

This Town— That World

The story is told—here, for the first time—of the fair, young thing who was reprimanded by the lake patrol for racing a boat on Dewey Lake, and who gave this excuse: "But, sir, there was a man chasing me on water skis."

If ever it was cooler in June than this, it was before I began wearing short sleeves.

FLOYD'S OWN "FLYING CAT"

Floyd county against the world—and it will not be outdone! Now we have a "flying cat" of our own. It may be seen at Garth (second house up Garth Hollow), and is owned by a Sexton family. Approximately 200 persons viewed the winged feline, Wednesday, and the parade of visitors became so immense that the owner is now charging a dime a look.

Thao Frazier, of Martin, was one of those who saw the cat, and he declares it has all the equipment belonging to that cat that drew so much publicity, a week or so ago. The "wings," he said, have the appearance of a chicken's wings, folded.

Asked how much he would take for the animal, its young owner said, "ten hundred dollars."

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

Water ski-ing, speed-boating and general skylarking at Dewey Lake have become so popular that if you want to be a nonconformist, just go fishing. S'help me if I didn't hear a girl on one of those boats yell to somebody, the other afternoon as they passed me: "Look!—there's a man fishing!"

A BOY'S STORY

This has all the earmarks of a "sob story," but it has about it something that perhaps more of us parents should read and ponder. It's from Chicago, and it reads: "I've reached the end of my rope. I'm sick and there is no obvious cure. God forgive me."

So wrote David Meeker, 17, a high school senior, found shot to death Wednesday in the home of — See Story No. 5, Page 4 —

TEACHERS AND OTHERS TALK GRIEVANCE HERE

OPEN MEETING IS REQUESTED BY GATHERING

Two Members of Board Discuss Policies Here; About 125 Attend Meet

A gathering of approximately 125 persons at a "public hearing" of the school situation in the circuit courtroom Monday evening voted unanimously to call on the Floyd County Board of Education to hold its next (the July) meeting in the same place and to make it open to the public.

The meeting, which was called last week by the two anti-administration board members, Ray Howard and John G. Hall, was not attended by County Superintendent Turner or by a designated representative. At one time in the subsequent discussion of board policies and activities Mr. Howard remarked, "I wish V. O. was here to defend himself." Earlier, he had suggested that "for the betterment of our schools, for the salvation of our schools, bring Mr. Turner into an open meeting."

Homer Wright, presiding as moderator, defined his role as that of keeping the meeting "within bounds," and on at least one occasion he ruled a question or discussion not germane to the occasion.

Mrs. Betty Stephens, one of the teachers transferred at the recent board meeting, opened the discussion by remarking that, though teachers are scared, she is not afraid, and posed the question, "Were teachers notified personally by the Superintendent before they were changed in their teaching positions?" Howard replied that he knew of no teacher receiving such notice.

Edgar Bingham, another transferred teacher, said that the Legislative committee of the Floyd County Teachers Association had asked that five of its members be permitted to sit in on salary-making. He asked if such permission was discussed at the recent board meeting, and was told by Hall that the only time he had heard of the matter was when he received a letter from Adrian Hall. Howard added: "We asked that teachers be permitted to sit in on budget-making. We insist on it."

Dallas Sammons, a parent, asked if the Superintendent had discussed with the board why teachers were changed in their teaching positions. The question of transferring teachers, Board Member Hall said, was — See Story No. 3, Page 5 —

50-YEAR ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED BY DAVIDSON

Dr. Andrew Jackson Davidson last Sunday commemorated with open house at his home here the 50th year of his practice of medicine. Twenty-seven of those years have been spent in Prestonsburg. Approximately 250 friends who have over the years watched the doctor on his rounds and witnessed his devoted service to his people, regardless of their station in life, called to greet him during the afternoon.

Dr. Davidson received his B. S. degree from the now-defunct Kentucky Normal College in 1905. In the fall of the same year, he entered Louisville Medical College, which later merged with other Louisville Medical schools to become the University of Louisville, from which he graduated with an M. D. degree in 1909. Upon graduation, he entered Central State hospital as an interne. He became assistant physician with state hospitals and served in this capacity until 1916. He had a rotating internship at Louisville General hospital from 1917 to 1919.

He served as first lieutenant for a short time during the latter part of World War I. At the close of the war, he successfully passed the Florida State Medical Examining Board and located in Tampa, where he practised for some months.

Dr. Davidson later spent five years as assistant physician at one of Kansas' state hospitals, located at Topeka. He located in

Dried Egg Solids Added To Commodity List; Plan Demonstrations Of Use

Carl R. Horn, director, Floyd County Welfare Department, said this week the Kentucky Department of Agriculture has announced that whole dried egg solids are being added to the list of foods to be distributed to eligible recipients of U. S. D. A. donated commodities in Kentucky.

This is a valuable protein food and, while most families have not previously used it, it is easily substituted for fresh eggs when properly reconstituted and used in thoroughly cooked dishes, Horn said.

A demonstration for those who are eligible to receive this product in Floyd county will be given by Miss Frances Howland, Floyd county home demonstration agent, at 10 a. m. each day on the following dates and places: — See Story No. 6, Page 4 —

EXPERTS ASK FOREST PLANS

EKRPC Sponsors Tour Of Area's Timber Land To Plan Development

Forestry experts from Kentucky, several sister states and the U. S. Government will explore timber opportunities for Eastern Kentucky in a four-day conference tour through the region's timber lands this week after assembling here Monday night.

The Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission, an agency of the Kentucky Department of Economic Development, is sponsoring the tour as the first in a series of 10 conferences seeking workable action programs attacking all phases of Eastern Kentucky's socio-economic ills.

John D. Whisman, the commission's executive director, said findings of the study groups will guide the Planning Commission in preparing its comprehensive regional program to be submitted in November as the basis for recommended action at federal, state and local levels.

Whisman said future conferences are planned in the fields of agriculture, tourism, education, health, welfare, community development, industrial development, housing and cultural affairs. — See Story No. 10, Page 5 —

The 50-year veteran is a member of the American Legion and of the Methodist Church, and is a past master of Middletown Lodge No. 732, F. and A. M.

UNIT OF KEA SEEKS ACTION

Transfer of Teachers Probe Sought in Floyd By Department Leader

An investigation of alleged injustices done teachers in the Floyd school system has been requested of the Kentucky Education Association's Committee on Tenure and Academic Freedom by Nora Lee Rowland, president of the KEA's Department of Classroom Teachers.

Her letter to Charlton Hummel, chairman of the Tenure and Academic Freedom committee, said, in part: "I have been authorized by the board of directors of the Department of Classroom Teachers, K. E. A., to write you requesting the Committee on Tenure and Academic Freedom to investigate alleged injustices being done many of the teachers of the Floyd county school system."

"We understand that these teachers, most of whom are active members of the Floyd County Teachers Association, are being transferred against their will, and to many of these the transfer will result in great hardship. . . . It is our purpose to do all that we can to promote education in Kentucky, and if teachers are intimidated so that they are afraid to take part in professional and/or political activities, we are certainly not going to grow up professionally."

"Time is of the essence in this case, since many of the schools in Floyd county open in July. The Department therefore requests you to act immediately on behalf of the teachers involved. . . ."

The Department from which action was asked has no legal authority to force boards of education to rescind or amend their actions, it was said, but may exert its influence with education circles and the public.

COKE MAKING IS ADVOCATED

For Depressed Counties; Harlan-Co. Man Discusses Idea With Cooper, Morton

Backyard coke furnaces in Floyd, Harlan, Pike and Perry counties would produce thousands of dollars of hard cash for the unemployed if his plan is implemented, State Representative H. Nick Johnson, of Harlan, argues.

The Harlan Republican said he discussed the idea with United States Senators, Thruston B. Morton and John Sherman Cooper in their Washington offices last week.

Johnson, an insurance and real-estate man, won nomination for state senator last month, campaigning as "The Man With a Plan." He says establishment of a home coke industry would provide a new and profitable local use for part of the output of the coal fields.

Much talk has centered around finding new uses for coal in Kentucky, as well as elsewhere, because of reduced demands for it as a fuel.

"Of coal and all the by-products of coal, coke is the one which has never had a saturated market," says Johnson.

Coke is a key element in the marking of steel, and coal shipped from Eastern Kentucky is converted into coke at other places. Says Johnson:

"Coal we now sell for about $3.50 a ton could be made into coke here and then sold for $7 a ton."

He would like to see a trial for home coke furnaces.

"We could put 50 pilot plants in Harlan, Floyd, Pike and Perry counties," he says.

But capital is needed. Johnson figures that each oven-shaped something like a large beehive and made of firebrick—would cost from $400 to $1,000. The cost of 200 put in this area, he suggests, might reach $200,000.

That is why Johnson took his idea to Washington. He believes there is little likelihood of private capital or state money for the plan, and pins his hopes on federal aid.

Kentucky mountain families operating coke furnaces would be "independent contractors," according to Johnson. Under his plan, a truck would come around every day, bring them coal and pick up the coke.

He said this family pattern for the industry would eliminate the question of unionization.

Damage Suit Dismissed In Blair-Hospital Case

Edith and Earl Blair this week lost their $50,559.60 damage suit against Dr. John G. Archer, the Prestonsburg General hospital and two of its nurses.

Mrs. Blair claimed she suffered permanent injury as a result of a hypodermic injection administered at the hospital.

The suit was dismissed by Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill as to Dr. Archer and Mrs. Margaret Ackerman. On trial of the action against the hospital itself and Betty Osborne the jury returned a verdict for the defendants.

It was ordered that the plaintiffs pay the court costs.

HOUSE VOTES RESEARCH AID

New Coal Uses Sought By Congressional Plan; Perkins, Cooper Support

The House of Representatives voted Friday to approve the creation of an independent research agency to develop new uses for coal. All of the eight Kentucky representatives voted with the majority.

Representatives Carl D. Perkins and William Natcher both backed the proposal as needed for an industry that has been in the economic doldrums for a long time. Perkins noted that two-thirds of the rail mines in the Seventh Kentucky Congressional district had closed since 1950.

State-wide, he told the House, mines of all types declined from 2,610 in 1947 to 2,167 in 1957—a drop of 443.

Natcher, Bowling Green Democrat, said Kentucky production during that same decade fell from 84,241,000 tons to 75,846,000 and unemployment dropped from 17,260 men in 1950 to 37,939 in 1955.

The bill now goes to the Senate. Earlier this week the Senate Interior Committee completed hearings on similar legislation, but has taken no action. Senator John Sherman Cooper in testimony before — See Story No. 8, Page 4 —

PRICE NAMED TO NEW FIELD

Better Instruction Sought By Government In Scientific Fields

The $28,310.55 made available to the Floyd county school system by the federal government for the improving of instruction in mathematics, science and modern foreign languages will be spent during the 1959-'60 school year, Wayne Ratliff, director of instruction, Floyd County Board of Education, said this week.

The fund is for remodeling school rooms, providing equipment for science, mathematics and the languages under the National Defense Education Act. Already five school-rooms are being remodeled for the teaching of science, and Lawrence Price, former principal of Wayland high school, has been named coordinator of the program.

Another phase of the program deals with testing, guiding and counselling pupils, and this has been fully implemented. Ratliff said. Every pupil in the county from grade 7 through 12 has received from one to three tests.

MUSIC, WICKER NAMED FAME HALL MEMBERS

Marvin E. Music, Prestonsburg oil products distributor and civic leader, and Dr. Melvin V. Wicker, of Wayland, for 48 years a physician in this county, were officially installed Saturday evening as members of the Floyd County Hall of Fame.

The honor was accorded the two men at the fourth annual meeting of the Hall of Fame. Dr. Wicker, attending the meeting with his wife, two daughters and a son-in-law, received his citation from Chalmers H. Frazier, of Prestonsburg. Mr. Music was unable to be present, and the citation, read by the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, was acknowledged by his sister, Mrs. Myrtle Hunt. Announcement of the honors for the two men was made by Mrs. Chalmers H. Frazier, chairman of the nominations committee.

The Hall of Fame activities were confined to Saturday evening and the dinner and business meeting at the Wise Cafe here. Heretofore, awards to outstanding Floyd county citizens have been made on Sunday afternoons at public meetings. Approximately 50 members of the Hall of Fame and guests attended this year's gathering.

Dr. A. A. Page, president of Pikeville College, was the speaker of the evening. The music portion of the program was provided by Cora Ruth Wright, vocalist, with Mrs. Chalmers H. Frazier as pianist.

Dr. Wicker's citation traced his career from the days when he worked his way through medical school at the University of Louisville. Graduating in 1911, a year after he was married, he began the practice of his profession in the rural Right Beaver Creek section where there was no railroad and few roads of any kind. Three years later a railroad was completed to

Fiddlin' Dewey Shepherd Sentenced in U.S. Court On Gas Line Indictment

Dewey Shepherd, of the Open Fork of Middle Creek section, was given a year and a day sentence last Thursday after he had been convicted in U.S. district court at Pikeville on a charge of obstructing the movement of gas in interstate commerce from this county to nearby states and with wrongful use of actual and threatened violence to extort money from the Columbia Fuel Corp., Pikeville.

Two other charges of violating the anti-racketeering statute in connection with dynamiting in the Open Fork area were dismissed. W. R. Hoaglund, special agent in charge, Federal Bureau of Investigation, said pipelines of the gas company were dynamited about 10 times in a period of three years in the vicinity of the Shepherd home.

Religious Singing Meet Slated At School Here; Exhibition Is Planned

The annual traditional religious singing gathering here will be held at the grade school building, June 28, at 2 p. m., it was announced this week. All church choirs and singing groups wanting to participate are urged by Mrs. Edith F. James, Prestonsburg, to contact her.

The arts and crafts fair, an annual affair, will precede the singing gathering and be held June 26 on a remnant of the old State road on Highland avenue, it was announced by Mrs. Winnie F. Johns. The arts and crafts fair is being held as a feature for tourists preceding the dedication of Cumberland Gap National Park, July 4.

"With the wonderful work being done by the Floyd county Homemakers Clubs, the Woman's Clubs' Work Shops, Boy and Girl Scouts and by persons living in all sections of the county, we should have a lovely display of handwork, such as quilts, weaving, spinning, painting, hooked, plaited and woven rugs, metalwork, basket weaving, shell craft, leather tooling, knitting and crocheting," Mrs. Johns said.

FOUR IN HOME ESCAPE DEATH IN EXPLOSION

Probers Find No Clues At Wrecked Home, Car; Time-Bomb Suspected

State police and county officers sought in vain this week for clues to the identity of the person or persons who early last Saturday morning blasted the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Derossett on Bull Creek with a heavy charge of dynamite and moments later reduced an automobile to wreckage by the same method.

Indignant neighbors and friends of the 76-year-old couple this week subscribed $1,200 which was posted as a reward by Mr. Derossett for the arrest and conviction of the dynamiters.

Saturday's blast was the third incident in a space of two years to affect the Derossett family. First, the automobile of their son, Elias Derossett, was dynamited in the yard of the home while he was a deputy sheriff. Almost simultaneously, the auto of Sheriff Gorman Collins was blasted on Westminster street here. Later, a barn owned by the Derossetts burned.

Mr. and Mrs. Derossett almost miraculously escaped serious injury. Main force of the dynamite charge, believed to have been from 15 to 20 sticks, exploded upward from the basement into their bedroom, ripping out a gaping hole in the floor three feet from the bed in which they lay and rocketing flooring and furniture into the ceiling.

No fuse, wire or battery was found, and one theory is that explosive may have had the nature of a time-bomb.

Almost every piece of furniture in the home was either wrecked or damaged. Beds in each of the three bedrooms were broken apart and ruined, and in the wreckage were many treasured family keepsakes. "The rooms looked like they were full of kindling," one visitor said.

First of the explosions came between 4:30 and 5 a. m., ripping the interior of the home. The second blast, which destroyed the Plymouth auto of the Derossetts' daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Weldon, of Frankfort, came two or three minutes later. The car was parked in front of the home.

Mr. Derossett said he was asleep when the explosion came. "The first I knew, I was standing at the foot of the bed. I don't know how I got there," he said.

Mrs. Derossett said she was awake at the time but could not tell how she and her husband escaped injury. In ill health for some time, she suffered from shock.

The Weldons were sleeping in a rear room, and their bed also collapsed and was ruined, it was said. Food in a kitchen refrigerator splattered the walls as force of the blast jerked open the door. The floor furnace was blown into the dining room. The foundation of the residence was cracked.

HAGER, PENNIX KILLED IN SATURDAY WRECK

Two men, one a resident of this county, were killed late Saturday in an auto wreck on Greasy Creek, Johnson county.

The dead are: Lowell George Hager, 25, of David, and Homer Penix, 34, of Boons Camp, Johnson county.

Two other occupants of the car—Delmer Crum, of David, and Elmer Crum, of Boons Camp—escaped with minor injuries.

Hager's car went out of control on a gravel-surfaced road, followed a ditch line, plunged over a hill and rammed into a large tree. He was thrown from the auto and was dead when found. Penix was trapped in the rear seat of the car and acetylene torches were used to extricate his body.

It was said that the two David men had driven to Martin county and, en route home, picked up Penix and Elmer Crum to take them home shortly before the wreck occurred. Lowell Hager was a son of Everett Hager, tippie foreman for the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company, and Mrs. Hallie Justice Hager. He had completed three years of college study, majoring in mechanical engineering when he entered the Army. He returned to civilian life last January. Surviving, besides his parents, are three brothers, Charles, James and Ronald Hager, all of David, and four sisters, Mrs. Shirley Branham, of Prestonsburg, Mrs. Catherine Prater, Charleston, W. Va., Mrs. Clara Jean Gorrell and Miss Rose Ellen Hager, both of David. His funeral was conducted Tuesday at 1 p. m. from the David Baptist Chapel, the Revs. Carl Baldridge and J. E. Durham officiating. Burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel under direction of the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home. Penix was a son of Mrs. Stella Penix Crum, of Paintsville, and the late John C. Penix. He leaves his mother, his widow and three small daughters.

Jarri and Margaret Collins are visiting their grandparents, Mr. W. Va., is here visiting her and Mrs. Dawson Bussey, at brother, Hobert Frazier, on College Lane.

A Challenge to Law and Order

The dynamiting of an elderly couple's home in this county under cover of darkness is an event that deserves the condemnation of every citizen.

No provocation justifies an attack on the aged and defenseless. Open destruction of life and property is never to be condoned, but even such a crime as that is lily-white in contrast with such a skulking, cowardly act as this.

As long as dynamiters, arsonists, poisoners and their breed escape punishment there is no security for any of us. This is a challenge to the forces of law and order that must be met.

The committee, urged the research program as initially important to the state.

The bill sets up a three-member commission, appointed by the president with Senate approval, to carry out a research program to:

1. Develop new and more effective uses for coal.
2. Improve and expand uses.
3. Reduce the cost of coal production and distribution.
4. Emphasize development of coal uses of particular value to small producers.

The commission in most cases would contract for research projects by private firms. All information developed would be made available to the public.

A research director would be paid not more than $19,000 a year, and up to 10 professional staff assistants would get $12,500 to $19,000 each. Advisory committees could be appointed.

Appropriations for the agency for the year starting July 1 would be $1 to $2,000,000. No ceiling was set for the next four years.

Administration's Budget and the Department of Industry, would, making the agency independent. They held it should be under Interior.

Perkins and Natcher both asserted that the new agency would be invaluable in co-ordinating existing coal-research programs.

Perkins said there are now 203 being privately financed. The Government itself, he said, is spending only about $5,000,000 a year, mostly on long-range research that will have little immediate effect for the average producer.

L. C. Blank, with whom Meeker boarded. The boy's divorced mother died three years ago, his father last summer.

A note, found in Meeker's room, said in part:

"I smoke and can not stop. I can not control my diabetes. I steal. I lie. I am failing in typing and trigonometry. I have been thrown out of my physics class. My teachers are not to blame. They do their best. My parents, partly. They did not prepare me for life."

Meeker asked that his body be cremated and the ashes buried with no marker. The note said:

"I don't want any controversy over whether to be buried by my father in Aurora (Ill.) or by my mother in St. Louis. Please have them sing the hymn, 'Amazing Grace' at my funeral."

HERE'S WHY

"Why write so much in your column about fishing and fishermen?" a reader wants to know. "Isn't there anything else that strikes your fancy or has its funny side?"

Now, there is a pretty fair question. We've had a feeling that this thing is deteriorating into a column for disappointed anglers, but I also have a feeling that this is one subject I can discuss without getting too serious and that if I do fishermen, sons of trial and disappointment, are so inured to the jibes of others that they won't resent mine.

Take politics. You can't have any fun with that. That's a matter that is altogether too much of the life-and-death brand. Or business, for the same reason. Children are out, because only mine or yours are out, and say things worth printing. Once in a great while I run onto a dog who doesn't take himself too seriously, and so he becomes a subject for comment. Or even a tray cat will sometimes do.

But, week in and week out, give me the fisher-folk. All men who essayed fishing and who took themselves and everything else too seriously have long since committed suicide, leaving us who don't think we are so handsome or so smart or so anything, to laugh at ourselves, because: (1) we're so dumb it's plumb funny; or (2) because we have to laugh to keep from crying.

Mrs. Holbrook Speaks To Methodist Women

Approximately 125 mothers and daughters enjoyed the annual Mother-Daughter banquet, Tuesday evening at the First Methodist Church here. This activity, which has become an annual church event, was sponsored by the Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild to honor the daughters of the church. The invocation was given by Rev. Harold W. Dorsey. After a covered dish dinner, Mrs. Dick Spurlock, Society president, presided during the remainder of the evening. The devotionals were presented by Susan Carter and her mother, Mrs. James Carter, who sang "Faith of Our Mothers." Mothers and daughters who represented three generations were recognized: Mrs. Sam Wells, Mrs. Earle Stumbo, Mrs. E. D. Roberts and Mrs. Joe Hobson. Two four generation families were present—that of Mrs. Charles Hale and Mrs. Penn Fitzpatrick.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. John Holbrook, of Morehead. Mrs. Holbrook is currently president of the Kentucky Conference of the Woman's Society of Christian Service. She delivered an inspiring message on a woman's role in her home and church and the qualities she must possess for Christian service. At the conclusion of the program the Woman's Society presented Mrs. Holbrook a gift. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Palmer Hall and John Holbrook, husband of the speaker.

Counties which do not complete by Sept. 1 this year plans for their programs under the Defense Education Act will lose the funds allotted them.

The National Defense Act is a four-year program, inspired by Russia's scientific ascendancy. Approximately equal amounts have been authorized for each succeeding year. Appropriations will be authorized by Congress each year with annual amounts depending on the success of the program.

However, to be eligible for their particular allotment, school districts must provide matching funds derived from:

1. Unencumbered general funds.
2. Foundation Program capital outlay funds.
3. Funds from any outside source turned over to the Board of Education for this purpose.
4. Funds secured from the sale of bonds, where the equipping of a building was one of the stated purposes of this bond issue.

A recent report by President Eisenhower's Science Advisory Committee urged a general jacking up of the entire American educational system, with new emphasis on science, to maintain the security of the free world. The total financial outlay for the nation would be at least 20 billion dollars—of which each school district would be appropriated an amount for local use.

The report was endorsed by the President upon its completion.

The report made several recommendations including the encouragement of do-it-yourself science experiments in the home by students after school hours and caravans of science—that is, mobile museums transported by trailer trucks to bring the story of science to the hinterlands.

Such a project known as the audio visual caravan has been investigated in Kentucky by D. T. Davis, president of D. T. Davis Company, Lexington.

The caravan will hold an exhibit for the southeastern Kentucky area at the Pikeville College gym, June 25, from noon until 8 p.m. The showing will be open to school administrators, classroom teachers, supervisors and parents with no admission charge.

The products of more than 56 manufacturers and professional consultation service will be offered by Dr. Gordon C. Godbey, director of University of Delaware, for small group conferences and individual faculty and school administrators.

organizer of the first Junior Chamber of Commerce in Prestonsburg, serving the Jaycees as president two years and seeing through his efforts and those of others the establishing of a playground that is still enjoyed by the younger children of the community. He has served the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club as committeeman, director vice-president and president, and in 1954 was elected lieutenant-governor of Kiwanis Division 7. He is chairman of the Floyd County Flood Control Committee, a director of the Big Sandy Flood Control Association, a director of the Prestonsburg Housing Commission, area vice-president of the Oil Industry Information Committee and Floyd county chairman of the Pikeville College endowment fund, is a director of the First National Bank here, and is active in work for the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and other groups.

"It would be impossible," the citation read, "to list the many, many trips Marvin has taken to all parts of Kentucky, including Frankfort, and to our national capitol. All these efforts were for better roads, better parks, flood control or similar worthwhile community efforts. Marvin has been and continues to be willing to sacrifice his time and efforts for the benefit of others."

The nominations committee commented, the citation pointed out: "... this unselfish service to so many worthy causes for the betterment of his community and county typifies the highest ideals and objectives of this organization."

Dr. Page's address, which was replete with humor, touched on problems that Floyd county and Eastern Kentucky face. "We in Eastern Kentucky," he said, "have many problems, and I have come to the conclusion that they will never be solved unless we solve them ourselves."

The educator, a native of another section of Kentucky, listed Eastern Kentucky's independence as one of the things that is good for the world. He referred to the tradition of "feudin', fussin' and fightin'" as a damaging thing, adding that, although he is a native of another section of Kentucky, he has become "as thickskinned about certain things as any mountaineer."

He told the gathering why one Big Sandy town did not get an industrial plant, quoting a Rhode Island industrialist. The industrialist had decided to locate a plant in the Big Sandy valley, then changed his mind. Asked why, he pointed out that he was interested in the educational level of the area more than in any other thing. On arrival to the community under consideration, he recalled, "People of the community that night regaled me with stories of fighting, feuding and moonshining. We simply decided it would not be safe."

"Our young people go out with an inferiority complex because of these stories. We must dispel this feeling," Dr. Page added. He stressed the individual. "The many will never have freedom without freedom for the individual."

Commenting on Eastern Kentucky's natural scenic beauties, the speaker said, "I defy any community to show me greater beauty. There is scenery here the like of which is unsurpassed in the world." He listed the profusion of pinks that grow wild on hillsides in and around Prestonsburg as unusual and as a great potential attraction.

"But," he continued, "the tragedy of Eastern Kentucky roads is, they're dump-heaps. Tourists are not coming here to look at tin cans—they can see those in New York City."

Then the speaker spoke of his long-cherished dream of educating the youth of the region. "I never go to the Blue Grass," he remarked, "without coming back wishing we had some of their horse-barns to educate our children in."

Russell Harman, Huntington, W. Va., Princess Coals executive, presided at the meeting as president of the Floyd County Hall of Fame, Inc. Jesse Elliott, of Betsy Layne, was chosen the new president of the organization, with the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey as vice-president.

Other officers of the Hall of Fame who were elected at the meeting are: Mrs. Betty Stephens, Prestonsburg, secretary, and Miss Ruth Sipple of Hippo, treasurer. The board of directors is composed of the Rev. Harold Dorsey, of Prestonsburg, Arnold Maggard, Langley, and the Rev. Robert Martin, of Martin—each for two years; William Crawford, Mallory, W. Va.; Jesse Elliott, Betsy Layne, and Norman Allen, Prestonsburg—each for one year.

The forestry conference, bringing together 25 representatives of government, commerce and the lumber industry, began with a get-acquainted session here Monday evening.

The conference moved to Wheelwright Tuesday for a round-table workshop session at which the conferees will pool their know-how in an attempt to arrive at immediate, profit-producing ideas on timber growing, marketing or processing.

Next, at Hazard, the suggestions were refined and narrowed down to those seeming to have the brightest chances for immediate success. The conference tour will wind up in Beattyville on Thursday with the drafting of a statement of conclusions outlining a forestry development program.

In the evenings, the group will meet with local community leaders to exchange ideas and opinions.

Long-range benefits, such as improved conservation practices and other policies affecting utilization of Eastern Kentucky timber resources, also are expected from the conference, but the emphasis will be on programs of a nature to produce near-future benefits, Whisman said.

"What we are looking for right now," he said, "are projects and actions that will best meet the specific needs of the area's economy and the techniques necessary to getting them into operation as quickly as possible."

Future conferences will be held at two-week intervals beginning July 15 and running through October, Whisman said, adding the next one probable would be concerned with agricultural development.

Serving as co-sponsor of the tour are Gene Butcher, director of the Kentucky Division of Forestry, and W. Frank Lebus, agricultural development director in the Department of Economic Development. Rev. William M. Huie, member of the commission, is in charge of conference arrangements and Whisman will serve as chairman of the sessions.

Others making up the tour include: Hamilton K. Pyles, S. S. Forest Service, Upper Darby, Pa.; Dave Worley, Central States Forest Experiment Station, Berea, Ky.; Bob Collins, Cumberland National Forest, Winchester; W. S. Swingler, U. S. Forest Service, Washington, D. C.; W. G. McGinnis, Central States Forest Experiment Station, Columbus, O.; William C. Johnstone, Kentucky Bankers Association, Louisville; T. C. Mason, Business and Defense Service Administration, Washington; Prof. O. M. Davenport, University of Kentucky Extension Service, Lexington; Malcolm J. Williamson, U. S. Forest Service, Berea; John L. Anderson, American Forest Products, Cincinnati; Ralph Hodges, National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, Washington; Gatesby W. Clay, Kentucky Forestry Council, Lexington; C. D. Dosker, Kentucky Forestry Council, Louisville; Prof. C. Redmon, Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Kentucky; James Newman, extension specialist in Forestry, University of Kentucky; W. P. Morton, Jr., Kentucky Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, Hazard; Howard Lusk, Kentucky River Coal Company, Hazard; Charles Gillette, American Forest Products Industry, Washington; Charles Bringardner, Kentucky Forestry Council, Lexington and William Gorman, Kentucky Association of Soil Conservation, Hazard.

The Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission, a nine-man body serving as an advisory group to the Governor of Kentucky, was established in 1957 to assist in the physical planning and resource development of Eastern Kentucky's counties. B. F. Reed, of Drift, is chairman.

not discussed with the board—"nothing was said to the board as far as I'm concerned." Hall said he received a list of teachers from Mr. Turner at the board meeting. Howard told the audience he received "the shock of my life when this sheet was handed me—V. O. simply handed John and me these lists and said, 'I recommend this list.'"

Mrs. Stephens said that in the past, applications sent teachers each spring have three choices on them for the teacher. Mr. Howard said he and Hall tried to offer a motion to discuss each teacher separately but were voted down.

The teacher Association's legislative program has never been before the board, Hall said in reply to a question.

One of the lengthiest discussions of the meeting came when Ulysses S. Collins, a teacher, asked about the number of employees in the County Superintendent's office. Mr. Howard replied that there are 15, with Lawrence Price, National Defense Education coordinator, recently added. When Mr. Collins inquired about their salaries and if they are in proportion to those of teachers, Edgar Bingham objected that the meeting was not the place for that discussion. After the moderator had called for a motion and W. W. Burchett's motion to read positions and salaries by title only, omitting names of employees, Howard ran through the list, giving the total per year paid office employees as $68,086.25, exclusive of mileage expenses. He said maintenance employees' salaries, exclusive of mileage, total $81,300. The superintendent's annual salary was placed at $10,200; the director of instruction, $5,400; the health coordinator's at $5,400; salary of each of the two attendance officers, $4,870, and so on.

The 22 maintenance men's salaries ranged from a top of $5,400 a year for the head mechanic, downward, according to figures submitted. Three are paid $3,900 each, 16 are paid $3,600, and two are paid $3,300.

Howard said maintenance salaries have increased from $40,770.17 in 1952 to $56,269 in 1957, and now are $81,300.

To a question asked by Joe Wheeler Burchett about employees' travel and if workers are routed and checked out by the board or if they "run at random," Hall said no daily mileage sheet is kept, although a statement showing where the worker has traveled, with other information, is given.

Howard said the daily average attendance in 1952 was 11,740 and today is 11,944. Of revenues he said the board's income in 1952 was $1,234,490 and in 1957 was $2,089,048. He did not give the current income.

Roy Cook, of Drift, asked if teachers' salaries have risen as other funds have come into the board treasury, and also asked Howard and Hall if they favor a pay raise for teachers. Howard said teachers have received a small raise since 1952, that he and Hall feel they are underpaid and that they favor a pay increase.

To the query, "Do we have any educational yardstick to show where we are?" Mr. Hall replied: "The Superintendent said in May that we have 135 new qualified teacher applications and he presumed there wouldn't be as many emergencies as in the past," Howard said, "It's a desperate situation. We've lost 14 (teachers) since the last board meeting. We are mighty low."

"What can we do to help you?" inquired Mrs. W. W. Burchett. Such needs were not pinpointed except to say, "We have a tough struggle—we need your support."

Mrs. Burchett then asked, "What about our wonderful teachers being moved?" and Howard replied that only the people can get them back—we're (Hall and he) only two against three."

Complimenting teachers on their investment in education, Hall pointed out that the child comes first, the teacher next. "We should have a fair mind," he said. "By cooperation we can have good schools." He invited the people to tell him if he has done other than right.

It was then that Eugene Conley, of Hueysville, a teacher, said, "I was told once I was moved because I voted against a board member." He quoted the Superintendent as telling him: "If you don't vote for my man, don't make me embarrass you when asking for a teaching job next year."

Mr. Wright, as moderator, refused to permit consideration of a question from the audience asking if maintenance men are hired on their qualifications or on their family relationship. He ruled the question "not in bounds." When driver qualifications were discussed Howard said, "Next month, John Hall and I will do our best to see that good, well-qualified drivers are hired."

Howard said he and Hall hope to have bus transportation available to at least two-thirds of the pupils. This statement was made when an unidentified man in the audience asked why a school bus cannot be made available for the Right Fork of Middle Creek and its four schools.

School vandalism was discussed and Mr. Hall suggested that good Parent-Teacher Association in each community is the best protection against destruction of school property. It was then that the question came from the audience, asking if the two board members favor opposition by school principals to P.-T. A.'s, and Hall scored the idea of "closing the door."

Howard said, in response to a question by W. W. Burchett, that although in the past it has been customary for board members to have much to say about their own districts, "they backed down on us."

Other information elicited from the discussion included these statements: that there is no inventory kept of supplies purchased; that the two board members present did not know what authority maintenance men have to make purchases at hardware stores; that an "amazing number" are using water that belongs to the board.

The motion to ask a public board meeting in July was made by W. W. Burchett as one of the last items of business.

Entry to the basement of the home was made, Derossett said, through a door which had been left unlocked. His damage, which is unprotected by insurance, may total $10,000.

State Police met discouragement early when they sought fingerprints. The basement door had blown out, and water or dampness had obliterated any prints that might have been on it.

The dynamite charge which ruined the Welton's auto ripped up the rear of the vehicle and shattered the windshield. They had arrived from Frankfort, the preceding night.

The shattered home is a new structure, built on the site of the old home where the dynamiting occurred two years ago. Mr. Derossett said he had not completed its porches.

Hundreds of persons from a wide area visited the scene of the dynamiting over the week-end.

Ice cream is the byword of the modern generation's youngsters—but this tasty food goes back hundreds of years.

In 1954, only one of 8 persons in the U. S. lived on a farm.

FLOYD TRIO TO JOIN GIRL SCOUTS IN SENIOR ROUNDUP IN COLORADO

Lona Catherine Ackerman, of Prestonsburg, Mary Beth Sammons and Dorothy Gay Martin, of Martin, will be part of a patrol of eight girls from the Sandy Valley Girl Scout Council to attend the 1959 Senior Girl Scout Roundup in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The theme for the 1959 Roundup, "A Mile High—A World Wide," will emphasize American frontiers, both past and present. Like the earlier Americans who opened up and settled the rugged land of 14,000-foot mountains known only to Indian scouts and fur traders, the Girl Scouts will explore new American frontier areas—the areas of science, space, astronomy and international relations.

Preparation for Roundup is strenuous. The girls, working in groups or patrols of eight, must be young camping experts, able to pitch literally a city of 6,000 tents, to take care of themselves outdoors at an altitude more than a mile above sea-level, to swap tales on the past and current development of their own cities and towns, and to be ready to enter into new areas of science and education.

The purpose of the Roundup, which for many girls will be a climax to their years of Girl Scout training, is to give girls an opportunity to travel, to know their country and to meet teen-agers from widely different national and international backgrounds.

The Roundup site, close to the U. S. Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs, covers 1,200 acres of ranch land owned by Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cogswell and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Johnson, both of Colorado Springs. Chosen after a two-year search by Girl Scout officials, the site is on rolling prairie land with a full view of the Rocky Mountains and Pike's Peak.

Twenty special Girl Scout trains will bring girls across continental United States to Colorado Springs. From there, they will travel in shuttle buses to the Roundup site. Although the Roundup officially opens on July 3, campers will begin to arrive early on the morning of July 1. For the next 48 hours hundreds and thousands of teen-age girls will be pouring into Colorado Springs and the Roundup site.

Upon arrival, the girls immediately go into action. They start building their city. Each patrol of eight will be assigned to one of the 23 camps that makes up Roundup, and will have an area of approximately 2,000 square feet to pitch its five tents, four for sleeping, one an outdoor kitchen.

Over and above the Roundup "frontiers" emphasis, special events scheduled include a ceremonial campfire for 10,000 camper on the night of July 3, the first flag-raising of the new 49-star American flag on July 4th, Colorado Centennial Day on July 8th and a farewell campfire on July 12.

Mrs. Ralph Allen, Pikeville, is the chairman in charge of all Roundup plans and equipment. She and Mrs. Dortha Allen, Martin, the trainer, have been working many months to prepare the Scouts for this once-in-a-lifetime experience.

Diane Leonard, Paintsville; Nancy Gray, Nancy Yost, Janice Beeler and Susan Allen, all of Pikeville, will form the remainder of the patrol from the local council.

Mountain Folkways Subject of New Book By Floyd County Man

An account of an exceptional mountain family which has preserved the traditional lore of their forebears, UP CUTSHIN AND DOWN GREASY, will be published June 14 by the University of Kentucky Press. The study is by Leonard W. Roberts, Kentucky folklorist, who spent three years in investigating and recording these materials.

Along the isolated headwaters of the Kentucky River—Cutshin and Greasy creeks—Mr. Roberts found the Couch family, who still hold to primitive farming methods and to old and traditional household arts, and games, ballads, dances and tales that were their chief entertainment. The unique social environment of a home life, community bearing meetings, all-day church meetings, and "funeralizings," A selection of tales and songs, with music, from the large repertory of the Couch family is included in the book. The complete collection is available in Kentucky Microcards, series A, no. 30, which is being published simultaneously.

Mr. Roberts is also the author of SOUTH FROM HELL-FER-SARTIN, a collection of Kentucky mountain folktales published by the University of Kentucky in 1955.

No rest for this Chevy... round the clock the engine never stops!

At Washington's bustling National Airport, Allied Aviation Fueling counts on its radio-equipped Chevy to get crews and tank trucks to the right planes at just the right time. Aside from occasional time out for the usual service, its Thriftmaster 6-cylinder engine has been running 24 hours a day for the past 9 months!

Once you've got that kind of endurance working you don't worry much about lost job time. Breakdowns go out of style the day your Chevy goes into action.

The fact is, Chevrolet trucks are dead set on dropping the word "downtime" right out of the English language. And they just might, if precision engineering and top-quality materials have anything to say about it. Chevy trucks are put together to stay together—incorporating the most advanced chassis developments, the most efficient 6-cylinder and V8 engine designs. They're built to last, built to keep Chevrolet's hard-earned reputation for reliability flying high.

Going into the real heart of Chevrolet advantages is where your dealer comes in. He'll show you, in feature after feature, that you can't buy more truck dependability—in any weight class—at any price.

No job's too tough for a Chevrolet truck!

History of 7th OVC
Only one thin volume was published on the Civil War activities of the Seventh Ohio Volunteer Cavalry. Capt. R. C. Rankin, of Ohio, published a "History of the Seventh Ohio Volunteer Cavalry," in 1881. It contained only 29 pages mostly of personal reminiscences. A copy of the volume is in the library of the Ohio State Archeological and Historical Society, Columbus, Ohio, and was made available to this column through the kind offices of Robert Wallace, regional librarian here, via the inter-library loan plan.

The 7th OVC was raised for border services by Governor Todd, of Ohio, and many Kentuckians joined the regiment. Capt. Rankin was an officer of Company E, and was first quartered at Ripley, Ohio. First action was on the night of September 20, 1862, when the company marched to Brooksville, Ky., a distance of 25 miles, and drove the rebels, under Basil Duke, away. Duke was paroling citizens captured at Augusta, Ky., a few days before but had to defer the job as incomplete when the Rankin company appeared. Company E scouted Falmouth, but upon finding the town held by the Unionists, returned to Ripley.

The First Battalion of the regiment crossed the Ohio River in early November, went to Lexington, with a Major Rainey commanding, joined another Union outfit under General Carter and staged a raid on the Confederates in East Tennessee through Pound Gap. This was in December. They burned Carter's Station and a bridge over the Watauga River and returned to Ohio in three weeks with insignificant loss.

Four companies of the 7th OVC crossed the Ohio at Maysville, December 21, arrived at Danville, December 24. Rankin was ordered to Harrodsburg to scout the roads and watch for the Confederate General John Hunt Morgan. The remainder of the regiment was brought to Danville, January 4, 1863, but was soon moved on to Harrodsburg. Later it was moved to Crab Orchard and divided, one part placed under Lieut. Col. Minor and moved by way of Richmond and Irvine to Hazel Green. This group had a skirmish there and took 25 Confederate prisoners. The other group went to Mt. Sterling by way of Richmond and Winchester, drove a small detachment of rebels out of the town. The regiment then assembled at Lexington in April, did scouting in Jessamine, Mercer, Woodford and Anderson counties. Following that the regiment saw action around Paris and on the Licking River.

Continued activity of the regiment resulted in three companies being sent to Cumberland River where a rebel post at Stegall's Ferry was captured with 130 men. Later there was skirmishing at Monticello. Rankin had action at Scott's Gap. On June 7 the regiment again saw action at Monticello.

Moving into East Tennessee many skirmishes were fought, but the regiment was recalled to Kentucky to chase Gen. Morgan. Rankin's company and other elements of the regiment followed Morgan to the Ohio River at Brandenburg, crossed after the Confederate raider and chased him through Indiana and Ohio. The regiment was engaged in the battle at Buffington's Island, July 20, 1863. Following Morgan's capture the regiment was furloughed home for 15 days.

The Seventh was reassembled at Stanford and moved with the intention of going to Knoxville to serve under General Burnside. It assisted in the besieging of Cumberland Gap for three days where the whole rebel garrison under Gen. Frazier surrendered with 2,000 men. The volunteers moved toward Bristol; saw action there also in the Holston valley, and skirmished a great deal around Rogersville. It fought a successful battle at Morristown, December 12, 1863.

The regiment then moved down on the French Broad River, did some skirmishing and returned to Knoxville. Later it saw action at Marysville, Tenn., but was soon removed back to Kentucky, being stationed at Paris under Gen. Stoneman.

In the meantime the dreaded Confederate, General John Hunt Morgan, had escaped the Ohio prison and with a contingent of troops entered Kentucky. June 10, the regiment had its first news of Morgan's venture, and Col. Garrard of the Seventh was ordered after him. Garrard went to Lexington and on to Paris. Rankin scouted about 16 miles toward Georgetown, met a detachment of Morgan's men, drove it back to Cynthiana. Following the Battle of Cynthiana, Morgan's men scattered, some going through Owen county. Morgan moved toward the Ohio at Claysville, turned toward Mt. Sterling and retreated through Pound Gap. The Seventh was ordered to Atlanta, reached there July 24, and reported to General Stoneman. The regiment fought throughout the siege and later at Jonesboro.

Rankin, in his remembrances of the Seventh, noted the foraging of the Union troops in the South. He wrote:
"During our campaign in Georgia we subsisted chiefly upon the country, which was gathered in by foraging parties detached for that purpose and under the command of an officer. (William Jones, in his letters to his wife, Mary, deprecated this foraging.) As a general thing, some of the parties would be skirmishing with the enemy while the remainder would be gathering forage."

The Seventh saw action in Alabama. It left Selma after a stay there of three days, marched to Columbus, Ga. It moved toward the notorious Confederate prison at Andersonville, hoping to reach it in time to release Union prisoners there. (William Jones was incarcerated at Andersonville.) Only 84 men of the regiment at Andersonville were found, the Confederates having removed the others.

Park Dedication To Have Variety Of Entertainment

For persons attending the Cumberland Gap National Historical Park Dedication July 3 and 4, Middlesboro citizens have planned a series of outstanding events.
Friday afternoon, July 3, a mammoth parade will feature more than 20 scenic and historic floats, a dozen bands, 50 horses and many other units. Following the parade, a homecoming box supper and evening full of entertainment is planned and will include variety shows, band concerts, square dancing and a teenagers' dance—all at different locations in the city.
One of the most spectacular dedication displays will be flags of all 49 states forming a background for the official dedication. The 49-star flag will be shown.
A gigantic fireworks display the night of July 4 will conclude Middlesboro's activities in connection with the dedication.

Residents of the Kentucky city have been planning for six months the entertainment and festivities during dedication week-end. They joined other tri-state park enthusiasts in February to extend a personal invitation to President Eisenhower to deliver the dedication address.

Plans for the establishment of the park date back more than 35 years. It was then a few people in the area first explored the possibility of designating Cumberland Gap a national shrine to preserve the memory of heroic pioneers who passed through the Gap along Wilderness Road to settle the great Northwest.

The dreams, plans, and work will be culminated by the July 4 dedication at Cumberland Gap, and Middlesboro residents, proud of the city's dramatic history, oldest golf course and Coal House, will be hosts for visitors to the nation's newest and largest historical park.

JOHN C. C. MAYO INSPECTS THE FAMOUS JENKINS COAL SEAM

John C. C. Mayo, Big Sandy industrialist, led a group of Northern capitalists into the Big Sandy valley a few years previous to the turn of the nineteenth century to inspect the vast undeveloped coal reserves of the region. One of the coal seams examined by them was the Jenkins seam, later mined by the Consolidation Coal Company. It was discovered by Capt. Charles M. Broas in 1883.

Mayo is shown sitting at the left with a cigar. The man on muleback demonstrates the height of the coal seam by holding a cane overhead. The man in the black coat at the extreme left was a Mr. Williams, of New York City.

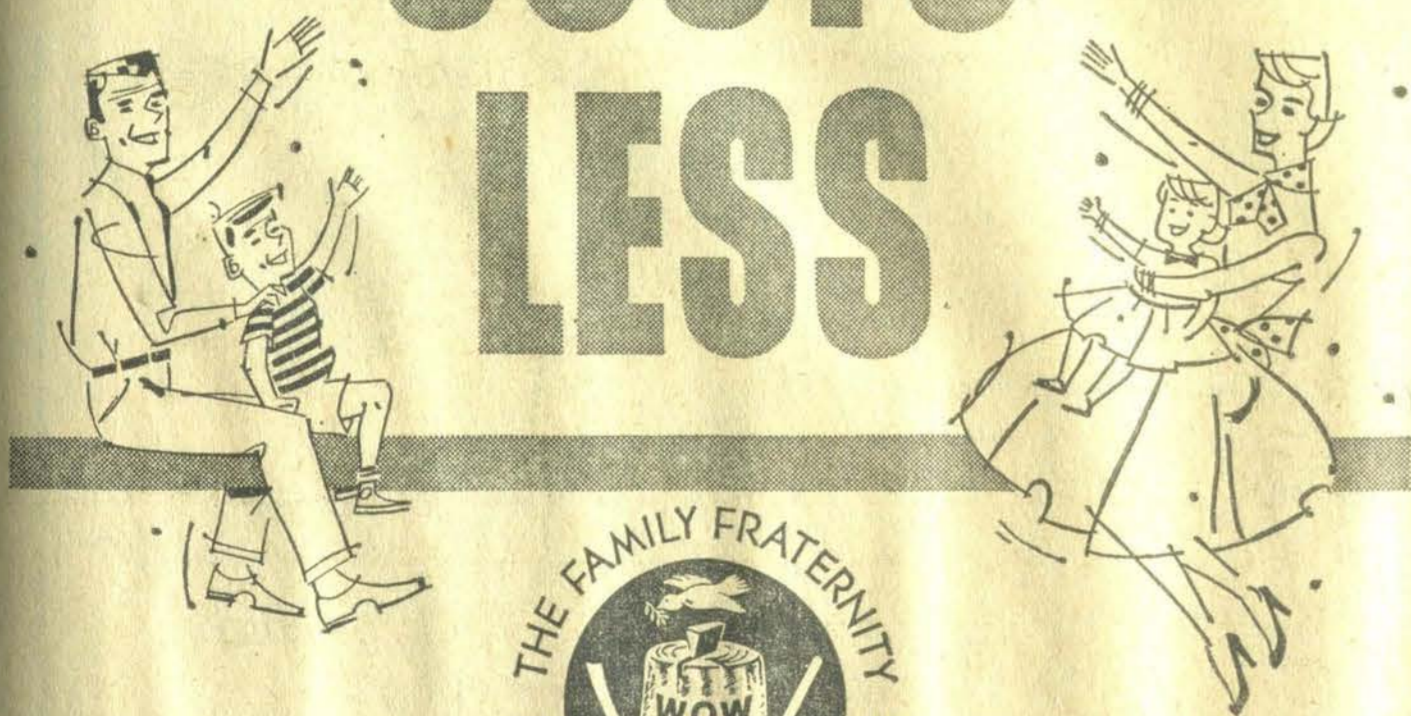

Mayo's promotion brought abundant wealth to Eastern Kentucky. Jenkins is but one of the Eastern Kentucky towns that owes its existence to the dream of Mayo and those he interested in Eastern Kentucky development.

The First National Bank, organized in 1904 when industrial progress was being initiated in the valley, presents these pictures of our region's past in appreciation of a rich historical heritage.

Benefit Payments Lost By Many People, Said; Thompson Gives Advice

Many persons may be losing benefit payments due to a misunderstanding of the retirement provisions of the Social Security law, Thomas B. Thompson, manager of the Pikeville Social Security office, points out.

While Social Security is a retirement system, Thompson listed the following three occasions when payment may be made even though an individual has not retired: (1) At age 72, regardless of the amount of earnings; (2) Any month between age 65, (62 for women workers) and age 72 during which a person's earnings are $100 or less; (3) Any calendar year after age 65 (62 for women workers) during which a person's earnings are less than $2,080.

Since payments can never go back more than 12 months, it is important for an individual to contact the Social Security Office as soon as any of the three occasions arise. Thompson cited one recent case handled by his office of a $4,000 benefit loss by a 76-year-old worker who had neglected to file application at age 72.

HUNT SEASON SET FOR DEER

Dewey Lake Game Refuge Opened For First Time; Archery Period Slated

A three-day gun deer hunting season for 1959, during which both bucks and does may be taken, has been set for Kentucky, including the Dewey Lake game refuge, by the Fish and Wildlife Commission. The season will open on Friday, December 4, and continue through Saturday and Sunday. The Commission, meeting at Camp Earl Wallace on Lake Cumberland, opened three new counties to deer hunting this year. They are Floyd, Harlan and Crittenden. Closed to hunters were that section of Meade county west of Highways 64 and 448 and the entire posted areas of the Beaver Creek refuge in Pulaski and McCreary counties. Only a two-day season was declared for three counties, Pulaski, McCreary and Laurel, upon recommendation of biologists stationed in those areas.

Also set was an archery season to open on October 21 and continue through November 19 in all counties where gun hunting is permitted. The Commission also voted in favor of seasons on Kentucky woodlands and military reservations, but those dates must be approved by federal authorities. Pertaining to the deer hunt these regulations were approved: When a hunter bags a deer he must cease hunting for the remainder of the season; weapons to be used are the same as for last season and a $10.50 permit for both residents and non-residents was set and the holder may either hunt by gun or by bow and arrow, but must take not more than one deer during the year. The hunter, in addition to the permit, must also have a valid hunting license. Resident landowners and resident tenants will not be required to have a hunting permit to hunt on the land on which they live during the open season, the Commission ruled.

The Commission also went on record as favoring an archery turkey season on Kentucky woodlands but final action on this proposal must be taken by federal authorities.

The squirrel season will open on August 29 and continue through November 26 (90 days). This year, there will be no split season. The bag and possession limits will remain the same as for last season, six per day or a possession limit of 12 after two or more days of hunting. Squirrel hunting will be permitted on the Ballard county refuge from August 29 through October 15. A dove season will be permitted on this area, but the dates will be set by federal authorities. The Jones-Keeney Refuge, in Caldwell county, will be open to squirrel hunters throughout the season and the first ten days of the season, beginning August 29, squirrels may be killed on the Robertson Forest in Knott and Perry counties and the Ford Tract in Clay and Leslie counties.

The open season on rabbits, quail and grouse will open November 20 and continue through January 18, and the bag limits for all species remain unchanged. The bag limit for rabbits is eight per day; for quail, 10 per day; for grouse, two per day. Possession limits after two or more days of hunting will be double the bag limits for these three species.

Conservation Club Camps Open June 1; Curriculum Varied At Camp Wallace

Kentucky's giant Junior Conservation Club camps, located at Lake Cumberland and Kentucky Lake, are open for business and business is fine. The business at these camps is teaching youngsters of Kentucky to be better sportsmen, to take care of themselves in the fields and on the waters, and to protect the fish and wildlife resources of their State.

The camps opened their doors June 1. During the first week, more than 200 boys from the Fifth Wildlife District attended Camp Wallace for five days. They were herded from one lesson to another; protected while at work and on the playground and fed royally in the huge dining room. This 200 plus figure will be repeated for 11 weeks at which time this camp closes for the year.

Camp Currie, on Big Bear Creek at Kentucky Lake, was the gathering place for more than 150 girls who are members of Junior Conservation Clubs. The second week also will be devoted to girls and after that boys will take over for nine weeks.

A trip to the camp is a reward to the youngsters for excellence in the Junior Conservation Club work during the school year. More than 850 such clubs are scattered across Kentucky and in cooperation with the school officials, youngsters are taught conservation lessons in the classrooms. To qualify for a camp trip, the boys and girls must pass certain requirements; must have good attendance in classes and must be interested in conservation work. All camp facilities are offered. Senior clubs in various areas, which sponsor these clubs, foot the bill for transportation to and from the camp.

It's a bit early now to hazard a guess as to the number of boys and girls who will attend these camps this summer, but officers of the Junior Club program would not be surprised if as many as 5,000 will have enrolled by the end of the camping season.

TELEPHONES ARE FOR SHARING! And June's the time to share all kinds of news and happiness. Graduation, wedding, new babies... all these happy moments are even happier when two people get together on the phone. And here's a happy thought: when you share news by Long Distance, it costs very little. Costs even less when you call station-to-station, with extra bargains after 6 P.M. and on Sundays. So why not call someone special?

THE GIRL who married dear old dad has just had her "day" and now it's almost time for dear old dad himself. Father's Day, in case it's slipped your mind, is Sunday, June 21. If you're like a lot of people, you sometimes run out of ideas as to what to give him. Well, here's a thought. Why not give dad something that'll bring him pleasure all year long? An Extension phone of his very own right where he wants it. By his bed, in his den or perhaps his workshop. There's a wide choice of colors to match any room. And extension phones cost only pennies a day.

IF DAD'S AWAY why not give him a Long Distance call on Father's Day? He'll feel mighty good to know you're thinking of him. Nice thing is, bargain rates are in effect all day Sunday.

FLAGMAKERS' HEADACHE! I don't think I'd care to be a flagmaker these days. No sooner does Alaska change our flag, than along comes Hawaii! However, 50 stars won't become official until the Fourth of July following the admission of Hawaii as a state. Meantime, flagmakers hope the switch won't come until July 4, 1960, giving the industry a year to dispose of quite a few out-moded flags! You see, no U. S. flag is ever legally outdated. Forty-eight-star, forty-nine-star, even Civil War flags can be flown until they wear out.

It's a dear bargain to buy insurance from the "sell 'em and forget 'em" agent who doesn't bother keeping a professional eye on your constantly changing insurance requirements.

We have a hunch you'd rather BUY FROM AN AGENT who takes a personal interest in you and your family, who takes the time to review your needs periodically so that you never have too little—or too much—insurance.

That's how this Agency conducts its business.

But merely for the sake of argument, suppose you do save a few dollars on a time-consuming trip many miles from home. And suppose you don't even count the cost of gasoline and oil, car wear, parking fees, etc. Forget, too, if you like, the hazards of driving in today's heavy highway and city traffic.

But don't overlook these things: What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes—no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Why drive scores of miles looking for trouble? Shop right around the corner and be safe and satisfied.

Following minor fighting at Columbus, the men of the Seventh Ohio Volunteer Cavalry learned of Lee's surrender at Appomattox. Scouts of the regiment tried vainly to capture President Jefferson Davis of the Confederacy who was fleeing southward but this honor went to the First Wisconsin and Second Michigan. The Seventh did guard the defeated Southern President on the way to Augusta, Ga.

The regiment was discharged at Nashville, Tenn., July 4, 1865, returned to Cincinnati by way of Louisville. From that Ohio city the men separated, going to their homes.

Pvt. William Jones, later Corporal, the Kentuckian who served in the Seventh, resided in the state following the war, engaged in farming until his death. His letters, preserved by his wife, Mary, are an interesting commentary on the life of a common Union soldier. The horror of Andersonville remained with him all his life.
