

THURSDAY

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

JULY 3, 1958

This Town— That World

WHO'S A CROOK?

A Democrat says: "Don't say, 'They pulled the wool over their eyes' Change wool to vicuna."
A Republican rejoins: "Don't change anything when you say, 'They made the fur fly.'"

WERE AGREED

"No community receives any better kind of law enforcement than it deserves and insists upon."

No, The Floyd County Times did not say that. Not exactly, although it has been saying it in other words for sometime now. That quote was from none other than J. Edgar Hoover, and that's one Hoover we agree with without reservation.

SO . . .

Tomorrow is the Fourth of July—the day when the Eagle figuratively screams and when some folks try to help it vocalize by likkering up. So we pass on to all and sundry this safety rule for the Fourth:

"Don't go forth with a fifth on the Fourth, or you might not come back on the 5th."

FM DODGING

Heber Burke and Raymond Copley have some big fish on ice just waiting for me to see, and I haven't been around to see them. I always say that if you deliberately wade the snow, barefoot, you are asking for a cold. By the same token, why should I expose myself to an attack of the greenies, (envy, to you) by gazing upon the bass they caught?

BOARD NAMES 26 TEACHERS

At Tuesday Meeting; Fewer Emergencies Envisaged By Turner

Twenty-six additional teachers were employed Tuesday by the Floyd County Board of Education for the ensuing school year. Three hundred ninety-eight were hired two weeks ago and only a few remain to fill all teaching positions, it was said.

County Superintendent V. O. Turner, in commenting on the teachers employed, said that if all teachers accepted positions as placed by the board, there would be few emergency teachers used.

The Dairy Queen owned here by Wm. O. Goebel, Jr., was broken into Monday night, and about $20 in cash was taken. Police suspect a boy or a man of slight stature, since entrance was effected through a comparatively small opening at the front.

DISASTER-BORN GROUP HOLDS LAST MEETING

SURPLUS FUND SPLIT AMONG 21 FAMILIES

Final Report Shows $53,386 Contributed After Bus Tragedy

The Prestonsburg School Disaster Committee, having no further business before it, entertained and passed a motion made by Ella Noel White to disband Monday afternoon in a meeting at the First National Bank.

In existence since the afternoon the school bus was recovered from the river at Lancer three days after the tragedy of Feb. 28 in which 26 schoolchildren and the bus driver lost their lives, it had collected and disbursed $53,386.27.

Final disbursement of the remaining money was a division of $19,950 among the 21 families involved, making an individual family payment of $950 each. Funeral expenses for the victims paid by the committee totaled $29,100.00.

Money, which had come from all sections of the state since the evening it was organized by Burl Spurlock at the instigation of Gov. A. B. Chandler, was continuing to arrive in little dribbles, it was noted. It was decided to give further contributions, if any, to the newly organized Prestonsburg Emergency and Rescue Squad.

According to the report of the committee's treasurer, Mrs. R. V. May, the disbursements besides the funeral expenses and the amounts given the families were made in the following amounts: Reward payments, $2,500; given to the Prestonsburg Schoolchildren Recovery committee, $1,500; medical expense, $383; incidental expense of clothing and other items for the families, $205.02. (An itemized statement of receipts and disbursements appears elsewhere in this issue of The Times).

It was decided at Monday's final meeting to give the minutes of the group's proceedings to the Kentucky Historical Society and the letters from contributors to the regional library here. The letters will be laminated in plastic and will be available for public inspection, it was said by Lon C. Hill, member of the Disaster committee and also of the library board.

12th FISH FRY BOOKS EVENTS

Bench Show, Field Trials Listed In Big Program At State Park Sunday

The field trial and bench show sponsored by the Floyd County Coon Club will be an important part of the annual fish fry of the Floyd County Fish & Game Club Sunday at Dewey Lake State Park, club officials said this week.

Fourteen trophies will be awarded at the bench show, ribbons will be given each class winner and trophies will also be given for the best female and male of each of the six coon-hound breeds and for the best male and female in the show.

Because the park is off-limits to dogs, all hounds brought to the show must be kept on leash.

Marksmen who expect to enter the shotgun and rifle matches are being requested not to bring ammunition with them, Arnold Workman, president of the Fish & Game Club, said. Ammunition will be issued at the range as used, to prevent possibility of accidents.

The all-day program will include an address by Laban Jackson, commissioner of the Department of Conservation; a marksmanship and trick-shot demonstration by Bobby Ranier, the Prestonsburg youth who regaled last year's crowd with his adeptness with both shotgun and rifle; a casting exhibition by Russ Smith, and expert archery.

In addition to these items there will be the usual bait-casting contests, the awarding of prizes and a steady round of events.

LIE DETECTOR BACKS GREENE

Three Are Given Tests At Frankfort Last Week; Horn Disputes Polygraph

Of the three Floyd men who took polygraph tests at Frankfort last Thursday as they were questioned by a State Police examiner about incidents relating to the Feb. 28 school bus tragedy near here, only James Greene was telling the truth, a report on the tests said.

Donald L. (Dootney) Horn, one of the three questioned, was the first to report the result of the tests upon his return here. He insisted he was telling the truth, said he could not understand the reaction recorded by the lie detector. Joe Crum was the third man tested.

The tests were given at the request of County Judge Henry

GIRLS CROWD SCOUT CAMP

Camp Chatterawha Open For Four-Week Season; New Equipment Added

Seventy Intermediate Girl Scouts and staff opened the fifth season of established camping Sunday at Camp Chatterawha on Dewey Lake.

The camp, which is owned and operated by the Sandy Valley Girl Scouts, has an over-capacity attendance of 53 girls for the first two-week session. The girls come from eight communities in Eastern Kentucky and West Virginia. The camp director for her fourth season is Mrs. Zella Archer, of Prestonsburg, executive director of the Sandy Valley Girl Scouts.

The camp will be opened the usual four weeks but this year the two-week sessions to provide for the girls a better program than the old one-week periods. The main new piece of equipment added to the camp is a new canoe bought by the Scouts of the Council in memory of Anna Laura Goble, a classmate of many from Prestonsburg who was lost in the school bus accident. New archery equipment has also been added to the sports program, which includes boating, swimming, folk dancing and games.

The staff includes nurse, Mrs. Gertrude Zelko, Pikeville; water-front director, Miss Jacqueline Hensley, Prestonsburg; handyman and waterfront assistant,

BLOCKS COVER LIQUOR CARGO

Observant Officers Seize Intoxicant-Laden Vehicle; Six Raids Successful

A big cargo of beer, whiskey, vodka and gin was confiscated here Tuesday night as the cinder-blocks which concealed the intoxicants in a truck were being unloaded at the home of Lonnie Neeley, on South Lake Drive.

Twenty-four of the 50 blocks which concealed the spirits had been unloaded when Sheriff Hershell Warrens and Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis appeared, arrested Neeley and Jim Marsillett and confiscated the truck and its load.

The truck was later left parked in front of the courthouse. While the officers were gone a short time for a cup of coffee, it was driven away. The liquor haul—56 cases of beer, a case and a half of whiskey, one case of vodka and a half case of gin—had been unloaded and stored in the Sheriff's office before the truck was stolen, however. Buck Manns was arrested here the same night on a warrant charging him with selling whiskey. A man was caught leaving the Manns place with two half-pints of whiskey and he swore out a search warrant and a warrant for Manns' arrest. Search of the premises failed to uncover any liquor.

Last week-end was a busy one on the liquor front as Sheriff Warrens and deputies staged eight searches, finding intoxicants in six

FISCAL COURT CANCELS VOTE MACHINE ORDER

Middle Creek Man Seriously Injured When Hit by Auto

Elza Calhoun, 68 years old, of the Middle Creek road, was seriously injured Saturday morning at Lancer when hit by an auto driven by Allen Robinson, Pikeville machine shop foreman.

It was said that Calhoun had left the truck of the Rev. Woodrow Branham to go to a nearby house at the upper end of Lancer and had walked behind the truck till an approaching car passed. He said he remembered the car passing but nothing thereafter. He is believed to have stepped onto the highway into the path of the Robinson's car.

His arm was broken, a leg fractured and his head injured. Calhoun is recovering following surgery at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, W. Va.

STUMBO SAYS FEE TOO HIGH

Judge To Ask Court To Direct An Appeal From Speckman Order

County Judge Henry Stumbo said Tuesday he will ask the Floyd fiscal court to direct County Attorney Robert S. Wellman to file an appeal from the $12,354 fee allowed Jesse K. Lewis, Lexington attorney, for collecting a judgment from Former County Attorney W. W. Burchett.

The attorney fee was allowed by Special Judge Lawrence F. Speckman, who heard the case. Speckman decided Lewis is entitled to one-third of $3,137, paid to the treasurer of Floyd county by Burchett in a settlement with the fiscal court in April, 1953, and to half of $20,621 recovered under judgment.

Announcing his desire that the fiscal court protest a fee of this size for Lewis, Judge Stumbo said: "I feel that the judge's ruling is not fair to the people of Floyd county. That money is needed for the building of roads and helping the needy people of the county."

Stumbo emphasized that he does not think Lewis should be paid a commission on the $6,131.19 paid voluntarily by Burchett in the settlement with the fiscal court.

Speckman pointed to Lewis' extended work on the case, starting in 1952, and commended the Floyd County Taxpayers League for its action in retaining the attorney to prosecute the action.

COURT VOIDS MARCH ORDER FOR MACHINES

Follows Pike's Example After Chandler's Veto Of Bill For State Aid

The Floyd fiscal court decided Monday, last day of the 1957-58 fiscal year, not to buy voting machines, after all.

Its decision to steer clear of such an innovation was so firm that it even disregarded the suggestion of County Judge Henry Stumbo that six such machines be bought for use in thickly populated communities where merger of precincts would create no inconvenience or hardship on voters.

The court at its March 26 meeting contracted to buy "30 voting machines, more or less," from the Shoup Voting Machine Corporation but had delayed until this week definite action on how many, if any.

Pike county earlier in the year cancelled its order for voting machines after Governor A. B. Chandler had vetoed a bill which passed both houses of the General Assembly and which provided state support in the amount of $40 per voting precinct. He explained his veto action by saying such state help would entail a cost too heavy to incur.

County Judge Stumbo pointed out this week, however, that the state is paying $20 per precinct under the present system of voting by stencil and that the consolidation of precincts in Floyd county, and presumably in other counties, would have resulted in no increased state expense.

This county had considered the purchase of upwards of 30 machines.

RENOWNED WAR NURSE IN RESTFUL VISIT HERE

Prestonsburg last week was host to the U. S. Army's most-decorated woman but few here knew it.

The visitor, Col. Ruby Bradley, of the Army Nurse Corps, saw to that. She went into seclusion at the home here of her brother, Smith Bradley, and there found the rest she needed.

It was a pleasant stay, said her hostess, Mrs. Bradley, for the distinguished army nurse finds Prestonsburg an undemanding place, a place where she doesn't have to make speeches and public appearances. "We just let her do what she wanted to do," she added.

And, outside enjoying her brother's family and home, she wanted to do little beyond taking trips with her brother to drilling operations in neighboring counties.

She was resting from work already done and for the work ahead. She will go to Germany this month to assume charge of Army nurse operations.

A veteran of 25 years in the Army Nurse Corps, Col. Bradley was captured by the Japanese at Corregidor and was a prisoner of war 37 months. The service has led her to many countries—among them, the Philippines, Korea, China and now Germany.

Col. Bradley, who has won enough "fruit salad" for several heroes, has a gripe. She can't prepare exactly that—fruit salad. She was quoted as saying the nurse corps is a wonderful profession for any woman. "Women who are inclined toward domestic work can also get that in the service. There are complete facilities for cooking and housekeeping."

The Colonel was completely at home on her trips to the drilling rigs with her brother as they rode a jeep to the drilling locations. She has found it a real problem to learn to drive a standard automobile. "I've found it hard to drive a car again. I'm used to riding a jeep and want to jump out—I guess you might say I've got the jeep habit."

She said that the best ambassador in spreading the American way of life is the American soldier who fed, clothed and cared for the crippled and orphans left in the wake of war after the Korean conflict.

From the day in October, 1934 when she enlisted in the U. S. Army Nurse corps and was com-

FIRE CLAIMS TWO CHILDREN

Sons of Hi Hat Man, Waiting In Car, Start Death Blaze At Detroit

Two Floyd county children were burned to death Monday while they and their parents were visiting relatives in Detroit, Michigan.

The victims are Jerry Johnson, 5, and his brother Bill, 3.

The fire which claimed the two lives started, it was reported here, with the tots' playing with matches as they sat in the family car while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Johnson, were loading for the return trip to their home at Hi Hat. The Johnsons had been visiting at the Detroit home of relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bush, formerly of Hi Hat.

The elder boy died immediately of burns. His brother succumbed the following day of burns which covered 80 per cent of his body.

As the parents were packing to return to this county Mrs. Johnson discovered the fire. The father, Bush, and Martin Hall, grandfather of the two children, rushed to the rescue. A book of matches was found in the pocket of Bill's soiled pants, it was said.

Bodies of the two victims were expected to arrive Wednesday night at the Hall Brothers Funeral Home, Martin.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

OUTDOOR LIFE LISTS DEWEY IN BEST 100

If Dewey Lake suddenly becomes a mecca for wild-eyed fishermen from other states, this will perhaps account for it.

The Floyd lake has been named by OUTDOOR LIFE magazine one of the 100 best bass lakes in the United States!

And Wynn Davis, author of the magazine article, says Dewey and other lakes listed in the 100 best offer the average bass fisherman the most for his time and money in 1958.

In addition to that national advertising, Dewey Lake was being touted this week by the Kentucky Conservation Department through the daily newspapers as Kentucky's best bass-producer at this time.

Although there are disgruntled fishermen who will deny Dewey's virtues, the lake has been yielding some big ones in recent weeks. Fly rod enthusiasts took their share of fish until the cool weather ended. Then a black doll fly and black pork rind was listed as the lure that took some lunkers. The most recent catch—one reported at just shy of 30 pounds in three bass caught—was made in the "jumps," the lucky anglers, Heber Burke and Raymond Copley, reported.

Wife Of Martin Man Says She Shot Self

Mrs. Louise Dingus, 35, former Floyd county woman and wife of Glen B. Dingus, of Martin, shot herself in the chest Monday night with a .25-calibre automatic pistol at the couple's Ashland home. Her condition was improving Tuesday, it was said at Our Lady of Bellefonte hospital.

Mrs. Dingus told Boyd County Sheriff E. M. Woods she inflicted the wound herself. No reason was given. Her husband was watching television in another room at the time of the shooting.

Mr. and Mrs. Dingus have resided in Ashland since the early 40's where he is an employee of the C. & O. Railway.

AGED IN THROG GATHERED HERE FOR PUBLIC ASSISTANCE MEETING

Wednesday of last week approximately 1,500 persons, mostly the aged and infirm, but hundreds of them widows with dependents, met at the courthouse here in response to a call from the Division of Public Assistance at Frankfort.

Many of the recipients of state assistance had arrived early and stood waiting for several hours, chiefly on the courthouse porch or under the lawn trees. None seemed to have any idea as to why their presence in town was requested and they had to wait until personnel of the Division arrived in the afternoon.

Chief speaker of the afternoon was Aaron Paul, director of the Division. He told the assembled recipients that purpose of the meeting was to acquaint them with the public assistance program of the state. Paul said that the recipients had certain rights and responsibilities.

"You have certain rights under the law," he reiterated. "You have the freedom to spend your check as you want to, the right to call the police department, or to belong to any church you wish. Those checks are yours but along with the rights you have certain responsibilities."

Paul told the crowd that five workers were stationed at different locations at the courthouse and any recipient could bring any general problem to them. Workers of the Division were stationed at the marker on the lawn, at the end of the porch, inside the courthouse, and two under trees. Each worker was asked to hold up his or her hands.

A few persons availed themselves of the opportunity to discuss problems.

VOC SCHOOLS' VALUE CITED

Ramey Says Training For Vocations Needed; Gives Area Statistics

Vocational schools are a valuable asset to the state of Kentucky, George Ramey, state director of vocational schools, declared in an address at a recent meeting of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club.

Ramey said that not all students can become lawyers, doctors or teachers, so the opportunity to learn a vocation is extremely important.

He said that it is important that we recognize and honor students who want to work with their hands. Ramey said that the boys have honorable occupations and are invaluable to any community.

The demand for graduates of the Paintsville vocational shop is greater than the supply, Ramey said. He expressed the hope that the Prestonsburg vocational shop will be back in operation this fall.

Ramey passed on some interesting statistics to the attending Kiwanians. Referring to density of population, he said that there are almost two to one more people on the Big Sandy than the average square mile population of the U. S. We have 100 persons per square mile in the Big Sandy, 73.9 in Kentucky, and 50.9 in the U. S.

Generally speaking, Eastern Kentuckians are mere "younguns", he said. Average age of people in Kentucky is 27 but only 20 in Eastern Kentucky. The average income per capita in the United States is $1,639, in Kentucky, $1,324, and Eastern Kentucky, $662.

Percent of increase of income is 204% in the U. S., 282% in Kentucky, and 250% in Eastern Kentucky. He commented that the increase in this area is 46% more than for the nation's average and 32% less than for Kentucky's; however, this increase has been brought about despite a decline in the number of people working in the mines and without any outside industry locating east of Ashland.

The educational level of people, 25 years and over, for Kentucky is about the ninth grade. Big Sandy's educational level of the same age-group is slightly short of the eighth grade—only about one grade difference educationally; however, the average income for this state as a whole is almost twice Eastern Kentucky's. Statistics also revealed that many of Eastern Kentucky's boys and girls are not attending school. Data from Johnson county and five adjacent counties in 1956: 917 graduated from high school; 195 enrolled in college; 722 did not go to college; 2,880 boys and girls 16 and 17 years of age not in school; 3,785 boys and girls 18 and 19 years of age not in school.

W. O. W. Boys Slated To See Berea Drama, Drift Man Announces

Approximately 150 boys between eight and 16 years of age who are members of the Woodmen of the World from the Big Sandy valley will attend the July 11 showing of Wilderness Road at Berea College, it was announced this week by Ernest Turner, Woodmen agent at Drift. Every summer for the past five years the Woodmen have been taking boys on free encampments but it was decided this year that since the drama, Wilderness Road, was of such outstanding importance, it would be a genuine treat to the youngsters to see the play, Turner added. Encampments in prior years have been held at the FFA camp at Hardinsburg, Carter Caves State Park and at Camp Shawnee in the Jenny Wiley State Park area.

MOUNT ZION

Jerusalem stands on a group of hills—subdivided into four—high and lifted up. Its height is twenty five hundred feet above sea level, perhaps higher than any other world-famous city. One of the crowning beauties of Jerusalem is its beauty of being a high place. "Behold, we go up to Jerusalem . . ." was a common directional statement referring to the position of the Holy City in the land, and was used by those traveling to Jerusalem. Innumerable companies of foot-wear pilgrims have climbed the steep roads that lead up to the Holy City.

Higher still is the position of Mount Zion. It is located in the Southwestern part of the city, one hundred feet above the rest of Jerusalem and the surrounding hills. This was the stronghold of the Jebusites that was taken by David. He built his palace there and fortified the place with a great wall. This was called the "City of David" and often referred to in the scripture as Mount Zion. As the surrounding area was built up the city extended its wall and the names—"Mount Zion" and "City of David"—were used to mean the entire city. This is why Mount Zion is generally understood to mean the whole of the city of Jerusalem. David doubtless loved the peculiar beauty and the traditional sanctity of this mountain, for in his Psalm he says, "Beautiful for situation (elevation), the joy of the whole earth, is Mount Zion, on the sides of the north, the city of the great King."

The above section of the old city is the only part of old Jerusalem that remained in the State of Israel after the partitioning of the land of Palestine in 1948 by the United Nations. In this section is found the tomb of David which is one of the most sacred shrines of Israel.

BEAR MARKET
SALE

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS WORTH OF MERCHANDISE SACRIFICED!

The great-great grandfather of the present I. Richmond Company store manager operated a general store in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, more than a hundred years ago. He owned a bear which was kept chained to a tree next to the store. It was his custom in those days to invite home for lunch all customers who happened to be in the store at the noon hour. The invitation was usually accepted and store and bear were left unattended.

On one such occasion he and his friends returned to the store to find the bear had broken his chain and was inside the building. They found him inside the overturned sugar barrel, enjoying the sweet. As a result of this incident he staged the first sale in Prestonsburg—a sale of the sugar from the barrel, at bargain prices.

Council Of Churchwomen Sponsor Plaque Display Of The 10 Commandments

Individual members of the Local Council of Churchwomen have agreed without a formal meeting to sponsor the preparation and display in each schoolroom in Prestonsburg of a plaque or placard presenting the Ten Commandments for the inspection and guidance of schoolchildren.

This announcement was made Tuesday by Mrs. H. B. Wright, of West Prestonsburg, Council president, who conceived the plan for this use of the Decalogue and who contacted the individual Council members.

Mrs. Wright said County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner also has expressed an interest in her idea, saying that 500 such plaques or placards are needed for schools outside Prestonsburg.

Other church groups of the county may be asked to sponsor the schoolroom display of the Ten Commandments outside Prestonsburg, Mrs. Wright said. "We have from 50 to 60 rooms here to supply, and to undertake the entire county would be a project beyond our financial means," she added.

Certain foods, such as custard-filled pies or cream-filled pastries, should never be used as picnic fare, but other foods are all right if proper care is taken.

Mrs. Zephia Kinney, 64, Mother Of Floyd-Co. Man, Succumbs At Pikeville

Funeral services for Mrs. Zephia Kinney, 64, of Shelbiana, were held at 2 p.m., June 6 at the residence with the Rev. John Conley and Rev. Wilson Justice officiating. Burial was in the Raliff cemetery at Shelbiana.

Mrs. Kinney died at 12:30 p.m. June 3 at the Pikeville Methodist hospital after an illness lasting three months.

Born in Pike county, she was a daughter of Dick Epp Justice and Mary Lockard Justice. She was a member of the Freewill Baptist church. She was the widow of Sol Kinney who died Jan. 16, 1947.

Survivors include six sons, Dave Roop, of Wheelwright; Bradley Kinney and Junior Kinney, both of Detroit; Jack Kinney and Kenneth Kinney, both of Shelbiana, and Clarence Kinney, of Youngstown, O.; four daughters, Mrs. Ethel DeRossett, of Shelbiana; Mrs. Dorothy Alloway and Miss Edith Gertrude Stewart, both of Detroit, and Mrs. Bertha Russ, of Van Dyke, Mich.; three brothers, Bradley Justice, Charlie Justice and Dick Justice, all of Shelbiana, and five sisters, Mrs. Stella Hopkins, of Shelbiana; Mrs. Lizzie Estep, Mrs. Gladys Johnson and Mrs. Lou Castle, both of Fords Branch, and Mrs. Fan Adams, of Wheelwright.

COURT OKEHS NEW BUDGET

Outlay This Fiscal Year To Be Less Than Last; Road Labor Cost Cut

The new budget adopted by the fiscal court for the county for the fiscal year which began Tuesday envisions the expenditure of a total of $205,078, which is about $3,000 less than was budgeted for the preceding fiscal year.

The total outlay planned on roads this year is sharply down for 1958-59, with $50,128 budgeted as compared with $66,500 spent during the fiscal year just ended.

The heaviest cut in this department of county government was on labor. For this year $10,000 was budgeted for labor; last year it was $20,000. The budget proposes to spend $8,000 for construction materials this year — $2,000 less than last. But it increases the right-of-way fund from $10,000 to $16,000 as a move toward getting all possible state aid in road construction.

The $17,000 budgeted this year on the old bonded indebtedness which has existed since the 1930's will leave only $10,000, plus interest, left unpaid on next July 1, County Judge Henry Stumbo said.

The new budget contains a provisional $12,000 fund to pay the county's four magistrates $200 a month salary for the current fiscal year and for the three months of the old fiscal year since the salary schedule for magistrates was adopted. It was provided, however, no salaries shall be paid the magistrates until the constitutionality of Senate Bill 229 is finally determined by the Court of Appeals and upon specific approval of the State Local Finance Officer.

Two new funds are provided by the budget. These are $1,000 for Civil Defense and $1,200 for salary of a livestock inspector. The salary of the dog warden was set at $1,200, which is $100 less than for last year.

The forestry fund was raised from $2,500 to $2,600, and the total to be spent on charities, hospitals, and corrections rose from $18,900 last year to $20,000.

Reductions were made on anticipated election expenses. The new budget figures, followed by those for 1957-58, follows: Election commissioners, $450, same; election officers, $2,700, $6,200; tabulators, $900, $1,500; printing and advertising, $2,500, $3,000; miscellaneous expense, $3,500, none last year; purgation, $1,000, same; clerk, $300, same.

Unchanged are funds proposed for the county agent, home demonstration and soil conservation work.

Other charges in allotments follow:

County judge, $6,975, down from $7,200; judge pro-tem, $450, up from $225; other salaries of office, $4,200, up from $3,600.

County attorney, other salaries, $2,400, up from $1,800.

County clerk, indexing, $1,000, up from $750.

Sheriff, fees, $4,000, up from $3,600; radio communication, $1,500. Nothing was budgeted for this item during the preceding fiscal year.

Magistrates' per diem, $1,000, down from $2,000.

We Will Need Their Help— They Need Ours Now

Now there is something on which surely all Floyd county residents can agree and work together in its support.

This is the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad.

Born in the distressing days of the school bus tragedy, and dedicated to the service of every Floyd county and every community of the county that in the future will need emergency help, this organization can make no claim for support except that which the people of this county will afford.

And it can make a valid claim for such support. Its officers, members, every individual connected with it in any way, will be giving of his time and work without charge or thought of charge. These are men who have seen the great service which similar groups already operating in Greenville, Tennessee and other communities of the TVA-lake system are rendering, and they want those here who may be visited by tragedy or other emergency to have such help at hand.

Equipment is needed, and equipment is costly. Those who stand ready to give long hours of work, to be Floyd county's Minute Men in time of emergency, cannot be expected to buy this equipment, even if they were financially able to do so.

And that is where you and I enter the picture in an important way. We can, and surely will, give liberally to finance the purchases the Emergency and Rescue Squad must make if it is to attain the high efficiency that is its goal.

24 ARE FINED WITHIN WEEK
Most Defendants Enter Pleas of Guilty; Fines Of $100 Imposed on 2

Twenty-four fines ranging from $10 to $100 have been assessed of defendants, most of whom pleaded guilty, by the Floyd quarterly court since last Thursday morning.

Only two cases went to trial. In one of these Eugene Meade was fined $10 for drunkenness, and in the other Bennie Blackburn won an acquittal from a reckless driving charge.

Fines of $10 each were imposed on Fess Roark, whose drunk driving charge was reduced to reckless driving, and Arnold Hamilton for drunken driving. Two $50 fines were assessed—one from Howard Dorsey for breach of the peace, the other from Val Strahan, Jr. for reckless use of a deadly weapon.

The $10 fines imposed were on the following:
Joseph V. Smith, passing on a hill; Harold F. Miller, improper passing; Jimmy Branham, no operator's license; Kermit Shepherd, reckless driving; and these for drunkenness: — Chester Osborne, Grady Nelson, Claude Huff, Kennis Hamilton, Matha Boyd, Harvey Puckett, Steve Mullins, Elmer Crum, Cola Salisbury, Russell Castle, Clarence Osborne, Jay Music, Clifford Brown, James Hamilton, Edna May Bailey, Catherine Bailey and Amos Bailey.

Cola Salisbury and Dester Hamilton were required to execute $1,000 peace bond each; Silas Derosssett, Virginia Hines and Carmen Strahan, $500 each.

Cases dismissed: Jim Terry and Martin Hall, charged with selling diseased animals, on motion of attorney for the plaintiff; Silas Derosssett, carrying concealed deadly weapon; Luther Keens, drunk driving, dismissed on motion of County Attorney and Sheriff; Val Strahan, Jr., peace warrant.

Jim Marsillett waived to the grand jury the charge of possessing alcoholic beverages for sale and was required to execute $1,000 bond.

The average 14-year-old boy today is five inches taller and 24 pounds heavier than the 14-year-old of 75 years ago, the July Reader's Digest reports; and he is the size of a 16-year-old of 25 years ago.

Munfordville, named for Richard I. Munford, member of the House of Representatives in 1820, 1822, and 1827, is high on the northern bank of Green River. It is the seat of Hart county, named for Capt. Nathaniel G. T. Hart, a Revolutionary War officer.

The germs that cause food poisoning multiply rapidly in warm temperatures. Since food may taste, smell and look all right and still be dangerous and unfit to eat, it is particularly important to avoid conditions which may result in food poisoning.

of the places searched, and the Sheriff also joined Knott officers in cutting a moonshine still on Salisbury, near the Floyd-Knott line, last Thursday.

The six successful searches resulted in arrests and confiscation of liquor as follows:
Freddie Newsom, Sr. and Arthur Shepherd, on Middle Creek last Thursday; 15 cases of beer, five cases of whiskey and gin.
Sam Roberts, mouth of Toler Creek, Friday, 68 cases of beer, three half-pints of whiskey.
Ezra L. Collins, near Allen golf course, 12 cans of beer.
Bill (Barlow) Evans, Big Mud Creek, 154 cans of beer found in his car which was confiscated.
Curt Bentley and Jim Blanton, near Allen golf course, Bentley with a small quantity of beer, Blanton with two half-pints of whiskey.
Commenting on the work of the week, Sheriff Warrens said all his deputies had taken part in the series of raids. He added: "More will follow. I will not play favorites. Those who haven't been caught will be caught, sooner or later, and I advise all who are in the liquor business to get out."

Among others jailed here within the week were:
James E. Daniels and Arnold Kale, each charged with fishing without license, arrested by Conservation Officer Don Meade; Madison Hall, reckless use of a deadly weapon; Jimmie Earl Cheek and Arnold Hamilton, drunk driving.
James Posten, Drift minor who is sought on a warrant accusing him of the attempted rape of his 10-year-old daughter, has not been captured. Posten outran Constable Tackett on one occasion and Tackett declared here after the warrant had been placed in the hands of the Sheriff that Posten can "outrun any 10 men in this county."

Hot weather menus for picnics, camping trips and other types of outings present a problem because perishable foods, unless properly refrigerated may cause food poisoning.

AT AUCTION
40 Head of Choice Holstein Cows and Heifers
SATURDAY, JULY 5
AT 1:00 (D. S. T.)

I will sell at my barn located 12 miles west of Frankfort, 8 miles east of Shelbyville, at Peytona, on U. S. 60 the following:

40 head of choice fresh and close springer Holstein cows, mostly fresh, that are T.B. and Bangs tested and are calf-hood vaccinated. These are young cows that are capable of producing 50 to 70 pounds per day and some have 525 pounds butterfat record.

Also 30 head of choice large 3-year-old heifers that will freshen in July and August, most to freshen in August. All are calf-hood vaccinated and T. B. and Bangs tested.

These were selected with care from some of the better herds in Wisconsin that have been vaccinated for two to three generations. This is one of the best herds of cows I have offered for sale.

This is a clean herd of cows and heifers that were selected with care for their producing ability and must be seen to be appreciated. If in need of choice cows and heifers attend this auction where choice cows and buyers meet.

4th OF JULY PLANS MADE

Prestonsburg and Martin American Legion Posts Sponsoring Celebrations

Two Floyd county towns, Prestonsburg and Martin, will celebrate the Fourth of July with added attractions to the traditional observance features. Both towns sparked by their local American Legion posts, have been planning the scheduled events for weeks.

Although there are similarities in the main program events, particularly the speeches and contests scheduled, enough differences exist to make them distinct and separate occasions of entertainment.

The programs, exclusive of the contests, at both towns are as follows: Invocation, Rev. Paul Bingham at Prestonsburg and Rev. Guy M. Dean, Martin; "The Star Spangled Banner," Franklin Moore, Prestonsburg, and high school band, Martin; patriotic address, Rev. Paul Bingham, Prestonsburg, Commonwealth's Attorney Hollie Conley, and Congressman Carl D. Perkins, Martin; speech by Paul Hayes at Prestonsburg as a representative of the United States Air Force Academy at Denver, Colo.; music contest at Martin by the high school band.

Cash prizes totalling $500 will be awarded at Martin and Prestonsburg will have a beauty contest; both towns will stage ball games; Martin will offer prizes in a bathing beauty contest; Prestonsburg will add to its traditional fireworks a noon display of colored animals in smoke. Both towns will have fireworks at night.

Both towns will offer tug-of-war contests, greasy poles, fat man and three-legged races, old married couples, hog calling, husband calling, ugly man and ugly woman, largest family and foot races. Other competition, offered by one or the other will include fiddling, singing, casting, whistling, horseshoes, checkers, chess, marbles and pretty baby contests.

Prestonsburg will offer square dancing on Court street with music by the Lonesome Pine Fiddlers and Martin will stage a dance at the high school gymnasium with music by Scott Craft and his Red Coats.

Members of the Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club enjoyed a treat at their regular meeting June 23 in an address delivered by the Rev. Russell G. Bisnett, vice-president of Pikeville College.

His message was centered around Luke 10:30, the story of the Good Samaritan, and he painted a vivid word picture of the philosophy of life today as compared with the characters of this story.

This story, he said, represents very well what is at the heart of every service club in America. The part in the story portrayed by the thieves and robbers, he said, could very well be applied to the gangster philosophy of life today—"What's yours is mine, I'll take it." He said some people today are taking the same attitude toward life as the priest and the Levite, "What's mine is mine, I'll keep it."

He likened the role of the Good Samaritan to a great number of individuals and especially the service clubs of America—"What's mine is ours, lets share it."

The Rev. Bisnett came to Pikeville January 1, this year. He is a well-known educator having degrees from Pacific College, Seattle, Washington, and San Francisco Theological Seminary. He did further graduate work at the University of Washington and at Yale University.

Heart Group Slates Clinic Dates Here, Administrator Says

The State Heart Association will hold a clinic at the Health Department building here July 11, it was announced this week by M. V. Clark, health administrator. The clinic will open at 8 a.m. and continue all through the day, will have the services of two specialists in the child field and one for adults.

Clark pointed out that the services of the clinic will be available only to indigents and then only upon referral from a doctor stating that the patient has symptoms of heart disease. This is the second annual clinic to be held here by the association. This clinic serves the five counties of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, and Magoffin.

"Heart disease, the number one killer in Kentucky and in the United States, has become a number one cause of fear and topic of conversation as well," Clark said. "Many persons who do not know the nature, possible prevention, and possible treatment of the heart attack become unduly afraid. Medicine, diet, exercise, and therapy can do much to help the heart patient, and it is not true that every person who has a heart attack must become a hopeless invalid.

"Most heart attacks occur because the arteries have become narrowed by fatty deposits and tissue which prevent the blood from flowing through freely," the health administrator continued. "A blood clot forming in the narrowed artery may cause a coronary thrombosis. The usual symptoms are a painful sensation of pressure under the breastbone (mild attacks are sometimes mistaken for acute indigestion), sudden intense shortness of breath, sweating, and sometimes loss of consciousness."

lems with the workers but most began to break up and go home, since it was patently impossible for any great number of the recipients to talk to the Division personnel. Typical comment from hundreds as the confused oldsters began to break up was, "What did they want anyway?" and "Let's go home."

O. W. Baylor, supervisor of public relations of the Department of Economic Security, Frankfort, told The Times that the Prestonsburg meeting was but one of a series of such meetings over the state and that the Department was also holding meetings with county officials on retirement questions. The meet with county officials was held at the Department's office building at 4 p.m. Attending were County Court Clerk DuRan Moore, County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Attorney Robert Wellman, Tax Commissioner Manis Conley, County Judge Irvin Pruitt of Pike county and others.

Baylor said that the Department of Economic Security expended $1,161,404.00 in Floyd county last year for public assistance and unemployment insurance. He added that a similar meeting had been held at Hazard on the preceding day and was to be followed by another at the Boyd county courthouse on Thursday.

A feature of the meet was the difficulty with which some of the recipients of state assistance had in procuring transportation to and from Prestonsburg. Several borrowed money for bus fare and scores were aided by friendly neighbors with cars.

WEEKSBURY

The Rev. George Rose, 84-year-old Pilgrim Holiness minister of Huntington, W. Va., spoke Tuesday evening, July 1, at a Weeksbury prayer service. He and Mrs. Rose celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary, July 5, at their son's home, Orville Rose, at Hi Hat.

Rev. Ralph Tramble, district superintendent of the Pilgrim Holiness Church, spoke June 26 at the Melvin Church. The Church recalled the pastor with an unanimous vote.

Adams 3-Time Winner Of Commonwealth Life Award Made Annually

The Assistant Manager's Trophy, offered annually by the Commonwealth Life Insurance Company, was won recently by Ted Adams, of Prestonsburg, for the third successive year.

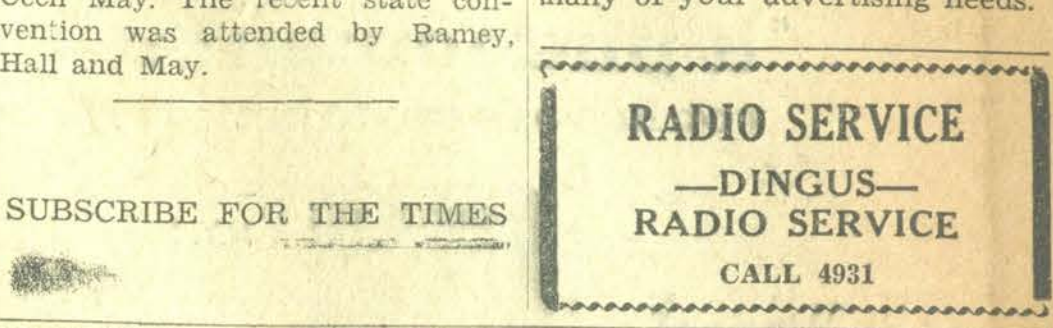

The Floyd county staff of the company which Mr. Adams heads also has led the company's entire organization for three years in overall performance, which includes not only sales but also service.

The Commonwealth staff headed in the county by Mr. Adams includes Roy Ramey, Ed Blankenship, Homer Draughn, Kenneth Hall and Cecil May. The recent state convention was attended by Ramey, Hall and May.

THE INESCAPABLE CONCLUSION

And now we hear that Dewey Lake is one of the 100 best bass lakes in the United States. That does it, fellows. My worst suspicions are now confirmed. I and 99 other guys I know are the 100 worst fishermen in the United States.

OH, WELL!

Fellow was surmising and second-guessing and so on the other day about those two convicts who were shot and killed trying to escape La Grange prison. He had an idea, maybe, they oughta let 'em run and catch them later. This is the way he figured it: Hundreds of men who have committed worse crimes have been legally turned loose. If they had had the right kind of lawyer, or enough money to get the right kind of evidence, or had had enough influence, they would never have been in the pen, in the first place. And under the Kentucky probation system they probably would have been turned loose pretty soon, anyway . . . And, besides that, they probably would have found things so tough outside they would have broken back in before long, anyhow.

This being vacation time, we pass on to all vacation-plagued readers the following which, we believe, started with The Gering (Neb.) Courier.

Stumbo after Horn, Crum, Greene and Bennie Blackburn had voluntarily signed statements attesting to their willingness to be examined by polygraph. Blackburn did not take the test, although he made the trip to Frankfort.

The questions asked the three men pertained to testimony they had given at the court of inquiry conducted here by Judge Stumbo. Greene testified during the inquiry that Horn told him he was backing his wrecker up the highway when it was hit by the bus, near Knotley Hollow.

Testimony of Horn, Crum and Blackburn denied this. They claimed Horn had noticed Banner Burchett's truck parked across the ditchline at the upper side of the highway, near Blackburn's trailer-home and had gone to Knotley Hollow, there turned and, returning to pull the Burchett truck back onto the highway, had slowed almost to a stop when hit by the bus.

The relevant-irrelevant tests were given Greene at Frankfort and three each to Horn and Crum. (Questions that are irrelevant as well as relevant to the matter in question are asked in such tests.) No announcement was made as to future court of inquiry action. Mrs. James Greene, who had been requested by Horn for the polygraph test, did not go to Frankfort because of illness, it was said. Horn last week suggested that a polygraph be brought to Prestonsburg at his expense for the convenience of witnesses.

DRIVER'S LICENSES

Your A to K driver's licenses will expire on the 31st day of July, 1958. Renew before the deadline. I will have my son, Edgar P. Stephens, at Wheelwright on the 8th day of July and at Martin on Tuesday, July 15 and 22, for the purpose of issuing renewals of those licenses expiring July 31st.

The law requires you to get your license in the county where you live and it is a violation not to do so. To those who work late and cannot be at this office or the places mentioned, I will be in the office here in Prestonsburg during the hours from 7 a.m. until 10 o'clock at night for your convenience.

chines and a countywide job of consolidating precincts. Thirty machines would have cost approximately $50,000, and the merger of precincts, though only in the "thinking" stage, had not been particularly popular. Proponents of the voting machines contended that, besides resulting in more honest elections, they would "pay for themselves" in savings on printing costs and pay to election commissioners and tabulators. Such savings have not been made where voting machines are in use, however, others argued.

Tuesday's court meeting saw the re-enactment of previous levies for taxes: 50c per $100 valuation on real estate and personal property, 20c per $100 on bank shares, 2c an acre for the forestry fund, $1.50 poll. Certified as recipients of surplus foodstuffs during July were 11,053 persons. At earlier June meetings Roy Cook, of Drift was employed as dog warden and livestock inspector, his salary for each job being fixed at $100 a month; and Ray R. Allen and Nat H. Hager were re-employed as county auditors at a salary of $1,200 a year.

Farmers who sell wool below the national average price for the 1958 marketing year will wind up getting less for their wool than the national incentive price of 62 cents per lb. Roy C. Gray, chairman of the Kentucky Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee cited the following example to show how the wool payment program works:

For the 1956 marketing year (for which payments were made in the summer of 1957), the national average wool price was 44.3 cents per pound. The incentive payment rate was 40 percent to bring the average up to the incentive level.

A farmer who sold wool for 35 cents per pound received a payment of 40 percent of this amount, or 14 cents. This gave him a total return of 49 cents per pound.

A grower who sold his wool for 50 cents a pound during the same marketing year received a payment of 20 cents per pound, giving him a total return of 70 cents per pound for his wool.

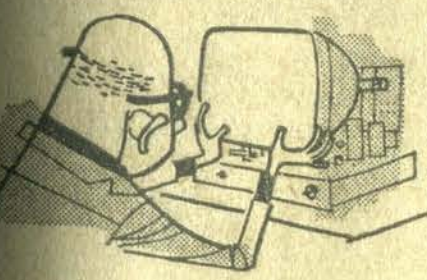

Dimethoate, an experimental material, has been found to give good control of nasal botflies, attacking sheep, says the USDA. The material is not available yet for farm use.

Kentucky Has More Qualified School Teachers

Frankfort, July 3—In 10 years, Kentucky's public school system has reduced its number of teachers having no college training from 1,000 to 50.

These teachers are among those employed with emergency certificates. In the same period, the total of those teaching with emergency certificates has dropped from 5,900 to 2,813.

These figures, released by the State Department of Education, show that the quality of instruction and professional stability of teachers have increased since 1948, say State educators.

The agency pointed out that more Kentucky teachers are remaining in the positions they held the previous year. During 10 years, the department reported, the public school teaching staff has risen from 18,500 to 23,900.

The department reported that under the foundation program, which provides better salaries for better qualifications, the level of training of emergency teachers is higher than ever. Nearly 90 percent of them have more than one year of college and 50 percent have between two and three years. Records show that most teachers appointed on emergency basis progress to full qualification and in many cases provide Kentucky with its best teachers, the agency says, adding:

"In a period when the demand for teachers is constantly increasing, due to larger enrollments, less over crowding (lower pupil-teacher ratios), and broader services (art, music, physical education and library services), decreasing the number of teachers appointed on emergency certificates is an encouraging indication of better education in Kentucky."

BARTERING OF FURS, SEEDS, ROOTS FEATURED EARLY VALLEY STORES

The larger of the old-time general stores were massive emporiums of hardware, groceries, clothing, seeds, harness and furniture. This picture of a typical Big Sandy store of the 80's shows the old-fashioned "step-stove," and hanging near the ceiling are boots. Under the boots are bolts of cloth attached to the wall. Most merchandise was under glass or inaccessible to the customer unless a clerk assisted him.

By HENRY P. SCALF

One hundred fifty years ago Judge John Graham, "Laird of Graham's Bottom," at the present Emma, was the only merchant of any importance between the Southwest Virginia frontier towns and the Ohio River section below Ashland. His old ledger, now in the possession of a Prestonsburg descendant, has entries back to 1800, indicating that for several years before coming to the valley Graham conducted some sort of itinerant merchandising enterprise here.

Today storekeeping is a highly competitive business with mercantile establishments, many highly specialized, abounding in every town, at the mouth of creek valleys and at all major crossroads. Competition didn't bother Judge Graham 150 years ago. His nearest competitors were at Burlington and at Limestone, now Maysville, on the Ohio. He had no Big Sandy competition worthy of the name until Frederick Moore left Philadelphia in 1815 and established a store at The Forks, now Louisa. Moore prospered on the ginseng and fur trade.

David Cooley came to Prestonsburg in 1818 from Shenandoah county, Va., and erected a store and tannery on the present First Avenue. He was a lay Methodist minister and served as Justice of the Peace. He held his first sale when a pet bear invaded the store while the proprietor was at dinner and turned over a sugar barrel. Sugar was sold at a cut-rate price by Cooley for a few days and afterward the bear was shooed away from the store. He died in 1867 and was succeeded in 1869 by his son-in-law, Isaac Richmond, from Big Stone Gap, Virginia.

There were many other stores established, though, in the valley by the time Richmond came after the Civil War. Many were built on all the major tributary streams of the river. Harvey Leslie had the first store on Johns Creek near the Leslie Settlement by the time of the Civil War. Leslie's customers brought him furs and dried peaches. At one time he had 250 bushels of the dried fruit in the store awaiting shipment. He hauled furs, roots, barks and peaches to the mouth of Cow Pen Creek, near the present Mossy Bottom, loaded a flatboat and drifted to the Cincinnati market.

James S. Layne, founder of the town of Betsy Layne, had one of the valley's earliest stores. Like Leslie and others he depended upon barter a great deal as money was scarce. There is extant a reply to a letter Layne wrote a fur buyer in the East.

"We have just received our advices from New York and find furs will be scarcely worth purchasing," the Pittsburgh buyer wrote Layne, at Laynesville, in Feb. 1847. The prospect for high prices is out of the question. The following is a list of prices furnished us: Coon, from 6 1/4 to 25c; Red fox, 50c to $1.00; wildcat 25c to 37 1/2; muskrat, 10c to 12 1/2. These are the prices you may expect to get for your furs and if you can do better at home or at The Mouth you had better avail yourself of it."

Prices were queerly dislocated in Big Sandy stores before the Civil War. Layne bought great quantities of merchandise at The Mouth of Sandy, (Cattlettsburg), from Catlett & Williams, wholesalers. An 1834 invoice reveals that the wholesale price of coffee was only 16 1/2 per pound but tea was $1.10 pound. Salt was wholesaled at 37 1/2c per pound. Other prices of Catlett & Williams were: calico, 17 1/2c yard; powder, $7.50 keg; cups and saucers, 17c set; stoneware, 8c per gallon; lace 3c yard; fur hats, $2.60 to $3.00 each. Lead for moulding bullets was 7 1/4c pound.

Layne's old records reveal what he paid for items of barter when he credited them to account. Bearskins were worth 62 1/2c each and beehives and deerskins 12 1/2c per pound.

An old ledger in which John Spurlock of Beaver Creek kept store accounts before the Civil War is an interesting commentary on economic conditions of the times. Customers bought merchandise no longer demanded as the use has declined. Who would want to buy a "shirt pattern," or skeins of silk? Who buys a riding switch? Spurlock stocked these and many more things we do not call for.

Take the 1854 account of William Crabtree in the Spurlock ledger. Two items on the charge side are whiskey and indigo. Whiskey was 75c gallon. Credited by Spurlock to the account of Crabtree by barter items are dry "sang", at 16c per pound, a day's work at 75c, a cow for $13.50 and a bushel of flaxseed at $1.25. These credits were common to many of the accounts in the ledger.

In the Isaac Flanery account is a credit by feathers: "2 lb. 14 oz. 40c", the entry reads. Here on this account it is the charges that intrigue us more than the credits. Coffee was twelve pounds for 67c; candlesticks 12 1/2c each; shoes $1.00 per pair; salt 50c for half a bushel. Salt had decreased a great deal since James S. Layne paid 37 1/2c per pound for it in 1834.

Very little money entered the accounts as credits, most of them being barter items as mentioned. Usually after the accounts had run for a while Spurlock took a note from the customer and marked the account, "square." Sometimes he accepted a note from a third person through endorsement by the customer. Personal notes seemed to be almost legal tender in Beaver Creek before the Civil War.

Typical of many accounts in the Spurlock ledger is the appearance of medicine and whiskey charges. Oldsters were firm believers in the efficacy of alcohol for human misery. Robert Salisbury appeared at Spurlock's store, August 26, 1854, and bought the following: Three pounds of coffee, 50c; 1 1/2 gallon of whiskey, $1.12 1/2; one bottle of oil, 25c; one box of pills, 25c; 1 1/2 gallons of whiskey, $1.72 1/2. Perhaps if he wasn't sick he expected to be.

No institution of any kind reflects the changing times and more pointedly reveals the customs, economic conditions, and other phases of life than the general store.

Forestry Group Urges Good Fire Prevention; New Laws Are Cited

A plea to Kentucky farmers to observe "good fire prevention rules" in forests and fields of the Bluegrass State was issued this week by the Kentucky Tree Farm Committee.

Pointing out that more than 42 per cent of Kentucky's 11 million acres of forest land is owned by farmers, Committee Chairman Harold C. Moser said his committee asks the farmers to be especially careful with fire during the summer and fall fire seasons.

"Fires are the No. 1 enemy of productive forests in Kentucky," Moser said. "Fires greatly reduce the value of the standing trees in many cases and they destroy the young trees which should form the future crops of timber from our forests."

Under a law passed by the legislature this year, all forest land in the state will be given organized forest fire protection within five years. At the present time, only about 60 per cent of Kentucky's forest area is afforded organized protection by the State Division of Forestry.

Moser urged all farmers and others to observe the state fire laws and to help protect the forests which afford recreation to all, jobs to more than 18 thousand Kentuckians and soil conservation protection to 11,497,000 acres of land. The Kentucky Tree Farm Committee has certified 71 privately owned, taxpaying tracts of timberland which have been managed for continuous production of timber for harvest and which are protected from fire and destructive grazing. These Tree Farms cover more than 58,000 acres.

FARMING IN 1967

LEXINGTON, KY.—What will farming in 1967 be like—in view of the steady changes being imposed now on this valuable segment of American industry?

It can be expected to differ in nine major ways, says Dr. N. S. Hadley, Purdue University economist. He spoke recently to Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service specialists at their "look-ahead" session.

LEXINGTON, KY.—Whether you ask for broilers or fryers when you plan your 4th of July picnic, you will get young birds that have been produced primarily for their good eating qualities, says Mrs. Letta W. Jasper, UK Extension specialist in marketing and consumer education.

Lady Is Free Of Rheumatic Pain

One lady told us she had rheumatic pain so bad she had to walk with a cane most of the time. The joints of her knees and ankles were stiff and sore. Recently she got RUGON and says the pains began to go within a few hours, and now after one week the pain is gone entirely.

RUGON is helping so many victims of rheumatism and neuritis because this NEW Liquid Formula contains Three Wonderful Ingredients. Not a tablet or capsule. RUGON goes to the very source of pain almost at once and costs but a few cents a day to take. So don't go on suffering. Get RUGON at W. A. Rose Drug Co.

Utility Firm Announces Plans For New Building At Paintsville This Year

Kentucky Power Company last week announced plans to build a new office building in Paintsville, Kentucky. The new structure will be located at Third and College streets. "The ever-increasing needs of this growing community will be more adequately served and this new building will play a vital part in the progress of the area," H. H. Kincaid, district manager of the power company's Pikeville district said. The brick, concrete and steel building will consolidate facilities and the equipment the firm has in the area. At present the Kentucky Power Company employees and equipment are operating from four different locations in Paintsville. The new building will be L-shaped with 3,150 square feet of floor space. The long side of the "L" will measure 69 by 26 feet and the other side will be 62 by 38 feet. Three heat pumps will provide year-around air conditioning and heating, and the building will feature modern fluorescent lighting. A 60-seat auditorium or meeting room will be included in the building in addition to a lobby, cashier's area, superintendent's office, meter readers' and servicemen's room, storage area and garage. Low construction bid for the project was submitted by Ike Stephens and Sons, of Ashland, Kentucky. Construction is to begin soon.

Senator Powell Neutral In War Between States

In February, 1862, a resolution of expulsion on grounds of disloyalty to the federal government was drawn up against U. S. Senator (formerly Governor) Lazarus W. Powell from Kentucky. The author of this resolution was Kentucky's other senator, Garret Davis. In the heat of brother against brother, Davis accused Powell of being a scoundrel and a traitor. Powell put up an able and effective defense of his neutral position on the Civil War question and was exonerated of Davis' disloyalty charge by a vote of more than two to one. In less than two years Senator Davis had reversed his own Unionist stand and risked expulsion from Congress in his open criticisms of Lincoln's conduct of the war. In the post war period, Davis was elected U. S. senator on the Confederate-Democratic ticket. Senator Powell returned to law practice in Kentucky following the expiration of his term as senator in 1865. Powell was born in Henderson County in 1812, the third son of Lazarus and Ann (Mahon) Powell. The boy was ambitious to be a lawyer, but his father's limited means prevented him from entering pre-law training directly from elementary schooling. Young Powell sought and received help from Judge Rowan of Bardstown, the owner of what is now termed "My Old Kentucky Home." In 1833 he was graduated from St. Joseph's college, and two years later he was admitted to the bar. He was a prosperous lawyer in his native Henderson, and in 1848, he ran on the losing ticket for governor against the Whiz candidate, John J. Crittenden. In 1852 Powell again sought the office of governor, and this time he was successful. His term as governor, however, proved to be routine and was not particularly distinguished. In 1858 Powell was elected to the United States Senate. He was sympathetic to the Southern cause but opposed to secession. When the war broke out, his position was not especially popular, and he was criticized for being neutral. Before the end of the war, however, his popularity returned, and Senator Davis expressed regret that he had opposed Powell. Lazarus Powell died in 1867. The Confederate - controlled Kentucky legislature voted the funds in the following year for the publication of his biography and for the erection near Henderson of a monument over his grave.

AIRMAN FALLS 18,000 FEET WITHOUT PARACHUTE, LIVES

The experience of a former British airman who fell three miles without a parachute, and lived is the $2500 First Person Award story in the July Reader's Digest. Nicholas Stephen Alkemade's wartime escape—described in the article "I fell 18,000 Feet and Lived"—was verified by RAF Intelligence and the German Luftwaffe. Alkemade himself—now a British department store buyer—commented: "I can only wonder why such a marvelous thing should have happened to a man as ordinary as myself." He was tail-gunner in a Lancaster bomber, wedged into a space so tight that he could not wear his parachute; it had to be stowed elsewhere in the fuselage. One night over the Ruhr, German fighters raked their plane with fire. The captain ordered "Bail out!" Alkemade writes: "I opened the fuselage door—and stared for a horrified instant into a giant blowltorch. I recoiled, choking and blinded. But I had to get my chute! I opened the doors again and lunged . . . too late! The case had burned off, and the tightly-packed silk was springing out, fold after fold, and vanishing in puffs of flame.

"Should I endure this roasting hell, or should I jump? If I was to die, better a quick painless end by diving into the ground. I somersaulted into the night. "Gratefully, I felt the cold air against my face. If this was dying, it was nothing to be afraid of. Then—nothing. I must have blacked out." He came to in a deep mound of underbrush heavily blanketed with snow. It was bitterly cold, and his head and back ached intensely. But he was alive! He had difficulty convincing the Germans he had tumbled 18,000 feet without a parachute. They finally believed him after studying the plane's wreckage. Then he writes "They marched me into the compound where 200 captured Allied fliers were assembled. The Luftwaffe officer told my story. I was mobbed by French, German, British and Yank, shaking my hand, shouting questions. I was presented with a piece of paper signed by the senior British officer who had taken down the German authentication in writing and had it witnessed. "It is a faded scrap of paper, but it will always be the proudest thing I own."

WAYLAND

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club had its final meeting of the club year, June 16, before adjourning for the summer. The meeting was called to order by the retiring president, Mrs. Earl Castle. She then turned the meeting over to the program leader Mrs. R. H. Messer. The program was "Art of Flower Arranging and Quilting." Mrs. Messer made several flower arrangements as a demonstration. Arrangements for banquet tables were shown. This was very interesting since banquet tables have always been a problem for arrangers. Stress was given on the use of our own natural materials, such as the lowly dock seed pods growing beside the road and in the fields. This she demonstrated by using dock seed spikes for spike and day lilies for gradation, using a heavier container. Mrs. Messer urged everyone to gather dock seed pods now; cutting stems as long as possible. These can be dried and used in winter dried arrangements. The art of quilting was touched upon. Mrs. Messer displayed a beautiful all-appliqued quilt. Mrs. J. C. Wells, Mrs. N. D. Howard, and Mrs. Ellen Hornsby attended the conventions in Detroit, Mich., and Lexington, Ky. They gave interesting reports on both. There was a good number present for the meeting, and Mrs. Castle urged each member to give her fullest cooperation to the new president, Mrs. L. B. Price. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. J. B. Spillman, Mrs. L. B. Price, Mrs. N. D. Howard.

Big Bass Caught

These three largemouth bass were caught recently in short order by Carl Thomas, of Frankfort, and an unnamed fishing partner at Dewey Lake. They used a black dolly fly and black pork strip.

But these three bass which weighed 14 pounds were overshadowed this week by three caught Monday afternoon by Heber Burke and Raymond Copley, of Prestonsburg. Their three junkers weighed 20 pounds.

JR. AMATEUR TOURNAMENT WON BY BILLY CLEO HALE

The 13th International Junior Amateur Tournament sponsored by the Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce was won last Friday by Billy Cleo Hale, of Manton, who posted a winning score of 150 for 36 holes.

Hale took an opening day lead of nine strokes into the second day's competition to outlast the remaining field of four other junior golfers for the Floyd county title.

His 71, shot during a drizzling cold rain on Thursday, consisted of hot putting and radar-like chipping. Hale's nearest competitors, Henry Hughes, Prestonsburg, and Clyde Woods, Martin, conducted a private golfing war in tying for second place honors.

Hughes and Woods both finished with 155 at the end of the second day. At the end of an extra five holes Hughes had beat the badly tiring Woods by five strokes.

The first day started with Woods making the most sensational shot of the tournament. He potted a 60-yard chip shot which gave him an eagle 3 on the 475-yard number one green.

But from then on it was the hot-putting Hale who forged into a nine stroke lead. He had par and birdies on all the holes except two and three, which he bogeyed. His second day's golf was eight strokes off his first day's score—but it was good enough for first place.

James Caudill, of Martin, appeared to be a contender but his irons went bad and his score ballooned. Cline "Dollar" Hale let the strong point of his game—putting—go ragged and fell far behind. Cline was the youngest entrant in the tournament. The top four junior golfers of the state meet at Frankfort July 12 and 13 are eligible to participate in the International Finals to be held at Tucson, Arizona.

Trophies donated by Wright, Castle, and Burchett Jewelry stores were presented to the winner and runner-up by the chairman of the tournament, Quentin Allen.

45 Students from Floyd Are Enrolled at U. of K.

Forty-five students from Floyd county are among 3,204 students enrolled on the Lexington campus of the University of Kentucky for the summer term.

Included are students from 118 Kentucky counties, 31 other states, the District of Columbia and 20 foreign countries.

University Dean of Admissions Charles F. Elton said that this figure does not include students who are enrolled or will enroll later in the summer for special workshops, short courses and seminars.

Students from Floyd county are:

Winnifred Akers, Rosemary Allen, Ova Boggs, Marsella Bradley, James Burchett, Joe Burchett, Donald Claypool, Walter Collins, Thelma Conway, William Cooley, Alton Crisp, Doyle Dings, James Dings, Larry Gibson, Ronald Goebel, Silas Halbert, Irvin Hall, Hazel Hill, Clyde Hoover, Garland Howard, Barbara Johnson, Mary Leslie, Donald Lowe, Thomas May, Pete Newsome, Phyllis Noble, Bertha Osborne, Joan Osborne, Mary Osborne, Inez Owens, Carol Patton, Robert Prater, Garr Reynolds, Reginald Reynolds, Shirley Roberts, Clarence Salyer, Polk Saunders, Goldia Short, William Spradlin, Karl Thomas, Rosalyn Thomas, James Turner, Robert Wallace, Charles Wiechers, Jr., and Jesse Wright.

Park Receipts Exceed Last Year

Frankfort, July 1 (Spl.)—"In spite of the cool spring weather, gross receipts from our State parks for the fiscal year just ending far exceed last year" total," Mrs. Ben Kilgore, director, said recently.

There were more visitors at the parks during May and June, 1958, than in corresponding months last year, Mrs. Kilgore continued.

Indications are that this will be an outstanding tourist season in Kentucky, the director added, "and we are doing everything to show vacationers a good time while visiting our parks."

Mrs. Kilgore was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Rotary Club in Corbin.

Split Squirrel Season Set by Commission

The squirrel season will be in two parts, August 15 through October 15 and from November 20 through December 17. The bag limits will be six per day and 12 after two or more days of hunting. The quail, rabbit, grouse and furbearers season will open on November 20 and continue through January 18. The bag limits will be 10 for quail, two for grouse and eight for rabbits. Double those numbers will be allowed in possession after two or more days of hunting.

The Commission also changed the cost of deer tags for resident bow and arrow hunters to $5.50 in addition to a regular hunting license. The cost of the tag for out of state residents is $10.00 plus the required hunting license.

Road, Finance Units Get New Commissioners

Frankfort, July 1 (Spl.)—Governor A. B. Chandler has appointed new commissioners of highways and finance, following the resignation of Dr. James W. Martin as head of the highway department to return to the University of Kentucky.

Ward J. Oates was named commissioner of highways, succeeding Martin, and Dr. Ora F. Taylor was appointed finance commissioner, the position vacated by Oates.

Oates had succeeded Martin as finance commissioner last Nov. 15 upon Martin's appointment as highway commissioner. Oates had been deputy finance chief.

Accompanying him to the highway department was his deputy, Charles A. Byrley, appointed to succeed Phil M. Miles as deputy highway commissioner. Miles also resigned, to enter private employment.

Governor Chandler announced he would bestow upon Martin the Governor's Medal for distinguished public service. Martin is professor of economics and director of the Bureau of Business Research at the University.

He had been on leave from the university since the beginning of Governor Chandler's second administration in December, 1955, serving successively as finance chief and highway commissioner. He was commissioner of revenue during the governor's first, 1935-39, administration.

Traylor has been executive assistant to Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield in the latter's capacity as director of the Legislative Research Commission.

Traylor's successor in that post is James T. Fleming, who has been director of research for the commission. Edward M. Rail, budget director, retains that position and steps up as deputy finance commissioner succeeding Byrley. Succeeding Fleming was Al Pisano, senior research analyst.

The appointees were named to take over their new duties July 1.

AUTO MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE IN CASE OF ENEMY ATTACK

Frankfort, July 1 (Spl.)—Most families in the United States have four wheels on the road to survival. These are on the family car. How well it serves depends on a few common sense preparations—things which may spell the difference between life and death in emergency, whether from natural disaster or enemy attack, says Kentucky Civil Defense experts.

Many survival actions, especially pre-attack evacuation, depend on the ability to move away from a probable area of danger. The car provides this ability.

The car should be kept in the best possible mechanical condition, with tires properly inflated, battery in tip-top shape, and the gas tank more than half-full at all times.

Most cars today can move some 250 miles on a full tank of gasoline. While it may not be necessary to move that far at any one time under emergency conditions, it may well be a difficult problem to obtain additional gasoline for quite a while after an attack.

Gasoline can be conserved by keeping the car engine in proper mechanical adjustment and operating the car at the most efficient speed, usually between 30 and 40 m. p. h. The Federal Civil Defense

Administration advises that a car can push or pull another with little increase in gasoline consumption.

Tests under an actual atomic explosion in Nevada proved that most modern cars, especially those with turret top construction, give a degree of protection against blast, heat and radiation.

Before an attack, roll the windows down to equalize the pressures and to prevent glass breakage. Crouch or lie down, below the level of the windows. After an attack, windows should be raised to keep out as much dust as possible: It may be contaminated by radio-active fallout.

FCDA urges motorists to keep on hand maps of the cities in which they live and of surrounding areas. In an evacuation, maps will be important, since it may be necessary for the official traffic broadcasts to route traffic over unfamiliar roads.

Important to remember during evacuation are rules of Civil Defense driving: Obey police, and other civil authorities. Pick up walking evacuees, if there is room in the car. Do not crowd or try to beat the other fellow. If the car becomes disabled, try to get off the road.

To Teach at Eastern

Mrs. Inez Baisden Livingston has been named an associate professor of home economics at Eastern State College, at Richmond, it was announced recently. Mrs. Livingston, a native of this county, will begin duties at Eastern in September. She will have charge of the home management house for home ec seniors at Eastern and will teach courses in consumer problems and house planning.

Mrs. Livingston was born at Tram, graduated at Betsy Layne high school and was named valedictorian in 1934. She was graduated cum laude from the University of Kentucky with a degree in home economics in 1938. Entering Ohio State University in 1934 she earned a masters degree there in education administration and supervision.

She taught at Loyall, Harlan county, for 15 years, and at Ludlow, Ky., with terms also at Cincinnati and Columbus, O. She goes to Eastern from the position as head of the Home Economics department at Union College, Barbourville, Ky.

Mrs. Livingston is a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron, a national home ec honorary fraternity; Delta Kappa Gamma, national educational fraternity; Phi Delta Gamma, national fraternity for gratitude students; Chi Delta Phi, literary fraternity; president of the Tri County Chapter, Friends of Kentucky Libraries; member of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club; Beta Sigma Phi social sorority; and member of several civic and social clubs at Corbin, Ky., where she now resides.

Current supplies of some seeds are plentiful, says the USDA; they include Merion bluegrass, perennial ryegrass, sudan grass, ladino clover, Kentucky blue-grass, brome grass, white clover, alsike clover, alfalfa, orchardgrass, common ryegrass and lespedeza.

Pensions for Widows Of Conveterate Vets Get Belated Start

The Veterans Administration has requested assistance in trying to locate in Kentucky an estimated 50 widows of Confederate veterans believed to be entitled to federal pensions, it was announced last week by Ray R. Adams, manager of the VA regional office in Louisville.

VA's problem is in trying to identify the widows, who for the first time are eligible for VA pensions under recently signed Public Law 85-425.

The widows, however, present another problem, Adams explained. Only those southern states which pay similar benefits have partial rolls of Confederate beneficiaries. The United States has no official records on these beneficiaries and, since the benefits are not automatic, the widows will have to fill out application forms which may be obtained in person or by letter from any VA office.

Widows under 70 are entitled to $40.64 and over 70 to $65 a month. If the widow was married to the veteran during the Civil War service, she is entitled to $75 a month. Information may be obtained at any of the VA's six offices in the state or at the Regional office, 1405 W. Broadway, Louisville.

GARRETT

The Garrett Baptist Church has had its annual vacation Bible school for the past two weeks, with a large group attending throughout. The school had several speakers and teachers. Among them were:

Rush Stone, pastor of the Church, Mrs. James Potter, Mrs. Orville Rice, Miss Gloria Fay Stone, Mrs. O. K. Wallace, Mike Stone, Lawrence Baldrige and Michael Brown, president of the youth group which is connected with the church.

The Bible school had its final activity Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The Garrett Youth Group had a meeting Monday night in the Garrett Baptist Church where they sang a few songs and later went to the basement of the church for refreshments and a business meeting.

Newspapers Best Advertising Buy, Supermarkets Say

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—The nation's supermarkets are convinced that newspapers are their best advertising buy.

A survey released here showed that of 323 companies which operated the 4,005 supermarkets participating in a poll taken by the Super Market Institute, 89 per cent spent more advertising money in newspapers than in any other medium; 80 per cent spent more money in newspapers than all other media combined; and 52 per cent spent more than 75 per cent of their total advertising expenditures in newspapers.

The figures were released by Curt Kornblau, director of SMI research at the institute's annual convention, attended by some 14,000 members of the supermarket industry.

Other Kornblau findings included: 48 per cent had a higher expense ratio in 1957 than in 1956.

96 per cent of the companies participating in the survey used newspaper advertising; 58 per cent used radio; 40 per cent used handbills and circulars; and 27 per cent used television.

Of those who did not list newspaper advertising as the "most important advertising medium," nine per cent listed handbills and circulars while one per cent listed "radio and other."

FVT. OWENS NAMED AIDE FOR A DAY
FORT EUSTIS, VA.—Pvt. Dilard Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Owens, of Wheelwright, Ky., recently was named Enlisted Aide for a Day to the commander of the 48th Transportation Group at Fort Eustis, Va.
A member of the group's 24th Transportation Company, he was selected for his soldierly appearance, knowledge of duties and military courtesy.
Owens entered the Army last March and received basic combat training at Fort Knox, Ky.
The 18-year-old soldier attended Wheelwright high school.

Patients Relive Past In Brain Operations

Deep inside the brain runs a strange "thread of time," recording permanently every sight and sound ever perceived. Touch this thread with an electrode, and it will play back like a motion picture projector: the patient will literally relive experiences buried in the past.

This is the discovery of Dr. Wilder Penfield, a world-famous neurosurgeon, described in the July Reader's Digest. Dr. Penfield, the founder of Montreal Neurological Institute, was probing in the brain of a middle-aged housewife, looking for areas damaged by epilepsy.

Suddenly the woman shouted in surprise. She seemed to be having her baby again. In detail, she described the long-forgotten experience.

The same thing happened again: A Texas businessman relived part of a childhood baseball game; an Indian secretary went back to some hours she had spent snowbound; a South African harked back to a family gathering, laughed again at a funny story his cousin had told.

"I am not just remembering this," the South African said. "It is happening all over again. I know I am in Montreal, but my friends are here with me. I can see and hear them."

This discovery, Dr. Penfield believes, has important applications in education. As the thread of time records its pictures and sounds, he believes, it also files them, under several mental index headings, so they can be quickly found again when needed. This suggests the effectiveness of audio-visual teaching methods; any lesson is learned better if both eye and ear record the facts, and it is filed as sight and sound. For another thing, Dr. Penfield believes it proves that foreign languages should be taught in childhood when the mind is most receptive. The language may be forgotten again, but if it is, only a few weeks in the land where it is spoken will restore the former ability.

HALL IS A POLITICAL BROKER ATTORNEY GENERAL ASSERTS

Paris, Ky., June 17.—Richard Hall was not a highway contractor but a political broker and nothing else," Attorney General Jo M. Ferguson asserted Tuesday in defense of his $66,960 recovery suit against the Hall Trucking Company for work in 1957 on 13 Knott County road projects.

The occasion was the hearing on the law in the case before Judge William B. Ardery, of Franklin Circuit Court, but sitting here at Paris.

The central object of attack and defense was the June 4 finding of Squire N. Williams, Jr., special commissioner named by Judge Ardery to hear the facts. Williams recommended that the State is entitled to recover $66,960 from Hall's company on the ground the money was paid him under a void contract.

The Williams report held these State officials jointly liable with Hall—Rural Highway Commissioner J. B. Wells, Jr., Highway Commissioner James W. Martin, Finance Commissioner Ward J. Oates, and O. J. West, Pikeville, district highway engineer. The sureties of these officials also were held liable.

At the end of 3 hours of argument, Judge Ardery granted both sides additional time to file briefs. The question before him was a defense motion to dismiss the case.

Defense counsel included Clifford E. Smith, Frankfort, for Martin and Oates; John Young Brown, Lexington, for Richard Hall and Hall Trucking Company, and J. D. Buchanan, Jr., Frankfort, for Wells and West.

On the other side were Attorney General Ferguson, who filed the suit, and Assistant Attorney General H. D. Reed, Jr.

"I am astonished," Ferguson began, "that eminent counsel talked so much and said so little. They merely overlook the finding of court's own commissioner that the State is entitled to this recovery."

"Richard Hall was not a highway contractor but a political broker and nothing else. When he came to Frankfort early in 1957 to solicit this work he did not go to engineers of the Highway Department, but to some office on the other side of the river."

(In Frankfort, the Kentucky River flows between the Capitol, on the south side of town, and the Highway Department, on the north side.)

"He got the promise, but he had no equipment. So he went back home, rented the equipment for two thirds of what the State was paying him, and went to work bulldozing dirt from one place to another."

"And he began work, not under the direction of the Highway Department, but under the authority of Dennis Sturgill, the County Judge of Knott County."

The work started in March, Ferguson went on, but it was not until May 20 that the Highway Department first learned of it.

Ferguson told the court that 70 per cent of the work was done before the Highway Department knew of it, and that 93 per cent of the money was paid to Hall before the department finally awarded him a contract on July 12.

That the State officials are co-defendants with Hall is unfortunate, Ferguson went on, for on the whole he described them as men of integrity and ability.

"But the liability of these gentlemen is plain," he said. "They attempted to regularize a void contract and now they must stand the consequences."

Ferguson's suit was based on the contention that the projects were never advertised for bids, hence the State had no legal right to enter into a contract with Hall.

The following points in defense emerged from the composite arguments of Brown, Smith, and Buchanan:

1. The Knott County projects were part of the rural secondary system created by the 1948 Legislature. This act did not require competitive bids for such work. The attorney general was in error, then, when he relied upon bidding requirements of a 1920 act because it was superseded by the 1948 act.

2. Similar contracts have been made in the past including some in the five years Ferguson was assistant attorney general assigned to the Highway Department.

3. The State got full value for its money.

4. Due to the nature of the terrain and projects, the State got more value by the method used than had it advertised for bids.

5. There is an unbroken line of court opinions that hold that the State should deal justly with the people. Hence Hall is entitled to his money because he did the work and the State got the value of it.

Brown, the first speaker, opened by filing an affidavit designed to correct what he said was an error in the attorney general's original brief. The error, he added, reappeared in an editorial in The Courier-Journal.

The attorney general's brief stated that Hall charged the State for 110 hours on the two days of May 17 and 18. The affidavit filed by Brown was the sworn testimony of George H. Hailey, chief engineer for the rural-secondary-road program.

Hailey testified:

It is true that one form showed 110 hours charged to May 17 and 18. But the clerk who entered the two dates must have run out of room, or was disinclined to complete the dates. Had the attached work sheets been examined, Hailey added, they would have shown that that 110 hours were charged to May 17, 18, 20, 21, 23, 24, 25, 27, 29, 30, and 31.

Brown said the work sheets show that the 110 hours actually represented 10 hours actually represented 10 hours a day for 11 days, rather than 55 hours a day for two days.
