

This Town— That World

What is so rare as a day in August when the temperature is below 90? . . . The rains came Wednesday afternoon, and half the people have nothing to talk about today.

MUSIC'S MENACING MENAGERIE

(No alliteration intended)
Seen Ed Music's "mongoose" yet? Do so, and get the spring back into the old legs.

The mongoose, you will recall, is that vicious, ferret-like animal that kills the deadly cobra. It lashes out suddenly, with lightning-like speed and Brer Mongoose's adversary is a cooked goose. All this Mr. Music is careful to warn visitors against as they peek into the box where the "animal" is kept.

My son, who did an adagio, Spring Dance and Dying Swan in the matter of a split second when the thing "got loose," as it usually does when visitors come around, lists other of the local gentry who went places but fast when the lid was opened, revealing the deadly, little killer. Among the more agile ones are Bill Goebel, Jr., Blaine Hall and Toodles Wells.

But he reassures us. It's all in fun. Also he urges me, "Don't be chicken." I'm not—I just don't like mongoses.

REPORT FROM THE FRONT

My favorite soldier reports that his sergeant was mightily worried after he got caught in the Spam grinder, the other day, but that the old boy has simmered down somewhat after learning the machine can be repaired. He says to tell the kid brother he will send him some shrapnel as soon as they can pick it out of him.

INCOME RISES FOR FAMILIES

In Floyd County, Said; 29 Percent Of Families Receive Over $4,000

Residents of Floyd county have been improving their income status in the past few years, with more families moving up to higher brackets and fewer remaining at the lower levels.

The median point on the local income scale is further up now than it has ever been.

Such are the findings arrived at in a copyrighted study, made by Sales Management, to determine the portions of the population in each income bracket.

Every section of the country is covered in the break-down, the purpose of which is to throw light on what constitutes the so-called "average income" attributed to each community.

It shows whether it consists of a small number of families with high incomes making up for a large number with depressed incomes or whether earnings are more evenly distributed.

Some 29.1 percent of Floyd county's households, it develops, had net incomes last year of $4,000 or more, after taxes.

As a group, they accounted for 7.2 percent more of the local income than did the household units in the over-$4,000 groups in 1956.

The two-year comparable rise, nationally, was only 5.2 percent. It was 5.8 percent in the State of Kentucky.

SALK VACCINE SUPPLY NIL, CLINICS DELAYED

HEALTH DEPT., ALL HOSPITAL SUPPLIES OUT

Pike Polio Situation Nears Epidemic Stage; No New Cases in Floyd

Salk vaccine clinics set up by the Floyd County Health Department to continue the fight on polio have been postponed because all available vaccine has been allocated to areas where epidemics have developed, leaving the health department without any serum whatsoever, M. V. Clark, health department administrator, said this week.

He added that the earliest promise he has of a future shipment is from four to six weeks. Worse yet, not a private physician or hospital in the county has any vaccine. The same situation exists, it was said, in Johnson and Pike counties.

Dr. George P. Archer, of the Prestonsburg General hospital, said telephone calls to drug companies have been in vain, as also were attempts to borrow vaccine from private medical sources. He said 10 persons from Pike county were here this week seeking vaccination after they had given up hope of receiving immunization at home.

The state no longer supplies polio serum to health departments, and the Floyd County Health Department ordered a supply in July.

It is suggested that children curtail their activities during the heat of the day. Fatigue creates susceptibility to disease, and polio is no exception, it was said. Rest between 1 and 3 p.m. was advised in particular.

Clinics to combat an outbreak of polio in the Feds Creek area of Pike county have been delayed for lack of serum, the county health officer said Tuesday.

Dr. Edward I. Rustin said his office had been promised 1,630 shots of vaccine by the State Health Department Monday, but it still had not arrived.

The clinics won't be set up until it does, he said.

Pike county has had 10 polio cases this year. Five were reported last week; three in the same area three weeks ago; two (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

TWO MURDER CASES LISTED

Allen Trial Slated, First Day of Term; 22 Rum Hearings Set

Two murder trials are docketed for the September criminal term of the Floyd circuit court which will convene here Tuesday morning, Sept. 8, and one of the two is set for trial on the very first day of the term.

This is the case of Joe Allen, charged with the slaying on Johns Creek of Roland Cline. The second such trial slated is that of Kendall Griffith, who is accused of the fatal shooting on Left Beaver Creek of his son-in-law. His trial is set for Sept. 24.

The manslaughter trial of Bill Litton is set for Sept. 23. Twenty-two liquor cases are included in the docket. Breaking and entering and child desertion figure prominently in the list of cases to be heard.

In all, 149 cases are on the docket. To these will be added some new cases created by grand jury action, but a large number of the old cases will be continued or dismissed.

Consolidated Schools To Begin Their Terms Next Monday Morning

An awkwardly worded sentence in The Times' school story last week caused the Floyd County Board of Education and teachers of consolidated schools no end of bother, and at the same time scared stiff scores of vacation-enjoying pupils.

We regret all this, but now it can be correctly said that these schools and all others that are not already open will begin their terms Monday.

Gas Station, Restaurant Robbed Within Week; Revolver, Money Stolen

Since Wednesday evening of last week thieves have entered two places of business in Prestonsburg and robbed the establishments of $160 in cash.

Scott's Restaurant on Lake Drive, managed by Mrs. Audrey Scott, was entered Wednesday night of last week by the front door. A waitress upon opening the place next morning found the door open and the lock gone. The thief or thieves had broken into a cabinet and stolen $112 in coin and bills. No stock was missed but a .22 calibre revolver was taken. The pinball machines had been tampered with but not opened. State Detective Chester D. Potter succeeded in taking two fingerprints, it was said.

Tuesday night a side window to the Pure Oil Station on Lake Drive was broken and the building entered. A cigarette machine was badly damaged and $48 in cash and cigarettes stolen, it was said by Clarence Wiley, manager. No arrests have been made in either case.

FIRE RAZES SCHOOLHOUSE

Blaze Cause Is Unknown, Said; Warrix Schoolhouse Burned 3 Years Ago, Noted

The Lafferty school on the left fork of Bull Creek, a few miles from here, burned Monday afternoon, an hour after the first day of classroom work had ended.

Cause of the fire is not known. The Sheriff's office here investigated the blaze but its findings are not known.

The school, a one-room structure, is the second to be levelled by fire on Bull Creek. The Warrix school on the right fork of the creek burned about three years ago.

Loss of the school poses a transportation problem, County Superintendent Virgil O. Turner said. The road is considered unsafe for school bus travel. The Rev. Floyd Lafferty is teacher of the school, and he has held that post there for several years.

A school strike has virtually closed the Lower Branham's Creek school, it was reported here this week. Carmel Lee Akers, who has taught the school several years, is keeping the doors open but has only two pupils, according to this report. Normally, the attendance would be 30 or more.

Several parents of the pupils assigned to the school were scheduled to confer here Wednesday with Superintendent Turner.

VISIT AT LACKEY

Mr. and Mrs. William Terry, Jr. have returned to Chicago, where they are employed, after visiting their parents and other relatives here during vacation. James F. Terry and family, of Dayton, O., also spent their vacation with their parents and attended the funeral of Mrs. Terry's brother, Bert Hicks.

Woman-Manager of Restaurant Robbed Here Finds That Giving Is 'Bread Cast on the Waters'

Three days after her restaurant had been robbed and all the cash she owned in the world had been taken, Mrs. Audrey Scott, who manages Scott's restaurant on Lake Drive, opened her place of business facing help salaries and bills without any money.

Mrs. Scott, victim of a robbery Wednesday evening of last week, had been operating the place several months, catering to local and transient trade in the bus station building.

Many hundreds had passed through her place, most with money but many without. All had eaten for she had fed them all. "I have never turned away anybody who was hungry and without money," she says.

Saturday morning matters looked serious for Mrs. Scott but she went about her duties, trusting that some way she would get a break.

Heart Clinic Set By Health Center Friday, Sept. 11

The third consultative and diagnostic heart clinic for medically indigent patients, both children and adults, will be held Friday, Sept. 11, at the Health Center here, it was announced this week by Frank H. Moore, Bowling Green, president of the Kentucky Heart Association.

The clinic, which will begin at 8:30 a.m., will be for one day only. Chest consultants will be Dr. Joseph A. Little, Dr. Laxmi Rathi, Dr. Blaise Favara, Dr. Leonard Leight and Dr. Ian Scott, all of Louisville.

M. V. Clark, Floyd County Health Department administrator, said a technician will be at the Health Center here all day Sept. 2 to make electrocardiograms and X-rays, preparatory to the actual clinic work. This will enable those having prior services to get quicker and earlier services on the day of the clinic, he explained. Every person having a doctor's referral to the clinic is being urged to take advantage of this early preparatory service. Clark emphasized the importance of patients bringing their doctor's referrals with them.

The clinic will be jointly sponsored by the Kentucky Heart Association, the Kentucky Department of Health and the county health departments, will serve Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin counties. Only indigents will be accepted, and each patient must have written referral from his or her personal physician.

The clinic will serve three purposes: (1) Provide a diagnostic service for indigents; (2) Supply a summary of recommendations for management of the patient, and (3) Be a means of professional education. Interested physicians can be instructed in physical diagnosis by the consultant in charge.

DWALE YOUTH AUTO VICTIM

Boy Cyclist Succumbs At Huntington Hospital; Mishap Held Unavoidable

Fourteen-year-old David Isaac Hyden died last Thursday night at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, W. Va., of injuries suffered two days earlier when the bicycle he was riding collided with an auto near his home at Dwale.

Driver of the auto, William Ray Wallen, a Dwale neighbor of the victim, was not held responsible for the tragedy. It was reported here that the cyclist and the car collided on a curve at the foot of the mountain on the Bull Creek-Dwale road and that the auto went into a ditch at the roadside in an effort to avoid the collision. Internal injuries were given as the cause of the boy's death.

The victim was a son of Mrs. Delphia Porter Herbert, of New Orleans, La. He leaves his mother, his grandmother, Mrs. Carrie Porter, three brothers and one sister, Wilford, of New Orleans, Larry, Arnold and Charlotte Ann, all of Dwale.

Funeral rites were conducted Sunday afternoon from the Dwale Methodist church, the Revs. Wayne Blanton, Manford Davis and Clarence Saddler officiating. Burial in Dwale cemetery was directed by the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

LUNG CANCER HIGHER HERE

Cancer Kills 35 Persons In Floyd County In '58, USPHS Statistics Show

Special to The Times
New York, Aug. 19—Official government figures, just released, indicate that the lung cancer rate in Floyd county is running much higher than in most parts of the East-South-Central states.

The findings are contained in the annual vital statistics report of the U.S. Public Health Service, covering every section of the country for the year ending January 1, 1958.

It comes at a time when many of the people engaged in lung cancer research are taking a sharp look at air pollution as the possible malefactor. It follows the discovery of cancer-producing elements in the smog surrounding some cities.

The toll in Floyd county in the year, from cancer of all kinds, amounted to 35. Not included are deaths locally of non-residents.

Lung cancer, however, was responsible for only 8 of these deaths, or 22.8 percent of the entire cancer toll.

Elsewhere in the United States lung cancer amounted to 13.3 percent of the total and, in the state of Kentucky, to 11.7 percent.

In proportion to population, lung cancer mortality in Floyd county was above average. It came to 18.6 per 100,000 population.

By way of comparison, the rate for the rest of the East-South-Central states was 13.8 per 100,000 and, for the State of Kentucky, 14.4 per 100,000.

There is still considerable difference of opinion among medical men on the controversial question of what causes lung cancer.

Many of them, including Dr. John R. Heller, head of the National Cancer Institute, insist that cigarette smoking is accountable for much of it.

Others, such as Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, New York State Health Commissioner, are stressing air pollution. He notes that the average citizen drinks three quarts of liquid a day and inhales 16,000 quarts of air and that, while most of the liquid is pure, much of the air is not.

It is contaminated with the exhaust fumes of autos, trucks and buses and with the smoke from factory and domestic chimneys.

Nationally, there has been a steady increase in lung cancer. The report shows that it has gone up 16.5 percent in three years.

WIFE SMUGGLING FAILS FOR ROYALTON AIRMAN

The romance of a Magoffin countian, Airmen William R. Arnett, took a disappointing turn Monday when his ten-month-old son revealed its presence and that of its mother aboard an Air Force plane.

Arnett, 21, of Royalton, in an attempt to smuggle Gerda Bleish to the States placed her and the child in a crate and succeeded in getting them on the homeward-bound Globemaster. Cries of the child were heard in the Azores and both were removed and sent back to Germany.

The Royalton airman was sent to Donaldson Air Force Base, Greenville, S. C., to await court martial. The incident threw Air Force brass in a dither and brought acknowledgments that "the boy needs help."

This is the story Arnett told: He met Gerda August 15, 1957, during his first tour of duty in Germany. She agreed to marry him, but her older brother, designated as her legal guardian, refused to give permission. Gerda was only 20

AUXIER GIRL'S FATHER NAMED

Johnson Grand Jury In Overtime Session Also Indicts Cantrell

The Johnson circuit court grand jury deliberated past midnight and on till 3:30 a.m. Wednesday before agreeing at last to vote an indictment against Hereford (Dick) Auxier, the East Point man who has been accused by his daughter of raping her.

His trial was set for Sept. 16. A murder indictment also was voted against Henry Cantrell, former Johnson county constable, in the death of his wife at Fugel, Ky. These two were the only indictments reported Wednesday morning by the grand jury to Judge W. D. Sparks.

The long debate, it was reported, involved the indictment of Auxier. His daughter Rosella, 17, suffered the loss of both legs after she was found near death from freezing in an abandoned Prestonsburg shack (See Story No. 7, Page 6)

ACTION ASKS BUS SERVICE

Adams, Father of 5, Sues For Pupil Transport; Says Two-Mile Walk Dangerous

School bus service for his five children and others attending the Adams school on Middle Creek is sought by Monroe Adams in a circuit court suit filed here Tuesday.

The suit is the third in as many weeks to name County Superintendent V. O. Turner and the Board of Education as defendants.

Adams' complaint, which was prepared by W. W. Burchett, Prestonsburg attorney, says his children who range in age from 14 to 6 have been assigned to the Adams school, which is two miles from his home and that both his home and the school are on busy Ky. 114, the Prestonsburg-Salyersville road. He contends that the children will be required to walk along this highway, which is unsafe. Adams also contends the distance his children will have to walk is unreasonable.

He asks bus service for other children who must attend the school under similar conditions.

WRITS ACCUSE U. S. PRISONER AND HATFIELD

Both Men Deny Guilt In June 13 Dynamiting; Hall Statement Cited

One man was jailed here Wednesday afternoon and a warrant was issued for the arrest of another, with both men accused in June 13 dynamiting of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeRossett, elderly Bull Creek couple.

The arresting officers, Deputy Sheriffs Albert Spradlin, Joe Wheeler Lewis and Paul Lucas, expressed the belief that the mystery surrounding the nocturnal blast which wrecked the DeRossett home is near complete solution.

Jailed on a warrant issued by Magistrate Fred Conn was Marion Hatfield, whom the three officers took into custody at Sugar Loaf, six miles south of here, late Wednesday afternoon. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Willie "Jap" Harris, of Prestonsburg, who this week began serving a two-year federal pen term at Atlanta, Ga., for car theft.

The warrants were issued on the basis of an affidavit signed by Jackie Hall, of Banner, County Attorney Robert S. Wellman, who has been working for the last few weeks with the deputy sheriffs on the case, said this affidavit, in substance, claimed that Marion Hatfield came to Hall's home the night of the dynamiting and offered Hall $150 to go with him and blow up the house. Hall said Hatfield had three guns with him and that Hatfield assured him he would be protected.

Hall said that when he joined Hatfield the latter said "about Jap?" (This, he said, was "Jap" Harris who was in Hall home at the time). Hall and Harris left together, the statement said, Harris returning to the Hall home about 7 a.m., next day. Hall in his affidavit said that when he heard a newscast telling of the dynamiting he ordered Harris to leave.

Both Hatfield and Harris have denied having any part in the dynamiting, and Harris denied ever having been at Hall's home.

Authorities Advise Dennison, Taken Here, Only Asked To Report

A 58-year-old man who gave his name as Frank A. Dennison told Prestonsburg Policemen Kelly Frasure and Anderson Hatfield Monday that he was wanted in Ohio as a parole violator, but all apparent is forgiven in Ohio if Dennison will come on home.

Probation Officer H. T. Hill was notified by Ohio authorities that Dennison is not wanted there but is asked to report. Dennison was found in an abandoned building here by the officers, and he told them he had served three prison terms and was wanted in Ohio for violation of parole.

Also jailed within the week were: Lorra Millard Hobson, reckless driving; Venice Bates, reckless use of a deadly weapon; Cecil D. Dillon, drunk driving.

Dickie Hall, who was arrested near Grethel last week while in possession of a gallon of moonshine whiskey, was taken before the U. S. Commissioner at Pikeville by Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis.

In quarterly court this week Edgar Blackburn was fined $100 and given a 30-day jail term when a jury held him guilty of selling whiskey. He was arrested recently at a place operated in the vicinity of the old Top Hat at East Point. Clyde Gibson was fined $100 and costs when he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of drunk driving. He was remanded to jail. Gibson's driver's license was automatically suspended. Trial Judge G. C. Burchett said.

Quarterly court demanded $1,000 bond each for the release till the grand jury convenes of Woodrow Spurlock, Charles Hall and Gory Porter, Jr., each of whom was named in breaking and entering warrants.

Miss Martha Joyce May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward May, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Paul Calvin Hager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hager, of East Point, Ky., exchanged marriage vows at 3 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 16, in a double-ring ceremony solemnized at the First Methodist Church here. The pastor, the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, officiated.

The vows were taken before an improvised altar of ferns, smilax and cathedral baskets of white gladioli flanked by branched candelabra.

Mrs. Chalmers H. Frazier, organist, presented a program of wedding music preceding the ceremony. Mr. Randall Wells sang "Through Eternity" and "Whither Thou Goest," and at the conclusion of the ceremony sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of rose-patterned lace over satin, fashioned with a scalloped sweetheart neckline and accented with pearls and sequins and long, tapered sleeves. Scalloped panels of lace with inset bands of tulle formed the bouffant skirt which extended into a sweep train. Her double-tiered veil of illusion was caught to a half-hat of sequin-encrusted lace, outlined in pearls. She carried a white Bible with a white orchid tied with satin ribbon streamers with stephanotis intermingled in the shower.

Miss Phyllis Patrick, Cynthiana, Ky., the maid of honor, wore white alcon lace over full skirt of blue satin. An overskirt of blue tulle was attached to a waistline band of the same material tied at the back with long sash streamers.

Mrs. May, mother of the bride, wore a petal pink, satin-finish pima cloth sheath, a brimmed white hat, white accessories and a shoulder corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother chose for the wedding a light-blue lace over satin, with a fitted blue petal hat of multi-colored flowers, with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. Edmund Burke served as best man. Ushers were Bobby B. Hager, Harry White and Lawrence Harris.

The bride is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school and Eastern State College where she received her master's degree in July. Mr. Hager, also a graduate of Prestonsburg high school, received his degree from the University of Kentucky where he majored in music. He was band director in the Prestonsburg schools and director of the Presbyterian Church choir here prior to and after serving two years in the armed forces overseas.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church. Mrs. Jonah Stepp, aunt of the bride, presided at the register. The bride's table, covered with a Maderia cut cloth, was centered by a tiered cake, decorated with red roses and topped by a miniature bride and groom. Branched silver candelabra flanked the wedding cake. Two hundred sixty-nine youngsters were treated to the excursion and camp as guests of the fraternal society from August 16 through August 20. Camp Piomingo is near Fort Knox.

"Some of the places where previous encampments have been held are Berea College where they saw Wilderness Road last year; Camp Shawnee on Dewey Lake; Carter Caves State Park; and Hardinsburg FFA camp."

EIGHT REGULARS RETURN TO BULWARK BLACK CATS

Success of the Prestonsburg high school football team will depend this season on the line, while the backfield is expected to be the best all-around unit in the league.

Returning from last year's team which won six, lost four and finished in a fourth-place tie in the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference are eight regulars.

Coach John Gordon Goble, former University of Kentucky lineman and last season's Wheelwright mentor, has only a 23-player squad which has been practicing since August 10, in preparation for a ten-game schedule.

With a limited squad and virtually no reserve strength whatsoever, injuries could disastrously cripple the Blackcats.

Backfield coach Bill Goebel, Jr., has five top-flight veterans who will share starting roles. James Allen, 6-2, 190-pound senior fullback, has already been eyed by several college coaches in his two previous seasons. The burley bruiser was the second leading scorer in the mountains last season with 88 points and was a unanimous choice for all-league team. He may alternate at times in the quarterback spot.

Dennis Stephens, 5-7, 155-pound junior, started every game at fullback last season and scored eight touchdowns. He is the fastest back on the squad.

Sharing the other halfback positions will be: Bob Smith and Paul (Red) Minix, both juniors. Smith is a transfer from Wheelwright, where he was the leading scorer and ground gainer. Minix, 160-pound speedster, is a tough defensive ace and prefers to play only defense.

Bobby Marshall, 160-pound junior, will direct the T-formation. He has one year of experience under his belt.

Coach Goble has already suffered one disappointment in his line and that was losing veteran tackle Clarence Rice, who broke his leg in a scrimmage session last week. Rice, a 6-2 200-pound senior, had been a regular for the past two seasons.

Ronnie Snodgrass, 14-year-old freshman, has been named to fill Rice's place. He is a 100-pounder with no experience.

Veteran linemen are ends William Prater, 160-pound senior, and Roy Prater, 170-pound senior; guards Paul Johnson, 170-pound senior, and Dickie Fitzpatrick, 170-pound sophomore.

In the center of the line is Larry Garrett, a two-year regular. He is a 170-pound senior. In the other tackle position with Snodgrass will be Kenneth Burchett, 170-pound senior.

The Blackcats will open a ten-game schedule with Wheelwright, September 4, then meet seven other E.K.M.C. teams: Everts high, replacing Lexington Lafayette, is the only schedule change from last season.

Scholarships Offered Three College Freshmen By Ashland Oil Company

Three tuition scholarships worth $250 each for entering freshmen at Pikeville College will be offered this fall by the Ashland Oil & Refining Company.

The payment of tuition fees, which cover about 40% of the cost of educating a student, will be supplemented by a direct grant to the college, Dr. A. A. Page, college president, announced. The scholarship fund was arranged by Paul S. Blazer, Ashland, Ky., chairman of Ashland Oil's executive and finance committee.

Freshman boys from Eastern Kentucky and southern West Virginia will usually be selected for the scholarships, Dr. Page added. Character, scholastic ability and need will be the prime considerations in making the awards, which are to be handled by Pikeville's scholarship committee.

Holders of the scholarships will be expected to meet certain standards. The assistance may be withdrawn, it was said, if they fail to maintain a grade average of B, or otherwise disqualify themselves.

Wickliff Was Home Of Three Ky. Governors

Frankfort, Aug. 27—Visitors to the Old Kentucky Home at Bardonia should also visit Wickliff, "the home of three governors, because of its history and architectural distinction," advises the Kentucky Department of Public Relations.

This Georgian house was built in 1813 by Charles A. Wickliff on the designs of architects John Marshall Brown and John Rogers, who designed the St. Joseph Procto Cathedral, also at Bardonia.

Charles A. Wickliff was the first of the three governors to reside here. The second was Robert Charles Wickliff, governor of Louisiana in 1855 and one of the leading criminal lawyers of the south. The third was John Cripps Wickliff Beckham, grandson of Charles A. Wickliff, who was born here and was chief executive of his state from 1900 to 1907.

The first Wickliff bought the estate on which the house was built from Dr. Walter Brashear of Bardonia and Lexington, who performed the first successful hip-joint amputation on record.

Wickliff had been designated by the Historical American Building Survey as having "exceptional historical and architectural interest and as being worthy of most careful preservation for the benefit of future generations." All measurements of the home are filed with the U.S. Department of Interior, Washington, D.C.

The 2½ story house has a low 2-story ell and contains 14 rooms. The foundation is of limestone and the walls of locally burned brick. Especially noteworthy are the fine doorways with side lights and large fan lights, the hand-carved woodwork, and the carved mantels, showing in their decoration the Adam influence. A graceful stairway rises from the well-proportioned entrance hall. A wide window on the stairs offers an excellent vista of the rolling landscape.

The brick is sand mended and laid in Flemish bond with tooled joint; the limestone foundation is rubble tumbled smooth. Floors are solid, 1½ inch ash; ceilings 14 feet high. The house was put together with all-hand-made-nails. The walls are of the original plaster, made of hog hair and sand.

In the service wing above the kitchen is a bedroom of separate access, called the "Vagrant's chamber." In the days of the original owners, they could not afford to turn away waylaring strangers, who, however, were not given access to the rest of the house.

No Single Way To Cure Disease Of Alcoholism

By J. Collis R'ogo, Executive Director Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism

Alcoholism is frequently designated as a treatable illness. A natural conclusion to such a designation is an ailment that medication or surgery can cure. Unfortunately this is not true. Physical treatment alone will not cure alcoholism.

Acutely intoxicated individuals can be restored to sobriety and normal physical balance in a matter of days. Modern treatment methods can accomplish this result quickly, regardless of past drinking history. Actually, most cases of intoxication require no treatment.

There are thousands of heavy and excessive drinkers who definitely are not alcoholics. Frequent or occasional intoxication is just another phase of living for them. Drinking is their pleasure, and unhappiness caused their families is solely selfish. They have no regard for the feelings of others. If necessary for any reason, they can maintain sobriety without effort and need neither treatment or outside help.

The alcoholic is that man or woman who has lost the power of choice where alcohol is concerned. He or she must drink, even though they do not want to.

The American Medical Association designated this condition as a disease. Some authorities label this condition and addiction, comparable to narcotic addiction.

The nomenclature is unimportant. The serious factor is, once this condition is reached, return to normal living without outside help is impossible.

No single method of treatment is as yet 100 percent effective. The phenomenal success of Alcoholics Anonymous blazed the trail by proving that in a majority of instances alcoholism was a disease that could be arrested.

Proceeding from this point, doctors, psychiatrists and sociologists have worked out a basic plan of mental and physical therapy, which is not perfect, is effecting a remarkable record of helping alcoholics. Alcoholics can be helped and are worth helping. Acceptance of this truth by the professions and the general public will speed the eventual solution of this health problem.

Scientists now have developed a test for checking cyanide levels of stoneweed grass. Development of a stoneweed-free Sudan grass has been held back by lack of a suitable test.

WHY TEACHERS LEAVE FLOYD COUNTY

We have recently read newspaper articles and have heard personal comments on the exodus of teachers from Kentucky. The reason that is usually discussed is that other states pay much better salaries. This, no doubt, is true in some cases. However, there is another factor which we feel is responsible for many teachers leaving, and this is one which never seems to get into the papers. It is job security. Sure, teachers receive continuing contracts in their school districts, but the school district is usually a county. The teacher may reside in one end of the county and be placed in the other end to teach. With the meager salaries that teachers are paid in Floyd county it is impossible for them to commute fifty or sixty miles daily and subsist. We understand that maintenance workers in our Floyd county school system are provided with vehicles to get to their places of work; most of the office personnel who travel are paid mileage, but the average teacher, regardless of the distance he has to travel receives no compensation for this added expense.

We would like to explain to the people of Floyd county why we are leaving to teach elsewhere.

On June 4 of this year the Floyd County Board of Education upon the recommendation of V. O. Turner, Supt. of schools, moved many teachers to schools distant from their homes without any notice or personally talking it over with the teacher. I, Nelvia Hunt, was placed in Martin High School and was told by the Principal there that I was to teach two classes in English. I am definitely not qualified to teach English. I majored in American History in college and did my student teaching in American History. I have eighteen graduate hours twelve of which are in the field of American History.

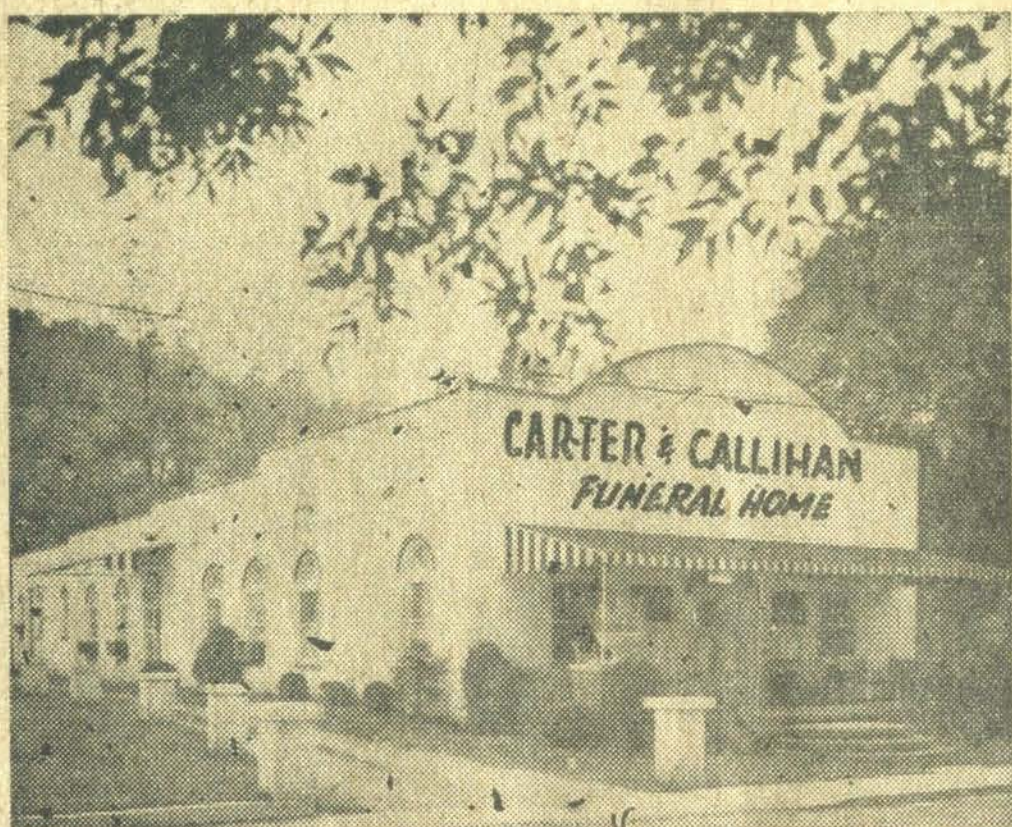

In the past Board election we voted for Ray Howard against the Administration candidate because the only thing the administration candidate could offer us was a "continuation of the fine school program!" There has been a question in our mind as to the sincerity of the present administration in promoting a good school program, especially after dismissing an experienced Principal at Prestonsburg High School and replacing him with an inexperienced one, and instances such as ours multiplied many times throughout the county.

We both grew up in Eastern Kentucky and received our training in Kentucky colleges. We feel that we should remain in Eastern Kentucky to teach. We truly love the youth of Eastern Kentucky and appreciate all the efforts of the parents to make it possible for us to remain here. But with the treatment we have received what else is there for us but to leave?

We do plan, however, to return to Floyd county to teach when teachers are given more consideration.

County Attorney Wellman and the officers said they have about five witnesses who have told them of seeing Hatfield or Harris, or both, at the Hall home.

The officers began winding their way through a maze of clues in the case, about a month ago, they said. One or more other arrests are expected, and even others are suspect in the dynamite plot, it was indicated.

"We know where the dynamite used in the explosion came from," officers said. This knowledge may involve others, they predicted. They said Harris may be interviewed again at the Atlanta prison. He confessed to auto theft this week, and was taken to federal prison from Lexington.

The DeRossett home and the auto of Mrs. Joan Weldon, parked near the residence, were blasted by heavy dynamite charges, before daybreak, June 13. The 76-year-old DeRossetts escaped serious injury, although the bed in which they were sleeping was, along with other household furnishings, reduced to wreckage.

The explosion was the third incident in two years to affect the Bull Creek family. First, the auto of Silas DeRossett, a son, was dynamited while he was a deputy Sheriff. Almost simultaneously, the car of Sheriff Gorman Collins was dynamited on a Prestonsburg street. Later, a barn owned by the DeRossetts burned.

About a month after the dynamiting of the residence the home of Dennis Meadows on Bull Creek burned.

In December, 1957, Her legs were amputated at Children's hospital, where she was a patient several months.

The girl for months refused to incriminate anybody but recently when an older sister reported to authorities that she had fled the Auxier home to avoid her father, Rosella said her father had violated her three times since she was 12. She added that she had not told of the incidents earlier because of her fear of him.

The father entered a plea of not guilty to the charge against him. Never satisfactorily explained was how the girl, then 15, reached Prestonsburg. She first said she walked here. Later, she said the trip was made in a station wagon, the driver of which she did not know.

Cantrell also has entered a not-guilty plea in the death of his wife. He was arrested in Florida last month, a few days after the badly decomposed body of Mrs. Cantrell was unearthed from a grave on the Cantrell farm. Her body was found in a cedar chest. She had been shot in the head and back.

The accused man said his wife left him last October and that he had not heard from her since the night of her disappearance.

State Industry Long-Range Plan To Aid Economy

Two Kentucky organizations have joined hands to establish a long-range program for the State of Kentucky.

The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and the Kentucky Research Foundation at the University of Kentucky have developed a comprehensive research plan to stimulate the economic growth of Kentucky, Floyd I. Fairman, Lexington, chairman of Kentucky Chamber's Area Development Council, announced this week.

The president of the State Chamber, Thos. A. Ballantine, Louisville, has appointed a Research Coordinating Committee to specify projects of studies and their priority in the field of economic research, Fairman added.

"We hope to bring to bear the many highly qualified men now engaged in research work at the 'Foundation', Fairman said, "to direct more comprehensive research toward attracting new industry, public adjustment to industrialization and new uses of available raw material in Kentucky that will be adaptable to new enterprises. Plans are to coordinate this research program with the Kentucky Department of Economic Development in order that there will be no overlapping in this field", Fairman added.

Assigned the staff responsibilities of correlating the research plan is James C. Zimmerman, Louisville, director of Industrial Development for the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. Merle Baker, Lexington, executive director of the Kentucky Research Foundation.

"Even though the growth and expansion of industry in Kentucky has been spectacular in the last decade", Zimmerman said, "there are many avenues of industrial potential yet unopened. Better documented facts are needed to encourage more capital investment by many types of industry. Particularly so in the development of our natural resources. We hope to utilize to the fullest advantage the storehouse of professional skills and knowledge now existing at the University of Kentucky."

Members of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce's Research Coordinating Committee are: C. D. Cosker, president, Gamble Brothers, Inc., Louisville; J. M. Lobaugh, work manager, Armo Steel Corp., Ashland; B. F. Reed, secretary-treasurer, Turner-Elkhorn Mining Co., Drift; Alex S. Chamberlain, vice-president, Ashland Oil & Refining Co., Ashland; Floyd I. Fairman, president, Kentucky Utilities Co., Lexington; and R. D. Wallace, works manager, Spencer Chemical Co., Henderson.

YOUNG VICTIMS—A NEW CROP

If you would say a prayer, and we hope you will, don't forget the youngsters who leave for college soon. These are the ones who go, wide-eyed and innocent, to hear some scholarly atheist inflict his views on them. Pray that they will have more sense than such teachers . . . Strange that our people are so careful to ban the teachings of Christianity in the classroom but at the same time cheerfully pay taxes to pay the salaries of those who scoff at it.

AD ABSURDUM

Not long ago yours truly sat in on a seminar whereat newspaper people and journalism instructors dwelt long on the dangers that lie in the printed word. When we got through, many wondered how we ever got out a newspaper and contrived at the same time to stay out of jail. It's consideration of matters like this that makes newsmen so cautious some wouldn't say it rained yesterday unless they could attribute it to a higher authority.

Apocryphal this, this week we ran across what a newspaper was submitted as a cautious re-write of the story that starts in the 37th chapter of Genesis. It follows, to-witless: "A man known as Jacob, a sheep rancher, reported this morning that his youngest son, Joseph, is missing, the sheriff stated.

"The father reported that the youth had been sent to help his half-brothers herd sheep, the sheriff declared. The other young men allegedly returned home late yesterday afternoon, bringing with them a bloodstained coat of unusual design which Jacob is said to have identified as the property of the missing boy. The sheriff said the brothers claimed they had noticed nothing out of the ordinary during the day except that while they were eating lunch a camel pack train passed at a distance. The packers were believed to be Midjanites, possibly en route to Egypt. Investigation of the case continues, the sheriff added."

SLOW ME DOWN

(An old Southern pastor's prayer)

Slow me down, Lord!
Ease the pounding of my heart by the quieting of my mind. Steady my hurried pace with a vision of the eternal reach of time. Give me, amidst the confusion of my day, the calmness of the everlasting hills. Break the tension of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of the singing streams that live in my memory. Help me to know the magical restorative power of sleep. Teach me the art of taking minute vacations. . . of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pet a dog, to read a few lines from a good book. Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise, that I may know that the race is not always to the swift; that there is more to life than increasing its speed. Let me look upward into the branches of the towering trees, and know that they grow tall because they grow slowly and well.

Slow me down, Lord, and inspire me to send my roots deep into the soil of life's enduring values, that I may grow toward the stars of my greater destiny. Amen.

sandwich but the mother said she didn't have enough money. Mrs. Scott gave the child another sandwich and it ate as only a hungry child can eat. Asking the price of coffee, the mother was told it was a dime. She had only a nickel.

Turning to a waitress, Mrs. Scott told her to feed the mother and child without charge and to give them everything they wanted. The restaurant owner left the building and went on her daily trip to see her dictator.

Mrs. Scott returned to find the mother and child gone and was told by the waitress, "I gave them everything they wanted to eat."

Half an hour later business became brisk. Fifteen plate lunches, all unexpected, were served, and this upturn in serving food continued through the day. At 2 p. m., when a waitress left, Mrs. Scott had the employee's salary. The other waitress went off duty at 7, and again Mrs. Scott was able to meet wages. A big milk bill was worrying her but it too was met.

The story was elicited mainly from a waitress but Mrs. Scott did comment on her success in keeping her place open and meeting her bills.

"I'm sure I was able to do so because I have seen that no one who is hungry and without money is ever turned away," she said.

Veteran Floyd Teacher, Mrs. Emma Goebel Davis, Dies at Hospital Here

Mrs. Emma Goebel Davis, 64 years old wife of T. J. Davis, of Auxier, died last Friday at the Prestonsburg General hospital, a victim of cancer.

A daughter of W. G. Goebel and the late Cora Howard Goebel, she was a native of this county. Mrs. Davis was a veteran teacher in the Floyd schools and was a member of the Church of Christ.

Mrs. Davis had no children. She leaves her husband, her father and one brother, Arthur Goebel, of the Auxier road.

Funeral rites were held Monday from the residence at Auxier, the Revs. S. C. Honeycutt and Harold Dicks officiating. Burial in the family cemetery at Auxier was directed by the Moore Funeral Home.

elsewhere earlier in the year. Three more cases were reported over the week-end in adjacent Buchanan county, Va., where the outbreak has been declared an epidemic.

Dr. Rustin said in requesting vaccine from the State Health Department that other sources had been exhausted.

There has been considerable demand for the serum since the recent outbreak—in sharp contrast to that of preceding months, the health officer said.

Last spring, he said, a 4-year-old child died because the mother refused to give her the shots.

Eight Pike polio victims are hospitalized in Grundy, Virginia. Grundy is about 10 miles from Feds Creek, 25 miles closer than Pikeville.

All of the Pike youngsters have muscular weakness but no serious paralysis, Dr. Rustin said.

His records show that only one of the 10 had received Salk vaccine and in that one case the shots were improperly spaced.

Two shots had been given in series and the third about 15 months later, Rustin said. He recommended three in series and a booster shot a year later.

The health officer also reported an outbreak of aseptic meningitis in the area.

Pike county has had more than a dozen cases of the virus-type infection, he said. So far the virus has not been defined.

The improving economic status of the middle-income families augurs well for business. A rising income market results in even more spending, especially for durable goods, than does a market in which income may be somewhat higher but not rising, according to a Federal Reserve Board study.

Even the lowest income groups, because they are becoming dominated more and more by the elderly and the retired, with their lifetime incomes, are growing more stable and independent financially, it is pointed out.

In the $7,000 to $10,000 bracket in Floyd county, the survey shows, are 4.2 percent of the households. They account for 9.9 percent of the local income.

In the $2,500 to $4,000 class are 31.9 percent of the households and 29.5 percent of the total income.

The 29.1 percent of the households in the over-$4,000 groups receive 53.5 percent of the local earnings.

FLOYD GIRL WRITES OF LIFE AMONG IRISH FARM FOLK

(In the following letter Reba Joyce Salyers, of Eastern, who is spending the summer in Ireland as an International Farm Youth Exchange student, writes of her experiences of Ireland and its people.—Editor.)

Well, it is now almost two months since I left Kentucky for Ireland. I hear from many of you frequently and I do enjoy getting the news. I hope that I am sending back sufficient news of what I am doing, where I have been and where I will be going. However, what I don't cover by letter, I hope I can tell you in my talks and lectures when I return.

While we are here—that is, we three U. S. IFYE's to Ireland—we are under the auspices of Macra na Feirme, which is Irish for Young Farmers' Clubs. The Macra is for any age above 16, as long as they have something to do with farming. They also have a junior group which is Muintir na Tuire and the members of this are 8-20 years old—much the same as our 4-H Clubs. The Macra na Feirme itself may have a membership with the age range of 20-50. There is no government sponsorship or backing as our 4-H Clubs have.

The Macra is maintained by individual and club dues and these dues, in turn, are used to pay the national secretary and organizers. The remainder is voluntary work on the part of the members.

The "Field Day" is a typical Macra na Feirme competition here. It usually begins about 8.00 or 8.30 p.m. in the evening and then refreshments—tea and cakes or sandwiches are served. A dance follows which may last until 2:00 or 3:00 a.m., in the morning. These competitions consist of judging of livestock and the women bring baked goods to be graded. The baked goods are usually sponge cakes and fruit cakes which are served with the tea after the judging.

Tea has become a byword with me. The Irish love their tea. And it is nearly always served with the most delicious little cakes and sandwiches. I've had coffee several times and find it readily available—many people drink it after their dinner.

There are three of us here in Ireland as IFYE's—Bob Jones is from Idaho and Penny Williams is from Indiana. On our first farms, we were very near each other in County Cork. (The word "county" is put before the name of it here.) We have been in different counties since then.

I have lived with three families to date. My first host family was the Patrick O'Sheas of County Cork. Mr. O'Shea spent eight years working in America and then came back to Ireland. He is now a builder as well as a farmer. They have a 121-acre farm and were milking 27 cows a day. They took the milk in each day to a cooperative dairy and pasteurization plant. They had potatoes and grain crops on their farm.

While there, I visited two farmers' cooperatives, several other farms and the Munsier Institute which maintains a pig progeny testing station and a poultry farm, where poultry instructors are trained. By tradition, the women take care of the poultry here in Ireland, and the poultry instructors are trained in a three-year course to help the farm women with their poultry problems.

The agricultural instructor in each county is the equivalent of our agricultural extension agents. However, there are no home demonstration agents as such. Home economics is referred to as domestic economy here and the domestic economy instructors do not go about as our home agents, with the farm women and 4-H members.

My second family was Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Downey of New Inn, Cashel, in County Tipperary. He owned three farms—most of which the grassland was used for fattening cattle. The rainfall here is plentiful and thus grass is the main crop. The farmers use it to best advantage with raising of fat stock.

Potatoes, sugar beets, barley, oats, wheat, mangels are some of the crops most predominant here. Our corn is literally unheard of here. Instead of fences, the hedgerows cover the countryside here. They usually divide the land into very small areas which in some ways appears to waste quite a bit of space.

The land is much flatter here, but in many places it reminds me of the Bluegrass part of the state of Kentucky. The grass is very green. In the west of Ireland, the land is much rockier and much poorer than in the south and east of Ireland, as a rule.

We have been most lucky with the weather. It has been very nice since we arrived. Many people tell us this is the nicest summer in years. Last summer the rain destroyed many of the crops here as it rained constantly almost all summer.

All Americans are referred to as "Yanks" here, whether they be from the south, north, east or west. The Irish, as I have met them, seem to think of everything in the U. S. as being on a big scale—cars, homes, roads, cities, industry. This is somewhat justified when we realize that the country of Ireland is smaller than many of our states, and also that their standard of living or way of life is somewhat different from ours.

I would say life is free and easy here. When the people work, they work and when they play, they play. And they do work and play. They seem to have a love of sports, racing and recreation. I think they have a more relaxed way of life than we, with all our hustle and bustle.

The Irish language is required in the National schools, which are similar to our elementary schools. However, English is the spoken language in most parts of the country.

Ireland is 95 percent Catholic, but I believe Northern Ireland, the six counties which are under British rule, is 95 percent Church of England or Protestant.

Ireland has just had a presidential election and Mr. DeValera, who is 73 years old, has been elected to a seven year term. He has been active in Irish politics for many years—in fact, since before Ireland got her independence from England in 1922. The president here is more of a figurehead and the Isaiascaeh has power similar to our president.

I must conclude by saying that these generalizations—and that is what they are—are not intended to be the final word on what Ireland is like. I merely am writing my own impressions and they may be different on certain points from other person's impressions.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

IN APPRECIATION OF WORK FOR THE RETARDED EDITOR, THE TIMES:

It's been a very long time since I wrote to you about the School for Retarded Children. If you remember, I said I hoped my home people would get behind the school and help. I'm writing now to say I'm proud of the people in Floyd county. No where in all of God's wonderful world will you find better or kinder people. We all are beginning to see that we, the more fortunate ones, must help the retarded. So much needs to be done and can be done for them.

Not too long ago, my neighbors and I took 32 retarded grown-ups, (from a home) on a picnic. It was a heart-breaking day for most of us, just to think that most of these could have been trained to make a living outside in our world, had we had the retarded programs then that we have now. Truly, the retarded have been forgotten, but with people like you in our world today and with God's help, may we overcome this. I must say again you deserve a lot of thanks.

My nephew wrote me how well the event at the drive-in theater was attended. I am so very happy. We are proud of our son and love him with all our hearts. He is a very good artist. He has won several blue ribbons, has sold four paintings, and he is retarded. So don't ever believe they can't be helped—they can and will be with people like you behind them. May God bless each one.

MRS. MARTIN'S NAME OMITTED EDITOR, THE TIMES:

On August 4, we mailed you a list of the candidates for degrees at Eastern Kentucky State College from Floyd county. Through a mistake on our part we left Mrs. Lula Martin, of Eastern, off your list.

When her name was turned in to us as being from Eastern, we listed her with the Madison county candidates for Master of Arts degrees. Will you please make this correction, even though you may have used the story?

TRAINED CLERGYMEN HELP PHYSICIANS TREAT THE SICK

As the result of a North Carolina minister's crusade, hospitals in at least 30 states and many foreign countries have put specially-trained clergymen beside physicians in "healing teams" to treat sick bodies and souls at the same time.

So says the September Reader's Digest, in a report on the work of the Rev. Richard K. Young, director of the School of Pastoral Care at North Carolina Baptist Hospital, Winston-Salem, N. C. The article, by Clarence W. Hall, credits Rev. Young with sharing in "the greatest discovery of modern psychiatry, the soul—not as another name for the mind, but an area in its own right, affecting mind and body for good or ill."

Plato recognized this 2400 years ago, Hall notes. The Greek philosopher wrote: "If the head and body are to be well, you must begin by curing the soul."

Many invalids literally want to die because of subconscious feelings of guilt about some episode in the past. The theory used to be: dredge up your guilt feelings, talk about them, look at them in the light of day, and they'll go away. "The trouble was," a psychoanalyst told Hall, "for many, they didn't go away. It takes more than just uncovering guilt. There must be an assurance of forgiveness." This is what Rev. Young and those who studied under him provide.

When Rev. Young began applying his techniques, many physicians fought him, because the first reaction often was that the patient felt worse. The minister argued: "A patient often must get worse emotionally before he can get better physically and spiritually. I'd no sooner try to create spiritual tranquility in the admittedly guilty—even to keep blood pressure down—than you would slap a Band-Aid on a festering boil!"

Rev. Young is deeply convinced that pastoral care of the sick consists of more than smiling or praying at the bedside. It is a delicate art, he argues, and no seminary should graduate ministers without special training in it. His own classes are limited to ten persons at a time. Bookwork and lectures are held to a minimum. "Skill in intensive counseling does not come by reading a book," he says. "It comes by exposing yourself to the hurt of humanity." His staff and students made 70,000 such "exposures" last year alone, and their movement is winning more support among medical men every day. "Medical science," Hall concludes, "is affording the church its greatest opportunity since Christ commanded His disciples to 'preach the gospel and heal the sick.'"

The article, "Spiritual Therapy: Modern Medicine's Newest Ally," is condensed from an introduction to a book to be co-authored by Rev. Young.

$155 Million Proposed Consumer Loan Merger

The directors of Equitable Credit Corporation, of Albany, New York, and State Loan and Finance Corporation, Washington, D. C., have agreed upon the terms to consolidate and merge these corporations, subject to certain conditions and the approval of the shareholders. The consolidation will join the two companies together rather than having one taken over by the other.

The resultant company is to be known as the State Loan and Finance Corporation and will have a total of 402 branch offices operating in 27 states and the Province of Ontario, Canada. It will be the fifth largest consumer loan company in the country, with total assets in excess of $155 million.

Through its subsidiaries, State Loan and Finance Corporation operates 302 offices in 31 states. People's Finance Company, Prestonsburg, is one of these offices.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN, "KNOWN BUT TO GOD"

Visitors to "The Breaks" area of the Russell Fork section will see an unusual marker on Highway 80 between Elkhorn City and the canyon of the river. It is a wooden marker erected by friends of the scenic and historic area and marks the last resting place of an unknown and assassinated Confederate veteran.

The giant rose bush growing on the grave was set out decades ago by an aged resident of the area who lived nearby. For a generation the story of the assassination of the Confederate soldier has intrigued the region and the marker now is read by thousands of tourists.

The First National Bank presents these pictures in recognition of a rich historic and scenic heritage.

Capitol Notebook

The State Department of Public Relations proclaims Kentucky a "family vacationland" but still recognizes the sacred right of a man to go fishing alone sometimes—without the wife and youngsters.

A vacationer complains that he was all set for a day of solitary angling, when his wife, laden with rods and reels and nets, waved under his nose a brochure from the state agency recommending Kentucky as a funland for the entire family—not just papa or mama alone.

When he hesitated about taking her with him, she said gloomily, "Okay, while you go fishing, I'll go shopping." This ruined the man's anticipation of fishing.

For bad enough, the man said, to turn a happy woman loose on a shopping spree, but twice as bad to give a gloomy one the run of the stores. It takes much shopping for her just to at least a happy shopping mood, especially where she's moping about the high cost of her spouse's fishing gear.

So for instances like this, maybe the agency should amend the slogan: "Kentucky is a family vacationland—where you can take a vacation either with or from your family."

GOEBEL TRAGEDY The story of Governor Goebel's assassination, now nearly 60 years old, continues to interest Kentucky historians.

Recently Mrs. W. B. Ardery of Paris, presented to the Kentucky Historical Society charts prepared for one of the trials of Caleb Powers, one of several accused in the death.

They include a large detailed map of the Old State House and grounds with sight-lines suggesting various points from which the fatal bullet might have come and a life-size outline of the victim's body showing the passage of the bullet.

At the same time of the shooting, M. J. Meagher was Franklin county coroner. His son, Paul Meagher, of Frankfort, has given the society's museum in the Old Capitol the original coroner's report and the coroner's jury verdict.

Cheese rose to an all time high consumption of 86 pounds per person last year, according to the National Dairy Council. This was about a one pound increase over 1957.

Vet Students Offered Advice By VA Manager

For veterans entering college next month or taking other types of Korean GI Bill training, Olney B. Owen, manager of the Veterans Administration regional office in Louisville, offered four points of information this week.

First, it's essential for the veteran-student to be as certain as possible about the course he will pursue, since the law allows a veteran only one change of course. To help him select his educational and vocational goal, he may secure vocational counseling from VA if he requests it.

Second, the amount of training time a veteran can have under the Korean GI Bill is a day and a half for each day of active service he had in the armed forces, up to a total of 36 months. Thirty-six months is the equivalent of the standard four-year course in college.

Third, a veteran entering college under the GI Bill has to expect a certain time lag before he receives his first allowance payment from VA. This usually runs to a little less than two months. The law requires that VA must receive a report on his first month's attendance in classes after which the process of preparing vouchers and checks and having them mailed to the veteran has to be completed. A veteran starting in school or college should therefore make sure he starts off with sufficient money from his own sources to carry him through the first two months. After that, he can expect to receive the VA checks at regular monthly intervals.

The fourth point, VA said, is that Korean veterans have a deadline of three years from their discharge from active service in which they must begin their GI training. For completion, veterans who were discharged on or before January 31, 1955, must complete all their GI training by January 31, 1963. For veterans discharged after January 31, 1955, the final deadline for completing their training is January 31, 1965.

FALL SEEDING ALFALFA

August is the most favorable month to seed alfalfa. Farmers here in the county have had satisfactory results from fall seeding. James Shepherd of Abbott, seeded three acres last fall. He has cut the field twice this year receiving approximately three tons per acre.

County Agricultural Agent Home Demonstration Agent

ROBERT M. JONES JACK FRIAR FRANCES HOWLAND HARRY WHITE

Alfalfa produces large yields if properly fertilized. The limited acres available for hay production makes it all the more important to produce as high yields as possible.

Seed before September 1. This will allow time for enough growth to withstand winter kill. Unless a field has been limed within the past three years, lime will be needed. Apply fertilizer at time of seeding according to a soil test.

A well prepared seedbed is needed to get alfalfa off to an early start. Inoculate seed, to be sure the nitrogen fixing bacteria is present in soil. This will save buying nitrogen fertilizer after the crop is established.

Another advantage of alfalfa is that it will produce satisfactory yields for several years if properly managed. Consider seeding alfalfa this fall for a more uniform stand and higher yields next summer.

PEACH TREE BORER

Home grown peaches are the favorites of everyone. Each year many families set a few peach trees with high hope of producing plenty of fruit for their use. Very few are ever satisfied with the results. One of the most damaging insects is the peach tree borer. The insect bores into the trunk of peach trees and weakens the tree, sometimes causing the tree to die.

The control measure is very simple—the spraying of D. D. T. in July, August, and September—use 6 tablespoons of 50% wettable D.D.T. to a gallon of water, spray this on the trunk including the crotches. Put on enough of this material to saturate the bark. While it is too late for the July spray, it would be desirable to get on the next application.

Avoidance of over expansion in the cattle industry is recommended as base of an education program for the USDA.

MOST M.P.G.*

ONE OF 7 BIGGESTS CHEVROLET GIVES YOU OVER ANY CAR IN ITS FIELD

Proof that Chevy delivers the most miles from a gallon comes from an indisputable source: this year's Mobilgas Economy Run. For a pair of Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide walked away with the first two places in their class—got top mileage, in fact, of any full-sized car. Over the Run's long, rugged course, over mountain and desert in the long, long haul from Los Angeles to Kansas City, the winning Chevrolet averaged a whopping 23.38 miles per gallon. That's the kind of economy-engineering that keeps you saving while you drive!

BEST TRADE-IN—Look at the record—the used car prices in any N.A.D.A.† Guide Book. You'll find that Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two." BEST ENGINE—Chevrolet engines have long won expert praise and, just recently, Chevrolet received the N.A.S.C.A.R. Outstanding Achievement award for "the creation and continuing development of America's most efficient V-type engines." BEST ROOM—Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.‡ make this abundantly clear. Chevy front seat hip room, for instance, is as much as 5.9 inches wider than in comparable cars. BEST RIDE—MOTOR TREND magazine names Chevy "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." But this is one Chevy feature you really should discover for yourself, at your Chevrolet dealer's. Stop by soon!

USE TIMES AND PAGES FOR AMAZING RESULTS!

LOGAN EWELL

Logan Ewell, of London, whose articles in the Sentinel-Echo were excerpted for a feature in The Times, wrote a bit of autobiography on request for this column. Martin Dyche, editor-publisher of the Sentinel-Echo, adds to the autobiography by saying that Ewell, although chiefly interested in farming, was for a while assistant manager of the Seelbach Hotel in Louisville.

However, Mr. Ewell's note on himself is given here:

"I have been asked for an autobiography and was told to make it short. For this part of the request, I am grateful.

"My immediate parents were Richard L. Ewell and Julia A. Ewell. To this union I was born on the 8th day of February, 1884. I am still here and of sound mind and disposing memory as the old will writers were so fond of saying. When I recall what I have disposed of, I could wish that the disposing part had not been so sound.

"I married Barbara B. Brown, daughter of London's pioneer hardware merchant, J. T. Brown. We have one son and two granddaughters.

"My life has been interesting, at least to me, for I have done many things, most of them for the benefit of others rather than myself.

"I have always had an interest in Laurel county's possibilities as an agricultural county. Have lived to see more development than I hoped for. I have made some of this possible.

"Because of the prominent place my father had in the life of the county, I was very early on my own in contact with its people, learning to know them and gathering their lore.

"I am very fond of the people of my county, finding them most profic in folk lore and homespun philosophy. I have never seen their equal in the many states in which I have lived and observed people."

THE THIEF WAS SANE

Speaking of Logan Ewell reminds of his story of the apprehended horse thief who sought to escape the penalty of his misdeeds by acting insane.

We let Ewell tell it as he did in the Sentinel-Echo:

"Lewis Rector (I believe this was his name and anyway it is a matter of judicial record) was a notorious horse thief in Eastern Kentucky 65 years ago. He also got credit for many crimes he did not commit. Atrocious murders, purely imaginary, were laid to his doors and when he was known to be in or near a community extreme fear and precautions were shown by the people generally.

"At last he was captured in Estill county; he was wanted in several but Laurel was lucky, that is lucky enough, to have him surrendered to it for trial.

"He was brought to London on a Sunday afternoon, met by at least two thirds of the population. Meeting the train on Sunday afternoon was a pleasant pastime, anyway. He duly arrived but the man had become insane. He was bound with more rope than the Philistines used on Samson. His arms were bound behind him, ropes shackled his legs, men held ropes to which he was tied, guards were armed with rifles and the bulk of side arms could be plainly seen on the person of private citizens.

"The cavalcade picked up additional recruits as it went down the middle of the street from the old depot, (the first one) on North Main. The uproar was tremendous, all doors opened and all the male inhabitants joined in. The men had their guns, some of the little boys had clubs, one little negro boy, Little Bob Catching, had a rock in each hand.

"As the throng approached our house we could hear the man screaming, 'Here, Ring, here Ring, bow, wow, woof, woof, go on old Ring.' He strained continuously at his bonds, and talked to himself. The people called out, 'It's Rector, he is crazy.'

"'Sakes alive,' said the housewives, 'if the ropes break, we shall all be murdered in our beds.'

"Rector landed in the Laurel county jail, was arraigned to trial the following day. His counsel asked for a sanity hearing and it was granted. Doctors asked the man questions, 'Here Ring, here Ring, who-wee, go on Ring, Rector would shout. Other times he would sing a little song in answer to questions.

"'Somebody stole my old coon dog. I wish they'd bring him back. He run the old coons on the fence. The little ones through the crack. Here, Ring, here!'

"No sensible answer could be had from the man. The doctors made many tests. Some advanced the theory that one insane could not feel pain. So they stuck needles and pins into his arms and legs. If this hurt any, it could not be told from his reactions in any way. He continued to call the dog and sing. Then all became quiet, even Rector was composed and off-guard. Old fat Judge A. H. Clark laid aside his ever-present and vile old cob pipe, leaned over the bar looking at the man, and a tear spotted the docket of the circuit court.

"The redoubtable W. R. Ramsey was Commonwealth's Attorney. A woman called to him, gave him an old fashioned hat pin, sharp as a needle and long as a Confederate sword. This he had in his hand as he came to the bar, joining the defendant and old Judge Clark. The bad man turned his rear toward Ramsey, presenting a very attractive target.

"Ramsey jabbed him with the hat pin with surprising results. Rector's arms were bound but this did not prevent him giving a wild leap. Jumping from his chair across the table in front of Ramsey, he yelled: 'Ouch, ouch, what did he do to me then?'

"Sanity apparently returned to Rector. He gave up and pleaded guilty the following day. He said he had it made until Ramsey stuck him with a crowbar when he was not expecting it. I don't know how good the pin test was, but it seemed to work."

Writing on Goebel

A letter from Dr. Bennett H. Wall, of the History department of the University of Kentucky, advises that his manuscript on Governor Goebel will be finished within five weeks. Dr. Wall has been collecting material and doing research on the martyred Kentuckian for years and his biography of the man will be a genuine contribution to the prolific literature of the troubled era in Kentucky around the turn of the century.

We don't believe you gain anything at all by driving long distances to shop at BIG CITY stores. Our local sources have merchandise that's just as good and costs no more.

But merely for the sake of argument, suppose you do save a few dollars on a time-consuming trip many miles from home. And suppose you don't even count the cost of gasoline and oil, car wear, parking fees, etc. Forget, too, if you like, the hazards of driving in today's heavy highway and city traffic.

But don't overlook these things: What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes—no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Why drive scores of miles looking for trouble? Shop right around the corner and be safe and satisfied.

SUFFERING PRODUCES LOVE, PATIENCE, PITY, COMPASSION

Suffering is God's way of improving the world, says a Wichita, Kansas, minister in a September Reader's Digest article, "Why Do Good People Suffer?" prepared for the Laymen's Movement for a Christian World, Inc.

"If no one but wicked people suffered," writes Dr. Robert W. Youngs, "we would harden our hearts and say 'They deserved it.' But when saints suffer, we cry 'This must not be.' Nothing moves us more to contribute generously to the cure of cancer, than what cancer does to the noblest people.

Show of Fireworks At Kentucky Fair

The story of the Old Testament, including the creation of the world, presented in fireworks will be a free attraction of the 1959 Kentucky State Fair at Louisville.

The fireworks production, "Out of the Darkness," will be presented in the Fairgrounds Stadium September 13-14. Dates of the fair are September 11-19.

For the fireworks event, massive installations will extend the entire length of the grandstand. Sound effects will be provided by a high fidelity system.

One of the scenes will be enactment of the parting of the Red Sea. The waters will be actually sheets of fire that part for the symbolic passage of the Israelites and close after the passage. Each side of this display is 50 feet high.

Another sequence is Elijah's ascent into heaven on a chariot of fire while the organ peals "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." Other scenes will portray the creation of man, Noah's Ark, burning of Sodom, Jacob's ladder, the Ten Commandments, the golden calf, the fall of Jericho and the Temple of All Faiths.
