This Town-- That World

After a recent experience I'm ready to admit an outboard motor won't run far with the gas tank disconnected. It's none of your business how it came to be that way.

CORRECTION

I stand corrected—and how. In this column last week I reported one of my youngsters as saying a chrysalis had opened and that a moth had emerged therefrom.

Soon after the paper arrived at home, my youngster waddled in, in a huff and declaimed in his best Elmer Fudd fashion:

"How could you be so ignorant a moth out of a cysalis—why, don't you know a moth comes out of a cocoon and butterflies out of cysalises? I think you should wretch that statement."

FREE

Perhaps I shouldn't mention such matters, the political pot stewing and blood pressures mounting as they are. But . . . blame it on Dan Goble.

He stepped into Republican headquarters around noon Tuesday, and the boys had coffee 'biling. They gave him a cup, and, returning to Tom Moore's barber shop, he found Tom shaving another Republican, W. A. Willis.

"Go on up to Republican headquarters, fellows, and get a cup of coffee, free," Dan sang out.

"Lord, have they started relief already?" groaned Moore.

TEACHERS GET $9 PAY RAISE

New Salary Schedule Ups Base Pay and Rate Paid for College Work

The pay schedule for Floyd county teachers, approved by the State Department of Education and announced this week by County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner, provides for a raise averaging $9 a month over last year's teacher pay, it was pointed out this week.

The lowest monthly salary any teacher in this county will receive this year will be $152; the highest, $294.90 for teachers who are not coaches or principals.

The salary schedule:
Base salary, $128 a month, an increase of $3 over last year; college credits earned since the last school term, $1.25 per hour up to 10; each other college hour up to 128 college hours and 30 graduate hours, 80 cents; $.50 per year of experience up to eight; coaches, $50 additional per month; supervisors, $5 per teacher up to 20.

The extra pay for college credits and for graduate work is up 5 cents over the 1951-1952 schedule. Emergency teachers are limited to no more than six years in drawing pay for teaching experience, Superintendent Turner said.

LESTER JURY IS DISMISSED 2nd TRIAL SET

Hearing of Policeman Week's Court Feature; Murder Trial Is Next

Although the jury failed of a decision, the trial here Tuesday of Policeman Herschel Lester, of Martin, on a charge of shooting and wounding Ed Hicks, of Martin, featured the week in circuit court. It was a case marked by testimony at wide variance: the Commonwealth's claiming that Hicks was shot "in the back" while running, unarmed, from the officer; that of the defense, as emphatically contending the officer shot Hicks while in the performance of his duty and as Hicks threaten him with a shotgun.

The only eye-witness testifying for the defense was Lester himself. He said that at the direction of the City Council, which has had a special meeting after receiving anonymous letters protesting bootlegging in the community, he began an investigation of various places under suspicion. This probe led him to Hicks' place late in the day. There he said, he saw Hicks sell J. B. Morris a pint of whiskey. He arrested Morris as he emerged from the building, then went inside and told Hicks he would have to search the place.

The search, he testified, uncovered both whiskey and beer, and this he began leading into his car, parked outside. While doing this, his testimony continued, he placed Hicks in the car. On his third trip, to the building for intoxicants he heard Mrs. Hicks and her children begging Ed "to not do that." Then, he said, he saw Hicks come from the house with a gun and go to his (Lester's) car and look inside. As Hicks reached his own car—which, he said, was parked in line with the officer's and that of Hicks' son—he confronted Hicks. When the latter lifted his gun he began firing, he said.

The Commonwealth contended Lester made two trips to Hick's place, but the defense denied this. It pointed to three bullet holes in the auto of Hicks' son as confirming Lester's claim Hicks was at his car when the shooting began rather than running in his yard, near the corner of his home, as claimed by the prosecution. The bullet struck Hicks in his side, slightly behind the side shirt seam, the defense contended.

Not only Hicks, who was critically

NO REASON FOR ALARM

Says Fisheries Head After Study of Tests Made at Dewey Lake

There is nothing wrong with fishing in Dewey Lake that's not wrong with lakes all over the country—take the word of Minor Clark, director of the division of Fisheries, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, for it.

Mr. Clark wrote E. R. Burke, Prestonsburg, supervisor of the Seventh conservation district, last week that he had gone over the report on Dewey Lake submitted to him by Bernard Carter, fish biologist adding, "and I can find nothing whatsoever to be alarmed at."

His statement was made after Mr. Burke had pressed the Department for action in the matter of the reservoir in response to public demand. Tests of the lake, the public had been told unofficially, had not shown satisfactory propagation of game fish. But, wrote Mr. Clark: "Bass reproduction was very good, as was bluegill and crappie. As is the case in other similar impoundments, bluegills are increasing a little faster than I would like to see them do. However, the total number present as compared with the rest of the population is not too much out of line. That same might be said for crappie."

Of rough fish Mr. Clark said: "The carp situation is not serious to my way of thinking at present. Shad are a bit numerous but not over-abundant yet. Even so, I sincerely doubt that the shad population is as high as the report gives. For some reason shad seem to be attracted by rotenone and thus swim into the area being treated, causing the number killed to exceed that normally living within a particular section. Channel, flathead and yellow bullheads are spawning in the lake and seems to be doing very well." He commented that propagation of carp is low.

Body of Rev. Howell, Mine Victim, Buried In Auxier Cemetery

Burial of the Rev. W. H. Howell, 45, minor-minister, who was instantly killed in a slatefall at Ottawa, W. Va., Sept. 15, was made at Auxier last Wednesday.

The victim was a son of Farmer Howell, formerly of Betsy Layne, who now resides near Pikeville. He was a minister of the Freewill Baptist Church and was widely known in this section.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Louise Akers Howell, his father, four children, John Norman, of the air force in Texas, William Howard and Jean, all of Ottawa, two sisters, Mrs. Dock Duncan and Mrs. Laura Thomas, both of Chattanooga, Tenn., and two brothers, Ballard Howell, Dayton, O., and Charles Howell, Pikeville.

Attending the funeral at Ottawa from this county were his mother-in-law, Mrs. Octavia Akers, Mrs. Tom Moore, Mrs. Ethel Hall, Marvin and Denver Akers, Mrs. Lucille Tackett and Henry Goble.

MOORE SUES ON PAY CUT

Asks Court Decision As to His Rights As Teacher in Schools

Gordon Moore, former assistant director of instruction in the Floyd county school system, late Wednesday afternoon filed suit in circuit court against the Floyd County Board of Education to determine his rights as a teacher in the Martin high school to the same salary he received until July 1 of this year in his former post.

Moore's petition, prepared by the law firm of Combs & Combs, points out that he was nominated by outgoing Superintendent Palmer L. Hall last June for his old post as assistant director of instruction at a salary of $4,158 for 12 months' work and was unanimously hired by the Board but that his salary was not fixed. Upon the beginning of Superintendent Virgil O. Turner's tenure of office July 1 he was transferred to a teaching position at Martin which, according to the new salary schedule, will pay him $2,415.63 for nine months' work.

The plaintiff contends that Kentucky Revised Statute 161.760 provides no reduction in salary below that of 1951-1952. He claims that the reduction in salary "is the sole result of politics and is being used against him to suppress his political beliefs and his right to assert same."

Moore a former Ohio high school coach and principal for three years, holds A. B. and M. A. degrees in Educational Administration and Supervision and has done a part of the work required for a Doctor's degree in Education from Ohio State University.

He said that he had asked State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Wendell P. Butler and the State Board of Education to investigate at their Sept. 26 meeting his charges of nepotism in the Floyd county school system and to void the 1952-53 Floyd county salary schedule.

KNOTT COUNTY REMITTS $2,009

Is Word Given League By Turner; New Plan Formed for Schools

County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner this week wrote Stacy Salisbury, of the Floyd County Good Government Taxpayers League, that matters the League had suggested for attention last week had either been settled or were in process of being settled.

Mr. Turner explained that in past years the Knott County Board of Education had paid two teachers in the Wayland consolidated school as a consideration for permitting Knott county pupils to attend the school and that it last year agreed to pay the salary of one teacher at the Lackey school for the same reason. Under this agreement Knott county's school system was indebted to the Floyd system in the amount of $2,009.25.

"I am glad to inform you that the Knott County Board of Education has now paid the sum mentioned above," Superintendent Turner wrote.

The League last week had written Turner expressing the view that Floyd county was doing more than its share in the operation of these schools.

To the League's reminder that tax collections had not been fully paid the Board, Mr. Turner replied that Ex-Sheriff Troy B. Sturgill has

FLOYD WOMAN PLACES HIGH

In State Recognition Of Community Service; Ft. Thomas Man, Winner

Although she did not win the title of Kentucky's outstanding Community Leader for 1952 at the closing session of the annual Home-Town Meeting at the University of Kentucky Monday night, Mrs. J. D. Mayo, Prestonsburg, Floyd county's nominee for the honor, was so highly considered that she was ranked near the winner, Charles H. Kuhn, city engineer of Fort Thomas.

Mrs. Mayo, the choice of practically every civic and service club in the county, was cited for her services as special tuberculosis nurse and a work which is being watched by other Kentucky counties.

Presentation of a $250 cash award to Kuhn for "distinguished community service" was made to the Fort Thomas official by Governor Lawrence W. Wetherby. Harry W. Schacter of Louisville donated the award.

The award presentation climaxed the annual Home-Town dinner in the University's Student Union Building at which 11 nominees for the cash award were special guests. Communities throughout Kentucky nominated the candidates for the award with the final selection made by nine residents of Kentucky.

Other community leaders introduced by Dr. Leo M. Chambers, vice-president of the university, were: Regina Bitts Mayo, Prestonsburg; Mrs. Dixie Lucas Rose, of Jackson; William Slusher of Pineville; James Fred Pace of Marrowbone; Calvin H. Lisman of Dixon; Edward Riehm of Dayton; H. Barkus Gray of Bowling Green; Mrs. K. E. Rapp, of Glasgow; Clarence Herron of Providence, and C. Royden McCollom, Jr., of Henderson.

SCHOOL RACE NOW CERTAIN

As Opposition Files In Three Divisions; 2 Unopposed Here

Events of Saturday, the last day for registration of candidates for office, guaranteed a get-out-the-vote movement over a wide section of this county as races developed for three places on the Floyd County Board of Education.

In Prestonsburg, however, it was a different story. Tom Graham Dingus and H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., candidates to fill two coming vacancies as the terms of Dr. O. T. Stephens and Sam Hatcher expire, are without opposition.

The County Board election lineup after Saturday's filing deadline is:

Education Division No. 3—John M. Stumbo, Jr., opposed by Oscar Bush; Division 5—J. E. Campbell, present member of the Board, opposed by Ralph Johnson; Division 4—Dr. W. D. Osborne, candidate for re-election, with W. D. McCown as his opponent.

Stumbo, Dr. Osborne and Campbell had earlier announced and are candidates favoring the present school administration.

Total of $112 Levied On Man Who Confessed Unemployment Fraud

Emmitt Howell was fined $10 and costs by a county court jury Monday on each of seven counts alleging he received unemployment benefits while employed. He previously had entered a plea of guilty to the charges and had executed $7,000 bond. Howell also had agreed when originally booked in the case to repay the Division of Unemployment Insurance $196 illegally obtained.

Club Heads 'Lite-a-Bike' Drive

A movement which began with the Junior Chamber of Commerce in White Bear, Minn., has spread to Prestonsburg as the Kiwanis Club here is taking steps to prevent the growing nighttime accident toll of bicyclists.

The "Lite-a-Bike" campaign here offers Prestonsburg children "Scotchlite" reflective tape for their bicycles which becomes brilliantly visible to motorists at night when headlight beams strike its surface. With white Scotchlite on the handlebars and front fork and red on the rear fender, bicycles are plainly visible at long distances at night. The Kiwanis Club has enough of the tape to equip 100 bicycles.

Prestonsburg youngsters are being asked to bring their bicycles to the Playground, between 1 and 3 p.m., Saturday, when the reflective tape will be placed on their cycles. No charge—it's all on the Kiwanis Club, said Glenn S. Anderson, chairman of the Club's Lite-a-Bike committee.

Former Police Chief At Henderson, Texas Heart Ailment Victim

Will H. Powers, well-known Prestonsburg man, died at the age of 81 Wednesday morning at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, W. Va., where he was taken for treatment recently for a heart condition from which he had suffered for the last few years.

Widely related in this section, Mr. Powers was well-known in Texas where he was chief of police at Henderson for 10 years and also a theatre-operator. He was the first store manager for the now-defunct North-East Coal Company at Auxier.

A native of Magoffin county, he was a son of John and Adeline May Powers. He was a member of the Missionary Baptist Church and of the Masonic Order to the degree of Knights Templar. He was married in 1896 to Miss Nora Dingus, daughter of Former State Senator Wm. Dingus and the late Mrs. Dingus, of Prestonsburg. She preceded him in death two years ago. Mr. Powers moved to Texas in 1917 and resided there until the death of his wife.

RALLY SLATED HERE TUESDAY

As Part of Nationwide Program Marking New Version of the Bible

Rev. R. L. Anderson, director of Big Sandy Larger Parish of the Methodist Church, will speak at the community Bible rally scheduled here, Sept. 30 at 7:30 p.m. His address will be based upon the theme of the Bible observance: "The Word of Life in Living Language."

The community rally, one of 3,000 such meetings to be held across the country, is being sponsored by the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association. The meeting will be held in the grade school auditorium.

Purposes of the observance have been defined as:

1. To deepen the religious life of the people and to prepare the way for a mighty revival of religion, as we remember the central place of the Bible in every spiritual movement of the Christian church and especially in the historic life of Protestantism.
 2. To encourage a wider reading and study of the Bible in homes and churches in order that its teachings may become a constant guide for daily living.
 3. To make communities more aware of their basic unity in the common heritage, purpose and religious idealism of the Bible.
 4. To inform citizens of the United States and Canada about the Revised Standard Version of the Bible.
 5. To honor, both before the church people of the two countries and the general public, those who have given themselves faithfully to painstaking work of translation.
 6. To celebrate the completion of the Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible as a historical moment in the great tradition of translating the Bible into the people's language.
- Other highlights of the observance will be singing by a community choir under the direction of Mrs. Chalmers H. Frazier, and the presentation of five copies of the new version to persons locally selected for this recognition.
- The public is invited to share in the observance.

LIST OF IDLE IN FLOYD-CO. IS SHRINKING

Pick-Up of Mine Work, Shift of Population Are Seen As Causes

Unemployment in Floyd county has had a pleasing drop, Glenn S. Anderson, head of the Kentucky Employment Service office here, noted this week.

The claim load has dropped from a peak of approximately 1,300 persons six weeks ago to less than 600 as of this week.

Instances of the employment claim are found in empty file boxes at the Employment Service office. A few weeks ago, the community of HI Hat had 16 file boxes averaging 50 cards to the box filled; now there are only two full boxes. Wayland's unemployed had eight file boxes filled; now three serve that community. Prestonsburg had a peak unemployment list of around 500. That figure has dropped to 300.

The claim-load in Johnson county also is down 100 from a peak of 300. The four counties served by the Prestonsburg office—Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin—had approximately 2,000 unemployed six weeks ago, it was said.

The climb in employment is laid, in part, to increased activity of coal mines as stockpiling against possibility of a strike has kept them busy. Then, too, some of this county's unemployed have gone elsewhere to work. At least 150 persons, Mr. Anderson said, have gone to other states within the last month to work in canning plants, but few if any miners are in that group.

BEGIN AUDIT OF OFFICES

'Do Job Right,' Judge Tells Auditing Firm Here Last Thursday

"Do the job right—that's all I ask," County Judge Henry Stumbo told William Cotton, Sr., and accountants of the William Cotton Company, Louisville, upon their arrival here last Thursday to begin the audit of the financial records of eight county officials.

The firm this week had three accountants perusing records over a five-year period. The company's bid for auditing all the records of this period at a cost of not more than $1,250 a year was considered the best offer made by firms asked to submit bids.

Asked which offices are being audited now, the accountants said the work is covering all the offices, with no one office singled out for special attention at this time. The work began in the County Clerk's office, they said, because many records on all the offices are available there.

Accountants at work here, using the office-room of Magistrate J. E. Harris, are William Cotton, Jr., T. H. Dowell and Drexel Hendren.

Unscored-On Cats Win Third; Defeat West Liberty, 26 to 0

Away from home last Friday night for the first time this season, Doc Ferrell's Prestonsburg Black Cats easily defeated a veteran West Liberty high school team, 26 to 0, for their third straight win of the year.

Again the Cat's goal line was unscored, but in the last quarter the Morgan countians came perilously close to doing so. When the Cats took over on downs the ball rested on their one-yard line.

Prestonsburg scored three of its four touchdowns in the first half. Again the last half was marred by frequent Black Cat penalties, and this weakness drew from Coach Ferrell the statement that "We looked worse in the second half than at any time in the last two years." Roughing and outside penalties have cost the Cats heavily in the last half of all their games this year.

The scoring was opened with Dixon's 2-yard run for a marker on a pitch-out from Hughes at quarterback. He scored a second touchdown on a run of about the same distance. A third marker was scored by Shephard who took Hughes' 20-yard pass and carried it 30 yards farther to cross the West Liberty goal. The fourth Prestonsburg touchdown was scored by Johnny Hill, end, when he took Hughes' 45-yard pass. Hughes kicked two extra points in four attempts.

Led by big John Gordon Goble, who played in Friday night's encounter perhaps the best game of his high school career, the Prestonsburg line was too much for West Liberty. Other line stalwarts were Stanley Prater, Johnny Hill, Roxie Grigsby and Whitey Harris.

The team emerged from the game in good condition, but Lowell Hughes, younger brother of Delmer who has played sensationally as a freshman, suffered a broken collar bone Saturday while playing "touch" football.

The Cats go to Elkhorn City Friday night, then are back at home for three games in a row: Jenkins, Oct. 3; Pikeville, Oct. 10, and Louisa, Oct. 17.

MT. ANGLERS SWEEP EVENT

Casters Swamp Rivals In Every Bait-Casting Trial at State Tourney

By E. R. BURKE

The Mountain Anglers of Prestonsburg made a clean sweep of the bait events at the Kentucky State Casting Association tournament held at Harrodsburg, last Saturday and Sunday.

In the three three-eighths ounce accuracy bait event Stuart Stephens was tied with Bob Budd, of Louisville, with a score of 96. Bob Budd for the past 14 years has been a national contender, competing in all distances, fly and bait events, and has won top honors in them all. Despite this, Stuart won over Budd the cast-off by a score of 96 to 95. In the five-eighths ounce Junior Accuracy event David Allen won with a score of 95 with his teammates, Bill Burke and Stuart Stephens, second and third in the order named. In the five-eighths ounce Official Accuracy event Quentin Allen and Glenn Reynolds were high with scores of 96. In the hotly contested cast-off Reynolds won.

In the open skish event Bill Baker Burke and D. G. Veach of Lexington were tied with scores of 70 each. In the cast-off Burke turned the heat on Veach and won with a sizzling score of 80. This won the "MASTERS" patch for Burke. In the three-year history of the K.S.C.A. this "MASTERS" patch has been won by only four K.S.C.A. members and all of them have been Mountain Anglers—Glenn Reynolds, Tom Bunting, David Allen and Bill Baker Burke.

In the team event the Mountain Anglers' team of Bill Baker Burke, David Allen, Stuart Stephens, Quentin Allen and Glenn Reynolds won with a score of 468 to Harrodsburg's 454, Louisville's 450 and Lexington's 434.

The all-tournament team consisted of Bob Budd, Louisville, with 252 points, Bill Baker Burke, Prestonsburg, 245 points, D. G. Veach, Lexington, 244 points, Stuart Stephens, Prestonsburg, 242 points, David Allen, Prestonsburg, 241 points. The all-tournament team was chosen by total scores in the three bait events, skish, three-eighths ounce, accuracy and five-eighths ounce accuracy. The all-tournament team this year is the same as that of 1951 except that David Allen replaced his teammate Robert Bunting, on this year's team.

For the third straight year E. R. Burke and Glenn Reynolds were voted president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the K.S.C.A.

assured the Board he will pay $2,497.81 within the next few weeks and quoted Mr. Sturgill as saying the fiscal court owes him a sum much larger than this and that as soon as the court pays him he in turn will pay the Board. Turner also wrote that Sheriff A. B. Meade has paid the Board $2,335.75 in final settlement of 1950 taxes.

The Superintendent said that he and Board Member J. E. Campbell, of Garrett, some time ago met with Knott County Superintendent Beckham Combs and a member of the Knott County Board of Education. At this meeting the problem of how the Wayland and Lackey schools could be equitably handled was discussed. The Floyd school officials proposed that Knott county pay tuition for its pupils attending the two schools instead of paying teacher salaries, as under the present arrangement.

Since that meeting Mr. Turner has received a letter from Superintendent Combs saying that the Knott board prefers to pay tuition after this year.

BLOODY SCENE
The scene of the bloodiest Indian massacre in Kentucky's history now is a part of Levi Jackson State Park near London.

SPORTS AFIELD
By TED KESTING

"When they're not on top they're usually on the bottom. If you can't catch them within a few inches of the surface, you might as well start dragging the rocks." That's what Dan Holland remarked to Ted Trueblood several years ago, and after a good deal of research and experimenting, Ted reports it's true in an article titled, "Skip the Middle."

This adage applies almost 99 per cent of the time, he thinks. The reason is pretty obvious. Hatching aquatic insects pause on the surface and are vulnerable there. Land-born insects such as grasshoppers, bees and flies float for a long time. Bass and pike find frogs, mice and other food on top of the water. On the other hand, when there is nothing on the surface most trout food comes from the bottom. All nymphs live there and they make up the larger portion of the diet of all trout in all streams. Trout-stream minnows, such as sculpins and baby suckers, hide under the stones on the bottom. In bass waters crawfish and hellgrammits live on the bottom. Minnows hide there among the rubble and in aquatic vegetation. Small fish of all kinds find shelter on or close to the bottom much of the time.

So what do we do? We start fishing the top because it's more fun to catch trout on a dry fly or a bass on a bug or a floating plug. If we don't get them we start fishing deeper. I've wasted hundreds of hours of valuable fishing time that way, but I no longer think that it is absolutely backward from the best procedure.

We can fish top-water first, of course, but when we can't get them there we should start dragging the bottom immediately rather than wasting time on the water between. If we don't find fish on the bottom, three still will be time to work the middle depth—but that great volume of water usually holds the fewest game fish because it has the least food.

Incidentally, there is quite a distinction between merely fishing deep and fishing the bottom. You could row out to the middle of the lake and fish for lake trout at a depth of 80 feet. You'll be fishing deep, but you still might not have your lure on the bottom. Even on a trout stream there is a lot of difference between deep fishing and bottom fishing. You can roll a nymph along the bottom in 18 inches of water or you can sink it five times as deep in a still pool. Most of the time the rifle will be better.

Cumberland Lake Dock, Concession Operators Say Business in Peril

Somerset, Ky., Sept. 21—Cumberland Lake dock and concession operators report they are suffering from a lack of business that has placed their survival in jeopardy.

At the same time, they said, the finances of seven counties have been gravely affected. The counties depend on dock revenue to compensate for loss of taxable land when the lake was built.

Fritz Krueger, president of the Cumberland Lake Dock Owners' Association said the operators were considering proposals to ask the cooperation of the state and federal governments "to help us get more business and a better break for the counties."

He said there were nine franchise dock and concession operators on the lake with investments ranging from $30,000 to $150,000.

The operators pay an average of about 12 per cent of their gross income to the government and three-fourths of this is returned to the taxing districts of the counties.

Counties affected are Russell, Pulaski, Laurel, McCreary, Wayne, Clinton and Whitley.

Krueger said only about 20 per cent of the available recreation facilities of the dock concessionaires had been used by the public. He said army engineers had indicated, too, they might give out two or more additional franchises.

FOUGHT ON BOTH SIDES

Kentucky contributed many famous soldiers to both the South and the North during the Civil War. Among them were Confederate officers General John C. Breckinridge, General Albert Sidney Johnson, General John Hunt Morgan; and Union officers General Don Carlos Buell, General Jeremiah Boyle, Colonel Frank Wolford, General Cassius M. Clay, and General Speed Fry. Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis, presidents of the "warring nations" also were Kentuckians by birth.

Player Flattens Ump, Costs Team $50 Fine As Wheelwright Wins

Wheelwright won the playoffs of the Big Sandy Baseball League Tuesday night, but it took home from Drift a $50 fine plastered on it by League President Milford "Toodles" Wells.

The fine was levied on the team after its first baseman, Niagara Riley, knocked down Bill Napier, Prestonsburg, base umpire. The player hit Napier after the latter had ruled Riley had missed a tag on a runner at first base and an argument ensued.

Wells indicated court action may be taken against Riley.

Wheelwright won the game, 6 to 3. In the first game of the finals Wheelwright defeated Drift 3 to 1 and took the next game, 9-1. Drift won the third game of the series, 2-1.

In the first playoffs Drift won its way to the finals by downing Wayland in two straight games, and Wheelwright eliminated Allen in the same emphatic fashion.

One of the world's finest collections of small-arms is located in the Mansion Museum near old Port Harrod in Harrodsburg, Ky.

Krueger said only about 20 per cent of the available recreation facilities of the dock concessionaires had been used by the public. He said army engineers had indicated, too, they might give out two or more additional franchises.

ANNUAL PMA VOTE IS HELD

Farm Plans for 1953 To Be Made at Farm; Stephens Reelected

Community committeemen alter dates and delegates to the county PMA convention were selected at designated meeting-places in each of the five PMA community areas for the county, Sept. 18, according to an announcement by Alex M. Spradlin, secretary of the PMA office here.

One reason, it was stated, for the holding of the election at an earlier date than usual was the changing of the methods of making farm plans for the new year. Heretofore farm plans were made at the local PMA office but in the future they will be made on the farm between the farmer and a member of his local community committee. This "on-the-farm planning" will cause a greater number to sign a farm plan but Mr. Spradlin does not envision any greater number of participants for 1953. Spradlin emphasized for public information that farm plans will be made, not at his office, but on the farm.

The delegates selected on Sept. 18 met next day in the PMA office here to elect a county committee. James Stephens, Cliff, was re-elected chairman; W. B. Tackett, Craynir, was re-elected vice-chairman; W. V. Woods, Emma, regular member; Webster Akers, Grethel, first alternate; Bill Pruitt, West Prestonsburg, second alternate. The new committee then re-elected Alex M. Spradlin, Cliff, secretary-chief clerk and Elder Goble, Lancer, assistant clerk and treasurer.

The following community committeemen, alternates and delegates to the county convention were elected Sept. 18: No. 1, Right Beaver: W. J. Barnett, chairman; Orville Adkins, vice-chairman; R. C. Barnett, regular member; W. M. Hicks, first alternate; C. B. Martin, second alternate; R. C. Barnett, delegate.

Community No. 2, Left Beaver: Willard Moore, chairman; J. C. Moore, vice-chairman; Everett Howell, regular member; Troy Nickles, first alternate; Roy E. Denney, second alternate; Willard Moore, delegate.

Community No. 3, Mud Creek: Webster Akers, chairman; Troy Branham, vice-chairman; L. W. Akers, regular member; Ernest Newman, first alternate; Green Kidd, second alternate; Webster Akers, delegate.

Community No. 4, Middle Creek: J. L. Laferty, chairman; Billy Merritt, vice-chairman; Bill Pruitt, regular member; L. A. Conley, first alternate; H. L. Leslie, second alternate; Bill Pruitt, delegate.

Community No. 5, Cow Creek: Jim Crager, chairman; John Darby, vice-chairman; L. V. Goble, regular member; Jack Sellards, first alternate; Joe W. Burchett, second alternate and delegate.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

By EWING GALLOWAY

Business of trying to set people straight on Merion bluegrass. Somebody discovered a variety of bluegrass growing on a golf course at Merion, Pa. And since then this variety that differs from Kentucky bluegrass has been given much publicity, and the ballyhoo probably is just beginning. Farmers will be told that Merion bluegrass is the answer to a livestock raiser's prayer, much in the same manner as fescue was over-publicized.

The other day a Chicago representative in the photo illustration's business showed me an article in the Consumers Monthly which contained exactly the information grass farmers should want to hear about Merion bluegrass.

The new variety has been found to be short in length and slow of growth. Fine, perhaps, for golf courses and lawns. It probably calls for the lawn mower every four weeks, whereas Kentucky bluegrass on the lawn has had to be clipped every 10 days or so.

Experimenters say Merion bluegrass should be sown in well prepared ground, meaning nitrates, phosphates, potash, lime. The soil should be tested chemically by your local farm bureau office.

That's for lawns and golf courses, not for farms.

Grown under favorable conditions Kentucky bluegrass can be a good pasture every month in the year, provided you don't graze it too hard. In late summer or early fall, dry weather may stop bluegrass. That is a time when lespedeza, coming along to help fatten animals regardless of dry weather. It fills a possible gap and if there is no gap it is fine forage mixed with bluegrass.

Kentucky bluegrass on good land grows long. When rain breaks up a dry spell in the open months it bounces back so fast you can almost see it grow. In January and February three warm, rainy days will make it grow an inch.

During the recent drought our bluegrass pastures turned brown. In the three weeks of dry weather our cattle fattened faster than in June when the grass is long, green and lush.

Right now bluegrass is growing faster than usual for this time of year, due to numerous good rains in our district. I returned to the farm last week thinking I'd have to buy at least 100 tons of hay at frightfully high prices and risk contaminating the farm with Johnson grass, dodder and other obnoxious grasses. After a good look at the Kentucky bluegrass pastures I vetoed hay completely. In extremely bad weather we can give the cattle one light feed of corn once a day. Perhaps $1,500 worth of corn. A 100 tons of hay would cost $3,500 to $4,000. If the winter is not severe we won't feed cattle at all.

In the main address of the day, made before 300 representatives attending the meeting, Elmore McKee told the community leaders that local community projects are now being carried on throughout the United States, proving that the pessimists are wrong.

"Human nature can respond to local challenges in communities," said McKee, founder and director of the radio series, "The People Act." He termed his radio series a "kind of tonic which has rung a bell around the world."

The Home-Town Meeting is sponsored by the Bureau of Community Service at the university in co-operation with the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and the State Agricultural and Industrial Development Board.

FIRM EXTENDS RURAL LINES

Project on Beavers To Serve Rural Area Over 7-Mile Stretch

Rural electrification is still on the program, the Kentucky & West Virginia Power Co. it was learned here this week when two more rural lines were either started or completed by Harris Bros. Construction Company.

The line completed was 4.96 miles on Caney Fork of Right Beaver beginning at the mouth of Thornsbury Branch and extending up Caney in the direction of Caney Creek Junior College at Pippappas. The other line started by the hauling of the necessary 44 poles was 2.88 miles on Spurlock, Left Beaver. This is the third hitch of power line building on Spurlock and the present line will practically complete electrification of that creek.

Another job being performed for the power company is the installation of a 44,000-volt line parallel with the existing line of the same capacity from Van Lear to Paintsville. This transmission line feeds Paintsville, Salyersville, West Liberty and other points. When and if it ever goes "out" this parallel line will take over as alternate supplier of electricity. The completion of the new line too will enable repairs to be made on the old line without interruption of service.

The State Fisheries head remarked that fishing has been at low ebb all over the country this year. "To the best of my knowledge," he wrote, "Dewey Reservoir does not seem to stratify, or if it does so, only for periods of short duration. Water temperature this summer, even in Kentucky Lake, exceeded 90 degrees. In unstratified lakes the temperature remains practically the same from top to bottom, and thus nothing but poor fishing in hot weather could be expected."

Clark expressed more concern over the period of time during which the lake remains muddy than any other condition, pointing out that muddy water is unfavorable to game fish reproduction. "That," he wrote, "is a factor with which we will have to deal constantly and which cannot be avoided."

"After seeing this last study I am not alarmed over the situation at Dewey reservoir. For the present at least, it is in as good condition as is possible to make it. We should and will watch the situation closely again next year. I think that you will find fishing improved this fall."

The Floyd County Fish & Game Club and anglers over a wide section still express keen interest in a restocking program at the lake. "The Department can add more bass, at any time, and there'll be no danger of overstocking. The lake is fished too hard for that."

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY:

Prestonsburg, Ky.,
Sept. 24, 1952

John E. Campbell, of Garrett, Ky., Dr. W. D. Osborne, of Bypro, Ky., and John M. Stumbo, Jr., of Harold, Ky., are candidates for members of the Floyd County Board of Education at the general election to be held on November 4th. Mr. Campbell and Dr. Osborne are now members of the Board of Education and have conscientiously and diligently performed their duties as such members. They are committed to the present school program of this county which is just now beginning, and are promising the voters of Floyd county that the school system of this county will be carried on in an efficient way and without political consideration. The same assurance and promise has been given the people by Mr. Stumbo. It is my intention as Superintendent to so operate the school system so as to make it entirely free from politics, and these three men are in full accord with this program and its determination. They are actively supporting the program which I have just started, and while I have the highest respect for their opponents, I feel it is my duty, as Superintendent, to let all the people know that John E. Campbell, Dr. W. D. Osborne and John M. Stumbo, are behind me in my efforts to so operate the schools of Floyd county without any political consideration. For that reason, I have given them my unqualified support.

This Time—He Knows He's Right!

Here's a man who is through with doubt and wonder about the wisdom of his choice in a motor car.

He has just taken possession of his first Cadillac—and, this time, he knows he's right.

He's a mighty happy man as he rolls serenely along the highway—heading for home and the delighted approval of his family and his friends.

And how the years and the miles will justify his confidence!

First to reassure him will be the car's magnificent performance.

He will discover smoothness, almost beyond belief—smoothness of operation, smoothness of handling, smoothness of ride on all types of highway.

Then he will notice the quietness: just the soft sound of the wind slipping by—and, now and then, the tick-tick of the electric clock. He can whisper—and be heard.

And there will be, of course, the sheer brilliance of Cadillac performance—the lightning-fast acceleration, the great bursts of power when emergencies loom, the quick response to brakes and steering wheel.

And, finally, he will learn of the car's endurance—so great that there is no practical limit to its life and its usefulness. Records reveal that numerous Cadillacs are still going strong at well past half a million miles.

Yes—this time he's right.

And so will you be right if you choose a Cadillac. Better come in and place your order—today.

Girl Scout Council Gets Work Under Way With W'Wright Meet

The Sandy Valley Girl Scout council got under way at a meeting at Wheelwright, Wednesday Sept. 17. All district chairmen reported that scouting had started in various districts. New groups were reported at Martin, Maytown, Drift, Allen, Betsy Layne and Pike county.

It was voted at the Wheelwright meeting to authorize the Girl Scouts to become voter aides at the November election. Mrs. Pay Howard, in explaining this, said that voter aides would assist in home care or car driving or any other duty to enable a voter to attend the election. Details on this plan, Mrs. Howard said, would be announced later. She added that emphasis, this year, will be on training for leadership as well as seeking to increase the number engaged in scouting.

While the Sandy Valley council was getting off to a good start, the Prestonsburg district of Girl Scouts start the scouting year with three new intermediate troop leaders—Mrs. Arnold Compton, Mrs. Paul C. Combs and Miss Pauline Hereford. District and council officers remain the same as last year with the exception of Mrs. J. R. Hurt who will be replaced due to her absence from the district.

"Any girl, seven or older, wishing to become a Girl Scout may call or contact Mrs. W. S. Harkins, our district organization chairman. We are in dire need of assistant or co-leaders. Any adult woman who will be willing to give their time and of themselves may contact Mrs. Harkins. We are in high hope to start another Brownie troop and we have the same number of troops as last year," said Mrs. Howard.

"Get behind the movement and help prepare our girls for 'Leaders of Tomorrow'," she said.

M. M. Richardson, Birmingham, Alabama.

His funeral was conducted this afternoon (Thursday) from the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, the pastor, the Rev. L. W. Benedict, officiating. Burial was made in the Porter cemetery at Cliff, the Moore Funeral Home directing.

Sixty trench silos were built in Livingston county, some of them large enough to hold 156 tons of silage.

wounded, but also his wife, Martha Layne, Thurman Shepherd and Emogene Hamilton testified he was shot while running through his yard. They claimed a private car used by the officer was parked across the highway from the Hicks home and was not in line with the other two cars as claimed by the defense.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks testified Lester on his first visit to their place of business drew his revolver on Hicks and that as he entered his car to leave, said, "You might as well come, because you will." According to this testimony, he returned about 20 minutes later and opened fire on Hicks with a weapon the Commonwealth termed a sub-machine gun. Mrs. Lily Osborne, neighbor of the Hicks family, said she learned Lester had been there and was coming back. The Hicks children came to her house before the shooting, she said.

Second trial of the case was set for Nov. 19.

Trial of Bill Kazee, former Prestonsburg policeman, on a charge of shooting at without wounding Elmer (Speck) Blackburn, was scheduled to begin today (Thursday), and that of Miley Prater in the slaying on Middle Creek of his brother-in-law, Grover Hicks, is docketed for Friday.

Other convictions in circuit court included a two-year pen term for Steve Smith, who was charged with Marion Hatfield with breaking and entering and conspiracy in connection with a looting attempt on the Thomas Hereford Company here. Hatfield's trial was postponed till Nov. 21; fines of $100 and costs for Ex-Magistrate John May on each of two counts, obstructing public justice and rescuing a prisoner from officers; and a fine of $100 and a 30-day jail term for Zora Hall for escaping custody.

The Mill Hunt case was continued till Nov. 12.

SOIL CONSERVATION

By L. R. JOHNSON
Soil Conservation Service

Sericea lespedeza for pasture might seem strange to some, but James and Woodrow Allen on the farm of Lula Allen in the Eastern community can show you what I am trying to say. They have two small fields of Sericea that look mighty fine, in spite of the dry weather and the grazing of livestock. Approximately two cows per acre have run on these fields all year. The cattle are in good shape. Besides this, the farmer can harvest 2 or 3 hundred pounds of sericea seed per acre.

Sericea is extremely drought-resistant, largely because of its deep and extensive development of roots. This plant is suited to a comparatively wide range of soils. It thrives on poor acid land where alfalfa will not even grow. It is similar to Korean lespedeza in this respect. Sericea comes from the roots each year, which gives it a chance to come out much sooner than Korean. It grows fast and often gets ahead of the livestock. It can be clipped and the excess used for hay. Oftentimes when the farmer has plenty early grass pasture, he keeps his cattle off sericea until after the first cutting of hay. The first cutting is harvested around the middle of May and is ready for pasture in two or three weeks.

Several farmers in the neighborhood have watched James and Woodrow's cows feeding on this green legume this summer and plan to sow some sericea next year.

LETTERS

TO THE EDITOR

SAYS PURGATION COULD HAVE BEEN DONE

Editor, The Times:
Since the Floyd county Purgation Board discontinued work with a majority explanation being given to the public by the chairman, German Vance, I take this means to clarify my own personal position on this controversial matter.

I think there was ample time to have completed the job of purgation. Other counties did the job and long after we quit these other counties finished up and quit when the job was completed.

I had no other recourse except to quit when the balance of the purgation board voted to discontinue the work. My lone voice of disagreement would not have swayed the board to continue on a much needed work.

Perhaps sometime this work of purging the voting rolls of dead, moved away and otherwise ineligible voters on our registration rolls will be completed. It could have been completed this year if the present purgation board had wanted to do the job.

THE WRONG BALLOT

"Aug. 23, 1952.

"Dear Mom:
You were asking me about voting, well I received the ballot and I'm sending it to the Governor to find out why they sent me a Democratic ballot when they know I am a registered Republican and also why I got it on July 30 when it was impossible to get it back for the election, Aug. 2.

Your Son

San Francisco, Calif.

Now Mr. Editor, how would you feel when you went to talk to the people responsible for this and the County Court Clerk tried right before your eyes to pretend you were something that just didn't know what they were talking about?

This boy's registration card was right there before their eyes to see just how he was registered and instead of looking at the registration book they re-registered him and sent him a Democratic Ballot.

What I'd like to know if they didn't know to what party he belongs why they didn't send him a ballot of each party and let him vote his own sentiments?

I can understand about the mail situation, but not about the Democratic Ballot when his name was right there in the registration book for them to see.

OF THE WAR IN KOREA

Do the people of the United States really know and understand the situation in Korea? Or even try to understand? Do they consider it a war or just something to read about in the papers?

Speaking for myself and all the mothers and wives who have or have had sons and husbands over there in Korea, I can and will say that we believe there is definitely war over there, even though some people such as politicians and lawmen don't.

True enough, it has not been legally declared in black and white that there is a war going on, but just ask any one of the boys who have seen and gone through what is known as "The fight for Korea."

They'll every one tell you what it's like to sleep in mud, crawl through ice and snow till they're numb, eat cold C-rations and go through what all the boys call "hell."

Would any of our great lawmen and politicians exchange places with them for even one day over there? No—not one of them would!

It's no wonder the boys are like they are, when and if they come home. If they step out of line just once, they aren't even given a sporting chance. Our defenders of the law, as they call themselves, take matters into their own hands whenever they even see a boy in uniform. They figure they're the easiest way to make their own money, so what do they do? They corner them and arrest them for just everything they can think of. Sure they do; that's more money in their pocket for every arrest made.

Why in the world don't they crack down on the dirty crooks that need attending to, and leave all these boys alone, who've seen enough "hell" already to last them a lifetime?

Instead of kicking them down, why don't they at least try to give them a helping hand? And if the boy concerned is wrong, couldn't they try to show him in a considerate way that he's wrong, instead of beating him up and shooting him down. Such has been the case several times. Is that the way they appreciate what our boys have done for all of us? If so, it's some appreciation.

To every one who reads this article, and I hope a lot of lawmen do, take it into your hearts and think about it. I'd be willing to bet there would be a lot of heavy consciences when you've finished thinking. Would you be clear or guilty? Stop and think now!

Cheap Cobalt Recognized As 'Poor Man's Radium'

Pleasantville, N. Y., Sept. 24—Cobalt 60, now recognized as a cheap and plentiful substitute for high-priced radium, holds great promise in the treatment of cancer. Lois Mattox Miller and James Monahan, co-authors of an article on Cobalt 60 in the October Reader's Digest, says this "poor man's radium" may be our biggest and most beneficent dividend from the atom bomb.

Like radium, Cobalt 60 emits powerful cancer-destroying gamma rays, but with greater uniformity. Doctors are now using radiocobalt needles inside malignant tumors, particularly those that cannot be removed surgically. Thin tubes of flexible nylon, loaded with bits of Cobalt 60, are being sewed into cancer tissues, to be withdrawn when the radiation treatment is complete.

Any hospital qualified to employ radiotherapy can afford Cobalt 60. It is safer than radium for the patient, the authors say, and easier for the doctor to handle. "This versatility," says one radiologist, "opens up entirely new possibilities for the internal irradiation of cancer."

Studies by Dr. William B. Myers, of Ohio State University College of Medicine, resulted in the findings which established Cobalt 60 as a promising tool for cancer research. Myers' conclusions, published in the American Journal of Roentgenology and Radium Therapy, in Dec. 1948, showed that Cobalt 60 is capable of anything that radium can do, yet is free of many of radium's disadvantages. Only in one respect is Cobalt 60 inferior to radium: it loses its original radioactivity much faster.

Cobalt 60 equipment can be made available to any radiotherapist competent to use it, the authors state. One large pharmaceutical house is planning to supply a wide variety of Cobalt 60 applicators to approved institutions.

Because it is so cheap, Cobalt 60 will make radiotherapy more widely available, and thus it should greatly advance the war on cancer. The article emphasizes, however, that it is not a "new cure," and that its most enthusiastic users refuse to discuss it in such terms.

New Dial System Invades Ruralside, Exit Central

The dial system has begun its invasion of villages and crossroads. Despite its convenience and efficiency, there are people in small towns all over America who will welcome it with something less than complete enthusiasm.

These people aren't against progress but they know that no impersonal "dial tone" can match the friendly voice of Central, and that no instrument devised by science can have a heart like the hometown operator's.

Loula Grace Erdman gives eloquent expression, in the October Reader's Digest, to the regrets that have been felt by small-town people everywhere at the passing of Central. Miss Erdman writes, in a piece condensed from The Rural New Yorker: "I grew up under the benign autocracy of a small-town Central who held within her busy hands the multiple lines of all our destinies. With her passing, I feel that something precious and irreplaceable will have disappeared from the American scene."

The author recalls various emergencies in her community—a farmhouse afire, a woman about to have a baby—in which the stricken called Central first, then prayed. "God was undoubtedly the center of the universe, but Central was just what her name implied—the focal point of the community."

Her helpfulness was not confined to emergencies. In the author's town, as in a thousand others, she would tell you any time how to cook apple jelly or how Grandma Williams' health was this morning. With no newspaper in town, Central "advertised" by general announcement—by ringing eight long—specials on groceries, current movies and the Missionary Society's ice-cream social. She would tell you whether tonight's front would kill the tomatoes, and what time the Lions' minstrel show starts.

No man-made gadget, efficient though it be, will ever take Central's place in the hearts of the townspeople.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD
BY WILMAY

We feel so sorry for all who missed the Flower Show and musical following. Everyone sympathized with the judge, since all entries were beautiful as only flowers can be. Several won more ribbons than most only because they had no competition in those classes. Let's hope more women succumb to the cactus and pompon dahlias this year so an increased number of entries will be possible. Thurla Ramey's entry for public use and Peggy Vaughan's button garden were the most talked of entries, and Mrs. Osborne's red and white composition from the Martin Floral Shop was the most admired arrangement. We amateurs may learn from the professionals that is consoling. The women who worked so hard and so long to make the Flower Show a success deserves a bouquet. One remarked that only a few helped. This is always true anywhere but all was do prefer being among those who assist to belonging to the other side.

We inspected the Maytown lunchroom, not having been inside of it previously. Everything is the best word in equipment. As we thought of the good derived from it we recalled how only a few years ago a new citizen in Maytown announced we must have a P.-T.A. again and that its major objective should be a lunchroom; moreover, despite opposition and criticism from those who had long ago become discouraged because so few took part of help, Arnold Maggard refused to be deterred from his goal. Today the lunchroom, one of the best in Eastern Kentucky, stands as a monument to the faith of one man with vision. With all due credit to the flower show, a majority of those present gave first place to the chicken dinner served in the lunchroom. The women there so truly deserved and received much praise for their work. Mrs. Viola Stewart, whose dumplings are remembered throughout the county, was responsible for the large crowd of men who attended at the noon hour.

The expose concerning Senator Nixon will be a difficult one to offset. The manner in which he used the money should have no bearing on the case. He accepted it, whereas his running mate has a record of having declined numerous gifts during his career. The excuses being given are about as weak as the one offered when a man used government money for himself, and his friends said he took it to send his twin daughters to college—as if that lightened the crime.

We have a mischievous youngster in one grade who finds it hard to be still and harder to study. His older brother in another class does splendid work and is a model in behavior. The younger one is full of life and as wigglesome as they come, he admits laughingly and lovingly. So one day this past week we whispered that it looked as if he would be the first to get a paddling from us this year. (So far we have no paddle handy. Emphasis is on so far.) He smiled and whispered back, "It won't be the first one for me; Copper John paddled me yesterday." When it comes to varnishing and painting and helping in the room at noon or after school this child is a wonder, so he may some day do something that startles the world. Parents and teachers rejoice over the wider curriculum to discover and develop the varied talents of children, some of whom care little for any standard subject.

When passing the town of Eastern notice the well-kept cemetery beside the road. Pay special attention to the grave fenced separately with a flag flying, gorgeous flowers around the fence and within the lot, too. You see a bench where loved ones and friends may sit and meditate. You also see a graveyard tended the way all of them should be. Mrs. Vadia Osborne and her husband have been responsible for the loving care in evidence around the grave of their soldier-son Herman Osborne, who lost his life in World War II. A small sum of money, an abundance of elbow grease, and plenty of love accomplished all this, which puts to shame many of us who forget our loved ones once the sod has grown again on the little mound that marks their last resting place.

It is good news to note that Corinne Hill is president of Prestonsburg P.-T.A. They always have a dandy, and we venture to say she will be second to none. She is a getter of the first water, and Lon is always in there pitching with her. She headed the Chapel Service program for the county last year, used by many schools.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE
By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"The Book Satchel"

Late-summer days remind me that schools are opening again, and school ties up all my memories, for I have been a pupil or student or teacher all my life and am now going into my 46th year of teaching and 58th year as a student or pupil. And many things come back to me at this season, right now the memory of the old book satchel.

It is probable that nobody past 40 ever heard of a book satchel. Books used to be rare and precious things, the property of the family, not of the state. There was a considerable investment in the books used by all the children of a big family. One of the devices to keep the books intact was the book satchel. It was in style so long that it became standardized; I know that the description of mine will fit your memory of yours. It was made of bed-ticking, with the stripes running up and down. The body of it was big enough to hold even the geography texts. A flap extended over the sack-like body, sometimes with a button, but I rarely saw a book satchel buttoned up. A stout strap was attached, made of the same stuff this was put over your head. Your satchel then hung down on one side, with the arm extending through the strap, that left your hands free to carry the dinner basket or bucket and to throw rocks at things along the way. If fellows had had to lay down their books every time they wanted to throw at something or protect themselves against a briar or a bad boy, there was no telling how serious life might have been. Learning, in the form of the books in the satchel, was safe while the learner trudged along on the flinty road to education, defending himself against a hostile universe.

Though the book satchel was the chief protection against harm to books on their way to and from the schoolhouse, the book cover did its share in keeping books from falling apart or becoming scuffed up. Now, book covers are made of oilcloth, cut to fit the book and sewed on in a deft way that defies telling about. The method we used became such a part of me that I have my bird books covered in some water-proof cloth in bright colors, so that if I drop them, I will not have such a hard time locating them again.

When school was not in session, the book satchel often came in handy when we went to the country store, for it would hold a lot of stuff and could be carried handily, too. As it was made of such strong material, it lasted for years, so that we came to know a whole family by the book satchels. Bed-ticking, somewhat like the one-hoss shay, rarely wears out. It may become slightly faded after innumerable washings and after years of usage by various members of the clan, but for sheer wear I will put it against any cloth yet designed by man.

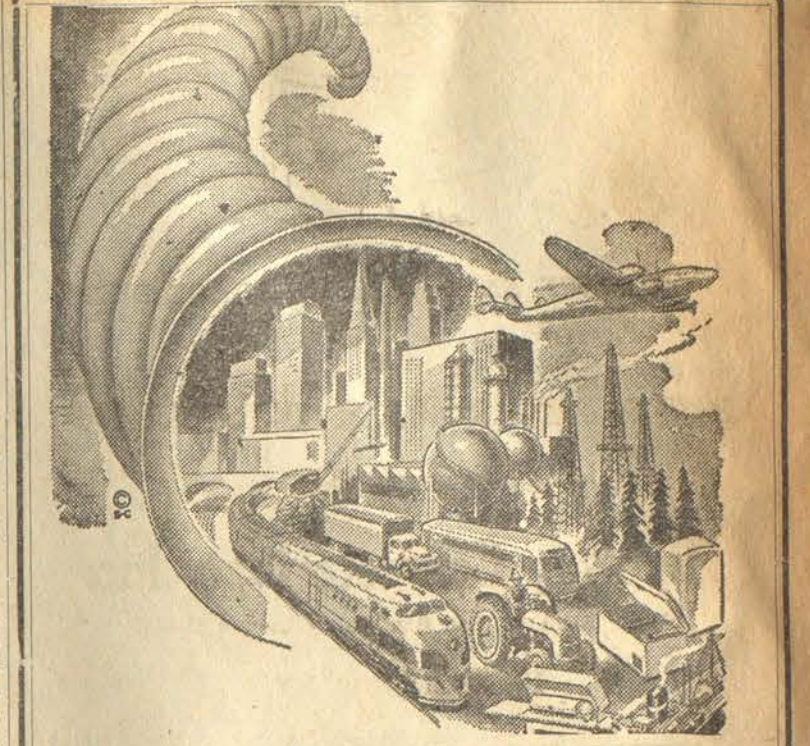

Now, with free school books and a tendency to leave all books at school, children do not know the daily chore of picking up some or all of one's books and taking them home, in a hope that time will be found to look at the lessons before the next daily grind. There are even teachers who do not want the children to attempt any learning away from the ideal set-up of the school plant. And, judging by many of the people whom I now teach, books seem to mean very little in modern children's lives. These old books, even the inherited ones, were ours. We felt that we were somebody, with our big geography books, with our slates, with our tablets, with our readers. I never heard that any of the books ever rubbed off any learning on their owners, but if pride in having them could have been rewarded here and now, certainly some of us should be prodigies of knowledge. "Bet your book satchels, children, it's time to go to school!"

Pikeville College Has 33 Enrolled from Floyd

Pikeville, Ky., Sept. 22 (Sp.)—Floyd county men and women again make up the second largest delegation at Pikeville Junior College. Only Pike countians outnumbered Floyd county's 33 students, Dr. A. A. Page, college president, reported this week at the opening of the school's 64th year. There are 123 among the 216 enrolled by the college.

Three Floyd county girls and one boy are registered for the fall semester at Pikeville College Academy. Nine Kentucky counties three other states and two foreign countries are represented in the college group, which includes students from Johnson, Knott, Magoffin, Martin, Letcher, Russell and Wolfe counties, Kentucky. Seven are from Mingo county, West Virginia, and one each from Indiana, Michigan, Cuba and Guatemala.

The Latin Americas, both returning for their second year at Pikeville, are Roger Padron, Cardenas, Cuba, and Margrit Hoehn, Rio Brava, Guatemala.

There are 111 men and 105 women in the student body, which includes five veterans of World War II and three of Korean action.

Teachers and prospective teachers, as usual, make up the largest single group of students, Dr. Page said. Forty-three per cent of those enrolled at Pikeville are taking the teachers course, working toward their provisional elementary certificates.

Floyd countians at the college are William Allen, Risner; Barbara Applegate, Wayland; Chester Bailey Garrett; Nelson Baldrige, East Point; Coyet Bolen, Garrett; Earl Branham, Wayland; Kenneth Burchett, Ivel; Homer Cecil, Harold; Mae Oma Dempsey, Prestonsburg; Billy Dingus, Martin; Bobby Elkins, Harold; Bennie Joe Fannin, Betsy Layne; Lou Graves, Wayland; Paul Orkney; Edna Mae Hicks, Hippo; Hager, Auxier; Phyllistine Hall, Ronald Hicks, Allen; Jack Hopkins, Harold; Delmas Inmon, Garrett; Curtis Jarvis, Endicott; Douglas C. Jones, Drift; Linvel Jones, Dema; Bobby Kitchen, East Point; Tommy May, Betsy Layne; Virginia Lushbaugh, Dwaile; Richard Lyons, Garrett; Lucille Sexton, Drift; Saliye Shepard, Wayland; Jesse B. Smith, Bypro; Robert Taylor Martin; Flo Weddington, Emma; Janet, Wells Auxier; and Phyllis Woods, Emma.

Jane Ann Hale, Harold; Thomas Frutwick, Justell; Shirley Porter, Drift, and Alice Snyder, Betsy Layne, are enrolled in Pikeville College Academy.

Hickman county farmers generally had one of the best row crops in the past 10 years, summer pastures being the only crops that suffered to any extent.

TRAFFIC TO BE CHECKED

Kentucky and Ohio officials agreed to conduct a traffic survey of the Cincinnati-Newport-Covington area to determine whether a new six-lane bridge across the Ohio river is needed. There are now four bridges in the immediate area—two of them free state-owned bridges, one state-owned toll structure and a privately-owned toll span.

In addition, Highway Commissioner W. P. Curlin told a delegation of boosters of US 23 (running from South Portsmouth to Jenkins) that most of the improvements sought by them have been included in a five-year program of road construction previously approved by state and federal engineers.

Approximately 900 acres of tobacco in Boyle county were damaged by a severe hail storm.

OPS Ceiling Prices Are Lifted on Items in Various Industries

OPS ceiling prices have been suspended on a number of additional items, according to Charles W. Gowin, chief of the District Consumer Goods Section.

"The commodities have been selling materially below ceiling prices," Gowin said, "and when that is the case, it is the policy of the agency to suspend ceiling prices." He pointed out, however, that controls may be reimposed before the old ceilings are pierced if prices rise significantly.

The major items on which ceilings have been suspended are radios, television sets, and record players. In addition, the ceilings are off:

Upholstered sofa-beds, single and double studio couches, love seats, chairs and davenport which open into beds, metal beds and wood and metal cots, including bunks. Mattresses, including rubber mattresses and mattress pads. Bed springs and box springs. Bed pillows and head-boards.

OPS has also suspended ceiling price controls on soft-surface floor coverings made entirely of wool or classed as chenille, wilton, velvet, axminster or punched felt.

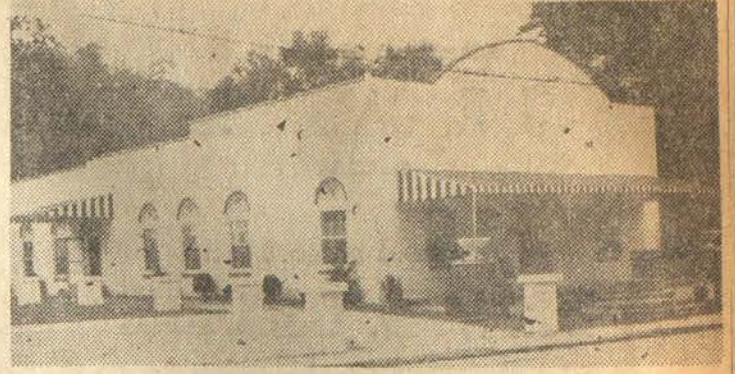

Vitrified chinaware, handmade household glasses, silverware, fireplace equipment, Christmas home decorations, chalk, and lead pencils were among the commodities recently decontrolled. Many of these products were exempted from price ceilings because they are relatively unimportant in the cost of living, or because their continued control involves administrative burdens out of proportion to the benefits to the stabilization program.

In Woodford county, approximately 315 farmers attended the fourth annual farmer-banker field day.

Why the West
If Not the East?

THE Green River valley, key to continued prosperity of the West Kentucky coal field, has succeeded in getting approval of the U. S. Corps of Engineers for a package job of improving the waterway which embraces soil conservation, reforestation, land reclamation and water transportation.

The reader will note that water transportation is last mentioned. But it really is the big item in the package. All the others are mere packing materials to keep the shipment from being too shaky and unacceptable to federal authorities.

The big improvement job on the lower Green River got such support that Senator Earle C. Clements himself presided at the meeting held Saturday at Central City, Ky. It was so attractive that the Senator expressed this view:

"I believe this meeting... has shown that the solution of the navigation and flood problems is in sight, even though it may not come in one package."

The truth of the matter is, Green river folks don't care a whoop about the rest of the package if they get the navigation item through. As in the Big Sandy area, they know what river navigation will mean to them. We agree with them. Nor do we blame Senator Clements or anybody else for agreeing with them.

But we would here rise to ask the Corps of Engineers and Senator Clements and all others concerned:

What need, what condition, what set of circumstances prevail on the Green which make navigation and flood control there not only desirable but also feasible that do not prevail on the Big Sandy?

Employment is not the problem there that it is here. West Kentucky coal mines are flourishing while the Big Sandy's face a battle for survival. Strip mining there makes coal production cheap. The way to market is not so long and costly as ours.

West Kentucky's coal is no more valuable than that of this section. Indeed, Eastern Kentucky produces a quality of coal which cannot be matched. Here lie vast, undeveloped deposits of fine domestic and metallurgical coal without which the nation would sorely suffer in time of emergency. In addition to all that, the timber products of this section and its agricultural potential are matters which the Corps of Engineers have little considered.

The Big Sandy pours its huge floodtime volume into the Ohio, just as does the Green. Its soil is wasting away through erosion, even as is that of the Green River valley, although strip-mining has not yet been a causative factor here as along the Green. Nowhere is soil conservation and reforestation needed more than here.

We mention these facts to point to the Corps of Engineers, Senator Clements, et al, the needs of another part of Kentucky—a part of the Commonwealth whose future, we are convinced, is more firmly linked to river transportation than that section which last Saturday was given the bright hope of an early solution.

Who Got What,
From Whom?

THE furore over the fact that Senator Nixon, the Republican candidate for the Vice-Presidency, received from private sources a fund of $18,000 or more leaves us strangely unmoved, for we accept the Senator's statement that this fund was used in a campaign he was waging.

This seems to be regular practise. It has been done before, and we shall hear of many other instances, and if we do not hear of it we still will not be convinced it isn't happening.

We are quite willing to go along with the idea that most of our public officials are honest, decent citizens, trying to do a good job. The danger to America is that, honestly concerned with honesty as a foundation-stone in the building and development as well as the guidance of the nation, we grow so cynical that we lose all faith in government.

And that way lies anarchy, which, even more than Communism, is the mortal enemy of all organized government.

Willing as we are to accept the statement that Richard Nixon received and spent these funds in honest pursuit of an honest goal, we are disturbed by statements ascribed to Senator Taft, of Ohio, and Senator Aiken, of Vermont, both G.O.P. stalwarts.

Senator Taft is quoted as saying he can see no reason why a member of Congress should not accept gifts from friends or constituents "to help pay personal expenses in Washington, certainly those political and travel expenses which are not paid by the government."

And Senator Aiken, telling reporters that many senators supplement their incomes with outside financial help—in some states from their state political committees—declared that no senator can maintain a family in Washington and stay in the Senate on his present salary unless he has some outside financial help. (A senator, incidentally, is paid $12,500 a year salary, plus a tax-free expense account, plus an allowance of up to $60,000 a year for office and incidental expenses.)

Now, aren't both the gentlemen acquiescing in something they've been talking a lot about recently? Mink coats and deep freezers, they have been pointing out, bought official favors. What do they think cash can buy?

Gifts from state political committees may be expected. But cash gratuities from private individuals to senators for their private use—not for campaign expenses, but for their use after they are elected—hints too strongly at the possibility that the wrong person might be giving something and getting something in return that does the people as a whole no good.

We are surprised at these two gentlemen and would suggest that while everybody is being investigated the probers should look closely into the records of those poor Senate members who have been receiving private help to make their own personal ends meet.

In Caldwell county it is estimated that 10 times the usual acreage will be seeded to rye, barley and oats for winter pastures.

The new tobacco barn on the farm of Robert Marlon Giltner in Shelby county was built to plans from the University of Kentucky agricultural engineering department.

Arlen Ayers of Owen county, states that sudan grass was a life-saver for his dairy herd this year and in 1951 during drought periods.

In Lyon county, 28 farmers filled 40 silos with corn in August.

The sale of whole milk in Casey county this year is expected to total approximately 1,000,000.
