BETSY LAYNE CHAPTER
By Orville Hiall, Reporter

Our chapter has been of service to the school and community in the following ways:

The Betsy Layne Chapter of Future Farmers of America, sensing the need for more wholesome recreation in our community, prepared a softball field just above the grade school building. The field was filled in and leveled with hoes and shovels at first. As a final touch, the field was dragged and rolled and then marked off with lime. The field has been named "Yankee Stadium," in honor of the world champion New York Yankees baseball team. A huge sign bearing the words, "Yankee Stadium," can be seen near the top of the screened backstop.

2. Our chapter has constructed two picnic tables for use by the public. One of these tables is being kept near Banner, on U. S. Highway 23. The other table is being placed on the school picnic grounds at Betsy Layne for the convenience of the school and the community. We also plan to construct a barbecue pit at this location soon.

3. Our chapter built three sewing tables, a dozen rack and utility shelves for the Home Economics department of Betsy Layne high school.

4. Our chapter built a combination revolving bulletin board and blackboard for the Betsy Layne Methodist church.

5. The chapter has served as a school repair crew, repairing door locks, plumbing and water fixtures, electrical appliances and sockets, broken window panes, and various other jobs around the school.

6. The chapter has assisted in the interior painting of the high school building. A large portion of the painting was done by our members.

7. The chapter installed playground equipment for the grade school. The equipment consisted of swings, parallel bar, and see-saws.

8. Our chapter has pruned trees and made several soil tests for farmers in the community.

Farm NEWS and VIEWS

By HAROLD B. RICE, Floyd County Agent

Now is a good time to prune grapes and fruit trees. The danger of severe freezing weather is past and any part of the vine or tree that has been winter killed can be cut out. Grapes will not bleed as much if they are pruned on a cold day. However, there is not any proof that bleeding is harmful to the vine anyway.

Vigorous growth of a newly set vine is promoted by removing all canes but the strongest and cutting that back two or three buds. If only moderate growth has developed the prevailing practice is to cut back the vine again severely, leaving only two or three strong buds on the best cane. These produce shoots that will be used the following year to form the permanent trunk of the mature vine.

There are many different systems of pruning grapes and they all have the same purpose in mind, namely, to so distribute the vine, so it will be easier to spray the vine so that it can be protected from insects and diseases, and to make the fruit mature properly and be easier to gather.

Most of the vines in this country are old tangled vines. The best way I know to prune them is to cut each cane back to two buds. If there are more than two trunks one of them can be cut out completely.

Bold Ideas make Hudson today's best car!

Idea! Give Hudson owners the most road-able cars ever built by putting Hudson's base frame outside the passenger compartment and recessing the floor down within the frame. Thus, Hudson "step-down" design permits lowering the entire car to give America's lowest center of gravity.

RESULT: A ride that's out of this world!

Idea! Bring Hudson owners the industry's most alert power. Step up compression with advanced, simplified design. Install oversize bearings, reinforced crankcase. Increase lubricating and cooling areas. Electronically balance engines after assembly.

RESULT: Performance Unlimited and stock-car championship for the Hudson Hornet!

Idea! Build Hudsons so they outlast any other car. Make Hudson's body and frame all in one steel Monobilt unit with 5,906 permanent welds. Use high-alloy metals throughout, such as chrome-alloy cylinder blocks—the toughest in the industry—for longest engine life.

RESULT: Hudsons stay young longest.

Standard trim and other specifications and accessories subject to change without notice.

Idea! Provide safety beyond anything known in motor cars. Take Hudson's lowest center of gravity—a big safety factor—add box-section steel girders completely surrounding the passenger compartment, even outside the rear wheels. Add to this the industry's only hydraulic brakes with a reserve mechanical system on the same pedal.

RESULT: America's safest car!

Idea! Develop the newest in hardtop styling for sedans as well as coupes. Increase glass area to provide the open look of a hardtop. (No loss of rigidity, thanks to Hudson's Monobilt body-and-frame*). Design gleaming bright-work and further enhance Hudson's brand-new styling.

*Trade-mark and patents pending

RESULT: Hudson-Aire Hardtop Styling at standard sedan and coupe prices.

Pike Miner Killed, 2nd Seriously Hurt

Pikeville, Ky., March 20.—A coal miner was killed and another injured seriously early today in a slate fall at Lookout, on Marrowbone Creek in Pike county.

Francis M. Bowling, 25, a slate man, died almost instantly. W. O. Bevins, 40, a coal loader, suffered a broken ankle and injured back. He was taken to Methodist hospital here.

The men were employed at the Semet Solvay Division Henry Clay No. 2 Mine.

Bowling's death was the eighth mine fatality this year in the Big Sandy-Tug River area.

Beaver Valley Club's 2nd Anniversary Observed

The Kiwanis Club of Beaver Valley celebrated its second anniversary with an inter-club meeting Monday evening, March 17, at the Wheelwright Community Hall. Visiting Kiwanians and their ladies from Prestonsburg, Pikeville and Jenkins were present.

Speaker of the evening was Rev. Hayden Igleheart, of Jenkins. Special music was furnished by The Islanders, of Wheelwright.

Co-Op Members Make Use of Organization

Southern States Cooperative patrons made the greatest use of their organization in its history during the first six months of the 1951-52 fiscal year. R. G. Roop, director, Petroleum Services, of Richmond, told members at their recent annual regional board meeting in Paintsville.

Dollar volume was up over $9,000,000 to $92,000,000 for the first six months, Roop reported.

"A higher price level accounts for some of the increase," Roop said, "but the substantial growth reflects, for the most part, increased use by farmers of their organizations services."

Approximately 50 members of local boards and advisory boards attended the meeting. Floyd members attending were Odgen Stewart, Homer Neely, and Wallace Calhoun, all of Prestonsburg; Joe Hunter and Harry Baldridge, both of Cliff; Billie Merritt, Bonanza; J. L. Gunnells, Emma.

Eastman Foley of Russell county produced cockerels which weighed 3 1-4 pounds at eight weeks on seven pounds of feed; they are the Arbor Acre White Rock Cross variety.

It is estimated that 40,000 chicks will be brooded as broilers this year in Elliott county.

Not Sensational—and Not Bad

THERE was nothing of the sensational about the late session of the General Assembly, but it achieved some good which overbalances its sins of omission or commission.

Definitely guided by Governor Wetherby, the Assembly enacted a registration and purgation law which a previous session had fumbled, whether intentionally or otherwise. This was a move forward in the field of good government and honest elections.

The Governor's interest in humanitarian problems was reflected in the creation of a Youth Authority in the Department of Welfare and a new Department of Mental Health. The problem of alcoholics also received state attention, as it should.

On the debit side of the ledger is the Assembly's refusal to enact legislation which would force strip-mining firms to repair damage to the soil done by their operations, or to pay a forfeit. The bond required was not high, its payment would not have been ruinous as argued by those caring more for private earnings than the public good, and the task of rehabilitating bulldozed ground would have been for them no greater than that already undertaken voluntarily by some responsible operators.

The Legislature was probably prodigal with public funds as it raised official salaries, and gave some county officers higher fees, beginning with January 1, 1954, at the expense of individuals involved in litigation. Sheriffs, for instance, will be paid seven cents a mile for serving papers on litigants in both civil and criminal cases, this cost to be borne by the parties to the action. But the solution to all such matters affecting officials and the public can never be satisfactorily adjusted until the venal fee system is abolished.

Neither the Legislature nor the Governor can attain the ideal of being all things to all men. Some of us cannot but be irked by random bits of legislation. But, on the whole, Kentucky did not suffer at the hands of these elected representatives of the people.

And, let this not be forgotten—the Assembly adjourned in broad daylight, without the usual saturnalia.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Times:

We would like for you to make a correction in your paper concerning the death of Betty Jo Hall which was caused from bacteria anemia, or better-known as an infection in the blood stream, and not from spinal meningitis as was stated; also that the Hall family was found by Clyde Howard, a nearby neighbor who was en route to the hospital with Dianna Hall and stopped at the home of relatives and asked them to go to the Hall home as he had found them all unconscious. It was later discovered that they had all been overcome by carbon monoxide.

Former McDowell Star Is Leader in Net Game With Uncle Sam's Team

Those who remember the basketball feats of "Wild Bill" Stumbo while he was a member of the McDowell high school five will not be surprised by news coming out of Berlin where Stumbo plays regularly at center with the First Battalion Cavaliers and, on occasion, with the Sixth Infantry Gators.

His most recent feat was to score 44 points, biggest individual score in one game played in the Berlin area.

The sports page of a recent edition of the Berlin Observer, service newspaper, is approximately one-half Stumbo. One photo shows Stumbo, playing with Gators, shooting a long one to lead the team with 22 points to score a 67-63 win over the 603rd AC&W Squadron Interceptors.

Writing in The Observer's Sport Scope column, Doug Robinson said of the former McDowell athlete:

"This week the spotlight falls upon a gentleman who is currently holding down the center slot on the 1st Bn. Cavaliers, Bill Stumbo by name. One of the best hook shot artists in the city and a top ball handler, Bill is the most outstanding player on the Cavalier squad and, despite their fourth-place standings, is the man who has been responsible for most of their victories. . . So far this year he has averaged 17 points per game. . ."

Stumbo is a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Stumbo, of McDowell. He played one semester as a freshman at Morehead State College, then quit school and later entered the army, arriving in Berlin last August.

TIMES WANT ADS PAY

the artistry of Cord's or his father's hand, gaze out over the palings in unnumbered thousands woven into a neat fence, and after you are told the old, old methods of farming that are adhered to, you know that a man can live by this method and live well, like our ancestors lived.

Therein lies a story—you might say, two stories. One is about Cord and his way of life. The other is about the two daughters, now grown, who knew of their father's struggle to live, and in loyalty turned away their suitors and remained with him.

Cord was born in 1889, the son of James and Mary Jane Ross Lewis. They were of pioneer stock, these two. Squire Lewis and his father, John, were early settlers of Floyd. Joshua Ross, of Smith county, Virginia, had come to Sandy, long before the Civil War, so long before that he had traded a vast bottom in northern Pike county for a rifle gun. James Lewis lived to be very old, dying at the venerable age of 96. He could remember the Civil War.

Cord Lewis married Lucy Conn in 1922, and remained, he and the young wife, under the parental roof. Two girls were born to them—Nealy Jane, in 1925; Mary Belle, born in 1929. Mary Belle was less than two years old when her mother died in 1931. The grandmother helped her son assume the burden of rearing his two daughters but she succumbed in a few months, dying in August, the same year.

Some men faced with tragedy find solace in despair. Cord Lewis found it in work—work to rear his children and to care for his invalid father who became ill and remained so for years, before he died in 1944. When he talks about the struggle, a hint of an easier burden for him it could have been if those who were able to help had aided him. But they had not and he looks back with no rancor. "Some had money, too, and they could have helped. I did not ask, and now I'm glad".

His people had been hard-working tillers of the soil. Their tools were of their own fashioning, their methods, bequeathed by his ancestors, were the ones he knew how to implement and use. He continued their use, even until today.

He raises their own food. He, with the help of his daughters, produces all of the many and varied foods necessary for their table, except for those few items bought even by our ancestors. He will take you down into a deep cellar and you can see the neat rows of canned fruits and vegetables put in the glass jars by his daughters. He will show you a stone apple kiln where the farm surplus of apples are dried for winter use. There is corn in the crib and hay in the barn, hay cut by hand with a scythe and the exertion of his own back.

There will be a step into the work-shop where he has an old "turning" lathe which he and his father made. It is a weird tangle of wheels, treadles, belts and cutting knives. He will assure you that it is simple in operation but you suspect that the simplicity come from long familiarity and use. This lathe furnishes a major part of his income. He makes chairs, beds and other furniture, that has a demand in trade. The chairs, as yet unfinished but beautifully "turned", are in another building. They have no bottoms, for he must wait until spring when hickory bark will peel "after the sap comes up". People will come and carry them away in twos and fours, or a merchant will contract for all of them.

As you wend your way back to the house, from the work shop or barn, you see a flock of chickens, an apirary, cows, a bull, pigs, a sweet potato "bed", where he imbeds the seed to grow plants and sell.

In the house, if you are accompanied by a feminine companion, the daughters will smilingly show you the beds their father made, not from lumber but from the raw hand-riven walnut of the farm woods.

You look at them and for a moment there is no talk. They wait for your judgment and you are slow to praise that which has no need. They are of solid walnut, with uprights like a Jenny Lind and with four posts, perfectly "turned" and solid like their builder. If you indicate a desire to purchase, there is a hasty, laughing refusal. They are not for sale, just ask those girls.

If you have an interest in quilts and "piecing," out will come quilt patterns like our grandmothers made. The Drunkard's Trail, Flower Garden, Wedding Ring, Eouquet and several patterns of the Star quilt. They will throw out more until you lose some of the names, but you remember Nine Patch, Broken Window, Star of Bethlehem and designs of the Basket.

Here Cord will ask if you know where he can find some cotton seed, as the girls want to quilt some more and they would like to raise their own batting.

"This was grandmother's," a girl will say. "This is the Tree of Paradise".

Before you go, sit before the ancient hearthstone and talk with Cord of the past. Upstairs is his great-grandmother's spinning wheel. It is a small wheel and has a treadle, for great-grandmother Mahala Lewis Stratton, wife of Tandy R., was a cripple. She could not stand and spin because of her infirmity. Back in the corner is what we of the present might call a "what-not" shelf but Cord's mother or grandmother made it from spoils, slowly collected over the years. And speaking of his grandmother, Jane Ross, he will recall the circumstances of her death. She was going up Mare Creek, late in the day. Near dark, John Crum, a young man, came along and found her. She was lying in the road—dead. Before she had died she had pulled off her slat bonnet and carefully folded it under her head.

When you leave you have learned. Learned of a warm hospitality, a filial loyalty and parental care like something out of the Old Testament. You have learned, too, that a man can live like our forefathers lived and that he can live well. But, best of all, you have learned of those who have a great content with things as they were.

The bills passed today, if finally approved by Governor Wetherby would provide substantial fee increases for sheriffs and enable them to hire people to whom the jobs were promised.

Salaries of sheriffs are limited by the constitution to $7,200 a year. But the measure approved today lists their new fees as expenses, not salary.

Kentucky leaders in agriculture, business, government and industry will make the tour to observe progress in developing good pastureland. A similar tour last year went through western Kentucky.

RESERVATIONS AVAILABLE
 Ward announced that reservations are available at all State Parks, despite rumors that have been circulated that some of the parks are booked up for the vacation season. He said he had heard reports that the new Kenlake Hotel at Kentucky Lake State Park was full but that, actually, only a few reservations have been made.

REES REPORTS
 "Failure of a law enforcement official to act when he has knowledge of law violations is not to be excused on the ground public sentiment is opposed to enforcement or apathetic on the subject," former Appellate Judge William H. Rees said in a recent sheriff's ouster case filed with the Secretary of State's office.

Rees sat by special designation of Governor Wetherby to hear the ouster proceedings against former Sheriff W. W. Brackett, Henderson. When Brackett resigned, the action closed the case. This week Wetherby filed the record with the Secretary of State in which Rees recommended ouster of the sheriff. "It is the duty of a sheriff to enforce laws or make an honest effort to do so, regardless of sentiment," the former Judge observed in response to suggestions that convictions were difficult to obtain in gambling cases in Henderson county.

DEPOSIT MADE
 The State Property and Buildings Commission has placed $62,800 in a Park City, Ky., bank to buy three tracts of land for a new road to Mammoth Cave National Park on condition it remains on deposit to pay for options if a lawsuit filed in Franklin Circuit Court holds that state moneys may legally be spent for the purpose.

The options were procured by Mammoth Cave National Park Association. The law suit contends the proposed appropriation is invalid.

BUTLER, DAVIDSON NAMED
 Governor Wetherby named State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell P. Butler and Dr. Philip G. Davidson, president of the Southern Regional Education Board. The Governor is an ex-officio member of the body, while Butler and Davidson succeed to positions formerly held by Wetherby and former State Superintendent of Public Instruction Boswell B. Hodgkin.

Exam for Applicants For Social Work Set At P'Burg, April 5th

A competitive examination to procure social workers for the Division of Public Assistance of the State Department of Economic Security will be given at Prestonsburg high school Saturday, April 5, at 8 a.m. Workers chosen through the examination will fill present and future vacancies in this Public Assistance district, which includes Floyd, Pike, Martin, Magoffin and Johnson counties, Robert L. Veazey, acting Merit System supervisor for the state, said in announcing the exam. A vacancy now exists in Johnson County.

Starting pay for the jobs is $180 a month, plus travel expenses. Persons wishing to take the examination may obtain application blanks at their local State Employment Service Office, Public Assistance Office, School Superintendent's Office or at the examination center at the time the test is given.

Applicants must be high school graduates and must have completed two years of college or two years of paid employment in a job requiring intimate contact with the public or a two-year combination of both.

They also must be under 50 years of age unless they have had full-time, paid experience in social work.

Veterans will receive a five-point preference on the examination and veterans with a disability will get a ten-point preference. Qualifying applicants will get preference for vacancies in their home counties. Workers are required to travel and must have the use of an automobile.

The steel industry used 105 million tons of bituminous coal in 1951—an all-time power output.

Kentucky Businessmen To Hear Schuschnigg, Successor of Dolfuss

LOUISVILLE, KY., Mar. 21 (Spl.) —Dr. Kurt Von Schuschnigg, former Chancellor of Austria, will be the principal speaker at the dinner session of the annual meeting and Congress of Kentucky Business to be held at the Brown hotel, Louisville, April 3, Sheridan C. Barnes, Elizabethtown, president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, announced this week.

An internationally-known statesman and authority on world affairs, Dr. von Schuschnigg became Chancellor of Austria after the assassination of Dolfuss in 1934. He was one of the heroes of World War II, having been imprisoned by the Nazis from 1933 to 1945 when he was released by the Allied advance.

Speaking on "The Challenge from Abroad," Dr. von Schuschnigg will discuss the present world situation and the international problems resulting from the cold war between Communism and the democracies.

At the luncheon session of the State Chamber's annual meeting Arch Booth, executive vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Washington, will speak on "The Challenge at Home," reviewing the domestic problems and issues confronting business and the general public in the national level.

A. B. "Happy" Chandler, former Governor of Kentucky and recent Baseball Commissioner, will headline the afternoon program, discussing "The Challenge to Kentucky." A panel of five leading Kentuckians will comprise a forum session on the subject, "Kentucky Meets the Challenge" and the Sloan Foundation's new television film, "Opportunity Unlimited," will round out the afternoon session.

"This annual meeting is not restricted to members," Barnes said, "but as its name implies—the Congress of Kentucky Business—it is open to all businessmen and their friends in the Commonwealth."

TIMES WANT ADS PAY

1952 ASSEMBLY FOLLOWED MIDDLE-OF-ROAD COURSE

By TOM SMITH

Kentucky's 1952 General Assembly held a middle-of-the-road course on political philosophy with business and agricultural influence making its felt through the session.

Notable during the General Assembly ended last week was that there were no measures approved which were seriously opposed by either business or agriculture.

Chief among those beaten measures was the Stovall Bill which took a sound defeat in the House of Representatives. Subsequent labor-endorsed bills which were passed were considered innocuous or were agreed measures worked out in labor-management conferences.

Educators considered approval of a constitutional amendment by the legislature the first step toward vast improvement in the state's school system. The measure provides for a vote on the amendment in November which would authorize the General Assembly to revise the method of distributing the state common school fund to the school districts.

Hard fought by the school people was a measure which sets December 31 as the birthdate deadline for school entry for six-year-old children. Under a 1950 law, a child could not enter school if his sixth birthday occurred after September 1. The new law allows the six-year-old child to start school in September if his birthday is before December 31.

Another approved constitutional amendment which will be submitted to the people for vote in November would create an appointive gubernatorial cabinet. It changes from elective to appointive the offices of state treasurer, secretary of state, superintendent of public instruction, clerk of the court of appeals and commissioner of agriculture.

Some school people fear that this "short ballot" measure may hurt the chances of the education amendment in the November election.

Much of the legislation voted in the 1952 session was of the "house keeping" variety and won quick approval. These were such measures as appropriations to maintain state functions and to grant pay increases for employees in keeping with living cost increases. Sheriffs came in for some pay boosts in three measures approved by the House on the final day.

Of major import was the redistricting bill cutting the State's nine congressional districts to eight. There was no serious threat to passage of the measure as proposed by the Wetherby administration.

The administration held control of both Houses throughout the session, although one pet measure of Governor Wetherby, the "strip mining bill" was killed in the Senate Rules Committee.

Disposal of administration matters permitted an early windup of the 1952 session on the 60th legislative day.

Governor Wetherby frequented the legislative chambers more than any Kentucky governor has in recent years, and his presence had the effect of strengthening the leadership of both Houses.

The wet-dry issue never came to a vote, although effort was made on the part of some drys to inject the issue into a bill to allow the sale of alcoholic beverages at race tracks.

This bill was to correct an oversight in a previous measure calling for revocation of liquor licenses of places where gambling is found.

WAYLAND

JUNIOR WOMEN MEET

The regular meeting of the Wayland Junior Women's Club was held in the home of Mrs. Jack Hammet, Monday evening, March 17. Mrs. Edgar DeCoursey presided. Mrs. DeCoursey read the requirements of a 100 per cent club and a discussion followed as to what the club needed to do in order to attain that high standing. There was a report that Misses Anna Belle Falin and Fay Petry would attend the state convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Cincinnati, in June. Mrs. Hermon Harmon reported that reservations had been made for Mrs. Roy Martin to attend the national convention at Minneapolis.

Miss Anna Belle Falin gave her report on the "caution" light the club is trying to obtain to help solve the traffic problem of Wayland. Members also voted to send their orphan at the Beulah Heights Orphanage an Easter gift, and to change the meeting hour to 7:30 p.m.

A dessert course was served to Mesdames Henry Fuhs, Dee Sherman, Charles Adkins, Herman Harmon, Ralph Wright, Edgar DeCoursey, Roy Martin, Misses Anna Belle Falin, Fay Petry, and Hostess Mrs. Jack Hammet.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Edgar DeCoursey, Monday evening, April 7.

SOIL CONSERVATION

By L. R. JOHNSON
Silt Conservation Service

Charles L. Akers, of Prater Creek, has had a wet field for all these years. Last week, Mr. Akers' two sons, Curtis and Clarence, put in 400 feet of tile. Less than 24 hours later, the wetness disappeared. The field looks dry now, and the family is pleased with the job.

The grade lines were staked by the Soil Conservation district.

Floyd county farmers who have tile on the field and who will through its use change their wet land to dry in the near future are:

Ransom Greer, near Bonanza; Joe Hicks, Blue River; Therman Newman, Grethal, and Grats Elkins, Little Point.

Floyd County Times, March 27, 1952—Sec. 2, Page 1

Thirty-seven million tons of bituminous coal will be consumed in the United States during the month of April. According to latest figures, bituminous coal mining is three times safer than in 1930 and twice as fast as it was 10 years ago.
