

THURSDAY

This Town— That World

ANYWAY, HE WRITES ENOUGH

John Foster Dulles has been accused of playing international politics by ear while his vis-a-vis Khrushchev, plays his note.

LOOKING BACKWARD

Bob Harlowe dug up for us recently two 1914 copies of The Prestonsburg Post, honorable predecessor of The Times which was owned and edited by his late father, A. C. Harlowe. And we found a lot therein that was interesting.

We appreciate the fine sacram in that Page One item, for instance, in which the editor called for 5,000 new residents to come into Prestonsburg and raise hogs, adding that the city authorities would have no objections.

The ads back then, 44 years ago, were interesting too. Incidentally, those Prestonsburg businesses of the day which did not advertise in their local newspaper went without a permanent record and will pass from the memory of man with the last of those who lived at that time. Present-day business men, please read.

Then there was the poem, "Out Fishin'," by the late Edgar A. Guest that I read with deep satisfaction. I liked it so well that I have copied it from those old, crumbling pages and am almost committed to reprinting it. Now there was a man who knew what he was talking about.

One request, and I will temporarily scuttle that "no poetry" policy we're following so long.

A MATTER OF SPELLING

Quentin R. Howard, the Pike county teacher-writer warns us that we and almost everybody else may be spelling the Jenny in Jenny Wiley State Park incorrectly. He correctly points out that, if indeed the spelling is wrong, it signs are erected at the park and elsewhere and, then if somebody calls for a correction, in the result could be an expensive piece of work. Mr. Howard tells us that he took a ten after the pioneer heroine by her great-

ZIMMERMAN IS RENAMED

To Anti-Pollution Group By Gov. A. B. Chandler; Legislature Ups Number

Governor Chandler this week reappointed Harry O. Zimmerman, manager of coal properties of the Inland Steel Co., Wheelwright, to the Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission as the commission was increased by two in accordance with the Legislature's directions.

New members named are Mayor Wilbur Caskey, of Ashland, and Mayor George Jacobs, of Paducah.

Governor Chandler also appointed a five-man board of trustees for the County Employees Retirement System. The board was created by the 1958 Legislature.

Named were Clyde Hopkins, Clinton, and Thomas E. Phipps, Ashland, for four-year terms; Harold Trader, Providence, for three years; Marshall Dawson, Versailles, for two years, and J. W. Janes, Springfield, for one year.

$100,000 IN DAMAGES SOUGHT BY GARDNER

CLAIMS SUIT ON UTILITIES IS DAMAGING

Gas, Water Consumers Reply To Counterclaim Filed Here Last Week

Ralph L. Gardner last week made an answer and counterclaim to the recent suit filed against him and U. H. Benderman as a step toward voiding Floyd county bonds and to sell the water and gas system bought by those bonds, and in the counterclaim section of his action asked of the plaintiffs in the original suit a total of $100,000 damages.

These plaintiffs are Charles Clark, Marlin Combs, W. L. Triplett, Ralph Elkins, Dewey Sargent, Edwin Frasure, Orville Hansford, Walter Frasure and Chester Patton.

In his counterclaim Gardner says that statements made in the plaintiff's suit, orally and otherwise have resulted in his being refused and deprived of financing and refinancing projects and the buying and selling of bonds—all of which are involved in his profession—and that he has been thus damaged to the extent of $50,000.

These same statements, he alleges, have damaged his reputation in the same amount.

Clark and others, in a reply to the counterclaim of Gardner, deny there was any purpose of imputing to him the commission of a crime, deny they made statements at various times, as he alleges, and also deny that the suit was in any way malicious or that the defendant has been deprived of business in Floyd county to the extent of $50,000, or any other extent, or that his reputation has been damaged in the sum of $50,000.

Their answer adds that all the statements they made are true and that the same or similar statements have been made by various persons since the time the bonds were issued and that the repetition of such charges in the suit could not have damaged or injured the reputation of the defendant any more than it already had been damaged. They ask a jury trial of the case.

Gardner, whose counterclaim and answer were prepared by W. Major Gardner, of West Liberty, claims the plaintiffs falsely and maliciously and for the purpose of degrading him and his reputation and to destroy his business and profession authorized and directed their attorney, Claude P. Stephens to assert that:

COMBS NAMES DR. MARTIN

Choice of Manager Hit By Wyatt and Chandler; Martin In Sharp Retort

Appointment this week of Dr. Robert R. Martin, state superintendent of public instruction, as manager of the campaign of Judge Bert T. Combs, of Prestonsburg, for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination drew fire from Governor Chandler, one of Combs' opponents, Wilson W. Wyatt, and Wyatt's newspaper supporter, The Courier-Journal.

Resignation of Dr. Martin was called for by all three. Governor Chandler indicated he was thinking of impeachment proceedings against the state school head.

There followed running-fire comment from both sides. Wyatt urged that the schools should be kept "out of politics."

"The taxpayers of this commonwealth are making the greatest contribution to public education in their history and they are entitled to the services of a fellow dedicated to the causes of education," Chandler commented in a discussion of Martin's acceptance of the post of campaign manager for Combs.

Wheelwright Youngster Suffering With Paralysis

A Floyd county youngster who received three vaccine shots is hospitalized in Lexington with paralytic polio.

Seven-year-old Charles Robert Hanger, of Wheelwright, is suffering from a mild paralysis of both feet and legs.

He is the fourth polio patient admitted this year to St. Joseph's hospital.

FAIR BOARD TO MEET

The Floyd County Fair Board will meet this evening (Thursday) at 7:30 at the regional library, it was announced.

FOUR FLOYD HIGHWAYS AMONG 112 ADVERTISED

The Department of Highways in newspaper advertisements over the state this week called for bids August 8 on 890 miles of road work, approximately eight of which are scheduled for Floyd county.

The 112 projects advertised for letting are the highest number of jobs to be awarded at a single letting in the history of the department, it was said. The 525 miles to be let to contract, Friday of this week, is next in size.

The Eastern Kentucky county slated to benefit by the greatest number of miles of road construction under the bid advertising this week is Pike with a total of approximately 82 miles.

C. C. TALKED HERE MONDAY

Ky. Chamber, Power Firm Represented at Meeting; Lancer Sewers Opposed

Groundwork for the eventual establishment of a Chamber of Commerce was laid at the Monday meeting of the Prestonsburg City Council.

Henry D. Fitzpatrick, vice-president of the Bank Josephine, termed the Chamber of Commerce necessary to backing up the Regional Planning Commission and to unify the efforts of Eastern Kentucky for needed improvements.

Representatives of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and the Kentucky Power Company met the following day to answer questions concerning the establishment of the Chamber of Commerce.

A meeting of Prestonsburg businessmen will be scheduled later to state their reaction to the proposed Chamber of Commerce. This group will have the final authority on the civic addition.

Tom Watkins, representative of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, told the attending group at the city council meeting that the Chamber of Commerce serves three purposes:

(1) Promote the general welfare of Kentucky, (2) advertise the industrial and natural resources of Kentucky, (3) stimulate and protect the industry of the state.

He warned the group that it takes "blood, sweat, and tears" for the Chamber to succeed.

He emphasized that the chamber will be what is made of it. Watkins stated that what will be done for Eastern Kentucky will have to be done by Eastern Kentucky. He said that the handicaps of transportation and topography place Eastern Kentucky at a serious disadvantage.

"The results of a lifetime of work in an effort to create a better Eastern Kentucky may not be realized within your lifetime, but to your children and their children, the benefits of your work will be their legacy," he said.

E. McDowell Timberman Fatally Injured By Tree On Frasures-Cr., Monday

Philemon Frasure, 21, of East McDowell, succumbed at 12:30 a.m., Tuesday, 15 hours after he had been injured by a falling tree on Frasure Creek.

Mr. Frasure, who was cutting mine timber, received the fatal injury when a lodged tree he was felling broke in two and struck him in the solar plexus.

The victim was a son of Wade and Elma Moore Frasure, of East McDowell. He was unmarried.

Surviving brothers and sisters are Delmar Frasure, Cincinnati, O., Oliver, Boone, Clyde, Doffie, Rex, James and Helen Frasure, all at home.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m. today (Thursday) at the home at East McDowell, ministers of the Regular Baptist church officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery on Frasures Creek under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

HEART CLINIC EXAMINES 49

Facilities Are Taxed By Indigent Patients From Five County Area

Forty-nine medically indigent heart patients from five counties of this area were examined at the heart clinic held at the Health Center here, July 11.

The clinic, second of its kind to be held in Prestonsburg, was a service of the Kentucky Heart Association and was under the joint sponsorship of the State Health Department and the Floyd County Health Department.

The 28 children and 17 adults examined taxed facilities of the clinic to the maximum. Seven adults who could not be examined will be the first on the list for the next clinic, date of which will be announced later.

Counties sending patients: Floyd, 28; Magoffin, 11; Pike, 2; Johnson, 2; Breathitt, 2.

Representing the State Heart Association at the clinic were: Dr. Joseph A. Little, Dr. Margarette Vermillion and Dr. Stuart Harlowe, child heart specialists; Dr. Henry Post, adult heart specialists; Barry Biener, of the administrative division; Finley Booth, field worker; Miss Virginia Schlaugenhaupt, social worker.

Roy Penix, public health education consultant, and Miss Mae Frazier, public health nurse consultant, represented the State Health Department. Assisting in clinic were these from adjoining counties: Mrs. Lola Belle

POLL RECORDS AREA OPTIMISM

AIK Says Most Employers Say Business 'Looking Up'; Few Say 'Worse'

Business men in the Big Sandy valley feel that business conditions are "looking up" according to a "how's business" poll released this week by Associated Industries of Kentucky. A. I. K. collected the information for its report July 8 at an area workshop in Pikeville which was attended by about 50 employers from Pikeville, Prestonsburg, Elkhorn City, and a number of smaller mining communities in Pike and adjoining counties.

About 80 per cent of those present reported that their business is either experiencing it's best year, or a year that is better than all but two or three of the recent boom years, according to Rayburn Watkins, executive vice-president. The other 20 per cent said you have to "go way back" to find a worse year. Some of these responses, A. I. K. believes, were from coal operators whose business may have declined more than in the previous coal slump.

As to the depth of the current recession, a shopping 90 per cent say the turn for the better has already come or that it is now "bumping along on the bottom."

The other 10 per cent expect things to get slightly or moderately worse before they get better, but it is significant that none expect conditions to become severely worse.

As to timing, most of the Big Sandy concerns who feel that upturn lies just ahead list late summer or fall as their period of great expectation. However almost as many indicated that they expected 1959 to be the year of big headway rather than late 1958.

The answers in the Pikeville-Prestonsburg area roughly match the information garnered in a similar survey in the Ashland area in June, according to Watkins. They show no marked difference from reports in ten other areas where A. I. K. has conducted workshops this summer.

NATIONAL HEALTH PROGRAM TO ATTACK NEW PROBLEMS

A program that will permit a scientific assault on major health problems of the nation, with arthritis and birth defects as initial new targets, was announced this week by the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis.

Ray Howard, of Prestonsburg, chairman of the Floyd county chapter of the Foundation, upon receipt of the announcement hailed the new program with wholehearted approval.

"To me this new approach is one of the most outstanding moves in years to tackle the major causes of illness," he said.

POSTAM HELD, FAILING BOND

$5,000 Bail Asked of Man Accused in Rape Attempt; One Juvenile Held Guilty

James Postam was held to $5,000 bond on a rape charge following his arrest last Thursday by Deputy Sheriffs Hershel and Clyde Lester.

Postam, a resident of Drift, was accused by his wife of the attempted rape of his young daughter at their home and had been a fugitive several weeks. Unable to execute the bond, he was remanded to jail by County Judge Henry Stumbo.

In juvenile court here Wednesday Judge Stumbo held Rodney Derossset, a juvenile, guilty of attempted rape and acquitted a second boy. He did not immediately pass sentence on the Derossset boy.

Jailed within the week on the more serious type of offenses were:

Luther Vanhose, Carl Clay Jones and Johnny Davis, each accused of drunk driving; Johnnie Johnson, attempt to kill and possessing moonshine whiskey.

In quarterly court these were fined:

Tom Blackburn, gambling, $20 and costs; Bill Goodman, Edgar Leslie, John Hall, each $10 and costs for drunkenness; Grancis Rice, breach of peace, $4; James Vance, fishing without license, $15.

The drunk driving charge against Luther Slone was reduced on motion of the County Attorney at the recommendation of the arresting officer. He was fined $20 and costs.

JORDAN NAMED BUREAU HEAD

Floyd Native Picked For Frankfort AP Post; Was Wayland Resident

Paul R. Jordan, formerly of Wayland, was named correspondent in charge of the Frankfort bureau of the Associated Press.

Mr. Jordan was named bureau chief at the capital to succeed Kyle Vance, who resigned to accept a place with the Frankfort staff of The Courier-Journal. Jordan will take charge of the AP office, August 1.

A native Floyd Countian, the 32-year-old Jordan has been an AP writer since 1952. Prior to that he worked on The Huntington Herald Dispatch and The Paintsville, Herald. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky.

When first joining the Associated Press, Jordan worked in the Louisville office. He has had a wide variety of assignments within the organization and his by-line is well-known among Kentucky newspaper readers. Government and political reporting has occupied most of his time the past two years but he has been pulled off his assignment to cover such stories as the school integration trouble at Sturgis-Gay, the 1957 Eastern Kentucky floods and the Prestonsburg school bus tragedy.

His most recent newspaper story of major interest to Floyd county announced plans of Conservation Commissioner Laban T. Jackson to build "back-to-nature" cabins at Jenny Wiley State Park on Dewey Lake. The announcement created area-wide reverberations.

RECC Set To Decide Wells-Calhoun Race

The election of one member of the board of directors of the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation at Paintsville Saturday, July 12, is a matter to be determined by the board this Saturday, it was noted this week.

It was first stated to The Times that Elza Calhoun defeated Bill Wells as the latter was ineligible as a dealer or salesman of electric appliances. However, it is now stated, Wells defeated Calhoun by 615 votes to 567 and since Calhoun's friends raised the question of eligibility the matter will be decided by the board after interpretation of the by-laws of the cooperative.

CONLEY ASKS REAPPRAISAL

By Court of Position Landowners To Occupy On Old Mineral Deeds

Commonwealth's Attorney Hollie Conley has by an intervening move known as amicus curiae (friend of the court) entered the litigation between the Elk Horn Coal Corporation and the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company which is before the Court of Appeals for rehearing.

In his brief the prosecutor terms the Appellate Court decision in the case "the most far-reaching and important decision affecting Eastern Kentucky for many years." He seeks to have the landowners' rights established.

The litigation between the coal and gas firms arose while a pipeline was being constructed from Maytown to the Kentucky-Virginia state line by the Ranier Construction Company. Elk Horn sued to enjoin Kentucky West Virginia against constructing the line across about 43 tracts of land on which it held mineral rights, claiming the deeds it possesses convey exclusive rights and that construction and operation of the pipeline constitute invasion of property rights. Pipeline rights-of-way had been acquired by the gas company from the landowners.

The case was submitted as to 10 tracts, which were regarded as representative of the whole. The lower court dismissed the coal company's suit.

The Court of Appeals, however, held that on six tracts covered by "Northern" (Northern Coal & Coke Company) deeds the coal company does own exclusive rights and its property rights were invaded in the construction of the pipeline. On the other four tracts, on which Elk Horn held only coal mining leases, the high court ruled that the pipeline does not constitute infringement.

Now, the Commonwealth's Attorney intervenes in the motion for rehearing before the Court of

PLANNERS GET PARK FACILITY PLAN AT LAKE

Governor Says Housing To Include Deluxe Cabins With Low-Cost Buildings

"I would never agree to build anything less than first-class facilities at Dewey Lake," Gov. A. B. Chandler told members of the Eastern Kentucky Planning Commission at a conference in Frankfort Tuesday following Conservation Commissioner Laban T. Jackson's announcement last week of a plan of low-cost housing in Jenny Wiley State Park at the lake.

The Governor outlined to the Commission, some of whose members had been critical of the Jackson announcement, a three-part program for the park:

1. Low-cost tourist cabins which will be neat and clean but, lacking some deluxe facilities, will be offered to occupants at below-average rental.

2. A certain number of deluxe cabins such as have been built at other parks.

3. Campsites with running water, flush toilets and first-class facilities.

He also pointed out that a sportsmen's lodge and a road from Brandy Keg to Hager Gap will be built.

Commenting on Jackson's plan for "back-to-nature" housing at Jenny Wiley State Park, which Jackson said, according to newspaper reports, "would be tops, particularly for Eastern Kentucky," the Governor declared Jackson had no intention of slighting Eastern residents by insulting their people. He indicated Paul Jordan, Associated Press writer, misquoted the Conservation Department commissioner.

Chandler was also emphatic in his statement that Jenny Wiley State Park will get as much consideration as any park in the state.

The Governor was told by one or more members of the Planning Commission that it is a mistake to apportion park funds on the basis of each park's present income, for the reason that other parks have been developed and thus have an income established while the park at Dewey Lake is undeveloped and as a consequence cannot have any established earning power. Proponents of this argument contended that Jenny Wiley State Park should be allotted $200,000 of the $450,000 appropriation voted by the General Assembly instead of the $50,000 mentioned by Jackson.

The Governor, however, made no definite commitment in reply to this argument.

WARRANT SYSTEM OUT, NO INTEREST IS ASKED

Elimination of the years-old system of issuing fiscal court interest-bearing warrants in payment of county indebtedness was hailed this week by County Attorney Robert S. Wellman as one of the greatest fiscal advances ever made by Floyd county.

Hereafter, payment will be made by check.

At the same time officials were elated by the results of negotiations with the two Prestonsburg banks on loans to the county. First of all, the fiscal court at its meeting Tuesday entered an order specifying that the bank offering the lowest rate of interest on such loans would be designated the county depository.

The bidding was open, Russell Hagewood and Clifford B. Latta represented The First National Bank; Former County Judge Alex L. Davidson entered bids for The Bank Josephine. And the bidding continued till both banks had entered bids of no interest whatsoever on loans made to the county within the limitations of the budget. Not more than 75% of the budget may be borrowed within the fiscal year.

Because of the no-interest tie between the two banks, The First National Bank, which already was the county depository, was continued in that role.

Heretofore, county warrants issued in payment of claims bore 6% interest until called for payment by the county treasurer.

County Attorney Wellman said he "understands" that Floyd county is the last county in the state to quit the old warrant system of paying its obligations. He added that payment by check was provided by the budget law enacted upwards of 20 years ago and that he had insisted on the change being made in this county.

Foundation, as it now will be known, will continue its history-making virus research program and investigations of disorders of the central nervous system, and will add research and patient aid in arthritis and birth defects (congenital malformations), O'Connor said.

The expanded program will be financed through the traditional March of Dimes conducted each January by volunteers in 3,100 county chapters across the country.

The National Foundation head continued: "This is our concept for the future: The development of an organized voluntary force in the fields of medical research, patient care and professional education, flexible enough to meet new health problems as they arise, with specific goals initially.

"The heart of the new program is research. Research will be expanded from where it is now, without the restriction of being confined in the future to a single disease. Professional education also will be expanded to cover training of personnel both for research and patient care in all areas of activity."

The limitations result from the enormity of the patient care problem: At least 11,000,000 persons have arthritis and rheumatism; 250,000 children are born with significant birth defects each year (excluding birth injuries); an estimated 150,000 persons who have had paralytic polio still will require some assistance in the years ahead.

It is planned to offer patient aid at first only to arthritis patients through 18 years of age and to children suffering from malformations of the central nervous system also through age 18, he said. Some 16,000 childhood arthritis sufferers can be expected to seek treatment each year and about 8,000 patients annually have birth defects of the central nervous system that are treatable. Among these conditions are: spina bifida (open spine), encephalocele (open skull) and hydrocephalus (water on the brain).

To shape a broad program in patient aid in arthritis and birth defects, much must be learned about precise numbers of patients, the number and quality of existing facilities and the availability of qualified personnel, the National Foundation president said.

"Our objective in patient care is to continue the polio job until it is finished," he explained. "We have a moral obligation to do this and the American people expect us to recognize this responsibility. We shall begin patient care in arthritis and birth defects, first, where it will do most good and, second, on a scale commensurate with the public's willingness to finance it."

The new program was adopted after five years of unprecedented investigation of areas of need in the health field and careful assessment of the strengths of the National Foundation that could be applied to other problems. Conferences were held with medical, civic and governmental leaders, as well as representatives of National Foundation chapters from all regions of the country.

to "an unlawful and corrupt and criminal conspiracy" with the fiscal court to cause the purchase of the utilities at an exorbitant price greatly in excess of their true market worth, and a bond issue was issued "to perpetrate a giant hoax of fraud upon the public generally, the taxpayers and the consumers of gas and water."

Gardner's counterclaim also sets out that on or about June 1, this year, in the presence and hearing of various persons the plaintiffs falsely and maliciously spoke of him in words almost identical with those in their suit and that they have in the last 12 months repeatedly made such statements.

In his answer to the suit filed by Clark, et al, the defendant points out that on December 3, 1953 the Floyd County Good Government Taxpayers League, Inc., and Edward B. Leslie instituted an action against the fiscal court attacking the purchase of the utilities and the bond issue. On May 31, 1956, the circuit court rendered a judgment in favor of the fiscal court and against the defendants, the answer says.

It was also pointed out in the Gardner answer that there is now pending in U. S. District Court a suit involving receivership for the utilities and that an order has been entered enjoining any person from interfering with the continued operation of the utilities. He contends the plaintiffs seek to have the utilities sold and to interfere with their operation in violation of the U. S. District Court order.

Plaintiffs in their reply to this claim that the Taxpayers League suit attacked the purchase of the utilities only on the contention that members of the fiscal court did not sign the orders on the order book the same day they were entered, that in that suit no question was raised as to fraud or collusion.

Last Rites Conducted For Fred Saunders, 75, Who Died Last Week

Funeral rites were conducted Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist church for Fred Saunders, 75, of the Town Branch section of Prestonsburg, who died Wednesday of last week. Mr. Saunders, a retired gas company employee, had been ill for some time.

He was a son of Columbus and Edith Anderson Saunders and was married to Penna Bingham Saunders, who survives. Surviving is a son, Delmas Saunders, of West Prestonsburg, and a daughter, Mrs. Ed Ferrell, Lenore, W. Va. Surviving also are two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. He had no surviving brothers and sisters.

Mr. Saunders, a member of Zebulon Lodge No. 273, was accorded the Masonic burial service. Rev. Ira McMillen, Jr., pastor of the church, officiated at the last rites. Burial was made in the Bingham cemetery on Town Branch under the direction of Moore Funeral Home.

Deacons of the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, of which Mr. Saunders was a member, were active pallbearers.

Appeals, asking that the high court reappraise the mineral severance deed in issue and that it direct its attention in particular to the issue of whether the mineral deeds such as those involved in the suit were intended to deprive the owner of the land itself of the use of the surface so long as the coal company does not need it.

The Conley brief terms the Appellate Court opinion giving the coal company exclusive rights under the "Northern" deeds "a grave injustice to the people of Eastern Kentucky."

"The injustice lies," he argues, "in the fact that the opinion holds that the landowners throughout Eastern Kentucky in conveying their mineral rights granted something which no one would even dare to argue they intended to convey. The opinion holds that the surface owners of Eastern Kentucky relinquished all interest in any rights-of-way over their surface, and that they cannot use their own surface for that purpose without the consent of the mineral owners."

"In eminent domain," the brief continues, "he would not be entitled to any compensation, even though his surface, including improvements, be taken." These questions are posed in the brief:

Can it be that the court intends to hold that the mineral owners, in the case of condemnation proceedings, is entitled not only to receive compensation for the strip of land taken but also the compensation for any damage to surrounding surface lands?

What about the surface owner's fences, houses and other improvements—is the mineral owner to be paid for them?

Is the high court opinion to nullify the state and county's title to roads? Are they trespassers?

Reminded that attorneys have emphasized that the issue is only one between the coal company and the gas company and that landowners' rights are not involved, the official said that the opinion nevertheless jeopardizes landowners in their possession and occupancy of their land and that there is no way of knowing what position could be taken, years from now, as to these rights.

GENERAL MOTORS ACCEPTANCE CORP. By C. C. Proctor

The annual number of accidental deaths on farms is running nearly 3,000 less today than in 1950, the number of injuries about 300,000 less, the National Safety Council says. Why? Better public information and increased safety consciousness by farm residents.

Miss Kathy Waddell, 20, of Prestonsburg, was named "Miss Big Sandy RECC" in the beauty contest held by the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation at its annual meet at Paintsville, July 12. Runner-up was Miss Martha Ann Burchett, 17, of Prestonsburg.

Miss Waddell will go to Louisville, Sept. 10, to compete in the state finals for "Miss Kentucky RECC." She won the district title in competition with nine other girls.

Miss Waddell, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gervan Waddell, of Prestonsburg, is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school and is an employee of George L. Shannon, architect.

Miss Burchett is the daughter of W. W. Burchett, Prestonsburg attorney.

great-great-grandson spells her name "Jennie."

The book is JENNIE WILEY—PIONEER, by John Nathan Bennett; the publisher, Exposition Press, 386 Fourth Ave., New York City.

Incidentally, the marriage bond of Jenny Wiley's daughter—whose name was also Jenny—spells it JENNY, Floyd court records show.

Speaking of spelling, Thomas, the husband of the storied Jenny, spelled his last name WYLIE.

The Rev. H. M. Wiley has instituted something at Maytown, which, we are told, has even those who seldom if ever attend church stopping to think, perhaps to pray. It is the ringing of the bell of the Methodist Church at 7:30 every morning, calling the community to prayer for itself and its people, for the state and the nation.

NOT ENOUGH MONEY

When we complain, as complain we will, about Floyd county failing to do this or that needed project, we should remember that the budget adopted this year by the fiscal court, based on expected receipts in taxes, is $25,000 less than the budget for the schools of Paintsville alone. The city schools there set expenses at $230,524.88.

GOODWILL, A FICTION?

The Society of Infallible Second-Guessers had a special meeting, the other morning, when it appeared that we might be swapping shot and shell, any minute, with Russia and her minions over that Middle East situation.

"Dulles is an old woman," remarked one charter member. "Knows just enough to get on and off a plane."

A Republican member objected, and the presiding officer pounded for order.

Another wanted to know why nations can't get along. "If they would only practise being friendly, interested in the problems of others and stop being so selfish and prejudiced," he murmured.

Just then a man passed. Everybody spoke to him except the speaker. He looked elsewhere. "That old So-and-So," he explained, "voted against my great-uncle, one time."

We are told that rain has fallen here every day in July except two. Now what we want to know is which two.

SHE TRIED HER BEST

Mrs. Beatrice Collins, of Lackey, complains to The Times, and rightly so, that her classified ad last week should have read, "Furnished Restaurant for Rent," and not "Furnished Residence." "I tried hard to make it clear to your man that it was a restaurant in a good location," she writes.

Well, we agree, she tried, and we are changing her ad from "residence" to "restaurant." There is quite a difference, come to think of it.

IT'S WORTH A TRIAL

Bootlegging is like the weather in one respect. Mark Twain, you will recall, said everybody talks about the weather but does nothing about it.

For a long time now we have been talking, talking. We're all tongue-weary. And so we pass on to those readers who might have more than a pecuniary interest in the illegal sale of intoxicants some ideas that swam into our ken via a straight-thinking woman, the other day.

"I wonder," she said, "how many have taken time to talk to some of those who are selling whiskey. I don't mean to say officers of the law and the courts should not do everything possible to catch and prosecute these who spread death and broken homes and everything else that is bad by selling the stuff. Far from that. But what about the Christian attitude of treating these people as humans with lives to live and children to rear?"

Then she told of the youngster she once knew who finished high school, only to go into the bootlegging racket. Without vanity or braggadocio she told of making a call on the young man, of sitting down with him and flatly telling him that she knew his business. Then she gently, and as convincingly as she could, pointed out to him the opportunities that lay ahead if he would only give himself a chance. "You have the ability and the personality to do fine things," she told him, "if you will get away from this, and apply yourself and work. But if you stay here your reputation will soon be ruined, those who love you most will be the first to suffer—and you may lose more than your reputation, you may lose your life."

The young man gave her a promise, and it was not long until his mother came to thank the woman for what she had done for her son.

"Now," she continued, "I wonder if this experience could not be repeated in several instances. Most of these men who are selling liquor—and just about everybody knows them—are not vicious men. Most of them have wives and children, and I have an idea they love them. It may be that some of them need only a little encouragement, warning from the right person about what they are doing not only to themselves but to their children who will grow up and go to school here and, just naturally, want to take their place in life along with other children."

Then this visitor suggested that perhaps the ministers of this community and others should get together and pay friendly visits to these people, show them that they are interested in them, earnestly advise them and perhaps pray with them.

Who knows? We think the woman's idea is a good one. It will not be effective in every case, but in few cases will it be more ineffective than all that has been done to date.

Peter J. Janis, executive director of the Pikeville Chamber of Commerce, declared that there is a drastic need for a Chamber in Prestonsburg or Floyd county. He said the Chamber must combine with the others in Pikeville and Paintsville to work as a regional Chamber. He added that our problems of flood control, highways, educational troubles, and the like are common problems and must be faced as such.

The City Council agreed to a motion to "lay the cards on the table" before the State Water Pollution Control Board Sept. 9 at Frankfort concerning a denial from that board to grant Prestonsburg permission to build additional sewers to serve the annexed area of Lancer.

Councilman James Goble indicated that the state board must not fully understand the sewer situation in Prestonsburg. Councilman W. O. Goebel, Sr., made the motion that a delegation of councilmen, together with an advisory representative of the Mueller Company meet with the board.

The letter from the State Water Pollution Control Board said the request to dump additional sewage into the Big Sandy by providing service to the annexed area of Lancer was unanimously denied.

Permission was granted to the Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce to sell house numbers. Frank Heinze explained that Prestonsburg has never been numbered. He said that an adequate numbering system would be advantageous to Prestonsburg in the delivery of mail and by providing adequate description of residences and businesses.

A proposal by Councilman Virgil Warrix to postpone temporarily the blacktopping of Lancer streets was passed, with the amendment that base levels will be laid this fall for the streets.

Warrix said the level would then have time both to settle and to keep Lancer residents out of the mud till spring. The Council also heard Gene Hager who told members that water is standing in the Lancer streets and becoming infested with mosquitoes. Also included in the street plans there are measures to provide adequate culverts and drains.

over a period of several months, Chandler has attempted to get me to barter my office by resigning, in order that he could appoint my successor and take complete and absolute control over education in this state to assist him in his campaign to elect his hand-picked candidate for Governor.

"My involvement in politics is in no sense a new or usual thing for the holder of the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction. I will cite only a few instances: In 1932, Dr. James H. Richmond, as Superintendent of Public Instruction, managed the pre-convention and the fall campaigns for Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Presidency of the U. S. It seems to me that even as the people of this nation in 1932 needed Franklin Roosevelt to restore confidence in their government, even so the voters of Kentucky today need the leadership of Bert Combs to restore honesty and integrity to the government of our Commonwealth. I assume that Mr. Wyatt and Mr. Chandler both enlisted under the leadership of Superintendent Richmond as I did when I cast my first vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"It may be pointed out also that other Superintendents of Public Instruction have been candidates for Governor — two of these in fairly recent times were George Colvin and John Fred Williams who sought their parties' nomination.

"Chandler states that he will ask for the resignation of any state official or state employee who becomes engaged in a political campaign. I assume that he will ask for the resignation of Harry Lee Waterfield as Lt. Governor and as Director of the Legislative Research Commission. Undoubtedly it will mean that he will call for the resignation of all of the department heads, division directors, and state employees who are under his control, since it is obvious that he has been using them in every possible way to extend the Chandler-Waterfield administration.

"Since he has served notice on the voters of Kentucky that the election of his puppet candidate is necessary for his campaign for the Presidency, I assume we may expect his resignation immediately, since he continues a candidate."

method of paying by check and borrowing from banks, if necessary to make those checks good, will help in many ways. If a bank loans the county money, for instance, it is going to have a keen interest in how the county handles its finances toward repaying that loan, especially since the loan bears no interest," Wellman said.

The first loan negotiated under the new system was to procure sufficient funds to pay for right-of-way in condemnation proceedings on the Bonanza-Whitaker road. The fiscal court authorized County Treasurer W. J. May to borrow these funds, and County Clerk DuRan Moore was authorized to issue the checks, with the treasurer to countersign them.

At last Wednesday's meeting of the fiscal court the settlement with Ex-Sheriff Gorman Collins on tax collection was postponed 45 days by agreement of all the parties concerned. The decision to defer settlement was reached after a discussion with Ray R. Allen, county auditor, and Delbert Ison, of the State Department of Revenue.

Accidents in 1956 cost the nation $11,200,000,000 according to the National Safety Council.

Telephone Talk

by
H. D. HAYES
Your Telephone Manager

PLAN AHEAD! This is the time of year I like to get out and look over the summer's crop of new homes. They're all mighty nice—so pretty and modern. Of course, as a telephone man, I especially like to see the ones that are "telephone planned." This means telephone outlets are prearranged so a new home owner can have as many as he wants just where he wants them. Then, if there's only one phone to begin with, others can be installed later without any trouble. The wiring is concealed, and there's no need to run wires around doors and woodwork. Look for the Telephone Planned Home symbol when you go new house hunting. If you're building your own new home (or even just remodeling your old one), call us and we'll be happy to help you with your telephone planning.

PHONE AHEAD: Just as July is a heavy building month, it's also vacation month—probably the most popular of the summer. So, remember, when you're traveling on the highway, take it easy! No reason to be late or if you're worried about reservations, just call ahead. You'll find convenient outdoor telephone booths ready to serve you 'most everywhere you go.

IS THIS TAX FAIR? Somewhere recently I came across this little view of the past. It seems that in ancient Egypt the life of a tax collector was no cinch. Many were often attacked by the taxpayers, smeared with honey, and left tied to ant-hills. I'm certainly glad times have changed because the phone company is a tax collector of sorts. The tax we are required to collect from you for the government is the excise tax—the extra 10% added monthly to everyone's telephone bills. Originally, this tax was a war-emergency measure, but you still pay it today. No other household utility is subject to such a tax, so in fairness to all it's high time the Federal excise tax was abolished.

Baby-Sitter Service Offered Those Attending Berea's 'Wilderness Road'

Travelers sometimes give up such pleasures as theater-going while on a trip with the kiddies. But not so in Berea, home of the outdoor drama, WILDERNESS ROAD, where Southern hospitality is extended to the small fry as well as to the adults.

Many modern families who prefer to take the children along on vacation are happy to find that Paul Green's celebrated drama appeals to children of all ages, even as young as five. But babies are offered a special treat. Eighteen baby-loving women in Berea operate one of the world's happiest baby-sitting agencies.

Mrs. Henry Muncy and her helpers will care for the babies of tourists in motels, hotels, or, if preferred, will take the babies into their own homes. The best possible care is offered these tots, and their individual needs are given special attention.

An unusual feature of this service is the fact that the baby-sitters are chosen to fit the situation. Thus, a family of three or four young ones would be put in the care of a Berea mother who is experienced in handling several charges at once, while a single baby would be placed under the watchful eye of one of the several young women from Berea College who have applied for this type of work. Because of WILDERNESS ROAD, Berea is one of Kentucky's greatest summer attractions (it runs nightly except Sundays during July and August, and Mrs. Muncy and her baby-sitting agency is just one of the many considerations which make this town famous as a hospitality center.

Tourists are advised to contact the Information Center to take advantage of this service.

Moore-Root Vows Solemnized

The Pentecostal Church of God, Ypsilanti, Mich., was the scene of a wedding ceremony Friday evening, June 6, when Miss Glennette Glo Moore, daughter of Mrs. Artie S. Moore, Ypsilanti, and Newell A. Root, son of Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Root, of Ann Arbor, were united in marriage. Rev. Wm. Wilson conducted the double-ring ceremony in the presence of approximately 300 relatives and friends.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Curtis Stumbo. The bride wore a floor length gown of rose point Chantilly lace in painted cascade effect over a heavily ruffled nylon underskirt and the bodice had a scalloped sweetheart neckline edged with iridescent sequins and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The fingertip veil of imported nylon net fell from a crown of iridescent sequins. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

Miss Camelia Gwen Moore was her sister's maid-of-honor in a pale blue taffeta, waltz-length gown with an eyelet overskirt. Her headpiece was a blue crown with a short veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of salmon pink carnations centered with rosebuds.

The bridesmaids were Miss Glenda Doris Moore and Janice Merle Moore, Ypsilanti, sisters of the bride. They wore dresses fashioned like that of the maid of honor. They carried cascade bouquets of matching colors.

Jadwin Root, of Ann Arbor, served his brother as best man and seating the guests were Ronnie Neale Moore, brother of the bride, and Ray Wilson, of Wayne, Mich.

The bride's mother wore a blue lace dress over blue taffeta and the groom's mother was attired in a green white nylon dress. Both had white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Bored? Tired? Fed Up? Get Away From Yourself!

Many people who think they are bored, tired and fed up with everything, actually are suffering from one of the most common allergies, says the August Reader's Digest—they are allergic to themselves.

The cure is simple: get interested in someone or something outside yourself.

In the article, "How to Get Away from Yourself," Howard Whitman writes that being too wrapped up in oneself is the cause of that all-too-common feeling that zest has gone out of living. People who feel this way need to reach out and make contact with some other lives.

One way to begin is letter-writing. Perhaps there is a relative you haven't heard from for a long time, a friend who has moved away. Renewing the contact brings fresh experience to your own life.

One man broke out of his depression with a "talk-to-someone" plan. He made it his business to talk to someone new every day of the week. A 79-year-old woman, confined to a wheel chair after an automobile accident, faced a dull and lonely future, until she rolled down to the corner newsstand and started talking to the newsdealer. She learned he couldn't have a hot lunch because he had no helper to relieve him. She took over the chore, and at 88 was still doing her daily stint. "Instead of being alone, I am making many new friends," she says.

Religion has always stressed the need to break through the prison of self. "No tree bears fruit for its own use," Martin Luther, "everything in God's will gives itself." A latter-day religious leader, the Rev. Fredrick C. Kuether, of the American Foundation of Religion and Psychiatry, put it this way: "Trying to get people to open up is one of our chief goals in counseling. As people reach out, they get well. As they get well, they reach out."

Visitors Praise Endless Waters

Frankfort, July 20 (Spl.)—"Endless Waters," the new drama presented nightly at Cumberland Falls, is received with enthusiasm by hundreds of persons who have seen the play since its opening in mid-June.

State park officials say they are receiving praise from the public for making this spectacle possible, with its magnificent lighting, accompanied by symphonic music and narrated by Conrad Nagel.

As one visitor described the pageant, "something wonderful happens when in the darkness the Falls suddenly come to life in varied shades of brightness revealed in a way quite impossible to see in daylight." This, combined with music, by stereophonic sound, adds listening enjoyment to the visual spectacle.

Prediction made by park officials are that thousands of visitors who come to Cumberland Falls will see the drama as it is presented nightly the year-round, weather permitting.

FLOOD WARNING SYSTEM WORKING EFFECTIVELY IN EAST KENTUCKY

EASTERN KENTUCKY'S flood warning system is performing effectively and would be of great value in another emergency.

That's the opinion of Engineer Ralph Kresge, U. S. Weather Bureau. He reported to Economic Development Commissioner George Hubley after a tour of river and rain gauge stations that make up the main part of the system.

It was established after the 1957 flood by the bureau with the help of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission.

U. S. FARM POPULATION SHOWS DECLINE

Des Moines, Iowa — Since the mid-'30's, the nation's farm population has declined by some 10,000,000 persons. It now totals about 22,250,000 although the farm acreage totals more than 1,160,000,000 acres, the highest on record. The number living on farms today represents about one out of every eight persons in the population, the smallest proportion as far back as records go.

Burke Wins 10th Flight,
Goebel Loses on 20th;
Elder 2nd Among Pros

Three Floyd county golfers, two amateurs and one professional, ranked high in the recent Paintsville pro-amateur golf tournament.

One of the three, Joe Burke, of Prestonsburg, won the 10th flight, defeating Jim Ward one up in 20 holes. Another Prestonsburg amateur, Bill Goebel, Jr., went to the 20th hole before losing to Jim Hodges, one up.

The Floyd professional, Gene Elder, of Wheelwright, placed third in pro play with 146 for 36 holes. Al Atkins, Ashland pro, won with 137, and Authie Meeks, of Paintsville, was second with a score of 144.

Jim Barber won the amateur crown for the second straight year with a 3-and-2 victory over Paul Allred.

The Big One That Didn't Get Away

Thrilled, a bit proud and a little scared of the big fish describes the trio of youngsters in charge of a catfish caught by Arthur Hughes and Sammie Wells, of Prestonsburg, July 1, in the river at Lancer. It weighed 16 pounds, was 33 inches in length.

Tire Failure Is Serious Hazard,
But Can Be Avoided With Care

Accidents caused by tire failure are becoming the No. 1 headache on virtually every high-speed turnpike in the country, the August Reader's Digest reports; and the hot summer months are deadliest of all.

However, the phrase "tire failure" is misleading. More often it is a case of human failure—failure to care for tires properly.

In the article, "Tired Tires Can Kill You," condensed from the National Safety Council's magazine, Traffic Safety, Paul W. Kearney lists these six safety commandments:

1. Have tires inspected periodically for uneven tread wear, rim bruises, cuts, wheel alignment, etc. A wheel half an inch out of line means the tire is being dragged sideways 87 feet in every mile—scuffing off the tread which is your skid protection.
2. So tires will wear evenly, change their position every 5000 miles. Move front wheels straight to the rear on the same sides; crisscross rear wheels to the opposite sides in front.

3. Watch inflation. On a long trip, check tire pressure every morning while tires are cold. Under-inflation is not only dangerous; it can shorten tire life 20 per cent.

4. If you habitually bump curbs, buy a pair of "cat's whisker" curb feelers. It doesn't take many of these two-ton nudges to knock your front wheels out of line. If anybody in your family makes tires scream on curves and stops, throws gravel in starts, take his keys away or make him earn the price of a new set of tires.

5. With old tires on a full car, stick to the slow lane. And whether they're new or old, make those periodic stops recommended for turnpike driving.

6. Remember, the safest place for smooth tires is in the ashan.

FOOTBALL CLINIC

The annual Kentucky High School Athletic Association clinic for football coaches and football officials will be held Monday, August 11, at 8 p.m., in the Pikeville high school gymnasium. Attendance is required of all who plan to officiate football games and of every football coach in the area.

Joe Billy Mansfield, assistant Commissioner of the K. H. S. A. A., will conduct the clinic along with Dr. Lyman Ginger.

FAIR WARNING

Now that it is certain the Kentucky high school basketball tournament will again be held in Memorial Coliseum, Lexington, it would be well to start seeking hotel accommodations for the 1959 meet. The same applies to all who prefer to see the N. C. A. A. finals in Louisville on the same week-end.

INTERVIEWED

One well-known Floyd county basketball coach was in Bristol, Tennessee, Tuesday, being interviewed for the head basketball coaching job at that school. He is one of two remaining applicants for the post.

Former Pikeville high and Frankfort coach, Clayton Powers, is athletic director and head football coach at the Tennessee school.

Pikeville College and Pikeville high school have yet to find replacements for ceating vacancies in their respective schools.

The Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce is in the planning stage of producing its annual football program for all 1958 Prestonsburg high school football games. This year's edition will be much larger and more colorful than last year's stella production.

Prep Grid Star

Billy Lee, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Troy P. Allen, of Martin, is a senior at Madison-Model high school this year and is an outstanding player on the football team there. In the school's alumni game he scored four touchdowns in a 39-0 victory over an alumni aggregation which included five members of the 1956 Central Kentucky Conference championship eleven.

Sgt. Lidster Ordered To Mediterranean Area
In Middle East Crisis

U. S. Sixth Fleet — Marine Sgt. Thomas J. Lidster, son of Mrs. W. D. Lidster, of Melvin, Ky., and husband of the former Miss Sandra J. Jones, of Melvin, has been ordered to remain in the Mediterranean during the current Middle East crisis.

Marines of the Reinforced Battalion of the Eighth Regiment were scheduled to return to Camp Lejeune, N. C., last month. However, on the eve of their departure for home, they were ordered into the Eastern Mediterranean following uprisings and other disturbances in that area.

Marine battalions are assigned to the U. S. Sixth Fleet to protect American nationals and interests in the event of danger and to act as an amphibious striking force for the Fleet when needed.

BRANHAM PARTICIPATES

Dexheim, Germany — Pfc. Clifford Branham, 23, whose wife, Donna, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Branham, live at Dwayne, Ky., recently participated in a field training exercise with the 12th Engineer Battalion in Germany.

A demolition specialist in the battalion's Company A, Branham entered the Army in May 1957, completed basic training at Fort Riley, Kan., and arrived in Europe last December.

He is a 1953 graduate of Prestonsburg high school and attended Mayo State Vocational school.

MISS LOWE IS WINNER
AT FELTNER 4-H CAMP

Claudena Lowe, of the Maytown 4-H Club, was one of the two top camping award winners at Camp J. M. Feltner, July 14-18. She won the Gold Medal camping award. The other Gold Medal winner was Dana Gambill, of Johnson county.

Miss Lowe is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lowe, of Eastern. During the last year Miss Lowe was county and district Dairy Food Demonstration Champion and represented Floyd county in the state Style Revue.

These and other awards to outstanding campers were given on the last day of camp on the basis of participation, leadership and cooperation in the camping program.

Bronze award winners were Pam Combs, Floyd; Jeannie Burchett, Pike; Junior Horne, Bob Parsley, Martin; Joe Hall, Dallas LeMaster, Johnson.

Star Campers were James Brown, Cind Meade, Audrey Martin, Pike; Joe Mills, Carlos Webb, Ernie Fannin, Martin; Brenda Conley, Paul Fitzhugh, Jean Short, Jimmie Gambill, Johnson; and from Floyd county, Hugh Church, Randolph Hicks, Patty Warrens, Ruby Gayheart, Melanie Ann Conley, Clara Ann Allen.

This year outstanding Junior leaders were selected to receive a special camping award. They were Sandra Hicks, Floyd county; Judy Justice, Pike county; Ronnie Hays, Floyd; and Eugene Hinkle, Martin. Activity Patches were given to outstanding earners in forestry, handicraft and recreation.

Patch winners in forestry were Lee Muler, Ernie Fannin, Danny Phelps from Martin County; J. R. Frisby, Larry Blair, Johnson county; Larry Pensen, James Brown, Pike county; and Ronnie Hays, Hugh Church, and Randolph Hicks, Floyd county.

Winners in Handicraft were:

Termites? Don't Become Panicky,
Extension Says

Termites in the house? Don't get panicky, says Robert M. Jones, county agent; your house isn't going to fall down—and you personally can probably do the corrective work at reasonable cost.

A few things should be noted about termites, he says. One, they work slowly; two, they must have a connection to the ground nest or they die; three, a good termite poison is readily available which has a long residual effect—four or five years as a rule.

So don't be stampeded when you find termites, he says. You can use Dieldrin insecticide around foundations with good results; this system will put a barrier between the termites in your house and those in the nest; termites left in the wood members of the residence will die almost immediately.

Write the Kentucky Experiment Station entomology department for its mimeographed circular on controlling termites, Jones says. This leaflet describes habits of termites, how to trench around the foundation of the house to receive dieldrin, etc. The department is located at the Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky.

Many Maladies
Are Controlled
By Hormones

New laboratory-produced cortisone-type hormones control rheumatoid arthritis, disfiguring skin diseases and disabling allergies like asthma without the hazards of older drugs of this type.

So reports Paul De Kruif in an August Reader's Digest article, "Taming the Wild Hormones." He recounts the changes effected in the hydrocortisone molecule since 1955 by researchers of Schering, Squibb, Lederle, Upjohn and Merck laboratories.

Doctors now have a battery of powerful hormones from which physicians can select one for a specific purpose. Or they can combine them in small doses that avoid the drawbacks of individual hormones.

"The old and the new hormones," reports De Kruif, "by themselves or in combination, promise a vast spread of mercy over disablement and pain."

Besides controlling rheumatoid arthritis, Aristocort, the new Lederle drug in the field, the article reports, was found also to clear psoriasis, an unsightly skin disease, including the case of a Philadelphia woman who suffered with it for 40 years.

The first paper money ever issued in America consisted of IOU notes written on the backs of playing cards in 1688 by the French Governor of Canada in Quebec.

All boys and girls and mothers attending the McGuire Camp daily vacation Bible School thought it a great success. Highlighting the the school were missionary stories and curios from different lands. A good offering for home and foreign missions was received. Baskets made from ice cream sticks, red Bible school jackets, sheep and shepherd moulded figurines were among the various handwork projects. Teachers included Miss Lois Holmquist, Miss Barbara Wynsma and Miss Willa Faye Dingus.

Experts Warn Strain Of Dieting May Be Worse Than Overweight

A little overweight is doing less harm to many people than would the emotional strain of a diet, says an article in the August Reader's Digest.

"Think Before You Diet," the article, by Robert O'Brien, advises. Many doctors, O'Brien writes, now hesitate before recommending diets to overweight patients who appear adapted to your home environment, and in good health. Many times, they discover that food is used as a means of getting through the tensions of modern living—as a pleasure, a solace and an escape from disagreeable situations.

Such people may simply be better off overweight, he writes. Or, if a diet really is necessary, they must find a substitute gratification. He lists these steps toward successful dieting—if a diet really is necessary:

1. Ask yourself: Why do I overeat? What is my pattern of ever-eating? Between meals? All day long? Just before going to bed? Do I feel guilty about it? The answers may hold valuable clues as to how to deal with the compulsion.

2. Set a modest and immediate goal—the loss of, say, a pound or two a week.

3. Allow for an occasional relapse—a splurge on a special occasion when it would be unseemly or tactless to stick to a diet.

4. Settle on a moderate diet—one that supplies adequate nutrition for your daily energy requirements.

5. Make time for regular exercise that is pleasant, mild and easily adapted to your home environment.

Dieting, he concludes, is more than mechanical control of food intake. It is basic training in the classic virtue of moderation. It is a long and essentially lonely process of learning constructive ways of handling problems that one now handles by overeating.

GARRETT

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

The Garrett Methodist Church has just concluded its vacation Bible school under the direction of Rev. H. M. Wiley, pastor of the church. Approximately 60 children were enrolled. Certificates were awarded to all children who had attended three or more days. The commencement exercise were held Friday night, July 11.

The church sponsored a picnic on Saturday morning for all children who had attended Bible School.

Americans Risk Lives To Convert Jungle Tongues To Written Language

A band of young American linguists, living among Indian tribes which still consider head-hunting fun, are risking their lives to lift vast areas of the Latin-American jungle from the morass of disease and superstition.

The story of their crusade through the Summer Institute of Linguistics, headed by 62-year-old William Cameron Townsend—is told in the August Reader's Digest article "Two Thousand Tongues To Go," by Clarence W. Hall. At scores of tiny jungle stations, linked by radio and their own jungle-hopping airplane, these young men and girls are studying the languages of savage tribes, to translate them into a written language, and then teach the tribesmen to read it. Next comes translation of the Bible, and setting up of bilingual schools.

There are many young girl volunteers, and they seem to make out better than men—probably because the Indians are less suspicious of them. Eight years ago, the deadly Shapras were among the most feared Indians in Peru. Then Loretta Anderson, of Paterson, N. J., and Doris Cox paddled to their village in a dugout canoe, and haltingly announced that they had come to live there and study the language.

The chief stared. Then, gave them a hut. Years later, he confided: "If you had sent men, we would have killed them on sight. If a couple, I'd have killed the man and taken the woman for myself. But what could a great chief do with two harmless girls who insisted on calling him brother?"

Townsend often is challenged: "Why force civilization on a people so unspoiled and happy? Why not leave them alone?" He replies, "If you could sit down with the Indians, and hear them tell the woes that haunt them through witchcraft; listen to mothers tell of being forced to strangle newborn babies because of some evil omen; see old folks abandoned to die; or sense the hatred bred by white men who took advantage of their ignorance—then, you might change your mind about their happiness."

The article is from a book which will be published by Harper & Bros.

Miss Birchfield Becomes Bride Of James Daniels At Vogel-Day Ceremony

The Vogel-Day Methodist Church of Harold, was the scene June 7, of the wedding of Miss Ann Birchfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Birchfield, of Dwayne, and James W. Daniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Daniel, of Harold.

The Rev. Harry Barnett, Jr. performed the double-ring ceremony in a setting of palms, candelabra and arrangements of red and white garden flowers.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Carlos Haywood, pianist, of Prestonsburg, and Gary Layne, cousin of the groom, was vocalist.

The bride wore a gown of white satin net and lace, ballerina-length. The bodice was of lace and satin with a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves tapering at the wrist to a point. Her fingertip veil of net was fastened to a crown of orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible on which was arranged her corsage of white rosebuds with white streamers.

Mrs. Betty Johnson, of Weeksbury, was matron of honor. She wore a pink and white gown with headband of orange blossoms, a wrist corsage of white carnations with pink streamers. The bridesmaids were Miss Anita Daniel, Miss Jeanette Marcum and Miss Lida Music. They wore blue gowns with headbands of white rosebuds and orange blossoms and wrist corsages of white carnations with matching streamers.

Miss Debra Akers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Akers, of Harold, was flower girl, and Master Bill Spears, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spears, of Pikeville, was ring-bearer.

Best man was Daniel Crum, cousin of the groom. Ushers were Bill Branham, Howard Branham, Denver Music and Tommy Allen. The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with white carnation corsage and white accessories. The groom's mother wore a blue lace dress with white carnation corsage and white accessories.

The reception was held in the church. Assisting were Betty Layne, Mrs. Kelsa Elliott and Mrs. Recka Spears.

The couple will be at home to friends at 419 Scott Ave., Pikeville, Ky.

HIGHWAY SAFETY

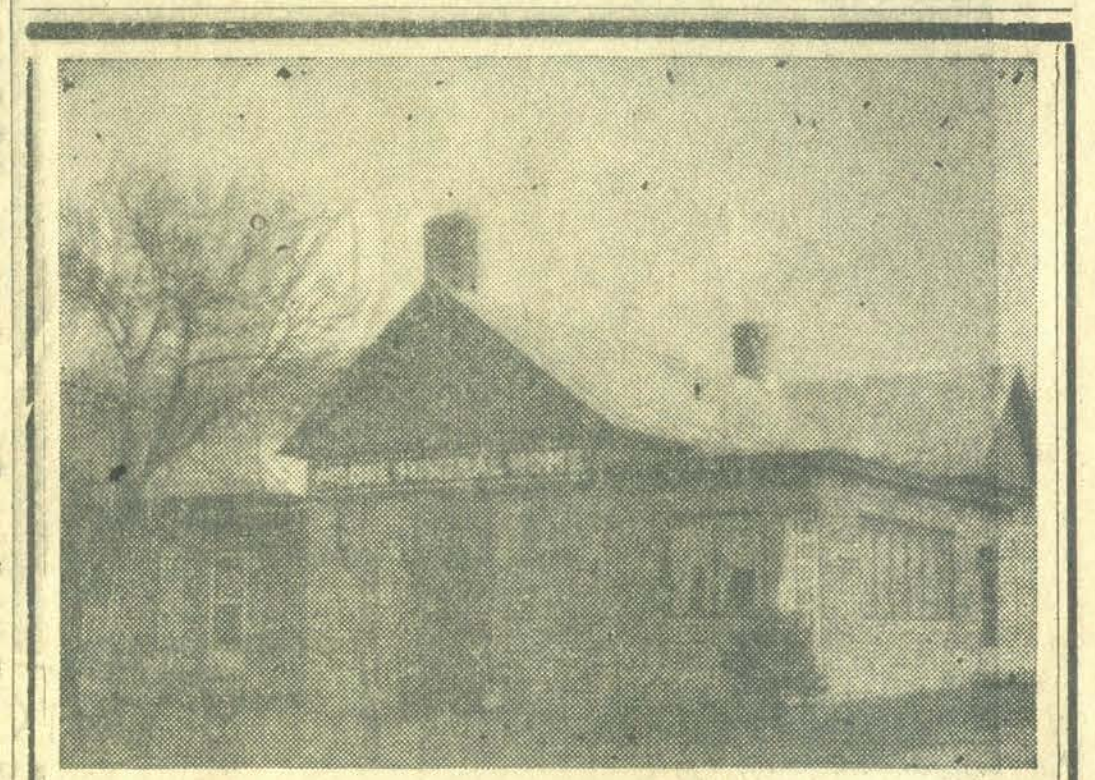

Three years is a long time to pay on the normal installment plan. It takes that long to pay off points assessed by the State Department of Public Safety for a conviction of a traffic violation. More than 39,000 Kentuckians were convicted for driving miscues during the first six months of 1958. Next time the urge to hurry comes along think of that three years—it is a long, long road.

Sale Of Bonds
To Improve Parks
Delayed By Suit

Frankfort, July 20 (Spl.)—The State Property and Buildings Commission is postponing the sale of 3½ million dollars worth of revenue bonds for improvements in state park facilities. State Commissioner of Finance Orba F. Taylor said the sale was scheduled for July 16.

"Development plans of the Department of Conservation will not be suspended," Traylor emphasized. That department has the objective of developing our state parks and enhancing Kentucky's tourist potential, he said.

The Commission's decision to postpone the sale of bonds is a result of a suit filed in Franklin Circuit Court, July 1. The suit which attacked the validity of the proposed bond issue was filed in behalf of a group of Western Kentucky taxpayers, Taylor said.

Attorney General Jo M. Ferguson will defend the suit for the Commission. After the court test has been completed, the bonds will be reoffered for sale," Traylor added.

Four Mine Deaths
Reported In June

Frankfort, July 20 (Spl.)—Four coal mine fatalities for June were announced by Commissioner of Mines and Minerals James H. Phalan.

Three deaths occurred in the Cumberland Valley district and one in Western Kentucky. Four deaths were reported for the same month last year.

At the end of June, 1957, 30 persons had died in mine accidents. Twenty persons have lost their lives this year.

In his report, Phalan called attention of mine personnel to September, which for the 8th year will be designated "No Accident Month," in Kentucky's coal mines.

Calling for renewed efforts in effecting mine safety, Phalan said, "Through the combined efforts of all concerned, there has resulted a marked decrease in mining accidents over the past seven years but we have not succeeded in making our designated 'No accident Month' a perfect one from the standpoint of accidents resulting in bodily injuries."

Seven States To Vote
On "Right To Work" Bills;
Knowland Is Opposed

The issue of "right to work" union laws will be laid before the voters of seven states this fall.

Elections are in prospect in California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Ohio, and Washington on the measures, which are aimed at "union shop" agreements which force a worker to join a union in order to hold his job. The right-to-work idea has spread so far to 18 states, and, the August Reader's Digest reports, the controversy over it is growing steadily hotter. It is a subject, W. L. White writes, on which every voter should make up his mind, pro or con.

In the article, "The Right to Work: Our Hottest Labor Issue," White summarizes the arguments for both sides. Those who support the right-to-work laws, he says, argue that nobody should be forced to join any organization against his will.

On the other hand, those opposing the bills argue that under the Taft-Hartley law, unions represent both members and non-members. Any benefits won by the union are shared by all, they argue—and therefore, everybody should share the cost of negotiating them. Laws banning union shop contracts, they argue, encourage free riders.

74 Kentucky Towns
Enter Development
Contest, Announced

Seventy-four "Do It Yourself" towns in Kentucky have officially entered the 1958 Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Community Development Contest, according to the Chamber's president, Maurice K. Henry, Middlesboro.

Paintsville, Pikeville, Salyersville, Inez, Louisa, West Liberty, Hazard and Whitesburg have entered from this area. Prestonsburg has not.

Prizes totaling $4,500 will be awarded to ten of these cities based on their yearly progress in self-improvement, Henry said. The awards will be presented at the 1959 annual meeting of the State Chamber in Louisville, he added.

The contest is under the direction of the KCC Community Development Committee, headed by Henry J. Huether, Jr., Lexington, president of the General Telephone Company of Kentucky.

The awards, furnished by private businesses in Kentucky, range from $1,000 down to $100 in each of two general classifications:

GROUP I (Under 3,500 population)—First Prize—$1,000 by Ashland Oil & Refining Company and Aetna Oil Company; Second Prize—$700 by Union Light, Heat & Power Company; Third Prize—$300 by Kentucky Telephone Association; Fourth Prize—$150 by Time Finance Company; and Fifth Prize—$100 by Kawneer Company.

GROUP II (Over 3,500 population)—First Prize—$1,000 by Kentucky Utilities Company; Second Prize—$700 by Western Kentucky Gas Company; Third Prize—$300 by General Electric Company; Fourth Prize—$150 by Knoxville Fertilizer Company; and Fifth Prize—$100 by Belknap Hardware Company.

Previous winners are: Campbellsville, Calvert City, Carlisle, Cave City, Central City, Clinton, Cynthiana, Danville, Dawson Springs, Flemingsburg, Frankfort, Franklin, Fulton, Glasgow, Harrodsburg, Hazard, Henderson, Hickman, Lebanon, Leitchfield, Lexington, London, Marion, Maysville, Middlesboro, Monticello, Morehead, Paintsville, Paris, Salem, South Shore and Vanceburg.

HALL AT GREAT LAKES

Great Lakes, Ill. — Danny M. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elys Hall of Auxier, Ky., graduated from recruit training July 5 at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The graduation exercises, marking the end of nine weeks of "boot camp", included a full dress parade and review before military officials and civilian dignitaries.

In nine weeks of instruction, the "raw recruit" is developed into a Navy Bluejacket, ready for duty with the fleet.

Notice To Bidders

The City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, Ky., will accept sealed bids until 7:30 p.m. August 18, 1958, on the construction of a new roof, or repair of the existing roof, of the Municipal Building. Such bids should be filed with Judith D. Archer, City Clerk, Prestonsburg, Ky.

The Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Non-Smoking, Non-Drinking Church
Members Escape Much Lung Cancer

Members of a religious group which bars smoking and drinking had one tenth as much lung cancer and also considerably less coronary heart disease than the general population, according to a study of 8,692 hospital cases reported in the August Reader's Digest.

The Digest article, "The Case of the Wise Abstainers," by Lois Mattox Miller, reports on a study by Drs. Ernest L. Wynder, cancer researcher from the Sloan-Kettering Institute of New York, and Frank Lemon, a faculty member of the Seventh-Day Adventists' medical college in Los Angeles.

Dr. Wynder chose the Adventists for the study because they were considered a group identical with the general population in all respects except one: because of church teachings, more than 70 percent of male Adventists have never smoked, and about 77 percent have never touched alcohol.

They examined the records of 564 Adventists and 8128 non-Adventists, all hospitalized for some form of cancer or heart trouble between 1952 and 1956. And they found both groups had identical ratios of all forms of cancer, except those associated with smoking or heavy drinking: cancer of the lung, mouth, larynx and esophagus. In lung and mouth cancer, the non-smoking Adventist group had one tenth as many cases.

He found exactly one Adventist with lung cancer: a 63-year-old man who had been a pack-a-day smoker for 25 years before joining the church.

The evidence on coronary heart disease also was considered significant. In the general population, men have more heart attacks than women, and at an earlier age than women. This trend carried through the non-Adventist group. But among the Adventist men, coronary attacks were no more frequent than the women and they struck in the older age brackets.

The rate of coronary heart disease for Adventist men was 40 percent lower than that for males in the general population.

(No. 3 in a Series)

50-YEAR-OLD PICTURE OF UNITED BAPTIST CHURCH

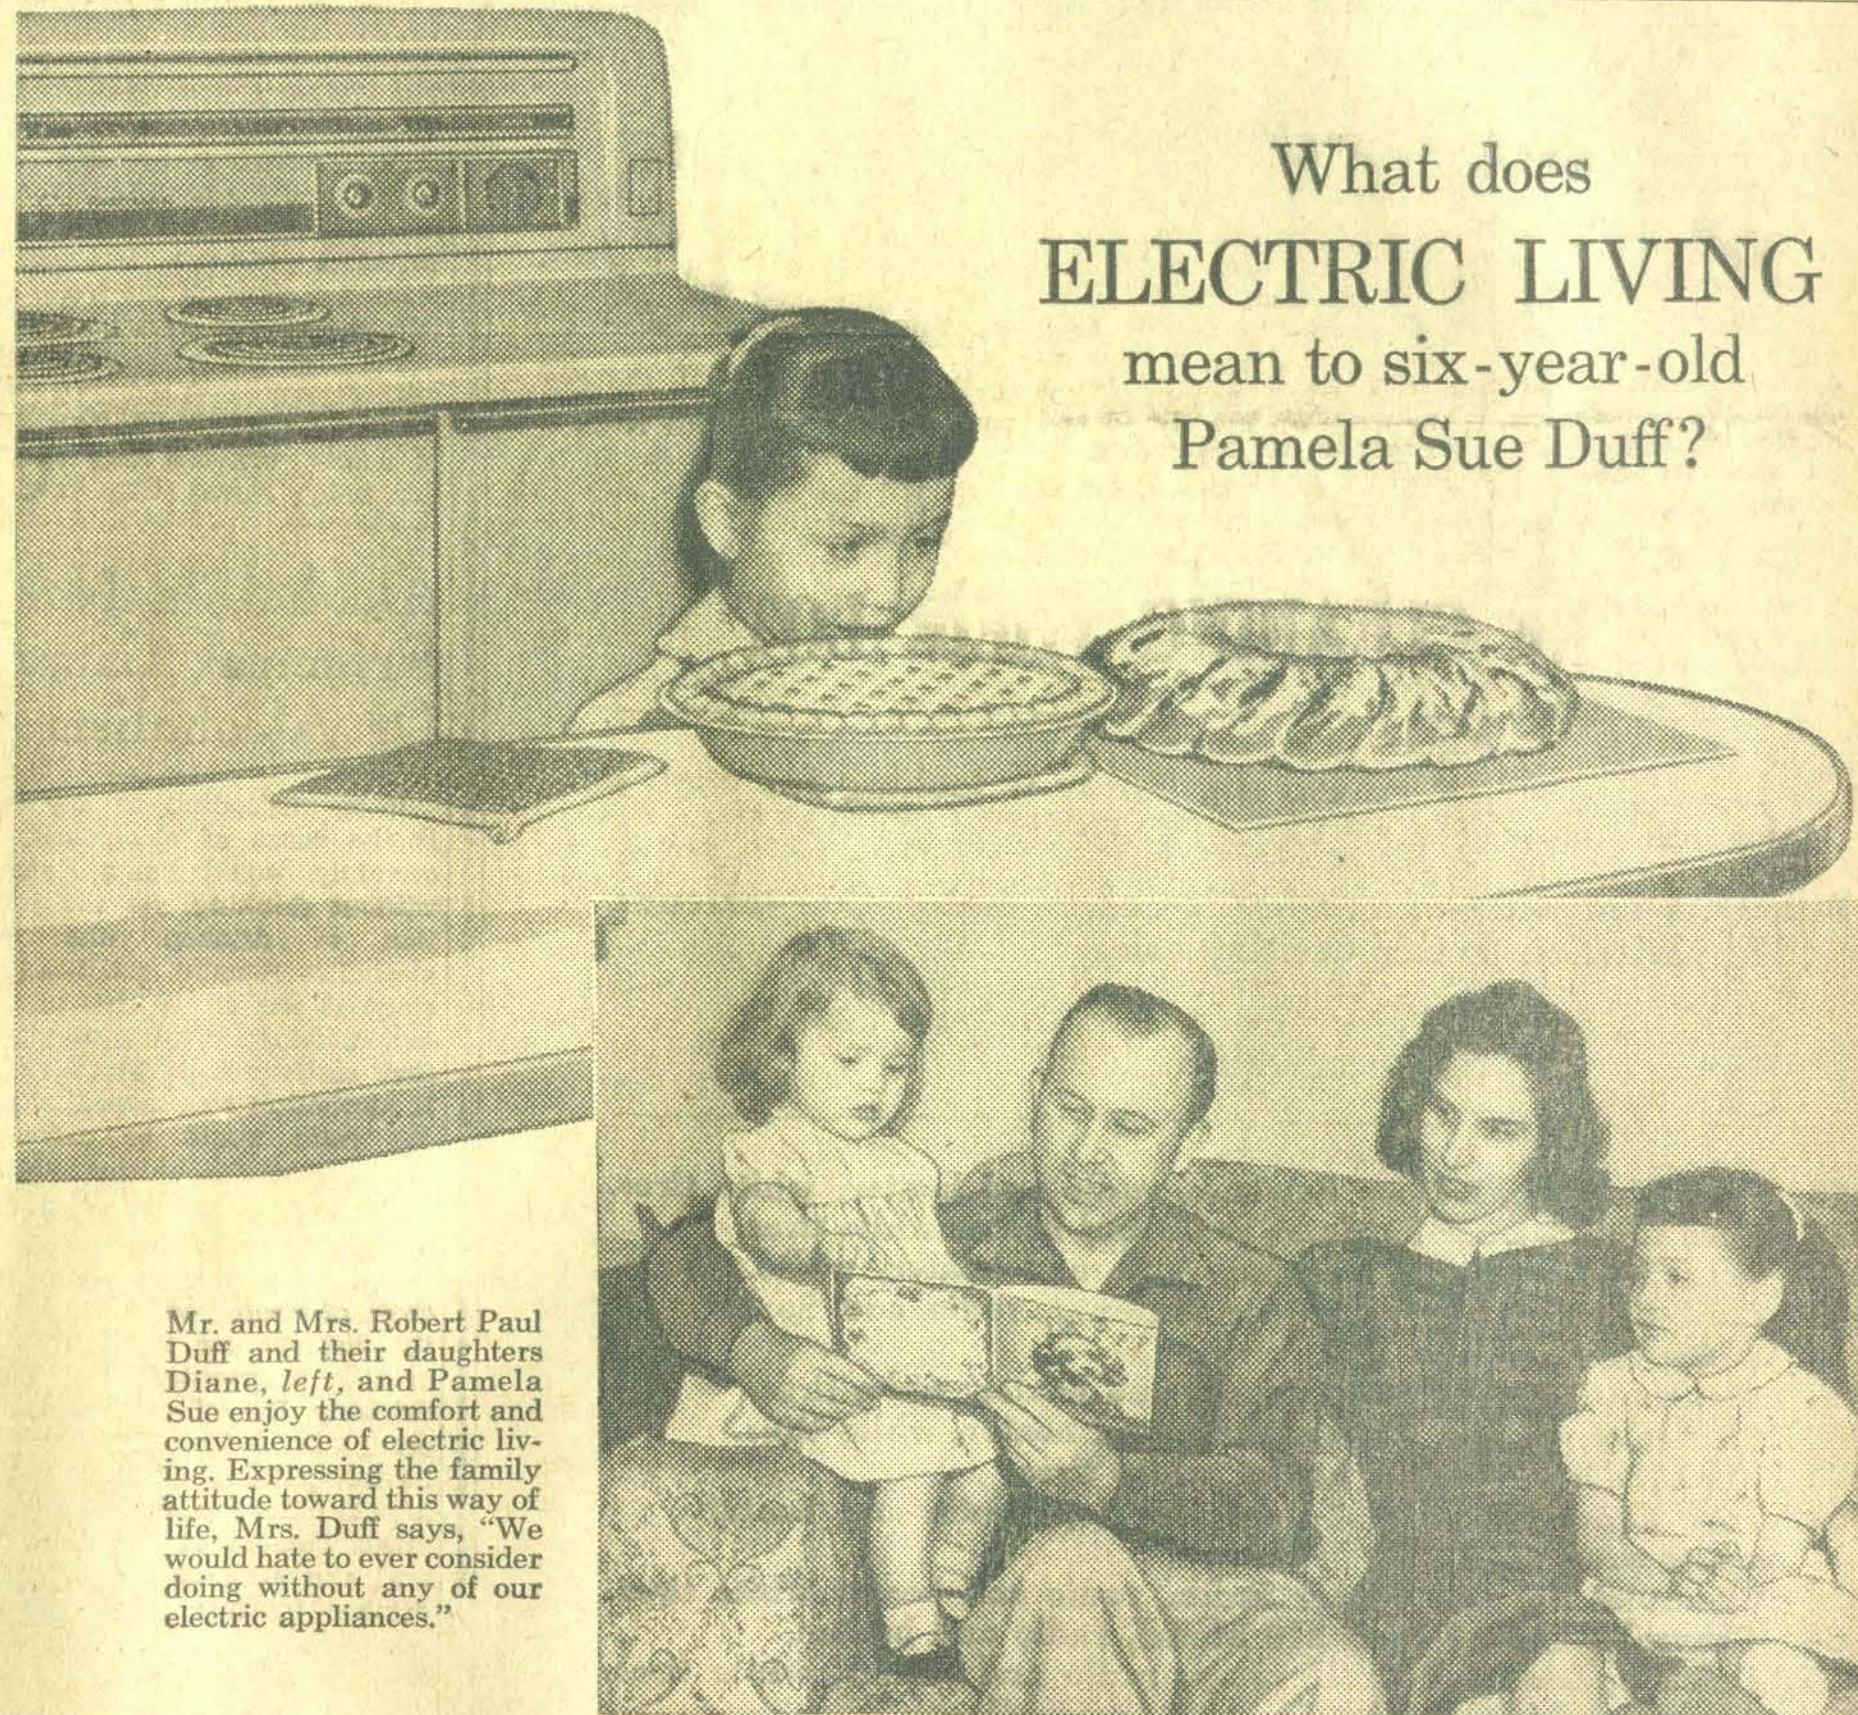

This picture of the Riceville United Baptist church taken in 1908 shows several members. Some are now Floyd county residents and businessmen. The church was organized April 5, 1905, by the presbytery, J. S. Spradlin, J. J. Prater and Tom Kirk. The building shown was later replaced by another structure about 150 yards west of the original location.

Left to right, sitting, are William May, (with beard), Callie Vaughan, June Collins, Jim Whitaker, Nancy Conley, (behind Whitaker), Amanda Stone, Rebecca Whitaker, (black blouse), Julia Conley, Emily Blankenship, William Blankenship, Sr., Daniel Caudill, (with vest), J. P. Hughes, father of M. F. Hughes, of Prestonsburg, Ben Stone, Jackson Conley, (behind Stone), and J. W. Collins. Reading right to left, standing are Sam Collins, Oliver Collins, M. F. Hughes, Milt Davis, Will Hughes, Joe Blankenship, Will Blankenship, Prelina Blankenship, Grant Trimble, Rev. Hargis Conley, (with Bible), Clarinda Leslie, Patience Trimble, Virgie Wright, Nannie Spradlin, Jane Hackworth, Amanda Wright, Arminta Collins.

The First National Bank, of Prestonsburg, was but a fledgling financial institution of one year when the Riceville church was founded. Through the over half-century since its founding great strides have been made in all institutions in this area, whether religious, social, educational or commercial. The First National Bank is proud of its own growth and that of its contemporary institutions.

What does
ELECTRIC LIVING
mean to six-year-old
Pamela Sue Duff?

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paul Duff and their daughters Diane, left, and Pamela Sue enjoy the comfort and convenience of electric living. Expressing the family attitude toward this way of life, Mrs. Duff says, "We would hate to ever consider doing without any of our electric appliances."

The answer to this question is in Pam's eyes. One look will tell you that her primary interest at the moment is on the pie and coffee cake fresh from her mother's modern electric range. But electric living benefits Pam, her little sister Diane and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Paul Duff, in many other ways.

Biggest time-savers for Mrs. Duff are her electric washer, dryer and water heater. "With small children around, there are many uses for hot water, and my flat-top kitchen water heater supplies all we ever need for any job. It's perfectly safe, too, just like our laundry equipment, range and other appliances. We never worry about the girls getting hurt around them."

Mr. Duff, a planner-estimator for a lumber company, says, "The help my wife gets from electric appliances makes everything easier on all of us. The children get better care, and the house is easier to keep clean. We have more time together as a family. As for the cost, I would say, dollar for dollar, our money is well spent on our electric service."

Girl Found Frozen Here Last December Is Returning Home

Rosella Auxier, 16, who was found in an abandoned building in Prestonsburg last December, will go to her Hager Hill home this week wearing two artificial feet given by a Louisville manufacturer. Her legs have been amputated below the knees.

Miss Auxier, who was first taken to Louisville Children's hospital but was removed to Kosair Crippled Children hospital in March, has learned to walk on the artificial limbs without the aid of a cane or crutches.

At Kosair Miss Auxier took regular school classes and this fall will enter Meade Memorial high school at Williamsport. She wants to be a secretary, she told hospital attaches. She has received, in addition to the artificial limbs, many presents and $900 in cash since she was taken to Louisville.

One of 12 children, she is the daughter of a coal miner who has not worked for several years due to a back injury.

Ancient records show that cheese was an accepted and used food as much as 4,000 years ago.

Timber Resources Book Available; Buyers Are Listed

A new booklet, "Kentucky Directory of Timber Buyers," is now available to persons interested in Kentucky's wood resources.

George W. Hubley, Jr., Commissioner of the Department of Economic Development said the booklet is designed for farmers and other woodland owners who need information on timber markets and for buyers and manufacturers of semi-wood products who may be able to locate additional sources of supply from it.

Hubley said it should also prove helpful to conservation workers, extension personnel, chambers of commerce and other service organizations in giving advice on available markets to timber owners who wish to establish new wood-using industries.

The booklet lists approximately 750 regular buyers of primary timber products according to counties. It also lists buyers in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, and West Virginia.

Included in the text is information on technical forestry guidance available to woodland owners and specifications on various kinds of wood purchased.

Material in the booklet was compiled by the Agricultural Development Division, Department of Economic Development; Central States Forest Experiment, State Division of Forestry, Kentucky Department of Conservation and the University of Kentucky Department of Horticulture.

Hubley said copies may be obtained by writing his department in Frankfort.

GIRL HISTORIAN TELLS JENNY WILEY STORY

By CHARLES F. HINDS
Secretary-Treasurer, Kentucky Historical Society

Frankfort, July—Nita Lauhon presented the Kentucky Bar Association-Boone Day award June 7, by Gov. A. B. Chandler, who proclaimed the Catlettsburg High School student the Outstanding Girl Historian of Kentucky for 1957-58. The title of her essay was "Jenny Wiley."

The story of Jenny Wiley has been told by many people, but received the most reliable attention from two historians of the Big Sandy Valley, William E. Connelley and Henry F. Seaf. Connelley obtained his information from Adam P. Wiley, a son of Jenny Wiley. Seaf, a Prestonsburg newspaper man, is a collateral descendant of Jenny Wiley and has discovered material unknown to Connelley. Nita Lauhon, a fourth great granddaughter of Jenny Wiley, started research into the life of her ancestor, which may lead to new discoveries about this famous Indian captive. Nita tells the story as she found it.

"Virginia Sellards Wiley, my great-great-great-great grandmother, lived with her husband and children at Walker's Creek, Virginia, near Bluefield, West Virginia. In October, 1789, when nearly all the men were on a hunting trip, Cherokee and Shawnee Indians attacked Jenny Wiley's home. They scalped her two children and Jenny's fifteen-year-old brother. They took Jenny, who was expecting the birth of another child, and her fifteen-month-old baby with them. Later in fear of being caught by the pursuing hunters, the Indians dashed the baby's head against a tree, killing it.

"Her captors took her down the Big Sandy Trail, between the Guyandotte and Tug rivers. They swam across the Tug and Levisa rivers, west of Big Sandy. It is very likely that they passed near the place where I live today in Catlettsburg. Near Greenup they traveled the Little Sandy River. The Indians built a hut in the woods, where Jenny's child was born. Traveling by Big Blaine, Laurel, and Big Mud Lick, the group made camp near a village where ancestors of the Shawnee had painted designs on the trees. Therefore, the nearby creek became Paint Creek and the settlement, Paintsville.

"The Indians were usually good to Jenny, but one day they took her baby, saying they would test him to see if he would become a warrior. When they splashed water on him, he cried. They said he would not be brave, and so he was killed.

"One rainy day Jenny was left unguarded. Her hands tied, she let the water drip on the rawhide, and escaped. Once while hiding in a hollow log, an Indian stood on the log calling her. Jenny ascended a small stream, now called Jenny's Creek in her honor. Following a gap and descending Little Paint this stream to its head, she crossed a gap and descended Little Paint Creek to its junction with the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy. Across Big Sandy stood the new blockhouse of Harman's Station. Jenny crossed the river on a long, reaching the safety of Harman's Station just before the Indians appeared on the opposite bank behind her.

"Jenny rejoined her husband, Thomas Wiley, and had five more children. They returned to Kentucky, settling on Tom's Creek, where she died and was buried in 1831."

State Foresters At Field School

Frankfort, July 20 (Spl.)—The two-week field school for indoctrination training of the seven recently-appointed state foresters will end Aug. 2, announced Director Gene L. Butcher, Division of Forestry.

Starting July 21, the school at Kentucky Ridge State Forest, Bell county, is conducted by Associate Director Harry Nadler and K. B. McClintock, staff assistant.

Training in the fundamentals of service forestry work is taught at the school. This is part of the cooperative forest management program where foresters give technical guidance to local woodland owners.

Foresters attending and the stations where they are assigned, are: Stanford L. Tillman, Mayfield; Arthur Leach, Prestonsburg; T. R. Harshbarger, Madisonville; Robert E. Slagle and B. S. Zwolinski, Morehead; Charles Prater, Pineville and T. S. Bergman, Frankfort.

Alcohol Is Not Principal Cause Of Alcoholism

It is misleading to say alcohol is the cause of alcoholism. There certainly would be no alcoholics without drinking, yet the proportion of drinkers who become alcoholics remains practically constant at one of 16. This proportion has remained unchanged since the first statistical studies were made. If alcoholism was caused by alcohol the ratio would be extreme—all drinkers would become alcoholics.

Physical or psychological factors, or a combination of both, are believed the primary cause. In many cases of alcohol addiction, personality disturbances involved may be greatly aggravated by excessive drinking. Use of alcohol as a beverage is an issue because the behavior pattern of any individual affects other persons. The difficulty arises because of "problem drinkers" and alcoholics. Every problem drinker involves other persons in his trouble, family . . . friends . . . business associates.

Major objectives of the Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism are to help the involved drinker and to prevent other drinkers from becoming involved.

The belief so widely held that the alcoholic is personally responsible for his condition, that he is a moral degenerate, is erroneous. The alcoholic senses the feeling of hostility, the attitude that he is a moral coward. He withdraws from his former social contacts, evades the association with old friends, seeks the companionship of other addicts, or becomes a solitary drinker. At the stage recovery without outside help is almost impossible.

Many observers believe the effectiveness of Alcoholics Anonymous stems from ability to break through this shell of unreality the alcoholic has built. He is responsive to their attitude of sincerity. Through understanding and sympathy he accepts help available. When the general public accepts the concept that the alcoholic is ill, that he needs a hospital instead of a jail, sympathy instead of condemnation, more will be accomplished in rehabilitation and prevention.

If you have a personal alcoholic problem write the commission, Annex, State Office Building, Frankfort.

MODERN JERUSALEM

The name Jerusalem signifies the "Inheritance of Peace." Actually it has never known peace for a very long period at a time. Down through the centuries it has been torn with strife and its sacred streets stained with blood.

Biblical Jerusalem was a city of walls and many gates. The present wall that encloses the old city was erected by Suleiman the Magnificent in 1542. Prior to 1858 Jerusalem lay wholly within its sixteenth century walls. Now, with the suburban areas built up and spread over a large expanse, there is a new Jerusalem. The area of the new city is much larger than that of the old city. Here more than two-thirds of the inhabitants of Jerusalem lived and worked prior to the division of the land in 1949. Jerusalem is now divided and is two distinct and separate cities. The old city is in the Hashemite kingdom of Jordan, the eastern part of the country and the new city is in the State of Israel, the western part of the country. The new State of Israel has its seat of government in Jerusalem while the Jordan kingdom has its capital in Amman on the transjordan side.

The modern day Jerusalem, like many other present day cities, has its wide, tree-lined streets, beautiful gardens, and modern houses. The buildings are constructed from the beautiful, pink native stone, and its architectural design is patterned after the European buildings. Its population is well over the hundred thousand mark today consisting almost entirely of Jews, with only a small sprinkling of non-Jews.
