

THURSDAY

This Town— That World

Now that cool weather is at hand and cold weather isn't far ahead, and regardless of what you deserve, we might repeat somebody to the effect that one good turn takes most of the blanket.

NOT OPTIMISTIC I know where at least two chestnut trees full of chestnuts are located, and am waiting only till frost to find that somebody has beat me to them.

THE REASON? The afternoon papers say in big headlines, "ADAMS MAY BE OUT." After that Maine election we wouldn't be surprised to hear of Dulles resigning while airborne over the Atlantic.

NO SWOON TUNE Those who swooned over that Eddie Fisher-Debbie Reynolds idyll may now come up for air and a bit of news that should have the same effect on their trusting souls that a stiff whiff of ammonia would have. Mr. Fisher hasn't been acting like sympathetic big brother with the heart-broken Liz Taylor, widow of his best friend.

HELP THE GIRL SCOUTS Now Prestonsburg is being asked to contribute $2,000 to the Girl Scouts. And why shouldn't it? The center of all activity for the Council is at Camp Chatterawha—and Prestonsburg is the town nearest that center. We like good scouts—both Boy and Girl—but it seems we have been slighting the girls long enough.

TRUCK MISHAP KILLS MARTIN

Miner, Standing By Road, Hit by Passing Vehicle; Burial Is Made At Kite

French Martin, 32, native of the Right Beaver section and father of ten children, was instantly killed at noon, Tuesday of last week, by a passing truck as he stood by the road waiting for a ride to work at Isom, Letcher county. A tire blew out as the truck approached Martin, plunged to his side of the road and dragged him.

It was said Martin was dragged over the embankment by the truck. He suffered multiple fractures and a broken neck.

He was a son of the late Earl Martin and Mrs. Florence Hall Martin, of Kite. His wife, Helen Johnson Martin, survives.

Surviving children are Ray, Getter, Deane, Peter, French, Jr., Bithie, Lindy, Carroll, Joan, Luverne and Mary, all at home. Surviving brothers and sisters are Earl Martin, Jr., Burnswick, O., Darwin Martin, Miss Fern Martin, Miss Jewel Martin, all of Kite, Robin Martin, at home, Miss Maxine Martin, Warrenville, Ill., and Mrs. Ollie Bates, Connorsville, Ind.

Funeral services were conducted Friday at 10 a.m. from the Rebecca Church at Kite, by the Revs. Bert Howard, Ellis Howard, Ellis Howard, Eppie Holbrook and Hobart Bates officiating. Burial followed in the family cemetery at Kite under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

LOWER FREIGHT RATE TO BENEFIT THIS AREA

FLORIDA COAL MARKET SEEN AS A RESULT

Virginia and Tennessee Still Enjoy Differential; Morton Says Action Helps

Approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of reduced freight rates on coal to Florida "should definitely be helpful to this coal field," said an industry spokesman in reply to an inquiry from The Times this week. The Big Sandy field is given the same rate reduction enjoyed by other fields but Virginia and Tennessee coal continue to have the advantage of a freight differential that was already in existence, it was pointed out.

West Virginia coal will not benefit from the rate reduction, it was said. Although Tennessee and Virginia coal may have the edge on the Florida market because of the freight differential Eastern Kentucky should develop some business there, the Floyd coal man said. He also pointed out that the business other fields do with Florida may take some of the competitive strain off Eastern Kentucky coal in other markets. U. S. Senator Thurston B. Morton was one of those who saw great economic help to Kentucky as a result of the ICC final decision.

The reduced rates have been in effect several months, with other railroads, but because the commission was continuing its investigation, the coal industry was not sure it could continue to have the benefit of them until the agency announced it had completed its inquiry. Morton predicted that the rate reductions will enable Kentucky to ship 9,000,000 tons of coal to Florida within the next five years for the production of electric energy.

Until the Suez crisis in January, 1957, Florida power plants had relied on oil as a source of fuel. During the shortage caused by the British-Egyptian controversy, Florida utility executives and railroad officials were called to meet with Morton to study the use of coal.

Late last summer, several railroads proposed rates that would

RAPE CHARGE IS AMENDED

Jailed Trio Granted Bond In County Court; Narcotics Use Alleged

Charges of rape and attempted rape which were originally lodged against Normal Thornsbury, Harold G. Bates and Charlie Thornsbury when they were jailed here Saturday have been amended to contributing to juvenile delinquency and the three were admitted Wednesday to $500 bond each by County Judge Henry Stumbo.

The three were arrested by Constable Bud Lawson, Deputy Sheriff Birt Nickles and Special Officer Troy Mullins after two girls had allegedly been involved with them. One of the two was reportedly only 12 years old. The girls are being held here.

Edgar P. Stephens, of Prestonsburg, remained in jail Wednesday after having been jailed on a narcotics charge filed by his father. He was taken before the grand jury to tell of the activities of a woman mentioned in his father's affidavit, and it was said that a second man is wanted. Stephens was named in the affidavit as having possession of or using narcotics.

Others jailed and charges on which they were booked follow: Thelmer Lee McClellahan, drunk driving, arrested by Sheriff Warrens and Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis; Lester J. Counts, drunk driving, arrested by State Trooper W. Williamson; Clell Miller, drunk and armed robbery, jailed by Deputy Sheriff Raymond Griffith; Henry Pitts, possessing moonshine whiskey, booked by Deputy Sheriff Lewis and Constable Ransom Case.

SESSION CALL PLAN DROPPED

Chandler Says Too Few Willing To Pledge Him Prompt Bill Enactment

There will be no extraordinary session of the General Assembly to extend unemployment insurance benefits in the state, Gov. A. B. Chandler announced Monday. Too few legislators were willing to commit themselves to prompt passage of the needed legislation, he said.

"Based on the information we have obtained by sending letters to each senator and representative, I have decided it would be unwise and wholly unwarranted to expend public money for a special session," he announced at a news conference.

"It can readily be seen from the replies that no good would come from meeting in extraordinary session on this subject." The letters were mailed August 31. Copies of two proposed bills, each providing generally an extra 13 weeks of unemployment benefits to workers who have exhausted their payments under the present 26-week program, were enclosed.

Chandler's proposition was that he would call a special session. See Story No. 3, Page 4.

HALE BLASTS DEMAND FOR 'VOTE IN POCKET'

"I live in the worst stricken section of Kentucky and will vote for the proper legislation to relieve our unemployed but I resent you sending me a bill already prepared," State Representative Sam Hale wired Gov. A. B. Chandler, Saturday.

"No man carries my vote in his pocket," he added. Hale's ire was raised because Chandler, in submitting two proposed bills for extension of unemployment benefits to workers who have exhausted claims, wrote the Floyd county legislators that if a majority of the lawmakers would voice approval of the bills by Sept. 8 and agree to not remain in session over six days he would call a special meet of the General Assembly.

"I am in favor of an additional 13 weeks of unemployment compensation without an increase of rates on the employers," Hale said in his telegram to the Governor. "I believe the money should come from the general fund which is appropriated by the Legislature." Hale agreed with the Governor that the General Assembly should not remain in extraordinary session longer than necessary to pass the needed legislation but took issue with the chief executive in sending prepared bills in the spirit of "take it or leave it."

"I have supported your program heretofore," Hale continued, "but I feel that your action in sending a bill already prepared for me to rubber stamp is an insult to the intelligence of the members of the General Assembly. Your action smacks of dictatorship and reminds me of Huey P. Long."

The bills being sent to Kentucky legislators last week for optional approval before calling a legislative session made different approaches to the repayment of money for extension of unemployment benefits being advanced by the federal government.

The Temporary Unemployment Compensation Act of the current Congress provides that the money advanced to the states must be repaid not later than January 1, 1963 or an additional federal tax would be imposed upon Kentucky employers.

How to repay the federal government was discussed in a memorandum by Gov. Chandler. One method was to pay out of the pooled account established by Kentucky employers or from the general fund appropriated by the legislature. Chandler detailed the arguments, pro and con, of each method and offered the two bills for optional approval.

Fourteen percent of Kentucky's working force is unemployed, it was noted by Chandler, and in this matter the state ranks third in the country.

GIRL SCOUTS SEEK $2,000

Burchett To Head Drive Starting September 15th To Promote Council Work

Woodrow Burchett, Prestonsburg attorney, has been named chairman of the Girl Scout Fund Drive scheduled to open September 15 and continue through September 30, it was announced this week by Mrs. Harry LaViers, Jr., president of the Sandy Valley Girl Scout Council.

Volunteer workers under the leadership of Mr. Burchett, will seek the $2,000 locally to continue and expand Scout activities for girls from seven to 17 years old in this area. "I have accepted the chairmanship of this campaign," Mr. Burchett said, "because I believe that the Girl Scout program provides the best opportunity for girls of our Council area to acquire the fundamentals of American Citizenship." His own two daughters are possessors of the Curved Bar, highest rank awarded Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Ella G. Marsh, Floyd County Native, Dies In Road Mishap

Mrs. Ella G. Marsh, 75, widow of Ellis Marsh and a native of this county, was killed Tuesday night of last week, as she walked along U. S. 60 toward her home at Culloden, W. Va., near Milton.

Mrs. Marsh had during the day visited her brother, Fred Gearheart, who is critically ill at Ashland. She had ridden a bus past her home and was walking back to the residence when, according to witnesses, she stepped into the path of a car. Her neck was broken, her chest crushed, and she died almost instantly.

A daughter of Reece and Helen Spencer Gearheart, she was born near Bosco and had resided in or near Huntington for many years. She was a member of the Milton Methodist Church.

COURT METES 6 CONVICTIONS

Former Deputy Sheriff Wins Case Re-submission On Faulty Indictment

Six defendants have within the week been convicted in circuit court here, and of these one conviction was set aside because of a faulty indictment and a second defendant was granted probation.

Former Deputy Sheriff Silas Derossett was convicted last Thursday afternoon of the false arrest of John Reynolds, and his pen term was set at one year. Later, however on his attorney's motion the sentence was set aside, the case to be re-submitted to the grand jury.

The defendant granted probation was Lester E. Adkins, who was given a one-year term for grand larceny.

Others convicted: James Wright, grand larceny, one year; Bill Johnson, one year on his plea of guilty to a child desertion charge; Jim Marsillett, possession of liquor for the purpose of sale, $50 fine, 30 days in jail, $1,000 peace bond required; Mrs. Henry Hackney, negligently firing woods, $40 fine.

One defendant won an acquittal and the jury was unable to agree in the trial of two others. Claude Wallen was cleared of a charge of detaining a woman against her will. A "hung" jury resulted in the trial of James Newsome accused of rape. Wallen and Bob Green were charged jointly with him but were granted a severance. The other case in which the jury disagreed was that of Bennie Goines, who was charged with child desertion.

Several cases were continued till next week, with five of them set for Friday.

The $500 bond of Ollie Thorpe, defendant in a cold check charge, was forfeited when he failed to appear for trial.

Cases dismissed on motion of the Commonwealth's Attorney and reasons for their dismissal follow:

Jim Hunter, using abusive language to provoke assault, subject to re-arrest; John May and Harry N. Wills, each for cold check, insufficient evidence; Charlie R. Newman, embezzlement, lack of prosecution; Walker Adams, obtaining money under false pretense, debt paid; Otis Newsome, grand larceny, insufficient evidence; Jim Marsillett and James Newsome, grand larceny, lack of evidence; Willie Baldrige, child desertion, dismissed on motion of prosecuting witness; Charles Howard and Willie Hunter, each for child desertion, insufficient evidence.

Father of 18 Children Succumbs At Endicott; Funeral Held Saturday

John Fannin, 66 years old, father of 18 and a retired farmer, died late last Wednesday night at his home at Endicott, a victim of dropsy.

He was a son of John and Mary Alice Fannin and was a native of this county. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Virgie Burchett Fannin, and the following sons and daughters: Mrs. Dorothy McClellan, Mrs. Ruth Jarrell, Mrs. Maggie Garrett and Mrs. Louella Stratton, all of Michigan; Mrs. Effie Thompson, Mrs. Ada Jarrell, all of Lancer; Mrs. Angie Blackburn, of Emma, Mrs. Gibbie Prewitt, Bourbon Fannin, both of Ohio, Misses Sarah Ann and Alice Fannin, Grover, Brack, Ballard and Charles Fannin, all of Endicott. He also leaves five brothers.

TWO ESCAPE TRAIN DEATH

Train Strikes Truck At Crossing; 2 Women Not Seriously Injured

Two women—one, 76 years old—almost miraculously escaped apparent serious injury this morning (Thursday) when the pick-up truck they were driving was hit by a coal train and reduced to wreckage at a crossing near the home of Floyd Goble.

Mrs. Betty Blackburn Goble, 18, wife of Herbert Goble, and Mrs. Jane Harris, grandmother of Mrs. Goble's husband, are at the Prestonsburg General hospital where it is believed neither is seriously hurt. Mrs. Harris suffered cuts on her head and arm; Mrs. Goble, several facial lacerations, also bruises. Neither had any broken bones, it was said.

Mrs. Goble was driving the truck. Neither saw the approach of the loaded coal train at a "blind" curve near the crossing. It was said the locomotive apparently caught the bumper of the truck, whirled it around, dragged it a short distance, then sent it spinning into a ditch. Mrs. Floyd Goble, daughter of Mrs. Harris, said she was the first to reach the scene of the wreck and that her mother was standing outside the truck, calling for help, when she arrived.

Scene of the wreck is at the rear of the Goble-Roberts Addition, across the Big Sandy from Knotley Hollow, and is in sight of the February bus tragedy scene.

Two miners, Winnie Caudill and Herman Perry, of Auxier, are in the hospital here after having been injured when the

Lone Murder Indictment, 29 Others Are Reported By Grand Jury, Tuesday

One murder indictment and 29 others had been reported by the grand jury Tuesday morning, with others perhaps yet to be reported from Tuesday's work.

The jury recessed Tuesday, to return for three additional days work, Sept. 16, 17 and 18.

The lone murder indictment names Joe Allen, of Martin, in the June 12 slaying on Johns Creek of Roland Cline. Cline was killed by a .22-calibre bullet which Allen admitted firing, claiming he himself was under fire by Cline.

Of two officers named at the current grand jury session on false arrest charges, one, Silas Derossett, a deputy sheriff during the term of office of Sheriff Gorman Collins, was re-indicted on a false arrest charge after his conviction last

COURT OKEHS DEED-SIGNING

Blanket Deeds On Two Force Account Routes In County Authorized

County Judge Henry Stumbo was authorized by the fiscal court in special meeting Sept. 3 to sign blanket deeds to the state for rights-of-way on Toler Creek and Salyers Branch of Salt Lick where force account roads are to be built.

These are but two of several roads under consideration for improvement under the Highway Department's force account regulations, it was said this week.

The court also set the pay of precinct officers at the November election and next May's primary at $10.

Settlement with Ex-Sheriff Gorman Collins and Sheriff Hershel Warrens on tax collections were made by the court in a meeting Monday. The settlement showed that Sheriff Warrens was due $6,280.10 to the county and $13,427.55 to the schools. Ex-Sheriff Collins, the settlement shows, had overpaid the school $4,621.95.

At this meeting the Sally Stephens Branch road was accepted as part of the Floyd road system.

KENYON FIRM STRIKEBOUND, 32 ARE IDLED

Jurisdictional Dispute, Firing of Labor Steward Cause Stoppages Here

The strike continues on through today (Thursday), but union workers this morning provided without charge to the city a temporary crossway of the ditch that had blocked traffic from the uptown business district of Court street. This work was done after Mayor Bill Napier started action to get the street opened to traffic.

All 32 workers of the S. T. Kenyon Company, contractors on the flood protection project here, were idle Wednesday after employees had quit work on two complaints. The job, already behind schedule, was thus delayed by strike for the second time this week, the first coming Monday morning.

Wednesday's twin strikes—one at the sewer project along Lake Drive, the other at the Second street fill—stemmed from separate causes, Kenyon's superintendent said.

The sewer job stopped after a labor steward was fired because of his participation Tuesday night in a fight with a carpenter.

The men quit work at the Second street fill as the result of a dispute between ironworkers and laborers as to which should handle the heavy multiplate pipe which runs through the levee at that point.

Settlement, if any is to be made, was waiting the arrival here Wednesday afternoon of Mr. Kenyon from Portsmouth, Ohio.

Wednesday's stoppages came after only one full day of work this week. A dispute over wages claimed by some workmen and refusal of laborers to take orders from a supervisor at the Lake Drive sewer job disrupted work Monday.

Tuesday night, in an effort to open the blocked Court street and Lake Drive intersection, the company's employees continued work till 11 o'clock. The intersection, which leads to a large portion of the business district of town, remains closed, however, and its early opening depends on future development in the labor situation.

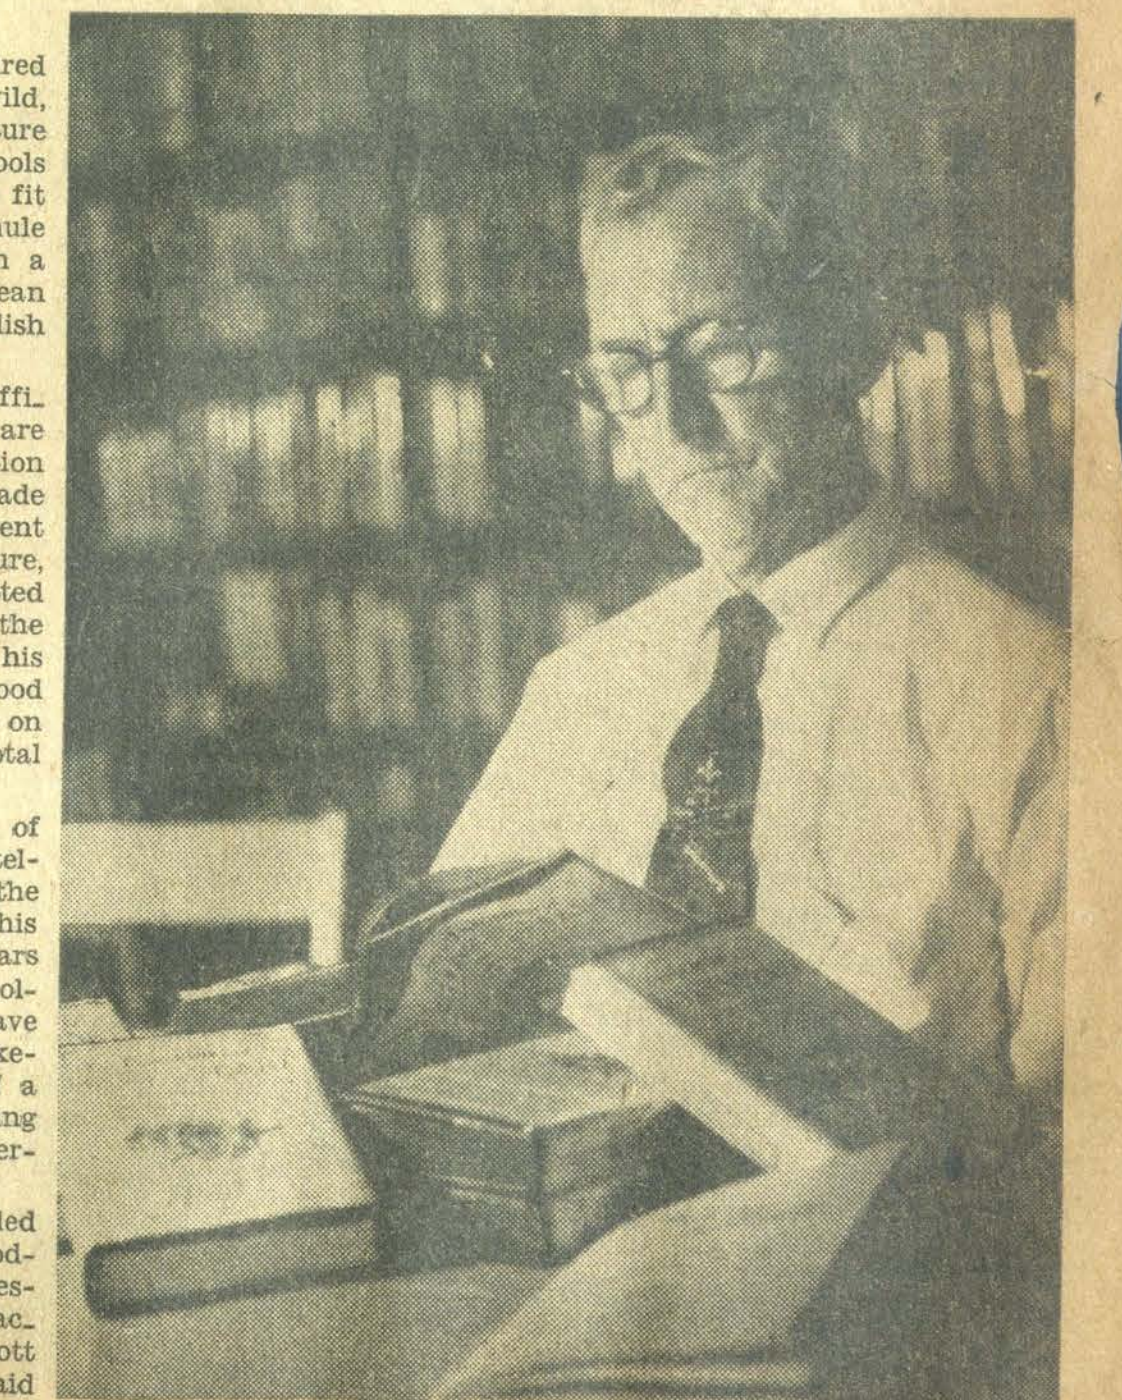

THO SHAKESPEAREAN AUTHORITY, HE NEVER ATTENDED HIGH SCHOOL

A man born almost a hundred miles from a railroad, in a wild, feud-ridden section where culture was an utter stranger, with schools few, far apart and crude, roads fit only for travel on a surefooted mule—how does it happen that such a man becomes a Shakespearean scholar and an authority on English literature?

The question becomes more difficult to answer when these facts are considered: His formal education has never extended beyond grade school; he had no encouragement from any teacher toward literature, his school days having been devoted mainly to the mastering of the time honored Three R's; to his home community in his boyhood days the Bible and the almanac on the wall comprised the sum total of reading matter available.

And yet Maryland D. Slone, of Raven, Knott county, whose intellectual horizons have topped the encircling high hills around his home on Caney Creek, for years has been known to teachers, college graduates and all who have known him as "a wizard in Shakespeare" and a man possessed of a deep knowledge and understanding of the great sweep of English literature.

Among those who have marvelled at his store of knowledge is Woodrow Allen, principal of the Prestonsburg grade school, long an acquaintance and friend of the Knott county man. "One summer," said Allen recently, "I had at Tusculum College a professor in Romantic Poetry who was fresh from Harvard and who now is head of the English

Allen Mims Cline, 66,
Native of Floyd County,
Dies At England Hill

Allen Mims Cline, 66, formerly of Prestonsburg, died at his home at England Hill, Boyd county, Sept. 2 at 7:00 a.m., suffering from a heart attack in his sleep.

A retired dairyman and farmer, Mr. Cline was born in Floyd county and was a son of Colonel C. and Margaret Porter Cline. He had been a resident of Boyd county for 35 years and was a member of the Missionary Baptist Church of Catlettsburg. He had been in ill health for several months.

Mr. Cline is survived by his wife, Lucy Fraley Cline; a son, Walker Scott Cline, Ozark, Ala.; a daughter, Mrs. Wheslie Crouch, Dunbar, W. Va.; three brothers, Virgil Cline, Catlettsburg, D. R. (Joe) Cline, Huntington, W. Va., and P. L. Cline, of Inez; two sisters, Mrs. Inez Moore, Lakeland, Fla., and Mrs. Leona Myers, Tampa, Fla.; and four grandchildren.

Funeral rites were held at the Catlettsburg Missionary Baptist Church, Thursday, with the Rev. Marvin Duncan, pastor, officiating, and Rev. Sam Sloan assisting.

Burial was in Catlettsburg cemetery. Pallbearers were: Lute Caldwell, Edgar Caldwell, John Caldwell, Arthur Bowling, C. E. Crouch and Burl Kindall.

LITTLE BOY—BIG FISH

Wayne Stumbo has had his part of the tough luck fishing this year, even as has yours truly, but he had the help of his seven-year-old grandson, Gary, the other afternoon and came in with a five-pound bass. The youngster brought the big fish to net without any help whatsoever from Gramps — otherwise, he would have lost it, maybe.

THE TIPOFF

Jackie Cooper was in one of those Our Gang comedies on television, the other night. Just a small boy then, Cooper was, but you didn't have to notice that to know it was an old film. The Gang was in a car, and they could find a place to park it outside school.

AUTUMN LEAVES (BEFORE IT ARRIVES?)

Spring gives most folks the urge to fasten onto a pencil and dash off a more or less deathless bit of poetry. It has no such effect on me, what with the fever I suffer at that time of year and the lure of lake and stream, etcetera. But Fall gets me to dreaming around like the Lost Minstrel, sad-like and all that. To forestall any of these urges on my part to set down my feelings about the matter in verse I turn to three gentlemen named Longfellow, Coleridge and Burroughs, and let them comment on the season:

It is the Indian summer . . . The wind is soft and low. It wants to us the odor of forest leaves, that hang wilted on the dripping branches or drop into the stream. Their gorgeous tints are gone, as if the autumnal rains had washed them out. Orange, yellow and scarlet, all are changed to one melancholy russet hue. —Longfellow.

Why is it that so many of us persist in thinking that autumn is a sad season? Nature has merely fallen asleep, and her dreams must be beautiful, if we are to judge by her countenance. —S. T. Coleridge.

Our autumn will always in some way be associated with the Indian. It is red and yellow and dusky like him. The smoke of his campfire seems again in the air. The memory of him pervades the woods. His plumes and moccasins and blanket of skins form just the costume the season demands. It was doubtless his chosen period. —John Burroughs's America

EXPERT COMING TO PAINTSVILLE AGAIN

GEO. L. HOWE

Well-known expert of Indianapolis will personally demonstrate his method without charge at the Howard Hotel, Paintsville, Thursday, Sept. 18 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Ask for Mr. Howe at desk.

Mr. Howe says the Howe method contracts the opening in remarkably short time on the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture and no matter how much you lift or strain as efficient as before you were ruptured.

The Howe Rupture Shield is adjustable to individual requirements, has no leg strap; waterproof, sanitary, practically indestructible and can be worn while bathing.

Large and difficult ruptures following operations especially solicited. Do not overlook this opportunity if you want gratifying results. Mailing address: HOWE RUPTURE EST., First St., Oakland City, Indiana.

FOR THE CHILDREN

We, the undersigned, being parents of children in school and having a great interest not only in their welfare, but that of all the children, have been convinced by our many fellow citizens that we could serve our county well as members of the Floyd County Board of Education. We, therefore, submit our names to the voters of our respective Educational districts No. 1 and No. 2, and state herewith our platform:

- Restore the teaching profession to its proper dignity by removal of Gestapo tactics and threats to teachers.
- Increase the salaries of all teachers by eliminating waste and unnecessary jobs.
- Bring all good teachers who have been run out of Floyd county back home to our own schools where they are needed.
- Keep good teachers teaching by creating an atmosphere of friendliness and good will among all school employees.
- Appoint a well trained, qualified Superintendent of Schools who has the ability to supply the educational leadership needed in Floyd county.
- Make appointments to all positions in the school system on the basis of qualifications.
- Keep the school system and the teachers free from all political entanglements.
- Improve the Course of Study in all high schools so that our children will not be handicapped because of a meager background when they go to college.
- Work with an Educational Advisory Committee made up of citizens from every community in the county to help formulate school policy and to develop a wise school building program.
- Encourage Parent-Teacher Association groups in every school district.
- Develop a more economical maintenance program by employing local labor thereby eliminating the many unnecessary permanent employees on the payroll.
- Provide a transportation program that will not force children to leave home before daylight and return home after dark, and eliminate discrimination between children attending rural schools and consolidated schools.

CPL. SAMUEL BIRD'S GRAVE ON BULL MOUNTAIN

Col. John N. Clarkson, Confederate cavalryman, after defeating Unionist boatmen and soldiers at the Boat Fight or Battle of Wireman's Shoals Oct. 3, 1862, a few miles north of Prestonsburg, camped that night in the vicinity of the town and next day moved through Bull Creek toward the mouth of Beaver Creek. He unexpectedly met a small force of Union soldiers on Bull Mountain which he easily defeated with the loss only of one man, Cpl. Samuel Bird, of Co. C, 7th Virginia Cavalry.

Cpl. Bird lay where he fell for several hours but when news of the dead man was brought to Prestonsburg Rev. William Keith, Methodist minister, went to the place late in the afternoon and buried him. Several decades later Congressman Frank Hopkins built a paling fence around the grave. When the WPA road was built over Bull Mountain it was necessary to remove the remains a few feet and a stone enclosure was constructed around the new grave.

sion immediately if a sufficient number of legislators replied that they would agree to support either of the two proposals and agree to get the job done within six legislative days.

His tally at the time of the announcement showed 10 senators were willing to make the commitment and 13 were unwilling. In the House of Representatives, Chandler got commitments from 39 willing members and refusals from 28.

Fifteen senators and 38 representatives failed to respond.

Although State Representative Sam Hale, of Floyd county, was listed as one of the legislators agreeing to a special session he did wire the governor that he resented the sending of the two proposed bills for approval before the lawmakers met.

Chandler singled out the Louisville delegation for criticism. He said he got no vote or encouragement from the Louisville legislators "even though the unemployment problem is at its worst there."

"Some gave me a 'no' and others went to the newspapers to reply," he said.

"I never expected (Senator) Gates Young to be for this. He has been in public life 40 years and hasn't distinguished himself in any position except possibly as a page. I understand he was a pretty good page."

Young was a leader of anti-Chandler forces in the 1953 Senate.

Chandler said a study of the replies would show generally that representatives of farming and mining communities were willing to pledge their votes for one of the two bills, while others wouldn't.

The marriage of Miss Betty Sue Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Gibson, of Minnie, Ky., and Mr. Tommy Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Roberts, Wheelwright, Ky., was solemnized Saturday in the Methodist Church at Martin, Ky.

The Rev. Leroy Sanders performed the double-ring ceremony in a setting of palms and emerald foliage banked about the altar, with branched candelabra holding white tapers, and arrangements of white gladioli centered with a white archway. Running through the aisle were pew shields made up of a cluster of greenery, fuji mums and white candles. Miss Dotty Gay Martin, organist, played the wedding music and Doug Smith was the soloist. He sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Carroll K. Childers, of Huntington, W. Va., was attired in a formal gown of white imported chantilly lace. The bodice had a sabrina neckline outlined with scalloped edges of lace and was highlighted with seed pearls and iridescents. The long lace sleeves draped to a calla point at the wrist, fastened with tiny covered buttons. The bouffant skirt of tulle was fashioned with pearls, starred flowered motifs goglet with alternating lace and pleated tulle forming a cascade back. Her fingertip veil of imported silk tulle was attached to a lace crown decorated with pearls. She carried a white lace covered Bible adorned with a white orchid and carnations with white satin streamers and pearls.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruby Jean Gibson, sister of the bride, of Minnie, Ky. The bridesmaids were Miss Anna Sue Stumbo, cousin of the bride, of McDowell, Ky., and Wilma Jean Rogers, of Morehead, Ky.

The maid of honor wore a ballerina gown of cotton blue silk organza with a fitted bodice of scooped neckline accented with a shoulder bow over a taffeta slip. The bouffant skirt was caught up on one side in front with a matching bow. She wore a matching headpiece with a short veil and carried a cascade bouquet of blue and white carnations with white satin ties and blue streamers.

The bridesmaids wore identical dresses in coral shade and carried cascade bouquets of pink and white carnations with white satin ties and pink streamers.

Mr. Jim Barker, of Morehead, Ky., was best man and the ushers were Richard Roberts, brother of the groom, and Gordon Hopkins.

The bride's mother wore a pure silk dress of embroidered organza with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a navy blue dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Miss Libby Hopkins was the flower girl. She wore a pink net dress over pink satin. Her headpiece was of white rosebuds trimmed with velvet ribbon. She carried a basket of mixed garden flowers.

The bride is a graduate of McDowell high school and attended Morehead College. She was formerly a teacher in the Floyd county schools.

She is now employed in the Michigan school system.

The groom is a graduate of Wheelwright high school and attended the University of Kentucky. He is employed by General Motors, Inc., in Detroit, Michigan.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the basement of the church. Assisting were Mrs. Carroll Childers, Edith Hopkins and Vivian Allen.

The couple will reside in Michigan.

Farming is the most dangerous major industry, based on the total number of accidental deaths, reports the National Safety Council. On the basis of the death rate per 100,000 workers, farming rates third, exceeded only by the mining and construction industries.

A work week with a national holiday means a smaller number of cattle and hogs coming to market. This usually means steady or higher prices the following week, according to marketing specialists.

Department at Iowa State College. I thought he was the best. But that was before I talked literature with Maryland Slone at his home, up there on Caney Creek. He told me things about authors and their works I had never heard before." Others have commented on his prodigious feats of memory, of his ability to quote Shakespeare, the Bible, great poetry as if he were reading it from the book. But Mr. Slone doesn't speak so highly of that memory of his. "It isn't as good as it once was," he says. "Don't let anybody tell you the years don't take their toll. I'm grazing 80, you know, and you don't remember at that age as well as when you're younger."

But, modest as he is, he will admit that if you read or quote any part of Shakespeare he can tell you the play from which it came and the character who said it.

In fact, Mr. Slone says you don't consciously memorize anything if you hope to retain it. "If you memorize, you forget," he says. "I simply read a piece until it becomes a part of me. That's how I remember it."

Maryland Slone is the tall mountaineer type, with few pounds added to his long frame over the years. He is a son of W. J. (Little Bill) Slone, pioneer resident of the rugged Caney Creek section of Knott county. His present home, a rambling, white farmhouse, is near his birthplace and is four miles downstream from the famed Caney Junior College (formerly, the Caney Creek Community Center) at Pippa Passes. The primary road ends two miles below the Slone home, and from that point on up Caney it mostly follows the creek bed.

"When I was a boy all you could safely travel on was a surefooted mule, although there was some wagon travel," Mr. Slone recounts. "We still have no highway, but the mail to Raven postoffice travels it."

He was about 20 years old when he saw his first railway train. This was at Williamson, W. Va.

How did Maryland Slone become interested in literature? One book, "Lorelei," did it, he says. He read the novel as a boy—and ever since he has been reading everything he could find to read. "Ivanhoe," "Count of Monte Christo," Dickens' Works, Shakespeare, of course, Tennyson, Bryant—everything—and a lot I shouldn't have read," he adds.

He has read the Bible through several times, and he ranks it ahead even of his beloved Shakespeare. But not until a few months ago, for all his love of the Bible, its beauty and truth, did he become a Christian.

"I've always been on the right side," he says, "but that doesn't mean I've always done right."

One work of fiction set him off in pursuit of his great love, literature, but there also was that great intellectual curiosity in the man which led him to other studies. He is a gifted mathematician, and he studied Latin at home to point that he surprised with his knowledge of the subject those who took an examination with him. "I learned it, but because I studied at home without help what I called some of those Latin words was mighty funny to those who had the benefit of Latin teachers," he said.

"I have never had any classical education," Mr. Slone points out. "Our first schools on Caney were built of logs, and our seats were rails or rough planks arranged around the room, not in rows as nowadays. There was a big fireplace, usually, that served the whole room."

Those early school terms lasted four months as first, then five and gradually lengthened. At that time the "scholars" did not know what grade they were in; they only knew they were in the third, fourth or fifth reader, or in primary or advanced arithmetic, and they usually didn't stop till they could solve every problem in the book.

After this country education he went to Hindman, where he attended "normal school" taught by Profs. George Clarke and Walter B. Byington, two of Eastern Kentucky's most famed educators of other days. "I didn't know there was such a thing as a high school for a long time," he recalls. The first such school he heard of, he says, was at Louisa, but he didn't attend it.

In fact, says Mr. Slone, his early education was so sketchy that to this day he spells his name as it was not intended to be spelled. "They named me after Merlin, the wizard or magician of King Arthur's court, but they failed to tell me how it was spelled, and when I saw how it was spelled, and when I saw how I adopted that spelling. Soon it was too late to change, and so it stands that way today."

Maryland Slone taught school 44 years, continuing in the classroom till 1941. His love of literature led him to teach it to his pupils, despite the County Superintendent's protests. It wasn't in the curriculum but he taught it anyway, with the hope that among those youngsters he might create the same love for literature that was his and so enrich their lives and afford them deep enjoyment of life they otherwise might miss.

"I would read them stories in installments, always stopping on a chapter where the interest was high in order to keep them coming back for more," he said in recalling his teaching days. "Great poetry," he said, "in most cases has a strong belief in God in it." Modern poetry? He has no use for it.

Interviewed by The Times on one of his recent visits to Prestonsburg, the Knott man recalls meeting Mrs. Alice S. G. Lloyd, famed founder of the Caney Creek Community Center, at Hindman when she was a young woman. He told of Mrs. Lloyd paying the salary of a competent teacher to help him in a school where an assistant hired by the county board of education was regarded by Mrs. Lloyd as not up to the standard required.

Discussing teaching methods, he recalled that in every school district where he was teacher he taught a little differently. "You've got to see where you are and what you've got before you settle on teaching methods," he said. "There's no iron-clad rule."

This tall mountaineer whose lithe body and almost-unlined face belie his years, vividly recalls two of the section's most noted feudists—Talt Hall and Clabe Jones.

"They stayed at my father's house on different occasions. I remember that the last time Talt Hall was there, along in the night he made my father put the fire out and was sitting up in bed, his pistol in his hand. He thought he had heard somebody around the house." "Somebody around the house" meant to Talt Hall that an enemy, bent on killing him, was out there in the darkness.

Neither Hall nor Jones appeared to be vicious men, he recalls from boyhood memory. "I heard Clabe Jones say that he had killed only one person and was sorry for it 'right bad.' He said he was hiding to ambush a man near the man's home and that his intended victim's young son discovered him. 'I knew I had to kill him, and I couldn't shoot for fear of arousing the man at his house, so I clubbed him to death.'"

Mr. Slone recalls that Clabe Jones told of the boy fighting "to the last."

Caney Creek is the birthplace of legend as well as a fountain-head of education. So Mr. Slone was asked about the story of a man of that area whose rock-throwing was legendary. He knew him well. In fact, the man whose prowess has been extolled around a hundred fireplaces of winter nights was his cousin—Franklin Slone. "They say—in fact, he said—he could kill squirrels with rocks, but I never saw him do this," Slone said. "But I can say he could hit a fellow on the head with one—I've seen that."

Not all this man's life has been the cloistered days of the book-worm or scholar. He has seen his party of trying times and perilous situations. Acquaintances will tell you that, although he was never engaged in any of the numerous fights and shootings there, he has been a man devoid of fear and one who commanded the respect of friend and foe.

His brother, he frankly admits, killed his uncle. Another brother was killed. Asked if he ever became involved in the situations thus created, he said, "To some extent, but I only wanted to see justice done."

"There have been times when I was tempted to pull the trigger, but I never have," he said here when pressed to discuss such matters.

In fact, it was his desire for peace that was a powerful reason behind his decision to quit the store business which he pled for years after leaving the classroom as a teacher. "It got so that I would sell some of the boys' cartridges for their pistols and they would turn around and shoot them in the floor of my store," he explained.

Self-taught in literature, mathematics, Latin and other branches of learning, Slone has also been a timberman and over the years has acquired widespread holdings of land—perhaps 3,000 acres, some say. Nine producing gas wells are on these lands. And there's coal aplenty.

Now, he is as near to retirement as a man of his energy can ever retire. He doesn't even read as much as he once did. The Bible, his favorite—that and reflection over a long life and the things he has seen, heard, learned and read—consume much of his restful hours.

One of his eight living children, Virgil Slone, is a graduate of Amherst and is now vice-president of a Chicago contracting firm. In Virgil Slone's graduating class was a youth named John Coolidge, son of the late President of the United States. Three of four of his daughters are teachers. His wife is dead.

Besides his career as student-teacher-merchant-timberman, Mr. Slone has one other claim to fame. He owned what is probably the oldest mule that ever lived. This animal died two years ago at the hoary age of 48 years, 34 of which Mr. Slone had owned him.

"Got pretty feeble before he passed on, didn't he?" somebody inquired.

"Well," said Mr. Slone with a slow grin, "along toward the last I got afraid to ride him."

Sit on this man's front porch with him after nightfall; look on the dark backdrop of the mountain across the way, see the scene suddenly lighted up by a jeep rounding a bend in the creek-bed road—and one finds himself quoting mentally from Shakespeare, too . . . "all the world's a stage."

enable coal from the Appalachian region to compete with other fuels in Florida. The Interstate Commerce Commission first approved the rates, suspended them in October, 1957, then put them back in force while completing its investigation.

"While the freight rates were under review," Morton said, "only those utility companies equipped to handle coal were potential users. It is now possible, with uncertainty dispelled by the I. C. C. decision, for other companies to spend the money needed to convert their boilers to coal."

"The movement of coal to Florida can now develop its full potential. The reduced rate will enable coal to compete with barged coal and fuel oil, because heretofore rail coal traffic could not compete with water-borne coal and oil."

Mrs. Reynolds Dies Suddenly at Martin After 5-Year Illness

Mrs. Rebecca Mayo Reynolds, 70, wife of W. J. Reynolds, well-known Floyd man, died at 7:30 a.m. Monday at her home at Martin. She had been in ill health for five years but her death was sudden and unexpected.

Mrs. Reynolds was a daughter of J. P. and Rhoda Goble Mayo. She was a member of the Christian Church for 40 years.

Surviving sons and daughters are Ralph Reynolds, Parker Reynolds, William Reynolds, Jr. and Mrs. Doris Pinson, all of Martin, Mrs. Alice Allen, Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Ann Vincent, Huntington. Sisters surviving are Mrs. Mary Flannery and Mrs. Ticker Roberts, both of Martin, and Mrs. Jenny Osborne, Clarksville, O. Also surviving are 23 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted at 2 p.m., Wednesday, from the Martin Church of Christ, the Revs. John Paul Bilitier and S. C. Honeycutt officiating. Burial was made in the Tom Osborne cemetery at Martin under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home. Active pallbearers were Furman Dingus, Huley Flannery, Claude Flannery, Stevie Stout, Billy Mayo, Lloyd McGary, Bill Wells, Phillip Dingus, John Mayo and R. J. Dingus.

Consultant Schedules Reading Discussion With Floyd Teachers

Mrs. Louise Worthington, of Ginn and Company, textbook publishers, will discuss the new reading program with Floyd county teachers, Sept. 18, at 6:30 p.m. at Martin high school building.

"Mrs. Worthington will be prepared to tell us about the new Ginn reading program which we hope to have in all our schools within the next two years," a memorandum from the County's Superintendent's office informed teachers.

"We hope you will be able to attend this meeting and learn as much as possible about the new program," the memo continued.

Dear Friend:

May we take a few minutes of your time to tell you about the FLOYD FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION—what it is and what it means to you, your family and your friends?

First, Floyd Federal was organized by people you know—business and professional people interested in the welfare of Eastern Kentucky. It operates under a charter granted by the Federal Home Loan Board of Washington, D. C. and its purpose as stated in the charter is "Providing a convenient and safe method for people to save and invest money and to provide for the sound and economical financing of homes." We do not know of any better purpose a financial institution can serve and we are sure there is no safer security than the security of the American Home.

Money deposited with us is insured by an agency of the United States Government up to $10,000.00 on each account.

Your money earns 3 1/2% compounded semi-annually.

Your money is available any time you may want it.

Floyd Federal invites your consideration when looking for a place to invest your savings. We have what every saver wants—SAFETY, HIGHEST EARNINGS AND AVAILABILITY.

Very truly yours,

F. E. HARMON, Manager

Remarkings upon man's capacity for self-service, India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru wrote, in his book, "The Discovery of India," "how amazing is this spirit of man! In spite of innumerable failings, man, throughout the ages, has sacrificed his life and all he held dear for an ideal, for truth, for faith, for country and honor."

Reflecting an abiding belief in the dignity of man, India's Prime Minister Nehru wrote in the work, "Toward Freedom," "Perhaps even in this world of armed conflict, there is such a thing as the spirit of man and the spirit of a nation, which is neither ignoble and weak and which may not be ignored, save at peril."

(Continued from Page One) Thursday on a previous indictment was set aside. The other officer indicted is Robert Beech, who was recently dismissed by Sheriff Her-shell Warrens. Eight of the true bills voted by the grand jury name as many men on charges of child desertion. Defendants in these indictments are Denvil Joseph, Forrest Mitchell, Everett Adkins, Lowell Hall, Dester Hamilton, Heston Scarberry, Johnny Parker, Ralph Deboard. Other major indictments voted follow: William Allen, seduction under promise of marriage; Bill Hines, cold check; Fess Roark, drunk driving; Ed Eden, assault and battery with an auto, accused of hitting George Parsons; Alma Clark, cutting and wounding Lillie Branham; Lillie Branham, assault and battery, named by Mrs. Clark as her assailant; Claude Edward Greer, breaking and entering the S & S Market at Hite; Clarence Hays, breaking and entering the Maytown school's lunch room; Fess Roark and Herbert Salisbury, grand larceny, accused of taking mining equipment owned by Reggie Watkins; Lawrence Brown, grand larceny, named in the taking of mines owned by Floyd Eikhorn Coal Co.; Charlie Miller and Lowell Akers, grand larceny, accused by Theodore Warrick of stealing his horse; Willie Case, Troy Hunt, Otto Horn, Herman Marshall, each named in indictments for possessing moonshine whiskey.

(Continued from Page One) 70 cents and the county school tax of $1.50 but adds 91c city and $1.95 school, making a total rate of $5.06. The information, gleaned from a booklet, "Kentucky Property Tax Rates," distributed by the Department of Revenue, Frankfort, shows that Pikeville residents pay high taxes also. There the city imposes 80c school and for other purposes $1.63. Ashland pays the highest school rate in the state for after contributing $2.00 for schools it pays an additional levy of seven cents for support of the Ashland Junior College. Paris has the unique distinction of paying a tax that the best legal talent says is unconstitutional and nobody complains, the booklet says but a few large corporations. The tax is an extra five cent levy for the library fund. Most Kentucky cities pay 50c for city purposes but Paducah and Pineville lead. The former contributes $1.99 and the latter $1.85. Many towns, namely Madisonville, West Buechel, Hindman and Hyden, pay no city taxes. Woodford county has the lowest tax rates in the state. There the county levy is only 44 cents and school, 90 cents. Montgomery county takes second place with a 47-cent city levy, but it adds $1.35 for schools. Counties in the eastern section with identical tax rates of 50 cent county and $1.50 school are Pike, Knott and Floyd. Letcher, Lee, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, Morgan and Perry exact a 70-cent county and $1.50 school tax. Louisa has the lowest rate for any town in the eastern area, collecting only 75 cents for city purposes. Turkey will be on school lunch menus this fall says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the third weekly purchase of 3,240,000 pounds of frozen, ready-to-cook turkey for use in the National School Lunch program having been made.

Oliver Elam, of this county, but now of Louisville, has become the owner of the Shell filling station at the corner of Bards-town and Beargrass, Louisville. Elam extends an invitation to his Floyd county friends to visit him while in Louisville. Elam has been in the city seven years. Mrs. Elam has been a grade school teacher at Buechel for two years. Her husband was a former employee at Appliance Park. It.

Newest National Park Is Historic Cumberland Gap

America's newest national park is the 20,000-acre Cumberland Gap National Historical Park near Middlesboro, Kentucky.

Dedicated in September, 1955, the park extends into Virginia and Tennessee and is the largest historical park in the federal system.

Cumberland Gap, a natural passage through a mountain barrier, was discovered in 1750 by Dr. Thomas Walker, thereby opening Kentucky to Virginia colonizers.

Daniel Boone first passed through the gap in 1769 with five companions. He left in 1771 and sought to return in 1773 to settle his family in the state. But the party was attacked by Indians in Powell valley and Boone's son was killed. Boone returned in 1775 with 30 axemen and blazed Wilderness Road.

Besides the gap itself, the park contains about two miles of Wilderness Road; the Pinnacle, from which can be seen parts of several states; ruins of an early mill and foundry; Civil War fortifications installed by federal and Confederate troops; caves and geological features, and the two-state peak where Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia meet.

The park encompasses a 20-mile segment of the Cumberland mountain wall split by the great pass. A winding road has been constructed on the back-bone of this ridge.

Pinnacle Mountain on the southeast side of the pass rises to nearly 3,000 feet and has a sheer Gibraltar-like face of 1,400 feet, overlooking the village of Cumberland Gap. On the crest are remains of Civil War trenches and gun emplacement. Carved in the stones are many inscriptions by pioneers and soldiers.

From the crest can be seen six states, including Georgia, Alabama and North Carolina.

T-Women Slate State Bond Drive To Zip Up Sales

There will be a lot more treasury agents in Kentucky in a few weeks; and instead of being T-men, they are going to be T-women.

These new Treasury agents are not going to be the sniping kind. They aren't going to investigate anything. They're just going to try to help put more zip in the sales of United States Savings Stamps in schools.

Most of these agents are parents who are active in Parent-Teacher Associations. Some teachers and school principals also will be Treasury agents.

There's a new gimmick this year to help promote the Saving Stamp program. It's credit.

These volunteer, authorized agents, recommended by school officials or Parent-Teacher Associations, will be able to buy the stamps on credit for resale to students. Until now, the P.-T.A. people or some school fund had to advance the money before Uncle Sam would turn loose of the stamps.

John U. Courtney, Kentucky director of the Treasury Department's Savings Bond Division, is a busy man these days as he confers with parents, school officials and civil-defense workers and speaks at numerous meetings. But he welcomes the opportunity to increase Savings Stamp sales because the stamp program is the only phase of his business in which Kentucky isn't a leader.

Year after year, Kentucky ranks among the top 10 states in the sale of Savings Bonds in percentage of quota sold. It's seventh now.

We also rank high year after year in payroll-savings-plan participation. It took Kentucky only seven months to exceed its pay-roll-savings quota for the whole year of 1958.

But in Savings Stamp sales, Kentucky had the biggest percentage drop of all states in the last school year. The Kentucky sales, $69,080, were 37.1 per cent less than in the preceding year. Kentucky stamp sales have dwindled steadily since the 1952-53 peak year, when $162,378 worth were sold.

Courtney estimated that 95 per cent of all Savings Stamp sales are made in schools, and that 60 per cent of all Savings Stamp sales in Kentucky are in Louisville and Jefferson county.

In his talk to parent-teacher groups, Courtney describes the stamp program as a way to teach thrift, money management, national defense, arithmetic, book-keeping, social studies, government and other subjects.

CATS DROP CLOSE ONE TO LEXINGTON ELEVEN

Lafayette high school's Generals, a four-touchdown favorite, struggled to a scant 14-13 victory over the Prestonsburg Black Cats last Friday afternoon at Lexington.

The Generals, slated to overwhelm the Prestonsburg team with superior reserves, failed to crush the small but stubborn charges of Coach John Griggs.

An upset seemed possible when Willie Ousley received a Lafayette punt, cut to the sidelines, and raced for 57 yards for a touchdown with 4:29 remaining in the first quarter.

An interception by halfback Cusley, late in the second quarter as Lafayette drove deep into Prestonsburg territory, was returned 96 yards. However, a clipping penalty brought the ball back to the Prestonsburg 10, with Prestonsburg retaining possession.

The Black Cats then failed to move the ball and kicked. The Generals scored all of their touchdowns in the third quarter when halfback Howard Hoover sped 34 yards and Bill McManigal plunged over from the one.

Behind 14-6, the Black Cats began mixing their ground game with passes. James Allen, Prestonsburg quarterback, completed eight of 12 passes attempted. Allen capped a 71-yard drive by plunging over from the two and also added the extra point.

Allen, safety man for the Black Cats, had an excellent chance to catch Hoover on his scoring 34-yard run. However, he was held by a blocker who snagged onto Allen's arm and held tightly until Hoover had galloped far enough in front. The officials, like everyone else in the stadium, were watching the runner and made an understandable error. Only by the watchful eye of a camera was this infraction caught. Films were shown Monday to the Prestonsburg squad, reviewing their errors.

Coach Griggs pointed out to the Prestonsburg squad their errors in line play. He pointed out that the linemen were charging too high; the offensive backs were not carrying out their assignments; there was too much block tackling, which enabled Lafayette backs to drive for additional yardage, and too little downfield blocking.

Films revealed that Willie Ousley did a superb job of running. If a Lafayette man had not hit the ball while Willie was turning sharply, he may have made a second scoring run. As described by Coach Griggs, it was just one of those tough breaks, but he described the run as a great one.

Ousley broke into the open two times during the game when one block would have sprung him away for a score. Bobby Gene Howell played an outstanding game in making outstanding blocks and tackles in crucial moments. A consistent performer and a determined player, Howell has indicated that he has the capabilities of an outstanding lineman.

Dennis Stephens also showed promise as a runner. Friday night's game with Hazard is viewed by many as a contest which might determine the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference championship.

HAZARD LEADS IN GRID RACE

Perry Countians Down Jenkins Hi; Next Meet P'burg Blackcats Here

By Gordon Moore

Hazard's rampaging Bulldogs and halfback Astor Sizemore overrode the Jenkins Cavaliers in a convincing manner Friday night to move into the top spot in the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference high school football race.

Sizemore, a 170-pound halfback who does everything well, scored two touchdowns, kicked a 15-yard field goal, three extra points, and averaged five yards in 15 carries to lead his team to the cherished 24-6 victory.

The Whitesburg Yellowjackets lived up to their pre-season billing as a conference contender in rolling over well-regarded Paintsville, 25-6, and Pikeville made coach Charlie Deaton's debut a success in pasting Elkhorn City, 19-0, in another league contest.

Jim Caudill's Perry County Bulldogs had too much speed and pass deception for a heavier Jenkins eleven. With the game just three minutes old, Hazard marched 60 yards to the 10 on Britt Handy's well-executed 45-yard trek, then Hazard lost the ball on downs. On the ensuing series, the Bulldogs came roaring back on a Ken Cobb to Decoursey Haliburton 30-yard pass to the four-yard stripe from where Sizemore crossed the double markers, and added the point after.

A mid-second quarter drive stopped on the Jenkins 15 and Sizemore promptly booted a field goal to increase the margin to 10-0. After forcing the Cavaliers to punt, Handy, fullback Bud Smyly and Cobb alternated in driving 47 yards to the two then Cobb heaved a payoff pitch to end Wendall Combs for a 17-0 halftime count.

Jenkins scored its lone tally in the third on a 55-yard march with fullback Tommy Brush, 225-pound senior, and Ross Chaney gaining the yardage. Chaney scored from the two.

In the final canto, Sizemore moved over from the five, following a 7-play, 41-yard drive. Handy, a big, fast, halfback, carried 12 times for 130 yards and usually had tackle Harmon Perry blocking for him.

Whitesburg used only one pass in downing Paintsville with a powerful ground attack. Fullback Ronnie Frazier tallied twice on runs of five and nine yards and booted one extra point.

Halfbacks Carlos Brown and Roger Kincer went over from 12 to eight yards respectively in providing Ed Moore's unit with a 13-0 halftime margin. Robert Wiley scored Paintsville's only marker on a 16-yard jaunt.

SPORTS CHATTER
By GORDON MOORE

The Hazard Bulldogs move into Prestonsburg Friday night to provide the first Conference test for the local Black Cats. Jim Caudill's veteran unit has won two conference games for top place in the league while Prestonsburg is 1-1 in non-league play.

A win for the Perry countians would make the Whitesburg-Hazard game, September 26, loom as the "big game" for the possible loop championship. If the Black Cats can upset the league favorite, the race would be a wide-open affair the rest of the season.

Whitesburg showed surprising power in handing Paintsville a 25-6 defeat last Friday, and veteran loop observers rate this year's Yellowjackets on a par with Hazard.

This Friday, Whitesburg is host to Benham, of the Cumberland Valley loop. The game will count in the overall standings as an E.K.M.C. game since Whitesburg did not schedule the necessary six games to be eligible for the conference crown. Benham was drawn as the league game from Whitesburg's four non-conference opponents.

Hazard's flashy halfback, Astor Sizemore, should easily break the all-time Eastern Kentucky individual scoring mark if he maintains anything near his present scoring pace. The biggest handicap facing the agile senior is his team only plays nine games instead of the usual ten.

In 1956, Frankie Patton, of Paintsville, tallied 144 points in ten games for the new mark. In Sizemore's first two games, he has scored five touchdowns, kicked six extra points and one field goal for a 39-point total.

Prestonsburg emerged from the Lafayette game in good physical condition, excepting quarterback James Allen, who played the entire fray with an injured hip. Coach John Griggs had Allen in Lexington, Tuesday, for additional X-rays and treatment of the condition.

Fleming's all-state center of last season, Junior Thomas, has joined Gary Harrison of Jenkins at the University of Indiana. Thomas, as was Harrison, was expected to enroll at the University of Kentucky last Monday.

Nine former E.K.M.C. high school football players are on Morehead's 50-man squad. The Eagles will open their home season, Saturday night, September 27, against Marshall College. This is the first time in the history of the two schools that Marshall has played in Morehead.

Ashland, 52-6 victor over Catlettsburg last Saturday, will play host to Pikeville, Friday, September 19, and Whitesburg on Friday, October 31.

 The Division of Probation and Parole has an officer in every judicial district in the Commonwealth. The division's job is supervision of all adults granted a parole by a special board. Another duty is supervision of parolees and probationers from other states now residing in Kentucky.

State Police Excel
 Modern communications play an important role in statewide and nationwide law enforcement. Kentucky's State Police excel in this field.

All State Police patrol cars, all detective vehicles, and all of the State Police posts throughout Kentucky are in constant touch with one another through voice radio.

At Frankfort there is a central communications office that links Kentucky State Police with other police forces all over the nation by radio and teletype.

A check with California on a license number is no more trouble for Kentucky officers than checking a Kentucky license plate at Frankfort.

John W. Stevenson Was Kentucky's 23rd Governor
 By CHARLES F. HINDS
 Secretary-Treasurer
 Kentucky Historical Society

In 1955, Gov. John W. Stevenson, who had lived most of his life in Covington, was honored by special exercises in his memory conducted by the Christopher Gist Historical Society of that area. A four-foot-high granite marker was placed on the site of Stevenson's home, now occupied by a state building.

John W. Stevenson was born in Virginia in 1812, the only son of Andrew Stevenson, an important political leader. Andrew Stevenson was speaker of the Virginia House of Delegates, speaker of the federal House of Representatives, and minister to England. John W. Stevenson was a member of both the Kentucky and federal lower houses, governor of Kentucky, United States Senator from Kentucky, and professor of criminal law and contracts at the Cincinnati Law School.

Following his graduation from the University of Virginia and a period of tutelage in a law office, Stevenson decided, on the advice of James Madison, to practice law in the west. He settled first in Vicksburg, Mississippi, but in 1841 he moved to Covington.

In a very short period of time, he became a successful lawyer. In 1845 he was elected to the Kentucky Legislature from Kenton county. From 1857 to 1861 he served in the U. S. House of Representatives.

He managed, during the Civil War, to stay clear of political entanglements in Kentucky, though his sympathies rested with the South. In 1867 he was elected lieutenant governor on a strong "Confederate" ticket. When Governor John L. Helm died after only a few days in office, Stevenson became acting governor. In the following year, he was elected governor by a 90,000 majority over his Republican opponent, R. Tarvin Baker. In February of 1871 Stevenson resigned office of governor to become United States Senator from Kentucky.

He served one term only as U. S. Senator, preferring to return to his neglected law practice in Covington and to a position as an instructor in the Cincinnati Law School.

Governor Stevenson died in Covington in 1886. He is buried in Spring Grove Cemetery in Cincinnati, Ohio.

THE ST. HILARION CASTLE

This famous castle figured into the lives of Crusaders and other famous personalities of the Middle Ages. It is located on the island on which Paul and Barnabas made a tremendous impact during their first missionary journey.

It was first built as a monastery, the date of which is unknown, though unlikely earlier than 965 A.D. Its old chapel still stands, and the paint on the walls remains in good repair, having lasted through the long centuries.

The Byzantines later converted the monastery into a castle. Its strategic position, high and overlooking the Kyrenia Harbor, made it ideal as a defense place for the security of the island.

This castle served as a refuge for kings, their families and the families of their supporters for many centuries while the island was subjected to attacks. Richard the Lionhearted conquered the island in 1191 and though he fell sick at Nicosia, he assigned the task of reducing the castles of the island to Guy de Lusignan. It followed that after a brief attack the St. Hilarion castle was surrendered together with Isaac's family and treasures.

Between periods of attacks the castle became a magnificent summer residence for the Royal family reigning in the island. Today the castle is preserved by the Department of Antiquity of the Cyprus Government, and is shown as one of the sights most interesting to tourists visiting the island.

Cohen-Hill Vows Solemnized At Mt. Sterling, Ky., Aug. 22

The marriage of Miss Claire Cohen and Samuel Smythe Hill, Jr., was solemnized by Dr. S. S. Hill, father of the bridegroom, at 7:30 o'clock, Friday evening, Aug. 22, at the First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Cohen, of Mt. Sterling, and the bridegroom is a son of Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Hill, of Versailles. The Cohens are former residents of Prestonsburg.

Woodwardia ferns, palms, lighted tapers in candelabra and arrangements of gladioli and Fuji chrysanthemums were used in the church decorations. Miss Betje Cosden, vocalist, sang "I'll Walk With God," "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee" and "Oh, Perfect Love," accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Louise O. Hoffman.

Mr. Cohen gave his daughter in marriage. She was attired in a gown of white tulle, fashioned with a fitted bodice trimmed in reem-broidered pearl-studded Alencon lace with tiny buttons down the back. The full skirt ended in ruffles and formed a circular court train. A jeweled cap of Alencon lace held the fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white Fuji chrysanthemums and stephanotis tied with satin shower streamers.

Miss Joan Welch, Lexington, was maid of honor. Her gown of ruby taffeta was styled with a fitted bodice, cowl neckline and trapezoid back. The headdress was a matching bow-topped veil. Her bouquet was of white asters with fall foliage and garlands of grapes.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Dan B. Mickiff, Jr., Versailles, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Robert Cohen, Lexington; Miss Elizabeth Lampkin, Starkville, Mississippi, cousin of the bride; Miss Roberta Moberley and Miss Edwina Prewitt, Mt. Sterling; and Miss Reita Rovers, Baltimore, Maryland. Their costumes were identical to that of the maid of honor, and they carried similar bouquets.

Andrew Quarles Blane, Hopkinsville, served as best man. Ushers were Robert Cohen, Lexington, brother of the bride; Dan B. Mickiff, Jr., Versailles; Lee Roy McNeely, Burlington; William Lancaster, Orangeburg, South Carolina; William Matze, Roanoke, Virginia; and James Hurley, Washington, D. C.

A reception was held at the Montgomery hotel. The bride's table held a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bridal couple and surrounded by lilies of the valley and tulle. A memory candle and silver candelabrum with lighted tapers flanked the wedding cake.

Greeting the guests in the hotel lobby and on the porch were Mr. and Mrs. Caswell P. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Neil R. Maxey, Mr. and Mrs. Caswell Prewitt, Mr. and Mrs. Overton C. Evans and Harry G. Hoffman, Jr. Mrs. Hal Galloway of Mobile, Alabama, and Mrs. John B. Dalve invited the guests into the reception rooms.

Serving the reception tables were Misses Martha Wooton, Louisville; Marianne Mumford, Frankfort; Marilyn Kuhns, Winchester; Lucy Pat Redding, Georgetown; Sarah Deen, Nashville; Carolyn Taylor, Richmond; Sharon Sachs, Indianapolis; Sarah Elizabeth Burchett, Sarah Noel Hill, and Marybelle Layne, Prestonsburg; Mesdames Ollie W. McCormick, William Ramey and William K. Wheeler, Mrs. John McCoy, pianist, presented the music. Mesdames John G. McCormick, John Demaree, Vance R. Evans and Howell Hunt also assisted in the dining rooms.

Misses Janet Sachs, Indianapolis, and Mary Frances Gay presided over the bride's book. Carrying baskets of pink rice for well-wishers were little Susie Berger, Lafayette, Indiana; Nancy Clay Gilbert, Montgomery, Alabama; T. J. Bigstaff, Jack Carrington, Jr., and Charles Douglas.

For the wedding, Mrs. Cohen, mother of the bride, wore a turquoise satin sheath dress with a tulle overskirt, matching accessories and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Hill, mother of the groom, wore a mauve lace dress with jeweled neckline, matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Virginia Intermont College, Bristol, Virginia; Georgetown College; Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, and is a member of Sigma Kappa social society.

Mr. Hill is a graduate of Georgetown College, Vanderbilt University and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville. He did graduate study at Cambridge University, England, as a Rotary International fellow. He is now a student at Duke University, Durham, North Carolina, working toward a doctorate. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity. The bridal couple left for a wedding trip to Canada.

Many Americans Can Remember 'Keeley Cure'

By J. COLLIS RINGO, Executive Director, Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism

Nearly every adult in the United States has heard of the "Keeley Cure." The words "Keeley Cure" have become part of the American language. Before the turn of the century and until the middle thirties, many believed there was a "cure" for alcoholism.

In 1879 Dr. Leslie E. Keeley, a veteran of the Army medical service in the Civil War, established the Keeley Institute at Dwight, Illinois, for the treatment of Alcoholics. Other institutes were licensed under the Keeley treatment system and at one time there was number operating in various parts of the country. The original Dwight institute is still in operation and many Kentuckians are Dwight alumna.

After nearly 80 years of treatment with more than 400,000 alcoholic patients, the Keeley Bulletin of April, 1957 says: "There is no pat cure for alcoholism. The disease can be arrested, the patient can recover, but the permanency of the recovery depends on total abstinence."

James H. Oughton, Jr., grandson of one of the founders of Keeley Institute, is the present administrator. Addressing a seminar on alcoholism attended by 89 mid-west ministers, Mr. Oughton said: "Ability to recognize alcoholism must be spread as widely as possible. . . . Being able to distinguish between social drinkers and the symptomatic and addictive drinkers is necessary for therapists or counselors who would help the alcoholic."

Using the "Profile of an Alcoholic" developed by the Yale Center of Alcohol Studies, Mr. Oughton pointed out to this seminar the progress symptoms of alcoholism, which affect approximately six percent of the drinking population. This "Profile" clearly delineates the early, middle and final stages of the disease. It is a most valuable tool in detecting alcoholism in the incipient stage. Mr. Oughton's concluding remarks were: "Education is the primary weapon in the fight against alcoholism."

One prominent business executive, after hearing the "Profile" explained by a representative of the Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism said: "I most certainly think it is something that every man should understand for his own protection, that every man who supervises the work of others should understand for the protection of his company's interest and for guidance in handling those who work under him."

Warrix Is Sophomore At Pikeville School

Pikeville, Ky., Sept. 4 (Spl.)—Floyd Warrix, of Allen, has enrolled as a second-year student at the Clear Creek Baptist School, a Kentucky Baptist Bible institute here. Mr. and Mrs. Warrix and son, Gary, are occupying one of the student cottages provided by the school.

Mr. Warrix, who is pastor of Young's Grove Baptist Church at DeWitt, is also employed at the Clear Creek Church Furniture Factory, which is operated as one of the school's student industries.

Cottage cheese is made from pasteurized skim milk, is low in calories and high in protein food value.

The market supply of broilers in September is expected to be nearly a fifth greater than a year ago, and probably will set a new record.
