

This Town— That World

You may not know it, but this is 25 BC. Twenty-five days before Chandler.

H-2-O is the chemical symbol for water. Wonder how many letters and digits it would require to write the symbol for Prestonsburg water of current vintage which is known in some quarters as the choride cocktail.

NOT ALL GONE

Charlie Wischers and Judge Hill set to rest Tuesday the dire predictions about Dewey Lake fishing made by some of us long-chinned kill-joys. Wischers hastened to this office and watched me turn a deep green while he displayed a string of five king-size bass, while Judge Hill was just a little less provocative with his admission via telephone that he had just arrived home with three bass of the same caliber.

Which should assure one and all that all the bass didn't escape through the dam when "Red" Weaver and associates opened the gates to let the water level down.

HAD ITS GOOD POINTS

Councilman Watt Hale, of West Prestonsburg, assures us a good, hot election has its points. "Why," said Watt, "the day after election there was more coffee paid back than had been borrowed and hoes and rakes and such things returned than you ever saw, and all by folks who were sweating they'd never borrow off those people again as long as breath was in their bodies."

BIGGEST, BRAVEST, ETC.

Texans are popularly regarded as having an inordinate pride in everything Texan. They claim the biggest of everything, and have an American Thermopylae in the Alamo. And it's a rash individual who will engage a Lone Star resident in a comparison of his state with Texas.

A Bostonian was one of these rash individuals. When the Alamo and its heroic band were mentioned to him by a Houston man he declared Texans are no braver than New Englanders. "You may recall," he politely suggested, "that there was a man named Paul Revere from Massachusetts."

"Paul Revere," mused the Texan. "Now, say, wasn't that the guy who ran for help?"

Russia wants peace at any price, if we will do the paying.

FOOD SERVICE LOSES $1,820

Driver Says Cash Box Lost on Way Returning, P'Burg to Huntington

An investigation is being made this week into the loss between Prestonsburg and Huntington last Friday from a truck of $1,820 of Spurlock's Food Service, Inc., funds. The money, represented by cash and checks, was in a cash box in the cab of the truck. William Spencer, of Huntington, the truck driver, said he made two stops after leaving here—one at a Paintsville Service Station and another near Echo, W. Va., both times to get a cup of coffee. He was quoted as saying that he covered the cash box in the seat of the truck with a cushion and his coat upon leaving the truck. Loss of the money, it was said, was discovered when he arrived in Huntington.

Alex Howard, Prestonsburg manager for Spurlock's Food Service, said charge checks and other itemized records of receipts were lost along with the box and its cash contents. O. J. Spurlock, owner of the food service firm, said the loss was insured.

EKEA MEETING TALKS FAVOR FEDERAL AID

Mrs. Conley Is Named Vice-President of EKEA At Ashland Convention

A Floyd county teacher, Mrs. Dorothy Conley, of Wheelwright was elected first vice-president of the Eastern Kentucky Education Association at Ashland last Friday. Heading the organization of teachers for the ensuing year will be Claude H. Farley, former Garrett school principal who is now superintendent of Pike county schools. Mr. Farley's election was for the second time as he was elected president in 1940.

The 32nd annual convention, attended by over 2,500 teachers, picked Mary Latham, of Bath county, as second vice-president. The EKEA endorsed federal aid for schools and gave its support to Lyman V. Ginger, of Lexington, for vice-president of the National Education Association in 1956.

Some of the resolutions adopted by the Association before adjournment were that the next Kentucky General Assembly provide sufficient funds to continue to finance the 1954 Teacher Retirement Law on its present level; asked that the present limit on taxation by local boards of education be raised to $2; that the directors of the Association prepare legislation to provide for survivors' benefits in the Teachers Retirement Law; and that Congressmen be asked to study our national tax structure so that no state will have its natural sources of revenues taxed so heavily by the federal government that state and local agencies are impoverished.

Forty teachers attended from this county exclusive of high school principals and several from the county superintendent's office here.

HIGHWAY JOB TO BE WELLS'

Paintsville's Mayor Seen As Chandler's Selection for Post

John B. Wells, Jr., Mayor of Paintsville, will go to Frankfort as Governor-elect A.B. "Happy" Chandler's rural highway commissioner. The Paintsville Herald said it has learned from reliable sources this week.

Announcement of the appointment is expected to be made prior to December 13 when Chandler takes over the reins of Governor.

Mr. Wells, who has served as Paintsville mayor for 12 years, will succeed E. P. Monahan as commissioner, the Paintsville newspaper said in a story published this week. It is a post held by Lt. Governor Beauchamp during the administration of Ex-Governor Earle Clements, who is now United States Senator.

Mr. Wells said this week, he will resign as mayor at the next meeting of the city council. In this statement confirmation of the state appointment is seen.

WAR VETERAN CRASH VICTIM

Tackett's Death Results From Car-Truck Collision In Vicinity of McDowell

Delzie Tackett, of Melvin, 26-year-old veteran of the Korean War, died at 5:30 p.m., Saturday at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, of injuries sustained the preceding Wednesday night in the collision of his auto with a truck near McDowell.

A skull injury and possible internal hurts resulted in Tackett's death. It was said here that the bumper of his car caught the rear bumper of the truck of T. P. Jones which he was passing, between Orkney and McDowell, and that the auto went out of control over an embankment.

The victim was a son of Harry and Rebecca Tackett, of Melvin. Other survivors include two brothers and three sisters, Oliver Tackett, of Weeksburg, Elvie Tackett, Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Gladys McKinney, Mrs. Sadie Johnson and Mrs. Edith Akers, all of Melvin.

The funeral was conducted at 10 a.m., Tuesday, from the home of the parents, the Revs. Joe Jones, Jerry Hall, Hobert Bates and Henry Blair officiating. Burial in the family cemetery was directed by the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Local Comics Censorship Agreement Reached Here

Prestonsburg is meeting the objectionable comic book in decisive fashion.

When a committee composed of Mrs. Ira McMillen, Jr., and Mrs. R. V. May was sent last week by the Prestonsburg Council of Churchwomen to investigate a means of controlling the distribution of this type of comic it found every distributor not only willing but happy to cooperate. Some already had censored the funnies they bought, and others announced they were immediately taking the objectionable publications from their stands.

Berry Marketing Clinic Scheduled for Jan. 18;

Date of the strawberry marketing clinic scheduled for this county is set for Jan. 18, County Agent O. E. Boggs says. Present at the clinic will be strawberry specialists, field agents in production and marketing of fruits and vegetables, buyers, farmers and others.

"This will be our means of telling people we have berries for sale," Boggs says. Chain store men will be here to tell us what kind of berries and the volume they want. The clinic is also a ways and means of capturing the high price trade," he added.

W. I. Farmer, a strawberry specialist of the University of Kentucky's Extension Service, will preside at the meeting, it was said.

Fire Department Draws Other Towns' Interest

Prestonsburg's new fire truck in gleaming white instead of the traditional fire-truck red has attracted not only local interest—it has brought three neighboring fire departments to study its brand-new modernity and to watch the Prestonsburg fire department in practice work.

Volunteer fire departments of Paintsville, Salyersville and Inez were here last Sunday to see the new fire truck put through its paces by Fire Chief Vernon Blackburn and his volunteer crew of 12. Their visit was at the suggestion of Deputy Fire Marshal Buck Patrick, who was high in his praise of the fire department here for its efficiency and equipment.

The new fire truck, fully equipped, cost $15,650. The truck is a Ford F-800 and it has a pumping capacity of 750 gallons of water a minute. In addition, it carries 500 gallons of water and has a portable pump for use where city water is unavailable. This pump will throw 300 gallons

Parrot Fever Feared After Bird Succumbs; Lab Tests Are Asked

Fear of parrot fever caused health authorities this week to call for laboratory help in determining the cause of a parrot's death at Auxier.

The bird, which had been sick for some time, died at the home of Jake Hollifield, of Auxier. No Kentucky laboratory is able to detect the disease, and the parrot was sent to a Montgomery, Ala., laboratory by the Cumberland Field Station of the U. S. Public Health Service at the request of the State Department of Health.

Parrot fever, a rare disease in Kentucky, defies preventive medicine, and the only procedure to be followed in the event the parrot is found to have died of the disease will be isolation of the Hollifield family. This step will be taken, M. V. Clark, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department, said, because the disease is very contagious. It sometimes is fatal to humans.

Two cases of parrot fever were reported in Boyle county this year. Both patients recovered.

Sportsmen, Guests Hear State Fish, Game Story

The fish and wildlife picture in Kentucky and Floyd county at this time and the outlook for the future were presented to the 200 persons who attended the third annual banquet of the Floyd County Fish & Game Club at the Maytown consolidated school luncheon Monday night.

Three officials of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, reviewed the situation and future prospects or the club members, their wives and other guests.

Larry Gale, head of the Division of Game Management, said the herd started in the Dewey Lake refuge is doing well, in spite of losses to dogs and poachers, adding that an open season on deer may be expected within the next five years. "We are very happy about the deer restoration program here," Gale said.

Pointing out that losses to dogs and poachers must be reduced to the minimum if the increase of the herd in the refuge to attain the numbers that would justify an open season, Gale called for the help of local citizens to insure the arrest

RAIDS STRIKE FIVE PLACES

Inn Near Here Visited Third Time as Raiders Cover Wide Territory

Raids by Sheriff's deputies since Friday night have resulted in the confiscation of whiskey or other intoxicants at five places in the county.

One of the five was the Dewey Lake Inn which in recent weeks had been raided on two other occasions. The Inn, operated at the time by Bert Arnett, yielded 11 half-pints of whiskey and gin. Other raid results:

Baltimore Hall and Resie Mae Harris, Abner Fork, a gallon and a half of moonshine; Willie Little, Abner Fork, one case of whiskey and 16 cases of beer; Scott Samples, Abner Fork, moonshine whiskey. All these were raided Friday night.

Tuesday night, 17 half-pints of whiskey and five pints of wine were found on the premises of Ted Martin at Garrett, and 24 half-pints of whiskey were taken at Martin in a raid on Joe Moran.

Raids the preceding week-end had these results:

Lora Stephens, Martin, five half-pints; Buster Jones, East McDowell, 11 half-pints of moonshine and four cases of beer; Jim Potter, East McDowell, 15 cases of beer.

All search warrants in these raids were issued by Magistrate John May, and all the defendants are to appear before him. None were booked at the county jail.

2 PLAYGROUND JOBS STARTED

Jaycees Plan Projects To Be Ready For Use By Children in Spring

The Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce is making bright predictions about the completion of its current pet project, two full-sized playgrounds to be located in Prestonsburg, John Hardin, Jaycee official and committee chairman in charge of the project, announced to The Times this week.

"We expect to have the playgrounds in perfect shape for the kids next spring. The Jaycees feel that the children of Prestonsburg deserve some place to play, besides crowded and busy streets," Mr. Hardin said.

One playground will be located at the corner of Arnold avenue and Graham street, on the Richmond lot. The Jaycees have placed a swing on the property and have drawn up plans for a basketball court. The other playground is located on North Lake Drive, beside the residence of Otis Cooley.

The playgrounds will eventually sport the following equipment: basketball court, teeter boards, sand boxes, merry-go-rounds, horizontal bars and other playground pieces.

The Jaycees are high in their praise of Howard Doss Blackburn, who has contributed more than $100 of his time, using welding and building equipment.

"Howard has done a wonderful job for us," said Hardin. "If it weren't for the work of Howard and the donation of pipe from United Fuel, this project might still be in the paper stage."

The Jaycees are currently conducting a project designed to raise

ATTACK MAY VOID JURY'S SEPT. ACTION

Attorney Claims Jury Had Member Who Was Not Kentucky Citizen

The possibility exists that all of the indictments voted by the September grand jury of circuit court here may be voided.

This possible development arose this week when Joe P. Tackett, attorney for Enoch Spears, lower Johns Creek man accused of the rape of an elderly woman, filed a motion to quash the indictments against his client on the grounds that a member of the grand jury which indicted Spears was a resident of Ohio at the time she served as a grand juror and owned no property of any kind in Floyd county.

The attorney asked that Circuit Judge Hill consider the motion to quash, pointing out that the juror, Mrs. Mintie Hammond, had sold her home here and had established permanent residence in Ohio prior to empaneling of the grand jury. The Spears case was continued till Jan. 9.

The record of the work done between the convening of the criminal court term Monday morning and adjournment for the day Wednesday was mainly that of case dismissals or continuances.

The two cases brought to trial failed of conviction. Everett Smith was acquitted of a charge of incest, and the jury could not agree in the case of Alex Patton, who was charged with child desertion. John D. Martin entered a plea of guilty to a child desertion indictment and was given a two-year pen term.

Liquor-selling charges against Junior Joseph and Thomas Lafferty were dismissed. The indictments were marked by Commonwealth's Attorney Martin, "insufficient proof." Later, an attachment was issued for Bill Smith, a witness in the cases who failed to appear when the cases were called in court. Also dismissed was the charge of knowingly receiving stolen property which had been lodged against Ellis Crum.

COACH HALL RESIGNS JOB

To Supervise Admissions.
At McDowell Hospital;
Was at W'wright 9 Yrs.

Adrian Hall, head basketball and baseball coach at Wheelwright high school for the past nine years, resigned, effective Wednesday to become supervisor of admissions service at the McDowell Memorial hospital.

In nine years at Wheelwright and one at McDowell high, Hall's cage team won 176 games and lost 56, including one Floyd county tournament championship and the runner-up spot three times.

His baseball teams have won the Floyd district for the past four years, the regional title three times and his '53 team went to the semi-finals of the Kentucky state high school baseball tournament before bowing to Newport Catholic.

Three of his baseball stars have entered the minor leagues. They are Morris Ray Hall, a catcher in the Georgia-Florida league, pitcher Vondel Lee Hall and shortstop Ben Wallen currently at Georgia State Teachers College. Sixty percent of all the athletes he has tutored have gone on to college.

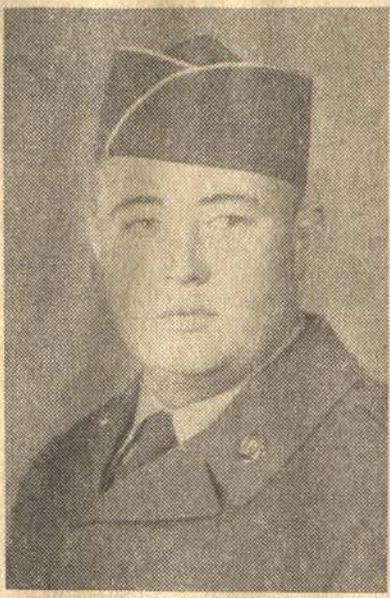

The 1955-'56 Wheelwright basketball team, an all-senior outfit, is expected to be the best in the school's history. To date, they have romped over Dorton 83-66, Betsy Layne 95-76, and Garrett 59-53. Their lone loss was to Wayland, 100-75.

Hall, a graduate of Morehead State College, will be replaced by Hugo Miller, a present Wheelwright faculty member.

Christmas Follies Set For Presentation Here, Commander Patton Says

Herb Patton, commander of the Prestonsburg V. F. W. Post, has announced that the 1955 Christmas Follies will be held this Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Prestonsburg grade school auditorium. Proceeds of the show will go into the Post Christmas Fund to purchase baskets for needy families throughout the county.

Patton has expressed hope that the show will be a success and that it can be continued as an annual event.

The show will be composed of local talent, according to Jack Salisbury, a member of the Program committee. Appearing on the show will be Quentin Terry, Jr., six-year-old prodigy pianist; Jimmie Douglas George, who will show how natives on Tahiti do their dances with native music and grass skirt, and Old-Time Fiddler Dewey Shepherd.

The show will be conducted by Perry T. Hall, who will double as emcee and magician. Hall has performed many times for the Red Cross and U. S. O. during World War II and is now entertaining at clubs and schools as a professional magician. He has held offices in several magician organizations and has served as secretary of the International Religious Magician Association. He was recently commissioned as Kentucky Magic Colonel by Ring 64, Louisville, of the International Brotherhood of Magicians and appointed to serve on an important committee by the International Brotherhood.

Hall said this week that his tricks will include effect with milk, rope, tumblers, wooden blocks, pigeons, rabbits, bottles, boxes, silks, balls, eggs and what have you. "I will also cause a woman to remain suspended on a board in midair while a solid loop is passed over her," he said.

Tickets are now on sale by various members of the Post.

Aids Recreation Services Crippled Children's Group

The Kentucky Society for Crippled Children financed medical, educational and recreation services for 3,490 crippled children and adults during its last fiscal year, it was reported recently.

The services were provided by donations to the Easter Seal campaign and special gifts to the Society during the fiscal period of September 1, 1954 to August 31, 1955.

The Society's annual report, released today, said services included:

Hospital care, medical care or therapy provided for 657 persons; hearing aids, wheel chairs, braces and other equipment for 154; transportation to camps, schools, and clinics for 582; local and state recreation and camping for 182. Three special schools served 87 children, special hospital or home tutoring was provided for 67, and speech correction or speech and hearing tests were given 2093.

All the states except Connecticut, Illinois, Kansas and Rhode Island will have a deer season in 1955—Sports Afield.

PROBLEMS RECOGNIZED

Problems of the coal industry were recognized in a series of resolutions adopted by the Metal Mining and Industrial Minerals Convention of the American Mining Congress at its Oct. 10-13 meeting in Las Vegas. Among resolutions adopted were declarations concerning energy resources and the need for a sound national fuel policy, mine safety, water and air pollution, tariffs, and endorsement of Cabinet Committee reports on Minerals Policy, and Energy Supplies and Resources Policy.

WORLD-POPULATION RISE

Washington, Nov. 7 — The Population Reference Bureau said yesterday that the world population, now estimated at 2,500,000,000 is growing at the rate of 35,000,000 persons a year.

Or, there is a net gain of 100,000 births over deaths every 24 hours. During the past 10 years, world population has grown by 300,000,000.

University of Kentucky economists say farmers have been getting 63 cents for every dollar consumers spend for pork.

Washington, Nov. 7 — Surgeon General Leonard Scheele said today that results of using Salk polio vaccine this year "give strong evidence that children who receive even one dose were substantially protected against paralytic polio."

"Preliminary data show," he added, "that paralytic attack rates in vaccinated children have been lower by 67 to 90 per cent than in unvaccinated children of the same ages."

Many heifers were included in the Central Kentucky fat-calf sale, steer calves being kept on farms to feed to heavier weights.

It Was Chandler's Victory

We seriously doubt that the Republican party's farm program affected to any appreciable extent the results of the recent Kentucky election, although the state G. O. P. campaign manager, Eldon S. Dummitt, has put the finger on that phase of the national administration as the sore spot that caused considerable voter defection.

To start with, Kentucky is overwhelmingly Democratic, and it had in Governor-Elect Chandler the state's greatest campaigner and vote-getter. We think therein lay Democratic party resources that the Republican party could not touch, even though there were a few scattered sore spots within the Democratic ranks. Returns from the heavily Republican Eighth district would indicate that whatever Democratic votes Chandler may have lost because of the primary imbroglio were gained back in Republican votes who stepped across party lines to support him. Harlan, Clay, Livingston and other counties are cases in point.

It is pointed out by some that it simply was a Democratic year, that the Republicans had nothing new to offer and that the victory wasn't Chandler's. In support of that contention they cite the fact that Chandler ran behind others on the state Democratic ticket.

But what might be the result, had the Democratic ticket been headed by a personality less attractive to the voters? And who could imagine Pleaz Mobley, the popular Republican Railroad Commissioner, losing to Walter Bailey, Democrat, in this district without such Democratic leadership?

Whether you're "Happy" or "Un-Happy," give Chandler full credit for a victory of unprecedented proportions.

Why Butler and Not Dewey?

The Times is far from well-informed about the various funds allocated for state improvements, and for this reason is not in position to explain to its readers why development at Dewey Lake State Park was temporarily written off, with the exception of dock facilities and a superintendent's home, while bids are being asked on a 50-room lodge at General Butler State Park at Carrollton.

Several months ago, state officials authorized a news release listing Dewey Lake to be the recipient of the heaviest outlay made in the parks system during the year. We recall that General Butler State Park was listed for improvement at the same time.

Then the uncertainties of the state political situation presumably caused bond-buyers to shy away from the financing plan for parks improvements, and it appeared that the whole program would remain in a state of suspension until the policies of a new state administration took form.

Those interested in Dewey Lake accepted the situation as "just one of those things," and decided all would have to await future developments. They accepted the situation on the face of things too gracefully, perhaps. Anyhow, bids are being sought on a lodge for General Butler State Park while a lodge at Dewey Lake State Park, least developed of all state parks, remains merely an air-castle.

True, access roads have not been built to the site selected for the Dewey lodge, and construction of a lodge where there is no access would be folly. But roads are being built by the month in all sections of Kentucky, and the State Department of Highways has not even made a move toward work on the proposed route skirting Dewey Lake above and below the lodge site.

This is not a political issue, thank goodness, and the discussion here of the matter is not an attempt to censure anybody in particular for forgetting one or more parks while another is singled out for splendid improvement. Yet the situation exists, and it is one which surely deserves explaining.

Featured as speakers at the Ashland meet were Congressman Carl D. Perkins, of the Kentucky Seventh district, and James Roosevelt, of California. Governor-Elect A. B. Chandler spoke briefly at one session and assured the teachers he will carry out his pre-election promise to implement the Minimum Foundation program. He added that that promise made at the EKEA can't be considered an election promise, inasmuch as the election is past.

Both congressmen, speaking at the night program, advocated a bill to provide financial aid, not only for teachers, but for college students as well.

Perkins predicted, "We will get a school-construction bill through the House of Representatives next year."

But, he contended, it's going to take money to provide for the 300,000 needed classrooms, and teachers' salaries still must be raised.

Bald, smiling, and friendly, Roosevelt started off by telling the teachers that Perkins had helped him as a "freshman" in Congress on their committee. Bowing to Perkins on his right, he said, "Carl, I am very grateful to you."

Roosevelt spoke about the bill he and Perkins hoped to get across for the teachers, the schools, and the students, especially those in college.

Declaring that it is important for all American youths to have equal opportunity for higher education, the California congressman admitted the bill and the Eastern Kentucky lawmaker are sponsoring is not perfect.

"But," he said, "it is a good bill and is a start in the right direction."

He explained that the government, under the provisions of this bill, would put up $400,000,000 a year for four years to be matched with an equal amount by the states to help the schools and the students.

The bill also would provide for federal purchase of school bonds, and a federal credit-advance system to states.

Roosevelt said something should have been done to elevate the profession of the teacher.

"We should equalize credits so that a man or woman in the teaching profession could work himself up in the profession and be able to lay something aside."

He evidently referred to the idea of the Federal Government subsidizing part of teachers' salaries in order to make salary schedules uniform throughout the country.

Roosevelt said he believed such subsidies should allow maximum teachers' salaries of $10,000 per year.

Wheel-Chair-Bound Cripple Vends Cards at Christmas

Oscar Spears, 57, of McCombs, was paralyzed 36 years ago by the crippling effects of a spinal disease. All of those years he has either been bed-fast or confined to a wheel chair.

But adversity hasn't embittered him. "It's no use for a man to hump up because he is a cripple. A man must try to make a living and keep trying," he says and when he speaks you know it's his own personal philosophy.

Trying is what he has been doing a long time, and a wee bit of success follows his efforts, just enough success to keep him in good heart, jovial and smiling. He loves life and its little pleasures, loves the sparkle and joy of Christmas. He contributes to the holiday spirit and makes a living by selling Christmas cards.

He began selling the cards last season by mailing out packages over the country. The returns were 100 per cent perfect, no rejections, all recipients sending back the one dollar charge for 21 cards. This was encouraging, and this year he increased the volume of cards mailed. Returns are good, he says. "Maybe this is a way I can earn a living after all these years," Oscar says.

Oscar and his 79-year-old mother live together in a big, rambling farmhouse on the head of Clark Branch of Johns Creek. Years ago the house resounded to the patter of many little feet, for he had several brothers and sisters. It was a typical mountain farm and Jeff Spears farmed the slopes with vigor and determination. Oscar and the other children hoed the long rows around the hillside and on Saturday afternoons they escaped the toil of the field and went fishing in Johns Creek. Week evenings, some of them got out an old oil lantern and they went 'coon or 'possum hunting. "I really liked to hunt and fish back then," Oscar says a bit wistfully.

Then suddenly all of this bucolic life ended. At the age of 21 he came home from West Virginia where he had been working, went to bed with typhoid. Or so the doctor said. But he never walked again. Three months later he tried crutches but it was no use. There were consultations with doctors and finally a trip to Johns Hopkins at Baltimore. A spine specialist, Dr. Walter E. Dandy, took a sharp instrument and began marking the skin from his shoulders down. When there was no feeling, Oscar told him so. When the examination was completed Dr. Dandy said: "You are paralyzed almost to your shoulders. If the paralysis had extended up another vertebrae your heart would have gone out."

The specialist always charged large sums for the kind of operation necessary to help Oscar, but there was not that much money in the whole family. Dandy asked how much he had, was told of the few hundred his father and others of the family had saved. Dandy sat down, figured how long he would have to stay, the hospital charges and other expenses. There would be $100 left. He operated for the hundred. "It could have been thousands. It would if I had had the money," Oscar says. This was one of the chapters in his life that

Kentucky not one lie has been lost in a boating, swimming or other accident at camp. "Automobiles claimed some lives, but we can do nothing about that," he added.

"School principals have found Conservation Education a very important part of their curriculum," Adams declared. He and the other speakers paid high tribute to the cooperation given by the Floyd Fish & Game Club, county officials and individual leaders toward the advancement of the overall program.

At the conclusion of Mr. Adams' talk J. J. Gilpin, his assistant in the Division of Conservation Education, who does all the camera work for the Department's official publication, "Happy Hunting Ground", and who doubles as an entertainer at Junior Club meetings and other functions, regaled the gathering with piano and saxophone numbers. He featured his favorite "Corn on the Cob" suite, a medley of rollicking, folksy tunes.

George E. Allen, of Langley, again presided as toastmaster.

Place cards served to remind the guests of the 1955 work of the Fish & Game Club, which was listed as:

A membership of 807; 1,029 quail reared and released in the county; 18 Junior Conservation Clubs sponsored; free trips to Camp Earl Wallace given 19 boys and one girl, nine wildlife cover plots planted; three cash prizes totaling $200 given to encourage more farmers to plant cover crops; held its 13th annual fish fry; named Marla Combs 1955 Sportsman's Queen; became affiliated with the League of Kentucky Sportsmen and sent four delegates to the League convention.

In addition, the club participated in the release in the district of 60,000 fish, 46 raccoon, 3,163 quail, 160 turkeys, 100 deer and 200,000 plants for wildlife food and cover — all made available by the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources.

maintains his faith in the innate fineness of people.

But the operation was a complete failure. He came home after eight weeks, had a fall, went to the Methodist hospital at Pikeville for three operations on his hip. The fractured hip improved but his spine never did. He could only move by scooting a chair and when he went away from home his father or sisters carried him to a buggy or car.

He scooted the chair ten years but at last felt equal to riding in a truck. He and one of his friends, sometimes it was his father, went out and bought chickens and eggs, spent four days on the road to Williams, W. Va., each week and back on a peddling trip. A few times he and a friend went to South Carolina and brought back a load of peaches for sale. But these ventures were not profitable and he tried the hatchery business at Betsy Layne. One season and he had to quit. The back would not stand up under the work.

He used a buggy after that to get around the country roads of Johns Creek, Big Brushy, Buffalo, and the river section. Always he was trying to sell something, always seeking to earn his own way. "I wore out three buggies in 15 years," he recalls. "I would drive short distances myself and I had a horse. I could trust anywhere, but my back just wouldn't stand up for me. I had to quit that."

He tried running a small grocery store at Guthrie but this venture failed too. It was almost impossible for him to wait on the customers. He retired to his father's home. Jeff Spears died in 1947. Oscar's sisters married and now only the two, he and his mother, are in the old farmhouse.

Each week now, some passing neighbor carries a bundle or two of Christmas cards being sent to the

Half-Million Seals Are In Mail For Residents Of County, Reed Says

Several thousand Floyd countians and more than a half million Kentuckians will receive Christmas Seals through the mails in the next few days, it was said here Wednesday by B. F. Reed, chairman of the Floyd county Christmas Seal fundraising drive for 1955.

The annual sale of Christmas Seals is the sole support of the Floyd County Tuberculosis Association and the work done by Mrs. Regina B. Roberts as t. b. nurse, it was pointed out. Floyd county was the first county in Kentucky to employ a fulltime nurse to carry on the fight on tuberculosis day after day throughout the year, and the results have not only been gratifying to the Association but also have commanded the attention of health leaders throughout the state.

Dr. E. R. Gernert, president of the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association said, in announcing the state-wide Christmas Seal campaign, "Kentuckians can well be proud of the progress made in tuberculosis control here. In the past five years the t. b. death rate has declined by more than 50 per cent."

In Floyd county the death rate has dropped 88 per cent, and this is a record of success unattained in any of the state, perhaps in the nation. Five years ago, when the t. b. program was initiated in the county there were 26 t. b. deaths. To date this year, there have been two.

Woodford county tobacco, thought to be the highest quality in years, was all in barns by mid-September.

FOREST FIRES IN BIG DROP

Decline in Fire Loss Steady Over 3 Years, County Record Shows

Floyd county had only 23 forest fires last spring as compared to 37 in 1954, figures released by the Extension Service and Forrest Burchett, forest warden, show. In number of fires has been steadily declining in this county since 1952 when 138 woodland blazes destroyed $450,000 worth of timber. This year's damage was only $593.50 as of July 1.

Burchett says he is keeping his finger crossed, though. "Showers do us a lot of good but they mislead people. They think since a light rain fell the woods won't burn. But, actually, a few hours after the shower the forest is dry again. This caused us to have a few fires this fall, last fall was a wet season and there were no fires at all then."

Acres burned in 1952 was 30,700. This went down to 16,600 acres the next year, dropped to 1,448 last year and went down still more this year to July 1 to the figure of 658 acres. Seventeen percent of the county's woodlands burned in 1952, dropped to eight percent the next year, declined to only one percent last year. The percentage of acres burned up till July 1 this year is a mere .005, but, as Burchett points out this figure could be considerably exceeded, unless the public is careful.

Estimates also show a significant downward drop in dollar losses from fires. From the nearly half-million dollar damage in 1952 the amount decreased next year to $90,000; went down last year to $7,400. If the damage of $593.50 for this year to July 1 isn't exceeded greatly by a sudden flurry of fires in the remaining weeks, the record will be the most outstanding since the program was initiated six years ago.

"The people of Floyd county are to be congratulated on the fine job they have done in preventing forest fires since 1952-53," County Agent O. E. Boygs said. To which Warden Burchett adds: "But what will the record show next year? I'm thinking also of the future. It is up to the citizens of this county to prevent fires. Ninety-nine out of every 100 fires are caused by people."

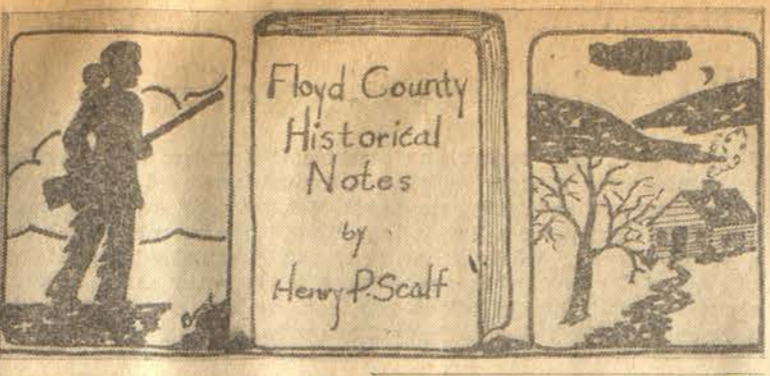

DIABETIC DETECTION DRIVE
The annual 1955 state wide diabetes detection drive, sponsored by the Kentucky State Medical Association in cooperation with the American Diabetes Association, will end Nov. 19.

Carlisle Morse, M. D., Louisville, Chairman of the KSMMA Diabetes Committee, said that as part of the drive all KSMMA members have been asked to give free urine sugar tests to all persons requesting them.

Dr. Morse pointed out that in previous years over 700 previously unknown diabetics have been discovered as a result of the annual campaign. The KSMMA estimates that 15,000 Kentuckians unknowingly diabetics.

"Ultimately the success of the drive depends on people asking for the free tests," Dr. Morse said. "We have the means to prevent unnecessary suffering and death from diabetes, but these mean little unless people have themselves checked regularly. The annual diabetes detection drive affords such an opportunity without cost."

"For this reason we urge every person—especially those over forty, those overweight, and those who have relatives with diabetes to see their physician for the free tests," Dr. Morse stated.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CONGRATULATES CHORUS
Editor, The Times:
I want to tell you and the parents of the youngsters who sang last Friday in the Floyd county high school (Prestonsburg) mixed chorus that I was so proud of them I nearly popped my buttons. They are grand. I've been away ten years now and most of the boys and girls were strangers to me. Of course a few I could pick out by their resemblance to parents that I know.

I would like to congratulate their director, Mrs. Haywood, on such splendid work.

I also want to say that I was especially proud of my niece, Sally Hill, for the solo part she did. Other solo parts were grand, and the readers were fine.

Then, too, that red-headed nephew of mine, Jack Hill, added much color and charm to the group. Congratulations to the mixed chorus!

FLOYD VOTE CONTRIBUTES

Magisterial District 3 To Chandler Majority; Lead in County Noted

Complete unofficial returns from last week's general election show that A. B. "Happy" Chandler recorded the heaviest victory margin in Kentucky history in defeating Edwin R. Denney, Republican, by 131,353 votes for the post of Governor.

Floyd county added a majority of 2,197 to the Chandler sweep, and the Seventh Congressional district gave the victor a 14,187-vote edge over Denney, who carried only his home district, the Eighth.

Each of this county's four Magisterial districts gave Chandler a majority, with the Third (Left Beaver Creek, mainly) contributing most heavily to his Floyd margin.

Magisterial District No. 1 gave Chandler 1,996 votes to 1,393 for Denney; No. 2 (Right Beaver Creek) polled 1,067 votes for Chandler, 779 for Denney; No. 3 gave the winner 1,927 votes to 1,012 for the loser, while District 4, where Republican strength is normally concentrated, gave Chandler 1,057 votes to 685 for Denney.

Added to these majorities were 33 absentee votes which could not be classified as to precincts, 19 of these going to Chandler and 14 to his opponent.

The vote in the Governor's race, by precincts, appear on Page 8.

The total Floyd vote for the various candidates follows:

	Chandler	Denney
Breathitt	3,039	1,339
Elliott	1,823	769
Johnson	2,620	3,687
Knott	3,459	1,022

Ancient Vintage Sewing Machine Head Still Clicking After 85-year Service

About 1870 a Singer sewing machine agent driving a buggy loaded with his wares sold and traded machines around the present Bevinsville on Left Beaver Creek. Last month one of the heads of the machines showed up in Martin & Martin's store here. Noah Martin had traded it, not thinking to check the vintage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Mitchell, Martin relates, brought a portable machine with a Singer head on it to his store and swapped it, paying "boot," of course, for a new Morse machine. A few days later, Martin sold the machine head to a woman at Hi Hat, not yet knowing its great age. The woman brought it back for repairs and Martin held it until the Singer service man came around. He took one look, dug out a bunch of manuals and other pamphlets to calculate the model's age. "That model was manufactured 85 years ago," he declared.

Anyway, everybody concerned is qualified. The purchaser reclaimed the repaired machine and took it home.

Miss Wardlow To Visit Church Here and Discuss Growing School's Needs

Miss Ruth Wardlow, field representative for the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., will visit the First Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg, Friday, at 7:30 p.m., it was announced Tuesday by the pastor, the Rev. Orville Pearson.

Miss Wardlow will meet with members of the Christian Education committee and teachers of the Sunday School. Among the problems to be considered are the need for more space created by the steadily growing school, the better methods of presentation that may be employed, and the methods to implement the necessity of Christian Education being shared by Church and home.

White Building Under Erection On Lake Drive

Work is under way on South Lake Drive here on a 40-by-100-foot building to house the Sandy Valley Fire Service and the welding and explosives supplies business of N. M. White, Jr.

Mr. White said it is hoped the structure will be completed around Jan. 1. J. L. Meade, of Prestonsburg, is the contractor on the project.

The building will be of brick and concrete block construction. The recapping plant will occupy the rear of the structure, with offices and storage explosives, oxygen-acetylene and greases handled by the firm in the front.

The building is going up on a lot adjoining the Hughes Motor Company.

WHY SHE'S A SHE

This one has been batted around in newspapers, trade papers, etcetera for many the year. And here it is again:

Here are some of the reasons a boat is always referred to as a "she": "A boat is called a she because there's always a great deal of bustle around her... because there's usually a gang of men around... because she has a waist and stays... because she takes a lot of paint to keep her looking good... because it's not the initial expense that breaks you, it's the upkeep... because it takes a good man to handle her right... because she shows her topsides, hides her bottom and, when coming into port, always heads for the buoys."

WURRA, WURRA

Fellow I know worried some this week over a car trade he made, but finally regained his composure. Then Wednesday afternoon he began heaving heavy sighs all over again.

"That car trade still bothering you?" he was asked.

"No," he replied "I'm worrying now because I left the car out in this rain."

The Chandler margin easily smashed the record set 16 years ago when Democrat Keen Johnson led his Republican opponent, King Swope, by 106,130 votes.

When the final figures came in, Chandler had a total of 457,185 to 325,832 for Republican Edwin R. Denney.

In winning this year, Chandler received 99,077 fewer votes than he did in 1935, when his total was 556,282. He won the governorship that year over Swope, who polled 461,104 in his first race for governor.

Swope's total that year, incidentally, is still the record Republican vote for governorship. Swope's 354,704 total against Johnson in 1939 is the second highest Republican vote for that post.

Only twice in history has a winning candidate for governor polled more votes than Chandler did last week. His own 1935 total is still the record followed by Johnson's total of 460,834 four years later.

Total vote cast for the two major-party candidates this year was 783,017. Only twice before has that total been exceeded in a governor election—in 1935, when rampaging interest in the sales-tax issue sent the total to 1,017,366, and in 1939, when the total was 815,534.

In the 1951 governor's election, the total vote was 634,359, compared with 675,551 in 1947, and 549,669 in 1943.

Chandler's total vote last week fell about 44,000 short of the 501,629 cast in the Democratic primary August 6. His own total then was 259,875, compared with 241,754 for Bert T. Combs.

Only about 97,000 votes were cast in the Republican primary, with Denney winning 77,000 of them.

In losing last week, Denney polled more votes than any Republican since Swope. He polled 46,000 more votes than were cast for Republican candidate Simeon Willis in 1943, when Willis was elected.

Denney polled about 33,000 more votes than did his campaign chairman, Eldon S. Dummit, when Dummit was the G.O.P. candidate for governor in 1947. And he polled 37,000 more than Republican Eugene Slier did in 1951.

Chandler carried seven of the state's eight Congressional Districts by these margins:

First 29,433; Second, 29,613; Third, 2,855; Fourth, 23,937; Fifth, 18,965; Sixth, 29,726, and Seventh, 14,187.

Denney carried his home district,

Phone Firm To Sell Stock REA Requires In Effecting Grant

Representatives of the Harold Telephone Company were offering stock in the company to the public this week as a necessary requirement to receive the recently granted $337,000 loan from the Rural Electrification Administration. The amount of additional capital required by the REA was set at $23,000, Paul Gearheart, president of the company, said.

Gearheart told The Times this week that the loan would enable the company to rebuild all of its lines now providing magneto service to subscribers, and to add 107 miles of new line. The new lines will serve an additional 845 subscribers, who have not heretofore had access to telephone service, Gearheart said.

The stock offered the public is common, selling at a par of $50 per share. "We would like to distribute this stock widely to the general public," Gearheart said. "Actually, though several persons have intimated they would like a considerable block of it, I feel like a sale of the stock to a great number of persons would better serve our development program."

Two agents empowered by the company to sell stock are Gearheart and Claybourn Bailey, of Justice.

A $750,000 loan was made last week to the Licking Valley Rural Electric Co-operative Corporation, West Liberty recently. It will finance construction of 200 miles of distribution line to serve 600 new rural customers and increase capacity for 900 consumers now served.

BANK SHOWS COAL DECLINE

Cleveland Reserve Bank Reviews Coal Production In East Kentucky Field

A review of the decline in the coal industry in Eastern Kentucky by the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland contains gloomy statistics for the last year but offers hope for the industry in the future.

The analysis, ending on a less dismal note, said: "The outlook for the coal industry generally appears to be somewhat improved."

The article, in a monthly business review of the bank, pointed to the increase in Eastern Kentucky production for the first half of this year as being about ten percent higher than last year. Actually in the field represented by the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Operators Association the increase is greater than that as that organization's most recent report showed a climb over last year of slightly more than 30 percent.

The bank's statistics review the big decline since 1947. "During 1947 production in the Eastern Kentucky field reached 6.1 million tons. By 1954 production had dropped 39 percent to 37.6 million tons. The decline in production has not been steady throughout the span of years although total production declined each year from 1951 through 1954. During the first half of the current year (1955), however, production has been running about ten percent ahead of the 1954 pace.

"The bulk of coal output from the Eastern Kentucky field comes from seven counties in the area, each of which produced over one million tons in 1954. Altogether these counties extracted 30.7 million tons during the year or 82 percent of the total for the area. Production during 1954 was well below the 1946 rates for each of the counties. . . . with the exception of Leslie county where production in 1954 was five times as great as in the earlier year."

The review says that Harlan county was the top coal producer in the Eastern Kentucky field throughout the post-war period, but Pike held the lead in the 1947, 1948 and 1949. Harlan produced 8.9 million tons last year, and Pike totaled up 5.5 million tons.

"There is some indication," the analysis says, "that the rate of loss of coal markets to competitive fuels has tended to level off in recent years. Likewise, the loss of export markets appears to have run its course. It is considered by many observers that increased consumption of coal by electric utilities should more than offset any further losses to competing fuels and result in continued net gains in total coal production."

The most recent report by the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Operators Association, which represents the major mines in this area, issued for the week ending Nov. 5, while showing an increase of over 30 percent above last year's corresponding period, did show a decline from a total of 7,045.8 cars of an average 50 tons for the week ending Oct. 29 to a figure of 6,346 cars.

Total tonnage produced by the Association mines to Nov. 5 stands at 11,154,780 but last year it was for the corresponding period only 8,573,000 tons.

Chemical sprays were used to kill cattails on the farms of M. O. Ward and Hildreth Platt in Harrison county.

Sheep Are Profitable On Most Kentucky Farms

Sheep have been profitable in Kentucky every year for more than a half century. So states the Extension Service of the UK College of Agriculture and Home Economics. They have made money even in depression years.

Most general farms are said to have fencing, shelter and much of the equipment needed for sheep. There should be at least three pasture fields, so pasture rotation can be followed. Tobacco barns often can be used for sheep at lambing time and in severe weather. Feed rucks can be put in them at small cost. A phenothiazine-salt feeder is considered necessary to keep the flock free from worms.

Other States Taking Teachers Trained Here

Kentucky taxpayers have invested approximately $10,000,000 in educational funds to train teachers for other states and for other professions and fields of work during the last three years. N. O. Kimbler, secretary of the Kentucky Teacher Retirement System, estimated this week.

"These losses have a demoralizing effect upon intelligent and ambitious people who are trying to remain in the profession," observed Kimbler. "In many cases, we have allowed a dime to cover up a dollar and not only do the children suffer the loss, but the entire economy of the state suffers."

"The taxpayers makes no saving by maintaining a schedule of revenue under which it is not possible to pay teachers of the public schools and colleges a living wage, and which causes them to feel they are justified in accepting a position in a neighboring state."

Kimber's conclusions were drawn from a report which showed that during the last year more than 2,000 Kentucky teachers quit teaching in Kentucky and during the last three years 4,982 quit.

What happened to the teachers? More than 25 per cent of them, 593, gave no reason, except absence.

The remaining 1,614 teachers included 325 who accepted positions in other states where teacher salaries are higher with Ohio drawing 104 of the number; California, 12; Florida, 24; Illinois, 28; Indiana, 36; Tennessee, 34. Altogether, Kentucky supplied teachers to 32 other states and three foreign countries.

Other professions, too, profited materially by drawing upon Kentucky's supply of teachers. The state lost 187 persons to enter state or federal service, professional or clerical work and, included 35 who entered the ministry.

The remaining 1,427 included 294 who quit to look after family duties; 24 entered private business, 10 became farmers and 212 wives transferred to other states on account of their husbands' work requiring them to leave Kentucky.

"It is our opinion that other states are enticing our teachers away by reason of better working conditions and better salaries at a greater rate than our teachers' training institutions can train teachers," Kimbler continued.

"Teachers' salaries in Kentucky are lower and in many cases not more than half as much as salaries in surrounding states."

General Fund Revenue
Up To $26,539,775 Total
In Year's Third Quarter

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 17—General Fund revenue into the State Treasury totaled $26,539,775 for the fourth month period of the fiscal year through October, a 27.8 per cent increase over last year's same period total of $20,764,037, the Commissioners of Finance and Revenue reported. Road fund collections for the period were $21,104,912, compared with $17,873,100 for the same period a year ago.

The current collection lead, however, is temporary in nature, in the opinion of both officials, and will be completely wiped out by end of the fiscal year next June 30.

"Most of the additional individual income tax revenue produced by adoption of the withholding system was collected during closing months of the last fiscal year which ended June 30," both Commissioner of Finance George T. Stewart and Commissioner of Revenue Robert H. Alphin reported. "A similar heavy concentration of tax payments will not occur this fiscal year."

October general fund collections were $5,047,836 down 1.6 per cent from October 1954, due to a reduction in distilled spirits, beer and wine consumption taxes. Road fund receipts for the month were $6,567,714.94.

On 24 4-H club entries from Oldham county at the State Fair in September 23, blue ribbons and one red one were won.

Safe Driving Awards Given 40 Troopers

Charles C. Oldham, commissioner of Kentucky State Police has announced that more than four million miles of safe driving has been logged by 40 Kentucky state troopers who received the department's first 100,000 mile safe driving awards here this week.

Among these were Trooper Elmer Deaton, of Jackson, and Detective Walter Wood, of Manchester.

Awards presented were for mileage compiled since the department's driver award program was started in July 1952. Safe driving pins are also presented to state policemen upon completion of 25,000 and 50,000 mile accident free periods.

Accidents in which the trooper is not at fault are not charged against his safe driving record. A special board determines fault in all State Police accidents.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

(The views expressed herein do not necessarily reflect the views of The Times.)

One of the best programs presented on the Good World Hour over WPRF was that of last week, under the able direction of Mr. Bob Wallace, Bookmobile director. Mr. Wallace has given many overtime hours to his work, free. He must have felt partially repaid last Saturday, when he heard a school girl say she has read forty books this fall from his mobile, and she has only seven of her own at home. He heard another fifth-grader, also from Upper Cow Creek school, say he had read thirty since school opened. The boy has just four books to call his own. It is humanly impossible to conceive of the good the Bookmobile will accomplish here in years of time.

The entire program was splendid. County Superintendent Turner added much to it. Mrs. Kenneth Caldwell, teacher of the school mentioned, explained how she directs the interest of her pupils in reading good books. Norman Allen, who has always insisted he is no speaker, surprised many by appearing on the program and gave a discussion on comic books every parents should hear. Only last week Homer Wright, another fine parent, remarked that he and Mrs. Wright first check any comic books their youngsters choose to read, to make sure they are not the harmful type.

Mrs. Belvard Friend says when relatives or friends give their children books or other gifts, she sees to it that Susan and Gilva Anne know who gave the gifts to them. This means much to children and provides enrichment for donor and recipient. If you want to see something worthy of an encore watch Gilva Anne, (two years old) call, "Quiet, please!" when she finds competition from visitors or the TV hard to manage. She is a born mimic.

It is hoped more Good World Programs will be in the form of panels, as part of this one was. When your organization is invited to provide a program for the Good World Hour, please be prompt in replying and dependable in rendering it. This program is of, by and for Floyd countyans. A complete schedule for 1956 is now being planned, with a few tentative openings reserved for unforeseen events.

Word comes of a duplicate stone wash basin, like the ones offered by Mrs. W. P. Mayo, if a log cabin is built to house mountain lore. It is said to be a hundred years old, and its owner says former slaves of the Mayo family made it in early times. Unless the county soon takes an interest in preserving these curios they will be gone and forgotten. Many have grand ideas about the cabin proposed by Mrs. Bob Martin, a citizen of vision. This column frequently reports suggestions collected from various sources.

Congressman John M. Robison, Jr., (R.) made some important statements to the Louisville Chamber of Commerce last week. "Things are not nearly as satisfactory as a whole as some would like to believe. Certain fundamental things are not all right, although business is now very good. A great many people believe all the answers to the problems can be found in the Federal Government. But lots of folks feel, like I do, the answers are somewhere else, probably at home. A whole generation of people have the wrong conception of the role of the government. Almost everyone wants more government assistance. Too many think the outgo and income of the government are unrelated. When the government spends a dollar it must earn a dollar or borrow it with interest."

Instead of thinking how much we can obtain from the government we would need to see how little we can require. Pay-day is coming come time. More than one nation has been caught by an enemy when top-heavy with debts. Many believe a work program should be instituted now, because of the vast number receiving aid. Every handout robs a man of something precious and irreplaceable. Numbers of school pupils growing up have been heard to say, "If I don't pass and get thru school I'll just do like Mom and Dad, live off Uncle Sam!"

A prominent citizen was heard to comment that many who are living of the government spend a sizeable sum for amusements, tobacco, and non-essentials. He did not mean in any given county, or state, but in a general sense. All of us know such cases. These aspects of relief are worth pondering.

Tune in Saturday at 9:30 to hear members from the Presbyterian Church of Prestonsburg present a program on National Bible Week.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Floyd County Times:
Floyd county ministers do not look at the alcohol problem in an intelligent and comprehensive manner when they give their 100 per cent endorsement of getting tough with bootleggers. Suppose all the bootleggers—and taxi-leggers—were instantly made powerless to dispense their beverage. Those who drink would have their alcohol by some means, anyway, whether it was an unpalatable bay rum or vitals, or whether they would have to journey clear to Elkhorn City, which is legally wet, and much smarter.

Anyone possessing good common sense, or even horse sense, should know there is only one intelligent approach and only one adequate solution to the problems of alcohol, sots and bootleggers. If the majority of voters were smart enough, they could do away with the bootleggers by legally voting the country wet.

They also could partially eliminate the sots if they would elect officials who would inaugurate youth programs and work projects for the idle. Certainly the gospel, the law, not even the entire federal government, can stop bootlegging when there is a demand for his product.

I read a news item where the recuperating Eisenhower asked for a Scotch and soda. He said it was not for medicinal purpose, but wanted it because he liked it. Many people take a drink, or a bottle of beer, not to get drunk but because they like it. They cannot do it here for fear of breaking a stupid law. If Eisenhower had been recuperating here he would have had to acted a criminal to get a drink.

Leaders should become wise enough to lick the alcohol problem with enlightened views. They should not resort to ways which have been tried and disastrously proved to be failures.

What we need is a little more common sense, and a little horse sense thrown in for good measure.
Glenn M. Clarke,
Prestonsburg, Ky.

MEETING DATE SET NOV. 21

Budget Bureau Officials, Clements, Congressman, To Discuss Waterways

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 — Senator Earle C. Clements said today that he and other Kentucky congressmen will meet November 21 with top Budget Bureau officials to urge budget planning that will speed development of Kentucky waterways.

The Kentucky Democrat said the need for a speed-up was shown by mounting flood damage, failure to capitalize on navigation, wasting of water-storage potentialities and recreational benefits, and growing siltation and water-pollution problems.

Clements said the Kentucky delegation would urge the fastest possible completion of the Big Sandy River survey. He said that the Budget Bureau last year had budgeted only a token amount.

"Congress, recognizing the importance of the survey, doubled the appropriation, enabling the completion of the survey in half the time recommended by the Budget Bureau," he said.

The delegation also will insist upon construction starting on the Buckhorn reservoir in the upper reaches of the Kentucky River, he said. Planning funds appropriated last year have made the project ready for construction in the coming fiscal year, he added.

Congress has proposed completion of the Kentucky River survey in three years although last year the Budget Bureau recommended from seven to eight years, he said. The Kentuckians will ask for enough money to keep pace with the accelerated program outlined by Congress, Clements said.

Because of increasing tonnage traffic on the Ohio River renovation and replacement of obsolete navigational structures will be stressed at the meeting, he said.

Another item to be pushed is funds to continue construction of the Catlettsburg floodwall at the confluence of the Big Sandy and Ohio river, he added.

In addition to the river projects, Clements said he will urge increased funds for the small watershed program now administered by the Department of Agriculture through the Soil Conservation Service.

"A full program for conserving our natural resources through stream development requires that this program be implemented by substantial funds and a realistic policy on the part of the Administration," Clements declared.

Besides himself, Clements said the budget session will be attended by — or their representatives — Senator Barkley and Representative Watts, Perkins, Natcher, Gregory, and Chelf.

Pikeville College Bears To Entertain The Marines In Home Game on Feb. 18.

Pikeville, Ky., Nov. 17 — The Pikeville College Bears will entertain the Quantico Marines, champion of last March's All-Marine basketball tournament, in one of two additions to Pikeville's schedule, it was announced today.

The Bears will meet the Quantico cagers here Feb. 18, 1956, John E. Renfro, Pikeville coach, said. They are to appear on a double bill with the Pikeville high school Panthers, who will host Hindman, Ky., high school the same evening.

The other addition is a return game with Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, N. C., to be played on the Carolinians' floor Friday, Nov. 25. Atlantic Christian was already booked to play at Pikeville Dec. 19.

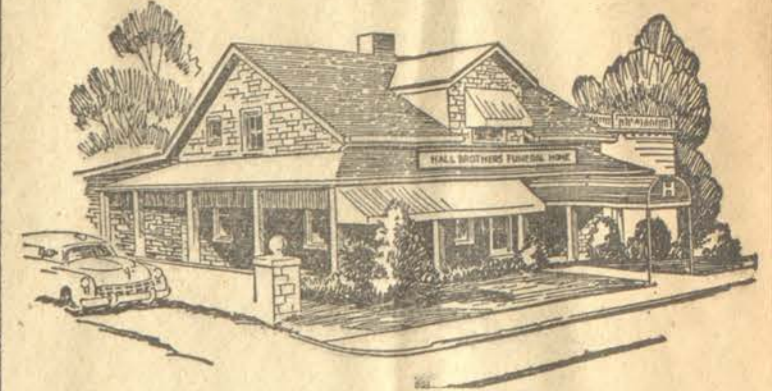

A shift in the Bears' schedule calls for them to meet the Sue Bennett College Green Dragons, at London, Ky., Jan. 23 instead of Feb. 18, as originally scheduled, Renfro said.

Records of Brothers Fuel for Arguments

Two of the four Hughes brother have completed their gridiron careers at Prestonsburg high school, but regular halfback Paul Phillip has his junior and senior years left and seventh-grader Francis Carroll will seek his first letter next year.

An attempt to compare the individual and varied abilities of John Delmar, now a junior quarterback on the University of Kentucky team, and brother Lowell, who two weeks ago played his last game for Prestonsburg High, will create an argument almost any place in this section.

Both quarterbacks on the local elevens in seasons past, John Delmar was an all-state quarterback in 1951 and '52 and was named the outstanding player in the '51 Recreation Bowl game at Mt. Sterling.

Lowell was captain of the all-state team in his junior season last year, and shared the outstanding player award in the Mt. Sterling affair with Lafayette's Doug Shively.

In 28 games at Prestonsburg high, John Delmar completed 271 of 397 passes for 3,401 yards, 51 of his passes going for touchdowns. He scored 25 touchdowns and kicked 67 extra points for a three-year total of 217 points.

Three years later, Lowell rewrote the majority of his big brother's records, not counting the five games he played as a freshman and the 30 points he scored that year.

Outside of his freshman season, Lowell passed 347 times with 225 completions for 3,482 yards. Thirty-six of his passes went for touchdowns. He tallied 46 himself and kicked 46 extra points for 262 counters.

Thus, Delmar had a better passing percentage of 68% to 64% for Lowell, hurled 15 more scoring passes, kicked 21 more extra points, but Lowell scored 11 more touchdowns and holds a 75-point edge in total scoring and 31 yards gained passing. J. Thurman Hughes, Prestonsburg automobile dealer and father of the youths, rates Lowell the better runner, blocker and defensive star, but gives the edge in passing and kicking to Delmar. He saw the youths play every game in high school, except one of Lowell's game when he was in Memphis watching Delmar play with the University of Kentucky.

Both are top-flight basketball players and Lowell, who averaged 25 points a game last season, will be on hand this season. Delmar finished his senior cage season with a 28.9 average for 27 games.

Brother No. 3, Paul Phillip, was a halfback on this year's football team, but next season he will be the chief aspirant for the quarterback spot.

Lowell is virtually a cinch to retain his place on the 1955 Kentucky high school all-state team.

Rabbit and Quail Hunters May Open Fire Nov. 19

Kentucky's rabbit and quail hunters will literally get their first shots at their favorite target on Saturday, Nov. 19, with indications of good supplies of both rabbits and quail in the fields. Already waterfowl hunters are seeking out the ducks and geese and with the opening of the rabbit, quail and ruffed grouse season Kentucky's hunting picture will be complete.

In addition to the quail, rabbit and ruffed grouse season opening, the second phase of the squirrel season will also open on November 19. This season will end on December 16, while the season for rabbits, quail and ruffed grouse will extend through January 17.

Preliminary reports from throughout the state indicate an abundant supply of rabbits and birds in all sections, with the rabbit numbers probably being greater than for last year and with the quail population at least as great as last year. Duck and geese hunters are finding a good supply of waterfowl but the main flights apparently have not arrived in Kentucky.

The hunter may take eight rabbits for his daily limit and may have in his possession a total of 16 after two or more days of hunting. The daily limit for quail is 10 with a possession limit of 20 after two or more days of hunting. For grouse the daily limit is two and the possession limit double that amount. Six squirrel may be killed per day with a possession limit of 12 after two or more days of hunting.

ALL-STATE TIME

The 33rd annual Courier-Journal all-state high school football team will be announced Sunday, December 4, along with the Kentucky high school Coach of the Year. The Coach-of-the-Year award will be a close choice between Pikeville's Clayton Powers and Corbin's Bill Tucker.

Favorite nominees for all-state team from Eastern Kentucky high schools are: quarterback Lowell Hughes, Prestonsburg; halfback, H. L. Justice, and end Everett Justice, both of Pikeville; fullback, Robert Meade, Whitesburg; and guard, Gary Dean Long, Whitesburg.

All-Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference teams will not be selected until Sunday, since the annual loop gathering was postponed from last week until that time.

CASSADY THE BEST

After watching Ohio State's all-American halfback Howard "Hop-Along" Cassidy perform in Columbus last Saturday, we are convinced he is the greatest running back in modern-day football. He tallied all three touchdowns as Ohio State beat Iowa, 20-10, in a bruising battle, and gained 191 yards rushing.

CLAIM STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Pikeville fans and school officials are laying claim to the Kentucky high school football championship, or at least a share of it. They contend that one man in Louisville, who sees very few high school team play, has little right to select one team for the mythical crown. Kentucky is one of the few states in the union that does not have a play-off for the crown, nor a system of choosing the best team.

If Wayland's Kelly Coleman continues to score at his present pace, 144 points in three games, he may become the top high school scorer in the United States. The sensational senior unquestionably has one of the finest shooting eyes in the game today.

HUGE THROG

The 5,286 football fans who witnessed Pikeville's 28-7 conquest of Harlan in Paintsville's fifth annual Big Sandy Bowl game last Friday night, was the largest crowd ever gathered for a football game in Eastern Kentucky.

ANNUAL TOURNAMENT

Floyd county's annual pre-season cage tournament, with Palmer Dunbar included this season, will open in Wayland, November 29 and run through December 3.

More than 2,000 soil samples have been tested in Fleming county this year, and nearly 9,000 in five years.

TEAMS SHARE EARLY LEAD

Wildcats and Wasps Van 15th Region Net Parade; Coleman Scores 50 Points

The Wayland Wasps and Maytown Wildcats, two 58th district contenders, are the early-season pacemakers in the 15th region basketball race.

"Copper" John Campbell's Wasps stung Carr Creek, 70-68, and stopped Wheelwright's three-game string 100-75 over the past weekend. The phenomenal shooting of Kelly Coleman, who tallied 42 points, helped Wayland overcome a 51-49 deficit to conquer Carr Creek.

Coleman, six-foot-three-inch, 215-pound guard, came roaring back on Saturday night and tossed in 50 points as Wayland coasted by Wheelwright after piling up a 73-54 three-quarter margin. Thus in three games, Coleman has scored 144 points for a 48-point per game average.

Maytown spoiled Auxier's three-game streak with a 84-79 decision as center Bill Caudill and guard Glennis Ramey pitched in 25 and 23 points, respectively. Saturday night, Ray Heinisch's team won its fourth game by overrunning Salyersville, 78-65, as Caudill was high for the victors with 22.

Oil Springs, of the 60th district opened its season with a 78-54 conquest of Blaine and in two other games Salyersville split, winning over Hazel Green Academy, 69-51, and bowing 79-62 to Martin. Senior Guard Delmar Thompson outpointed Salyersville's Roger Gillum, 38 to 20.

Merle Mickell has made a successful debut at Morgan County as his squad has copped its first two games, 89-31 over Hazel Green Academy and 51-49 over Frenchburg. In other games in the region, McDowell lost, 70-69, to Martin, Garrett fell before Wheelwright and Johns Creek topped McDowell, 48-36.

BANQUET IS SCHEDULED

Members of the University of Kentucky's football squad and their coaches will be honored at an annual banquet to be given on Tuesday, Nov. 22, by the UK Alumni Association. The affair is scheduled for 5:45 p.m. in the UK Student Union Building, and reservations must be made by noon Monday, Nov. 21. Included in the program will be the presentation of watches to senior members of the squad.

Industrialist Claims Ky. Must Improve Its Labor And Industrial Status

A top Kentucky industrialist called for a "more favorable industrial and labor climate" in the state during an address delivered last week at the University of Kentucky.

The speaker, Lester H. Means, director of manager-employee and plant community relations at the General Electric Company Appliance Park plant in Louisville, spoke before a student group in the UK College of Commerce. He challenged both politicians and union leaders to become "more concerned with the things necessary" for a better climate.

UK Historian Chosen 'Distinguished Prof.'

A University of Kentucky historian and author, Dr. Clement Eaton, has been selected by his fellow faculty members as the UK College of Arts and Sciences' "Distinguished Professor of the Year."

He is the 12th member of the college to receive the award since it was established in 1944 as a means of recognizing outstanding academic achievement. Faculty members winning this honor are given a semester free of teaching duties to conduct research of their own choosing and to prepare the annual Arts and Sciences Lecture.

Dr. Eaton was relieved of teaching duties during the current fall semester in order that he might accept a grant from the Huntington Library at San Marino, Calif., to engage in research in the library's manuscript collections. Under terms of the Huntington grant, the UK author-historian will write a social and cultural history of the South to be a volume in the New American Statesman Series.

Grand Jury's Report Is Held Privileged By Court of Appeals

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 17 — The Kentucky Court of Appeals held a report of a grand jury is privileged matter, subject to publication as a matter of public interest and concern by a newspaper.

It upheld dismissal by Circuit Judge Ira D. Smith, of $50,000 damage suits brought by former Hopkinsville City Commissioner Joe G. Davis and Chief of Police James Edward Greenfield growing out of a Federal grand jury report in October 1952 which charged both with commission of crimes while in office, through no indictments were returned and no criminal prosecutions started. The suits were directed against The Louisville Courier-Journal and Times for publishing the report.

The court held that such a report is privileged, a part of a judicial proceeding, and those reprinting it are not subject to damages for so doing.

"It has been recognized in Kentucky that publication of a report of judicial proceedings by a third party is privileged," Commissioner Watson Clay wrote. "It would impose an unreasonable burden upon newspapers or others who wish to report on public proceedings to require them to determine at their own risk whether a court of grand jury was acting within or without its powers in a proceeding over which it clearly had apparent jurisdiction."

Pediatric Cancer Clinic Opened for Indigents

The Kentucky Division, American Cancer Society, in cooperation with Children's Hospital, Louisville, has opened a pediatric cancer clinic for medically indigent patients under the age of 18.

Medically indigent children under the age of 18, with a symptom suggestive of cancer, may be referred to this clinic that is in session each Tuesday at 1:00 p.m. It is held at Children's Hospital, 226 E. Chestnut, Louisville. The referring physician may make an appointment through Israel Diamond, M. D., Director of the Children's Cancer Clinic, 226 E. Chestnut, Louisville 2.

When absolutely necessary, transportation costs of the patient and one attendant will be cared for by the Kentucky Division, but it is requested that the Division not be asked to pay for transportation except in the very most urgent cases. Funds for this purpose were given by the "CRUSADE FOR OUR CHILDREN" program sponsored by WHAS-TV.

Private patients may be referred to the cancer clinic but will be charged for any services rendered.

HIGH INCOME IS REFLECTED

In Floyd County Spending Sales Management States; Local Food Bill Is High

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 — With incomes of Floyd county residents running at a high level, the questions arise: How much of this money are they spending? Where are they spending it and for what?

Answers to the questions are contained in a copyrighted study made by Sales Management of the spending habits of people locally and in other parts of the country. Put under the spotlight are each community's purchases of foods, autos, general merchandise and the like.

In Floyd county most of the earnings in 1954 went into the cash registers of the local retail stores. These expenditures produced retail business in the amount of $22,965,000 for the year.

The chief buying emphasis was on food, which took 25 cents of each dollar spent in the local stores.

The volume of such purchases indicates a trend toward more luxurious living. Floyd county's food bill, in meat markets, grocery stores, delicatessens and such, came to $5,829,000 in the year. Divided equally among the local families, this amounted to $544 per family.

The local ability to indulge in more and better food is but one facet of an overall improvement in the standard of living.

Luxury buying in Floyd county was indicated also in outlets selling new and used cars, farm machinery and other automotive equipment. Such sales ran to $5,209,000, accounting for another 23 cents of the retail dollar.

Another outlet was in general merchandise stores, including department and variety stores. The volume was $4,719,000, amounting to 20 cents.

Local sales of furniture, household equipment and radio and music supplies were $2,137,000, equal to nine cents.

Drug store operations came to $327,000, for a little more than an additional one cent.

How to be sure you are making the best buy in a new truck

➤ A new truck is an important investment. If you want to be sure you're getting the best buy, you've got to consider a lot of things: price, power, operating economy, good appearance—to mention only a few.

➤ Take price, for instance. Wouldn't it help you to know that you can buy a Dodge for surprisingly little money? Could be you didn't know Dodge trucks cost less than most other makes.

➤ Wouldn't it help you, too, to get the whole picture on truck power? The fact that Dodge Power-Dome V-8's outpower every other leading truck in the low- and medium-tonnage fields surely is important to your decision.

➤ And there are other Dodge advantages you'll want to think about—like the business-building beauty of Forward Look styling, and the long life that spreads low initial cost over years of dependable service.

➤ It all adds up to this: To be sure of your best truck buy, take a few minutes to talk to your Dodge dealer. Just a phone call will put the wheels in motion.

THE TALKING SKELETON

On October 31, 1940, a group was sitting around the courthouse steps and step arms, discussing the possibility of an early winter and, maybe, a hard one, when Martin Salyer turned in from Main street and flopped down as a member of the assembly.

I had my notebook on my knee jotting down something that was being discussed. Martin set his eyes on my writing.

"I was thinking about you the other night," he said. "Knowned you was always taking down old tales and such. Got to going back over things I'd heard the old folks tell and remembered one that my grandfather used to tell. He called it the tale of the talking skeleton and when he told it my hair would stand straight upon end, and me a right smart boy.

"Grandfather said his daddy was a great hunter and one day he took grandfather with him. They hunted all day and then made them a torch out of pineknot and hunted home.

"Going along, they heard something scream like a panther. His daddy told him to stand still that maybe it was a panther. So they were a-standing there, listening, when all at once, something come right out of the dark; looked just like a person but hit didn't have any flesh on its bones. Just a plain old skeleton. Said hit held out its boney hand and said, 'I'm a bee, follow me!'

"Grandfather said his daddy told him to stay where he was and he'd go with it and see what hit wanted. Seemed as if the old man couldn't help following it.

"Grandfather was afraid to stay by himself, so he eased along after them. Went on a right smart piece. Then the skeleton stopped and turned around and begin to talk to the old man and, even in the dark, grandfather could see his daddy was nervous an excited, turning pale. He was trying to argue with the thing, or begging it to do something or not to do something.

"They started on again. Come to a little branch. When the old man stepped across the water the skeleton just seemed to turn into a white mist and go floating away and he heard a voice, right in the mist, it seemed, saying, 'I'm a bee.' Then grandfather sort of come to hisself, rubbed his eyes and looked for his daddy, and his daddy was down on his knees a-praying, like he'd never heard him pray before. And hit was the darkest time, right then, he ever seed in his life.

"Grandfather said his daddy would never tell what the skeleton said to him. Said he didn't, ever want to talk about it. Said that the old man took down just after that and didn't live no time."
