

THURSDAY

This Town— That World

Eastern Kentucky has been neglected, forgotten, passed up and by-passed while other more favored spots received their largesse, but one thing we can't say—we can't say we've been left high and dry.

YOUNG MEN GONE WEST

Reminiscent of the old days when the big migration from Floyd county was almost wholly westward are those court cases here marked "Dismissed—GTT".

The "GTT" means, "Gone to Texas."

THE CHANGE IS FOR THE WORSE

Here it is jiggling time, and the driest thing around this office after the flood is my fishing line. Why it is that every year I get started fishing a little later, I am unable to explain. It couldn't be that I'm getting old. But things have come to such a pass that, these days, those who do go fishing and catch fish don't run all out of breath to show me their catch just to see me grow green around the gills with envy.

For instance: It wasn't till Tuesday of this week that they called from the Brandy Keg Boat Dock to give this report:

Dow Cook, of Topmost, landed a 4-pound, 12-ounce bass, Feb. 11, then came back last Saturday to snare three more, the largest of which weighed in at 5 1/2 pounds. His string of four weighed 11 pounds, 12 ounces. And next day Walter Meek, of Paintsville, caught four which weighed nine pounds.

THE ACCOLADE

There emerged from the recent flood at Pikeville the Honorable Order of Mudhens, and it appears to be a right goodly company. The Eastern Kentucky Beverage Company issued to those who had helped so well in the cleaning-up, mop-

KNOTT WOMAN WRECK VICTIM

Crash Tuesday Night Near Maytown Costs Life of Mrs. Huff

Mrs. Velma Gearheart Huff, 33, of Garner, Knott county, died in an auto mishap at the Wilson Creek bridge near Maytown, Tuesday night. She was alone in the car and was driving south on Ky. 80 when the tragedy occurred.

Investigators after hearing the crash found the car had left the road near the bridge, struck two signs, one of them concrete, and then careened 84 feet across the bridge. It was demolished, according to James Carter, coroner.

Death resulted instantly from chest injuries, Carter said, and the time of the crash was fixed at approximately 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Huff was a daughter of the late Mrs. Molly Gearheart and the wife of Carlos Huff, who survives. One son, Phillip, a sister, Mrs. Eloise Pratt, of Garner, and two brothers, Warren and Agnell, also survive.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete Wednesday. Burial will be made at Garner, it was said at the Hindman Funeral Home.

Flood Control Work Here Expected Soon

THREE PLANS FOR PROJECT ARE STUDIED

Installations Proposed Would Afford Protection Near Recent Flood Level

Flood protection for most of Prestonsburg, with work on the project to begin this year, was considered a certainty this week after representatives of the U. S. Corps of Engineers' district office in Huntington, W. Va., conferred Monday night with Mayor Harry Sandige, other city officials and citizens.

The meeting was called Monday night after reports had reached the Corps of Engineers that Prestonsburg might pass up the federal government's recent offer of aid on flood control and wait for a more extensive program whereby protection would be given outlying districts as well as Prestonsburg proper.

This latter program, however, is one that may be several years being realized, and officials told the Engineers that the city is interested in getting all possible protection now.

Three plans have been prepared for Prestonsburg flood control, and these are now in the hands of the chief of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, Washington, D. C. The basic federal expenditure here would be $296,000, and this or any other amount below $400,000 can be expended on a community flood control project without Congressional approval or appropriation. So immediate action on the local project is expected.

The plans already prepared call for flood protection to elevation 635 feet for all of Prestonsburg proper on the east side of the Big Sandy except a row of buildings at the rear of the Jackson Furniture Company in the Porter Addition, it was said. The recent flood level, engineers said, stood at 636.55 elevation, and the proposed installation would afford protection from all floods except those of the proportions of the recent disaster.

After plans for the work are approved by the Chief of the Corps of Engineers, they will be returned

WAYLAND SUIT HITS NEW ACT

Citizens Would Annul Ordinance; Hall Suit Asks $51,400 Damage

The move to dissolve the charter of the town of Wayland entered its third phase last week as 18 persons filed suit in circuit court seeking to prevent the town's Board of Trustees from lopping off from the corporate limits of Wayland the sections in which they reside.

To begin with, a petition was filed here bearing what was claimed to be the signatures of a majority of the legal voters of Wayland, and asking Circuit Judge Hill to dissolve the town charter.

The same week, the Board of Trustees enacted an ordinance designed to lop off from Wayland the Stamper Branch and Shop Fork areas where many of those who signed the petition reside.

Last week the suit was filed seeking to void the ordinance. The suit, prepared by Atty. W. W. Burchett for Arthur Mosely and others, claims that Shop Fork and Stamper Branch are integral parts of Wayland, that the town could not properly function without these two areas, and that they are so much a part of Wayland that if they are deleted the corporation should be dissolved.

In another circuit court action, filed Monday, a total of $51,400 is asked by Homer Hall as the result of a three-way auto collision near Eastern, Feb. 16. Hall, whose petition was prepared by Cordell H. Martin, of Hindman, claims $50,000 for personal injuries, $700 medical and hospital bill and $700 damage to his car.

The petition alleges negligence on the part of James A. Rice and Riley Tuttle. It claims that Rice drove his car into the rear of Hall's auto on a curve, and that when Tuttle stopped in front of the Hall car it jammed into Tuttle's. A crushed knee and broken right leg were listed among the plaintiff's injuries.

New Bibles Available Free, Rev. Dorsey Says

The American Bible Society, of Cincinnati, announced this week through Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, pastor of the First Methodist church here, that all flood-damaged Bibles will be replaced free. All that is necessary, the Methodist pastor said, to bring the old Bible in, get a certificate from your pastor and send it in.

INJURED PAIR SEEK $32,000

Widow of Lafon Ball, Alley Are Plaintiffs In Johnson-co. Suit

Separate suits filed in Hite Johnson circuit court by Mavis Ball, widow of Lafon Ball, and Billy Dean Alley seek to recover from the Detroit Automobile Inter-Insurance Exchange and Emil Juntunen, administrator of Lafon Ball's estate, a total of $32,000.

The suits, prepared by Atty. Bert T. Combs, are the outgrowth of an automobile wreck Oct. 27, last, near Hazer Hill in which Lafon Ball was killed and Mrs. Ball and Alley were critically injured.

At the time of the tragedy Lafon Ball had an insurance policy with the Detroit company which agreed to pay medical expenses not exceeding $500 for each person injured while in the insured auto, regardless of the fault or negligence of the insured or the driver of the car.

Mrs. Ball asks $21,000, claiming total and permanent injuries. Alley's suit is for $11,000. He claims permanent partial disability.

HISTORY BODY FORMED HERE

First Historical Society Organized in Big Sandy Elects Officers Friday

Several months effort to organize a regional historical society in Eastern Kentucky resulted in its formal launching here last Friday afternoon at the grade school. Officers were elected for a three-year period and plans were advanced for a banquet June 1. The organization is the first of its kind in the Big Sandy valley.

Plans for the banquet at the Prestonsburg grade school auditorium were announced by Chalmers H. Frazier, who was elected president of the organization, tentatively named the Eastern Kentucky Historical Society. Mrs. Wilma May, formerly of Langley, now of Tollesboro, Ky., will be in charge of arrangements, it was said. Three outstanding Floyd county men will be named at a meeting next day, Sunday, June 2, at 3 p. m., to be honored for their contributions in their respective fields of endeavor.

Two prominent Kentucky speakers will attend the June 1-2 affairs it was announced at last Friday's meet. Acceptance of the speakers was being sought definitely by the organization.

Officers named at last week's meet for the three-year term, to begin June 1, besides Frazier as president, are Henry P. Seal, vice-president, Mrs. Evelyn Salisbury, treasurer, Mrs. Robert Martin, secretary, and Mrs. Winnie Johns, chairman of the archives committee. A board of regents will be set up, two from each county comprising the original Floyd county, and a chairman will be named by themselves at the June 1 meet. The vice-president was named secretary of the board of regents.

Business transacted at the meeting, besides the election of permanent officers, were the secretary, and treasurer's report and directing the vice-president to seek acceptances to serve as regents.

Church To Distribute Remainder of Clothing

The remainder of the donated clothing sent here to aid flood-stricken families has been turned over to Rev. Howard Church, of the Abbott Road, for distribution to needy persons, it was said this week. Rev. Church urges ministers of any church, if they have need for clothing for needy children, to come to his home and select apparel for them.

RADIO STATION PERMIT ASKED

Collins Expects Second Station Here Operating Soon; Osborne, Manager

Application has been filed by Gordon Collins, of Lackey, with the Federal Communications Commission for permit to put into operation here a second radio station.

The proposed station would be of 5,000-watts power, broadcasting daytime only, and would be at the 1310 kc. spot.

Mr. Collins, a hardware dealer at Lackey and a brother of Sheriff Gorman Collins, said he expects the station to be on the air within three months.

As soon as the FCC issues a construction permit work will begin on a studio and other station installations on the Porter property at Cliff, above the level of the recent flood. The outside building, he said, will be large enough to accommodate civic groups and other gatherings for public meetings.

Rex Osborne, former manager of Radio Station WPRT here, will manage the new station. Collins said the station will employ 10 persons.

Collins and Osborne pointed out this week that the new radio station proposes to make time available for citizens to present their views on public issues without regard to the side of the issue taken. Public service programs will be stressed.

RANGER CITES '56 FIRE TOLL

Turner Says Blazes Damaged 4,536 Acres In County Last Year

Ninety-four forest fires burned over 4,536 acres in this county last year, according to Roe Turner, forest ranger. The suppression cost to the state was $2,182.67, he added.

These forest fires, comparing favorably with the preceding year, resulted in seven convictions or suppression costs paid. The Stephens Elkhorn Fuel Corporation at Manton paid the suppression cost recently on a fire set by one of its burning slate dumps last fall. The last conviction of the year was Mrs. F. E. Tatton, of Estill, who paid a fine last week in County Court here. The fire, allegedly set by Mrs. Tatton, was at Estill and according to the forest ranger, one of the largest of the year.

Turner pointed out the danger of early gardeners setting fires by burning trash, and urged their cooperation in eliminating forest blazes. Careless gardeners give a lot of trouble, he added.

"With the help of everybody concerned — and that's all of us — we can make this year's losses less than in 1956," he said.

Laws designed to lessen the number of forest fires were pointed out by Turner. One prohibits the burning of trash during the months of March, April, May, October, November and December located within 200 feet of a forest except between the hours of 4:30 p. m. and midnight.

Report Says '57 Disaster As Great As 1862 Flood

The question of which flood was the greater, that of 1862 or the recent one, is tentatively settled as far as the U. S. Army Engineers are concerned.

Brig. Gen. J. L. Person, assistant chief of engineers for civil works, told the National Rivers and Harbors Congress that the flood of three weeks ago in the Big Sandy was equal to or exceeded the Civil War water here.

"In the Big Sandy River basin record stages that had stood since 1862 were equalled or exceeded on the Levisa Fork," Gen. Persons wrote. "Other record stages on Levisa and Tug Fork were exceeded, some by as much as four feet," he added in the analysis of flood statistics.

In Prestonsburg this year's flood may have fallen short of the '62 stage. The recent flood stage here has been placed at 636.55 elevation. In 1862 the water here rose to about 638 elevation.

Continual rains for several days and then a heavy, sudden downpour over the headstream sections of Kentucky, Southwest Virginia and Southern West Virginia provided the backdrop for the area's greatest flood, Persons said.

DEPUTY HELD IN ROAD TIFF

Lewis under Bond, Two Others Win Dismissals In Mare Creek Dispute

Trouble rising from alleged impairment of the Mare Creek road by trucks, Jan. 26, resulted in Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis being bound over to the grand jury Monday by County Judge Henry Stumbo. Warrants for two others charged with Lewis and a peace warrant for the deputy were dismissed.

Charged in the on-and-off arguments between the residents of the creek and contractors who have been hauling burned slate or "red dog" from there for work elsewhere, were Lewis, Avery H. Harmon and Bee Hunt. All three were charged with confederating. Lewis was accused of armed robbery as he allegedly forced a driver for the Hayes Bros. contractors, to dump a load in the impaired road. A peace warrant also was issued for him.

Origin of the several altercations on the creek in recent months is over the damage the residents say big trucks do to the county road there. The cinders are on the property of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company which has given them free to the county and state.

The quarterly court hearing brought to Prestonsburg approximately 100 witness, 72 of them for the defense. It was alleged that four weeks ago, when contractors were hauling cinders from Mare Creek for roads elsewhere, Lewis struck Clarence Hayes in the face. Emory Osborne, a Hayes driver, testified he was forced by several men to dump his load of cinders in the road.

DISASTER AID DEADLINE SET

Flood Victims To File Applications by Monday; Aid Total Past $100,000

In a statement issued this week J. B. Green, Jr., director of Red Cross disaster operations in Floyd county, disclosed that the deadline to apply for Red Cross disaster aid has been set for next Monday.

All flood victims who are in need of assistance are urged to apply immediately at Red Cross Disaster Headquarters in the basement of the First Methodist Church, Prestonsburg.

Mr. Green said that Red Cross will continue its work with registered flood sufferers until all of their disaster-caused needs have been met. He added that no definite date has been set to close the disaster office in Prestonsburg.

Green stressed that Red Cross assistance is an outright gift of the American people. Red Cross makes no loans, and no repayment is requested or expected.

As of Monday noon, 800 families had applied for disaster aid. Of these, 102 cases have been closed and 698 are still being processed.

To date, $104,348 in Red Cross disaster assistance has been committed in Floyd county. That is about $35,000 more than last Thursday's total.

The special disaster advisory committee which has been working with the Red Cross met Feb. 21. One hundred and two cases were presented to the committee at that time. This committee, which is made up of local citizens, will continue to meet regularly until Red Cross disaster operations are closed here.

The Red Cross area director pointed out that the purpose of Red Cross disaster aid is to bridge the gap between what the family can do for itself and what is needed to place the family within reach of its former status.

World Day of Prayer Scheduled Here, March 8; Prayer Committee Named

World Day of Prayer will be observed in Prestonsburg, as elsewhere throughout the world, on Friday, March 8, and the observance here will be a united effort by local churches.

The service will be held at the Community Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m., it was announced this week. Purpose of the day is to unite all Christians in a bond of prayer and to make an offering for Christian missions at home and abroad.

The World Day of Prayer committee here is composed of Messdames Emma May, Viola Cooley, Garnet Fairchild, Dora Osborne, Vivian Hale and Myrtle Davis.

MAGISTRATES PONDER SUIT

Holbrook, May Point Out They Were Not In Office When Bond Issue Voted

Two of four Floyd county Magistrates named as defendants in the federal court suit filed by a holder of bonds issued in the purchase of Floyd gas and water properties said this week they are unable to understand why they should be named when they were not in office at the time the bonds were voted and sold.

The two Magistrates are Grover C. Holbrook, of District No. 1, and John May, of District No. 2. Both pointed out that they did not take office until some time after the bond issue transaction and Magistrate Holbrook emphasized that he had purposely abstained from voting during his term of office on any question pertaining to the bond issue or operation of the utility system.

Holbrook and May were sued personally and jointly with County Judge Henry Stumbo and Magistrates Ellis Martin and Edgar Howell for $198,000.

Both May and Holbrook said they were unable to understand how blame can be attached to them for an official act in which they had no part. At the same time they and other defendants in the case were preparing to file answer to the suit against them in U. S. district court at Pikeville.

Wayland Jail Escapee Arrested by Al Patton; 4 Others Jailed Here

Berlin Jacobs, who fled the Wayland city jail after his arrest as a suspect in the looting of Mrs. Mary Collins' store at Lackey recently, was arrested and jailed here last Thursday by Deputy Sheriff Al Patton. He was booked on charges of breaking and entering and grand larceny.

Others jailed within the week on major counts: Elmer Fraley, forgery, held for Ohio authorities; Bradley Calhoun, possessing moonshine whiskey; Bill Hall, drunk driving; Marion Hatfield, reckless use of a deadly weapon and carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Rabid Dog, Cat Victims Taking Treatment Here; Laboratory Tests Made

Six persons are taking rabies immunization treatment here this week due to contact with a dog and a cat declared rabid.

A dog, owned by Marvin Crider, of Auxier, was treated by members of his family, and after it died a laboratory analysis last Saturday made a positive diagnosis of rabies. Members of the family were not bitten but they were advised to take shots. They are, besides Marvin, two children and Bill Crider, his father-in-law.

A cat, which scratched Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moore, of Honaker, was killed and its head sent to Louisville by the Floyd County Health Department. The analysis was negative, but further tests were made by injecting the brain cells of the animal into laboratory mice. Negri bodies were found in the brain cells of one mouse which died. Upon the basis of this result the Moores were advised to take treatment.

KISER, WELLS GIVE PLEDGES OF HIGHWAYS

Trail Relocation Here Is Seen in 2-3 Weeks; Other Roads Promised

Deputy Highway Commissioner Bert Kiser assured State Representative Lon C. Hill, Prestonsburg, Tax Commissioner Clive Akers, of Drift, and Jerry F. Howell, of Price, last Thursday that the Auxier-Prestonsburg section of relocated U. S. 23 will be let to contract by the first of July.

Final determination of the exact route U. S. 23 will enter the lower or northern limits of Prestonsburg is expected within two or three weeks, the Floyd county delegation was told and efforts to procure rights of way will follow.

Blacktopping of approximately six miles of Ky. Route 850 from Goodloe to Hippo, was also promised the Floyd counties for the April contract lettings. The remaining two miles of this road, from Hippo to Ky. 80 at Northern, has a No. 1 priority rating in the department but further action on this section is sending receipt of rights-of-way deeds at Frankfort.

The Floyd county delegation was assured by Kiser that every effort will be made to start the engineering work to complete Ky. Route 7 on Salt Lick to connect with Ky. 80 near Hueysville.

Several other road projects on which early action was requested of Kiser and Rural Highway Commissioner J. B. Wells, Jr., by the Floyd group include the Bucks Branch - Spudlick Road, Allen bridge, Trimble Branch, Stratton Branch, the proposed Dewey Dam Boat Dock road and others.

Rural Highway Commissioner J. B. Wells, Jr., announced this week that survey work has been ordered to begin immediately on the Frazier's Creek road, under the rural federal secondary program and that survey work under the non-federal rural secondary program on the McDowell-Mud Creek Road (locally known as the Bill Hall Branch road), also the Spewing Camp road and the Buffalo Creek bridge and approaches are ready to get under way.

Work on the Bonanza-Lick Fork Road is now under way, and field work should be completed within the next few weeks.

In outlining these construction projects for Floyd county the Highway Department official indicated

BLAZE RAZES COURTHOUSE

Magoffin Court Building Ruined Friday by Fire, Second in Four Days

Although a fire in the Magoffin county courthouse at Salyersville was suppressed Tuesday morning of last week after damage to the County Attorney's office, a new blaze on Friday completely destroyed the 64-year-old structure. Most of the records were saved, however, Magoffin officials say.

The first blaze, originating, it was said, in the County Attorney's office, did considerable damage to the furnishings there but was quickly put out. Electricity was turned off in the building after the first fire so the possibility that the second blaze started from defective wiring was ruled out. It was reported that the last fire originated in the attic.

Rebuilding poses a problem for county officials, it was pointed out. Insurance will cover about $35,000 of the damage but another $200,000 is needed to erect a new building, County Judge Silas Cary estimates. He said he was "working on ways to raise the money" but would rather not disclose details now.

It was at first thought the county could legally vote a bond issue to rebuild but Judge Cary later said such an election must be held at the time of general elections and that will come in November this year. Any special election is ruled out, he said.

Insurance adjusters were in Salyersville Monday looking over the ruins of the three-story building. It was the town's largest structure.

Old Mayo Residence Destroyed by Fire; 2 Other Homes Burn

A Friday evening fire destroyed the 90-year-old residence of the late Dr. H. H. Mayo, near Martin on Ky. 80.

The Martin Fire Department aided in the saving of outbuildings. The home was occupied at the time of the blaze by Mrs. Mayo, and a girl companion. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

The fire, discovered about 4:30 p. m., by Mrs. Mayo who was outside at the time, was thought to have originated in a back room heated by an open fireplace. The walls were falling when discovered, it was said. Two rooms of the two-story building were erected nearly a century ago by the Mayo family.

A fire last Saturday midnight razed the home of L. P. Lafferty at Dvale. The blaze started in the attic, it was said. Lafferty was away at the time and his family escaped in their night clothing. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

The home of John Kidd at Tram was destroyed the night of Feb. 6 by a fire of undetermined origin. Efforts of the Betsy Layne volunteer fire department to save the structure were in vain as the fire truck reached the place too late. Outbuildings were saved. Amount of damage was not disclosed.

To the Voters Of Floyd County

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the many persons who are helping me in my campaign for reelection as Coroner. Without your help and support, I would be as a minister in the pulpit with no congregation to hear the message.

Due to the recent flood, I like others, have been busy putting things back in order; for, as many of you, I was not spared by the water. This fact has kept me from seeing many of you in person to solicit your vote and support.

During my tenure of office, the importance of Coroner has been elevated, as it should be and should be kept. It isn't an office just to be filled, for it deals with your loved ones and friends. There isn't an office of more importance than the office of Coroner. You, the voters, realized this fact and expressed it when I was elected as your Coroner by a majority which made me very proud. No honor can be as great as the confidence, faith and trust bestowed on me by the majority with which you elected me in the previous election.

You know that I have been available by day and night to serve in the capacity for which I was chosen. I am a member of the Kentucky Coroner's Association and am a member of the legislative committee. I have attended all of the association meetings in order to better serve you, for these meetings were both inspiring and educational.

Again I solicit your votes and support in my campaign. I feel I am qualified and capable, as my past record as your Coroner will show. I implore all my friends and every voter in Floyd county to help me in this important campaign.

Your Friend,
JAMES J. CARTER

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Times:

Will you be so kind as to print this letter in which, we the people of Betsy Layne, forget the mud and debris long enough to openly express our deep appreciation: first to God for saving the lives of the people of this valley; then to God's co-workers—the Red Cross, which has given so much to us in food and furnishings and has given us such a lift toward rehabilitation; the Salvation Army, churches, organizations and individuals outside the stricken area who sent us food, clothing and needed materials; to the Health Department and volunteer helpers who held clinics and tested water supplies for our protection; to the members of the Highway Department, Scouts and adults of Wheelwright and members of the Floyd County Schools' maintenance department which assisted with cleaning; and to those of our own and other communities not affected by the water who willingly took us in and met our needs; to the Calvary Baptist Church here, whose pastor and wife sheltered, fed, assisted and housed the clinics and the Red Cross during their services to us.

To all who assisted us in any way, we are truly thankful and for the fine spirit of cooperation and helpfulness among all the affected ones we, too, are appreciative.

May we here and in other stricken areas, retain our spirit of fellowship and service toward others and may we allow God to lead us in turning our distress into blessings as we hopefully and optimistically face the future.

To you Mr. Editor, we express our thanks for allowing us through The Times, to reach the many who have assisted us.

Your Mutual Benefit Life Man says:

"You can keep the advantages of your partnership without risking your business."

A partnership may offer tax advantages which overshadow the greater safety of corporate structure. But those advantages may vanish where the possibility exists that the death of one partner will destroy the business or create a new partnership of undesirable heirs or "outsiders."

No partnership needs to run such risks. Under a simple business insurance plan developed by Mutual Benefit Life, funds are made available for taking over a partner's interest, keeping the business intact, and realizing partnership advantages.

Well-trained, up-to-the-minute Mutual Benefit Life men are always available to work with you, your attorney and your accountant on any business life insurance problem. The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, Newark, N. J.

here for the City Council to decide which plan will be adopted.

Plan No. 1 provides for two pumps, each of which would cost $17,500 and which would restrict the water accumulating behind the flood-gate at the Second street fill here to low-lying areas extending up to the edge of the B. F. Combs property between Second street and Lake Drive. Plan No. 2, which would employ two pumps costing $20,000 each, would restrict accumulation of water behind the flood-gate to the low land in the vicinity of Friend street. The third plan would employ two pumps costing $27,000 and would take care of water as rapidly as it accumulates behind the flood-gate.

Plan No. 3, which would permit owners of easily flooded property to make fills an improve their property, would cost the city about $75,000. Plan No. 1, it was said would entail local expenditure of about $16,000, plus the estimated $3,400 outlay required for acquiring property rights. This outlay, however, would be included in the cost involved, either of the three plans is used. The Times was told Plan No. 2 would cost about $3,000 more than Plan No. 1.

U. S. Senator John Sherman Cooper and Congressman Carl D. Perkins have insisted on local flood protection, plus the construction of storage reservoirs in the headwaters of the Big Sandy and its tributaries. Engineers estimate that a dam on the Pound river and another at Fish Trap would have reduced the recent flood here by about five feet.

Additional projects are being studied at the present time under the suggestions made by the Automotive Safety Foundation, and several miles of road are under construction for bituminous surfacing during the coming construction season.

To My Friends and Neighbors of the 97th District

For those of you who may not know me personally, I am 41 years old, married and have two sons, Morris (Toots) Hall, age 21, and Jimmy Joe Hall, age 18. Morris graduated from Wheelwright high school in 1953, Jimmy Joe is a senior at Wheelwright this year. I feel most of the youngsters know one or both of my sons since both were active in the sports program of the school.

I am the daughter of Harmon Butcher and Jane Butcher. My father is a retired coal miner. I have lived in Floyd county since I was six years old except for the few years I lived in Maryland during World War II.

I attended Wheelwright high school and Caney Junior college. It was at Caney that I met my husband, Gilford B. Hall, son of Richard (known as Black Dick) Hall. I have few relatives in this county but my husband is related to the Halls, Gayharts, Mosleys, McCurys, Johnsons and Moores to mention only a few. Gilford and I were married November 14, 1934.

I have always enjoyed working with and for the people in this district, and I feel that I understand and know their needs. I worked approximately three years for Inland Steel Co., two years for F. A. Hopkins in store, two years for C. E. Hopkins, was postmaster at Bypro, four years, two years of which I was a state officer in the Kentucky Chapter of the National Association of Postmasters. Have always been active in civic organizations. Served as president of the Wheelwright Chapter of the National Federation of Women's Clubs. I am a member of the First Baptist church, Wheelwright.

When World War II started my husband and I moved to Baltimore, where he was employed as welding supervisor by the Glenn L. Martin Aircraft by day and by the Navy at night where he instructed welding three hours, four nights each week at the Essex Educational Center. While Gilford instructed classes at night I took advantage of courses being offered to war workers who wished to further their education at no cost to them. The first year I studied elementary and advanced blueprint reading, advanced mathematics, and manufacturing methods, qualifying to work in the Department of engineering where I worked the following 3 1/2 years, though I continued going to school at nights and earned 52 college hours.

When the war ended we returned to Floyd county, lived eight months at Martin. Then moved to Wheelwright Junction where we went into business for ourselves known to you as Hall's 5 & 10c Store. I have been managing the store for the past six years. My husband is employed at the Hayes Metal Co., at Hi Hat.

My family history has been outlined to you for two purposes: That you may know who I am and to try to convince you that I am qualified to represent you in the State Legislature.

My program will be fully stated in the future issues of The Times. I will endeavor to enlighten you further as to my past, present and future interests. I assure you that my interests of Floyd county with my program will be one that is designed for the best interests of Floyd county with emphasis on our 97th District.

I intend to make a hard fight in this campaign, and with the help of God, your prayers and support, I feel that I CAN and WILL win. Looking forward to seeing and talking to each of you personally, I am,

Respectfully Yours
Ann B. (Mrs. Gilford) Hall

WOMAN'S CLUB NEWS
The Drift Woman's Club met Feb. 18 at the home of Mrs. Ivan Reed, Mrs. Lloyd Stumbo, the president, presided.

The president read a letter from Mrs. Margaret Cruse, the Kentucky Federation President, concerning the flood damage to Federation members. She asked that all club presidents get in touch with the presidents of clubs in the flood area.

The president turned the meeting over to Miss Ruby Akers who introduced Mrs. Arthur Bradbury, chairman of the Girl Scouts, and Mrs. L. F. Leatherman, neighborhood chairman at Wheelwright. Mrs. Bradbury gave an interesting talk on scouting. She said that scouting is important because it gives girls things to do that they do not get in school or at home such as good, wholesome outdoor living, learning arts, crafts, and sewing.

Members present included Mesdames Ben Martin, Bobby Hall, Ray Turner, Delmer Hall, William Hoffman, Howard Stickler, F. T. (Red) Jones, Girdle Moore, Ivan Reed, G. W. Showers, H. D. Hewlett, B. A. The Time is NOW!

It is time for the people to take a new approach to their problems as citizens and taxpayers of Floyd county. If this county is to make the progress it should, it must have a constructive program.

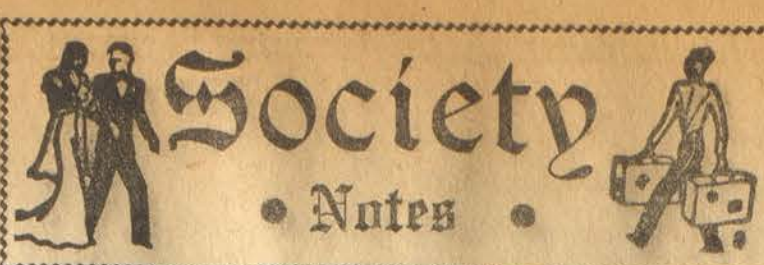

I want to pledge now, to the fullest extent of my ability and energies, that I will use all the power and influence of the County Judge's office to build roads up our creeks and branches. My idea is to go to the heads of the creeks and to come out building roads and not stop and be satisfied with a few hundred yards of road.

I believe the people are ready and willing to help with a program that would mean so much to them.

My idea is to make Floyd county fit for our people to continue to live in it. We need them here in this county, not in some other part of Kentucky or in some distant state. But those who live up creeks and branches where there are no roads cannot be blamed for moving away in search of better living conditions. They are tired of their children having to wade mud and water, trying to get to school, and men doing the same as they try to get to work.

I invite every man and woman who has the best interests of Floyd county at heart to think and act with me along these lines.

Sincerely,
BILL COOLEY,
Democratic candidate for COUNTY JUDGE

A GOOD TEAM

The University of Kentucky's Wildcats this week won their 17th Southeastern Conference basketball title. The Kentucky team isn't the colorful powerhouse this year that it has been in other years; there isn't an All-American on the squad. But it has some other qualities that offset this lack of color and power.

Fans have been touched by the fact that Ed Beck, the big center on the Wildcat five, has stuck to his post, doing fine work despite the fact that his wife is dying of cancer and he knows it. This Beck already is, or is on the way to becoming, a Methodist minister, and he recently preached to an overflow congregation with all his teammates in the crowd. The team sang, as a part of the service, "On the Jericho Road," and the congregation was so large that two services were held.

That team could lose every game and still not be bad.

Early Refunds Offered By U. S. Revenue Service; Taxpayers Are Cautioned

Wm. M. Gray, district director of Internal Revenue, announced recently that the Internal Revenue Service will aid victims of the recent disastrous floods in Kentucky by scheduling income tax refunds due taxpayers in the stricken area as quickly as possible.

Mr. Gray said that any taxpayer, who is due a refund and who resides in a county designated by the Small Business Administration as a disaster area, should mail his return to "REFUNDS", Internal Revenue Service, P. O. Box 1956, Louisville 1, Kentucky, and clearly mark the word "FLOOD" in a prominent place on the envelope.

Mr. Gray cautioned, however, that losses which were incurred as a result of flood damage are deductible for calendar year taxpayers on returns filed for the year 1957 which will not be due until April 15, 1958. Returns now due are for the year 1956 and must be filed on or before April 15 of this year.

Many businessmen in the area may suffer net operating losses this year from inventory losses, reduced revenues, expenditures for repairs, etc., Mr. Gray agreed. He pointed out that the Internal Revenue code provides that net operating losses may be carried back two years and, if not entirely absorbed, may be carried forward for as long as five years. Carry-backs of such losses may result in refunds, he stated, and any taxpayer requiring information this phase of the Internal Revenue laws may obtain assistance at any Internal Revenue Office.

THE BIG SANDY, ONE OF FOUR ORPHANS IN WATERWAY DEVELOPMENT, CHARGED

The Green River Valley Citizens League recently drafted a statement citing the needs of the Big Sandy, Kentucky Cumberland and Green rivers and comparing what these watersheds have received in improvements with benefits received by the Tennessee river and the lower Cumberland.

The statement follows, in part:

Work on the lower Cumberland River high dam should be stopped forthwith if Congress cannot otherwise provide funds to initiate immediate construction of flood control-water storage in the far upper reaches of the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Cumberland and Green river watersheds of Kentucky. The lower Cumberland reservoir provides no flood protection for Kentucky while the upper projects will do so, and at the same time finally unleash the economic possibilities of Kentucky's coal valleys. These areas have never received even a minor share of funds to develop their priceless water resources, including the 17 small reservoirs mentioned later herein on the far upper Big Sandy, Kentucky and Cumberland. Stopping the lower Cumberland project is tough medicine, but at the very least, the recent disastrous floods on the upper Big Sandy, Kentucky and Cumberland justify the immediate transfer of engineering personnel and funds. These very same steps were taken by the Truman Administration following the great Missouri Valley flood early in this decade.

The Big Sandy, Kentucky and Green have been favored with only one per cent of the funds devoted to the Tennessee and Lower Cumberland over the 25 fiscal years, starting with 1934. In that period the shares roughly have been: Tennessee $2.25 billion, Lower Cumberland $250 millions, Big Sandy $6.3 millions, Kentucky $3.2 millions, Green $19.6 millions. The ratio is $100 to $1 in favor of the Tennessee and Lower Cumberland, although neither can match the economic possibilities of the other four, especially as to coal-steam electric generation and other coal-based industry at which TVA excels.

The meek will counsel still more decades of patience on the part of the neglected four watersheds, even though individually each one is major in size and every other aspect so far as Kentucky is concerned. The Green is the largest watershed in Kentucky, covering one-fourth of the State. Assuming the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland and Green should continue the role of cheerfully accepting the table crumbs, it is rational to inquire the reasons for this undue preference heaped on the Tennessee and lower Cumberland. More than anything else, the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland and Green have gotten exactly what they deserved as measured by their complacency over these twenty-five years and, perhaps, by their erstwhile docile acceptance of the doctrine that water resources development is a waste of taxpayers' money. However, in recent years those kind thinkers in the Green River Valley have become convinced it better business to fight for a substantial share of such Federal funds. This decision was too slow in coming and cost hundreds of millions to the local economy, but the Green in 1948 awakened to its possibilities and starting with fiscal 1952 has won about $19.2 millions, proving that it pays to fight. In doing so the Green is saving Uncle Sam millions and could save him hundreds of millions more but for the Tennessee and Lower Cumberland "hogging the trough" year in and year out.

In the Tennessee Valley, starting with fiscal 1934, we have witnessed the world's outstanding example of very successful overall water resources development, so much so that this success has made it comparatively easy to enroll the powerful support of its own citizens and others beyond the confines of the Tennessee Watershed. This Goliath finally poured over into the lower Cumberland which traverses a large part of the Tennessee State as well as Kentucky and it was not long before the lower Cumberland Watershed was also unduly preferred, until at the end of twenty-five years that area has been favored with more than enough funds to complete the total development of the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland and Green water resources. It was indeed a Godsend that the Tennessee Valley's water was developed in time to permit the huge expansion of coal-steam power production for the atomic era and without which TVA would be something less than the success it is. While this expansion might have taken place in the main Ohio Valley, with its developed water resources, seemingly it was not until later that its private industry stepped into the breach. If prepared the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland, and Green could have averted great extra cost to the taxpayers because all this coal-steam power could be made there at much lower cost. This is the main burden of this paper but flood control is uppermost.

While the Tennessee and lower Cumberland were being favored with the huge sums there was not much left for the four orphans out of the total sum to be devoted each year to the overall Ohio River Watershed. And when the main Ohio Valley's needs were also extracted it is small wonder, indeed, that anything was left for the orphaned Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland and Green. An effective example of how the Tennessee Cumberland and Main Ohio devour the funds are the recent Budget recommendations for fiscal 1956 viz: nearly $33 millions for the main Ohio in Kentucky, almost $9 millions for Cumberland, $121 millions for TVA, while the Big Sandy is left out completely and the Kentucky is in for almost $2 millions and the Green for slightly more than $3 millions. Thus, it seems the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland and the Green in fiscal 1956 will get only $5 millions while the main Ohio, Tennessee and Cumberland total $163 millions or a ratio of one to about 33, slightly better than one to 100 average for the twenty-five years. A current inequality is charging Kentucky with the funds for the main Ohio which are beneficial also to the Indiana, Illinois and Ohio. It is true that the Tennessee Valley's figures are swollen unduly by funds for steam plants while other valleys are not so favored, still we cannot disregard this situation even if other valleys do not seek funds for steam plants. Given water storage, the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland and Green can have private industry build the steam plants for the simple reason that the lowest production costs will then be possible in those four orphaned watersheds.

But the prospect for the next five years is dreadful to contemplate for the Big Sandy, Kentucky. Upper Cumberland and Green. This is so because in the Cumberland the high dam on the lower river is underway costing at least a total of $160 millions to be completed in five years means $30 millions yearly in addition to other Cumberland projects, also under construction. And with all that has been started on the main Ohio, a guess is that $33 millions yearly will be far too little. TVA is fighting viciously for several new steam plants and in addition to its big navigation project will take every bit of $100 millions or more annually. As a consequence, what chance is there, for example, to build in the next five years the Nolin, Upper Green and Barren reservoirs of the Green River valley, even if the yearly cost will be less than $8 millions or a total of $40 millions for all three projects? Yet, the economics favor them overwhelmingly against the lower Cumberland high dam or against additional TVA steam plants if built in the Tennessee or lower Cumberland Valleys. It would not be difficult to make a similar showing in favor of reservoir projects in the far upper reaches on the Big Sandy, Cumberland and Kentucky but the problem is to convince the right people in the National Administration and the Congress. That, indeed, seems completely without hope. The current budget is unquestionably swollen beyond recognition and that is why we demand at the outset of this study that the lower Cumberland project be stopped if Congress cannot otherwise provide funds for the four orphans. The eye-full of hydro power to be made on the lower Cumberland is interruptible and if available 70 per cent of the time it will be miraculous. And flood control can be had at lower cost in the upper Big Sandy, Kentucky, Cumberland and Green whereby Kentucky will benefit, as will the lower Ohio and Mississippi, the latter to the same or greater extent as from the lower Cumberland high dam.

Making the water flow by the coal is cheaper than hauling the coal to the water. Although elementary, the Green River Valley has been unable to win recognition of this rudimentary fact or, otherwise, every one of its four reservoirs authorized by the Congress way back in June 1938 would now be completed and in operation to make possible the lowest cost coal-steam electricity in the world. Instead, year after year, we have sadly witnessed giant steam plants going in

SEA SHELLS ARE VARIED

There are more than 100,000 varieties of sea-shells and their collection has become a global hobby, report Donald and Louise Peattie in the March Reader's Digest. A shell may look like a petal frozen in the stone, or like an ear, an egg, a screw, a butterfly, a turban, the paw of a lion, the comb of Venus or the wing of an angel. Each once housed a living creature.

Park Attendance Jumps A Million

Frankfort, Feb. 25 (Spl.) — Nearly a million and a half more people visited Kentucky State Parks in 1956 than in the previous year, Mrs. Ben Kilgore, parks director, has reported.

In 1955 there were 4,003,000 visitors at the State parks, while last year the figure jumped to 5,500,000, she added.

Mrs. Kilgore believes the sizeable increase resulted from lower rates during the off season, fishing, expanded facilities, such as controlled hunting, and an increasing general interest in Kentucky's state-operated parks by residents not only in the Commonwealth but also throughout this region.

FISH & WILDLIFE JOBS EXAMS TO BE HELD

State Foresters Work Sans Rest In Flood Crisis

Frankfort, Feb. 25 (Spl.) — State foresters in Eastern Kentucky did heroic work during the recent flood in that section of the Commonwealth, Conservation Commissioner Laban Jackson said.

Some of the foresters worked continuously for more than two days and nights as the flood waters hit cities and towns with little warning, Jackson said. State foresters gave first notice of the possible flood danger in Eastern Kentucky, Jackson reported. He added.

The group assisted in Alto, Barwick, Beatyville, Buckhorn, Busy, Cance, Chavies, Haddix, Hazard, Jackson, Jerkes, Krypton and other communities during the billion-dollar disaster. Loss of life would have been greater had it not been for the foresters' radio system, local officials said.

Two foresters, Bill Music, Prestonsburg, and John Griffith, of Pike county, while assisting others, had their own homes flooded and each lost their personal possessions as a result.

Other men, such as Earl Young, of WMOR, Morehead, a radio technician for the foresters; Walter Green, of Hazard; Clarence Lohr, with Music and Griffith, were extremely helpful in notifying officials and others of the rising waters, in directing emergency units to stricken areas, and later in acting as guides for relief units.

The foresters arranged for an emergency transformer to be brought to the Buckhorn school and infirmary at the start of the flood, saving that place from having no electricity during the disaster.

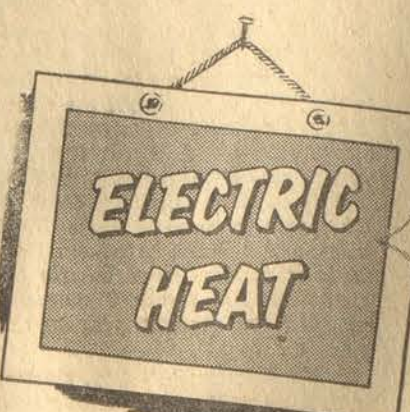

Others set up communication relay units to keep authorities posted on the various flood conditions.

DORAN SAYS DISTRICTS CAN'T FINANCE NEEDS

Morehead, Ky., Feb. 22 (Spl.) — "The school districts of Eastern Kentucky cannot meet their building needs from local sources and state aid," Dr. Adron Doran, president of Morehead State College, told a House committee in Washington, February 13.

Dr. Doran told the legislators in a prepared address that "it is the solemn duty of the Congress of the United States to appropriate sufficient funds to relieve the critical situation among the schools of Kentucky."

Also appearing before the committee, which is considering legislation relating to schoolhouse construction, were Dr. Robert L. Martin, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Marvin Dodson, executive secretary of the KEA.

Dr. Doran said, "If the school districts of the 17 counties in the Eastern Kentucky Education district were to levy the 50 cents tax rate provided by state law and incur a bonded indebtedness equal to 2% of the assessed valuation of property as provided by the State Constitution, they still could meet only 33% of their building needs."

He added, "Kentucky needs 10,000 additional school rooms which are estimated to cost $350,000,000. The school districts of Eastern Kentucky need 1,836 of these rooms and the cost is represented at $59,515,750. This means that of all the school rooms needed for the schools of Kentucky 20% of them would have to be built in Eastern Kentucky to meet the needs of the schools in this region."

Frankfort, Feb. 25 (Spl.) — Now that the primaries are held in May instead of August, Kentuckians begin savoring politics even before the Spring thaw. Out in the country the other day, this writer came across a candidate posting his picture on telephone poles. He said he'd run out of tacks, but that wasn't stopping him. He was pulling the tacks out of old campaign posters and using them to nail up new ones.

KENTUCKY FEATURETTE

Late in the summer of 1775, a 16-year-old boy, James' Ray, killed a big-winged duck near Fort Harrod. When he had roasted the fowl, a man of military bearing emerged from the forest. The boy offered to share his duck. The man seemed starved and ate all of it. After the stranger asked questions about the settlement, the boy offered to guide him to the fort. Thus, George Rogers Clark introduced himself to Harrodsburg. He later became leader of the settlement.

I recall my father after we had supper some nights would go into the kitchen, use meal and make cornbread with grease in it. He would put it in a baking pan, set it propped up before hickory fire to cook. Mother always had meat boiled. We used homemade dark sorghum molasses. I was raised on a farm about four miles from Glasgow—C.P.M., Detroit.

I recall the adage that when the whippoorwill was heard at eventide, it would rain that night.—Mrs. Heber Keately, Pikeville.

I recall about 50 years ago legislative halls at Frankfort rang with silver-tongued oratory. It was really musical, but it resulted in some crazy laws on the books as sometimes the oratory prevailed over good sense. Of course, we have nothing like that now, except when a new dog law comes up.—B.L.Y., Paris.

20,000 Young Mothers Dispose of Children On "Black Market"

Financial and legal restrictions on legitimate social agencies force 20,000 girl mothers to dispose of their children in the baby "black market," charges Alice Lake in the March Reader's Digest in an article, "Why Young Girls Sell Their Babies."

"A private agency seldom has funds to support a girl through her pregnancy and hospitalization," reports the writer. "She must seek help from a public agency, usually a welfare department. But the girl who leaves her home city, to have her baby in secrecy, is usually ineligible for such funds." In most states a girl is eligible for public aid only if she has been a resident for a year.

The University of Kentucky was founded as the Agricultural and Mechanical College in 1866. It opened with an enrollment of 190 students.

In discussing pupil withdrawal, Dr. Doran said, "In the state there were 14,575 pupils who quit school on passing the compulsory age and 23% of these students dropped out of the schools of the EKEA district. There were 4,443 students in Kentucky who quit school upon completing the eighth grade and 27% of these were enrolled in the EKEA district."

Music

From the time he first heard a crude shepherd's pipe until today when he delights in sophisticated orchestrations, music has been an indispensable adjunct to the moods of man.

Whatever they are, merry or melancholy, Music enhances them. Good company... good food... good drink take on a more pleasurable aspect where there's music in the air. Music soothes and stimulates, rouses and relaxes, cheers and comforts.

Music moves armies... and the gentle hearts of women.

There is music for every man... the doleful, rhythmic chants of cotton patch and levee... the free and swinging songs of the prairie... the storied ballads of the mountains... the nostalgic folk tunes of a homeland... the tense, pulsing beat of restless cities.

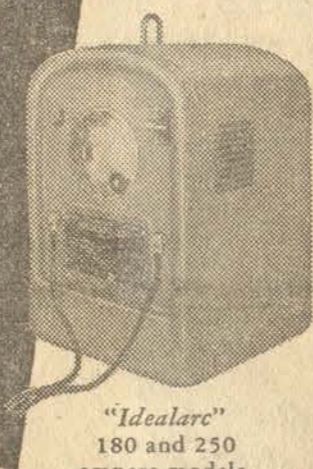

Wherever he is... wherever his origins... wherever he goes... every man seeks the music he wants. And there's no more convenient, more pleasing way to enjoy good music than on the juke box.

Flood-Damaged Lawns Can Be Handled Easily

Home owners worrying about their lawns covered during the recent Eastern Kentucky floods can take immediate steps that will bring back the grass, says N. R. Elliott, UK Agricultural Extension Service lawn specialist.

Many lawns are covered with only one, to a half inch, of flood silt and deposit, he said. Leave these lawns alone, as the grass probably will easily grow through this thin covering.

Where silt and deposit are piled higher than that, shovel off the covering until about an inch is left.

Cheap grass seed sowed now probably will bring a good, quick grass cover, Elliott says. Ryegrass sowed at the rate of 3 pounds per 1,000 square feet of lawn, raked loosely to cover the seed, will probably suffice. To this should be added about a quarter pound of red top seed per 1,000 square feet. Elliott said. These two "will probably give a quick cover which can be mowed this summer."

Don't sow expensive bluegrass now, he advised. Wait till mid-September; sow from one to three quarters of a pound of this per 1,000 square feet at this time.

And don't fertilize either, Elliott points out. The flood-borne soils on lawns probably are rich enough now.

Where lawns were covered with 5 to 6 inches of silt, etc., sow the ryegrass seed now right on top of this deposit, he recommends. No fertilizer is needed for this planting, either.

NEW SOCIAL SECURITY LAWS RESULTS TOLD

The result of recent Social Security changes are now being felt in full force in the Pikeville Social Security office, according to Thomas B. Thompson, district manager.

"Last week," he said, "we took care of more than 500 items of business. These included personal claims interviews, visits to neighboring counties, issuance of new, and duplicate Social Security cards, providing information, approving application for payments, and making changes or adjustments in benefits already being paid."

This increase in office callers has caused a slow-down in the completion of initial benefit payments, Thompson explained. He said many self-employed farmers are making applications for the first time; and a sizeable number of retired workers and widows neglect to bring needed "proofs" when they call to make application for payments.

Generally speaking a retired person needs some proof of his age. So do wives of retired workers and widows age 62 or older. Also, widows usually need to have their marriage records, and birth certificates are always needed for children under 18.

In addition, self-employed individuals must present a copy of their last year's income tax return—along with a receipt for payment of Social Security taxes.

Thompson emphasized that the Social Security office is always glad to answer all inquiries about Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. Persons desiring general information, though, might be better served if they defer their questions until a later time. "But under no circumstances," he added, "should a retiring worker or the family of a deceased worker put off getting in touch with us."

Another temporary inconvenience to the public, Thompson pointed out, is that persons tend to call at the Social Security office early in the morning, and early in the week. "We always have more people on Mondays—and more in the mornings. There'll be less waiting time," he explained, "for persons who call in the afternoons—preferably in the middle of the week."

This increased Social Security activity is nation-wide. Because of it,

The virtues of milk are well known. It offers flavorful, healthful, and economical nutrition. Many of us can rattle off these fine qualities like a parrot. It seems as though there is something for everyone of us to admire in milk.

When you pick up a bottle of milk, you're buying a lot more than just milk. You buy services which help you enjoy healthful, delicious milk at all times. Services such as pick-up to take to plant, pasteurization, and delivery to store or home.

One quart of milk per day for children and one pint for adults is a safe measure. Drink it or eat it. Milk can be prepared in one way or another that you like and so get what you need. Here is a recipe you might try.

MILK GRAVY

4 T. fat.
4 T. flour.
2 c. milk, lukewarm, salt, pepper.
Heat fat in pan over low heat, add flour. Cook until frothy, constantly stirring. Add milk at once. Stir until cooked thick, season. Simmer five minutes. Pour into a hot bowl and serve to climax biscuits, potatoes or meat.

Wives Can Help Husbands Stay Alive, Says Mrs. Lee

American men are literally killing themselves to produce a "better world" for their wives to live in—alone. To prove this statement, Hannah Lees of Philadelphia, in an article in the March Reader's Digest condensed from her book, "Help Your Husband Stay Alive," cites these insurance company statistics: There are 7,000,000 widows in the country. Seventeen men die in their 40's for every 10 women. Eighteen men die in their 50's for every 10 women.

American women, who would prefer to have their husbands to the milk stole his overwork earns, can do more than a whole battery of psychiatrists to save their lives. Miss Lees asserts in offering these suggestions.

Help him relax. Make him happy to be a good father and husband. If he seems more happy at work than at home, find out why and try to do something about it. If your husband is growing away from you, broaden your interests and match his strides.

At the University of Michigan, examination of 500 executives revealed more than half suffered diseases of which they were unaware which needed immediate attention. So make medical check-up appointments for him. If he needs more sleep, reduce his social engagements; if he is overweight, plan attractive low calorie meals.

Encourage walking, swimming, gardening, golf in moderation and other forms of light exercise for the sedentary man but don't expect a tired man to shovel snow or do anything that makes him more tired.

Offer him love and the approval and admiration which too few men get on their job.

"There are a hundred different ways a man's wife can contribute to his happiness and well being if she once starts thinking about it." Miss Lees concludes. "And the fine thing about this is that most of them are also ways of contributing to her own."

Be sure you know who you are voting for in this coming election. Make it the election that will mean most to you and your county. I have served the public for 20 years, and it means a lot to know how to treat people. I don't think I have one enemy in this county anywhere. I am the son of the late Rev. George Patrick, of Garrett, Ky., and was born at Prestonsburg and lived there for 10 years. I was raised on Beaver Creek. I am not bringing my war record in this matter, although I did spend two years overseas serving my country. Your help and support will be highly appreciated.

FLOOD CONTROL PLANS FORSEE FEDERAL AID

The Kentucky Conservation Department has asked the federal government to help launch an extensive control program in the state.

Plans call for asking the Kentucky congressional delegation to assist in obtaining a supplement to President Eisenhower's budget of at least one million dollars for small watershed planning.

The program includes asking Sen. John Sherman Cooper to request that the President allocate from his emergency fund an amount adequate to finance a small watershed planning crew to work exclusively in flood-damaged areas.

Conservation Commissioner Laban Jackson and Flood Control Director Robert Lee Bolin asked Kentucky congressmen to sponsor legislation providing for a supplementary income for landowners who will plant crop land or depleted forest land in trees. Jackson asked that trees

The role that the federal government has been asked to play has been approved by the state's Flood Control Board after plans were outlined by Jackson and Bolin.

Grant Will Aid Science Teaching

Frankfort, Feb. 25 (Spl.) — Kentucky has been granted $9,000 by the National Science Foundation, Washington, to improve science teaching in the State's public schools.

The grant was announced by Dr. Robert R. Martin, superintendent of public instruction.

The money, Martin said, will be used to finance a two-day workshop for 40 teachers at each State College.

Martin said the workshop will be conducted by the Teacher Education and Certification Division. Its director, Miss Louise Combs, was credited by Martin with securing the grant.

Martin named the following members of an advisory committee for the program:

Dr. Paul Ray, chairman, Asbury College; Arthur G. Tafel, Jr., Louisville; M. R. Guthrie, Middlesboro; J. K. Smith, Louisville; Dr. W. S. Webb, Lexington; Dr. William Owsley, Morehead; Dr. A. L. Wolfson, Murray; Dr. John Eaves, Lexington; Dr. Harvey LaPaze, Richmond, and Sidney Simandle, secretary, Frankfort.

at Johnsonville, Watts Bar, Kingston, Widows Creek, Colbert, John Seiver in the Tennessee Valley and Shawnee, Joppa and Madison on the main Ohio followed lately by Gallatin in the Cumberland. To every one of these the coal must be hauled and handled several times at great cost. Yet, in the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland and the Green the coal could be conveyed from the mines, without ever seeing the light of day, directly into the hoppers of the power plants. But only if the reservoirs upstream are functioning to provide the constant and regulated supply of water would this be attractive. Every one of these giant power plants exist by reason of selling huge blocks of power directly to Uncle Sam, so any saving in power cost possible at all plants on the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland and Green should be going into the U. S. Treasury. Thus, these regions are now paying dearly for their complacency and so is Uncle Sam. Other large power plants have been located in the main Ohio Valley in recent years, especially those serving large industrial consumers requiring substantial blocks of power but what could the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland and Green do to win them without the needed water? Industry moves to the power beyond any question of doubt and that is why TVA wants still more steam plants. In other words, Kentucky's coal valleys without flood control-water storage, are deprived of the right to consume a substantial tonnage of their coal at the mines even if doing so could save Uncle Sam and private industry millions of dollars yearly. Surely there is more to Kentucky than just the Tennessee, Lower Cumberland and main Ohio Valleys.

This combination of ample and constant water supply alongside coal reserves not only makes possible the lowest cost electric energy of an uninterrupted nature, but the time is fast approaching when low cost gas must be made at the coal mines to replace the depleted supply of natural gas that is constantly increasing in price. Coal-gasification requires huge quantities of water and is one of the steps in the ultimate production of gasoline from coal. The need of water stored in upper reservoirs for this purpose was emphasized in the engineering report of December 14, 1951 entitled "The Synthetic Liquid Fuel Potential of Kentucky." That report provides considerable detail as to water supply possibilities in the coal-bearing counties on the upper Big Sandy and Kentucky as well as the far upper reaches of the Cumberland where the coal mines are not helped by Lake Cumberland and other reservoirs all too far downstream to utilize the Upper Cumberland coal without expensive transportation and handling. It is more important to point out that the suggested reservoirs, four in the upper Cumberland, six in the upper Kentucky and seven in the upper Big Sandy would be factors in preventing devastating floods of the flash variety. At the same time the stored waters by attracting industry should make jobs in the Big Sandy, Kentucky and Upper Cumberland. The report also advocated five small reservoirs on the Green in Butler and Edmonson counties but the authorized major reservoirs on the Nolin, Upper Green and Barren would more than meet the requirements along with low flow regulation authority for the Corps of Engineers.

There is nothing synthetic about producing gasoline from coal even though the Federal Government has greatly curtailed its expenditures in recent years for the perfection of suitable processes. Few realize that private industry is quietly proceeding with steps, although indirectly, toward that goal and simultaneously the low cost generation of electricity is tied in with this little heralded activity. And what's more important is that it is all being done where an ample and constant supply of water flows by the mine supplying the coal. The sad part is that once again Kentucky was not prepared respecting water supply to reach out for this golden opportunity. Instead, recently not one plant but a whole series of plants, including coal-mining, power generation, Char - chemical, and aluminum smelting, were located in the upper main Ohio valley, a few miles downstream from Wheeling, West Va. This stupendous undertaking involves the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, the American Gas & Electric Company, the Olin-Mathieson Corporation and, among others, even the Standard Oil Company of Ohio. The coal is to move directly from the mine through a plant producing char (a type of coke) and gasses. The char going to the power plant and gasses through a chemical process. These same gasses can be converted to synthetic oils including gasoline. Of course, the electricity is essential in the production of raw aluminum. The fact that hundreds of millions of dollars are being invested in this undertaking should be sufficient to convince Kentucky that it ought to provide the needed water at its coal mines to qualify for any such industrial developments as this one is only the beginning. If Kentucky is content to rely on its Ohio River frontage for such enterprises may we point out that save for TVA steam plant at Paducah and its accompanying atomic works, Kentucky has been by-passed time and again. For example, the Joppa power plant went to Illinois, the Alcoa Smelter and Madison power plant to Indiana, the Atomic Works to Ohio, etc. But up in its four coal-bearing regions on the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland and Green, Kentucky would have the advantage in such instances of lower production costs if only the needed water supply is stored.

The aforementioned American Gas and Electric Company is building at least three more power plants over coal reserves, two of which are so-called breeder stations involving single 450,000 KW generating units. It is noteworthy that one of these breeders is being located near Terre Haute, Indiana on the Wabash River, which site appears to be more than 100 miles from the AG&ECo. transmission system. By employing the comparatively new practice of using 330,000 volt transmission, it is attractive because AG&E Co. has found that "if all plant site requirements are met it is almost universally true that energy can be transmitted over distances of say 200 miles cheaper by wire than by rail" thus pointing a finger at locating power plants on coal reserves. Therefore, if the Big Sandy, Kentucky, Upper Cumberland and Green River Valleys with their huge coal deposits are at long last, if ever, provided with water storage, as is possible at such small investment then TVA, AG&E Co. and others should be attracted to these watersheds even though their transmission systems may be somewhat distant. For example, if the Green River Valley had the water, would the Louisville Gas and Electric Company, be justified in continually building additional generating plants at Louisville? Or, for that matter, would the Public Service Company of Indiana be constructing a large power plant at New Albany, Indiana? The answer is NO in spite of the fact that these two concerns' transmission systems are miles from the Green River Valley. The Big Sandy coal is another example, it is less than 100 miles to the southern Ohio Atomic Works, which is drawing some of its power from Madison, Indiana, over a 100 miles distant. And the coal is being hauled to Madison.

There have been several statements to the effect that had the Buckhorn Reservoir been completed on the Kentucky River the recent flood damage would have been considerably less in spots. This must be true since the system of reservoirs on the Tennessee were again operated magnificently during the same period. The lower Cumberland seemingly fared well with its several reservoirs in operation. The flood situation on the Green would hardly have been noticeable if its four projected reservoirs were realities. As it is, while the Rough is under construction it is being strung out over a period of years seemingly for lack of funds. Would the Rough and the Buckhorn be dragging if the lower Cumberland high dam had not been needlessly injected by Congress last year? The latter is anything but of an emergency nature and save for navigation it is not justified of all flood control-water storage in the upper Big Sandy, Kentucky, Cumberland and Green should be preferred forthwith. Standing together these four orphans will prevail.

FATHER DETERMINES SEX

The father is the sole determiner of the sex of the child, reports J. D. Ratcliff in the March Reader's Digest. The mother's egg carries only the X chromosome—the girl producer. The male sperm carries both X's and Y's. If the spermatozoon which fertilizes the egg is the latter, the child will be a boy. The eggs of all mammals, whales, mice, women—are approximately the same size; two million would fit in a tablespoon.
