This Town— That World

FOR MEN ONLY?

"We may bellyache" says an inspirational piece I have been reading, "about hard times, we may sob about lack of business but when we check up we find that adversity has brought out the best in ourselves and our co-workers. Horses are trained by jumping them over hurdles. Men, too, are built by hurdling obstacles. The heavy seas make great sailors."

THE ANSWERS ARE "YES"

A letter from an out-of-state subscriber asks three questions: 1. Does Noah Harris still live in Prestonsburg; 2. Does the Big Sandy river still run down-stream; 3. Do you reckon a man could catch any fish outten Dewey Lake?

The answers, in that order are: Yes, the last time I looked. Yes. Yes, the last time I look. Yes—if you're in no hurry.

We are reminded that everything hasn't turned topsy-turvy in this Space Age. You can still take a chew of tobacco without feeling you should first offer the plug to a lady.

THEY WON The fiscal court and I didn't exactly see eye-to-eye on that matter of paying comparatively new creditors while leaving the rest of us holding the bag and it empty. But the court had the last word, and it read, "Pay to the order of..."

COUNTY BOARD BUDGET DROPS BELOW '57-58

Fund for Instruction Raised To $1,303,703; Court Approves Budget

The Floyd County Board of Education will spend this fiscal year $1,990,457.89—exactly $14.70 less than was budgeted for spending during the last fiscal year.

The Board's 1958-'59 budget was approved by the fiscal court at its Saturday meeting.

The outlay for instruction (teachers' salaries) was advanced to $1,303,703.15 this year as compared with $1,238,695 in the 1957-'58 fiscal year.

Biggest cut, percentage-wise, in expense was made in administration where $28,250 is earmarked for this year as compared with $52,076 last year.

(This reduction comes, it was explained, as a result of the uniform accounting system installed across the county by the National Education Association. Consequently, supervisors' salaries and other items heretofore listed under administration have been added to instruction expense.)

Other expenditures earmarked by the budget follow, with the preceding year's figures appearing in parentheses:

Operation of school plant, $119,082 ($94,390); maintenance of school plant, $85,100 ($56,270); fixed charges, $59,100 ($54,440); capital outlay (purchase of sites, building), $41,002.86 ($95,600); debt service, $202,907.88 ($239,739.59).

The comparative figures on pupil transportation, attendance and health services and community services are not available, since these were grouped last year under one heading, auxiliary services. The budgeted amounts for each of these, this year, are: Pupil transportation, $125,673.32; attendance and health services, $14,680; community services, $9,836.68.

Grand Master To Speak August 12th At Belfry Meet of District Masons

District No. 36 meeting of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, Free & Accepted Masons, will be held Tuesday, August 12, at Belfry high school, with Stone Lodge No. 890 as host.

The meeting will begin with a dinner at 6:00 p.m. After the dinner the district meeting will be held in the Belfry high school auditorium.

Highlight of the meeting will be an address by William O. Ware, grand master of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky. There will also be other Grand Lodge officers on the program.

Squirrel Season Opening Aug. 15th Is Emphasized

The squirrel-hunting season does not open till August 15, Conservation Officer Raymond Copley emphasized this week.

An error in the The Floyd County Times has caused widespread confusion as to the opening date. The Times erroneously gave that date as Aug. 1.

6 ARE BITTEN BY RABID DOG

Girl Scouts Among Those Attacked, Others Taking Precautionary Treatment

A rabid dog bit six children, four of them Girl Scouts, and tore the shirt off the back of a 17-year-old boy near Camp Chatterawha Thursday last week. The teen-age boy, Paul Banks, of Auxier, left soon afterward for Detroit and as of Wednesday could not be located.

Eight other Scouts were exposed to the rabid dog, according to John M. Stumbo, Floyd County Health Department sanitarian. The Lexington laboratory notified the Health Department Tuesday that the dog's head exhibited negri bodies in the brain and was thus diagnosed as rabid. Serum arrived Wednesday from Louisville and the bitten children and the exposed ones will begin a series of immunization shots immediately.

County Judge Henry Stumbo issued, Tuesday, a quarantine order on all dogs in the vicinity of Goble Branch, below Dewey Lake to Auxier and south with the Auxier Road to Jane Brown Branch. The order is effective for 45 days.

GOV'T COSTS LESS LOCALLY

Federal Report Shows Cost Per Capita Less Than National Average

NEW YORK, July 21—Residents of Floyd County pay less on a per capita basis, for the operation of their local governments than do people in most parts of the United States.

This was learned from a new federal report on public employment at the local level. It is based on data collected by the Commerce Department, through its 1957 Census of Governments, from every section of the country.

Comparative figures are given to show size of payrolls and number of people employed by each county, municipality, township, school district and special district. Those working for the federal government or for the states are not included. In Floyd county, the report shows,

HOUSING BODY EMPLOYS FIRM

Consultants Are Named For Urban Renewal Job; Planning Fund Accepted

The Prestonsburg Municipal Housing Commission last Friday night employed the firm of Scruggs & Hammond, Lexington, Ky., and Peoria, Ill., landscape architects and city planners, as planning consultants in the work of urban renewal here.

The fee set by the U. S. government for the consultants is $4,000. The firm employed here handled urban renewal work at Paris and Frankfort, Evansville, Ind., and other cities.

The commission at its Monday night meeting accepted the offer of advance planning funds from the Urban Renewal Administration and made an initial requisition for $4,678. A total of $16,000 has been allotted Prestonsburg for planning work. At the same meeting insurance required by the federal government was awarded the Hall & Music Insurance Agency.

The Commission this week advertised for the services of a stenographer and part-time bookkeeper.

The City Planning Commission, a second local agency created as a result of the move toward improvement of Prestonsburg, met last Wednesday night with Gail Godsey, Eastern Kentucky representative of the Division of Planning and Zoning, Kentucky Department of Economic Development.

Tom G. Dingus has been named chairman of the Planning Commission. Other citizen-members are W. V. Bunting, Fred James and J. R. Camicia. Members by virtue of their capacity as city officials are Mayor Bill Napier, Councilman J. Y. Goble, and Judith D. Archer, city clerk.

R. V. May is chairman of the Municipal Housing Commission.

Judge Says Change In County Financing Made At His Request

Commenting on a news-story in last week's Floyd County Times telling of the Floyd fiscal court's decision to borrow money when necessary from a local bank and pay bills by check, thus saving interest incurred in the old warrant system, County Judge Henry Stumbo this week said he, not County Attorney Robert S. Wellman, was the first to request the new system.

"I received from State Auditor Foust a letter giving her opinion that this is how the county's finances should be transacted. I gave the letter to the county treasurer and called the matter to the fiscal court's attention," Judge Stumbo said.

It's Jenny Wiley State Park Now

Dewey Lake State Park becomes Jenny Wiley State Park by order of Gov. A. B. Chandler. The name of the lake remains unchanged as only the Federal Government has authority to change that. The new signs, honoring Eastern Kentucky's most famous Indian captive, were erected last week.

METALLURGY REQUIRES BLENDED FLOYD COAL

Most of the extensive coal reserves in Floyd county can be used to produce metallurgical coke if they are blended with low volatile coal, it is concluded by the U. S. Bureau of Mines. Results of a study of Floyd county coal was released recently in a report, titled "Carbonizing Properties in Floyd County, Ky., Coals."

The Bureau refers to a previous study, chiefly concerned with coal preparation, made by William L. Crentz and J. W. Miller, titled "Preparation Characteristics of Coal from Floyd County, Kentucky." This earlier study also concluded that the Elkhorn coals could be upgraded to meet metallurgical standards chemically.

"Crentz and Miller found that samples of coal from the Fire Clay seam obtained in the central part of the county, could be upgraded to a moderate-ash, low-sulphur coal. However, samples from this bed, obtained in the northern part of the county, contained high proportions of sulphur that could not be reduced enough to meet present standards for metallurgical coal."

The suitability of coal for metallurgical use depends primarily on chemical composition, preparation characteristics and carbonization behavior. The first two factors as well as the available reserves are considered in selecting coals for carbonization tests.

The report releases statistics on the reserves of coal in seams 28 inches thick and over in the county. Largest tonnage yet unmined is in Upper Elkhorn No. 3 which has 303,301,000 tons. Upper Elkhorn No. 1 has 179,481,000 tons with the Upper Elkhorn No. 2 reserves at 140,812,000 tons. Fire Clay and Winifrede both have total reserves of 71,073,000 tons.

Samples of coal for the coking tests were taken from eight places in the county. Elkhorn No. 1 samples were taken from Wayland and Betsy Layne; Elkhorn No. 2 were taken at Drift and Betsy Layne; Elkhorn No. 3 were selected at Prospect Hole No. 1 at Handshoe, at Wheelwright and Weeksburg. Fire Clay coal from the Powell Branch mine at Tram was also tested.

Some of the specific conclusions reached by the study are that the yields of coke and tar plus light oil were normal for the fixed-carbon content of the coals; the agglutinating values were in the lower part of the range for Appalachian coking coals; and that, although the coke-strength indexes are satisfactory for high volatile A coals, proper blending with higher rank

TEACHERS ASK PAY INCREASE

Committee's Resolution Asks $200-a-Year Raise For Every Floyd Teacher

A resolution adopted a few days ago by the Legislative and Salary committee of the Floyd County Teachers Association calls on the Floyd County Board of Education for a salary increase of $200 for the school year.

Specifically, the resolution asks "that sufficient funds be earmarked from the local Leeway fund to provide an annual increase of $200 in salary for each teacher in Floyd county for the year 1958-'59."

Edgar Bingham, chairman of the committee, said the Leeway fund has a reported $170,000 and that payment of an additional $200 for the year to each of the approximately 400 teachers in the county will still leave more than half the fund untouched by teachers' salaries.

The Teachers Association, which is the local branch of the National Education Association, has taken on new life with the beginning of a new fiscal year, July 1. It was formed three years ago. Mrs. Frankie Stephens Best, of Cliff, is president; Lawrence Price, of Wayland, vice-president, and Blanche Dingus, of Martin, secretary-treasurer. These officers are elective. Committee members are appointive.

As a result of the work of one of the 14 committees functioning in the Association organization—the Welfare committee—the opening date of rural schools was set ahead from last Monday to August 5, to permit teachers now in summer school to finish the work begun in college before beginning classroom work.

Southern Bell Moves Line On Central Ave.

The Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company last week completed the work of moving its line along Central avenue to transfer poles to the edge of city-owned property.

The company's poles, long standing, were in prominent spots in the lawns of residents and in driveways. The change of the trunk line, made at a cost of more than the $6,000 originally estimated, was effected as a courtesy to home-owners in the area which has developed as a residential section in the last few years.

Mobile X-Ray Unit Cancels Floyd Clinics

The mobile X-ray unit scheduled to come to Floyd county today (Thursday) for a series of chest clinics will not be here till later, it was announced by the Floyd County Health Department. Cancellation of the present clinic plans were forced by the recent resignation of two technicians, it was said.

BOVINE TESTS ARE PLANNED

State Vet Announces Cow Testing Schedule In Three-Year Program

Dr. Bill Wise, of the Kentucky Department of Agriculture will begin testing of cows in this county for tuberculosis, August 11, it was announced this week by Robert M. Jones, county agent. Every three years ten per cent of the cows in the county are checked by the state.

Two trips to the farm are needed to complete the tests, Jones said. On the first trip serum will be administered and on the return trip the test results will be read. The first two days of the week will be taken up for serum injections and reading tests will be done on Thursdays and Fridays. The tests will continue through Aug. 26, it was said.

"Cows must be kept tied or in the barn stall to save time," Jones warned. "Either have the cows tied where they can be seen from the road or hang a red scarf so the veterinarian will know to stop." Jones added that farmers who wish may leave their names

STUMBO SETS TRAFFIC DAYS

Heavy Court Docket Results In Special Traffic Day Terms

County Judge Henry Stumbo announced this week that he will henceforth devote two days a month exclusively to the trial of traffic cases because of the heavy case-load now existing at regular quarterly court sessions.

He set the second and fourth Wednesdays for hearing of such violations.

The announcement was made after Tuesday's session of quarterly court when calling of the docket, consisting of approximately 150 cases, was not completed before 3 p.m.

"Several state troopers wasted a whole day, waiting for traffic cases to come to trial while we were just getting the docket called," Stumbo said. "I think they are doing a good job and should not be kept tied up in court needlessly."

Even so, 13 cases came to trial during the day, with 12 drawing fines and one a jail term. Defendants in these were:

Edward Martin interfering with an officer in making an arrest, $100 (the assault with a deadly weapon charge against him was dismissed on motion of the County Attorney); Howard Castle and Grover England, no operator's license, $2 each (reckless driving charge against Castle dismissed); Clark Jones, drunkenness, $10; Luther Stone, drunk driving charge reduced on motion of County Attorney on recommendation of arresting officer to drunkenness, $20; Darrell Stratton, petit larceny, 30 days in jail (the same charge against his

FISCAL COURT SETTLES FEW OLD ACCOUNTS

Bond Issue Is Talked For Payment of Claims At Meet Last Friday

Except for four, creditors of Floyd county whose claims have fallen into the "old debt" category went unpaid Friday when the fiscal court used up the $13,000 fund on hand for the payment of such accounts.

After it had been agreed that all debts incurred by the county prior to June 30 of any year and unpaid before the end of the fiscal year fall into the "old debt" category, as explained by County Attorney Robert S. Wellman, the court emerged from a behind-door conference with this decision:

To pay those debts incurred between Jan. 1 when the present four magistrates assumed office and June 30, and after that to pay the Williams Tractor Company its claim. Those holding claims dating back behind Jan. 1, 1958 and as far back as five years protested this decision, arguing that all bonafide creditors should share in a pro rata apportionment of the $13,000. This was the policy adopted in 1954 but later abandoned. The court stuck to its decision.

But not all creditors who had made sales to the court since Jan. 1, this year, were paid, County Judge Henry Stumbo said later. He said payments were made to the Williams Tractor Company, the Patton Service Station, the Prestonsburg General and Beaver Valley hospitals.

In the discussion of the old debt situation at Friday's meeting of the Court, Judge Stumbo suggested that additional funds must be found if these claims are to be paid and he sounded the sentiments of the gathering as to a bond issue for this purpose if the local state finance officer will sanction such a move.

Overwhelming sentiment expressed for this measure, but County Attorney Wellman later indicated he will oppose it. He said he favors a reappraisal of the tax assessment, possibly by the state, to provide the needed funds.

"I want you to know that this old debt situation is nothing new," Judge Stumbo told Friday's gathering. "When I took office we

LOCAL POLIO GROUP AIDED

National Foundation Gives Floyd Chapter $10,755; Howard Points To Needs

The Floyd County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has used up all available local polio-fighting funds and has had to turn to national headquarters for help.

Ray Howard, chapter chairman, when he announced the receipt of a check for $10,755.00 from the national headquarters of the March of Dimes organization.

"The money will be used to assist local polio patients with hospital, medical and appliance bills," Mr. Howard said. "Although there have been only three 'new' polio cases in our area so far this year, this money is vitally needed for the rehabilitation of 'old' cases. Some of the patients now being helped were stricken in 1946."

Floyd county's situation illustrates the national polio problem today, according to Mr. Howard. "New" cases continue to decline, but the cost of taking care of "old" cases has declined very little. Last year, about 90 per cent of all March of Dimes patient aid funds went to help persons who were stricken with polio in 1956 or earlier.

Locally, 43 polio patients are being helped by the March of Dimes organization.

The polio chapter chairman also stressed the importance of all three Salk shots for residents of this area.

"The fact that there is a successful polio vaccine sitting on drugstore shelves is no guarantee that there will not be polio epidemics this summer," Mr. Howard said. "The vaccine has to be injected into people's arms to do any good. I urge all persons to see their doctor or the local health department about starting their series of three Salk shots right now."

Gun-Totin' Youth 'Mended His Ways'... REV. MARTIN BUILDS 2 CHURCHES, THIRD UNDER WAY NEAR MARTIN

By HENRY P. SCALF

Rev. Robert Martin, 48, former pastor of Dock Community Church and Grace Chapel in this county, repairs the hole wrought by a giant boulder when it plunged through the wall of the church he is building at Martin.

Twenty-three years ago Robert Martin, who was the product of a mountain moonshining community, left a church at Democrat, Letcher county, Kentucky, angry and troubled because a missionary woman had told him he was going to hell if he didn't mend his ways.

He did mend his ways, married the missionary, went to Chicago, worked at the Moody Bible Institute and returned to his beloved hills to found two churches. Today, the Rev. Robert Martin, is building a third church under multiple adverse circumstances at Martin.

The new edifice he is almost single-handedly erecting, like the Reverend Martin himself has had its ups and downs. A few months ago a giant boulder plucked downhill, knocked out the back wall. Weeks later, before the wall was repaired, wind toppled the front and rear. He took a little time out to cry, much time to pray and work again. Now he counts the dollars people have given him for the roof, finds he is short exactly what the contractor wants to do the job. He has put in 82 days himself at labor on the building.

Rev. Bob, though, has faith that God, having rescued him from "a

In her report Mrs. Archer said that much emphasis was placed on the importance of home preparedness in cases of disaster due to floods, enemy attacks, etc. "Every home," said Mrs. Archer, "should have on hand a two-week supply of pre-cooked or canned foods, drinkers, first-aid kit, battery-operated radio, blankets and bedding and containers for garbage and human waste. The fuel tank of the family car should be kept filled."

HIGHER LAMB BIRTH WEIGHT

LEXINGTON, KY.—Higher birth weights of lambs dropped by ewes fed a certain type ration seems the only "possible benefit" of a feeding test recently concluded by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station's animal husbandry department.

AH, FERDINAND

LEXINGTON, KY.—Use of tranquilizers, on steers, to check whether the drug in small doses will stimulate gains, was not particularly conclusive, says the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station animal husbandry department.

Bowling Green Will Survive the Shock

The Courier-Journal featured last Sunday a story by Joe Creason indicating some concern about the alleged adverse effect inflicted on the economy of Bowling Green, Ky., by the "dry" vote of the people of that city.

Creason points out that business isn't good in Bowling Green. He says closing of twenty-eight liquor stores, thirty-eight beer "joints" and various wholesale liquor firms in Bowling Green and Warren county has thrown six hundred persons out of work.

Because of the wide circulation which The Courier-Journal has in this section of the state, we think the implications of the Creason article should not go unchallenged.

First of all, if Bowling Green business is in the doldrums, it is in good company. Wet Detroit, Louisville and other oases are in the same boat. Even so, Bowling Green, Mr. Creason says in the very last paragraph of his article, is "one of the few cities in Kentucky with a sizable cluster of industries where employment in manufacturing jobs is higher today than a year ago."

The loss of six hundred jobs is no insignificant matter, true, but the addition of these six hundred to constructive fields of endeavor will mean more to Bowling Green than all that "wet" payroll that has been lost. Several years ago, a number of Prestonsburg and Floyd county residents were temporarily thrown out of work as liquor stores closed, but both town and county survived the shock.

As for Bowling Green's loss of liquor license monies, $23,000 represents less than 3 1/2% of the city's budget (which was based on its income) of $686,865 for 1957. That should not be an insuperable obstacle to the administration of city government. It was not in the case of Prestonsburg and other municipalities when they changed from the "wet" status to the "dry." The fact is, Prestonsburg is on a sounder financial basis now as a "dry" town than it was when both liquor and beer flowed so freely.

Turning back for the moment to that matter of lost jobs, we wonder how many jobs were lost in Bowling Green because of liquor stores that were so easily available and how many man-hours of work were lost.

Now for that fear of bootlegging. Indeed there is a very real danger in Bowling Green of big-time bootlegging. This threat exists in thousands of communities over the land. Racketeering invades communities at other levels, too, and unless those charged with enforcing the law are dedicated to the task at hand bootleggers and racketeers will grab control. Dope rings exist, too, but we haven't heard of anybody except those in the business wanting the promiscuous sale of narcotics to be legalized.

Then, too, we wonder if there wasn't a lot of remote bootlegging being done in Bowling Green as legal liquor dealers sold to bootleggers working nearby counties.

We do not naively entertain any idea that the mere fact that a city or county votes whiskey out will achieve the ideal. Enforcement officers and courts, juries and citizens will fail to do the full duty they owe society, and so the destructive business will flourish outside the law rather than within it as it has for twenty years now in Bowling Green and Warren county.

Either system has its evils. But we who have watched both in action—we of The Times who have profited financially from liquor advertising in the days when Floyd county was wet—want no part of that darker evil which in this community thrived on "Rat Row," filled city and county jails, cluttered the sidewalks with drunks until women and children often did not dare walk past the liquor stores and their customers gathered from all about and influenced by intoxicants to exhibit their natures at their coarsest.

If you have any sighs for Bowling Green and Warren county, let them be sighs of relief.

RED CLOVER SEED SUBJECT

Kenland red clover, a Kentucky-developed product and one of the top red clovers of the U. S., is the subject of constant improvement work at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

A picnic supper in the back yard or cooked over a camp fire—that is when food tastes its very best. There's no need for fancy foods and complicated dishes—the easy-to-cook-or-prepare foods have magic appeal for outdoor appetites.

SUGAR CONTENT DETERMINES

Sweet corn, unlike many vegetables, cannot be picked in its immature stages and allowed to ripen. Instead, the sooner it is placed in the kettle of boiling water after it is picked, the sweeter and more flavorful it will be. The sugar content of sweet corn changes rapidly to starch when it is held without benefit of refrigeration, says Russell Robertson, University Extension specialist in fruit and vegetable marketing.

General Randolph Mc C. Pate is the twenty-first Commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps.

The Courier-Journal last week published an excellent (according to the Eastern Kentucky point of view) editorial entitled, "East Kentucky Doesn't Need More Surveys."

Eastern Kentucky has been surveyed till some stakes will have to be pulled before new ones can be driven. The Big Sandy river, for instance, has been surveyed periodically since that first survey in 1837. In between have been planning surveys, economic surveys, parks surveys, natural resources surveys, perhaps some surveys simply to give somebody a surveying job.

This is how the Louisville newspaper states the matter, and we—after surveying this static situation for many years—agree with it:

During recent weeks, candidates for the governorship have been touring Eastern Kentucky like political prospectors, hoping to find gold in the mountains. And we suspect that in the coming ten months the people of our mountain section will be promised as much if not more than they have ever been promised.

We have no objection to campaign promises, as such, and surely every candidate owes it to the voters to become familiar with the economic troubles besetting our Eastern counties and to try to find a cure for some of these ills. But we hope that all of the candidates will join in an agreed promise that, whoever is elected, there will be no further surveys of Eastern Kentucky.

Since World War II, Eastern Kentucky has been surveyed on an average of once a year by federal, state and regional agencies, in alleged efforts to discover how to help the area. It has been surveyed by the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Interior, by the Department of Economic Security and by the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board, by the State Chamber of Commerce and the East Kentucky Industrial Foundation.

If there is a cure for Eastern Kentucky's ills, surely it can be found somewhere within available data. We hope the candidates will find it. But we hope that they will do it without further surveys, most of which, we suspect, are more useful as a substitute for action than as guides to it.

Enjoying one of the many books in the regional library here for children is young Johnny Heinze. He was assisted by Mrs. Gloria Osborne, a library assistant. The child is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Heinze, Highland avenue, Prestonsburg. "The library is open week days from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.," says Robert Wallace, regional librarian, "and the public is invited to avail itself of the great number of books, both for the young and adults."

ALL IN THE DAY'S WORK

The way some people react to certain news-stories when they're favorable to folks they don't happen to be overly fond of, you'd think they think we're in the business of handing out accolades on the one hand and black-eyes on the other. The fact of the matter is, we make neither garlands nor blackjacks, although we would like to make the former if there was sufficient demand for same.

SURE, HE WAS SURE

Then there is the story of the prosecutor who was being given a rough time by a certain witness. Trying to get back on the offensive with this offensive guy, the d. a. inquired, "Do you know any of the people on this jury?" "Sure, I know more than half of them."

"Are you willing to swear, sir, that you know more than half of these jurors?" "Well, now, if you want to get technical about it," the witness shot back, "I'm willing to swear I know more than all of 'em."

CLICK FAMILY

No man of Eastern Kentucky ever lived longer than James Click. Born Dec. 10, 1790 in Virginia, he came to Floyd county, "in the year one," as he always expressed it, married Jennie Salmons, May 5, 1822, reared a large family and died after an active old age, March 1, 1898. He was thus 108 years old at death.

Sons and daughters of James Click whose names are known to this columnist were Alexander B. Click, married Martha Webb; Susan Click, married Joseph Redwine Langley; James Click, Jr., married Nancy Frasure; Buddy Click; Weeks Click, married Martha Salmons, August 19, 1870; Jane Click, married Weeks Salmons, March 28, 1860.

Alexander B. Click married Martha Webb, May 27, 1847. Sons and daughters were Lindsay Click, married Anna Haywood; William Click, married Mary (Polly) Dotson, Feb. 29, 1872; Daniel Boone Click, married Hicks (?); Green Click, married Cassie Frasure; Ulysses (Dock) Click, married Amanda Conn; Sally Click, married Peter Crisp; Nannie Click, married James Crisp; Susan Click, married Jeff Crum; Mary Click, married Robert Frasure.

Susan Click, daughter of James and Jennie Salmons Click, who married Joseph Redwine Langley, was born in 1837, died July 26, 1921. Her husband succumbed March 10, 1910. They were the parents of 11 sons and daughters: Congressman John W. Langley, married Katherine Gudger; Joseph Langley, married Maggie Fitzpatrick; Theodore Langley; William Langley, married Belle Bingham; Ernest Langley, married Sally Harris; James Langley, married Bertha Salmons; Henry Langley, married Anna Mayo; Julia Langley, born Dec. 10, 1868, married Sept. 9, 1897, Beriah Magoffin Spurlock, born October 2, 1864; May Langley, married Robert E. Stanley; Maude Langley, married Jobe Spurlock; Belle Langley, married Melvin Flanary.

James Click, Jr., the fourth son of James Click and Jennie Salmons Click, who married Nancy Frasure had three sons known to this column: John W. Click, Joseph Click and Samuel Click.

This column would appreciate any criticism or contribution to this note on the Click family and if enough additional data is received it will be published.

MADISON AND JOHNSON

Two letters, both inquiries about papers of President James Madison and President Andrew Johnson, point up the close research that is being done to collect and publish material on these two presidents.

The inquiry about any material on James Madison or his wife Dolley, comes from Ralph L. Ketcham, associate editor of The Papers of James Madison, at the University of Chicago.

"I am writing you as part of our effort to locate all extant letters written by or to James or Dolley Madison. I have enclosed a brochure which describes our project in more detail. Through the collection of photostats of these letters we will publish a new edition of the papers of the Father of the Constitution which we hope will be of enduring usefulness to scholars and other interested in the formative years of this Republic.

"Kentucky has an especially close relationship to both James and Dolley Madison. In addition to the multitude of connections which result from the fact that Kentucky was once part of the Madisons' home state of Virginia, they both had intimate personal ties with your state. Many of President Madison's cousins, most notably the Taylors, moved to Kentucky, and Dolley Madison's sister, Lucy, married Judge Thomas Todd of Frankfort. We have found many important Madison letters in Kentucky, and it is our earnest hope that you will let us know of any possible sources of such manuscripts in Eastern Kentucky.

The Andrew Johnson inquiry comes from LeRoy P. Graf, of the department of history of the University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

Dr. Graf writes: "In connection with the National Historical Publications Commission's project for publishing the papers of American leaders, my colleague, Ralph W. Haskins, and I are engaged in editing the complete papers of Andrew Johnson. We are interested in obtaining information about letters to and from Johnson, as well as any other Johnson writings.

"Mr. Charles F. Hinds of the Kentucky Historical Society has suggested that you are one of the people in Kentucky who might be able to give us some guidance in our search for scattered Johnson items among institutions or private holders in Kentucky. We feel as though we were presuming upon your kindness, but we are eager to leave no avenues unexplored in our efforts to gather together a complete collection of available Johnson material."

Somebody left a 44-year-old copy of The Prestonsburg Post on my desk this week. It is Volume 1, No. 30, which shows the paper of the late Rev. A. C. Harlowe was in its first year when this issue was printed.

44 YEARS AGO

Times have changed a bit since Prestonsburg minister wrote his journal, Sept. 10, 1914. The first World War was raging and no one at that time even thought that we were merely fighting then a prelude to another world holocaust.

F. A. Hopkins, in a front page article, urged people to raise grains, particularly wheat. He noted that flour was high, having reached $7.00 per barrel and corn was $1.00 per bushel. (He didn't live to see what prices people can actually pay if they have to.) The former Congressman said that George Davis, of Bonanza, had a threshing machine for custom milling.

"If the war in Europe goes on in the proportions it has now assumed this time next year flour will not be less than ten dollars per barrel, perhaps much higher," Hopkins wrote. (Its $20.00 now).

"In such a case wouldn't you feel awfully independent to load your wagon with home grown wheat, drive over to Bonanza to the flouring mill and bring home enough flour to provide the family with bread the balance of the year?" he concluded.

J. C. W. Beckham was a candidate for United States Senator in 1914 and F. Tom Hatcher was an aspirant for Congress. Bryan made one of his silvery orations at Louisville in the interest of the Democratic party, according to the columns of the Post. The Republicans were advancing John W. Langley for Congress and Augustus E. Willson for Senator.

The Post was entered in the Prestonsburg postoffice as second class mail for the first issue, February 19, 1914. The masthead, besides noting Harlowe as editor, named H. L. Goble, late of the Floyd County Times, as business manager.

ADVANCING EDUCATION IN KENTUCKY

By ROBERT R. MARTIN Superintendent of Public Instruction

Some months ago in this space, I discussed the place of physical education and its function in the modern school curriculum. I said that it is no less important than any other phase of the public school program. This is of course true of instruction in other specialized areas as well.

One of these that has gained new significance in the Kentucky program is music.

The schools of today can no longer teach a few basic skills and be satisfied that they have contributed to the well being of our boys and girls. (There are those people who would have us return to such a curriculum but this would be like trading electric lights for coal oil lamps).

Educators long ago realized that if the schools were to meet the needs of vastly and rapidly changing conditions in a democratic society, they must recognize first of all that education is as broad as life itself. Thus, the main purpose of the school should be to prepare youngsters to understand the world about them and participate in its activities.

It is easy to see the importance of music in this philosophy. To most people, music is a source of pleasure. How dreary our world would be without it, or how drab would be the school which teaches only those courses which help in gaining a livelihood. Music offers esthetic and cultural appreciations that are as vitally necessary in today's curriculum as are mathematics and sciences.

We in Kentucky have endeavored to give to music the status that it requires and deserves in the curriculum and under the Foundation Program, music was placed on an equal basis with other administrative and instructional service units.

In 1957, a Supervisor of Music was added to the Staff of the Department of Education's Bureau of Instruction. His responsibility is for assisting local school districts in achieving expanded and enriched music programs and in went through the old debt file, got up to $60,000 and quit." He added that he is certain there are some duplications in the old debt file which should be weeded out.

Stumbo pointed out that the county's revenues have not increased apace with rising wages and costs of materials.

The court voted these orders: County Treasurer W. J. May to pay all salaries of county officials and other salaries as set up to be paid, on a monthly basis; to pay county bonds and interest when due; to pay utilities bills, including charges against various officials for telephone calls made on county business when such claims are properly filed and signed by the officials.

The fiscal court authorized the County Judge and County Attorney to sign a contract with the Gulf Refining Company for the purchase of oil and gasoline for use by county machinery. It budgeted $5,500 to pay for these purchases.

It is necessary to produce good quality metallurgical coke.

"Blends of weakly coking Floyd county coals with low-volatile coal coked as strongly as equivalent blends of Pittsburgh district coals that yielded stronger coke when carbonized singly," the report stated.

The report noted the heating values of the gases from coal in this county and found they were similar to the average.

"The gases from the Floyd county coals contained more of the oxides of carbon and less hydrogen than the average. This difference in composition results in the higher specific gravity of the gases from Floyd county coals. The hydrogen sulfide content of the gas is proportional to the sulphur content of the coal."

Elkhorn coals, already famous in the domestic market, may one day be a leader in another field. For, says the report, they are in the upper portion of the range of yields in tar and light oil.

the payroll for all local government workers totaled $171,400 a month.

This cost, divided equally among all residents of the county, represented an outlay of $3.83 a month per inhabitant.

It was less than was paid in most other counties in the United States, the average being $7.12 per capita per month.

It was less also than the average cost in the East South Central States, $4.65 per capita.

The census study lists a total of 883 people employed by the various units of local government within the county. This number includes 702 employed on a full-time basis, the others being part-timers.

To get an understanding of how this stacks up with public employment in other counties, it was necessary that the number of part-time workers be reduced to its full-time equivalent. This was done for all counties and comparisons then made.

As adjusted, Floyd county is shown to have one employee for every 61 local residents.

This was low in the light of the situation in other areas. The average in the United States was one person on local public payrolls per 48 people. In the East-South-Central states the average was one for 54 people.

In general, such employment is on the rise throughout the country as local governments, pressed for more services, expand to meet the demand. It has grown 20 percent in the last five years, a period in which U. S. government employment rose about 7 percent.

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"HERE'S A FLY"

Today I was shown a letter from a young woman whose husband is a diplomat in Afghanistan. Among many funny things said about life in that far-away country, she told of finding a fly in a glass of milk and summoning a servant to do something about it. He came at once, rescued the fly and then, profoundly bowing, said, "I do not think that he drank much of your milk, madam."

Afghanistan is a "fur piece" from Fidelity, but that incident reminded me of the section in our old school readers: "Baby Bye, Here's a Fly." A famous newspaper editor, a contemporary of the great Horace Greeley, wrote that poem, which was memorized by generations of American children. Oldsters will recall all that poem, but the pathetic younger generation will need to be told some more about this masterpiece of literature. I would quote the whole horrible thing, but it is barely possible that it is still copyrighted and might get the editor of this newspaper into trouble. Anyway, a child is called to watch a fly, "how it crawls up the walls, yet it never falls." There are other cliches about how you and I could walk on eggs with "six such legs." But the punch lines are these:

"There it goes on its toes, Ticking Baby's nose."

I wonder what ever happened to that baby and whether it was too good for this world, as so many times we were told when infants were fed improperly or died of communicable disease.

Ten or fifteen years ago my wife felt that we needed a new chair for our living room and went out shopping for one. At a furniture store in our town she saw a well-to-do couple who were also in the market for a chair. The woman of the couple remarked that the man could sit in the chair and "fight his own flies." She did not laugh when she said that either. How close that remark was to actual conditions in the good old days! Only when company came did people find it necessary to shoo way the flies with a flybroom. The rest of the time, each fellow, literally, fought his own flies as a necessary part of eating a square meal.

Everybody knew that a mosquito bite was uncomfortable, but few had ever heard about the transmission of malaria by some of these pests. Some of those who had heard did not believe it, for nobody at Fidelity, then or now, had seen a germ with the naked eye, and who knows how much trickery there may be in a microscope? Now, everybody did know that malaria was caused by poisonous night air and by nothing else. What better thing could you do than to pull down your windows at night and shut out the disease-breeding mephitic vapors? Believe it or not, I actually knew that big word before I had ever heard of the germ theory of disease.

And we used to have loads of pies and stuff that would spoil now in a matter of hours; but some of the pies were saved over for the next day. It should not be necessary to enumerate the dozens of cases of severe cramps and nausea. Always something was to blame. Once at Fidelity a dozen or more people who had eaten at the same place got very sick; the neighborhood at once said it was from the coloring in one of the cakes served. Our local druggist, pretty learned for our time, knew that coloring had no poisonous nature and forthwith drank an ounce or two before witnesses to show his knowledge. Everybody expected a funeral the next day, but the druggist died of extreme old age long since this column came to be. Nobody, not even the druggist, suspected those creamy pies that had not been refrigerated. Flies, mosquitoes, invisible germs—what won't scientific upstarts think of next? I am reminded of the bespectacled rich man in another state who ridiculed hubbub about a new filter plant for the city water: "There's nothing wrong with the water; it is as clear as can be. The whole movement for a filter is plain foolishness, a political scheme."

ALFALFA

If you have to buy hay during the winter for livestock, why not consider producing all your own hay. If your hay land is limited, alfalfa should be grown, if the land is well drained.

Alfalfa has several advantages over other hay crops. It produces more tons per acre, if properly fertilized, limed and managed. Alfalfa will last for several years if handled properly. It is higher in protein and total digestible nutrients than other hays.

The average Floyd County soil will require two tons of limestone per acre and 600 pounds of 0-20-20 fertilizer plus 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate to establish alfalfa. In addition, each year a maintenance fertilizer application should be applied.

It would be best to take a soil sample to make sure that proper plant food is applied.

Anyone, wishing further information on establishing alfalfa, can contact us at the County Extension Office in the Post Office Building in Prestonsburg.

FAIR

Plans are under way for 1958 Floyd County Fair. The Fair Board met last Thursday at the Regional Library.

Members of Advertising Committee are now selling advertising space in the fall catalog. The deadline has been set for August 11 to get all ads and copy to the printer. Any one wishing to have an ad should contact Dan Nessler in Prestonsburg.

The Fair is put on for everyone in Floyd county. It is set up for all phases of our society, industrial, agriculture, home economics and educational. If everyone will back the Fair Board, your fair could be the best in eastern Kentucky.

COUNTY CROP REPORT

Many crops are showing some damage from the excess rain of the excess rain of the past months.

Corn along the creeks, are drowning out in low places. On several farms damage has been excessive. Due to rain second cutting of alfalfa has been delayed. This cutting should be made soon, because the next cutting is starting to come out.

Many gardens are showing damage from excessive moisture. Tomatoes, beans, and cucumbers are rotting. With the large vegetative growth, air cannot circulate to dry out the ground. Weed should be kept under control, and insects controlled.

Strawberry patches set this year are showing good growth, but weed control is a problem. Pastures are in abundance. They should be kept clipped to prevent weeds. This will also keep the pasture tender and green, and improve its feed value.

Rains have been a help to some crops and damaging to others.

FIELD DAY

Farm Family Field Day will be held, August 8 this year at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Martin on Turkey Creek, located three miles from Maytown.

Those attending have a treat in store. They will see a well balanced farming program. The Martins have cash crops in strawberries and raspberries, field crop, corn, hay and pasture, livestock, sheep and hogs. They also have a family garden, home milk supply, meat, eggs. Mrs. Martin cans and freezes all summer to have homegrown food all year.

The children have enrolled in 4-H projects that work along with the farm and home. Projects for this year include clothing, canning, frozen foods, strawberry, raspberries, gardening, labor service, poultry and sheep.

A corn variety demonstration, with eight varieties was established to show the growing habit of each variety. Everyone producing corn in the county will want to see this demonstration.

Mr. Martin's sheep flock consists of white face yearling and purebred hampshire rams. This is one of the better sheep flocks in the county.

Three Extension specialists from the University will attend the meeting. James Newman, Forestry, W. Farmer, Horticulture, and Harold Miller, crop and soils.

This promises to be a wonderful Field Day. There are many things to see. There would also be judging for everyone, and 4-H homemaker exhibits.

The Public Has a Right To Know

(Reprinted by permission of the Kentucky Press)

Recent published statements of the Kentucky Municipal League, erroneous or advantageously assumed, in which the League announced that it would seek a declaratory judgment concerning the Legal Publication Statute, KRS Chapter 424, cause the Kentucky Press Association to issue a public statement to correct and/or refute the League's interpretations of certain sections.

The League has lost sight of two important facts relative to the passage of the Legal Statute. First, the inherent right of the people to have access and to know and understand through printed reports how their elected officials are receiving and disbursing public moneys entrusted to their care, and official acts which are passed to regulate, direct, or curtail the public actions; and,

Second, that the new statute was compiled to clarify, consolidate, and make uniform the 232 statutes governing the county, municipal, town, and other political sub-divisions. This codification was deemed necessary after a thorough and complete study and analysis of the existing statutes found many contradictions, out-moded requirements, and unnecessary directives. Factually, many of the passages included in the League's contentions and arguments have been on the statutes for many years.

The need of stricter compliance of legal publication laws is evidenced every day when news stories report glaring discrepancies and misuse of entrusted funds discovered through state audits. This emphasizes the disregard of certain responsible officials of the public's right to know which might be corrected through legal publication.

A free press was retained constitutionally so that the people as a whole might use the printed medium as an instrument, or weapon, whereby they could retain control of their government, rather than be ruled without their expressed consent.

This right guaranteed to the people was not written into the Constitution for the special benefit, or financial profit, of persons within the newspaper industry or trade. It was written because of three fundamental rights of the people: (1) to know what their agents in government were doing; (2) to discuss it freely according to the constitutional guarantee of free speech; and (3) to meet in assemblies of their own choosing to take action upon it according to a third constitutional guarantee of free assembly. These were deemed essential to a free government.

Reputable legal opinions exist to the general effect that these three rights, fundamental to the process of free government, are so intertwined though seemingly separate, that the invalidation will make the others useless and futile. Of all the three, it will be argued by precedent, set in many courts to the local grass roots of government and by the writers of the founders of the Republic, that the right of the people to a free press, so that they may know what their government is doing, is the most important. Without it all other rights, and the usefulness of the ballot itself, are impaired.

It is for this reason that publication of legal notices, especially those which are required as a report to the people how their moneys are received and spent, is so important in our system of government "of, for, and by the people."

In the study, culminating in the new statute, it was found that there were 232 separate statutes, many of which had numerous deficiencies or were contradictory, with a distressing lack of uniformity. The analysis was conducted upon six categories: what is to be published; who is responsible for causing the publication; qualification of the printed medium; alternative or additional methods of notice; period of publication; and form or content of publication.

In the analysis it was found that 30 statutes required proceedings or official actions of governmental bodies or officers such as ordinances, journals, regulations, and orders; 12 statutes required financial statements, audits or reports of public officers or bodies (and of certain corporations).

Fifty-two statutes required advertisement for bids and notices of sales; 73 required notices of hearings or meetings, or tests or examinations, or of opportunity to inspect or protest; 36 required notices of elections and publications in connection with elections; four required service of process by publication in court proceeding; and 20 required notice to creditors, or prospective creditors, or to claimants, or owners of property. Only six former statutes did not fit under any one of the six categories.

There was indeed need for clarification and unification. One disclosure was no statute defined or qualified a newspaper. There were 97 different ways of designating the kind and number of newspapers in which publication was to be made; 24 statutes required state wide publication; 73 required county publication; 87 required city publication; 31 required district publication; and 19 required publication "in a business area."

The analysis further found that there were 67 different ways of specifying periods of time of publication; 62 statutes required publication once; two required publication every day for 60 days; other specified consecutive publication from 2 to 30 days. Many required publication once a week for a specified number of weeks ranging from two to 12. Many were ambiguous, using such language as "twenty days' notice" or "at least five days prior thereto."

This "time" analysis surely indicated the need for uniformity in the new statute which, with few exceptions especially stated in special statutes, were incorporated in chapter 424, section 3, which allocated the majority of publications into three time-categories—once for completed actions; twice regarding elections, hearings or tax due-dates; and three times when the public is required to file petitions, expectations, protests, or objections or the submission of bids.

This Section 3 refutes the implications of the Municipal League that ALL public notices "must be advertised from one to thirty times before they can become law or be carried out." Many notices of a completed act of a governing body, such as ordinances, resolutions, regulations, statements, etc., where the purpose of the publication is not to inform the public that they may or shall do an act or exercise a right within a designated period, need only one publication, not an excessive number of publications as the League implies. Many former requirements of "times" of publication were reduced to the maximum of three, thus saving the taxpayers many hundreds of dollars.

Section 17 of Chapter 424 states, "No regulation promulgated by any officer, board or commission of a city, county or district, which is intended to impose liabilities or restrictions on the public, shall be valid unless and until it has been advertised by newspaper publication." This section is under attack by the League, and, in the opinion of the Association, the arguments advanced are downright preposterous. The League cites an example in these words pertaining to Louisville:

"To be even more ridiculous, we could use the incident of a big fire. Before the fire chief could redirect or reroute traffic, he would have to advertise his intentions in the newspapers three times over a period of two weeks."

Indeed, what could be more ridiculous than this statement. Perhaps established by previous ordinance, the Chief of Police of that city has every right to direct traffic at any and all times without any previous notices, especially in time of emergency; this is just ordinary police power, regulated or implied.

There are many rules, regulations, resolutions, or minutes, passed by governing bodies of political divisions which are not required to be published under section 17 which expressly states: Only that "which is intended to impose liabilities or restrictions on the public." Let's be reasonable in application. To take the League's example. Under the police power, the Chief of police can issue regulations, permanent or temporary (as in case of emergency) without public notice. On the other hand, a directive to the Chief of Police, designating certain one-way streets, is surely of public interest as an ordinance directing or restricting public use of certain streets "imposes liabilities or restrictions on the public."

Again, many actions by governing boards will not come under this "restrictive and directive" clause; let's be reasonable in the application without reading into the section requirements that are not there. No one will contend that the minutes of any governing board are required to be published, another false contention of the League. We call attention of the League to the definition of "regulations" as found in KRS Chapter 13.080.

Another premise of the League is that political subdivisions are bound strictly by section 15 in that all agencies must advertise for bids if the amount involved is more than $500, and that no provision is made for emergency purchases. The Association acknowledges that this was an oversight in the preparation of the chapter, but emphasizes that no newspaper publisher would oppose emergency purchases even if the purchase was not legally (sic) made by means of advertisement. Again common sense should prevail in the interpretation of section 16.

The League's opposition to section 12 which requires officers to print annual financial statements is not well founded as section 12 is simply a restatement of the old KRS 61.290—there has been nothing added or subtracted to the statute which has been in force since 1928. The provisions of this section definitely state that an officer must report and itemize, in a prescribed manner, all expenditures made during a fiscal period. It does not prescribe that every single amount received must be itemized only that the source and amount be given cordingly to receipt-periods. For instance, receipts by the sheriff's office can be given in a "lump" sum each month, a practice has been followed for many years.

The provisions of Section 12 were upheld in an opinion of the State Court of Appeals in the case of Robert F. Cooper, et al, vs. The Paris (Paris) Kentuckian-Citizen. Many public officers have known, and have followed, these provisions since 1928. It is illogical and absurd for the League to now state that it interprets this statute of long-standing to mean that every single payment, such as an electric light account must be itemized in "accounts received". The Association respectfully requests that the officers of the League read the Court of Appeals' opinion—and keep it on file.

The Association plan to join in a test suit seeking declaratory judgment as a third party should such a suit be filed by the League. The Association believes that it has kept the best interests of the public in mind when it entered into the task of writing this uniform publication statute and procuring its passage by the Legislature. In all deliberations the public's right to know was paramount.

The rabid dog, owned by a little grandson of John Goble, of Goble Branch in the Dewey Lake area, stayed several days around Camp Chatterawha where girls of the Sandy Valley Girl Scout Council were on their annual encampment. Mrs. Zella Archer, Scout leader, upon learning the girls were bitten, notified M. V. Clarke, health department administrator. The dog, unvaccinated and untaged, was quarantined by Roy Cook, dog warden in the care of Mrs. Goble, whose husband is in Michigan at work. The animal died Sunday.

First attack of the rabid animal was made on two children of John Goble, Patsy and Lenora. The girl Scouts were bitten several days later. Girl Scouts bitten are Alice Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Clark, of Wheelwright, Judy Bussey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Bussey, of David, Lynn Salsbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Salsbury, Prestonsburg, and Carol Sue Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Martin, of Allen.

Considerable anxiety was being felt by the Health Department for Banks as his whereabouts are unknown and, if he was bitten and remains uncontacted for several days, delayed administering of anti-rabies serum may be too late.

Judge Stumbo's order follows, in part:

"It appearing to the Court that there is an epidemic of Rabies in the vicinity of Goble Branch, Auxier, below the Dam, up Auxier Road to Jane Brown Branch, in Floyd county, Kentucky, and that it is dangerous to the public and is a threat to the health and well being of persons residing in this community because of the infections of dogs in this vicinity with rabies;

"It is therefore ordered by the Court that all persons residing within a radius of one mile of all points mentioned above in Floyd County, Kentucky, be required to keep their dogs securely tied or in a lot or pen where they do not have access to condemned animals and cannot come in contact with any human being for a period of 45 days from this date."

The community of Democrat, fraught with the evils of moonshine, pistol-totin' and its complementary sins, was a rough place for a newborn Christian to walk the straight and narrow. Almost typical of the frequent homicides of the community was the death of Martin's father. He, his brother Willis and father were traveling along a country road and passing a house. Martin heard a gate slam, then, gunfire. His father fell, mortally wounded with a bullet in his back. The gunman, seeing he had downed the father, emptied a weapon at the sons.

"I saw if I was going to live for God I must leave the mountains," Martin says, and he went to Chicago, got a job operating a delicatessen. Later he was employed at Moody Bible Institute washing pots and pans. In three weeks he was made foreman, in six months he was upped to assistant chef and in 13 months was promoted to first chef.

In the meantime he had married the missionary, Miss Charlotte Mae Sapp, a native of Montana, who had so bluntly informed him at Democrat that he was going to hell if he didn't mend his ways. They talked a lot about the need for Christian missionary work in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky.

Finally, they began to write post-letters back in the hills, inquiring for a place to locate and work. A letter came from William Haywood, at Dock, on Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek. He wrote that there was no church there and urged them to come. Haywood promised "plenty of sweat, heartaches, tears, hard work and no thanks." Martin accepted the challenge, in October, 1942.

World War II was raging and building materials were almost unobtainable, the Martins found. They succeeded in buying an old mill-house, tore it down and what lumber wasn't hauled on a wagon to the churchhouse site was dragged by a rope at the end of Martin's old Chevrolet. The church was finished, war or not, and the Lord's work prospered. The Martins stayed five years. Two ministers of today were converted in that church.

Five years after going to Spurlock Creek, Curtis Tussey, moved to Buck's Branch, near Martin. Tussey asked Martin to come to his house and hold services. He did, later preaching in the schoolhouse. There were many conversions and talk of a churchhouse. Mrs. Nora Turner gave land and a fund-raising campaign was initiated. Soon, Grace Chapel was completed. Again the work of the Master went ahead. Two ministers of today owe their dedication to the Lord from the evangelism of Rev. Martin at Grace Chapel. Martin stayed ten years, resigned Jan. 20, this year to embark upon the larger project of building the present church in the Branham Addition at Martin.

The land upon which Faith Baptist church, Independent, is being built was sold to Martin at a big discount by George Roberts. Work began three years ago when the county maintenance crew graded the site. Fund-raising was started by the Martins and as the money came in slowly, the walls rose slowly, too, yet surely. There was much volunteer help. Miles Mayo, Hager Conley, Roger and Bryan Sammons, Sam Branham, Sonny Davis, James Perry and others contributed work. Many of these carried concrete blocks to Martin who fitted them in place on Faith Baptist church.

Rev. Bob, as his friends call him, and his wife, both are members and sparkplugs of the Floyd County Retarded Children's Council. They plan to build a wing to Faith Baptist church to provide a room for the trainables to supplement the state's program of education for exceptional children. Here again he is operating almost entirely upon faith. He will need equipment and supplies for the room. When it is completed there will be a teacher's salary to pay as the state makes no provision for educating the trainables in the retarded group.

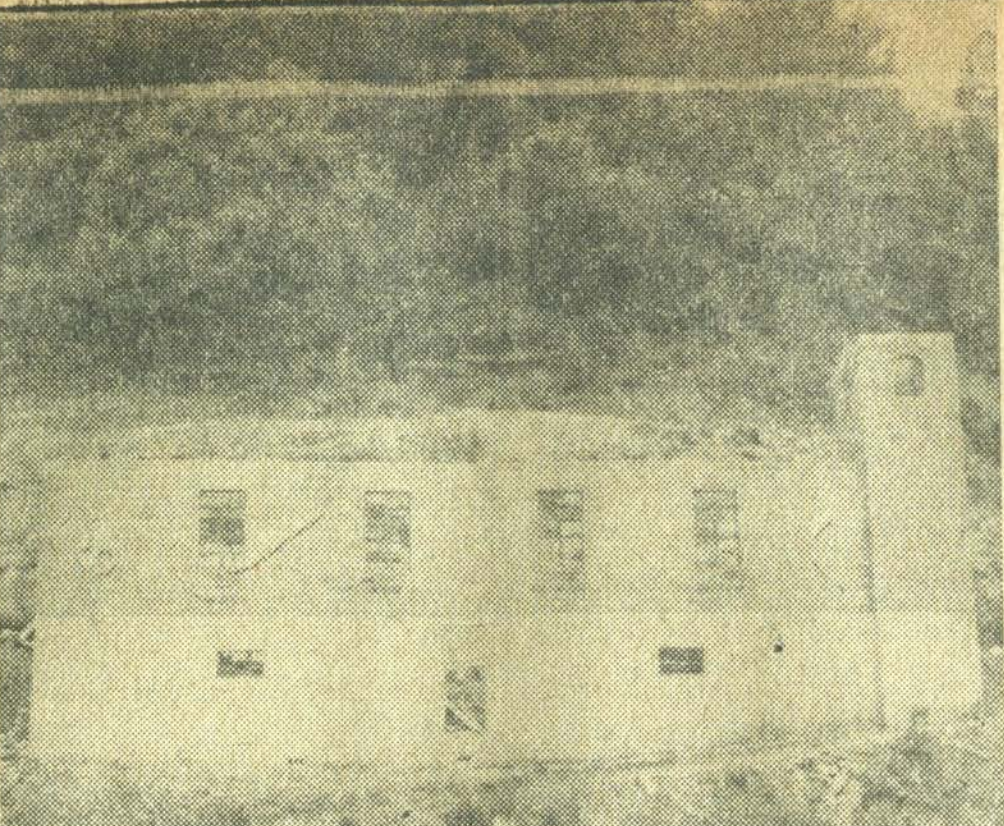

The walls of the Faith Baptist church have been repaired, mostly by the hand of Rev. Robert Martin. They stand stark and bare, roofless silhouettes in gray against a rocky hillside. Martin needs money to pay the contractors to put on the roof. He needs money to pour concrete, lay the floor, install windows and doors. He needs quite a bit of most everything but faith. He has plenty of that.

Faith and dedication have taken Bob Martin a long way on the high road since he left that little church at Democrat, Ky., 23 years ago, smarting under the whiplash of the words of a missionary, now his wife, who wanted him to mend his ways.

The Dock Community church, Grace Chapel and now the Faith Baptist church are symbols of that faith and dedication.

Two Governors Will Dedicate Interstate Park

Frankfort July 28 (Spl.) — The tentative dedication program planned for the Breaks Interstate Park on the Kentucky-Virginia state line near Elkhorn City will include addresses by Gov. Lindsay Almond, Jr., of Virginia, and Gov. A. B. Chandler, according to Mrs. Ben Kilgore, park director and member of the Breaks Commission. No specific date has been announced for the event but it will be in early October, she added.

Planning of the program was discussed at a recent meeting of the commission and members of the Pike County Chamber of Commerce. A committee named to complete arrangements for the dedication includes: Senator M. M. Long, Col. K. L. Day, V. C. Smith, Gobel Newsome, Judge E. J. Sutherland, Lon B. Rogers and Bill Knight, deputy commissioner, Department of Public Relations.

"Rhododendron Lodge", the name of the new lodge suggested by Mrs. Kilgore was unanimously adopted. This name was suitable, she said, "because of the abundance of the native flower in the area."

"The Commission has received nothing but praise for this building," Mrs. Kilgore said "and in the future this will be the standard for all buildings constructed at the parks in Eastern Kentucky."

"The tourist potential in Eastern Kentucky is unlimited," Mrs. Kilgore continued. "with such attractions as natural beauty and water activities on lakes being constructed by engineers in the flood control program."

Kentucky's length from north to south is 175 miles and the width from east to west is 350 miles.

OPEN GRID PRACTICE

Wheelwright high school, under new coach John Gordon Goble, will open practice for their 1958 football season at 9:00 a.m. Friday morning in preparation for a nine-game schedule.

Goble, an ex-Prestonsburg all-state lineman, will face his old school when Prestonsburg and Wheelwright collide in the first game at Wheelwright on August 30th.

One of the serious problems facing the Maroons will be the lack of spring football practice.

Martin's Little League all-stars retained their championship in eastern Kentucky area during the past week-end by eliminating Virgie 15-2 in Prestonsburg then dropping Middleboro 6-3 in Benham play-offs last Saturday.

Last year Martin lost in the state finals to Owensboro 3-0, and with excellent pitching this year they loom as a strong favorite when play begins in Lexington, Saturday.

NO NEWCOMER

Charles Deaton, newly appointed head football coach at Pikeville high school, is no newcomer to Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference grid fans. The likeable Perry County native was instrumental in starting football at M. C. Napier, where he coached for two seasons before returning to the University of Kentucky to receive his Master's Degree.

NO DEFINITE PLANS

The Kentucky High School Athletic Association will have no definite plans to select a state football champion until 1959. Every high school principal (instead of the state's football coaches) will be polled and asked to submit what they think would be a feasible plan to select the state champ.

Several football coaches have proposed various plans, the majority of which would classify schools into three categories, based on boys enrolled in the upper four grades.

Miss Combs To Speak At Banquet Honoring Pikeville College Group

Pikeville, Ky., July 28 (Spl.)—Miss Louise Combs, director of the division of teacher education and certification of the Kentucky Department of Education, will address Pikeville College's summer graduating class Friday (Aug. 1).

The class includes 11 Floyd county students.

She will speak at a banquet honoring the 60 candidates for summer graduation.

Before joining the Department of Education as assistant director of her division some years ago, Miss Combs was a teacher in elementary and high schools, a high-school principal, and an elementary-school supervisor. She holds the master's degree from George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tenn., and the baccalaureate degree from Western Kentucky State College.

President of the National Association of State Directors of Teachers Education and Certification, Miss Combs is a member of the Council on Cooperation in Teacher Education. She also is a consultant to the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Floyd countians among the summer candidates are Helen Akers, Grethel; Adrian E. Bentley, Huesville; Marjorie J. Blair, Weeksbury; Maxie S. Burke, Wheelwright; Barbara Allen Carter, Prestonsburg; Kelsa E. Elliott, Betsy Layne; Elsie S. Hicks, Allen; Ethel B. Johnson, Allen; Herbert Prater, Prestonsburg; Hattie Slone Reedy, Wheelwright, and Lois Hughes Turner, Wayland.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

The proper time at which to start the field training of a young gun dog is a subject of considerable sporting interest and controversy, reports Henry P. Davis, Sporting Dogs Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. There are numerous schools of thought, even within the individual breeds, and the matter will never be settled to the full satisfaction of everyone. This is logical, for much depends on the young dog himself; how eager and quick or how slow he is to learn; how bold or shy he is; how quickly he reaches physical maturity; and other variables.

Some sportsmen contend that a puppy's education should be started by the time he is old enough to be taken from his mother. Many other fanciers believe that a puppy six months of age is old enough to begin to realize what his purpose in life should be, and they feel that his experience in the field should start at this time.

In Mr. Davis' opinion, the best time to start a pup's field training is after he has passed his first birthday. In the case of many individuals a year and a half or even two years would be better, Mr. Davis believes, for the training at that time will be a more permanent nature. Of course, there are young dogs which are doing good work in the field, hunting intelligently and handling game properly, before they have reached the age of one year. These, however, are exceptional individuals. Some of them never show any improvement over their puppy form. A puppy which is overcrowded in training and forced to play the part of an all-age dog is very apt to develop into a phlegmatic methodical performer whose work never approaches brilliancy, says Mr. Davis.

Patiently brought along and properly handled, the majority of healthy and sound young hunting dogs that come from ancestry of proven hunting ability measure up to those standards in an acceptable degree. So take your time with that young dog as Mr. Davis advises. Advance his education only as fast as you are confident he can absorb training thoroughly and learn his lessons well.

License Fees Up, Commission Says; Schedule Is Told

Frankfort, July 28 (Spl.) — Under a new state law, the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission has put into effect a new schedule of hunting and fishing license fees.

In most instances, the commission explains, the only change is addition of clerk's fees to cost of license.

One exception, is the statewide resident fishing license, now costing $3.25. This includes $1 increase plus a 25-cent clerk's fee, the commission says.

Clerks issuing licenses are entitled to fees depending upon license cost, the commission says. The agency explains:

In the past a resident hunting license sold for $3, of which 25 cents went to the clerk and $2.75 to the Department of Fish and Wildlife resources. Now the cost is $3.25, of which the clerk will retain 25 cents and the department will receive $3.

Hunting licenses remain the same plus clerk's fees, except that resident deer hunting permits this year cost $10.50, compared with $5 last season. Non-resident deer permit is $25.50.

A complete schedule of hunting and fishing license fees may be obtained from the department at Frankfort.

Mitchell Is Assigned To Center Near Paris

Private Kelzo Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Mitchell, of Melvin, has arrived in France and is assigned to the US Army Aerial Support Center. The Center is located about an hour's drive to the west from Paris in the little Norman village of St. Andre de l'Eure.

The Support Center is the only unit of its type in the Army today. Its mission is the supply of the ground combat units with almost all of the equipment necessary for them to conduct combat operations. Their mission is accomplished by utilizing the Air Forces newest cargo transport, the C-130 Hercules, turbo-prop-type of aircraft and giant cargo parachutes.

When Kelzo first entered the service in 1957 he was sent to Fort Ord, California for his basic training. Later he attended the Military Police School at Fort Gordon, Ga., and spent a few months at Fort Knox with the MP Detachment before arriving here in France.

WHEN'S THE TIME TO BUY A CAR?

"WHEN I CAN AFFORD IT!"

Tsk, tsk! Too bad he hasn't checked up on car prices lately. He'd find that Ford is the lowest priced* of the best-selling three!

"WHEN THEY INVENT A CAR THAT DOESN'T NEED GAS!"

Gracious! The gentleman obviously hasn't heard about Ford's Mileage Maker Six—the modern short-stroke Six that delivered the most miles per gallon in Class A in the last two Mobilgas Economy Runs!

"WHEN THE OLD CAR'S HAD IT!"

But it has... and so has his budget. If he could only have back all the money he's been paying out (and is going to pay out) in repair bills... he could be the proud owner of a 58 Ford!

"WHEN MY PRESENT CAR IS WORTH MORE!"

Poor man. He's not only missing out on summer driving in a Thunderbird-inspired Ford... he's missing out on money! Doesn't he know that his present car will NEVER be worth more in trade than right NOW!

WHEN FORD DEALERS ARE GIVING THE YEAR'S BEST DEALS DURING FORD'S SUMMER TRADING PICNIC!

Smart fellow! He's buying NOW while Ford Dealers are holding their Summer Trading Picnic and giving the longest deals and the highest trades ever... and while the selection of models and colors is best. What's more, he'll find that Ford is the lowest priced* of the best-selling three! Why not join him at your Ford Dealers?

IT'S JUST WALNUTS

Washington — The Government has made it official. From now on English walnuts are just plain walnuts.

The Department of Agriculture dropped the "English" in announcing a proposed revision of standards for the nut.

"The change in title was prompted by the fact that the name "English" is a misnomer carried over from the time when the walnuts were brought to this country in English ships," the Department said.

LOSES ONE ELECTION

Senator Cary Hayden, of Arizona, has lost one election in his life, the August Reader's Digest reports. That happened when he was running for president of the Stanford University student body in 1899. The building politician told his co-ed fiancée that it would be "unseemly" for either of them to vote for him. They voted for one of his opponents—and Hayden lost by two votes.

STRAWBERRY TOUR

Each spring a representative from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation visits Eastern Kentucky counties which have 4-H projects sponsored by the Foundation. During June, J. D. Austin, representative for Sears-Roebuck Foundation, along with George Corder, Chairman of 4-H Programs and W. W. Magill, Extension specialist in horticulture, visited Floyd county on the annual inspection tour. They visited the strawberry projects of Palmer Lowe, of Eastern, and Kenneth Ray Sexton, of Martin.

The Sears-Roebuck Foundation sponsored the 4-H Strawberry project, poultry chain and have started a Raspberry project on trial basis in Floyd county.

Also each spring the Sears-Roebuck Foundation sponsors a strawberry tour to Cincinnati for a leader, two 4-H'ers and an agent from each of six Eastern Kentucky counties. This trip is an award for the two 4-H boys who do a good job with their strawberry projects in each county. This year Garland Martin, 4-H Leader, and Gaylord Martin, 4-H strawberry chain members Bill May and David Gillespie, assistant county agent, went on the tour. They visited at farms near Cincinnati where several acres of strawberries and raspberries as well as peaches and other fruits are grown. In Cincinnati they saw the operation of the fresh fruit and vegetable market. One of the highlights of the trip was the ball game attended by the group.

BARNES GIVES MEET REPORT

Explanation Of Meetings Of Assistance Recipients Made To Regional Head

Meetings with public assistance recipients, such as that held here a few weeks ago, are the subject of a four-page, detailed report filed by Vego Barnes, Kentucky commission of economic security, on demand of regional officials of the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

George N. Narensky, regional director of public assistance in the office at Charlottesville, Va., said he and his associates are studying the Barnes report, which reached them Wednesday of last week.

After they evaluate it to determine if there were infractions of the public assistance law or if the meetings, although valid, were "inappropriate," they will send the Barnes report to Washington for final decision on what action, if any, to take.

"All we have known until today about the meetings," Narensky said, "is what we got from newspaper clippings sent to us. From this distance, it doesn't make a very pretty picture. Certainly nothing like those meetings has been held anywhere else.

"There have been cases in other states where recipients of public assistance came together to hear the program discussed, but nowhere else did they listen to speeches by political candidates. Nowhere else was there such an atmosphere of political campaigning thrown about them.

"With our office, it isn't just a question whether there was or was not an infraction of the law. It's just as important that we keep the public-assistance program clear of political implications as it is that we follow the letter of the law.

"That's why we became more and more concerned about the meetings Mr. Barnes was holding over Kentucky. Finally, we decided we ought to have an official version from him.

"So on July 15 we sent Mr. Barnes a telegram asking him about the meetings, who was invited to attend, who was invited to speak to the welfare recipients, what the purpose of the meetings was.

"When a week had passed without response from him, we sent him a second telegram last Monday. Today we got his response. It covers four pages and has 10 exhibits. While we haven't had a chance to study it thoroughly, it appears that Mr. Barnes has made a full response."

The Barnes meeting came to general notice in Louisville on July 9. The first was addressed by Lieutenant Governor Harry Lee Waterfield, candidate of Governor Chandler to succeed to the office of chief executive.

When complaint was made that the meetings were designed to help the Waterfield candidacy, Barnes invited all candidates who desired to attend the meetings to do so. When no candidates showed up at the next meeting he changed the program so that none were slated to appear at future gatherings.

Eleven meetings have been held in various parts of Kentucky. Barnes has utilized them to outline to welfare recipients how the program has been expanded under Chandler.

Health Queries Should Be Sent To County Units

Frankfort, July 25 (Sp.)—Each year the State Department of Health receives some 400 requests for information from Kentucky school children.

The policy of the agency's Division of Health Education is to encourage students and teachers to seek answers from their county health departments.

In most instances, the local department is well supplied with literature on most phases of public health. Also the county health officer, nurse or sanitarian may be able to give emphasis to particular points by visiting a class and talking over problems.

By referring requests to county health departments, the division hopes to strengthen the relationship between the health department and the public.

In instances when the inquirer is in a special hurry for some specific information, the division gives its immediate attention. Some questions call for research or for the name and address of an agency that can give an answer.

The agency says: "Children have naturally inquisitive minds, and with more and more emphasis being placed on health by the schools, pupils are turning to their state and county health departments for assistance. We welcome these requests and give them careful attention, for we know that if the school children of today learn and develop good health habits, then Kentucky will have a healthy future."

Blue Licks Battlefield State Park between Maysville and Paris has 100 acres with a pioneer museum and picnic facilities open to the public.

The First Methodist Church of Allen was the setting for the wedding of Miss Charlotte Ann Snodgrass and Mr. Gary Dale Thompson on Friday, June 27 at 6:30 in the evening. The bridegroom is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Thompson, of Prestonsburg.

The baskets on the altar, which was centered with a flowered archway, and before which the couple exchanged their vows, were filled with white gladioli. The bridegroom's pastor, the Rev. Harold Dorsey, performed the double-ring ceremony before a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

The music was presented by Miss Elizabeth Ann Burchett, at the organ, with Mr. Donny Compton as vocal soloist.

The bride, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snodgrass, of Allen, was given in marriage by her father. Her floor-length gown of white lace and net, was fashioned with an Italian style neckline, long tight-fitting sleeves and the bouffant skirt of rows of tiny net ruffles. Her finger-tip veil was attached to a head clip of sequins and pearls. Her bouquet was of white carnations centered around a white orchid.

The white tapers were lighted by Mr. Carl Sizemore, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Joseph D. Harkins, III, of Lexington.

The attendants, the Misses Linda White, maid of honor, and Anna Faye Dixon, Mary Belle Layne and Mrs. Roger Colvin, all of Prestonsburg, were dressed in blue nylon marquisette waltz length gowns with matching net head bands and carried nose-gays of blue carnations. The flower girl, little Miss Sonia Gail Francis, cousin of the bride, was dressed in pale blue nylon, and carried a small white basket of rose petals.

Mr. Johnny Allen, of Prestonsburg, served as best man for Mr. Thompson, whose groomsmen were Messrs. Glenn Anderson, Jr., Carl Sizemore, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Joseph D. Harkins, III, of Lexington.

After the exchange of marriage vows, and while the couple knelt at the altar, Miss Mary Belle Layne sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride's mother was gowned in blue voile, wearing a white feather hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

Among the out-of town relatives at the ceremony and reception, held in the recreation rooms of the church, were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holcomb, of Tucson, Ariz., Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Holcomb, of Omaha, Neb., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thompson, of Ashland, and Mrs. Earl Arnett and son Earl, Jr., of Mt. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Francis, of Ashland.

Assistants at the reception were the Misses Michael Ann Preston, Sonia Johnson and Judy Snodgrass, of Allen.

Mr. Thompson, also a graduate of Prestonsburg high school, is a student at Pikeville College.

Mr. Thompson, also a graduate of Prestonsburg high school, is a student at Eastern Kentucky State College at Richmond, where he and his bride will reside this fall and winter.

Mrs. Thompson wore a blue dacron chemise dress with white accessories and "white" orchid corsage when she and Mr. Thompson left for a short wedding trip to Lexington. They are now at home to their many friends at 203 Graham Street, in Prestonsburg.

May Not Lose Exemption For Child, Gray States; New Ruling Announced

Most parents will not lose the $600 exemption they claim on their Federal income tax returns for each dependent child spending the summer vacation at part-time job, Wm. M. Gray, District Director of Internal Revenue, said this week.

Children who will be under 19 years of age at the end of the year, and children who are full-time students, regardless of age, come under this special exemption rule of the Federal income tax law, he said.

Mr. Gray explained that parents who contribute more than half the support of a child in one of these categories may claim a dependency exemption regardless of the amount earned by the child.

He also had a good word for the working children. They are entitled to a $600 personal exemption and may be due a refund of part or all the Federal income tax withheld from their wages. They will have to file an income tax return, Mr. Gray said, claiming refund of any amount withheld in excess of the actual tax liability.

Any questions concerning individual cases can be answered at local Internal Revenue offices, Gray said.

Gov. Magoffin Resigned Rather Than Go Union

Confederate-sympathizer Beriah Magoffin resigned his office as governor in August, 1862, when the Kentucky Legislature became pro-Union in sentiment.

In 1859 Magoffin was elected governor over his opponent, Joshua F. Bell, by 8,000 votes. Less than four months following his inauguration, South Carolina took the fateful step of seceding from the Union. On Feb. 8, 1861, a provisional Confederate government was formed in Montgomery, Alabama. The following day, Jefferson Davis was elected president of the Confederacy.

What position would Kentucky take? Would she secede from the Union? In May Magoffin gave his answer. He warned both North and South that Kentucky's position was to be that of "armed neutrality" and threatened both sides with a show of force if the Commonwealth were invaded.

Recruiting, however, was active in the state, the Confederates from Camp Boone just south of the Kentucky-Tennessee border, and the Union in various camps, the most famous of which being Camp Nelson in the very heart of Kentucky.

By late summer, Kentucky's position of neutrality was fast becoming untenable. The question became which side would defy Magoffin's proclamation first. The Confederates took the first step when General Leonidas Polk invaded Kentucky and occupied Columbus, Sept. 3. The Union countered by moving into Paducah two days later.

The Kentucky Legislature called upon the governor to order the Confederates out of Kentucky, and when Magoffin refused, the Legislature passed an ultimatum over his veto. The following 10 months were difficult ones as Governor Magoffin opposed attempts by the Legislators to take Kentucky into the war on the side of the North. Finally he resigned August 18, 1862, and was succeeded by Governor James F. Robinson.

Magoffin was born in Harrodsburg, in 1815. He was educated in local schools, at Centre College and Transylvania University.

Magoffin served one session each in the Kentucky House and Senate. He was also police judge of Harrodsburg and an elector in various elections.

He died, following a brief illness, in 1885 at his ancestral home in Harrodsburg on property which had once been owned by Jonathan Clark, brother of the famous George Rogers Clark.

METHODIST DISTRICT CONFERENCE AT PRESTONSBURG IN 1911

A district conference of the Methodist church at Prestonsburg in June, 1911, brought together many of the faithful who are no longer living. The church, 47 years ago, stood on West Court Street. It later burned down and the present First Methodist Church on Arnold Avenue was built.

Rev. H. L. Clay was pastor of the Prestonsburg Methodist Church when this picture was taken. He is shown in the front row on the right of the man holding the straw hat.

The First National Bank of Prestonsburg, organized in 1904, was thus seven years old when the Methodist District Conference was held in 1911. Then, as now, it offered to our people, friendly, courteous service.

Allotment Reduction Is Envisioned If Sale Of Suckers Is Made

Production and sale of harvested "suckers" from a farm tobacco acreage allotment will hereafter result in a reduction of the tobacco allotment the following year, according to Daniel Akers, Chairman of the Floyd County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The new provisions are included in an amendment to the law governing tobacco acreage allotments and marketing quotas recently passed by Congress and approved by the President.

The law now provides that if more than one crop of tobacco is grown from the same plants or different plants on the same acreage in one year, the tobacco allotment for the farm will be decreased. The decrease in the farm tobacco allotment will be equal to the acreage from which two crops of tobacco are grown. Previously, two crops of tobacco from the same acreage in one year had no effect on the farm tobacco allotment the following year.

These new provisions go into effect beginning with the harvesting of 1958 crop of tobacco, and the reduction applies to the next establishment allotment for the farm.

The famous young Texas pianist, Van Cliburn, is deeply religious. The August Reader's Digest reports. He faithfully gives one-fifth of his earnings to the Baptist Church. The conductor of the Buffalo, New York, Philharmonic, Josef Krips, recalls that one day, Van came to his dressing room before a performance and said, "Maestro, let us pray." The two knelt side by side and prayed for a good performance.

LOBBYIST IS BLASTED BY COOPER AT HEARING

(By ROBERT L. RIGGS in The Courier Journal)

Members of the House Committee on Public Works Tuesday were approaching the noon-time recess in the speeded-up hearing on the question of letting the Tennessee Valley Authority sell bonds to finance its future expansion.

Suddenly the voice of John Sherman Cooper cut the air with a cross between a stage whisper and a shout:

"You tell him he can go to hell!", said the Kentucky Republican senator to Lee White, his administrative assistant. "Those people needn't think they can tell me whether to be for or against a bill.

"Doesn't he know that I've been for this bill all along, that it's really my bill that came out of the Senate last year?"

By the time the Kentuckian had reached a full head of steam, White was on the way to the House Office Building corridor to give a toned-down version of the senator's message to a spokesman for the coal industry, William Blewitt, of the Peabody Coal Company, St. Louis.

Blewitt was one of a half-hundred representatives of coal operators, public utilities, and chambers of commerce present to hear the T.V.A. given a thorough denunciation. Chairman Clifford Davis, of the subcommittee, had scheduled no witnesses in favor of the Senate-approved Cooper-Kerr bill, but had agreed to hear the Kentucky senator.

When Cooper and White walked into the hearing room shortly before noon, Blewitt signaled to White to meet him in the corridor.

"I'm surprised to see the senator here," Blewitt said, "is he going to testify against the bill?"

White look astonished and reminded Blewitt that many of the provisions in the measure were offered to the Senate by Cooper. "He's going to appear on behalf of the bill," White said.

With that, according to White, Blewitt became quite excited, and said: "Doesn't the senator know that all the coal men in Kentucky are against his bill, that they are all up in arms against it? You better get to him before they call on him to testify and tell him how the coal industry feels about it."

White dutifully relayed the Blewitt message to Cooper, with the remark that Blewitt seemed quite upset.

As Cooper explained it afterward, "I just got so mad I blew up and shouted. After all, I've been working on this bill two years and this is the first time the coal people ever said anything to me about it. They have a right to present their views any time they want to, but they can't pressure me, they can't tell me when and what to testify.

"I've spent a lot of effort trying to help the coal industry as well as the T.V.A. My door has been open to the friends of the coal business and of the T.V.A."

Cooper's testimony on behalf of the bill was delayed until Wednesday morning. After he appears, the Public Works Committee will go into executive session to determine whether to approve the bill or not.

It's a race with time to see if the T.V.A. will be given authority to sell revenue bonds with which to build new steam plants to provide additional electric energy. Enemies of the agency are making a last-stage fight against the bill in the hope that if it is killed, T.V.A. itself will shrivel.

Congress has made it clear that it will not appropriate funds for new plants. Unless the agency can sell its bonds it will not be able to meet the increased demand for its power within the valley. Last summer, the Senate passed a bond-bill sponsored by Cooper and Oklahoma's Robert S. Kerr.

The House committee a year ago brought out a similar bill sponsored by Chairman Davis. As a legislative device, Davis tried to get the committee to give its approval to the Senate measure last week without further hearings so passage by Congress could be brought about before next month's adjournment. But enemies of T.V.A. forced the hearings.

In an effort to keep the sessions brief, Davis had invited only foes of the measures to be heard. As a result, there have been two days of anti-T.V.A. testimony. Monday was taken up with the General Accounting Office and the Budget Bureau, both of which agencies oppose giving T.V.A. financial freedom.

Tuesday's hearing was devoted to onslaughts against the agency by private-power people, coal industry spokesmen, and chambers of commerce.

AFRAID TO GET WELL

Everyone at the tuberculosis hospital loves old Mr. Brown. The long months that he has been there, he has been a model patient, cheerful, uncomplaining. Many a discouraged younger patient has been helped by his simple kindness and wisdom.

Since he's been up and around he's found plenty to do. He has his round of visits to make to friends who have to stay in bed. He helps with breakfast trays. He likes to tidy up the occupational therapy rooms, and keep the tools and machines in first class shape.

But now he is afraid. The doctor says he will be able to go home soon. The disease in his right lung is healed, and if he takes care, should never break out again. The doctor says he's one of the lucky ones.

Lucky? He'd almost rather be sick and stay in the hospital. He has no home to go to, no job. What is he to do? Sit all day in a little room? Sure, he'll get along on his social security benefits, but there'll be no extras. Maybe enough for a movie once in awhile. Restaurant meals are expensive. Can he manage to cook for himself on a hot plate? But, if he doesn't eat right, he might get sick again. Maybe he'll have to live with relatives who'll take him in because they feel they have to. There's no one left who really cares, back in the old home town.

Are there Mr. Browns and Mrs. Browns in your home town? Too old to get a job, well enough and eager to be useful to someone, but having no one who needs them?

This is a problem that concerns us all, because we will all grow older. What recreation, what activity does your town offer its older citizens? If there's next to nothing but the movies, maybe you can do something about it. Many towns have started clubs and centers where older people can meet and make friends, enjoy old hobbies, develop new skills, and find they can still have a useful place in the community.

There is satisfaction plus for the housewife who can prepare vegetables freshly gathered from the home garden. Tenderness, crispness, added flavor and bright color are some of the compensations, along with food value, for having a home garden.

Thirty-six years ago, says the July Reader's Digest, a Missouri power company paid $8,740 to have a smokestack built. When it had to be torn down recently, the wrecking company's charge was $13,470.

Bell Initiates Message Relay By Radio System, Pikeville To Winchester

Southern Bell is to start transmitting telephone messages over the new Winchester to Pikeville radio relay system this week, perhaps Friday, H. D. Hayes, local manager, said Monday.

He said that the radio relay system will supplement and relieve the present system of transmitting telephone messages. Long distance telephone conversation may travel from tower to tower across the mountains. The microwave signals are strengthened at each tower and sent on their way to the next tower with the speed of light.

Mr. Hayes said that placing the new $543,000 system in operation will result in the addition of 84 new telephone circuits. This means that long distance calls will be completed faster. He said that not only will the calls be completed faster but that the transmission will also be of higher quality.

The radio relay system is easy to maintain and is highly dependable because it will operate in all bad weather conditions. Fast and dependable long-distance service is the end result of placing the new system in operation, Hayes said.

ALL OF US DREAM EVERY NORMAL NIGHT

All of us have some kind of dream in every normal night's sleep, whether we remember it on awakening or not, says the August Reader's Digest. A unique "sleep laboratory" set up in the University of Chicago established that the average person will have three or more dreams in eight hours of sleep. Also, contrary to popular belief, dreams do not "happen in a flash." It takes about as long to dream an action as it would to act out the same thing awake.

Study Reveals Alcoholics Fall In Two Types

By J. COLLIS RINGO
Executive Director, Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism

A study by Dr. J. K. Jackson reported in the June Quarterly Journal of Alcohol Studies offers interesting highlights on drinking patterns of male alcoholics. Dr. Jackson's classification of alcoholics into categories is enlightening. The "steady alcoholic" and the "periodic alcoholic" pursue different drinking patterns with marked differences in behavior.

The "steady alcoholic" may drink daily and excessively for long periods of time without gross drunkenness. He maintains a constant condition, comparable to a normal drinker who has had one or two drinks. He reaches a plateau of slight intoxication and stays there day after day, never completely drunk but never completely sober. He is not belligerent and to a casual observer appears normal. However, he is a compulsive drinker, definitely an alcoholic. The family of a "steady alcoholic" is involved in a crisis situation which gradually and slowly mounts in intensity. Stabilized "steady alcoholics" have an average of 18.6 years before collapse. In the later years the condition is obvious and family and friends, anxious about his drinking, are likely to be cooperative and sympathetic with his efforts to achieve sobriety.

The "periodic alcoholic" follows a pattern of alternating periods of excessive drinking and of abstinence or moderation. He follows a fairly regular time cycle, the length of which is unique to the individual. He may go for weeks or even months of abstinence or normal controlled drinking. Then comes a real bender. He gets grossly drunk, may become belligerent and always is conspicuous. The family of the "periodic alcoholic" experiences one acute crisis after another. It is likely that his family and the alcoholic himself consider his abstinence or moderate drinking between bouts as evidence of his ability to control his drinking. This is not true. The benders are compulsive, increase in intensity and come at more and more frequent intervals. The average time of the "periodic" alcoholic before complete collapse is 17.1 years.

Both these types of alcoholics are sick people. Whether it is a metabolic or psychological illness is not known. At any stage they can be helped. The tragic fact is that both family and friends recognize trouble long before the alcoholic himself has any realization of the abnormality of his drinking pattern. Early recognition, seeking help, can save an alcoholic years of suffering and frustration. If you have an alcoholic problem, write the Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism, Annex, State Office Building, Frankfort.

SPACE TRAVELERS

The first travelers in space may not be able to see where they are going or where they have been, according to an article in the August Readers' Digest. Because our atmosphere absorbs some of the sun's brightness, the "sky" more than 75 miles up is black with an intensity beyond human experience, and sunshine is such a blinding glare that it would make any object it strikes in the space-ship cabin painfully brilliant—perhaps more than the eye could bear. Therefore, it may be necessary to seal the space ship windows and navigate by instruments alone.

Leucious Gibson, 19, son of Mrs. Edda B. Wicker, Mousie, enlisted in the United States Air Force at Ashland, July 11, according to Sgt. Junior Murphy, local air force recruiter.

Airman Gibson had previously spent seven months in the Air Force and was discharged at Gunter Air Force Base, Alabama, in the grade of Airman Third Class. He enlisted as Airman Third Class, the same grade he had when he was discharged.

Airman Gibson's former service was spent as a veterinary specialist, and he was enlisted into the Air Force as a veterinary specialist.

Airman Gibson selected Donaldson Air Force Base, South Carolina as his base of choice and was assigned to the 63rd Troop Carrier Wing at Donaldson. He is married to the former Deanna Martin, of Estill.

A summertime special in Postal Dead Letter Offices, reports the August Reader's Digest, is the large envelope, with no address on it, containing a lady's girdle. When one of these turns up, postal clerks just wait. They know they will soon receive an embarrassed telephone call: "Er... it was a hot day, so I just took it off, and you know—stuck it into a big envelope and then—er—forgot and mailed it with the boss's outgoing stuff."

THE PYRAMIDS AND SPHINX OF EGYPT

For five thousand years the great colossal tombs, called pyramids, have reared their giant bulk from the hot sands of Egypt. There was a pyramid craze period in which ruler tried to excel the other. These huge monuments were the tombs of pharaohs. As soon as a new king came to the throne he ordered his tomb built. Each pyramid had an inner chamber large enough for the king's personal wealth. Sometimes their servants were beheaded and buried with them. This act was based on their belief that the king would rule in the next world, therefore his servants would be needed. These large vaults, once filled with wealth, have long yielded their treasures and their mummies scattered to the four winds. The mummy of Rameses II, King of the Exodus, is now in the museum of antiquity in Cairo, Egypt.

The oldest and largest of the pyramids is the one shown here. It was built by Cheops, one of the pharaohs in history. One hundred thousand slaves toiled under the taskmaster's lash for a period of twenty years to build this structure. It is said to be the greatest of all architectural achievements, from the point of massiveness, and it is the oldest of the world's seven wonders. The base of this pyramid covers thirteen acres of ground. It is 481 feet high, just sixty-nine feet under that of Washington's monument. If it were hollow one could put St. Peter's Church in Rome in it and still not occupy but half the space. The stones in this pyramid are enough to build a wall around France. It stands as a silent reminder of past civilization. "Time mocks all things," says an Arab proverb, "but the pyramid mocks time."

The Sphinx to the ancient Egyptians was the god of horizon. Like a mighty sentinel it was thought to keep watch over the resting place of the dead, and to guard the horizon against a sneak attack from the enemy. The Sphinx was carved from a solid rock in the edge of the Western desert. Its body is that of a lion and the head is the head of King Khafre who ordered the work of making it. Its body is one hundred and seventy two feet long, and sixty feet high. Centuries have come and gone but Sphinx still stands, patient and motionless in the tide of life. If it could but speak, what secrets its lips could reveal! The many storms of war and revolution which it has weathered caused the Arabs to call it the "Father of Terrors."

GOBLE NOTES COST-SHARING

Practices To Emphasize; Second Period Requests To Be Made By Aug. 15

It is time for farmers to place their request for cost-sharing on the second period practices, it was said this week by Elder Goble, office manager of the local Agricultural Stabilization Committee. The second period is from July 1 to Dec. 31.

Goble pointed out that the farm program was emphasizing renovation of permanent pastures and liming this period. A soil test is required before a farmer can perfect his application for practice payment.

The ASC manager asked that soil samples be brought to the local Extension office and not to him as the county agent will want to learn the soil's history before making recommendation for the land.

Farmers will be able to request cost-sharing, not only on reseeded permanent pastures and meadows or liming, but on wells for livestock water, winter cover crops, tile drainage and many other practices.

"Suggested seeding and reseeded dates for pastures and meadows are from August 15 through September 15," Goble said. "Remember our final date for making requests is August 15," he added.

Goble pointed out for the convenience of farmers that office hours were, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The office is closed on Saturday.

Family Medical Care Average Cost In State Is $240.00 Annually

Keeping the farm family healthy takes, on an average, $240 a year per family, says Miss Frances Stallard, University of Kentucky Extension specialist in home management, or did in 1955 when a nation wide survey was made.

Averages spent by all farm families in the United States were: for physicians excluding surgeons, $49; for dentists, $28; for surgeons, $11; for hospitals, $31; for health insurance, $42, and for prescribed drugs, $29.

The total spending for health by U. S. farm families was more than $1.1 billion. About a quarter of the total was paid directly to physicians and surgeons and amounted to $282 million. About $131 million went to dentists, and $150 million directly to hospitals. Farmers paid a total of $200 million for health insurance, $138 million for prescription drugs, $40 million for nonprescribed drugs, and $25 million for vitamin and mineral preparations.

Farmers in the South spent less for health care than farmers in the North and West. Those in the Western Region spent considerably more than those in the Northern and Southern Regions.

About 85 per cent of the farm families interviewed reported buying nonprescribed drugs, such as patent medicines, aspirin, and ointments. More families reported spending for these than for other health-care items. Second in frequency of use by farm families was service of physicians other than surgeons, third prescribed drugs, fourth dentists, and fifth health insurance.

The survey was made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Bureau of Census.

LIVING BETTER ELECTRICALLY Pays Off Every Day — In Less Work, More Free Time, Comfort And Convenience

Tommy finds it hard to study when mom's cooking supper on her electric range.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Smith are school teachers. Their son, Tommy, is a student. All three look forward to evenings and week ends free for hobbies and family companionship.

Mrs. Smith says:

"I'd hate to attempt to keep house, take care of my family and teach without the help I get from my electric appliances. For instance, the electric water heater never gives us any trouble and there's always plenty of hot water for cleaning, bathing and washing. And my range, if it weren't for it, I would have to get up at least an hour earlier to prepare breakfast. It's so fast and dependable."

Mr. Smith says:

"In teaching, Saturday is the only day of the week you can call your own. Our electric appliances help keep this day free. I particularly enjoy the freezer—imagine having fresh fruits and vegetables any time of the year! Considering the time and work all our appliances save us, we think our electric bill is the best buy among all of our living expenses."

Deciding on "what's for supper" is a favorite pastime for Tommy and his father.
