

This Town— That World

WE'LL WAIT

It's not exactly cricket to go around complaining about eclipses of the sun falling to measure up, but, frankly, Wednesday's didn't go over with me. Up betimes, as Peppy was wont to be, and about by 5 a.m., I was all set for the show. But there was the matter of a rather good-sized mountain for Old Sol to surmount before looking in on Prestonsburg, and when I last took a peek around 6 a.m., the most visible thing around was the eclipse.

But why worry about a little thing like that? There'll be another in 200 years.

"Uncle" Levi Strickland was complaining of the heat, Tuesday. Reminded that the weather was a lot cooler, he "lowed" maybe he got so hot last Saturday he just hadn't cooled off yet.

A NEW ANGLE

Here's a chain letter of another kind, and I doubt if the Post Office Department will be able to do much about it. It reads:

"This chain letter was started in the hope of bringing relief and happiness to tired husbands. Unlike most, this does not cost any money. Simply send a copy of this letter to five of your married friends who are equally tired. Their bundle up your wife and send her to the man whose name is at the top of the list, and add your name to the bottom.

"When your name comes to the top of the list, you will receive 16 women, and some of them are bound to be lusus. Have faith—don't break the chain; one man did, and got his own wife back.

"A Tired Friend"

"P. S. At the time I write this a friend of mine had received nine women. They buried him yesterday, and everybody said he had a smile on his face for the first time in years."

AN APPRECIATION

Late next month, Dr. Gordon Wilson's 1000th issue of his column, "Tid Bits of Kentucky Folklore," will appear in Kentucky newspapers.

FIELD STATION NEARLY READY

For Area Disease Study As Staff Near Complete With 17 Now Working

The last two technicians to be transferred to the Cumberland Field Station of the U.S. Public Health Service at West Prestonsburg arrived Wednesday, and work of the station is expected to begin soon, Leland J. McCabe, Jr., acting chief, said.

The last two arrivals were Miss Arna Bowman, a nurse-officer from Alaska, and Dr. Mary M. Walton, senior surgeon, of Phoenix, Ariz. D. J. Schlessman, chief of the station, has been detained for several days in Atlanta.

While work is expected to start soon, it will be necessary to train certain personnel, some of whom have been employed locally, McCabe said. The laboratories have two main divisions, bacteriological and

CURLIN SAYS TRAIL CHANGE TO BE MADE

Road, Van Lear to Auxier Via Dam, Will Be Built, County Officials Told

Commissioner of Highways W. P. Curlin last week confirmed the fact that the state plans the building of a road from Johnson county to Dewey Dam, but he also pointed out that the road will be continued up the west shore of Dewey Lake and across Hager Gap to connect with the Auxier-Prestonsburg road at a point opposite the town of Auxier.

County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Clerk DuRan Moore and County Attorney Hollie Conley were referred to Curlin by Governor Wetherby when they contacted the latter about state plans for the route. "I don't make any promise of roads," the Governor said, according to Judge Stumbo.

At Curlin's office they were able to talk only briefly with the Commissioner. County Clerk Moore gave this version of the state's position on the road, quoting Mr. Curlin:

The route from Van Lear to the present Auxier bridge will be a secondary road, to feed into U. S. 23 which is planned for relocation. This relocation job would have US 23 leaving its present course at East Point, pass through Auxier and, crossing the Big Sandy at or near Auxier via a new bridge, connect with the Prestonsburg-Auxier-VanLear route. US 23 from that point would continue up-river to the junction in the Porter Addition here. The Van Lear-Auxier secondary road, he said, eventually will connect with KY 40 at or near Paintsville.

A new survey on the US 23 relocation will be made by this fall, the Highways Commissioner said. He added that an 80-foot right-of-way will be required for the route and that an overpass of the railroad at Auxier will be built.

He did not set a date for construction, but said that if the Department of Highways had unlimited funds it could not begin the job on US 23 relocation this year. The new route, if built, would by-pass Abbott mountain, a major highway hazard at certain seasons, but it was explained the present route over the mountain will be maintained.

Moore quoted Curlin as saying, in explanation of the state's delay of work on the route from here to Auxier, that there would be no need to tear up the present Auxier road and do temporary work when a permanent job is planned on the route as a part of US 23 which is

MEETING SET FOR DECISION

Floyd Blood Program Fate Will Be Decided At Wednesday Meet

Next Wednesday evening's meeting at City Hall here is expected to mark the end of the Red Cross blood program in Floyd county. A Red Cross field representative said here Wednesday he cannot see how the county can continue with the program, in view of the fact that only half the fund quota of $8,900 has been raised here.

No other reason for discontinuance of the program exists; it is one of finances, pure and simple. Meetings were scheduled last Friday night and again Tuesday night of this week, but the absence of doctors and others caused postponements till next Wednesday. The meeting definitely will be held then and a decision on the blood program will be reached, Miss Ella Noel White, executive secretary of Floyd Red Cross Chapter, said.

The other Red Cross services here will continue to be maintained. At Pikeville this week the Red Cross closed its office after the fund drive had raised less than $3,000.

At what in all probability was the last Floyd visit of the bloodmobile, only 49 pints of blood were procured here last Wednesday. This was next to the poorest showing made by Prestonsburg and vicinity. Seventy persons were scheduled to give blood, but only 27 of these appeared. There were 32 volunteers, but nine were rejected and another failed to give a satisfactory quantity of blood.

Seven persons during the day joined the envied Gailon Club. They are: Mrs. Virginia Draughn, of Garrett, Don Woods, Ted Nelson, Carsie Kidd, Rainey White, Delmas Saunders and Bob Spurlock, all of Prestonsburg and vicinity.

Poor Market Conditions Result in Lay-Off of 22 At Princess Elkhorn Mine

Lay-off of 22 men comprising one work section of its No. 2 mine at Pernele was attributed by a Princess Elkhorn Coal Company spokesman this week to market conditions which included both the low price of coal and a lagging demand for the product of the mine.

The company, it was explained, is trying to run full time, and the cut-off of the work section which under present conditions is not needed is a factor making possible for remaining employes a full five-day week instead of three or four days.

The number of employes at both the company's No. 1 and No. 2 mines is still about 435.

COURT VOIDS CLICK'S TERM

Attack on Testimony Of Witness Results In Court's Decision

The 21-year-pen term given Ray Click in Floyd circuit court for the slaying of Otis Blankenship at Manton was reversed last Friday, last day of the Court of Appeals' spring term, on the grounds that the attack made by the Commonwealth on testimony of Lloyd Click was "prejudicial to the rights of the defendant."

Lloyd Click was wounded at the same time Blankenship was killed, and he told the grand jury the shots were fired by Ray. Called to testify in the trial as a Commonwealth witness, he denied this version of the shooting. Thereupon the grand jury minutes and testimony of several witnesses were introduced to impeach his testimony.

Lloyd Click later was indicted on a perjury count and convicted. He was granted probation, however. The court failed to receive in time for a decision before adjournment on the suit for declaratory judgment in the case involving the City and County Boards of Education on the special tax voted here last March for the construction of a gymnasium-auditorium. The court did, however, set July 19 as the date for hearing of the case in vacation.

On the court's decision rests merger of the Prestonsburg district with the county system, sale of the bond issue to finance construction of the gym-auditorium, and location of the building on the new county high school site.

Two Men of P'burg Area Are Jailed on Charges Of Possessing Moonshine

Fred Newsome and James Robert Lucas, both of the Prestonsburg area, were jailed here Friday by Deputy U. S. Marshal Wince Trimble, who had arrested and charged them with possessing moonshine whiskey. Their cases were later referred to the U. S. Commissioner at Pikeville.

Newsome and his daughter, Lillie, waived hearing this week before County Judge Henry Stumbo on incept charges, and are now in jail.

Billie Hinton was jailed Saturday by Deputy Sheriffs Al Patton and K. Hall on hit-run and drunk driving charges. His auto collided with another and he allegedly failed to stop. Felmer Laferty was booked at the jail by state police on a drunk driving count.

Virgil Jacobs was jailed Monday by Constable Mathew Napier, of Garrett, on a child desertion charge, and Billy Vaughan was charged with resisting arrest by policemen Bill Potter and B. L. Sturgill.

Mrs. Fanny Heddleston, Former P'burg Woman, Rescues Accident Victim

Mrs. Fanny Hubbard Heddleston, formerly of Prestonsburg, saved the life of her neighbor, Mrs. William H. Brammeir, at Portsmouth, Va., June 15 when she pulled Mrs. Brammeir free of a metal table which had been electrified by a short in the wiring.

Mrs. Heddleston saw a flash of electrical arcs, and ran across the street to her neighbor's home to find Mrs. Brammeir paralyzed by the shock. The former Prestonsburg woman was wearing shoes with crepe soles and was able to rescue the other without injury to herself. She said it required all her strength to pull the other women from the table.

Mrs. Heddleston is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grade Hubbard, of Prestonsburg.

State Earmarks $206,000 For State Park at Dewey

Of the $6,000,000 to be spent in the next two years in the state's building program, $206,000 will be spent at the Dewey Lake State Park. It was announced in Frankfort Tuesday.

The funds marked for spending at this newest of the state's parks will go into the building of 10 vacation cottages, improvement of docks, building a superintendent's home and installing utilities.

Funds were not allotted for construction of a lodge at the park, and it is not known here if one is included in plans for the Floyd development.

The Dewey improvements were the only project listed for this area. Repairs to the shop building at the Mayo Vocational School, Paintsville, was among several projects on which action was deferred until more information is procured.

FOREST MEET SITE IS TOLD

Demonstrations, Contests Planned for Organization Meeting at Adams School

Old Smokey, the forestry bear, will be at the meet of Eastern Kentucky leaders in forestry preservation to be held July 24 at the Adams schoolhouse on Highway 114, near the Floyd-Magoffin county line.

Other features of the meet will be a demonstration of tree-felling by modern mechanical saws, a tree-killing machine, a board and piling making exhibition and a chopping and sawing contest.

Purpose of the meet is to organize an East Kentucky Forest Preservation Association. Two speakers, W. C. Johnstone of the Kentucky Bankers Association and J. B. Newland, state director of forestry, will discuss the planned organization.

Local leaders interested in the new organization are meeting each Thursday afternoon to discuss plans for the meet. The Mead Corporation, of Chillicothe, O., has agreed to demonstrate pulpwood manufacture on the ground. Forest Ranger Forrest Burchett will have an exhibit of firefighting tools and the piling and board making exhibition will be staged by John Henry Canterbury, 84, who has made thousands of them in his lifetime.

Organizations cooperating in the move are the Soil Conservation Service, the University of Kentucky Extension Service, the Agricultural Stabilization Committee and the Kentucky Bankers Association.

Funeral rites were held Tuesday at the Sandy City Freewill Baptist church at Ashland for Rev. A. L. Jackson, 62, formerly of Betsy Layne, but a resident of Ashland for the last 13 years. Rev. Jackson died Saturday of last week. He was a retired C. & O. Railway Company employe and had moved to Ashland 13 years ago.

Rev. Jackson was a son of the late General and Minnie Jackson, natives of Grayson, Kentucky.

Dog Warden Appointment Awaiting Official Advice

Appointment of a dog warden to serve this county under the new state dog control law will await further word from state authorities, it was decided by the fiscal court Wednesday. County Judge Henry Stumbo said Tuesday the law gives the court no alternative except to appoint, flatly stipulating that the court shall (not may) appoint a dog warden.

Last week's sporadic anti-rabies clinic, sponsored by the Floyd County Health Department in an effort to get a start toward compliance with the law, resulted in the immunization of 1,887 dogs. The serum used is good for three years. Earlier in the year, approximately 600 dogs were inoculated, but the serum used then is effective for only one year.

John M. Stumbo, health department sanitarian, estimates that only about 20% of the dogs in the county have been immunized against hydrophobia. The dog population, though not reduced to a definite figure, is believed to be more than 10,000. The 1950 farm census showed there were at that time only 3,890 hogs in the county.

A third anti-rabies mobile clinic will be held in the county, beginning Sept. 17, and continuing for a week during which the veterinarian will attempt to reach

FLOYD PICKED AS TEST AREA

Mountain Clark, county health administrator, announced this week that the Floyd County Health Department, in cooperation with the State Health Department, is sponsoring a skin-testing survey to ascertain the prevalence of two diseases believed to have been achieved considerable spread in Eastern Kentucky.

The diseases are histoplasmosis and trichinosis. The former is a fungus disease, known to be an infection of the digestive and respiratory systems. Very difficult to diagnose, it may linger in the system for years and in many instances has been known to result in death. Histoplasmosis is believed to be a communicable disease.

Trichinosis is a parasite or small-worm infection passed to the human system through the eating of improperly cooked meats, especially pork.

Three sections of the state have been marked by the State Health Department for this program of skin-testing: the east, north and west. Floyd county was selected as the "proving-ground" for the eastern part of the state.

Here, two medical students at the Louisville School of Medicine began work last Friday. They are Theodore Guigila and Howard DeFlaver, both of whom have been trained in the latest techniques of the work. The work in this county must be completed in 30 days. It consists of the injection of a serum beneath the skin, then a reading of the skin reaction at the end of 24 hours and again after 48 hours. If there is an infection caused by either disease, a slightly reddish area will appear where the injection was made.

The first and only positive reactor found this week was the head of the health department himself—Mr. Clark. Grateful for the diagnostic service, he has already contacted a doctor and has been assured that this early knowledge of his infection is of great importance and will greatly expedite his cure.

The service will be available at the health department offices in the courthouse, each Tuesday and Saturday for the next three weeks. It is planned to have a series of clinics in other parts of the county, places and dates yet to be announced.

Dr. John Hill, of the Floyd County Health Department, will be resident physician at the camp.

Only a few vacancies remain for the camping periods.

State Says Witnesses In Murder Trial Absent; New Hearing Date, Nov. 9

The case of Willard "Catfish" Damron, charged with murder in the Pike county torso case, was continued Wednesday until Nov. 9. The continuance was asked by the Commonwealth because of the absence of material witnesses, an attorney for the Pike county Sheriff's office said. No bond has yet been allowed Damron.

Damron, a Boldman poolroom operator, had been in jail sometime on a bootlegging charge but the day before his sentence expired, he was arrested and charged with the murder. The victim has been tentatively identified as Clyde Jack Clements, an escaped Pike county prisoner. The body was found on the Caney Fork of Johns Creek, April 1, by a dog belonging to Warren Lewis, a tenant farmer.

BUYING POWER IS RATED HIGH

In Floyd During 1953 As Per Family Spending Showed Rise to $2,106

Special to The Times
NEW YORK, June 21 — Floyd county proved to be a strong market during the past year, standing well up among the nation's 3,072 counties in business activity. The findings are contained in Sales Management's new, copyrighted survey of buying power, with statistics for 1953 for all parts of the country.

Continued heavy spending by residents of Floyd county was a bright spot in the local business picture. Their "purchases in the county's retail stores reached $25,268,000 in the year, slightly above the $24,518,000 volume recorded in 1952.

Per family, these expenditures amounted to $2,106 in the year, an increase over the $2,078 per family of the prior year.

The strength in consumer spending in the county stemmed from better earning power, which made for easier budgets and greater diversity of expenditures, especially in the direction of luxuries.

The data shows that the 120,000 local families had a net disposable income, after taxes, of $39,598,000. The per-family income in Floyd county, an arithmetical figure obtained by dividing total income by total number of families, was $3,300 last year.

That more money went into savings and into insurance and investments locally is indicated by the fact that 64 cents of each available dollar was spent in retail stores. On the average, throughout the country, 67 cents is so spent.

Such considerations as the number of people living in an area, the amount they earn and spend and the amount they might have spent go into a rating called "buying power index." For Floyd county it was .0192 in 1953 which is the per cent of the national business that might be produced locally. Actually only .0147 per cent of that potential was reached last year, indicating that much pent-up purchasing power remains.

WAYLAND MAN WRECK VICTIM

Layne Dies Of Hurts Suffered In Indiana; Rites Held at Dema

Marion Homer Layne, 21, of Wayland, died last Thursday of injuries suffered in an automobile collision four days earlier, eight miles north of Marion, Ohio. Mr. Layne had been visiting relatives in Butte, Montana, and had been visiting other relatives in Marion for about a month when the accident occurred.

Layne was driving alone when his car and another collided. His auto left the highway and plunged into a power pole, throwing him about 60 feet. His neck was broken, and he suffered a skull fracture. Three occupants of the other car were uninjured.

The victim was a son of Buck Layne and the late Eva Casebolt Layne. He was not married. Surviving brothers and sisters are Ellis Layne, Mrs. Carlos Persinger, Mrs. Bill Litz, Buck Layne, Jr., and Bobby Layne, all of Marion; Darrell Layne, Claude Layne and Richard Layne, all of Wayland, Ernest Layne and Mrs. Chester Harman, of Butte, and Mrs. Astor Collins, Frankfort, Ky.

Funeral rites were conducted Sunday at the graveside, the Revs. Hawk Moore, Hauley Warren, Sherman Stone, Bert Howard and Raymond Howard officiating. Burial followed in the Preston-Terry cemetery at Dema under direction of Turner Funeral Home.

Autopsy Not Justified
As Poisoning, Accident;
Boy 6, Succumbs Here

That six-year-old George Samuel Griffith was a victim of some form of poisoning was the belief expressed at the Prestonsburg General hospital, where he died this morning (Thursday), but what the poison was will not be definitely known.

To determine the exact cause of death, an autopsy must be made, and because no foul play was involved, the county will not bear the expense of an autopsy. The father of the child is unable to pay for the autopsy.

The child ate some watermelon late Wednesday afternoon. Later, he became ill and through the night suffered extreme nausea. He was given at least two doses of medicine from the family medicine chest, but retained neither. The boy was given some orange juice this morning, shortly before he was taken to the

COUNTY, CITY SCHOOLS LOSE AS CENSUS UP

Per Capita Rate Drops, But Equalization Will Offset Losses, Belief

Although Floyd county has a school census gain of 171 children for the school year starting July 1, its per capita apportionment will be $2,066.49 less than for the preceding school year.

This resulted from the reduction of the 1953-54 per capita of $38.11 to $37.51 for the coming year. The drop in funds resulted from a census increase over the state while revenues did not increase accordingly.

The per capita fund which goes to each county or independent school district is set aside for the payment of teachers' salaries only. Commenting on the loss of funds suffered by the Floyd county school system, County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner said the County Board is hopeful of maintaining teachers' salaries at their previous year's level, but added, "We're in an uncertain period."

The independent Prestonsburg school district had a gain of 12 in the census and a loss of $80.54 on the per capita apportionment. Floyd county's school children between the ages of six and 18 years total 14,271, and Prestonsburg's total 861. The county system will receive $535,347.08 this year in per capita funds while Prestonsburg will receive $32,298.64.

Some of the uncertainty Superintendent Turner sees in the situation rises from the status of the county as to its tax assessment rating in relation to the state as a whole. In order to qualify for its share of the approximately $8,500,000 later to be apportioned under the minimum foundation program, Floyd county must maintain an assessment ratio of 30%. Before blanket raises were made recently, its ratio was about 26%, and with the State Tax Commission exempting mining and drilling equipment and other items from the raise it is now about 28%.

What assessment ratio the county has attained.

The statute enacted by the General Assembly provides that a school

FLOYD TOWNS TO CELEBRATE

P'burg, Allen, Martin Plan "Fourth" Programs To Be Staged on July 5

If Floyd county's patriotism runs to celebrating, folks will find no shortage of places where Independence Day can be celebrated in style, right here at home, next Monday.

Three towns—Prestonsburg, Allen and Martin—have scheduled celebration extending on into the night with a square dance in the streets and a big fireworks display adding the crowning touch to a day of contests, free movies, watermelon feasting, ball games and all the traditional features of the Fourth.

Allen's celebration will center around the Sandy Valley Speedway, owners of which are offering prizes in a variety of contests. Auto races in the afternoon will feature the day, and cars from a wide area are expected to compete for the prizes. Martin's celebration will, in addition to a parade and contests, feature a beauty contest.

All in all, July 4—celebrated Monday, July 5—should be quite a day in Floyd county.

Minister Asks Officials To Curb Drunk Drivers

The Rev. Robert Martin, pastor of Grace Chapel, near Martin, who last Sunday in a radio sermon called on Floyd county officials to crack down on drunk drivers, has two long-standing reasons for his deep interest in curbing the activities of drunks.

A drunken driver killed his brother, several years ago. And his father was shot by a drunk.

"Don't let them pay a little fine, then go out on the road and kill somebody," he pleaded in his sermon last Sunday. "Take their licenses to drive."

Commenting this week further on the drunk-driver situation, the Rev. Martin said:

and from what I have observed—and I have seen beer in wrecks—I want to know how, when these men are taken in, how they retain their driver's licenses?

"If our officials are going to stand up for what they said while running for office, then I say enforce the penalties of the law on drunken drivers."

"Officials of no county," the minister said, "can put liquor down without the cooperation of the people. I think this county should invest in the radio system asked by Sheriff Collins."

The 44-year-old Martin, a native of Letcher county, conducts Grace Chapel as an interdenominational church.

The Rev. Orville Pearson, of the First Presbyterian church of Prestonsburg, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar and choir banked with palms and ferns, with baskets of larkspur and calla lilies, and a center archway covered with huckleberry foliage.

Her ballerina wedding veil was of silk illusion and fastened to a sweetheart bonnet of shirred silk illusion trimmed with seed pearls. Her colonial bouquet was of stephanotis and lilies of the valley centered with a purple-throated orchid.

Miss Jane Crawford, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a waltz length gown of embroidered imported organza over pale lavender taffeta, with a scoop neckline, short sleeves and a full skirt edged in embroidered scallops similar to that of the bride. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and spring flowers.

Miss Billie Kent Burke Weds Mr. John Keenan

Miss Billie Kent Burke, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William M. Burke, and granddaughter of Ernest Bridges Copeland and Mrs. M. P. Burke, of Indianola, Miss., became the bride of John Harold Keenan, of Falmouth, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harold Keenan, of Prestonsburg, on Sunday, June 13. The double ring ceremony was solemnized at 10 o'clock in the morning at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Weeks, with the Rev. T. B. Thower, pastor of the Methodist Church, performing the marriage service.

Vows were exchanged before an improvised altar formed of white wrought iron floor baskets of magnolia blossoms against a background of cherry laurel. Other flower arrangements were of gardenias. Miss Ginger Weeks, pianist and cousin of the bride, played Victor Herbert's "Thine Alone" preceding the ceremony and used the Wedding March from Lohengrin as the processional.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Jack Burke, of Hattisburg, Mississippi. She wore a linen costume suit of Dior blue. The rounded neckline of the dress featured a pearl and rhinestone trim which was repeated on the plerum of the short jacket, and the cuffs and lapels were piped in blue satin. Her matching hat was of velvet, and she carried a single white orchid on a white ribbon.

Miss Margaret Ann Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Holmes, of Batesville, was her cousin's only attendant. She wore a beige linen sheath type dress with white accessories, and her flowers were yellow mums.

parasitological. The functions are pure research on the causes and modes of transmitting diarrheal diseases. The station will be here at least five years, it was said, and will conduct a study of intestinal-borne diseases over a wide area of this section.

Eleven employees have been transferred from other stations here, and six persons have been hired locally, a few technicians remain to be employed, but these are not expected to be found locally.

Most equipment for the station was transferred here, but some is new. Equipment is modern in every respect. Major alterations were necessary on the building for offices and equipment installation, the electrical installations being complicated and taking some time. A workshop in the basement is being set up to repair equipment.

George R. Hayes, entomologist, transferred here from Little Rock, Ark., says he has been located here two months and has spent only two weeks at the station. His job is to eye new developments from the station's research and to make it available to the states. Only five men now serve in the State Service Section—two entomologists and three engineers.

Hayes' most interesting work to the layman is following disasters over the country, and this work explains his short two weeks at the station itself out of two months here. He maintains a plane at Pikeville to use in his flights over the country.

"Recently, I started out on a drouth situation at Carbondale, Kansas, but received notice at Kansas City to go to a flood at Des Moines," he said. Wednesday, he was expecting a call to the Rio Grande River after watching T-V pictures that morning. He was pouring over a Texas map.

Other technicians attached to the station are Dr. Martha K. Ward, scientist, transferred from Atlanta; Dr. Floyd Atchler, scientist, from Newton, Georgia; Miss Virginia D. Hines, nurse-officer, transferred from the Thomasville, Ga., station which was closed; Malen D. Bogue, sanitary engineer, of California; Miss Emarie C. Hemphill, analytical statistician, Thomasville, Ga., and Oscar Loop, entomologist, Montgomery, Ala.

Local personnel employed are Darwin Hunt, medical technician; William Paul Fuller, medical technician; Mrs. Joyce Short Allen, stenographer; Mrs. Rosemary Malone Frasure, clerk-stenographer; Dexter Baldridge, janitor, and Mrs. Helen R. Schroeder, statistical clerk.

district whose assessment ratio is below the required minimum may increase its tax rate in order to make the local tax effort demanded for participation in minimum foundation funds. Some lawyers have expressed the belief, however, that this provision will not stand a court test. The same statute also says that a district will be penalized in the fund apportionment only in proportion to its failure to meet the required assessment ratio.

School systems of this section, amount of the per capita allotment for each, and the gain or loss in per capita follow (unless indicated, figures are to be considered gains):

 Catlettsburg $40,964; minus $313.

Martin county $137,334.85; $1,268.21.

Lawrence county $147,875.98; minus $2,752.39.

In the coming school year, Kentucky teachers will be paid about $50,000,000—with the State putting up its $26,212,500 and the 224 local school districts the rest.

The $37.51 per capita is 60 cents lower than last year, although the total fund being distributed is the same.

Reason for the drop: there are 10,492 more school-age children in Kentucky this year than last.

The per capita fund is calculated by dividing the total of school-age children, whether or not they are in public schools, into $26,212,500. The census for the new school year is 698,759 children—42,052 of them Negroes.

Twelve county school districts, including many of the coal-mining areas, will lose $10,000 or more in per capita because of heavy population losses.

These county school districts and their per capita fund losses are:

Ballard $17,358; Bell $5,131; Breathitt $15,675; Graves $11,892; Harlan $17,777; Magoffin $10,108; Morgan $15,362; Muhlenberg $11,238; Perry $12,180; Pike $15,788; Pulaski $10,451, and Whitley $17,028.

Loss in school-age populations in these county school districts were:

Ballard 415; Bell 321; Breathitt 325; Graves 237; Harlan 192; Magoffin 207; Morgan 338; Muhlenberg 203; Perry 145; Pike 51, Pulaski 169, and Whitley 351.

Resolution of Respect

IN MEMORY OF BROTHER JOHN L. HARMON, WHO DIED JUNE 12, 1954

Once again hath death summoned a Brother Odd Fellow, and the golden gateway to the Eternal City has opened to welcome him to his home. Whereas, The all-wise and merciful Master of the Universe has called our beloved and respected Brother home, and he having been a true and faithful member of our beloved Order, therefore be it

Resolved, That Prestonsburg Lodge No. 293, I. O. O. F. of Kentucky, in testimony of its loss, drape its Charter in mourning for thirty days, that we tender the family our sincere condolence in their deep affliction, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

PERKINS LEADS FIGHT FOR FEDERAL AID TO EDUCATION

Carl D. Perkins (Dem., Ky.) since his election to Congress in 1948 has been one of the leaders in attempting to work out a formula of aid to education in the schoolhouse construction. Mr. Perkins has received praise from his colleagues in the House of Representatives for his active support and leadership in pushing such legislation.

As a member of the Committee on Education and Labor in the House of Representatives, charged with legislation of this type, Carl Perkins has demonstrated an unqualified interest in the educational needs of his district, state and nation.

During the Second Session of the 81st Congress, there was appropriated $3,000,000, the funds to be matched by the States, for a survey to be made of the various needs for school construction by the State Departments of Education. Congressman Perkins, and other supporters, were able to obtain approval for the appropriation against opposition, by constantly keeping the subject of federal aid to education before the Congress.

The survey of school construction needs is almost complete. On the authority of the survey made in each County of Mr. Perkins' District, he estimates that $66,000,000 would be required to bring schoolroom construction up to minimal standards in the thirteen counties of the Seventh Congressional District.

Primarily, such federal aid to education will benefit the ever-increasing school population, by providing adequate building facilities, but important secondary advantages will also be realized by the Seventh District. Federal aid would allow school construction to be undertaken on a scale calculated to relieve unemployment in Congressman Perkins' District. Not to be overlooked is the increased school budgets resulting under this program and its effect on increased school teacher salaries.

Congressman Perkins offers himself for renomination on the Democratic ticket to the office of Congressman of the Seventh Congressional District. Show your interest in federal aid to education by supporting Mr. Perkins at the August Primary.

Christian religion is man's great hope. The once-a-week, Sunday type of Christianity will not suffice, but an abiding faith, a day-to-day dedication to the teachings of Christ, religion as a living force will do a job all the philosophers and their theories and all the intellectual prying into the unknown have not done and cannot do.

This, then, is the challenge—for civilized man to direct his energies, his means and his genius to the work of spreading the teachings of the Christian religion to a world under threat of destruction:

To Russia, where belief in God will in itself destroy Communism, lift the individual above the status of a mere pawn of the state and supplant cold intellectualism with loving-kindness and the priceless quality of mercy;

To the United States and other countries of the Free World where Christianity in practice would create in men and women of high station a desire to build a better world for unfortunate others, to see all races as equals in the sight of God, and to work toward the Christian ideal of equality of opportunity for life and the pursuit of happiness, thus robbing Communism of one of its strongest rallying-points for the oppressed of the earth;

To man in every clime and circumstance, to scholar and ignoramus, scientist and hod-carrier—to all, the doctrine of peace which precludes war, charity which embraces both tolerance and unselfishness, and the solemn injunction, "Love thy neighbor as thyself!"

Without the spirit—the essence of the spiritual—all the arguments, written and oral, will be only so many words; all the treaties will be only so many ink-stained scraps of paper, and all the hopes of peace and an end to the threat of human extermination will be tragic disappointments.

due for repair and revamping under the state's so-called Five-Year Plan.

Rights-of-way on the part of the road from the dam to the Floyd-Johnson line are being purchased by funds subscribed by private Johnson county interests. The Times learned last week. This became necessary when Judge Stumbo refused to spend county funds on the route while work was not being begun also from the Floyd terminus of the road.

Who will buy the right-of-way from Hager Gap to the Auxier bridge is not known.

FAIR BOARD MEETS

The Floyd County Fair Board will meet tonight (Thursday) at the courthouse at 8 p.m. It was said recently, for the purpose of making plans for this year's fair.

"There are only two months left before fair time and the entertainment committee has booked the best rides in the country," says Ellis Boggs, county agent. "We look forward to having a bigger and better fair," he added.

OXEN AND HONEYBEES

Leonard Carter, the famous bee-hunter, of Big Laurel, was having a good year. A bunch of us were talking about his success, and the conversation drifted to honeybees in general.

"I'm minded of a scrape that I got into with bees, one time," said Elias Craft. "I was plowing a yoke of oxen for Tom Williams on the Round. He had one bee gum. The gum was made out of a hollow maple tree. Hit was a-setting on a steep bank, and Tom had propped it up with a fence rail. I was a-plowing right in above it, pretty close, when the oxen ran away. You know how contrary oxen can be.

"The oxen, bowed their necks, put their heads down, and went right out terge the bee gum; and, all the time, me a-trying to get them turned in another direction by pouring it on with a big black-snake whip. But I couldn't stop them. They ran right smackdab into that rail, knocked it down; and the bee gum just went end over and split wide open. The bees come a-pouring out and kivered me and the cattle. I grabbed my coat from the yoke bows where I'd hung it and wrapped it around my head, and then I took off down the hill, torged the creek, and fell down in

BLADES of BLUEGRASS

Thousands of University of Kentucky students have never seen the University of Kentucky. A good many probably have never seen Kentucky.

This isn't so startling when you consider that in the 35 years since the first home-study courses were offered by the University, more than 20,000 people in all parts of the world have enrolled in them.

Who takes these education-by-mail courses? Why, housewives, teachers, secretaries, nurses, handicapped persons, and young men and women in the armed forces, to name a few. Recent students included a patrolman, a timekeeper, a doctor, an editor of the New York Herald Tribune, and "four or five persons who are guests of state and federal penal institutions." Students range in age from 17 to 65.

Presently 145 home-study courses are being offered by the University for college credit and 28 for high school credit. Some of the more unusual non-credit courses are marine diesel power plant engineering, blueprint reading, refrigeration, and labor-management relations. Of course, there are the usual basic courses in such subjects as English, mathematics, history, and foreign languages, as well. More than sixty members of the University's regular teaching staff prepare and teach the courses.

Enrollments are received daily from military personnel stationed at bases in Korea, Japan, Europe and the United States, and from men aboard ship. Some of these are Kentucky boys who want to maintain contact with their native state and to continue their education while in service, but other states also are represented. In 1952-53 the enrollment of 1,436 in correspondence courses included students from 107 of Kentucky's 120 counties, 37 of the 48 states, the District of Columbia, and a number of foreign countries.

Any person anywhere, if he can be reached by mail, may take the home-study courses. The fee for a course taken at home is the same as if it were taken on the campus.

UK has a motto that may be familiar to you: "The campus of the University is the state of Kentucky itself." The Department of University Extension has helped to make this so. Now, in recognition of its worth to the people of Kentucky, trustees of the University have made it a full-fledged college—the College of Adult and Extension Education.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING (Editor, Sports Afield Magazine)

Almost invariably far more fish can be caught during certain types of rain than at any other time. The only reason many anglers don't know this is that they've never tried fishing in the rain. A steady, all-day rain without thunder or wind often produces spectacular fishing. Even a brief rain, without thunder and especially if it's without wind, causes far more productive fishing than you'll get before or after.

Thunder sometimes seems to put fish to the bottom and stop them from feeding—yet some of the most fast and furious fishing for pike that I've ever encountered has been during severe thunder accompanied by wind.

Here, I should warn fishermen who don't already know about it, never to stay out in open water or wade a large pool far from high trees, during a thunder storm—lightning strikes the highest object around and you may be it.

Which brings us to the subject of rainwear for fishermen. The makers of rainwear have done such nice things for us with light-weight, space-saving plastics. You should always keep rainwear in your tackle box or creel—think of it as belonging there as much as your lures. There are raincoats of all lengths and there are coats and trousers of the same light material. You can get these with attached hood or with a separate hat.

Now, to prove that rainy-weather fishing works, let me quote Jason Lucas, angling editor of Sports Afield magazine:

"Late last season, I was at a hard-fished lake during the middle of August when fishing is always at its worst. It was unusually bad even for then. But one morning, when I awoke it was raining—a steady, monotonous rain with no wind. The first gray light in the sky found me anchored in the middle of the lake—all alone. I had a light dry-fly rod on which I put a small cork bass popper.

"Here's what I caught, anchored in that one spot on that one popper: 75 bass, weighing from 1 1/2 to 6 pounds; 8 walleye weighing from 2 to 7 pounds; 6 pike from 3 to 9 pounds; 3 crappies up to 2 1/2 pounds; 3 bluegills up to 1 1/2 pounds.

"A total of 100 fine fish. Of course, I fished steadily for 16 hours but the thing was so fascinating that I couldn't force myself to go in until I'd landed an even 100 fish.

Floyd County Historical Notes

By HENRY P. SCALF

G. M. Hale, of Harold, is guest columnist in Historical Notes this week. His paper on the Howell family is appreciated and if anyone has bits of family history you think would fill this column, send it along.

THE HOWELL FAMILY

By G. M. HALE

Eastern Floyd county is the home of a great number of Howells. Most of them live in Mud Creek and adjacent territory. I shall speak of only two families from my own memory, going back to the 1830's. One family whose home is on Toler Creek and stems from Jessie Howell and John Howell. John, who died about sixty-five years ago, had no offspring. Jessie Howell was the father of Jeff, George, Steve and Henderson. Steve and Henderson are still alive.

Another family of Howells populated Little Mud Creek about seventy years ago or thereabout. This family I shall, more particularly, speak of. The progenitor of the family was Larkin Howell, who came to this country from Wales, in the early 1840's. He married and settled in Virginia and later came to this state. According to the information I have he reared four sons and four daughters. The sons were—John, James, George and Thomas, and his daughters were—Jane, Polly, Malinda and Liney.

John Howell was the father of Jeff D. Howell. John Allen Howell, now of Prater Creek, was the son of Malinda Howell. Larkin Howell went into the Civil War and never came out. He died from a forced operation. John Howell, son of Larkin Howell and father of Jeff D. Howell saw service in the Civil War.

After the war he married and settled on Little Mud. Of eight children born into his family, I mention only two—Alex and Jeff. Both served in the wars of their country. Alex was killed at Jolo in the Philippine Insurrection.

Jeff D. Howell, whom I want to specially mention was born on the Frog Branch of Little Mud, March 9, 1874. This was in the interval of the old families of Akers, Yates, Meades, Clarks, and Roberts'. About this time the West called and many migrated to the new country. Of this number, John Howell, Jeff D's father, moved to Arkansas in 1889, and later to Indian Territory and lodged at Muskogee.

The Spanish American war came and Jeff D. enlisted for the duration. He and a few other Kentucky sharpshooters, with a few thousand besides, vanquished the Spanish in Cuba in about ninety days, and the war was over. Jeff D. was mustered out and came back. But he was not satisfied. A boy from the hills had helped to achieve victory for his country and a lust for other adventures was in his bones. An opportunity soon came—the Philippine Insurrection. A call for thirty thousand volunteers was issued. His brother Alex, fighting there had been killed, and Jeff was with an oath to avenge the death of his brother. "I'll kill all the..." he said, "before I come back."

In his two years service in the Philippines, he engaged in many battles and had many close calls. By his alertness, one night, he saved his company from being butchered in their beds. He came back to the states in 1901. But he yet was not through. An expedition to Alaska, took the midnight surr at Ft. Yukon, navigated the Yukon River to the mouth, then by ship back to the stage again. Then he did guard duty at Alcatraz two years. Discharged in 1904, he went back to his home in Muskogee, Indiana Territory.

He could not be still. Wanderlust seized him again and he was off to his boyhood home in the Kentucky hills. Times, places and people had changed. A restless stranger in his own land he was off to the service again.

He went to Huntington to re-enlist, this time in the Coast Artillery, served in this capacity till 1913, then to guard duty, then back to Coast Artillery until 1918. He wanted a crack at the Kaiser and was shipped to France, helped wind up the first World War, then home with discharge. He was through with wars.

Faithful to his homeland he had answered when it called. His best years he had given to defend its principles. He laid down his tools of war and sought a quiet life to enjoy a well earned rest. Now in the mellow life of eighty he fares well in his adopted state of California. Aside from one exception the curtain falls on another generation which has scattered and blended, beyond recognition, through the sweep of years.

The exception is the family of John Allen Howell. He never caught the wanderlust and chanced his destiny with hill folk whom he knew. His choice must have been wise for he reared a remarkable family; singular in a way to any family I have known.

It was and is a family of one dozen, still intact — two parents, ten children, five sons, five daughters, still living. The father and mother live happily and sumptuously at the old home, enjoying the companionship of a widowed daughter who has dedicated her life to their care. The oldest son, a widower makes his home with them. All the others have made their mark in politics, teaching, merchandising or clerical pursuits.

Mr. Howell exemplifies the Biblical formula—"in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread." His life should be an example and incentive, to this generation, that a man can start from scratch and through industry and frugality carve out of these hills a good living. He is one of the few solid dependable citizens, left from an age that is fading out. He lived and thrived the American way.

Homey, rich in sentiment, often humorous and always tinged with a nostalgia for his Fidelity and the good-old days, the column has added interest and character to many of the otherwise dull newspaper page over the last 20 years.

Dr. Wilson, who is head of the English department at Western State College, Bowling Green, has received letters from all over the world. We wonder if he has heard yet from Floyd county. We who enjoy his column owe him at least a note of appreciation. This is mine.

Something's wrong. Either Carl Corbin's jokes are getting worse or I'm weakening—he hasn't told one in six months that I could clean up.

WE'LL PAY

The Courier-Journal reports that Henry Ward, Commissioner of Conservation, has hired a fishing expert to help folks catch fish at Kentucky Lake. If Henry will send one of these boys to Dewey, he won't have to hire him—if the guy can help us catch fish. We'll pay the bill.

TO EXACT REVENGE

A Floyd county farmer tried beans in his strawberries this year for a cash crop, and the neighbors got under his skin when they predicted drought, low prices and surdury other misfortunes. Came picking time, and except for the drought a good crop resulted.

When the bean jumpers were all loaded in the truck and he was leaving for the market, he remarked to his wife: "If I get a good price, I'm coming back and tell my neighbors I had to give 'em away. If I have to sell 'em cheap, I'm telling these prophets of doom around here I got a whooper of a price. The neighbors can learn from experience just like I'm doing."

(The views expressed herein do not necessarily reflect the views of The Times.)

And if any young lady can make the dogwood trail a reality Winnie Johns can do it, single-handed if necessary. It is encouraging that she will head this movement, which will ultimately attract enormous tourist trade. The idea was suggested almost ten years ago and like many other wonderful ones remained in the paper stage only. With the Dogwood Trail and Passion Pegeant, Floyd county would not be begging for industry and help, as tourist business ranks third in this state. But talk is cheap. Words must be translated into action. With Mrs. Johns tackling the Trail, won't someone please page Digna Mandt to lead a county-wide drive for clean-up and beautification soon? No place can beat ours once we get moving. Right?

The beautiful, little First Baptist Church of Martin is nearing completion opposite the school. Many helped make it a reality. None has been more faithful in work and sacrificial gifts than its beloved pastor, Rev. Merle Wadley, who spends many hours in actual labor there.

With the Boss we visited old folks Sunday. It is a joy to reminisce with Uncle Jimmie and Aunt Causette May and Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Allen. All have been gravely ill but are still cheerful. Maytown has been richly blessed by the lives of these four in past years. Since they can no longer be active, many of their friends visit them often now.

Recent letters in The Times invoke much comment. Both Mr. Clark, and Mrs. Dingus, in her reply to him, might adopt more middle-of-the-road policies. In denouncing the mountain people, he does what many erroneously do: makes no exception but writes as if every one were guilty when compared with many made by natives. From his letter one infers that there are no impolite motorists, gossips, or women wearing shorts in public outside the hills, though all of us know such is not true.

This attitude of condemning the mountaineers wholesale is largely responsible for the resentment a majority feel toward outsiders, as expressed by numbers. Unfortunately, it characterizes many, and avails nothing; for while his criticisms are indeed mild... some that are justified are daily made by many who proudly claim the section as home from birth, and for this reason only long to see the county top every scorecard.

Constructive criticism is the essence of progress. So long as we are satisfied we shall never advance further. The straightest path to improvement is to find what is wrong, whether we like it or not, and to DO something about it. This, "We are as good as you are," and "If you don't like it here, get out," serves only one purpose: it creates a stalemate, for it is beside the point and we hurt ourselves in feeling that way.

While some here may not object to disreputable public restrooms, tobacco juice on courthouse walls and floors, some substandard restaurants, etc., our better citizens try to! They have never lived that way at home, and they wish those who do would not, as such conditions reflect on us all.

A book could be written quoting what natives say against prevalent evils today. None would surpass that by the late W. R. Thomas, of Allen. His is the most critical analysis we have read, yet he was reared here and dearly loved the hills. We need to forget our sensitiveness and inferiority complexes, and stop thinking that those who find fault dislike the mountains. The desire for improvement and progress is a sign of love not hate. Every locale has sectional problems, and ours will never be above reproach, or perfect, for progress is continual.

Last week The Times published a letter by a former Floyd countyman, who rightly shamed us all for the appearance of trash piles at the lake. Shall we rub the chip on our shoulders, tell him to go back where he came from, and then ignore the disgrace he called attention to, or do enough citizens care enough to do something about it? Frankly, I doubt this, as our own leaders have been pin-pointing such eyesores for years, to no avail. Our editor and a handful of civic workers have pleaded for improvement, often to deaf ears. Why should we feel incensed when someone calls attention to something we should not have to be told about, in the first place?

LETTERS

TO THE EDITOR

LIKES PEOPLE AS THEY ARE

Editor, The Times:

I think we need to get a little "hot under the collar" once in a while before we find cause to express our appreciation to the people around us for being just as they are.

Since Mr. Glenn Clark was so liberal with his viewpoints in the June 17 Times, I take this privilege to practice the same liberality. This is a reply to Mr. Clark and to any others who have become cynical enough to belittle our integrity. Most of us in Kentucky respect other people's ideals and their choice of a place to live. Since this is our choice, why shouldn't we have the same respect of others?

It is humiliating and disgusting to know that a fellow-Kentuckian will go away for a few days or weeks and become so carried away by the big city ways and customs that he is prone to criticize his mountain brothers. It is the people like him who, instead of mentioning the good things about his own people, fall in the same old critical rut and imply that the greater majority of us wouldn't know it was Sunday unless we had pie for dinner and thus label us a backward, ignorant people, of whom the rest of the nation ought to be ashamed. Tell me, Mr. Clark, where do you find such a dumb, uncivilized people? Also, you may visit your neighbors just to gossip, but that is not my reason. And I'm proud to boast of neighbors who will stay up with me all night to nurse a sick child, when I need them.

I have lived for a few years in one of our biggest cities. I have also visited in about thirty-six of our United States, including the major cities and the little communities which are like ours—little more than a wide place in the road. I find they're all inhabited by human beings and I love them all.

I'll admit, city people have conveniences and are probably more efficient than we, but we have the same basic principles, the same fundamental requirements, the same president and the same God. Tell me then, why are we always being held in the lesser light in comparison to them? Why should we so disrespectfully be called hillbillies and riderunners with the implication that many of us are cave dwellers? Our cities have progressed with the times and, likewise, we too, have shown a little progress. You see, we don't believe your criticism of us, Mr. Clark—that we are so dumb, so rude, so unrefined and uncivilized. If we did, I'm afraid we'd have such a complex, we'd be afraid to venture out any farther than the grocery store for fear we wouldn't know enough to get back home.

I look at all the people in our neighboring states as just plain Americans. And getting back to Kentucky, I find my people here just as American as they. Some of us are not so well educated or intelligent but, if you had stayed long enough in whatever town you visited, I'm sure you would have found them there too. They're everywhere, just as are the most intelligent people. God didn't gather up every little ignoramus in the country and stick him here. Our communities need improving. Sure enough, and doesn't every other community? But if we ever hope to do anything about it, we'll have to start with ourselves and what we have.

If you still plan to live here in the midst of all this, next time you go to town, why not consider yourself an ambassador of goodwill, instead of terming your people uncivilized, which is, in my estimation, the very height of ignorance!

Yours for a better Kentucky, Aileen Hall, Mare Creek, Ky.

SAYS TAX BURDENS GREATER

Tax burdens for 1954 and 1955 will be greater, for most Kentuckians, than they were in 1953. The reason for this is the failure of the General Assembly to place a forgiveness feature in the withholding tax law which becomes effective July 1, 1954.

Beginning with all salaries and wages paid on and after July 1, 1954, employers will be required to withhold state income taxes. This will cause income taxpayers to pay all of their 1953 tax liability plus one-half of their 1954 tax liability in the year 1954. During the year 1955 taxpayers will pay the remaining one-half of their 1954 tax and withholding on all of their 1955 income. This will mean Kentucky Individual Income Taxpayers will pay one and one-half years' taxes in each of the years 1954 and 1955.

During the 1954 session of the General Assembly, efforts were made to secure a forgiveness feature in the withholding tax law, similar to the plan used by the Federal withholding law passed in 1943. All pleas for this consideration to the Individual Income Taxpayers fell on deaf ears in Frankfort.

ment of Revenue pointed out the subsection 14 of Section 59 of the Kentucky Constitution prohibit such consideration being given to the Kentucky Taxpayers. This subsection reads as follows:

"The General Assembly shall not pass local or special acts to refund money legally paid into the State Treasury."

The Kentucky Tax Research Association pointed out that the consideration which should have been given to the taxpayers could have been done by the simple method of allowing a percentage tax reduction in 1954 and 1955 taxes before the amount payable to the State Treasury was determined.

The taxpayers group also pointed out that the law would provide approximately $10,000,000 of additional revenue for the state during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1955.

Administrative officials recognized that additional revenue would be available and appropriated same for the biennial budget approved by the 1954 General Assembly. The officials pointed out the money was appropriated for so-called capital improvements. Capital improvements each year, are nonetheless recurring expenditures of Governmental agencies. When the next session of the General Assembly convenes in 1956, there will be continuous demands for more revenue to make up the $10,000,000 being spent for capital improvements during this biennium which will not be available through present revenue sources.

At the present time the fiscal picture for the State of Kentucky is a bad shape because of the spending of the surplus, which has been used for a working capital fund, by the last three sessions of the General Assembly. This action by the General Assemblies made it necessary for the 1954 session to authorize the issuance of tax revenue anticipation warrants in order to keep the state on a cash basis and circumvent the bonding restriction in the constitution.

The taxpayers association pointed out that only 24 Representatives and 7 Senators voted "No" on the withholding tax bill.

Those voting "No" in the houses were: W. Bartley; J. Y. Brown; C. Buchanan; P. Cobb; C. Craig; W. M. Davis; A. Dempsey; O. O. Dun can; H. G. Helm; D. Heskamp; H. F. Heyburn; L. C. Hill; V. Holt; R. E. McClannahan; C. McFadden; W. J. Marcum; G. R. Martin; C. B. Melton; A. B. Mitchell; R. E. Qualls; J. Salyer; J. Treadway; C. W. Wircel and C. R. Wooten.

Those recorded voting "No" in the Senate were: E. H. Clark; A. E. Cornett; J. H. Davis; T. W. Hines; A. Thomason; W. VanHoose and E. P. Warinner.

A REPLY FROM A LARGE CITY

Editor, The Times:

I would like to answer Mr. Clark's letter which was published in your paper on June 17.

What wonderful city did dear Mr. Clark visit? Shall he let us in on the big secret?

I've lived in the north four years now. During this time I've lived in two leading cities and visited in many others, and believe me I've yet to meet these polite, courteous well-mannered people. And really Mr. Clark, where are these female who don't wear shorts? And those drivers who take so much interest in a pedestrian? Golly! All the cities I've been in, the cars have trouble getting through the streets because the pedestrians insist on waiting in the middle of the street instead of the sidewalk.

No, Mr. Clark, city people do not visit each other. They haven't time to enjoy their neighbors. The only time you see them is at the corner bar. Your friends and neighbors are very few in a city, Mr. Clark. You see, somewhere along the line the Golden Rule "Love Thy Neighbor as thyself," has been forgotten. I am proud the mountain people still remember even though the cities are now above that.

I will agree with you that the people from the mountains need more education, but that doesn't make them dumb and rude. If you'd only get a look at the teenage kids growing up in these cities today, I believe you'd agree that your child would be much better off to be raised in the mountains of Kentucky, instead of some street corner, where every minute their lives are in danger of an alcoholic, a dope peddler, a communist, vice gangs, etc. Yes, Mr. Clark, I could tell you many things about a city and city people that you apparently forgot to notice.

My suggestion to you is to move to this wonderful city you so nobly mentioned. I feel the mountain people will be better off without you. I wonder if Prestonsburg can be proud of you. You see, Mr. Clark, we all should contribute to the building up of our community instead of tearing down what other people work so hard to build. I'm proud of my schooling and the courteous manners and love for my neighbor I was taught in Floyd county.

Mrs. E. C. Ratliff, 1023 Fourth St., N.E., Canton, Ohio.

Holiday Mail Service Restored For Martin

Holiday mail service heretofore discontinued at Martin will be restored, a letter to the Martin postmaster from the General Superintendent of Postal Transportation, Cincinnati, says.

The Department's economy program resulted in no mail going to Martin on holidays, service stopped at Allen and being discontinued on both Beaver Creeks on such occasions. The decision to restore holiday postal service to that post-office was made after complaints had been filed on behalf of patrons.

enforcement are dog wardens to be appointed in each county. After the committee meeting Friday, counties will be notified of their responsibility to appoint dog wardens, Adams said. Some have already appointed them, he said. The wardens are to approve licenses and, in certain instances, to appraise the value of livestock or poultry killed or injured by dogs. Each county must also set up a dog pound.

Along with the Department of Agriculture, the State Health Departments and fiscal courts, cities have a measure of responsibility for enforcing the law.

The State Health Department has the power to quarantine dogs and approve veterinarians to vaccinate dogs against rabies. It is charged with seeing that local health departments set up vaccination clinics.

Only 44 counties have announced that they are complying with this provision, the State Health Department announced.

False Arrest Convictions Of Johnson-co. Deputies Reversed by High Court

Frankfort, Ky., June 29 — The Court of Appeals today reversed the conviction of Hoppy Kimbler and Arthur Gullett, Johnson county deputy sheriffs, on an indictment charging them with "feloniously arresting and imprisoning Earl McKenzie against his will without authority of law." The deputies had been given sentences of five years and a day each.

The Appellate Court threw out the conviction on the ground the deputies were tried on a faulty indictment.

It said an indictment "following the language of the statute is good if the statute is descriptive of the offense and states or implies every fact and circumstance necessary to constitute the offense."

But where the offense is described only in general terms in the statute, as in this case, the court said, adding there was no set out "the particular facts and circumstances which constitute the offense."

The indictment against Kimbler and Gullett failed to do this, the court said, adding there was no question about the deputies' authority to make arrests as peace officers.

The opinion related McKenzie and another man visited an inmate of Johnson county jail, December 26, 1952. When McKenzie went downstairs, the deputies, in the jail office, arrested McKenzie on a charge of being drunk in their presence.

He was "locked up for some 3 hours, but received no abuses or harm" from the deputies, the opinion added.

McDowell 4-H Club Boy Awarded Week at Camp For Forestry Interest

Tex Gene Martin of the McDowell 4-H Club is one of 17 boys from 13 Eastern Kentucky counties who have been awarded an all expense paid week to forestry camp from July 5 to July 10. The awards were made to boys who were selected for their interest in forestry.

The camp will be held on the 14,000 acre Robinson Forest belonging to the University of Kentucky. This Breathitt county forest area is extremely rugged and heavily wooded making it an ideal setting for a forestry camp.

The camp staff will include James Newman, Extension Forester for Eastern Kentucky; O. M. Davenport, Professor of forestry, U. of Kentucky; and Harry Nadler, State Division of Forestry. This staff will give instructions in tree identification, improvement of the farm woods, forest fire control, timber estimation, and the care and management of forest plantings. Tours to various points of interest in the forest will include pine plantings which have grown into sawtimber 12 to 16 inches in diameter and badly burned areas where the boys can see the terrible damage to the timber crop resulting from forest fires. Timber Marketing and the uses of wood will be studied. T. M. Millet, Vice-President of the National Lumbermen's Association will be in charge of this portion of the program.

CARDINALS - DODGERS TIED IN LITTLE LEAGUE RACE

The Dodgers walloped the Yankees, 18-4, Monday afternoon, to jump into a first place tie with the Cardinals in the first-half pennant race of the Prestonsburg Little League.

Ten-year old hurler Roger Dobart celebrated his birthday by limiting Tommy Thompson's Yankees to six hits while his mates pounded Howard and Musie for 16 safeties, including a home run by J. Shrum with the bases loaded.

League Commissioner Gordon Moore ruled this week that the Indians must replay two games with the Dodgers and the Yankees.

The Indians violated a league rule by using ineligible players in gaining an 8-4 decision over the Dodgers, June 22, and a 13-12 triumph over the Yankees, the following day.

Games will be made up by a doubleheader between the Indians and Dodgers today, July 1, starting at 6 p.m.

On Monday, July 5, the Indians will meet the Yankees in a doubleheader at 5 p.m.

The last game of the first-half pennant race will be played between the Dodgers and the Cardinals, Tuesday, July 6, at 6:45.

A NEW TWIST

In a recent meeting of the Lock Springs (Missouri) Liars Club, an Ohio fisherman enlightened the group with this story.

He said he caught a whale of a fish but had no scales to weigh it. So he took a picture of the monster and the picture weighed 15 pounds.

Fishing at Dewey Lake in the past week has not been encouraging the use of camera.

The first-half pennant race of the Prestonsburg Little League will end Tuesday, July 6, and the second half will start on Monday, July 12. Various clubs will engage in games with farm clubs on July 7, 8, 9 and 10.

The winner of the first half race will play the winner of the second half of a 3 of 5 game series to determine the League champ. In the event the same team wins both races, all four teams will enter the play-offs at the close of the season, August 10.

In order to strengthen their club, the Yankees sought James A. Mosley and Frank Burchett for $10,000 Monday night at the player-auction. Various trade offers were made but no major deals were closed. The four managers will watch the farms club in action next week in the hope of bringing up additional playing personnel to the league.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING
(Editor, Sports Afield Magazine)

Tarpon fishing in many sections of the world has been overshadowed in recent years by catches of giant-size tuna, marlin and other enormous fish. But the fact still remains that when these silvery fish of the tropics are taken on correct tackle, the thrill and excitement is difficult to equal.

It is widely distributed in all tropical seas, and on rare occasion has been found as far north as Nova Scotia. During the midsummer season of 1953 two tarpon, one of 80 pounds and one a few pounds over 100, were caught by commercial fishermen from the harbor of Halifax. Tarpon have been taken from the surf at Cape Hatteras by sportsmen fishing for channel bass. All along the shores of the states that border on the Gulf of Mexico, tarpon may be fairly plentiful during the spring and summer months.

There is very little positive knowledge about just where tarpon spawn. While many very small tarpon are found in the upper parts of brackish-water streams, it is believed by some anglers that tarpon may spawn at sea and the small fish seek the protective waters of the stream for several years.

Tarpon are so hard to hook, chiefly because their mouth is as hard as stone. Robert D. Hall, saltwater angling editor of Sports Afield magazine, says that if you let the fish get the bait well into the rear of its mouth, chances are good that your hook will penetrate the fleshy portion of the mouth, instead of glancing off the flint-like front portion.

They will strike at a wide assortment of artificial lures. Metal spoons are excellent for trolling for big fish. Fly-rod anglers are taking many fair-sized fish on streamer flies and small spoons. Bait-casting rods have accounted for a great number of tarpon from Florida's drainage ditches, and many of the fresh-water bass plugs are attractive to them.

What tackle you use depends much upon your ability. The tarpon should be classed as a light-tackle fish, since its method of fighting is mostly by surface exhibitions of leaps and bounds.

Campbell Wins Second As Emma Downs Drift; Hurler Strikes Out 15

Julian Campbell turned in his second victory of the season by pitching the Emma Eagles to a 7-2 decision over Price at Drift. Campbell, was in command throughout as he scattered 6 hits, struck out 15, and walked 3.

The Eagles gave Campbell powerful support as they pounded out 12 hits of three Price hurlers. The hitting attack was led by Lowell Hughes with 4 for 5, and Westfall with 3 for 4.

Gasoline Use Law Starts July 1

Frankfort, Ky., June 29—The Department of Revenue today reminded owners and operators of trucks and buses of the new Kentucky Gasoline Use Law effective July 1.

All vehicles above 18,000 pounds gross weight which travel across Kentucky state lines are subject to the provisions of the law. This includes vehicles for hire or those in private operation.

The law requires that a license be obtained before such vehicles may operate or continue to operate on Kentucky highways. Monthly reports are also required to determine if vehicles which operate both in Kentucky and other states have paid Kentucky gasoline tax for miles traveled in Kentucky. The Department of Revenue's Motor Fuels Section administers the law, issues the licenses, and provides all the necessary reporting forms.

Kentucky registered vehicles operating only in Kentucky, provided they use Kentucky tax-paid gasoline, are not subject to any provision of the law.

Tarpon are found as far north as Nova Scotia—Sports Afield.

Race Segregation To Continue For Year

Frankfort, Ky., June 30—Kentucky's public school system will continue to operate for the coming school year under the past policy of race segregation, the State Board of Education advised all school superintendents in the State.

It pointed out, in a directive to all school officials, that the decision of the Supreme Court outlawing segregation had not yet become effective—that further arguments are scheduled during the fall to determine the manner and method of carrying forward the Court's decree.

Meanwhile, the Board concluded that, until the decree is formally issued, that it should observe the mandates of Kentucky's Constitution and laws enacted in its support, requiring separate school facilities for whites and negroes.

Seven permanent signs will be erected in Pike county to call attention to the work of 4-H clubs. The county 4-H club council planned and made arrangements for the signs after voting that the sum of $106 be set aside for the purpose. The council also contributed $50 toward the expenses of Miss Madge Gambill, Johnson county 4-H club member who, as an International Farm Youth Exchange, will spend four months with rural families in Denmark this summer and fall.

A sign with an error in date is the one shown above erected by Kentucky Department of Highways at East Point, near the Indian-Johnson county line. Safety Measure For Fuel Announced Frankfort, Ky., June 29—Hauling of liquefied petroleum gas cylinders larger than 20 pounds will be limited to licensed dealers and service-men after June 30, it was announced today by State Fire Marshal J. T. Underwood, Jr. in an effort "to promote safety through proper handling of the fuel." When the State's liquefied petroleum gas regulations were revised some months ago, dealers were given until July 1 to discontinue cash-and-carry sale of bottled gas beyond the 20-pound limitation.

Agreement Paves Way For $14 Million Power Development Project

An agreement which paves the way for the release of $14 million for the development of power facilities in Eastern and Central Kentucky has been approved by the REA Administrator Nelson, according to Senator John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.). The Senator witnessed the signing of the necessary documents by the Administrator in the Department of Agriculture building.

The action gives the consent of the Rural Electrification Administration to an agreement concluded between the East Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperatives and the Kentucky Utilities Company for the integration of power lines and generating plants. The agreement has already received the approval of the Kentucky Utilities Commission.

Senator Cooper pointed out that East Kentucky is owned by 19 distribution co-operatives in the State. Integration of these two large electric systems would result in a number of direct advantages and savings, it is said, including the following:

1. Integration will eliminate costly duplication of facilities with an expected saving of $3 million for the Cooperatives through elimination of 292 miles of proposed high voltage transmission lines.
2. More adequate and reliable power supplies are assured to the consumers of both electric systems.
3. The Cooperative will be enabled to meet its growing needs for power by its customers, at a small investment in generating installations.
4. Wholesale cost of power to the 19 participating cooperatives will be cut below the rates presently in effect.

The East Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperatives is a federation of 19 rural electric cooperatives with headquarters at Winchester. The constituent organizations serve more than 125,000 farm families and other consumers in the eastern two-thirds of Kentucky.

The Cooperative is now in the process of completing construction on a 40,000 kilowatt steam generating plant in Kentucky, Senator Cooper stated, and the agreement with Kentucky Utilities will make available that company's transmission lines for delivery of power to cooperative consumers. It is estimated by REA, the Senator added that the East Kentucky Cooperative will purchase 30 percent of its needed power from Kentucky Utilities until additional generating facilities can be constructed with REA loan money.

Judge Pruitt's Testimony On Juvenile Delinquency Included in Publication

The testimony of County Judge Ervin S. Pruitt, of Pikeville, as to the effectiveness of Scouting in preventing juvenile delinquency was included in the publication issued by Dr. Arthur A. Shuck, chief Scout executive entitled, "Less Juvenile Delinquency, More Good Citizenship through Scouting."

The 35 page booklet was distributed recently at the annual meeting of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, held at Washington, D. C. Judge Pruitt said, "The past six years I have served as Judge of the Pike county juvenile court of Pikeville, Kentucky. The jurisdiction of this court covers 800 square miles of eastern Kentucky mountains, inhabited by 83,000 people and including 23,000 school children.

"In every community in which Scouting has been established, we find a decline in juvenile delinquency. The Scouting program is becoming a must—with our churches, schools and civic clubs serving as sponsors.

"Scouting throughout our communities is the finest of weapons to combat vandalism, vagrancy and disregard for human and public values. I recommend Scouting for all boys."

President Eisenhower, who spoke at the closing luncheon of the annual meeting, said he hoped the time would come when the term, "Juvenile Delinquency," would be eliminated from the language of America. He said that no better creed for the guidance of citizens and men serving in public office could be written than that as contained in the Boy Scout Oath, "On my honor I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country, to obey the Scout oath, to help other people at all times, to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

More Alfalfa Acres For Kentucky, Is Goal Of Banker's Association

"More acres of better alfalfa" will be the major goal of the Kentucky Bankers Association in 1955. This was decided at the summer meeting of the association's Agricultural Committee in Louisville on June 22.

Alfalfa was selected as the principal project because of its importance as a livestock feed. In spite of its importance, the acreage of alfalfa in Kentucky has declined during the past few years. Alfalfa is drought resistant and makes from two to four crops of hay each year and the plantings will last for many years if properly treated. New varieties of alfalfa and new developments in fertilizing practices have overcome some of the difficulties farmers have experienced with the crop in the past.

An opportunity to sow alfalfa on some of the acres taken out of corn, wheat, and tobacco production due to federal regulations was cited as possibility of permanent benefit to the state. Millions of dollars are spent each year by Kentucky farmers for hay, most of which could be produced on our own farms. Elmer Blackburn, banker at Pikeville, stated that that city has become a very large market for hay shipped from other states but that excellent alfalfa can be produced on any well-drained soils of Eastern Kentucky.

The Bankers Association will assist in their drive for more alfalfa by working through their County Agricultural Chairmen. Local banks will promote the alfalfa program by aiding in establishing alfalfa test-demonstration selected counties; inserting educational advertisements in local newspapers; assisting in holding tours and field meetings and by discussing the crop with their farm patrons.

Those attending the bankers meeting to assist in developing plans for the 1955 program were Dean Frank J. Welch, Director of the Experiment Station; Dr. Gilbert Webster, Head of the Agronomy Department; Dr. E. N. Gergus, Argonomist, all of the University of Kentucky; Wm. C. Johnstone, formerly Argonomist at U. of K. and now Agricultural Representative of the Kentucky Bankers Association will direct the program for the bankers.

SENATE COMMITTEE OKAYS SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION BILL

A $500 million program of federal financial assistance for the construction of school buildings, proposed by Senator John Sherman Cooper (R.-Ky.), has been approved by the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare. The committee's staff has been instructed to draft the technical language for presentation to the Senate for action.

(The same type of legislation has been urged in the House by Congressman Carl D. Perkins, his supporters point out.)

The committee action followed a series of comprehensive hearings on school facilities and needs held by the Subcommittee on Education, of which Senator Cooper is chairman. According to Senator Cooper, the committee agreed to the inclusion of the following major provisions in the education bill:

1. Federal assistance to be granted for a period of two years to aid in the construction of public school facilities to relieve emergency situations where existing facilities are inadequate. State and local authorities would match federal funds according to a sliding scale based on ability to pay.

2. The authorization of an appropriation of $250 million a year for the two fiscal years beginning July 1, 1954 and ending June 30, 1956.

3. Funds would be apportioned among the states according to a formula worked out by Senator Cooper, taking into consideration the total school population between the ages of 5 and 17, as well as the per capita income in each state.

The apportionment formula, Senator Cooper explained, is intended to provide greater proportionate assistance to states with low average income. "It is the basic purpose of this bill," he added, "to help poorer states raise their educational standards, because we believe that the Federal Government has a fundamental responsibility to afford each citizen the opportunity of a sound education.

The Committee will have the completed bill by July 1, when its next meeting is scheduled.

Senator Cooper said "I believe the Administration will give its approval to this type of emergency legislation. It is a tragic fact that a deficiency of more than $10 billion in school facilities exists in the United States today. The state and local governments are not able to bear the financial burden of such huge expenditures and need Federal aid."

Driver Licenses Now On Sale

Frankfort, Ky., June 30— Kentucky vehicle operator's licenses are now on sale in the Circuit Court Clerk's office in all counties.

Drivers whose last name begin with "A" through "K" are required to renew their operator's license by July 31, 1954. The fee is $2 and the license is for two years.

Failure to renew license by the expiration date, July 31, will result in the suspension of driving privileges.

Operator's licenses for persons whose last name is in the "L" through "Z" bracket do not expire until July 31, 1955.

The driving privilege of 6,047 persons was suspended or revoked during the first five months of the present year, according to a report made by the Department of Revenue today.

Among the causes of license revocation are convictions for drunken driving, reckless driving, leaving the scene of an accident, manslaughter, any felony in connection with the operation of a motor vehicle, assault and battery with an automobile, and perjury in connection with motor vehicle laws.

Licenses may be suspended for failure to file proof of financial responsibility following an accident, improper registration as a driver, improper application for a license, and unsatisfied judgment, and for habitual law violations.

Withholding Law In Effect This Week

Frankfort, Ky., June 29 — Kentucky's new withholding law on state income taxes starts July 1. Employers are required to withhold Kentucky income tax from all salaries and wages paid to employees after that date. State withholding will operate very much like Federal withholding.

During each pay period employers will withhold the tax from each paycheck, based on the salary earned and number of dependents. At the end of the year the employee must file a tax return as in the past, but by that time he will have paid most of his tax through withholding.

This year, however, since the law will be in effect for only six months, only about half of most employees' tax will be paid through withholding.

Employers who have not yet received an instruction booklet on withholding or a Kentucky income tax code number should contact the Income Division, Department of Revenue, here. Other questions regarding withholding will be answered by the division, or one of the district offices located in Louisville, Lexington, Ashland, Covington and Paducah.
