Speaking of baby moons, outer space and such matters, one Floyd kountian was quoted as blaming Ike. "Ike takes a billion dollars and he can't get the thing up. But Truman, bet you he could fly one 'round the world on a can of car-bide!"

In our search for power we would do better to look for the kind that comes down rather than pinning all our hopes on the brand we send up.

MAY HE REST IN PEACE

Lo, forty and more years ago a newspaper editor who long since has been gathered unto his fathers and whose name has been lost to the ken of man had himself a brainstorm, verily. And he did indite himself a piece which since that day has gone the rounds, and 'round and 'round it has gone till, behold, it comes out here.

"Consider the editor," it commands. "He weareth purple and fine linen. His abode is among the mansions of the rich. His wife hath her limousine and his first-born sporteth a racing car that can hit her up in forty flat.

"Lo All of the people breaketh their necks to hand him money. A child is born unto the wife of a merchant in the bazaar. The physician getteth ten gold plunks. The editor writeth a stick and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam at nine pounds. Yea, he lieth even as a centurion. And the proud father giveth him a Cremo.

"Behold, the young one growth up and graduateth. And the editor putteth in his paper a swell notice. Yea, a peach of a notice. He telleth of the wisdom of the young woman, and of her exceeding comeliness. Like the rose of Sharon is she and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men. And the editor getteth a note of thanks.

"The daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column, solid. And the fair one remembereth him from afar off with a picture postal card that costeth six for a jitney.

"Behold, she returneth and the youth of the city fall down and worship. She picketh one, and lo, she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our most promising men and getteth away with it. And they send unto him a bid to the wedding feast and, behold, the bids are fashioned by Muntgummary Hawback, in a far city.

"Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth ten bones. The groom standeth the editor off for a twelve month subscription.

"All flesh is grass and in time is the wife gathered into the silo. The minister getteth his bit. The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the head, and the darn thing cometh out 'Gone to Her Last Roasting Place'.

"And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads and cancellerth their subscriptions and they swing the hammer unto the third and fourth generation.

"Canst thou beat it?"

FIGURES SHOW DROP IN COAL

'Sick Man' of Economy Suffers Relapse; 1957 Coal Production High

The "sick man" of the nation's economy—the coal business—apparently was "on the mend" last year, but with closing months of 1957 and now in 1958 a relapse from whatever ails the industry has set in.

Although production at present is at a new low, 1957 ended with a slight increase over 1956 for the operators represented by the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Operators Association. Production for last year was 14,822,930 tons, or 808,460 tons over the 1956 production of 14,014,470 tons.

This slight increase of 5-plus percent in no way reflected succeeding production as the industry entered the new year. Tonnage skidded 48 percent the first week of January, compared to last year, and only regained enough to hold a 22 percent decrease for the week ending Jan. 11 as compared with the corresponding week of the year before.

Production dropped 85,700 tons the first week in January and was down 107,080 tons the following week. The average days worked skidded materially, the report of the operators association showed.

In 1957 the mines in the Big Sandy-Elkhorn field loaded 296,458.6 cars of an average 50 tons each. Production the previous year was 280,289.4 cars. The operators worked an average of 195.41 days last year.

Truck mining apparently is the hardest hit of any operations, it was noted from the report and from other sources. Many of the truckers selling coal to the Turner Elkhorn Mining Co., a heavy buyer of trucked coal, were down to one, two and sometimes three days work a week.

Coal men are of the opinion that the industry will not improve much until early summer.

Rev. Martin Schedules Revival At Crotona, Ky.; New Church Is Damaged

Rev. Robert Martin, of Martin, will conduct a revival at Crotona, Ky., extending through a two-week period, it was announced this week. Rev. Martin has just returned from Grand Rapids, Mich., following two weeks preaching there. The services at Crotona will be conducted in the Freewill Baptist Church.

Rev. Martin, who recently resigned the pastorate of Grace Chapel at Martin, has been engaged in building a tabernacle on Ky. 80 north of Martin. Walls have been erected and some funds have been contributed to putting a roof on. A recent rock slide tore a hole in the upper side of the building. This will necessitate a considerable outlay for repairs, it was pointed out.

Bid of Harcourt & Co., Louisville, on diplomas was accepted, as also was the $1,011.18 bid of the Allen Lumber Company on materials and supplies for the Martin home economics room. Tom O. McGuire, contractor, was paid the second estimate on the Harold school construction job.

The Board learned from Superintendent Turner that County Judge Henry Stumbo, Sheriff Hershell Warrens and County Attorney R. S. Wellman have promised attendance officers their full cooperation toward enforcing school attendance laws.

Driver, 76, Feels He's Slipped, Turns In License
Council Bluffs, Iowa, Dec. 18—A 76-year-old man walked into the sheriff's office here and promptly shocked everybody within earshot. He'd come to turn in his driver's license.

"I've driven for 43 years and never had an accident," W. W. Claterbuck told a deputy. "But I know my reflexes aren't what they used to be. There are enough bad drivers on the road. I don't want to be another one."

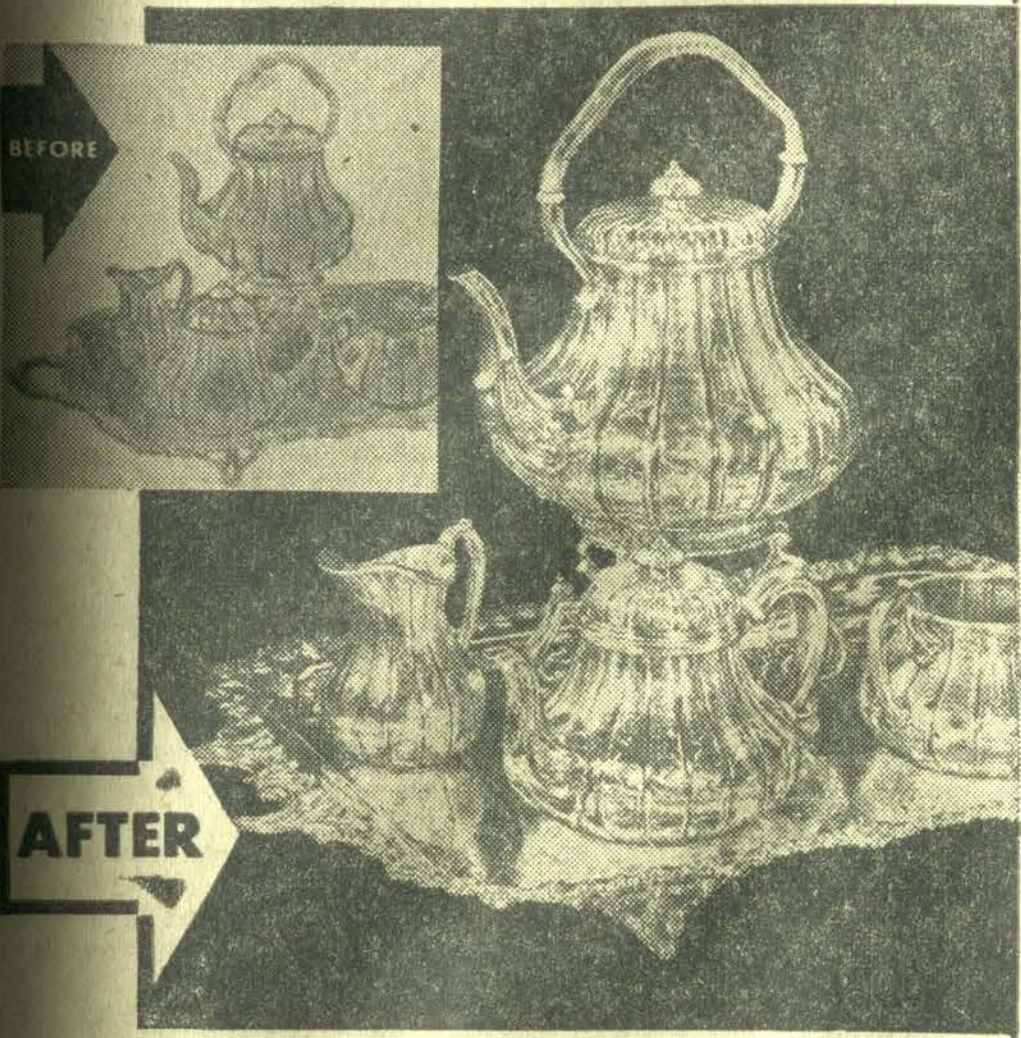

The deputy checked Claterbuck's license and said he didn't have to turn it in, but "just don't drive the next four days." The license was due to expire in that time.

Such figures are determined by the Labor Department in accordance with the Walsh-Healey Act. Any company that contracts to sell more than $10,000 worth of a product to the Federal Government must pay prevailing wages.

Richards was joined in his general protest before hearing examiner Clifford P. Grant by Wallace M. Cohen, Washington. Cohen said he was attorney for Ruth Elkhorn Coal, Inc., Nogton, Va.

Richards pleaded he was not given sufficient time by the Labor Department to learn what prevailing wages are paid by his association members.

It would take at least six months to make a proper survey, Richards said. He was notified of Monday's hearing December 17.

After getting the hearing notice, Richards pleaded by letter with Labor Secretary Mitchell for a postponement. But the request was turned down.

Hearing examiner Grant also denied Monday's motion for more time.

Richards said Kentucky has about 21,000 truck-mine employees who in 1956 mined 20,000,000 tons of coal. Truck mines are those where trucks are used to haul the coal from the mine to the consumer or point of shipment. The number of these mines in 1956 was 2,661.

Rail mines, where the coal is hauled from the mine by railroad, produced 55,000,000 tons of coal in Kentucky in 1956. Employment in the rail mines—24,000—was only slightly higher than in the truck mines.

Richards estimated 100,000 Kentuckians—miners and their families—would be affected by the Labor Department's action.

Richards said, when it appeared his new plea for a postponement would be overruled:

"We might as well pack up and go home now, because we won't get to first base. . . All we want is a fair opportunity to present our case."

Other reasons for delay and for dismissal of the whole case were presented by attorney Cohen. But the examiner ruled the hearing should proceed.

Cohen also objected strenuously to documents introduced by the Department of Labor itself in apparent support of the petitioners' case. But the objections were overruled.

The testimony in the case will be reviewed by the Secretary of Labor and published for rebuttal before a final decision is made. This will probably take several months.

During this time a number of questions were answered, and the offices of city government were explained.

Then on Monday evening the Presbyterian young people attended the City Council meeting to observe city government in action. With the young people at the meeting was one of the officers of the church who explained to them the various phases of the council meeting.

HUTSINPILLER DRUG

• Prestonsburg, Ky.

The marriage of Miss Zane Carolyn Parke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Parke, of Richmond, Ky., and Robert Simpson Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cohen, of Mt. Sterling, was solemnized at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Jan. 18, at the First Baptist Church in Richmond.

Dr. George Redding, of Georgetown, officiated. Miss Jane Allen Olesby was vocalist, and Mrs. Anna B. Jett was organist.

Palms, white wedding tapers in candelabra, and baskets of white gladioli and carnations decorated the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of petal white lace and tulle over matching taffeta, with a fitted bodice of lace, bracelet-length sleeves edged with lace scallops, an off-shoulder squared neckline edged with lace scallops finished at the back with a deep V. The full tulle skirt swept to a chapel train and a fingertip veil of illusion was held by a jeweled half-halo headress of lace. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis and Phalaenopsis orchids.

Miss Jean Lane of Atlanta was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. William Wireman, Lexington; Miss Clarie Cohen, sister of the bridegroom of this city; Miss Mary Ann Allen, cousin of the bride, Richmond; and Miss Evelyn Lacy, Hopkinsville. They wore similar waist-length gowns of aquamarine chiffon with fitted, draped bodices shirred to a V-neckline in front and held with floating panels at the back full skirts and matching velvet back, full skirts and matching velvet bands. Miss Lane carried dark pink carnations, and the other attendants carried pale pink carnations.

Gale Francis Parke was ring-bearer and Lee Parrish Parke was page. Both are nephews of the bride. Joe Mason of Owensboro was best man. Carroll Hubbard of Louisville, Phillip Kazee of Georgetown, and Jack Oldham and Jimmy Evans of Mt. Sterling were ushers.

A reception was held at the church. The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth, was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and pink sweetheart roses, flanked by a three-tiered cake and a silver punch bowl. Mrs. Neil Parke, sister-in-law of the bride, served cake and Mrs. W. O. Taylor poured punch. Assisting were Mrs. W. P. Millard, Mrs. Charles Curtis of Lexington, Misses Nanci Rhoades and Mildred Lacetfield of Georgetown and Mrs. Gene Howard of Richmond.

The attractive bride, a graduate of Georgetown College, where she was president of Kappa Alpha sorority, was chosen "Kappa Alpha Rose" and was May Queen in her senior year.

The groom was graduated from Georgetown College, where he was president of Kappa Alpha fraternity and outstanding in athletics. He is now employed in the accounting department at Square D, in Lexington. The Cohen family formerly resided in Prestonsburg.

tion, prepared by Atty. Paul E. Hayes, that the company did not give proper warning to motorists while it was working on the highway between Bevinville and Hi Hat and that as consequence the car occupied by Short and Hayes ran into a truck parked on the highway.

A heavy damage suit to be heard later in circuit court here is that which was filed Monday by Joey Maynard, administrator of the estate of Joe Palmer Compton, who asks a total of $27,500 in the death of young Compton at a railway crossing at Banner in March, 1957.

The Maynard petition, prepared by the law firm of Tackett & Tackett, of Prestonsburg, and F. Dale Burke, of Pikeville, names the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company as defendant. It claims that Compton's death was the result of defendant's failure to maintain proper warning lights in good working order at the crossing and also of negligence in the operator of the company's train.

Plaintiff's petition points out that the youth was killed when his car was hit by a train at the crossing, which is at a deep cut; motorist entering onto the crossing cannot observe the railway tracks in a northerly direction until on the tracks, and that the signals at the crossing were not functioning properly for a period of several weeks prior to the tragedy.

a bad effect on our youth. Due to offenses by teen-agers, we recommend a curfew of 10 o'clock p.m." The jury's report added it had noted a number of housebreaking violations by children and that their offenses also included bootlegging and gambling.

The grand jury advised a "get tough" policy on bootlegging. Said one paragraph of the report: "We recommend a stricter enforcement of the laws concerning bootlegging, gambling, breaking and entering, larceny and other crimes, and we recommend that violations of the whiskey law involving second and third offenses be charged under the provisions for higher penalties. We also recommend that subpoenas and warrants and other information pertaining to alleged violators be recorded and kept on file for future use."

The jury suggested that future grand juries investigate the prosecution of warrants and indictments and thus ascertain if any undue influence has been used to procure dismissal of cases.

Charges of stream pollution were made against certain coal mining firms during the grand jury session, but none was indicted. "It appears," the report commented, "that at least four companies may be in violation of this provision law, and we recommend that they remedy the situation in the next 30 days and that they be required to report to the next grand jury on their activities."

The report also noted that election law violations as pertaining to the handling of the ballots had been investigated. Three indictments against a single election officer was the only result. The jury recommended that election officers in the future be specifically advised by the Circuit Judge or some other "appropriate official" as to their duties and responsibilities.

Asking that trial of cases not be delayed or continued without cause, the final report called on lawyers practicing before the local bar "to have their cases prepared for trial when they are set."

Installation of a public address system for circuit courtroom use was advised. The report noted that the grand jurors found gas leaking in the county jail and asked that the "dangerous situation" be corrected. It also suggested that each prisoner be issued a clean covering and blanket, that cobwebs be swept down throughout the courthouse, that windows missing in the courthouse be replaced and that playing cards and gambling in the jail be investigated.

Appearing before the grand jury during its session were the Sheriff, the Mayor of Prestonsburg and the County Superintendent of Schools and other officials. "They," the report said, "have assured us of their full and energetic cooperation in carrying out the law in this county. We appreciate the cooperation shown us and commend the officials for their efforts in the difficult first month of their terms."

SHOO FLY . . .

Because the female screwworm fly mates only once in her short lifetime, the USDA and Florida state control agencies will start an eradication program this year. Millions of sterilized male flies will be released in the Florida infested areas as mates for the females. It is the same system used on a Caribbean island where the pest was wiped out in about a year by such measures. The fly infests cattle wounds.

1891 TRAIN WRECK LED TO RAILROAD WATCHES

Cincinnati—Two trains collided April 19, 1891, at Kipton, Ohio, killing 11 persons. Investigation showed that the wreck might have been averted had not one engineer's watch been slow. Worried by this tragedy, a watchmaker and railroad enthusiast, Wegg C. Ball, concluded that accurate watches were a necessity. He designed the first standard railroad watch and set up the industry's first coast-to-coast watch inspection service.

FARM NOTES

By David Y. Gillespie

FERTILIZE LAWNS EARLY

A second application of fertilizer applied to the lawn before Feb. 15 helps to produce a much better turf. For best results in establishing a lawn the first application should have been made in November but if it was neglected, it is all the more important to make an application at this time.

A high grade fertilizer such as 10-10-10 or 12-12-12 should be spread at the rate of 15 pounds on every 1,000 square feet of area. It may be spread by hand or with a small fertilizer spreader.

If fertilizer is applied in early February, the lawn grasses, such as bluegrass, will get the benefit of most of the fertilizer before the crabgrass and weeds get started.

START SPRING CHICKS SOON

Many hatcheries are sold out of their best chicks for as much as six weeks in advance. Chicks for next year layers should be started by the last of February. If you have not already placed an order, you should do so soon, as most hatcheries will need to have a few weeks to deliver orders.

Before the chicks arrive the brooder and house should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. The brooder should be heated and have water available when the chicks arrive.

Strong, healthy chicks are easy to raise, and properly fed and managed chicks make a better laying flock. It is important to buy good quality chicks and provide them with good quality feed, proper housing, and good sanitation. A good laying flock is an asset to any farm family.

FLOWER BED SOIL

Flowers need fertilizer the same as other plants. If your flower bed seemed to be low in fertility last summer, February is an excellent time to apply well-rooted manure. Spring rains will dissolve some of the nutrients and wash them into the soil. Later on, that which had not been dissolved can be worked into the soil, providing the humus which is often lacking in flower gardens.

Phosphate fertilizer is especially valuable in the flower garden, and may be scattered with the rooted manure or used alone. A pound or about a pint is enough fertilizer for an area three feet wide and ten feet long.

MORE DOCTORS TAKING GRADUATE TRAINING

Chicago—More than 30,000 American physicians took graduate training last year either as interns or residents. There were 9,893 serving internships, an increase of 290 over the year before, and 23,012 serving residencies, 1,587 more than the preceding year.

USDA Gives Foodstuff To 75 Million People Last Year, Announced

During the past five fiscal years, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has donated 6.5 billion pounds of surplus food in this country and abroad. Currently, more than 75 million persons in this country and abroad are receiving USDA-donated food.

The value of the food donated during the five years was $1,619 million. In this country, foods are being donated by USDA for about 12 million children participating in school lunch programs, for nearly 1.5 million persons in charitable institutions, and for about 3 million persons in family units. Distribution of foods to these groups is handled by state and local agencies.

Through the foreign distribution program, USDA-donated food has been made available to more than 60 million people in nearly 100 countries. USDA processes and packages the food, after which voluntary foreign service agencies arrange for its shipment and distribution overseas.

"Never in history has a nation been more generous in making its food supply available to the needy than has the United States during the past five years," Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said. "Donations of our abundance are now going to more than 75 million people in our own land and in other countries around the world."

John Carlisle Was 'Beloved' Ky. Politician

By Charles F. Hinds
Secretary-Treasurer, Kentucky Historical Society

Frankfort, Feb. 5—One of Kentucky's most "beloved" of politicians was probably John G. Carlisle of Covington, whose popularity was only dimmed in his later years, following adoption of gold-standard views as secretary of treasury in Grover Cleveland's second administration.

Carlisle was born in Campbell county (now Kenton) in 1835, a son of poor but honest farm folk. Young John labored with his parents and the younger children to extract a living from the rocky soil, supplementing the family income by teaching school from his 15th to 20th year.

Soon thereafter he moved to Covington to study law under William B. Kinkhead and John W. Stephenson, the latter of whom was later governor of Kentucky. In 1858 Carlisle was admitted to the bar.

His reputation as a lawyer began almost immediately, providing him in a remarkably short time with one of the most lucrative practices in Covington.

He entered politics in 1859 as a successful candidate to the State House. He served in the House for two years.

During the War Between the States, Carlisle was neutral, neither favoring the North nor the South. Toward the end of the war as the Federal grip on Kentucky stiffened, Carlisle, however, sided with those who protested the high-handed methods of the Union "Army of Occupation."

He was elected to the State Senate in 1865 and again in 1869. It was at this time that he fought for the passage of the controversial bill which would allow the Cincinnati Southern to build a railroad through Central Kentucky. As lieutenant governor (1871-75), he exercised his privilege as speaker of the senate to break a tie vote in favor of the railroad.

From 1877 to 1890 he served in the United States House, six years as speaker. He entered the United States Senate in 1890, resigning in 1893 to become secretary of treasury. There his gold "bullion" stand lost him much of his widespread support in Kentucky.

Carlisle lived out his last years in self-imposed exile in New York City. Upon his death in 1910, he was removed to Kentucky and buried in Lindon Grove Cemetery in Covington, where he now lies with other members of his family.

Capitol Notebook

Frankfort, Feb. 5 — Just for fun, this column asked several persons why the body of State department heads who meet with Gov. A. B. Chandler is called his "cabinet". One answer wandered pretty far afield with the thought that a cabinet is "a decorative piece of furniture with funny looking legs." We finally resorted to Webster who defined "cabinet" as a private room for consultation and, hence, a body of persons who meet in such a room, especially a body of advisers to political official.

NEW ARMORY

The National Guard's new armory at Frankfort will be dedicated Feb. 21. A program for the open house and dedication is now being planned with Governor Chandler expected to be one of the honored guests. The modern 247 by 150 foot structure contains offices and lockers and supply rooms for four military units, two classrooms, a large drill hall, kitchen, a 1,000 inch firing range and a heating plant. The drill floor, containing 7,200 square feet is sturdy enough to support tanks.

VALUABLE AID

Volunteers provide valuable assistance to the work of the Department of Mental Health, the agency reports. Working in the State mental hospitals and centers, the volunteers participate in many activities to benefit patients such as games, outside trips, parties and special events. The department says "One of their most valuable services is their mere presence, an acknowledgment on the part of the community that it is concerned about its patients."

EMERGENCY EQUIPMENT

Always available at the main office of the Department of Mines and Minerals at Lexington and at district offices at Madisonville, Pikeville, Hazard, Pineville and Harlan are several types of apparatus for rescue use following explosion or fire in a mine. Rescue trucks containing complete sets of breathing and other life-saving equipment are maintained by the agency at the Pikeville and Madisonville stations. Personnel in charge of this equipment is ever on the alert to rush it into immediate emergency service.

Summer Jobs Are Offered Teachers By Girl Scouts

Frankfort, Feb. 6 — Opportunities await Kentucky teachers who wish summer jobs as counselors at camps operated by nearly 650 Girl Scout councils from coast to coast, the State Department of Education reports.

The agency said positions available to qualified applicants at least 21 years old include unit leader, waterfront director, program consultant, food supervisor, health supervisor and business manager.

Program consultants, the education department added, are needed in arts and crafts, nature, dramatics, sports and games.

Counselors of 18 years and older are needed to help make camping available to girls seven through 17 years of age, the education department reported.

The agency said camp directors must be at least 25 years old with camping and administrative and supervisory experience.

The education department advised teachers that all these jobs provide full maintenance, plus salaries which vary with experience, training and responsibilities. A basic pre-camp training season of about seven days is provided all staff members.

DAVID GIRL SCOUT LEADERS MEET

The neighborhood meeting of Girl Scouts was held Monday at the Club House, with Mrs. Ora Howard, chairman, presiding. Plans were made to organize a senior Scout troop, with Mrs. Tandy Bartley, and Mrs. Ora Howard as leaders.

A leadership course in Girl Scouting will be held at the David Community Church the latter part of February. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Bartley to Mrs. Dawson Bussey, Mrs. C. T. Dahlin, Brownie leaders; Mrs. Oliver Marshall, Mrs. Ray Spears and Mrs. Raymond Brabury, intermediate Scout leaders; Mrs. Tandy Bartley and Miss Ora Howard, senior Scout leaders, and Mrs. Zella Archer, Girl Scout executive.

Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Cavins, of Rochester, N. Y., Ruie Cavins, Jr., of Columbus, Ohio, and Jimmy Cavins, of Fort Gay, W. Va., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clay last month.

Staff Sgt. William Thomas Bussey, of Fort Knox, Ky., was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Bussey, Monday.

Fred Mollette has returned from the McDowell hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wills, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Gegie Conley, were visiting friends and relatives in Williamson, W. Va., over the week-end.

When Col. E. R. Bradley came to Kentucky to raise horses, he was told it would take 15 years to breed a Kentucky Derby winner. It took him just that long.

ADVANCING EDUCATION IN KENTUCKY

By ROBERT R. MARTIN
Superintendent of Public Instruction

In a previous column, I mentioned three important conditions that have been presented to educators and the public by Soviet scientific accomplishments. These three conditions, I described as, (1) opportunity to create better public understanding of the status of education in our free society; (2) A challenge to produce an improved program, and (3) The potential danger that we may choose improper leadership and improper methods for resolving educational problems.

I have previously discussed the first of these three conditions. Today, I shall consider the challenge to education that the present crisis dictates.

First of all however, we must all recognize that a crisis does exist. Since the launching of the Russian baby moons and other announcements of impending scientific advancements by the USSR, there have been all kinds of opinions and ideas expressed about the status of American Education. Some of these have held that there is absolutely nothing wrong with our educational programs, while others have taken the view that there is little that isn't wrong. Obviously neither of these views can be considered as realistic. Certainly there is something wrong with American education, just as certainly, American education is not all bad.

The crucial issue that now faces education is not concerned purely with what our program has been, or with what is now; the real concern lies in where we go from here.

This is the challenge — to produce in some of the areas in which we have been doing a lot of talking. But it is a challenge that must be accepted by the people before it can be met by education.

The Russian Sputnik has in reality created a great opportunity for education and we must now take advantage of that opportunity. I am thoroughly convinced that we in education will undoubtedly have more to work with in the next few years. I believe that the public will be more willing to help us build the classrooms we need; pay our teachers better salaries; and demand that educators provide improved programs. The public is going to want to know more about curriculum content, teacher training, instructional methods, and a lot of other things. Educators must furnish a new kind of leadership to translate both public interest and public support into programs designed to revitalize the American educational structure. This is the challenge to education. I think that education is ready to accept it.

Given the wherewithal to improve education in Kentucky, how successful will we be in actually bringing about improvement? How much of what we have been saying we want to do can we put into practice and make work? Perhaps we may soon have the opportunity to put into operation many of the things we have been advocating for years. Certainly we cannot afford to wait now.

The phrase, Advancing Education in Kentucky, no longer refers merely to efforts for improvement — it now spells out the conditions which could well determine our future.

5,000-YEAR-OLD GREEN-PEA SEEDS FOUND

Genoa.—Seeds of primitive green peas have been found in lake-mud areas inhabited by Swiss lake dwellers of the Bronze Age, some 5,000 years ago. Cherry pits have been discovered in prehistoric caves. Apricots, bananas, cabbage, peaches, grapes, and dates are all believed to have been known as least 1,000 years before Christ. Grapefruit, lettuce, and plums were common by the First Century A.D.

SS Claimants Asked To Bring Documents

Thomas B. Thompson, district manager of the Social Security Administration, has called on all potential social security claimants to help save social security costs by having proper documents ready when calling at the social security office.

Thompson said that an individual filing for old-age benefits should bring with him and have ready for the receptionist:

1. Social Security card
2. Proof of age
3. Statement from last year's employer showing wages for the previous year. (Form W-2 is acceptable.) If self-employed, the previous year's tax return with "Schedule C" should be furnished. The "Schedule C" (or "Schedule F" if the self-employed individual is a farmer) is the social security portion of the tax return and must be included. If self-employed, a receipt for the previous years taxes must also be presented. (This may be in the form of a cancelled check or Internal Revenue's receipt for payment.)

Beware the "Right-to-Work" Fraud

The so-called "Right-to-Work" guarantees no one a job. It outlaws any form of union security and thereby weakens every union in Kentucky! Everybody will suffer! How? Let's see! . . .

Businessmen . . .

Union wages buy more. When the income of workers drops, buying drops. Unions in Kentucky have played an important role in our State's growth and progress. A law such as proposed would help no one — would adversely affect many groups. As our Governor said in a recent statement, Kentucky does not need such a law.

Farmers . . .

Workers buy a large share of your dairy products, meat, tobacco and other farm products. Without today's unions, and today's high level of wages, markets for farm products will shrink.

Suppose a son or daughter of yours leaves the farm for a job in an industrial plant. Wouldn't you want him or her to enjoy those benefits that unions have brought to thousands of Kentucky working people?

Housewives . . .

Union benefits — and union security — help make a big difference in workers' homes all over Kentucky. Take away those benefits and what have you? Longer hours — less pay — lay-offs — fewer Holidays and vacation time — and no pension . . . do these make for a happy home?

Workers . . .

The bogus "Right-to-Work" law gives you only this — the right to work for LOWER WAGES, WITH FEWER BENEFITS AND NO SECURITY.

Who favors this law?

James U. Smith, Jr., is the spokesman for the two committees formed in Kentucky to seek passage of the "Right-to-Work" law.

Who is James U. Smith, Jr.?

The McClellan Senate Rackets Committee has brought out that Smith was a client of Nathan W. Schefferman, the union-busting labor relations consultant who pleaded the Fifth Amendment when he was questioned by the committee.

Local Band Mothers Hold Tuesday Meet

A meeting of the Band Mothers of the Prestonsburg school bands was held at the grade school Tuesday afternoon, last week. The following officers were elected:

President, Virginia Wright; vice-president, Sue Crisp; secretary, Kathryn Frazier; and treasurer, Leona Cooley.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss ways and means of obtaining a full-time band director for Prestonsburg. It was decided that since the boards of education do not supplement the salaries of the band director as they do the coaches that an effort be made by the band parents to obtain a minimum of $50 a month pledged as a supplement by the patrons of this community. A meeting of the band parents will be held early in February. In the meantime, parents and friends interested in pledging financial support to the band should contact Virginia Wright, 2273 and Hubbard Francis, Phone 2273 and Hubbard Francis, Phone 6241.

It was concluded the coaches supplement was justified and the consensus of opinion was that the band director should be in the same category since they put in as much extra time, make practically the same appearance at athletic events in addition to the many other music festivals and community events they must attend.

Farmers Warned About Snow-Salt

Frankfort, Feb. 6 — The Kentucky Department of Agriculture has cautioned farmers to keep their livestock away from vehicles that have picked up salt on tires and under-chassis from snow-covered highways that have been salted.

The agency said it had recently received a report from a farmer whose sheep had licked the snow-covered tires of a truck. The sheep, said the agency, apparently were salt and licked the tires clean. The next morning, according to the department, the flock owner found 12 of his ewes dead.

It is believed, the department said, that the coarseness of the sodium chloride prevented its going into solution properly and that the jagged crystals cut and scorched the animals' esophagi and intestines, causing death.

PARALYTIC-POLIO CASES SHOW 80 PCT. DECLINE

Washington—Marion B. Folsom, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, reports that cases of paralytic polio have declined 80 per cent. In the last 10 months of 1957, he said, there were 1,576 paralytic cases compared with 7,886 cases two years ago, before widespread use of the Salk vaccine, and 5,241 cases in 1955.

Forestry Unit Lists Major Fire Causes

Frankfort, Feb. 6 — Fires burn more than 250,000 acres of woods and brushy fields in Kentucky each year, the Division of Forestry reports.

The agency estimates commercial forest land in the Commonwealth at about 11½ million acres.

Carelessness and ignorance of persons are the causes of most forest fires, the division says. Based on 1955 figures, the agency adds, smokers cause 31.3 per cent of forest fires. Burners of trash, brush and plant beds cause 31.1 per cent of timber fires, forestry officials report. Campers cause 9.2 per cent of fires and incendiaries 17.3 per cent.

The fires are costly, the division reports, listing some of the major effects of forest fires: They kill young trees and damage older trees.

Loss of soil fertility is the heaviest toll.

The leaf litter and humus of the forest floor are destroyed, contributing to flood and erosion.

Forest fires often burn homes, crops, buildings and fences. Sometimes they are responsible for loss of human lives.

Fires reduce woods employment, thus decreasing incomes of persons who depend upon the forests for work.

Fires destroy the beauty of the landscape.

At the present time, the Division of Forestry is protecting 6,795,500 acres of timberland in 46 counties. The agency is conducting a program of forest fire control and protection in which the state, federal government and county or timber owner share the expense.

Pork Becomes Rancid If Held In Freezer For Long Period, Said

Cuts of pork should not be held in home freezers or commercial lockers for too long a period or a rancid flavor will develop, warns Miss Elizabeth Helton, UK Extension foods specialist.

Fresh pork may be frozen and held for 5 to 6 months and ground pork or sausage that is seasoned or salted, 3 to 4 months. Cured pork may be stored 10 to 12 months.

It has been learned through research that seasoned sausage will keep longer if monosodium glutamate (available at grocery stores) is added with the seasoning at the rate of 1 teaspoon to a pound of meat, she said.

Miss Helton notes that a research program is being carried on by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to learn the chemical changes that take place between air and porkfat, causing unpleasant changes in both flavor and odor.

Here are recommendations which will help delay rancidity: See that a clean, fast job of dressing the carcass is done, followed by careful processing. Thorough chilling of pork is essential for 24 to 36 hours.

Use good freezer wrapping material, one that is airtight and moisture resistant, and pliable enough so that it can be pressed close to the meat to keep out as much air as possible. Separate chops and steaks with two layers of parchment paper.

Trim off much of the exterior fat.

Package the meat in meal-size pieces insofar as possible. Label each one plainly with the cut, weight and date.

Freeze packages at 10 to 15 degrees below zero, and store at zero degrees.

Copies of Circular 527, "Home Freezing of Foods," may be had by writing to the Bulletin Room, Experiment Station, Lexington, Kentucky.

LOVE and XXXXX: I see by the heart-shaped candy boxes and the like around here that St. Valentine's is not far off. On special occasions, or just anytime you want to say hello to someone you miss, a Long Distance call is the quick, easy way, and real fun, too! And remember, whenever you call, it costs less to call station-to-station. (Rates are even lower after 6 P.M. and on Sundays.)

WATCH FOR IT! It's fun... it's fascinating. The Bell System's newest science film, "The Unchained Goddess." It's all about the weather—a subject we all discuss a lot but do little about. The fourth in the Bell science series, it will be shown on NBC-TV, Wednesday, February 12. The date and time on your local station may vary from the date of the network showing. Please consult your newspaper for the local schedule. In case you missed the first three films—"Hemo, the Magnificent," "Our Mr. Sun," and "The Strange Case of the Cosmic Rays"—they're available for showing to schools and civic groups. All are 16 mm. full color, and really thrilling stories about subjects that interest every one of us. Just call our Business Office to make arrangements.

NEW LEAGUE TO BE FORMED

Formation of a new baseball league—the Mountain Valley—is under way and is expected to include teams from Wheelwright, Drift, Williamson, West Virginia, Pikeville, Fleming-Neon, Elkhorn City, Shelby, Prestonsburg, Blaine and Jenkins.
Semi-professional baseball in the Eastern Kentucky area has been on the downgrade since the Elkhorn League folded seven years ago; however, Prestonsburg, Paintsville, Blaine and Drift have been members of the Sandy Valley League.
An organization meeting of the new loop is scheduled at the high school building here February 16 at 2 p.m. at which time detailed plans of the league will be drawn. Other prospective teams are urged to contact Don Sullivan in Prestonsburg or have their representatives at the February meeting.

PRESTONSBURG WINNER OVER MARTIN, 82-81

Oil Springs, by virtue of its championship in the annual Foothills Conference basketball tournament, became the first 20-game winner in the 15th region's hectic high school basketball race.

Howard Yates' rangy Johnson county quintet breezed through the eight-team affair with a 96-64 opening round triumph over Wolfe County, eliminated host Morgan county, 74-62, in the semi-finals and downed Ezel, a late comer in the 60th district, moved into the final round by taking Hazel Green Academy, 43-39, in the first round and Salyersville, 55-39, in the semi-finals.

Thursday night, Oil Springs journeys to Pikeville for a return match with John Bill Trivette's Panthers. Three weeks ago on the Paintsville floor, Oil Springs won a 94-74 contest.

Prestonsburg's gymless Black Cats continued to be the surprise team in the area with an 82-81 overtime conquest Friday night of the Martin Purple Flash on the Martin floor. Twice previously, Denzil Halbert's charges had won by margins of five and seven points.

Prestonsburg jumped into a 21-13 first-period lead and increased the margin to 46-35 at half-time. Each team lost two starters via the foul route in the third period, but the Black Cats managed to stay in command, 62-56, and lead until the final minute when forward Edgel Click hit a two-pointer to knot the count 77-77 as the final gun sounded. The Black Cats iced the fray in the extra period as Charles Harris hit a crisp and charity toss. Scoring honors for the night went to Prestonsburg driving forward James Hager, who registered 29, his highest effort of the season. Click paced Martin with 23, and Frank King had 19.

Betsy Layne raced to its 19th win Saturday night in overpowering Wayland, 96-56, on Ray Clarke's 32-point output. John Campbell's Garrett Black Devils won three games during the week to bring their record to 14-5. The Black Devils stopped McDowell 81-63, Elkhorn City 88-67, and Wheelwright, 83-62.

Meade Memorial, another 19-game winner from the 59th district, added two games to its victory skein in whipping Grant County, 88-84, and Millersburg Military Institute, 78-51.

Bobby King, the area's third leading scorer, hit the nets for 38 and 24 points as McDowell split two games, losing 68-82 to Virgie and conquering Maytown, 82-60.

Drawings for the 58th district tournament, to be held in Prestonsburg, March 4-8, will be conducted at a meeting of the district's nine coaches in Betsy Layne, Wednesday night.

NAMED FOR COL. OWENS

Owingsville, seat of Bath county, was named for its most prominent early citizen, Col. Thomas Dye Owens. The site selected as the county seat was owned by Richard Menifee and Colonel Owens, who each wanted to name the town. It was decided to name the village for the man who erected the finest house in the shortest time and Colonel Owens won.
