson, program leader, with a program in the American Home Department, Religious Division.

WAYLAND

JUNIOR WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Wayland Junior Woman's Club held its regular meeting Monday evening, June 16, with Mrs. Charles Adkins presiding. There was a discussion on the yearbook for the new year and the following committee was appointed to begin work on it immediately: Mesdames Charles Adkins, Edgar Decoursey and Miss Faye Petry, Annabelle Falin and Bonnie Adkins.

It was agreed that the club meet only once each month during the remaining summer months. This meeting is to be the first Monday of each month.

Since Mrs. Charles Adkins is leaving, the vice-president, Miss Faye Petry, will now become president and arrangements were made to fill the vice-president's office but this will not be final until the next meeting.

Mrs. Ralph Wright was hostess to the club and entertained with a watermelon party on the lawn at her home. Refreshments were served to one guest, Miss Joyce Terry and the following members: Mesdames David Sloan, A. N. Begley, Jack Hammit, Charles Adkins, Curtis Tufts, Henry Fuels, Ralph Wright, and Misses Annabelle Falin, Faye Petry and Bonnie Adkins.

The next meeting will be July 7 in the home of Mrs. Henry Fuels.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

• How much does the Sheriff owe on the 1946 audit?
Answer: $2,993.78.

• Is Floyd county's tax rate one of the lowest in the state?
Answer: It is one of the highest based on per capita income.

• What does the statute say to do with tax collected for a specific purpose?
Answer: The statutes say and the courts have consistently held that tax levied for a specific purpose must be used for that purpose and no other.

• What will become of the $65,000 collected to build the hospital?
Answer: It cannot be used for any other purpose. Any other use is contrary to statute.

• What does the Tax Payers League want to do with this money?
They want to return it to the taxpayers if a hospital cannot be built with it.

• Who would do the clerical work to return this hospital tax money to the taxpayers?
Answer: The Tax Payers League will do the clerical work free of charge if the fiscal court and those with authority will permit.

• Does a Sheriff receive $1.00 for serving a delinquent tax notice?
Answer: He does not. He has already received pay for that under Chapter 134 of Kentucky Revised Statutes.

• If you procure a warrant of arrest in a misdemeanor case can the Sheriff require you to pay the arresting fee in advance?
He cannot. See your lawyer.

• What did the members of the fiscal court do when the Sheriff's settlement for 1946 came up short and there were many other discrepancies the audit showed?
Answer: Our understanding is that it got twisted up in politics and the taxpayers' dollar was gobbled up.

• Why did the present members of the fiscal court hire a supervisor at $225.00 per month when the county only has two employees and a big deficit against the county of $45,000 or $50,000, or maybe into the $60,000? Do you have to hire a foreman over two men when you are already in debt? Couldn't the Magistrates or the County Judge supervise this work and save this money?
Answer: This is one for somebody else to explain.

• Why do members draw their per diem pay for attending fiscal court when they are not even there?

• Why is the fiscal court allowing claims against the county to Troy Sturgill three years after he is out of office? What did they pay Troy Sturgill for the years of 1950, 1951, and how much are they going to pay him for the year 1952?
Answer: You, Mr. Tax Payer, ask the members of the fiscal court. Maybe they will try to explain it to you.

TO THE VOTERS OF DISTRICT NO. 1:

Several people have asked me why I want to be Constable, and I admit that's a fair question. So I will try to explain.

To start with, I'll admit the office isn't important and that it has no excuse for being. But we have it, and somebody must be selected to fill it. So the best idea is to select the most harmless sort of person you can for the place.

I am a member of the Presbyterian Church, and if I am to be a Christian I can't afford to make money by giving protection to a moneyed few who would like to make more money by breaking the law. Nor can I go out and try to rake up cases against youngsters in order to make what folks call "coffee money."

As a member of the church, I have no use for a gun on my hip. And there's another reason for not needing a gun. You see, my eyesight is so badly impaired that I couldn't see to use a gun effectively, even if I wanted one.

Convinced that the office of Constable isn't needed, I certainly would not have any deputies to do something I wouldn't do myself. Still, that doesn't answer the question why I want to be elected.

You wonder: if he is a Christian and will not carry a gun or get out and try to make arrests, what does he want with the office?

The truth is—and this is no appeal for sympathy—my sight is so far gone that I am unable to earn what I need for a living. And so, if I am elected Constable, maybe our Magistrate and County Judge will be kind enough to give me some civil papers to serve, and in that way only will I benefit one cent from the office. But that little bit can be terribly important to a fellow when circumstances beyond his control make him unable to earn a living as he would prefer to do, by working at a regular job.

I will appreciate the help of the Democratic voters at the coming primary.

Sincerely,
Jewel B. "Stinky" Fitzpatrick

IT'S A GOOD WORLD BY WILMAY

Father's Day brought to mind my own white-haired father, who will be seventy-eight in August. Nothing describes him better than the words of a friend who said, "To be in his presence is like being on holy ground." All the material possessions of the world do not compare with the privilege of having had godly parents. Ours was a simple home but we were rich in family living and had blessings money cannot buy, and we six children had fun that plenty of kids nowadays know nothing of.

Folks here in Warco are about ready to have the water analyzed. Must be something wrong with it. Bill Allen (Glenn), drove up not long ago and sold the Boss a car before you could say, "Jack Robinson". He said he was not stopping till he had sold every man at the plant here, since this is the only place he could find working now. Edgar May answered that it is the only place with suckers working, and thought he was the biggest one till John R. Baldridge up and bought a Packard, the same day. Next thing they knew Earl Frasure and George A. May, Jr., had both believed all Bill claimed about Plymouths and signed for one apiece. What's more, the men all claim their cars are as good as Bill said, while we wives are threatening to organize and sue Music Motor Company for alienatin' folks' pocket-books.

It really was good news when Brother Mason Moore called to say that Bill Griffith was recently saved as a result of the Passion Pageant and wants folks to know it was responsible for his salvation. It is hard to tell who is happiest, Mason, Bill or others who worked to put on the pageant.

The men folks win on this one. A magazine that's usin' an article 'bout the pageant wrote for some information on the crowd. We put down that Mr. Bev Sturgill, said hit was the worst traffic jam in the history of the county. Started o Martin to the Bank, carryin' the letter to the post office, and 'cided hit wuz jamb, stead of jam. So we ast the Better Half, who allus claims spellin' hain't his forte. He said shore hit wuzjam, like you eat at blackberryin' time, when there is any, so we let it be, till we seen er frien' an' she says, lan' sakes no, that hit wuz jamb, like er door jamb, that I ort ter know, so wa tucked er B on ter the tail end of jam and sent er off.

Next day we wuz laughin bout hit ter the Burchams, Zollie, and his beautiful wife, Iva Mae, an' he said shucks, that Edgar May was right in the first place, that hit wuz plain ole j-a-m. Come home, got Brother Webster, and shore nuf, pon my soul of us womenfolks warn't wrong. The Times editor is sech a good speller hisself he allus ketches mine as they come past his desk.

Like to see Mr. Harry Cooley and Mr. John Stephens an' some other young fellows uv Blue-Black days line up erinst some of us moderns larnin', and spell er out one night, who think we know so much. That ort to draw a crowd, all right.

There eis a lively youngster here on the Warco hill, called Paul Donald Hagans; and according to his mother, when he is not into one thing, he is into two! Since spring arrived the curiosity of this three-year-old gets the better of him. When an article is missed or mislaid (somebody starts yelling for him, to quiz him. Lately he has become somewhat wary of being falsely accused on a few occasions. The other day Libby Ree called, "Come here, Paul Donald." He reported, "I'm not a-comin', for you're gonna ask me some more questions."

SALISBURY, DENTIST-BUDDY HAVE 'OFFICE' IN EUROPE WHEREVER TENT CAN BE PITCHED

Special to The Times

Verdun, France — Two itinerant army dentists, traveling by truck and setting up shop wherever they can pitch a tent, are caring for the dental needs of small, scattered units in Europe.

They are:

Capt. Jack D. Salisbury, of Prestonsburg, Ky., whose wife, Margaret, lives at 119 E. Third street, Frankfort, Ky., and 1st Lt. Theodore F. Engel, Rockport, Mass.

For the last few weeks, the two men have been operating at Campigny, France, taking care of the men from the 337th Chemical Depot Company, the 13th Chemical Battalion and the 330th Chemical Maintenance Company.

"We've been treating 15 to 20 men a day," Salisbury reported.

The unit's headquarters is at Verdun, base for the 767th Dental Service Detachment. The detachment keeps most of its 15 dentists and their equipment at the clinic at Verdun, but it can put six completely mobile units on the road. The headquarters and prosthetics unit, which makes dentures, need a permanent base, however.

Capt. Salisbury admits his patients aren't quite as comfortable in the unit's tent as they might be in an office in the United States.

"But the dental work is as good as they can get anywhere," he says. "We can't make dentures in the field, but we can do everything else, including extractions."

The completeness of their equipment hasn't kept the dentists from improvising, however. Because there is no cuspidor in a dental field chest, Capt. Salisbury hit on the idea of using an inverted electric light reflector and attaching a drain hose to it. The 13th Chemical Battalion obligingly made the device for the dental unit.

The squad tent, two field-type dental chairs and other equipment can be set up and operating an hour after the unit arrives in an area, Salisbury said. The electric drills can be hooked into a local power supply, or the unit can use its own generator. It takes only a few minutes to set up the traveling dental office if a room in a building can be used.

The unit's two enlisted men literally live with their work. The tent is big enough to house not only the dental equipment but the cots and lockers of the two corporals.

Capt. Salisbury is on orders for rotation this month. He will be replaced by another Kentuckian, Capt. Charles G. Arnold, of Shively.

The area surrounding the city of Harlan produces one-fourth of Kentucky's entire coal output.

Kentucky has a total area of 40,395 square miles, with a land area of 40,109 and over 300 square miles of water.

Stamping Ground, Kentucky, is so called because huge herds of buffalo congregated there during pioneer days.

TOMATOES

Because tomatoes are so important, this column considers them with concern. Up to now, two weeks before this will see print, Lexington has been having a most confusing season. There have been short times of midsummer weather, hot and dry; then, rainy spells with nights much too cool for tomatoes to thrive, that kind of season that pretends the coming of late blight that ruined so many tomatoes in 1950.

Some signs of late blight have been seen in Northern Kentucky. That may be so, elsewhere, but everywhere there always is the likelihood that "growing nights" and dryer weather may come, to keep blight from developing further. However, early blight is going its usual pace, that form of blight that turns the leaves brown before they drop off. While it moves more slowly than the "bad" blight, it is finally quite as deadly to tomatoes, and needs stopping.

Fortunately there is a group of coppers (Copper-A, C-O-C-S and Basic Copper Sulphate, but with a spreader-sticker) and a pair of carbamates (Dithane Z-78 and Parzate) that are effective against early blight, leaf mold and leafspot, but serves as a guarantee against the coming of late blight as well. These come concentrated, 45 percent to 52 percent, and 60 percent (for the carbamates), for making spray. The recipes are, respectively 2 level tablespoons per gallon of water, and 1 1/2 tablespoons.

As early blight is here now, spraying should start now. Better would have been, when the first fruits were the size of a garden pea, or certainly before they had reached half-size. But now will do.

To guard tomatoes against hot and dry weather, mulching is advised. Under cool and moist conditions, a mulch may slow tomatoes somewhat, but the end product is still desirable—plenty of tomatoes with less rotting than occurs when the fruit lies on bare ground. The mulch becomes humus for next year's garden and a heavy mulch, this year, stops weeds.

NEW SYSTEM ON CONTRACTS

Announced by Curlin;
Funds Now Encumbered
For Only Year At Time

A new system of road contracts, whereby money for projects taking more than a year to complete is encumbered for only a year at a time, has been inaugurated by the State Department of Highways.

Highway Commissioner William P. Curlin, in announcing the new procedure, said it will allow more of the current road fund to remain free for new construction.

Formerly, projects that took more than a year's construction had to have the entire amount laid aside at the time the contract was awarded. Under the new system, only enough is encumbered to take care of the work that can be completed during each year. The rest is encumbered against the anticipated funds of subsequent years.

"A project that calls for an outlay of a million dollars over two years but which will require only half that much during the first year will have only the smaller amount encumbered for it when the contract is awarded," Curlin explained. "The remainder will be charged against the second-year fund."

"That means that the rest of the fund for the initial year, that would have been encumbered formerly, will be free for other construction.

Under the old system, a report on the Road Fund from the treasurer's office would often show several million dollars on hand, whereas there was actually nothing available for construction, because it was tied up for work scheduled in years to come. It was held for people who wanted roads to read the report and still be convinced we had nothing to build them with," Curlin continued.

"Now the report will show more accurately the cash available for current-year obligations."

Kentucky's first state flag was handmade by the former Miss Jessie Cox, a Frankfort art teacher, in 1928.

Floyd County Historical Notes

By HENRY P. SCALF

The controversy over the marriage or marriages of John Hager, the Hessian soldier brought over to fight for King George III against Washington but who deserted to General Sumter to fight for American independence, poses quite a problem for researchers. Several of the Hager descendants have been interested in the marriage dates as there seemed to be a discrepancy. The following letter came to this column from Mrs. Dave Ward, a genealogist, of Cinderella, W. Va. That it may serve to disseminate information on a puzzling problem, it is herein reproduced.

Salt Lake City, Utah
April 20, 1952

I want to thank you very much for your interesting and prompt reply to my Hager query in D.A.R. magazine. I do wish I could have been as prompt to thank you. But I see the postmark on your letter was Feb. 29, 1952, which was the date my husband and I left for California. We have recently returned. The floor inside our mail slot was heaped with mail among which was your interesting and very welcome reply to my request.

I know this book on the Hager family of Johnson county, Ky., and that it says Mary Schaefer married John Hager, Revolutionary soldier. But our family says he married an Eliza Eperry and that his oldest son John was born about 1786 in Virginia. was about 22 years older than his youngest child Nancy born in Kentucky June 2, 1808 and the first child born in Kentucky (as James was six years old when they arrived in Kentucky in 1806 and Dan was a baby in arms.) It always sounded important—as this Nancy was the first child born in that part of the state of Kentucky they arrived in—but I think it just meant their first child born to them in the state of Kentucky, the rest having been born in Virginia.

Our story says that this oldest son John moved up to Cincinnati, lived in Price Hill, was a wheelwright, and that when Nancy was 14 years old she came up to Cincinnati from Kentucky to help at her brother's house. There she met a friend of her brother's, Andrew Hazelwood—Hesselwood, born in Killiam, England, 1789 (making him 19 years older than Nancy—34 years of age at the time they met—her brother John 37 years of age at that time. This Andrew Hazelwood was a tailor in Cincinnati. In January, 1823, he married Nancy Hager in Lexington, Ky., but they lived in Cincinnati after the wedding.

The Hessian, John Hager, Revolutionary soldier, died in 1819 in Kentucky. So it could be his wife moved up to Lexington with one of her other children, though I am only guessing (I wish I knew which one) and that is why little Nancy at 14 years was sent to her big brother's in Cincinnati because her dad was dead. Because the mother didn't die until 1847, but I don't know where, do you?

My grandma was Miss Margaret Hazelwood, grand-daughter of Nancy and the Cincinnati tailor. Nancy lived so long that my dad who still lives in Cincinnati did as do all our people, remembers (her, Nancy, his great-grandmother) telling him these stories I'm writing you. Nancy had three sons, Robert, Thomas and John. Robert was our grandfather.

Great-great-grandma Nancy Hager Hazelwood started her story by telling of the young Hessian soldier brought to the colonies by the British to fight for them, but that he turned on them and joined the colonists. Later in Virginia he was German tutor to Eliza Sperry, daughter of Lord Sperry (landlord, probably). They eloped. Lord Sperry disowned her for this act.

In my grandmother's house in Cincinnati (still there and used by our family) for years stood an old wooden chest, now fallen to dust, which was said by our Nancy to have been the chest the slaves carried off to the edge of the Virginia plantation the night that Eliza Sperry eloped with John Hager, her German tutor.

You can see by this story told from one generation to the next that it has the same "ear marks" and dates correspond also time and place to the Hagers in "Johnson county, Kentucky", by Hall.

I don't know who's right and who's wrong but I hope to straighten it out.

I have found records in the Abstracts of Augusta county, Va., by Lockwood Vol. II, page 282, "Oct. 22, 1785, George Hager and Ann Mary Stroader, daughter of George Stroader, surety, James Bassett." Also page 184, "John Heager to be naturalized, Oct. 17, 1786" the year after he was married.

Do you notice this says George married Ann Mary Stroader, daughter of George Stroader?

If you can help straighten me out or if you know of anyone else who might be able to, maybe you'd pass this letter of mine on to them. I certainly would appreciate it. There may be some one who has heard a family story with a few of my same sayings that could tie us up.

There seems to have been some Hagers in Lincoln county, N. C., who came just before the Revolution who must have been cousins or brothers of John Hager of Hesse Casel the Revolutionary soldier because the family bore the same first names (first names for their children such as William, John, George, Elizabeth and the dates are contemporary with both families and influencing the naming of each other's children.

I thought of writing Miss Nell Howes you mention in your letter but there is no use as she is looking for Ann Mary Schroader's father George and believes Ann Mary married John Hager and I think she married a George Hager, because of quote in forepart of this letter.

Sincerely,
Mrs. E. A. Snyder

Five-Year Road Plan Told U.S. 23 Group At Portsmouth, Ohio

The Five-Year Plan of the Highway Department to spend $5,000,400 on U.S. 23 includes 87.58 miles of improvement.

This and other facts relative to improvement of U.S. 23 were revealed last Friday in Portsmouth at a meeting of U.S. 23 Association directors.

One of the projects of particular interest, because it will be the biggest improvement, is the completion of the new river route from Catlettsburg to Louisa.

Included in the five-year plan are by-passes at Fullerton, Greenup, Russell, Paintsville and Pikeville to provide more speedy travel by eliminating the necessity of going through these cities.

The highway from the Lawrence county line to Paintsville is soon to be resurfaced, as will also the 19.6 miles from the mouth of Shelby to Dorton. Plans are ready for the improvement of the road to Pound Gap from Jenkins to the Virginia line.

Attending the meeting were A. Joe Asher, of Jenkins, president, Directors Carl Fitzpatrick, Jenkins, Kelly J. Day, Pikeville, Mayor John B. Wells, Jr., Paintsville, T. R. Richards, Russell, Jerome P. Shepherd, Greenup, Carl G. Morton, Fullerton, Stanford R. Harvey, South Portsmouth, and J. T. Norris, Ashland; and the following guests: Lon S. Rogers, Pikeville, W. P. Hardin, South Portsmouth, Dr. M. W. Meadows, Fullerton, Archie Potter, Greenup, and Calvin Clark and John P. Irwin, of Portsmouth.

"Most-Wanted" of Them All!

It will probably occasion no surprise on your part to be told that the Cadillac car is the most wanted and sought-after automobile on the American highways.

But you might be surprised to learn how widespread the desire to own this great motor car has become during recent years.

Statistics indicate, for instance, that there are more than twenty million motorists in America who would like to call a Cadillac their own. And were the whole of the world's motorists to be considered, this number would grow well-nigh beyond comprehension.

There is reason to believe, in fact, that Cadillac may be wanted by more people than any other product manufactured in America today. It might well be called the great desideratum of the American people.

Naturally, a motor car has to offer many wonderful things in order to occupy such a unique position in the hopes and aspirations of so many persons.

It has to offer great and distinguishing beauty . . . luxurious comfort . . . brilliant, masterful performance . . . and wonderful prestige.

And, of course, in order to have become the logical ambition of so many millions, it would have to be practical to own, as well as wonderful to drive. And so, it would also have to offer—extraordinary economy!

If this sounds like the description of the car that you, yourself, would like to own and drive, then come in and see us—soon.

Perhaps the time has come for you to join the hundreds of thousands of motorists who have stopped wanting a Cadillac—and started enjoying one!

We'd be happy to see you any time.

WATER TREATMENT MAY CURE NEAR-DEAD OIL SPRINGS FIELD

The story of how a dead or dying oil field has been revived to all its original productiveness by water pressure was told recently by Dick Boyd, of the Huntington (W.Va.) office of the Associated Press. Mr. Boyd's story follows:

They're talking about oil in Oil Springs again.

This Magoffin county community, midway between Paintsville and Salyersville, is hoping with cautious optimism that it will become the center of a good producing field again.

Experienced oilmen aren't saying that it will or it won't, but even they are grinning, and oilmen as a rule don't grin easy. The reason for their optimism is the water pressure method of oil recovery. Several of these "injection wells" already have been sunk and the oilmen describe the results as "good" to "excellent." But they are keeping their fingers crossed.

The Oil Springs field embraces several thousand acres of rugged terrain near the Johnson county line on Litteral Fork of Mine Fork which empties into the Licking river.

The Bedrock Petroleum Company, Huntington, W. Va., was the pioneer in the area. Maurice G. Powers, Bedrock, remembers the early days clearly.

"It was on June 20, 1919," he said, "that we brought in the discovery well—the old 'Mill' Wheeler No. 1."

"It was 933 feet deep—into the Weir sand.

"Yes, it was good oil—Somerset grade—about 50 barrels a day."

That started it. Other oil companies entered the field, and before they were through some 2,000 wells had been put down. Bedrock itself, drilled more than 300 of them, and most of them made money. Derricks rose within "spitting" distance of each other.

In the 1920's, however, oil supply rose far above the demand in the nation, prices eased, and then came the crowning blow.

The great East Texas field blew in, glutting the market with a Niagara of crude and sending prices resling down to 10 cents a barrel in that field.

Oil Springs prices, Powers recalled, dipped to 55 cents a barrel and production in the field waned. That was in 1930. Eventually the Oil Springs production came from "stripping"—like the strippings from a milked cow—and few wells produced more than a barrel a day.

That's what Oil Springs production has amounted to until recent years. Three years ago Joe Slagel, of the Cumberland Oil Company, Cleveland, O., came here to take a look at the field. Slagel's father had been active in the original boom. Young Joe made an engineering investigation, liked what he saw, and today is credited by Powers with doing more than any other man to restore production in the field.

Another prime mover in the "secondary recovery" project is H. W. Patterson, Buffalo, N. Y., an independent operator and an expert in the water pressure method.

Patterson is doing some work for Bedrock and the Ashland Oil & Refining Company. Other leaseholders include the Brundred Oil Company, Oil City, Pa., and the Petroleum Exploration Company, Sistersville, W. Va.

The recovery method consists of drilling new wells near the old, injecting water to float the oil and then drawing it off the top. And it works especially well in this field, which is shallow. The average depth of all wells ever drilled in the field is estimated by one expert at 1,100 feet.

How well it has worked or will work in the future is something the oilmen would rather not predict. But one who would not be quoted by name said guardedly that "we might get more oil out of here than they ever got before."

That might mean more than 4,000 barrels a day.

Meantime, Slagel, Patterson and others are minding their business and making no rash predictions.

Slagel, however, has set up headquarters on the L. C. Bailey farm, scene of the original stroke, as if he planned to be around for a while.

6-PASSENGER SEDAN

WHEN YOU TRY POWER STEERING...

HERE'S WHERE TO COME FIRST!

You've heard about it and read about it. Now, if you haven't felt what Power Steering does for you, we invite you to try it first in a Chrysler New Yorker... where you will find full-time (not partial) Power Steering!

What happens is this...

You handle the steering wheel in normal fashion. But 4/5 of all the work is done for you by hydraulic power, constantly at your command. Also, you turn the wheel 1/3 less distance now for every maneuver... the feeling you get of utter control is as wonderful as it is new.

Even at a standstill you can turn the wheel easily. Now, parking is shorn of its troubles (and fatigue!)... and you can negotiate traffic, awkward drives, and garage doors precisely and with ease.

You can double the longest day's drive you've ever known... end up free from arm and shoulder strain. Rough roads, soft shoulders, snow, mud?... the power that helps you steer now prevents the car's wheels from "steering back" at you. The course you set is held, at any speed, till you want it changed. Yet, with this 5-times greater control, "wheel feel" is always the same.

Why not come try it? Learn for yourself why growing thousands of motorists say they'll never be without Full-time Power Steering from now on. Drive a Chrysler... and Learn the Difference!

A majority commented on the marvelous church growth that has taken place since the Wadleys came. Special music was rendered.

The children were presented gifts, while Rev. and Mrs. Wadley received corsages, boutonnières, Sallman's painting, Head of Christ, and a three-tiered cake, surrounded with lilies and ferns and topped with one large lighted candle, from Christian friends. The church also gave them a three-weeks vacation with pay, plus $100 towards expenses.

THE CHILDREN'S LITTLE HILL BECOMES LITTLE HILL PARK

The Betsy Layne 900 Club celebrated the opening of Little Hill Park to the public, June 6, with Pikeville Main by giving a wiener roast.

This park of five-eighths of an acre adjoins the southern limits of the Betsy Layne school campus. It contains 52 large trees and adds a picturesque scene to the school and campus. The grounds, the grill and the picnic table were paid for this year from the school activity fund, and the total cost was $320. A deed for the park was procured in the name of the Floyd County Board of Education. Several groups of school children enjoyed picnics at the park during the last week of school. Every person who attended a basketball game during the school year and every child who purchased pictures from the school, or had a coke at school, contributed toward the fund that made it possible to establish the park.

For many years the children of the community have enjoyed playing under the large trees on what they called "The Little Hill." So their name for the spot was adopted when it became a park—Little Hill Park.

The public is invited to visit the park and to enjoy its accommodations.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear son, Paul Edward Salyer, who passed away eight years ago, June 1, 1944. By Mrs. Earl Salyer.

We have a son now in glory Whom our hearts doth long to see; How we loved his precious memory When with us he used to be.

We think of you in silence, Paul Edward, And your name we so often recall; We need no aid to remember, Only your picture on the wall.

You are gone but not forgotten, Comes another year in our lonely hours; Thoughts of you are always near.

Days of sadness will come over us, Friends will think the wound is healed, But they little know the sorrow that lies within our hearts.

Father, Mother, two brothers and one sister. 1t.
