A "WELL DONE"

This Memorial Dogwood Trail idea is one of the best ever conceived in this county. We congratulate all concerned. Above all, it is dedicated to the memory of those who fell in battle for us all. And next in importance, it brought together in common purpose all parts of Floyd county. Happily missing was all prejudice between different sections of the county. This fatal weakness of Floyd county's was lost as folks turned their thoughts to Floyd county boys and the distant places where they died.

To Mrs. Winnie F. Johns, of Prestonsburg, for whom the organization sponsoring the Dogwood Trail is named, goes full credit, of course, for launching the drive. Without somebody to set forces into action dreams remain only dreams. Then there are all those who met and worked with her, those who led the various phases of the campaign on to the setting of the trees. But we cannot refrain from thinking, first of all, when we look back on the work of individuals, of those teachers and school children and relatives of war dead who scaled steep hillsides in search of the trees that will go into this living memorial.

If Doc Ferrell isn't again named Coach of the Year, we're going to demand a recount.

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING

This is how a First-grader told the story of the first Thanksgiving after having heard it at school here:

See, these people lived in England and they had a mean, old king and he wouldn't let them go to church and worship God like they wanted to. So they got in a ship—yeah, it was the Mayflower—and they sailed and sailed and they came to the woods and they lived there.

The first winter some of them died but most of them lived. The

WOUNDED MAN
JAILED HEREOfficers Say Arnett
Shot Self; Warrant
Demands Peace Bond

Bill Arnett, who, officers said, shot himself late Wednesday afternoon through his left shoulder at his "Sang Factory" home across the river from here, later wound up in jail instead of the hospital.

His wound was considered of such a minor nature that it was only treated at the Prestonsburg General hospital. That done, Deputy Sheriff Frank Blackburn arrested the wounded man on a peace warrant sworn out by Mrs. Arnett earlier in the day.

Arnett was released under probation Saturday after having served 57 days of a six-month jail term for shooting at without warning. He also had been fined $100 on the same charge growing out of an exchange of rifle shots here with Bill Hubbard, of Prestonsburg.

Mrs. Arnett in procuring the peace warrant for him alleged he had burned her clothing. Officers searched for him Wednesday afternoon but failed to find him. A neighbor later found him wounded. Officers said he presumably was shot by the same .22-caliber rifle used in the shooting which resulted in his jail term.

Arnett declined to prosecute Hubbard in the case involving the two men, and the charge against Hubbard was dismissed.

SCHOOL CASE
HERE ARGUED
IN FRANKFORTHigh Court Ruling,
Expected This Month,
May Clear Barriers

Merger of the Prestonsburg independent district with the county school system and further steps toward construction of a gymnasium-auditorium in connection with the new county high school building here will mark time until a Court of Appeals decision is handed down to settle issues argued before the court Friday in Frankfort by attorneys for the two boards.

A ruling clarifying a previous opinion handed down by Commissioner Duncan is expected by Dec. 1, it was said here this week. The court rulings are announced on Fridays.

Oral arguments were heard Friday on the question of the responsibility of taxpayers of the present independent district for the special tax voted for the gym-auditorium in the event of merger of the two school systems.

If the question of responsibility is fixed to the satisfaction of all concerned, the independent district may proceed with the sale of $155,000 worth of bonds to finance the construction. Merger would be a later development.

The argument by attorneys was on a petition for a rehearing on a July 20 Appellate Court decision that the tax could be continued. The petition was filed by the Prestonsburg Board of Education. The decision had reversed part of Floyd circuit court's ruling that such a tax could be continued automatically upon merger. The Appellate Court affirmed other parts of circuit court's judgment.

Joe Hobson, attorney for the County Board, protested that a school tax of 5 to 35 cents per $100 assessed valuation passed by Prestonsburg voters would be "loaded on Floyd county" if a proposed merger of the city and county educational system were effected.

The test suit sought a ruling on the effect of the proposed merger on school building bonds to be issued by the city.

Joseph A. Rubin, counsel for the City Board, said the bond issue would not be approved by the State Board of Education until the Appellate Court was more specific in its ruling whether the special tax would be valid after the merger.

Mash, Barrels Destroyed
On Big Mud-cr. Tributary

Four barrels, filled with mash, were destroyed on Tinker's Fork of Big Mud Creek last Friday by Deputy Sheriff Bill Hall and Constable Joe Lykins, Jr. Constable Lykins says that from the evidence, illicit manufacture of whiskey had been going on for several years. It was not learned whether any arrests were made.

ONE PENNED
DURING WEEKMost Cases in Court
Of Minor Nature; Two Others Are Convicted

Circuit court trials of the week were confined to minor cases, and only one man, Willard Howell, drew a pen term.

Howell was convicted Wednesday afternoon of knowingly receiving stolen property and was given a one-year sentence. The same charge against Granville Howell, who was indicted jointly with Willard, was dismissed.

The other two convictions of the week resulted in fines. Harlan Mullins was fined $20 upon his conviction on a charge of shooting at without warning, and Ivan Moore drew a $50 fine after he had entered a plea of guilty Wednesday to a charge of reckless use of a deadly weapon.

In three other cases defendants entered pleas of guilty, asking the consideration of the court. Decisions in their cases had not been made Wednesday afternoon. These defendants are Chester Donald Stone, charged with breaking and entering and knowingly receiving stolen property; Eugene Yates and Chester Stone, breaking and entering, and Eugene Yates, grand larceny. Other breaking and entering and knowingly receiving stolen property cases against Chester Donald Stone were dismissed.

The jury disagreed on the guilt or innocence of McKinley Hall, accused of possessing a moonshine.

Tipsy, Reckless Drivers
Booked at Jail; Woman
Named in Cutting Case

Four Floyd men have been jailed here within the week on drunk driving or reckless driving charges. They are:

Robert Frasure, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Frank Blackburn on charges of reckless driving, failing to obey a citation and breach of the peace; Billie Austin Cooley, drunk driving, arrested by state police; Okie Hall, reckless driving, booked by Deputy Sheriffs Grant and Ted Akers and Bill Hall; Frel Tackett, drunk driving, arrested by State Troopers Sword and Cornett.

Others jailed on more serious offenses:

Herbert Salisbury, of the Left Beaver Creek section, grand larceny, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Willie Johnson Saturday and jailed two days later by Deputy Sheriff W. L. Rice on the same charge; Mabel Trammel, cutting and wounding, jailed by Policeman Hitchcock, of Wheelwright; Levi Ousley, child desertion.

HEALTH BLDG.
FUND SIGHTEDOfficial Indicates
Money Needed Will Be Made Available

Although the State Building and Properties Commission has not formally granted Floyd county's request for an additional appropriation to make possible the construction here of a $100,000 health center, it was indicated in Louisville last week that funds to meet the center's needs will be forthcoming.

M. V. Clark, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department, said he discussed the appropriation increase with Paul Hackney, director of the State Department of Health's Division of Hospital Service, and that Mr. Hackney had suggested that the county proceed with its plans for the structure and with letting a contract. After that, he indicated, the amount of money actually needed would be known and the funds would be supplied.

County Judge Henry Stumbo recently wrote the State Building and Properties Commission asking that it raise its contribution from $15,000 to $25,000 to match the $25,000 the county would earmark for the building. This state-and-county contribution of $50,000 would be matched by $50,000 from federal Hill-Burton funds.

SUSPECT PLAN
TO ROB FIRMTelephone Wires Cut
At Floyd Finance Co.;
Caller Is Unidentified

That plans of a holdup man were thwarted here last week by the narrowest of margins, was the belief expressed after telephone wires leading into the Floyd Finance Company office on First avenue were found cut.

When Mrs. Olna Hamilton, manager of the office, arrived for work last Wednesday morning, a tall man wearing an army overcoat stepped out of the shadows of the hall leading off through the second floor of the building. He advised her he wanted to make a loan.

Asked to identify himself, the visitor said he was Bob Jackson from Harold. Mrs. Hamilton replied that she was reared in the Harold community and that she did not recall any Jacksons there. By that time she had entered the office, the visitor following.

"Are any men around?" the caller inquired. Mrs. Hamilton replied that Boyd Nuckles was on the street outside and would be back at the office in a minute or so.

Almost at the very instant footsteps were heard on the stairway, which gave Mrs. Hamilton the opportunity to remark that Mr. Nuckles was on his way then. Nuckles met the hastily departing caller on the stairway.

After the man had gone it was discovered that the office telephone was dead. Investigation disclosed the wires leading into the building and also those leading into the office itself had been cut in three places.

A man of the same description as given by Mrs. Hamilton was in the hallway outside the finance company office, Tuesday morning of this week, when a woman went to the office door around 8 o'clock, half an hour before the manager arrived. The man inquired her business and informed her she might as well leave, that the office wasn't making any loans. She lost little time in complying with his suggestion.

JURY INDICTS
2 FLOYD MENHurt and Jennings,
Formerly of Auxier,
Accused of Slaying

The grand jury of the Pike Circuit court last week re-indicted two former Floyd county men on murder charges in the February 11, 1945, slaying of Hermit Damron, 27, Belcher coal miner.

Named in the indictments are Willard Hurt, 35, and his half brother, Henry Jennings, 39, both former residents of Auxier. They were arrested in Hillsboro, Ohio, their present home, October 24.

County Attorney Kelsey Friend, in announcing the jury's action, said it was necessary because indictments returned against the same men nine years ago had either been "lost or mislaid."

Other official court papers of that time are also missing, Friend said.

Hurt and Jennings were freed after being questioned in Damron's disappearance nine years ago because the victim's body could not be found.

Two groundhog hunters came across the remains 18 miles south of Pikeville last month and the case was revived.

Hurt is free on bond. He is undergoing medical treatment. He is paralyzed from the waist down as a result of a mine accident which occurred after Damron's death.

Jennings is in the Pike county jail.

Perkins' vote totaled 44,353 in the 13 counties; Clark's 29,115. The Barkley-Cooper vote was not reported.

Mothers of War Dead Plant
First of Dogwood Trail Trees

Floyd county's Memorial Dogwood Trail this week was becoming a reality to stand as a living memorial to the county's war dead.

Two Gold Star mothers, Mrs. Frances Bolling, of West Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Reba Mayo, of Prestonsburg, last Thursday planted the first of the thousands of trees at Lancer during ceremonies marking the beginning of this dream of Floyd countians since World War II days.

And this week the drive for the memorial, which was spearheaded by the Winnie F. Johns Dogwood Trail Association, had gained such momentum that 5,423 trees had been accumulated from the hillsides of this and neighboring counties and actual planting of the dogwoods on U. S. 23 from East Point to the Floyd-Pike line near Harold was under way.

Starting at Lancer, one crew of workers moved upriver along the Trail toward another which had begun in the Betsy Layne vicinity working downriver, planting trees

JOY PROCESS
GETS PATENTBit Firm Here Expands
As Coal Business Use
Of Product Increases

The Joy Coal Bit Company, which has been manufacturing and servicing a new type of tungsten-carbide-tipped bit for coal cutting machines and jack hammers here for some time, was awarded patents on the process last week. W. R. Joy, owner and originator of the process, said that the patents were applied for several months ago.

The tungsten-carbide-tipped bit has been on the market in the Tri-State area for two years, and recently the company began the construction of a building here to take care of expanded operations. Several of the major coal companies of Eastern Kentucky and Southern West Virginia are now users of the new bits.

The detailed exposition of the bit, its uses and manufacture, submitted with the application for patents, says: "It is an object of this invention to provide a cutting tool, particularly a cutting bit, and a method for making the same, which has a hard metal alloy cutting edge of a material such as tungsten-carbide, and at a much lower expense than is normally possible for cutting members provided with hard metal alloy cutting edges." The bit can be easily and rapidly produced, the application said.

Mr. Joy, in pointing out the advantages of his bits, said that his product will carry a total cost, plus this original cost must be added servicing, of only $1.00 but that standard bits cost much more, plus the cost of servicing with high-priced labor at the mines. The savings, Joy said, will amount to as high as 50%.

Under the expansion program of the company, Billy Hale, who has had metallurgical training, will have top responsibility for production and manufacturing, and will be in immediate charge of tempering processes. DeGarmo Derossett will be in direct charge of the bit-tipping department.

Bookmobile To Have 'Open Door'

Standing beside the Floyd County Bookmobile, is Robert J. Wallace, driver-librarian.

Robert J. Wallace, operator of the Floyd county Bookmobile, announced this week that opening of the Bookmobile to the general public will be held Friday.

This public inspection of the mobile library is the first of several to be held at central points in the county over a period of weeks. Places and dates for future inspections will be announced, Mr. Wallace said.

BELL ADDING
RURAL LINESWork to Cost $40,000
Begun To Give Service
In Four Communities

Construction work necessary to serve 130 additional rural homes in Floyd county with telephone service has already started, according to an announcement by Jack Stone, group manager for Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. in Paintsville.

Four rural communities initially will be served by Southern Bell's expansion program at an approximate cost of $40,000.

The communities are Little Paint Creek, Middle Creek Road, Cliff and Auxier. The largest project, Auxier's, will extend telephone service to 81 new subscribers in a community that has not had any telephone service. Work on these projects will probably be finished next month.

Mr. Stone added that while construction work is being completed in these rural areas central office installers are busy installing additional equipment in the Prestonsburg dial office. This work is expected to be completed in the next few days.

These additional facilities in the dial office will extend service to more subscribers in Prestonsburg and will allow some of the company's present customers who are now on party lines the opportunity to get a higher grade of service.

Providing service to these and other rural communities has been an important part of the broad expansion program of Southern Bell since 1945, Stone said. The company expects to continue its program here, as well as throughout the territory served by the company.

GIRL-MURDER
SUSPECT FREE
AFTER PROBESheriff Says Proof
Of Guilt Is Lacking;
Accuser Also Freed

Trail of the killer of Muriel Balford, pretty Prestonsburg high school girl, ran into another stone wall over the week-end, and again a suspect in the vicious slaying was freed by authorities when they found no evidence on which to hold him.

"There wasn't anything else to do—we didn't have a bit of evidence to make a case of it," explained Sheriff Gorman Collins on his return here Tuesday morning from Meridian, Miss., where Ernest Bracken, 49-year-old house-painter, had been freed on a suspicion of murder warrant after intensive questioning. Also released from custody was Sam Stepp, 35, former Martin countian, who had told Pensacola, Fla., authorities Bracken had confessed to him the girl's slaying in 1949.

Sheriff Collins, State Police Detective Ed Combs and Deputy Sheriff Al Patton first went to Pensacola and returned Stepp for questioning at the Meridian jail along with Bracken.

Bracken said he had been in Paintsville but did not admit he had ever been in Prestonsburg. He is described as an alcoholic of no-mad tendencies, mild-mannered and friendly. Sheriff Collins said Bracken could not definitely place his whereabouts at the time of the slaying here but believed he was "somewhere up north."

The two men were interviewed separately and together. Bracken, the Sheriff said, showed no resentment when Stepp attributed to him a statement to the effect that he had killed the girl.

When first told that he was being held on suspicion of murder, Bracken asked if the victim was a girl. Sheriff Collins said Meridian police told him.

Yet the case, like others developed during the five-year-old mystery, was nebulous, defying the piecing-together of evidence that "would hold water." Stepp himself alternated under vigorous questioning between affirming and denying that Bracken told him of the killing. He admitted he had heard of the murder here and had read about it in newspapers.

At one time during the questioning of Bracken, the prisoner told officers his mother and 16 of his relatives had been hanged on the preceding day. They did not determine if he is suffering from a mental aberration or if he was feigning insanity. The Sheriff said relatives of Bracken were "nice people."

The murder case found its way back into the news when Stepp,

PUBLIC MAY
GET ANSWERSTo Questions on What
Station Does and Why
At Open House, Sunday

If you follow the arrows and numbers at the Cumberland Field Station, at West Prestonsburg, Sunday, when open house is held, you will find the answers to many questions that have been asked of the Station, according to a mimeographed booklet issued this week.

Generally, the questions are: "What's going on?" and "Who's doing it?" The open house and a tour of the Station will answer these general questions and many specific ones.

Open house will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. and the tour, beginning in room one, which is the front office, will go through seven rooms on the first floor. There are the epidemiology teams and the enumerators. Second floor houses the parasitology and bacteriology laboratories, where disease-causing agents are identified. Rooms 22-24 house the environmental investigations unit of the Station. Rooms 25-26 is where evaluation of the Station's work is made. Here, after tabulation and correlation of the studies are complete, findings are made.

In discussing the work of the Station, the booklet notes that diarrheal disease is the second leading cause of death from communicable disease in infants and that the Station was set up here because Eastern Kentucky's communities are relatively uniform in population and environmental characteristics, coupled with a high diarrheal disease rate.

The Station was founded upon the invitation of the Kentucky State Health Department and the Floyd County Health Department.

FLOYD GROUP HAS 'CORNER'

On Strawberry Plants Of Two Varieties, But Option Expires Dec. 15

That the Floyd County Strawberry committee has a "corner" on Tennessee Beauty and Blakemore plants for next year became evident this week when farmers from other counties, unable to buy plants from their regular sources, applied here. The strawberry committee of this county last summer took an option on 500,000 plants from Tennessee plant farms. The option, due to expire Nov. 15, has been extended to Dec. 15 after the committee here failed to raise the required 25 per cent deposit required.

The plants, optioned by the committee here, is enough to set about 125 acres, but only about 35 acres have been committed by farmers in this county for next year's setting. This makes a total of approximately 75 acres that will be growing here next year, since 42 acres were set out last year and will produce next season. The job of the strawberry committee is to induce farmers to avail themselves of the plants now at a reduced price, rather than wait until spring when the option will have expired and the plants will not be obtainable.

Since the plant farms require a 25 per cent deposit on the option, $1075 is needed. Only slightly less than $300 of this has been raised to date. The committee is optimistic, though. "This extension to Dec. 15 will give us enough time to raise the needed amount, we feel sure," a committeeman said. "It would be a ridiculous situation to admit that we had a corner on plants, fail to raise enough money to perfect our option, then have farmers come in next spring and beg for something that can't be had at any price."

A note of irony crept into the situation this week when it was discovered other counties were willing to take the plants at a price above the option price. This would give the strawberry committee a small profit but the proposition was rejected by the committee here. "It wouldn't be exactly good ethics," a committeeman said, "although it would let us make a profit and permit us to have free strawberry plants for distribution next year."

A strawberry specialist, J. B. Foreman, of the University of Kentucky's Extension Service, will be assigned to Eastern Kentucky next year, it was announced by O. E. Boggs, county agent. Mr. Foreman will be permanently stationed in this area and devote his time to development of strawberry culture. Before the specialist is assigned here, however, the program will get started in this county when growers and prospective growers meet here in December with L. A. Vennes, marketing specialist. This meet will discuss marketing systems for next year, and if a co-op is desired its promotion will be started.

In January following the December meeting, Perry Summers, another marketing specialist from the University, will come here and arrange with growers to make the necessary contacts with the Huntington market to dispose of next year's crop. This will make secure a market for Floyd county strawberries.

Christian county 4-H'ers sold $22,203 worth of calves at their annual calf sale.

Pike Man Accused Of Killing 'Friend'

Pikeville, Ky., Nov. 15 — Bill Williams Charles, about 43, of near-by McCarr was held in Pike county jail today without bond in the shotgun slaying yesterday of Lincoln Sanson.

Sheriff Alex Blackburn said the shooting occurred in the Sanson home at McCarr, where Charles and his wife lived. The sheriff said he had determined no motive for the shooting, adding that the two men had been "good friends."

Pike County Attorney Kelsey Friend gave this account of the incident: Sanson, Charles and Charles' brother, Frank, had been drinking a short time before the shooting. Sanson, about 45, and Bill Charles had gone to sleep in one bed while Frank Charles slept in another.

The attorney said Bill Charles obtained Sanson's 16-gauge shotgun and shot him once in the head while he lay in bed. Friend said Frank Charles was being held pending further investigation.

Frank Charles told officers he was asleep when the shooting occurred, Blackburn said. Friend said Bill Charles admitted the shooting, but could not give any reason for it.

ORDER UPHELD

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 15 — The Kentucky Court of Appeals held it was within the competency of the Fish and Wildlife Division to order a portion of a stream closed to commercial fishing with hoop nets and seines without violating the state's fundamental laws relative to uniformity.

The court held that McCracken Circuit Judge Holland G. Bryan erred in giving a directed verdict for Fred Meyers who had been convicted in an inferior court, and fined $25 for violation of the regulation.

A check of alfalfa seedling in Morgan county resulted in the suggestion that oats be left out of new seedings.

FIVE FLOYD MEN RECEIVE 25-YEAR SERVICE AWARDS

A cross section of people who work to provide gas service in an area embracing parts of West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Maryland and Virginia have received recognition for years of service with Columbia Gas System companies.

According to Glover Spencer, division superintendent of United Fuel Gas Company's Southern division, five men in this area received 25-year emblems and watches. They are Frank Crisp, of Martin, E. L. Moore, Harold, and H. L. Stumbo, of Printer; W. Ray Flannery and G. A. May, Jr., both of Langley.

John W. Partridge, Charleston, W. Va., president of the companies making up Columbia's Group, said that in the past year 131 men and women qualified for service awards. Four qualified for 40-year veteran pins. They are Ransom S. Blackwell, Elkview, W. Va.; Frank Grant, Lexington, Ky.; George Kiser, Branchland, W. Va.; and Samuel M. Webb, Inez, Ky.

Twenty-nine received 35-year pins, 48 received 30-year pins and 50 received 25-year pins and watches.

"Recognition goes this year to men and women in all phases of our service, a true cross section," Mr. Partridge said. "We are proud to have them as part of the team providing an essential public service."

The pins and watches were presented by department supervisors at scattered locations in the companies' wide operating area from Lexington, Ky., to the Sesquehanna River in northern Maryland.

BREAKDOWN OF EXPENSES
Breakdowns of family expenditures showing purchasing trends reveal that consumers spend three times as much for house furnishings and equipment as they do for either dairy products or for meat, reports Homer Davidson, of the American Meat Institute. They spend twice as much for coffee as for canned fruits, and more for cosmetics than for toilet soap.

Neglect by Parents Cited as Death Cause Of Four in Meade-Co.

Meade county has just experienced one of the worst epidemics of diphtheria in Kentucky for a number of years, health authorities said this week, with a total of 25 cases to date and 4 deaths.

Floyd county has had two diphtheria cases within the last few weeks.

Lad R. Mezera, director of the Division of Maternal and Child Health, recently made the statement that in all probability every one of the Meade county deaths could have been prevented. He added: "Isn't it an awful thought for a parent to have to say to him or herself—I could have prevented my child's death—I have just the same as killed my own child?"

Farm Bureau Is Planned In County, Spurlock Says

Plans were being made to organize a Farm Bureau in this county Friday and a meeting is scheduled at the courthouse at 10:30, it was said by Richard Spurlock this week. Roy Nickell, district organizer of the Bureau from West Liberty, will discuss the proposed organization with the farmers.

"If you are interested in discussing the organization and think it will be for the best interest of the farmers or if you have any suggestions to make for the betterment of the farmers, your presence is requested," Spurlock said in a letter to farmers and businessmen.

"There is really no excuse for all children in Floyd county not being fully immunized," M. V. Clark, health department administrator, said. Now it is also possible to give three immunization at a time, all in the same shot. These are diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough. Three shots at monthly intervals are required to completely immunize against these three diseases, and then one booster every other year.

THE 1955 BUICK
New thriller in Style - Power - Performance

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

ABRIGHT NEW FRESHNESS greets your eyes and tells you: Buick's done it again.

You see it in the bold distinction of that gleaming Wide-Screen Grille. You see it in the rakish sweep of the rear-end contours. You see it in the whole fore-and-aft newness of fleet-lined grace that marks Buick the beauty thrill of 1955.

New horsepower — up to 236
You do what a pilot does when he heads his plane down a runway. You do in oil what he does in air—you cut down take-off time by using "variable pitch propellers."

In this case, the propeller blades are inside the Dynaflo unit. But they're engineered to swivel or change their "pitch" just like plane propellers—and with the same result: one pitch for getaway, another pitch for gas-saving fuel efficiency.

Up goes performance — and gas mileage too

When you find it necessary to push the pedal to the floor board, you do more than call on the greatest high-compression V8 power in Buick history.

And what you get in the way of instantaneous safety-surge with absolute smoothness, you can only believe when you feel it.

This you have to try

Of course, we want you to come and see the trend-setting new Buicks—look into the betterments in gasoline mileage that add new thrills to these spectacular cars.

But this year, "seeing" is only the beginning. So—while you join the crowds viewing the new Buicks this week end, make a date to get behind the wheel as soon as you possibly can. We promise you the thrill of the year.

Yes, we plant trees ...

Yes, tree planting is part of forestland management—tree farming. When seed sources have been destroyed by fire or clearing, the quickest way to get the land back into timber is to plant trees. Forest industries even use helicopters to scatter seed from the air over some areas that need planting. Most of the time, though, Nature plants her own trees. Tree farmers harvest trees in such a way that new ones spring up in their place. It's all part of woodland management.

In 1952, more than 500,000 acres were planted to forest trees in the United States. Eighty percent of this planting was by private landowners. Forest industries often provide seedlings and lend mechanical planters to small landowners who want to grow trees as a crop.

on both sides of the highway wherever possible. Tom James, one of the assisting Circuit Judge Edw. P. Hill and County Judge Henry Stumbo in the big planting job, said more than 6,000 trees will be needed to complete the 23-mile stretch from East Point to Harold.

Floyd county road department employees headed by the Rev. Carl Layne, himself the father of a boy killed in action, were assigned Tuesday to work on the tree-planting job. The minister planted trees along the highway past his son's grave at Laynesville.

The ceremonies at Lancer last Thursday were attended by several other Gold Star mothers, members of veterans' groups and those active in the Trail Association, including Mrs. Johns who was seeing her dream of the memorial come true. Homer Wright, executive vice-president of the Association, presided at the initial tree-planting. A color guard of 12 was composed of members of American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts here.

Principal speaker was Mrs. Gwynne Ford, of Prestonsburg. Others who spoke were Mrs. Johns and Mr. Wright. Mrs. Frances Bolling, one of the mothers setting the first tree, lost one son at Pearl Harbor and another in Korea; Mrs. Reba Mayo, the other, lost a son in World War II. The invocation was said by R. S. Wellman, acting chaplain for the group, and Mrs. C. P. Stephens, state president, Daughters of 1812, read her original poem on the flag.

Outstanding in all the planning and working toward the memorial, however, was the countywide cooperation given in collecting young trees. Few hillsides were missed by school children, teachers, Gold Star mothers and civic-minded citizens ranging in age from 5 to 81 as the trees were spotted, dug up and transported here for final planting.

Some trees were dug as far away as Lawrence county. The tree collection was headed by Lon C. Hill, Procurement Committee chairman.

Mr. Hill, who was elated with the success of the drive, expressed the hope that the memorial project will be expanded to include other major highways in the county.

Enthusiasm was high throughout the county Monday as trucks made the rounds for collection. Typical was one child who appeared at the Bonanza school with 29 trees and this note: "I pledge these trees in memory of my uncle, Darwin Snipes, who lost his life January 29, 1944 in Korea." It was signed: "His nephew and namesake—Darwin Hackworth."

The Stone Coal school, under the guidance of teachers Johnnie Case and Fred Martin, contributed 1,200 trees, the record for any school. The largest number of trees per pupil, however, went to Turkey Creek Indians were good Indians and they were friendly to the pioneers and next spring they showed them how to plant corn, and it grew good. Oh, yes, they put a fish in every hill of corn—that was to make the ground rich—but I don't know where they got that many fish. And next fall they had plenty of corn and a lot of things to eat.

They went out in the forest and killed wild turkeys and cooked a big lot to eat and had a big feast and invited the Indians to eat with them. And they give thanks to God for what they had.

And they had the right to go to church and worship God as they wanted to.

MAKES IT INTERESTING

One Sunday, Ed Finch's "Kentuckiana All Over" page of The Courier-Journal was almost completely filled with yarns by Floyd county writers—most of them from Langley. We wondered how come. Now we know. Mrs. V. O. Turner had used the C. J. page as a model for her sophomore class, and her youngsters turned out a whole flock of yarns. And three of the stories written as an exercise in English were sold to The Courier-Journal.

We have an idea Mrs. Turner has given her pupils a real incentive to write by turning these early efforts into cash.

Senator-elect Barkley on a recent television program quoted this pungent remark of Woodrow Wilson's: "Some members of Congress come to Washington and grow. Others just swell."

A CHALLENGE

Forest Warden Forrest Burchett reminds us that as of Wednesday morning Floyd county had not had a woodland fire this fall.

This is a record no section can excel and which few will equal. But can it be continued on through the present "fire season"? It is up, largely, to the very people who should be most intensely interested in the protection of timberlands and the creatures that inhabit them—the hunters.

Since we have escaped the scourge of fire previous to the hunting season, any fires that start after the season opening on Saturday of this week will naturally be charged to careless or thoughtless hunters.

There's the challenge, fellows! See what you can do about meeting it.

THE SEASON IS NOT ALL SADNESS

Autumn, for all its beauty, is, as the poet has pointed out, the saddest time of the year. There is an inescapable melancholy about the death of the flowers, the fall of the leaves and their return to dust even as man returns.

Much of the beauty leaves the world with the fall of the leaves. But then the snows of winter cover up much of the ugliness left, and then there is the glory of the resurrection that comes with springtime.

Then for this Thanksgiving time let us shed the winter cloak of despair and count our blessings.

school which has only 16 students. This school, taught by Ancil Turner, gave 1,955 trees. Third place, 991 trees, was won by the Pitts Fork school whose teachers are Viola May and Gladys H. Shepherd.

Other teachers, schools, and the number of trees contributed are as follows:

Wayne Ratliff, Adrian Hall and Allen Turner, Wheelwright, 314; Johnnie Crider, Emma, 373; Nora J. Scalf, Mare Creek, 30; W. D. Steele, Harold, 89; Geo. L. Moore, McDowell, 300; Lola P. Ousley and Melba P. Sexton, Salyers Branch, 200; Charles Houchins, Sam Hale School, 186; Frankie S. Best, Forks Middle Creek, 85; Josephine Stanley and Grace Conley, Bonanza, 87; Edgar Bingham, Spradlin Branch, 52; Richmond Stone, Cold Springs, 356.

Mrs. Willie Spradlin, Gold Star Mother from Cliff, contributed 85 trees, and L. R. Johnson, Prestonsburg, contributed 100. The Prestonsburg high school agriculture class, under the direction of W. L. Wells, worked Monday afternoon "wheeling-in" the trees for protection. Trucks were donated by N. M. White, R. V. May, Marvin Music, Carl Watson, and Dr. M. J. Leete. Names and pictures of others who contributed to the success of the tree-gathering drive will be published in a later issue of the Times.

Future plantings are expected in March and again next November.

CONOVER MODEL TO STAR IN STAGE PRESENTATION

"The Curtain Rises," a romantic comedy presented in New York, Chicago and other metropolitan cities with notable success, will be presented by the Vagabond Touring Theatre at the Prestonsburg Grade School auditorium, Wednesday, November 24, at 8:30 p.m. This is a presentation of the Floyd County Community Concert Association.

VALEDIA HILL

"The Curtain Rises" was produced at the Vanderbilt Theatre in New York originally and was written by Benjamin Kaye. Jean Arthur, the film star, headed the original cast and Veronica Lake played the lead in several summer theatres. Author Kaye has selected romantic Vienna as the background of his comedy and a charming fraulein, Elsa Karling, as his heroine. Elsa is rich but unfortunately lacking in sex appeal. She carries a torch for the matinee idol of the Viennese stage, one Wilhelm Meissinger, and resolves to gain his love even if she must buy it. It is the ageless story of the ugly duckling, of Cinderella, of the understudy that makes good, developing charm, sentiment and humor.

The role of Elsa will be played by Valedia Hill, a summer stock leading lady and a leading Conover

model. Princess Elkhorn Man Is Critically Injured

Joe Tussey, foreman for the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at David, was critically hurt Wednesday morning when he was caught between timbers inside the mine and the man-trip car that had conveyed him and others into the mine to work.

His back was broken and his spine injured. He was first brought here, then taken to St. Mary's hospital, Huntington.

Estil Hyden, motorman of the car, said Tussey had alighted from the car on a curve and had given him the order to move back when the accident occurred.

admittedly a wide traveler and on his way to Miami, Fla., to "spend the winter with the rich people." was arrested in Pensacola for a minor theft. In his wallet was a notebook in which was printed in pencil the reference to Bracken, his address in Meridian, and his statement relative to the Prestonsburg murder.

Sheriff Collins was impressed by Stepp's memory but not by his stability. He said Stepp claimed acquaintance with J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, claimed he had been in his office in Washington and that he was an amateur detective of sorts. He demonstrated his capacity for memorizing by repeating for officers the Gettysburg Address and the names of all the nation's Presidents in chronological order. He also told the name of almost all the FBI chiefs in larger cities of the country.

Over the five-year period since discovery of the girl's body near the bridge spanning the river between Prestonsburg and West Prestonsburg there have been numerous confessions and accusations, but all confessions have later been repudiated and all accusations have failed to be proved.

Sheriff Collins sought to keep the investigation quiet because of the many false leads followed previously and because he felt premature publicity might hurt the chances of gaining authentic information. The newspaper story, however, "broke" from Meridian.

Release of Bracken and Stepp was ordered by Meridian Detective A. W. Creel after the Floyd officers had agreed they had no case on the basis of present evidence.

ATTEND BAPTIST MEET

The Rev. and Mrs. Ira McMillen, Jr., attended the General Association of Kentucky Baptists at Georgetown this week.

Special questions on part-time workers will be asked in addition to the usual inquiries on employment and unemployment in the November current population survey, according to District Supervisor Selma D. Johnson of the U. S. Census Bureau's district office at Hamilton, Ohio. The survey will be conducted locally and in 229 other sections of the country during the week of November 15.

Current population survey interviews in this area are conducted by Mrs. Norma Miller, of Allen.

The purpose of the special questions is to provide information on the number of people who work part-time, the reasons for their short hours, and how many want and could accept full-time work. Similar questions asked in connection with the August current population survey revealed that 7 1/2 million nonfarm workers reported working less than 35 hours during the week of August 15. This number included 1 1/2 million workers in regular full-time jobs who were idle part of the week because of slack work or other economic factors. An additional one million held regular part-time jobs but wanted and could have accepted full-time employment. The remaining five million preferred part-time employment or were unable to accept full-time jobs.

Closed Mines, A National Weakness

Asked if a coal mine could be reopened after having been idle over a period of years, a well-known Floyd county operator replied, "Yes, if you have $200,000 to throw away."

In this area there are dozens of such mines — their equipment pulled to the outside, electrical installations dismantled, their timbers rotting and roofs caving in. Some can never be re-opened if they remain closed much longer. Any that are worked again will be opened only after the operator bears a dead cost of a hundred thousand or so dollars before a lump of coal is loaded.

Because few individuals or firms have that kind of money to write off as a dead loss before getting back into business the nation faces a definite threat through production loss in any future emergency. The idea persists that coal mining could be as if by magic blossom full-blown overnight if the United States again went to war, but this is a tragic fallacy that some day might mean the difference between victory and defeat.

In addition to that, while mines remain closed a generation of skilled workmen draws nearer the mine retirement age while younger men who might have replaced them after proper training are no longer available because economic conditions have driven them into other fields of industry. Coal mining today is a job for skilled labor, and many miners who have been forced to find employment elsewhere have found their new jobs far easier and almost as lucrative; so the problem of manpower could also face the area's coal mines when, and if, their product is again urgently needed.

A thoughtful reader reminds us that food has long been a prime consideration in national defense planning. We have large stores of surplus grains, but food does not clothe and equip an army. Then why not find a way to store coal produced in periods of slack demand against the day when it will be needed as an adequate stockpile until full production could be achieved?

Some serious thinking is being given the economic status of the hard-hit coal-producing regions, and out of scheduled conferences some help may come. But this thinking also should include the defense security of the nation as well as its economic security. If it does, there will be no doubt about new and unusual measures being taken to assure continued coal production.

Since 1950 2,400 coal mines have been closed and 150,000 miners have lost their jobs. Oil and gas have cut deep into the domestic demand for coal, and both have been given every economic encouragement while coal has suffered the discouraging handicaps of competition from cheap residual oil, high freight rates and mounting production costs. On top of that, non-union mines have been in a position to beat down prices, making operation of organized mines nigh-impossible.

Coal operators are convinced federal action is necessary, and since their product is a vital defense item it is obvious that the answer should be supplied by the federal government. Some of the steps urged on Congress as an aid to the coal industry are these:

Sharply restrict the importation of residual oil which bears an import duty of only five cents a barrel as compared with 50 cents a barrel on gasoline; this oil importation to be restricted to five percent of the previous year's domestic consumption of that product.

Cut freight rates which have advanced 60 cents a ton since 1948 while coal prices were going down.

Remove the discrimination against coal in the matter of depletion allowance on taxes. The oil industry enjoys an allowance of 27½ percent as compared with 10 percent for coal.

Remove the Federal Power Commission's right to regulate natural gas prices which is holding gas prices so low that it cuts sharply into the demand for coal.

Mine operators and unions alike believe that in federal action lies their salvation, and as the people of the country become more aware of the singular importance of coal to the country's existence they will surely add their voices to the demand that something be done without further delay.

More than 150 brass planters were made by Marion county homemakers, following a project lesson in crafts.

Voice of Democracy Contest End Is Near

"I speak for Democracy." This will be the subject for five minute radio themes to be written by high school students in the area of Floyd county for the annual Voice of Democracy Contest.

The Voice of Democracy contest is staged each year to give 10th, 11th, and 12th grade students an opportunity to consider seriously and to speak in behalf of the blessings, freedoms and opportunities, provided by this country.

In the Floyd county area it is hoped that students from all nine high schools will participate.

Students will prepare their speeches between November 15 and November 20. The students will then deliver their speeches at their own schools to determine the winner for each school. The speeches of the winners from each school will then be tape-recorded by radio station WPRT and the school winner will then be judged.

The tape recording of the winner of the contest will then be sent to state headquarters for judging to determine the state winner. The tape recording of the state winner is thereafter forwarded to Washington, D. C., for judging in the national contest. The state winner will also go to Washington.

Four co-equal winners will then be chosen and each will be given a $500 scholarship and either a radio or television receiver. While in Washington the state winners will tour historic shrines and observe Congress and other government agencies in action.

During all the judging of the tape recordings of students, the speeches will only be identified by number to prevent any bias on the part of the judges. County winners will be given prizes.

The contest is being sponsored by the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce and locally by the Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"WORDS AND IDEAS"

Many of the textbooks that I teach or read spend a lot of time talking about words and ideas; there is almost a cult of writers who are forever talking about words, especially words that deal with propaganda of some sort. There are whole chapters about "charged" words, that is, words that produce an emotion when they are used; some writers use "pre-charged" words when they refer to ideas that are nearly always associated with certain words, whether they are in sentences or in a dictionary or on a signboard. You know, such words as "Communism," "fascist," "democracy," and "atheism." I am sometimes afraid that we are drifting back to the primitive thinking of the Greeks, namely, that things have certain names because those are their names naturally. Of course, an ancient Greek did not, and maybe could not, conceive of a word as having any importance except as it was used in his language; even the most learned Greeks never guessed that there were other languages that were related to the Greek language and that were equally old and "pure," whatever that word might mean. I have begun to feel that our changing vocabulary makes it seem impossible to interpret words that used to be, even words that everybody who was anybody knew as well as he knew his own name. But times have changed, other words have come in to name the same ideas, and younger people often laugh at the queer ways older people had of saying things, even the poets and philosophers.

Not long ago one of my fans, who modestly did not sign his name, sent me a big list of things that he wanted me to try on my freshmen. The terms were such as those I knew, almost painlessly, when I was a boy. Only a few of them were more localized than the vocabulary that I knew. But the rest had to do with farm life of a half century ago and would have been easy picking for boys of my age. I have mentioned several of these words in various articles lately and would like to use some more, thanks to my nameless friend. He suggested that I give an examination on these and similar words. Just imagine yourself taking such an examination.

What is a "boom pole"? Come, now, no fooling. Did you ever haul a heavy load of lumber or cross-ties over difficult roads? Well, did you ever tie a log chain around your load and then tighten it by inserting a hickory pole and turning it as far around as possible and trying it down? Maybe you know what "juggles" are? When cross-tie-making was one of the major industries of our neck of the woods, there were always many of these chips that were left over after the ties had been hewed out. Where the name came from I do not know; the Greeks would have said that word just belonged, that no other word would do.

Now, what is "sop"? I used to find the word in the King James version of the Bible and was somewhat surprised to notice that it apparently meant gravy or some such stuff, just as it did when it was feeling thoroughly up-to-date; the oldsters were quite as self-sufficient in their use of the older word. By and by our word prevailed, and the old one disappeared except in dialect dictionaries or on the lips of the very old and very untutored. I am pretty sure that many a child in my neighborhood wanted to laugh when the preacher read about sop.

It used to be very crude to mention the basic wearing apparel of babies. And yet it was necessary for something to be said, sometimes. "Hippin" was one such word, brought over, I dare say, from Northern Ireland and Scotland by the pioneers. Many who used the word felt that they were avoiding the much commoner, and therefore cruder, words. Children whom I knew after, gave little-child versions of the word, so that it sounded perfectly harmless.

And so we might go on and on, showing how utterly childish the ancient Greeks were believing that every object has one and only one name. Our grandchildren will probably ask some day: "Grandpa, what was a flapper. Was Grandma one?"

In 1939 the Navy had only 80 destroyers—30 in the Atlantic and 50 in the Pacific. Today there are 125 destroyers in the Pacific alone.

Orders Judge To Vacate In Local Option Contest

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 15 — The Court of Appeals directed Bell Circuit Judge R. L. Maddox, Middlesboro, to vacate the bench in a local option election contest case on the ground that Maddox had acted as attorney for dry forces in previous local option contest cases and as county judge had entered orders calling the election. Replacing Maddox, Chief Justice Brady M. Stewart, of the Court of Appeals, named Alex P. Humphrey, Louisville, to preside at the trial of the contest in which the city of Middlesboro voted dry by some 200 votes.

 Father and Son Lose Lives as Car Crashes into Pole in Storm Near County Line

James W. Doolittle and his son, Jerry, were killed yesterday afternoon in a tragic accident when they were skidding on a wet road.

Skids are less likely on CONCRETE

The difference between a deadly skid and a safe, quick stop is often the pavement. You can stop faster, even in the rain, on concrete. That's because concrete's gritty surface gives your tires a firm, tight grip, wet or dry.

Besides permitting better vehicle control, concrete makes nighttime driving safer too! Concrete's light-colored surface reflects up to four times more light than dark colored pavements. You can see farther and have more time to slow down or stop to avoid danger.

Concrete roads also are safer because they're free from hazardous ruts, washboard wrinkles and raveled edges.

It's worth remembering that when the weather is rough you're much safer on skid-resistant concrete.

Remember, you pay more for poor roads than for good roads. Kentucky deserves the best—insist on concrete.

State To Participate In Safety Program

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 15 (Sp) — Kentucky, in conjunction with other states, will observe "Safe-Driving Day" on December 15, according to Charles Jones, Executive-Secretary of the Governor's Coordinating Highway Safety Committee.

Sponsored by the President's Action Committee for Traffic Safety, the day is set aside to impress upon motorists their personal responsibility for reducing accidents and effecting traffic safety.

Jones, who was appointed "S-D Day" state director by Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby, announced that his office is mailing kits to civic officials throughout Kentucky advising them how they may participate locally in the program.

At the same time Jones called attention to the decrease in Kentucky traffic fatalities during the first ten months of 1954 as compared to 1953. There have been 595 fatalities in the state through November 1 of this year. Last year at the same time 677 fatalities were already recorded.

Jones attributed much of the success in lower fatalities to the joint effort of state and local officials, to the Kentucky Highway Lifesavers group organized recently to bring the problem of highway safety before the public and to the motorists themselves.

CARD OF THANKS
 We desire to extend our sincere thanks to relatives and friends in the tragic death of our husband and father, Clifford Murphy. We especially thank Rev. John P.  (The views expressed herein do not necessarily reflect the views of The Times.)

This column has often mentioned some flaws in the modern educational program, not in a spirit of criticism, but because many of our best teachers have seen that our children are being robbed of what they need most. Too many pupils from progressive homes, under good teachers, are learning too little. Something is "bad wrong."

Teachers and educators who serve on local, county and state levels had little to do with formulating the policies, methods and objectives of the new program. National experts are responsible for this. The enrichment program started at Columbia University. It rapidly covered the nation. Numbers of ordinary teachers foresaw its inevitable, deplorable results, but their hands were tied.

Since writing the last column on this subject, which was sent to the Times in advance, I read the October issue of Ladies' Home Journal with its fine articles on our schools. Every teacher in America should read these. Several magazines have presented the problem, to no avail, since authorities were not the authors. The Readers Digest told three years ago of a decline in geography.

Outnumbered Cats Lose Bowl Tilt to Lafayette

Prestonsburg's hopes for an undefeated football season faded in the fourth quarter of Mt. Sterling's seventh annual Recreation Bowl last Friday as the Black Cats ran out of steam in losing to Lexington Lafayette, 27-19, before 7,200 fans.

The defeat left Prestonsburg's over-all season's record at 10 wins and one defeat.

Lack of adequate reserve strength in the line was the telling factor in the fray and the Cats sorely missed Donald Reatherford and Woodie Salyers, outstanding stalwarts in the line, who lost their lives recently.

The first quarter was all Prestonsburg as the Cats controlled the ball for 18 plays and ran up a 13-0 lead. Following the kick-off to the Generals, guard Dee Caldwell pounced on Eddie Sellier's fumble on the Lafayette 30. In 10 plays the Black-cats reached pay dirt with half-back Ronnie Goble going the final four yards. The extra point attempt failed.

After the second kick-off Lafayette fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and tackle Donald Puckett grabbed the oval on the General's 35-yard stripe.

Lowell Hughes raced to the 26 on the next play and two plays later, Goble picked up a first down on the 25. Hughes, who performed masterfully throughout the game, raced to the 8, and after fullback "Jeep" Alexander failed to gain Hughes went around end to the end zone. Ronnie Goble plunged for the point after, and the 13-0 lead with three minutes left in the period looked as if the Cats were on their way to a rout.

Midway on the second frame, Chester Shepherd attempted to run a bad pass from center on fourth down on his own 35, but was smothered for a six-yard loss. The second play from scrimmage, quarterback Eddie Sellier pitched 25 yards to all-state end Doug Shively, who outraced Hughes across the double-marker. Sellier booted the point after and Lafayette trailed 13-7.

On the next series of downs, Prestonsburg moved from its 15 to the General's 31 and then the drive stopped. Shepherd's kick netted nine-yards as it went out of bounds on the 40, and Lafayette promptly marched to the 20. Halfback Ed Polly, a former Floyd countian, took Sellier's pass on the 10 and eluded C. Goble to score. Sellier again added the point after to give Lafayette a 14-13 halftime lead.

The Black Cats zoomed into the 19-14 third period command in the first four minutes in a 67-yard march climaxed by Hughes' 50-yard run after the Gobles, and Clifford, had put the Black Cats on the 40 in four tries.

Shepherd kicked out of bounds on the kick-off, and Lafayette started its third pay-off drive from the point. Buford McIntosh and fullback Mike Warrington alternated six carries to the one and quarter back Selliers went over from the back on the third attempt, and added the third point after for a 20-19 edge.

Hughes and end Bert Dixon speared a pass and catch drive to the General's 40 after kickoff, and the butterfingers fumbled on four successive occasions with alert lineman recovering on each occasion to the 30. Then Shively intercepted Hughes' pass to quell the threat.

Showing the strain and stress of fatigue, the Prestonsburg line had no match for the heavier General's in the final frame and Eddie Pol-romped seven yards to score after Sellier set up the marker.

Hughes and Doug Shively tied for the outstanding player of the fray, which former Black Cat star, John Delmar Hughes won in 1950. Starting line-ups:

GRID POST-MORTEM

Prestonsburg's loss in the Recreation Bowl knocked the Black Cats from the Kentucky high school football championship, and their prestige, picked up in an undefeated regular season was virtually vanquished with the bowl setback to lightly-regarded Lafayette who had a 3-3-4 record against some of the state's better clubs.

Ferrell's charges had everything to lose in the post-season classic and very little to gain, financially or otherwise. Had their opponent been undefeated and one of the state's top clubs it would have been a different matter, but now the Cats must console themselves as being merely the champions of the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference for the third time under the tenure of Doc Ferrell.

Junior quarterback Lowell Hughes is a definite cinch for the Courier-Journal's annual All-State high school team after his versatile performance in the Bowl tilt. In the 11 games he played during the year he completed 84 of 116 passes for 1,416 yards and 17 went for touchdowns. He scored 16 touchdowns and kicked 20 extra points for a total of 116 points.

In comparison to big brother Delmar in his junior year, Delmar played in 11 games, completed 111 passes in 147 flings with 23 going for touchdowns but in scoring he only scored five touchdowns and kicked 44 extra points for a total of 74 points. In 1950, Delmar was named as the outstanding player in the Recreation Bowl. This season, Lowell shared the cherished award with Lafayette's all-state end Doug Shively.

U.S. OLYMPIC FUNDS DRIVE

Now Under Way To Raise Million for '56 Meet; Jaycees Local Sponsors

A national U. S. Olympic team fund drive is now under way and will continue through December 15 in an effort to raise over a million dollars nationally to send U. S. athletes to the 1956 Olympics games and to the Pan-American Games in Mexico City.

The purpose of the drive, which is being sponsored locally by the Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce in connection with the U. S. Olympic Committee of Life Magazine, is to keep the U. S. Olympic team representative of the people rather than being government-subsidized as are the teams of "Iron Curtain" countries.

In the past outstanding athletes from the United States have emerged victorious in the Olympics and have promoted the way of democracy and gained much prestige for the American way of life. If amateur athletes from this country, are to continue to attend the Olympic games as representatives of America, the people of the United States must contribute financially to cover the necessary expenses.

During past olympics athletes such as Bob Mathias, Jesse Owens and Andrea Mead Lawrence have been responsible for seeing the Stars and Stripes raised in victory. This was possible because they were there.

As the theme of the Olympic fund drive states, "We have to be there to win," and Gordon Moore of the Jaycee sports committee said, "It is the duty of the American people to see that our athletes are there when the Olympic games are staged in 1956 and the Pan-American games next year."

Each Floyd county school has been asked by the Jaycees to pass a sheet at the halftime of some home basketball game, before December 15th, to give fans an opportunity to contribute to this fund.

Kentucky Schools Receive Milk Grant

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 15 (Spl.)—A grant of $1,455,404 by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to the Kentucky school system to further milk consumption in the schools, was announced today by Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell P. Butler. The grant is a portion of a $50,000,000 nationwide grant to increase milk consumption in the schools.

The special school milk program was established by Congress under the 1954 Agricultural Act. The program is available to all non-profit schools of high school grade and below, with participating schools agreeing to operate their milk and food service on a non-profit basis and to serve fresh, fluid, whole, unflavored milk which meets local and state standards for butterfat and sanitation.

The program will be under direction of the State Department of Education with details of the program being supplied all schools administrators in the state. The grant is in addition to funds granted the state under the School Lunch program.

Briefly, Butler explained the program: "Schools which did not serve milk last year will be reimbursed at a rate up to three cents a half-pint for milk served under the school milk program. Schools which served milk will be reimbursed at the rate of four cents a half-pint for additional milk they serve over their base consumption."

Sports Flashes

From THE SPORTING NEWS By J. G. Taylor Spink

GOMEZ—VERNON, THAT IS

When you gather 'round the old hot-stove and give out with baseball, you must in all fairness bring up the subject of Vernon (Lefty or Goofy) Gomez, onetime star pitcher with the New York Yankees. Lefty is a good story-teller—and here are a few examples as given by publisher J. G. Taylor Spink of The Sporting News.

"There is one thing I'd like to see," said Gomez. "I'd like them to stop changing the rules. Every winter they get together and increase the distance from the pitcher's mound to the plate."

"I can remember the days when the pitching distance was 60 feet six inches. The last two years I was with the Yankees they made it 75 feet. Then 80, then 90, and last summer it was 100 feet. They should stop that nonsense."

The Sporting News interviewer replied, "Lefty, the pitching distance has been sixty feet six inches for the last 61 years, and it still is 60 feet six inches."

Gomez looked astonished. "You don't tell me?" he exclaimed. "Must be my imagination," he laughed.

Gomez likes to tell stories on the Great Babe Ruth—and especially the one about a night down in St. Petersburg during spring training when the Babe, Gehring and Gomez went to see a Tarzan picture. "Lou marveled at Johnny Weissmuller's athletic agility as he swung from tree to tree," said Lefty. "I explained: 'Lou he doesn't swing from limb to branch. He is helped by a trapeze.'"

"Ruth snorted: 'So it's Trapeze, is it? I knew darn well it wasn't Weissmuller.'"

Floyd Girl Gives Assist In Writing Club Project

Pikeville, Ky., Nov. 16 (Spl.)—Art and athletics—with an assist from a Floyd county girl—will scratch each other's backs this week at Pikeville Junior College.

Nell Norman, of Hi Hat, newly elected cheerleader at Pikeville, also is a member of the college Creative Writing Club, which will conduct a sales campaign for the school's new-type basketball tickets. Each of the "punch-out" tickets will admit any number of fans to any home games this season up to a total of 14 admissions. Coach Walter Hambrick of the Pikeville Bears said today.

The writing group, a dozen freshman and sophomore students sponsored by Miss Lucy E. Hole, college English instructor, undertook the project to finance publication of a book of short stories by Pikeville students. Other members include Ralph Roberts, Wayland high school graduate and sophomore guard on the Bears; Franklin Hall, Bears manager, and two other new cheerleaders, Norma Ann Addington, Cromona, and Geraldine Jones, Virgie.

Deadline for Tests For Deferment Set

Pikeville, Ky., Nov. 16 (Spl.)—The deadline for applications for next month's Selective Service college qualification test is November 23, Dr. A. A. Page, Pikeville Junior College president, said today.

The test will be given at 20 testing centers in Kentucky, including Pikeville, and some 1,000 centers over the United States on December 9. All college men, registered with Selective Service, who have not taken the test before are eligible.

The examination is intended to find the young men who can best serve their country by continuing their college study, Dr. Page said. While test scores will not carry automatic deferment for students, they will be considered by local boards in making classifications.

Forms for applying for the test may be obtained from any draft-board office. Students who wish to take the test at Pikeville should request Center No. 410 in applying, it was said.

4-H'ers Receive First Pigs in Chain

Eight Duroc pigs were distributed to 4-H Club members Nov. 1 as first "links" in the pig-chain initiated by the Extension Service in this county. The pigs were given to the 4-H'ers at Dwale.

Members receiving the pigs promise only to rear them to maturity, breed to a registered boar and give two pigs after farrowing to other 4-H Club members who will continue the chain. The remainder of the pigs and the sow become the property of the club member.

Selection of the Duroc breed was made over Hampshires recently by the members of the Floyd County 4-H Club Council. Grady Sellards, swine specialist of the University of Kentucky, participated in the meeting. The Club Council selected the members to receive the pigs on the basis of facilities available and other factors.

Receiving the first pigs under the chain plan are Freer Martin, of Maytown; Stephen E. Dotson, West Prestonsburg; Joyce Ann Sturgill, of Harrod; Jackie Howard, of Dwale; Sanford Burchett, of Emma; Elford Case, of Honaker; Chalmers Martin and Donald Lowe, both of Eastern.

Other business of the Club Council transacted recently was the annual election of officers. Kermit Howard replaces Mrs. Arnold Lowe as president, Billy Ruth Elkins was elected vice-president and Joyce Ann Sturgill replaces Mrs. Kelsea Elliott as secretary. It was also decided by the Club Council last week to set up a committee composed of Billy Ruth Elkins and Agnes Tackett to conduct a poll to find the outstanding Council members of the year. Mr. Howard, president-elect, and Mrs. Howard accompanied as delegates, the county agent to an Eastern Kentucky camp planning conference at Quicksand recently.
