

This Town— That World

THOUGHTS OF A FISHERMAN

When an editor retires from his sanctum with a rod and reel in his hand, retires slowly and with many a backward glance after offering the information of how the front office is "on its own" for a whole week, thoughts come afterwards to those who "pinch-hit" for him that the ed's vacation may be filled with many a misgiving.

We call on our intuition and reconstruct, perhaps not too fancifully, that he sits on the end of the boat, rod and reel protruding from an arm propped on the outside. He wonders if the "front office" is allowing any front page stories to go down the drain. A big one nibbles, he starts skillfully the famous (or is it infamous?) dextrous handling, suddenly his mind comes up with the thought certain sources may not be tapped for news. The worry inhibits the skillful touch, left only is a broken line and mixed thoughts about the paper and how big was that fish.

This squib, of course, contains no moral, not even the platitudinous one of how a fisherman should leave his job at home, but it does recall a wish, maybe vaguely forlorn, that the net results of both our efforts will be a big catch and a good paper.

THE WEATHER IS SLIPPING

"Never saw such a spring," the old-timer averred, while renewing his subscription. "Cold, garden stuff killed by frosts, weak-uns lighting the gas, people with coats on when they ought to be in their shirt sleeves."

"You're wrong, mister," interposed another older. "Remember May 19, 1896? Remember how deep was the snow? Corn was up, some fellows had hied it out. That night it started snowing, and it must have snowed all night for the next morning, the fences were little ridges sticking out of the snow. That snow

102-YEAR OLD WOMAN DIES

In Ohio; Was Native
Of Floyd, But Resided In Greenup for Years

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday in Greenup county for a native of Floyd county who was 102 years old. She was Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, widow of W. M. Hall, who preceded her in death several years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Hall moved from here nearly half a century ago. At the time of her death she was Greenup county's oldest citizen.

Mrs. Hall was the daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Miller McVey and was born March 23, 1852. She died last Sunday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Tussey, of Portsmouth, Ohio. She leaves 157 descendants.

Surviving besides Mrs. Tussey are two other daughters, Mrs. Margaret Kiger and Mrs. Elizabeth Wells, of Flatwoods, Kentucky, and two sons, Joseph Hall, of Cincinnati, and James Hall, of Ashland. Also surviving are 25 grandchildren, 80 great-grandchildren and 47 great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m. at the home at Flatwoods, the Revs. Paul Damron, Frank Shepherd and Jesse Fannin officiating. Burial was made in the O'Brien cemetery at White Oak.

STATE HIKES FLOYD COUNTY ASSESSMENTS

Farm Lands Raised 15%
Other Categories Upped
One-Half; Protest Made

"It's the wrong time to raise property assessments in this county," said Tax Commissioner Clive Akers this week after receiving notice of a $2,700,671 raise in assessment values on Floyd county property owners. Property values in this county have been going down some time," Akers continued, "and with the mining situation as it is, a raise in assessment values, in general and a 50% raise in stores and inventories in particular, is an outrage."

The Floyd Fiscal court met Tuesday and among other things, considered the tax increase. An order was placed on the books directing County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Attorney Hollie Conley, Clerk DuRan Moore, and the magistrates to attend a protest meeting at Frankfort, Saturday, June 11, at 11 a.m. The meeting will be held in the office of Revenue Commissioner Robert Alphin.

Hollie Conley, immediately after the fiscal court meeting, called The Times and issued a statement for the court. He said: "The Department of Revenue has placed a blanket tax raise on this county. The fiscal court voices their opposition to the raise and feels the taxpayers are carrying a heavy burden already. In the interest of the taxpayers, we, Judge Stumbo, myself and the members of the fiscal court, urge everyone who can to attend the protest meeting at Frankfort, Saturday."

Assessment values of this county, exclusive of categories assessed by the state itself, stands at approximately $20 million. Akers charged the state was lowering valuations on property here it lists but increasing valuations on property listed by him. He charged also the increases are inequitable, not only in the large amount itself, but that certain categories of properties were exempted from the increase. He specifically pointed out exempted properties like automobiles and town lots.

Commissioner Alphin, chairman of State Tax Commission, says the raises in several counties of the state are for the purpose of equalization of assessment levels. He told a recent group of protestants from other counties that they had the

MARTIN PLANS ANNEX MOVE

Ordinance Passed May 3
Authorizes Area Increase
That Will Cover Dinwood

The city of Martin will increase its population approximately 400 persons and triple its urban area after an annexation ordinance, passed by the City Council May 3, becomes effective. The annexation in general, covers part of the Ice Plant Hollow, goes up Buck's Branch to the mine tipple, takes in McGuire's camp on the railroad side of Beaver Creek, annexes a section below the present city limits to take in the Branham sub-division, and includes an area near the swingine bridge above Martin and crosses Beaver Creek to include Dinwood.

Reason for the annexation move was given in the ordinance as "there are certain lands adjacent to the City of Martin which have become built-up residential property, and other lands have been platted and subdivisions created thereon, and certain inhabitants of these lands wish to be brought into the corporate limits, and it is to the mutual advantage of both the city and these lands."

A petition will be filed in July by Marshall Davidson, Prestonsburg attorney, in the Floyd Circuit Court to procure the necessary legal sanction for the annexation. Notice of the ordinance provisions has been posted since May 31.

It is not known at this time if any serious opposition will develop to the planned annexation. Mayor E. P. Grigis told The Times that the move would give more adequate fire protection and provide a city water supply for the annexed sections. Another source thought the increased area of Martin would provide several available building sites in the city limits for school expansion if new buildings were needed.

Martin's population, now approximately 1,200, would be near 1,800 after the annexation is approved, Mayor Grigis says.

Gertrude Johnson Dies At Topmost Home, Sunday After Shooting Self

After writing a note and giving her reasons for suicide, Gertrude Johnson, 25, of Topmost, shot herself fatally in the chest at 12:30 p.m., last Sunday, at her mother's home. She died instantly. Contents of the note were not disclosed, but a source said it divulged a love affair as the cause of suicide.

Miss Johnson was a daughter of the late Berlin Johnson and Sarah Belle Johnson. Her mother survives. Surviving also are the following brothers and sisters: Clarence and Albert Johnson, of Detroit, Fred and Junior, of Topmost, Mrs. Brownlow Garrett and Mrs. Orbin Hill, both of Detroit, and Mrs. Parlyon Johnson and Miss Verna Johnson, of Topmost.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at her mother's home, the Revs. Sherman Stone, and Hawley Warrens officiating. Burial was in the family cemetery under the direction of the Hindman Funeral Home.

SEA SCOUTS GIVEN BOATS

Former Personnel Boat
Of Navy Brought Here;
Repairs Are Underway

Two troops of Sea Scouts from this county will take to Dewey Lake soon with boats formerly belonging to the United States navy, it was revealed Sunday when the craft donated by the navy to the Prestonsburg troop of Sea Scouts arrived here. A troop at McDowell acquired their boat two weeks ago. The boats, formerly used by commanders in amphibious operations, were no longer in naval use and had been in dry dock sometime. The boat acquired by Prestonsburg was transported here from Norfolk Navy Yard.

Negotiations for the acquisition of the Prestonsburg boat were begun about 60 days ago by a committee of the American Legion, who are sponsoring the Prestonsburg Sea Scouts. Transportation charges were paid by donations and money earned by the Scouts in planting trees last fall.

The craft, which will be rendered seaworthy in about 45 days, is 24 feet long, has an eight foot beam, and is powered with a Chrysler marine engine. It will carry 20 Scouts with safety. Original cost to the Navy was $18,000.

The vocational school employes provided space in their shop for the necessary repairs the craft needs. Overhauling is to include any necessary work on the hull, painting and engine work. The work, with the exception of that on the engine will be done by the Scouts themselves. Plans are, as soon as possible, to build a superstructure, to house the Scouts at night or in inclement weather.

"The boat will be operated under the supervision of a member of the Sea Scout committee" of the American Legion," Belvard Friend, one of the committee, says. "This will insure complete safety of the Scouts under the supervision of an adult," he added.

Bill Stone is Sea Scoutmaster here and assisting Mr. Friend on the Legion committee sponsoring the Scout troop are Homer Wright, finance chairman, and Freddie James.

UNIONS LOSE IN TOP COURT

On Appeal of Judgment
Rendered Against Them
In Breathitt-co. Affair

The United States Supreme Court upheld a lower court's affirmation of damages against the United Construction Workers and affiliated unions, Monday. Judgment against the Construction Workers, a subsidiary affiliate of The United Mine Workers was for $129,326 and arose out of a charge by the Laburnum Construction Company of Richmond, Virginia, that it was driven off a tippie job at Evanston, Breathitt county, Kentucky, by armed unionists.

The judgment was made originally by a state court in Richmond, and upheld by the Virginia Supreme Court.

The unions appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court, claiming the National Labor Relations Board had exclusive authority to act. Monday's decision was by a 6-2 vote.

Laburnum had a contract to build a tippie for Pond Creek Pocahontas

GANG WORK NOT ILLEGAL

Under Contract If Miner
Earns Basic Pay Wages;
Leslie-co. Charge Denied

Reports of "gang-working" in Floyd county and other Eastern Kentucky coal mines have become more widespread in recent weeks. By this method of producing coal, union coal miners work in bands of five or six and divide the fixed sum per ton paid by the operator for their output. This is in itself not a violation of the contract between the UMWA and the operators unless the miner earns less than the basic $18.25 per day contract price. Checking whether the miner under any given "gang-working" plan is earning his basic pay rate is difficult.

One mine in this county was shut down by the union sometime ago because "gang-working" did not produce for each worker the basic pay. It was The Powell Branch Fuel Company of Tram, which has not resumed operations.

Hugh Morris, of the Courier-Journal, in a survey of Eastern Kentucky, noted the prevalence of "gang-working" reports in the mines. He says, "UMWA officials insist most of these reports are propaganda being spread by the operators to demoralize the jobless union miners. They point out that gang working under certain conditions is permitted by U.M.W.A. contracts. They try to convey the impression that any gang-working in their fields is of the legal contract variety."

Morris noted that "gang-working" in the Big Sandy-Elkhorn field had not taken hold as widely as reported in the Harlan and Hazard regions.

STATE VET SCHEDULED

Here to Vaccinate Dogs;
County Sanitarian Stumbo
Urges Compliance To Law

The state veterinarian, Dr. L. W. Rowles, will be in this county, the week of June 21 to vaccinate dogs against rabies, John M. Stumbo, health sanitarian of the local health department announced this week. This is in line with the new dog law passed by the last General Assembly requiring all dogs to be vaccinated.

"All dogs must carry tags attached to the collar or harness and the owner must have a certificate showing that his dog has been vaccinated."

OLD HOME OF BETSY LAYNE STANDS, LONG UNTENANTED

Old home of Tandy M. and Elizabeth Johns Layne still standing at Justell. Betsy Layne railway station and postoffice were named for Mrs. Layne.

By HENRY P. SCALF

Residents of Betsy Layne remember vaguely that the postoffice was named for an old lady, approximately 50 years ago.

None remember that she was Elizabeth Johns Layne, that she and her husband, Tandy Middleton Layne acquired a large farm at the present Justell postoffice and that some time after their marriage on April 21, 1831, they erected a house of logs, still standing on the farm.

These two were the children of pioneers. Tandy M. was a son of James Shannon Layne and Katy Hager Layne. Elizabeth or Betsy was a daughter of Thomas Johns and Nancy Layne Johns. If genealogists are correct, these two were cousins, because James Shannon Layne, father of Tandy M. and Nancy Layne Johns, mother of

Whiskey Raid Near Here Nets Moonshine and Beer

A raid last Saturday evening by officers at the home of Fred Newsome, Jr., on Middle Creek, netted moonshine and beer. Confiscated at Newsome's house were ten half-pints of moonshine, one-half gallon can of the same, plus seven quarts of beer in a deep freeze. At an empty storeroom nearby, a wash tub filled with bottled beer was taken. At another house belonging to or in Newsome's charge another quantity of moonshine was found.

Raiding officers, under Sheriff Gorman Collins, were Willie Johnson, Brad Boyd, Nels Gilliam, Al Patton and Green Johnson. After searching the houses, they investigated two old mine mouths nearby and found half a gallon of moonshine in each locality. Newsome was placed under arrest but executed bond at the county judge's office afterwards.

Wednesday of last week, Freddie Newsome, Sr., after being arrested on an inquest warrant by W. B. Boyd and Amos Gray, deputies sheriffs, and sworn to by his daughter, Hattie, was served with a peace warrant also by her. She alleged in the affidavit to procure a warrant that her father Freddie Newsome, Sr., and her sister Lily, had made threats of death against her, if she did not have the inquest warrant dismissed. County Judge Henry Stumbo ordered Newsome to fill a $1,000 peace bond.

After Partners Sink Big Gas Producer Here Improvised Drilling Rig Named Lucky Strike

How does it feel to sink scarce dollars into an old dilapidated drilling rig and drill, hoping you're lucky and bring in a big gas producer? Ask Worth Music and Graham Porter of the Porter Addition. ## MAN CHARGED IN TORSO CASE

Has Hearing; Attorneys
For Damron Vainly Seek
Bond; Trooper Testifies

The legal preliminaries to the trial of Willard "Catfish" Damron, poolroom operator of Boldman, charged with the murder of the headless body, tentatively identified as Clyde Jack Clements and found on the Caney Fork of Johns Creek, April 1, has been a period of several days legal skirmishing in the Pike county courts.

Originally the case was set down in the court of County Judge Ervin S. Pruitt for a hearing on Monday, May 31, but since the day was a holiday, the hearing was postponed until the next. Pruitt planned to be out of town and Henry Davis Stratton was designated as judge pro tem. When Stratton sat in the case the Commonwealth questioned his right to do so because he had not been sworn. The State also pled the absence of several material witnesses.

Stratton stepped aside in the case and Damron was taken before Magistrate Fon Roberts on Wednesday. Here again the State pled the absence of witnesses and Roberts set the trial for Saturday.

In the meantime, W. A. Daugh-

The rally is for all Baptist men in the state, according to Mr. Coleman's announcement. A free barbecue supper will be served.

STATE HEADS, KNOTT GROUP

Have Heated Discussion
At Saturday Conference;
Curry Removal Protested

An irate delegation of citizens and public officials from Knott county and an angry Governor Lawrence Wetherby exchanged heated questions and answers Tuesday in the Governor's office in Frankfort. Subject of the discussion was the transfer of State Policeman Robert Curry from the Knott and Floyd section where he worked to another section of the state. Governor Wetherby received the Knott delegation of about 50 men and women at 1 p.m. State Representative W. R. Smith spoke for them.

"Governor," he said, "The purpose of this visit is to implore you not to transfer Bob Curry."

Wetherby shot back an answer: "If that's your purpose, I can give you an answer right quick. I don't propose to undo the decision of my police commissioner. I don't believe in government by pressure." After telling the delegation he proposed to stand behind his police head, he continued: "I resent the type of publicity you've been giving me for two weeks up there when as a matter of fact the patrolman had not been transferred when they happened."

(He referred to the fact that he had, he felt, been unfairly blamed for two recent auto accidents because of Curry's transfer.)

Removal of Curry had touched off one of the biggest demonstrations of protest ever to accompany any transfer in the department. Knott countians, with few exceptions, protested. The Hindman News headlined it last week across the front page with, "Trooper Removal Angers Citizens." An editorial in the paper said:

"Numerous organizations, local officials and just plain common people, had worked diligently to have him (Curry) assigned here. Every-one watched as he did his duty. It was an apparent victory for law enforcement. Reports became plentiful that certain individuals in Knott, Perry and Floyd counties were putting pressure on some elected public officials to have Patrolman Curry removed." The editorial charged Curry's removal was a victory for those who oppose law enforcement.

Curry, a native of Glasgow, was assigned by Commissioner Charles Oldham, to Knott county, five months ago. He began a relentless war on bootleggers. The Knott county

Girl Scout Day Camping To Open at Chatterawha

Day camp for Girl Scouts of Maytown, Martin, Allen and Prestonsburg, will open a six-day session at Camp Chatterawha, Tuesday, June 15. Mrs. Zella Archer will be the director.

The Prestonsburg Scouts will meet at the high school at 9 a.m. and go by bus from there to Camp Chatterawha. They will return at 3 p.m. Each girl should bring her nose-bag but lunch and drinks will be provided. Registration for the Scouts is two dollars each and blankets may be secured from Mrs. Edw. P. Hill or The Firestone store. Each town is making similar arrangements. Mrs. Hill said.

Established camps at other places will follow day camping here and registrations for it should be sent to the Pikeville office, she added.

AUTO MISHAPS CLAIM TWO

Mrs. Scott Is Killed
On Jones Fork; Adams
Fatally Hurt At Emma

As a result of two separate car accidents over the week-end, two are dead, one a native of Garrett, the other an employe of a store here. They are Beatrice Williams Scott, 45, of Garrett and Cecil Adams, 26, a resident of Paintsville, but an employe of Wright Jewelry store for the last 11 months.

Mrs. Scott died instantly after her car collided with a truck near Betty Knott county, Monday at 5 p.m. Driver of the truck, his name unavailable, belonging to the Big Sandy Hardware Company of Paintsville, was not seriously injured. Mrs. Scott's car was a total wreck. An attaché of the Hindman Funeral home described her injuries as several bone fractures and internal injuries.

She was the widow of Lauchie Scott who preceded her in death several years. She operated a restaurant, at one time, at Garrett.

Mr. Adams, who resides at Paintsville, was fatally injured at 1:30 a.m. Sunday north of Cow Creek near the residence of Ed Merritt, on U. S. 23. He was dead on arrival at a Martin hospital. The State Police are quoted as saying Adams' car rounded a curve at high speed, sideswiped an automobile driven by Kenneth Roberts, 25, of Wayland, and went over an embankment. Roberts was uninjured.

Mrs. Scott was a daughter of Fred and Fannie Coburn Williams, of Garrett, who survive. Two sons and two daughters also survive—Freddie Scott, of Kress, Texas; Dickie Scott, of Garrett, Mrs. Sally Talucci, Columbus, Ohio, and Mrs. Forest Risner, Detroit. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Estill Hughes, of Garrett, a brother, Bill Williams, of Allen, and four grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted today (Thursday) at 2 p.m. at the Garrett Methodist church, the Rev. Green Allen officiating. Burial followed in the Conley-Williams cemetery at Hueysville under the direction of Hindman Funeral Home.

Mr. Adams was the son of Mrs. Molly Adams and the late Westley Adams of Johnson county. He was a veteran of the United States navy in World War II. Two brothers, Harder and Smith Adams, of Hager Hill, survive.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the United Baptist church on Lick Fork of Jenney's Creek, Johnson county, the Revs. Charley Lemaster, Millard Van Hoose and Scott Castle officiating. Burial followed in the family cemetery under the direction of Jones-Preston Funeral Home.

Two Knott Countians Die In Auto Accident Near Hindman, Saturday

Two Knott countians are dead as the result of an auto accident last Saturday on the Hindman-Cody highway. The dead are Sherill Smith, 18, of Seftshell, and Ben Fair, 29, of Hindman, brother of Mrs. Martha Hall, of Langley. The two men were driving towards Cody while the road was undergoing repair. Their car left the road and plunged over an embankment on a porch of Mrs. Lola Sturdivant's home. Smith died in the Stumbo hospital at Lackey, at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, and Fair died at the same hospital the next afternoon. They were the only passengers in the car.

Mr. Fair, who was unmarried, was the son of the late Pad Fair and Mrs. Ruth Fair. His mother survives. Surviving are the following brothers and sisters: John, Elbert, Teene and Carson Fair, all of Hindman, Mrs. Wiley Pratt, of Garner, Mrs. Ella

RELIEF FOOD DISTRIBUTION DISCONTINUED

Last Saturday, But Order
For Resumption Received
Here 4-days Afterwards

Last Friday, the Federal Government ordered the suspension of USDA donated commodities in Floyd and 39 other Kentucky counties receiving these foods, only four days after a directive was issued making certain requirements necessary on the part of the fiscal courts for the receipt of commodities. After charges had flown that certain counties had not even received the directive of May 31, and that those that did had insufficient time to comply, the ban on distribution was lifted, Tuesday, another four days afterwards. Distribution under the new order, effective for an additional 15 days, is to be under the old and usual methods.

The May 31 directive set up certain rules for certification of relief clients, rules that several fiscal courts in the state thought were impossible to meet without the expenditure of a huge outlay of public funds. The order required all fiscal courts to set up a master list showing who was eligible for commodities, then divide this list in two parts, one showing public assistance cases and the other list exhibiting all other cases of relief. County Judges and fiscal courts were required to certify to the cases as "in need." Identification cards were to be given to each client and commodities could only be obtained by presentation of the card.

The day after the suspension order, county judges from several Eastern Kentucky counties met at Whitesburg to discuss the relief problem. Present were County Judge Henry Stumbo, Dennis Sturgill, Knott county, J. H. Banks, of Perry, Wixon Unthank, of Harlan, and James Caudill, of Letcher, and Hollie Conley, county Attorney from here. County Judge Ervin S. Pruitt, of Pike, was unable to attend. After the conference, it was announced the judges thought compliance with the order to personally certify to all client's eligibility would be placing an unbearable burden and responsibility on them, and the magistrates. Several declared the set-up as envisioned by the Federal government was an evasion of responsibility itself, the shifting of a burden to the counties that would require them to hire additional field workers. "We can't comply with the May 31 directive without hiring several

SHERIFF ASKS MOBILE RADIO

System for Five Cars;
Phone Company's Plan
Found High, Collins Says

The Wayland Lions Club joined with the Kiwanis Club of Beaver Valley at Wheelwright recently in urging the fiscal court to provide funds for mobile radio equipment for the cars of the sheriff's deputies. Authority for such equipment of peace officers' cars was given by the last General Assembly, and becomes effective June 19.

Sheriff Gorman Collins, in advocating the installation of such equipment, says that in emergencies he is unable to contact his deputies in the field until considerable time has elapsed. "Recently a call came from a place on Beaver Creek, asking for the services of an officer and stating there was danger of a man being killed. It took two hours to round up officers to go there," he said.

The proposed radio equipment would be installed on five cars, one car in each magisterial district and the sheriff's car at the courthouse. Tower and other necessary equipment would cost $6,700, it is said.

Recently Southern Bell Telephone Company was contacted to give an estimate on a comparable system the company has installed for other towns and cities on a rental basis. It was found this system would be prohibitive as the rental would run to $200 monthly.

Other incorporated towns in the county have indicated the mobile radio system proposed to the fiscal court would receive their cooperation. Collins said.

Under the proposed plan now being presented to the fiscal court, the central station would be installed in the courthouse.

HEALTH NOTES

By Floyd County Health Department

"A clean community increases the value of individual property, builds better business, induces the tourist to stop for a visit and is a booster for civic pride." M. V. Clark, county Health Administrator, Floyd County Health Department, says.

"Homemakers are doing spring housecleaning, doing innumerable chores peculiar to this time of year. Along with clean windows and clean curtains, the outside of the home should be spruced up to improve the general appearance of the property as well as to improve sanitation," Mr. Clark adds.

Poor sanitation means diseases. A clean-up campaign helps rid the home and community of harboring places for rats, flies and other insects which carry diseases from filth to you, your home and your community.

Suggestions for a spring clean-up could include:

1. Tearing down the old, unsightly building that only harbors junk and provides a place for rats to breed.

2. Removing all trash and tin cans from the premises.

3. Keeping the weeds cut in the vacant lots.

4. Cleaning the privy.

Cleanliness and good sanitation start at home but if Mr. Smith sees Mr. Jones making a steady improvement in his property the clean-up fever becomes contagious, "and the first thing you know, the whole community has taken on a new look, a healthier atmosphere. A clean-up campaign is good business," Mr. Clark concludes.

First Regional Meet Of Postmasters Slated In Cincinnati Next Year

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio—Postmasters in Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio will meet in Cincinnati early next year, for the first Regional Postmasters Convention in the history of the Bureau of Post Office Operation.

The groundwork for the convention has been laid by W. H. Driggs, this city, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Chapter and Executive Committeeman of the National Association of Postmasters for the region, who has discussed preliminary details with Postmaster H. A. Wehking, Cincinnati. The latter will be Host Postmaster at the gathering at which approximately 4,200 postmasters, or more than 10 per cent of the postmasters in the United States, will be invited to attend.

The convention will be regarded with particular interest by postmasters throughout the country because it will serve to emphasize the success of the decentralization plan of the Post Office Department.

Th kick-off for the decentralization operations was held at a meeting Nov. 24, 1953, in Cincinnati, at which time Region 1, embracing the three states, was established with headquarters at Cincinnati. Cincinnati is also headquarters for the Inspection Service, Postal Transportation Service, 5th Division, Civil Service Commission, and Regional Accounting office.

The system, which serves to bring about closer cooperation between postmasters in the area, and department heads, has proved so successful that other regions are being established throughout the United States.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"TURN TO THE RIGHT"

I met a lady as I walked down town today, and I do mean a lady not a woman. As is customary, I turned to the right to let her pass; but she persisted in staying on her own side. Of course, I did not contest the matter, for she was even older than I. I took the left and let her have the other side. You see, I remember when a gentleman, not a mere man as I am now, would never have turned to the right if in so doing he would have forced the lady to walk on the outside of the walk. Manners books of half century ago said, as only manners books could say, that a gentleman always gives the lady the inside of the walk, regardless of whether it is right or left. So there!

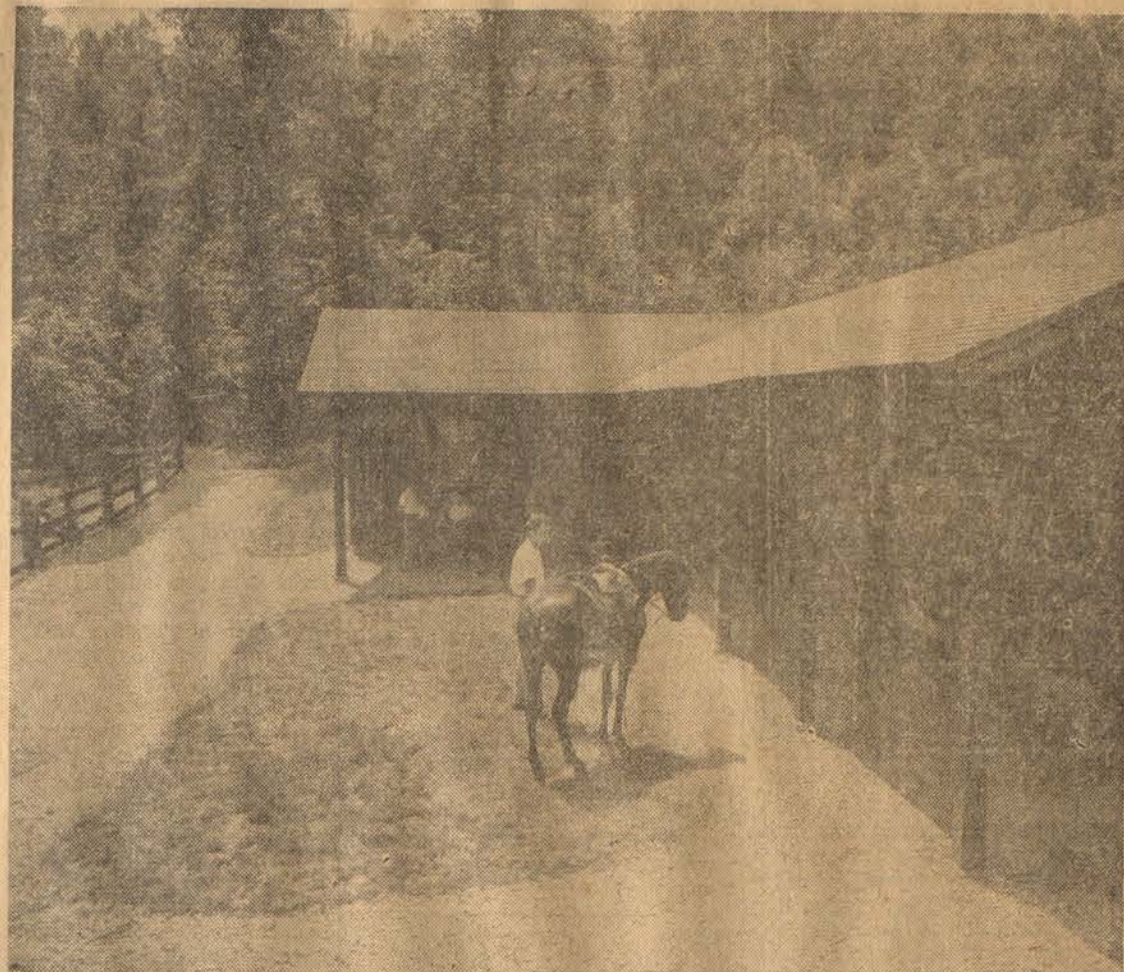

This was so well kept as a social understanding that even the most rude greenhorn knew how to act. It was drilled into us so that we did it automatically; it was a sign of unprecedent boorishness for a fellow to forget. Now, when he met another fellow, he turned to the right just as he would have been driving a buggy. But not when meeting a lady!

Along with this went another style that I seem unable to explain to my students now; a gentleman lifted his hat (what hat, professor?) with the hand away from the lady. To have used the other one would have branded him as at best only half-taught. It took some quick thinking when you suddenly turned a corner and met a lady whom you knew and whom you must greet properly and whom you must give the inside of the walk. Life just had to slow down in order for one to be polite.

In the early days of cars pedestrians had a hard time. They had learned to take the right side, whether riding or walking on the sidewalk. Suddenly, because of danger, it became the custom to "walk facing traffic." The truth is that many people are still a bit puzzled about the proper way to walk down a road that does not have a path or sidewalk alongside it. Hardly a day passes that I do not see someone very dangerously walking in the roads as if he were on a sidewalk. Maybe there should be a school for walking as well as for driving; that might prevent some of the numerous accidents.

And there was another custom about walking that seems to be passing, certainly among the younger generations: The lady, when accompanied by a gentleman, always walks on the inside of the walk. When you see people coming down a wide sidewalk observing this time-honored rule, look into their faces to see whether they might not remember the Spanish-American War or the days of Free Silver. On all these matters I was so well drilled that I find myself now a little sheepish in feeling when I violate any of them. In winter I wear a hat and unconsciously tip it when I meet some woman whom I know; I take the outside of the sidewalk when I walk with a woman on a sidewalk, but how in the world can you tell what to do when you are scurrying along a walk—not a sidewalk—between two college buildings? Which is inside, which is outside? And if it is good for me to revert regularly to my older manners when I put on a hat, what must I think of the boy who does not own a hat, summer or winter? Out little social customs are little, sure enough, but sometimes they reveal our age, our older customs, our sincerity or automatic show of it; just where the old should be forgotten and the new embraced, I do not know. I am glad that nobody expects me to decide such technical questions.

Horseback riding is one of the attractions that guests may enjoy at Carter Caves State Park, near Olive Hill and Grayson, Kentucky. Guided tours are conducted through two main caves in the park area, and completely furnished vacation cottages are available to vacationers.

BLADES of BLUEGRASS

Graduation time and the coming of summer inevitably brings to mind memories of things gone by.

Like many another family throughout the great state of Kentucky, the official "family" of the University of Kentucky takes the occasion to look over the year and review the accomplishments of the charges in its care.

Just one small segment, but nevertheless one of the most illustrious, is the record of the school's athletic teams. From the major sports of football and basketball right on down to the comparatively unknown sports of fencing and rifle, it has been a successful year and the more than 200 students participating in the nine sports have fulfilled the aims of healthful recreation and provided enjoyment for countless thousands.

The school year opened with the gridiron sport holding forth and the fighting, never-say-die Wildcats staged one of the most thrilling comebacks in several years to finish unbeaten in their last eight games after they had gotten off to a dubious start with two straight losses. Baron Adolph Rupp's cage Cats took up the challenge during the winter months to go undefeated in 25 consecutive contests against major foes and cop another of their almost annual national championships.

Also during the winter months, while the public eye was focused on the spectacular basketballers, some of the lesser-known teams were faring almost as well in the victory column. The swimmers, who have progressed a long way from the days when UK's tank crew was a dry land outfit, pulled almost the same trick as the gliders by dropping their first two engagements and then going right down to the last meet before losing another meet. The varsity fencers and rifle team, both coached by Col. Henry Rogers, had successful seasons against top competition—dropping only seven meets out of two dozen.

The four spring sports—baseball, golf, tennis and track—suffered from poor practice weather early in the season and were handicapped by late spring practice in football, the sport that provides many participants in the other activities. All the sports ended with about 500 seasons, but had fulfilled their purpose and each coach looked forward to providing greater entertainment next year.

ACTIVE, ANYWAY
HODGENVILLE, Ky. — A couple of persistent "fire bugs" were caught—in their jail cell. Jailor Levi Carter said Stanley Keith, 17, and Lewis Hall, 22, tried three times to set fire to the jail.

They ignited paper twice and, after all paper was removed from the cell, they ignited their mattress. Each time the flames were put out without serious damage.

NO PROTEST
COVINGTON, Tenn. — It took 30 years for H. H. Tatlock to get his postcard but he's in no position to complain. The old and worn card was found this week in the post office here. It had slipped behind a mail distributing case.

Tatlock won't protest the slow delivery. He was postmaster in May, 1924, the date the card was post-marked.

DISTRICT 4-H CLUB COUNCIL

The Big Sandy District 4-H Club Council met Monday, May 10, in West Liberty. Mr. J. W. Whitehouse, State 4-H Club leader, was present and gave a very interesting talk on 4-H Club work. The council unanimously endorsed a plan to secure a 4-H Club Camp for Eastern Kentucky.

FORKS OF MIDDLE CREEK

Forest E. Pitt, one of the Forks of Middle Creek 4-H Club's outstanding members, has been in St. Mary's hospital in Huntington suffering with rheumatic fever. Forest is back home but must remain in bed for at least six months. We all hope he will soon be able to resume his 4-H club work.

Stevie Lee Best, 4-H Club member and son of Mrs. Frankie Best, 4-H leader of the Forks of Middle Creek 4-H Club, is enrolled in the Training School for the summer at Eastern State College, Richmond.

FARM NOTES

Cannibalism in Hen Flocks

The best remedy for cannibalism in a flock of hens is a preventative one—keep the birds comfortable and satisfied. In a few cases, the picking habit may be due to underfeeding or to breeding background, but most of the causes are in the way the flock is housed and managed.

Here are some ways you can help to prevent cannibalism: Give the birds plenty of floor space, keep them busy by feeding alfalfa hay or other similar feed, and remove those with blowouts immediately. Provide enough watering and eating space to prevent the birds from having to wait in line, and give them plenty of fresh air with good ventilation.

Provide enough nests, and darken them; adjust perches or nests and feed hoppers high enough to keep birds on the floor from pecking at those on the perches; use dropping pits. Avoid overheating and overcrowding of baby chicks. Debeaking can be an effective cure for pecking if it is done right.

Top Fertilizers Best Buys

Farmers buying fertilizers for next season are told by the University of Kentucky Experiment Station that it's the amount of plant food in the fertilizer that counts.

"The cheapness of the fertilizer depends mainly on the price of the plant food in it and not on the price of a bag or ton," Experiment Station men said. "Often fertilizers which are cheapest a bag or ton cost the most for the actual plant food in them."

This example is given: The 4-12-8 grade (24 units of plant food), is a higher grade fertilizer than the 3-9-6 grade (18 units of plant food), and three tons of 4-12-8 contain the same amount of plant food as four tons of 3-9-6.

The cost of bagging, handling and transporting a ton of low-grade fertilizer is the same as the cost of high-grade fertilizer. Also in low grades, materials which have no fertilizing value may be put in to make weight.

Hyden Coal Firm Must Rehire Man Fired in '52 Is NRL Board Decision

Washington, June 7 — The National Labor Relations Board has upheld a trial examiner's report and ordered the New Hyden Coal Company, Hyden, Ky., to stop certain unfair labor practices.

Clay M. Bishop and Robert E. White, partners in the firm, were ordered to reinstate one man discharged after a labor dispute in February, 1952. The man, Orville Huff, also would get back pay.

Joe Baker, Carlos Stollings, and George Huff, discharged about the same time, would get certain back pay under the ruling, but would not be entitled to reinstatement.

Charges against the firm concerning William W. Taylor were dismissed. The company also was ordered not to interfere with collective bargaining activities of employees.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Traffic Judge O. B. Hall today postponed a reckless driving trial until 1960. Opposing attorneys squabbled over a date for the hearing when a witness was absent.

"All right," one lawyer snapped to the other, "you suggest a date and I'll agree to it."

"1960," said the opposing attorney.

"Sept. 1, 1960," Judge Hall wrote on his docket.

DEPUTY SHERIFF SHOT
RICHLANDS, Va. — Tazewell County Deputy Sheriff Cecil Wilson, 24, was shot near the heart as he sat in his car with a girl friend. Although both Wilson and the girl said the shooting was accidental, Sheriff E. P. McGlothlin said charges will be placed against Miss Jacqueline Frost, a nurse at Mat-Williams hospital here. Wilson was shot with a .22 caliber pistol he kept in his car's glove compartment. He was reported in good condition.

Floyd County Historical Notes

By HENRY P. SCALF

A letter from Elizabeth Gentry, of Mountain City, Tennessee, dated May 28, gives data on a Lewis family that may or may not be in this area. It is given here in the hope the writer may learn something from an informant on her family.

"In regard to the Lewis family, my grandfather, Isaac Lewis, moved from Ashe county, North Carolina, to Floyd county, Ky., about 1880 or a few years later and he bought a home there, maybe a farm which should be on record in Prestonsburg.
"We found on record there where Andy Lewis procured a marriage license in 1886. He must have been my uncle Andy and some of his family should be somewhere in Floyd county. It could be that they are in Morgan county since the postmaster in Louisa, Ky., told us that a part of Floyd county was now a part of Morgan county, and a number of Lewises live there. We found one Doctor Lewis in Louisa but he didn't know much about the Lewises either.
"One of my aunts married a preacher Oaks. I can't remember his first name. My father was the oldest child in the Lewis family and it could be that I might have an aunt living yet. Anyway, I should have a number of cousins somewhere. I am back home and my address is Mountain City, Tennessee, Route 1."

A look at the marriage records on file in the Floyd county clerk's office shows, in file 4191, that a William A. Oaks married Laura C. Lewis, June 10, 1890. Curiously, the license was issued June 12 and the marriage ceremony was performed by Alfred Pitts, Justice of the Peace, and dated two days before. The ceremony was performed at I. W. Lewis' home in the presence of Harrison Robinson and John Oney, Russell Hunley, an attache of the clerk's office thinks the marriage took place near the present Whit-taker, Ky.

Perhaps this is the "preacher Oaks" Mrs. Gentry is looking for. A William Oaks from Greenup visited the late Edward L. Allen, a short time before he died. He was very old and has been in the ministry for many years. It was said he was a fountain of lore on Floyd county and Eastern Kentucky.

Picked from The Ashland (Ky.) Daily Independent of a recent date is an editorial on The Southwest Virginia Museum.

If Wise county, Virginia, can initiate and support a regional museum, why can't some county in Eastern Kentucky? All around us are the priceless heirlooms of our people. Homes here abound with documents of great historical value. There is enough Eastern Kentucky-iana to fill several museums. The editorial mentioned is excerpted here.

"En route home from Florida, a few days ago we took time out for a brief but interesting visit at the Southwest Virginia Museum which is located in Big Stone Gap, Virginia.

"The museum collection includes items through which the early history of the southwest mountain section of Virginia may be traced. Among these items are Indian relics, antique firearms, souvenirs of both the Revolutionary and War Between the States, a priceless set of Minton china which was presented to Benjamin Disraeli by Queen Victoria, handmade quilts of rare design more than a century old, displays of native woods, an exhibit showing the evolution of light from the primitive pine knot to the first electric light bulb, antique furniture, etc."

Dr. Thomas D. Clark, University of Kentucky historian does not think very highly of the supposedly Daniel Boone initial carved on a rock on the Gosling Fork of Goose Creek, near Eastern. He writes:

"Dr. Hambleton Tapp, assistant to President Donovan, has given me your letter and photograph with 'D. B.' carved on it. I have a Boone signature, but I could not say, and nobody else can, whether the initials carved on a rock are genuine or not. I think you would have to make a close examination of the stone and try to determine the age of it. Also, you would have to know a great many of the surrounding circumstances. My own notion is that most of these things are not authentic. I have seen a good many of them, and I am tremendously dubious of their possible authenticity.
"We have a block here in the University of Kentucky library which came from Magoffin county. We are positive that it is not original. As you possibly know, it has been a very common practice for people in the past years to carve 'D. Boone' on trees and rocks. This is one kind of a record, however, which the historian finds himself at a loss to try to authenticate. Naturally, this kind of a record does not mean anything unless it is absolutely authenticated. One of the most dangerous sources that can be accepted is that of an arti-fact."

Wedding Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Buford Rollins, of Wayland, announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen Roberta, to Mr. Orvil Watkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Watkins, of Lackey.

The double ring ceremony was performed on Thursday, May 13 at 8 p.m., in the church of Christ at Glo, with the Rev. Lawrence B. Price officiating.

The bride wore a street length dress of white linen trimmed with satin braid and rhinestones. She carried a nosegay of white and pink roses.
Mrs. Edsel Vanderpool, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a beige linen suit with white accessories and her flowers were yellow roses.

Mr. O. C. Watkins, uncle of the groom, was best man.

The church was beautifully decorated with roses and orange blossoms. Miss Anna Ruth and Janie Watkins were taper lighters. Mrs. Carl Ray Fraley, Jr., sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. T. Spellman.

Mrs. Watkins is a graduate of Wayland high school and also of the Spencerian School of Business in Louisville, and for the past two years, she has been employed by the Southern Bell Telephone Co., in Louisville.

Mr. Watkins is also a graduate of Wayland high school. He attended Morehead State College and has been in the Air Force for 3 1/2 years, having recently returned from two years service on Okinawa.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. Rollins are living in Marietta, Ga., where he is stationed.

SHERMAN RECEIVES CUP
Cadet Capt. Tommy Sherman, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Sherman, of Glo, received the Silver Cup Award for the best military bearing for the class of 1954 at Millersburg Military Institute of which he was a graduate on May 26. Cadet Sherman has completed seven years at the institution.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SAYS WERE HELD IN CONTEMPT

Here is what a clipping from the Lorain (Ohio) Journal says: "My nomination for the crummiest town in the country goes this week to Pikeville, Ky."

"The one-horse burg nestled in the bloody hills has contributed one murder investigation and one extremely immoral kidnapping to Lorain in the last month.

"In addition, a nearby rural community blessed Elyria with a 12-year-old mother.

"Police still haven't found the man who butchered an unidentified fellow and left his headless, armless and legless body near Pikeville.

"They are now holding a young steelworker who brought a 16-year-old and an 18-year-old girl to Lorain.

"Pikeville being the progressive community, it is, authorities probably won't insist the sixth-grader go back to school before her daughter starts kindergarten."

My husband who works in Lorain, Ohio, sent me this clipping from the Lorain paper today. This is the thing I have been saying all the time—the people of Ohio hold us in contempt. I lived in Lorain part of two years and there were seldom a day passed when there weren't fights, killings, or some of the other sins committed, and were in the paper each day.

Sylvia Ferrell, Harold, Ky.

opportunity of raising the levels themselves but had not done so. One category of property receiving a raise in valuation to which Akers objected particularly was the 15% on farm lands. He had assessed these properties at $4,268,134 but the state increased it by $639,920. Oil, mining and timber were lifted 15%, the raise being $452,458. This was placed on an assessment by Akers of $3,016,335 for these properties.

Five categories of property raised received a thumping 50% increase. These were merchant's inventories, professional tools, drilling and mining machinery, certain other tangibles and manufacturing machinery. Merchant's inventories were listed by Tax Commissioner Akers at $870,284, given a $435,142 raise by the state; professional tools were listed at $158,630, raised $79,315; drilling, mining and construction machinery and tools, listed at $1,887,973, raised $933,986; other tangibles, listed at $24,600, raised $12,300. Manufacturing machinery was valued at $295,100, but upped by the state $147,550.

Safety in using machinery was stressed at 4-H club tractor schools in Woodford county.

more field workers and spending about $15,000," Judge Stumbo says. "To do this we would find ourselves unable to pay our road employees and do many other necessary things," he added.

The Whitesburg conference decided to ask Ben S. Adams, State Commissioner of Agriculture, to contact governmental authorities of both state and national levels and ask for a meeting to work matters out. Wednesday of this week, Judge Stumbo received a letter from Adams in which he advised that he had called Governor Lawrence Wetherby and Lt. Gov. Emerson Beauchamp. Wetherby and Beauchamp agreed to meet with the judges but advised further that he, Adams, had contacted Russell H. James, area field supervisor, USDA, at Atlanta, and that James had refused to meet with them. James advised Adams the directive of May 31 was the minimum requirements of the Department of Agriculture's distribution program.

Faced with compliance with the directive or suspension of commodities after the 15-day moratorium the matter was "up in the air" until some agreement was reached between state, national and local officials.

Greenville Spradlin, co-supervisor of distribution with Glenn Burchett, in this county, says that the records of his office are in "good shape," that he has received assurance from Thomas Wilson, an officer of the USDA that his system is "one of the best I have seen anywhere."

This week the local office here had several foods on hand and was going ahead with distribution.

INDIANAPOLIS — Prosecutor Frank Fairchild filed criminal actions against six theater owners showing the movie "French Line," starring Jane Russell, after being thwarted from confiscating the film itself because of a court order. The prosecutor claims the movie is "obscene."

was needed for a railroad and the land bordering on the riverside was sold. Bailey sold a small tract on Betsy Layne Branch. Two small alienations of title in a century and a quarter and probably longer. Maybe this is a record for this county, afflicted as it is with subdivisions. Tandy M. and Betsy Layne had children. They were Emma, who married John Powell, Mary, married Harvey Childress, Thomas married Ann Weddington and Jane who married Anthony Hatcher. A small family for those days. As the children came along, Tandy M. improved the log house by weatherboarding it. Today, long untenanted, it is of two stories, celled off hand planed lumber. Some of the lumber is of the finest quality, prime poplar, dressed by hand, a century ago.

A small cramped stairway rises from the front room and goes up to two large rooms upstairs. A lean-to kitchen and dining room, now falling down, were built by Tandy on the west side. Huge chimneys of crude hand-carved native stone stand at each end of the house. A slave house of Tandy's nearby has long since succumbed to the years.

James Shannon Layne operated a store across the river, near the present residence of James H. Loar, himself a Layne descendant. You could see the Layne mercantile establishment from Tandy's home back in the years before the Civil War.

In 1841, typhoid struck the Layne family, some of them married, but all brothers of Tandy M. Three died that year of the disease—William Henry, Sam George and John Lewis. Two old tombstones, one each for two of the brothers, Sam George and John Lewis, with dates of birth and death on them, are lying in the grass near the garden of James H. Loar. Mr. Loar repeats an old tradition of how a family difference prevented the erection of the stones after they were bought.

Some of the early Laynes were buried on the hill overlooking Betsy Layne from the railway side. Here lie buried Tandy's father and mother, James Shannon and Katy. Here he and Betsy are buried. The cemetery site is on the old Tandy M. and Betsy Layne farm.

After Tandy M. Layne died, his wife survived for many years, long enough to be vaguely remembered by octogenarians of today. For a great many years she lived alone. The farm was bought by Dr. S. M. Ferguson in 1876 and tenants lived in the old house ever afterwards. One of them was Richard P. Robinson who occupied it for years.

Dr. Ferguson, who lived near the Pike-Floyd county lines at the present Boldman, died in 1904, and his heirs sold the farm to the Big Mud Coal Company, a corporation owned by John C. C. Mayo, Walter S. Harkins and others. Soon afterwards the rail station of Betsy Layne was established. Big Mud Coal Company sold in a short time to the Olive Hill Brick Company.

The company wanted the coal located here for the making of bricks at Olive Hill. Since a mine was now opened, a postoffice was established and as for naming it, what better one than Betsy Layne? Her old house still stood near the mine, people remembered her from years ago. So in naming the town, she was honored, her name being perpetuated on one of Uncle Sam's far-flung postoffices. Today, though, the postoffice serving where she lived, is Justell, a named coined from Justice and Elliott, later coal operators that mined there. Betsy Layne serves the people on the side of the river where Tandy M. Layne's father, James Shannon Layne lived and had a store. Laynesville, the postoffice that originally served where Betsy Layne is now and which was established by and named for James Shannon Layne does not exist.

The railway station remains with the name, and the old house still stands, recalling that once there lived an old lady whom everyone called Betsy Layne.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hunter, of Lancer, celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary, March 27. Mr. Hunter is 80 and his wife is 78 years of age.

Five of their seven children are living. They are Mrs. Frank Price, of Prestonsburg, Mrs. Frank Webb, of Auxier, Mrs. Gladys Brown, Ypsilanti, Mich., Mrs. Curtis Wells, of Lancer and Claude, at home.

SANTA BARBARA, CALIF. — An antique, square-rigged bark appeared out of the fog off-shore like a ghost ship from a bygone age.

Startled landmen weren't convinced it was real until they heard the rattle of a chain across the water as the ancient four-master dropped anchor. A reporter dispelled the mystery by boating out, to be told the vessel was a training ship with 105 middies from Japan. Did they have a good trans-Pacific crossing? "Sure," said the Japanese spokesman. "We made it, didn't we?"

WASHINGTON — A bill aimed at plugging loopholes in the law banning slot machines from interstate commerce has been introduced by Rep. Keating (R-NY). He calls for a revision of definitions applied to the one-armed bandits which were virtually outlawed in 1951.

CLUB TO HEAR LAPKOVSKI AUTHORITY ON RUSSIA

The regular monthly meeting of the Pecco Club, Saturday, will hear a prominent authority on Russia discuss "Labor in Russia." The meet will be held at the Center Grill, 6:30.

The speaker, Dr. Leonard Lapkovski, Latvian native and instructor in languages at Bellarmine College, Louisville, came to this country in 1950. During World War II he was imprisoned, but was liberated by American troops. After his release from prison he served the American forces as an official in refugee camps. He has traveled extensively in 11 European countries and has a knowledge of several languages. Dr. Lapkovski is one of two prominent speakers furnished the local Foremen's Club each year by the national organization of the clubs.

Co., in Breathitt county. American Federation of Labor craftsmen were employed.

The construction firm said William O. Hart, representative of United Construction Workers, led about 75 to 150 men to the job site.

"These men were armed, some with guns, many with knives, drunk and rough looking," Laburnum said. "Hart, backed up by his gang, made it plain that Laburnum's men were either going to join Hart's union, get off the job or be killed."

"Laburnum's men would not join but were scared off the job. Laburnum was never able to persuade its men to return to the job; as a result it lost its contract and was in fact, run out of Kentucky."

Justice Burton delivered the majority decision which said that Congress "has neither provided nor suggested any substitute for traditional state court procedure for collecting damages for injuries caused by tortious (unlawful) conduct."

"For us to cut off the injured respondent (Laburnum) from this right of recovery would deprive it of its property without recourse or compensation."

Justice Douglas wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justice Black joined. Douglas said he felt the labor organizer's conduct in the case was dealt with specifically by federal law.

Named in Laburnum's civil suit for damages was the United Construction Workers, an affiliate of the United Mine Workers; District 50, UMW; and the UMW.

Two From Here Attend National Council Meet Of Presbyterian Women

Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind.—Mrs. E. R. Burke and Mrs. F. L. Heinze, of Prestonsburg, are two of more than 6,000 women who attended the meeting of the National Council of Presbyterian Women's Organizations, held June 1-7, at Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind. They represented the Women's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church. Other delegates and visitors included women from the forty-eight states, Alaska, Cuba, Puerto Rico, South America, India, China, Thailand, Korea, the Philippines, Africa, Europe, and the Middle East. Nearly 150 missionaries and church members from national missions and foreign fields were in attendance.

The national meeting is held every four years and is the most important event in the women's organizations of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Attendance here was more than double that of the last meeting, which was held in Ocean Grove, New Jersey.

At this conference, national officers were elected for the next four years and plans developed for carrying out the work of women's organizations in local churches over the four-year period.

The opening session featured a keynote address by Mrs. James D. Wyker, president of United Church Women, based on the over-all theme, "Christ Is the Way." Mrs. Rosa Page Welch, who recently returned from a "mission of music" around the world, was in charge of group singing.

BOY WANTS TO PLAY COWBOY BUT SUFFERS WITH CANCER

The little boy sat down on the sidewalk and told his mother, "My head hurts." Not long afterwards she watched him walk across a yard near their house. He stumbled, walked a few more steps, stumbled again.

Two weeks later Gordon Mitchell, 10, underwent brain surgery in Texas Children's hospital, Dallas. The tumor that doctors found was diagnosed as malignant. Part of the growth was cut out, but the rest can't be removed without damaging brain tissue.

The mother hasn't told her son he doesn't have a chance. He may live three years, maybe not.

(Thus begins the story of the son of Mrs. Alma Vaughan Mitchell, of Abilene, Texas, but formerly of Prestonsburg. It appeared in the Abilene Reporter-News, in a recent issue.)

He doesn't know he will die. The freckle-faced youngster, who likes to play cowboys and Indians, wants a bicycle. His mother said, "When I told him he couldn't ride it now, he told me, 'Keep it at home for me.'"

Gordon's main object is getting well enough to come home. To give the kid strength, so he may return to Abilene, doctors are using expensive X-ray treatments.

But coming home isn't the solution for Mrs. Mitchell.

She's faced with the double tragedy of knowing her son will die and knowing that she can't pay her obligations. She has no money.

Before Gordon became ill, she worked in a laundry. Since the March 26 operation she's been in Dallas with the boy—who was very ill after the surgery.

The laundry job has been taken over by someone else. When Gordon does come home, he will need constant care and she won't be able to work then.

Taylor county is paying for the hospital room through the welfare unit, but operations and other medical expenses will be paid by Mrs. Mitchell.

Friends who heard of her plight sent her small donations. Two churches helped her on transportation to Dallas, making contributions around $200.

"The only time I can write is at night in the hospital room, and if Gordon sees me across the room writing, he'll call me to read to him," she said.

One of the churches was a local group, and the other from Winters, where the Mitchells lived from 1943 to 1949.

Before they came to Abilene in June, 1953, they lived in Clyde. Children from the Pannin school where Gordon was in the fourth grade—sent letters and cards to the patient, but he couldn't read them. His eyes refuse to focus for several days after the operation. He understood, though, that his school-mates had remembered him. It's the first time illness has struck in the family. "The children have always been healthy," Mrs. Mitchell recalled.

Two other boys, 13 and 15, live at home. Another son, 19, works in a laundry in Abilene and tries to foot his household bills.

Mrs. Mitchell has two other sons, one married, 20, and living in Albuquerque, N. M., and another son, 22, who was recently released from an Army hospital. He was injured last June in a car wreck.

A seventh son died during World War II when his ship sank.

Mrs. Mitchell has a daughter, Mrs. Bill Robertson. The daughter left a couple of weeks ago for Tennessee to see her serviceman husband who is to be shipped overseas soon.

erty, F. Dale Burke and F. M. Burke, attorneys for Damron, had asked the Circuit Court for his release on a writ of habeas corpus and Circuit Judge E. P. Keesee granted a hearing, but refused bond. Damron's attorneys appealed to the Court of Appeals, but later withdrew their application for relief from the high court.

Last Saturday's preliminary hearing at Pikeville brought a courtroom packed with spectators. State Police Sergeant E. L. Cornette testified why the poolroom operator should be bound to the grand jury.

He told the court of viewing the body and said he had talked to Clements while he was in jail, charged with the possession of burglary tools and declared the torso could have been that of the missing man.

The sergeant also told of tracing a laundry mark, found in the brown suit that was on the decomposed body, to a dry-cleaning establishment at Martin, this county. Records at the cleaners showed the suit had been picked up at Damron's Goldman poolroom—in Damron's name—last August 8 and returned August 14, Cornette said.

Coroner John George Call has said the man died about August 15.

At a May 7 inquest, Billy Delaney, 26, Perry county, now serving a term at the LaGrange Reformatory on a bad-check conviction testified that he had traded the suit to Clements, alias Clemmons, while both were in the county jail.

Delaney gave what may be important evidence at the hearing. County Attorney Kelsey Friend told The Times that Delaney testified Damron, Claude and Alfred Goodman, deputy jailers, came to the jail on May 22, the day Clements was said to have escaped, and that the trio took him away. Sgt. Cornette testified that Clyde Jack Clements was seen at the home of Logan Damron, Willard's father, on Hurricane Creek. This was in the middle of August, the last time Clements was seen by anyone, as far as testimony has been produced.

Witnesses were to appear before the Pike county grand jury yesterday and it was thought a report would be filed tomorrow (Friday).

BABE DIES

Rickie Dale Robinson, one-day old son of John and Hollie Robinson, of Langley, died at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin, last Friday. Funeral rites were conducted at the graveside in the New Allen cemetery, at Langley, the Rev. Millard Blanton officiating and burial followed under the direction of Turner Funeral Home, of Martin.

tians say pressure was built on Oldham to transfer Curry, but he resisted.

Claude Frady, principal of Hindman high school, said the pressure was coming from "the bootleggers of Perry, Knott and Floyd counties, the sheriff of Knott county and a congressman."

At a conference between Oldham and Curry sometime before the transfer, it is alleged by the Governor that the policeman told the commissioner he was not to be transferred. It is said that Oldham ordered the transfer after this conference because of what Curry had said.

"These fellows are going to serve where the commissioner wants them, not where the public at large wants them," Governor Wetherby told the Knott delegation.

Charges of politics entered the picture too. Dennis Sturgill is for James Wine for Congress against the incumbent Carl Perkins. Sturgill was one of the chief opponents in the delegation to talk to Wetherby. Perkins, after being told that pressure by bootleggers was exerted to have Curry removed, said "That's the Sturgill story."

Practically every official in Knott county has made public comment on the Curry transfer. Judge Sturgill said he was shocked, only Sheriff Merd Stone deprecated the incident as a mere departmental transfer. Others like County Attorney Dan Martin were angry. Martin said, "It is absolutely the result of corrupt politics and lawlessness." State Representative W. R. Smith issued a public statement in which he told about his efforts to have Curry retained in the Knott section. "Every law abiding, peaceful citizen in Knott county has experienced a deep feeling of regret that we are losing such a fine outstanding officer," Smith said. Expressions of regret came from Afton Smith, commonwealth's attorney, Beckham Combs, county superintendent of schools, pastors, teachers and many others.

Besides Sturgill, Martin and Smith, another county official of Knott present at the conference Tuesday with Wetherby was Jailer Calvin Huff. Representatives of civic organizations, schools and churches were represented. All businesses in Hindman were closed for the day.

Although Governor Wetherby refused to return Curry to Knott county he did tell the delegation, "The next state patrolman who goes up there will enforce the law as well or better than the last one or he will be fired or transferred."

Yes, the other oldster did remember now. He wasn't so good at remembering as he used to be, but now that it was mentioned, he recalled that snow. And, having reminisced on the big snow, they jointly agreed, that the weather "ain't what it used to be."

THE HEART OF A CHILD

She was a mere slip of a girl hobbling along on a crutch, lagging behind the others, on her way to school. She had polio years ago and now a foot was deformed and she walked upon the side of it. One leg was smaller than the other, but she supported it with a crutch and hobbled along to school.

You don't pass her, you pick her up, and she, with the deformed foot and the crutch, arrives at school before the others do. Comes a time when the local chapter of the National Infantile Paralysis steps in and sends her to a crippled children's hospital. Since it is an old case, you help a little, induce others to help more, on the transportation to the hospital. She submits to several operations and approaches a complete cure.

Comes Christmas Eve and the hospital puts its little patient on T-V. Each is allowed to say a word or two, not over a sentence. Comes the girl's turn whom you aided a little to get to school on time and assisted in being admitted to the hospital. She walks before the camera, holding lightly now the old crutch because she doesn't have to rely upon it as much as she did. She knows you own a T-V set. She calls your name, waves an arm, and says "Hello."

You are humble now, humble before a little slip of a girl, because she has taught you something. Taught you how big is the heart of a little child.

STRAIGHT ANSWER

The North Carolina tourist-fishermen who lost their way and wandered up Mare Creek a few weeks ago seeking Dewey Lake must have begun to form a low opinion of our road system and this one in particular. They bounced along, the road got rougher and narrower, and finally having grave doubts Dewey Lake could be in this direction, they pulled up before a country store, just before they would have to cross the creek again. One of them inquired: "Can you get to the lake this way?" "Now," the old merchant said, in repeating the story later, "that was a straight question that called for a straight answer. I told him he could—if he would hire a boss."

Candidate Wine Asks Machine Politics End

Pikeville, June 5—Congressional Candidate James Wine declared here last night that "You cannot create a different condition by being indifferent."

Wine, Pikeville Attorney, is seeking the Democratic nomination as U. S. Representative from this District.

"I think it's high time that the people of Eastern Kentucky began to get government back in their own hands," Wine said, in a radio address. "You have to get up on your heels and shout and work hard to get back what rightfully belongs to you."

Wine, declaring that he was not selected by any machine and that he was not a puppet candidate, called on "those who have been a part of the machine to change their ways and give the people their voice back."

Wine said he thought the machine members, whom he did not identify by name, wanted "the opportunity to get on decency's side and this is it."

Thirty-six families attended a meeting of the Farm and Home Development Club in Marshall county.

Says Nuns May Wear
Raiment of Church

Frankfort, Ky., June 10— It is not within the power of civil authorities to tell individual citizens what they must wear, so long as the attire is decent, the Attorney General's office declared in a brief filed in Franklin Circuit Court asking that the suit be dismissed which seeks to enjoin Roman Catholic sisters from teaching in public schools while clad in the official garb of that order.

In addition, the brief — signed by Attorney General J. D. Buckman, Jr. and Assistant Attorneys General M. B. Hollifield and Jo M. Ferguson — asked dismissal on the further ground that there was no charge made that sectarianism was being taught in the public schools and that this, not the garb, was what the Constitution prohibits. The suit was brought by the Rev. J. C. Rawlings, Bradfordsville, to enjoin state school authorities from paying for such services.

Steps Taken To Revise
State's Judicial System

Frankfort, Ky., June 10— Initial steps looking toward a complete overhaul of the State's judicial system have been taken by the Legislature Research Commission in conformity with a directive of the 1954 General Assembly that a complete study be taken looking toward that end.

Representatives of the Kentucky Judicial Council, the Constitution Review Commission and the State Bar Association will serve in an advisory capacity to the commission which is to report to the next General Assembly its findings.

Problems to be considered during the study include:

Whether to abolish all judicial functions of present county judges and make of that official solely an administrative officer — it not being required that he be a lawyer. Establishment of an intermediate court between circuit courts and Court of Appeals. Establishment in each county of a court of original jurisdiction with a continuous term.

Against Howes Meade, Tele-Ception Company; Over $7,000 Is Sought

Lexington, Ky., June 7—Tele-Ception of Winchester, Inc., and W. Howes Meade, Lexington, ex-Congressman from this district, and former Panitsville resident, were named today in a suit filed in United States District Court. The action seeks $5,541 alleged due on three promissory notes.

Jerrold Service Corporation, of Ohio, also asks for $2,444 as balance claimed due on merchandise, and for an accounting of customers using Tele-Ception's television-antenna service for monies owed to the Ohio company under terms of an agreement entered into by the parties in June, 1952.

Meade was listed as process agent for the Winchester company. The suit says the Ohio company agreed to prepare plans and supervise the initial installation and maintenance of an antenna system for the Winchester company.

Tele-Ception agreed to pay the company $5 for each initial connection of a TV receiver to the system, plus 25 cents a month for each receiver that continued to use the system and a minimum monthly payment of $75 in addition to making monthly reports on connections and disconnections.

The Ohio company stated that the Winchester company had refused to furnish monthly reports and to pay remittances due.

Ag Board Adopts Rules, Regulations To Enforce New Pest Control Law

Frankfort, Ky., June 8—The State Board of Agriculture today adopted a set of rules and regulations for administering the new Termites and Pest Control law enacted by the 1954 General Assembly, the requirements of which had been given prior approval by both representatives of the State Department of Agriculture and the pest control industry.

The rules and regulations, as approved by the Board of Agriculture today, were promulgated to expedite the administration and enforcement of the following general provisions of the pest control law:

- (1) Set up standards of application and workmanship.
- (2) Assure proper health and safety precautions.
- (3) Specify requirements for contractual responsibility and fulfillment of agreements.
- (4) Obtain proof of financial responsibility. Each pest control operator is required to carry insurance providing a maximum liability of $5,000 for bodily injuries; $25,000 maximum liability for property damage; and a maximum liability bond of $50,000 for each occurrence.
- (5) Requirements that the operators file monthly reports of all contracts entered into during the month. These reports must be filed with the Department of Agriculture by the 15th of the following month.
- (6) Specify fields of operations for which licenses may be issued.

Each of the approximately 200 establishments engaged in the pest control industry is required to pay a $100 license fee annually. This includes all operators doing business in Kentucky either full or part time.

Commenting on the new rules and regulations, Commissioner Adams stated: "I am well satisfied and think that these rules and regulations will be adequate safeguards of the interests of both the general public and the pest control industry."

J. Harvey Sturgeon, a Louisville pest control operator and also serving as president of the Kentucky Association of Pest Control Operators, commenting on the set of rules and regulations as adopted by the Board, observed: "It was necessary to compromise on some issues, but as a whole a satisfactory agreement was reached both for the good of the industry and the general public."

John H. Cox, Director of Licensing for the Agriculture Department, will be in charge of the administering and enforcement of the termite and pest control law.

A Times Want Ad is a powerful salesman who works for little pay.

Jesse Elliott, county band director, will direct the program at Boy Scout Camp Shawnee this summer. Mr. Elliott has been in Scouting many years and served on the camp staff last year as the program director. Prior to the opening of camp this year he will attend the national camping school of the Boy Scouts in Warren, Ohio.

In the above photograph Mr. Elliott is teaching a group of scouts the skill of finding directions in the woods with the use of a compass. He also teaches rope work, pioneering, seamanship, and nature study. Camp will open on June 20 and will be open for five weeks. Scouts and leaders may make their reservations to attend camp through the Boy Scout office in Pikeville.

Bowling Green Man Is Honored At UK

Lewis F. Allen, co-owner of the Farm Supply Stores in Bowling Green, was awarded the University of Kentucky's 1954 Sullivan Medalion, a presentation made annually to an outstanding citizen of the Commonwealth, at the UK commencement exercise. The award was made on the basis of Allen's service to the farm people of Kentucky. Honored with the Warren County man were two of the University's graduating class of 832 seniors. They were Diogenes Allen and Elaine Moore, both of Lexington.

TAKE heart, good friend—you can buy a hit-of-the-year Buick if you can afford any new car.

And we proudly show our price here to prove it.

For this price is the delivered price—the local delivered price—of the new Buick SPECIAL 2-door, 6-passenger Sedan—and it's just a few dollars away from those of the so-called "low-price three"—lower, in fact, than even some models of those very same cars.

But look what this Buick price gets you!

It gets you the very look of tomorrow in styling modernity, even to the spectacular new panoramic windshield that seems to outdate everything before it.

It gets you Buick V8 power—highest in SPECIAL history—plus the economy of new Power-Head Pistons.

It gets you Buick room, Buick luxury, Buick size and structure and solidity—including of course, the famed Million Dollar Ride and a new precision in handling ease.

It gets you, too, solid and deep-down value.

For any way you look at it, you're money ahead with the car that's years-ahead now in looks and line and the lift of its power—and the car that's outselling every other car in America except two of the "low-price three."

Drop in today or the first thing tomorrow—just to try and to drive and to compare a new Buick. We'll let the car prove its points.

The closer you compare values the more certainly you'll see that Pontiac is far and away the standout buy on automobile row.

In size and weight alone Pontiac offers you more car per dollar than a like amount ever bought before. And that's important, because that long wheelbase is the reason for comfort, riding ease and roadability unapproached within hundreds of dollars of its modest price. On the road a Pontiac is always restfully smooth, steady and quiet. Your hands on the wheel are free of jarring road shocks. You round corners on an even keel... cruise without tiring for hours on end.

And along with these big-car features you get remarkable savings. Economy is, of course, exceptional. First cost is the least for any big, luxury automobile—within a few dollars of the lowest-priced cars. Our trade-in appraisals are notably large and Pontiac's resale value ranks with the highest in the industry. Come in for the facts about today's most startling value.

Commodities Clamp-Down Not Meant To Deprive Needy of Benefits

Frankfort, Ky., June 10 — More rigid controls will be placed over the distribution of surplus commodities within the state, but not to the point of depriving the needy of their benefits, Commissioner of Agriculture Ben S. Adams said today.

The distribution, which started out as an emergency program several months ago, now shows signs of "being with us for some time to come, and it is essential that there be a re-examination of the methods," he added.

"We don't want to see any one go hungry as long as there is a surplus of foodstuffs in the country," Adams continued.

During conferences here a few days ago led by James A. Hutchins, assistant chief of the Direct Distribution of Agriculture, it was agreed that practically the only breakdown in the procedure is the proper certification of claimants for relief—there being some 175,000 in the State.

The procedures will require the county welfare unit, the Salvation Army or other local certifying agency responsible for distribution of food at the county level, to take greater precautions to determine if all claimants are in actual need. The federal official implied that county units failing to meet the requests might expect to be cut off as recipients of surplus commodities.

To work on the reorganization, Adams has sent Thomas A. Lewis, State director of the Surplus Commodities Division, into various counties where the program is in effect to advise strict compliance with the new directives.

BIRD IS ALL WET

TRUCKEE, Calif., June 6 — A blue parakeet, Tweety Pie, escaped from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kay and flitted downtown. Spectators could not recapture the bird. But Fire Chief N. F. Dolely drenched Tweety Pie with a small stream of water and the bird's wet feathers forced him to the sidewalk—unharmd.

GROUP TALKS FOREST PLANS

Field Day This Month Planned; Association To Tackle Problems

A group of persons interested in the forestry problems of this county met in the Extension Service office recently and formed plans for a mass field day meet in late June. The planned meet will have as its primary purpose the organization of an association to tackle forestry problems such as fire prevention and indiscriminate and wasteful timber cutting.

Plans for the field day include prominent speakers and various woodcraft contests, including cross-cut-sawing, old-fashioned board-making with a frow, and chopping contests with a double-bit axe. Forest Ranger Forrest Burchett says Old Smokey, the bear, will be brought to the meet.

Almost coincidental with the meet here was the recommendation of an appropriation of $40,000 by the Senate Appropriations Committee to establish a forest research center somewhere in East Kentucky.

Senator Earle C. Clements, who had asked $50,000 for the center, termed Eastern Kentucky probably the greatest forested area in the United States not serviced with adequate research.

West Kentucky is serviced by the center at Carbondale, Ill., but Kentucky has different forest types. Clements said that the average acre of forest land in Kentucky supports about 2,000 boardfeet of saw timber in contrast to the original forest which averaged about 8,000 board feet.

Less than one-fifth of the standing timber is in log grades 1 and 2 and the remainder is in inferior grades, he said.

The proposed center would serve as "an outdoor laboratory to solve forest problems from seed to sawmill," Clements declared.

It is estimated that Mason county farmers spent $150,000 in seeding and reseeding pastures.

Annual FFA Contest For Vo-ag Students Announced This Week

High school vocational-agriculture students can win $325 in prizes in the 1954 Future Farmers of America contest.

The competition was announced last week by W. C. Montgomery, executive secretary of the Kentucky Association of F.F.A. and Barry Bingham, president of The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and WHAS, Inc. The newspapers and radio-television station are contest sponsors.

The state winner will receive $100 to buy farm equipment or livestock as well as an all expense-paid trip to the annual Farm Awards Luncheon in Louisville next spring. He and the district winners will be guests at the luncheon.

A $25 U. S. Savings Bond will go to the winner in each of the nine F.F.A. districts. Each chapter winner will receive a special certificate. A gold-seal recognition will be sent to each chapter having 100 per cent representation of eligible members in the contest.

October 30 is the deadline for entries. Each Future Farmer must submit a summary of his farming program, projects, leadership accomplishments, high school activities and plans for the future.

Nicholas county farmers growing comestrical vegetables will market their crops through the Licking Valley Strawberry Association.

Mrs. Rhoda Moore, 82, Victim of Long Illness; Last Rites Held Friday

Mrs. Rhoda Moore, 82, died at the home at Price of her daughter, Mrs. Betty Meade, last Thursday morning. Her death followed an illness of four years.

A daughter of the late Bill and Vina Hall Gayheart, she was a native of Left Beaver Creek. Her husband, Morgan Moore, preceded her in death.

Surviving are the following children: Rev. Matt Moore, Printer, Grover Moore, Willard O. Mrs. Meade, Price, Mrs. Alice Osborne, Drift, Mrs. Nancy Moore, Orkney. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Paris Moore, East McDowell, Mrs. Hannah Adams, Wayland, and a brother, Day Gayheart, of East McDowell.

Funeral services were held at the Meade home, Friday morning, the Revs. Troy Nickells, Henry King, Woodrow Dye, and Morgan Stumbo officiating. Burial was made in the Morgan Stumbo cemetery at Price under direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

MOTORIST MAY BE CHARGED

Frankfort, Ky., June 10—A motorist subject to blackouts may be charged with legal responsibility for an accident that may occur during an occasional lapse, the Court of Appeals held in a case arising from Perry county.

However, the Appellate Court set aside a 10-year prison term imposed on Lee Smith in Perry Circuit Court for manslaughter growing out of an accident in which another person was killed—on the ground that the trial court failed to properly instruct the jury in the case.

The Kentucky state tournament for the National Baseball Congress semi-pro baseball play-offs will be held in Louisa on July 16th-18th. All teams interested in entering the nation-wide event should contact Harold G. Britton, Louisa.

Wheelwright's semi-pro baseball team is fourth in the eight-team Tri-state Loop with an even 500 mark at 3-3. Portsmouth is the top team with a perfect 6-0 slate.

The annual Paintsville Invitation Golf Tournament, July 16th-17, is expected to draw some 200 golfers, far more than the 167 entries last year. More than $600.00 will be at stake for the pros and a host of prizes for the amateurs.

George Hoffer, Huntington, West Virginia, who captured the pro title last year will return for this year's meet and Carl Buddy Mahan, defending amateur champ, will be back, according to Dr. Paul B. Hall, club president.

Manager Vernon Blackburn's Dodgers walloped the Yankees, 14-6, in the opening fray of the Prestonsburg first Little League Baseball game on the two-hit pitching of Eddie Leslie, Roger Dobart, Okey Sparks and Junior Young.

C-J Snapshot Contest To Give Shutter Bugs Chance at Cash Prizes

Camera fans throughout Kentucky and Indiana can win cash for their favorite snapshots this summer.

The Courier Journal is sponsoring an Amateur Snapshot Contest with weekly and grand prizes. The grand prize-winning snapshots will be entered in the newspaper, National Snapshot Awards, to compete with entries from all over the nation for $15,000 in cash.

The contest opened Sunday, June 6, and will close midnight, Saturday, August 14. It is open to all camera fans in the area served by the Courier-Journal.

There will be ten weekly contests with winners chosen in each of four classes: Babies and Children; Activities; Scenes and Still Life; and Animal Life.

These winners will receive a $5 cash prize and will be eligible for the local grand prize. The grand prize winners will receive $25 from The Courier-Journal and will be entered in the national competition. All entrants whose pictures reach the national awards will win a minimum of $55 with a chance at a top prize of $1,030.

Complete rules for the contest are available at camera stores and film dealers.

Dodgers Whip Yankees 14-6 in Opening Game Of Little League Play

The Dodgers, relying on the two-hit hurling of four pitchers and a barrage of ten safe blows, downed the Yankees 14-6 in the opening game of the 1954 Prestonsburg Little League baseball season, Monday evening.

Eddie Leslie, Roger Dobart, Okey Sparks and Junior Young quelled Tommy Thompson's Yankees' hitting to singles by Larry Harris and pitcher Glen Howard.

Leslie paced Vernon Blackburn's Dodgers to a 10-hit attack with three successive singles which drove in three runs, and second baseman Preston tallied 3 of the 14 runs.
