POLICE HOLD "COB" TURNER IN CINCINNATI

Woman Found Dead, Maytown Man Says, 'Must Have Done It'

Roy C. "Cob" Turner, 35-year-old Maytown man, is facing a murder charge with the discovery of the battered, bruised and almost nude body of a woman, Tuesday, in a Cincinnati hotel room occupied by him.

The woman was identified as Miss Betty Smith, 23, of Middletown, Ohio. The two, police said, had registered at the Hotel Milner as Robert Smith and wife, of Louisville.

"I must have done it," Turner told police. "I don't remember it. I guess I must have blacked out."

The floor was spattered with broken wine bottles and a water pitcher.

Other guests at Hotel Milner had complained earlier of a disturbance in the room, and the management had tried to quiet the couple.

Police finally were called. Looking through the transom, they said they saw Turner bending over the woman's body, mumbling and tapping her on the chest. He opened the door at their demand.

Middletown police said Miss Smith and Turner had received 30-day suspended sentences Monday on charges of disorderly conduct and had been ordered to leave town.

Turner was quoted by police as saying he left the room twice to get wine.

"From then on it was a blank," he added, although he told police he remembered arguing with Miss Smith after she mentioned the name of a man.

He said Miss Smith was "a good little girl, but lonely," and that they had lived together at Middletown since February.

Cincinnati Detective Chief George Pearce said Turner told him he was a graduate of Georgetown College, Georgetown, Ky., and the University of Kentucky. The schools said, however, they had no record of any graduate by that name.

He said he was once a basketball coach at Maytown, Ky.

His divorced wife, he added, lives in Frankfort, Ill., with their son, John, 7.

Turner had been employed in Middletown until two weeks ago.

CITY TO PAY OFF OLD DEBT

When Bond-Owners' Identities Learned, Clearing New Issue

Financing of Prestonsburg's huge improvement program cannot be completed until sometime in August, because not until then will the holders of bonds currently outstanding against the Gas & Water System here be known and those bonds paid off to clear the way for the new issue.

This was the explanation given this week by Mayor Curtis Clark of the status of the city's plans for a new waterworks, swimming pool, street paving and other improvements.

There are approximately $90,000 worth of Gas & Water System bonds and $30,000 in sewer bonds, all of which must be amortized in order to make the new issue first-mortgage bonds. Because of transfers made in ownership, the identity of the present owners of many of the old bonds will not be known until August when the bonds are presented for interest payments. At that time, Mayor Clark said, a list of bond-owners will be prepared by the city's fiscal agent, and then the calling of the bonds will follow.

Crippled Children Board Hears Campaign Report; Mrs. Mandt Joins Group

Mrs. A. H. Mandt, of Mantion, was in Covington last Wednesday to attend a quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children.

Mrs. Mandt was elected last year to the Board of the Society, the Easter Seal organization which provides treatment, education and other needs of crippled children throughout the state.

For this purpose, the Society raised $200,000 during the 1953 Easter Seal Appeal. These campaign results were reported to the directors by State Chairman Briggs Lawson, Shelbyville.

The directors voted ratification of a proposal for a National Easter Seal Research Institute, which will apply 4% of all Easter Seal funds to research into crippling diseases.

Mrs. Mandt and the other directors also visited the Kenton-Boone Opportunity School. Owned and operated by the Kenton-Boone Chapter of the Society, this school is the only one in the state specially built for children suffering from all types of crippling conditions.

HAYS CARRIES MINERS' PLEA

Asking Pardon for Two Sentenced to Jail; Trip Takes Him 105 Counties

State Senator Doug Hays, of McDowell, last week handed Governor Wetherby the latest request for the pardon of the two United Mine Workers' organizers who are serving one-year jail terms for a mine disturbance at Sturgis, Ky., in 1950.

The request was in the form of a suit box filled with clemency petitions for Earl Suver, Madisonville, and Arthur Chaney, of Central City. More than 6,000 persons had signed the petitions and among these were 63 state representatives, 33 state senators and Congressman Carl D. Perkins.

Senator Hays, who is 76, said he had traveled into 105 counties to get the signatures of 98 of the 138 members of the Legislature. Circuit Judges and Commonwealth's Attorneys were among the signers. Most of the petitions, however, had been circulated by U.M.W.A. officials.

The two men for whom clemency is sought were convicted in the Union circuit court at Morganfield, were jailed for a year and each was fined $1,000. Their appeal was denied by the Court of Appeals, and the U. S. Supreme Court refused to review the case. Suver was accused of breaking the auto window of a non-union miner and Chaney of hitting the miner in the eye.

Senator Hays said he has been promised clemency for Suver but Chaney's release is doubtful. He has a criminal record. Five state senators refused to sign the petitions. They are Senators R. P. Moloney, Lexington; Louis Cox, Frankfort; C. W. A. McCann, Louisville; Sylvester J. Wagner, Covington—all Democrats—and Homer E. Losey, Republican, of Somerset.

BUY GAS FIRM FOR $150,000

Floyd, Perry Citizens Buy Hazard Gas System; Plan Expansion Program

The purchase for $150,000 by a group of Floyd and Perry county citizens of the Hazard Gas Distribution System was consummated June 1, it was announced here this week.

The system supplies gas for approximately 10,000 residents of Hazard and neighboring Lothair. Principal purchasers include B. F. Reed, G. C. Spradlin, E. R. Price, John T. Parker, J. C. Cooley, Mrs. Mabel Combs, Dr. C. D. Snyder and B. Alvin Reed. Officers of the company are G. C. Spradlin, president, B. F. Reed and E. R. Price, vice-presidents, B. Alvin Reed, treasurer, and John T. Parker, secretary.

Plans of the new owners include a $150,000 expansion program in the laying of 11 miles of new line to the company's gas supply at Emalena, Knott county, and vicinity.

The present gas supply for the system is from five wells owned by the company, four owned by Spradlin, Reed and others and from the United Fuel Company.

TRAIN ALARM SAVES TOWN

Theatre Blaze Causes Heavy McDowell Loss; Other Buildings Saved

The town of Martin had a big hand in saving a large part of its Left Beaver neighbor, McDowell, from destruction by fire last Saturday morning.

First of all, it was Belye Turner, of Martin, C. & O. railroad engineer, who discovered the blaze which gutted the McDowell Theatre and who set his whistle blowing with such urgency that he awakened the inhabitants to their danger.

Next it was Martin's fire department to the rescue, saving buildings near the theatre and preventing further spread of the flames.

The fire was discovered around 5:30 a.m., Saturday. The railroad tracks run to the rear of the theatre building and look down on the structure from a fill. When engineer Turner saw the flames breaking through the roof of the brick structure, he pulled hard and long on the whistle.

Even at that, Ernest Turner, owner of the theatre, got word of the fire from Prestonsburg. Pearl Martin, a gas company employe at McDowell, had a direct line to the firm's Prestonsburg office but none to Drift where Mr. Turner lives. So the alarm from Mr. Martin was relayed to Turner from here. He beat the Martin fire truck to the scene of the blaze by about five minutes.

Burned, in addition to the theatre building, was the two-story structure owned by Bart Meade, adjoining the theatre.

The Grover McCurry building suffered slight damage but it and the Clark & Moore store nearby were saved by the fire truck.

The theatre building itself was owned by W. J. Turner, father of Ernest Turner, who owned the show business and equipment. The loss to the two, which is only partially covered by insurance, will run between $25,000 and $30,000, it was said.

Floyd County Times To Join Other Papers in Babson Vault

The Floyd County Times and a select group of American weekly newspapers have been chosen by Roger W. Babson, noted economist, to be deposited in a concrete vault under the cornerstone of the world's largest revolving globe on the Babson Institute campus at Wellesley, Massachusetts.

The edition of The Times dated May 29 has been mailed the Babson Institute for that purpose. All daily newspapers of the country will have a place in the vault.

The vault is to be opened 100 years hence.

The great revolving globe is 30 feet in diameter and weighs with the shafts 37 tons. The countries and cities are located on a scale of 24 miles to the inch, and the globe will designate the home of the newspapers of 400 cities from the United States, Canada, Latin America, Great Britain, France, Italy, West Germany, and the other free nations are reading. Copies of these and others, including The Times, are being deposited in a concrete vault under the cornerstone, upon which will be bolted a bronze plaque with the following inscription:

"This plaque is dedicated to the Newspaper Publishers of the Globe and all persons in their employ. May their work be appreciated, their freedom be protected and their great responsibilities be realized. Only they can bring the nations of this Globe into One United World. ROGER W. BABSON"

Dedication of the Globe was on Memorial Day, President Edward B. Hinkley, of Babson Institute, introduced U. S. Senator Stanton and Speaker of the House Martin, who made the leading addresses.

Mr. Babson announced that surrounding the globe will be seats for over a hundred persons and that a monthly vespere service will be held with the globe as a background for the minister. "This is so, said Mr. Babson, that every student will remember all the different nations

Damage Release Work For Deeper Lake Near

Release forms for the procuring of flowage easements to deepen Dewey Lake by five feet are in the hands here of E. R. Burke, Seventh district conservation supervisor, and the work of contacting property-owners in the area will be begun immediately.

Mr. Burke said the State Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources has been assured the additional water will begin to be impounded the day all the release forms are returned, signed, to the Corps of Engineers.

Announcement of the Corps of Engineers' decision was not made in Washington till Monday following a meeting of Senator Earle C. Clements and Congressman Carl D. Perkins with Col. A. D. Starbird and Col. Wright Hatt. The announcement was made here last Thursday.

Senator John Sherman Cooper, who urged deepening of the reser-

Rise in Coal Tonnage Continues 2d Month

The slow gain in coal production that began in April continued through May with a gain of 541.5 cars of 50 tons each over the corresponding period last year shipped by operators connected with the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Operators Association, according to a recent announcement.

This increased production, while not significant of any great improvement in coal production in the Big Sandy field, is reflected in the number of mines working the full work week. In the last week of May 21 mines worked full time while during the preceding week in April only 18 did so. More mines were working four days a week than formerly, it was said.

Ten mines have production now equal to or exceeding last year's corresponding period, while at the end of April only nine mines had this much production. The gain was reflected more in those mines having an approximate production equal to last year. The last week in April, only one mine was classified with a production slightly under last year. Now six mines have reached the approximate stage.

Truck mine operation gained from a car production of 78.2 the first week of May to 78.4 the second week, fell to 53.2 cars the third week but bounced back to reach a new month high of 85.8 cars in the last week of the month. But even this increased truck mine production left this branch of the industry 1504.8 cars, or 75,240 tons, short of the production figure for last year, and left the limping truck mines 82.3 cars worse off, from a production standpoint, than they were at the end of April.

Thirteen of the operations working full time were Floyd county mines. They were Clear Branch Mining, Elkhorn Coal, Floyd Elkhorn, Guaranty Mines, Harold Fuel, Hi Hat Elkhorn, Kathryn Elkhorn, Koppers, Liberty Elkhorn, Sizemore Mining, Stephens Elkhorn, Turner Elkhorn and one mine of Utilities Elkhorn.

NAMES DENNEY TO U. S. POST

Will Succeed Stephens As U. S. Dist. Attorney At Undetermined Date

Claude P. Stephens, of Prestonsburg, will be replaced as United States district attorney for the Eastern Kentucky district by Edwin R. Denney, of Mount Vernon, who was nominated Monday by President Eisenhower.

Mr. Stephens, a former Commonwealth's Attorney of the 31st judicial district, was appointed assistant district attorney Sept. 1, 1933 by President Roosevelt and was elevated to district attorney on May 1, 1944. His term as district attorney expired June 8, last year, and he had been holding office since then by the pleasure of the president.

Stephens plans to resume the practice of law in the state and federal courts, maintaining an office here and at Lexington. Immediate plans, though, are indefinite, due to the uncertain time when Denney will indicate a desire to assume office. Stephens said this week that this is a matter to be worked out between them. He thinks that he will be relieved either in July or August 1.

Denney, elected to the Kentucky House of Representatives on the Republican ticket in 1945, was chosen floor leader, an unusual honor for a freshman member.

In 1946 he was appointed circuit judge for the Pulaski-Wayne-Rockcastle district to fill the vacancy left by the election of John Sherman Cooper, Somerset, to the U. S. Senate.

He is chairman of his party's State Central Committee and is state attorney for Mount Vernon. Denney has been mentioned as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor in 1955.

Wheelwright Visit Of Bloodmobile Set For Tuesday, June 16

The Wheelwright community prepared this week for an all-out effort to meet next Tuesday its 125-pint blood quota when the regional bloodmobile again calls there. It hopes to atone, in part, by a fine showing, for the failure of Prestonsburg when the unit was here last month.

Miss Dorothy Moore, of the Regional Blood Center at Huntington, will be in two meetings Saturday at Wheelwright to plan next Tuesday's work. She will confer with the United Mine Workers and the Formen's Club there during the day.

The need for blood, despite what appears to be an imminent truce in Korea, remains great, it is pointed out, and will remain so because of the needs of servicemen who have been wounded and the civilians who will need blood. An added drain on blood reserves is the gamma globulin necessary for the production of polio vaccine which only this year will be extensively used in the fight on the crippling disease.

Miss Ella Noel White, executive secretary of Floyd Red Cross Chapter, said this week that approxi-

SCHOOLS MAY FEEL BUDGET PINCH, FEAR

Governor Wetherby Cuts State Budget As Income To Be Lower Next Year

Floyd county's school system in particular may feel the $5,000,000 slash in the coming year's budget ordered by Governor Wetherby this week.

Floyd county has been counting heavily on an equalization fund materially in excess of the current year's $254,000, but with $3,000,000 ordered immediately cut from the budget to bring the 1953-54 budget within current figures and $2,000,000 more to be cut later as reductions were made in the current budget, and with no agency income, there is a possibility the equalization fund could further suffer.

County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner said he had discussed the situation with Department of Education fiscal experts and that he found the department worried because nobody knows if the cut-back to the present budget level is the last to be made. "But the Department will be horrified if there is another," he added.

The initial $3,000,000 cut-back will cost public education $1,575,000. This is how much more was

DIVIDE P'BURG INTO 2 WARDS

Election-At-Large Set For 3 1/2-Mile-Long Ward; West P'Burg Unchanged

For all city election purposes, Prestonsburg is a municipality of two wards, the larger of which is 3 1/2 miles long and comprises all or parts of five voting precincts.

The City Council at its Monday night meeting made it so, it was explained, to meet the changes in precinct divisions made here by the county and the situation created by the annexation of territory between the old city limits and Lancer.

On the Prestonsburg side of the river the entire corporate boundaries of the town will be included in Ward 1 and all its seven Councilmen will be elected at large. The West Prestonsburg part of the town will be Ward 2 and will, as before, be represented by one member of the Council.

The part of Prestonsburg on the east side of the Big Sandy formerly was divided into two wards, with four members of the Council named from Ward 1 and three from Ward No. 2. Beginning in the Porter Act addition, near the bridge at Cliff, and extending to the lower limits of Lancer, it includes the old Prestonsburg No. 1 and No. 2 precincts.

Minerva Jane Short, 75, Dies at Daughter's Home; Burial on Abbott Creek

Mrs. Minerva Jane Short, 75, died last Saturday, June 6, of infirmities of age at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Maaly Stanley Russell, Ky. She had been ill for over a year.

Mrs. Short was the daughter of the late John and Ellen Crider Robinson and the wife of Thomas Jefferson Short, deceased. She is survived by two sons, Worley Short, Cliff, and Bill Short, Vallejo, Cal. Two daughters also survive, Mrs. Mary Stanley, and Mrs. Anna Fitzpatrick, Russell.

Funeral rites were conducted Monday of this week, at 10 a.m., at the Arnold Chapel, the Revs. Howard Church and Gerstle Haggard, officiating. Burial followed in the Fruit cemetery on Abbott Creek under the direction of Arnold Funeral Home.

BLUE RIVER GIRL LEADS PIKE COLLEGE GRADS BUT TECHNICALITY COSTS HER USUAL PRIZES AWARDED TOP STUDENTS AT COMMENCEMENT

Special to The Times Pikeville, Ky., June 10 — Bobby Jean Hale, of Blue River, with the highest standing in the spring graduating class at Pikeville Junior College, still was ineligible for the school's customary commencement ceremony.

She was the second Floyd countian in 10 years to run afoul of the condition, laid down by the founders of the awards, that they go only to students who have done two full years of work at the school. Dr. A. A. Page, college president, said today.

Because she had taken two courses elsewhere while earning the teacher's certificate for which she qualified this year at Pikeville, Miss Hale could not receive either of the two top honors usually given at commencement. The Dr. W. C. Condit prize of a gold watch is for the highest-ranking graduate, and the Margaret E. Record prize of $20 for the runner-up.

Mrs. William D. Stevens, the former Sylvia Stanley, of Trant, was the last Pikeville graduate to lead the honor roll of her class, but lost her chance at the awards because of the same rule, Dr. Page said.

Playground Opening Set, Little League Proposed

The Prestonsburg Playground will be opened next Monday to all children up to 16 years of age with a more varied play program than heretofore offered, Bill Goebel, Jr., new recreation supervisor here, said Wednesday.

A start toward Floyd county participation in Little League baseball is being sought by Goebel, who asked all boys 12 years of age and under who are interested in Little League play to report at the playground Monday afternoon at 2:30. This does not mean only Prestonsburg children, he said; any boy of that age group residing in Floyd county is eligible and welcome to Little League play.

West Liberty, Paintsville, Morehead and other towns of this section already have begun the Little League movement. Although a league organized here this year would not be eligible to tournament or Little World Series play because of the belated start, it is hoped that work done this summer will have everything ready for beginning the regular season next year and full participation in this youth program which has swept the country.

Four teams with a maximum roster of 15 boys each are necessary to form a league. Goebel figures the first-year cost of uniforms and other equipment at $750. The next year, only equipment replacements will have to be made.

Little League is big league baseball, with all its organization and precision, except that it is adapted to the mental and physical capacities of boys 12 years of age and under. It has already served to cut down on juvenile delinquency and its effect will mount in this direction, it is explained.

The regular Playground program outside of plans for baseball will include use of present playground equipment, running games, softball for both boys and girls, horseshoes, badminton and volley ball.

LAW QUESTIONED

Frankfort, Ky., June 8 — Whether Kentucky's law defining common carriers as one who transports another for hire covers the worker who transports a fellow employee to work for a small consideration has been presented to Franklin circuit court.

Ernest L. Chauncey, Lexington, employe at the Lexington Signal Depot at Avon—who occasionally transports fellow workers for twenty-five cents a trip—brought the action in Franklin circuit court against the State Department of Motor Transportation and the Attorney General for an explanation of the law.

HEALTH NOTES

Beating the Heat

If the heat doesn't bother you, you may find it hard to understand those who feel and look miserable during the summer months and especially during an intense heat wave.

There are people who "feel the heat" more than others, and suffer from it no matter how they try to keep cool. But many of us could be more comfortable during the stifling days with a little more attention to "summer health" rules. Our eating habits these days can do much to restore energy as well as comfort. Everybody needs a well balanced diet, no matter what the season. But heavy meals are difficult to digest in hot weather. More fruits and vegetables can be included in meals for hot days. They are easy to digest and are also rich in the vitamins and minerals necessary to well-being.

Perspiration is the body's cooling system, and since the body loses more moisture in hot and humid weather, it is wise to drink plenty of water throughout the day to replace the liquid. Fruit juices also help replace the lost moisture in the body and nourish it at the same time.

Frequent bathing is more important in the summer than at any other time. Extra baths not only keep the skin clean, but also remove the wastes that cause unpleasant odors and eliminate the dirt that clings to the skin in summer and makes it vulnerable to infection.

Sufficient amounts of restful sleep make the hot days more bearable. Many people find trouble sleeping on hot nights, but keeping regular bedtime hours in the summer usually helps.

Those who have reason to doubt their physical stamina—children who have had rheumatic fever, adults who have had serious illness, for example—do well to check with their doctors before indulging in summer sports.

BLADES OF BLUEGRASS

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Thirty-nine years ago J. F. Corn penned a poem for 'The Kentuckian,' the student yearbook of Kentucky's State University. Called "The Investigator," it is concerned with the report of an imaginary citizen bent on looking into condition at the school. Here is the way it goes:

"Though I've never been to college and I haven't a degree

I'm a pretty canny fellow and it seems quite plain to me

That our dear old University from assembly hall to 'dorms'

Needs a raking and a scraping and a bunch of stern reforms.

Why the 'profs' are drawing salary for just eight hours work per day—

There are hands on my plantation who would work for half the pay.

And extravagant! They'll break us; they will drain us to the dregs;

Why a grocer said that one 'prof' bought a half a dozen eggs!

In the dormitories also can be seen a shameful waste;

In each grand palatial roomlet they have only three boys placed!

And the discipline is dreadful; in some rooms I chanced to pass

I did verily see students boldly whispering in class.

And the citizens informed me—oh it gave me quite a shock—

That the students would sometimes stay out 'as late as ten o'clock.

Now in view of all these evils a suggestion I would make;

Let us from the University its appropriation take;

Let us take all its resources lest it use them foolishly,

Then we'll make it in the end a model University!"

By some twist of fate, three men who have since done much to make

Mr. Corn's alma mater one of the finest universities in the South were listed in the same issue of the annual as members of the 1914 graduating class. They are H. L. Donovan, president of the University of Kentucky, and Guy A. Huguélet and H. D. Palmore, trustees.

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Invariably book reviews are written about books which already have been published. However, here is a case where the "review" concerns a book which hasn't been written—but one which many Kentuckians hope will be written sometime.

Historian friends of William H. Townsend, Lexington attorney and nationally-known Lincoln authority, long have urged him to write a biography of Cassius Marcellus Clay, the famous third-cousin of Henry Clay. It's been felt generally that Townsend is probably the proper contemporary Kentuckian to undertake such a work since his Cassius Clay collection rivals even his Lincoln material.

Yet, few Lexington historians realized the full scope of Townsend's study of "The Old Lion of White Hall" prior to a talk he gave recently before a history honorary society at the University of Kentucky.

He left little doubt there as to his capability to write the full story of the man who is perhaps the most colorful of all Kentuckians.

Many hitherto unknown facts of Clay's life have been uncovered by Townsend, and some of these throw new light on Kentucky history of that day. With his usual sharp wit, Townsend delighted his audience of historians with events of Clay's life.

Among these was an account of how James Lane Allen, a young

Lexington newspaper reporter who later achieved literary fame, covered the wedding of Clay, then in his 80's, and the 15-year-old daughter of Clay's tenant. Details of the ceremony, performed at Clay's home near Richmond, were not available to Kentuckians of the present day before Townsend began his study.

Descriptions of Clay's anti-slavery speeches were included in Townsend's remarks. Standard equipment which the abolitionist placed in full view of his audience, as related by Townsend, included the constitution,

"for those who respect the law of man;" the Bible, "for those who respect the law of God;" and two black-barreled pistols, "for those who respect neither."

As a result of this talk, most of Townsend's audience are hoping that his law practice won't prevent him from writing this book in the next few years.

Martin, and Miss Betty Lou Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Stephens, Prestonsburg, received the degree of bachelor of arts.

'Ear' Facts—

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Some of the leading supporters of the strange talk about de-emphasis of athletics have gone to great lengths in a campaign pointing up what they call the "bad" features of major athletic programs at our universities. I understand one learned authority even has suggested the approach of having a stable of horses to represent a university in inter-collegiate athletics.

It seems to me that all such talk borders on the ridiculous, unfounded in fact and even theoretically nonsensical. And, the occasion of examination week here at the University of Kentucky provides an excellent opportunity to briefly point out some of the facts which readily dispute such talk.

Space will not allow a complete rebuttal, but I believe one of the biggest arguments in favor of a major athletic program is that it affords an opportunity for advanced study to a very large number of boys who otherwise would never have been able to attend a university because of financial reasons.

And, as I have often pointed out, it is my firm conviction that athletics get just as much or more out of university study as do non-athletes. We have found in football, for example, that the boys study harder and get more out of their studies (both better grades and general knowledge) during the season than when there is no competition to keep their minds keen.

Of course, there are always key players on the borderline of passing or failing and the coaches sweat out their grades just like the boys themselves. We believe that the smarter athlete is a bigger asset to his team and will win over an opponent who is his equal in ability and desire, but not as smart. This, we are certain, also will hold true in later life.

Gratifying to the coach and providing the emphasis in arguments against de-emphasis is the fact that there are a lot of athletes studying a wide variety of tough subjects whom we never have to worry about. Among these are the following footballers: Tommy Adkins, Corbin, business administration; Ray Callahan, Leanon, education; Roy Correll, Somerset, agriculture; Bob Hardy, Paducah, pre-law; Larry Hennessey, Paris, business administration; Ralph Paelone, New Castle, Pa., commerce; Bill Wheeler, Pikeville, pre-medical; Tom Fillion, Owensboro, engineering; and Miles Willard, Vandergrift, Pa., physical education major and a "distinguished military student"; along with several boys too numerous to mention.

GAIN IN SCHOOL SPENDING OVER 5-YEAR PERIOD TOLD

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Kentucky spent 77 per cent more money for current operating expenses in educating the State's youth in the 1950-51 school year than in 1945-46. These figures were released today by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. The study revealed that operating expenses rose from $36,320,000 to $64,412,000 in the five year period. The expenses per pupil on average daily attendance jumped from $98 to $135 — an increase of 57 per cent from 1945-46 to 1950-51.

The survey, prepared by the Washington Research Office of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce shows comparative figures for all states. The study revealed that operating expenses for the entire U. S. rose from $2,707,000,000 in the 1945-46 school year to $5,084,000,000 in the 1950-51 school year—a national increase of 86 per cent. During the same period Kentucky's increase was 77 per cent. The average national expenses per pupil in average daily attendance jumped from $136 to $224, or 65 per cent, in the same period. A 57 per cent increase was registered in Kentucky.

The KCC survey shows only five states which pay less per pupil in average daily attendance for current operating expenses. The five and their per pupil expenses are: Mississippi, $93; Arkansas, $117; Alabama, $126; South Carolina, $132; and Georgia, $133. Fourteen states registered smaller percentage gains than Kentucky.

The study pointed out that this is "a record the States and localities have made on their own, not with federal aid." It added, "It is almost certain that current spending for schools is greater than it would have been under a federally assisted program. And equally important is the fact that control of education is still in local hands with no federal strings attached."

Reviewing the efforts of so-called "poorer" states, the study reported that eight southern states increased their per pupil expenditure 78 per cent or more in the periods compared, whereas the average increase for the nation was 65 per cent.

Noting that advocates of federal aid to education "now believe the wedge of federal aid can be driven home by their championing the use of federal funds to erect new schools and expand additional facilities," the study also showed that the states themselves have "substantially increased expenditures for school facilities every year since the end of the war." It said:

"From a national total of $111,046,000 in the school year 1945-46 they rose to $204,739,000 in 1946-47, $412,497,000 in 1947-48, $663,917,000 in 1948-49, $1,014,176,000 in 1949-50, and $1,253,048,000 in 1950-51. This upward trend is likely to be accelerated with the improved materials and labor supply situation which can be expected when national defense spending begins to recede."

Homer Childers, Lookout, Faces Trial in Pike-co. On Woman-Murder Charge

PIKEVILLE, Ky., June 9 — Homer Childers, 19, Lookout, will be tried here in November on charges of murder in the death of Mrs. Joseph Ratliff, also of Lookout, on July 18, 1949.

The case was continued today in Circuit Court due to the absence of defense witnesses now serving in the armed forces. Childers' $5,000 bond was continued.

The 28-year-old Mrs. Ratliff was killed by a shotgun blast. Childers, who was 16 at the time, said he had been squirrel hunting and had fired twice into a bush, thinking a movement he saw was made by a squirrel. He said when he ran to the spot to retrieve his game, he found Mrs. Ratliff wounded critically. She died a few minutes later.

COOPERATION AT ALL TIMES

The school of the county should have and are entitled to all the cooperation from the sheriff's office that they require in the interests of a good school system. One need is for the attendance of a deputy sheriff at major sport events in the schools. The presence of an officer at these games to regulate traffic and to perform any necessary duties will relieve the school principals of a heavy responsibility. To the teachers and patrons I want to pledge my full cooperation.

Mounting Airpower Costs
Unjustified, Expert Holds

(In Reader's Digest Article)

Pleasantville, N. Y. — Costs of military aviation have skyrocketed to the point where they account for one-third of all tax money collected by the federal government, states Wolfgang Langewiesche, air authority, writing in the June Reader's Digest.

Behind these excessive costs is the fact that every pound of new equipment added to an airplane needs nine pounds more airplane to carry it. This added weight averages in cost about $40 a pound.

Electronic equipment is overloading modern planes. Some devices are installed even if their use might be limited to five minutes in 100 hours of flight. If a new gadget may fail in a crisis, a standby is put in. Each gadget needs a control, each control needs an automatic regulator, each regulator needs a warning light to show when it isn't working.

Partly because of such complex equipment, today's single-seat fighter weighs almost as much as yesterday's 21-seat DC-3 airliner. In bombers, both size and cost have mushroomed. The new B-52 jet bomber will cost $4,000,000, after "development expenses." The modern bombsight, with all its accessories, weighs a ton; the Norden bombsight of World War II, weighed 50 pounds. Today's bomber carries 30 miles of electric wire and thousands of electronic tubes.

The Russians get along without many of our devices, Langewiesche says, and our own pilots are beginning to question the need for much present-day equipment.

Not only is the cost of airpower getting out of hand, but our national inventive genius is being stifled by administrative red tape, the article charges. "Our Research and Development setup produces data by the ton but a few new basic ideas. . . . Our system has become cumbersome, with too many non-research minds in research, too many administrators in engineering." Though our planes are bigger, more complex and more expensive, our position as pacesetter in military aviation has been taken by the British.

Need of Conservation

"I love thy rocks and rills, thy woods and templed hills," So runs one of our most popular natural songs.

I have seen Americans stand and sing "My Country 'Tis of Thee" with tears of emotion in their eyes and selfish exaltation in their bearing.

But I just don't believe it. The more I see of our blasted rocks, cut and burned woods, and bulldozed hills the more convinced I am that the average American has no consideration for them whatsoever. Or if he does, he seems apathetically unmoved by the destruction around him.

We love wealth, prosperity, and growth. We take pride in a high standard of living. We thrill to automatic gadgets, deep freezers, and jet planes. We boast of a mechanical, electrical, atomic civilization wrapped up in a package labelled, "Liberty, Democracy, and the Pursuit of Happiness—Handle with Care." There may be a super-streamlined Frankenstein inside. But God Bless America. We love it.

However, there is another America. It is under our feet. It is around us. It is the land we live on; the forests, hills, valleys, mountains, and deserts we took from the Indians.

Do we love this America too? Well, maybe. But it looks to me as if we were so dissatisfied with its general appearance and arrangement that we are trying to change everything about it in the shortest possible time.

For, all over the country powerful interests, representing themselves as the majority, are closing in, bent on despoiling and obliterating every last vestige of original America. Although national parks preserve less than one per cent of our land in primeval condition, giant dams are proposed for four of them, and lumbermen demand the finest forests in a fifth. National forests provide less than one per cent of the nation's cattle-feed requirements, yet embattled stockmen are asking for the forests as their private preserve. Miners and sheepmen want the national monuments. State parks are succumbing to commercial interests. Marshes are drained, lakes emptied, and predators exterminated so that wildlife suffers from unbalance. Each year thousands are enlisted in the battle to preserve the resources and character of our country. But they are still woefully in the minority.

The front-line Minutemen of the Revolution fought at Lexington and Concord for the America they loved. Those historic patriots won against great odds. It can be done again. But don't wait for orders. Start firing Now! Join the present-day minute-men by thinking, talking, reading, and spreading the importance of CONSERVATION.

God bless America—and let's save some of it.—Weldon F. Heald in The Living Wilderness.

SPORTS AFIELD

The sportsman preparing to buy a binocular is confronted with a confusing problem. He is faced with hundreds of specifications, makes, models and prices. Even if he sees the binoculars and takes a quick look through them he can't detect everything on the inside.

Pete Brown, associate editor of Sports Afield magazine and expert on guns and glasses, has examined hundreds of binoculars and has talked to a lot of binocular experts. During the past few weeks he has interviewed a number of repairmen to get their ideas and he reports that he has yet to find anyone who has seen, tested or repaired all or even nearly all the various binoculars on the market.

Seeing one binocular is not sufficient to judge a make or model except in regard to construction in general. In addition to the possibility of getting hold of a particularly good one of a generally poor make, and vice versa, there is the possibility that a manufacturer has greatly improved his product since the last one was examined. Consequently, it is futile and decidedly unfair to try to list the hundreds of binoculars and evaluate them. I seriously doubt that a reliable source of up-to-date data on all binoculars is to be found anywhere.

In general, from what I have seen, the American-made binoculars are the finest on the market today. Some German binoculars are very good. English binoculars in general are well made. The majority of the imported French binoculars are cheaply made and not what you call good glasses. Japanese binoculars are the most controversial. Some call them junk, others praise them highly. The answer, of course, is that some of the Japanese imports are good values and give good performance while others are poor throughout.

You should buy a binocular in much the same manner in which you would make a careful purchase of a good watch. Both are lifetime investments, you might say. In the final analysis you fall back on the reputation of the manufacturer or the dealer. If you don't know of the manufacturer, then rely on a dealer who knows his product inside and out and has the reputation for being reliable. It is also worth knowing if you can get repairs and replacement parts in case of breakage.

The wedding of Miss Roberta Flannery, daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Flannery and the late Robert E. Flannery of Martin, and Mr. John Hill, son of Judge and Mrs. Edward P. Hill of Prestonsburg, was solemnized Tuesday, June 9, at four o'clock by the Reverend Bert Caldwell at the Baptist Church of Allen.

The double ring ceremony was performed in the presence of a few intimate friends and close relatives. The attendants were Miss Barbara Allen, of Allen, and Mr. Maurice Isbell, of Prestonsburg. The bride was lovely in a white summer suit with navy accessories, and she wore a shoulder corsage of white carnations and marine. Her attendant wore a gown of navy sheer and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's mother wore a navy dress and a corsage of blue carnations, and the mother of the groom wore a rose nylon dress with a similar corsage.

& Refining Co., independent oil and gas producers and 15 or more persons who have agricultural leases in headwaters of the reservoir must release claims to damages if the water is to be added.

Mr. Burke said plans for deepening the lake will not affect the proposed program of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources to do planting in the area for migratory waterfowl. If the dam was closed now to impound additional water, it is doubtful if five additional feet could be gained during the summer, it was said.

Clements and Perkins expressed satisfaction at news of the Engineers' decision. They said raising the level of the lake by five feet would increase its recreational values and improve fish propagation. Local interests in Pike, Floyd, and Johnson counties are solidly behind the proposal, they added.

Perkins said 4,000 persons daily attend the reservoir area and that it is the only public improvement in Eastern Kentucky that affords recreation to all the people.

appropriated for education at all levels for the coming fiscal year. That leaves $2,000,000 more to be pared down later in all departments.

Cut of that $1,575,000 lost in the initial cut-back the common school fund loses $1,014,500, and that is the amount which was designed to increase the equalization fund next fiscal year to $6,587,500 from this year's $5,573,000. The per capita fund will stand unchanged.

"This is where we could be hit," commented Superintendent Turner. "The equalization fund apportioned to the needy counties will be the fund to get the cut, if there is any, and Floyd county is in that group."

Even if there is no cut in equalization below the present figure, the building program will be affected materially, Mr. Turner said. "We had hoped to build some lunch rooms and to do some consolidation with the funds anticipated from increased equalization," he said. The county board's capital outlay fund will be exhausted with the heavier-than-anticipated cost of the Prestonsburg building. The Bosco and Ligon school structures now being advertised for bids will not be affected by the situation.

Mr. Turner expressed the belief the cut-back will not affect teachers' salaries. "But we don't know," he added. "We want to hold salaries at least to their present level, but this, of course, will depend on what comes out of the situation."

The Governor ordered the budget cut to keep spending within anticipated revenues.

The five state colleges and the University of Kentucky also lose the extra money the new budget would have given them. It will cost U. K. $250,000, Western State College $24,000, Eastern $22,000, Murray $23,000, Morehead $18,000, and Kentucky State College $17,000.

Other cancelled increases for education in 1953-54 include $9,300 for West Kentucky Vocational Training School, $5,000 for the School for the Blind, $10,000 for Mayo Vocational School, $8,000 for the schools for the deaf, and $168,000 for the teacher-retirement system.

The Department of Welfare, which operates the state prisons, handles probation and parole matters and child welfare, will lose the $225,000 increase it would have gotten from the 1953-54 budget.

The Department of Mental Health, which operates the four mental institutions, suffers a $300,000 loss—$75,000 each for Eastern, Western, Central, and Kentucky State Hospitals.

The Department of Health loses $305,000 in increases it would have gotten from the 1953-54 budget. Of this total, $105,000 is in administrative funds, $175,000 in county health-unit funds, and $25,000 from the Medical Research Commission.

The tuberculosis sanatoria at Madisonville, Paris, Hazelwood, Ashland, London, and Glasgow will suffer a total loss of $42,000. The Department of Economic Security will be out only $25,000 in this first cut.

Among the general government agencies, those scheduled to receive budget increases, now cancelled, are: attorney general $5,000, treasurer $1,500, finance $19,200, revenue $61,700, aeronautics $2,000, state police $37,300.

Pike-co. Jailer Indicted On 15 Separate Charges; Goodman Alleges Enmity

Jailer Lacy Goodman of Pike county, who is a candidate for sheriff, was indicted 15 times by the Pike county grand jury last Saturday. Six cases were for negligently permitting prisoners to escape, three were for malfeasance in office and six for either false swearing or negligently swearing. The five men and the woman permitted to escape jail were also named in separate indictments, charged with escaping custody.

The false swearing indictments against the jailer grew out of his testimony before the grand jury this week. He swore that none of the six "had been permitted to run at large over the city of Pikeville while under sentence."

The malfeasance indictments charged that Goodman "collected from Pike county" certain sums "for boarding and dieting" three prisoners who were at large when they were supposed to have been in jail. These indictments charged further that the jailer "did attempt to change the books and records kept by the jailer to fraudulently conceal his illegal collections."

All of the prisoners mentioned in the indictments had been sentenced to jail for misdemeanors. Their terms ranged from 30 to 90 days.

A candidate for the Democratic nomination for sheriff, Goodman said he was not guilty of any of the charges against him. "The foreman and various members of the grand jury," he said, "are not only my personal enemies but my political enemies as well. The indictments against me are a result of bias and prejudice."

Kiwanis-Sponsored Bouts By T-V Wrestling Stars Attended by Large Crowd

The wrestling matches sponsored by the Kiwanis Club here Tuesday night at the athletic field were attended by a crowd of about 1,500 to see Don Arnold and Ruffy Silverstein wrestle to a draw and the red-head, Joyce Ford, disqualified in her bout with Violet Viann.

Only two of the anticipated bouts materialized, due to the absence of Jules Larance who was slated to wrestle Lou Klein. The draw bout between Arnold and Silverstein went the full hour, with one fall credited to each. Arnold's knocking Silverstein out of the ring was the highlight of the bout.

The Ford-Viann bout went about 20 minutes of the slated 45 minutes. Arch Turner, referee, had a rough time. At one time as he knelt to observe the legality of a hold, he was pinned under the wrestling girls and had to wrestle his own way out. It was only after Joyce Ford had shoved Viann out of the ring three times and topped it off by doing the same to Arch Turner that she was disqualified.

It was said unofficially that the gate take was approximately $1,600. Herbert L. Ley, who attended to the financial end of the bouts, cannot say yet what the net proceeds of the matches will be. However, a government amusement tax of 20 percent and a take of 60 percent by the T-V wrestling stars will leave a lot less than the gross take.

The matches were for the benefit of the Girl Scouts and underprivileged children.

mately $4,800 has been contributed during the Red Cross fund drive—a figure far short of the $9,300 quota assigned the county. SOIL CONSERVATION By L. R. JOHNSON Soil Conservation Service

William M. Dingus and son, Phillip, have completed 750 feet of tile. The field is dry now and they can grow corn or anything on the field. It is needless to say they are well pleased.

Ernest Raffit, of Turkey Creek community, has just completed his second field of drainage. He installed 350 feet of tile.

Luther and Lawrence Hicks, of the same community, are planning to do the drainage in the near future.

The supervisors of Floyd county Soil Conservation district advocate draining wet land to develop good pastures, good woods and more permanent meadows.

It pays to plan and then do.

LACK OF JOB BALANCE HURTING COAL REGION

Special to The Times

Frankfort, Ky., June 8 — The eastern Kentucky mining area is confronted with a shortage of jobs in fields other than mining that has resulted in a serious lack of job balance harmful to the economic life of the area, according to a study just released by the Department of Economic Security.

Aggravating this lack of balance is a steady decline of employment and payrolls in the mining industry in the counties studied, the report says. The report covers Harlan, Perry, Floyd, Letcher, Breathitt, Pike, Magoffin, Johnson, Bell, Knott, Leslie and Martin counties and says that there is only "a smattering of jobs available in manufacturing industries."

Since 1948, mining jobs have been steadily dwindling in nearly all counties in the area, according to the report. Mining employment in eastern Kentucky declined by 24 per cent and mining payrolls by 20 per cent in the two-year period 1950-1952. This compares with a nine per cent increase in all jobs covered by Unemployment Insurance in the state during the period and a 24.6 per cent increase in wages in the state as a whole.

To help alleviate the situation, the State Agricultural and Industrial Development Board has been working with eastern Kentucky civic and industrial groups to promote new industry for the area. A study of the resources of the entire eastern portion of the state was started at a "Town Hall" meeting at Ashland last fall and other meetings have been held since that time.

DRIFT

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Drift Woman's Club held its June 1 meeting at the home of Mrs. Dick Showers. A brief report on the kindergarten was made by Mrs. Claude Martin. It has enrolled 11 pupils and will run for four weeks, after which it will be decided whether or not to hold another term in July and August. Mrs. Claude Martin is teaching the kindergarten.

GARDEN NEWS

By O. E. BOGGS
County Agent

Hybrid corn has added $74,736 to the value of corn on Floyd county farms. If all planting of open-pollinated varieties were discontinued and good strains of hybrids substituted another like sum would be added to the corn valuation. It all adds up like this. This county has 12,000 acres of corn-land. 50% of this land or 6,000 acres is planted in hybrid. The average yield of open-pollinated is 36 bushels per acre. Hybrid will increase this yield at least 20%. 20% of 36 is 7.2 bushel increase. Corn is worth at the present market about $1.73 per bushel.

Six thousand times 7.2 bushels equals 43,200 bushels increase. Multiply this by $1.73 and you have $74,736, which is the valuation of the increase in corn production due to the use of hybrid seed.

FOR COUNTY COURT CLERK

Hello!
I am Cecil Newsome, of Melvin, Ky., a Republican candidate for Clerk. I want to introduce myself to the people who do not know me.

I am the son of J. B. Newsome. His father was William Newsome, deceased, of Teaberry, Ky., in the Mud Creek section of Floyd county. My mother was Delpha Hall, deceased, daughter of the late Elder Hiram Hall, of Melvir, Ky. I married Hazel Akers, daughter of the late Andy Akers, of Mud Creek. Her mother was Fannie Cole, daughter of T. J. Cole, deceased, of Melvin.

We have four children, Janet, Oakie, Bobby and Phyllis. I am 36 years old. I would like to serve you as your Clerk. I am honest, reliable and capable of doing so.

Your help and influence will be highly appreciated. Thank you.

In loving memory of our Husband and Father,
JOHN C. HAYES
Who departed this life one year ago, May 16, 1952.

Today recalls sad memories of our dear one gone to rest, but sweet those precious memories, when with us he used to be.

Days of sadness still hang o'er us, Friends may think the wound is healed, But they little know the sorrow That lies within our hearts concealed.

Deep in our hearts is a picture Of a loved one laid to rest. In memory we shall keep it, Because he was one of the best.

We think of you in silence, Your name we oft recall, But there is nothing now to answer Except your picture on the wall.

You are gone but not forgotten, And as dawns another year, In our lonely hours of thinking Thoughts of you are always near.

We think of you in silence No eyes may see us weep, But many silent tears are shed While others are asleep.

Sadly missed by wife, Mrs. Lizzie Hayes, and children. 1t

GETS MEDAL

NEW YORK — After 15 months, the government got Capt. Henrik Curt Carlsen to agree to stand still long enough for a medal to be hung on him. Carlsen electrified the world late in 1951 and early in 1952 by sticking with his broken ship, the Flying Enterprise, until moments before she sank.

NOT ENTITLED TO PAY

Frankfort, Ky., June 8 — Sheriffs are not entitled to be paid for returning a prisoner from another state without being commissioned by the Governor to return the prisoner through appropriate extradition proceedings, Assistant Attorney General John B. Browning ruled.

When armed with the proper papers, the sheriff is entitled to be paid six cents a mile for the distance traveled to and from the jail of the county designated in the Governor's warrant.

Newspaper headline: "Insurance Companies Oppose Compulsory Liability; Fear Cut in Profits."

The item was about Governor Dewey's fight to get a compulsory insurance law in New York. It should interest readers of this weekly column here in Kentucky because a similar measure will be introduced in Frankfort nine months from now, and because the insurance companies opposing such a bill will have one main reason for their opposition—fear of reduced profits. I understand some companies don't oppose the measure.

In Frankfort, as in Albany, proponents of compulsory car insurance will have just one motive. They will seek a law that will protect people who may be killed or crippled on the roads they own and have a right to drive on. The public's stake in compulsory insurance is human rights. The interest of insurance companies opposing compulsory insurance is profits, money. Every argument I have heard against protection for everybody on the roads ignores human rights entirely.

I can remember when compulsory compensation for working men and women was opposed as bitterly as universal motor insurance is opposed now. The opposition didn't want wage earners protected against accidents, because the insurance cost money.

Protection for people liable to be hurt or killed in traffic accidents does not involve any class. It is not limited to factory workers. It covers all who appear on public roads and streets. If you, dear reader, should be hit now by an uninsured car and seriously injured—crippled for life, maybe—the chances are a hundred to one you could never collect a cent of compensation. If you should be killed, maybe leaving a widow and children, your heirs would get nothing. Your children might have to go to an orphanage.

In Henderson the other day an insurance agent said to me, "There are many car owners we don't want to insure; we turn them down because they are bad risks."

"Nobody can blame you for that," I replied. If after a thorough investigation by the highway police any car owner is found to be a bad risk, he ought not be given a vehicle license at all. Why turn bad drivers—drunks, reckless persons—loose on the highways at all. Allowing bad risks to go out to kill or cripple people on the roads involves responsibilities too close to homicide for your correspondent's conscience.

Nobody wants to inflict financial hardship on liability insurance companies. A legislature enacting a compulsory insurance law certainly should be willing to alter rates as soon as a reduction in profits is ascertained. Such a change in rates could be given a retroactive effect—set at figures that would compensate the companies for losses that might occur while rates were being tested.

I am sure that in every one of the sixty odd counties where KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH is read there are people who have been injured by uninsured motorists. Get the facts about just one case and you will urge your state senator and your representative to vote next January for compulsory liability insurance. You will be putting human justice first without necessarily reducing corporate dividends.

"God sees not the coin but the giver" . . . It's a big mistake to hesitate to give a gift for fear the recipient will think it is meagre . . . we must bear in mind "it's just the thought" that counts. A small token from the bottom of the heart is so much more worthwhile than something lavish which is not accompanied by the true spirit of giving.

Nowadays there is a tendency to measure things by their material value, instead of their spiritual significance. We forget that even intangibles are appreciated—a gift isn't of necessity something that can be clutched in the hand. Reading to the sightless, bringing cheer to a bedside are not "coins" but actually reflect more of the true altruistic spirit than any concrete present would.

As of today, let's all vow to give more of ourselves for "God sees not the coin but the giver." We all should congratulate Adrian Hall and his Wheelwright baseball team on their fine showing through all their play.

FLOYD COUNTY DEMANDS GOOD GOVERNMENT

II. OUR NEED FOR A GOOD SHERIFF

Last week I talked to you about deputy sheriffs and how I proposed to administer law enforcement in this county. This week I want to discuss a matter that at first blush has little to do with law enforcement but does have a lot to do with making Floyd county a better place in which to live.

To begin with we are living in a county with a declining economy. Our coal fields are in the doldrums as never before since the depression. The Courier-Journal carried an article recently in which it was said that 7,000 miners in Eastern Kentucky lost their jobs last year. Our young men and women are leaving for other states. Is there anything the office of sheriff can do to make Floyd county a better place to live? There is.

To begin with Floyd county needs small industry. It needs little factories in our towns to keep our young people here for work. But men with money are not attracted to a section except a section that has promise. Like the men who created the towns of David and Wheelwright, to mention only two, they want model communities in an atmosphere of good living and good life.

The sheriff's office can assist in giving that to a county. The first impression of a county is often through its sheriff department. The office can develop for the county it serves a good neighbor policy with other counties and with men who visit us or who come to see the possibilities of industrial development. This is just one of the details of the office that the old-line sheriff had no cognizance of nor cared. But a new day must be brought to this county and the whole united will of the people and their officers must be enlisted to assist. This is a part of my platform.

We Like to Express Gratitude

THE TIMES is anxious to give credit to all whom credit is due for the change of heart on the part of the U. S. Corps of Engineers about deepening Dewey Lake. We all worked on the project and at times felt as if we were shattering our lances on a windmill.

The Kentucky delegation in Washington, Senators Cooper and Clements and Congressman Perkins, in particular, "went to bat" for us, and to their urgings were added those of Governor Wetherby and the Division of Fish & Wildlife Resources, Conservation Commissioner Henry Ward and others. Until we know better, we are saying it was a team job.

Having decided to grant the favor requested, the Corps of Engineers joins the public in most cordial spirit. But the federal government must give a clean bill, without expense, of any claims for damages before the change can be made.

Now, as we express appreciation to these, we are more anxious still for the day to come when we can sit down to a typewriter and say the same for those utility companies and others who have smaller holdings in the reservoir area after they have agreed with us that this additional five feet of water during the "dry" season of each year will not be harmful to them and will be beneficial to the thousands who annually visit the lake in search of respite from the workaday world and its cares.

Who will be the first to receive from us all our thanks for such cooperation?

What's in a Name?

Because his name is Wesley, a Corbin, Ky., minister has been awarded a free trip to Philadelphia June 22-28 to attend the world-wide Methodist convocation on evangelism.

The Rev. Ralph G. Wesley, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Corbin, will go as a special delegate of the Methodist Board of Evangelism, Nashville, Tenn.

The convocation will commemorate the 250th birthday anniversary of John Wesley, British founder of Methodism. He had no children, but the Rev. Ralph Wesley's lineage goes back to England.

In its search for Wesleys the church board found five ministers with that surname on Methodist rolls. However, three are retired and the fourth is not yet ordained.

More than 5,000 ministerial and lay delegates across the country, as well as churchmen from abroad, will attend the meeting. Methodists of the Philadelphia area are expected to swell the crowd to 65,000 for an outdoor mass rally.

The convocation will initiate a series of local and regional evangelistic campaigns by Methodist churches. Their national goal is 250,000 new members by 1954.

Notice to Bidders

The Floyd County Board of Education will accept until 10 a.m., July 7, 1953, sealed bids on construction of a four-room school building at Bosco and at Liron, Ky., each building to be of block construction. Detailed plans and specifications are on file at the Superintendent's office, and same may be procured by prospective bidders on a deposit of $15. If bids are made by individuals making such deposit, the full amount will be refunded; otherwise, a refund of only $5 will be made.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

TO MY RELATIVES, MANY FRIENDS AND THE GOOD CITIZENS OF FLOYD COUNTY WHO WANT CLEAN ELECTIONS and HONESTY IN GOVERNMENT

In offering to the good people of Floyd county my son, EDMOND HERSHELL TACKETT, as a candidate for the office of County Attorney, his mother and I do so with the full knowledge of the quality and clean Christian life he has lived since he came back from the war and entered the practice of law in the office with me. WE KNOW, and we want you to KNOW, the type of man that he is and when you KNOW of these qualities in him, you will have no hesitancy in supporting him for this important office.

He is one of four of our sons who served his country during World War II and after spending over 11 months in army hospitals he was discharged with a lifetime disability. Even with this handicap he returned to college and earned his LLB degree in Law and passed the Kentucky Bar Examination. Because of the condition of my health he came into the office with me instead of accepting better situations elsewhere. He did this so as to be of help to me and I would rather see him win this race than to have won every race I have made in Floyd county.

I have been over the greater portion of our county and I find a general sentiment for him and a determination on the part of the voters to put a new man in the County Attorney's office. With four opponents dividing the vote over various sections of the county and no one running from the Mud Creek and Left Beaver Creek sections, where EDMOND HERSHELL TACKETT is closely related to the most of the voters and people generally, that definitely puts him way out in the lead and his opponents know that he is the man they have to defeat if they are to win.

HERSHELL is devoutly and conscientiously opposed to buying or stealing a single vote in this or any other election. He is just as determined that when he is elected as your County Attorney there will be no need for lawsuits against public officials, or WRANGLING over what is being done with the TAXPAYER'S MONEY. He has pledged us and authorized us to pass that pledge on to you that when he is elected COUNTY ATTORNEY each year he will BLAZE THE WAY by filing his SWORN statement showing how much money he has been paid for the past year and how much expenses (not guessed at either) he has been out, and if there should be any excess over and above his Constitutional limit, he will immediately turn the excess into the Treasury.

That after he files his sworn statement, he will then demand and SEE TO IT that every other county official files a "like" statement. The County Attorney is the LEGAL adviser of the county officials and when he has performed his duty he can force the others to do likewise.

Having implicit faith in the HONESTY AND INTEGRITY of our son, and realizing Floyd county's need for this sort of man as County Attorney, we pledge to you that as County Attorney he will, at all times, do the right thing in all matters, and with this pledge we earnestly offer to you his services for the next four years with unlimited faith that you will never have cause to regret your support of him.

Sincerely yours,
JOE P. TACKETT

For SHERIFF

Howdy Folks:

This is Guy Horn, your OLD JAILER. Since I have decided to run for Sheriff there haven't been any of my friends begged me to run for this office. I am making this race, because I have served you as JAILER, seven years and five months, and I have decided that I need the Sheriff's job and the people of Floyd county need me. I have no CREEDS OR CLANS backing me in this race. I have made no promises to anyone and if elected Sheriff of Floyd county will run the office as it should be done. I will not need any dictators or any advisors as to how to run the office and I think the towns of this county are capable of electing their own officials and can expect complete cooperation from me.

You old fathers and mothers of this county go out there and vote for Guy Horn for Sheriff. You have tried me. Ask the people who have visited the jail and they will tell you what kind of man I have been.

Hoping to see you all before the primary closes and thinking you for your past favors, one and all, I am

Judge Pontiac purely from the standpoint of quality and it's hard to believe that it is actually a low-priced car.

Here's a car so handsomely styled it's one of the most beautiful on the road.

Performance-wise, too, Pontiac will take on all comers. Its big, high-compression engine gives you split-second response in city traffic, lets you cruise at highway speeds with plenty of power to spare and economy, too.

Pontiac is a big car—in fact, no car so big is priced so low. Its long 122-inch wheelbase means road-hugging safety. And inside you'll find Pontiac's big, roomy Body by Fisher gives you plenty of space to relax.

But Pontiac's outstanding feature is its price—a price so low that if you can afford any new car you can afford a Pontiac.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE OLD QUESTION—AGAIN

I have been reading the letters of Mrs. Ferrell in The Floyd County Times, and I can also say it is a shame that we Floyd countians have to leave our homes in order to find work.

My home is at Printer, Ky., which once was a mining town, but now a dead hole. We were forced to leave our home for a two-room apartment and couldn't have got that if we had any children. But still we have to be called bill-billies and have our state talked about because we are forced to leave home for work.

There are so many large and small factories here, why can't we have some back home, so men won't have to leave their families or bring them here and have to live in basements or an attic and at that have no privileges at all for their children?

I was reading in the Detroit News where they were criticizing us, saying that before we left the south to come here we had to eat molasses and corn bread, then after we made a few dollars we were ready to go back, then say never will I set foot in Detroit again, then just as soon as our money was gone and we were back on corn bread and molasses back to Detroit we would come.

That's the way we are talked about, but can you blame them? No, for we do have to leave home.

So I am saying, as Mrs. Ferrell and others have said, why don't they wake up in Floyd county, so we all can come back home and be with our relatives and friends—not just for a week-end but always?

MRS. SADIE HALBERT
Detroit, Mich.

TO CANDIDATES:

Having read most of your campaign promises, I am convinced Floyd county needs all the things you have promised. In my opinion, none of you have said how you are going to accomplish any of these things. (Promises without foundation mean nothing.)

Here is how I think some of these things can be accomplished. First, you must have money. To get money, you got to have taxes. To have taxes the people must have income and for that they must work. In other words, the answer is industry. This cannot be done by refunding an authorized fee or proclaiming yourself honest and of good stock.

I think it can be done. If everybody works hard and together, appoint a committee for purpose of soliciting new business and spend your extra money from fees to advertise in newspapers of the larger cities, industrial magazines, etc.

You will encounter many problems such as water and sewer facilities. The larger of your problems will be the people of Floyd county. The policy of many people in Floyd county is, "You give me the job or I'll smoke you out." That is a very ignorant way of thinking.

I'll give my opinion on anything to anybody who cares to ask for it.

This letter is not intended to influence any voters or discredit any candidate in any way.

Dear Editor:

Today I received a copy of The Floyd County Times from my mother, who at present is in Chicago. I stayed up later than usual reading everything including the political advertisements, but the thing that caught my eye was a picture of a fellow serviceman that I attended grade school with at Garrett, in 1939. You gave his address (military) and I'm mailing him a letter.

It has been several years since I left the county, but childhood memories take me back, and I often wonder what has happened to the old playmates. You have helped me, by letting me know the whereabouts of one.

Although I have been back in the county several times, I never seem to see too many of the old chums. I guess they are all in the army. Anyway, keep up the good work—keep adding the military address and here's mine in case a few of the others that might remember me, get the paper overseas.

Yours sincerely,

TRIDENTON, N. J. — State Sen. J. Richard Kafes, a Democrat, was found guilty on charges of evading payment of $64,000 in income taxes from 1948 to 1950, and failing to make returns for 1949 and 1950. A federal jury returned the verdict. Kafes faces a maximum of 27 years in prison and $70,000 in fines.

The Mercer county Democrat announced he would appeal the verdict. No date for sentencing was set.

BASEBALL-STARRING HALLS CONFUSE SPORTS WRITER

(Editor's note: Although Wheelwright high school's baseball team lost in the quarter-finals of the state tourney at Louisville last week to Newport Catholic, the Floyd county school and its pitching star, Vondell Lee Hall, drew the lion's share of publicity from The Courier-Journal. The Louisville papers this year for the first time gave the schoolboy baseball classic full coverage, and they did an excellent job of it. Tommy Fitzgerald's story in The Courier-Journal about Wheelwright's pitcher and other Halls of the county who are connected with baseball is reprinted below.)

Maybe a psychological reason that Vondell Lee Hall of Wheelwright never had pitched a losing high-school baseball game in his life until the final game yesterday of his four-year career is that nobody ever before had dared to beat him.

Maybe even Newport Catholic wouldn't have been emboldened to do so yesterday, by 4-1 in the state high-school tournament after he had won 21 in a row, if somebody had told them about all the Halls up in Floyd county.

Everybody in and around Wheelwright seems to be named Hall, this reporter learned, but no army of brave and proud Halls in the background accounts for Vondell Lee's success.

He had a perfect high school pitching record until his last game because he has a "good curve, a good fast ball and especially a good head on him," his coach said.

The coach's name? Well, Hall, of course—Adrian Hall.

"No coach, though," he said.

Coach Hall said that scouts for the St. Louis Browns, the Milwaukee Braves and the Brooklyn Dodgers, among the ivory hunters at the tournament, all had talked to him about Vondell Lee.

"The scouts," he added, "also are interested in our catcher."

"What's his name—but don't tell me! It must be Hall," triumphantly shouted his visitor.

"That's right, it is, Morris Ray Hall. He's no relation, though, to either one of us—to me or Vondell Lee."

To break the monotony of this litany of Halls, the conversation was steered to Ray Patton, the former Louisville Colonel, and Ray Fannin, a couple of lads from up Wheelwright way in the Eastern Kentucky mountains who had pitched pro ball.

"We have a boy who's doing darn good right now in pro ball," said Adrian. "He's a catcher with Alexandria, La., and is leading the Evangeline League in home runs. He's from Auker."

"Name surely couldn't be Hall, by any chance, could it?" gleefully asked his visitor, confident he had the Halls licked at last.

"Gee, I forgot to tell you his name, didn't I?" Adrian said. "But I didn't think that was necessary. He's a Hall, too. Jack Ray Hall. No relation to any of us other Halls."

22 Students from Floyd Enter Pikeville College; 15 in Teachers Course

Thirteen young Floyd county women and nine men are among the 119 students registered for the first term of summer school at Pikeville Junior College, it was announced this week.

Fifteen of the 22 Floyd countians are enrolled in the teachers course at Pikeville, Dr. A. A. Page, college president, said. Others are registered for business, pre-engineering, scientific, pre-medical and general arts courses.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"I'M NOT SUPERSTITIOUS, BUT . . ."

In the series of themes that my freshmen have recently written about folklore in their own lives I often found some such statement as this: "Of course, I am not superstitious, but I do think of signs when I see them. Maybe it is half in fun." It would be a real achievement of a psychiatrist to separate the actual superstitious ones from those who merely remember superstitions, somewhat nonchalantly. As I am not such a specialist, I will not attempt to make such an analysis. However, suppose we try to test ourselves. If the questions I ask mean absolutely nothing to you, you are devoid of these superstitions, at least. However, if I were wise enough, I might keep on until I uncovered in your life some areas where superstition is very much alive.

Suppose we start with night. Are you equally as brave after dark as you are in broad daylight? Do night noises register in the same fashion as day noises? Is there nothing about the hoot of an owl that arouses in you a sort of strange feeling that approaches fear? If dogs howl, do you pay no attention to the howling? If cats yowl in tones that suggest human voices, do you just accept this as a matter of course? When you are driving your car along at night, do you get no folkish thrill when the headlights spot the gleaming eyes of some varmint? And if left to your own devices, would you walk through dense woods as slowly after nightfall as you would in the daytime?

How about luck? Is thirteen no more powerful than twelve or fourteen? Do you ever invite guests in such a fashion that there will be thirteen at the table? If you forget something and go back after it, do you perform some act to neutralize your luck or, at least, think about doing it? And, by all means, does a black cat mean nothing when it rushes across your road or path? Is Friday the thirteenth just another day? And would you dare to be married in some off color, one that appears in rhymes, like

"Married in red;
You'll wish yourself dead";

or
"Married in yellow;
Ashamed of your fellow";

Now let's look at the weather. Is a katydid just a katydid, or a weather prophet? Have you ever kept a record of the first note of the katydid to determine whether frost will come early or late that season? Are corn shucks merely to cover up the ears, or do they hold secrets of what is to be in the following season? Would you risk losing all your meat for the winter by slaughtering your hogs on the wrong day? And would you plant just anything in the field or garden when the ground was dry enough without recalling the phase of the moon or the signs of the zodiac?

Now that your potatoes and corn and beans are planted so they will do best, suppose we go to a funeral. As you are not superstitious, the pall-bearers will take the dead man out head first. The sexton is not superstitious, either; he will dig the grave just any old way say, with the feet to the north. Nobody present will be any more afraid of the dead man than they were when he was alive and loved by all the community. And, after the funeral, nobody would object to remaining in the cemetery until after dark.

It is possible that you have scored PERFECT to this point. On the other hand, I may be getting close to some concealed fear or superstition that you would not admit. Probably I had better stop before I invade the last stronghold of superstition.

Sad years have come and gone,
How well I remember the day
They came and took me by the hand
And said you had passed away.

Days of sadness still hang over me,
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they do not know the sorrow
That lies within my heart concealed.

Those about me think I'm happy,
For so well I play my part
No one knows how I missed you
Or the grief within my heart.

I mourn for you in silence,
No eyes can see me weep;
But many a silent tear is shed
Still sad and lonely.

Your daughter

Floyd County Historical Notes

By HENRY P. SCALF

A letter comes to this column that recalls vividly the bitterness of the Civil War, recalls too the prayer of Mark Twain who asked from the God of all the most terrible retributions upon the enemy that the mind of man could conceive. The prayer of Twain was in protest of war, the within letter is of the bitterness that made the agony itself.

It is written upon stationary, widely used in the North during the Civil War. A design of the earth, the United States of America on the side, the Goddess of Liberty standing behind it holding aloft a torch. Behind it all the rising sun glows in blue and gold.

It is quoted almost in entirety below:

"Noble Township, Shelby county, Indiana. Direct your letter to Wilber F. Stanbery, Walden, Shelby county, Indiana."

"January the 27th, 1863.

"Dear Brother-in-law, Dear Sir, I take the now offering opportunity sending you a few lines to let you know that we are all well at the present. Hoping that these few lines may find you enjoying good health. I have just received yours of December the 23rd 1862 which gave me great pleasure in hearing from you that was well and your family also. I have strange to write to you at this time the health of this country is tolerable good at this time. Money plenty and every thing is high. Hogs is worth $3.00 and $3.50 per hundred gross. Wheats $1.00 per bushel. Corn from 30 to 40 cts. Potatoes 75 cts. ry 60 cents per bushel, beans $2.00 per bushel. Everything is high, groceries and cotton goods unreasonably high though money is plentiful and everything else but horses.

"We have sold all the horses that would go in to the servis and some more than would do good but we have plenty of young ones coming on. Fight on John till the last damned Rebel is ded and in hell and the Devil will make fun of them coming to hell on such a pretense as they have for trying to overthrow this government.

"Tell the boys generally that they have the prares of all the goodmen women and children and such as doo not pray for the success of the Union Army and the downfall of the rebel arrasokessy (aristocracy?) will have ther lot in that lake of fire and brimstone that burns for ever and ever and if I should happen to be there I believe God will appoint me to heep live coles of fire on the traitor's heads.

"You requested to rite how I am getting along. I have eighty acres of land well improved and have plenty to live on. I got crippled 6 years ago this January that prevents me from tending my farm. I hire near all my plowing done. You speak of getting land hear. There is land plenty hear for sale from $30.00 to $50.00 per acre cash in hand.

"You may envelop this letter over again and send hit to John Stanbery or Ira Stanbery. If you will and rite me the result. I havent had a letter from either of them in eight years and if they ar rebbles I don't want one but I would like to know their sentiments. I must close my letter but remain your affectionate Brother and Sister until death.

"To John Hammons. From Wilber F. Stanbery and Hannah Stanbery. Right soon and direct your letter Waldon, Shelby County, Indiana."

Such is the letter and the prayer of Wilber Stanbery.

HOMER WICKER for COUNTY COURT CLERK

Sometime ago I announced for the office of County Court Clerk. Since that time I have received assurance of support from all sections of the county and this assurance of support has come not merely from my own relatives but from many people who are not related by blood or marriage. This support, all of it, is deeply appreciated, and I want to take this means to pledge you an efficient, and courteous administration of the office.

I was born on Right Beaver Creek, the son of William Wicker and Millie Davis Wicker of Lackey. My father's people were among the early settlers of Beaver Creek and by blood and marriage this family is connected with several of the many families of this county. My grandfather was Jesse Wicker and grandmother was Eliza Hayes Wicker.

I am a brother to Dr. M. V. Wicker of Wayland. Two sisters of mine, Mrs. Huey Bayes and Mrs. Louis Jones live at Garrett. I have people living in many other small towns and precincts of this county and these people, as I have said with many other people, have offered me their support.

I married Virgie Fitzpatrick, daughter of Cleve and Fanny Watkins Fitzpatrick of Maytown. Her people are the Allens, Howards, Shepherds, Terrys, Messers, Halls, Mullins, Bradleys, Webbs, Jacksons and many others of good old Floyd county names.

I am related myself to the families of Hayes, Hall, Johnson, Inman, Riddle, Chaffins, Howard, Conley, Davis, Sizemore, Adams, Campbell, Stephens, Mosleys and Hicks.

Homer Wicker endorsed for Clerk by Dr. M. V. Wicker

I want to take this opportunity to ask my friends in Floyd county to support my brother, Homer Wicker of Prestonsburg, for County Court Clerk.

He is qualified for the position, is honest and sober, will offer the people the courteous and efficient service they are entitled to have in the Clerk's office. Any support extended him will be appreciated.

Yours Sincerely,
DR. M. V. WICKER,
Wayland, Ky.

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's drive for a six-month extension of the excess profits tax collided with a jolt against the two biggest business organizations in the country. The National Association of Manufacturers and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce refused to go along with his plea for the extension.

CHRIST, CHURCH and CHRISTIAN

All readers of The Floyd County Times know I use letters, names and Bible numbers to speak in parables and compare spiritual and natural problems with something to make the world know God speaks through true disciples and that Satan works through false prophets and overlords of the world to disturb God's children.

I am using the letter C, middle name of Henry C. Hale. C—Christ, Church, Christian.

Christ, head of the church. Church called out from the world. A separate people, different gifts, but the same spirit.

Disciples first called Christians in Antioch (Acts 11:26), Church of God (Acts 20:28), Foundation of Church (Matt. 16:18). On this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Church in the wilderness (Acts 7:38).

Surely must be the Church of God.

Use the letters of Henry C. Hale. H is for home. H is for Happiness. H is for Heaven.

Vote for Henry C. Hale to protect our homes, make us happy, live in peace and go to heaven.

With my Bible picture of a woman, a broom in my right hand, a picture of Henry C. Hale in my left hand, is bringing out to view some of my hidden power and treasures. I have been Treasure-Mapping with pictures for years and I have really been blessed, and through my voluntary work other have been blessed while some have mocked me and cursed themselves.

God has caused spiders to write, mules to talk, dogs to bark, birds to talk and die suddenly to prove God is moving in a miraculous way to make believers out of ungodly men and nations.

Seven Special Blessings Promised Abraham

Genesis 12:2. I will make thee a great nation and I will bless thee and make thy name great, and thou shalt be a blessing, and I will bless them that bless thee, and I will bless all families of the earth be blessed.

So you see, that did not leave me out.

Talking mule (Numbers 22:28) surely did halt the false prophet, and it was a she-mule.

Spider works in king's palace and is exceeding wise and taketh hold with her hands. (Proverbs 30:38). Wise man Solomon said, Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter. Fear God and keep His commandments. For this is the whole duty of man.

It is the whole hog or none with me!

Sometime ago I saw a precious Democrat friend of mine in high authority, he and his wife, looking at a clean-dressed hog not cut. The man spoke to his wife and said, "Give the knife to Eva Meade and let her cut it up. She knows how."

This was a vision and a good one. I always helped my father on the farm, in the blacksmith shop, helped bell the sheep—we always put the bells on the ewes.

To you United Mine Workers, you know I pray for you and your great labor leader, John L. Lewis. I named my little grandson John L. Meade in honor of your great leader. Now I am calling on you to help me elect Henry C. Hale County Court Clerk of Floyd county to be sure my work will remain as pure as gold when John L. Meade takes up the work of his grandmother and labor leaders.

People cannot understand my writing being so personal. It is all individual, not selling anything, not begging for anything except TRUTH and JUSTICE. I give to others as God gives to me. I have presented the King James version of the Bible to the widow of my heavenly neighbor, Mrs. John Caudill, Prestonsburg, Ky. To the wife of the man who killed my husband I presented a white Bible. To a great multitude of graduates I have presented white Bibles and Bibles to members of my household who all now have homes of their own; to my mother, nieces, nephews and soldiers Heart Shield Testaments; Bibles to sons of pastors, merchants, miners and farmers, also to post-mistresses at East McDowell and to some Boy Scouts.

In 1948, with divine guidance, I sent by first-class mail two students Bibles to my special witnesses, County Judge Henry Stumbo and County Attorney Woodrow Burchett. You see, I am deeply interested in the spiritual and material welfare of our nation, state and county, and especially East McDowell, Ky., where I have a permanent home. I am a home-lover and home-keeper, a specialized prophetess, watchwoman and judge.

I prove all my points as I travel the straight and narrow way. I walk slow but I never do walk backwards.

Sincerely and prayerfully,
EVA MEADE HALL
