

THURSDAY

This Town— That World

It's getting so that a-body can't discover an unidentified flying object (flying saucer, to most of us) for the satellites. On a recent evening at a coastal fishing pier not one but perhaps 25 of us sighted a star-like object cutting dices, darting sidewise, then up or down, in a sort of nimbus, and it appeared we had something there till some killjoy came along and sagely advised us that we were beholding nothing more extraordinary than that space balloon our people had sent up and failed to get in orbit.

NO EXCUSES HERE In Gastonia, N. C., on a recent Sunday night, I came upon an unusual motel—unusual, because it is operated by an unusual couple. They were not "to home" when we arrived and a couple who were merely "keeping store" for them courteously showed us rooms and arranged for the night's lodging, but when it came to our registering and paying for the rooms they asked us to wait. "We're only learning about this business, and you can wait till the owners return, then register and pay, or if you like you can wait till morning."

This struck us as a bit unusual in this age of distrust and get yours while the getting's good, etc. Inquiry elicited the information that the owners of the Twins Motel were at church. Talking later with the feminine half of the partnership, Mrs. T. H. Huffman, we learned that she and her husband attend church every Sunday night, rain or shine, full house at the motel or slack run, come what may.

CAB LICENSES FROZEN AT 11

Council Studies Plans To Buy 3rd Fire Truck; Insurance Tax Discussed

The City Council voted at its Monday night meeting to hold the line on the number of taxicabs to operate in Prestonsburg and not to permit a greater number of cabs than are now licensed.

This means, it was said, that no more than 11 cabs will be licensed here at any time. The action followed a long period of slow reduction in the number of taxicabs, the total in operation at one time exceeding 20.

Monday night's session lacked the heat of other recent meetings. The equable climate resulted when there was no discussion of zoning, urban renewal or public housing.

FISHTRAP FUNDS CUT BUT SOLONS HOPEFUL

PERKINS SAYS VETO THREAT CAUSED CUT

Ellender Tells Cooper He's Hopeful That Work Can Be Begun Next Year

Although half of the $400,000 allocation recommended for the Fishtrap reservoir, one of a series of impoundments designed for flood control on the Big Sandy, was lopped off in House-Senate committee conferences, Kentucky Congressional leaders are hopeful that the project may see the beginning of construction during the next fiscal year.

The $2,500,000 originally voted to begin construction of the Pound reservoir stands unchanged. But the $200,000 remaining for Fishtrap will provide only for confined planning.

Pound reservoir will cost an estimated $17,000,000; the Fishtrap project, $28,300,000. Senator John Sherman Cooper, Congressman Carl D. Perkins and others who urged additional funds for Big Sandy flood control found a staunch supporter in Senator Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), chairman of the Senate appropriations public-works sub-committee.

Congressman Perkins wrote The Times that the implied threat of a Presidential veto of the public works appropriations bill caused the conference to cut out $200,000 of the appropriation for Fishtrap. President Eisenhower had insisted on curtailing new rivers and harbors projects because of the heavy outlay of funds they would demand from later sessions of Congress.

Wired Senator Cooper: "During final action by Senate today on 1960 public works appropriations Senator Ellender, chairman of the Appropriations sub-committee, said on the floor of the Senate: 'The Big Sandy is one of the key Kentucky rivers which should be controlled in order to stop floods.'"

To Cooper's request that construction funds for Fishtrap be set aside next year, Ellender said, "I feel confident that with the $200,000 provided in this deal to continue planning for Fishtrap reservoir, the plans will advance to a point so that next year we can provide funds for completion of planning and for initiation of construction. I will do all that I can in that connection."

Congressman Perkins wrote: "The conferees cut the $200,000 item in disagreement. The implied threat was the reason. I feel confident that we will be in good shape for next year. I am hopeful that the Army Engineers will make a statement to the effect that they will be able to use construction (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

FOUR INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Sunday Afternoon Wreck On West Liberty Highway Throws Car from Road

A Floyd county woman and three former residents of the county were injured Sunday afternoon in a narrow brush with death when their auto was hit by another on the West Liberty-Morehead road and sent tumbling down a mountainside.

The injured are Mrs. T. J. Turner, of Minnie, broken shoulder; Mrs. M. J. Hall, Flemingsburg, five broken ribs and a dislocated pelvis; her husband, who suffered a serious eye injury and severe cuts and bruises; Mrs. E. V. Hall, Flemingsburg, lacerations and contusions.

Their car, which was driven by Mr. Hall, was forced to the edge of the highway by an approaching auto. The other car then hit the Hall car, which turned over at least four times.

The injured were taken to a Mt. Sterling hospital Sunday night, and Monday the Halls were transferred to Central Baptist hospital, Lexington, and Mrs. Turner to St. Joseph's hospital there. All will recover, it was said.

The Flemingsburg residents were en route home at the time of the accident after visiting Dr. and Mrs. Edward B. Leslie, here, and other relatives at McDowell. Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hall are Mrs. Leslie's parents.

Store Opening Slated By Prestonsburg Man; Three Are Employed

Carl Riffe, well-known clothing salesman for years in this section, will open a new store on Lake Drive, it was noted this week. The new establishment will be known as Carl's Clothing Center.

The store will feature popular price clothing and shoes for the entire family, Mr. Riffe said.

In addition to the retail department of the store a sample room will be maintained in the building. The sample line, from a Bristol, Tenn., wholesaler, will offer clothing to merchants in the retail trade in this area.

"This is something new for the Big Sandy area," Riffe said. "I feel that it will be a great asset to the merchants in Floyd and surrounding counties. It will give them the opportunity to see complete lines of clothing without making trips to other markets."

Personnel, besides Mr. Riffe, of the new store, are Mrs. Thelma Meade, Miss Joyce Prater and Sherd Bailey.

CROWD SIZE QUESTIONED

Estimates Of Persons Attending Rally Vary From 250 To 2,500

The first shot of the final campaign in Floyd county for the office of Governor was fired Saturday when John M. Robison, Louisville, Republican nominee for the post, spoke at a Republican rally held at Dewey Lake State Park.

An Associated Press story saying that the rally was attended by 2,000 persons was under attack this week, and the AP later published a statement made by A. B. Meade, Prestonsburg Democrat, to the effect that not more than 250 were at the meeting. One Republican who estimated the crowd at 1,000, said the gathering was composed of Republicans from various counties of this section. The Associated Press said in its second story that the 2,000 estimate was made by a person who declined to have his name disclosed.

Robison pointed out to his hearers that his Democratic opponent, Bert T. Combs, of Prestonsburg, has been involved in "a terrible factional fight" within his own party.

"Mr. Combs and I are both from Eastern Kentucky," Robison said, "and have Eastern Kentucky at heart. I do not question Mr. Combs' motives; but under the circumstances, I can get the job done and he can't." (See Story No. 7, Page 4)

TURNER SUED ON PURCHASES

Of Paint; Hall, Howard Asks That Jones Repay $551.67 To Treasurer

Payment of 23 invoices totaling $551.67 for paint purchased by majority vote of the Floyd County Board of Education last month provided last Thursday the basis for a second suit filed against County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner and the three pro-Administration members of the Board, Leonard Jones, doing business as Jones General Merchandise, the supplier of the paint, was named co-defendant in last week's action.

The plaintiffs are John G. Hall and Ray Howard, anti-Administration members.

Their petition, which was prepared by Atty. W. W. Burchett, seeks from the circuit court a declaration of their rights. The purchase was made, it was pointed out, on the recommendation of Supt. Turner and on the vote of John M. Stumbo, Mrs. Ethel S. Osborne and John E. Campbell, members of the Board, Howard and Hall say they voted against the claim because it violated the statute governing such purchases and because it was not properly verified.

Alleging they at the previous meeting had requested the Board to advertise for bids on paint and other supplies, the plaintiffs' petition claims the Board "wrongfully and illegally failed and refused to pass such a resolution or to require compliance with the statute."

The plaintiffs say that the Floyd County Board of Education "will continue to purchase supplies and equipment in excess of $250 unless it is enjoined and restrained by proper orders of this court." Besides asking the court to direct such purchases be advertised for bids, they seek to recover $551.67 from Jones, that amount to be paid to the treasurer of the Board of Education.

Prestonsburg Police Car Stolen By Juvenile, Recovered; Mayor Halts Its Daytime Operation

The Prestonsburg police car was "grounded" Tuesday morning by order of Mayor Bill Napier for reasons of economy. No date for resumption of touring the town by the policemen was set by the Mayor. The car will be used only when calls are made for the services of the police, Police Chief Epp Lafferty said.

The police car was stolen Monday morning by a 14-year-old Town Branch boy and was recovered an hour later, according to Wesley Howard, Prestonsburg policeman. There was no connection between the theft of the car and the mayor's action.

Howard related the story of the theft of the police cruiser. About 3 a. m., Monday, he and Policeman Bill Potter chased four juveniles around the flood wall section on Arnold avenue but were unable to

Two Here Buy Plane For Business Uses; Its Advantages Told

Two Prestonsburg men who have bought an airplane and are now learning to fly it are out for business, not pleasure. They are Russell May, of the May Sign Company, and C. J. McNally, of the Eastern Kentucky Auto Parts.

May had a sample of the plane's possibilities Tuesday. With Carl Wise, his instructor, at the controls, he flew to Danville in an hour and 25 minutes. There he did a repair job on a neon sign whose owner was in a hurry, inspected a Pilot Oil Corporation job he has going (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

Summer vacation for the Floyd circuit court; criminal work will end with the convening of a new term, Tuesday, Sept. 8, and for that session a list of 60 prospective jurors was released this week by Circuit Clerk Henry Stephens.

A total of 149 cases are docketed for trial during the term, but Commonwealth's Attorney Hollie Conley said this week that warrants and other processes have not been executed on a large percentage of defendants.

ABBOTT MAN JAILED HERE

Is Accused Of Taking Girl, 15, To Michigan; Hall Freed After Probe

Curtis L. Holbrook, of the Middle Creek section of the county, was jailed here Saturday by State Trooper Tom Wright and booked on a charge of taking a girl against her will.

The arrest was made after Holbrook allegedly had taken a 15-year-old girl to Michigan, and back to this county, meanwhile buying with the girl's money an automobile. The girl's parents, it was said, had saved $2,000 for her college education, and $1,500 of that amount was checked out of the First Guaranty Bank at Martin before the two left the county.

Approximately $300 in cash has been recovered, it was said. The youthful prisoner was released Sunday under bond.

SCHOOL TERM OPENING SET FOR MONDAY

Kentucky Schools Head Gives 'Go-Ahead' Word With Emergency Tutors

The State Department of Education approved this week the emergency need of teachers in the Floyd county school system, and teachers for the positions were being issued books and supplies Thursday for school opening, Monday.

All Floyd county schools are scheduled to open their 1959-'60 terms next Monday, but the opening of a number of rural schools pends on a decision to be made by Robert R. Martin, state superintendent of public instruction.

Emergency teachers for these classrooms have been employed by a 3-2 vote of the Floyd County Board of Education, but such employment, protested by Ray Howard and John G. Hall, new board members, must be approved by the state school head before the teachers can legally begin work.

HILL VACATES CLERK ORDER

In Harold Yates Case Taxicab Driver So On Police Court Capias

Harold Yates, who Monday of last week gained freedom here on a temporary restraining order and later filed $10,000 suit against city authorities, alleging illegal conviction, is wanted again by the Prestonsburg police court.

Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill last Thursday dismissed the temporary restraining order, and Police Judge R. W. Feiler, one of those named in Yates' suit, issued a capias for him.

Police do not anticipate trouble locating the ex-prisoner. Yates was arrested Aug. 8 by police and charged with operating a taxicab without license. Judge Feiler said the prisoner was brought to his home on Riverside here. He added that Yates admitted he had driven the cab, and was permitted to wait till Monday for arraignment.

Yates' suit, filed against Judge Feiler, Chief of Police Epp Lafferty, Policemen Kelly Frause and Anderson Hatfield, claimed Feiler entered the judgment against him while he was protesting his innocence.

Judge Feiler said the officers arrested Yates under an ordinance that was well-known, that the arrest was made in a continuing effort to curb illegal operation of taxicabs and the liquor traffic in Prestonsburg.

REED ASSERTS BILL THREAT

To Small Mine Owners; Drift Operator, Others Testify Before Group

B. F. Reed, Drift mine operator, told a Senate labor sub-committee Tuesday that large coal operators are interested in eliminating the small mine owner. Reed testified against the bill sponsored by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, of Pennsylvania.

The Clark bill is backed by the United Mine Workers and would eliminate exemptions of mines employing 14 or fewer miners from certain safety features now in the law. In agreement with Reed was J. B. Taggart, Norton, Va.

Reed said there are so many differences between big and small coal mines that it is like comparing a big ocean liner to a motorboat. "We do not oppose standards that are set up to meet the conditions we have," Reed said. He argued that the cost to the small operator, now subject to state laws, is too low rates." was made last Friday by Louise Combs, director of certification, State Department of Education, who heard statements of Superintendent Turner, Wayne Ratliff, director of instruction, and Board Members Howard and Hall pertaining to the situation.

A decision based on her report is expected this week.

The opening date for rural schools was originally set for August 10 but this was advanced to Aug. 17 when the list of teachers was not submitted in time. Schools with a full compliment of teachers opened Aug. 17 but those affected by teacher-vacancies remained closed.

Howard explained his and Hall's opposition to the employment of emergency teachers, as recently effected, saying:

"Our side, simply, is this, that the Superintendent gave us a list of names only, no qualifications stated and no placement of individual teachers made. We were asked to approve the list, and we refused because we insisted that qualified teachers be hired and placed first, according to their qualifications. We also insisted that the emergency teachers with the most college hours and experience be hired first. The Superintendent also wanted us to hire when some teachers with college degrees had not been placed."

much to operate under federal safety laws. He suggested a federal study to find out what is needed.

Federal safety inspectors now have the right to inspect all mines, but they do not have power to issue mandatory enforcement orders to the smaller mines.

By a 4-to-3 party-line vote, the subcommittee approved the Clark bill rather than a milder bill co-sponsored by Senator John Sherman Cooper and Thurston Morton. The measure was sent to the full labor committee.

The Kentuckians' bill would allow federal inspectors to close mines where there is "imminent danger." But it calls for a study to determine whether small mines must install the same safety devices as large mines.

Small operators say the expense would put them out of business. They charge the bill is an attempt by the U.M.W. and large operators to kill off the little fellows.

Cooper, a member of the full committee but not the subcommittee, said Tuesday he would continue to fight for passage of his bill.

FIRST HUNTERS
The first hunters and settlers in Kentucky were border people from Virginia, Pennsylvania and North Carolina. Led by Daniel Boone, a native of Pennsylvania, these early settlers brought with them strong fast horses, which they tended with affection and care.

When the War Between the States came, Kentucky had a slave population of about 225,000. Attempting to remain neutral, the State sent 91,000 young men to the Union Army and 40,000 into the Southern Army.

Eleven -- a Good Number

THE TIMES is gratified by the news created Monday evening when the City Council of Prestonsburg agreed with Mayor Napier that the present number of taxicabs operating under city license here fully meets the legitimate needs of the public and that no new licenses shall be granted beyond the number now in operation.

This, we are told, "freezes" the number of cabs that will be operating here at eleven—which is more than enough for all legitimate purposes. And any business that does not have a legitimate purpose has no business calling on the city to issue it a license.

We have no grudge against the taxicab business as such, nor any feeling but respect for the man who makes an honest living by driving a cab and performing a needed service. But we have always insisted that the only way a livelihood is possible for the legitimate cab operator is to control the number in the business, lest some forget the business they were licensed to do in the first place and go out after badly needed money that is always available outside the law.

Cooper, Combs and Wyatt And Plans for Kentucky

Explaining his vote against a CCC-type program for the country, Senator John Sherman Cooper last week proposed in lieu of that a "basic development program" for under-developed areas such as Eastern Kentucky, the mining section of West Virginia and other parts of the nation that have been left behind while other areas of the United States have gone ahead.

The proposed Youth Conservation Corps would cost from $375,000,000 to $450,000,000 a year, the Senator estimated. Admitting the appeal of such a program, he argued that that money could be better spent on basic needs of areas rather than on only those who could be admitted to the Youth Conservation Corps. The YCC, incidentally, could not meet juvenile delinquency problems, because the bill specifies that "only youths of good character" could be admitted to the corps.

Cooper's regional development proposal has these objectives: (1) Better communications—road improvement and small airports to make neglected or recession-fraught areas more accessible and available to the nation's growing commerce; (2) water resources development, including flood control, navigation and water suitable for new industry; (3) expanded forestry programs and new emphasis on agricultural development.

But Senator Cooper is not alone in his thinking along these lines. Already Bert Combs and Wilson Wyatt, Democratic nominees for governor and lieutenant-governor, respectively, have begun on-the-spot studies which will enable them to institute and properly develop programs which will give not only this section of Kentucky but others as well the benefit of experience gained by other states as they have achieved signal successes in agriculture, forestry, the tourist business and in other fields.

They have, for instance, gone to Wisconsin to study that state's great dairy business; to North Carolina where mountains, streams and beaches attract their hundreds of thousands annually, and there to learn how that state did the job. Forestry is being given close study. They seek the full story, the details, the facts that lie behind these success stories of other states.

This is not the work of novices in government. It is study by two men who propose to pool their talents and abilities and their dreams of a greater Kentucky; study made in thorough fashion to see wherein other states have succeeded while Kentucky has failed.

These are high aims cherished by Senator Cooper, Judge Combs and Mr. Wyatt. Separate aims though they are, entertained by men of opposing parties, they deserve the support of all Kentuckians who are not content to rest in peace where we are.

The tentative allotments are made annually on the eve of school opening to guide local districts in making out their budgets.

The formula for State support will require the 212 districts to raise $44,863,354 in local revenue, an increase of $850,204 over last year.

The growth last year in classroom and transportation units increased total operating costs by $2,047,388 in the year ahead.

This increase is broken down into $1,290,828 for teacher salaries, $284,040 for other current expenses, $187,560 for capital outlay, and $284,960 for transportation.

The foundation law guarantees each district at least $80 per pupil in average daily attendance, or support given the district in 1955-56, whichever sum is larger.

"The appropriation of $63,064,900 appears to be sufficient to finance in full all means of the foundation program for the 1959-60 school year," Dr. Martin stated.

EAST KENTUCKY STUDY UNDER WAY THIS WEEK

Conferences seeking to improve community and industrial development opportunities in Eastern Kentucky will bring well-known authorities from Kentucky and surrounding states to Lexington and Louisville, August 18 and 24.

The third and fourth in a series of 10 regional conferences dealing with depressed area problems, the meetings are sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission, an agency of the Kentucky Department of Economic Development.

Executive Director John D. Whisman, of the EKRPC, said the community development conference in Lexington August 18, would concentrate on techniques to counter such economic ills as limited land resources, flooding, low tax base and the great need for additional community facilities.

He would place particular stress on the need for setting up community coordinating councils to serve as communications mediums between local groups and organizations.

Industrial development is the theme of the August 24 conference in Louisville. Emphasis here, Whisman said, will be on a possible sequence plan of industrial development.

This will take into consideration first of all the opportunities for expansion of existing industries and establishment of new enterprises under existing conditions and then the impact of improved resources and facilities on economic growth.

Whisman said the meeting is not concentrated as much with immediate encouragement of industrial prospects as with the necessary prerequisites of industrial development, including transportation, facilities, water supply, flood control, community utilities, etc.

Recommendations and findings will become a part of EKRPC's comprehensive regional program to be submitted in November as the basis for recommended action at federal, state and local levels.

Officials planning to attend the community development conference in Lexington include Harry Laviers, commissioner, Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission, Paintsville; Harry Heather, General Telephone Company, Lexington; Harry Carlross, Kentucky Utilities Company, Lexington; Rufus Thomas, Kentucky Power Company, Ashland; Walter L. Shouse, Department of Economic Development, Frankfort; James Zimmerman, Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, Louisville; Dr. Lloyd D.

Black, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C.; Milton Ogle, Council of Southern Mountains, Berea; G. driven up Third avenue and the other up First avenue. They spotted the police cruiser at the corner of Graham and Lake Drive as it was turning onto the highway to head north. Turning their car, Howard and Potter headed down Lake Drive, pulled alongside the police cruiser and forced it to stop.

The youngster refused to do any talking and was lodged in the county jail, charged with grand larceny. He denied that he had accomplices and refused to say how he got the ignition on. A search of the boy revealed that he had a great number of keys but whether he used one of these was not determined.

lock the office door and leave for church. The business is left unattended. Mrs. Huffman explained that those who have reservations are notified by a sign left outside the office door to go to certain rooms and make themselves at home.

"But what about travelers who come in as we have, without reservations?"

"Oh, we have information left in the door for them, too," she said. "We list the vacant rooms, the rates, and tell them to move in, that the doors aren't locked and that we'll see them after church."

Every room has a television set, an air conditioner and other valuable items. We wondered if, perhaps, somebody hadn't found things so attractive that in the owners' absence there might have been a bit of pilfering done.

To which Mrs. Huffman replied: "Never. We've never lost anything. In fact, we've found our method of handling things a real blessing."

Now, what was your excuse for staying away from church last Sunday night?

THE CASE OF THE STABBED DUMMY

Somebody got hanged in effigy from the railroad bridge at West Prestonsburg, last Wednesday night. The dangling figure, wearing a red cap, scared the dickens out of passers-by, and a woman, gasping for breath, reported the "suicide" to police.

What interests folks around here is, who did the figure represent? We thought we had an idea till we learned the dummy had been stabbed in the back. After that, we decided it could have been almost any of us.

NOT UNAPPRECIATIVE

I have been told that, somehow, the opposition I have voiced to the poisoning of Dewey Lake has caused some of our people to think The Times is unappreciative of the work of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources. This, despite the fact that only recently I was careful to point out that we appreciate the interest the Department and its biologists have taken in the lake and also to express the high personal regard I have for Bernard Carter and those working with him.

Construe our stand as you please, we still maintain that it will not hurt Dewey Lake fishing, and could help, to skip the rotenone treatment at least for the remainder of this year and give that fine spawn of bass a chance of survival till next year, anyhow.

Irvin Mullins, Of Harold, Age 79, Passes Monday

Irvin Mullins, 79, of Harold, a retired miner, died at 7:45 a.m., Monday, at the Pikeville Memorial hospital. He was a son of Peter and Mary Ann Mullins.

Mr. Mullins was twice married, first to Maudie Ellis Mullins, and second to Grace Caldwell Mullins. Both preceded him in death.

Surviving are two sons and two daughters: Sherman Mullins, Edgel Mullins and Mrs. Ruby Acre, all of Van, W. Va., and Mrs. Lola Caldwell, Vermillion Ohio; two stepsons and a step-daughter, Jack Caldwell, at Home, Jimmy Joe Caldwell, U. S. Army in Korea, and Mrs. Henrietta Foster, also of Van. Two sisters surviving are Mrs. Edna Stollings, Manila, W. Va., and Mrs. Hollins Perry, Lansing, Michigan.

Funeral rites were conducted, Tuesday, from the Freewill Baptist church at Boldman, the Revs. Luther Walters and John Abbott officiating. The body was removed to Madison, W. Va., by the Hall Brothers Funeral Home where additional services were conducted Wednesday and burial was made in the Madison Memorial Gardens.

The first Junior Conservation Club in Kentucky was organized in Frankfort, March 13, 1954, under the sponsorship of the Franklin County Sportsmen's Club.

state police and a Treasury agent. He was arrested here by Deputy Sheriff Lonnie Herald after a man identified him as one of three who had administered a "knock-out" shot to him while on a bus at Columbus, O., had changed his baggage check and otherwise made free with his belongings. Later, however, the man who identified him became uncertain, and evidence of guilt was held lacking.

A $20 bill which had been split was found in Hall's possession, but officers did not charge him with mutilating currency. It was explained that dexterous use of razor blade to divide a large bill, followed by the pasting of a $1 bill on the mutilated side of each half, sometimes is practiced by swindlers.

Others jailed within the week: Woodrow Spurlock and Jackie Wallen, breaking and entering; Sammie Hopson, possessing moonshine and reckless use of a deadly weapon; Lewis Butcher, possessing moonshine; Maudie H. Boyd, obtaining goods under false pretense; Clyde Gibson, drunk driving.

As early as 1802, a crude stone furnace on Red River near Clay City, Ky., produced iron from ore found in the region. Ruins of the furnace are still visible.

Even though there are fewer cows on the nation's dairy farms, milk production last year was the third highest on record. It stood at 125.2 billion pounds and was exceeded only by the 125.9 billion pounds produced in 1957 and the 125.5 billion pounds in 1956.

Despite inflationary pressures, the "real" price of milk remained steady last year, says National Dairy Council. For example, it took an average of 7 minutes of factory labor to buy a quart of milk in 1958, even though the delivered price of that milk rose slightly.

Space Age Health Is Discussed By Pediatrician

If the recent past is any augury of the immediate future, Americans can look forward to strides in health during the next forty years equally as spectacular as those which have made the last four decades the wonder age of medicine.

The Health News Institute calls our attention to an inventory—of things past and things to come—which was read to the Section on Pediatrics at the recent meeting of The American Medical Association in Atlantic City.

The speaker was Dr. Wyman C. Cole, Sr., of Detroit. A prophet in 1919, he said, would have taxed the credulity of a young physician if he had told him:

"If you are still practicing in 1959—

You will not have seen a clinical case of diphtheria or tetanus for 25 years.

A suitable formula for 99 out of 100 babies will be obtainable at any drugstore or supermarket. Rickets, scurvy and infantile tetany will be textbook diseases that you will have rarely, if ever.

It will be at least 15 years since you have seen a patient with surgical mastoiditis.

Most cases of pneumonia and scarlet fever will be treated in your office and will be essentially cured in 24 hours.

Very few babies will die of diarrhea because of what you have learned about electrolyte and water metabolism."

And what about 40 years from now?

The accomplishments of the health team, in the refinement of techniques of treatment, development and mass distribution of new drugs and immunizing agents and measures of public health, said Dr. Cole, would lead the same prophet to say to the physician who will still be practicing in 1999:

Cancer and leukemia will have been relegated to medical history. The common cold will have been forgotten.

Babies will rarely be born prematurely. A single explanation and method of control will have been found for allergy.

A single injection or tablet will immunize children against all of the communicable diseases.

Many congenital defects will be avoided by a better understanding of genetics.

Such metabolic diseases as diabetes, arthritis and cystic fibrosis will be easily controlled by improved knowledge of the enzyme system.

"I am sure," Dr. Cole concluded, "this is only a small fraction of what will actually transpire."

In short, says the Health News Institute, despite cold wars and H-bombs and fall-out, on the medical front at least the future is not doom and gloom.

Floyd Soil District Among Many Honored By Memorial Stamp

The Floyd County Soil Conservation district is one of more than 2,800 such districts throughout the country being honored by issuance of a commemorative soil conservation stamp by the post office department, according to L. R. Johnson, soil conservationist.

The stamp will be issued August 26 at Rapid City, S. D., at the annual meeting of the Soil Conservation Society of America, and will go on sale at local post offices the following day, Johnson said. The stamp, in three colors, depicts a modern conservation farm, and is of 4-cent denomination.

"The 4-cent stamp is in recognition of the farmers and others who are demonstrating good soil stewardship," he said. "It is a salute to their soil conservation districts, and to the professional workers of State and Federal government who help them."

The Floyd County Soil Conservation District was organized by local farmers in the fall of 1950. The district now has 949 cooperatives, of whom 234 have basic conservation plans.

The district is governed by a board consisting of J. B. Clarke, Prestonsburg; Billy Merritt, of Bonanza; Roy Denney, of Drift; R. C. Barnett, of Martin; Milt Stanley, also of Bonanza. Technical assistance is provided by the Soil Conservation Service.

Supporters of the Floyd County Soil Conservation district and persons interested in commemorative stamps will be able to purchase a 4-cent soil conservation stamp locally starting August 27.

Silver Service From Battleship Is On Display

Rustic pioneer relics are not the only articles of historical significance displayed at the Kentucky Historical Society Museum at Frankfort. Articles of elegance and beauty also occupy prominent positions in the Old State House.

Surrounded by portraits of Kentucky's former governors, sits a magnificent silver service. This service, made by the J. E. Caldwell Company of Philadelphia, was presented to the governor of Kentucky in 1900, and was used on the battleship Kentucky until 1920. At that time, Lt. Gov. Theodore Ballard suggested that it be sent back to Kentucky.

The silver service was said to have cost $30,000, the money having been contributed by individual citizens.

This four-piece set has made various public appearances around the State since 1920, including the Kentucky State Fair last year, at which time it was insured for $75,000, and at the Lafayette Day Celebration at the Frankfort Country Club in 1957.

At the latter engagement however, the sparkle and splendor of the punch bowl was slightly dimmed by the use of paper cups for the drinking vessels.

Telephone Talk

by
H. D. HAYES
Your Telephone Manager

THE CALENDAR tells me there's a holiday ahead—the Labor Day weekend. And this makes me think of two things—a good time (which I'm sure we're all planning) and safety.

SAFETY ON THE HIGHWAY will be especially important this year. There are more cars on the roads today than ever before in history—and you can count on it that most of them will be out over Labor Day. So, take care and drive carefully. You'll have a happier holiday if you do.

AND ON THE LIGHTER SIDE of safety and warning, if you're going away for Labor Day, "play it safe" and "warn" folks of your arrival. A Long Distance call will reserve accommodations, help you plan your visit with out-of-town friends and family. Remember when calling Long Distance, it's cheaper to call station-to-station—faster when you know the number.

THE REASON I'm so safety conscious is because we at the telephone company are continually aware of safety's importance—especially on the job. Because of this, we regularly conduct classes in safety and first aid. This knowledge helps protect us at work, and many times it's enabled us to help others in emergencies—even save lives. That's why I never underestimate the rules of safety, and I hope you won't either.

STEWART FAMILY

Mrs. C. W. Dickerson, Box 903, Amelia, Virginia, announces a new book, "James Stewart of Early Augusta County, Virginia, and Descendants, 1740-1959."

The book is a history and genealogy of the Stewart family, of Augusta County, Virginia, and related families. It is illustrated with coats of arms, pictures of homes, and discusses land grants. It lists many marriages, deeds and wills. Old records, histories, Bibles, and many other sources were consulted in the preparation of the volume.

"About 1740 several Stewart brothers entered Augusta county and settled near Staunton," Mrs. Dickerson says. "Virginia at that time reached to the Mississippi River or as far west as was known. Augusta county was a vast territory."

Related families included in the book are Lafferty, Armstrong, Murray, Elliott, Clay, Carter, Burgess, Eskridge, Campbell, Hamilton, Holderby, Smith, Mitchell, Francis, Kenner, Lee, Mays, Hairston, Darnall, Canterbury, Gunnoe, Dickerson, Cooke, McCutcheon, Walden, Huddles-Augustine, Scott and many others.

The author was born in Missouri, where her maternal grandfather, Henry Stewart, removed with his family from Kentucky in 1860. The author returned to Virginia in 1911. She has been at work on the volume since 1950.

CABELL COUNTY, W. VA.

Cabell county, West Virginia, which from 1809 to 1821 adjoined Floyd county, Kentucky, at the forks of Big Sandy, celebrated its sesquicentennial, June 26 to July 4.

Cabell county was created by the Virginia legislature in 1809 and named for a Governor of Virginia, William H. Cabell, whose term was from 1805 to 1809. The county when created embraced over 2,000 square miles, a contrast to the 286 square miles of today. It was created from Kanawha county and had a population of 2,717 in 1810, or slightly more than one for every square mile. The territory embraced what is now Cabell, Wayne, Logan and Mingo counties and parts of Putnam and Lincoln counties. Logan county was created in 1824, Wayne county in 1842 and Putnam in part from Cabell in 1848, reducing Cabell in size.

A commission appointed to set up a county seat consisted of John Reynolds, William Clendenen and Dr. Jesse Bennett. They fixed the county seat at Guyandotte where the Guyandotte River flows into the Ohio.

The county seat was changed to Barboursville in 1814 but because of Confederate raids was moved back to Guyandotte in 1863, where it remained for the duration of the Civil War thence back to Barboursville. The city of Huntington took the county seat away from Barboursville in 1887 in a bitter election.

There were skirmishes in Cabell county in the Civil War and Colonel Zeigler of the Federal Army burned the town of Guyandotte in a reprisal movement. The leading soldier produced by Cabell was General Albert Gallatin Jenkins, a cavalry leader, who as commanding officer died from wounds received in the battle of Cloyd's Farm at Dublin, Virginia, in 1864.

General Collis P. Huntington, a native of Connecticut, who had successfully built railways west of the Rockies, became interested in extending the Virginia Central Railway west from Covington, Virginia. He came down New River gorge in a flat boat, built by William Hinton, of Hinton, and decided that the construction of a railway west was practical. Thus the Chesapeake and Ohio system was created and its general shops located at Huntington which also became a division point.

General Huntington delegated his brother-in-law, Colonel D. W. Emmons to buy up sites for the location of a city. Mr. Emmons bought 21 farms totaling 5,000 acres of level land, and an engineer, Rufus Brown of Boston, was engaged to lay out the city. He designed wide streets and boulevards with a simple numbering system of streets and avenues.

The tradition is that the act of an over-zealous mayor of Guyandotte in fining General Huntington because the general's horse blocked the sidewalk, led the general to build his city elsewhere.

Marshall College, named for Chief Justice John Marshall, had its beginning in the establishment of Marshall Academy in 1838.

LETTER TO THE PEOPLE

(In reply to a letter to the editor in last week's Floyd County Times by Ray Howard and John G. Hall)

Since last school board election we have had two new people join the membership of the Floyd County Board of Education. It is common knowledge that since that time the board and its meetings have been marked with much confusion. Much name calling, charges and insinuations bordering on libel have become the order of the day at these meetings. Board meetings have been dragged into long and unnecessary hours. People are being allowed to sit in and parade back and forth in and out of these meetings with no particular purpose or interest except to confuse, harass and embarrass. In fact, at one recent meeting one of these people was heard to call our Superintendent of Schools a "liar" and at another meeting one of these new members took the liberty to read a long list of trumped-up and self-manufactured charges, and ended by asking our Superintendent of Schools to resign because he was "unfit and unqualified for the job."

Friends of education in Floyd county, it is to be assumed that no member of the Board of Education or any other right-thinking citizen would object to any interested citizen bringing educational issues and problems before the board of education at any meeting desired. But common sense dictates and the school people of Floyd county are opposed to the doors of any board meeting being flung wide open and with many people filing back and forth through the place of the meeting and the corridors near by for no expressed purpose except to bring about unfair, unjust and unfavorable publicity against the board of education. The motives of a certain lawyer sitting in on these meetings pretending to represent the interests of certain people and groups of people, free of charge, should be seriously questioned by all Floyd county citizens interested in the educational program in our county. Could it be that these people have certain designs upon the school system and its activities at some future date? May it be said by all honest Floyd county citizens that such tactics are beneath the dignity of a member of the board of education. No member or by-stander has the right, moral or legal, to bicker and slander, if you please, or seek to distort and confuse or draw the minds of honest board members away from the real issues at hand. No member or any other person has the right to literally steal time from Floyd county children by the use of such tactics. Floyd county school children need all the time used in these board meetings, and it should and must be used wisely.

At one particular recent meeting it was charged and recommended by Mr. Howard that the Floyd County Annual sponsorship be taken out of the hands of the schools and placed in the hands of the Board of Education because here was too much money involved, and therefore the principals and teachers were not capable of looking after the production of this annual. He complained that proper bids had not been taken. This is a direct slap at every school principal and every annual sponsor in every school, and every teacher in Floyd county, because we all have had a part in the production of this annual. For his information, all annual production companies and all picture companies interested are invited to present their bids in person before the principals and annual sponsors and in the presence of Mr. Ratliff and Miss Dingus and the Superintendent of Schools, if he has time to give. When all bids have been presented, they are reviewed individually by the entire group (bidders not present) after which final decision is made. Also for his information, this group decision probably holds the cost to one half. He can also be assured that there are no kick-backs or rake-offs. It is respectfully requested that instead of questioning the honesty and sincerity of others he may do well to apply a little self-examination. The annual has been in the charge of the schools for 10, these many years. Many superintendents and boards have come and gone, and to our knowledge our honesty and integrity have never been questioned in this respect. We think the annual is in safe hands, and we recommend to Mr. Howard that it be allowed to remain in the hands of the schools. Then, a second charge and recommendation by Mr. Howard was that financial reports of the lunch rooms and the general funds in each school should be made monthly to the board. This is another direct challenge to the honesty and integrity of the school people of this county. For his information (1) Three lunchroom reports are made monthly, one for the Floyd County Board of Education, one for the State Department of Education, one for the Federal Accounting Service of School lunchrooms for audit. (2) Bank statements are included, and these must check with the reports made. Also for his information, we follow State Department plans for financial accounting. At the end of the year all reports are subject to state audit, and of the present, no lawsuits have been entered against any of the present principals of Floyd county. Each school has a bookkeeper other than the principal, and our books are open for inspection at any time. Each person in charge of school funds is under bond for the safety of funds in our charge. Each school pays for its own bond.

Could it be that Mr. Howard wants to spend half of each board meeting reviewing these voluminous reports, or does he just naturally question the sincerity and honesty of everyone except himself? Or could it be that he doesn't fully understand the operation of these various school functions?

1. Stop questioning the honesty and integrity of the school people of this county until you can point your finger at a guilty person.
2. Place yourself in the frame of mind that you are not the whole board and that your cooperation with other members of the board is needed if progress is to be made.
3. Stop using unfair and unethical tactics in future board meetings and approach meetings in the attitude that you want to do something for the Floyd County school system.
4. Stop threatening to enter lawsuits concerning various matters without legal fact or basis.
5. Mr. Howard, what person do you plan to support for Superintendent of Schools? Floyd county taxpayers have the right to know in which direction you lead in this matter.

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky

(No. 57 in a Series)

ISSUE OF FEB. 21, 1921, OF THE PRESTONSBURG POST

The Prestonsburg Post was established in 1913 by the Rev. A. C. Harlowe, Baptist minister and former head of the Magoffin Baptist Institute who came to Prestonsburg to conduct the Prestonsburg Baptist Institute. The Prestonsburg Post was a fine contribution to Eastern Kentucky journalism.

This 38-year-old issue of Rev. Harlowe's newspaper carried the picture and an announcement for office by Attorney William H. May, religious, civic and political leader. He was one of the founders of the First National Bank in 1904 and the first quarters of the new financial institution were in the law offices of May & May, on First Avenue, a firm composed of William H. May and A. J. May.

The First National Bank salutes the leaders of yesterday who contributed so heavily to the progress of our region.

Restored Shops Owner Performed First Ovariectomy

Restoration of the first apothecary west of the Allegheny Mountains at Danville brings to mind the story of its owner, Dr. Ephraim McDowell, the father of abdominal surgery.

The apothecary, built in 1792, was renovated and furnished by the Kentucky Pharmaceutical Association and the Kentucky Medical Association for dedication August 14.

Dr. McDowell's father, Samuel, was a judge of the first Kentucky court in 1783 and president of the convention that framed the state's first constitution.

In December, 1809, Dr. McDowell was called to treat Mrs. Jane Todd Crawford, of Greensburg. He told her that he must perform a dangerous internal operation that he had never before performed. Frantic with pain, she made the 60-mile journey from her home to Danville by horseback.

She was placed on a long table and men held down her arms and legs with force. During the operation, Mrs. Crawford repeated the psalms, perfectly conscious of every move of the doctor and his assistants.

Thus was performed the first successful ovariectomy, before discovery of the methods of anesthesia.

Dr. McDowell reported, "In five days I visited her and found her engaged in making her bed."

The operation was not considered important by Dr. McDowell. But seven years later he was persuaded to publish an account of the operation. The report met with indifference, incredulity and even ridicule. Many years passed before Dr. McDowell received recognition.

He practiced medicine until his death, June 20, 1830.

Americans in 1958 took about the same amount of cream in their coffee—and in other foods—as they did the year before. But usage of cream is only about two-thirds what it was during the late 1930's and during the war.

Per capita consumption of butter in 1958 was 8.4 pounds, the same as in 1957, says the National Dairy Council in its recent issue of "How Americans Use Their Dairy Foods," its annual statistical publication.

Alcoholism Attention Is Agitated

By J. Collis Ringo, Executive Director Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism

The New York Times, February 9, 1958, quoted Dr. Seldon D. Bacon, director, Yale University Center of Alcohol Studies as follows: "Alcoholism and alcoholics form one of the worst and largest problems of American society today. Alcoholism has more direct and indirect victims, lasts longer, more dramatically impairs the very structure of society and entails enormously greater costs than most of the other ills that receive concentrated attack from voluntary groups, foundations and government—more than most of them combined."

This eminent authority is agitated about alcoholism as a sociologist.

Vice-president Ferrier of the Bell Telephone Company says: "We studied the problem in our company and found that—as has now been discovered elsewhere—there was apparently a wide-spread occurrence of alcoholism throughout the employee force, ranging from the line crew up through the clerks, the middle levels of management to the higher levels of management."

Mr. Ferrier is agitated about alcoholism as an industrialist.

Judge Thomas Ready, police judge of Lexington, Ky., says: "In 1957, of 6,751 arrests made, public drunkenness accounted for more than 3,709—more than half of all arrests made. Most of them are thoroughly irresponsible. The first thing a police judge has to recognize is that the bulk of these people are not criminals."

Judge Ready is agitated about alcoholism as a court official.

Sociologists, industrialists, law enforcement agencies, public health officials and the medical profession become more and more aware of the tremendous number of people involved with alcoholic problems.

Today we know that the alcoholic problem can be solved, that tools can be developed—industrial programs, educational programs and Alcoholics Anonymous are all providing concrete demonstrations that this health problem can be successfully tackled. The tools have been developed and they are being refined.

An informed public is essential in putting these tools to use.

NOTICE

The Floyd County Board of Education will receive sealed bids on the following properties on or before 1:00 p.m., September 1, 1959. Bids should be made separate on each building and the grounds of each building.

1. Burton school building.

2. Abner Fork school building.

3. Skull School building.

These sales will be subject to abstract of title to determine whether grounds can be sold, and the board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Martin Church Schedules Film On Island of Bali

What are described as actual scenes of demon possession on the Island of Bali highlight a new missionary film, "A Cry in the Night," to be shown at the First Baptist Church, of Martin, at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, August 26. It was announced by Rev. Guy M. Deane, pastor.

Other key scenes of the hour-long full-color documentary, as described by World Vision, Inc., which produced it: "Balinese maidens succumb to the powers of demon possession, rise to dance the intricate steps of a ritual they have never been taught. . . Feathers fly in a temple courtyard, as two savage gamecocks battle. . . A saintly missionary nurse binds up the wounds of the leprosy in the midst of heartbreak such as few in this world ever see. . ."

SPORTS CHATTER

E.K.M.C. ROUNDUP

The ten-team Eastern Kentucky Mountain Football Conference will have the greatest number of new coaches in the loop this season since its inception seven years ago. Five new mentors will move on the scene in Jenkins, Belfry, Elkhorn City, Prestonsburg and Wheelwright. All other schools will have the same football coaches as last season.

Jenkins, a perennial contender for the league crown, will have assistant coach, John Morgan, moving into the top spot, after a four-year hitch as aide to head coach Nick DiaChenko. DiaChenko moved back to his native West Virginia and will guide the forces of Yeager high school.

Wheelwright high, an independent team, but expected to be the 11th team to join the mountain loop, has Ray Brackett returning after a two-year absence. He returned after last season's mentor, John Gordon Goble, moved on to the Prestonsburg scene, which was left vacant by the resignation of John Griggs.

Griggs, now a sporting goods representative for an Eastern Kentucky firm, guided Prestonsburg for two seasons before Goble was named to replace him.

Goble, a former all-state Prestonsburg high lineman, is a University of Kentucky product.

Belfry high school, one of the largest rural high schools in the Commonwealth, is slated to open practice Monday morning; however, school officials have yet to name a replacement for Irvin Wilson, who accepted a similar position in Michigan. All sources indicate that assistant Al Vipperman, a five-year veteran, will be elevated to the post.

Elkhorn City, which has had an array of football coaches over the past few seasons, has named Goble Salyers to fill that vacant post. He is a graduate of the school. Former coach Sidney Copley accepted a job in Florida.

Returning loop mentors are: Jim Caudill, Hazard; Charlie Deaton, Pikeville; Edd Moore, Whitesburg; Jack Hall, Fleming-Neon; Walter Brugh, Paintsville; and Edd Orick, M. C. Napier.

Jenkins will get the jump on the rest of the league by opening its 1959 football season, August 21, at Ketron, Tennessee. The Cavaliers have been conducting twice-a-day workouts since August 3.

Williamson's third annual West Virginia-Kentucky all-star football game was another big financial success and highly glorifying to West Virginia high school football fans as their favorite sons romped to a 22-13 win, their third consecutive victory in the series.

The game should be entitled West Virginia versus Kentucky athletes who don't play in the East-West game in Lexington. Since these two series of games come on the same day in August, it's impossible for Kentucky's youths to play both games.

Thus Eastern Kentuckians, coaches and players alike, show very little interest in the Williamson affair. They are interested in playing in Kentucky's Coaches all-star game in Lexington, before home fans and loyal supporters.

The Williamson game is filled with Kentucky players who are not invited to the Lexington game, players who hope that some visiting college coach may offer them a scholarship they might not otherwise receive.

In the origination of the series, Kentucky was limited to the ten-team Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference from which to select players; however, this season, to compete with West Virginia, Kentucky was provided an additional five schools from which to select players, but this doesn't offset the fact that West Virginia still gets top players, since nothing in the state conflicts with the Williamson date.

This season, for example, West Virginia had four all-state players in its line-up, while Kentucky did not have a single all-state player. In fact, only three members of last season's E.K.M.C. all-league team played in the event, although virtually all of the seniors were invited to play. They preferred their Lexington invitations. Hazard, 1958 mountain league champ, did not send a player to the Williamson affair and runner-up Jenkins had Tommy Brush and Nicky Dann in Lexington.

Kentucky's outmanned forces were paced in their efforts by two former Mt. Sterling stars, quarterback Dick Fuller and halfback Hugh Black. Fuller, named "star of stars for the Kentucky team," hurled two key passes to teammate Black to set up one touchdown before Fuller went in from the ten-yard line.

"Jumping" Jim Lee, Catlettsburg halfback, sped 43 yards for one Kentucky t.d., and his run was the longest of the fray. Purcell Brooks, 185-pound Winchester tackle, was by far the outstanding lineman in the game.

For the second successive year more than 5,000 persons attended the game, proceeds of which go to underprivileged children in the Williamson area.

John Morlice, head football coach at Williamson high and former Morehead State all K.I.A.C. tackle, served as assistant coach for the West Virginians for the third consecutive year, and Irvin Wilson, former Belfry mentor, served in the same capacity for the Kentuckians.

Paintsville's semi-professional baseball team has won a playoff berth in the Blue Grass League. They will meet Liberty, August 30, and the victor of this fray will vie with the winner of the Owingsville-Beattyville game for the loop championship.

Coach Walter Brugh would like to schedule a home football game for his Paintsville Tigers, Friday, November 13.

Bigger helpings of ice cream and other frozen dairy foods were eaten in 1958 than ever before. Consumption per person hit 18.8 quarts, the highest in over a decade, National Dairy Council states. Incidentally, ice cream is by far America's favorite frozen dairy food, representing more than 80 percent of the frozen dairy food consumption.

Vogel-Day To Show Missionary Film

"A Cry in the Night," hour-long missionary documentary film, will be shown at the Vogel-Day Methodist Church, at Harold, August 23, at 6:30 Sunday evening. The public is invited to see this film, it was said by Rev. Harry T. Barnett.

Produced by World Vision, Inc., of Los Angeles, and filmed in color throughout Asia, "A Cry in the Night" features such scenes as reputed actual demon possession on the island of Bali. . . A savage cockfight in a temple courtyard. . . A new Tokyo, one of the world's most beautiful and modern cities, rising out of the ashes of defeat and the age-old customs of the past. . . Brutal Communist riots. . . A saintly missionary nurse binding up the wounds of the leprosy.

When you buy from your hometown merchants you get:

1. HONEST VALUES
2. AMPLE SELECTION
3. INSTANT DELIVERY, SERVICE AND ADJUSTMENT
4. MORE PERSONAL AND FRIENDLIER TREATMENT
5. SAVING OF TIME
6. RELIEF FROM COSTLY TRAVEL
7. FREEDOM FROM ROAD HAZARDS
8. ELIMINATION OF COSTLY PARKING PROBLEMS
9. AVOIDANCE OF JOSTLING CROWDS
10. THE CHANCE TO BUILD A BETTER COMMUNITY BY PUTTING YOUR DOLLARS TO WORK HERE

We don't believe you gain anything at all by driving long distances to shop at BIG CITY stores. Our local sources have merchandise that's just as good and costs no more.

But merely for the sake of argument, suppose you do save a few dollars on a time-consuming trip many miles from home. And suppose you don't even count the cost of gasoline and oil, car wear, parking fees, etc. Forget, too, if you like, the hazards of driving in today's heavy highway and city traffic.

But don't overlook these things: What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes—no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Why drive scores of miles looking for trouble? Shop right around the corner and be safe and satisfied.

Two Chevy middleweights prove their rawhide stamina!

Top hands on high-country hauls!

Ask any trucker who's been over Wolf Creek Pass, 10,850 feet up in the San Juans: a 9-mile pull to the summit and low gear all the way down. Mr. C. H. Phillips of Alamosa, Colorado, has a 6408 and a 6503 Chevrolet truck that are up over this route the year round, taking sheep and beef to pasture, later marketing the stock in Denver. In less than a year, his Chevy middleweights have averaged about 50,000 miles of this kind of treatment—and they're going stronger than ever!

Watch Chevy trucks at work out in range country. It's a sight to see, the way they pack into high-up mountain pastures and handle through brush and rock like a cowman's favorite cutting horse. Take any truck work for that matter. Chevy middleweights probably handle a bigger variety of jobs than any trucks alive. About anything you name, including work that used to be reserved strictly for bigger rigs. When a truck's built the way a Chevy is, lean-muscled and rawhide-tough, it takes to ugly trails the same way most trucks roll over the highway. It just keeps going, without a big to-do, but looking good every mile of the way. How they do it is your Chevrolet dealer's department. He'll be glad to supply details and specifications on the type of models you need.

War Centennial To Note Battle Of Perryville

Commemoration of the Battle of Perryville will be an outstanding feature of Kentucky's observance of the Civil War Centennial beginning in 1961.

This battle, Kentucky's bloodiest and one of the bloodiest of the War Between the States, ended attempts by the South to bring Kentucky into the Confederacy.

The fighting began as Gen. Braxton Bragg, moving his Confederate forces into the interior of the Commonwealth to arouse secessionists, accidentally met Gen. Don Carlos Buell coming up from Tennessee to check Confederate movements in the state.

Vague but fairly accurate records show the Confederate troops numbered about 18,000 and Federal troops close to 25,000. The battle day of October 8, 1862, will be long remembered for the nearly 8,000 dead and wounded it left strewn on the field of Perryville.

Neither side could claim a clean-cut victory, but the Federal troops held the field, while Bragg retired to Harrodsburg and later retreated into east Tennessee, thus ending this memorable struggle in Kentucky history.

The memorials at Perryville Battlefield State Park include a monument and an obelisk erected in memory of the Confederate and Union dead.

SENTERS ON DESTROYER

Grover C. Senters, boilerman second class USN, of Betsy Layne, Ky., is serving aboard the destroyer USS Gatling operating with the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Named after the inventor of the first rapid fire machine gun, the Gatling has participated in various anti-submarine exercises and has visited Greece, Pakistan, Persia and other countries bordering the Mediterranean and Red Seas.

She is equipped with the latest scientific equipment for the detection of enemy submarines and also for anti-aircraft defense.
