Louisville. Additionally Osborne and Collins spent considerable time in checking out requests sidebar (details) and casualty lists.

Notice of the awarding of the citation was made by Alan J. Gould, Rockefeller Center, New York. He also released the names of three newspapers that were recognized for its coverage of the tragedy. These are the Louisville Courier-Journal, Huntington (W. Va.) Herald-Dispatch and Advertiser. A citation was also given the Paducah (Ky.) Sun-Democrat for its coverage of the kidnapping of a Missouri highway patrolman.

"We are elated at the award," said Osborne, "but regret that recognition had to come from coverage of such a tragedy as the deaths of the children and driver. From the first, in our coverage, we tried to give straight news and stayed away from the morbid side as much as possible."

Osborne, in commenting on the coverage, noted that his station had only been in operation three months when the tragedy occurred. The station manager stayed at the scene and Collins handled the broadcast at the station.

One basis of the award, it was noted by AP, was the wide range information from the tragedy site was disseminated through the facilities of WDOC, WGN, of the Chicago Tribune, WOR, of New York City, and the Canadian Broadcasting system had direct wires to the Prestonsburg station. In addition to this, all small stations were requested to monitor and rebroadcast WDOC coverage. Approximately 50 Kentucky stations availed themselves of this permission, it was said.

The Prestonsburg station is a member of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters and the Kentucky Broadcasting Association.

Kentucky in 1930 got $67,496,000 for livestock cash receipts but the figure was $253,100,000 in 1956.

HARD SURFACE PLANS SNAG

Ambitious Blacktopping Program of Governor In Financial Trouble

Governor Chandler's proposal to blacktop every mile of gravel road maintained by the state before he leaves office has hit a snag.

Odds now are stacked heavily against completing the program. Chandler announced October 25, 1957, the Highway Department would undertake the ambitious job of putting a smooth surface on the entire mileage of unpaved roads in the estate-maintained system.

At that time, graveled routes totaled 4,664 miles. The calendar left Chandler with two years, six weeks, and two days to do the work.

Now—one year and two weeks later—just 737 miles of unpaved roads have been put under blacktop. As a result, Chandler's builders have one year and four weeks to surface the other 3,927 miles—and the end of the construction season is nearly at hand.

It develops also that money as well as time is a factor. The program will cost approximately twice as much as the original estimate of $37,000,000.

Rural Highway Commissioner Mack Walters, in his job just over one month, said he planned to "devote all my energies" to completing the work "if it is possible."

He expressed doubt that it could be done, but said it wasn't 100 percent hopeless.

Walters said the winter months will be spent getting estimates on projects from each of the counties so he will be "ready to roll" when the new construction season arrives in the spring.

"We are in good shape financially," he said. "Whether we have enough money to do all of the work remains to be seen. But a lot depends on whether contractors can do the job. A lot of men and machinery are involved."

Walters said he had no intention of doing any substantial part of the program by force account—with the state's own forces.

"As far as I am concerned," he said, "force-account work is an emergency function. Our state forces have a full-time job in maintenance work."

J. B. Wells, who preceded Walters as rural-highway commissioner, said the program hit a financial snag before it could be pushed into high gear.

He and Chandler had proposed to finance the blacktopping partly from the 2-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax for rural roads, partly from regular road-maintenance funds, and partly from so-called State funds coming from the regular 5-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax.

"We decided from the outset," Wells said, "to do a quality job instead of a quantity job. Our engineers discovered that to do the best job possible we would have to spend $15,000 to $16,000 a mile."

At the same time, he continued, the State's federal-aid turnpike-highway construction program was getting under way. That program was consuming all state funds.

The state was unable to tap funds from the $100,000,000 road-bond issue and it had to wait for federal reimbursement of the money it spent on construction projects.

"The work we did was financed wholly by rural-road funds," Wells said. "We couldn't touch a penny of State funds."

On the basis of spending $15,000 a mile for the 4,664 miles, the total cost would be $69,960,000 instead of the estimated $37,000,000.

Governor Chandler says the program was "something we hoped we could do."

"We didn't say positively we would do it," he said. "Of course we still hope that we can."

Arsonist Convicted By Lawrence Jury

Keneth Spencer, 21, was found guilty Friday of setting fire to his mother's home.

A Lawrence County Circuit Court jury deliberated about 30 minutes and recommended that he be sentenced to two years in prison.

The prosecution presented testimony during the two-day trial designed to show that Spencer burned the house in a rural area of the county after his mother, Mrs. Laura Spencer Thompson, ordered him to move out. Spencer faces possible trial during future terms of court on three other arson charges.

All prison sentences, meted by the jury of the recent term were taken before Circuit Judge W. D. Sparks last Saturday where he passed sentences.

Fannin Is Named Arizona Governor; Ashland Native

Arizona's Governor-elect Republican Paul Fannin, was born in Ashland 51 years ago.

He is a son of Mrs. Kate Davis Fannin, now of Phoenix, and the late T. N. "Newt" Fannin, who was in the lumber business there before moving to Arizona.

The Fannin family left Ashland in 1913, according to Ashland's police judge pro tem F. M. Fannin, a first cousin of Paul Fannin.

The Governor-elect staged an upset Tuesday in normally Democratic Arizona and despite the Democratic trend nationally.

Paul Fannin had been a successful businessman for 28 years in Arizona before deciding last year to make the race for governor. It was his first bid for political office.

He formerly was president of several synthetic-gas companies in Arizona, having leased out his plants when he decided to enter politics. His campaign for the governor's post included a program for attracting new industry and equitable taxation.

He is married to the former Elma Addington, of Phoenix. They have four children—Tom, Bob, and Bill Fannin, and Miss Linda Fannin. Tom is with a Phoenix realty firm. Bob is an Air Force lieutenant. The others are at home.

His father died five years ago and is buried in Ashland cemetery. Paul Fannin has visited Ashland on numerous occasions. Last year he visited his cousin, Judge Fannin.

Another close relative is an aunt, Mrs. Mary Duvall, a sister of his father. She lives at Sandy Hook in Elliott county. Many cousins live in the Ashland area.

Geologist Shaler Discovered State's Natural Wealth

By Charles F. Hinds
Secretary-Treasurer, Kentucky Historical Society

Nathaniel Southgate Shaler, Union Army officer, paleontologist, geologist, professor, college dean, scientific writer, poet, historian, brilliant conversationalist and speaker, but the greatest of these, at least to a resident of Kentucky today—geologist.

Shaler, native of Newport, was sent to Cambridge at 17 to prepare for a classical education at Harvard. There, tiring of the unimaginative fashion of rote learning, he became attracted to the brilliant teaching of Louis Agassiz at Lawrence Scientific School. He was soon one of the favorite pupils of Agassiz and graduated summa cum laude in geology and zoology in 1862.

With time out largely for army service and a trip abroad, Shaler was appointed in 1869 professor of paleontology at Harvard. Four years later, the third geological survey was authorized in Kentucky, and Shaler was appointed its director. He served from 1873 to 1880 until compelled to resign when a bill was passed in Kentucky requiring the state geologist to live in Frankfort. From 1884 to 1900, he was director of the Atlantic Coast Division of the United States Geological Survey. These were remarkable accomplishments, added as they were to Shaler's teaching duties, his position as dean of Lawrence Scientific School from 1891 to his death, and his many writings on scientific and varied other subjects, including a history of Kentucky.

Shaler's work on the third geological survey can hardly be overemphasized. The first two surveys known by the last names of the directors, Mather (1838) and Owens (1854-60) had proved in a systematic way what the earlier pioneers and settlers of Kentucky has suspected about the rich resources of the state. Though Shaler's work was terminated prematurely, the third survey brought home for the first time the full significance of the great untapped wealth of the Commonwealth in timber, iron, and coal. One estimate in 1878, for example, as a result of the Shaler study, placed the coal supply in Kentucky as more extensive than that of Pennsylvania or of Great Britain and Ireland combined.

Never in the best of health, Shaler spent intervals of his last years on his farm at Martha's Vineyard, where he died unexpectedly of pneumonia in 1906 at 65.

INFERIOR EDUCATION HANDICAPS MIGRANTS

By HENRY P. SCALF

Evidence that the eastern rim of Kentucky hill counties, which furnish the biggest quotas of migrants to northern cities, is sending them there ill-equipped to compete is found in statistics that show youngsters from the area have less than the state average in education.

Except for their native intelligence they would be severely handicapped in the struggle to adapt themselves to a new environment and match themselves successfully with northern workers. The average of education in Kentucky is 8.4 grades but only one eastern county, Rowan, approaches it. All the other counties in the mountains fall far below.

Martin counties hold the bottom position with an average of 6.3 grades of education completed and Floyd county is but little better, the average being 7.3 grades. All other Eastern Kentucky counties show an average in the seventh grade, slightly better, or down in the sixth grade. The figures are compiled from the 25 years or older group. The age group between 15 and 24 years furnishes the largest migration quota. Twenty-seven and eighth-tenths percent of Floyd county's young who leave are within this age.

It is, of course, in the Bluegrass counties where the youngsters add the advantages of an education higher than the state average. Fayette has an average of 9.9 grades, Franklin, 9.1 and Bourbon, 8.7. Many counties from sections other than the Bluegrass have averages higher than the mountains. Many above the average and much higher than in the mountains are in the vicinity of industrialized Cincinnati and Louisville.

Harlan county, which led all counties in the number of migrants in the last six years with a total of 29,861 persons, has an education average in the 25 years and older group of 7.6 grades. Pike county, which is second in number of migrants, has an educational average of 7.3 grades. The counties having an increase in population have the highest averages.

A poor economic structure, which defeats the youngsters in their desire to procure an education, will dictate that they must move on to greener pastures, over and out of the hills.

It is in the Eastern counties of Kentucky where the greatest "drop-out" in school occurs in the ages of 16 and 17. Evidently the adolescents have entered some kind of employment to earn a living for themselves or to aid their family groups in an ailing economy. This condition of high "drop-out" accounts for most of the lower than state average in education, whatever its cause.

The state average of enrollment in school in the 16-17 year group is 56.3. All of the Eastern counties studied have a lower enrollment. Counties of Calloway, Jefferson, Campbell, Fayette, Franklin, Graves, Union and Webster have enrollments in this age group of over 70 per cent. All the Eastern counties, with the exception of Harlan with 56.7 per cent and a few others, have percentages down in the forties or even lower in the thirties.

However, any comparison of enrollment percentages of the Eastern counties with the rest of the state is a little mixed due to local factors in many counties. A few counties with low economic advantages, in sections removed from the mountains, have succeeded in maintaining high enrollment. Some of this may be attributed to the almost utter lack of nearby opportunities which tend a bit to discourage early "drop-outs." But it is a safe conclusion to make that counties in the Eastern section have a much lower enrollment in the age group under discussion.

Figures that dismay are in Magoffin county where the enrollment is only 35.6 per cent, in Elliott where it is only 39.7 or Jackson with only 31 per cent. Floyd county figures some better than the average hill county with an enrollment of 49.2, which is much too low compared with the state average.

Man-Made Wonders

Kentucky's man-made wonders include Kentucky Lake, one of the largest artificial lakes in the world; Wolf Creek (Lake Cumberland), the ninth-largest; Dix Dam, the highest earth-filled dam east of the Rockies; High Bridge, near Wilmore, the highest railroad bridge over a navigable stream in the world; the Suspension Bridge over the Ohio at Covington, the first span of its kind in the world; and Clay's Ferry Bridge, between Lexington and bridge east of the Rockies.

Kentucky grows more burley tobacco than any other state.

Asks All Kentuckians To Accept Free Exams For Diabetes Detection

Every man, woman, and child in Kentucky was urged by Dr. Robert J. Hoffman, South Ft. Mitchell, chairman of the Kentucky State Medical Association's Diabetes Committee, to take advantage of the free diabetes tests offered by physicians, hospitals and laboratories during National Diabetes Week which begins Sunday.

The importance of early detection of diabetes was stressed by Governor A. B. Chandler, who has proclaimed the period from November 16-22 as Diabetes Week in Kentucky.

"An estimated 1,000,000 persons in this country and 15,000 in Kentucky alone have undiagnosed diabetes," said Dr. Hoffman, "and it is to find these people and to give them an opportunity to take advantage of available control measures that KSMMA has sponsored the drive annually since 1951."

He emphasized the importance of being tested for diabetes each year, since early detection can greatly simplify the problems of control of the disease. "The unfortunate victims of the disease are those that are unaware they have it," he said, "because when caught early, very often the only precautions needed to insure a long life are control of weight and diet."

IN APPRECIATION

To the Voters in Educational Districts No. 1 and 2, and All of Our Friends and Teachers in Floyd County:

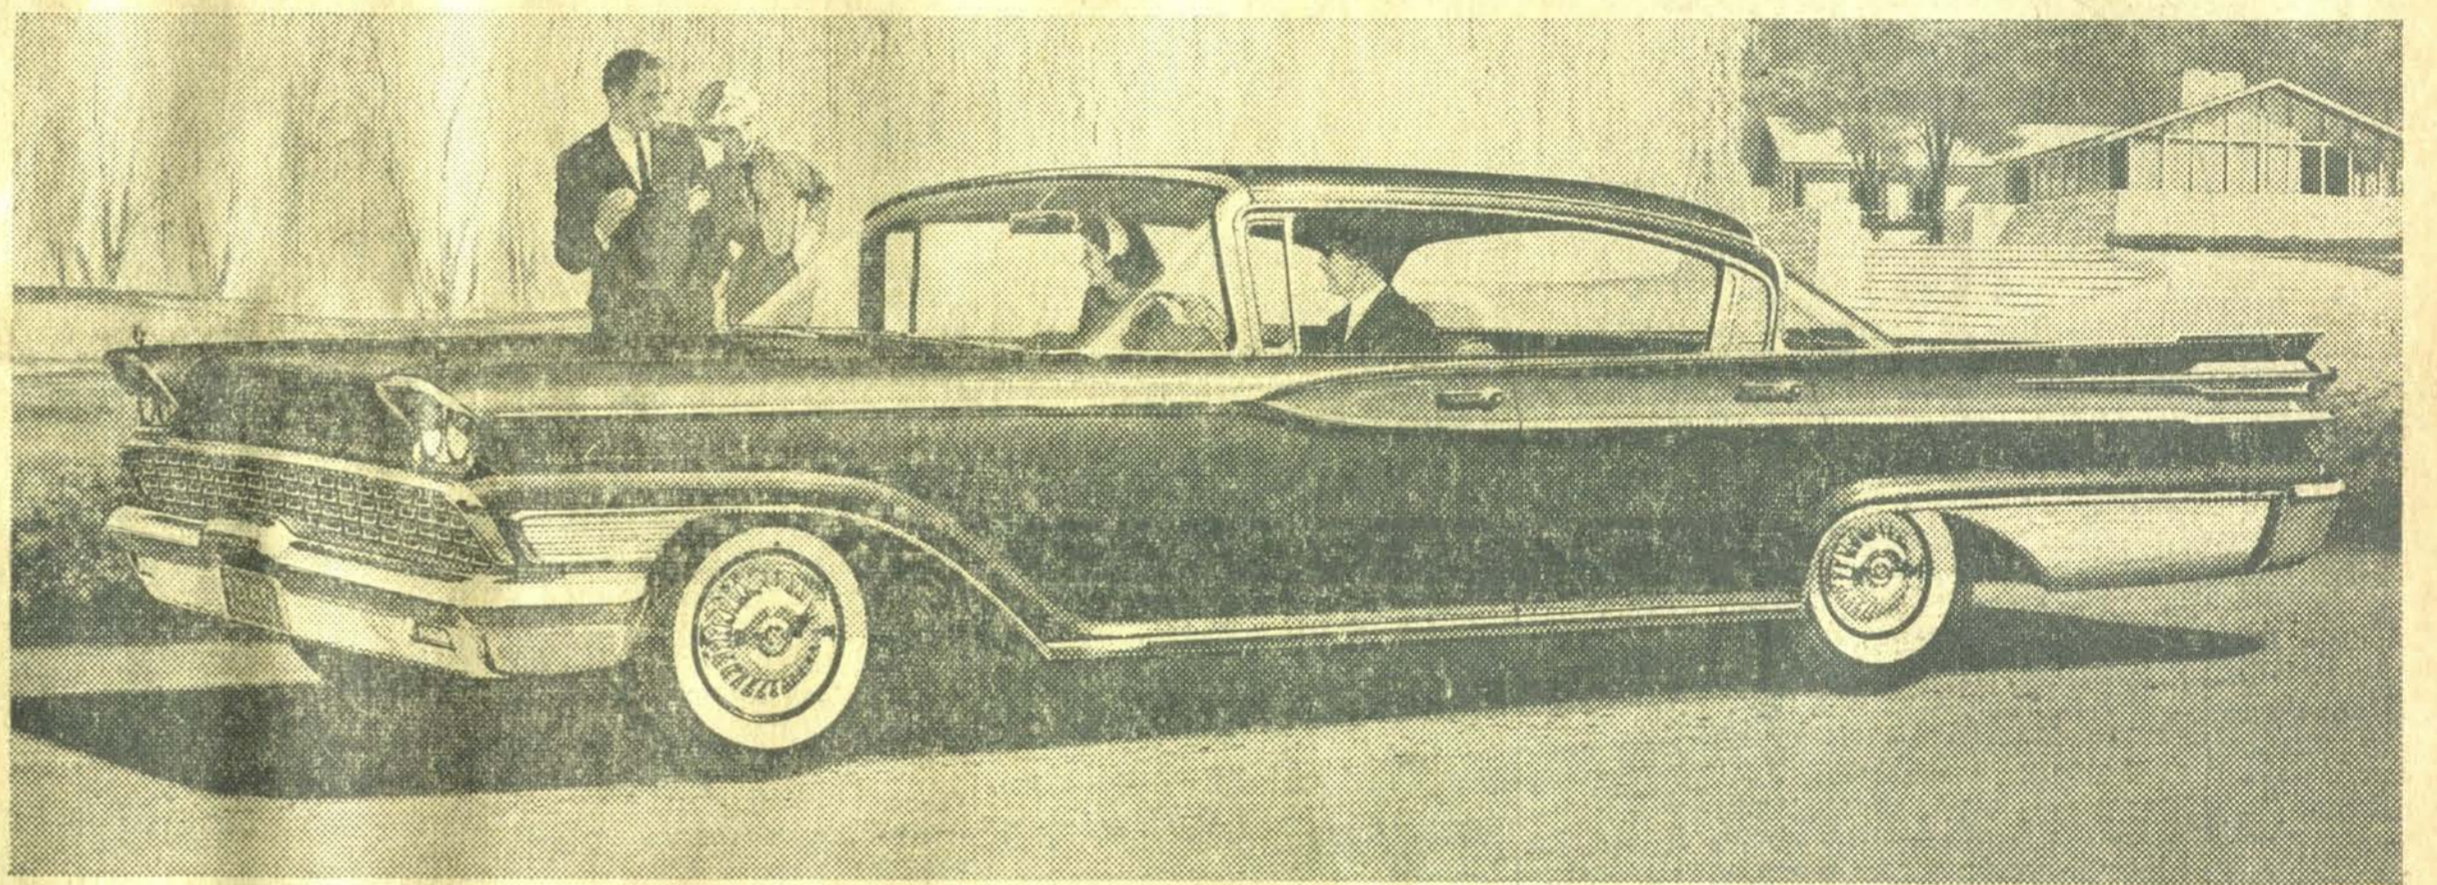

We take this means of thanking all those who supported us for election to the Floyd County Board of Education. We consider our victory as being a vote of your confidence that we will carry out the aims of our platform to the best of our ability. This we intend to do.

We bear no malice toward those who opposed us, for in a democracy such as ours each is entitled to his own choice. Our earnest prayer is that under the guidance of the Almighty we will merit your confidence in us.

We wish to reaffirm our pledge to all the teachers to work for their welfare, to restore dignity to the profession, and not to punish any teacher, regardless of their choice for Board Member. One of our first acts will be to see that all eligible teachers receive continuing contracts.

Let us all work together for better schools.

Educationally yours,
RAY HOWARD

You Hear Strange Things About Catholics

Yes, you can hear some strange things about Catholics. You hear it said that Catholics believe all non-Catholics are headed for Hell... that they believe non-Catholic marriages are invalid. Some think Catholics believe the Pope is God... that he can do no wrong... that they owe him civil allegiance and that he should have the political power to rule America. It is said that Catholics want religious freedom only for themselves... that they oppose public schools and separation of Church and State as evils which should be destroyed.

The claim is made that Catholics pay the priest for forgiveness of their sins... that they must buy their departed relatives and friends out of Purgatory... that they adore statues... are forbidden to read the Bible... use medals, candles and holy water as sure-fire protection against the loss of a job, lightning or being hit by an automobile. But what is worse, some say, Catholics corrupt the true teachings of Jesus Christ with the addition of pagan superstitions and practices that are nothing less than the inventions of the devil. If all these things—or any of them—were true, it would be a pity. For at least one out of every five Americans is a Catholic—and it would be a national tragedy if one-fifth of all Americans entertained such erroneous ideas.

The Knights of Columbus is an organization of more than one million Catholic men of reason and intelligence. In our ranks will be found statesmen, scientists, historians, physicians, movie stars, lawyers, educators and others representing every cross-section of American life. And for each and all of them loyalty to the Catholic Faith is the act of a reasonable man. We are deeply interested in the welfare of our Church and our Country. And we believe the interests of both will be served best when fair-minded people know the Catholic Church as it is—not as it is sometimes mistaken to be. If you have heard and believed any of these false claims, and want the truth, we will gladly send you a free booklet which explains many aspects of Catholic belief and practice. It will come to you in a plain wrapper—and nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet No. KY-1.

NEW BASKETBALL COACH HERE LIKES ATTITUDE OF PLAYERS. HAS 30 OUT FOR PRACTICE

"We have a good group of boys who have shown the right attitude," said Bill Goebel, Jr., Prestonsburg Black Cat basketball mentor during a recent practice session. "I can't say how good the boys will be but I can say that they've been looking pretty good. Of course, their timing is off and they look rough. They're working hard since we hold practice sessions from 2:30 to 7:30 p.m."

Goebel said he was working a squad of 30 boys. He said he did not have any intention of cutting any boys from the squad.

"I don't feel I should cut a boy from the squad, if he is cut from the squad—or dropped—he may lose interest. How do I know that he won't develop into a good basketball player?"

During the practice Goebel kept the varsity squad and the "B" squad scrimmaging. Over 25 boys were participating in these workouts in the new spacious Prestonsburg high school gymnasium.

"One of our problems has been to fill the vacancies left by Paul Philip Hughes and Joe Jack Harris," Goebel said. "We may solve that guard position in new prospects as Ronnie Hager, Bill Young, Jr., Eddie Leslie, Bill Hall, Tommy Dawson, or Tommy Cole."

Goebel said he has back what he termed his "big three" in Forward James Hager, Center John Gibson, and "Togo" Charles Harris. Harris and Gibson were commended for obvious improvement effected since last year's cage play. Hager is said not to be showing any ill effects of the emergency operation he underwent during the spring of this year.

"I can't say who will round out the 'big three' on the first five. We have plenty of boys and they're promising. He cited Charles Akers, Bill Hall, Tommy Cole, Bill David Minix, Bill Young, Jr., Eddie Leslie, Jr., and Ronnie Hager as up and coming players. He said Leslie had looked promising during the summer but had been hampered by a wrenched knee.

Goebel said a difficult schedule has been set this year. On 15 home-games scheduled are Covington Grant, Martin, Pikeville, Paintsville, Hazard, Meade Memorial, Oil Springs, Sandy Hook, M. C. Napier, Betsy Layne, Inez, Garrett Auxier, and Frankfort.

A tournament will be held during the Christmas vacation, Goebel said. Participating in the Prestonsburg Invitational with Prestonsburg will be Meade Memorial, Oil Springs and Martin.

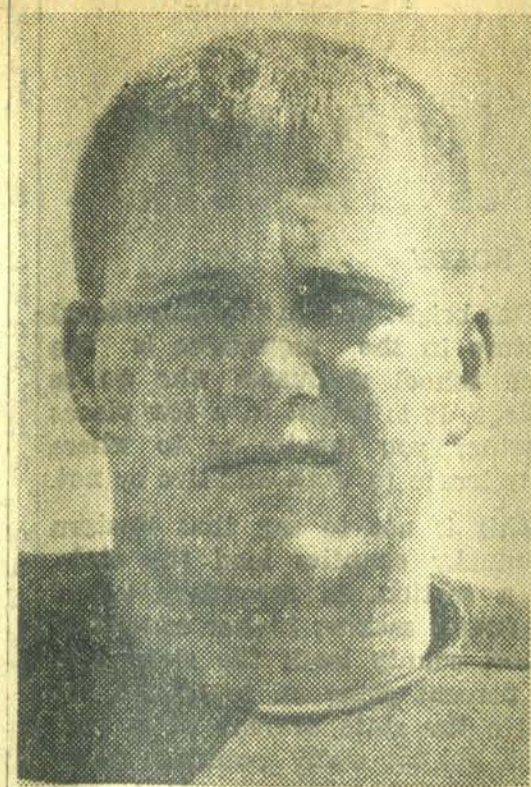

MISS BAKER ELECTED

Georgetown, Ky., Nov. 13—Eddy Baker, Georgetown College sophomore from Wheelwright, Ky., has been elected sophomore class president.

He is the president of Anderson Hall and Sunday school superintendent of the college department of Georgetown Baptist church.

In addition to these activities he is a member of chapel choir, BSU and Anderson's intramural team. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Baker, of Wheelwright, Ky.

FORMER PRESTONSBURG ATHLETE STARS

Wayne Dixon, All-State third team center for Prestonsburg High School last year, has been switched to the tackle spot on the University of Kentucky freshman team and has made the adjustment very satisfactorily. With Dixon turning in good reserve performances, the Kittens have compiled a 2-0-1 record for the current year with a 6-6 tie against Vanderbilt's Baby Commodores and a 40-22 decision over the University of Cincinnati freshmen. Third and final tilt was played Saturday when the UK yearlings defeated the Tennessee Baby Vols.

BLACK CATS BOWL LOSERS

P'Burg Team Concludes Season Play with Loss To Cumberland Hi, 7-0

Prestonsburg's Black Cats wound up their 1958 football season Saturday night with another Bowl appearance, this time dropping a 7-0 decision to Cumberland (Ky.) high school in the Coal Bowl at Cumberland.

At that, the Cats made a strong showing and for three and a half quarters fought the favored Cumberland eleven to a standstill. The game was played in mud and rain, and late in the contest Cumberland's Bobby Creech ran 72 yards for the only touchdown of the contest. Fullback John Davis ran the extra point.

Prestonsburg threatened once but could not reach paydirt, although the Cats blocked a punt on the Cumberland three.

The county's other football team, the Wheelwright Maroons, battled Elkhorn City to a 12-all deadlock. Both teams went through the season without victory, but Wheelwright tied the opposition twice and in all its game impressed with its fire and fight.

Two games this week-end will close the 1958 high school football season in this area.

The eighth annual Big Sandy Bowl game in Paintsville at 8 p.m. Friday night, features the Tigers and the Winchester Shawnees.

Thursday afternoon, Louisa is host to the Wheelwright Maroons.

Coach Dick Diachenko's Jenkins Cavaliers won their eighth consecutive game last week in pasting Barbourville's Knox Central High, 20-0, in Middlesboro's Pinnacle Bowl. The Louisa Bulldogs stopped Pikeville's Panthers, 32-0.

Winchester, third place finisher in the Central Kentucky Conference, will bring a 6-3-1 record to the Big Sandy Bowl game, while Paintsville posted a 5-5 mark in East Kentucky play.

In week-end cage action, the Martin Purple Flash won their fourth straight game by downing arch-rival Maytown, 80-75. John Campbell's Garrett Black Cats whipped McDowell, 59-41, and Wayland, 84-65. Wayland had thumped Mullins, 90-82, the previous night.

FRESH PORK CUTS

This is the time of year when one can expect to enjoy often the delicious fragrance of fresh pork roasting in the oven or of chops frying in the skillet. Pricewise, pork probably will be lower for the remainder of the year than it has been in recent months, says Mrs. Leta Jasper, University of Kentucky Extension specialist in marketing and consumer information.

Absence of Information On Bliss College Team Brings Finger Crossing

Pikeville, Ky., Nov. 10 (Spl.) — The Pikeville College Bears will tip the lid on the 1958-59 basketball season at 8 p.m. Saturday as they entertain the cagers of Bliss College, of Columbus, Ohio.

Bliss is an unknown quantity in these parts, except for the fact that it is a four-year business college. Pikeville's new athletic director and head basketball coach, William R. Daniels, says that he can't find out anything about the visitors, and can only hope that he has the artillery to meet the invasion.

Daniels' first edition of the Bears stacks up fairly well, with some good set-shots at guard and a flock of board-climbers to populate the front line. The four senior lettermen include Charles Francis, a tricky, speedy 5-9 guard with a deadly set shot from outside, and Garrett Mullins, one of the nation's leading small-college rebounders last year, whose scoring for the Bears was second only to that of Little-All-American John Lee Butcher. Mullins notched 355 points in 26 games last year, for an average of 13.6 points per game, and Francis, who played in all 30 games, totaled 303 points for a 10.6 average.

Other seniors are R. B. Singleton, the fireball who came off the bench repeatedly to spark rallies which blew the opposition off the hardwood, and John Waddell, a powerful rebounder who has been among the most stable men on the club. The only other letterman is junior Ken Maynard, the only West Virginian on the squad, a guard who was used in reserve behind Butcher and Francis last year, and saw limited action in two-thirds of the season's games.

Three standouts from last season's freshman squad include George Carroll, of Ashland, a stocky guard who is physically much like John Butcher, and shows promise of having some of the All-American's scoring habits. Others of last year's frosh are Paul Setser, of Auxier, and Ronald Francisco, of Hellier.

Newcomers to the Bears include transfers from Bellarmine College and the University of Louisville, and three men who have not played college ball before. Dick Brashear, of Mantion, was a freshman on Bellarmine's varsity two years ago, and joins the Bears this season after sitting out two semesters in conformity with the regulations of the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Vern Woods, Dayton, Ohio, was a freshman Cardinal at Louisville last year. At 6-5 he will add a reserve of much-needed height to the Bears' lineup. Dennis Butcher—no kin to Little-All-American John—an All-Stater a few years ago at Meade Memorial high school, who has played A. U. ball along with Woods in the Dayton area, will lend his versatility as a forward-guard pivotman. Everett Horns, Jr., who won honorable mention in All-State selections in 1957 as a guard and pivotman at Inez high school, completes the squad.

PIONEER MISSIONARY DIRECTS MORRIS FORK COMMUNITY FAIR

Morris Fork's community fair in Breathitt county is a different kind; it's a fair that is actually a family "affair."
And that's the way the Rev. Sam VanderMeer, founder and director of the Morris Fork community center, "affair director," wants it.
Instead of competing individually, community families compete as a unit. Mother may get a blue ribbon on canned tomatoes; sister may get a blue ribbon on a hooked rug; brother may win in the field crop section; and father may have a top ribbon for the best pumpkin—but they all count for naught individually.
Instead, the points are "pooled" during the one-day meeting, and if the family can also get a few points in other activities—such as foot-racing or folk-dancing—the family may be in a "fair" way (pardon the pun) of winning a title or a family prize package.
But over the years, the gentle art of suggestion has ceased to be necessary. Now Morris Fork school's sizable rooms are jammed full of fruits, vegetables, forages, field crops, foods, clothes, bric-a-brac, etc. In fact, getting around through the displays is comparable to running an Army obstacle course.
That isn't to say that the exhibits are dumped in the premises without order; not so; they simply are so numerous that the exhibitors find it hard to get enough space. This year there were 300 entries and several family booths.
The success of the program is evident in the one-day program. The casual visitor, thinking he is going to see a typical county fair, is greatly surprised at the organization and participation.
The day's affair starts off with a band concert and parade of all the participants. Generally the marching units are groups from the various grammar schools in the area.
A very short speaking program follows, after which the fair proper starts. Hundreds of visitors inspect the exhibits—and they must have a great interest in the articles on display because some of the "attendees" hike over the hills to get there, while others come by horseback. About as many others come in cars, trucks, wagons and school buses—but the important thing is, they get there.
The afternoon session is the excitement-provoker. VanderMeer with a keen eye to crowd appeal, organized various foot races years ago and they have now become a major portion of the day. Youngsters participate in straight foot races, three-legged races, sack races, and

RANDOLPH MCCOY, LEADER OF HIS CLAN IN HATFIELD-MCCOY FEUD
Randolph McCoy, a native of Pike county, lived in the years following the Hatfield-McCoy feud at Pikeville where he operated a ferry over the Big Sandy River. He was much embittered by the loss of several children in the feud and until his death constantly urged the authorities to apprehend and convict members of the Hatfield family.
Both Devil Anse Hatfield and Randolph McCoy were fathers of 13 children. Allifair McCoy, a crippled girl in her teens, was killed January 1, 1888 and Johnse Hatfield was tried in Prestonsburg in 1898 for the crime. Randolph McCoy sat through the trial, staring with blazing eyes at Johnse Hatfield and his friends in the court room.
