

THURSDAY

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

APRIL 2, 1959

This Town— That World

April—time of changes, when even the names of things become something else.

You're grown up when you're old enough to know that a mirror is to prove to you that you can be dumb without being beautiful.

THIS IS A RELIEF

April 1 has to this point — 4:40 p.m. — passed uneventfully for us. Nobody has tipped us off to a story that refuses to be pinned down.

PROMISE

Young Jack Hill is stage manager for the senior class-play which will be presented here next Tuesday night.

CONFESSORIAL

The fact of the matter is, as some have heretofore suggested, I am not a fisherman. There was a time when I made a great show of being one.

FOREST FIRES' WANE, NOTED

Burned Acreage Unknown As Yet, Forester Says; Prosecutions Planned

An April shower helped to put out a big forest fire on Mare Creek Wednesday night, bringing to nine the number of woodland blazes suppressed in this county since Tuesday of last week.

The total acreage burned in this county is difficult to calculate, it was said by Bill Music, district forester, Prestonsburg.

Right now we are receiving reports from the six counties comprising the Eastern district and we are snowed under. It will be a week before we are able to say what the acreage is.

The Division of Forestry says the acreage burned is not as great as it was in 1953 but that the number of fires is greater this year.

Bane of the forestry program are the trash burners, especially gardeners and farmers, it is said. Last week the Division issued an appeal through the press and on the radio requesting a discontinuance of this work.

The Division plans to prosecute all forestry law violators, it was said today (Thursday).

COURT MAKES SETTLEMENT WITH THREE

Right of County Clerk To Contract Tax Bills To Be Subject of Suit

The Floyd fiscal court this week effected a settlement with three county officials on their official incomes for the years 1955, 1956 and 1957 but settlement with a fourth will be delayed until a declaratory judgment from the courts is received.

The court judgment will be asked, to determine if County Clerk DuRan Moore has the authority to hire tax bills made on a contract. Until a suit is filed and a decision is had, the settlement with the County Clerk will not be made.

Settlements, on the basis of audits made by Allen & Hager, auditors for the county, were made with County Judge Henry Stumbo, Commonwealth's Attorney Hollie Conley on his income while County Attorney, and Former Sheriff Gorman Collins.

In a statement made at the fiscal court meeting County Attorney Robert S. Wellman said that the action of the court on settlements with county officials will be final. "As County Attorney I have made this decision," he said, "because previously the Commonwealth Attorney, in the Burchett matter, contended that the County Attorney is without authority to act contrary to the wishes of the fiscal court, and must accept their orders and direction. While I do not agree with this contention, I do wish to avoid further controversy concerning such authority."

Wellman said he agreed with State Auditor Mary Louise Foust as to the matter of law set out in her audits, and he recommended that her suggestions and conclusions be adopted. "I especially note," his statement read, "the substantial sums claimed by the County Clerk as expenses paid in large part to his wife. These, it is claimed, were for services rendered under a contract whereby the recipient receives all of the fees allowed, in addition to any salary set for full time services."

He asked that the fiscal court make adequate investigation and inquiry concerning items or claimed expense by all officers, so that it may accurately come to a decision as to what ought to be allowed and what ought not.

TODD NAMED BY PRINCESS

As Management Engineer; Was Formerly Connected With Operation At David

Clark D. Todd, former director of industrial engineering for the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at David, is returning as management engineer of the Floyd firm's parent company, Princess Coals, Inc., it was announced last week by David L. Francis, president.

The appointment is effective immediately. Mr. Todd will maintain offices in Huntington and report directly to Mr. Francis.

The return in executive capacity by Mr. Todd marks an absence of four years. In his new position as management engineer for Princess Coals, Inc., Mr. Francis said, "Clark Todd will be responsible for the study and improvement of overall organization, methods, and procedures for all offices and divisions. In addition, he will study and advise on both short and long range plans."

Bert Combs Supporters To Visit Eight Towns Tuesday in Motorcade

A motorcade will leave here at 7:30 Tuesday morning, to make a swing through eight Eastern Kentucky towns in behalf of the candidacy of Bert Combs, of Prestonsburg, for the Democratic nomination for Governor, it was announced this week.

At each town brief talks will be made by business and professional men, farmers and miners from this county, it was said. The motorcade itinerary will include Salyersville, West Liberty, Morehead, Olive Hill, Grayson, Ashland, Louisa and Paintsville.

JAILER SUED FOR DAMAGES

In Death of Prisoner; Halbert Executrix Seeks To Recover $25,000.00

Floyd Jailer Prock Hayes was named last Thursday in a $25,000 damage suit filed in circuit court here as the result of a prisoner's death shortly after having been removed from the jail to the Prestonsburg General Hospital.

The suit was filed by Emma Grace Billips, daughter of Garner Halbert and executrix of his estate. Halbert died last Dec. 18. The suit listed the dead man as Garvis Halbert.

The petition, which was prepared by Atty. Claude P. Stephens, claims Halbert was detained in the jail after the jailer and his appointed agent had learned of his illness. It also is alleged that the prisoner told the jailer and his agent that he needed a doctor but that they refused to call one.

This action of the jailer, it is contended, constituted negligence and malfeasance in office.

Jailer Ray Click said at the time of Halbert's death that he called a physician shortly before 9 a.m., Dec. 18, as soon as Halbert's illness was recognized as severe.

EXPECT 1,000 AT FESTIVAL

Regional Meet To Hear Over 250 Performances By Area School Musicians

The Pikeville division of the State Music Festival opened for the first time under that name at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday at Pikeville College.

With some 250 performances, from solos to large bands and choruses, scheduled, the annual festival is expected to involve around 1,000 students from 18 Eastern Kentucky high schools. The entries were recently increased by about 35 music pupils and groups who do not wish state-contest ratings but only the advice and criticism of the judges.

The meet, known previously as the Pikeville Regional Music Festival, is listed for morning, afternoon and evening sessions through Saturday, Dr. A. A. Page, college president and festival manager, said.

In an experimental program this year, former regional music festivals are being held as divisions of the Kentucky state music festival. No statewide gathering of Kentucky student musicians will be held in 1959.

Four members of music departments of other Kentucky colleges are serving as judges for the Pikeville festival. They are Dr. J. E. Duncan, music-department head at Morehead State College, judging brass - instrument performances; Howard Karp, University of Kentucky, piano; Leslie Woelflin, Morehead, woodwinds; and James Van Pearson, head of Eastern Kentucky State College's music department, vocal events.

Two festival features open to the public will be a concert by the University of Kentucky woodwind quintet. See Story No. 9, Page 5

Former Evangelist Here Is Charged With Deaths Of Two In Auto Mishap

The Rev. William David Woolsey, 56, of Irvine, Ky., who has conducted revivals in this and other Eastern Kentucky counties, was held under bonds totalling $10,000 after his auto struck and fatally injured two pedestrians in Cincinnati.

Killed were Col. William Daum, 80, who served as an intelligence officer during World War I, and his wife, Sarah. Woolsey, a Church of God minister, was charged with second-degree manslaughter and failure to yield right-of-way to a pedestrian at a crosswalk. His case was continued in Cincinnati police court till next Wednesday.

FOUR AUTHOR SAFETY BILL

Cooper Bill Draws Fire Of United Mine Workers; Covers Small Operations

Senator John Sherman Cooper last week introduced in the United States Senate a bill to amend the federal Mine Safety Act, and the United Mine Workers of America quickly filed objections to it.

The bill, co-sponsored by Senator Thurston B. Morton (Ky.), Senator Harry F. Byrd and Senator A. Willis Robertson, of Virginia, contains the following major provisions regarding Title I mines, those employing 14 or fewer miners:

1. Give to federal mines safety inspectors the right—together with state mine inspectors—to close Title I mines in which there is imminent danger of a major mine disaster from explosion, inundation, fire or man-trip or man-hoist accidents.

2. Provide a quicker, cheaper, fairer and more convenient procedure for reopening Title I mines by allowing an immediate appeal to a federal court-appointed inspector if the state mine inspector does not agree with the Federal Bureau of Mines inspector.

YOUTH GROUPS TO SHOW PIGS

At Flemingsburg; Expect Entries of Feeder Pigs From Many Area Counties

Four-H and F. F. A. members from a seventeen county area are eligible to participate in two feeder pig shows to be held at Flemingsburg, May 6, and November 4. This announcement came yesterday following a joint meeting of youth officials, representatives of the State Department of Agriculture and members of the Northeast Kentucky Feeder Pig Sales Association.

H. L. Grannis, Jr., president of the Association, said that the show, sponsored jointly by the association and the State Department of Agriculture, will be financed on a matching fund basis this year to permit the holding of two shows. Objective of the event is to promote the production and sound marketing of clean thrifty meat-type pigs, Grannis continued.

Prizes offered for the two shows will total approximately $500, half of which will be provided from state funds and the remainder is to be raised by the association, it was said.

The show expected to draw over 200 entries from 4-H and F. F. A. chapters in Morgan, Wolfe, Magoffin, Mason, Lewis, Greenup, Lawrence, Boyd, Martin, Johnson, Elliott, Carter, Rowan, Bath, Fleming, Menifee, and Floyd counties and promises to be a colorful event. Youngsters will compete in their own 4-H or F. F. A. groups, for the prize money, according to Grannis.

General rules for the show and sale were worked out by county agent and vocational agricultural teachers in the area and will be essentially the same as last year. The rules follow:

1. All 4-H and F.F.A. participants must conform to the general rules of the Northeast Kentucky. See Story No. 6, Page 4

Letter From Morocco Apprises Couple Of Daughter's Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Goble, of Prestonsburg, recently received a letter, postmarked, Morocco. On the flap of the envelope was the sender's name, Mme. Chareq Mohammed.

The interest created by the foreign postmark changed to complete astonishment when they opened the letter. It was written by their daughter, Patty Sue, who had last written them from Washington, D. C., where her husband, Donnie Carver, was stationed with the armed forces.

The letter, a long one, and subsequent letters carefully explained to the Gobles what had happened. Nineteen-year-old Patty Sue had divorced her husband, and now was married to Chareq Mohammed who at the age of 22 is superintendent of 31 schools in his country.

They had met in Columbus, O., where Mohammed had been sent by his government to Ohio State University to study the American system of education administration. Later, he was sent to New York University, and after the Carvers were transferred to Washington they met again there.

1 DEAD, SPAN BLASTED ON AREA MINING FRONT

Three United Mine Workers pickets were charged with murder Monday in the Knox county death of Woodrow Smith. They were John Henry Warren, of Arjay, Bailey Perry, of Strait Creek, and Fred Gregory, Four Mile. Warren admitted shooting Smith, it was said by Don Sturgill, Commissioner of Public Safety.

An explosion, said to be dynamite, destroyed a rural bridge used by coal truckers in Pike county, Wednesday night, but a second blast failed to damage the home of T. O. Gammon, hauler of non-union coal. The Pike County Independent Coal Operator Association offers a reward of $1,000 leading to the conviction of the guilty party or parties.

The long-feared and traditional violence of the coal fields in time of acute contract trouble flared Tuesday with the death of a Knox county mine operator who was found cut down by seven bullets a half-mile from his mine on Big Sinking Creek.

The mine of Woodrow Smith, 42, had been picketed for two days by UMW members. When pickets showed up Tuesday morning Smith and another man were accosted by a group of five men. Two men detained Smith's companion while the other three went away with the mine owner. A workman who heard shots found his employer lying dead in the road.

Sheriff Paul Stamper said Smith had been operating a non-union mine. Elsewhere on the troubled Eastern Kentucky mining front were scattered events:

UMWA SEEKS COMPLIANCE

By Operators With Terms Of Wage, Hour Agreement Certifications Requested

Evidence of tightening-up efforts to enforce full compliance on the part of coal operators with the new "protective wage" clause of the contract to which most operators and the United Mine workers are signatory in this area was seen this week when mine owners received certification of compliance forms to sign and file.

The National Bituminous Coal wage agreement, amended Dec. 1, provides for the setting up of a Joint Industry Contract committee. It was organized in January at Washington with six members, three from the industry and three from the union. The certification of compliance requested of the operators was sent out by this committee. It was asked that the form be returned by April 1.

Besides certifying that the operator assent "The undersigned is all wage provisions of the new contract, it is required that the operator assent "the under signed is paying to the UMWA Welfare and Retirement Fund the full 40c payment required by the National Agreement to be paid on each ton of coal produced for use or for sale. A certification is required, the committee notes, every six months. Violations of the wage agreement may be investigated by the committee. See Story No. 7, Page 4

Break, Entry Charges Lodged Against Four; Akers Held for Pike-Co.

Four men were jailed here, Friday and Saturday, and booked on breaking and entering charges after a restaurant at Martin and a store at Orkney had been burglarized.

Jailed by Martin Policeman A. J. Reed in the break into Hamilton's restaurant at Martin were Archie Goble and Woodrow Spurlock. Deputy Sheriffs G. Parsons and H. Johnson jailed Dallas Howell and Kenneth Dye after the store of Mrs. Bily Moore had been entered at Orkney. The same officers booked Calvin Estep on a charge of interfering with an arrest.

Curt Akers was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis last Thursday and held for Pike authority. See Story No. 10, Page 4

WORK SLATED ON COTTAGES

Building At Dewey Lake Scheduled Within A Week; Road Resumption Planned

Construction of four duplex cottages to serve vacationists and tourists visiting Jenny Wiley State Park will begin Friday morning, weather permitting, it was announced this week.

At the same time it was said that work on the road from the boat dock to Stratton Branch will be resumed late next week after a long period of idleness which began with lack of easements from the county and federal governments and later was prolonged by labor trouble and other undefined difficulties.

Easements have been granted, and it was said this week that this has really not been responsible for most of the work-stoppage. Whether the Elam Construction Company, contractor on the project, will proceed with the work or if the job will be done by another firm was not known.

Access to the Stratton Branch recreation area will be difficult, if not impossible, for at least a part of the season because of the road construction delay.

When contract for the cottages was awarded it was said that completion was being sought by the start of the vacation season.

The cottages, each of which will house two complete family units, will be located in the two hollows opposite the boat dock and along the road leading to Stratton Branch. Plans call for modern buildings with indoor bathroom facilities.

COOPER BILL OFFERS HELP

NAICO Secretary Notes Senator Clark's Proposal Would Destroy Truckers

"Senator John Sherman Cooper's bill (S. B. 1562) offers life to the small coal mine operators," said Charles D. Richards, executive secretary of the National Association of Independent Coal Operators this week. Mr. Richards, also secretary of the Kentucky Truck Coal Operators Association, said that Senator Joseph Clark's bill (S. B. 743) is an effort to destroy the truck coal mining industry.

"Last year," said Mr. Richards, "Senator Clark introduced Senate Bill 3290 which, if passed, would have caused the closing down of several thousand small mines. This bill was supported by the United Mine Workers and the very large coal interests. The latter group wants to mine more tonnage from their mechanized mines, and the only way they can do so is to squeeze the small operators out. The United Mine Workers want 40c royalty on every ton of coal mined. The truck mines have grown in number, over 3,000, to where the United Mine Workers have lost control of them. They can't keep them organized and force them to pay 40c on the coal they mine. We defeated S. B. 3290 for them last year, and we intend to do the same for their S. B. 743 this year."

"Knowing they would again try to destroy us, we have worked steadily gathering evidence which will be presented to the Senate Subcommittee on Labor and Public Welfare," Richards added. "We will prove that Senator Clark's bill (743) is not a safety measure, but is an attempt to put coal business into the hands of certain large interests who are willing and can afford to pay 40c per ton. "We are most fortunate," Richards said, in that Senators Cooper and Morton of Kentucky and Senators Byrd and Robertson of Virginia introduced Senate Bill 1562. A portion of this bill requires a full scale investigation of large and small coal mines. If the very large coal interests and the United Mine Workers were actually seeking safety (as they claim) isn't it reasonable that they would support Senator Cooper's bill?"

When asked how Senator Clark's bill would destroy the small mines, Mr. Richards replied: "This bill would require all coal mines to abide by the federal Mine Safety Code. The code consists of rules and regulations applicable to the mining of coal which were drawn up by large coal interests, the United Mine Workers and the Department of the Interior. They are subject to revision without consultation of a tutor. See Story No. 8, Page 4

FISCAL COURT ASKS DEFEAT OF MINE BILL

Says Legislation Would Cripple Smaller Mines, Affect County Economy

Senate Bill 743, proposed to provide U. S. Bureau of Mines regulation of small mining operations as well as larger mines, should not become law, say resolutions adopted this week by the Floyd fiscal court and transmitted to U. S. Senator John Sherman Cooper and the Senate Subcommittee on Labor and Welfare.

The court noted, in its unanimous vote for the resolution, that "it is a function of the fiscal court of the county to protect, promote and maintain the welfare of the citizens of the county." Senate Bill 743 would bring under federal inspection and control Title I mines (those employing 14 or fewer workers) as well as larger operations.

Small mine operators say such legislation would remove them from the coal business, and some claim this is one aim of the bill. Another piece of mine legislation, Senate Bill 1562, co-authored by Senators Cooper, Morton, Byrd and Robertson, would exempt Title I mines with certain provisions. One such provision would give federal mine inspectors authority to close small mines in imminent danger of disaster but would provide what Senator Cooper terms a "fair and speedy procedure for determining whether conditions of imminent danger in a closed mine have been corrected, and whether the mine is ready for reopening."

Of Senate Bill 743 the fiscal court resolution said: "Our investigation convinces us that Title I mines have a better safety record than Title II mines (now under federal regulation); that fatality statistics for the Commonwealth of Kentucky show that had Title II mines had as good a fatality record as Title I mines, there would be fewer miners living today who lost their lives in Title II mines in Kentucky in 1958; that reliable evidence indicates that not a single life would be saved as a result of Senate Bill 743 becoming law."

The court's resolution notes that there are more than 2,500 such small mines in Floyd and surrounding counties; that this is an economically distressed area; that coal mining is its basic economy; that Title I mines are legitimate. See Story No. 4, Page 4

FLOYD SPELLING BEE HONORS WON BY GIRLS

Amelia Wiley, 11-year-old sixth-grade pupil of the Betsy Layne consolidated school, won the Floyd county spelling bee here Saturday, and she and the runner-up, Eva Pauline Hamilton, 13, of the Teaberry school, will represent the county in the Herald-Dispatch regional finals at Huntington next month.

Winner of the Tri-State finals will receive a week's trip, all expense paid, to the national spelling bee in Washington, D. C., where he or she will compete with area champions from all over the United States. The Teaberry girl stumbled on "description," which the winner spelled, following this with the spelling of the next word, "disappointed." The winner is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wiley. Her teacher is Melvina Newsom. The runner-up is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Hamilton, is taught by Helen Akers. Both girls will be guests of the Floyd County Board of Education at the Huntington spelling bee. Each contestant in the county bee received from the Board a dictionary as a prize.

Names of other spellers in the bee here, the school each represented and the word missed by each follows in the order in which they were eliminated:

Thomas E. Sword, Dwale, "September;" Dennis Akers, Brandy Keg, "mill;" Evelyn Ambury, Harold, "northern;" Oscar Hyden, Spradlin Branch, "skis;" Bennie Hall, Garrett, "sale;" Helen Currutte, Auxier, "all right;" Vickie Scott, Stone Coal, "doesn't;" Joan Carolyn Stumbo, Salsbury, "waiting;" Elder Goble, Jr., Prestonsburg, "forty;" Bety Lackey, Tram, "awfully;" Linda Lou Miller, Lambert, "immediately;" Linda Gibson, Wayland, "eastern;" Bob Tallent, Maytown, "proteins;" Janet Clay, David, "extinct;" Barbara Ann Reffitt, Cold Springs, "essential;" Joan Carol Hall, Weeksburg, "artificial;" Junior Eorn, McDowell, "opportunity;" Edna Smith, Allen, "haunted;" Judith Sammons, Drift, "physical;" Edith Miller, Wheelwright, "stenographer;" Bobbie Napier, Martin, "arrangement."

"Make Tuesday Night Workshop Night," is a familiar and meaningful expression in Prestonsburg and Floyd county. Each Tuesday night, husbands of federated clubwomen settle down to baby-sit, read or watch television while their wives hasten to Arts and Crafts Workshop classes at the Floyd county high school, where 55 participating members devoted over 2,000 relaxing and enjoyable hours in the workshop this year in their favorite arts and crafts. The workshop was primarily planned for the Prestonsburg Woman's Club, Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club and the David Woman's Club. Due to popular demand, it has recently included a few non-federated women, when vacancies in enrollment occurred.
The Prestonsburg Woman's Club and its president, Mrs. R. V. May, are duly proud of the Arts and Crafts Workshop, with Mrs. H. L. Ley, as director, for the past four years. Mrs. Ley organized and formulated plans for a successful workshop year by appointing individual responsibilities to members of the Arts and Crafts committee: Miss Fannie Mae Howell, material and equipment; Mrs. Hobart Frazier, properties; Mrs. W. W. Wallen, telephone; Mrs. Wm. E. Hunt, housing; Mrs. James Donahoe, exhibits, and Mrs. Clyde Burchett, publicity.
A schedule of diversified crafts was laid out by Mrs. Ley, which began in September of this year in dry flower arrangement. It was not uncommon to visit a clubwoman and find weeds and foliage drying from hangers, magnolia leaves preserving in a glycerine solution and zinnias on a 10-day vacation in borax, all of which led to beautiful and artistic arrangements made possible through the efforts of Mrs. Marvin Music.

The most popular class, that of shell craft, came in October and was taught by Mrs. Ed Burke. The enthusiasm displayed in this class was reflected in a colorful array of large straw, shell-trimmed bags. This class led into small shell decorations of useful articles and gifts.
Also in October, keen interest was created by the demonstrations of different arts and crafts at the Floyd county fair.
December was titled "Christmas Gift Month" and January, "Home Month," urging the making of something to beautify the home. Mrs. Wm. Dingus instructed woodcraft and Mrs. W. E. Hunt, tilecraft. At the Christmas dinner party of the club, door prizes were made for the husbands by the Arts and Crafts Workshop.
The most colorful classes of the year was the creating of the Easter chapeau in the millinery class, with Mrs. Clyde Burchett, as leader.
In the past years of the workshop, many other crafts were learned, such as linoleum block printing, rug hooking and braiding, metal craft, basket weaving, etched aluminum, textile painting, and china painting. Many women have hand blocked and silk screen printed their personal Christmas cards, gift enclosure cards and note paper.
The results of the workshop has been reflected in the homes of the community, Girl Scout troops, Cub Scout packs and many other churches and civic groups have benefitted from the skills that have been learned in the workshop.
The "grand finale" of the work-

Combs Wins Suit For Magoffin Widow

The Chandler people are going around in Eastern Kentucky trying to tell that Bert T. Combs was a company lawyer. They hope this rumor will cause working people to vote against Bert T. Combs.

I believe that every voter should learn all he can about the candidate and vote according to his own conscience. But when one side tries to win by false rumors, someone has to speak up so that the people will know the truth. That is why I'm writing this letter.

My husband was injured in September of 1956, and he died a few days later, leaving me a widow with one infant child. My husband was killed by high voltage lines of an electric company. Bert T. Combs filed a suit for me against the company in the Magoffin Circuit Court, and I received $18,500.00 as a result of his efforts.

The records of the Magoffin Circuit Court will clearly show that what I have written is the truth. I want everybody to know that Bert T. Combs is a friend to the people of Eastern Kentucky, and represents the common man.

imate state-licensed small businesses; that it is believed Senate Bill 743 is an economic measure not designed to promote safety but rather to deprive workers of an opportunity to earn a living at the only occupation in which they are experienced, and that it will "promote disrespect among our citizens for a federal law which we believe is designed to survive out their legitimate small businesses and deprive workers of the lifetime savings."

Urging the Senate sub-committee not to permit the bill to become law, the court at the same time urged it to support legislation such as Senate Bill 1562 offered by Cooper, Morton, Byrd and Robertson. The court described the legislation it approves as a law that will provide education and training at all mines by the U. S. Bureau of Mines to prevent accidents from roof-falls. "We furthermore support legislation that will provide impartial investigation of safety conditions in all mines; and, if as a result of such investigation, there is reason to believe that lives can be saved through further legislation, we will support same."

Banner Woman Dies Thursday, Last Week, Heart Attack Victim

Mrs. Alice Crum, 73, of Banner, died Thursday of last week at home of a heart attack. She had been ill four months but death was sudden, it was said.

Mrs. Crum was a daughter of Henry and Rebecca DeRossett Woods, of Allen, Junior Crum and Carnial Crum, both of Lancer. Cecil Crum, of Banner, and Mrs. Mary Anne Reynolds, of Watergap. A sister, Mrs. Susan Blackburn, of Endicott, survives.

Funeral rites were conducted at home Sunday, the Revs. Isaac Stratton and Henry Crider officiating. Burial was made in the Crum cemetery at Banner under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

These days, even a little chest cold will deter me. I have stopped consulting the barometer to see if fishing conditions are right; instead, have taken to trying gauge wind, weather and a lot of other things that afford excuses. A sunny afternoon, with time on my hands, no longer sends me pacing the house like a caged tiger; I can miss those delectable hours now without feeling that some of the best of life is slipping past and is gone forever.

Here it is April 1, and not a line have I dampened.

That hasn't happened before, man and boy, in thirty year.

I've even taken to staying home on the strength of weather forecasts which I know are as spurious as a Russian promise.

But shed no tears for me. Wait till I do go fishing. Then let your sympathy flow unrestrained.

3. Requires the Federal Bureau of Mines to conduct studies and investigations in coal-mining states to find ways of preventing disasters from rib and roof falls and to determine the effect that federal mine safety legislation would have upon Title I mines.

In his remarks upon introducing the bill in the Senate, Senator Cooper pointed out that the bill is identical to that recommended by the Senate Labor Committee last year, after careful study and deliberation.

Senator Cooper noted that the bill would provide protection against major mine disasters for all mines—regardless of the number of employees—and at the same time, would provide an opportunity to determine the effect Federal legislation would have on small mines. He said also that there had been serious claims last year that most small mines would be forced to close if certain requirements included in the federal standards were made applicable to small mines even though there might be no increase in mine safety from such requirements. The Senator referred to the existing unemployment and distress in the mining industry in Eastern Kentucky, in some parts of Western Kentucky, and in other states. He also pointed out that if these mines were closed unnecessarily as a result of federal legislation, there would be a loss of great natural wealth in many areas of the country and in Eastern Kentucky in particular.

mittee, it was pointed out, and charges of violations, to be brought in writing by either signatory, will be heard by the committee at places it will designate.

Mine operators were also recipients of a demand for payment this week of one-half a mill on each ton of coal produced last year toward the expense of maintaining the Joint Industry Contract Committee. A like amount is being paid by the union.

The "protective wage" clause of the contract, about which much controversy arose, provides that the United Mine Workers "will not permit any agreement or understanding covering any wages, hours or other conditions of work... on any basis other than those specified in this contract... The United Mine Workers of America will diligently perform and enforce without discrimination or favor the conditions of this paragraph and all other items and conditions of this contract."

Section B of the wage clause provides that "the Operators agree that all Bituminous coal mined, produced or prepared by them or any of them or procured or acquired by them or any of them under a subcontract arrangement shall be or shall have been mined or produced under terms and conditions which are as favorable to the employees as those provided for in this contract."

ing the small mine operators. The federal Coal Mine Safety Act requires compliance with the code. At this time mines having 14 individuals regularly employed underground are exempt from compliance with the code. The small mines use antiquated methods in producing their coal. They truck their coal to a central shipping point which costs an average of one dollar per ton. Profits are slim in this portion of the coal industry and it is absurd to entertain the thought that these small mines could maintain the same safety equipment and standards as does the largest mine in the United States. We can't do it and the proponents of Senator Clark's bill are well aware of it.

"We would welcome an investigation of all mines in order to determine exactly what safety measures are needed. Senator Cooper's bill would accomplish this and protect us from those who would wreck the economy of vast areas for purely selfish reasons."

Melvin Ward, 78, Victim At Johnson County Home; Burial, Mollett Cemetery

Melvin Ward, 78, of Johnson county, died at Boons Camp at 2:30 a.m., Tuesday. He was the father of Bennie J. Ward, of Wheelwright.

Mr. Ward was a native of Martin county, the son of the late Bennie and Mary Jane Mills Ward. He was a retired farmer. He had been in ill health for several weeks.

Surviving, beside Bennie Ward, is another son, Coels Ward, of Boons Camp, and a daughter, Mrs. Ethel Willingham, Asheville, N. C. A sister, Mrs. Dovie Blevins, of Van Lear, survives.

Funeral services were conducted today (Thursday) from the Little Friendship church at Boons Camp and burial was made in the Mollett cemetery at Boons Camp.

"I, as County Attorney, am ready to take such action as the fiscal court may direct, to recover any and all amounts from whomsoever they may find owed Floyd county," he concluded.

Involved in the County Clerk settlement is the question of the Clerk's authority to pay contract fees for making out tax bills for the three years. The amounts paid for this work during the three years totalled approximately $11,000.

County Judge Stumbo reported the following income for each of the years, without any deductions claimed for expenses: 1955, $6,148.81; 1956, $6,109.06; 1957, $6,079.80. (The constitutional salary limit is now $7,500 a year).

Former County Attorney Conley reported a net income of $7,808.57 for 1955 after expense deductions of $1,603.36 had been made. He had paid back to the county a total of $616.27, which, the audit showed, represented an overpayment of $7.70. For 1956 his net income was $6,984.04 after deduction of $979.68 expense; and for 1957 his net was $6,819.29 after $693 expense deductions had been made.

Ex-Sheriff Collins' reported no excess income. For 1955 the audit showed a net income of $1,163 after deputy hire deductions of $21,279.66. Net income for 1956 was $1,694.25, with deputy pay deductions of $22,527; for 1957, $4,694.40, after $17,932 deputy hire deductions had been made.

The question of $75 a month auto expense for Ex-Sheriff Collins was settled when it was held by the court that his mileage expense equalled or exceeded that amount.

In another action the fiscal court released all claims it has to the old bridge that is being replaced on the David road at the forks of Middle Creek, and specified that the state may use the bridge wherever it deems it is needed in Floyd county.

range planning, the development of new mines and properties, and the coordination of production and sales."

In 1954 Mr. Todd was appointed plant manager of the Ex-Cell-O Corp., facilities in Lima, Ohio. As plant manager of the Ex-Cell-O operations, he managed approximately 1,200 employees, where the manufacturing was devoted to precision parts for jet aircraft engines. Mr. Todd's management functions included production, operation costs, purchasing, industrial relations, industrial engineering and accounting procedure.

In 1936, Mr. Todd graduated from Marshall College and since has devoted his time and efforts to studying and implementing methods to improve production and reduce costs in the metals and mining industries. He has held many executive positions in firms throughout the general area. In Huntington, he began his career as a checking engineer with the International Nickel Co., and later joined the U. S. Steel Corp., National Tube Co., as a section industrial engineer, in Lorain, Ohio.

Ann B. Hall Says She, Too, Has Been Falsely Accused

Lon C. Hill referred to me in last week's issue of the Floyd County Times as a "Tool" of the Combs-Wyatt Supporters. To Mr. Lon Hill I want to say this: I'd rather be a conscientious tool, WITHOUT PRICE, than to be a tool for any state job, such as Lon Hill's brother, Joe Hill, his uncle, Harry Hill, and his cousin, Polk Hill, all of whom are on the state payroll.

I want the people to know I am for the MOUNTAINS, not just for the HILLS.

My anti-Chandler stand in the Legislature was based on conscience and the welfare of all of Kentucky, and likewise, my unqualified support of the Combs-Wyatt Ticket is based upon the same principles, THE WELFARE OF ALL OF KENTUCKY.

The fact that I stood for what was good for all the people of Kentucky during the Legislature, (even though I was told that I would vote as they said or my brother, who is state employed, would be fired) has proven that I put the welfare of all Kentucky above that of any one person or state job, and that without question I am not a tool as Lon Hill says, but rather a PRECISION INSTRUMENT in helping to elect Bert Combs and Wilson Wyatt to the offices of Governor and Lt. Governor, thereby building a greater Kentucky.

As for Lon C. Hill accusing me of telling him, or anyone else, that Bobby Meade was seeking an appointment to West Point, or that Lon Hill, "Might keep him from getting the appointment," Lon Hill over-estimates himself because I do not think he could stop anything, not even stopping anyone from voting for Combs and Wyatt come May 26, 1959.

I feel that the people who read the Floyd County Times have lost faith in any statement Lon Hill might make, after reading all the untrue statements he has had published in this paper, and especially after reading all the statements of the good people of Floyd County who publicly declared through this paper that their names had been used by Lon C. Hill without their knowledge, consent or approval, and who are publicly and actively supporting the Combs-Wyatt Ticket. This is but a few of the many irresponsible acts of Lon C. Hill in connection with this campaign, and should forewarn the people not to be fooled by any "Gold mine in the sky promises" made by him.

To support my position in this matter I submit to the people the following notarized statement:

"I, Ann B. Hall, state as true that I did not tell Lon C. Hill, or anyone else, that Bobby Meade wanted, had applied for or was seeking an appointment to West Point. I have never in my lifetime heard Bobby Meade, his mother or any other person, speak of West Point in connection with the name of Bobby Meade.

(S) ANN B. HALL

Subscribed and sworn to before me this March 30, 1959.

FILING DEADLINE REACHED, HATCHER IS LATE ENTRANT

The Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor and auditor attracted the biggest fields as last-minute candidates hustled to beat the Wednesday midnight filing deadline.

Seven Democrats seek the second spot, including Wilson Wyatt, Louisville; John Y. Brown, Lexington; Ben J. Butler, Lexington; Mrs. Ben Kilgore, Franklin, and J. B. Wells, Jr., Paintsville.

Of those five, Wyatt—running on a ticket headed by Bert Combs—is the only avowed opponent of the state Administration.

A late entry was George Glenn Hatcher, of Prestonsburg, twice secretary of state, who filed for the Democratic nomination for auditor. The office is also sought by six other Democrats. Hatcher had announced earlier he would run for secretary of state.

Hatcher was defeated for Court of Appeals clerk in 1935, his first try for a state-wide office. He won for secretary of state in 1939 and again in 1947.

Hatcher ran for the United States Senate in 1950, but lost to Earle C. Clemmets. He lost for auditor in 1951 and for appellate clerk in 1955.

Besides the major Democratic candidates for governor, Lieutenant Governor Harry Lee Waterfield and Combs, three others seek the nomination.

Former Louisville Congressman John Robison, Jr., topped a list of three gubernatorial candidates for the Republican nomination.

The only Democrat still unopposed was Miss Doris Owens, clerk of the Court of Appeals, who is running for a full four-year term.

The gubernatorial primary, first to be held in the spring, has a precedent-setting man-and-wife team on the Republican ticket.

State Senator Ed P. Warinner and his wife, Josephine, of Albany, are trying for lieutenant governor and auditor, in that order.

Women are well represented on the list of candidates. They have filed for various offices, nine being Democrats.

The biggest single lure by far are the three seats on the Kentucky Railroad Commission. Twenty-three Democrats and Republicans have filed for the Third District seat alone.

L. B. Moore, Prestonsburg, Republican, this week withdrew as a candidate for Railroad Commissioner from the Third District.

Here are the candidates who have filed:

FOR GOVERNOR
Democrats—Harry Lee Waterfield, Clinton; Bert T. Combs, Prestonsburg; Jesse N. R. Cecil, Louisville; Wilton B. Cupp, Covington; James L. Delk, Frankfort.

Republicans—John M. Robison, Jr., Louisville, Granville Thomas, Everts, Thurman J. Hamlin, London.

FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR
Democrats—Wilson W. Wyatt, Louisville, John Y. Brown, Lexington, Ben J. Butler, Lexington; Mrs. Ben Kilgore, Franklin, J. B. Wells, Jr., Paintsville; E. Neville Browning, Cobb Hill; Russell Porter, Maysville.

Republicans — J. Phil Smith, Jackson; Ed P. Warinner, Albany; Pleaz Mobley, Manchester.

FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION
Democrats—Wendell P. Butler, Frankfort; W. Z. Carter, Murray; Carlos Oakley, Morganfield.

Republican—Douglas F. Miller, West Irvine.

FOR AGRICULTURE COMMISSIONER:
Democrats — Emerson Beauchamp, Russellville; Robert Cleveland, Pleasureville.

Republicans—George Whittington, Henderson; William Hendren, Richmond; William C. Mann, Marrowbone.

FOR TREASURER:
Democrats—Miss Pearl Runyon, Belfry; Mrs. Thelma L. Stovall, Louisville, Miss Mary Louise Foust, Shelbyville; Kerney Cole, Frankfort.

Republicans — Wallace Jones, Lexington.

FOR SALE—Modern, 10-room home. W. B. Boyd, Phone 2760, Prestonsburg. 4-2-4t-pd.

FOR RENT — Furnished 4-room house, bath, utility rooms, built in knotty pine kitchen. Goble Addition. Phone 2470, Prestonsburg. 4-2-3t.

FOR SALE—Mel Endicott farm, 17 acres, log house, 16 acres timber, water well and fruit trees. Located on Home Branch, Buffalo Creek. $300. See HENRY HOWARD at Cash Furniture Store, Prestonsburg.

6 THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT INSURANCE OF YOUR SAVINGS HERE

- 1 Your savings here are insured to $10,000 by Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an instrumentality of the United States Government.
- 2 This permanent government corporation was created by Congress in 1934 to guarantee the safety of savings in insured savings and loan associations.
- 3 This insurance is automatically in effect on savings accounts here—applying to both new and old accounts.
- 4 Insurance premiums are not charged to the saver, but are paid to Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation by this association.
- 5 Terms of insurance protection, under an Act of Congress passed in 1950, are similar and comparable for savings and loan associations insured by Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation—and for banks insured by Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.
- 6 In addition to the protection of your savings by this insurance, you get the basic safeguards of sound investment and conservative local management.

Each Saver's Funds Are Insured Up To $10,000

And—your savings here earn a worthwhile return —3 1/2% — That makes them grow faster!

WHAT IS WRONG... WITH TELLING THE WHOLE TRUTH ABOUT THE BIG GAS & WATER WORKS DEAL?

In a letter addressed to "Dear Gas & Water Consumers," dated March 16, 1959, and signed by the candidate himself, Bert Combs tries to put the blame on Governor Chandler for the increased utility rates in Allen, Garrett, Wayland, Bosco, and Weeksbury. Mr. Combs bravely adds, "—I am basing my solicitation of your support upon TRUTH."

This crude attempt to deceive those water and gas consumers is an insult to their intelligence and will not fool anyone.

Every person in Floyd county above the age of 12 knows how the Big Gas and Waterworks Deal was pulled off a few years ago, and by the very same "Courthouse Gang" in Prestonsburg that is now trying to get votes for Bert Combs.

Both the consumers and the taxpayers know that the Federal Court is enforcing the higher rates in order to keep the bonds from defaulting. Everybody knows this story, Mr. Combs, and they know that the little band of sharpies who are supporting you are the very ones who made a "killing" of several hundred thousand dollars at the expense of the innocent consumers and taxpayers.

If this is the brand of truth on which Bert Combs is basing his campaign for Governor, then it is no wonder he is so far behind.

For honesty, experience, and sincerity in the Governors office, elect HARRY LEE WATERFIELD, the MAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Waterfield in trouble; Leary, Chandler in conflict

There was a time when a split between two political leaders was working to the advantage of Harry Lee Waterfield in his quest for the governorship of Kentucky. But that time has passed, for Bert Combs and Wilson Wyatt have welded their forces into a polished organization which is rapidly propelling them toward the Democratic nominations for governor and lieutenant governor.

Now the other side is threatened with the campaign manager resigning. And it is a terrifyng prospect for Harry Lee Waterfield. One which threatens the very foundations of his campaign against Combs.

Chandler wants To slate Wells

The controversy, which erupted before A. B. Chandler made his recent trip to Florida, culminated Wednesday in an angry exchange between Joseph J. Leary, Waterfield's campaign manager, and the governor.

The cause of the trouble, which still is boiling, was Chandler's promise to J. B. Wells, apparently with Waterfield's approval, to slate him as the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor on the Waterfield ticket.

Chandler Met With Wells

A source that is absolutely reliable gave this information to Bert Combs at Louisville Thursday.

Before Chandler left for Florida he had a meeting with Wells and promised him the spot with Waterfield, Leary, who is engineering Waterfield's campaign, wants neither Wells or any other candidate on the Waterfield ticket. He exploded when he heard of the Chandler-Waterfield-Wells pact.

The day after Chandler returned from Florida, Leary stormed into his office to give the governor the word that he (Leary) is running Waterfield's campaign. If Chandler is going to bring Wells into it, Leary will get out fast, the campaign manager told the governor.

And Leary meant it. He has expressed privately several times that he is doubtful of Waterfield's success in the primary campaign. He knows Harry Lee is a poor public speaker and is carrying the burden of Chandlerism on his back. Leary wouldn't be too unhappy if he could get from under the losing candidate.

Chandler even went so far as to call some of the Waterfield county leaders telling them that Wells was to be slated. This made Leary even angrier.

Harry Lee Helpers

The situation is apparently a stalemate now with the Leary

Leary threatens to quit campaign

threat to drop out hanging above the heads of Chandler and Harry Lee, the latter standing helplessly by as an onlooker. Waterfield is in the position of trying to decide whose instructions to follow.

The next three weeks will tell the story. The campaign strategy is set.

There will be a terrific onslaught by Waterfield against the character of Judge Combs. This will be done before rearranged crowds to attempt to indicate a huge following and to create a bandwagon effect.

The Waterfield forces are apparently going to base their campaign on a personal level rather than on a platform of better government. This is an unusual choice but it seems to be the chosen course.

It is unusual because of the man whose character they are attempting to assassinate. The former Court of Appeals judge is not susceptible to this type of attack since he has never engaged in activities which would make him suspect.

If this campaign doesn't seem to be succeeding after three weeks, Chandler and Waterfield have decided to open all stops. Gov. Chandler may even be brought into the campaign to begin a tour of the state. Leary is hoping to avoid this, however. Because of Chandler's unpopularity it would be a risky move. The introduction of Chandler into the campaign would indicate a state of emergency for Waterfield. Watch for it as a weather-vane in the last two months of the primary election.

EVEN THE AUTOMOBILES ARE AIR-CONDITIONED FOR STATE OFFICIALS

Remember when Chandler ridiculed Cooling offices of state workers? Now he and Vego ride in comfort

It has been only 3½ years since Happy Chandler called the air conditioning system in the Capitol Annex a waste of money and said that the breeze off the Kentucky River was enough to blow a man down.

Of course, it is on record shortly after he was elected he asked the Legislature for a huge sum of money to remodel his mansion and install air-conditioning.

And now Governor Chandler's long black Cadillac is air-conditioned. And it has just about every accessory you can put on an automobile.

Taxpayers Have Air-conditioning Money

Happy must have found out that air-conditioning is something the taxpayer can bear, after all. For even his underlings get it in their automobiles now.

The automobile which Barnes bought with the taxpayers' money was the largest, most luxurious Buick built. He got everything on it but white sidewall tires (it's too easy for critics to spot them).

Buick Has Highest Priced Radio

Extra equipment included Sonomatic radio (that's the expensive kind which tunes the strongest station with the press of a button, the next strongest with the second push, etc.), Air Ride (the most expensive suspension system), heater and defroster, Easy Eye tinted glass, air-conditioning and Triple Turbine Transmission.

The car is used by Barnes to commute from his home in Louisville to his office in Frankfort.

Waterfield using lie technique Rather than constructive platform

Some people down in Western Kentucky say that Harry Lee Waterfield was once a truthful and trustworthy man but if he keeps following the type of line he set down in the Frankfort High School gymnasium last Monday his most faithful followers will lose confidence in him.

His association with Happy Chandler is showing through. Chandler had no respect for the truth in 1955 when he ran. Remember the promises? No new taxes—merit system for state employees—new economy in government—more money for schools on the same old state income—a few of the things he offered, knowing when he made them that two and two can never equal five.

And now Harry Lee Waterfield is making statements—knowing when he makes them that they are untrue. This type of tactics is commonly known as "the big lie."

A Malicious Untruth

Take two of his statements, for an example. At one place in his speech he said that Judge Combs, while on the Court of Appeals wrote "opinions that were as strongly anti-labor as any that can be found in the law books."

This is maliciously untrue. Waterfield can search the law books from now until May 26 and he can find no anti-labor opinions written by Combs.

Early in his speech Waterfield told another one. He said that "unless I am your next governor of Kentucky the Health Department will never be located in Frankfort."

Now the lieutenant governor is talking as if he were an authority on everything Combs and Wyatt intend to do after they are elected governor and lieutenant governor. Even if the matter of the Health Department had never been mentioned by Combs, Waterfield would have no basis for the statement he made.

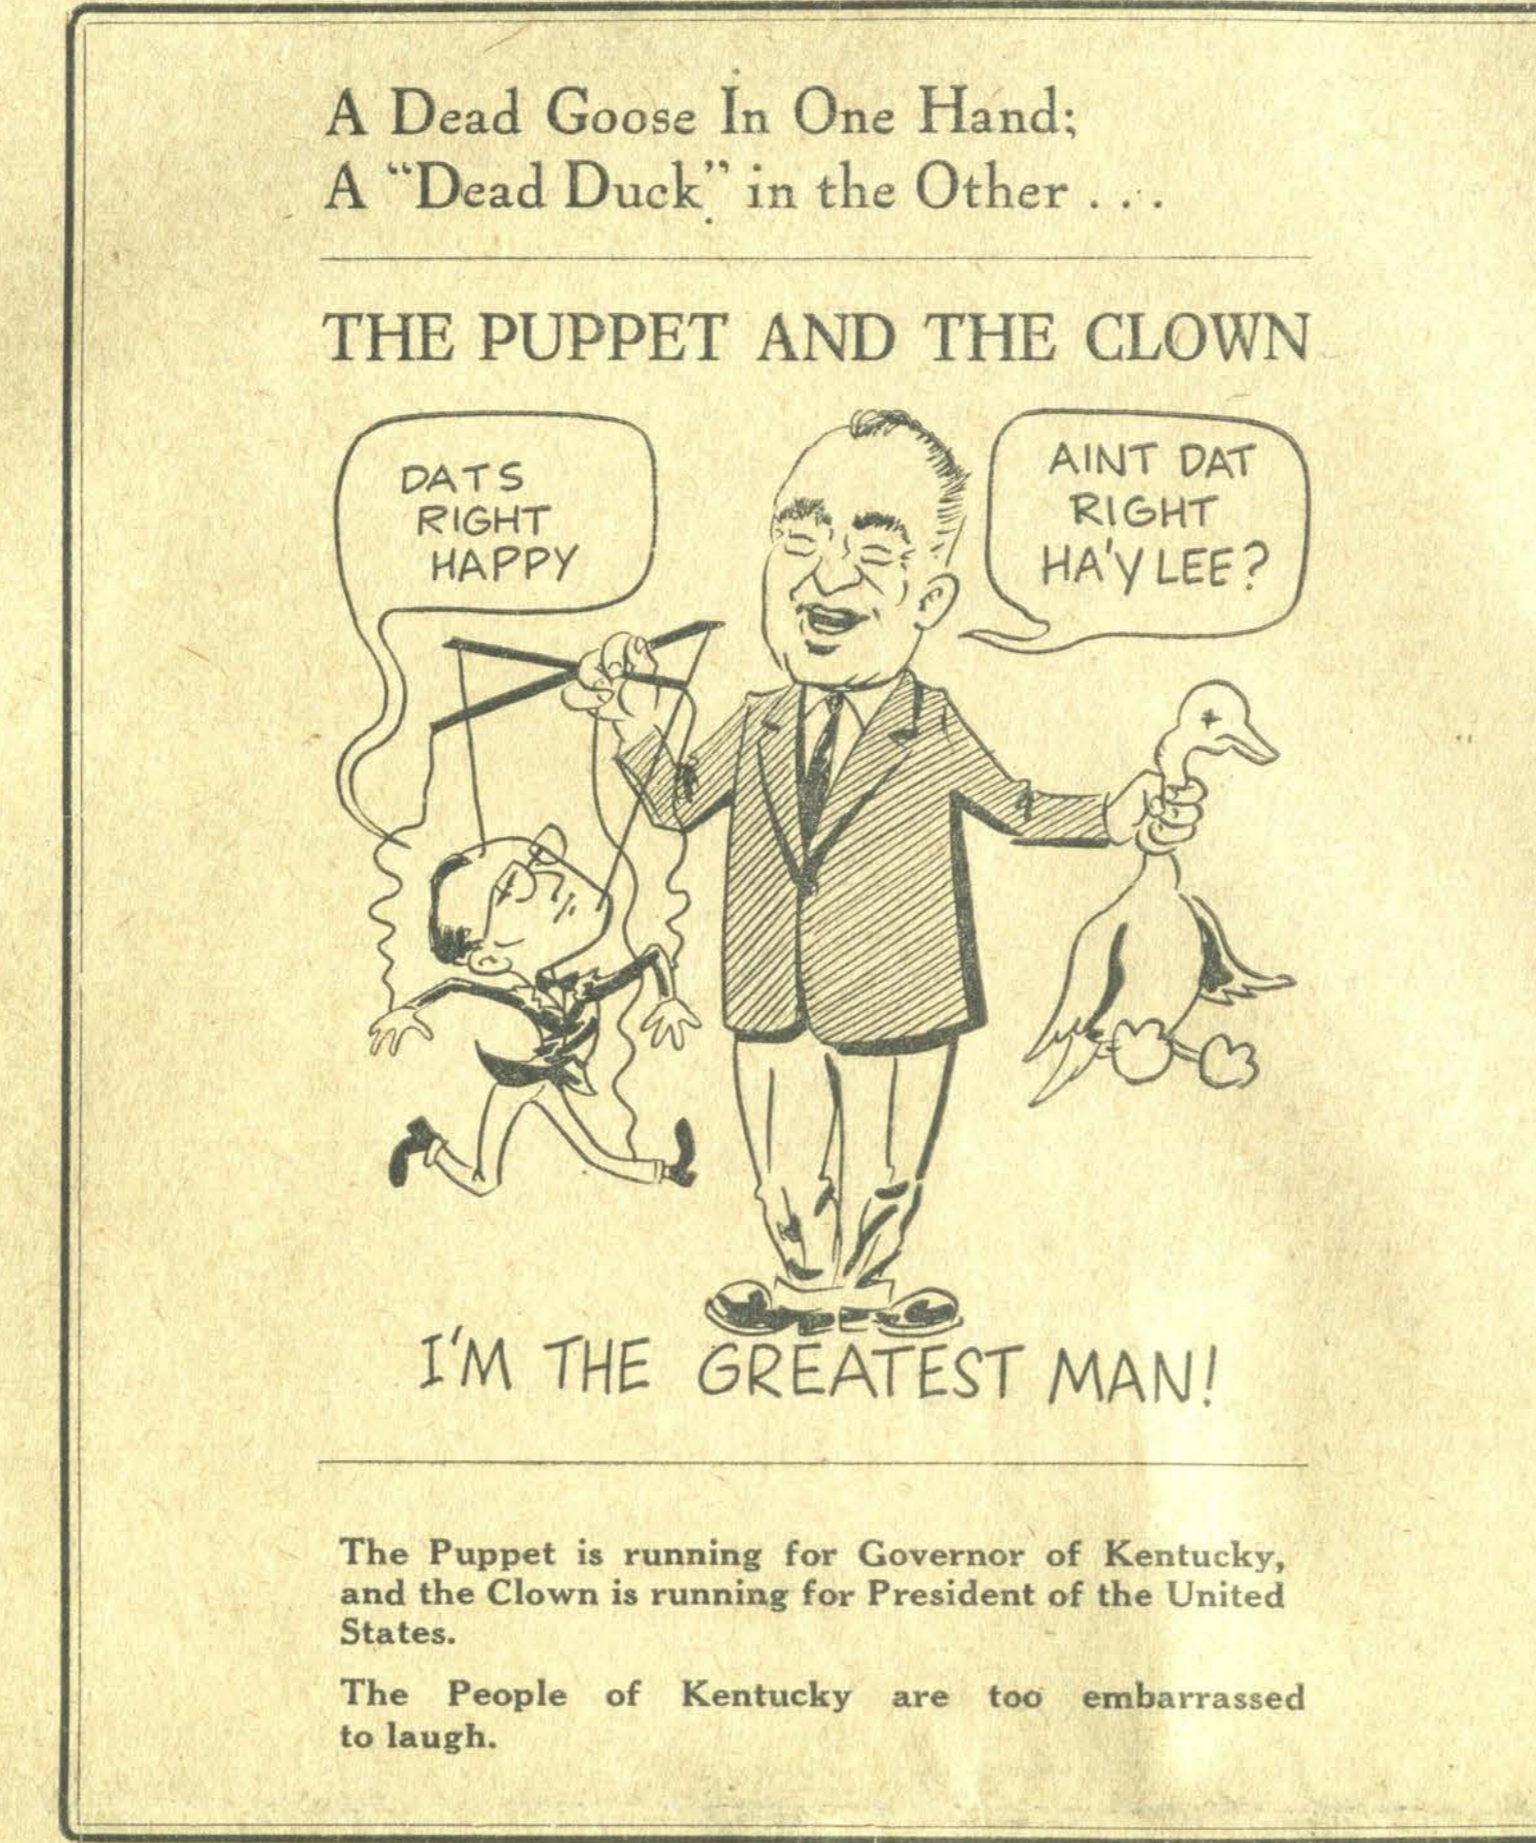

But Combs has expressed himself on the matter—several times. He has said repeatedly that after he is elected governor the move of the State Health Department to Frankfort will continue in rapid fashion.

Waterfield admitted that Combs has promised to continue the move of the Health Department. He said: "I know that promises have been made, but I also know the promises that the same people have made in the past."

Take this sentence apart and it means exactly nothing. He didn't say whether or not "these same people" had broken their promises in the past.

Combs Breaks No Promises

One thing is certain. Combs hasn't broken a promise. Harry Lee can look about him and find people who have broken many but he can't find that Judge Combs has ever broken a promise. And he doesn't intend to

DID LEARY KEEP CHANDLER IN FLORIDA AN EXTRA DAY?

Why wasn't Happy at the gym Monday? Are they keeping him out of the way?

OF PRIMARY CONCERN ...

Did everyone notice there was a big blank spot on the platform at the Frankfort High School gym last Monday night when Harry Lee had his "Sixth District" opening?

Joe Leary made a speech, Harry Lee Waterfield made a speech, Bob Yount made a speech, Scott Hamilton made a speech. Even some fellow from Georgetown College made a speech. But missing was the shoutiest speaker of all—Happy Chandler.

Here was Harry Lee, Happy's own candidate, starting his campaign in the governor's own backyard and embracing fully (even taking credit for) the Chandler administration record of the last 3½ years. And Happy the Spellbinder was absent.

Now where was Happy? He was in Florida.

Why was he in Florida? Nobody knows for sure except, perhaps, Mr. Leary.

When was Happy originally scheduled to return home from Florida?

On Sunday before the Monday night speakin'.

Why didn't he come home on Sunday?

Nobody knows that for sure except, perhaps, Mr. Leary.

Didn't Happy Chandler know that Waterfield was going to have his Sixth District opening in Frankfort last Monday night? Undoubtedly he did.

Wouldn't Happy normally, make it a point to be at such an event, regardless of what other matters were pending? He certainly would.

Then why did he run off to Florida when he knew this meeting was coming up?

Nobody knows that for sure except, perhaps, Mr. Leary.

Well, what day did Happy get back from Florida? He got back Tuesday.

Just one day after the Waterfield opening?

Yes.

That sure is a puzzle. Looks like he could have come back just one day earlier so he could have had a chair on the speaker's stand and said a few words to his "Sixth District" friends. Wonder why he couldn't have done that? Nobody knows for sure except, perhaps, Mr. Leary.

This Mr. Leary. Who's he?

He's Harry Lee's campaign manager.

Well, how does he know so much about Happy's trip to Florida and the reason Happy didn't come back to say a few words to Harry Lee?

Maybe Mr. Leary told Happy to stay in Florida and keep out of the way while Harry Lee's trying to run for Governor.

Tell Happy? Nobody tells Happy.

Happy wasn't there, was he?

Well no. But nobody tells Happy.

Happy hasn't said a word yet during the campaign, has he?

Well, no. But nobody tells ...

Harry Lee's claiming he was responsible for the actions of Happy's administration but Happy hasn't said a word, has he?

Well, no. But nobody ...

You haven't heard of any plans for Happy to make speeches for Waterfield have you?

Well, no. But ...

You know Happy likes to talk about himself and how he's helped everybody, but he hasn't made any noise, has he?

Well, no. ...

So it looks like someone thought that Harry Lee would be better off if Happy kept quiet. That someone knew what the people thought of their governor.

Joe Leary needs his glasses changed.

He probably thought he was in the University of Kentucky Coliseum Monday night when he said there were 8,000 people in Frankfort High gymnasium. The stands in the place hold 2,500 and there were a thousand chairs. A hundred or so were standing.

And Joe's a Sunday school teacher, too. Tsk. Tsk.

Most of the crowd was imported from outside the Sixth District just to make sure that Harry Lee would not be embarrassed by empty seats. Louisville served up a thousand who didn't want to come but had to.

They brought them in on buses from as far away as Middlesboro. And when you get to Middlesboro you can't get any farther and stay in Kentucky.

One thing was apparent. Harry Lee's support among the Frankfort state employes has fallen apart. There were few of them at the rally—just as few of them carry bumper stickers on their cars.

Fidel Castro better tune up and break out his red sweater. He may have some competition in the next election. Happy's got a million-and-a-half down there and can't get it out, it is rumored. He might run for president of Cuba.

They say that you have to be right handy with a gun to be a good runner down there. After Ballard County and the crippled goose Happy is qualified there.

QUOTES

"The leopard doesn't change his spots—he only blends himself against the background, which, at the moment, affords him protection."—Happy Chandler, 1955.

"I'll take Happy Chandler."—Harry Lee Waterfield, March 1959.

"I will strive during my administration to attain these objectives: equal opportunity for all our people, jobs for those who can work, security for those who need it, and elimination of special privilege for the few. These, I believe, are objectives of government the people of Kentucky earnestly desire."—Bert Combs, 1959.

Twenty-three State Highway Department employes held a meeting in a basement room out in East Frankfort last Tuesday night. The purpose: To organize for Combs and Wyatt in the Highway Department.

Liberty Belles Plan Open House

Mrs. Dowling Nicol, Ladies Chairman, is busy making plans for an open house for the Liberty Belles. The open house will be held at the Capital Hotel, April 15th.

Famous Last Words: Need your House cleaned?

Waterfield in a speech at the Frankfort High Gymnasium last Monday night said:

Where was my opponent while I was in the Legislature?

He didn't answer his own question, but here is the answer:

Bert Combs, who entered the United States Army as a volunteer was serving his country in wartime in the South Pacific.

Need your house cleaned on Saturday? Some people get it done free. How? Use prisoners from the governor's mansion.

Happy's son and daughter, Ben and Mimi, have prisoners come over to Versailles regularly to clean their homes. It's part of Happy's and Harry Lee's "progress" in government.

The punch line in the story goes like this:

All was well while Dictator Batista was fending off the bearded warriors of Fidel Castro. It seemed as if the rebel had no chance of success.

But the tide turned. Batista fled, taking along a sizeable chunk of cash to add to his vast holdings in the United States, and left behind Cuba and Happy's money to Castro.

Padlocks Put On Banks

Now this Castro's a good fellow. He's interested in the fortunes of the people of Cuba. But he doesn't give a peso for the fortunes of Happy Chandler.

So when Castro takes over the puts the padlock on Cuban banks and says: "Senior Chandler and Senior Davis, I am not taking your money from you. But you cannot take it back to the United States. You must spend it in Cuba."

Now Happy, he don't smoke or drink and Harry's pipe tobacco isn't expensive. So what are they gonna do with a million-and-a-half bucks in gay Havana?

In the meantime, what's Harry Lee going to do without the million-and-a-half in Kentucky? So there were two moves they could make.

There were the good old state workers. They could donate more. It has started already in Lawrence County where Highway Department people paid two weeks salary to the cause of Harry Lee. Some of the big truck lines and contractors also have been approached again and told to fork over some more dough.

HAS CASTRO HAPPY'S CASH? STATE WORKERS HAVE MORE

Waterfield looks Wistfully south

Heard that rumor circulating around the state?

The story goes for some reason Happy and Harry saw fit to deposit in Cuban banks the money they got from the state employes. Why they took it to Cuba isn't known but perhaps they had something in common with Batista. That Cuban dictator already has seen his empire tumble just as Happy's political demise is about to occur.

And it won't be Batista because he sent all of his money over here before they kicked him out.

Governor Chandler, who professes such deep sympathy with the needy and unemployed, refused to call the Legislature together and extend unemployment pay. ... Actions speak louder than words.

Ever Wonder Why? ...

There were the good old state workers. They could donate more. It has started already in Lawrence County where Highway Department people paid two weeks salary to the cause of Harry Lee. Some of the big truck lines and contractors also have been approached again and told to fork over some more dough.

The only hope of the state employes seems to be a petition

$75,000 NEARER COST OF MAGAZINE; PRODUCTION AND MAILING COST ADDED TO PRINTING COST

State agency now Mailing Magazine By the thousands

Have you received your copy of the eighty page "In Kentucky" magazine which does little more than glorify Albert Benjamin Chandler?

If so then maybe you noticed the amount of postage required to mail your copy of the magazine to you. If you didn't notice, the amount of postage required is 16½ cents per issue.

And the personnel of the Department of Public Relations is busy mailing out thousands of copies per day at 16½ cents postage for each copy. This postage does not include the labor required to complete the mailing of the magazine.

You, the taxpayer, are footing the cost of the labor involved, the $42,000 cost of printing the magazine, the production cost and last but certainly not least is the cost of mailing the thousands of copies which are being mailed.

When you add all of these expenditures you the taxpayers are footing the bill for a state publication which will cost nearer $75,000 than the $42,000 which the Chandler - Waterfield alliance would have you believe it cost. This is quite a tidy sum for the people of Kentucky to pay for when the prime objective of the magazine is to promote one Albert Benjamin Chandler and the accomplishments of his and Waterfield's administration.

Some Acts Omitted

They are very careful in editing the magazine to glorify the acts and actions which they wanted to publicize and very carefully avoided many of the things which they prefer not being publicized.

They brag about personal income taxes being reduced in 1958 but they fail to mention the personal income tax rate of $6 million in 1956. They fail to mention the fact that the Chandler-Waterfield administration is the spendiest administration in the history of the commonwealth.

They also fail to include in their praise of the Highway Department the advisory members in each district which are nothing more than political patronage boys on high salaries and unlimited expense accounts. They also fail to mention the Versailles-Frankfort, (Happy's Highway Home) as costing the taxpayers three and three quarters million dollars. Omitted in the long copy in the magazine are the scandals in the highway department and the turn over of highway commissioners and other upper level political hangers-on within the highway department, that had to be shifted due to bungling and expose of operations in the department.

The farmers of Kentucky will not find in the magazine the rebuttal they received from Chandler when they visited his office nor will they see in the pages of the elaborate publication anything about his refusal to provide the funds requested by the Commissioner of Agriculture for the brucellosis program.

Does This Mean More Taxes? Throughout the magazine the administration says there are many more great projects to come and naturally they will cost money. Does this mean more taxes? It is not clearly outlined in the magazine.

The list of omissions is long. But after all the $75,000 publication was published much earlier than the usual governor's reports. Probably the fact that this is an election year, and Happy, pardon, Albert Benjamin Chandler, has his sights on the White House, justifies the tremendous waste of taxpayers' money.

Letters of Pvt. William Jones

MORGAN RIDES AGAIN

In his letter, June 5, from Nicholasville, William Jones wrote his wife, Mary, that he was tired of staying in one place. He didn't know it but "staying in one place" for him was about over. Gen John Hunt Morgan was riding again.

He found time and opportunity to write again from Flemingsburg, June 13, 1864.

"Fearing you might be uneasy about me I take the first chance of writing. We have just (arrived) here. It is about 15 miles back of Maysville. We are feeding the horses and will get our suppers in town. The people will not let us go without supper.

"We had a big fight with Morgan at Cynthiana yesterday morning and whipped him badly. After the fight I went to that house where we got our dinners the time you came up and told the widow to write to you so that you might know that I came out safe. I feared that I would not have a chance of writing soon and I will have to cut this short. We shall catch Morgan and the balance of his men . . .

"So far I have not had a scratch. John Guy was killed. We had 2 others in our company wounded. One, I think, will die . . . I expect we shall run all night for they . . . will not stop to fight. They are disheartened."

June 19, from Nicholasville, Jones found time to write more fully. "Last Sunday morning it looked a little 'billious' for we had the hottest fight we ever had . . . I have come off clear after chasing Morgan nearly out of the state. We came back to camp, got back on Friday. I would have written before but I had to get some sleep."

He was not getting mail from his wife, suspected that her letter or letters were lost "when the train was captured."

He reverts to the story of the battle at Cynthiana as if he had not mentioned it before.

"We had a fight with that Dreaded Man Morgan and whipped him beautifully. You never saw such running. We run through the town of Cynthiana, capturing and killing when they would not stop. There was a great many drowned in Licking trying to cross there by the bridge. I tell you, Mary, I saw sights that day made me heart sick — dead and wounded lying all around me after the battle.

"We did not catch up with Morgan as he could outrun us. His horses were all stolen since he came in the state and of the best kind. He left before the fight was over. When we got through tending the prisoners and fed and got dinner we started after him. We went through Oddsville . . . At Witackers there were about 20 men and women that looked black but on Jim's porch there was a lot of girls and men that cheered us as we passed. . . I think Morgan's coming will keep us in the state. I was to go to Georgia."

The last two letters were addressed to Mary Jones at Newport where her husband had evidently directed her to seek safety from Morgan. The next letter, June 25, from Nicholasville, was addressed to Dale.

"I believe I told you John Guy was killed at Cynthiana, also 2 of company wounded, one of them since dead by the name of Campbell from Fulton. I was very lucky. Our regiment made a cavalry charge and in making it my saddle turned in jumping a fence. The Colonel told me to stop and fix it and so I was not in the charge when the damage was done but I was in time to chase the Rebs down through town and about 2 miles the other side and caught a great many prisoners. I tell you we made an awful scatterment of them. After taking care of the prisoners we followed the main part of them nearly out of the state. We passed through Oddsville and I suppose at one time I were not more than 30 or 40 miles from home. I felt like coming over and saying how do but we had no time to swap horses. We traveled day and night.

"There are two rumors in camp. One is that we are going to Georgia, the other is that Buckner and Morgan are coming . . ."

Monday, June 27, 1864. A brief letter. Jones had heard nothing about leaving yet. He admonished his wife to write and "don't be too occupied with your pickles and onions as to forget."

July 1, he wrote from Nicholasville. He had marching orders and he was told they were going to Camp Dick Robinson for 10 days. It turned out to be Camp Nelson.

The letter was addressed simply, "Mrs. Mary Jones, Campbell County, Ky.," but he had scribbled a message to Shaw & Co. on the envelope:

"Messrs Shaw & Co. You will confer a favor on me by giving this to my wife. There is money in it. William Jones of Brooklyn, Ky. formerly, but now of Co. A, 7th OVC."

The letter was almost all personal, his wife having problems with other members of the family that remained almost impossible to resolve and Jones was trying to give her advice and lessen her discouragement.

He commented on his fine horse and excoeriated soldiers who consorted with women of ill-fame. The letter was penciled on five pages, one of the few very long letters he wrote.

Point Burnside, Ky., Thursday, July 7, 1864. Jones was at Camp Nelson only a few days, expected to go to Georgia but made a halt. News was flying around that Morgan was coming again. It was rumored that the dreaded Confederate raider was near Cumberland Gap and Jones hoped it was true for he would get to stay in Kentucky. He pictured the weather in Georgia as extremely hot.

The commanding colonel had told the men they could go to town and buy anything they wanted. They bought whiskey and an order countermanding the soldiers back to camp was issued.

"The whiskey flowed for awhile pretty lively," he said. Jones was an abstainer from alcoholic beverages and the drunken men were objects of contempt to him.

LABOR WILL NOT BE FOOLED... HERE IS THE TRUE RECORD!

The following is a "Letter to the Editor," written by EARL BELLEW, Legislative Chairman of the Kentucky State AFL-CIO, and published in the March 28, 1959 edition of KENTUCKY LABOR NEWS. It concerns the Waterfield for Governor ad published in the same newspaper two weeks earlier, making the usual extravagant claims for Waterfield.

Mr. Bellew, calmly and without appealing to prejudices and emotions, sets down the Waterfield record as pertaining to Labor. We, the Floyd County Committee for Combs and Wyatt, are paying for this space to reproduce Mr. Bellew's letter, which follows:

As the legislative chairman of the Kentucky AFL-CIO, I make this report in the interest of TRUTH.

A two-page advertisement appeared in the Labor News recently which claimed to be the "unparalleled record on all legislation since 1938" and was credited to Candidate Harry Lee Waterfield.

In the interest of accuracy and in keeping with the obligation imposed on me by our constitution, I feel I must make this report.

I have found in going through the records that Candidate Waterfield did not during his service in the General Assembly of Kentucky introduce a single bill which became law. This applies to labor legislation, farm legislation, school legislation, legislation for small business or any other segment of Kentucky's economy.

Further, I have found that on the several occasions when he was defeated for office and did not serve at Frankfort, LABOR ACTUALLY FAIRED BETTER.

In other cases, when he was present, I have found that his influence proved to be a deciding factor in either the defeat of measures favorable to labor or he prevented such legislation from even coming to a vote.

In still other cases which must be cited as essential to the WHOLE TRUTH, Candidate Waterfield claimed credit where no credit was due. I point especially to those measures which passed the General Assembly and were agreed proposals negotiated by labor and management. In those cases I can recall no instance where his voice was heard either pro or con, and my records and official records bear up my recollection.

Permit me, for the benefit of our associates, to cite some FACTS which have bearing on the COMPLETE and TRUTHFUL PICTURE:

House Bill 90, Silicosis Act—1944 Session: Candidate Waterfield claims credit for passage of this bill which provided for compensation for victims of silicosis. Under this act, 50 victims from the Olive Hill area were unable to get their cases processed.

In the 1948 session after Waterfield had been defeated for Governor, the silicosis act was amended and a workable measure enacted. Several of the 50 victims had, however, died in the meantime.

The act needs improvement today. However, Candidate Waterfield has taken no steps to bring about a change for the better.

SENATE BILL 98—Workmen's Compensation Benefits—1956 Session
This measure provided for increased benefits and contained a full occupation disease section. The legislation was agreed upon by a committee from labor and management. Candidate Waterfield, although claiming credit, took no part in the negotiations.

HOUSE BILL 40—Membership on the Workmen's Compensation Board—1956 Session
This measure changed the size of the membership of the board from three to five.

Under the three-man board, labor, management and the public each had one. Under the five-man board (for which Candidate Waterfield takes credit) labor has had one member while management has had four.

SENATE BILL 7—Increasing Unemployment Benefits—1956 Fourth Special Session
The act provided for additional payments for the jobless. Candidate Waterfield presented an amendment to change the language and, as result, thousands of unemployed Kentuckians found it impossible to collect their claims.

Senate Bill 130—Rest Periods for Female Workers—1958 Session.
This measure, reported favorably by a committee named by Candidate Waterfield, represented a loss for labor. Under previous commission rulings, female workers were allowed two 15-minute rest periods. The new bill cut those rest periods to ten minutes each.

House Bill 119—Unemployment Compensation—1958 Session
This was an agreed bill and Candidate Waterfield's voice was not heard either for or against.

Senate Bill 151—Right to Work—1958 Session
This measure would have authorized a statewide vote amending the constitution. The senate rules committee, controlled by Candidate Waterfield, sent it to the floor of the Senate with a favorable report. It was given two required readings and was ready for passage at that time.

Candidate Waterfield, in a speech on December 6, 1958 at Owensboro, said that he would put the proposal to a vote of the people if it became an issue.

Senate Bill 129—Increasing Workmen's Compensation—1957 Session
This was labor's proposed bill to increase benefits, funeral expenses, medical expenses and called for compulsory filing of agreements. It also corrected the language of the act. The committee gave it a favorable report; but on the motion of Senator E. W. Richmond of Owensboro, the bill was killed by re-committal to the Committee.

Senate Bill 131—Requiring Posting of Bond to Secure Wages—1958 Session
Killed by a committee named by Candidate Waterfield.

House Bill 126—Providing for Penalties Against Those who Disturb Peaceful Picketing—1958 Session
Never came to a vote. Failed to get Candidate Waterfield's support.

House Bill 179—Prevailing Wage Bill—1958 Session
A measure which would have protected building trade workers from unfair wage practices and payment. Never came to a vote. Failed to get Candidate Waterfield's support.

House Bill 202—The Carpenter's Code—1958 Session
A measure to improve standards and provide for adequate training for beginners in the trade. Especially designed to protect standards on buildings for public housing projects. Never came to a vote. Failed to get Candidate Waterfield's support.

Senate Bill 252—Safety Standards and Inspection for Boilers—1958 Session
Legislation to protect the public from the use of condemned boilers and setting up standards to enforce such protection. Never came to a vote. Failed to get Candidate Waterfield's support.

Senate Bill 246—Workmen's Compensation—1958 Session
This measure was introduced as the employers' bill. It would have gutted the present act. Candidate Waterfield's Rules Committee gave the bill a favorable report. It was read twice and put in position for passage.

Senate Bill 208—Freedom of Choice—1958 Session
This measure would have closed every mine workers' hospital in Kentucky and would have done serious damage to hospitals supported by railroad workers. The measure passed the Senate where Candidate Waterfield presided.

All these things I have mentioned are a matter of record. I feel it is my duty as the Legislative Chairman of the Kentucky State AFL-CIO to report the facts so that the people of Kentucky will not be misled by the recent advertisement published on March 14, 1959, in the Kentucky Labor News.

Sincerely,
EARL BELLEW, Chairman
Legislative Committee
Kentucky State AFL-CIO

THE FAST DRAW CRAZE

By BOBBY RANIER

The fast draw craze has swept the nation, resulting of course from the Western series on TV. Now everyone wants to be a "Modern day Wyatt Earp".

This has made Colt reproduce the single-action gun that made the West. Other arms companies, such as Ruger, Great Western, and High Standard fell in line, producing single-action pistols in not too popular prices but never the less, people buy them and begin the long tedious road to achieving success with the fast draw. This is a sport that is being received by the whole United States today in the way of "something different" in shooting.

If you are going to fall in line with everyone else in this type of shooting I suggest you use a .22 caliber revolver, being that it doesn't make too big a hole in the leg if it is discharged by mistake while making a really fast draw. Believe me it can happen.

I imagine just about everyone read in the Courier-Journal paper several weeks ago about a boy in Lexington, shooting himself twice in one year with this fast draw craze. It read to the effect that Bruce Back of Lexington may not draw fast, but he sure shoots fast. That's the trouble. The 23-year-old quick draw practitioner was hospitalized for the second time within a year for a bullet wound in the right leg. He might be slow on the draw but he sure is fast on the trigger, wouldn't you say?

Well, so much for fun. If you are really interested in learning the fast draw maybe I can help. If you are going to use a single-action pistol such as they used in the old days, I suggest a .22 caliber with a 4 1/2 inch barrel since this barrel length makes it possible to draw faster. Get a holster which has a metal lining built into the layers of leather where the cylinder rests, so if you prefer to cock the pistol as you draw it out of the holster the leather will not bind the turning of the cylinder. The holster is a very important factor to aid you in making a very fast draw. It should be slung low on the hip so when the hand swings back to grasp the grip the fingers will fall smoothly on the grip allowing the thumb to rest over the hammer. The pistol can then be delivered from the holster with a smooth uninterrupted twist of the wrist, following through with the arm extended fully at the target, then fire and you find your bullet has found its mark and you are on your way to achieving accuracy along with your fast draw.

Another very important factor in accuracy of drawing and firing is distance. The proper distance for learning to draw and fire is about 10 feet. You will find that although this is a very short distance you will still have trouble hitting your target. After you have practiced at this range for some time you can then double your distance and start all over again. Most people get aggravated because they can't hit their target. The farther away you are from your target when you shoot, if you move the barrel only a little bit, then the farther you go to be off target when you shoot. The long 25 or 50 yards you see them shoot and get their man in the West are a bunch of bunk. It is almost impossible at those ranges.

Most of the larger cities have their police ranges set up for quick-draw firing. Of course all of your police revolvers are double action and it cuts the time in half by not having to cock the gun before firing, but it is still very hard to deliver five shots from the hip in two and one-half seconds and hit the target with a close group. This is what really counts, not only being fast but also accurate.

Police holsters are made pretty much like standard holsters with a few exceptions. Most are mounted on the belt loop with a swivel so it will lay on the wearer's side with the grip tilted forward to a 45-degree angle so when he has to go into a crouch his gun is angled out so he can have ready access to it and deliver it straight into the direction of fire of his opponent. Being mounted on a swivel not only makes it easy to grasp but also makes it comfortable while sitting down or riding in a car.

The art of quick drawing is fun trying to achieve, whether the revolver is single or double-action. A good day's fun is in store for you if you care to try it.

In that time his teams have won over 400 games and lost only 120, have produced 9 all-state players, have won the 57th district 13 of the last 15 years, have won the 15th regional seven out of the last 11 years.

Westerners Find Walleye Habitat At Cumberland

Frankfort, March 31 (Spl.) — For years the spawning run of mountain walleye up the Rockcastle and Cumberland Rivers and the South Fork of the Cumberland was the secret of southern Kentucky fishermen, says Sports Afield Magazine.

But with the impoundment of Lake Cumberland and spreading of the word by boat dock operators, the secret traveled throughout midwest U.S.A., says Robert Hart, writing in the April issue of the magazine.

"Newspapers in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and even in Illinois," says Hart, "began to run pictures of hometown heroes with walleyes as big as the grins of the fishermen wore. No one had ever seen such consistently huge fish."

To date, the largest walleye taken on rod and reel out of the headwaters of Lake Cumberland has been a 19 1/2 pounder taken in April, 1957. Personnel of the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Resources Department say their test nets have taken fish close to the record or even over it.

The magazine relates that when the run is on, telephone switchboards at London and Corbin are busy with long-distance calls — local residents advising friends as far away as Chicago and Atlanta to "come quick... they're running!"

Hart writes in the national publication:

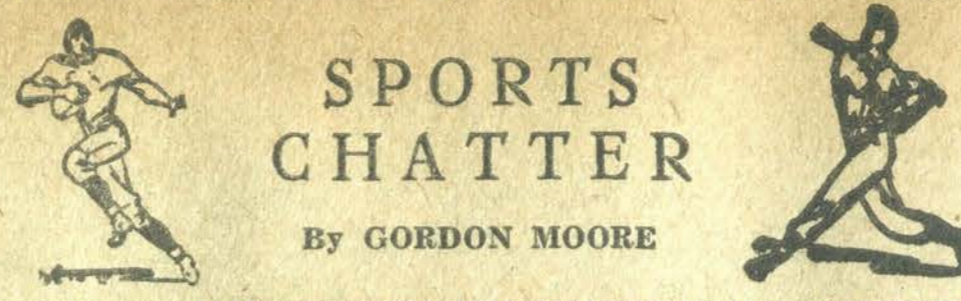

"This is no place for delicate tackle. It is rough-and-tumble fishing that demands tackle tough enough to fight swift current and heavy fish."

DIACHENKO NAMED

Nick DiaChenko, veteran Jenkins high school football coach, has been named to coach the Eastern Kentucky High School football stars in the annual Kentucky-West Virginia all-star football game in Williamson, W. Va., August 15.

In addition to the ten-team Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference, DiaChenko can select players for his squad from five additional Kentucky high schools, while West Virginia will draw from 12 schools in the Williamson area.

Heretofore, Kentucky could only use graduating seniors from the E. K. M. C. loop. With the additional schools, Kentucky could be in contention to win its first game in the three-year history of the series.

The Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce will promote the first of a three-game East-West high school basketball series in the Prestonsburg high school gymnasium, Tuesday, June 2. The eighth annual games are under the sponsorship of the Pikeville Senior Scouts, and three players of the 15th region will soon be named to play with the East squad that will be tutored by Pikeville mentor, John Bill Trivette.

Bob Rice, 6-4 senior forward on this season's Sandy Hook five, will represent the 15th region in the annual East-West All-Star basketball game in Lexington, August 15. One of the coaches of the East team in the annual coaches' game will be Jack Fultz, highly successful Olive Hill mentor. Fultz also will have one of his own stars, Bert Greene, on the East team.

RUMOR DEPARTMENT: Bert Dixon, former Black Cat end and a senior at Morehead State College, or John Gordon Goble, another former Black Cat lineman, and last season's Wheelwright coach, will replace resigned John Griggs as head football coach at Prestonsburg high school. Griggs will conduct spring football practice at the local school, since his resignation does not become effective until the close of the present school year.

TEATER RE-ELECTED

At the regular spring meeting of the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference in Pikeville, Thursday, Oran Teater, superintendent of Paintsville city schools, was re-elected president of the ten-school loop. This is the fourth year that Teater has headed the Mountain sports loop.

Other officers named for the coming year are: Vice-president, Jack Burisch, principal of Whitesburg high school; secretary-treasurer, Arthur Mullins, athletic director of Elkhorn City high school. Mullins has been the only secretary-treasurer the loop has ever had.

Goebel Ritter's Hazard Bulldogs were awarded the 1958-'59 loop basketball championship on the basis of a 6-0 record in league play, Fleming, 5-7, was presented the runner-up trophy.

The league's ten representatives voted down a previous proposal to return to an annual basketball tournament to select the conference basketball champion. The vote was 7-3. Only last year had the group voted in the proposal to determine a champ by this method.

The all-league basketball team was as follows: Roger James, Belfry; Roger Sykes, Elkhorn City; Clarence Baker, Fleming; Kenneth Cobb, Hazard; Ross Chaney, Jenkins; Nicky Dann, Jenkins; Harry Jack Williams, Paintsville; Bill Booth, Pikeville; Emil Dixon, Pikeville; John Gibson, Prestonsburg; Charles Hall, Whitesburg, and Fred Combs, M. C. Napier.

The annual conference track meet was set for Elkhorn City high school at 10 a.m., May 15.

The baseball champion will be selected by a tournament of the various schools that advance farthest in district tournament play. The baseball playoffs are to be completed by May 28.

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky

(No. 38 in a series)

PUSHBOAT AT THE MOUTH OF JOHNS CREEK

Pushboats were auxiliary craft of Big Sandy transportation as they completed the moving of merchandise from the main stream up the larger tributaries. In the summer when the river was low these small, easily maneuverable boats, transported goods for the merchants from the railhead at Whitehouse.

The boats had "runways" along the side so a poleman could move back and forth as he applied himself, with the help of others, to pushing the craft upstream. It required nearly three days to move a loaded pushboat from Whitehouse to Pikeville.

Pushboats, many of them privately owned by individuals for their own personal use, plied tributaries of Johns Creek, Big Paint Creek, Middle Creek and the larger streams above Pikeville as well as the main river in summer. The coming of the railway doomed not only the steamboat but the pushboat too.

The above picture, taken at the mouth of Johns Creek in 1899, shows the small cabin of the boat where the poleman or owner could retreat from inclement weather. The "captain" is maneuvering the craft into the stream.

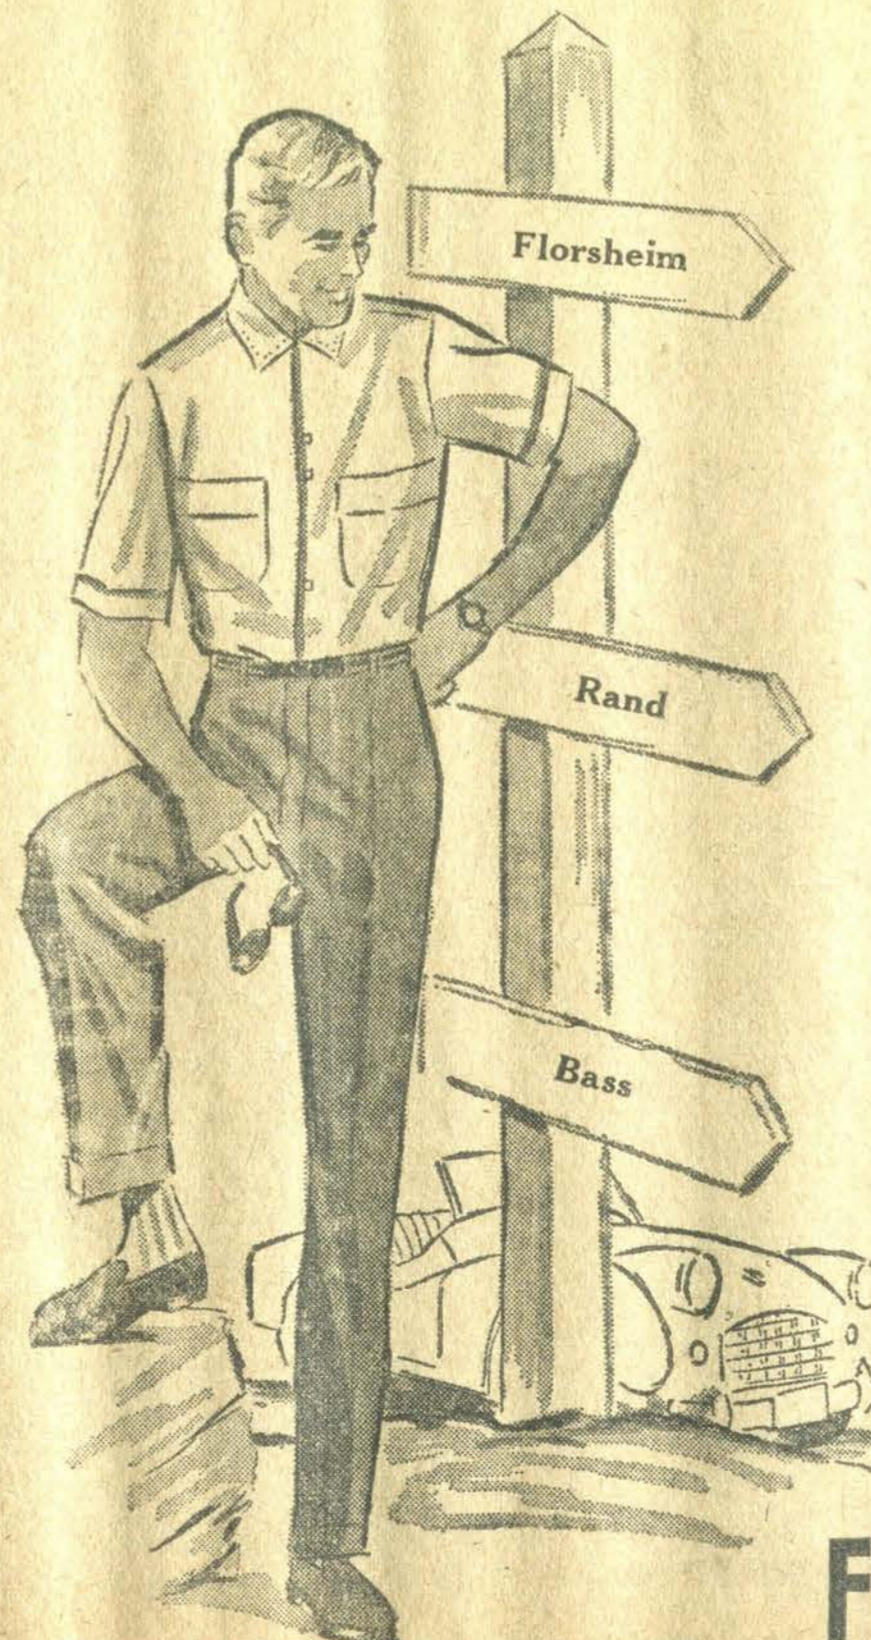

River transportation was a dying industry in the Big Sandy valley when the First National Bank was organized in 1904. The railway had come, money and industry were being infused into the economy. The First National Bank, in keeping with the spirit of progress, began its policy of friendly and complete banking service.

Aide Appointed For Commissioner Of Road Agency

Frankfort, March 31 (Spl.) — Highway Commissioner Ward J. Oates has announced the appointment of Lawrence L. Pedley, 26, as an administrative assistant.

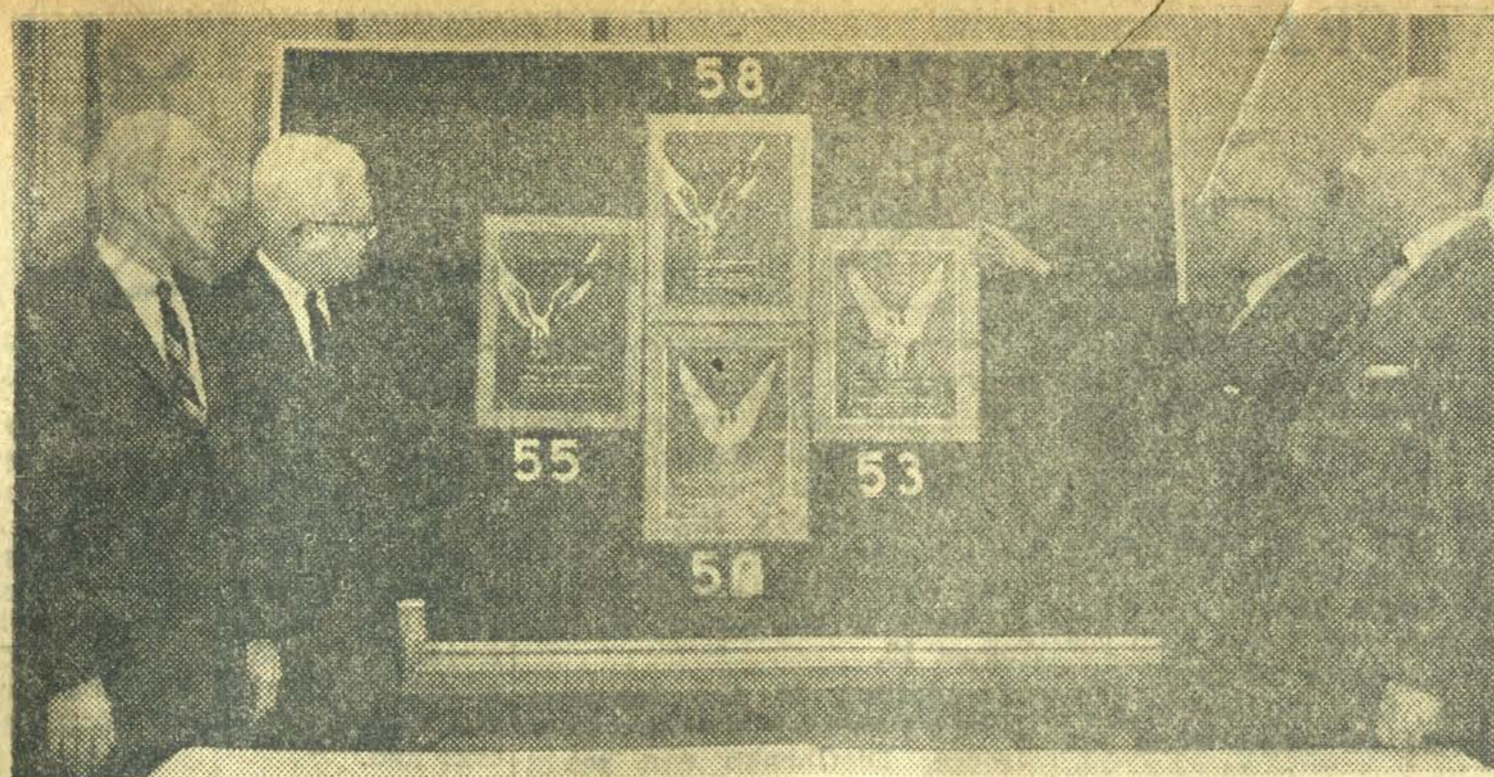

Pedley, who was graduated from Yale Law School this month, joins Joe A. Heaton, of Lexington, as an administrative assistant to the commissioner. Heaton was named to his post last year.

Pedley is a son of G. M. Pedley, Princeton, state public relations commissioner on leave of absence now serving as publicity chairman for Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield's campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Scott, Ashland District manager; H. H. Kincaid, Pikeville District manager, and A. R. Barber, Hazard District manager.

Kentucky Power Company has been presented the top award by the National Safety Council for its safety record last year among electric utilities of its size throughout the nation.

This safety honor marks the fourth time in nine years that Kentucky Power employees have won the annual award in competition with 44 other electric utilities. Previous honor years were 1950, 1953 and 1955.

The 365 employees of Kentucky Power worked 744,562 manhours in 1958 without a single disabling injury, for a frequency rate of zero. The average frequency rate among electric utilities in Class D was 9.58.

The 1958 award is related to another recent company safety record. Kentucky Power employees in February completed a million manhours in a 16-month period without a disabling injury for the third time in company history.

Easter Seal Fund Total Noted By Chairman Evans

The 1959 Easter Seal drive in Floyd county has raised $669.50 to date, George E. Evans, Jr., chairman of the local drive, has announced.

The campaign to raise funds for the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children—the Easter Seal Society—closed March 29. Contributions to Easter Seals are the principal source of support for the varied programs of services made available to physically handicapped children by the Society.

Mr. Evans urged residents of Floyd county who have not yet mailed in their contributions to do so this week to Mrs. Elizabeth R. Martin, Treasurer, Floyd County Crippled Children Committee, Wayland, Kentucky.

"Every dime and dollar is needed to enable the Society to help the crippled children of our community lead happier, healthier, more normal lives," Mr. Evans said.

The total amount reported represents contributions received by mail.

PROPERTY VALUATION

The Kentucky Tax Commission has ordered a tentative property tax assessment valuation of $227,175,732 on distilled spirits in bonded warehouses as of Jan. 1, 1959. Last year's final assessment totaled $222,358,010.

State Advances In County Library Services Noted

The theme of National Library Week, April 12-18, is, "Wake UP and Read," Miss Margaret Willis, Kentucky's director of Library Extension, notes.

She points out that the Commonwealth is "waking up about reading matter. For instance, she says, Kentucky's Legislative Research Commission is making an impartial survey of the state's public libraries—to see where Kentucky wants to go" with library services. The commission, which hired a specialist to aid the survey, will make recommendations to the 1960 General Assembly for changes in the law and setup of the library program, Miss Willis said.

To call attention to library week, she has reported on Kentucky's progress "a long way from the dark days when almost no reading material was available in the counties, when many citizens could read poorly or not at all."

In 1947, 53 counties had no libraries. In many other counties libraries were poorly supported or little used. Then came the Bookmobile Project with its thrust for 100 mobile libraries. At least 40 counties with Bookmobiles have developed public libraries.

Following this project, the Library Services Act enabled Kentucky to plan public libraries and Bookmobiles to cooperate as a unit. Thirty-two counties have taken advantage of this fact. Local tax funds for the support of these services has been forthcoming, often for the first time. Reading ability of borrowers has skyrocketed. Rural development associations recognize better library facilities as an attraction for new industry.

The next step, Miss Willis says, will be for library board members, clubs and organizations to study local libraries and plan to bring superior library service to every Kentucky citizen.

More support from the federal, state and local governments will be needed, Miss Willis added.

College Sponsors Trip Through Western States; Purpose, Geography Study

Morehead, Ky., March 30 (Spl.) —The Morehead State College Department is sponsoring a Department of Geography is sponsoring a Western Field Trip August 8 through September 2. Dr. Adron Doran, president of the college announced today.

The trip, the first of its kind to ever be scheduled by the College, will begin at Morehead on August 8 and pass through the states of Kentucky, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Utah and Nevada before reaching San Francisco, Calif. August 16.

The party will then travel north from San Francisco to Seattle, Wash. and begin the return trip through the northern states on Aug. 23. This return journey will include visits at Yellowstone National Park and the Black Hills, as well as traveling into Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, South Dakota, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

The tour will provide the participant with five semester hours of credit, graduate or undergraduate.

Information concerning the trip may be obtained by contacting Don L. Martin, Department of Geography, Morehead State College, Morehead, Kentucky.

East Ky. Group To Study Ties With U. S. Unit

Closer ties with the U. S. Department of Commerce community and area development services for Eastern Kentucky will be examined by the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission in its meeting April 6 at the commission's offices in Hazard.

Prentiss M. Terry, director of regional services for the U. S. Department, and Robert M. Luckey, director of the Cincinnati area office, will discuss services offered by the agency, according to John D. Whisman, executive director of the commission.

The commission maintains a permanent office in Hazard as an information center, where brochures and other material is catalogued concerning community and area development techniques useful to Eastern Kentucky communities, as well as data and general information about Eastern Kentucky.

At the April meeting, the commission will also continue in the formulation of comprehensive development program for improvement of the economy and standard of living of the area, according to Whisman.

Also on the agenda will be discussion of the establishment in Eastern Kentucky of a small business investment corporation, the planning of a series of professional conferences to be sponsored during the summer months of 1959, and the development of both federal and state legislation required to implement or authorize certain needed action programs in relation to the comprehensive development plans of the commission.

Woodland Owners Asked To Participate in Group Practicing Good Forestry

Woodland owners of Floyd county who are practicing good forest management were invited today to become members of the American Tree Farm System of growing timber as a crop on taxpaying lands.

Arthur T. Leach, service forester, Kentucky Division of Forestry, and an area tree farm inspector, of Prestonsburg, said many area timber owners probably now are eligible to join with the more than 13,000 others enrolled in the nationwide, voluntary forestry movement.

To become a certified tree farmer, Leach said, timberland owners must protect their woods from destructive grazing, fire, insects and disease and must harvest mature trees in a manner that will assure future crops of timber.

Each tree farmer receives a certificate and a handsome, green and white sign to mark his property. These signify that the owner is managing his woodlands in the best interest of the community and nation by growing repeated crops of wood. Members also receive a free subscription to the quarterly American Tree Farmer magazine, published by American Forest Products Industries, Inc., national sponsor of the program.

The award follows inspection of the property by a technical forester and a review of his report by the Kentucky Tree Farm Committee under Chairman Harold C. Moser, Gamble Brothers, Inc., Louisville. Applications are available from Leach, or from the Kentucky Tree Farm Committee, 4601 Alford Avenue, Louisville 9.

Kentucky now has 96 certified tree farms. The program is sponsored by the Kentucky Forest Committee with the cooperation of the Kentucky Division of Forestry and the Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service.

Peach Leaf Curl Control
The peach leaf curl is a fungus disease found on nearly all varieties of peaches and related tree species. The young seedlings are especially susceptible. The disease is widespread and is a serious problem in areas where annual rainfall is quite heavy and atmospheric humidity high.

Leaf curl seldom attacks the fruit directly; therefore, the real seriousness of the damage is frequently underestimated.

These losses occur in various ways:

1. Lowered vitality of the trees from the loss of leaves even though new leaves are generally formed on the trees after the original leaves have fallen.
2. Failure of the fruit crop as a result of complete leaf loss.
3. Death of trees as a result of loss of leaves year after year.
4. Tree injury by killing twigs.
5. Injury to nursery stock through killing of the shoot from the bud.

The disease shows up on the new leaves soon after they start to unfold in the spring. The leaf becomes thickened and puckered along the midrib and the leaf takes on a curved appearance.

The timeliness and thoroughness of the spray applications are important considerations in the control of this disease. One spray must be applied before the buds start to open, and the twigs and shoots must be well covered so that all the buds will be hit by the fungicide.

The liquid lime sulphur, used at the ratio of 1 to 8 gives excellent control. Bordeaux mixture at the strength of 3-4-50 is also satisfactory. Another good material is Ferbam, used at the rate of two pounds per 100 gallons of water. The main considerations are to get the spray on before the buds start to open and to use plenty of material so that all buds will be covered.

500 POUNDS STERLING
In 1797 the Kentucky Legislature appropriated 500 pounds Sterling for the repair of Wilderness Road and erection of a toll-gate at the Narrows, a gap in Pine Mountain in Bell County. This tollgate, around which the city of Pineville developed, was the first ever established in the state and the first to be abandoned (1830).

FARM FACTS
(Compiled by the Kentucky Bankers Association)

Kentucky will be going through a hot political campaign during the next few weeks and candidates are already offering inducements to attract voter support. Politics have an important bearing on practically every segment of the state's economic, educational and cultural development, and policies of elected officials, through power of taxation and appropriation, may either foster or discourage enterprises found to be beneficial or detrimental to the state. For this reason, it is the duty of every good citizen to study the platforms of the various candidates, evaluate their sincerity and ability to carry out their promises and then to support the ones best qualified. Kentucky's agriculture needs urgent attention from the state's political leaders, if her farmers are to keep on a competitive basis with those of other areas.

Among the urgent needs is a Tobacco Research Laboratory to study factors associated with the processing and consumption of our principal crop. Such a laboratory would cost little more than a mile or so of new highway and could save an industry with a multi-million dollar income.

Kentucky should give more aid in developing the livestock industry to which it is so well adapted. Competing states are appropriating much more money for livestock development than we are and many of them are forging ahead of us. This is one of the few agricultural states, if not the only one, that does not have a state Diagnostic Laboratory to aid in the control of animal diseases. Two or three central swine testing stations are badly needed to keep the hog raisers on a competitive basis in producing meat-type hogs. Kentucky meat packers are already finding it difficult to purchase meat-type hogs in the state. It would be a calamity if our farmers lost further outlets for their products because they could not keep pace with their competitors.

The program of bull testing recently initiated at the Experiment Station should be greatly expanded and accelerated. In the early tests it was found that some bulls produce meat twice as fast and at half the feed cost as others. Kentucky farmers need immediate help in finding and increasing the efficient meat producing strains of cattle.

A forward looking agricultural program in this state must take into consideration the better protection and fuller utilization of the 11½ million acres of forest land. Kentucky is now suffering because of the lack of foresight of her political leaders many years ago. Forestry policies of today will influence the timber industry of tomorrow.

Farm units, unlike industrial organizations, are too small to conduct their own research, so farmers must depend upon publicly supported experiment stations for new developments. A state that does not adequately support its agricultural research program will be like any other organization that is backwards in research - it will eventually lose out.

The neighbor who stumbled into the Lincoln cabin was half dead from cold and shock. He perceived that coals in the fireplace were glowing slightly. He heard a groan from a corner. He turned and saw Nancy Lincoln and her daughter Sarah, in bed. Mrs. Lincoln begged the man to attend to her new baby boy at the foot of the bed on a straw tick. The man found the baby discolored by the severe cold and near starvation.

He faced the fury of the storm again to get firewood. After warming the cabin, he discovered there was no food in the house; Thomas Lincoln apparently was out hunting for some. The neighbor prepared a soup from the turkey grease and Mrs. Lincoln and Sarah drank some of it. The baby Abraham got his share by sucking on one end of a piece of twine, the other end of which was in the soup.

A cabin, said to be the one of this story related by J. Roger Gore in "The Boyhood of Abraham Lincoln," is enshrined today in the Lincoln Memorial at Hodgenville. It is drawing special attention this year, the 150th anniversary of Lincoln's birth.

ONLY YOUR LOCAL STORES GIVE INSTANT DELIVERY AND SERVICE . . .

HERE'S HOW YOU BENEFIT BY DOING ALL YOUR SHOPPING LOCALLY

When you buy from your hometown merchants you get:

1. HONEST VALUES
2. AMPLE SELECTION
3. INSTANT DELIVERY, SERVICE AND ADJUSTMENT
4. MORE PERSONAL AND FRIENDLIER TREATMENT
5. SAVING OF TIME
6. RELIEF FROM COSTLY TRAVEL
7. FREEDOM FROM ROAD HAZARDS
8. ELIMINATION OF COSTLY PARKING PROBLEMS
9. AVOIDANCE OF JOSTLING CROWDS
10. THE CHANCE TO BUILD A BETTER COMMUNITY BY PUTTING YOUR DOLLARS TO WORK HERE

We don't believe you gain anything at all by driving long distances to shop at BIG CITY stores. Our local sources have merchandise that's just as good and costs no more.

But merely for the sake of argument, suppose you do save a few dollars on a time-consuming trip many miles from home. And suppose you don't even count the cost of gasoline and oil, car wear, parking fees, etc. Forget, too, if you like, the hazards of driving in today's heavy highway and city traffic.

But don't overlook these things: What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes—no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Why drive scores of miles looking for trouble? Shop right around the corner and be safe and satisfied.

Neuritis Pains Go; Can Raise Arms

One man said the neuritis pains in his shoulders disappeared for the first time in 2 years and he can raise his arms above his head once again. He got RUGON only a few short weeks ago and says this is the only medicine that ever really helped him. He is among hundreds who praise it.

RUGON is helping so many victims of rheumatism and neuritis because this NEW Liquid Formula contains Three Wonderful Ingredients. Not a tablet or capsule. RUGON goes to the very source of pain almost at once and costs but a few cents a day to take. So don't go on suffering. Get RUGON at W. A. Rose Drug Co.

Man of the People

Has Outstanding Record for Fearless and Independent Leadership for GOOD GOVERNMENT

Farmer — Newspaper Publisher — Skilled Legislator — Speaker of the House (Twice) — President of the Senate — Friend of the Working Man

Harry Lee is an elder in the Christian Church, a 32nd Degree Mason, Shriner, Rotarian, a past president of the Kentucky Press Association, chairman of the Kentucky Ex-Service Men's Board, chairman of the Kentucky Legislative Research Commission. He is a fond and devoted father and grandfather, a warm and well loved friend to thousands, an ardent sports devotee . . . and just about the busiest man as well as the most efficient in State Government, usually working 16 to 18 hours in each day and night.

Waterfield's record, upon which he is running, is an open book written in the service of all Kentuckians. He has decided he will not engage in bitter recriminations, mud-slinging or caustic criticism of his opponents but rather will seek endorsement of the voters upon his record of service in their behalf, holding there is no better gauge of the future than the record of past performance.

Regional Planners Slate Meeting At Hazard, Apr. 6

The Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission will examine closer ties with federal community and area-development services at its April 6 meeting at Hazard.

Executive Director John D. Whisman said that Prentiss M. Terry, director of regional services for the United States Department of Commerce, and Robert M. Luckey, director of the Department's Cincinnati area office, will outline services offered by that agency.

Whisman said the commission also will discuss establishment of a small-business investment corporation and a series of professional conferences set for this summer in Eastern Kentucky.

Federal and State legislation designed to aid the area also will be planned, Whisman said.

ALLEN SLONE

for State Representative
Democratic Primary,
May 26, 1959

Here are some facts I want you voters to know about me.

Some know me as "Little A" Slone, who is the son of Charley and Osie Slone and the grandson of old Uncle Allen Slone and Sadie Bradley.

I married Marie Skeans, the daughter of Taylor Skeans and Callie DeRossett, a granddaughter of George Skeans and Rhoda Hamilton.

My wife and I have operated a business here on Middle Creek for the past ten years. I'm sure a lot of people who don't know me have done business with my father, Charley Slone, who has been in the grocery business for 35 years.

I am a lot of teachers who remember Charley Slone who has been a school in Floyd county for 35 years. I find a great many people each day while campaigning who went to school to my father.

I have also been a teacher of Floyd county and for the last ten years have been employed with the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company at David. I am a United Mine Worker and treasurer of Local No. 7788 at David.

I have never in my life been in trouble. I have never been in jail in my life. I'm honest, sober and dependable and ask of you your support because I am qualified to do the job as State Representative.

Your Support will be Appreciated.

Popular Theory On Alcoholism Is Challenged

By J. COLLIS RINGO
Executive Director Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism

A popular theory, "that the alcoholic is unwilling to give up drinking is obvious to everybody but himself," is challenged by Allison C. Brown, executive director of the Arkansas Commission on Alcoholism. Brown has made a comprehensive survey of several hundred alcoholics who achieved sobriety. He bases his conclusions on facts established by a personally conducted research program. Brown says.

"In light of our experience in talking with recovered alcoholics and the findings in our AA survey we cannot agree with that statement without many reservations. We are convinced there is not a motivation present in every problem drinker. At least our findings are that those who are in the middle or late stages of alcoholism are making some effort to do something about their problem. One of the tragic things about this illness is the effort these people make to control or quit drinking altogether. They do this in secret and alone. They would go to any lengths to keep anyone—family, employer or friends from learning of their efforts and more so of their repeated failures. We have discussed this phase of the problem with victims and their revelations are fantastic.

"Each failure increases the feeling of hopelessness and despair inside the sufferer. This brings additional resentment against their friends who can drink without creating a problem in their lives . . . against their families and employers who relentlessly heap condemnation on them.

"Self condemnation grows and alcohol offers (they think) the only means of escape. You can never condemn an alcoholic to the extent he is constantly condemning himself or herself.

"This is the reason for our incessant preaching. Understanding is essential for the motivation we believe to already exist in the problem drinker to come to the surface. Understanding will erase shame, self condemnation, hopelessness and despair."

Brown further points out that his survey showed more than 99 per cent of the individuals studied had made serious efforts to stop "on their own," unsuccessfully. With outside help, principally Alcoholics Anonymous, they succeeded in maintaining sobriety.

This unusual survey conclusively proves three important facts. (1) After a certain point, a problem drinker is unable to control drinking without outside help. (2) Outside help is available. (3) Alcoholics can recover.

Acceptance of these truths by the public, and particularly by the alcoholic himself, are necessary the eventual solution of the problem.
