QUESTION

Do boys still save sore toes? I haven't seen a properly swathed toe in years. Apparently they've quit wearing a tow-string soaked in turpentine around the toe to cure the toe-itch. Have a care there, fellows, or one of the great facts of medical science will be lost to posterity.

WARNING

All birds, spacemen and the like are hereby notified that it isn't safe to sail straight on into our office. We've only had the windows washed. . . And will the exterminators please stand by? I've cleaned this office desk, and the termites may discover it's made of wood, after all.

TIMES CHANGE

Speaking of ailments common to boys of the Golden Age, what has become of the old-fashioned stone-bruise? That wasn't an ailment; brother, it was a malady. It seems to have given way, these days, to contusions and lacerations received in car wrecks.

A SALUTE TO THE DESERVING

Two Floyd county doctors, A. J. Davidson and M. V. Wicker, recently received well-deserved honors. This week, the county lost in the death of Dr. W. D. Osborne, of Bypro, another of that heroic breed of medical men who look on every human being as another life to help in time of need, men who give, in service and compassion, more than those about them ever comprehend. . . We have never fully expressed our regard for faithful doctors, perhaps never shall, because we doubt our ability to say it, but doctors who have such genuine concern for the unfortunate must indeed possess in some degree the spirit of the Great Physician.

DEATH CLAIMS DOCTOR WHO NEVER SENT BILL

Dr. William Dewey Osborne, of Bypro, who for 35 years was a physician in the Left Beaver Creek section of this county, died Monday at St. Joseph's Infirmary, Louisville, victim of a coronary occlusion after months of suffering from heart disease. He was 61 years old. He was graduated in 1924 from the University of Louisville School of Medicine, and since that time had practiced his profession in the upper Left Beaver area. It was said of Dr. Osborne that he never sent a bill to a patient or turned one away for lack of money.

He was reared at Martin by his mother, Mary Jane, and his step-father, W. S. Frazier. He attended the public schools of the county, including the old "subscription" schools, and received high school and teacher training at Mayo College, Paintsville, and the Kentucky Normal College, Louisa. After his graduation from normal school he taught for one year, then entered the University of Louisville for pre-medical study, a work which was interrupted by World War I service.

During his study of medicine he worked during school vacation in Floyd county mines and with railroad construction gangs to earn money to help meet the expenses of his education. It is said that he entered

SCHOOLS HEAD PAY AFFECTED BY NEW LIMIT

Decision Sets Pay Back To $7,200 After Present Contracts Expired

The County Superintendent's is the only Floyd county official's salary that will be affected by last week's Court of Appeals ruling holding that the constitutional limit of $7,200 a year must be applied to all public officers and public "employees," including those of the common school system.

The court ruling will not affect any official until the end of his or her present term of contract.

Aside from its impact upon the common-school system, the decision seems to require:

1. Immediate reduction to $12,000 a year the salary of every officer being paid more than that limit in public higher education.

2. Reduction to $7,200 a year, at the end of present contracts, of the salaries of such employees as City managers, City consultants, City-owned utility systems, directors of sanitation districts, and health officers.

3. Reduction to $12,000 a year at the end of present contracts, of the salaries of such employees as manager of the State Fair and Exposition Center, dean of the Albert B. Chandler Medical Center at the University of Kentucky, and all other employees in public higher education receiving more than $12,000.

To do these things, the high court reversed itself in every old opinion holding to the contrary. It also declared as unconstitutional every section of statutory law in conflict.

Broadly, what the court did was to bring public salaries in Kentucky into absolute compliance with the letter, as well as the spirit, of Section 246 of the state Constitution. The pertinent points in that section are:

"No public officer or employee except the governor shall receive as compensation per annum for official services . . . any amount in excess of the following sums:

Officers whose jurisdiction or duties are coextensive with the Commonwealth, the mayor of any city of the first class, and judges — See Story No. 7, Page 5 —

Judge Stumbo Is Named Rescue Group Director; Tennessee Man Nominates

County Judge Henry Stumbo has been named Kentucky director of the International Rescue and First-Aid Association by Conrad H. Kreyling, River Edge, N. J., Association president.

Judge Stumbo, who is one of the original members of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad, may have been nominated for the post by Paul Midkiff, Greeneville, Tenn., the first to serve the international organization as vice-president. Mr. Midkiff worked here with Tennessee rescue groups during the search for bodies following the Floyd county school bus disaster.

Justice Is Appointed To Air Force Academy

Bill Henry Justice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Justice, of Cliff, has been appointed to the Air Force Academy.

Mr. Justice is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school, where he was an honor student. He was president of the Science Club and the student council, and took part in many other extracurricular activities. He received a scholarship from the University of Kentucky but will decline it in order to accept the Academy appointment.

Justice was nominated for the Academy by Congressman Carl D. Perkins and received the appointment on a competitive basis. Among 20,000 seniors tested on college entrance exams, Justice ranked in the top 15% in the nation.

His studies at the Academy will begin Friday of this week.

COAL FIRMS ASK DAMAGES

East Kentucky Operators Sue UMW For $4,000,000 In U.S. District Court

Nine Eastern Kentucky coal companies filed suits Tuesday against the United Mine Workers union seeking more than $4,000,000 in damages. The suits were filed at Lexington in the Federal District court.

The suits were similar to three filed at Knoxville, Tenn., Monday, by coal companies in that area. All complain that the strike in the non-union coal fields has resulted in loss of markets, profits and property damage. The Lexington suits ask $4,184,200 and the Knoxville suits seek $4,360,000 in damages.

The seven-county Eastern Kentucky strike is over union demands for a $2-a-day pay raise to $24.25 and a clause to keep non-union coal from being handled by union operations.

The largest suit, totaling more than $2,000,000, was filed by the Elkhorn Coal Company of Letcher county.

Companies, alleged grounds, and the amounts asked:

Camp Fork Coal Company, Letcher county, $50,000 for business loss and $50,000 in punitive damages. Blackey Gem Coal Company, Letcher county, $50,000 for business loss, $5,200 for property damage, and $50,000 punitive damages.

R. P. Price, C. H. Kelly, and Pol-lace Fields, doing business as the Elkhorn Coal Company, $750,000 for business loss, $250,000 for loss of investments and leased property, $8,000 property damage, and $1,000,000 punitive damages.

Kodak Coal Company, Perry county, $300,000 business loss and $300,000 punitive damages.

Flame Coal Company, Letcher county, $5,000 damage to railroad facilities, $6,000 for extra guards employed, $250,000 for business loss, and $250,000 punitive damages.

Co-Dee Coal Company, Letcher county, $50,000 business loss and $50,000 punitive damages.

Amanda Coal Company, Letcher county, $50,000 business loss and $50,000 punitive damages.

Gen Elkhorn Coal Company, Letcher county, $30,000 for loss of business and $30,000 punitive damages.

K & F Coal Company, Letcher county, $300,000 for loss of business and $300,000 punitive damages.

The suits charged the U.M.W. caused interference with operations, trespassing, and intimidation of non-union employees.

LIVESTOCK TOUR CANCELLED

The proposed tour of Floyd county farms by the Floyd County Livestock Improvement Association scheduled for Saturday will not be held, it was said by Robert Jones, county agent. Deferment of the tour was made due to the death of former county agent Ova Ellis Boggs.

TELEPHONE FIRM GETS LOAN TO WIDEN FIELD

A $331,000 loan to the Harold Telephone Company to enable it to provide modern telephone service to 601 new customers was granted last Thursday by the Rural Electrification Administration.

Announcement of the grant was made by Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Senators John Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Morton.

The new grant also will permit enlarging and improving of the company's building at Harold to provide headquarters facilities. The 601 new customers to be served are in the Melvin area of Left Beaver Creek.

Last week's loan brings to a total of $705,000 the capital outlay made by the company to provide modern telephone service for 1,533 rural subscribers over 177 miles of line in Floyd and Pike counties, Paul R. Gearheart, president of the company, said. Forty-nine miles of new line will be added in the Melvin area.

This wide development has sprung from a small beginning in 1954 when Mr. Gearheart purchased the Roberts-Olga Telephone Company. At that time less than 50 subscribers were served in the area from Boldman to Ivel.

Engineers for the telephone company began work on the Melvin exchange, Monday, and this facility is expected to be placed in service shortly after next January 1, Gearheart said.

COAL TESTING CITY RENEWAL LAB ASSURED PROJECT OK'D

Value of Coal As Binder To Be Assayed in Plant; Nuclear Plant Opposed

The State Highway Department has signed a contract to spend $200,000 on an extensive research program to test the value of coal as a binder material on highways, but another move to aid Kentucky coal—the plan to locate in Eastern Kentucky a nuclear-research laboratory to find new uses for the fuel—has met opposition from an Eisenhower administration spokesman.

Marling J. Ankeny, director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, voiced opposition to location of the nuclear plant in this area, contending that the project should be carried out at research stations already established elsewhere.

The State Highway research contract was announced Monday at a meeting of the Kentucky Coal Association in Lexington.

It calls for Curtiss-Wright to build and operate a pilot plant at a Kentucky site as yet undisclosed. Officials said several locations are being considered, with Frankfort the best possibility. Construction is expected to start as soon as materials arrive.

The state will build eight to 12 half-mile sections of road at various locations for testing the new binder.

Curtiss-Wright Vice-President Minard W. Stout said work on the pilot plant will begin immediately and that the coal-based binder should be in production within 60 days.

The coal binder, a liquid, is made by "digesting" jumps of bituminous coal in coal tar at high temperatures.

Stout said the binder still is in the experimental stage, but tests show it may be superior to asphalt. Kentucky is the first state to test the product.

Highway Commissioner Oates said the contract "opens a whole new world."

COAL SPOKESMEN TELL OF NEED OF RESEARCH

Coal industry spokesmen told Congress last week that a federal research and development program under an independent agency is needed to increase and stabilize markets and keep the industry ready for national emergency.

Harry LaViers, of Paintsville, chairman of the National Coal Association's Research Committee, told the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs that a proposed research program would do much to stabilize the industry under all conditions. Such a program is essential to the ability of not adequate to assure the future requirements, he said. Mr. LaViers is president of the South-East Coal Company, Paintsville.

LaViers said the present research efforts in coal by the industry, government and other sources "are not adequate to assure the future of this great industry so that the nation may have a ready supply of energy required."

Fred Bullard, of Hazard, executive secretary of the Kentucky Coal Association, said an adequate research program will play a major role in assuring a vigorous and healthy coal industry.

"Research is the key which will open the door to the increased coal production necessary for the economic stabilization of this vital industry," Mr. Bullard said. The coal spokesman testified in support of a bill to establish an independent coal research commission which would develop new coal uses, expand existing uses, reduce production and distribution costs, and stress projects of particular value to small producers. Similar legislation has been approved by a House committee and is awaiting House action.

Mr. Bullard stressed the need to place the program under an independent Coal research agency which could act speedily without clearing its actions through normal departmental channels, and would have a fresh approach to coal research.

He said that Eastern Kentucky, like many other coal mining areas, is currently suffering from heavy unemployment.

"These people do not seek government handouts," he said. "Rather, they want jobs, and jobs are available only if there is a high demand for coal. . . I dare say that an annual market demand for one hundred or two hundred million tons above present coal production would solve most of the economic problems in the nation's coal fields, but the market must be stable, he said.

WIFE SHOOTS MOUSIE MAN

Shotgun Charge Enters Body At Close Range; Slayer Suffers Shock

Mrs. Virgie Conley Hicks, 39, was jailed at Hindman late Tuesday and booked on a murder charge after she had allegedly fired a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun into the body of her husband, 40-year-old Tom Hicks, at their home on Ball Branch, near Mousie.

Sheriff Carlos Huff, of Knott county, told The Times that Hicks was shot while eating. The shotgun charge, fired at close range, almost tore Hicks in two, it was said.

Huff said Mrs. Hicks admitted the shooting but had not amplified that statement. He said she was suffering from shock. The couple had been having trouble, the sheriff said, and Hicks had been away from home a few days. It was soon after his return, Huff said, that the shooting took place.

The charge entered his body beneath the left arm. He pitched forward and dragged himself almost to a bed before dying, it was learned.

The Hickses have four children. A former employee of the Ford Motor Company in Detroit, he had been unemployed for some time as the result of disability. The family experienced an earlier tragedy, a few years ago, when one child was killed, another seriously hurt and others suffered injuries in lesser degree when their auto wrecked as they were driving between Knott county and Michigan.

GUNMAN FIRES ON REED AUTO

Policeman's Car Hit By Missile At Martin; Windshield Penetrated

Flying glass caused minor facial injuries to Policeman A. J. Reed, of Martin, as a shot was fired by an unseen gunman through the windshield of the town's police cruiser early Wednesday morning.

Reed was unable to say if the windshield was penetrated by a heavy-calibre bullet or by a shotgun slug. Whatever the missile was, it entered the passing car at an angle which routed it out an open side window. Search of the vicinity failed to uncover either the missile or an empty cartridge case.

The officer said he was driving at a point a few yards above the railroad crossing of Ky. 80 in Martin about 3 a.m., when the shot was fired. He said he jumped on the brakes and quickly rolled from the seat but caught no sight of the person who fired the shot.

Reed said the shot was apparently fired from the nearby railroad tracks or from a county road along the hillside.

It was the second night attack in the county in 10 days. The first saw the dynamiting of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeRossett on Bull Creek and the blasting of the auto of their daughter, Mrs. Clarence Weldon, of Frankfort. Interior of the home was reduced to shambles.

State Police and the Sheriff's office here continued their investigation of the dynamiting this week but said there are no new developments in the case. A reward of $1,200 has been posted for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the two blasts.

An 18-year-old youth was jailed here Tuesday by state police and held in the investigation of the recent slugging of Cecil Clark, driver for Shurtleff's Laundry, Pikeville. Clark said Wednesday morning that the prisoner is not the youth who struck him but that he believes he is one of the two hitchhikers he picked up at Hi Hat, a few minutes prior to the attack. One of the two suddenly threw an arm around the driver's neck and struck him over his eye with a metallic object, inflicting a deep cut, it was said.

Clark said he jumped on the brakes when he was hit, throwing the two passengers off balance and permitting him to get outside the truck. A man in a nearby field called to inquire what was the trouble, and the two fled.

Others jailed within the week and charges on which they were booked:

Jim Miller, possessing liquor and carrying a concealed deadly weapon; Arthur Dudley, possessing beer; Silas Akers, possessing squirrels out of season; Dallas Prater, drunk driving.

Two $30 fines and two 60-day jail terms were imposed on Opal Marshall upon her conviction this week on a charge of possessing whiskey for sale.

First Scout Registers At Camp Chatterawha

Susan Hall, 11-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Hall, Paintsville, was the first Girl Scout to register for the sixth season at Camp Chatterawha.

Susan will join with 47 other Girl Scouts for the first session which will begin Sunday. The second session will open July 12.

DOG WARDEN PLANS DRIVE

Agreement Is Reached With City Council Here On Stray Dog Problem

Roy Cook, Floyd dog warden, announced Monday that an agreement has been reached with the Prestonsburg City Council which will result in an intensive drive here on stray dogs.

Five hundred city dog tags will be issued Mr. Cook, and the owner of each untagged dog will be required to buy a tag if he is to keep his dog. The tag will cost $1.50. Kentucky law provides, it is explained, that each incorporated community may issue its own tags and that such licensing of dogs complies with the state dog law.

All dogs that have not been immunized against rabies also will be required to have anti-rabies "shots," Cook said. The cost of this service also will be $1.50.

The dog roundup will begin at Lancer, July 1.

"I will have help, and nobody will be skipped for any reason," the dog warden said. He may be contacted by telephone during his work here through the police station. Various sections of Prestonsburg will be worked according to the demand for the service.

Auto Safety Check Sponsored By Legion; Work Is Without Cost

A motor vehicle safety check will be made here, beginning next Monday and continuing for a week, under auspices of Floyd Post, American Legion.

The check will be made in cooperation with the National Safety Council, and will be made on all vehicles whose owners voluntarily submit them for inspection. Ten points on each vehicle will be checked.

Local garages will supply mechanics for the work, without charge, and will also contribute safety kits to be used at each check-point.

MAGISTRATE SALARY PAY IS APPROVED

Appellate Court Holds 1958 Act Valid; Floyd Squires Ready To Work

The 1958 act of the Legislature providing salaries for magistrates of Kentucky counties who actually sit as trial judges in criminal cases was upheld Friday by the Court of Appeals, and Floyd county's four magistrates are ready to preside in such trials.

Since their participation in trials as free-paid officials has been held illegal and while they awaited an Appellate Court ruling on validity of their acting as trial judges as salary-paid officials, magistrates in this county have done little criminal work, and most warrants have been issued from the County Judge's office.

Magistrate Johnny Caudill said, however, he had never refused to issue a warrant except on one occasion and that that was when an affidavit for a search warrant was produced.

With most of the work centering in the County Judge's office, a trial judge was employed, several months ago, to assist Judge Henry Stumbo. Former Magistrate Glenn C. Burchett holds this post.

Soon after the 1958 General Assembly enacted legislation providing salaries for magistrates acting as trial judges of criminal cases, the Floyd fiscal court voted salaries of $200 a month for each magistrate, subject to Appellate Court approval of the legislation. — See Story No. 3, Page 4 —

KING WANTS SHRUBS THIEF

Cemetery Plants Stolen At Ivel; Reward Offered By Manager For Arrest

W. O. King, manager of the Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel offered a $50 reward this week for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the theft of shrubs from the cemetery.

King, in commenting on the theft of shrubs, said that expensive and rare plants were being taken, among them azaleas and others. One group of plants taken is a rare shrub set out for its winter beauty as it bears red berries then. There are no other plants of this kind in this area, King said. He said that the thief could not have any success with transplanting them at this time of year.

"People do not have to steal this shrub to get some of them," King told The Times. "If any interested person will come to me I will order any kind of these rare ones for them at wholesale prices. I will not only do that but advise on the planting problems so as to insure liveability," he added.

The Davidson Memorial Religious Gardens, the first cemetery promotion of its kind in this area, is located on U.S. Highway 23 north of Ivel. It was opened to the public under the new management two years ago.

BOGGS VICTIM OF HURTS SUFFERED IN COLLISION

Ova Ellis Boggs, of Morehead, district supervisor of the rural development program of the Kentucky Extension Service, and former Floyd county agricultural agent, died Wednesday morning at a Paintsville hospital of injuries sustained in an auto-truck collision near Paintsville, 24 hours earlier. He was 32 years old.

Unconscious and in serious condition is County Agent Claude Christian, of Johnson county, who was driving the auto in which Mr. Boggs was a passenger.

Christian's auto was hit on the Dan Davis curve, on U.S. 460, about two miles north of Paintsville, when a trailer-truck of the Diamond Furniture Company, Atlanta, Ga., jack-knifed. The car was almost demolished but the truck driver escaped injury. No charge was placed against him.

Mr. Boggs suffered a punctured kidney, fractures of both arms and a leg. Christian's skull was fractured but there was slight improvement noted in his condition Wednesday morning.

Mr. Boggs, who was a native of Lawrence county, came here as Floyd county agent in 1953. Establishing an outstanding record in leadership and farm resources development, he was promoted in 1957 to the rural development post. He is survived by his wife and four children. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Happy man that I am!
I haven't caught a fish all year long that I considered worth bringing home, but it may be that what I'm looking for is a fish I can brag about.

I have sunk so low that I in an unguarded moment turned to golf.

If a fellow-angler calls me, I am so blue I immediately sing out, "No lies today, please."

I have quit reading the magazines that tell those big lies about where the fishing is good.

I have lost a rod and reel and haven't offered a reward yet.

I doubt if I will ever catch a fish so big that I will not have to stretch it ("lie about it," might be the more accurate expression).

Am I discouraged?
Oh, happy man that I am!

The $200-a-month pay dates back to April, 1958, and, although the magistrates have not heard any criminal cases, a total of $12,000 has been held in reserve from the county budget to pay them this salary for each of the months from April 1958 to June 30, this year.

Court terms set by the county's four magistrates are staggered, the Magistrate in District 1 scheduling trials for the first Saturday in each month, the Magistrate in District 2 for the second Saturday, and so on.

The high court split 5 to 1 in upholding constitutionality of the 1958 Magistrates Salary Act. Judge Robert B. Bird did not sit in the case because a relative is a member of Whitley county fiscal court.

Judge Amos Eblen dissented, but did not immediately provide an opinion explaining his dissent.

The issue arose from a 1956 Court of Appeals decision that justices of the peace could not try criminal cases because they were compensated from fees exacted upon conviction.

The Court ruled at that time that the fee system of paying magistrates violated the constitutional rights of persons being tried because the justices of the peace had a financial interest in a conviction.

The 1958 Legislature thereupon passed a law authorizing fiscal courts to pay magistrates salaries for the performance of duties in trying criminal cases.

On April 2, 1958, shortly after the Legislature adjourned, Letcher county's magistrates voted themselves $200-a-month salaries. The following day, Muhlenberg county's fiscal court voted $200 monthly salaries to all magistrates. Four days later, Harlan's magistrates voted themselves salaries of $250 a month.

On May 23, 1958, Warren county's fiscal court voted $200 a month to only one magistrate, directed him to maintain an office, and ordered him to be on duty daily to try criminal cases.

Other fiscal courts followed these leaders, but the lawsuits decided Friday were filed only against actions of the fiscal courts in Harlan, Muhlenberg and Warren.

The decision, however, affects all such salary actions by Kentucky fiscal courts.

The appellate court ruled in three cases that:

1. Action of the Harlan and Muhlenberg fiscal courts was invalid.
2. Action of the Warren fiscal court was legal and proper.

The three lawsuits charged the 1958 Magistrates' Salary Act was compensation for public officials during the term for which they were elected.

But the Court of Appeals said no, the 1958 act merely fixed a salary scale for magistrates where none had existed before.

The court's opinion, written by Chief Justice Morris Montgomery, said the purpose of the constitutional provision was to "make the officer independent of the Legislature, and to prevent appeals by officers to the Legislature to increase their salaries during the terms for which they were elected."

"The statute under consideration was not enacted to increase or decrease an existing method of compensation, but was enacted to fulfill a need judicially recognized in Roberts vs. Noel (the 1956 decision forbidding magistrates to try criminal cases for fees.)"

It was also argued that the 1956 appellate decision deprived justices of the peace of their jurisdiction to try criminal cases.

"It is the view of the court that the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace was unaffected by the decision in Roberts vs. Noel; that the jurisdiction continued; that the duty to try criminal cases was a continuing duty rather than a new one; that the justice was under a personal disqualification which might be raised by proper objection, and that the effect of the decision was to hold unconstitutional so much of the statute that authorized compensation by fees for trying criminal cases..."

"From this, the conclusion is that the jurisdiction and duty of justices of the peace entering upon the performance of their duties on the first Monday in January, 1958, were so empowered, subject to a personal disqualification because of the lack of a proper method of compensation."

"It was to remove this disqualification that (the 1959 Magistrates' Salary Act) was enacted."

The 1958 act authorized payments to magistrates of not more than $100 a month in counties whose population is 30,000 or less; not more than $200 in counties whose population is between 30,000 and 60,000, and not more than $300 monthly in counties with populations of from 60,000 to 250,000.

190 new meters of the 5-cent and 10-cent pay type, parking meter income here last month was $875.11. To this would be added the income of the meters to be installed in the areas to be created under the program.

Using its calculations on the parking meter income for last month, Charles A. Hirsch & Co., the city's fiscal agent, estimates that with the new meters added in the new areas the meters will produce an annual income of $13,530—slightly more than 1½ times the amount necessary to retire the bonds over a 20-year period.

new vista and can serve the dual purpose of better roads for our state and a return to prosperity for our coal-producing areas."

The commissioner also said tests indicate the new binder "will sharply reduce our road-maintenance costs and give us safer highways."

"We are very anxious to get our test strips installed to determine, in actual use, their resistance to the conditions that cause road-maintenance problems in Kentucky."

The pilot plant will produce 3,000 gallons of binder a day and Curtiss-Wright engineers will work with the Highway Department in picking test sites and in evaluating results.

The coal binder process uses from 2,000 to 2,200 tons of coal for each mile of surfacing.

Opposition of Ankeny to the nuclear-research station for Eastern Kentucky came at a Senate interior sub-committee hearing on a bill introduced by Kentucky Senators Cooper and Morton to establish the station at a construction cost of $2,500,000 and an operation cost of $1,000,000 a year.

One of the witnesses favoring the bill was Robert H. Solomons, coordinator of nuclear-energy activities for Kentucky.

Solomons said that, while the laboratory would help the entire nation, it would certainly help Kentucky.

"Within the coal regions of Eastern Kentucky, there is privation of the kind seldom seen in this prosperous nation of ours," he said.

"There is unemployment. There is continual unrest, murder, and the sickening evidence of a defeated people."

"Kentucky's economy is inexorably linked to the economy of the coal industry as in the economy of many other states, but it is much more than an industry and regional sociological problem."

"It is, too, a matter of the most intelligent utilization and conservation of what is perhaps the nation's No. 1 source of energy."

Other witnesses included Cooper, John E. Whisman, executive director of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission; R. C. Ernst, chairman of the Kentucky advisory committee on nuclear energy; and B. F. Reed, chairman of the East Kentucky Regional Development Commission.

and commissioners of the Court of Appeals, $12,000; circuit judges, $8,400; all other public officers, $7,200 . . .

Ten years ago the Court of Appeals ruled that the phrase, "or employee," had no significance in the meaning of Section 246. This had the effect of removing employees from the various salary limits.

But now the court has reversed that ruling. Henceforth, it ruled, a public "employee" is bound by Section 246, precisely as public "officers" is bound.

The case in issue before the high court was from Graves county. It involved the triple salary paid to James B. Dewese, as superintendent of County schools.

His $10,600-a-year total had comprised these sub-totals: $7,000 as superintendent; $600 for expenses, and $3,000 as secretary of the Board of Education.

This arrangement is wide-spread in Kentucky's common school system. It was based upon this primary assumption:

A superintendent of schools is a state officer. Hence he is not bound by the $7,200 limit for local officers, but by the $12,000 set for State officers.

That primary assumption, in turn, had been based on an old decision of the Court of Appeals holding a school superintendent to be a "State officer."

Even so, declared the high court Friday, the jurisdiction or duties of a school superintendent are not "coextensive with the Commonwealth," as required by Section 246.

Thus, the court concluded, the superintendent is a local officer within the meaning of Section 246. Hence he falls clearly within the $7,200 limit set for "all others."

There are 59 superintendents in the common-school system drawing more than the limit of $7,200. Also above the limit are innumerable assistant superintendents, principals, and supervisors. The exact number could not be obtained at once.

Ten of these superintendents are under straight contract with their boards, under the now voided theory that they are "employees," rather than "officers." The remaining 49 exceed $7,200 a year by drawing salaries of their boards of education, in addition to their salaries as superintendents.

From this situation the high court evolved two of its far-reaching points. As to the validity of present contracts exceeding the limit in section 246, the court held:

Present contracts are valid until expiration, if they are held by an "employee," are for a specified term of years at a specified salary, are written, and cannot be terminated by the employer. But, if went on, contracts made hereafter cannot exceed the limits.

This part of the decision seems to nullify at once the 10 contracts in excess of $7,200 a year held by school superintendents. They are defined as public officers with local duties and jurisdiction, and the state cannot enter into a contract with an "officer," as it can with an "employee."

Secondly, as to superintendents drawing extra pay as secretaries of their boards of education, the court held:

As superintendent he is an "officer." As secretary of the board he is an "employee." In both capacities he is limited to $7,200 a year by Section 246. But the old rule of law shall apply, namely: his combined salary must not exceed the limit allowed by the highest-paying single position.

Thus, the superintendent is pegged to $7,200 a year. As the court put it, "Our conclusion is that the maximum compensation allowable for the office of school superintendent is $7,200 per annum."

The 10 under straight contract with their boards as "employees" are the systems of:

Bowling Green, $10,500; Covington, $11,000; Fort Thomas, $9,600; Harlan, $8,000; Lynch, $8,000; Carter county, $12,000; Fayette county, $10,800; Greenup county, $8,000; Harlan county, $12,000; and Jefferson county, $12,000.

But now the court has reversed that ruling. Henceforth, it ruled, a public "employee" is bound by Section 246, precisely as public "officers" is bound.

The case in issue before the high court was from Graves county. It involved the triple salary paid to James B. Dewese, as superintendent of County schools.

His $10,600-a-year total had comprised these sub-totals: $7,000 as superintendent; $600 for expenses, and $3,000 as secretary of the Board of Education.

This arrangement is wide-spread in Kentucky's common school system. It was based upon this primary assumption:

A superintendent of schools is a state officer. Hence he is not bound by the $7,200 limit for local officers, but by the $12,000 set for State officers.

That primary assumption, in turn, had been based on an old decision of the Court of Appeals holding a school superintendent to be a "State officer."

Even so, declared the high court Friday, the jurisdiction or duties of a school superintendent are not "coextensive with the Commonwealth," as required by Section 246.

Thus, the court concluded, the superintendent is a local officer within the meaning of Section 246. Hence he falls clearly within the $7,200 limit set for "all others."

There are 59 superintendents in the common-school system drawing more than the limit of $7,200. Also above the limit are innumerable assistant superintendents, principals, and supervisors. The exact number could not be obtained at once.

Ten of these superintendents are under straight contract with their boards, under the now voided theory that they are "employees," rather than "officers." The remaining 49 exceed $7,200 a year by drawing salaries of their boards of education, in addition to their salaries as superintendents.

From this situation the high court evolved two of its far-reaching points. As to the validity of present contracts exceeding the limit in section 246, the court held:

Present contracts are valid until expiration, if they are held by an "employee," are for a specified term of years at a specified salary, are written, and cannot be terminated by the employer. But, if went on, contracts made hereafter cannot exceed the limits.

This part of the decision seems to nullify at once the 10 contracts in excess of $7,200 a year held by school superintendents. They are defined as public officers with local duties and jurisdiction, and the state cannot enter into a contract with an "officer," as it can with an "employee."

Secondly, as to superintendents drawing extra pay as secretaries of their boards of education, the court held:

As superintendent he is an "officer." As secretary of the board he is an "employee." In both capacities he is limited to $7,200 a year by Section 246. But the old rule of law shall apply, namely: his combined salary must not exceed the limit allowed by the highest-paying single position.

Thus, the superintendent is pegged to $7,200 a year. As the court put it, "Our conclusion is that the maximum compensation allowable for the office of school superintendent is $7,200 per annum."

The 10 under straight contract with their boards as "employees" are the systems of:

Bowling Green, $10,500; Covington, $11,000; Fort Thomas, $9,600; Harlan, $8,000; Lynch, $8,000; Carter county, $12,000; Fayette county, $10,800; Greenup county, $8,000; Harlan county, $12,000; and Jefferson county, $12,000.

Those whose salary is a combination of pay as superintendent and secretary of the board are in the systems of:

Ashland, $9,600; Bardstown, $9,200; Campbellsville, $8,700; Corbin, $8,987; Danville, $8,800; Elizabethtown, $9,400; Frankfort, $9,800; Glasgow, $7,500; Hopkinsville, $7,600; Lexington, $9,300; Murray, $7,500; Newport, $10,800; Owensboro, $10,200; Paducah, $10,700; Pikeville, $7,500; Richmond, $7,500; Russell, $8,400; Russellville, $7,900; Somerset, $7,800.

And the county systems of: Adair, $9,300; Barren, $7,500; Bell, $8,400; Bourbon, $7,500; Breathitt, $8,400; Campbell, $7,400; Daviess, $8,500; Elliott, $7,800; Estill, $9,000; Fleming, $7,228; Floyd, $10,200; Franklin, $9,300; Gallatin, $8,000; Garrard, $7,334; Hardin, $10,800; Hopkins, $8,500; Kenton, $8,400; Knott, $8,400; Lawrence, $8,000; Letcher, $7,700; Logan, $7,800; Marion, $9,000; McCracken, $9,093; Marshall, $7,400; Nelson, $8,500; Oldham, $8,100; Pike, $11,949; Simpson, $8,300; Taylor, $8,400, and Union, $8,400.

and commissioners of the Court of Appeals, $12,000; circuit judges, $8,400; all other public officers, $7,200 . . .

Ten years ago the Court of Appeals ruled that the phrase, "or employee," had no significance in the meaning of Section 246. This had the effect of removing employees from the various salary limits.

But now the court has reversed that ruling. Henceforth, it ruled, a public "employee" is bound by Section 246,

LET'S GO! It's that time of year again. Everybody getting set for well earned vacations! Whatever you plan to do, here's something to help smooth out any kinks in vacation plans. Long Distance. For instance, why not phone ahead to make sure of accommodations? No fun to be on the road watching the "no vacancy" signs roll by! Then, too, calling ahead to plan get-togethers with old friends is a lot of fun. And, naturally, you'll want to check in with the office or possibly home to make sure everything's O.K. while you're gone. For all this help to make a vacation happier, you pay very little. Remember, Long Distance costs less when you call station-to-station with extra bargains after 6 P.M. and on Sundays.

HINT FOR A HAPPY ENDING. If you're like me, you're already making plans for a big Fourth of July. But all too often the fifth of July isn't such a happy day. So I'd like to put in my two cents worth about safety during this big holiday weekend. Play it safe... swimming, boating, or driving along the highway. And here's a thoughtful thing to do... call friends or family by Long Distance to let them know you got there safely. It means so much to keep in touch... particularly on the Fourth.

We take this opportunity to offer our belated thanks to our many friends for their wonderful consideration, sympathy and kindness extended to us during the illness and upon the death of our beloved husband, father and grandfather, Paul Cecil Hayes, of Martin. We honor and revere his memory, and we deeply appreciate the many friends who came from far and near to console us. The tokens of flowers, food, telegrams, cards, visits and prayers will never be forgotten. We extend a special vote of thanks and appreciation to the many doctors, nurses, ministers and all their assistants, who fought long and valiantly to lengthen his stay upon this earth. But God took him, and we are grateful for having had him for many years. We commend the Turner-Ryan Funeral Home for its efficient and beautiful services. We are grateful for the lovely music, songs and prayers offered by grieving friends and relatives. CONCRETE can save Kentucky $20,200,000

on its new Interstate Highways in 20 years!

A study of Highway Department records for the heaviest traveled roads built in Kentucky since 1936 proves concrete costs 75% less for upkeep than asphalt.

The same rate of savings can be applied to our state's new Interstate Highways. In 20 years concrete can save $31,600 per four-lane mile, or a grand total of $20,200,000 on the System's entire 640 miles.

Remember, too, while the Federal Government pays 90% of the original construction cost, it does not pay one single penny for upkeep. You pay it—along with all the other Kentucky drivers. The money comes from the state road fund that is financed by the tax on every gallon of gasoline you buy.

That's why concrete's true economy and quality are so important—why every mile of Kentucky's Interstate System should be paved with modern concrete.

Judge R. E. Stanley was born in the Cranes Nest River section of Wise county, Virginia, Feb. 26, 1865, and moved to Floyd county, Kentucky, in 1871, when he was 16 years of age. The family settled at the mouth of Big Mud Creek.

Stanley, early in life, manifested superior business acumen and engaged successfully in real estate, livestock buying and farming. He was for many years a favorite of the electorate, serving Floyd county as Justice of the Peace, County Judge and High Sheriff. He was known affectionately to his many friends as "Judge Bob."

Judge Stanley, remembering the difficult times of his early youth, sought to assist many worthy young men to further their education. For this he earned the deep gratitude of many successful people today.

His business career was highlighted when he and others associated themselves to found the First National Bank at Prestonsburg. He served as the first president of the institution. He died at King's Daughters hospital, Ashland, following a short illness, June 27, 1925.

Chevy Gives You Smarter Style Today...

Don't take it from us—take it from independent experts and from facts and figures that are now a matter of record. POPULAR SCIENCE sums up Chevy's unmistakably modern style this way: "The fact is, in its price class Chevy establishes a new high in daring styling..." This is one more reason your new Chevrolet will bring a higher allowance at trade-in time, as Chevy has over the years. A look at last year's used car prices* shows Chevrolet averaged up to $128 more than comparable models of the other leading low-priced two.

PLUS 5 MORE BIG BESTS OVER ANY OTHER CAR IN CHEVROLET'S FIELD!

Best Brakes. Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in repeated highway speed stopping tests conducted by NASCAR.* No wonder. Chevy's brakes, built for up to two-thirds longer lining life, are the biggest in its field.

Best Engine. Every motor magazine has given Chevy's passenger car and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed, this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

Best Economy. No doubt about this: a pair of Chevrolet sixes came in first and second in their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run—getting the best mileage of any full-size car.

Best Room. Dimensions reported to the Automobile Manufacturers Association make it clear. Chevy's front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

Best Ride. No doubt about this. MOTOR TREND magazine sums it up this way: "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class."

NO WONDER MORE PEOPLE ARE BUYING CHEVROLETS IN '59 THAN ANY OTHER CAR!

Rare Attractions For Park Visitor

Frankfort, June 23 — Middlesboro, host city for the July 4 dedication of the nation's newest historical park, offers the visitors a rare combination of old and new attractions.

The town of 15,000 is located in Yellow Creek Valley, two miles northwest of historic Cumberland Gap where Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia meet. It came into being in 1888-89 as a full-fledged city in one of the most spectacular industrial developments in America during the last half of the nineteenth century.

The name Middleborough was given to the new municipality because it was to be patterned after a coal and iron center in England by that name. The famed engineer and landscape architect, George H. Waring, Jr., laid out the framework for the city which today still maintains the axis street, one hundred feet wide and running east to west for forty blocks. The parallel streets, named for English shires, and the cross streets, designated by number, are the same today.

Dreams of a great industrial empire never came true. The panic of 1893, accompanied by the withdrawal of English capital, started a disastrous decline of the half-complete empire.

Today, Middlesboro has risen to economic stability as capital city of the Cumberland Empire and is the northern gateway to Cumberland Gap National Historical Park.

The city claims the nation's oldest Coal House, built entirely of coal mined in the immediate area and used as the headquarters building for the Chamber of Commerce since 1926. Another "Oldest" is the golf course and country club, which has been in use continually since that date.

What You Say Counts Less Than Way Said, Reader's Digest Notes

Next time you find yourself engaged in conversation, listen carefully to the tone of your companion's voice. You may find you'll learn more about him that way than from what he is saying.

The voice is an effective barometer of our emotions and personalities, says an article in the July Reader's Digest. When we're angry, chances are our voice will be high-pitched and fast; when we're depressed, the opposite effect will take place; anxiety is likely to produce hemming and hawing.

Psychiatrists have long used the voice to study serious emotional ills. Dr. Paul Moses of Stanford University's Speech and Voice Disease Clinic recently revealed that a trained physician can actually trace a mental patient's progress with a tape recorder. As the patient improves, so does his voice.

Most of us can use this same principle to improve our personalities, the article says. First have a recording made of your voice. You may be shocked by it—one business man who considered himself amiable was dismayed to hear the notes of annoyance and resentment in his voice. But it will help you to discover and change the emotional traits that may be hampering your personality.

Abrasive Fluids Used To Stimulate Wells

A new service for stimulating wells is being used by operators with considerable success. The service has been announced recently by the Dowell Division of the Dow Chemical Company.

The heart of the method is a short, hollow tool that utilizes a powerful abrasive jet stream. The tool is a modification of the Dowell acid jet gun used successfully on hundreds of wells in the past 20 years.

In service, the new tool assembly is attached to the end of the tubing string and lowered into the wells so that the jets are opposite the producing zone. A fluid such as water, oil or inhibited acid containing abrasives is pumped into the tubing and out through the small jet openings. The high-velocity abrasive jet actually scours the rock, enlarges the size of the well bore and removes deposits that clog the flow channels. Field tests show also that the jet stream can be used to perforate the casing. Its advantage here is that no explosives are used.

The abrasives may be sand, steel pellets, flint particles, or similar material. The hydraulic horsepower necessary to give force to the jet is provided by pumping equipment attached to the surface end of the tubing.

The service, called Hydrojet by Dowell Engineers who developed it, has been in experimental use in the field for several months.

Five Factors Effect To School Completion, UK Sociologist Says

Lexington, Ky., June 22—Five factors could contribute toward more Kentucky rural youths finishing high school, at U. K. sociologist says in a recently issued Experiment Station bulletin.

E. Grant Youmans, the sociologist, writing on "The Educational Attainment and Future Plans of Kentucky Rural Youths," lists these factors:

(1) A firmer conviction by parents and youths of value of a "formal" education; (2) less unpaid work for rural high school youths at home; (3) more part-time paid work for such youths in the community; (4) more suitable roles in schools' extra-curricular activities for lower economic level youths; and (5) encouragement by teachers for youths to remain in school.

Youmans ran a survey in 1957 in three Kentucky counties, checking with 480 mothers and 439 youths of ages 16 to 17. More than a third of the youngsters surveyed already had dropped out of school, he found. This drop-out by counties was 54 percent in one, 32 percent in the second, and 24 percent in the third.

RECEIVES PROMOTION

C. Russell Loy, Louisville, has been appointed Deputy Insurance Commissioner of the State Department of Insurance, according to an announcement by C. P. Thurman. Loy succeeds Jack R. Wolford, Lexington, who died recently, as head of the department's Company and Agent Division.

The Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism, as a long range program, consistently has stressed alcoholism can be prevented by education and understanding.

Through every possible media it has tried to present factual information about alcohol and alcoholism to many different cultural groups. Newspaper articles, films and radio have been used with some small degree of success.

An experiment with college age groups was conducted May 12. Three different classes at Villa Madonna College, Covington, were shown the "profile of Alcoholism," developed at the Yale University Center of Alcohol Studies. Approximately 150 students and some members of the faculty were present. At each session, time for questions and discussion was provided.

The reaction of this college age group was an eye opener. They were interested. The questions and discussion disclosed much curiosity and a searching desire to have real understanding of alcoholism as an illness. In the discussion, it was apparent that a few of these students had observed some victims of alcoholism at close range.

The major purpose of this experiment was to determine the effectiveness of this approach. Rev. John H. Ramsey, a member of the faculty at Villa Madonna, was asked to evaluate the results of the experiment.

Father Ramsey said, "The commission should feel amply compensated for trying this experiment. For the past several years, I have used various approaches to this problem in my classes. Some student seemed to resent what they, wrongly, interpreted as a disapproval of their "right-to-drink" or as a suggestion that some of them might become alcoholics.

"In your approach there was no suggestion of such infringement or that you were preaching to them. It was an objective, factual presentation of the phases of alcoholism which made them do some serious thinking.

"From my observation, this approach will be more effective in reaching young people, even many who otherwise might be unresponsive. I think the Kentucky Commission could do tremendous good if a similar program could be presented to high school upper classmen and college students all over the state."

The commission is now prepared to present this program to any interested group in the state. Inquiries should be addressed to Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism, State Office Building Annex, Frankfort.

We don't believe you gain anything at all by driving long distances to shop at BIG CITY stores. Our local sources have merchandise that's just as good and costs no more.

But merely for the sake of argument, suppose you do save a few dollars on a time-consuming trip many miles from home. And suppose you don't even count the cost of gasoline and oil, car wear, parking fees, etc. Forget, too, if you like, the hazards of driving in today's heavy highway and city traffic.

But don't overlook these things: What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes—no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Why drive scores of miles looking for trouble? Shop right around the corner and be safe and satisfied.

Federal Judge Delays Inland Reorganization; October Hearing Set

Federal Court of Appeals Judge Shackelford Miller of Louisville, Wednesday, delayed the reorganization of Inland Gas Corporation until a full hearing on a plan can be held by the appellate court.

Miller's ruling suspended an order of District Judge H. Churf Ford finally putting into operation a reorganization plan after almost 29 years in bankruptcy court.

The ruling also affected Kentucky Fuel Gas Corporation and American Fuel & Power Company, which are connected with Inland Gas through stock ownership.

Judge Ford originally approved a plan to reorganize the three firms in 1958. This ruling was appealed, and Judge Ford's ruling was upheld by the appellate court last January.

On June 1 Judge Ford ordered the plan put into effect. This order was appealed on the ground that Judge Ford refused to hear evidence of amendments to the plan involving an additional $3,500,000 investment in the reorganized firms.

Judge Miller remarked that the appellate court would like to see the case to an end, but the appeal seemed to have merit. He suspended operation of the plan and set the case for hearing in the October term of court in Cincinnati.

In 1940, only 200,000 farms had milking machines; by 1954, 700,000 farms.

Home Sweet Home (all-electric) Home

THIS HAPPY FAMILY "SINGS" PRAISES FOR MODERN ALL-ELECTRIC LIVING

Mr. B. F. Coleman, A Chemical Company Department Head:
"In our new home electricity has taken over most of my chores. Now I have plenty of time to relax and watch TV. And that electric heat pump, it beats anything I ever heard of for year-around temperature control. Reasonable to operate, too."

Billie Ann Coleman:
"I'm sold on electric cooking. Mother and I do more cooking and baking than ever before, but our kitchen never gets hot or stuffy. We don't have greasy or sweaty windows anymore, and everything stays cleaner longer. All of our electrical appliances save us time and effort."

Mrs. Coleman:
"When it comes to putting out the family wash, it's no trouble at all. Just toss the clothes into the washer and change them to the dryer—nothing to it! This means a lot, since we live about 15 miles from town, and I do all the housework myself."

"Buddy" Coleman:
"All-electric living is sure okay by me. If you want my opinion, I'd say it is a downright pleasure. With so many electrical appliances around the house, about all I have to do anymore is cut the grass and burn the trash. I'm sold... just like the folks."
