Long-Idle Mines To Work Again

THE SEARCH BEGINS
Thursday a.m., items needed for this column, and not an idea around... But from this desk I ought to be able to turn up with something... if I only had a shovel.

NO. 1
Yep, here's something. An envelope addressed by the Rev. Harold Black of Phoenix, Ariz., former pastor of the Presbyterian Church here. It reads: "Isak Walton, alias Norman Allen" etcetera.

MISSING
A few more furrows, and I turn up this, which came via The Ashland Daily Independent from God-knows-where.

MORE
Another bit of trivia I find: Last Thursday was a Day. Not just because we got this paper to press, either. It was the fifth day of the week, fifth day of the month, fifth month of the year, and the year, too is Fifty-Five, which gives us five fives (5-5-5-5-5). Such a "stack-up of dates won't happen

CITY, COUNTY BOARDS AGREE

Tuition Schedule, Leaving of Equipment Settled; Gym Bids Date Is Set

Complete agreement apparently has been reached between the County and City Boards of Education on two issues which have been pending for several weeks. It was said Wednesday.

The County Board has agreed to the tuition pay rate offered by the City Board for its pupils who will attend the new county high school here, and at the same time the Prestonsburg Board has consented to use of its equipment in the old high school building here by the county on a lease arrangement.

SALK VACCINE SECOND ROUND IS POSTPONED

Wait Results as Scheele Asks Vaccination Delay; To Announce New Dates

The second round of Salk vaccine for the prevention of polio will be delayed past next week's scheduled dates for the eight clinics in this county, M. V. Clark, Floyd county health administrator, said Wednesday.

The postponement followed a request made over the week-end by Surgeon General Leonard Scheele, of the U. S. Public Health Service, that polio vaccinations be halted while the federal government double-checks production methods. Leading scientists are studying present testing standards and requirements, and Secretary of Welfare Hobby said Tuesday that "a great deal of new information" about the vaccine has been uncovered, and that it was only prudent to pass it along to manufacturers in the interest of additional safety.

Resumption in this county of the work of vaccinating children in the first and second grades of school will depend upon when the State Board of Health gives the word, it was indicated.

The "scare" created by published reports that children have become ill of polio after having received shots already have reduced the number of parents willing for their children to have the immunization treatment to so few that clinics at this time would be very ineffective.

JUDGE DENIES HABEAS WRIT

Voiding of Indictment Of Rice Sought; Appeals On Ruling, Verdict Seen

Judge Coleman Wright, of the Oldham circuit court at LaGrange, denied Tuesday the writ of habeas corpus asked by attorneys for W. L. Rice, former Floyd deputy sheriff, who is a prisoner at LaGrange state reformatory.

The petition filed by Rice's attorneys, Tackett & Tackett, of Prestonsburg, not only sought his release from prison but also the voiding of the indictment on which Rice was given trial for the slaying here of Reedy Whicker, of Martin, Rice was convicted and sentenced to a 21-year pen term.

COURT OKEHS GYM BALLOTS

Approval Given Manner Of Advertising Election; Authorizes Fund Transfer

The Floyd fiscal court this week entered an official order approving the manner of advertising the election at which Prestonsburg independent school district voters balloted on the question of a special tax to finance the construction here of the proposed auditorium-gymnasium which is now nearing the contract stage.

The court resolution was voted after it had been determined that the election actually had been advertised only two weeks instead of the four the court had asked. It points out that the advertisement of the election was published in The Floyd County Times two weeks and that on the third week a Page One news-story called attention to the election. In addition to this, notices of the election were prominently posted in 10 public places here.

RIVER STUDY PLEAS HEARD

House Group Is Told Bigger Appropriation Needed for Big Sandy

Arguments were heard Tuesday by the House Committee on Appropriations for a new study by the Corps of Engineers to determine the feasibility of a comprehensive development of the Big Sandy River and its tributaries. Only $20,000 has been recommended for the study but those appearing at the hearing asked for more.

Among other projects on which hearings were held this week were: The Jackson cut-off to eliminate a 7-mile loop in the Kentucky River at Jackson, for which the budget bureau recommended $246,000.

SPURLOCK LOOKS BACK AT 90 ON MEMORIES OF VARIED LIFE

Today, vigorous and alert, despite the weight of many years, B. M. Spurlock, of West Prestonsburg, looks back on life with many remembrances. Although he is still serving as chairman of the board of directors of the bank he helped found, he lives semi-retired after long years as a school teacher, merchant, steamboat man, and banker. He studied to become a doctor, he says with a smile, but was turned aside in his first days of practise by a maternity case.

Although Beriah Magoffin had been forced, because of his Southern sympathies to resign the governorship of the state two years before B. M. Spurlock was born, his parents bestowed the name of the ex-governor upon him. Perhaps due to the dearth of reliable news incident to the turmoil of Civil War, he thought he was still governor. He went to school at a place called Halbert Hill on the main creek above the mouth of Spurlock. Soon, in the quest of the few additional educational advantages Prestonsburg offered, he came here.

not be eligible for the vaccine, but bottles had been opened, leaving a surplus of serum which would not remain effective more than six hours after having been opened, and clinic workers sought out expectant mothers and other children to receive these surplus shots. The clinics were planned for the benefit of children who failed to be inoculated during the first round of clinics two weeks ago.

Surgeon General Scheele reiterated his faith in the Salk vaccine when interviewed on a television show. Asked if he had any word for worried parents, the surgeon general said:

"The Salk vaccine is a wonderful vaccine. The only trouble is we just don't have enough."

Scheele said there is no danger that the holdup of new supplies will continue so long that children who have had first shots will have to take them over again. No immunity will be lost, he said, if the interval between the first and second shots runs a few weeks beyond the two- to four-week interval originally planned.

There has been a general shut-down of the mass-inoculation program except in Michigan, where vaccinations continued Tuesday. Many states did not have supplies on hand to continue, anyway.

Service Renewing Vows
On Mother's Day Marks
Home Week Observance

As a part of the observance of Mother's Day at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church last Sunday, a new type of service was introduced in which approximately 25 couples renewed their marriage vows in a brief but impressive ceremony.

The pastor, the Rev. Ira McMillen, Jr., stated that, although this type of service was probably new to some, it has been made an annual event in some churches in the South and in others it is observed at intervals. He added that the purpose of the renewal of these sacred vows was simply to re-affirm the love and devotion to each other expressed in their original vows, and to show publicly the importance of the family, home and church standing together for the moral and spiritual values symbolized in the true observance of Mother's Day.

The service brought to a close the observance of Christian Home Week which is observed by Southern Baptist churches each year prior to the second Sunday in May.

CLUB INSTALLS OFFICERS

The Prestonsburg Senior Woman's Club held its annual officer-installation dinner Thursday, May 5, at the Community Methodist Church. This is an anticipated event in the club calendar.

The tables were decorated with the club colors, gold and purple. Each guest received a miniature corsage of yellow chrysanthemums tied with purple ribbon.

Following the dinner a short business period, with Mrs. J. H. Keenon, president presiding, was held. The members donated money with which to buy candy suckers for the school children who receive their second polio shot on the day when the club assists with the project.

Mrs. Keenon welcomed two new members, Mrs. Harold Dorsey and Mrs. Marvin Music, and a guest, Mrs. Robert Francis. She also thanked the chairmen committees and members who assisted her in serving as president the past year and the club expressed its appreciation of her untiring efforts as its leader.

Mrs. E. S. Collins, past-president, installed the following officers in an impressive candlelight service:

President, Mrs. Lon Hill; first vice-president, Mrs. Edward Music; second vice-president, Mrs. H. L. Ley; recording secretary, Mrs. Wm. Hunt; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Robert Sirkle; treasurer, Mrs. James Donahoe.

Mrs. Collins presented Mrs. Hill a corsage from the club members. In accepting the responsibilities of her new office, Mrs. Hill thanked the club for the honor of serving them and asked their wholehearted support. She appointed the following chairmen for the coming year, others to be announced later:

PHONE STRIKE IN 9th WEEK

"No Strike" Clause Is Principal Issue, Southern Bell Says

As Southern Bell's longest strike went into its ninth week, bargaining committees continued their efforts to bring about a settlement.

The strike which began on March 14 has as a principal issue a "no-strike" clause. Southern Bell has been insisting on this clause because it says it cannot guarantee uninterrupted service to the public unless it has the assurance that there will be no "quickie" strikes. Since the middle of 1951 there have been 105 walkouts in Southern Bell territory, the company claims.

The Communications Workers of America, on the other hand, claim that the company's insistence on a no-strike clause is aimed at breaking the union. C. W. A. also says wages and working conditions are items of disagreement.

The Union has indicated that it will accept a no-strike clause but not without full scale arbitration. They say that Southern Bell is afraid to submit the issues to arbitration.

Jack Stone, of Paintsville, group manager for Southern Bell, said, "In spite of what union leaders have said, before the strike started Southern Bell proposed full and complete arbitration on every type of discipline that could be imposed under the new contract. In fact, not only all discipline, but practically every other item in the new contract proposed by the company before the strike started was made subject to arbitration. The only items on which arbitration is not available under the company proposal are the pension plan, leaves of absence, company compliance with health, safety and fire protection laws and demotions and discharges during trial periods—matters which the union and the company have agreed over the years in collective bargaining should not be left to the final decision of the arbitrator."

"We are giving a good grade of service, using the services of supervisory personnel and non-striking employees," Stone said. "These people have worked long hours in order to give telephone service to the residents of this area. We hope that the striking employees will soon realize their responsibility to themselves and to the public and return to their jobs."

Service was held from the residence Saturday by the Revs. J. D. Bell and Henry Mullins. Officiating at the funeral Sunday from the Regular Baptist Church at Mousie were the Rev. Bert Howard, Raymond Howard and Alex Coburn. Funeral and burial were under auspices of the Masonic Order.

WSAZ, Inc. Seeks Federal Hearing on Charges Filed By Gearheart And Lyons

A petition was filed in United States District Court at Catlettsburg Tuesday by the defendant for removal from Boyd Circuit Court to the Federal Court of two $25,000 slander suits against WSAZ, Inc., Huntington, W. Va.

Boyd County Attorney Calvin Gearheart, a Floyd county native, and Circuit Court Clerk Gerald Lyons brought the damage suits in Circuit Court April 19. The suits contend that WSAZ broadcast over its radio and television outlets false statements about the Boyd county officials April 12, 13, and 14.

The suits demand $25,000 by each plaintiff from the television station. On the same day the suits were first filed, the Boyd county grand jury commended County Attorney Gearheart for his work in investigating and prosecuting gambling and liquor offenses in the county. The same day also it was revealed that charges had been brought against Gearheart before the Bar Association for permitting a witness to testify under an assumed name. The charges were filed by three Ashland women. One of the women was identified by Gearheart as being the husband of a jailed violator of anti-gambling laws.

Gearheart's investigation of bootlegging and gambling in Boyd county began last year when the Boyd county grand jury returned a record 151 indictments.

out the Johns store. Ralph Booten was a blacksmith-lawyer, ran a shop, built wagons and practiced law. Isaac Richmond established a store in 1869. He remembers P. D. Harmon, manager here of the chain store owned by his Baltimore family; remembers that Harmon sold him, a green country lad, a coat with a twisted lining.

Young Spurlock began teaching at Simpson Branch. He taught three months for $66. That meager pay didn't discourage him, for he continued in the profession, taught the next year at Halbert Hill where he was first initiated into the mysteries of education, followed that with a year on Spurlock. He came to Prestonsburg again, got hold of a textbook on medicine, began to peruse it. After studying sometime, he came within Dr. Gardner's notice. Gardner sent him his first patient. "Dave Allen's wife had a 'rising' on her breast, Gardner was sent for but couldn't go. He sent his lancet, said, 'Get Beriah to do it.'

The maternity case that thwarted a medical career came up right after he incised the woman's breast. Another man, Tan Allen, was studying the same medical text as Spurlock. "One of us knew as much as the other," Mr. Spurlock recalls, "and that was nothing." He emphasized the word, "nothing." A husband in desperate need to fetch a doctor for his wife, came for Beriah. "I bucked on that kind of a case," he said. Tan Allen went in his stead and Spurlock dropped out of the medical profession.

He got together a little money, put in a store at the mouth of Spurlock, taught school at the same time, letting a clerk run the business while he was teaching. Drs. Walk and Ed Stumbo were his pupils. He recalls how Walk got his first book. The boy came to the store one morning before going on to the schoolhouse. He didn't own book one. The teacher-merchant took a piece of cardboard, printed the alphabet on it, doubled it, gave Walk the "book." The boy went proudly off to school with it.

The store venture at the mouth of Spurlock didn't last long because Spurlock was looking for more education. He came back to Prestonsburg again, sat in a schoolroom presided over by Albert Stephens. Assisting in the school was a Prof. Hayes, of Hancock county, Ky. "Hayes was a lazy sort of fellow and asked me to hear classes recite for him. I became a sort of assistant teacher," he recalls.

It was about this time that he met the future Mrs. Spurlock. She was Julia Langley, daughter of the Rev. Joseph and Susan Click Langley, and, as most Floyd countians know, a sister of Congressman John W. Langley. Born Dec. 10, 1868, she is 86 years of age. She met Mr. Spurlock at a subscription school Will Langley, her brother, had started at Katy Friend Branch, on Middle Creek, near here.

They were not married right soon. Julia Langley wanted an education herself and, having met the necessary requirements, she began to teach on Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek. She recalls her teaching career, little human interest matters that are dear to her. She rode horseback to Abbott Creek one time to see about a school there. When she arrived at the trustee's home, she found Frank Risner had preceded her and the trustee had "passed" his word only a few minutes before. "I've got nothing against a lady teaching the school," the trustee told her as if there may have been some that did object to women in the schoolroom. He divided the school, giving each half of the time to teach. She taught a total of nine years.

Beriah and Julia were married, September 9, 1887. That was 58 years ago. Both are aged now. Mr. Spurlock is four years older. But if both were to look forward to the great ages of her ancestors, they would be blessed with great age indeed. James Click, her grandfather, lived to be 107. He was born Dec. 20, 1790, at King's Salt Works in Virginia, came to Kentucky in "the year one," as he designated the date of 1801. He traveled horseback from Beaver Creek to Spurlock to see his daughter Susan Click Langley, and on his return to Beaver Creek as he neared his home, the horse threw him. He lived 15 days, dying March 1, 1898, five months after Julia, his granddaughter, was married. Tradition in the family, repeated by Mrs. Spurlock, is that the parents of James Click lived to be much older than that. James Click's father lived to be 120 and his mother to 115.

The circumstances of Beriah Spurlock's first store venture at West Prestonsburg is related by him. One Sunday he walked across from Prestonsburg to visit a cousin, W. Y. Harris, who had a store. He helped some as a clerk that day, continued to help a great deal. Finally he took charge of it altogether for Harris. A newly-elected sheriff asked Harris to go his bond, which he did. The sheriff failed and Harris was a ruined man. Creditors descended upon his property and, since the sheriff couldn't preside at a sale selling his own property, a creditor bid it in.

Before the purchaser left the ground he learned that Spurlock was interested in buying the store. He approached the Floyd countian, said, "Do you want this store?" He said he did, but indicated that he had no money. "He sold me that store without any money or even a note," Mr. Spurlock likes to recall. He paid the debt off and ran the business for years.

The store was robbed nine times. These robberies were getting serious and after the eighth he procured some bloodhounds, tracked the criminals down. The next time it was robbed, the burglars turned arsonists and burned it. That was in 1913.

But the year the store burned railway trains were running up the Big Sandy. Before that Beriah had worked on steamboats. He was clerk on the Fair Play, from Catlettsburg to Pikeville. At other times he served in other river trade capacities. He was manager of a push boat run from Richardson to Huffman warehouse, above Pikeville.

Mr. Spurlock remembers the first steamboat he saw. It was the Jerry Osborn. Others he remembers vividly were the Favorite, Cando, Tom Spurlock, Mary L. Hatcher and Andy Hatcher. He managed a warehouse and operated a wharf boat for years. He was required to ride into adjoining counties and collect freight charges from some consignees. While doing this he took orders for the Catlettsburg wholesale houses, from as far away as Hindman and Salyersville. His first banking business was done with the Catlettsburg National Bank in order to clear large checks received by freight.

At one time he was in business with his brother, D. W. (Wheeler) Spurlock, in a retail establishment at West Prestonsburg. D. W. sold out his half-interest to Beriah, bought a farm in Ohio. He came back, dissatisfied, bought not only his half but Beriah's part, too.

The First National Bank, founded in 1904, by Spurlock and associates has had his services in every official capacity since that date. He has served continuously as a director since its organization. Today he is chairman of the board.

Begin, if you can, in your mind's eye, with the date, Oct. 2, 1884, when B. M. Spurlock was born and picture the Big Sandy and this area then. The day he was born, the Battle of the Saltworks in Virginia was being fought. While he was a youngster, Beaver Creek was practically a wilderness with species of wild animal long since disappeared roaming the virgin forests. He saw the hey-day of the steamboats, saw the vast run of logs that poured out of the Big Sandy when loggers stripped the forests of the finest hardwoods in the world. He was born and reared when oxen were the most reliable method of land transportation. Today automobiles while by the bank he helped to found.

Between the Battle of the Saltworks and the whizzing cars is a long, eventful history. Beriah Magoffin Spurlock was contemporary with all of it.

How Much Is A Local Payroll Worth?

If we are not our brother's keeper in the business world, we at least can be his friend.

This week a casual conversation produced the information that Prestonsburg is a town of small businesses. The conversation, to be specific, related to only two of these. One has an annual payroll of $20,000; the other, $32,000. These figures do not include the profits, if any, of the owners.

What these businessmen-friends got down to talking about was the value of one or two or half a dozen such enterprises to their community; what would be the effect on the town if these firms were forced to close their doors for lack of business and to dismiss their employees.

The $52,000 earned by workers in these two businesses is that much money spent at home—for food, clothing, entertainment, doctor's bills, taxes, etcetera. No other $52,000 earned by workers elsewhere in the world is as important to Prestonsburg. Perhaps less than 10 per cent of this total leaves the community where it is earned after income taxes are deducted. Multiply this by a dozen or more such enterprises and you begin to realize whence comes the buying power of a community. On the other hand, if you will, subtract from the buying power of your community payrolls such as these that could be lost, and you begin to see what the community has, what is not fully appreciated, and what could be the ultimate loss.

This is intended to convey to Floyd county citizens the need for patronizing Floyd county business. We do not propose economic barriers or the idea of "walled cities," for no community can live alone to the exclusion of all others. But it does seem logical to contend that the business whence stems local economic strength—business for the butcher, the clothier, the druggist, all other local businesses as earnings are spent at home—deserves local support.

Money spent in other counties or in distant cities may not be lost altogether and forever, but it is as bread cast on the waters, not due to return until many days. And the long wait could be disastrous for the business at home that must depend on the people at home if it is to survive.

This Interest In Art Is Justified

The recent exhibit here of the work of Mrs. Reba H. Mayo, Prestonsburg artist, has impressed on many the need for art training in the schools of the county.

THE TIMES agrees with these and all others who seek for the children of a troubled world the training and those influences that will lift human beings above the sordidness of their surroundings.

Art as applied to the ability to draw, to color, to paint, to produce in line and tint beauty of form and depth of mood, is one of the creative arts. The artist gives in his work something of himself, even as the writer, the sculptor, composer or architect draws upon, and by that act strengthens, the soul in producing something where nothing was before.

Mere knowledge, a knack at figures, memory for statistics, dates, names, places, a smattering of information—these leave the individual with little in the way of resources upon which to draw when the going is toughest. It profits one little to know how many light years the distance to the moon; of more benefit would be a knowledge and appreciation of the universe, the Power behind it, the beauty and meaning of creation. There is a "music of the spheres," the poet has said, but few hear it.

Without training in the arts that call for the finest in humankind, it is little wonder that many the youngster, for all his basic educational advantages, the tedium of living unbearable finds, seeks surcease in the sensational, becomes a delinquent or in despair gives up life itself.

It is good that folks have come to appreciate the deeper human needs. These things cannot all be attained now, but they are worth striving for, and they are attainable.

LON C. HILL SETS THE RECORD STRAIGHT

To The Voters in Legislative District No. 96:

The concern of my friends on both sides has prompted me to make this public statement on my "position" in the Governor's race in order to set the record straight.

During my two years as your Representative my sole concern has been the welfare of the people in my district. In the 1954 Legislature I voted against and with the present Administration—the deciding factors always determined by the dictates of my conscience and the best interests of my constituents. Regardless of who is the next Governor, this will continue to be my policy.

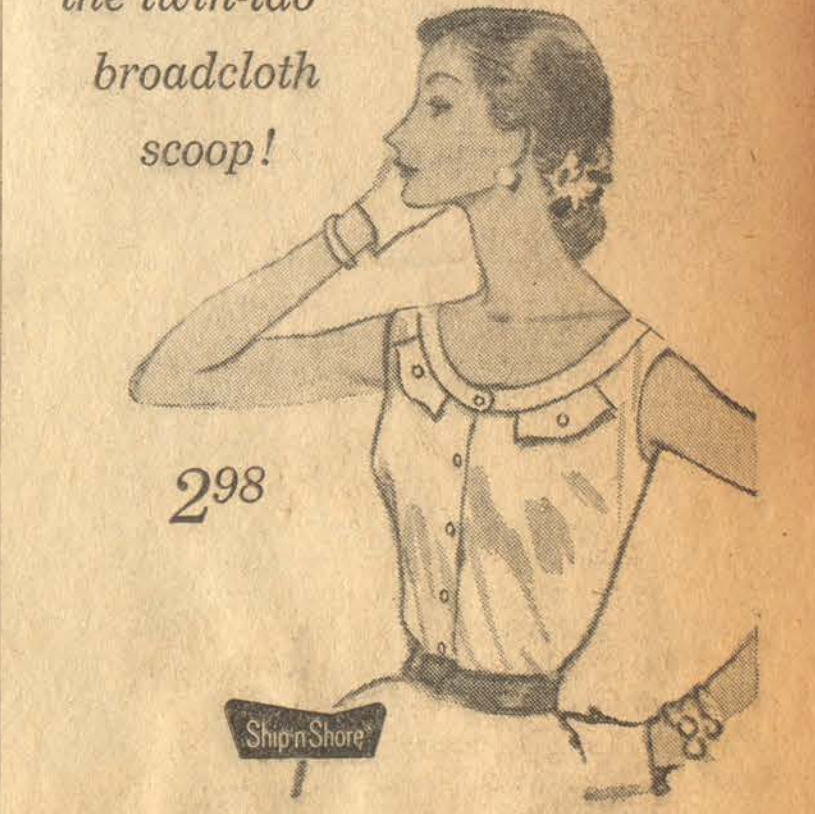

Rumors are being repeatedly circulated that I am "actively working for" first one candidate for Governor, then the other.

These reports are untrue. The only thing I have been "actively working for" is an honest living, and the only race I am running is my own.

The person who tells you anything to the contrary is either deliberately trying to deceive you or he has been sadly misinformed. In either case he is a bad source of information.

Your friend,
LON C. HILL

Year was her son, Carl Stewart, of West Liberty, superintendent of Morgan county schools. Mrs. Stewart received from her club a corsage, from her seven children a watch and also a handsome gift from Wright Brothers, Prestonsburg jewelers.

Other nominees for the honor were Mrs. Anne Tackett, of McDowell, named by the Drift Woman's Club, and Mrs. German Vance, of Martin, nominee of the Allen-Martin Woman's Club. Mrs. Helen Ankrum, of Drift, and Mrs. William Martin, represented their respective clubs in talks relating to these two mothers. All three mothers had outstanding records in home, community and church.

The Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, pastor of the Prestonsburg Methodist Church, delivered the address on motherhood.

The following women were recognized as shining examples from their respective church denominations:

Freewill Baptist, "Granny" Patton, of Lackey, cited on the program by Mrs. O. P. May; Missionary Baptist, Mrs. Herman Porter, of Allen; Regular Baptist, Mrs. Melvin Allen, of Midas; United Baptist, Mrs. Troy Mullins, of Garrett; Catholic, Mrs. A. H. Mandt, of Mantion, tribute to her by Mrs. Ollie May; Mrs. Cora Johnstone, West Prestonsburg, her work told by her son, the Rev. G. R. Fannin; Mormon, Mrs. Wm. Dingus, of Hite, introductory talk by Miss Blanche Dingus; Presbyterian, Mrs. Dan Reed, of Drift, introduced by Miss Catherine Reed; Church of Christ, Mrs. Frank P. Hayes, Hueysville, introduced by her son, Paul Hayes, superintendent of schools, Sharonville, O.; interdenominational, Mrs. Robert Martin, of Martin. Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Mullins, and Mrs. Mandt were not present.

Included in a third group of mothers who were recognized were: The mother with the largest family (16 children), Mrs. V. A. Smiley, with her son, V. A. Smiley, Jr., speaking; Grandmother of the Year, Mrs. Curtis R. Slone, Prestonsburg, introduced by Mrs. Carlos Haywood; stepmother, Mrs. Elza Bolling, Prestonsburg, introduced by the program director; youngest grandmother, Mrs. Lufe Scott, of Harold, a grandmother at 31, who was presented by Mrs. Sylvia Ferrell; foster mother, Mrs. Ellen Patton, of Alpharetta, who has reared 14 children not her own, presented by Gaynell May; mother-in-law, Mrs. Bertha Baldrige, of Warco, introduced by the program director. Mrs. Victoria May, of Langley, who was named as honor step-grandmother, was absent. Four in this group were not chosen when committees failed to report.

All mothers honored received corsages from relatives or from Maddox and Evergreen Floral Companies. The Maytown male quartette sang, and the Rev. Robert Martin pronounced the benediction.

Appropriations Bill sufficient funds in the coming fiscal year which would enable this to be done. Clements pointed out the relationship of the Big Sandy to the industrial development in the Ohio Valley, saying, "The Big Sandy basin with its rich deposits of coal, its surplus labor, its timber, gas and oil should play a contributing role in the expansion and development of the Ohio Basin. This I am confident it will do if some modern-sized barges and tows are enabled to travel into the Big Sandy region." And adding that it was also, "reasonable to conclude that the provision of increased water levels and low cost water transportation as a result of modern locks and dams will attract industrial activity in the area itself."

Senator Clements stated that a full development of the valley was even more justified at the present time than has ever been indicated in previous studies because of substantial decreases in the stimated cost of constructing the improvements and because of the enormous coal consuming capacities of new private and governmental enterprises being constructed in the Ohio River basin. He further observed that the comprehensive survey of the Big Sandy will reappraise the importance of constructing up-stream flood control reservoirs which will provide not only flood protection but water for industrial processes, domestic use and will contribute to the abatement of water pollution. He emphasized the importance of these up-stream reservoirs in affording recreation and in assisting the wildlife conservation program.

Lower Little Paint Creek school. Miss Douglas Harmon has taught there four years. It had 61 pupils in membership the preceding school year.

The Little White School on Route 23 By DOUGLAS HARMON

There's a little country school about one mile away; It seems to draw me nearer as I think of it each day. It was there I found my greatest success, And teaching became my happiness.

As I ponder my memory and renew the past, I see a beautiful picture and a wonderful cast; Toys running and laughing and singing with glee, At "The Little White School on Route 23".

People coming and going constantly; Cars rushing by are funny to see. The Greyhound whining is music to me, As it passes the school on Route 23

The songs we sing and the games we play, Make everyone happy at the beginning of day; Then soon we change and go for the better; Perhaps write a story or maybe a letter.

Later we thumb the pages through— Of reading, language, and arithmetic, too; Often a map or globe we scan In search of some unknown person or land.

After studying so hard before the end of day; Our minds are running over with knowledge, we say. This is the life we spend so free— At "The Little White School on Route 23".

At the end of day when study hours are over, We often find ourselves looking for "Four Leafed Clover"; Determining our luck under a big shade tree Near "The Little White School on Route 23".

May Festival Pageant, "Land of The Free," To Have Floyd Players

Pikeville, Ky., May 3 (Spl.) — Floyd county students will appear in virtually every scene of the May-festival pageant, "Land of The Free," at Pikeville Junior College Friday evening, May 6.

In all, 20 young Floyd county men and women are in the cast of the school's ninth annual May festival, to be presented at 8 p.m., in the college gymnasium. The pageant, open to the public without charge, promises to be the most colorful production of the year at Pikeville, Dr. A. A. Page, college president, said today.

Mrs. Shirley Hensley, Goody, Ky., and Bobby McCoy, Pikeville, Ky., are to be crowned 1955 May Queen and King in the opening scene. After their coronation they will be entertained with a program of games and dances, outlining the story of this country, by some 300 students of the college, Pikeville College Academy and the affiliated elementary school.

Six Floyd students at the college will take part in a scene depicting gayety among the soldiers and damsels of colonial New York, and four others are scheduled to represent men and women of early Jamestown, Dr. Page said. Half a dozen Floyd county girls are to appear in a flag drill which will bring together groups representing immigrants of different nationalities.

Robert Hatcher, Wayland, will play Chief Powhatan in the familiar story of Captain John Smith and Pocahontas, and Phila M. Francis, Garrett, is cast as a Pilgrim maiden in an episode built around the first Thanksgiving.

Patricia Lykins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lykins, Betsy Layne, and a sophomore in Pikeville College Academy, will be the only Academy student from Floyd county in the festival. She will take part of Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, attending a party at Theodore Roosevelt's home early in this century, in a skit by Academy students.

Grady Wallace, Mare Creek, and Mack Slone, Garrett, are among four young men, runners-up to McCoy when he was elected king, who will serve as escorts to the queen's four attendants in the May court.

Floyd countians to appear in the colonial-New York scene are Betty M. Marshall and Roger C. Marshall, David; Billy H. Martin, Garrett; Grace Evelyn Shepherd, David; Douglas Smith, Allen, and Alice Snyder, Betsy Layne. Those cast as Jamestown men and women are Adrianna Hayes, Lackey; Lowell McCown, Bypro; Nell N. Newman, Hi Hat.

Young Floyd county women taking part in the flag drill are La Faye Bamer, Garrett; Phyllistene Hall, Orkney; Joan Hammonds Hatfield, Watergap; Antoinette Lackey, Tram; Betty Rollins, Tram, and Josephine Slone, David.

Teen-Age Driver Contest Announced

Frankfort, Ky., May 8 (Spl.) — teen-age motorists interested in this year's "Tomorrow's Travelers" competition for high school age drivers should get their applications in at the earliest possible moment, State Police Commissioner Charles Oldham said today.

Oldham reminded young drivers that county contests will start June 20 and continue until July 1. All counties with two or more high schools competing will be required to have county eliminations, he explained.

Local driving exams and the finals at the Kentucky State Fair are given by professional driver examiners who are members of the State Police Drivers Licensing Bureau.

State Fair officials said 54 counties were represented in last year's eliminations and more are expected this year. The grand prize for the state champion teen-age driver is a new car with numerous lesser prizes offered at the state and county level.

Training of Teachers Showing Improvement

Frankfort, Ky., May 8 (Spl.) — Gradual improvement in the professional preparation of the 20,868 teachers, supervisors and principals employed in Kentucky's public school system was noted today by the State Department of Education. There are 497 more college graduates in the schools this year than there were during the 1953-54 year.

A report prepared by Wilbur Tinscher, Jr., supervisor of certification of the department's Division of Teacher Education, disclosed that 12,379 of Kentucky's teachers have earned a college degree or more, while 8,489 do not have degrees.

Approximately 1,500 teachers in Kentucky have less than two years of college and 600 teachers less than one year, which only 55 persons teaching in the State have no college training whatever, 54 of these in the elementary system and one in the secondary system.

The study shows Kentucky's teachers have this training: Above master of arts degree, 775; master of arts, 2,167, bachelor of arts degree to 30 semester hours above, 9,437; 96 to 127 semester hours, 2,455; 64 to 95 semester hours, 4,643; 32 to 63 semester hours, 826; 1 to 31 semester hours, 510 and no college hours, 55.

The study noted that the median training level of teachers in other districts is a bachelor's degree plus 18.4 semester hours.

The level of training of teachers in the 104 independent districts is somewhat higher than that in the 120 county districts. The State median for superintendents and assistant superintendents is a master's degree, the report howed.

Beloved "Miss Annie" Honored As Girls' Hall At Home Named for Her

Word was received here this week that Miss Annie Allen, Baptist missionary who has worked in Eastern Kentucky the greater part of her life, has been honored by having the girls' hall at the new Baptist Children's Home at Morehead named for her. The building will bear the name of Annie Allen Hall as a tribute to one who has devoted her life to the lives of others in this section of the state.

"Miss Annie", as she is affectionately called by all who know her, is now a patient in the Prestonsburg General hospital.

The new children's home, to be known as Pinecrest, will be completed in September and will care for approximately 60 children.

Despite low egg prices, some farmers in Russell county report profits on their flocks.

Union Leaders Are Dodging The Issue In The Telephone Strike

They Are Issuing a Lot of Misleading Statements About the Company's Position On Arbitration.

These Statements Don't Check With the Facts.

Look at These Facts—

Ever since we've had a contract with the union, the true intent and meaning of every provision of every agreement between the company and the union has been subject to arbitration.

Before the strike started

Southern Bell proposed that any disciplinary action resulting from violations of the no-strike clause demanded by the company would be subject to arbitration.

Before the strike started, Southern Bell proposed that all suspensions of employees, regardless of the cause, would be subject to arbitration.

In spite of what union leaders have said, the truth is that before the strike started, Southern Bell proposed full and complete arbitration on every type of discipline that could be imposed under the new contract.

In fact, not only all discipline but practically every other item in the new contract proposed by the company before the strike started was made subject to arbitration. The only items on which no arbitration is available under the company proposal are the pension plan, leaves of absence, company compliance with health, safety, and fire protection laws and demotions and discharges during trial periods—matters which the union and the company have agreed over the years in collective bargaining should not be left to the final decision of an arbitrator. This is all a responsible union should want.

But this Union wants still more

They are going so far as to demand that an arbitrator be called in now to decide what the terms of the new contract shall be. He would, in effect, write a whole new contract and his decision would be final. There his responsibility ends.

Southern Bell's management is charged with the sole responsibility for providing communications services in the area the company serves. It cannot surrender that responsibility to others. Our obligation under the law cannot be delegated. We must retain the right to make the final decisions essential to the sound and effective management of this public service.

The issue in this strike is simple and clear—Will union leaders live up to a contract once it is signed?

Southern Bell guarantees good wages, good working conditions and other contract benefits. In return it asks only that union leaders agree not to disrupt service to the public by strikes while the contract is in force.

This they refuse to do on any reasonable basis. They still demand the right to call workers off the job whenever it suits their purposes, while the contract is in effect. They want the contract to be binding on the company but not on the union.

SCRAP MAN GOES WEST

Editor, The Times:

After having spent seven years in the iron and steel scrap business at Prestonsburg, working hard building up a business here, and during this time not having taken a good vacation, except to Miami, Niagara Falls and to New York City, all of which were very short and not exciting, just new places to see, of course all new places or sight-seeing is interesting to anyone. So I thought I would make a real trip, one of excitement, fun and real sight seeing, which I did.

On Thursday, April 21, I called Blue Grass Air Terminal at Lexington, made reservations for flight for two round trip, to Los Angeles with return stop at Los Vegas, Nevada.

On Sunday my first day in L.A.
I didn't stir around much. I got information of the lay-out of the city and the surrounding area, and made arrangements to rent a car, which is the cheapest way of sight-seeing. You can stop when you wish or you can stop when you wish as long as you heed the red and the green.

So Monday morning I cranked up, and naturally I headed northwest to the Hollywood district. I was in and around the area the whole day getting acquainted with some nice people, who were courteous and seemed to enjoy talking to me as much as I did to them. They do not walk with their heads thrown back and step high as if walking over saw-logs like some people might imagine.
They are friendly and courteous with an air of distinction. In my few days in L. A. I saw some very interesting things.

for only $2315²³ delivered locally!

2-door, 6-passenger Buick SPECIAL Sedan, Model 48, illustrated.
Optional equipment, accessories, state and local taxes, if any, additional. Prices may vary slightly in adjoining communities.
Even the factory-installed extras you may want are bargains, such as: Heater & Defroster—$61.70; Radio & Antenna—$92.50.

It's the extra lift and snap and ginger you get from Buick high-compression V8 power—and the fun and thrill of bossing such eager might.

As we said—if you can afford any new car, you can afford a Buick—even with the spectacular performance of Variable Pitch Dynaflo[†] at modest extra cost.

So why settle for anything less than a Buick?
Drop in on us, take the wheel, press that pedal, and see for yourself what a whale of an automobile
—and a whale of a buy—today's Buick really is.

[†]Dynaflo Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

DID YOU KNOW—

- that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below any other car of 188 horsepower and 122-inch wheelbase?
- that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below some models of the three well-known smaller cars?
- that the Buick SPECIAL gives you more pounds of automobile than any other car at its low price?

I saw rocks and trees and many other scenes there which I had seen in the movies many times before. It all looked so natural.
The jail, the saloons, general stores, church, corrals, the ranch house, the stage coach, buckboard, horses and wagons, the roadways and the many things you and I have seen in the movies many times. I spent about four hours taking all this in. I saw where the old Spanish haciendas were and the fort where the Indians attacked so many times, and the cave hide-out of the outlaws.

I came back from Corrigan-ville and went to NBC to the Groucho Marx show, which is an hour and a half long. All we see on TV is the contestants, a lot of cracks before and after the contestants take place. A lot of people were left standing outside.
The seats are few and the tickets are hard to get. I met and talked with several of the movie actors.

Next morning I boarded a plane for Los Vegas which was three hundred miles away. I landed in the middle of the desert, went five miles by limousine into the city of slot machines by the thousands, dice tables, roulette wheels, cards and many other gambling devices. I'm now in the middle of the gambling capital of the world. And where silver dollars rattle all day and night as the dice and the big deals roll.

It's a good place to be from if you want to stay rich. The gambling is on the level, the houses figure to win on percentages, not on crooked games. They will gladly explain that to you. Some may win but the greater percent falls to them as they are there night and day and naturally the persistent playing with the huge backing will win out. May the 15th they are going to have a big rodeo, the cowmen are growing long beards now for the occasion.
I would have been there for the biggest atomic blast ever but the scheduled explosion had to be set up because of the windy weather.
So next day I boarded a plane for home at 8:55 and landed in Lexington next morning.

THANKS COUNTY JAILER

Editor, The Times:

On April 1st, I was confined to the Floyd county jail on the charge of possessing beer.

At the time of confinement to said jail, I was a very sick man with sugar diabetes. At this writing, I have but little symptom of said disease. I feel that I owe thanks for my recovery to Mr.
Hayes for his constant vigil and good care on my behalf.

I have had over a thousand visitors since my confinement.

I want to thank each and every one of them, especially C. D. Reed, Dr. W. D. Osborn and Prof. Ratliff for their kind consideration.

I want to stress to the citizens of Floyd county that when they elected Mr. Hayes, they made a wise decision, for he runs the jail as if it were his home. He looks after the smallest wish, and if it were the biggest he makes one feel obliged to him.

Seeing that I was a sick man, he allowed me to bring necessary things, such as a small table, innerspring mattress, etc., to make comfortable for a sick man.

I want to truly thank him, and his good deputies for my recovery, and their kind consideration of me.

I cannot say enough on Mr.
Hayes behalf. He is truly a fine jailer, and gentleman and a Christian man, with feeling for his fellowman.

I feel that the rest of the prisoners feel as I do.

SEASON OPENS LEAGUE PLAY

On May 31, Wells Says; Youngsters Are Asked To Bring Birth Certificates

Little League play will officially commence May 31, Milford "Toodles" Wells, commissioner, announced this week.

Youngsters who intend to play this year should present their birth certificates to league officials on May 25 at the Prestonsburg Playground. Players of last year who have previously presented their certificates will not be required to do so this year. Managers will be permitted to start the spring training program for their teams on May 16.

Managers and assistants for the coming year are as follows:

ON SCHOOL HONOR ROLL

Miss Linda Hughes, of Floyd county, was the academic honor roll cum laude, for the first six weeks of the spring quarter at Pinkerton high school operated by the Kentucky Female Orphan School, Inc.

Little League Eligibility Rules

Here's the rules which govern the eligibility of any youngster wanting to play ball with the Little League organization this summer. There's little use for the girls reading this because, according to section G of Rule III, girls are not eligible. For the boys, however, the rules are as follows:

RULE III—PLAYERS

(a) Any boy who will not attain the age of 13 before August 1 of the year in question shall be eligible to compete in Little League Baseball. This means that a boy who will be 13 years old on July 31 or earlier, will not be eligible for either local league play or tournament play at any time during the calendar year in question.

(b) Each candidate must present acceptable proof of age in the form of a birth certificate or hospital record to the League President at least 48 hours before the Player Auction (or other player selection plan) is put into operation. When and if such formal proof of age is not available, the League President shall gather as much documentary evidence as possible and promptly forward it to Williamsport. If, in the opinion of National Headquarters, such evidence is satisfactory, a statement to that effect will be sent to the League President which shall be acceptable in lieu of a birth certificate or hospital record.

(c) The President of the local League MUST certify and be responsible for the eligibility of each candidate previous to the player selection.

(d) The "League Age" of each candidate shall be recorded and announced at the player selection to guide the managers in making their selections.

(e) "League Age" is that age attained by a boy prior to August 1 in any given season. Thus, a boy whose 12th birthday is on July 31 or earlier has a League Age of 12; a boy whose 12th birthday is on August 1 or later, has a League Age of 11. This principle applies regardless of age.

(f) Any boy failing to attend at least 60 per cent of the spring training sessions shall forfeit his eligibility unless he presents an excuse which is unanimously accepted by all of the team managers.

SPORTS CHATTER

By Gordon Moore

Not too many seasons ago, several Floyd county high school athletes played in the post-season Kiwanis Invitational basketball tournament at Williamson, W. Va., and accepted awards at the close of the tournament, which was in direct violation of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association by-laws. As a result, they were declared ineligible for further high school athletics.

This past season, Meade Memorial high school's unit played and won the Williamson affair, accepted a barrel of awards (watches, radios and pen-pencil sets.) The K.H.S.A.A. Commissioner promptly ruled that all participants in the tourney were ineligible for further high school athletic competition.

Yet exactly three weeks after this ruling, all were reinstated to good standing—May 1, the week before the high school baseball playoffs. Thus, the suspension meant nothing.

The point is, what brought about the change today, when the by-laws are the same as they were four years ago? Who put the pressure on the commissioner's office? and finally, how flexible can the rulings of the commissioner's office become? We can't help but wonder if some action in the final of the 15th regional basketball tournament (in which Meade was involved) had a deal of bearing on the case.

The regional track meet will be staged at Elkhorn City at 1 p.m., Friday afternoon, with some 12 schools to take part. Prestonsburg is a doubtful entry.

We hope the incoming coach to Prestonsburg will be required to conduct spring drills in this sport and emphasize it to some degree, and not just pick up a group of boys and take them to the annual conference track because the rules say an entry is a must.

Track is a sport that requires a great deal of training and stamina and no boy should be permitted to enter any event unless he has three to four weeks prior training for that particular event.

MAROONS WIN DISTRICT TITLE

Wheelwright and Meade Retain District Crowns For Second Year in Row

Cochman Adrian Hall's Wheelwright Maroons annexed their third successive district crown with a 12-3 conquest of Martin in the finals of the Floyd county play-offs.

Sophomore righthander Jimmy Joe Hall settled down after a wobbly first two innings to chalk up his fourth triumph of the year. Martin took the lead on Pitcher D. Allen's single and shortstop Jobie Click's 325-foot triple, but Wheelwright came soaring back in the bottom of the first for three runs, climaxed by Bobby G. Newsome's two-run homer over the right-field wall.

Wheelwright iced the fray with a six-run fourth inning outburst, and Martin scored its final run in the 5th.

Prestonsburg was eliminated in the semi-finals by the Maroons, 6-4, as lefthander B. G. Newsome was credited with the win.

Other than Meade Memorial and Wheelwright, teams from the Ashland, Mt. Sterling and Breckinridge Training districts will vie for the regional crown and a trip to the state high school baseball tournament at Louisville's Parkway field, June 10-11.

Meade Memorial and Wheelwright high schools retained their respective Kentucky High School Athletic Association district baseball crowns over the past week-end and earned the right to represent their sections in the regional tournament at Grayson, May 26 and 27.

Meade eked by host Paintsville, 2-1, in the finals of the Johnson-Morgan county district, as pitcher Dennis Butcher walked in the bottom of the eighth, stole second, was sacrificed to third and came home on catcher B. Preston's perfectly executed bunt.

Both teams had tallied once on errors in the early frames and the

Nine Floyd Countians Enroll For Spring Term At Pikeville Jr. College

Nine Floyd countians are among the 21 students from five counties enrolled for the nine-week spring term at Pikeville Junior College.

Most of the group are former "emergency" teachers, working toward the temporary certificate, which is given on the completion of a two-year college course. Dr. A. A. Page, college president, said. Besides Floyd, they represent Johnson, Martin, and Pike counties, Kentucky, and Wayne county, West Virginia.

Floyd county students in the short term are Danese Amburgey, Allen; Margaret Compton, Harold; Velva D. Compton, East Point; Phyllistene Hall, Orkney; Joan H. Hatfield, Water Gap; Cosetta Newsome, Grethel; Lucille M. Newsom, Grethel; Virgil Triplett, Bevinsville, and Josephine Whitaker, Whitaker.

Lo, the Anglers Tale:

(By Don Deder, in The Arizona Republic)

Behold the fisher of trout! He asketh his boss for an extra day, and he getteth it, And the boss docketteth him in pay and extracteth exceeding great promises of future labor.

In the house of Montgomery Ward he spendeth his silver to replenish his supply of black gnats and split shot, and a merchant of Sears unloadeth upon him a creel of a size to hold a limit.

And upon his return to his own house his spouse looketh not with pleasure upon his purchases. He loadeth his vehicle, and listeneth not to his beloved, a singer of sarcastic songs.

He riseth up in the early day, He goeth forth upon the Bush Highway in the company of his friend of equal circumstance. The dust billoweth. In the Canyon of Sycamore rocks pelt upon the bottom of their carriage and they are sore afraid.

Whereupon the fisher explaineth the yarn of the Oklahoma spinner, saying: "Lo it consisteth of a half-stick of dynamite tied to a brickbat," which bringeth forth mirth to stiffen their courage. And in jest they lament the illegality of the device.

And it passeth that they arrive at the Creek which Tonto, and they climb the Rim of Mogollon. They make their camp among the multitude, and devour eggs after bacon, in the custom of their people. Their pot boileth over and killeth the fire.

Blisters spring forth upon their hands as they plow up small snakes of the earth, but they heed not the pain, exclaiming: "Hark, a fat one wiggleth behind a clod," and, "Makest thou thy spade to go faster, Brother, lest the fishes find their own."

They part; one marcheth against the rushing waters; the other with the currents.

And, alas! The sun sitteth upon the tallest pine before the fisher findeth a pool of more fishes than fishers, and he casteth his first cast. The leader snaggeth among the branches and the fisher cutteth his line, and he leaveth upon a twig a Royal Coachman, the gift of his father.

"May the milk of the fishes sour, and that of the fishes of the fishes' fishes," curseth the fisher, and he casteth a froth upon the waters with a worm-ed line. "Throvest thyself upon the hook, O scaly thieves!"

And three trout in turn grasp the barb, and the blood rusheth from the fisher's temples.

And when the friends meet, the fisher draweth the largest fish from his creel, saying: "Behold, he measureth in inches 12. How didst thou Brother?"

"Boast not of thy minnow, nor of its length. Verily, my largest measureth 13."

So the fishers remain two days and two nights, yet they catch no more fish. Returning, the car breaketh but one tire, and getteth six miles to the galleon.

The fisher's wife speaketh not when he returns.

His friends listen with politeness to his story; his enemies swing the hammer against it.

And the story is told, even unto the third and fourth generations.

Fifteen Teams Entered In Regional Track Meet

The second regional track meet in the Eastern Kentucky history of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association will be held off in Elkhorn City at 1:00 p.m., Friday, with 15 high schools participating.

Whitesburg, Jenkins, Prestonsburg, Paintsville, Pikeville, Beltry, Elkhorn City, Fleming, Martin, M. C. Napier, Phelps, Wolfe County, Hazard, and Ezel will vie for the crown.

Nine of the fifteen in the meet were in the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference track meet two weeks ago when Whitesburg edged Jenkins 35-27 for hte championship. Host Elkhorn City was third with 22 points and won the majority of field events.

Last year, in a downpour of rain, Whitesburg and Jenkins walked off with the honors and they are favored again this year to capture the running events.

New records will probably be established in the broad jump, high jump, 220-yard dash; 880-yard run, 440-yard dash, 880-yard relay, mile run, and 100-yard dash, as the same entrants who set new marks in the E. K. M. C. will be on hand, Friday.

E. Fugate, of Whitesburg, clipped off the 100 in 10.5 in the earlier meet and Charles Blackburn, Beltry, did the mile in 5.22.

Pat Sidham, Hazard's versatile athlete, won the loop high jump at 5 feet, 4 inches and the broad jump at 19 feet, 1 inch. Baker of Jenkins did the 880 run in a respectable 2:14 after winning last year's regional meet with 2:32.

HEALTH NOTES

By Floyd County Health Department

"If you are feeling a little different physically, or if you think you are not quite as perky as you have been in the past, take a trip to your family physician," administrator of the Floyd County Health department, M. V. Clark, emphasizes. "A physical check-up will usually pay dividends in a longer, healthier life," he said.

Perhaps you tire more easily, have a loss of appetite, your arm goes to sleep, you have a lump in your breast or find that at the end of the day your foot is too big for your shoe. Any strange symptom, even mild, signals time to see the physician.

Many health authorities recommend a yearly physical check-up and every six months if you are over 40.

As the toll from communicable diseases is reduced through medical knowledge and public health practices, people are living longer and chronic diseases are the major causes of disablement and death. Typhoid fever, for example, annually killed around one thousand Kentuckians forty years ago but only three in 1953. Heart disease took the lives of 9,293 Kentuckians in 1953 while cancer caused 3,631 deaths. Both head the field as the leading causes of death in Kentucky. Floyd county had 74 citizens die from heart diseases in 1953, 25 from cancer.

Cancer may often be cured if caught in time. People live with heart diseases and often continue to be useful citizens if under a physician's care. "It is the family physician who can help you guard against serious illness and death by keeping close check upon your physical and mental well-being," Mr. Clark stressed.

Thirty-two farmers in Carter county set 100,000 strawberry plants in an effort to have another cash crop.

Frank Crum Captains Marshall College "Nine" Is Soon to Enter Army

Huntington, W. Va., May 8 (Spl.)—Frank Crum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Crum, of Betsy Layne, Ky., is the captain of the Marshall College baseball team for this season.

He has shown an excellent ability to play first base with only one year in the college baseball ranks.

Frank was an outstanding athlete in baseball and basketball at Betsy Layne high school. He batted .446 for the Bobcats and rimmed the bucket for 17 points per game in basketball his senior year.

The six-foot-two senior is also a member of the Big Green basketball team and has maintained a 2.8 average in his school work.

The Kentucky All-State basketball center is majoring in accounting and he is to be commissioned in the U. S. Army next month.

HALL, WALLEN OF W'WRIGHT

Play at Georgia Teachers As Hurler and Shortstop For Kentucky-Born Coach

Statesboro, Ga. — Three Kentuckians are playing important roles in Georgia Teachers' best baseball team in history.

Shortstop Don Wallen and pitcher Vondall Hall played for Coach Adrian Hall at Wheelwright high, and are now regulars as college sophomores.

Georgia Teachers' baseball coach, J. I. Clements, graduated from Eastern Kentucky in 1947 after batting over .300 during both his junior and senior years.

Wallen, a third baseman last year, moved over to shortstop this season, and is a key factor in the 25 double plays the Professors have made in their first 19 games. Don is currently hitting .273, about 15 points under his average as a freshman, but his 17 runs-batted-in, 11 walks, and seven stolen bases all represent improvements over last year.

Hall has won four games and lost only one, a one-run defeat at the hands of Amherst College in March. Hall has given-up 13 earned runs in 37 innings, for an ERA of 3.16. His record since coming to the sand lands is nine wins and three losses, all one-run affairs.

The 6-1 righthander had a fantastic high school record at Wheelwright. In his native bluegrass country he never lost a game until the finals of the state tournament his senior year, and then he was beaten 2-1.

Wallen is also a regular basketball guard at Georgia Teachers, and last season he scored 292 points for a 10.4 points-per-game average, and his 223 assists in 28 games broke the school record by more than 100.

Since coming to GTC as head baseball coach in 1948, Coach Clements' team have won 84 and lost 67. This year's club has won 14 and lost five with four games remaining on the schedule. The record in the Georgia Intercollegiate Conference is a perfect 9-0.

Approves Microfilm For Bank Records

Frankfort, Ky., May 8 (Spl.)— State banks and trust companies may require less housekeeping space for permanent records as the result of a regulation announced today by Commissioner of Banking Henry H. Carter.

The 1954 General Assembly passed legislation authorizing banks to reproduce certain records by microfilm or other reproduction processes. The new department regulation announced today implements the legislation and prescribes the periods for which certain records must be kept.

Carter said that the retention of certain original records permanently had brought about a situation where many banks were "bulging at the seams" for space. The microfilm process will enable the banks to dispose of many old records, and substitute the more compact copies. The commissioner pointed out that bona fide reproductions of original records have the same force and effect as the original when offered in evidence in legal proceedings.

'EROSION OF YOUTH' BEGINS IN CROWDED SCHOOLROOMS

Washington, May 4 — Overcrowded, inadequate classrooms are creating a disastrous mood that is sweeping our young people toward juvenile delinquency, Mrs. Marie R. Turner, for 24 years superintendent of schools in Breathitt county, Kentucky, said today.

Mrs. Turner was scheduled to testify before the House Education and Labor Committee, but it ran out of hearing time. Her statement was put into record by Representative Carl D. Perkins, Hindman, Ky., Democrat.

She described conditions in Breathitt as typical of those throughout the Southern Appalachian region.

"We have 4,801 youngsters in our school enrollment," she said. "The first month of school each year we have practically 100 per cent of these children to attend school. After a few weeks, the attendance officer begins to get calls from practically every mother in the county, because children are dropping out of school."

The reason? Overcrowded and unequipped classrooms, Mrs. Turner said, in 87 inadequate buildings scattered over an area of 483 square miles. Only one is a high school.

Children walk long distances over dirt roads to find themselves in a very poorly lighted room about 24 by 32 feet with from 40 to 60 other children, she said.

In such rooms, teachers have up to 60 pupils, from 6 to 15 years old, in all eight grades, she added.

"Is it possible to motivate each of 50 or 60 children to put forth his best efforts?" she asked.

"What happens to that bright youngster, age 6, when he leaves the loving and tender care of his mother and is placed in such a classroom? Does the teacher have time to give him that loving pat that he needs so badly? Will she have time to make him feel important? Will she have time to help him develop as an individual, or will his little mind become warped against society?"

"Here, in the elementary school, is where the erosion of our youth begins."

In Breathitt last year, 535 students dropped out of school and either moved away or become community problems, Mrs. Turner said. Overcrowded conditions made most of this group feel lost in the classroom, a check showed, she said. "They did not feel they were a part of the school," she declared. "These are the boys who are constantly being refused by our draft boards and, in the hills of Eastern Kentucky when our boys cannot serve our country, it destroys their faith in themselves."

Mrs. Turner said that in Breathitt alone eight extra-large classrooms are needed next year.

Otherwise, we will be teaching boys and girls under the shade of trees during the pleasant fall weather and then, when the weather gets bad, we will have to send them home," she said.

Classrooms are so crowded the teacher cannot move around but must stay in one corner, she said.

"Our children, uneducated, leave our county for other sections, not as well-adjusted citizens, but as liabilities," Mrs. Turner declared. "We are a part of a great human resource regional problem which should certainly be of eminent concern to our nation, because our children are the future citizens."

Breathitt could profitably use $1,000,000 to relieve overcrowded classrooms and buy equipment, but further local and State money cannot be obtained, she said.

She expressed the hope that the committee would present the need for more and better classrooms to Congress and the President in such a way that they will act.
