REQUEST

A Martin woman writes imploring us to call on all candidates not to start slinging mud, "What with the flood, we've had all the mud we can stand," she adds.

PLEASE

Campaign mud is worse than goopy mess left by floods. Even with all the filth and slime and disease germs that flood-litter leaves behind.

Mud left in streets and homes can be scraped off, washed away with all the filth and slime and ken of man. But campaign dirt lasts as long as memory lasts, permeates as hatred permeates, and soils both the hurler and the target.

Please, gentlemen!

'STERBILING

This smoking habit is a thing that convinces many of us how really weak we are. We wonder, are we mice or men? And light up another to think it over some more. We have read so much about the injurious effects of smoking that many of us have about decided to give up reading.

HINT

Saw a young fellow, the other day, who was wondering what he could get his lady fair for her birthday. His predicament somewhat reminded me of the anecdote about the young fellow who, all moon-eyed at the time of his sweetheart's birthday, gushed, "Just think, darling, a year ago we had not even met, and now—" "Let's not talk about the past, dear—let's talk about my present," the girl reminded him.

MASONS BEGIN RELIEF DRIVE

Halls Announces Fund Of $100,000 Is Asked To Aid Needy Masons

Kentucky Masons have launched a drive for funds which is designed to raise $100,000 for the relief of flood-stricken Masons in Eastern Kentucky, it was announced last week by John W. Hall, of Martin, grand master of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky.

As of last Friday, approximately $20,000 had been subscribed, Mr. Hall said. Contributions from lodges over a great part of the country are being received. Included among these are checks for $1,000 each from a St. Louis lodge and Poage Lodge, Ashland, $500 from Paducah, Ky., $500 from Indra Consistory and $25 from a San Francisco lodge.

Two pound sterling notes came from the Island of Malta. The sender is Chief Petty Officer Collingwood, of the British Royal Navy. How he learned of the fund drive is not known.

"There are 100,000 Masons in Kentucky, and we can easily see how a dollar from each of these would bring the total past the $100,000 figure with the other contributions we are receiving," Mr. Hall said.

Masters of Masonic lodges in the stricken area will certify to Grand Master Hall the names of all Masons needing financial assistance. A flood relief committee has been appointed.

All checks should be made to Masonic Flood Relief and mailed to Mr. Hall at Martin, Ky.

CITY COUNCIL BOOSTS RATE FOR SERVICES

Garbage Collection Fee Doubled for Residences; Council Member Resigns

The Prestonsburg City Council enacted an ordinance at its Monday evening meeting increasing garbage collection fees.

The increase was voted in an effort, it was explained, to make the garbage collection service "at least break even."

Fees for collection from residences will be increased from 50 cents to $1 a month and those on the same service for business houses will be upped 20%.

At the same meeting the Council received the written resignation of Sam Wells as Councilman. Mr. Wells did not attend the meeting, and other members said no reason for his resignation was given. The Council did not accept the resignation.

Asked his reason for resigning, Mr. Wells said, "Just say, I resigned, effective March 4."

Johnny Ellis' resignation as fire chief was accepted at the meeting, and Vernon Blackburn, who was suspended early last month, was re-employed for one month.

In the discussion preceding passage of the garbage collection fee ordinance the Council was told that fees then effect were wholly inadequate to operate the service. Exclusive of $2,000 spent on the road to the garbage dump last year and the $200 a month depreciation on the garbage truck, expenditures averaged $795 a month, the Council was told.

Collections at the old rate averaged $625 a month, it was said.

Figures for operation costs were broken down, as follow:

Labor, $425 a month; rent on dump, $50 a month; gasoline and oil, $125; maintenance, $125; tires, $45; insurance, $25.

The view was expressed that annexation of Lancer will soon make necessary either a second garbage truck or operation of the one at hand in two shifts.

956 Floyd Families Ask Red Cross Relief Help, Is Announcement Made

Red Cross disaster headquarters for Floyd county announced with the closing of applications on March 4, that 956 families have applied for Red Cross assistance.

The Red Cross office will remain open as long as necessary to process the applications on hand, but no new applications are being accepted. To date, the assistance to families in Floyd county totals over $200,000, and the amount grows daily.

The Red Cross office appeals to those who have registered to have patience, since it takes time to visit all the homes and process the many applications on hand. Every application that has been received will be processed and completed before the office closes.

The Red Cross office reports that many untrue rumors are being heard, and it is hoped that if any individual has any questions about the Red Cross policy that those people will contact the office and get the facts straight. The Red Cross is very anxious to get assistance to the families as soon as possible and will do everything possible to accomplish this.

STATE PLANS NEW PROGRAM

State Dept. To Urge Sanitation Facilities; Red Cross Offers Aid

The State Department of Economic Development is conducting a series of three meetings this week in southeastern Kentucky to acquaint local officials with federal funds available for rebuilding flood-damaged cities in this area.

Walter L. Shouse, director of the department's planning and zoning division, said the conferences were arranged to explain the opportunities of federal aid for urban redevelopment, public housing and sewage treatment systems. Another purpose of the meetings is to determine the need for additional state assistance in community planning and zoning in this area.

Board, at Regular Meet, Grants Teachers Leave; Lear Conducts Survey

The Floyd county Board of Education at its regular monthly meeting Tuesday had little business before it except routine matters. Dr. D. W. Osborne was absent due to illness but the other four members were present.

Cora Perry, Harold teacher, and Laura B. Wells, of Auxier, were granted leave of absence for the remainder of the school term. Bills and claims were paid and the board was visited by Wm. Lear, director of school repairs for the Civil Defense program in the disaster area. He is assisted by Army Engineer Al Nossen, of Louisville, in making estimates of repairable flood damages. The two will be in this county until Friday.

A representative of the Department of Education, Division of Exceptional Children, of Frankfort, is in the county this week, Superintendent V. O. Turner says, to classify exceptional children in either the trainable or educable groups.

ELKINS' LOSS $15,000, SAID

Blaze Destroys Business At Wayne, West Virginia Of Former Resident Here

The Elkins Motor Sales, Wayne, W. Va., owned and operated by Curtis Elkins, former Prestonsburg man, was destroyed by fire last Wednesday. The loss was estimated at $15,000.

Lost in the blaze which razed the motor company were nine used cars and trucks, a quantity of repair equipment and parts and office equipment.

The building, owned by F. B. Fry, was valued at $25,000. Eighteen hours later, another fire severely damaged a grocery store in Wayne, with an additional loss of $10,000.

State Fire Marshall C. A. Raper assigned four men from his office to investigate the several recent Wayne fires and at the same time to make recommendations for improvements in the Wayne high school to lessen fire hazards.

Wayne firemen were called at 1:30 a.m. to the Elkins Motor Sales blaze but the building had already collapsed and was on fire its entire length of 190 feet. The building was leased by Elkins, who purchased the business, about a year ago.

Harold Osburn, fire chief, said Elkins was alone in the building, located on Route 52 just south of the Wayne corporation line. Elkins told the fire chief that he was awakened by a loud noise. He grabbed some bed clothing and escaped from the smoke-filled building.

Remembering that he had left his business records in his bedroom he went back into the building and carried the records to safety. He was quoted by Chief Osburn that he had taken the records to his apartment to work on them, as he frequently did at night.

ASKS $63,000 IN SUIT HERE

Owners of Damaged Cars Allege Construction Firm Negligent in Sign Posting

A circuit court suit in which occupants of two motor vehicles which figured in a collision are joint plaintiffs this week asked of the Adams Construction Company, Paintsville, damages totaling $63,000.

Mitchell Short, driver of an automobile which last Oct. 25 struck a parked truck in which Claude Hayes was a passenger, asks $50,000 for permanent injuries and $3,000 for claimed destruction of his auto. Hayes sued the company for $10,000 damages for injuries he claims are permanent.

The petition, filed Monday and prepared by Atty. Paul E. Hayes, says that the Adams Construction Company was repairing Ky. 122, near Hi Hat, and that the truck, which was operated by Ermas Seutchefield, was parked on the highway. It claims that the Construction company had blocked traffic but had failed to post work danger signs or to have a flagman out to warn traffic. As a result, it is maintained, Short's car ran into the truck in which Hayes was a passenger.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE

18,000 GIVEN IMMUNIZATION

35,000 Typhoid Shots Given As Flood Sequel; Polio Clinics Planned

The Floyd County Health Department and assisting agencies here during the flood emergency have administered 35,000 typhoid shots, according to M. V. Clarke, county health administrator. Of these, 23,000 were given in the office here. A total of 18,000 persons received typhoid immunization in the county, he said.

All typhoid clinic sites have now been serviced three times and are being discontinued, Clarke announced. Persons needing either the second or third shot may do so by coming to the Health Department office here or to their nearest doctor. Regular office clinics will be conducted on Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Clarke said that the department will resume the polio clinics that were discontinued during the flood and that schedules will be announced later. He plans a six-week series of clinics.

The Floyd County Health Department office will be closed, Monday, March 11 through Friday, March 15, since office personnel are listed to attend the annual Kentucky Public Health Association meet at Louisville.

YOUTH FLEES CUSTODY HERE

Martin Boy Fugitive After Parole Voided; Outrains Jail Turnkey

Seventeen-year-old Jimmy Branham, of Martin, was a fugitive this week after fleeing custody here Monday afternoon as he was being taken to the county jail from the County Judge's office.

His escape followed revocation by County Judge Henry Stumbo of his probation from a sentence imposed on him and two other Martin juveniles a few weeks ago after they had entered pleas of guilty to breaking and entering several places of business in Martin and vicinity.

The boy had been picked up by State Police and after a conference between the youth, his mother, Judge Stumbo and police he was told by the Judge that further clemency could not be granted. Ray Click, turnkey at the jail, was told to take the youth to jail.

Walking side by side, the two had reached the walk at the front of the jail when young Branham suddenly bounded away. Click gave him hot chase but was outlasted. State police, deputy sheriffs and other officers were alerted, but they failed to find the fugitive.

One of the events leading up to the youth's return to court here was, according to officials, the youth's appearance here recently in his brother's car which he had taken and his leading state police a wild chase, followed by his abandoning the car and swimming the river to effect his escape.

Judge Stumbo recently pointed out that in the cases of juveniles who have been probated violation of probation terms can result in nothing but their transfer to the

OFFICIAL SAYS LAXITY HURTS

Says Conviction Ratio To Number of Cases Low; Sturgill Cites Figures

Failure of Kentucky judges to deal severely with traffic law violators "reflects the greatest weakness in our public-safety drive," Acting Safety Commissioner Don Sturgill said in Frankfort Saturday. He released figures showing a break-down, county by county, of the percentage of those convicted during 1956 by judges hearing cases of those arrested by state police only.

Most of the "low conviction" counties, it was pointed out, are in Eastern Kentucky. Floyd is in this group.

Carroll county last year had the lowest conviction percentage with 25 convicted out of 159 for 15 per cent. Laurel County Judge Boyd Boggs convicted 71 of 497 for 17 per cent, and Floyd and Perry counties convicted 18 per cent of the state police cases.

In this county 30 of 163 cases resulted in convictions, these figures showed.

County Judge Henry Stumbo said perhaps his low rate of convictions could best be laid to such factors as dismissal of minor violations against juveniles and first offenders and the failure of arresting officers to show up in court for trial of the cases.

Pendleton county led the state in conviction percentages with 794 convictions in 804 cases for 99 per cent. Pike county convicted 544 of 957 for 57 per cent, and Boyd county convicted 427 of 665 for 64 per cent.

Sturgill, who cracked down on motorists last month, has persistently urged the co-operation of judges on the premise that drivers will not violate traffic laws as much if they are dealt with severely in the courts.

He said the National Safety Foundation recommends that judges maintain a traffic-conviction rate of 95 per cent.

HABEAS WRIT WINS RELEASE

Keathley Faces Charge From Ohio; Three Taken On Drunk Driving Counts

John Henry Keathley, who was held in the county jail here for Ohio authorities on a conversion charge, won his release recently by means of habeas corpus action in circuit court.

Keathley refused to sign extradition papers for his return to Ohio, then filed the habeas corpus petition, naming Jailer Prock Hayes as defendant.

Three men jailed Sunday were booked on drunk driving charges. They are Earl Osborne, Kelly Chaffins and Bobby Ray Henson. All were arrested by deputy sheriffs. Osborne also was charged with hit-run driving.

Three others listed at the jail within the week were arrested as a.w.o.l. from military service. They were booked as Demera Stone, Rudolph Sword and Henry Thomas. All three have been claimed by military police.

Arrested last Friday on charges of destroying private property and breaking and entering were John Reynolds, Dennis Meadows and Ashland Gearheart. Jailed the same day were Jes Hoper, accused of knowingly receiving stolen property, and Donald R. Prater, who was booked for possessing moonshine whiskey. J. B. Price was jailed Sunday and booked for resisting arrest.

RED CROSS HAS $10,100 GOAL

Quota For This County Only Fraction of Total Going to Flood-Stricken

While the Red Cross was in the process of spending more than $200,000 for flood relief in this county it announced this week that Floyd county quota for the annual Red Cross fund-raising drive is only $10,100.

Blaine Smith, of Prestonsburg, again is chairman of the Floyd drive.

County and city organizations to carry on the campaign, have been effected, and a planning committee is at work, Miss Ella Noel White, executive secretary of Floyd Chapter, American Red Cross, said.

Drive leaders expressed the belief that the response to the call for funds will be met more readily and more enthusiastically this year than ever before, because the people have seen Red Cross on a dramatic mercy mission on the local scene.

Disaster headquarters here said this week that 956 families have applied for Red Cross assistance and the office will remain open as long as necessary to process all applications on hand.

CHILDERS DIES IN CAR CRASH

Auto Collision Victim Succumbs in Ambulance Near Pikeville Hospital

Kenneth Childers, 24, of Pikeville, was fatally injured in an automobile collision early Sunday evening on U. S. 23, two miles south of Allen. He died at about 8:15 p.m., enroute to the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, of internal injuries.

Childers, an employee of a Pikeville department store, was driving south and Lewis Patton, 27, of Prestonsburg, was driving north when the accident occurred. Neither car had a passenger and there were no eye witnesses. State Police are quoted as saying that Patton moved over to his right to allow Childers to pass and dropped off the pavement and in attempting to get back on the road lost control and smashed into the south-bound car.

The victim was a son of the Rev. William Childers, of Guinure, Pike county, and May James Childers. Surviving besides the parents, is an only daughter, Bonny Gail Childers, and one brother, Grover Clinton Childers, of Guinure. He was a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm James, of Guinure, who also survive.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday at 1 p.m. from the Guinure Freewill Baptist Church, the Revs. Johnny Conley and Drevy Muncy officiating. Burial was made in the Scott cemetery there under the direction of J. W. Call Funeral Home.

1-Minute Silent Prayer, Friday Noon, To Feature Prayer Day Observance

The local World Day of Prayer program was announced this week by the committee in charge of observance. Beginning the day's program will be a special prayer on radio station WPRT. A radio panel will discuss the value of prayer on WPRT, 11:30 to 11:45 a.m., and the day's activity, except the program at the church, will be concluded with a prayer on the radio.

Other events of the day will be a children's program at the grade school and a one-minute silent prayer to be observed by the whole community at noon. The services that evening at the church will be conducted by the Council of Church women.

3 DUMP SITES SERVE COUNTY

Clark Asks Flood Debris Be Removed; Recleaning Of Wells in Progress

Three flood debris dump sites to serve this county are now being used by the Civil Defense, it was announced Tuesday by M. V. Clark, health administrator. One is at Prestonsburg, the site to serve Beaver Creek is located midway between Allen and Martin on the Hall farm and the third is on Pike-Floyd Branch (at Betsy Layne).

Truckers have contracted with the Civil Defense organization here to haul the debris away and they began work Monday. Clark urges that homeowners collect anything to be removed and pile it, either beside the street, highway or near the home where the truckers may load it. The new system of disposal does not prevent people from hauling debris away themselves, Clark said. However these public dumps should be used, Clark added, as the sites are to be covered over with the use of a bull-dozer when the job of collecting and hauling is completed.

The Civil Defense organization has also employed three pumping crews to clean out wells in the county and flooded well owners are asked by the Health Department to make application at its office for the work to be performed. Two crews will pump out shallow wells and a crew from the Hayes Bros. Drilling Company at Betsy Layne will clean out deep wells.

AGED MAYTOWN NATIVE DIES AT SISTER'S HOME; Rites Conducted Sunday

Mr. Hayes was a son of Hezekiah and Jane Salisbury Hayes, pioneer Beaver Creek residents. He resided in Wyoming for several years but returned to this county two years ago and resided here with his brother, Jailer Prock Hayes.

One daughter, Mrs. Clifford Reynolds, of Montana, survives. Surviving brothers and sisters, besides Prock Hayes and Mrs. Webb are D. B. Hayes, in Pike county, Marion

SAYS MARKETING GROUP SURE WAY TO SUCCESS

"There is only one sure way of getting rid of a lot of strawberries and that is through a marketing association," Russell Meade, president of the East Kentucky Strawberry Growers Cooperative, said this week in urging farmers to patronize the organization this year.

"Last year was our first season and a lot of mistakes were made but we gained a lot of experience and hope to profit this year by them," he continued. Noting that the board of directors of the cooperative had reemployed Harold Rice to manage the association's business this year, Meade added that Rice had gained enough experience to possibly market this year's crop without paying the 10% commission as was done last year.

Meade pointed out, in a statement to co-op members, Monday, that last season was a tough one for process berries and that prospects were little better this year. "However, on the whole, the Association last year ranked 7th out of 13 strawberry associations in the state for the net returned to the growers," he said.

The Meade statement continued: "This season your directors voted to apply a penalty of $2.00 per crate to any berries marked, 'slack pack,' and this money will be placed in the expense account to apply as transportation and otherwise, any part of the cost of operations on all of the berries marketed. These slack packs do not bring as much as a full crate and it was thought to be unfair to average the price as though all crates were well packed."

"Certified, virus free foundation stock, Tennessee Beauty plants can be obtained for $12.00 per thousand and the Association is taking orders until March 15."

SCHOOLS LOSE 10,809 TEXTS DURING FLOOD

State, County System Hard-Pressed To Find Replacement Finances

Floyd county schools lost in the recent flood 10,809 textbooks, valued at $13,986.17. V. O. Turner, county superintendent of schools, said this week. All but 95 volumes were lost in schools outside the Prestonsburg system, it was noted.

The lost texts leave the Board of Education in a quandary, Turner said, since there is no money readily available to purchase new books. Conferences have been held with Ishmael Triplett, director of the Division of Free Textbooks, and Dr. Robert Martin, state superintendent of public instruction, but nothing tangible has been promised in the way of money. The state is hard-pressed also to find the money to replace flooded books.

One idea advanced is to charge the books out to the counties over the ensuing years but this is only a tentative suggestion. Triplett and Martin are scheduled to present the matter of needed money to the federal government at an early date.

There, however, was a bit of relief extended to students in this county who personally owned textbooks. The Good Neighbor Committee of Lexington and Fayette county has matched a sum raised by pupils and teachers over the state to buy books for flood victims. Floyd county's initial allocation from the fund is $600.

State Superintendent Martin, in advising V. O. Turner of the fund, wrote:

"The allotment is to be used to replace textbooks and school supplies that were lost in the flood and that were the personal property of school pupils. It may not be used to replace property that belonged to school districts."

Dr. Martin said that "school

COURT MOTION REOPENS CASE

New Judge Certification Sought in Cooley Case; $17,701 Recovery Asked

Attorney Clyde Parley, of Pikeville, has filed a motion in Circuit Court here seeking to certify the case of Floyd County vs. W. W. Cooley, circuit clerk, to the Court of Appeals for the appointment of a special judge. The suit, brought by Woodrow Burchett as one of his last acts as County Attorney four years ago, seeks to recover from Cooley the sum of $17,701.39 which it alleges the clerk owes over and above his constitutional limit for the period of 1947-1951.

The suit points out that Cooley was entitled to only $5,000 as his annual constitutional limits for each of those years. The limit has subsequently been raised to $7,200 by constitutional amendment.

Cooley, in commenting on the latest legal move in the case, said this week: "This suit was originally filed nearly four years ago. I have been in Floyd county ever since and nothing was done about it. Now that I am a candidate for County Judge it is dragged out. Apparently somebody in my opposition is hurting and is looking for help."

Meade pointed out, in a statement to co-op members, Monday, that last season was a tough one for process

Flood-Damaged Dressings At Lady of Way Hospital, Are Replaced by Supplier

Our Lady of the Way hospital at Martin has been shipped $500 worth of surgical dressings to replace critically-needed items which were damaged during the recent flood. The donor was Johnson & Johnson, New Brunswick, N. J., manufacturer of surgical dressings and other hospital products.

J. H. Mullins, the firm's hospital representative for the stricken area, checked with the hospital when he learned of the flood damage. He was told of the loss of vital supplies and took prompt emergency action to replace gratuitously the Johnson & Johnson products.

E. E. Dickson, vice-president of Johnson & Johnson's Hospital Division, praised Mr. Mullins for his immediate action, and the hospital staff for its work during the emergency. "We, of course, regret these tragedies but commend the management and personnel of the hospital for their magnificent job under conditions of great strain and stress. We were glad to be of help."

JOE P's PLATFORM

It is my considered judgment that any man who seeks the support of his people in a campaign for public office should submit for their consideration, not only his moral life, but also the things for which he stands. In keeping with this principle, I submit herewith for the careful consideration of every one the following platform.

1. First of all, I submit my daily life for close scrutiny and if you find that I am morally fit to serve you as your next County Attorney, then I covet your active support. I'm not ashamed to confess that for the past several years I have been a Christian and in connection with that, I am not ashamed to declare publicly that in office or out, I seek divine guidance in all things.
2. I pledge to the children of our county that as County Attorney I shall give full and unstinted cooperation and support to our Educational system, looking always to a better, bigger and more abundant administration of our educational opportunities to our children.
3. I pledge and solemnly promise to the people out in the rural sections that I shall use every power at my command to secure from our Rural Highway Commission at Frankfort more rural road construction and repairs than Floyd County has ever known in the past. In this connection I call your attention to the fact that with the Road Bond Issue, we will have plenty of our State Road Revenue released from our main highways and that will swell the money to be spent on our Rural Roads. This means that we are facing for the next few years a golden opportunity which we have never had before. Remember though, it will take constant work on the part of your County Attorney and Fiscal Court to bring to Floyd County its just share of this money. Having served as County Attorney from 1930 to 1934 during which time I purchased more right-of-way for roads and procured more road construction than Floyd County had had up to that time, I feel justified in saying that I am convinced that I will be able, because of my past experience, to get more of this vast amount of money spent on our rural roads than either of my opponents.
4. It is the duty of the County Attorney to advise all county officials on the law and to see to it that your tax money is not illegally spent or wasted. The record bears me out that during my former term as your County Attorney, I performed that duty well. During the next four years I promise that the Fiscal Court and all county officials will have my services available to them at all times on this, the most important function of my office. Members of the Fiscal Court are not lawyers and, of course, they need the legal advice of the County Attorney to guide them in the proper discharge of their important duties. This they shall have from me as the guardian of your legal rights.
5. Having reared six children and two grandchildren, I feel that I can assure the youth of our county, and their parents, that I have the necessary understanding of our youth problems to deal with that question in a way that will tend to improve our juvenile problems. As I see it, children grow up within the confines of a child's mind and any public official dealing with them should keep constantly in mind that such a child does not possess the mature mental faculties as we older people. It is my considered opinion that children should be dealt with in the spirit of reformation rather than destructive methods. They will be our citizens and leaders of tomorrow. Let's try to train them spiritually and morally so that our country will be safe tomorrow in their hands.
6. The above is my views on a few of the problems that will confront your next County Attorney and when elected, I shall enter the performance of the duties of the office consecrated and devoted to the righteous fulfillment of these, together with all others not herein discussed. If the people of our county believe in me and those principles and have faith that I will make for them an honest official, then I confidently submit that you will elect me by an unprecedented majority. If you do, I pledge my all to a better Floyd County.

Faithfully yours,
JOE P. TACKETT

Would Full Publicity Help?

J. Edgar Hoover, famed director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, recently stirred up nationwide interest in methods of handling youthful criminals by urging that the names of youthful delinquents be publicized and that their crimes be handled by the newspapers much as those of adult criminals are handled.

The public reaction is one reflecting mixed emotions.

Some say the youthful offender should be protected, that his name should not be "smeared"; and most newspapers of the country have, in deference to that line of thinking, refrained from publication of their names.

Others contend that the old ways have failed, that publicity would serve as a deterrent and that it, therefore, should be used.

Mr. Hoover himself said:

"Are we to stand idly by while fierce, young hoodlums—too often and too long harbored under the glossy misnomer of juvenile delinquents—roam our streets and desecrate our communities? If we do, America might well witness a resurgence of the brutal criminality and mobsterism of a past era. . . . Recent happenings in juvenile crime shatter the illusion that soft-hearted mollicoddling is the answer to this problem. . . . No longer can we tolerate the 'tender-years' alibi for youthful law-breaking. This is certainly no time for police to be shackled by illogical restraints placed on unreasoned sympathy for these young thugs."

Then Hoover suggests:

"Publicizing the names as well as the crimes for public scrutiny, release of past records to appropriate law-enforcement officials, and fingerprinting for future identification are all necessary procedures in the war on the flagrant violator, regardless of age."

He adds, reasonably enough, "Certainly, reasonable leniency for children committing first offenses and minor violations is a proper consideration."

Surely no newspaper can publish such news without regret, but the tide of events does not consult newspapers before it sweeps into a community, and a publication devoted to the ideal of uncensored recording of the life of a community, county or state faces a big problem when it attempts to say, "John Doe's crime shall be news, because he is 18 years old; Richard Roe's crime that is even more vicious is not news because he lacks a few months of attaining the age of 18."

Whether it reaches publication or not, the record is there—in the courts and in the minds of those who know these youthful offenders. Unfortunately, the reputations of youngsters are imperiled more by the gossip of those who know them and know of their aberrations than any plain statement of fact can ever damage them.

Certainly, we would say a mere accusation against a juvenile would not warrant publication of the name of the accused. But when the youth is convicted and everybody who counts in his life—that is, those who know him and whom he knows—know that he has been convicted, we fail to see wherein the harm that has already been done is made greater by publication of the facts, plus names.

Yet, attempting as we are herein to view the question from the standpoint of law-enforcement rather than that of newspaper reporting, we add that if such publicity would not serve as a deterrent to youthful crime by giving youth to understand that the veil of secrecy shall no longer protect them, no sound and valid reason would exist for publication.

be a disrupting thing in the lives of many residents in the headwaters of the Big Sandy and its tributaries.

But they will be paid for their property, the constant threat of flood for them and all others will be removed, and the valley will look to the future with hope rather than with dread and despair. There is no other way out—some sacrifice must be made somewhere for the salvation of the whole area.

It is because such highly important matters inevitably will arise that the people should get together, study the situation from a realistic viewpoint, and then move together in concerted effort rather than separately. It is this lack of harmonious effort that in the past has made all our efforts so weak and unavailing.

MANIS CONLEY
For TAX COMMISSIONER

Are you in favor of high taxes? Do you know where your money goes and how your tax dollar is spent? Do you know how your property is assessed? Do you think the office of Tax Commissioner is a full time job instead of a hobby? Are you satisfied or do you want a change?

You and your family will go to the voting house on May 23 to mark your ballot and answer these questions. Therefore, I submit to you my candidacy for Tax Commissioner.

I will personally supervise the work of keeping your tax records. I WILL STAY IN THE OFFICE MYSELF and no taxpayer will be disappointed about not being able to find the Tax Commissioner. I will consider the office as a full-time job and not a sideline. I will not align myself with any political faction nor will I play favorites just because a certain taxpayer might have political influence. I will not go in the coal business or any other business so as to obligate myself to any taxpayer or group of taxpayers.

I will be sympathetic to the owners of property. If you so desire I will come to your home and discuss your assessment with you. I have taught school in Floyd county for more than 40 years. I have a great deal of experience in tax work. I have passed every examination given to candidates for Tax Commissioner since 1925 and have always made a high grade. I am qualified to give the people of Floyd county the fair, efficient, impartial, and fulltime service to which they are entitled.

Many of you know me and my family, and the family of my wife. My parents were the late J. M. Conley and Phoebe Jane Coburn Conley. My grandfather on my mother's side was a Coburn and my grandmother on my mother's side was a Neely from Abbott Creek. I married Josephine Alley, daughter of the late Andy Jack and Mahala Hall Alley. My wife's grandmother was a sister of the late Green Stumbo of McDowell. She married a Hall, also from McDowell. The relationship of my wife and myself extends through several of the larger families of our county.

I have nothing derogatory to say about my opponent. He has held the Tax Commissioner's office for the last 16 years. He has other business interests to the extent that the Tax Commissioner's office is almost a sideline with him. The people were kind to him as a young man and he has prospered. His wife has drawn the pay of an assistant Tax Commissioner for many years. He is now asking the people to extend his term of office to a full 20 years. I ask only a small part of the kindness which has been extended to him. I am now 64 years of age. I have never held public office. I am in the sunset of life, and in the few active years that are left to me, I humbly solicit your support and influence. I shall never forget your kindness and I shall never betray your confidence.

Humbly and Gratefully,

We Need To Get Together

A report in THE DICKENSONIAN, weekly newspaper published at Clintwood, Va., of the appearance in Washington recently of a delegation from that section in behalf of flood control emphasizes to us the need for concerted effort on the part of all flood-ravaged counties of Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia rather than for independent drives.

For this report indicates that residents of the Haysi area and of Grundy, in the vicinity of two of the proposed dams, are opposed to the construction of major flood control projects. Instead, they are suggesting flood-walls and deepening of stream channels.

Thus is reflected thinking which applies to the needs of only two towns and surrounding areas. Protection by flood-walls and stream-bed dredging of individual towns offers no protection for all those other communities downstream from the protected spots. Prestonsburg, for instance, may be able to protect itself against all but the most devastating of floods, but Prestonsburg is only a small spot on the map. What of all those other towns and farms above and below here?

It is natural that these Virginia communities seek to avoid the sacrifice that must be made if the flood control reservoirs are to be built near Haysi and Grundy. Homes and farms will have to be abandoned and their owners will have to relocate elsewhere, as is the story wherever reservoirs are formed. It will & Home Finance Agency, is accompanying Mr. Shouse to the meeting. Invitations were extended to the mayors of 28 cities in the flood-hit region.

Conferences were held Tuesday and Wednesday in Barbourville and Hazard, and the final meeting was Wednesday at the city hall, Paintsville.

Shouse said the talks also are being used to discuss federal flood insurance, which is expected to be underwritten in the state next year, and the flood-plain planning study to be started soon in southeastern Kentucky under the supervision of his division. Objective of this study is to develop a plan of action for preventing and minimizing future flood losses in this area.

The state planning officials listed three federal programs under which flood-damaged communities might obtain financial assistance in rehabilitation work:

Urban Renewal—If a municipal area has been so badly damaged that it should be torn down and completely rebuilt, the city may request it to be designated an urban redevelopment project. Under this program, the federal government agrees to pay up to two-thirds the net cost of the land acquired by the city and disposed of to private enterprise or public bodies.

Public housing—this is the federal program of financing low-rent public housing in communities where there exists a shortage of safe and sanitary dwellings for low-income families.

Sewage Treatment Works—Under Public Law 660, the U. S. Surgeon General is authorized to make grants to any state, municipality or inter-municipal agency for the construction of necessary treatment systems to prevent water pollution. Federal aid is limited to 30 percent of the cost, or $250,000, whichever is smaller.

A CHALLENGE

The American Red Cross fundraising drive is now under way in this county. The goal is only $10,100.

We say, "only," because right now this same Red Cross is in the process of spending $200,000 in Floyd county alone for flood relief. More Red Cross money will be spent in the flood-stricken Eastern Kentucky counties than all Kentucky will be asked to subscribe this year during the Red Cross roll-call.

Can we, in view of the heroic job done by the Red Cross this year, fail to meet this quota? Another question: Can any of us imagine how many of our people could have gone on after having been wiped out, except by the help the Red Cross has given? If we fail this year's quota it will be to our shame.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our son, Woodrow Osborne, who passed away three years ago:

What would we give to clasp your hands,
Your happy face we'd like to see;
And hear your voice and see your smile
That meant so much to us.

Just when your life was gay and bright,
Just when your years were best—
You were called from this world's sorrow
To go home and eternal rest.

Your smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall;
You had a kindly word for everyone and died beloved by all.

Someday we hope to meet you;
Someday we know not when—
To clasp your hand in a better land.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Always fond and true.

There's no day nor night,
Dear Woody, we do not think of you,

I am the son of Buck Gray and Lona Ousley Gray.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank each and everyone of you who are helping me in my campaign for Sheriff. Without your help it would be useless for me to make the race for the office which is so important to each and everyone of us.

During my campaign I will do my best to see every voter and solicit your help before the election. Through my eight years experience as an officer I have always tried to be fair in dealing with the public. I have always taken care of our schools and churches when called on to do so and I believe that has been quite a few times as many of you know. I will do everything in my power when elected Sheriff to protect our places of worship and schools for our children.

I will not make a lot of wild promises like some have in the past to get your vote. My one and only promise is this: Everyone will be treated and served with the utmost respect from me and my deputies who will be clean, decent and efficient men who will know how to serve the public as officers should.

I solicit your vote and support in my race for Sheriff and I'll reward you with four years of honest, impartial law enforcement.

Frankfort, March 5 — Every vacation season many people are plagued with swarms of visiting out-of-state relatives who hit the old homestead like locusts.

This vexation seems to have been abated somewhat by one fellow with the aid of Kentucky State Park literature.

Last summer, he told this writer, it just happened that four families of kissin' kin announced their intention to arrive at his rather cramped quarters on the same week-end in hot July.

Frenziedly seeking some means to lodge and feed them, he hit upon what he considered a forlorn hope: he sent each family some Kentucky State Park folders and advertisements.

They took the hint and visited the parks instead of ravaging his cupboard. His dad-in-law even invited our resourceful friend to Kentucky Lake for a week-end of fishing.

Let's we promote a domestic rift or two, we'll not divulge our friend's name. But we can quote him. "This year," he said, "I'm sending out those park folders early."

PROGRAM INITIATED ON WATER SYSTEMS

A concentrated program to provide the installation of running water systems and indoor toilets in Eastern Kentucky has been announced by the Kentucky State Department of Health. In areas without electricity, or where for some other reason such systems are impractical, construction of sanitary privies and improvement of wells and cisterns is being encouraged.

The program is in response to an offer by the Red Cross to provide lumber needed to replace privies destroyed by flood in 13 counties in the area. "The Red Cross offer gives every family in the flooded areas an opportunity to have at least basic waste disposal facilities," said Harvey G. McAndrews, Director of the State Health Department's Division of Sanitation. "However, wherever possible, we would like to see them have even better facilities. In most cases wherever there is electricity there is the possibility of running water, even if it is supplied by a well or cistern. And if a house has running water, it is likely that flush toilets and a septic tank system can be installed," McAndrews added.

The Health Department will provide diagrams and instructions for the construction and installation of approved running water systems, septic tanks and lateral fields, or sanitary type privies.

According to the 1955 United States Census, in one county in the flooded area, Leslie, only 4.3 per cent of the homes had inside plumbing while 85 per cent of the homes had radios, powered mostly by household electricity. Bell county, with the highest percentage of homes with indoor plumbing of all counties in the flooded area, had only 34 per cent.

Health authorities hope to carry the educational campaign to other nearby counties which were unaffected by the flood waters. "We know that many families in Eastern Kentucky do not have privies or any other toilet, but simply use the ground. People must understand the basic facts of sanitation if we are to reduce the incidence of typhoid, diarrhea, hookworm and other waste-borne diseases," McAndrews said.

Joe Weddington, Chandler campaign manager in the 1955 gubernatorial election, announced this week that at his request an additional $100,000 of state funds have been deposited in each of Prestonsburg's banks—the First National and the Bank Josephine.

State funds have been allocated for deposit in several banks of the area since the destructive January flood.

MAYTOWN WINS TOURNEY WITH BETSY LAYNE GAME

Maytown's free-running Wildcats broke a 61-61 tie in the final six seconds on Bill Elliott's jumping one-hander to edge Betsy Layne, 63-61, for the championship of the Floyd county district basketball tournament in the McDowell gym last Saturday night.

Thus the Wildcats will represent Floyd county, along with runner-up Betsy Layne, in the regional tournament in Paintsville this week. Tonight (Thursday) Maytown will meet Oil Springs at 8:30.

During the season, Maytown won at home, 58-48, on November 2, and Oil Springs won a return meeting on their floor, 87-68, on February 22.

In the hard-fought final game, Maytown jumped in front 17-12 at the end of the first period and increased the margin to 36-30 at the halfway point. Tommy Boyd's Bobcats outscored the victors in the third quarter as Charles Blevins, Ray Clark and Richard Reynolds scored 26 points to trail the Wildcats by 53-55.

The fourth and final period was a slow, deliberate and cautious game with each team scoring only eight points. Betsy Layne knotted the count at 61-61 with 27 seconds to play and called a time out. On putting the ball back in play "Wild Bill" Elliott stole the pass and raced downcourt to flip in the winning points from 15 feet out to give the Wildcats their fifth district title.

Center Rodney Click was the workhorse on the boards for Maytown, and his rebounding was instrumental in the victory. Maytown, tutored by Ray Heinisch, had won its way into the finals by whipping Auxier, 96-71, in the first round and a much-improved Wheelwright five in the semi-finals, 75-68.

Betsy Layne had gained the final round with an opening 35-60 verdict over Prestonsburg and an 87-61 semi-final decision from Garrett. In other action of the six-day, nine-team tournament, Garrett eliminated McDowell, 69-68, in an overtime game after the Black Devils led by 20 points at one time.

Forrest Curry's Wheelwright Maroons won their third district tournament game off all time with a mild upset, 67-66, win over defending district and regional champion Wayland.

Garrett bounced Martin from tournament play with a 70-67 win and a 24-point performance by Edgar Rister.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, World Day of Prayer will be observed this year in many places throughout the world where humble peoples, living against a background of universal tension and uncertainty, will bow their heads and lift up their hearts to Almighty God in prayer, and

WHEREAS, The Church Women of Prestonsburg will join in this occasion with church women in communities throughout the nation and the world to form an articulate and inspiring chain of human prayer, and

WHEREAS, The troubled peoples in less fortunate nations than ours, and indeed, even in our own beloved country, need Divine Guidance as never before, especially as is stimulated through prayerful communion.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Harry Sandige, Mayor of the City of Prestonsburg, do hereby proclaim Friday, March 8, 1957, as

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER in Prestonsburg, and I urge our citizens to observe this day by attending on March 8, 1957, wherever possible, World Day of Prayer services at the Community Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. or pausing for a minute of prayer at high noon to ask God to give us, in all our humility, the wisdom and courage to meet and successfully solve the profound problems of our times.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand this 7th day of March 1957.

HARRY SANDIGE, Mayor

GRADY WALLACE NAMED TO UP ALL-AMERICAN

By Gordon Moore

Grady Wallace, of Mare Creek, and former Betsy Layne high school net star, this week became the first basketball player from this area to be named an all-American.

The big Floyd youngster, now a net star at the University of South Carolina, was named Monday to the 1957 United Press All-American team, and no doubt will be named to virtually all of the all-star teams when they are announced in forthcoming weeks.

Saturday night, Grady retained his No. 1 position as the nation's leading collegiate scorer with 44 points as he and his mates downed Clemson, 113-85, for their 15th win of the season. Incidentally, his parents were in the stands watching their all-American son perform.

Last week representatives of Movietone news spent the week on the Columbia campus filming a short subject on the daily activities of Grady, and this finished product will be available to Floyd county civic clubs for showing within a month.

South Carolina mentor Frank Johnson and his assistant, Walter Hambrick, ex-Pikeville College mentor, say that Grady is the most popular man on the campus and is literally worshipped by all the youth of Columbia. To show appreciation of some token toward Grady's efforts, South Carolina school officials are retiring number 42 (Grady's number) to a permanent trophy case in the fieldhouse as a memo of the Floyd countian's many school records.

Grady will take part in an all star game this week-end in Kansas City and during the following week has an invitation to play with a similar group in Madison Square Garden, New York. If he can get time off from his studies, he will join the college all stars for one week in their annual swing against the Harlem Globetrotters.

DEAR FRIENDS AND FELLOW VOTERS:

I am very thankful for the kind interest that you have shown me in the past. I will greatly appreciate you and your support in this primary election.

I have always conducted my political campaigns on a high level. I have always been aware of the feelings of my opponents and their friends and their loved ones. I have never knowingly wounded anyone's feelings, or spread unkind gossip about any of my opponents or their loved ones. It has always been my desire to be kind and considerate of others.

I have always tried to live a good clean life; to do my level best for the good of my Country and my County.

I have faith in humanity, and I have always tried to see the good that there is in everyone, and to help them achieve success and happiness in this life, and hope for a better world in the Great Beyond. Never will I lend my thoughts or my conduct to the tearing down or the destroying of the good that there is in the life of anyone, whether they be my colleague or my adversary. I firmly believe that no man can build himself up by tearing down his fellowmen. I will always work for that which is good, right and honest.

Your County Court Clerk's Office has been well kept during the period of time I have had the Honor and Privilege of serving you. I have tried to secure and to keep the very best help that I could find. We have worked long and hard and been faithful and true to your trust. We will do our best to serve you well during the next four years. Your interests will be our interests, and your welfare will be our welfare. We desire to serve you well. We will be honest and faithful, and strive to save you money and time when you have business to look after in the County Court Clerk's Office. No job will be too large or too small. It will be a pleasure if we can please you. When you are pleased with our service, we will be happy.

Having been in every precinct in the County in the past few weeks, I know that you too are well satisfied with the service we have been able to give you. I want you to know that I am deeply grateful for the hard work so many of you, my good friends and relatives, are doing for me in my race for the Democratic nomination for County Court Clerk.

May God be our keeper and our guide in this campaign.

Typical of many sections of river bank being washed away by the recent flood is this scene at Banner. The high wall of bank, a sheer vertical drop of several feet, is topped by green grass growing out to the edge.

Gil Varney, regional Forest Service representative from Pennsylvania, who made a recent tour of the Big Sandy and other flood-stricken valleys, says that four things contributed to the severity of the flood run-off. These were strip mining on our headstreams, the disastrous forest fires of 1952 and 1953, logging roads and highways and poor agricultural practices. The heavy mud accumulations, particularly in Southern Floyd county and in Pike county resulted, Varney says, from these four causes.

L. R. Johnson, soil conservationist here, advocates a vegetative covering to prevent heavy damage to stream banks.

To The Republican Voters Of Magisterial District No. 1

I take this means of offering myself as your next nominee and magistrate.

I was born and raised at Emma (mouth of Cow Creek), a son of the late Bertram Lee and Margery Harris Porter. My wife is Malta Sue May, daughter of the late Calab Sherman and Martha Louise Music May. We have one daughter, Madelyn Sue, a sophomore at Prestonsburg high school. I graduated from Prestonsburg high in 1937, have had a book-keeping course and studied electrical work at Mayo State Vocational School. I have followed construction work for several years, and should be qualified to know the needs of both Labor and Management.

I am a veteran of World War II, Senior Vice-Commander of Walter Karr Bowling Post 5839, Veterans of Foreign Wars, member of American Legion Post 129, member of Executive Board, Grievance committee, and Negotiating committee of Local Union No. 317 I.B.E.W. AFL-CIO, and a member of the York and Scottish Rite Bodies of Masonry.

Like most of you on the river and low-lying tributaries of Big Sandy, I was practically ruined by the recent flood. But with the help of God, patience and a lot of hard work, we'll rise again and build a bigger and better Big Sandy Valley.

I believe as Magistrate, one's district comes first and by this I mean the ENTIRE District and not the community where I might live or where some of my close friends live.

You good people in all 20 voting communities of our District deserve equal consideration on your roads, bridges and other community needs. In me you have a solemn promise of this.

It is my belief that I have the qualifications to make you a good Magistrate, and meet with the proper authorities, local, state, and federal, for the betterment of our District, County and all the people. You may rest assured of fairness and equality for all, big or small.

So when you go to the polls on May 28, consider and cast your vote for the one who is best qualified and will make you a winner in November.

Your vote and influence will be deeply appreciated.

McCoy, in Scrap Appeal, Hopeful Contributions Will Aid Needy Children

A letter written to daily newspapers by Charles M. McCoy, of Prestonsburg, following the recent flood has resulted in persons from all parts of the country responding with shipments of scrap materials and, in some cases, contributions of money.

Mr. McCoy's letter to the newspapers, which did not ask for cash contributions, is self-explanatory:

"Nine years ago shortly after coming out of the Army, I started from scratch in the scrap metal business in Prestonsburg, Ky., and gradually built up the Mountain Metal Co., steadily employing 16 to 20 men. But the recent flood in the Big Sandy Valley just about wiped me out—some 12 hours of effort vanished in some 12 hours—the flood ruining two cranes, seven trucks, two shears, two baling machines and other small equipment, worth thousands of dollars. It was about all I had.

"I'm not asking anyone for dollars and cents. It may seem odd—I'm only asking for scrap metal, a pound or 10 pounds, whether it be an old iron, or a water faucet, a piece of brass or a piece of copper, aluminum, or any kind of metal whatever—it will be very kindly appreciated, large or small.

"If many little drops of rain send down a ravaging flood, taking away in a few hours what it took years to save, then perhaps many good folk can help restore it by merely sending a few pounds of scrap metal to put us in business again.

"The estimated damage to this little town of 3,500 was put at $5 to $5.5 million as estimated by WSAZ-TV. If I can get a good response or help, I can help others."

"This week Mr. McCoy said he is hopeful that the help he is receiving will enable him in the future "to buy many a pair of shoes" for needy youngsters.

FOOD NOTES

By Dixie Trapp
Home Demonstration Agent

It is a breeze to freeze, especially when you have on hand the proper materials and have a plan for freezing. Foods frozen are convenient and the supply can easily be replaced as it diminishes.

A good freezer wrap must act as a barrier to moisture and vapor. It prevents dehydration by keeping the moisture in along with the flavor you've captured. Keeps air out, thus preventing frost, freezer burn and lessens "bleeding" when the food thaws.

Freeze meat, fowl, fish, baked goods, casseroles, vegetables, butter and ice cream. PLAN AHEAD FREEZING makes for versatile variety in menus. Make two and freeze one or freeze leftovers. Then combine foods from the freezer in quickly, made-ready, colorful meals.

Individual meat loaves ready to heat for serving while table is set, coffee prepared, and ice water poured makes getting a quick meal easy and not so nerve racking. Use your favorite recipe or you might like to try this one: MEAT LOAF

3 slices of soft bread, 1c milk, 1 egg, 1 lb. ground beef, 1/2 lb ground pork, 1/4 cup finely chopped onion, 1 1/4 t salt, and an equal amount of pepper, mustard, sage, garlic salt (your choice). Heat oven to 350 degrees F (moderate). Tear bread into large mixing bowl; add milk and egg. Add meat and seasoning; mix thoroughly. Shape into eight individual loaves; place in shallow baking pan. Bake 1 hour. Cool to wrap for freezing. (If aluminum wrap is used, may be reheated in wrapping.)

Perkins Urges Congress Restore Library Funds Cut by Administration

Representative Carl D. Perkins, of Hindman, Thursday of last week, urged Congress to restore a 60 percent cut in rural library funds recommended by the Eisenhower administration.

Perkins appeared before the House Appropriations Committee to ask for the full $7,500,000 authorized for the rural-library program last year.

The President recommended $3,000,000.

Perkins told the committee: "There is no point in passing a good law if you are then going to participate in a partial veto of the bill by failing to appropriate the money needed to put the law into effect."

He noted that in passing the Rural Library Act of 1956 Congress had authorized expenditure of $7,500,000 for five consecutive years.

"That figure represents only one five-hundredth of one per cent of the current national budget he said, and added:

"It certainly seems to me that a country that can afford to spend over $6,000,000 to add an extra bomber to its air fleet can afford to spend $7,500,000 to bring 26,000,000 people the educational and recreational benefits of this library-aid legislation."

Perkins told the committee he recognizes the importance of cutting federal expenditures, but finds it "very hard to see the sense of trying to economize at the expense of enlightening our people."

The $7,500,000 requested appropriation, he said, is only slightly more than the $6,000,000 a day the country is paying in increased interest payments on the national debt, brought about by increased interest rates during the past four years.

Perkins read a telegram from Mrs. Barry Bingham, book editor of The Courier-Journal, in which she said:

"Urging passage of full authorized appropriation. These suggested cuts would undermine the very purpose of the bill. Three million dollars simply cannot finance pilot experiments in the states satisfactorily enough to lead toward stimulation of local resources for the development of adequate rural-library services."

I would like to say to the people of Floyd county that I am proud of the fair way Judge Hill has tried our cases. No man has been able to tell him what to do, altho he will listen to all. The rich and poor look alike to him, and he will see that the rights of poor people are protected. The Attorneys of Eastern Kentucky, practically all are unanimous in praising Judge Hill as being a just judge.

Qualification should be the most important consideration in selecting a Circuit Judge.

I want to ask all my friends of Floyd county to support Judge Hill in his race this year for reelection.

WHAT MAKES GRADY GO—The nation's leading scorer, South Carolina's Grady Wallace, of Mare Creek, Floyd county displays his favorite shot that has netted him a 30-point-plus average this season. Left to right, the 6-foot, 4-inch Wallace (1) gets a hearing on the basket. If he's clear he'll make a one-handed push shot, but if the way is too hazardous he (2 & 3) dribbles toward the foul circle (4) stops, with eyes never off the goal, and (5 & 6) jumps, balancing the ball on the cushion of his right hand. At the height of the leap he fades away and thrusts the ball forward with only forearm, wrist and hand, and . . . (7) whoosh! Wallace's leaping shot enables him to score on opponents three to four inches taller. He's the Atlantic Coast Conference's leading rebounder and is the nation's top scorer.

NEW REGULATION GOVERNS PUBLIC BUILDING PLUMBING

A new regulation by the Kentucky State Board of Health requires that plans be submitted to and approved by the State Department of Health before any plumbing system can be constructed or extensively altered in public buildings throughout the state.

The regulation, adopted January 10, 1957, under Chapter 211 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes, will promote better, safer plumbing in all Kentucky public buildings. After examining the submitted plans the State Department of Health will make all necessary inspection to insure that the plumbing installations comply with the approved plans and the State Plumbing Code.

The State Plumbing Code, under KRS 318, has previously been applicable to public and private buildings in counties containing cities of the first and second class and to public buildings in other counties under various public health laws. The new regulation fixes the authority under a single statute, thus clarifying the plumbing requirements and protecting the entire state, as far as public buildings are concerned, against faulty or unsanitary plumbing, sewage disposal, drainage, and water supply systems. The Board plans eventually to bring private homes in counties without first or second class cities also under the Plumbing Code.

Provisions of the new regulation, which took effect on February 15, include the following:

1. Applicants shall submit plans in triplicate to their county health departments for forwarding to the State Department of Health in Louisville.
2. In the event no public sewer is available for draining the system of the building, the plan shall include the proposed type of sewage disposal system.
3. If a sewage sub-soil drainage system is used, a complete soil study and the results of percolation tests must be submitted.

4. The subsequent construction of the plumbing system must be in accordance with the plans as approved by the State Department of Health.

Plumbing supply houses, contractors, and county health departments are receiving copies of the regulation.

Telephone Talk

by H. D. HAYES
Your Telephone Manager

IT'S ALMOST planting time. And all over the state we're planting a new crop — a crop of telephones. Last year alone we "planted" 30,513 new telephones in Kentucky, while spending $27,083,000 for expansion. This year we expect to add some 34,000 more and spend about $19,000,000. All these new phones mean convenience and better living for a lot of folks. And they mean that you can call more people and more can call you. So your telephone keeps getting more useful, and that's the way we want it. For every time your telephone helps you we sort of feel like we're helping, too.

I REMEMBER the time when a traveler needed a pretty sharp eye to spot a telephone booth when he wanted to call someone. Now, just about everywhere you go you see those brightly colored, lighted telephone booths along the highways and in other public places, open 24 hours a day. And it's no accident, either. You see, we spend a lot of time picking places to put phone booths where they'll be most convenient for you. Good to know, isn't it, that wherever you go you're never far from a phone?

SPEAKING OF TRAVELING, nothing takes you where you want to go faster than a telephone call. I'll bet you can think of several out-of-town folks you'd like to visit with right now — maybe a friend who's been transferred, a relative you haven't seen in a long time. Why not telephone? It's easy to do and you'll both get a lot of fun out of it. For faster service, let me suggest you give the operator the out-of-town telephone number if you know it. Then your calls go through twice as fast.

State Income Tax
Facts Are Given
By Commissioner

Frankfort, Mar. 5 (Spl.) — April 15 is a date to be circled on your calendar.

That is the deadline for filing returns.

Revenue Commissioner J. E. Lucketts today reminded Kentuckians that every person having a gross annual income of $800 or more is required by state law to file a return.

Lucketts said the tax forms and procedure for filing are as simple and convenient for the taxpayer as possible.

"Generally speaking," he added, "the gross income and itemized deductions to be reported on the 1956 return are the same as those to be reported to the federal government."

He reminded taxpayers to attach to the returns original copies of Kentucky withholding statements reporting income from wages.

Farmers and business and professional people, the commissioner said, are required to submit schedules to verify income or deductions reported on their returns.

He advised that any tax return without required schedules or withholding statements is considered incomplete. If a refund is due on such a return, it will be delayed until appropriate schedules or withholding statements are submitted.

Forms and instructions for filing the 1956 Kentucky income tax are obtainable at banks, court houses, and revenue department offices at Ashland, Covington, Lexington, Louisville, Paducah and Frankfort.

To My Friends and Neighbors of the 97th District

For those of you who may not know me personally, I am 41 years old, married and have two sons, Morris (Toots) Hall, age 21, and Jimmy Joe Hall, age 18. Morris graduated from Wheelwright high school in 1953. Jimmy Joe is a senior at Wheelwright this year. I feel most of the youngsters know one or both of my sons since both were active in the sports program of the school.

I am the daughter of Harmon Butcher and Jane Butcher. My father is a retired coal miner. I have lived in Floyd county since I was six years old except for the few years I lived in Maryland during World War II.

I attended Wheelwright high school and Caney Junior college. It was at Caney that I met my husband, Gilford B. Hall, son of Richard (known as Black Dick) Hall. I have few relatives in this county but my husband is related to the Halls, Gayharts, Mosleys, McCurys, Johnsons and Moores to mention only a few. Gilford and I were married November 14, 1934.

I have always enjoyed working with and for the people in this district, and I feel that I understand and know their needs. I worked approximately three years for Inland Steel Co., two years for F. A. Hopkins in store, two years for C. E. Hopkins, was postmaster at Bypro, four years, two years of which I was a state officer in the Kentucky Chapter of the National Association of Postmasters. Have always been active in civic organizations. Served as president of the Wheelwright Chapter of the National Federation of Woman's clubs. I am a member of the First Baptist Church, Wheelwright.

When World War II started my husband and I moved to Baltimore, where he was employed as welding supervisor by the Glenn L. Martin Aircraft by day and by the Navy at night where he instructed welding three hours, four nights each week at the Essex Educational Center. While Gilford instructed classes at night I took advantage of courses being offered to war workers who wished to further their education at no cost to them. The first year I studied elementary and advanced blueprint reading, advanced mathematics, and manufacturing methods, qualifying to work in the Department of engineering where I worked the following 3 1/2 years, though I continued going to school at nights and earned 52 college hours.

When the war ended we returned to Floyd county, lived eight months at Martin. Then moved to Wheelwright Junction where we went into business for ourselves known to you as Hall's 5 & 10c Store. I have been managing the store for the past six years. My husband is employed at the Hayes Metal Co., at Hi Hat.

My family history has been outlined to you for two purposes: That you may know who I am and to try to convince you that I am qualified to represent you in the State Legislature.

My program will be fully stated in the future issues of The Times. I will endeavor to enlighten you further as to my past, present and future interests. I assure you that my program will be one that is designed for the best interests of Floyd county, with emphasis on our 97th District.

I intend to make a hard fight in this campaign, and with the help of God, your prayers and support, I feel that I CAN and WILL win. Looking forward to seeing and talking to each of you personally, I am,

Respectfully Yours

$40,000,000 Road
Plans Announced

Frankfort, Mar. 5 (Spl.) — State highway officials, hoping to award at least $40,000,000 in road-improvement contracts during the 1957 construction season, will open bids here March 15 on the first group of projects in this year's program.

Highway Commissioner Robert Humphreys announced the first call for bids which cover construction and maintenance on approximately 140 miles of roads, bridges building and repair in 34 counties. The bids will be opened at 10 a.m. (CST) at the Department of Highways.

State Highway Engineer Dwight H. Bray gave the estimate on probable total 1957 construction contracts in an address at the annual meeting of the Kentucky Assn. of Highway Contractors.

He said the total possibly could be increased to $45,000,000 or $50,000,000 if part of the state's $100,000,000 road-bond issue could be sold in July or sooner. Regular road construction contracts let by the state last year totaled about $28,500,000.

Humphreys told the contractors in another address, "I have no doubt of the bond issue's validity." Constitutionality of the proposal now is being tested in a friendly lawsuit. The case will be submitted to the Court of Appeals for a final ruling before sale of any bonds.

Humphreys also said it is hoped contracts could be let by April 15 on two sections of the proposed interstate highway system in Kentucky. He did not identify them.

The highway engineer said Governor Chandler recently asked the highway department to expedite the construction program in every way possible.

Bray said it is expected the department "can advertise (for contracts on) approximately 15 million dollars worth of work between now and July 1. . . ." This, he added, would include about $2,500,000 of rural secondary projects in Rural Highway Commissioner J. B. Wells' program and about $3,000,000 of heavy bituminous resurfacing in the maintenance program. The remaining projects, Bray said, would be divided among grade and drain, bridges and surfacing.

"We think that between July 1, 1957 and October 1, 1957, we can be in position to let $25,000,000 in additional contracts, making a total for the period from now to October 1 of this year of approximately 40 million dollars. These figures are predicated upon the idea that this amount of work can be let even without the advantage of the state bond issue money.

"The Automotive Safety Foundation engineers are now making a restudy of the highway needs in Kentucky for the purpose of bringing their 1955 report up to date and for the more specific purpose of giving our Department their detailed recommendations by April 1 of this year for the first year program, to be followed several months later with their program for the following two or three years. However, our Department is not waiting on completion of these A. S. F. reports, but is going ahead with our spring lettings this year."

Sheep Scabies Cases Reported in Kentucky

Frankfort, Mar. 5 (Spl.) — Dr. L. L. Breck, state veterinarian, reports that Kentucky now has seven active cases of sheep scabies. Scabies are caused by scab mites pricking the skin and sucking the blood serum. This serum causes the scab on the skin surface. The lesion itches and becomes inflamed. The infected animal loses its wool and gradually weakens and may eventually die of the disease.

Dr. Breck stated that the only satisfactory treatment is dipping with a lindane solution. Two dips at intervals of 10 to 14 days are recommended. The disease is highly infectious and healthy sheep should not be turned on pasture that has been trampled upon by infected sheep. Keep sheep away from old bedding grounds and other infected areas.

Cases of scab have been reported in Mason, Washington (2 cases), Montgomery (2 cases), Nelson, and Madison counties.

The Time is NOW!

It is time for the people to take a new approach to their problems as citizens and taxpayers of Floyd county. If this county is to make the progress it should, it must have a constructive program.

I want to pledge now, to the fullest extent of my ability and energies, that I will use all the power and influence of the County Judge's office to build roads up our creeks and branches. My idea is to go to the heads of the creeks and to come out building roads and not stop and be satisfied with a few hundred yards of road.

I believe the people are ready and willing to help with a program that would mean so much to them.

My idea is to make Floyd county fit for our people to continue to live in it. We need them here in this county, not in some other part of Kentucky or in some distant state. But those who live up creeks and branches where there are no roads cannot be blamed for moving away in search of better living conditions. They are tired of their children having to wade mud and water, trying to get to school, and men doing the same as they try to get to work.

I invite every man and woman who has the best interests of Floyd county at heart to think and act with me along these lines.

Sincerely,

Books and Such
By Laura Virginia Roberts

I haven't read any good books lately—haven't read any books, in fact, but I've got lots of 'em: wet ones, dry ones, damp ones, and shaggy ones (once wet, now dry—thus shaggy).

Shakespeare was drowned at my house along with some other very distinguished writers. Happily, there are lots of dry copies of old Bill's works here and there about our muddy country.

I borrowed a Pearl Buck novel and a Zane Gray western from a friend just before the flood. The friend had read them, I'm glad to say, and was very understanding.

The only thing I've read recently besides some Millay poems is the Daphne du Maurier novel, SCAPEGOAT, now running serially in the LADIES HOME JOURNAL. Suspenseful and sinister, as are her writings, SCAPEGOAT can't touch REBECCA but keeps one reading all the same.

We all need a laugh these days and the best reading I now do for that purpose is Richard Armour's IT ALL STARTED WITH EVE, in which he makes delightful (if sometimes slightly shady) fun of some of the famous (and infamous) women of history. Of course, if you haven't read his IT ALL STARTED WITH COLUMBUS and IT ALL STARTED WITH EUROPE you have enough laughs in store to last long A. F. (After the Flood). All our stories for the rest of our lives will be prefaced or sufficed, I'll bet, with the remark, "That happened before the Flood" or "It was after the Flood." (And maybe D. F.—during...)

Speaking of A. F., I want to share with you the compliment paid us all here in Eastern Kentucky by a gentleman the other day. He said that he had recently had an opportunity to change his working territory, but had refused it, and he said, "These past ten days I've been so glad, it's a privilege to serve people who can stand and smile at me and be thoughtful of my convenience and tell me they had 2 or 3 or 5 or 11 feet of water in their houses and lost everything. I've found that smile all over Eastern Kentucky, and it's really fine."

I thought it was about the nicest thing anyone could say about us—that we look defeat in the eye and smile and begin to build again.

FLOODTIME HIKE PREPARES FLOYD YOUTH For ARMY LIFE

Ashland, Ky.—Twelve-mile hikes are not unusual to old soldiers, but when a man hikes that far before enlisting into the Army, then it puts a new twist on things.

This unusual story began to unfold January 29, after James W. Prater, of Garrett had arrived in Ashland by bus from the Army Recruiting Station in Prestonsburg.

Thorough Drying, First Step Toward Repair of Homes

Flood-damaged houses in Eastern Kentucky should be left alone, so far as major repair and renovation is concerned.

That's the advice of home and engineering specialists of the Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service.

"First things first," the specialists say. "Make homes livable, of course, and get food for the family."

But, they added, let homes and furniture dry out thoroughly before attempting extensive renovation.

For instance, painting of outsiders or interiors should not be attempted now. Let coming hot weather in spring and early summer "really dry" these surfaces before attempting extensive redecoration.

Foundations also should be left alone until hot weather—possibly early June—has dried out them and surrounding areas. Let reputable contractors or builders do the repair work if possible.

Floors, walls (plaster and panel), clothing and furniture all are "deplorably wet," the specialists note. If at all possible, these items should be allowed to dry first so that salvage efforts will be more economical.

Prater was sent to the Army recruiting main station in Ashland to complete his mental and physical examinations prior to applying for an Army technical school.

In Ashland he passed the Army entrance examinations, and boarded a bus to return to Prestonsburg. Upon the arrival of the bus on Abbott mountain, near Prestonsburg, it was learned that rising waters had flooded the city and had made it impossible.

Prater decided to attempt to reach friends in Allen and spend the night with them. Setting out on foot, the youth followed the railroad tracks that by-pass Prestonsburg and followed the tracks to Allen, which is about 12 miles from where he disembarked from the bus. He spent the night in Allen, and was taken to Garrett the next day after the water had receded. In the meantime, Prater's application to attend the Army's Armor Track Vehicle Maintenance School was forwarded to the Adjutant General's Office in Washington, D. C., where it was approved and returned to Ashland.

Young Prater was enlisted at the Ashland station last Friday.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. James Prater, the young soldier attended public schools in Garrett. Prior to enlisting into the Army, he was employed in the Garrett Grocery Market.

DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS
Frankfort, Kentucky
February 21, 1957.

It has been a long time now since a reliable report has come through about a genuine, 100-proof witch practicing her evil trade in Kentucky.

Once upon a time, witches—women who supposedly had been given supernatural powers—were downright common in this state.

In the early 1800's, nearly every area in Kentucky had its quota of witches who could cast "spells" and "hexes", as well as change themselves into rabbits, cats, dogs or other animals when the occasion demanded.

All these powers, many old-timers believed, came to the witches only upon their entering into a compact with the devil. In doing that, they abjured Christ and God and promised to live only for the evil one. That done, they received supernatural powers that could be broken only if the witch was shot with a silver bullet.

Undoubtedly the most famous witch operating in the Kentucky region was the "Bell Witch." Actually, this witch centered her activities just across the Tennessee line from Guthrie, Ky., but her effect was felt widely in this state.

This particular witch, who snarled even Andrew Jackson in her web before she hung up her broomstick for keeps, took the name of the family upon which she concentrated the full force of her spell.

John Bell came to Northeast Tennessee around 1810 and bought a large quantity of land. Part of the land was purchased from an old woman who had a local reputation for meanness. Although Bell was regarded as an honorable man, she accused him of cheating her. On her deathbed, she swore to come back and "haunt" John Bell and all his kith and kin to their graves.

Sure enough, legend has it, the Bells were haunted for years by the malicious spirit of the old woman. Bell and his daughter, Betsy, were her favorite targets and she led them a merry chase. She threw dishes at them, tweaked their noses, yanked their hair, poked needles into them. She yelled at night to keep them from sleeping and snatched food from their very mouths at mealtime.

In time the witch branched out. Her activities no longer were confined entirely to the Bells. She even ventured across the line into Kentucky to visit revival meetings. It is said she outsang, outshouted, outmaneuvered the most fervent converts and broke up many a good camp meeting with her unholy carryings-on.

Being especially fond of whisky, she constantly raided stillhouses in the region and tanked up. Then, with a snootful, she would return to belabor Bell and daughter with new vigor.

The fame of the Bell witch eventually reached Nashville and Andrew Jackson and some friends vowed to face the terror and "bally" it once and for all. They piled into a wagon for the journey to the farm.

At the boundary of the Bell place, the wagon suddenly stopped and would move no farther. The mules strained and Jackson swore, but the vehicle wouldn't budge.

Booklet Cites Gains In State Government Under Gov. Chandler

A booklet outlining the progress achieved in vital functions of state government last year has been released by Gov. A. B. Chandler's office.

The publication was prepared from annual progress reports submitted to the governor by heads of the state agencies. The booklet says: "Under the education program begun in 1956, the most adequately financed project for enlightenment in Kentucky school history is foreseen."

"The state's roadway policy—aided by a $100,000,000 bond issue voted to match federal allocations—projects across the map of the Commonwealth a 640-mile network of interstate expressways. In the next three years, the administration will begin improving 18,700 miles of other Kentucky roads and augmenting a farm-to-market system.

"Good roads, improved schools, natural resources and an excellent economic climate generated by the administration are luring more industry into the State.

"Under a foundation program for public health, community health buildings will be erected in 76 counties lacking them.

"Progress in other activities of State government includes increased services in agriculture, conservation, child welfare and highway safety."

The past season's pecan crop of 160,075,000 pounds was valued at $30,684,000 by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

To the Voters Of Floyd County

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the many persons who are helping me in my campaign for reelection as Coroner. Without your help and support, I would be as a minister in the pulpit with no congregation to hear the message.

Due to the recent flood, I, like others, have been busy putting things back in order; for, as many of you, I was not spared by the water. This fact has kept me from seeing many of you in person to solicit your vote and support.

During my tenure of office, the importance of Coroner has been elevated, as it should be and should be kept. It isn't an office just to be filled, for it deals with your loved ones and friends. There isn't an office of more importance than the office of Coroner. You, the voters, realized this fact and expressed it when I was elected as your Coroner by a majority which made me very proud. No honor can be as great as the confidence, faith and trust bestowed on me by the majority with which you elected me in the previous election.

You know that I have been available by day and night to serve in the capacity for which I was chosen. I am a member of the Kentucky Coroner's Association and am a member of the legislative committee. I have attended all of the association meetings in order to better serve you, for these meetings were both inspiring and educational.

Again I solicit your votes and support in my campaign. I feel I am qualified and capable, as my past record as your Coroner will show. I implore all my friends and every voter in Floyd county to help me in this important campaign.

Your Friend,
JAMES J. CARTER

Secretary of State Yearly Savings About $35,000

Frankfort, Mar. 5 (Spl.) — About $35,000 a year in cost of equipment, materials, and personnel will be saved by the Commonwealth through the use of microfilming official records, Mrs. Thelma Stovall, secretary of state, has said.

In addition, she said, efficiency will be increased. Mrs. Stovall announced that she had sent her assistant, Miss Frances Marshall, to Delaware to learn effective use of the microfilm system. The Delaware Public Archives Commission, under Leon de Valinger, Jr., has perhaps the top state system in the country for microfilm usage, Mrs. Stovall said.

Gov. A. B. Chandler recently set aside $3,050 to start microfilming corporation papers, executive orders, deeds, and other records dating back to the eighteenth century which are kept by the Secretary of State's office.

Sorting and classifying of these records will start as soon as the microfilm equipment arrives.

"Naturally, we will keep the valuable original deeds and records, but we can microfilm other papers and cut down necessary filing space by 90 per cent," Mrs. Stovall said. "This project will take approximately two years to complete. But when it is finished, it will mean a great savings of time and office space," she added.

Previously the office spent $460 every two years for filing cabinets alone. Now only two cabinets will be needed for all the records. Two, and possibly three, copies will be made of each record—one for everyday use, another for security purposes, and the third might be made following civil defense recommendations.

The four other states which have adopted this system report satisfactory results.

Floyd County Savings Increases Report Says

(Special to The Times)

New York, Feb. 25 — A new upsurge in saving has been noted among Floyd county residents. The old-fashioned virtue of thrift, which has been out of style for some time, is gaining in popularity locally.

Figures bearing this out have just been released by the Federal Reserve System in its biennial report listing bank deposits for every county in the United States.

At the end of the past fiscal year, the combined deposits in Floyd county's savings and commercial banks were at the high mark of $12,840,000. This includes time deposits (savings accounts) and demand deposits (checking accounts) of individuals, partnerships and corporations and is exclusive of governmental and interbank deposits.

The savings total $5,346,000, an increase of 18.5 per cent since the issuance of the previous Federal Reserve report, two years ago. It compares favorably with the increase noted for the United States as a whole, 11.0 per cent, and with the 10.8 per cent rise in the State of Kentucky.

The growth in savings is looked upon with favor by the federal authorities, who see in it a natural source of funds to satisfy the expansion needs of industry as well as a weapon against inflation.

It is seen, also, as an answer to those who feel that extensive installment buying has left people in a precarious position. Concerning that, William J. Cheyney of the National Foundation of Consumer Credit said: "Contrary to the general opinion that the American people are out on a limb in debt, the fact is that 55 per cent of the family purchasing units in this country owe no installment debt whatever."

"Consumers are paying their bills rapidly today than ever before. Net credit losses suffered by retailers are lower than at any time in a generation. Actually, he declares, a majority of those with installment debt today could pay off their entire indebtedness either immediately or within 30 or 60 days."

The Pipelines Are Booming

Pipelines are big business—and big transportation. The long cylinders which snake now above the earth, now under it, criss-crossing the United States, now rank as the third largest freight movers in the country.

The story of this extraordinary growth is told by Alfred Lansing in the March Reader's Digest in an article condensed from Collier's. Since World War II, our pipeline mileage has increased from 355,000 miles to more than 686,000. That's close to three times the U. S. railroad trackage.

Pipelines have unusual advantages:

They're economical. They're almost entirely automatic. There are no empties to return nor unload vehicles to deadhead back.

A pipeline operates around the clock, every day of the year, and almost always at peak capacity.

It can get into—and out of—places that stop most other conveyances. Maximum grade on a freight-carrying railroad is three per cent, on a highway it rarely exceeds 12 per cent. For a pipeline, a 70 per cent grade is considered easy.

To ship a 42-gallon barrel of gasoline from Philadelphia to New York costs $1.05 by rail, eight cents by pipeline.

But, contrary to popular notions, pipeline shipping is not limited to gasoline and oil. You can ship anything in a semi-liquid condition. There are even small exclusive pipelines that carry nothing but antibiotics or fruit juice or ammonia or milk.

FHA Emergency Loan Program Is Available In Flooded Counties

The Farmers Home Administration set forth recently details of its emergency-loan program for farmers in 16 Kentucky counties hit by January's floods.

F. H. A. State Directors Hugh James said the 3 per cent loans would be repayable in the minimum time the borrower is able to pay. Money advanced for crop production is repayable when income is received from sale of the crop.

Ordinarily loans run one to five years except for real estate, which is up to 10 years.

James said county supervisors could approve production-emergency loans up to $10,000 and the state office could approve a maximum $25,000 if the applicant is not indebted for other loans of this type.

Loans may be made for purchasing feed, seed, fertilizer, replacing equipment and livestock, repairing and replacing farm buildings, fences, drainage and irrigation systems and for essential operating expenses on farms hit by floods.

Farms unable to obtain credit elsewhere are eligible if they suffered production loss and have reasonable prospect for success with the aid of a loan.

The emergency program applies in Bell, Breathitt, Clay, Floyd, Harlan, Johnson, Knott, Knox, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Martin, Owsley, Perry, Pike and Whitley counties.

Sheep and goats provide two-thirds of the milk and half the meat produced in Greece.

Voters of the 96th Legislative District

I stated earlier in The Times that in later issues I would make my platform public and I wish to give you my viewpoint on some matters with which the legislature will be concerned in 1958.

TAXATION:

We all know that without taxes government services would be nonexistent, but certainly tax money is the concern of each of us, since it is "our money." I am dead set against the practice of using money collected from the many to further the aims and political advantage of the few. I am also against the practice of granting special interests, such as race tracks, the privilege of being tax free while the worker's pay is being used as a source of revenue to make up for the loss. Horse racing is a sport of kings and wealthy people and it is they who are in a position to pay without taking bread off their table.

EDUCATION:

Kentucky is on the way up the educational ladder and with proper action by the General Assembly we will continue to climb. The Minimum Foundation Law is a good law and if followed will make Kentucky an example of good educational practice throughout the whole country. I shall strive for further educational progress especially for our neglected section of the state. I am not an "ex" teacher. I am, have always been, and shall continue in the teaching profession, so it will not be necessary to "pressure" me into voting for good school legislation.

ROADS:

I am not sure what yardstick is used to determine where roads are needed and where roads are to go in the state, but I shall find out for you and I shall work to inform those who are in charge of highway planning that Eastern Kentucky is most certainly a part of the "Blue-grass State." I am sure that one important factor in deciding where the road dollars are to be spent should be NEED and our section has plenty of NEED.

A relative to one of the candidates for Representative called me some time ago and asked me not to run and when I said that I was determined to stay in the race, he stated in so many words: "We will slate you out on election day." To him and any others who feel that they can thwart the wish of the voting public by some "age-old" trick I have this to say: THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY ARE INTELLIGENT AND WILL RESIST WITH ALL THE MEANS AT THEIR DISPOSAL ANY EFFORT TO DICTATE ELECTION RESULTS NO MATTER WHO MAKES THE EFFORT!

HANDWRITING OF GREATS REFLECTED STRONG TRAITS

The big three of American "greats" whose birthdays fall in February are probably as familiar to everyone as soap and hot water. What they contributed, anecdotes about their lives, even what they liked to eat and drink is old hat.

But what about the inner man, the real self? What did George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Edison have in common? How did they differ? What made them tick and why?

An eminent New York psychiatrist recently came up with a psychograph of each man's handwriting which sheds some interesting light on the subject.

Washington, according to the analysis, was intensely driven and stimulated by imperfections in himself and in the surrounding world. But instead of trying to overcome them by denial, rationalization or intellectualism, he chose realistic action and "immediate dealing with the object world." Lincoln, like Washington, was "stubborn, persistent and fanatically goal-conscious," but both were thoroughly sincere and genuine personalities.

In Edison's case, his laboratory—now a part of the McGraw-Edison network of the Thomas A. Edison Laboratories—achieved for him the same significance that the world of politics and the military held for Washington and Lincoln. Like they, he "fought traditional limitations, restrictions and conventions without being destructive and rebellious himself."

Edison developed his unique style of writing—a sort of cross between script and printing—when he was a telegrapher. One of the fastest telegraphers of his day, his marvelous speed in receiving was accelerated by the style of handwriting which he originated expressly for taking the fastest press reports with the least expenditure of energy and time and with the maximum legibility.

"Edison's handwriting," says the doctor's report, "reveals a personality of unusual genuineness, spontaneity and originality." He drove relentlessly to penetrate into the core of things without being bothered by conventionality, prejudice, or preconceived thought. Spurred on by the continuous challenge to make the most of his many talents, he found the outer world in its physical, mechanical, and biological aspects the ideal proving ground for his many capabilities.

Not that he was an "ivory-tower" scientist oblivious to all that went on around him. Edison was apparently as interested in people as he was in his experiments.

If we would believe the report, he found himself eager to meet and know people from as many different backgrounds as possible, fascinated by their longings and fears, and fiercely determined to expect their loyalty. When they failed to meet his expectations, as was found to happen, he turned his disappointment to incentive for further striving and research.

Even at the age of 78, Edison's hand writing indicates that he was "able to maintain his intellectual resourcefulness, his power for analytical observation, his mental adaptivity and flexibility as well as his originality of thought."

Children who are given regular allowances get valuable training and satisfaction from learning how to get the most for their money; usually, less money is required than in the "hand-out" method.
