BORN TOO SOON?

Bill Maynard, of Buffalo, last week had an encounter with a fox on U. S. 23, near Knotley Hollow, that has me wondering. He ran his truck over it but the fox apparently crouched in the roadway and was not hit by either wheel. Looking back, Mr. Maynard saw the animal in the road, decided, since no traffic was approaching, to go back and give it closer inspection. When he drew near the fox suddenly lunged at him, nailed him by the trouser-leg and held on for dear life. Maynard was uninjured and he and a passerby pooled their efforts in dispatching Brother Fox. In the several years "back there" when I was one of the fox-hunting gang, we would travel for miles in search of a fox for the dogs to chase, and many nights we found none. Now, since I have settled down to more sedentary pursuits, foxes come a dime a dozen, they're so plentiful. Young foxes have played, of nights, in certain Prestonsburg street and one vixen whelped beneath the floor of a Prestonsburg home.

What I am getting around to wondering about, in view of the change in the fox situation, is this: After I go out of the fishing business, as all men must, will the bass that I can't find now be jumping into fishermen's boats?

YEA, MY COUNTRYMEN!

Verily, it is a tough life, this weekly (weakly) newspaper business. We offer the following letter to THE AMERICAN PRESS from John B. Value, editor of THE NEWS AND SENTINEL, Colebrook, N. H., as proof:

"I took over this paper six months ago. The circulation has gone from 1100 to a steady 1600 but doesn't seem to want to move up. Last week I sold two more subscriptions on bets. I won a wrestling match with our local blacksmith, accounting for one, and beat three Indians (who had four dollars between them) at Indian wrestling for the other. I will not always be this young and vigorous and it is a slow way to gain circulation."

ARSON PROBE BEING MADE

Slone, Williams Fires Saturday Night Result In Posting of Rewards

Arson is suspected in two fires which broke out within a period of 15 minutes last Saturday morning in two places of business, the Sheriff's office said this week. One of the blazes was in the business place and living quarters of Allen Slone at the old Winchester mining camp; the other, the W. B. Williams home near the Dewey Lake Improvement Association building on the road to Dewey Lake, near Lancer.

Both fires were discovered in time to prevent heavy damage. Slone said beer cases soaked with gasoline were placed beneath his building at the side of U. S. 23 and set on fire. He offered a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who started the fire.

Williams also posted a reward of $100 with the Sheriff. He said Kerosene-soaked rags were found at his building. State Police detectives and Sheriff Warrens have been investigating the two fires.

CLEMONS 15th PERSON TO LOSE LIFE IN LAKE

STRATTON BR. BATHING AREA TRAGEDY SPOT

W'wright Youth Drowns In Deep Water Outside Area Allotted Swimmers

Eighteen-year-old Robert Clemons, of Wheelwright, Sunday became the 15th person to be drowned in Dewey Lake.

The youth was drowned in the Stratton Branch arm of the lake where four others have lost their lives. His death was the first this year, and last year's fatality toll was restricted to one.

Young Clemons drowned in water 30 to 35 feet deep, approximately 150 feet from the roped-off area defining the area for bathers at Stratton Branch. It was said that he and a companion, a son of John M. Hall, parked their auto on the highway across the lake from the swimming area, removed their shoes and leaped into the deep water while yet wearing their trousers. Hall swam across toward the swimming area but soon noted his companion had disappeared and spread the alarm.

Joe Day Harkins, lifeguard at Stratton Branch, and Robert Newsome, of Prestonsburg, recovered Clemons on the second attempt, and the victim's heart was still beating when he was removed by the two men from the water, it was said.

BRUCELLOSIS TESTS SLATED

Petitions Are Circulated By Floyd Cattle Owners; Disease Is Costly, Said

Floyd county farmers began petitioning for brucellosis testing this week, it was noted when several interested persons began carrying petitions to others. The state requires that 75% of the cattle owners owning 80% of the cattle must ask for the program.

"The year of 1960 could mark an important milestone in animal disease eradication," it was pointed out in a statement this week by the local Extension office. "An all-out campaign by the Department of Agriculture, all the states and two territories is under way to rid this country of brucellosis, a contagious cattle disease, known as Bang's disease or infectious abortion. Most states have set 1960 as their target date for attaining modified certified brucellosis-free status, having not more than 1 per cent of their cattle and 5 per cent of their herds infected."

STUMBO SETS NEW RULINGS

Entertainment Places Object of Regulations; Warrens Issues Warning

County Judge Henry Stumbo has entered an order rescinding all previous orders governing the operation of places of entertainment and setting new rules for such places.

This done, Sheriff Hershel Warrens announced Tuesday that he proposes to enforce the new regulations "to the letter."

"I hope every owner or operator of such a place reads this and is forewarned, for I do not intend for them to operate in violation of the new regulations," Warrens said.

The new order provides:
1. All places of entertainment other than Grade A restaurants shall close at 12 midnight and remain closed till 4 a.m.
2. Restaurants with a Grade A rating may remain open at all times.
3. No pinball or music machines shall be played, however, in any place of entertainment on Sunday or after midnight and before 6 a.m.
The Stumbo order applies to all places of entertainment outside incorporated towns. "Places of entertainment" is a term applied to restaurants and other places where people gather.

TESTS SLATED FOR FOUR MEN

Polygraph To Be Used As Tragedy Witnesses Testify at Frankfort

Tests designed to determine who is telling the truth about certain angles to the school bus tragedy which last Feb. 28 claimed 27 lives near Lancer were made in Frankfort this morning (Thursday), with four Floyd men submitting to polygraph (lie detector) tests.

Those who will undergo questioning by State Police are Donald L. (Dootney) Horn, Bennie Blackburn, Joe Crum and James Greene. Versions of the events leading up to the tragedy as told by Horn, Crum and Blackburn largely coincided but Greene's differs with them. Mrs. Greene was ill, it was said, and could not make the trip.

Donald L. Horn at noon Wednesday proposed to County Judge Henry Stumbo to have the polygraph brought to his office here at Horn's expense, so that no hardship would be worked on any person wanted for questioning under its "eye." He said he would prefer to pay $200 to $300 than to have the issue remaining in doubt. Judge Stumbo said he proposes to proceed with the Frankfort tests already scheduled, and that while there Horn could inquire about the cost of bringing the polygraph and operator here.

Horn indicated there may be two or three other witnesses heard at the court of inquiry held here who might be invited to submit to the tests if he succeeds in getting the polygraph brought here. (No person can be legally forced to undergo polygraph tests but may be asked or invited to do so, and if they do it is as volunteers.)

JULY FOURTH PLANS MADE

Fireworks and Contests Part Of Local Program Planned by Legion Post

The fireworks display, annually a feature of the Fourth of July celebration here, will be larger than ever this year, it was said by David Leslie, chairman of the observance committee. The fireworks, though, are only one item in a long list planned for public entertainment at the Prestonsburg grade school grounds, Leslie added.

The celebration is sponsored by the American Legion Post No. 129 here and is financed by Prestonsburg businessmen and firms. Wesley Howard, city policeman, will act as master of ceremonies. Dan Goble, Mack Harmon and Jesse Hagewood constitute the finance committee.

Lead off of the festivities on the morning of the Fourth will be opening of free movies at the Strand theatre here at 9:30 for all children up to 12 years. Prizes will be given away at the theatre at a time to be announced later.

Besides free movies there will be free watermelon, square dancing, baseball, greasy pig and greasy pole contests. Scheduled are prizes for the ugliest man and woman, husband calling, hog calling, three-leg races, sack races, singing and whistling, egg and spoon race, tallest man and woman, largest family, horseshoe pitching, marbles, and prettiest baby.

"Prestonsburg cordially invites everybody in Floyd county who can to come and help us celebrate Independence Day," Leslie says. "We assure you it will be a day of entertainment and fun."

Cattle from Wisconsin Added To Dairy Herds Through FFA Efforts

The Maytown Chapter, Future Farmers of America, was responsible for the recent delivery to farmers in that part of the county of 16 dairy heifers, Guernseys and Holsteins, shipped from Wisconsin, Roy R. Denney, vocational agriculture teacher at Maytown high school, said this week.

The calves, ranging in age from 8 to 12 weeks, cost $64.50 each.

HOWARD GETS COUNCIL OK

Officer Re-Instated At Special Meeting; Had Been Suspended

Night Policeman James Wesley Howard was restored to duty, with full pay for time lost, by the City Council last Thursday evening following a hearing on his suspension by Mayor Bill Napier.

The vote to reinstate Howard was unanimous. Council held that he was not guilty of wrongdoing.

The Mayor's order of suspension stated that Howard was to remain off duty two weeks, without pay, and gave as the reason for the officer's suspension "conduct unbecoming an officer."

Council held that the Mayor has authority to suspend no longer than three days, by the end of which period a hearing must be given. Mayor Napier however, was in Washington, D. C., during the hospitalization of his son for an operation, immediately following the suspension, and the Council meeting was called by action instituted by Howard upon Napier's return here.

ADAMS IS OUTSTANDING COMMONWEALTH MANAGER

RAIL CROSSING CRASH COSTS LIVES OF THREE

Three former Floyd countians were instantly killed last Sunday morning when their auto was torn to bits by a speeding passenger train of the New York Central Railway at New London, Ohio.

The dead are: Azzie Hall, 39, New London, O., formerly of Honaker. His son, Edgill Hall, 15. His nephew, Harold Ballard Hall, 15.

It was said that the tragedy occurred at an unmarked railroad crossing as the elder Hall was driving back from a hospital to which he had taken his wife. Mrs. Hall was employed at the hospital. Returning, he picked up his son who had spent the night at the home of Oliver Hall. They were joined by Harold Ballard Hall, son of Oliver.

Speed of the crack passenger train was estimated at 85 miles an hour, relatives of the victims said. The Hall auto was torn to pieces and bodies of some of the occupants were hurled 150 feet, the report received here said.

The Halls left this county about five years ago to work at New London, it was said. Azzie Hall was employed there by the Nickel Plate Railway Company.

Azzie Hall was a son of Robert Hall, of Harold, and the late Rebecca Harvey Hall. His survivors include his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Hunter Hall, four sons

FOREST FIRES ON INCREASE

Suspension Costs Paid By Collins and Shepherd; Less Acreage Is Burned

Two Floyd countians who this month paid the cost of woodland fires which members of their families caused to spread brought to 13 the number of such settlements for firefighting costs or convictions for setting fires since the fire season began this spring.

In announcing these figures Forest Ranger, Roe Turner, of Drift, said that there have been more fires this season than last but that the acreage burned over is less.

He attributed the confining of forest fires to small areas to prompt reporting of such blazes. "The educational program carried on has done a lot, but one of the biggest helps has been the reforestation program that has gained big headway in the county," he said. The ranger pointed out that when a landowner has planted young trees and sees them threatened by fire he wastes no time in calling for help to protect them.

The two who paid suppression costs this month without court action are: Ballard Collins, who paid $8.35 for the cost of suppressing a blaze started by his daughter, and John Shepherd, $11.50 for a fire started by his son. The first fire burned over an area of six acres; the other, 25 acres.

JULY 6th SET FOR FISH FRY

Marksmanship, Casting Are In Plans For Day; Laban Jackson To Speak

A hometown expert with shotgun and rifle, a champion fly and bait-caster, a water show designed not only to entertain but also to emphasize safety precautions that may save lives in the future—these are three of many items in the day-long program planned for the 12th annual fish fry of the Floyd County Fish & Game Club, Sunday, July 6.

The fish fry, which annually attracts huge crowds, will be held for the second consecutive year at Dewey Lake State Park, it was announced this week by Arnold Workman, president of the club.

In addition to the shooting, casting and water safety demonstration, Laban Jackson, commissioner of the State Department of Conservation, will be featured as the speaker of the day. Mr. Jackson in addresses over the state has consistently stressed conservation of the state's natural resources, and his argument for reforestation in Eastern Kentucky is of particular interest to residents of this county.

Contests will include bait-casting and a coon drag, the latter sponsored by the Floyd Coon Hunters Association.

FLOOD'S TOLL CUT $350,000

Engineers Say Damage On River Mostly Saved By Floyd County Dam

Dewey reservoir played a big part in protection of communities below the mouth of Johns Creek, this county, during the May 7-11 flood, the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers said recently. Flood protection benefits to developments along the lower reaches of the Big Sandy River and along the Ohio River resulted from operation of Corps of Engineers' projects.

Flood stage reductions along Big Sandy from the mouth of Johns Creek to Louisa resulted in benefits of $350,000 with the largest portion of these benefits occurring at Paintsville where a 2.3 foot reduction in stage resulted in savings of $230,000.

If the authorized flood control reservoirs at Fishtrap, Pound and Hays had been in operation, flood damages from the head of Big Sandy at Millard to Johns Creek would have been largely eliminated and the remaining damages from Johns Creek to Louisa would have been greatly reduced.

Emergency flood protection work at Prestonsburg, were a backwater protection project is under construction, resulted in a 0.7 foot reduction of the water stage in the business area of town below the crest river stage. This reduction was at a critical range of flooding, and widespread flooding above first-floor levels was prevented. It is estimated that damages that would have reached a $95,000 total under natural conditions were reduced to $40,000.

Benefits estimated at $70,000 resulted from a combination of headwater flow reductions by Dewey Reservoir and a reduction of Ohio River backwater effects by other upstream flood control reservoirs.

Along the Ohio River from the tri-state area of Ceredo and Kenova, West Virginia, and Catlettsburg, Kentucky, to the lower limits of Huntington District at river mile 438 near Neville, Ohio, flood control reservoirs of the Huntington and Pittsburgh Districts prevented an estimated $5,420,000 in damages. In this same reach an additional amount of damages of $930,000 were prevented by the local protection projects at Ceredo-Kenova, West Virginia, Ashland, Kentucky, Russell, Kentucky, Ironton, Ohio, Portsmouth - New Boston, Ohio, and Maysville, Kentucky.

WRIT ALLEGES RAPE ESSAYED

Drift Miner Is Accused Of Attack on Daughter; Deputies in Rum Raids

James Posten, Drift miner, was accused in a warrant sworn out by his wife with the attempted rape of his 10-year-old daughter.

Posten, a man of about 35, had not been arrested as of Wednesday morning, the Sheriff's office said. He fled his home when reportedly surprised by Mrs. Posten as he was attacking the screaming child.

Mrs. Posten told neighbors he threatened to kill her if she "called the law." The man was seen, the following day, on a hillside overlooking Drift.

Sheriff's deputies last Friday arrested Bennie Blackburn when 11 cases of beer were found on his premises at the scene of the Feb. 28 school bus tragedy. Sheriff Hershel Warrens said it was the third time Blackburn has been successfully raided since he took office last January.

On the same day Travis Cooley was raided in the vicinity of Sugar Lief and 46 cans of beer and a half-gallon of moonshine whiskey were confiscated.

2 RESERVOIRS ON BIG SANDY GET $290,000

Senate Okeh of Action Expected; Buckhorn Job Ready for Earthen Fill

Passed by the House of Representatives last Thursday and sent to the Senate for approval was the big rivers and harbors bill containing $51,869,200 for Kentucky and providing either construction or planning funds for three Eastern Kentucky projects.

The flood-ravaged Big Sandy valley drew most hope for an appropriation of $140,000 voted to begin advanced engineering on the Fishtrap reservoir and $150,000 to continue studies already begun on the Pound reservoir. Both dams, when and if completed, will serve to control Big Sandy river floods.

Fishtrap is a project which will cost an estimated $37,000,000. It was said that advanced engineering may take two to three years, with construction possible in 1960. But before that date funds for construction costs must be appropriated.

An additional $4,500,000 was voted for construction of the Buckhorn dam, a Kentucky river flood control project which already is well under way. The Buckhorn control tower and other concrete structures already have been completed. Next work to be done is a 165-foot-high earthen fill.

The daughter of Adolphus and Josephine Hall Parson, she was born May 6, 1887, in Floyd county. She had made her home at West Van Lear for the past two years and was a member of the Church of Christ. She and Mr. Adkins were married April 5, 1904, at Honaker.

Fairchild, Mrs. Brown Lee Hoskins, and Mrs. Everett Booth, all of West Van Lear; Mrs. Delbert McKenzie, Laureville, Ohio; one son, Oscar Adkins, White House; three brothers, Sant Parson, of Honaker; Henry Parson, of Betsy Layne; H. (Continued from Page One)

the tragedy drew nearer conclusion of its work Tuesday when a survivor of the tragedy was questioned. The witness, Darwin Goble, told of sitting about midway the bus and of seeing Horn's wrecker-truck ahead. He said it appeared to have stopped. He added that he noticed little else until the moment of impact.

Goble did say he did not see anybody standing at the truck of Banner Burchett which was across the ditch-line at the upper side of the highway and which was the reason for Horn's wrecker being at the scene.

Asked by Judge Stumbo if he knows the cause of the crash, young Goble said he does not.

Judge Stumbo said he has not closed the court of inquiry but that he does not know at this time of any other witnesses to be heard.

Goble; publicity, Norman Allen, chairman, Rex Osborne and Ollie Robinson.

Almost all of the several who spoke briefly commented on the enthusiasm of those who have trained themselves for the work of life-saving and meeting emergencies such as this county has faced in recent years. "Give us the equipment, and we will do the work," the members of the squad say.

The squad is being patterned after the Greenville, Tenn., group which came here with others to help in searching the river for bodies of bus victims. "To those fellows this work of helping in time of emergency—any emergency, from a missing child to a child's cat in a well—has become a way of life for them," Mr. Neeley told the group meeting here. And that spirit is what the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad has its sights set on, it was indicated.

Next meeting of the directors of the organization has been scheduled the second Friday in August at the same place, 6:30 p.m.

Directors attending the meeting were Minor Pace, Burl Spurlock, Marvin Music, J. R. Camicia, Mayor Bill Napier of Prestonsburg, H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., Norman Allen, the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, County Judge Henry Stumbo, Graham Burchett, Winston Ford, James B. Goble.

Members of the squad attending were William O. Goebel, Sr., Don Sullivan, Homer Neeley, Jr., the Rev. M. Robert Regan, Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill, Joe Hall, of Prestonsburg, was a visitor.

HAYES TALK MINES' NEEDS

Tells Truckers Group Hope of Industry Lies In Mine Mechanization

Mechanization is seen as the salvation of the coal truck mining industry by Arlie E. Hayes, Hi Hat, president of one of Eastern Kentucky's largest metal fabricating plants.

Hayes discussed problems facing the coal truck mining industry at a meeting of the Huntington Truckers Association, which was held at the Frederick Hotel, Huntington, Monday evening, last week.

He said that the large rail mines, with modern mining machinery, are now producing 35 to 40 tons to coal per man per day, and are looking forward to production, with even better machinery, of 85 to 100 tons per man per day. He compared this with present average truck mine production of 10 to 15 tons per man per day.

"Unless truck mines can match or approach the per man coal production of the large mechanized mines, they cannot survive in the present highly competitive coal market," Hayes said.

The type of equipment necessary to increase truck mine per man production, was described by Hayes as being "smaller mining machinery approaching the efficiency of that presently on the market for large mines, but manufactured at a cost within the grasp of the small truck mine operators."

Hayes pointed out that truck mines in Eastern Kentucky alone added $100,000,000 to the economy, but that truck mining was on the decline, and would continue to do so unless the type of remedial action suggested was taken.

Mr. Hayes, president of Hayes Metal Products, Inc., which has been mostly engaged in truck body fabrication, said that his own firm had done considerable research in the development of mining machinery which would meet the needs of the small truck mine operators. Part of his equipment is now on the market, but he pointed out that further research in this field is necessary.

How May They Escape Such a Heritage?

Giving delegates to the annual session of Girls State in Frankfort last week some fatherly advice, Governor Chandler said:

"Don't inherit the quarrels of your parents, especially their political quarrels."

We think we know the thought the Governor intended to convey to the girls. We think he intended to say, "Be people of goodwill; leave the fighting among themselves to others, and keep your lives free of the petty hatreds that clutter up a lot of lives."

We do not think he was realistic when he said (if he was quoted correctly), "Don't inherit the quarrels of your parents, especially their political quarrels." For there is no way for youth to escape the odious, crippling legacy of such quarrels, no matter how earnestly they may try to escape them.

There were parents in the General Assembly at the last session, for instance, who because of political quarrels voted against legislation that would have been beneficial to these same girls in the years to come; or who supported bills that will be harmful to them.

In Floyd county, to get nearer home, the political enmities that prevent right thinking and paralyze the impulse to do the right thing—simply because to do so might redound to the credit of a foe—are influences that youth cannot escape. Officials have been known to refuse to cooperate in a work for the common good, simply because they do not happen to like each other and prefer to brandish the tomahawk.

Is the taxpayer, the homeowner, the school child considered—and does any one of them escape the dark heritage of hatred and vengefulness when any official forgets duty for revenge?

Yes, the political quarrels live and thrive. And so it is that youth as well as the ordinary citizen of whatever age inherits them as fully and destructively as if they themselves were beyond their depth in prejudice and actively feuding with others.

The only way the girls and boys of this state will ever escape the legacy of political quarrels is for their elders to act their age, be adult and think of the heritage they will leave to youth rather than of evening the score with a few individual enemies.

Hillbilly Siler Speaks Out

It remained for a Kentucky mountaineer, Congressman Eugene Siler, to make the most forthright statement uttered by any Republican leader in this state as to the sad case of Sherman Adams, the Presidential assistant who no longer is like Caesar's wife, sans peur, sans reproche.

While Senators Morton and Cooper demurred Congressman Siler said that, if the Adams case were left to him, he would say, "Thank you, Governor Adams. Good luck as you return to private life."

"If," continued Congressman Siler, "the day should ever arrive when I cannot pay my hotel bill or buy my own winter coat, then I will step out of government service and live the life of a Kentucky hillbilly as I've lived it before."

Eugene Siler knew, as most know and will admit, that Sherman Adams is guilty of an "indiscretion" which, when other men were guilty of the same thing, was in the eyes of Sherman Adams a sin against the body politic. He knew a call from him, the President's assistant, the No. 2 man in the White House, to any group investigating his friend, Goldfine, would have great effect on the probers, even if he did no more than inquire if Goldfine was under investigation.

Governor Adams knew, too, that he was not a mere Congressman representing, primarily, the people of one district but was the strong arm of the President the United States, and consequently that he represented all the people of the United States, including Dwight Eisenhower himself.

We think Governor Adams was wrong; that Eugene Siler is right.

cats with shotgun and rifle re-galed last year's fish fry crowd. He apably fills the shoes of such reat marksmen as Rusty Reed and he Topperweins, those who saw us 1957 performance say.

Russ Smith, who has defeated all top-notch professionals in competition, will stage the fly and bait-asting exhibition. A former fishing editor of THE OUTDOORS-MAN, he uses ordinary tackle in an amazing demonstration similar to that he has given on television shows.

The water show will emphasize the Do's and Don't's of boating, with performers actually showing the mistakes which cost lives. Awarding of grand prizes will be a concluding feature of the day.

A revival meeting will begin June 29 and continue indefinitely at the Full Gospel Tabernacle, West Prestonsburg, it was announced this week by the Rev. G. R. Pannin.

The meeting has been timed with the miners' vacation period and all of the vacationing miners, as well as all others, are invited to spend your vacation in a revival meeting. Among the many ministers who are expected to participate in these services are Rev. Elmo Fannin, Nolen, W. Va., Rev. Jimmie Davis, Williamson, W. Va., Rev. Bishop Custer, Lawrence county, Ky., Rev. Mrs. Opal Newsom and her young daughter, of Hi Hat, Ky. and also local ministers.

The revival will be held in cooperation with other churches.

Artificial respiration was promptly administered by Dr. J. C. Preston, of Pikeville, but this and all other efforts to revive Clemons failed. The tragedy occurred about 2 p.m. Wayne Stumbo, Dewey Lake Park manager, said in his report that the mother of the victim had been quoted as saying her son could not swim.

Another of these out-of-context stories, and for this one I am indebted to Bob May who heard a New York newspaperman in a college commencement address tell of his conversation with his pastor. As the two drove along, the speaker said, the minister complained of newspapermen, their pillorying of people, their acting as pundits and generally making a nuisance of themselves. The newspaperman pinned down the other about specific cases, and the minister told him, "Go home, read Luke 19:3 and you will learn about the cruel press."

This chapter has to do with Zacchaeus, the little fellow. The verse reads, in part: "And he sought to see Jesus who he was; and could not for the press . . ."

FRANKFURT, GERMANY—Army Sgt. Charles C. Rowe, son of the Rev. Charlie Rowe, 208 N. Lake Dr., Prestonsburg, Ky., recently returned to Germany after participating in a concert tour in Holland with the 3rd Armored Division Band.

Sergeant Rowe entered the Army in 1949 and was last stationed in Korea.

The 26-year-old soldier attended Prestonsburg high school. He was employed by Grimm Meat Company in civilian life. His wife, Amalia, is with him in Germany.

Time Capsule
To Be Placed
In Cornerstone

Frankfort, June 23 (Spl.) — The new amphitheater to be constructed this summer at My Old Kentucky Home, Bardstovon, will have a cornerstone in which a time capsule will be placed with instructions that it not be unsealed for 100 years.

Many items of interest will be sealed in the capsule, including messages from the President of the United States, Gov. A. B. Chandler, Stephen Foster's family, John Rowan's family, and even the complete list of first graders in Nelson County public schools during the past school year.

Messages have also been received by the Stephen Foster Drama Association of Bardstovon from the World Council of Churches, the International Jewish Congress, and high officials of the Catholic Church.

One of the special items to be included is the speech of Rep. Frank Chelf before the House in Washington in support of the original lyrics of Stephen Foster's song. Chelf's speech was given at the time of controversy concerning change of lyrics to substitute words.

The cornerstone-laying ceremonies, in which Governor Chandler and Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield will participate, will begin at 3 p.m., July 4, at My Old Kentucky Home, with music furnished by the Ft. Knox band. Stephen Foster's niece and John Rowan's great-great-granddaughter will be among guests who will have a part in the ceremonies.

A new oil painting of My Old Kentucky Home will be unveiled for the first time. It was commissioned by Robert Hensley, of Louisville, and is considered to be the finest painting of the Home to date. The artist, Haddon Sundblom, of Chicago, will also be present. The public is invited.

Some of the Indian tribes hunting in the Big Sandy area until 1795 were: Creeks, Choctaws, and Cherokees from the South and Miami, Shawnees, Delawares, Wyandottes and Illinois from the north.

State Aids In Dental Services
For Children

Frankfort, June 23 (Spl.) — The state is helping maintain in each Kentucky community dental facilities for underprivileged school children.

The program is conducted by the Division of Dental Health and other units of the Kentucky Department of Health.

Forty-six of Kentucky's counties have the necessary dental equipment in local health departments. In 54 counties, local dentists are holding clinics for the children in their offices. In counties which have no dentists, mobile dental units supply the services.

The program is financed through county health departments. The State supplies part of the funds, which are augmented by civic and philanthropic groups.

The program is organized at the county level. Local dentists, school officials and teachers are consulted and schedules are arranged. Arrangements are made for publicity and civic groups are organized so that they may supply voluntary assistance. An estimate is made of the number of children to be served. A State dental hygienist aids in the program. The method of determining eligibility for indigent care is left to local groups.

The primary objective of the division's services for all elementary school children is to educate the child as well as the parent upon the value of a healthy oral condition.

There are four principal topics in dental health education: flouridation of community water supplies, proper diet, proper home care and dental care with emphasis upon visiting the dentist or dental clinic.

The 1956-57 fiscal year was the first in which some form of dental health activity was carried on in all 120 counties in the Commonwealth.

The Hart county team won second awards in the 29-county contest with honorable mention given Pulaski, Graves, Knott, and Johnson counties.

Members of the Perry county team are:

'Wilderness Road'
Begins Run, June 28

The cast this year, with four minor exceptions, is the same which made the third year production a success. Persons portraying the three main characters, Elsie Sims, John and Davie Freeman, are returning — Davie for the fourth season.

Staged in open air Indian Fort Theater each night except Sundays until August 30, the drama recalls War-Between-the-States days in Eastern Kentucky. It is history in the raw, showing the wilderness road traveled in ignorance and misunderstanding, through a war which divided families and loved ones.

Berea offers more to visitors than the dramatic production. Motel and hotel accommodations are modern and reasonably priced.

The area around Berea is particularly scenic and historical. A thrift package is available to youth groups.

The Kentucky Historical Society now has on display in its museum the tailor-made coat and other clothes Gov. William Goebel was wearing that fateful day, Jan. 30, 1900, when an unknown assassin murdered him. The coat shows that the bullet entered just over the right breast and came out to the left of the spine.

The Society also has in its extensive archives a contract between Frankfort photographer E. Carl Woff and Justus Goebel, dated March 3, 1900, in which Woff transferred to the governor's brother four negatives and all prints from those negatives which he made of the governor. Some of these prints are in the Society's excellent picture collection.

Two of these photographs are especially interesting as they may show Governor Goebel in the very suit which he was wearing the day he was assassinated. When the tailor-made coat in both pictures is compared with the one on display, the coats appear to be the same. The cut of the coat, the pockets, the seams, the buttons—they are in each case identical. Only the stripes are in slight variance. Those in the two photographs appear to be wider than those on the coat.

William Goebel was born in 1856 in Carbondale, Pa., the eldest of four children of a cabinet-maker. The family moved to Covington, Ky., in 1863.

Young Goebel was a promising young man. After graduating from law school in 1877, he practiced law independently and in partnership with both John G. Carlisle and Gov. John W. Stephenson.

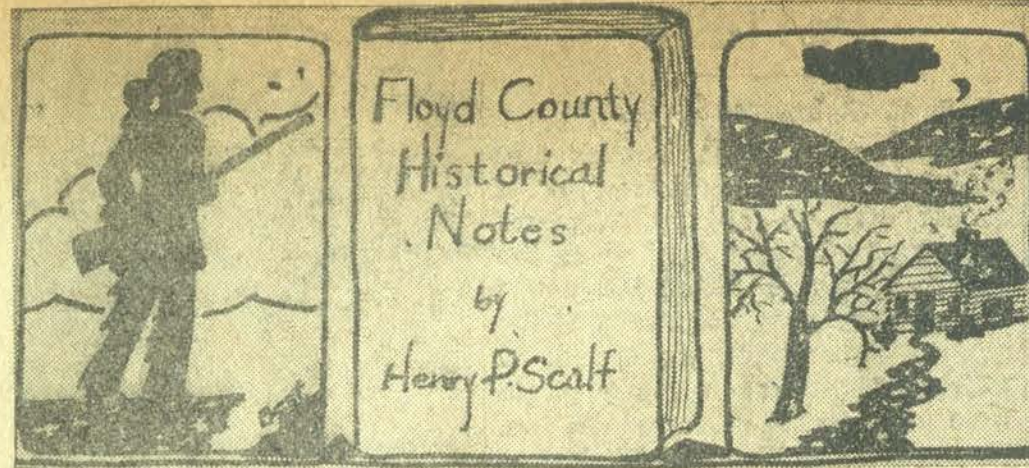

Goebel's political career began in 1887 when he entered the Kentucky Senate, to which he was elected to four terms in succession until his nomination for governor in 1899.

The Republican candidate, William S. Taylor, apparently defeated the Democrat, Goebel, by a small margin, but by the day upon which Goebel was shot, it had become apparent that Goebel and the Democrats were on the verge of reversing the election by political maneuverings in the Kentucky Legislature.

Goebel was shot from the Secretary of State's office by a single rifle shot. He died four days later. No one knows to this day with absolute certainty who killed Governor Goebel.

JORDAN CLAY

We are indebted to a copy of the Louisville Herald-Post, of 1936, for the brief data on the Clay family. It was given in an inquiry as to the father of Jordan Clay. This family has many relatives in Floyd and Johnson counties.

The excerpt from "Kentucky Kin-folks," by J. Emerson Miller, follows:

"Jordan Clay, the father of Matthew Clay, was married in Halifax county, Va., May 5, 1796, to Mary Carter. Was a soldier in the War of 1812. Born in Virginia 1777. Died in 1856 or 1857. Was living in Lawrence county, Ky., in 1850-55. Jordan Clay and his wife, Mary Carter, had the following children: Matthew, married 1st. Mary Butler, 2nd. Lucinda Sturgill; Peter, married Patsy Clay; Elizabeth, married William Ball; Sarah, married James Morrison; Polly, married James Williamson; Caleb, married Zilpah Akers; Nancy, married Sam Harris; Jenny, never married; James, married Malenda Akers.

"The children of Matthew Clay were Rosa, Nathan, Anna, Thompson, Judith, Rebecca, Milton, John Akers, Henry and Green."

DIG SANDY STEAMBOATS

From "The River," a column by Jim Wallen, in the June 1 issue of the Huntington (W. Va.) Herald-Advertiser, we glean the following:

"A review of the colorful era of steamboating on the Big Sandy, that closed with the early years of the present century, is being planned for this year's meeting of the Sons and Daughters of Pioneer Rivermen, to be held at Marietta, O., possibly on September 6.

"If this phase of the program materializes as planned, the talks of Big Sandy boating would be given by Capt. Jesse P. Hughes of Cincinnati, who knew this stream when it carried many steamboats, and Bob Kennedy of Kenova, a writer whose research in recent years has brought forth numerous stories and photographs of the boats and men that navigated 'up Sandy.'"

"Capt. Hughes, who is not only an enjoyable speaker but also a writer and artist of note, retired a few years ago as vice-president of the Greene Line steamers, but still makes an occasional river trip. Capt. Hughes and his family were residents of Catlettsburg for many years, and subsequently moved to Huntington after Capt. Hughes was manager of the former Greene Terminal at the foot of Tenth Street here. He was on one of the last of the goodsized sternwheelers that ran up Big Sandy, the steamer Cricket, which made trips from Catlettsburg up to Louisa, Prestonsburg, Pikeville, and Paintsville in the springs of 1901, '02 '03 and '04.

"Mr. Kennedy, a river employee of the Ashland Oil & Refining Co., has been engaging in some highly successful research that added much to the history of steamboating on the Big Sandy and its two principal tributaries. His findings are often authenticated with records and photographs of many decades ago. During the past year or so, some of his material has been published in the Waterways Journal and he has also made contributions to the steamboat section of the Campus Martius Museum at Marietta.

"Final arrangements for the program are now in the hands of Capt. Fredrick Way of Sewickley, Pa., president of the Sons and Daughters of Pioneer Rivermen."

THE CLINE FAMILY

Some time before the year 1800, probably 1794 or 1795 Peter Cline, a German, from Montgomery county, Va., entered the wilds of Tug River valley and built a cabin home on what is now called Peter Creek, Pike county, Kentucky. He returned to Virginia but the creek was named for him by later residents who knew of Cline's first attempt to settle. We do not know why he deserted Peter Creek and went back east.

In 1802 Peter Cline returned to Tug River and built another home just below the mouth of Peter Creek on the West Virginia side. That was Virginia then. He lived out his days in the fastnesses of the wilderness there after rearing four sons and two daughters. The Clines of Pike and Floyd are descendants of this Montgomery county immigrant.

Sons were Michael, married Hinkle; Jacob, married Fuller; William, married Weddington, all the brides being Kentuckians, Peter Cline, Jr., married Mary Smith, daughter of Thomas Trent, of Horsepen Creek, now Logan county, West Virginia. Peter, Jr., lived until 1893 and died on Gilbert's Creek, W. Va., at the reputed age of 100 or older. If genealogists are not confused Peter Cline, the pioneer, had a daughter, Margaret who married David Mounts, a young settler of the Tug section who had followed Cline to the valley. He was believed to be Portuguese, the name originally spelled Mountz.

Peter Cline, who settled on Johns Creek, in the late 1880's fits into this family tree somewhere, the exact position unknown. He may have been a son of William and grandson of Peter Cline, Sr. He was born on the West Virginia side of the river and married Betty McCoy. Feud trouble between the Hatfields and McCoy's drove him out. He settled at the mouth of Buffalo Creek, near where the postoffice of German was established years later.

Peter Cline, the Floyd settler, was a Union veteran, and survived battles and guerrillas to lose a leg at Georges Creek when a raft rope cut it off. He was handicapped with a wooden leg the rest of his life.

He loved to tell stories of his Civil War experiences, of how the rebels chased him one time while at home. There was a snow on the ground, he was wont to recall, and seeing the rebels about the time they saw him there was a merry chase through the woods. Cline ran into another man's trail, started planting his own feet in the man's tracks and followed this tactic for some distance. Nearing a log he jumped it and took off on another course through the woods. His pursuers came to the log, didn't notice that Cline had side-tracked, and continued on the trail of the unknown man.

The rebels avowed to Cline's wife that they had intercepted and hanged her husband but the wily Unionist turned up in a few days when he thought it safe and refuted their brutal news.

Alcoholism Has More Victims Than Other Ills

By J. Collis Ringo,
Executive Director
Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism

Dr. Seldon D. Bacon is head of the Yale University Center of Alcohol Studies. The following is a digest of certain facts from Dr. Bacon's article, "New Light on Alcoholism."

Alcoholism has more direct victims and more indirect victims, injures the structure of society, and entails enormously greater costs than most other ills which receive concerted attacks from voluntary groups, foundations and government. It is more injurious than most of these other ills combined.

Yet attacks upon alcoholism receive no support. Other major health problems are at least respectable. We do not laugh about polio victims nor curse nor jail the sufferer from tuberculosis (unless he is also a drunkard). Alcoholism is usually hidden, denied, derided or mislabeled. Alcoholism, primarily a deviation from the social norm, is a phenomena which varies with different societies. Differences will appear in physical symptoms, emotional involvements and in behavior patterns.

Why do they do it? This question has been asked for centuries. Weak character, the existence of beverage alcohol, personality problems, and organic weakness or difference, increasing social pressures and tensions are suggested causes. But under careful testing none stands up as the cause. In the United States, which has the second highest rate of alcoholism (France is first) more than 90 per cent of drinkers do not become alcoholics. No organic differences (prior to their alcoholism) have ever been found. It cannot be shown that "the tensions of modern living" were greatly different in the one drinker who became alcoholic and the 14 or 15 who did not. Researchers agree that no one single cause is a tenable theory.

Along with greater knowledge, sounder attitudes about alcoholism are developing. Schools, some church groups, many industries are examining the problem factually. Prejudice is being placed by understanding. The success and popular appeal of Alcoholics Anonymous have been striking. The development of alcoholism clinics, increased interest by the American Medical Association, by Public Health Service and World Health Organization give hope that something can be done, that the problem is closer to eventual solution.

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST? You know, when you stop to figure how much your phone service actually costs, it's pretty cheap... only a few cents a day. Add on the taxes, though, and look what happens. Last year you paid (on the average) about $35.17 in telephone taxes. Of this, $9.96 was federal excise tax. This 10 per cent so-called luxury tax, levied as a wartime emergency measure, is a direct tax on the telephone user, and telephone service is the only household utility so taxed. We feel sure you will agree that this tax is discriminatory and should be abolished.

DADDY ALWAYS CALLS when he's out of town! When you're knee-high to a grasshopper, it's a mighty big thrill to hear daddy's big, happy voice tell his baby-lamb all the things that make her feel protected, cherished, loved. Keeping families close is just one of the nice things about Long Distance. Other nice things: it's fast, easy to use, low in cost. And remember, on all Long Distance calls: it's faster when you call by number; it's cheaper when you call station-to-station; and you get special bargain rates after 6 P.M. and all day Sunday.

MORE VOICES UNDER THE SEA. The transatlantic telephone cable completed last year between North America and Great Britain is about to have a mate. Because this first cable has been so busy and its use increased so much, another is planned for completion in 1960. The second cable, though, will bypass England and link us directly with Europe. It will be 2,400 miles long, and after it is completed will mean 36 more people can talk to Europe at the same time. Just as easy as making a long distance call right here at home. It's this kind of planning for progress that keeps telephone service growing to meet your needs—to call across the street or across the ocean.

New Statutes Are Published

Frankfort, June 23 (Spl.) — The same day most of the laws enacted by the 1958 Kentucky General Assembly went into effect—June 19 — the 1958 Kentucky Revised Statutes containing these laws were available for distribution.

This marks the first time in history that the KRS covering the new laws were ready at the same time the laws became effective, said Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield, chairman and director of the Kentucky Legislative Research Commission, which publishes the Kentucky Revised Statutes.

Anyone who already has an official set of the statutes may bring it up to date with new replacement chapters. Complete new statute books are also available, the lieutenant governor said. Both the replacement parts and new sets are available at cost from the commission.

Some of the laws enacted by the recent legislature do not become effective until a later date. Chief among these are the Uniform Commercial Code, effective in 1960, and certain provisions of the motor vehicle registration law and the state's new truck tax law, which become effective in 1959. The commission will distribute KRS chapters pertaining to "delayed effective" legislation at a later date.

Emergency chapters containing legislation which became effective immediately were distributed last April.

SPORTS CHATTER

By GORDON MOORE

Prestonsburg high school is rapidly gaining state-wide attention as the grave-yard for good basketball coaches. Last week's switch of Coach Jack F. Wells to Auxier after a highly successful season is a case in point.

Wells was instrumental in reviving a dead sport in Prestonsburg, a sport which has been dormant since football grabbed the limelight in recent years.

Helping Others Prevented Owens Acquiring Wealth

The great Negro Olympic sprinter of the 1930's, Jesse Owens, could be a wealthy man if he wanted to make money, reports an article in the July Reader's Digest. But he hasn't the time; he is too busy helping several thousand slum youngsters in their struggle for a better life. And his reward is the affection of all Chicago.

In the article, "The Solid Gold Champion," Carl Wall writes that during the past nine years, not one member of his South Side Boy's Club has been in serious trouble with the law. Jesse Owens has helped hundreds of them get spare-time and vacation jobs which often meant the difference in eating and not eating. He has talked fathers out of spending their paychecks on liquor, talked parents out of divorce. He has rolled out of bed on wintry nights when one of his Boy's Club members was arrested. Magistrates have given many a boy a second chance because of his eloquent appeal.

Jesse Owen's own life proves to the youngsters they don't need money or "the breaks" to get ahead. The seventh child in an Alabama sharecropper's family of 11, Jesse has been so hungry that potato peelings tasted good. After the family moved north to Cleveland, he got a job in a shoe-repair shop, and shined shoes from the sixth grade through high school.

He tells his boys today: "Nobody sneered at me because I shined shoes, or because I was a Negro. The kids elected me president of the Student Council. Don't carry a chip on your shoulder because your skin happens to be black."

He ran a freight elevator, worked in a gas station and was a page in the Ohio House of Representatives to pay his way through Ohio State University. It took him eight years of rugged training to get a place on the Olympic team.

The toughest kids tell their problems to Jesse, and he listens—and helps. "My experience," he says, "has been that very few youngsters are really bad; others can be saved by adults. Many ambitious youngsters are willing to work desperately to get themselves out of an environment created by their parents; a few friendly words at the right time may make the difference—like a starting block for a sprinter."

NOTICE TO DRIVERS OF CARS

Last week I made an effort to state what was necessary under the new law relating to operator's licenses: You must get your license in this county where you live and if you go to another county other than your residence, it is a heavy fine, punishable by fine and imprisonment in the county jail.

The renewal license issued this year will expire on your birth month in 1960, and each two years thereafter.

Those to be issued next year will expire on your birth month in 1961 and all renewals thereafter will expire within two years. After 1959 there will be no A to K and L through Z. Your birth month will be your guide. There has been in the past a lot of people living in this county and going to other counties to secure their license and no doubt many coming to this county for the same purpose, which is a violation as above stated. Renew early and avoid the rush. I will have someone at Wheelwright and other places in the county during the month of July for your convenience. Your cooperation in all matters pertaining to the issue of renewals of licenses will be appreciated.
