

THURSDAY

This Town— That World

To write a column on your empty-umph birthday, and it the day after the election, at that, is just a little too much. But if the reader can stand it, I suppose I can.

VIA SALT RIVER SPECIAL

First off, I admit that I have just finished espousing one of the losingest causes I've taken a shine to in many a day—namely, the courthouse bond issue.

Oh, brother! did they slay us! But I still feel that it was a just cause. My interest wasn't in a bright, shiny, new edifice. I can stand a lot of the old and the unbecoming and so on, if it will save me some of the dollars that are so slippery these days. But I cannot, believing as I do that the courthouse is unsafe and that it constitutes an unpredictable threat to human life, get away from the spectre of another tragedy such as we all suffered from in the school bus disaster.

Still, I can see the objections of the great majority of the voters, and I cling to the theory that the choice of the people is to be respected. It was good to know that nobody attempted to "count the courthouse issue in;" the votes were counted as cast, as they should always be. I know that many are without roads, that folks can see so many improvements needed in their own communities that they wonder why they should tax themselves to build a new courthouse when we already have one. They have their points, and nobody knows it better than I.

Yet I feel, as I take my annual trip up a Salt River that is becoming more and more real and less and less mythical, that I wasn't as wrong as all those "No" votes would indicate.

ELECTION AFTERTHOUGHTS

A few of my Republican friends hereabouts have decided, after scanning the national election returns, that maybe they oughta go to New York. . . . You know, the good, old days are gone, and you may lay to that. When two millionaires can run for office and one of them get elected, things have changed for sure. . . . But (See Story No. 1, Page 5)

TALK BUDGET OF $81,134.00 FOR P'BURG

Marathon Council Meet Attended by Discussion; Friday Meeting Slated

A proposed budget of $81,134, awarding of a street-paving contract, discussion of new plant plans and discussion of Mayor Napier's appointment of a new member of the City Utilities Commission—these consumed four hours for a marathon City Council session Monday evening.

Most controversial part of the meeting came when the appointment of George T. Roberts to the Utilities Commission to succeed Russell Hagewood was brought up for discussion. Adjournment broke up the running fire of comment.

Comment by three members of the Council on the appointment did not reflect on the choice of Mr. Roberts for the Commission but did question the making of the appointment and induction of the new member outside of a Council meeting and in privacy.

Pointing out that he is authorized to make such an appointment Mayor Napier explained that the new appointment was made to "give the people a representative," since the other two members represent each of the Prestonsburg banks.

WEEK'S RAIDS NETS 3 MEN

Joseph, Stamper Arrested, Intoxicant Confiscated North of Prestonsburg

Five raids made by Sheriff's deputies within the week resulted in the confiscation of intoxicants at four places in this county and the jailing of three men.

Biggest haul was made Monday by Deputy Sheriffs Joe W. Lewis, Lonnie Herald and George Hall, Jr., with the assistance of State Trooper Paul Fraim. They arrested Kermit Joseph and Damon Stamper at the junction of the Abbott Road and US 23 and seized 120 half-pints of whiskey, 12 half-pints of gin, 12 half-pints of vodka and 16 cans of beer. Both prisoners were booked on charges of possessing whiskey in dry territory, and Stamper also was named on a charge of blocking the highway.

Jailed the same day was Jake Smallwood, of McDowell, on whose premises the officers found 19 cans of beer and four half-pints of whiskey. Two pints of whiskey and two of vodka were seized in a raid last Thursday on the premises of Melv Click, near here. Search of the service station operated here by Ervin Shepherd uncovered a half-pint of gin and an empty half-case of whiskey.

Others jailed within the week included: Sanford Stone, charged with destroying private property and named in a peace warrant, arrested by Deputies Raymond Griffith and Lonnie Herald; Raleigh Brown, booked by Deputy Sheriff Grant Parsons on a drunk driving count.

LOCAL FIRMS ON INCREASE

Non-Farm Businesses In Floyd Set At 484, Tax Reports Show

Special To The Times
New York, Oct. 20 — The spirit of individual enterprise is still flourishing in Floyd county, judging by the rate at which new businesses have been springing up.

Local residents, with the urge to be on their own, have raised the county's non-farm business population to a new high. The story is told in a joint report, just issued by the Department of Commerce and by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, based on tax reports submitted by employers under the Old Age and Survivor Insurance Program for 1956.

Many of the new ventures do not survive the difficult first five years, but enough do to justify the risk entailed. Floyd county, by virtue of this net growth, has a total of 484 business enterprises in which there are one or more employees, the report shows.

It marks a big increase over the 410 recorded three years earlier, when the same federal agencies made their previous study. The gain, amounting to 18.0 per cent, was greater than that attained generally in the United States an average of 6.4 per cent. It topped, also, the state of Kentucky gain, which was 13.3 per cent.

Small business is well-established in Floyd county, the figures show. There are 443 firms, or 92 per cent of the total, with less than 20 employees each. They form the backbone of the business community. Their concentration is greater than in most parts of the United States (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

SIXTH MOTEL HERE PLANNED

Conleys Announce Plan To Build Twenty Units In New Lancer Addition

A $60,000 motel will be erected here next spring by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conley, The Times learned this week.

The motel will be located behind the present Black Cat Drive-In at Lancer. Application to build had been filed this week and approved, it was disclosed.

The motel will consist of 20 units, each costing an average of $3,000. The structure will consist of a new home which the Conleys are planning and the motel which will flank the new home on both sides.

It was also disclosed that a dining room to accommodate 100 or more diners is being planned in the remodeling of the present Blackcat No. 3. Mrs. Conley said that they had hired Charles Carpenter, formerly with Wright Bros. Jewelry, as manager of Blackcat No. 3. Carpenter, she said, is a graduate of the Howard Johnson Chef School in New York.

She estimated that the cost of remodeling Blackcat No. 3 will be approximately $11,000. The combined cost of the motel and the new home will be approximately $90,000.

COMBS LEADS RECENT POLL

Bottom Position Taken By Waterfield; Wyatt Is Second In Canvass

Bert T. Combs and Wilson Wyatt both have forged far ahead of Harry Lee Waterfield in the Democratic gubernatorial contest in Owensboro, according to a poll conducted there by Kentucky Wesleyan College students.

A house-to-house canvass showed Combs with 2,370 votes, Wyatt with 1,773, Waterfield with 1,139, and 1,537 votes undecided. In a similar poll taken last July, Waterfield received 874 votes, Combs 751, and Wyatt 215.

About 3,000 of those polled then said it was too early to show a preference in the primary election that will be held May 26, 1959.

Combs, reached at Lexington, commented: "I'm well pleased with the results of the poll, of course, because it shows I'm far in front. This poll merely confirms all other polls and reports, which have been to the effect that I will win this race by a substantial majority."

"There are about 180 days from now until the primary, and I will be busy every one of these days taking the message of good government to the people of Kentucky." (See Story No. 6, Page 6)

AREA SILICA MARKET SEEN

Research Technologist Assures Sand Discoverer Of Market At Kingsport

The Kentucky Silica Products Corp., which was organized recently to exploit the fine silica deposit in the Elkhorn City area, apparently has a ready market for its product, a letter to Joe Vance, discoverer of the huge deposit, from Tom Carson, director of research and glass technology, Blue Ridge Glass, Kingsport, Tenn., indicates.

Wrote Carson to Mr. Vance: "I had hoped since looking at this deposit last summer that some responsible group would undertake to exploit it, since the sand can be satisfactory for about two-thirds of our present needs here at Kingsport and can be a major factor in the location of the new plant that our people propose to build in this country."

The silica deposit, which lies in the rugged Breaks of the Mountains area, has been declared one of the nation's finest. Its full potential was discovered by Mr. Vance while he was looking over the Breaks area for limestone, although the presence of silicate there had been known for some time.

Associated with Vance in the development undertaking are Joe Weddington, of Prestonsburg, and others.

The Carson letter said Blue Ridge Glass uses at its present Kingsport plant about 100 tons of silica a day and that its new (See Story No. 7, Page 6)

SCENIC DRIVE SURVEY READY

Planning Group Told Good Reports Received From Recent Area Tour

The president of the Beautiful Cumberland Association said Monday a survey of the proposed Eastern Kentucky scenic drive may be available within a year.

Clinton Broadwater made the prediction at a meeting of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission at Middlesboro. B. F. Reed, Planning Commission chairman, presided at the meeting.

Broadwater said his organization is working with the federal Bureau of Roads and congressmen in Kentucky, Tennessee, and Virginia to obtain the survey as quickly as possible.

He also told the meeting that the National Park Service assured him that six miles of the route would be included in the "Mission 66" program. This designation is given National Park projects expected to be completed by 1966.

The scenic drive would run from Cumberland Gap along the Cumberland Ridge to Breaks Interstate Park at Elkhorn City, he said.

Broadwater said the six-mile stretch approved by the Park Service is in the Cumberland Gap Park area and would connect Sand Cave to the rest of the scenic drive.

John Whisman, executive director of the Regional Planning Commission, said it hopes to have composite report on tourist attractions in the area ready by early spring. Commenting on a recent commission tour of the area, Whisman said "excellent reports have come in from many of those who made the trip."

"These include representatives of federal and state agencies, the United States Department of Agriculture, and others."

The commission scheduled its next meeting at Pikeville, December 1.

GRANT MADE FOR PLANNING

Federal Funds To Pay For Development Plans In 3 Big Sandy Towns

The Urban Renewal Administration Friday approved a $34,580 federal grant to the Kentucky Department of Economic Development to prepare comprehensive plans for the growth and development of 38 small municipalities in Kentucky, including three Big Sandy river towns, Senators Thurston B. Morton and John Sherman Cooper announced.

The Kentucky Senators said that the communities to be studied are Prestonsburg, Paintsville, Pikeville, Barbourville, Berea, Brandenburg, Cadiz, Calvert City, Campbellsville, Catlettsburg, Central City, Corbin, Cumberland, Earlington, Florence, Franklin, Fulton, Georgetown, Greenville, Harrodsburg, Irvine, Jackson, Lawrenceburg, Lebanon, Castle Nicholasville, Green-Maine, London, Morehead, Morganfield, New Castle, Nicholasville, Radcliff, Russellville, Shepherdsville, Sturgis, Versailles, Whitesburg, Wilder, and Williamsburg.

The federal grant, matched by an equal amount of state and local funds, will be used for work covering the particular planning needs of each municipality. The work will include: studies of economic base, population, and housing conditions, and preparation of zoning and subdivision regulations, neighborhood analyses, plans for land use, thoroughfares, and community facilities.

"The work is scheduled to be completed in 21 months. Results will be presented in the form of reports, maps, charts, plans, and other graphic materials."

The grant is the sixth made to the Department under the urban planning assistance program authorized by the Housing Act of 1954 to provide federal funds to state planning agencies to aid them in giving planning assistance to communities of less than 25,000 population. Similar grants are available to official state, metropolitan, and regional planning agencies for work in metropolitan areas and urban regions. The grants may not exceed 50 per cent of the cost of the work for which they are made. State and local funds make up the remainder.

High School Schedules Open House To Observe American Education Week

The Prestonsburg high school is having an open-house Nov. 10, 11, 12, in observance of American Education Week which will be observed throughout the nation, Nov. 9-15, it was announced this week. "Report Card U.S.A." is the theme of the observance, it was noted.

The National Education Association, American Legion, U. S. Office of Education, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers are sponsoring this program which is designed to focus attention on new challenges to American Education posed by the popular question, "Where do we stand?"

Schools throughout the nation will be visited by millions of interested parents who are eager for a first hand look at what really goes on in class.

MOTLEY GETS PAVING WORK

Contract for $99,677 Job Contingent on Financing; Plant Building Proposed Contract for paving of Lancer, Riverside and Porter Addition streets here was awarded Monday by the City Council but the work yet is contingent upon the ability of the city to finance the work. The Motley Paving Co., Ezel, Ky., was the only bidder.

Its bids for the work follow: Lancer, $37,282.80; Riverside, $33,320.60; Porter Addition, $28,573.90.

The city's fiscal agent will discuss street improvement financing at a Council meeting, November 17.

Fear was expressed this week that the sale of such bonds may be slow, and for this reason it is hoped most of the property-owners living on these streets will be able to go on a cash basis. It was said that those residing in the Porter Addition section scheduled for street improvement have no finance problem to solve.

Also to be discussed with the fiscal agent is the issuance of bonds to provide a plant building for the Hayes Metal Products Company, such bonds to constitute an indebtedness only against the property occupied by the plant itself.

A. E. Hayes, of Hi Hat, a member of the metal products firm, told the Council his company has two sites near here in mind and that it seems possible to lease from the federal government necessary tools and machinery to equip a plant to manufacture truck bodies, trailers, mining machinery, boats and other products. "We would expect," (See Story No. 2, Page 2)

BOND ISSUES FAIL TO GAIN VOTE MARGIN

Howard, Hall Victors In School Board Races; Quick Vote-Count Made

Democratic Floyd county gave Congressman Carl D. Perkins a majority of 5,103 votes at Tuesday's election over his Republican opponent, E. L. Raybourne, and in voting outside party lines defeated two administration school board candidates.

The courthouse bond issue was snowed under as only two precincts in the county gave it approval, while the swimming pool bond issue in Prestonsburg met a similar fate.

Most of the interest centered on the spirited campaign to elect two members of the Floyd County Board of Education. Ray Howard, anti-administration candidate, defeated W. A. Spradlin in Educational Division No. 1 by 119 votes, and in Educational Division 2, John G. Hall bested Dr. J. H. Allen, incumbent, by 218 votes.

Dr. Allen was a veteran member of the County Board. Mr. Spradlin School Board members and swimming pool vote tabulation, elsewhere on this page.

was added to the Board with the merger of the Prestonsburg independent system with the county.

The courthouse bond issue polled leads only in Prestonsburg No. 1 and 2 precincts. The total stood at 1,993 "Yes"; 6,898 "No."

Congressman Perkins, who was re-elected by a comfortable margin, led his opponent in every Floyd precinct except two—Fragrances Creek and Northern. In Fragrances Creek precinct the courthouse bond issue failed "to black paper."

Both the courthouse and swimming pool issues needed a two-thirds vote. The swimming pool, voted on in the seven Prestonsburg precincts, led only in Precincts 1 and 2 and in the absentee voting, showing less strength than it did last year when it was submitted to a vote for the first time.

The vote count was the most orderly ever held here. Sheriff Hershey Warrens and Election Commissioner Jo Evans issued passes to only those legally entitled to be in the circuit courtroom to carry on the count and represent the candidates and issues involved. Only a few more than 100 were permitted to enter the courtroom. Passes to the vote count had been printed at the expense of interested citizens after inspectors had advised that the election count crowd be restricted to 100 or less in the interest of safety.

Tabulation began at 7:30 p.m., and continued till around midnight with six tables working. The count was completed Wednesday morning by 11 o'clock.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER NEW $81,134 BUDGET

A special meeting of the City Council will be held Friday to consider adoption of the proposed city budget of $81,134.

The budget was submitted at Monday night's Council meeting, but extra time was taken for its consideration before it is to be brought to a vote.

The proposed budget provides for expenditures of $8,110 above those of the year ending Oct. 31, this year.

The increase provided for are on these items: Mayor (expenses), $1,400, an increase of $200; street and sewer repair, supplies and extra labor, $5,440, an increase of $3,500; volunteer firemen, fires and drills, $2,000, up $650 over present expenditures; fire truck repairs, $200 (this item not in present expenditures); street and traffic lights, $5,000, $200 above the present figure; repayment of 1957-58 deficit, $8,000, which is $4,000 above the present fund.

Recapitulation of the proposed budget shows these funds to be earmarked: General salary expense, $5,700; street department expense, $12,640; traffic department, $3,300; police department, $15,222; fire department, $10,406; general administration, $25,965.

General administration expense, biggest single item in the proposed budget, covers city jail expenses, supplies and feeding of prisoners; printing and publishing expenses; half of employees' insurance; workmen's compensation; street and traffic lights; Municipal building, cleaning services; Fire Department building insurance and repairs; contributions, donations, salaries and supplies.

The estimated annual income of Prestonsburg was placed at $52,100, leaving a deficit of $29,034. Mayor Napier suggested an occupational tax similar to that which is now levied at Pikeville. This, it is estimated, would increase the city income by $15,000 but still leave a deficit of $14,034.

The estimated income for the coming fiscal year was listed in this way: Property taxes, $50,000; garbage collection fees, $12,000; license fees (present), $1,500; police court collections, $3,800; parking meter collections, $5,000.

he said, "to have employment for a hundred people in a short time."

He added that if for any reason Hayes Metal did not use facilities thus provided the city would have "a ready-made plant that could be leased to some existing business or be used to entice an outside enterprise to locate here. The city has absolutely nothing to lose in implementing this plan."

Gail Godsey, of the Department of Economic Development, discussed zoning and planning with the Council at Monday night's meeting.

Four Years Is Too Often

With another election of county school board members ending as this is written, it becomes more and more apparent that countywide election of members of boards of education is a method that should be adopted.

Left standing on the statute books as it now is, the school election law will make necessary, two years hence, another election such as has just been held. And two years is not long enough to wait. The wounds left by the present campaign will not have attained the decency of scars by that time—they yet will be festering sores.

Once every four years, and a battle royal, countywide, is preferable to the biennial internecine political conflict that is a school election under present law.

A new law to provide for countywide election of board members, and the term of the county superintendent of schools to expire with the expiration of board members' terms, is needed. This, surely, can be written so as not to curtail the terms of present superintendents, and if that objection can be met we fail to see room for any other valid criticism of the countywide method.

The Kentucky Education Association and the county superintendents in Kentucky should give serious consideration to a change. Without their support, it became evident at the last session of the Legislature, there will be no change.

And

there are two great new engines to choose from—the Tempest 420 for the ultimate in V-8 action and response . . . and its money-saving companion, the Tempest 420E, a big muscular V-8 that uses regular gas and delivers better mileage than many smaller cars with so-called "economy engines". Baptist Church Plans For Nov. 12th Dinner Announced This Week

One of the most unusual events of its kind ever held will be the Loyalty Dinner which Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church will sponsor next Wednesday at 6:30 p.m., at the Prestonsburg high school cafeteria.

Every member of the church, with other members of their families, and all members of the Sunday School at the church here have received invitations to the dinner.

The Shuck Catering Service, Lexington, has been employed to prepare and serve the dinner. This step was taken so that prompt service of the large crowd expected will be assured and so that no woman of the church will be required to prepare or serve food or attend to other details in connection with the gathering.

Music will be provided by a six-member ensemble from Morehead State College. The ensemble, composed of two violins, two violas, cello and piano, will be directed by Keith Huffman, director of the college orchestra and instructor of stringed music.

The dinner is a part of the church Loyalty Program now under way. To relieve mothers of the care of young children, a children's party for children eight years and under will be held at the church annex, beginning at 6 p.m.

Trek North Nets Tour Difficulties For P'burg Man

G. C. Meade, former manager of Meade Hardware in Prestonsburg, and his wife, Beulah, haven't followed Horace Greeley's advice to go west—but have followed the long trail to the cold and distant north.

The couple started out in October for Anchorage, Alaska, and arrived only in the latter part of the month. According to the couple, writing back to a Prestonsburg friend, the only thing which made the trip enjoyable was joining two or three other cars and laughing at mutual troubles.

They made the trip to Anchorage in a Studebaker station wagon. G. C., as friends know him, was stationed at Anchorage during his tour of service in the Air Force.

Three days were required for the couple to make it across Canada where they said, roads are good except for one day when they traversed a mud road.

They admitted that they later found out they had been traveling on a condemned highway. The other highway was paved, they said.

Beulah commented they spent a rough night in a small Alaskan town where the natives were drunk and whooping it up. Besides this, she said a couple in a room over them seemed to be uprooting the hotel to find furniture to throw at each other.

The only mishap to occur was a blow-out which came in the face of a head-wind of 50 m.p.h., they wrote. It was the first blowout they had ever had—so the couple thought the wind was just getting stronger.

G. C. will hunt a job in Anchorage. Just now, he seems to be hunting something less like work. The day their letter was written, he bagged two caribou and was ready for more.

Finding Diabetics, Helping To Live Is Drive Goal

"Finding unknown diabetics and helping them to live longer, more useful lives is the goal of the annual Diabetes Detection and Education Drive the week of November 16-22," according to Robert J. Hoffman, M. D., South Ft. Mitchell, chairman of the Kentucky State Medical Association's Diabetes Committee.

Sponsored by the KSMA in cooperation with the American Diabetes Association, the drive will be held during the period officially proclaimed as Diabetes Week in Kentucky by Governor A. B. Chandler.

"In seven previous public service campaigns, more than 1,000 persons who were unaware they had diabetes learned of their condition. These individuals now have the necessary knowledge to enable them to use the proper precautions," Dr. Hoffman said.

Every physician, hospital and laboratory in the state has been asked to cooperate in the drive by giving a free urine sugar test to anyone requesting it. All Kentuckians are urged to take advantage of the drive which is unique in that it is strictly a public service effort, and not a fund raising campaign.

Works for Accreditation As Flower Show Judge

Mrs. R. H. Messer, of Garrett, recently attended a flower show school in Dayton, O., where she worked toward national accreditation as a judge for standard flower shows. She had previously had courses in Florida.

Five training courses are required, followed by a reading course. A written examination follows each course, with 75 set as a passing grade. Only two such courses may be taken in one calendar year, and a period of four months must intervene between courses.

FARM-CITY WEEK

City slickers will be milking the cows and country rubes will be minding the stores in some Kentucky communities during Farm-City Week, Nov. 21-27, proclaimed by Governor Chandler and President Eisenhower. Purpose of the observance will be to acquaint rural and urban people with each other's problems.

There are 1,141 children under five years in Leslie county to each 1,000 women in the 22-44-year age group. This is the state's highest but many counties of the section crowd Leslie for its position as the most fertile of counties. Those having a fertility ratio of more than 1,000 are Breathitt, Clay, Knott, Magoffin and Menifee. Floyd county is slightly under 1,000 with 973. The lowest ratio is Fayette's with a rating of 464, but Franklin stands close with 474. Counties in the other sections run down to the five, six and seven hundreds. The replacement ratio for the country is only 480, so it can be seen that most East Kentucky counties are exceeding the normal population replacement by about two and one-half times.

So the Eastern Kentucky hill counties, plagued with little industry and faced with one of the highest birthrates in the nation, has but one recourse and that is the exportation of its people. In the last six years 231,000 persons left Kentucky seeking opportunity in other states. Most of these were from the Eastern counties.

Writing in Look magazine, Feb. 17, this year, Pulitzer prize-winning journalist Hodding Carter said:

"More alarming than their number is the caliber of the . . . emigrants. They are largely in the productive age group from 18 to 35. . . and are, on the whole, better educated than the average of those who stay at home."

Kentucky was, for the last six-year period, the fourth highest state in the Union in number of migrants, Carter noted, but in other states these leaving are from all sections of those states. Arkansas led the nation with 358,000 migrants, Mississippi was second with 291,000, and Alabama third with 289,000.

The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the rallying cry, "Keep Our Young People in Kentucky."

"It cost us a lot of money to educate those kids now leaving," Paul Grubbs, director of public relations of the KCC, says. "When it comes time for them to educate other kids, they're paying in Michigan or Ohio."

Kentuckians may have "captured Ohio without firing a shot" but it was a Pyrrhic victory accomplished with a quarter-million young, aggressive, skilled and intelligent people, most of whom have left the state forever.

THE POOR VENETIAN BLIND

It will not do to grow absent-minded, these days. There's the danger, for instance, of falling into the error made by the busy, distracted housewife whose husband had called a Venetian blind repairman to come, pick up a blind the missus wanted cleaned and repaired.

The repairman knocked on the door, and out bustled the distraught lady of the house. "I've come for the Venetian blind," the man said in respectful tones. "Just a minute," the woman said, then hustled herself back into her kitchen and emerged with her contribution—a dollar bill.

THE VETERAN'S ANSWER

In a little town in the French Pyrenees is a shrine celebrated for miracles of healing. One day, shortly after World War II an amputee veteran appeared there. As he hobbled up to the shrine, someone remarked: "That silly man! Does he think God will give him back his leg?"

The veteran, overhearing, turned and replied: "Of course I do not expect God to give me back my leg. I am going to pray to God to help me live without it."

NO BOTHER AT ALL

The acme of courtesy and forbearance is exemplified in this anecdote that is going the rounds. The man was aroused from a sound sleep at 3 a.m., by the ringing of the telephone. He stumbled his way to the phone, to hear a voice apologizing "for getting up at this ungodly hour."

"Oh, that's all right," mumbled the sleep-walker. "I had to get up to answer the telephone, anyhow."

bankers on the Commission, hotly challenged this statement.

In connection with the Commission appointment City Treasurer Wesley Campbell read at the Council meeting a letter addressed to City Clerk Judith D. Archer from Charles A. Hirsch & Co., Cincinnati, fiscal agent for the city. Mrs. Archer as City Clerk had notified the firm of the Mayor's appointment of Mr. Roberts and of his administering the oath of office to Adrian Collins, the third member, who had previously been named to fill the vacancy created by the death of H. D. Fitzpatrick, Sr.

The Cincinnati firm pointed out that, according to the ordinance establishing the Utility Commission, appointment of members must be approved by the original purchaser or purchasers of the Prestonsburg water and sewer revenue bonds issued Nov. 1, 1956.

"We represented a group of bond firms," Hirsch & Company's letter said, "in the purchase of these bonds and before approving any appointment it is necessary that the entire group of purchasers be satisfied as to the appointment and give us the authority to approve such action. Before approving any appointment to the Commission it will be necessary that we and other members of our purchasing group be satisfied that the appointment meets with the approval of the Mayor, members of the City Council and the Utility Commission. Our reason for this is that our experience has shown that where harmony does not exist among these groups and particularly among its own members, it only leads to friction which is always detrimental to the successful operation of the utility system."

Continuing, the letter said:

"We will also need some information to show that the individual being appointed is qualified to carry out the duties required as a member of this Commission. We would like to point out that before the water and sewer revenue bonds were issued the present members of the Utility Commission were approved by us only after careful consideration as they appeared to have all the qualifications to warrant our approval, such as their appointment was agreeable to the Mayor and members of the City Council and they were all experienced business men. . . . It was therefore assumed that they would be maintained in office, provided they carried out their duties in the proper manner.

"Consequently, we believe that the present members should be re-appointed wherever possible, and we would recommend that Mr. Hagewood be re-appointed to the Commission provided he is willing to accept such appointment, as the Utility Commission, as presently constituted, has done an exceedingly good job in the management and operation of the utility system."

Hirsch & Company emphasized that the recommendations made in its letter "is not criticism of the individual being considered for his (Hagewood's) replacement as we are not familiar with the person and have nothing either for or against him." It agreed that a replacement to fill the vacancy created by the death of Mr. Fitzpatrick is necessary and that information requested as to Mr. Roberts also pertains to that replacement.

A representative of Hirsch & Company will confer with city officials and Council members here, November 19, it was said.

WIN OVER PAINTSVILLE MAKES SEASON BRIGHT

Although the Prestonsburg Black Cats finished no better than in a fourth-place tie in the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference, their football season has been an unqualified success.

For they defeated their traditional foes, the Paintsville Tigers, at Paintsville last Friday night, 14 to 6.

That did it. Earlier in the season they licked the Pikeville Panthers, another neighboring team that has taken on the arch-rival role, also, in recent years.

Prestonsburg scored in the first quarter when Rodney Bussey, senior halfback, drove over from the three-yard line to climax a 65-yard march. Fullback James Allen skirted end to add the extra point.

The Cats upped the score to 14 to 0 before Paintsville reached the scoring column. Prestonsburg's second marker came in the fourth period when James Allen scored from 11 yards out. He again skirted end for the point after.

Paintsville narrowed the Prestonsburg victory margin to 14-6 in the final minutes of the game when halfback Robert Wiley scored from the one.

Hazard's Bulldogs are the 1958 champions of the Eastern Kentucky Mountain conference by virtue of their 47-7 rout of Fleming-Neon.

Defending champion Jenkins finished in second place with a convincing 34-7 victory over Pikeville for an overall 7-1 league mark. Irvin Wilson's Belfry Pirates dropped an outside 32-13 decision to Williamson, West Virginia. They finished in third place with a 5-1 mark.

Fleming finished in a fourth-place tie with Prestonsburg. Both have 4-3 Conference records.

In other games, Whitesburg closed its season in bowing, 62-7, to third rated Ashland, and Elkhorn City dropped its tenth consecutive game in losing 25-21 to Hurley, Virginia.

Senior halfback Britt Handy grabbed some of the glory from teammate Astor Sizemore as he raced to four touchdowns in pacing Hazard over Fleming. The negro speedster sped 78, 61, 47 and 39 yards for his six-pointers, while the state's leading scorer, Sizemore, went eight yards for one t.d. and booted five extra points. He closed the season with 165 points in nine games.

Saturday night, Prestonsburg will battle Cumberland in the Coal Bowl. Paintsville Tigers will be idle until November 14, when they meet Winchester in the Big Sandy Bowl at Paintsville.

On-Side Kick Ruling Provided Most Of Cats-Tigers Fireworks

The 1958 renewal last Friday night of the wild, old series between Paintsville left a good taste in the mouths of Prestonsburg rooters who witnessed the Black Cats eke out a 14-6 victory over the Blue and White Tigers.

With an ailing quarterback in Bobby Marshall, Coach John Griggs switched personnel with the rapidity of baseball's Casey Stengel. Rodney Bussey, heretofore a halfback, spent the halftime not in resting but practicing handoffs. He spent a considerable part of the game in actual practice as fullback James Allen dented the Paintsville line for repeated gains.

A disputed fourth quarter call evoked old memories of wild tempers and both sides trading punches.

Paintsville had scored. They tried an onside kick and succeeded in moving the ball only about five yards downfield. A Prestonsburg player touched the ball but Paintsville recovered. The ball was awarded to Paintsville.

The rule. Prestonsburg's coaches say, provides that the ball must travel more than ten yards. If it does not, the receiving team has the option of taking the play or penalizing the kicking team.

Prestonsburg was not given the option—or the ball. Paintsville went on to threaten, but did not score. This ended matters, except for a hot debate over the ruling and articles like this.

Martin will be tough this year if two things don't get them! A long schedule and a case of too many stars.

A long schedule tends to render a team stale by the time of the all-important district tournament. "Hoss" Halbert has his usual long schedule.

He has also an outstanding team, as it appears on paper. His shortest starter measures six feet, one inch. But he has four "shot guns." If these boys can be tamed, it will be rough going for other Region 15 teams vying for a state tournament spot.

Dark horse of the 57th district may be the Garrett Red Devils, Don Sullivan, who has watched them in practice, says they are under-rated. We wonder what Tommy Boyd may be brewing at Betsy Layne?

PLAY SATURDAY NIGHT

The Prestonsburg Blackcats will meet Cumberland High in Cumberland's Coal Bowl at 7:30 E.S.T. time Saturday night. This will be the fourth bowl appearance for the Blackcats in the past eight years, although this year's edition of the Blackcats is not as powerful as previous teams.

John Griggs' unit finished in a fourth place tie with Fleming in the E.K.M.C. and had an overall record of 6-4. Cumberland, coached by ex-Whitesburg assistant Gardner Bates, has an 8-2 record and finished second in the Cumberland Valley Conference. Both Prestonsburg and Cumberland whipped Whitesburg by a touchdown this season, the Blackcats winning 19-12, and Cumberland, 6-0.

Martin and Maytown meet Friday night in Maytown in the first game of their annual cage rivalry. Thus far, Densil Halbert's charges have stopped Salyersville, 88-61, and Auxier, 71-41.

David Lee Chaffins, ex-Wheelwright high school first baseman who has spent the past three seasons umpiring in the Georgia-Florida baseball league, will work in the Class B Carolina league next season. He will do his spring calling drills with the L. A. Dodgers in Vero Beach, Florida.

The Baltimore Orioles have signed Otis Vanover and he will report to their Thomasville, Georgia club in the spring. The 19-year-old outfielder played his high school baseball with Wheelwright high and for the past two seasons has played with Wheelwright in the Mountain Valley Baseball League.

"Good old days? ... no thanks!"

"Our family will take modern times ... because we like Living Better Electrically!"

"Just look at all the conveniences we have at our fingertips," says Mr. Cliff E. Hirsch, sales representative for a manufacturing company. "Take air-conditioning, our two-ton unit is inexpensive to operate and it really does a job. After working outside, fighting the heat, it's easy living. I can even do a great deal of my work in the cool of our home, and at night I can sleep well and wake up refreshed."

"Speaking of comfort," Mrs. Hirsch says, "our electric heating has won a place in our lives. It saves work because it's so clean, and we've all had fewer colds because the heat is so steady."

"My electric appliances save at least a full day of work each week. I'm sure they cut cleaning time in half! The water heater supplies all the hot water we can ever use, my range takes the guesswork out of all types of cooking, and the washer and dryer eliminates washday work and worry. We couldn't ask for better appliances."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

WILL WE DO IT?

Editor, The Times:
Mothers give their children the right food to build strong bodies—but what of their moral and mental fare? What of the programs they watch each day on TV? This year 36-odd STICK-EM-UPS are on the air.

These plays have plenty of action. Men pummel, kick, hurl each other through windows and downstairs. Their activities are only preliminaries to the shooting. Good men shoot bad men. The good man always comes out on top (sometimes of the corpse.) Men shoot to kill with the carelessness of crushing out cigarettes.

Killing is a game. Children are imitative; children are hero worshippers. The good men who shoot to kill are their heroes. They are strong, brave, handsome and ride beautiful horses. Guns are their mark of distinction. In the child's world of today, guns have taken the place of catchers' mitts.

A boy, not over three, stops you on the street, gun outthrust, and commands, "Stick em up!" A boy, only a few years older, learns how to load a pistol by watching TV and shoots his sister. A girl, 14, complains that nothing ever happens and shoots her brother so something will happen.

The violence that used to be committed in dark alleys we have brought into our living rooms. We are guilty; we are responsible. If enough people wrote to the leading TV channels expressing their disapproval of these programs, they would be taken off the air. If they are not, we will add to our list of child murderers.

The future generation is our only hope in this dark world. Will we be ashamed or proud of it? This type of program is not the only reason for juvenile delinquency, but it is one all of us can do something about. Will we do it?

Write your protests today.

BETTER HUNTING ENVISIONED FOR BOW AND ARROW SEASON

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 29 (Spl.) — Kentucky's longest bow and arrow deer season in history opened in 31 counties November 1 and will continue for 30 days, with indications that hunters will have more to shoot at this year than ever before.

Another concession to the deer archery hunters this year is the permission to kill both bucks and does throughout the season except on November 27 and 28, the first two days of the gun season, when only bucks with visible antlers may be taken. The limit is one deer for the season per hunter.

An archery hunting permit will cost residents $5.50 and for non-residents the assessments is $25.50, in addition to a legal hunting license.

Nothing more than long bows may be used and barbed arrows are barred. Also the arrows must have a seven-eighths inch cutting surface.

As an aid to biologists of the Department, which stocked and nurtured the deer herd to its present size, hunters are asked to report their kill to the Department so that data on the progress of the herd can be assembled. Immediately after killing a deer a tag, which is provided with the permit, should be attached to the deer so that it cannot be removed without destroying the card and another section of the permit should be filled-in with required data and returned to the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Whitetail deer may be killed legally in the following counties: Breathitt, Knott, Perry, Clay, Carter, Greenup, Livingston, Lyon, Trigg, Caldwell, Christian, Hopkins, Hancock, Breckinridge, Meade, Hardin, Bullitt, Nelson, Hart, Edmonson, Barren, Metcalfe, Cumberland, Fleming, Lewis, Fulkerson, McCreary, the western halves of Laurel and Jackson and the north section of Rowan.

THE HOME OF EARLY SETTLER DAVID MAY

Big Sandy homes changed slowly from the log cabins of early pioneer days and in the first decades of the nineteenth century sons of the first settlers began to build homes with lumber. Many windows of Floyd county homes were brought in on horseback and many windows in the Pike county early settler homes were brought the same way from Abingdon, Virginia.

Shown above is the home built by David May, son of Thomas and Darcus Patton May. Darcus Patton May was a native of Floyd county. The home was built at Robinson Creek, a tributary of Shelby Creek.

David May joined the Confederate Army and was killed at the Battle of Cynthiana. His family moved to Clark county, Kentucky, but many of his descendants still live in the Big Sandy valley.

The early homes of settlers became institutions of patriarchal mountain society in which gathered large families around the hearthstones. The sons and daughters of these homes slowly wrought development in a section that was but a few years before infested with Indians and covered with the sylvan sweep of a great wilderness.

The First National Bank salutes the rugged pioneers who settled the Big Sandy valley.

General Grant Saves Kentucky Governor-To-Be

By CHARLES F. HINDS

James Proctor Knott, governor of Kentucky from 1883 to 1887, became dean of Centre College Law School in 1894. He soon became quite popular with young people, whom he delighted in his private library with talk of books and of his varied experiences in his long career as a lawyer and a public servant.

One of his young friends passed on an interesting anecdote he heard from the lips of the former governor just one year before a crippling stroke forced Knott to retire from teaching.

Governor Knott said that he was attorney general of Missouri when a state convention in July of 1861 declared the offices of governor, lieutenant governor, and secretary of state vacant, forcing the Confederate-inclined incumbents to flee to southwestern Missouri. Knott, a Southern sympathizer but not a seceder, stayed behind.

Trouble came to Knott personally a few months later, when October 16, 1861, the convention proclaimed that all state officers must take an oath of loyalty to the United States and to the new provisional government which it had formed. The attorney general declined to take the oath, although remaining at his post.

Emissaries were sent to demand his formal allegiance to the Union side. When the oath was insisted upon, Knott refused saying, "It is an insult to my loyalty and impugns my patriotism."

"We will hang you then," the radicals threatened.

Knott is reported to have declined with the cheerful retort: "All right, hang away."

The attorney general was removed from office and placed in Jefferson Barracks, a prisoner of war. Feeling was high in the charged atmosphere of rival political opinion. Mrs. Knott felt that she would never see her husband again, but a friend, General Ulysses S. Grant, interceded and obtained parole for Knott, who, once free, left Missouri for his native county of Marion in Kentucky.

In 1863 he opened a law office in Lebanon. After the War he served in the United States House from Kentucky six times, from 1867 to 1871 and from 1875 to 1883. Following his term as governor, he practiced law in Frankfort until 1892 when he became professor of civics and economics at Centre. In 1894 he and Centre President William C. Young founded Centre College Law School. In 1901 Knott retired to Lebanon because of ill health, where he died in 1911.

SPORTS AFIELD
By TED KESTING

The chilly breezes of late fall and winter may be the cause of driving the fair-weather fisherman to follow the warm-water species of fish to a milder climate, but do not be misled by the false belief that ocean fishing has temporarily ceased along the coast of the northern Atlantic states. There is only a certain lull between the fishing activities of the summer anglers and those hardy fishermen who fish during cold weather, says Robert D. Hall, Salt-Water Fishing Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. The striped bass fisherman are perhaps the one exception to the rule, as their fishing season usually extends into late November. While the warm-water species of fish have long moved southward, there is a new migration of northern fish moving inshore, and these are the frostfish, ling cod, pollock, haddock and winter flounder.

With the first word that the frostfish and ling have arrived inshore, hundreds of fishermen swarm to the piers and beaches from miles around. The fishing piers from Seaside Park, New Jersey, north of Sandy Hook are alive at night with these eager sportsmen.

Fishing for frostfish is customarily good until about January, then it starts to taper off, only to pick up again in the latter portion of February. The late-winter run is normally of short duration in comparison to the autumn fishing.

Cod are reported to grow to a tremendous size. A monster of 211 pounds, more than six feet long, was caught on a line trawl off the Massachusetts coast in 1895. However, during recent years cod of 100 lbs. are exceptional, but 50- or 60-pound cod are not unusual.

The important thing to remember is that there is plenty of salt-water fishing action in the north, in the winter. All it takes is the proper rig, plenty of warm clothing and the desire to hook into a big one. If you've never tried it before, now's your chance. If you're an addict—see you out there.

P'BURG HIGH HONOR ROLL IS ANNOUNCED BY BOLEN

Honor roll for the first six weeks at the Prestonsburg high school was announced this week by Principal James Bolen.

Bolen said that honor roll students are those whose averages are "B" or better.

He said that colleges are becoming more crowded every year and consequently are becoming more selective about their students. Colleges have expressed a deeper interest, he said in the "B" and-above student. The people who are about the "B" level and above are much more in demand than those who fall short.

He said that the first question that colleges and employers ask about students pertain to their rank in class. The problem which confronts the teacher, Bolen said, is the difficulty of impressing upon the student the importance of making good grades.

The honor roll:

Agency Combats Japanese Beetle

Frankfort, Nov. 6 — The State Department of Agriculture recently completed aerial spraying of a section of Pike county to control Japanese beetles.

The agency utilized the airplane which is used in the mosquito control program. The department was called upon to assist in the control of Japanese beetles after reports that the migratory pests were entering Kentucky from the east in the Pike county area.

Gov. A. B. Chandler allocated $8,000 from his emergency fund for the eradication program. Jim Goodrich, the plane's pilot, reported that he applied 40 tons of 10 per cent Deldrin (granular) at the rate of 30 pounds to the acre.

Other agencies participating are the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Entomology Department of the University of Kentucky.

Telephone Talk

by
H. D. HAYES
Your Telephone Manager

HOW TO FOIL A FUNGUS! Did it ever occur to you that telephone poles are edible? Not for you—but they do make a tasty dish for mushrooms! The mushrooms that like to eat wood are wild, like the fungus you find growing on stumps in the woods. That's why telephone scientists feed telephone poles to mushrooms to learn how to keep the poles from being eaten. In laboratories they coat pieces of wood with different chemical compounds, then put samples in sealed jars with earth and the most destructive kind of fungus. Chemicals found most unappetizing are then used to treat telephone poles so they'll last longer. Just another example of the day-in, day-out research that enables us to keep your service dependable and continually improving.

"Then what did he say?"

Are these familiar words at your house? If you have a teen-ager, you can't help overhearing just such remarks. It seems that endless telephone visits are a part of growing up. No need to make them a family affair, though. With an extension phone of her own, Suzy can talk in complete privacy. You'll really "tickle her pink," too, with a pretty pink phone, or one of the other lovely pastel colors, and her own listing in the telephone directory. For just a few cents extra a day it's so easy to give the whole family the wonderful convenience of extension phones in favorite "talking spots" throughout your home. Our Business Office will be glad to answer any questions you have, so just call us any time.

WHAT NEXT? Telephone installers run into some funny situations — sometimes with belligerent dogs, inquisitive youngsters, antagonistic bees — even pet alligators in one family's basement. Here's one we get a bang out of: A lady wanted an extension phone put in and her instructions to the Business Office included the following warning: "Please send a man who has had the measles."

Luke Blackburn — Medical Hero And Governor

By CHARLES F. HINDS
Secretary-Treasurer, Kentucky Historical Society

Gov. Luke P. Blackburn, a medical doctor, was catapulted into the highest state office following a series of heroic and public-spirited performances as a physician and an epidemic specialist.

His reputation began in 1835, one year out of Transylvania Medical School. From Lexington he became interested in the cholera epidemic then raging in Versailles without adequate medical assistance. So grateful were the citizens of Versailles for his humanitarian contributions there that they prevailed on Luke Blackburn to remain as one of their physicians.

His regional and national reputation, however, belongs to the period, 1848 to 1879. In 1846 he moved to booming Natchez, Miss. Two years later and again in 1854 he assumed over-all control in yellow fever epidemics in the lower Mississippi Valley. He represented the state of Mississippi River south of New Orleans.

In 1856 he was asked by the mayor of New York to assume control of yellow fever which had broken out on Long Island. In 1875 he was solicited to check the yellow fever plague at Memphis, Tennessee, and in 1878, he was called on to return to his native state to direct the yellow fever situation at Hickman, Ky. A grateful state in 1879 rewarded Dr. Luke Blackburn for unselfish contributions to humanity by making him Governor of the Commonwealth by a 44,000 vote margin over the Republican nominee, C. W. Cook.

The Kentucky Historical Society has in its museum in the Old State House in Frankfort several gifts and awards presented to Dr. Blackburn for outstanding medical services.

They consist of a large silver pitcher and small silver tray given him by citizens of Adams County, Miss., following the success of quarantine measures there in 1854; a large sheffield tray presented by the Howard Association of Memphis, Tenn., for his direction of the Memphis epidemic in 1875; two gold medals, one given by Southern refugees and one by the citizens of Paducah, in recognition of services there in 1878; and a gold aneroid barometer for the epidemic of the last-named year.

Governor Blackburn was born in Woodford county in 1816. He died and was buried in Frankfort in 1887 at the age of 71.

FLANNERY FAMILY

A letter from Mrs. Poppy Swetnam, Pine Creek, W. Va., inquires about two brothers, Clarence and William Flannery. She is a sister and has not seen or heard of either for 50 years.

"I have been told that if I wrote to you, you might be able to supply me with all or part of the information I need. (Thanks. That's a compliment that will require a lot of 'living up to.' After all, though, one of the purposes of this column is to help people. HPS)

"I am trying to locate the brothers or families of Poppy Flannery Swetnam. I am 78 years of age and have not seen my two brothers in 50 years or more. When last heard of they were in the vicinity of Prestonsburg . . . I will give you what information I have gathered."

The letter, switches to the third person, evidently written by a member of the family.

"Mrs. Swetnam is the oldest of three children of James Melvin Flannery. There were two boys: Clarence and Willie Flannery. They could have had double names. Willie might have been William. Their mother's name was Belle Langley Flannery. The father of James Melvin (grandfather of Mrs. Swetnam) was Isaac Flannery. James Melvin Flannery had three brothers: William Singleton Flannery, Isaac Newton Flannery and John Lowry Flannery. His sisters were Poppy Flannery, Sally Flannery Carroll, Nancy Flannery Dingess, Artie Flannery Dingess."

This column is advised that Clarence and William Flannery are now residents of Washington, D. C. If anyone has any information on this family, write Mrs. Swetnam or this column.

JUDGE A. M. J. COCHRAN

Many are the stories told of the late Judge A. M. J. Cochran of the United States District Court for Eastern Kentucky. One of the newest is by Logan Ewell in The Sentinel-Echo, London, Ky., dated Oct. 9, 1958.

Ewell, who is serializing his autobiography under the title, "75 Years of Living—The Logan Ewell Stories," relates that he was appointed Court Crier by Judge Cochran.

Ewell relates the story of the Harlan county woman who was tried in Cochran's court and the jurist had pangs of conscience about sentencing a member of her sex to the penitentiary.

He continues in his own words: "Always on the lookout for a story or something of interest, I found some in the first term of court. A very large, ramboned woman from Harlan county was on trial for violation of the liquor laws. The jury found her guilty as charged and it was then up to Judge Cochran to impose a sentence upon her. When arraigned with many others before the bench of the judge, she was asked the usual questions.

She loudly proclaimed her innocence and it looked to the people in the court room that she was making a favorable impression on the judge.

A Mr. Tom Short, of Lexington, Ky., was a Deputy U. S. Marshal and had been in command of the raiding party who captured this woman. He arose to his feet, addressed the judge and asked permission to speak of the circumstances of the arrest. When granted, he said:

"Your Honor, the morning of this arrest was a clear, frosty one in the month of October. We gathered the prisoners together and were guarding them on the porch of the lady's home. The sun was up slightly over the mountain tops making good light everywhere. Below the house

Look of the future on newest highways calls for concrete

The highway ride of 1975 is here!

New-type, sound-conditioned concrete for your new Interstate System of super-roads

There's not a "hump" to be heard when you drive this continuous-laid concrete. Almost like riding above the pavement, instead of on it. You'll say this new-type concrete gives you the smoothest, most quiet ride ever.

It's laid without interrupting joints. Then only the tiniest cushion spaces are sawed into the surface. You never feel or hear them. Freezing, thawing and de-icers can't hurt new-type concrete. What's more, it's laid flat . . . stays flat . . . serves 50 years and more.

Sound reasons why new-type concrete is the preferred pavement for the new Interstate System.

Who pays for the Interstate System in Kentucky?

Construction	Maintenance
Federal . . . 90%
State . . . 10%	State . . . 100%

Make sure your full share of federal taxes are used in Kentucky by supporting your state highway program. Keep maintenance costs down. Get better roads, protect state funds with long life, low-maintenance cost concrete.

ROCKFISH MAY BE ADDED TO STATE'S IMPOUNDMENTS

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 29 (Spl.) — A safari after rockfish will get underway in the Santee-Cooper reservoir of South Carolina early next week, and if the trip is a success, many of these huge fish, popularly known bass, will find their way into Kentucky waters, the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources announced today.

Adding a modern touch to the venture will be the use of U. S. Air Force helicopters to transport these fish to Kentucky Lake in the Eggners Ferry Bridge area, where they will be released. The plan is in cooperation with the Tennessee Fish and Wildlife Department and personnel will work with Kentucky's boys in bringing to Kentucky Lake this huge fish which biologists hope will thrive in Kentucky's waters. Tennessee authorities will stock the fish in that part of Kentucky Lake which lies in Tennessee.

The two helicopters will deliver loads of the rockfish to Fisherman's One-Stop landing field near Eggners Ferry bridge on November 5. On November 7 they will make a delivery to the Tennessee Department. Fish will be transported in the copters in plastic bags filled with chemically treated water. Only small fish may be transported in this manner and the larger ones will be returned to Kentucky in a tank truck.

The land-locked rockfish have been thriving for several years in the Santee-Cooper reservoir. This is the first instance where this type ocean fish has reproduced and grown in inland waters. Headquarters for the force will be at Monks Corner, a short distance from Charleston, S. C.

Drayman May Have Confused Goebel Statues

According to tradition, the statue of Former Gov. William Goebel in front of the Capitol was not intended to stand there.

The story, says in the Economic Security Department's Newsletter, that this statue, sponsored by and paid for by the Women's Monumental Fund, was intended for the martyred governor's grave in Frankfort Cemetery.

Furthermore, says the magazine in reviewing the legend, the statue gracing the grave was not intended for that spot but was to be placed in front of the Capitol. This statue was paid for with a $20,000 Legislative appropriation.

The two statues, it seems, were delivered in Frankfort at the same time, possibly arriving from the same foundry. In Frankfort they were handled by the same draying firm which inadvertently mixed the two when the mistake was discovered it was too late to switch the statues.

The Newsletter says it has not established whether this bit of tradition is founded on fact.

Says the publication:

"However . . . it is not difficult to believe that a mix-up in delivery might have taken place. The statue at the front end of the main entrance to the New Capitol shows Goebel in repose, while the one which marks his grave in the Frankfort Cemetery depicts him in various action, delivering one of the fiery orations for which he was distinguished."
