This Town-- That World

AH! SPRING!

At last we announce that Spring has officially arrived. The cherry trees on Riverside are in full bloom, and this week I saw my first bare-foot boy of the season. The boy, a youngster of about 4, was carrying, belly-first, a black bulldog puppy, and the two of them made a sight good for bifocaled eyes. The pup's tongue was hanging out from a distance I thought his owner had tied a red ribbon around his neck. From our conversation I elicited two bits of information, to-wit:

The boy was Daddy's boy, and the pup certainly was not for sale.

THE EDITOR TALKS BACK

Time is slipping past entirely too fast to suit yours truly. Here we have got ourselves caught up in the swirl of this and that till we even forgot all about April Fool Day. But H. M. Sutherland, editor of The Dicksonian, Clintwood, Va., did no such thing. He used the day as an occasion to say a few things he'd been wanting to say for a long while. Without his permission we are excerpting from his column for that week:

APRIL FOOL QUESTIONS

On this April Fool Day, it probably would be appropriate if we listed some of the damphool questions that are being asked from day to day as we travel through this vale of tears, and we are also listing the answers (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

PIKE MISHAP VICTIM FOUND

Akers Body Recovered Near Accident Scene; May Search Continues

The body of Wade Akers, 35, of Millard, Pike county, was recovered Tuesday from the Big Sandy River following a search of over two weeks. A companion victim, Randall May, lost in the same accident March 27 when their car was swept into the river, is still in the stream.

The body of Akers was found by members of the Pike County Emergency & Rescue Squad. The Floyd county rescue group had spent several days in the search but at the time of finding Akers this squad was not assisting.

A third passenger in the car when it fell from a low-water bridge into the swollen Big Sandy was Billy Bevins, 32, who escaped by swimming. Akers' body was found about three-quarters of a mile below the tragedy site.

Members of the Pike county squad had been conducting a round-the-clock search for the bodies of May and Akers since the accident. They will continue efforts to find May's body.

Graham Burchett, captain of the Floyd county rescue squad, told The Times Tuesday that he had been informed recovery of the Akers body resulted through the operation of uprooting willows on the stream-side by means of a bulldozer. This same operation enabled rescue workers to find several bodies of school children lost in the school bus tragedy here, two years ago.

CITY COUNCIL HEARS VIEWS ON TAXATION

State Help Available On Assessment; Town Meeting Set April 29

The Prestonsburg City Council, in its exploration of methods to get adequate taxes, invited and heard James Roberts, Jr., of the state Department of Revenue, discuss the mechanics of equalization of property assessments Monday evening.

"Equalization is not a subterfuge to raise taxes," Roberts told the Council and a score or more of citizens. "It is a means of distributing the burden of taxation where it belongs," he pointed out.

Reappraisal under contract with the state would serve the double purpose of equalization and the granting of leeway to the City Council in setting a tax levy sufficient for the city needs.

Under the proposal to reappraise property here the state would furnish the technical aid to determine the fair market value and the fair cash value. The state, with local employees, would supervise the operation of reappraisal.

The job would cost the state approximately $20,000 but this figure was reduced at Frankfort, at the insistence of Mayor Edw. B. Leslie in a recent conference, to $16,000. Of this sum the city would put up only $4,000. This reduction in cost estimate served the purpose of lowering the amount of the city's contribution but Roberts said he was convinced the job would actually cost the higher figure.

Roberts explained that under the state plan all sales in Prestonsburg for the last three years would be checked to find out what the property is worth in certain blocks. Considered would be depreciation and obsolescence. After reappraisal the new figures would be brought before a land value commission appointed by the mayor and council. This group would have the ultimate say in acceptance of the figures.

After the new assessments were set through the Council the

EQUALIZATION WAS THE TOPIC

Remarks made at the City Council discussed tax assessment equalization for Prestonsburg: James Roberts, Jr., Kentucky Department of Revenue: "Taxation is a compulsory system to raise money to pay for needed city services."

Dr. George Archer (advising town hall meeting): "You'll have no trouble selling this town equalization. People are not informed here. If you want to sell equalization, take it to the people."

Orville Cooley: "Equalization is the remedy for the future."

Tom O. McGuire: "I'm 100 percent for equalization."

Joe W. Jarrell: "In Prestonsburg the City Council serves two years. What happens if the next mayor doesn't keep new board of equalization?"

Watt Hale: "If you're right, Joe, and the new mayor throws out equalization, Prestonsburg can't exist."

W. B. Boyd: "We must get together. We have to do something now. I'm for equalization. We can't run this city on hot wind."

Watt Hale: "If you want to get a real crowd out to a town meeting, tell them you're going to raise taxes."

Mayor Ed Leslie: "We are overdue on equalization."

Tom O. McGuire: "If we do get equalization here the funeral homes will get more business."

FIVE NABBED DURING WEEK

By Sheriff's Deputies In Liquor Raids; Three Face Federal Charges

Five men have been arrested within the week by Sheriff's deputies on liquor raids, and three of the five face possible federal prosecution for moonshining or the possession of moonshine whiskey.

Ellis Keathley was captured Saturday by Deputy Sheriffs Joe Wheeler and Harold Lewis at a moonshine still on Tinker Fork, near Teaberry. Two barrels of mash and three quarts of whiskey were confiscated. A second man fled the scene and has not been arrested.

Two negroes were arrested by a Knott deputy sheriff and Floyd deputy Sheriffs Harold Johnson, James and Bert Hall the same day, across the county line in Knott county, near Lackey, and four gallons of moonshine were taken from them.

A raid on the Miners' Club at Hunter by the Lewises and Deputies Harold Johnson, James and Robert Hall failed to uncover more than empty cans and bottles in the way of intoxicants, but the search did result in the confiscation of fireworks. Elbert Booten Castle was charged with illegal possession of the fireworks.

ASC REPORTS FARM EFFORT

Landowners Cost-Share Total Is $3,662.56; Forestry Work Is Noted

During the program year of 1959 a total of 385 Floyd county farmers earned $3,662.56 in carry-over out one or more practices through the Agricultural Stabilization committee's conservation plan. Announcement of the totals was made by Elder Goble, officer manager of the local ASC office.

"We have received valuable assistance from the Soil Conservation Service, the Extension Service, State Division of Forestry and the vocational agriculture teachers in making this one of our most successful years," Goble said.

The office manager noted that several landowners had made outstanding contributions to conservation in the county. Mentioned were Earl Moore, for tiling; Edgar Bingham, sodding waterway; W. V. Elliott, permanent pasture work; and Elizabeth Harris, winter cover crop practice.

Continuing with a statistical breakdown of work accomplished under the ASC program last year, Goble noted:

1. One hundred seventy-three farmers seeded 745 acres of winter cover crop.

2. One hundred forty-five farmers established 863 acres of permanent pasture or meadow.

3. Ninety-eight farmers established 2,572 acres of trees. (This year's quota of tree seedlings under the forestry program are delivered and landowners are at work setting a record number of trees in this county.)

Other statistics pointed out are 28 farmers who carried out 110

Ex-Sheriff Gorman Collins, of this county, is expected to oppose Dr. M. D. Flanery, of Pikeville, in the post of Seventh district chairman of the Republican party at the district caucus to be held at Paintsville, April 22, it was said here this week. Dr. Flanery is the present chairman.

FCTA NAMES NEW OFFICERS

McDowell High Teacher Succeeds Frankie Best; Clark Addresses Meet

Paul Luxmore, science teacher at McDowell high school was elected president of the Floyd County Teachers Association at its annual meeting here last Friday. He and other officers elected will take office July 1.

Mr. Luxmore will succeed Mrs. Frankie S. Best, of Cliff, who has served as president the two years since the Association was formed. Other officers elected were Ed Craft, of Wayland high school, vice-president, and Woodrow Allen, Prestonsburg grade school principal, secretary-treasurer.

The approximately 475 teachers who attended the all-day meeting heard at the morning session Dr. George W. Redding, of Georgetown College, and J. C. Powell, of the State Department of Education, Charles Clarke, principal of Garrett schools and Floyd county superintendent-elect addressed the afternoon meeting.

Mr. Clark, himself an Association director, complimented the teachers on their organization, adding that a strong teachers' association will help him to be a better superintendent. He invited the Association to elect five members to serve as a committee working with him on salary schedule for teachers and the budget.

Speaking on the role of the christian college, Dr. Redding discussed what constitutes an educated man, pointing out that the man making hay or digging ditches can be as honorable as the worker in higher-paid professions.

Mr. Powell spoke on what the new Minimum Foundation Program will mean to Floyd county. One of his most arresting statements was that which set the basic average raise for Floyd teachers under the new program at $900 a year. He added that deviation from that figure may be no greater than 10%; that is, that the lowest basic average pay increase may not be less than $810 per annum. The newly implemented program, he said, will also mean more buildings and an improved pupil-transportation service for the county.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Ira McMillen, who spoke briefly on "Shadows," pointing out that every person casts a shadow for good or evil.

Future Teachers of America, sponsored by Mrs. Minnie Grace Sutherland, served as ushers and registrars. The music program was provided by the Prestons-

He was born on the Ferguson farm, near Harold, Oct. 4, 1871. After receiving his early education in the local schools, he attended Milligan College, Milligan, Tenn., planning a medical career but later abandoned the idea, coming to Prestonsburg. He was married to Ella Clark, of Prestonsburg Oct. 22, 1896, and to this union were born two children, Benjamin Dorsey Ferguson and Mrs. Helen Marie Ferguson Clark. His wife and son preceded him in death.

In Prestonsburg, Mr. Ferguson read law in the office of Judge James Goble and was admitted to the bar. Later he received an appointment to the Census Bureau in Washington, D. C., and while working there he attended George Washington University where he received his L.L.B. and M.A. degrees. He was a member of the first post-graduate class of the university and at the time of his death was its oldest alumnus.

Since his return from Washington he had resided in Prestonsburg. Here he was one of the founders of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, at the time of his death was the oldest member of that church, and for more than 25 years he served as superintendent of its Sunday School.

HALL BEGINS HEALTH WORK HERE APRIL 1

New Health Officer 14 Years At W'Wright; To Serve Floyd, Martin

Dr. Russell Hall, of Wheelwright, assumed his duties April 1 as health officer with the health departments of Floyd and Martin counties.

When Dr. Hall quit the practice of medicine at Wheelwright earlier this year he was immediately sought for the health post but did not decide to accept it until late last month.

His appointment fills the health officer post in this county for the first time since the death in May, 1953 of Dr. Marvin Ransdell. Since Dr. Ransdell's death M. V. Clark has served as health administrator, a position which he will continue to occupy. Dr. John Sizemore has assisted in a part-time capacity and is expected to continue his health department connection.

The new health officer will have his office at the Floyd County Health Department building here, and most of his work will be concentrated in this county. He expects to devote an average of one day a week to the Martin County Health Department.

Health Administrator Clark, nurses and other health department personnel here hailed the acceptance by Dr. Hall of the health officer position. They expressed appreciation as much for his deep interest in the people of this section as for his ability as a physician.

Help of Friends Gave Him Will To Live . . .

Partially Paralyzed Man Finds Way to Usefulness

Joe Tussey in his shop where he works and earns security for his family.

Corporations are not always the soulless, calculating creations of this modern age with but one purpose, to show a profit on the books, as many think.

Joe Tussey, of David, is here to tell the world that. He has his own experience as proof that human beings are considered, that individual lives count.

He's lucky to be here to tell the story, is Joe. For on a November day five years ago he was jammed between the top of a mantrip car and the timbers of the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company Mine No. 2, on Caney Fork of Middle Creek, and his body was rolled and crushed. He was taken to the outside, beloved fatally injured.

When he regained consciousness it was to realize he was paralyzed from his hips down. Today he remains paralyzed, bound during his waking hours to a wheel chair.

Yet Joe Tussey is a grateful, happy man.

For, says the 38-year-old World War II veteran, the "big bosses" of Princess Elkhorn—David L. Francis and his late father, James D. Francis—came to his rescue, not as his employers but as his friends.

MY PLATFORM

As a candidate for member Floyd County Board of Education I take this means to let you know what I stand for:

I stand for teachers being paid every cent the law allows.

I am for teachers teaching their home school if they want it, and not send them to some remote place in the county because they don't vote your way.

I am not endorsing any one, no one is running me, I will work with any Board or Superintendent as long as they are in the right. I will oppose them just as strongly if I think them wrong.

The good people of my district will be my boss.

Yours truly,
D. R. (Dick) Robinson

Taxation Should Be Impartial

If the pattern established by the Court of Appeals in the tax case of the Texas Transmission Company is extended to other corporations, Kentucky, its counties, school systems and municipalities may be in for real trouble.

Briefly, the high court held that the Texas company could not be assessed by the state on franchise tax at a rate higher than the average of Kentucky property assessments. Roughly, the franchise assessment rate is 60 per cent of actual value while the property assessment is about 30 per cent.

The Floyd County Board of Education, for instance, could lose around $135,000. Floyd county could lose enough to make the functioning of county government a near-impossibility.

The solution to the problem has officials worried as it appears property assessments will either have to be increased to the franchise assessment level or the latter will be dropped, with attendant loss of revenues, to the low level of property evaluations.

Officials shrink from thought of higher assessments, naturally fear the thoughts of public pressures. But they should not sleep well as long as present assessment inequities exist.

An honest, impartial equalization of assessments is needed, and other means of taxation will not end the injustices now existing. There can be no justice in strict equalization which would place every property-owner on an equal footing with his neighbors.

Some of the revenues needed in Prestonsburg, for instance, could be justly gained by such an effort. Some property-owners, it is true, would pay more taxes, as they should; but others, many of them "small" property-owners, would pay no more, perhaps even less, than they are now paying.

Waste of tax revenues is, of course, an offense against the public that should be stopped as completely as possible. But even that crime does not justify taxation injustices inflicted on some to the advantage of others.

TWO OF AREA'S OLDEST WOMEN DIE WITHIN FEW HOURS FRIDAY

Two of the section's oldest women, both residents of Knott county, died within a few hours of each other Friday. Claimed was Mrs. Mary Martin, 93, of Mousie, and succumbing a few hours later was Mrs. Martha Ann Stone, 94, of Raven.

Both women, widowed for several years, resided within a few miles of each other. Mrs. Martin had been in failing health for 15 years but Mrs. Stone enjoyed good health until about a year ago. Both were seriously ill only a few weeks.

Mrs. Martin died at home but Mrs. Stone was a victim at La-Grange, Ohio, where she was visiting a son, Elmer Stone.

Mrs. Martin was a daughter of Robin and Florence Moore Wiker and the widow of Bill Martin who preceded her in death 30 years ago. Surviving sons and a daughter are Johnny Martin, Mt. Sterling, Ky., Robert Martin, of Wayland, Cruger Martin, Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Della Salyer, Cincinnati. A foster daughter surviving is Mrs. Bernia Chaffins, of Mousie. A surviving sister is Mrs. Nancy Jane Hicks, of Wayland.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m., Monday at the home, the Revs. Bert Howard, Cephas Mosley, and Banner Manns officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Mousie under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Mrs. Stone was a daughter of Bill and Sally Sutton Sizemore and the widow of Alex Stone. She was a member of the Regular Baptist church for 40 years.

Surviving, besides her son Elmer Stone, is another son, Miles M. Stone, Suffolk, Va., and four daughters: Mrs. Margaret Brown, Elsin, Ill., Mrs. Ethel Williams, of Whitesburg, Mrs. Missouri Jacobs, of Indianapolis, and Mrs. June Stone, Shelby, Ohio. Surviving are seven grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great grandchildren. Two brothers and a sister survive: Russell Sizemore, Prestonsburg, Henry Sizemore, of Levisa, and Mrs. Brasca Wallen, of Dwale.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m., Tuesday from the Caney Fork church at Raven, the Revs. Troy Nickles, Sabel Combs, Sherman Stone and Ed Moore officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Raven under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Teachers At Martin Honored At Banquet

Teachers of the Martin school were guests of honor recently at a banquet given by the parents who are members of the Martin P-T-A, concluding Teacher Appreciation Week.

A buffet dinner was served. Following the dinner, the president of the Martin P-T-A, Lloyd McGarey, spoke, honoring the teachers and the principal, James Salisbury. Mr. McGarey pointed out that the small criticisms of teachers are often given more weight than the praise they really deserve in the community in which they serve.

This appreciation dinner was made possible through the cooperation of the many parents in the community and the P-T-A executive committee.

RC Representative Injured In Accident; Is Still Unconscious

Bob Glenn, Red Cross field representative of Paintsville, suffered severe head injuries when an auto he was driving struck a rock cliff between Allen and Martin last week. Eyewitnesses said the Glenn car, a 1954 Ford, evidently went out of control.

Glenn was thrown from the car when it struck the cliff, according to three witnesses who were following in another car. He is listed as critical at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin, and is still unconscious.

The Red Cross representative was on his way to Hindman in the interest of the current drive for funds by the organization. He heads the Red Cross in a 20-county area here.

A native of Pennsylvania, Glenn came to this area two years ago to succeed Darrel House. Married and the father of three children, he and his family resided at Paintsville.

Miss Ella Noel White, Red Cross representative here, has assumed the duties of Glenn in a five-county area adjacent to Floyd. The drive for Red Cross funds was still lagging, it was noted this week. It is thought that approximately one-half of the goal of $7,600 will be reached, Miss White said. Returns are too meager to make an accurate prediction, she added.

Mrs. Delana Miller, 94, Dies At Daughter's Home; Funeral Conducted Here

Mrs. Delana Miller, 94, widow of Abe Miller, died Saturday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Roffett, Prestonsburg. She was a former resident of Bull Creek.

Mrs. Miller was a daughter of Bill and Louanna Arnett Howard. Besides Mrs. Roffett she is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Louanna Howard, Goldia, Ky., and three sons: Bill Miller, of David, Charley Miller, Prestonsburg, and Henry Miller, New London, Ohio. A brother, Wiley Howard, Willard, Ohio, and a sister, Mrs. Nana Conley, of David, survive. Surviving also are 40 grandchildren and 20 great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted Monday from the home of Mrs. Roffett, the Revs. Ashland Shepherd and Ted Nelson officiating. Burial was made in the Shepherd cemetery under the direction of Moore Funeral Home.

FISHTRAP DAM FUNDS ASKED

Big Sandy Delegation, Lieutenant-Governor Present Area's Needs

A delegation of Big Sandians, accompanied by Lieut. Gov. Wilson W. Wyatt, pleaded with the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Public Works, Thursday of last week, for funds to initiate construction of Fishtrap reservoir in Pike county.

Wyatt noted that $2,100,000 had been voted for construction of the Pound River reservoir but that only $349,000 for advanced planning had been allocated in the last budget for Fishtrap. Needed now, the delegation heads told the subcommittee, is a total of $301,000 for initial Fishtrap construction.

"Great human need in the Big Sandy valley demands a program of development," Wyatt told the Senatorial group. "We have a (state) program; we are going ahead with it; we are confident in it. Yet, every feature of that program faces as its first obstacle the awesome problem of flood control. Three years have passed since the 1957 flood, two years since the 1958 flood. The time has come to start pouring the concrete."

Rev. Harold W. Dorsey, pastor of the First Methodist Church here, spoke of the ravages of recent floods and noted the urgency of Fishtrap construction.

"Fishtrap reservoir is essential to the survival of our area," he told the Senators. "New industry is now moving into the lower Big Sandy valley basin. Faith in our area has been shown yet these new industrial developments will not come to the flooded section in which we live. There must be a guarantee against the loss from flood."

In the Floyd county delegation were County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Attorney Robert Wellman, Attorney Barkley Sturgill and others.

Stumbo in a prepared statement said that the 1957 flood inflicted damage on the towns of Harold, Betsy Layne, Mare Creek and Allen to a higher figure than their annual income.

"The memory of this flood is such that any unusual amount of rainfall creates consternation to the citizens of this valley and acts as a deterrent to the rebuilding of our local economy," Stumbo stated. "The most important remedy for this situation would be for this committee to take action to encourage these industrious communities in the Big Sandy valley in the form of adequate construction funds to the appropriation for the Fishtrap reservoir project." Members of the delegation came back with optimism as to the future of construction funds for Fishtrap reservoir. County Attorney Wellman commented that a favorable reaction was made by several members of the subcommittee as to the need for initial construction funds.

Two from Prestonsburg With University Band

Cora Ruth Wright and John E. Conley, University of Kentucky students from Prestonsburg, have just completed a four-day concert tour with the University's symphonic band.

The 55-member organization gave concerts at six cities in Kentucky and Tennessee. The band is conducted by Bernard Fitzgerald, head of the Music Department at UK.

Miss Wright is a daughter of H. B. Wright; Conley, a son of J. E. Conley.

Pulaski county was named for Count Joseph Pulaski, great Polish patriot and Revolutionary War hero.

To the Taxpayers of Martin:

All delinquent taxes due the city of Martin, Ky., must be paid on or before May 1, or personal property will be attached.
CITY OF MARTIN

new figures would be advertised and everybody would be asked to come in and look at their assessment and that of others. The Council would levy a rate that raises the same amount of money as the preceding year.

The assessment work would have to be completed by Jan. 1, under the new statute enacted by the recent General Assembly. Roberts calculated that equalization would probably lower taxes for 40 percent of the property owners, 20 percent would remain the same and 40 percent would be raised.

Roberts submitted to a question-and-answer period after his talk. Gorman Collins asked if the county tax commissioner could take these new figures for his books. Roberts said there is nothing in the law that makes the city books open to the county.

Paducah, Ludlow and Middlesboro, plus about 20 counties, have availed themselves of the state's equalization services, it was pointed out. At Middlesboro the tax rate was $2.72 before equalization and $2.34 afterwards.

"You'd have greater assessments and a lower tax rate the first year," Roberts said. "In 1962 you would have more money."

The city must decide in about 30 days if it needs the services of the state, it was said. Roberts noted that in the reappraisal of property in Paducah only one person went to court. Less than 100 in populous Jefferson county contested the state assessments.

Roberts said that on the $4,000 put up by the city a credit would be given for office space and utilities furnished by the city. Deputy assessors, all local people, would do the actual assessment work. No homes would be entered but business houses would, Roberts explained.

The question of equalization was referred to a town meeting of all property owners on April 29, at 7:30 p.m., at the high school gym.

Sam Roberts was captured on Buckingham mountain by Deputies James and Bert Hall and Harold Johnson, and 12 cases of beer and a case and a half of whiskey were taken from his car last Thursday night. A raid on his home at the mouth of Toler Creek last Sunday was fruitless. Beer cases were found but they were empty, Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis said.

Abe Parsons was booked at the county jail by Deputies Joe Wheeler and Harold Lewis on a charge of drunk driving.

The program, which will be under the direction of Eugene Quinn, music secretary for Kentucky Baptists, will consist of congregational hymn singing, choir numbers and vocal solo and group selections.

CITY PROJECT STUDY IS SET

Could Effect Relocation Of Communities In Area If Legislation Passed

A preliminary study which could lead to legislation creating new towns in economically underdeveloped Eastern Kentucky will be made by the University of Kentucky this summer.

Prof. Charles P. Graves, head of the architectural curriculum at the university, will direct the project, financed by a $1,350 grant from the Kentucky Research Foundation.

The study, which might help to bring new industry into the area stricken by unemployment, was announced Tuesday by Dr. Merl Baker, executive director of the Kentucky Research Foundation.

The new towns would provide a new source of employment, a totally new environment offering all the attractions, advantages and stimuli necessary for economic opportunities now unavailable in the region, Graves said.

Graves will be assisted in the study by Grady Clay, visiting lecturer in the U. K. architectural curriculum, and David Fogle, architectural instructor and city planner for the Division of Planning and Zoning Department of Economic Development.

One part of the study will consider the development of new towns either in wholly open country or in conjunction with one or more existing small communities.

Graves said the towns could be developed by public or private corporations. Private development companies could be encouraged by means of low-interest loans, insured or guaranteed by state or federal agencies with dividends limited as a condition of government assistance.

"So long as the population remains scattered throughout unproductive farming areas and declining coal-mining regions, the present distress will continue," Graves said.

The first of the new towns could be built in Eastern Kentucky, with others throughout the Appalachian Mountain Region, said a study proposal submitted to the Kentucky Research Foundation.

"New Towns" projects have been carried out successfully in Great Britain, Canada, and the Scandinavian countries, but such a project in Eastern Kentucky would be the first in the United States, Graves said.

A new town, he explained, must include all the elements of a complete urban settlement—stores, utilities, schools, recreational facilities, churches, residences, and administrative offices.

"Too, a most important element is the inclusion of industry," he said. "Without industry, development is either expansion of an existing area, or a satellite com-operating manager and the appointment of W. W. Wallen, land agent, to fill it, effective April 1. Wallen's headquarters will remain in Prestonsburg, and he will be responsible for all activities and functions of the compressor, land and production departments. He will report directly to the vice-president in charge of operations.

Other appointments and changes occasioned by Mr. Ley's retirement and the election of Mr. Clark as vice-president in charge of operations—all effective April 1—were announced:

Homer Neeley, chief field agent, appointed to the position of land agent with headquarters at Prestonsburg.

Fred Meece, presently field agent with headquarters in Pikeville, appointed to the position of chief field agent with headquarters here.

The headquarters of James C. Justice, field agent, changed from Prestonsburg to Pikeville.

L. E. Roberts, presently plant superintendent of Kentucky Hydrocarbon Company at Maytown, is appointed to the position of assistant to the vice-president with headquarters at Ashland. In this position Mr. Roberts will continue to be responsible for all activities and functions of the personnel department and for special studies as assigned from time to time.

R. E. Click, assistant personnel director, is appointed to the position of personnel director, with headquarters at Ashland. In this position Mr. Click will be in charge of all personnel functions, including safety and welfare, employee relations and related activities, and will report directly to the vice-president.

munity dependent on an existing economic center."

The three major steps in the preliminary study as outlined in Graves' proposal are:

1. Summarize existing and prospective economic, geographic, and social conditions in Eastern Kentucky.

2. Summarize existing Kentucky law on the use of state legal powers and funds for the establishment of new urban communities.

3. Estimate manpower, research facilities, and costs of a two-year research program directed at drafting workable "New Towns" legislation by 1962.

Graves feels the project is dramatic enough to attract volunteer assistance and to bring to Kentucky a national reputation for enterprise which will have beneficial side effects such as encouraging capital investments and industrial expansion.

Jesse J. Dukeminhier, professor of law at U. K., will serve as an adviser for the project.

Mr. Ferguson also was one of the organizers of Prestonsburg's first City Council, serving as city clerk and later as police judge. Active in Republican politics, he was county chairman of the party for many years and was Floyd campaign manager for various party nominees seeking state offices.

He practiced law here for more than 60 years. During World War I, he was prominent in the coal business. He served as referee on the Kentucky Workman's Compensation Board for several years, and for several terms was city attorney here, retiring from this position only last Jan. 1.

Mr. Ferguson has made his home here for the past 16 years with his grandsons, Ben Ferguson, Jr., and Charles D. Ferguson. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. John D. Martin, Roanoke, Va., and four grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday afternoon from the residence on Arnold avenue, the Rev. M. Robert Regan, assisted by the Revs. Ira McMillen, Jr., and Harold W. Dorsey, officiating. Burial was made in the Bascom May cemetery here under direction of the Moore Funeral Home.

The shooting and wounding indictment against Mart Reed was dismissed, marked "for lack of prosecution," and the shooting at without wounding trial of Russell Jarrells was continued till the September term.

Two indictments voted by the grand jury before adjourning last Thursday were inadvertently omitted from the list published in The Times. These accused Thomas Lafferty of selling whiskey and Junior Collins of possessing moonshine liquor.

The grand jury will reconvene April 27 for an additional three days of work.

Dr. Hall has been practicing his profession since completing his internship in 1943, going to Wheelwright after completing his World War II Army service. A native of Hall, Knott county, he received his high school education and two years of college work at Mrs. Lloyd's famed school at Pippa Passes, earned his A.  (An Editorial — No. 4 in a Series)

The recent observance by the Regional and County Libraries of National Library Week, with able assistance from civic groups, surely impressed some of us with the importance of good reading matter to the people of our county and section.

Let us never take for granted these finer things of life. It would be well not to forget, too, that your support and ours is necessary this year and on into the future to retain them for our children.

Cultural advantages are of paramount importance to our people. That is why we have contended that more boys and girls leaving high school should have an opportunity to attend college. A two-year college here would provide just that, and all who are interested should actively work toward that end—now, not after the opportunity is past and lost.

WSIP Radio Station Bought By New Firm; Daytime Power Upped

Ted Arnold Silvert, owner and general manager of radio station WSIP in Paintsville, announced this week that he has sold the station to the Big Sandy Broadcasting Company, Inc., Paintsville.

The corporation was formed by Paul G. Fyffe, who presently is news and sports director of the station. Officers and stockholders are: James Cox, of Paintsville, president; Dr. Herschell B. Murray, West Liberty, vice-president; Paul G. Fyffe, Paintsville, secretary-treasurer, and Tom Cox, Paintsville, Mort Mullins, Keaton West and Parker West, of Oil Springs, board members.

The entire transaction is subject to the approval of the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D. C. Mr. Silvert said that the application for transfer of the station to the new corporation had been filed over the week-end and it usually takes from 30 to 60 days for the FCC approval. Silvert will continue as owner and manager of the station until the approval of the FCC.

Following FCC approval, Paul G. Fyffe, who has served as news and sports director of WSIP for the past four years, will take over as general manager. Fyffe said there will be no change in the station policy as set forth by Silvert for the past 10 years.

In selling the station, Silvert ends over 10 years as manager, partner and owner of WSIP. He said that he has tentatively accepted a position as sales manager of WSIR in Winter Haven, Florida, as of July 1, and will probably move his family to Winter Haven at the completion of the school year.

WSIP recently received FCC permission to increase its daytime power from 250 to 1,000 watts. The station will still operate at 250 watts during night time. Plans are under way to be on the air with new power by April 24, the 11th anniversary of the station.

Q. Why don't you print your paper in colors, say red, once in a while?

A. Our entire supply of red ink is used in the Bookkeeping Department.

Q. Why don't you have funny papers?

A. Our paper gets laughed at enough as it is.

Q. Why don't you have advice to the lovelorn like Abbie Van Buren?

A. All our readers behave themselves.

Q. Why do you have all of those misprints?

A. Because they seem to be the most important part of the paper.

A. Why do you make so many grammatical errors?

A. Because we ain't never learned no better.

Q. Why didn't you publish that poem I sent you?

A. It was lousy.

Q. What do you do with all that money you make out of advertisements?

A. We spend it on frivolities like food and clothing.

Q. What is the reason you don't replace that old Linotype that you are always complaining about?

A. $18,000.

Q. Why don't you run a column of the old Dickenson County News of about thirty years ago?

A. We tried that, but we published the story of a baby girl being born to a certain couple here in town. The trouble was that this baby girl was claiming that she was twenty-two.

Q. Why don't you write an editorial and tell those birds on the Town Council what they can do to improve Clintwood?

A. Why don't you go to the next meeting and tell 'em yourself?

Q. Why don't you print more Letters to the Editor?

A. Why don't you write one? And sign it with your name — don't be scared.

Q. Why don't you publish the paper twice a week?

A. Why don't you have babies twice a year at your house? Both take time, brother—especially with old equipment.

cently. "I don't believe I can ever pay them back. If it hadn't been for David Francis and his father, I guess I'd be dead. I'd given up heart."

At that, the road back was a long one. He was at St. Mary's hospital two months, at McGuire eleven. A setback developed when a kidney operation became necessary. "But at McGuire hospital," said Tussey, "I learned I didn't have it so bad. I realized that when I saw so many others who couldn't move from the neck down, or even speak, or take care of themselves in any way. This might sound funny, but comparing my condition with theirs picked me up quite a bit."

And once out of the hospital, Tussey found the Francises were not done with him. "They built this shop for me with special equipment, put this concrete ramp from the house to the shop so that I can travel back and forth in this wheelchair, and set me up in business."

The business is Joe Tussey's own. He is not an employee of the coal company; he is self-employed, with all the incentive that private ownership gives, although the product of his hands goes to the coal company where he once worked.

With special equipment, all fashioned to meet his handicaps, he grinds coal bits for Princess Elkhorn. He works his own hours—long hours, most of the time—and he earns "good" money.

"I'll work, most of the time, from 6:30 in the morning till 7 at night. On the average I'll grind 500 to 800 bits a day. What I do here," he explained, "includes separating the bits, counting them, replacing those lost, sharpening them and then painting and waxing them. When I get through the day I head for a shower, eat supper and pretty soon hit the sack."

"There was a time," he says, "when I thought the offer to help me in this business might have been made out of pity, but when the plan was explained to me fully I understood. They had a job for me, one that was needed to be done by somebody, and not one that was created simply for me."

The mine accident was not the first time Tussey had been hurt. He was wounded while with the 28th Division in France during World War II. "I got some shrapnel in my shoulder and where I sit down, but all it did was tear up some skin," he refers lightly to the experience. It happened as his division was being relieved, with a two-week furlough coming up; so he got patched up at a first-aid station and spent the last week of his leave on a London vacation.

He had 34 months' service, participating in the Anzio beachhead fighting, the campaign through Italy, in the landing near Marselles and in the drive through France. He tells of seeing Ernie Pyle, famed war correspondent at Anzio. "But he was some distance away, and with those bullets and shells whizzin' around I didn't care to come out of my foxhole to go over and meet him," Tussey said.

To Joe Tussey laughter comes easy. He's enjoying working and living. He says he loves fishing but now he's too busy. Instead, he has busied himself with amateur photography. He has an electric-eye 8-mm movie camera, and he says the neighbors are getting plumb shy of him while he is armed with this contraption.

One sequence of film which he shot, some time ago, is particularly interesting. "The officers ran a bootlegger down, and he pulled up out there and I was sitting by the fence. He had a shotgun that looked a mile long but after I recovered from the shock I levelled the camera and got the whole sequence: the officers taking the gun and his liquor and arresting him. The color came out perfect," he grinned.

His wife, Jewell, and his three children, Sherril Lynn, 13, Ira Joe, 9, and Stephen Douglas, 6, are four big reasons why this man finds a brighter side to life. Sundays, he takes the family for a drive in his automobile with its special hand controls of gas and brakes. "I can stop my car quicker than you can yours," he remarked.

Drives include visits with relatives and friends, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Green Tussey, or just to enjoy the scenery.

Joe Tussey is a busy man, living a full life. A working man and happy; his family has security.

His last word to his interviewer was, "If you print anything about me, hide it with the classifieds."

Editor's note: Since the classifieds are so well read, we'll hide it on Page 1.

Easter Seal Drive Fund Total Is $623, Geo. Evans Announces

Floyd county has raised $623 to date in its 1960 Easter Seal drive which opened Monday, March 21.

George E. Evans, Jr., chairman of the local drive, urged residents to mail their contributions this week to: Mrs. Elizabeth R. Martin, treasurer, Floyd County Crippled Children Committee, Wayland, Ky.

The total reported represents contributions received by mail. Money contributed to Easter Seals is the principal means of support for the varied program of care and treatment carried out by the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children at its six facilities in the state.

"Ninety per cent of the money you contribute to Easter Seals remains in Kentucky to care for Kentucky's physically handicapped boys and girls," Mr. Evans said, "so you are really giving to help your friends and neighbors."

The 1960 Easter Seal appeal will continue through Easter Sunday.

White Bass Are Added To Dewey Lake By State, Minor Clark Announces

About 350 large white bass, netted from the South Fork River of Lake Cumberland, have been placed in Dewey Lake, Minor Clark, commissioner of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, announced this week.

The fish, which had not spawned when they were released last week-end, averaged almost two pounds per fish and were in excellent condition. They are expected to spawn in this lake this year.

The white bass stocking is a part of the overall fisheries program to improve the fishing in Dewey Lake. Already some white bass have been placed in this body of water and the latest addition, along with the anticipated spawn, is expected to stock the lake satisfactorily.

The fish were taken, the latter part of last week, through a netting operation in the South Fork of the river in the Yamacraw area during the early part of the spawning run. They were transported to Dewey in tank trucks.

SCHOOL PRINCIPALS HAVE CONFIDENCE IN CLARK

We, the undersigned principals of the Floyd County School system, believe the office of County Superintendent of schools is the most important office in Floyd county.

We believe that anyone who aspires to this high office should have high moral standards, personal honesty and integrity as well as good common sense. He should meet all the professional and technical qualifications required by law.

After careful consideration we have come to the conclusion that Charles Clark meets all these qualifications. As he begins his four year term of office we want to express our complete confidence in him and wish him a successful administration.

Capt. Hackworth Heads AFB Section

Floyd county's Capt. Robie Hackworth as head of the Physiological Training Section of the 836th Tactical Hospital, Langley Air Force Base, Virginia, drew high praise in a recent article appearing in an Air Force publication.

The article, written by Capt. Wes Williams, tells of the high standard of accomplishment set by Hackworth and also of what has been done under Capt. Hackworth's leadership to convert a building used as a gas-generating plant in the day when balloons were used into attractive surroundings for the training section. Wrote Capt. Williams:

"Capt. Hackworth deserves special mention. A leading airline entered the high altitude business when the line acquired new jetliners. Airline captains and pilots needed instruction in the physiology of stratospheric aviation. With the cooperation of the U.S. Air Force, entered Capt. Hackworth, complete with facts and figures and a firm belief in the validity of his techniques. Needless to say, he has received several repeat invitations and his lectures are a part of the airline's training."

Hackworth, himself a veteran pilot, is a son of Mrs. Alice Hackworth, of West Prestonsburg, and the late Harry Hackworth.

AROUND FLOYD COUNTY

By Quentin Allen

If summer is here, can boredom be far away?

It is for many of the Prestonsburg teen-agers who sit in the mire created by the inertia-ridden parents of Prestonsburg.

It is a moot point as to who has the responsibility to meet the pressing problems of Prestonsburg.

There are many. Many ills of this generation arise from the absence of inspiring leadership in Prestonsburg. Many have tried—many, good solid men have tried—but they have been repelled by the apathy of public opinion regarding progress.

How does a citizen react, for instance, when he visits Paintsville and Pikeville? If he is perceptive in the slightest degree, he will see recreational programs.

Thanks to the efforts of the Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, those daring young men who had the nerve to place a swimming pool on a ballot a couple of years ago, we have some playgrounds around Prestonsburg.

And, too, thanks to business men who gave and sold pipe (below cost) to these energetic young men. The J.C.'s didn't expect thanks, and, as expected, they received mighty little expression of appreciation.

The young people of Prestonsburg deserve a summer of recreation. Don't lose your perspective. Boredom is—well, boredom, to say the least. Many young people face the summer with less excitement than you would know.

You can do something about it. If you are a member of the Kiwanis, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Junior Woman's Club, Prestonsburg Woman's Club, American Legion, VFW, you can influence your club to make constructive plans to initiate a program of recreation for this city.

Isn't it also a shame that many of our adults have nothing to do in the line of exercise?

As said before, that bulge in the middle is not only unbecoming but darned unhealthy. You know that exercise can be taken in varying degrees.

You can play games for a good sweat as well as going out for violent exercise. The range of games can extend from table tennis, shuffle board, badminton, volleyball, softball, to football, baseball, basketball.

And what do our girls do? They have little opportunity to get off their sitters. Young people remain young by acting like young people. Not like premature oldsters who, either by choice or circumstance, have not the opportunity of some type of exercise.

The decent thing about a summer recreation program lies in its inexpensive features.

It takes participation, rather than money.

Leave out some of the more expensive games and concentrate on the inexpensive ones. If you're interested, you'll think about it and determine the inexpensive ones for yourself.

I was talking to a friend this week who will graduate soon from medical school.

"I won't come back to Prestonsburg. There's nothing for me to do after work, besides golf. And I know there isn't anything for my children."

The population-bleed goes on—and on.

It will end when we awaken—in so many ways.

Here begins another summer for Prestonsburg youngsters either to hitch-hike to David or Paintsville or nag dear, old Dad to take them to the pool.

Another summer starts with thousands of miles to be traveled in hot months for sweet relief at a miles-away pool.

Wonder how many are going to be killed on the roads?

Gordon Moore, sports writer, etc., caught two whoppers last Sunday. He snagged two bass, weighing 5½ and 6½ pounds. Moore said that the secret of his success lies in the bait he uses—nightcrawlers.

The editor was so shaken by Gordon's performance that he dashed out with his third son, Paul Neil, the next day.

The only bite he got the entire day was at supper.

You know, fishing is wonderful. The calm hush of shimmering waters beneath a sky of purest blue gets you right in the thoracic region.

When the air is tinted with the sweet fragrance of spring and every sunken log seems to hide a corking big bass—boy, it's great!

When the peace and quiet of the lake seeps over you and slows down your life to the proper pace, you're really living.

And, if you catch one, it's all extra gravy.

Gulf Presents Plaques Honoring 38 Dealers; Announces Contest

Thirty-eight Gulf Refining Company dealers were presented bronze plaques Tuesday evening for years of association with the corporation. The presentations were made by W. R. Patterson, district sales manager, at a dinner given at the Wise Restaurant here.

Dealers receiving awards were: Shade Penix, Inez, 20 years; J. P. Hill, Bonanza, 20 years; Williams & Salyers, Salyersville, 15 years; Herbert Patton, Prestonsburg, 10 years; Daniel Akers, Amba, 10 years; Doug Plummer, Paintsville, and Bobby Hall, McDowell, 5 years each.

Announcement was made at the meeting of Gulf's $500,000 contest, "Hat in the Ring." Customers may compete for prizes by naming their choices for the Presidency and by stating their reasons for the selection. It was explained that to win the contestant does not necessarily have to name a national figure, that a local or state man may be named. It's the reasons that count. Marvin Music, local Gulf distributor, received special recognition for attaining a new high in the percentage of dealers attending the meeting.

COOPERATION is a Kentucky tradition!

WELCOMING NEW NEIGHBORS... OR LIGHTING NEW HOMES!

Kentuckians have traditionally given a warm welcome to new neighbors with gifts, friendly visits and offers to lend a hand. Helping a new friend to unpack or find out about the school bus schedule is the kind of everyday cooperation found in both towns and rural communities.

Rural electrification is neighborly cooperation, too. Kentucky's Rural Electric Co-ops... created by folks who got together to make a better life for themselves... are a good example of how neighborly cooperation can serve an entire state. As the countryside has brightened and prospered, so the townspeople have benefited, too. The additional income of Kentucky's farmers made possible by electricity is spent in town.

Adopts Improved Health Program

Increased state appropriations to the health foundation program should give all of Kentucky the services of local health officers, Gov. Bert Combs maintains.

He told a meeting of Public Health Association at Louisville that the appropriation by the General Assembly to the health foundation program for the next two years is almost a million and a half dollars.

He said the money also should provide additional nurses, sanitarians, clerks, health educators and nutritionists.

The governor noted that significant progress in the control of tuberculosis was being made and said the $800,000 budgetary increase to the State Tuberculosis Hospital Commission would be used chiefly for taking over Waverly Hills Sanitarium, Louisville, and for supplying antituberculosis drugs to all medically indigent patients.

The budget, Combs said, provides that 4 1/2 million dollars of state and federal money will be used in carrying out an indigent medical care program. Another act created a Division of Medical Care within the Department of Health and authorized a contract between this department and the Department of Economic Security for administering the program.

Combs said the larger budget for the Department of Mental Health would allow increased psychiatric and social service, better neurological and professional services, wider use of new drugs and improvement in the quality of institutional care.

To pay for these improved health benefits and the other progressive programs enacted by the 1960 Legislature, the governor said, the lawmakers enacted a 3 per cent retail sales tax and reduced the income tax by 40 per cent. Combs said he and other state officials would spend much time explaining the legislative program to the people.

'Green Candle of Hope' Given Kiwanis Support

To people in the countries behind the Iron Curtain, green is the color of hope. Knowing open resistance is nearly hopeless, they still express their independence of feeling by celebrating the "festival of the fir tree" and lighting a single green candle on their trees.

Originally this custom was confined to the Christmas season, but now the hopeful place a green candle on their tables at Easter as well, calling it the "Candle of Hope and Resurrection." This custom, made known in this country by refugees, was adopted by the Kiwanis Club of Rochester, Minnesota, in 1955, as a means of encouraging members, friends, and neighbors to light a Green Candle of Hope in their homes on Easter morning as a token of friendship and sympathy for those who cannot share our freedom.

Since 1957 the Green Candle of Hope program has been encouraged by the Kiwanis International Committee on Support of Churches in Their Spiritual Aims. It has received wide attention, including mention over Radio Free Europe to Eastern European nations.

EASTER PLANS? Children coming home from college? Friends or family arriving for the weekend? Well, whatever plans you have for Easter weekend, count on Long Distance service to help you enjoy it more. You can get together by phone to talk over arrangements, time of arrival and so on. Or, maybe you're taking to the road yourself. Then it's mighty convenient to phone ahead for reservations. And don't forget—an Easter greeting to someone you can't be with is so much warmer by phone! Mighty helpful, Long Distance—and the cost is small for the big pleasure it gives.

ROYAL VISIT... Saw in the paper recently that Japan's Crown Prince Akihito and his wife will visit the U. S. sometime in the late spring after their first child is born. Here's an interesting angle on their courtship. They met at the tennis court but according to Japanese custom couldn't have dates in the American sense. So Akihito phoned Michiko (his fiancée) about 10 times a day, and it was by phone that she said "yes". Well, as we say, the phone's a mighty handy thing to have around the house!

EXPLORER SCOUT PROGRAM TO BRING WIDE ACTIVITY

With spring, nearly 300,000 teen-aged boys move into the outdoor phase of "Exploring," the newest Boy Scout movement.

Members of the 21,000 Explorer Posts will go on Camporees, field trips, climbing expeditions, cruises and the like—each activity picked by the boys themselves.

The new program, begun in January, 1959, is growing fast. Its appeal to boys in the 14-17 age group is explained in an April Reader's Digest article, "New Horizons in Scouting." For decades, Albert Q. Maisel writes, ways had been sought to hold the interest of these older boys. Finally, interviewers asked the boys themselves what they wanted. They talked to boys of all backgrounds, in cities and rural areas.

They found 94 per cent wanted guidance and thought membership in a group would help them. Many wanted advice on getting along with girls; most worried about planning careers. They had less interest in team sports than in more adult play—swimming parties, fishing trips, mountain climbing.

The result: a new program, pegged on "exploring" the adult world ahead. Instead of troops with adult Scoutmasters, Explorer posts have elected leaders, and adult advisors. Each post picks its own activity of major interest. For example:

Post 501, Van Nuys, California, is science-minded. Helped by the Margardt Aircraft Co., members have studied nuclear engineering, satellites, ramjet design; they have built rocket engines and wind tunnels.

Post 19, West Haven, Conn., is studying auto mechanics and custom design—with a side course in safe-driving skills. The activity tamed a dangerous hot-rod gang.

Members of Post 8, Tucson, Ariz., are mountain climbers and cave explorers, with life-saving rescues to their credit.

Post 686, Portland, Ore., has a string of saddle horses which it supports with pay from cowboy chores—building fences and corrals.

Members of the New Orleans Area Council sail the vessel "Sea Explorer" out of the Gulf of Mexico to the Bahamas and back.

There are community services, too: Post 50, Rummelmede, N. J.,

Official Will Explain State Assembly

Frankfort, Ky. April 11 (Spl.) — Paul Brannon, commissioner of the Department of Public Relations, announces that he has assigned Charles E. Adams, Associate Commissioner, to tour the state and visit all newspaper offices to explain the administration's legislative program.

Adams' duty will be to answer newspapers' questions about various phases of the program, including the sales tax and the reduction in the income tax, Brannon said.

"We have a program which provides great benefits for Kentucky and its citizens and which will lay the groundwork for the progress which our Commonwealth and its resources so richly deserve," Brannon said.

The commissioner added: "Assignment of Adams to visit newspapers is part of an intensive campaign that has been placed under way by the Department of Public Relations to bring to the people of Kentucky full knowledge of the administration's program."

HAMILTON FAMILY

Miss Joy Sparks, 517 Windsor, Lakeland, Fla., writes about the Hamilton family.
"I was told that my Stephen Hamilton, who married Cynthia Stratton, was son of Thomas Hamilton (by first wife, Elizabeth Wright). Stephen was born about 1797... If he were born then he could have not been Thomas' son because Thomas married Ann Martin, July 16, 1795 and lists children as Sarah, born 1797, Easter, born 1806, Fernelia, born 1809 and James, born 1814. Do you have anything or know anyone who has exact date of Stephen's birth?"
"In Deed Book A, page 381, year of 1816, a Mr. Dunbar and Mr. McConnell to act for David, Stephen and Thomas in settlement of estate of David Wright, late of Tennessee. This makes me think that Stephen was born of Thomas—David Wright being maybe a brother-in-law to Elizabeth."
If anyone has information on the questions posed by Miss Sparks, would they write her?

MAY FAMILY

Mrs. Amy H. May, 135 W 2nd South, Bountiful, Utah, inquires about her connection with the Floyd county Mays.
"In September, 1959, there appeared in the Desert News, a Salt Lake City newspaper, an article on the death of Andrew Jackson May, age 84. There was no mention of any family or survivors."
"I am interested in the family as my husband's great-grandfather, Jacob, who married Isabella Patten, I have reason to believe lived in that town before moving to Ohio. Did he leave any family or is there anyone in Prestonsburg or near who would be interested in giving me information?"
"Grandfather Jacob May lived in Floyd county. He was born there. I have a record of the family but can't seem to get anything on grandfather, his birth, parents or children."

PVT. JONES LETTERS

A letter from William B. Haines, chief of Division of Soldiers' Claims—Veterans' Affairs, Adjutant General's Department, Columbus 15, Ohio, requests a complete file of the Pvt. William Jones letters that were serialized in 19 separate installments in this column.
Mr. Haines' letter is quoted as a sort of justification for printing any kind of historical material. It is needed somewhere.
"Shortly after the first of last year, we were privileged to receive two copies of the Floyd County Times containing your column, "Letters of Private William Jones." We hoped to obtain all ensuing copies, but have not received them as yet.
"Since there is no existing history of the 7th Regiment, Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, this series of letters could fill a great need, in giving a chronological account of the Regiment's activities.
"If possible, will you supply us with all issues in which your column appears?"

BURCHETT, WILLIAMS, OTHERS

This column has been trying to aid Mrs. Beulah R. Wulfenstein, genealogist and historian, Rt. 1, Box 273, Hubbard, Ore., in gathering information on several families to be included in a history to be published soon.
She writes, Feb. 10:
"Your letter of Jan. 23 was duly received and as usual it gave me a boost which has carried me along for some days. I have also had four or five responses to the last letter appearing in your column. I want to thank you sincerely.
"Still no response to my plea for Burchett descendants. The same is true on the Terry line and it is for lack of information on these families that we are losing ground. Our tentative date for publishing this history has been moved back once and now must be delayed a second time. Nonetheless, the help you have given me has made quite a difference in my work and I am at a loss for words with which to thank you properly.
"I have not heard from the editor of the Licking Valley Courier since my first letter appeared in your paper. Now I find that some years ago, about 1952 or 1956, several articles were published by that newspaper on the Williams family, the same as I am tracing. I have two of these articles but am unable to locate others. Perhaps one or more of your readers saved the clippings and would share the information with me.
"My letter to the Louisa newspaper was not answered so I am at somewhat of a loss concerning the which settled in that county.

"My thanks once again for use of the Craig information. This has clarified several points in my work and I have used the clippings to compare with early tax lists in Greenbrier county (where Martha Craig married Ambrose Jones) as well as census, marriage and court records. I am convinced that Martha is the granddaughter of Robt. son of the immigrant William. By backing away at information at hand and using all my collaborators' efforts as well, we may well be the first to locate new and important information on this line. Let us hope so. I have made a copy of the article and am wondering if it wouldn't be wise to contact the Logan Whitley Chapter, DAR, for possible copies of the other articles which appeared in the Interior Journal (Stanford).
"One last query. Can anyone tell me the name and location of the first Baptist church organized in Eastern Kentucky? I know the first Baptist church in Morgan county was organized in 1808 with both Daniel Williams and Ambrose Jones in attendance. William Ferguson was received by letter shortly thereafter. This was known as the Burning Springs Association and is still in existence. My query then is this: Was another Baptist church organized east of the Central counties of Kentucky prior to 1808?"
"All these men mentioned earlier were received into the church by letter. This was a referral from another Baptist church to the new one. If they were received by letter then it seems logical that they were attending another church before 1810. Where was this church located? Where are the minutes for same? I wrote to the Baptist Association some weeks ago and asked a similar question but they could not give me the names of any of the early churches themselves, or from some organization that has done research on this phase of history."

THRESHING WHEAT ON A FLOYD COUNTY FARM IN 1914

Forty-six years ago T. J. Hagans of the Beaver Creek section set up his custom wheat threshing machine on the farm of Dan Prater on Brush Creek. The machine, powered by gasoline, was one of the last of the time and area. Hagans, with the help of others, threshed wheat on the Prater farm for two days.

Wheat growing reached its peak in Floyd county in 1917 as the demand for food in Europe during World War I created a ready market. Several hundred acres of Floyd county farm land was devoted to the grain that year. At the end of the war production began to decline until today no wheat is raised here for sale to millers.

A. A. Treats Condition, Not Causes Of Drink

By J. Collis Ringo, Executive Director Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism

(NOTE: Mr. Ringo, the author of this series of articles, died recently. He had prepared a number of articles for distribution in weeks ahead, which this newspaper will publish. We believe that Mr. Ringo's work in this field, especially the writing of these informative columns, will long be a memorial to him.)

For many years it was believed, taught in some schools and offered as fact that alcohol was an addictive drug. It was generally accepted that alcohol in itself was the cause of alcoholism.

Indulgence in beverage alcohol is a requisite for becoming an alcoholic, but only a small percentage of drinkers are affected. One out of nine drinkers becomes a problem drinker, one out of 16 becomes a definite alcoholic; the others apparently drink temperately and suffer no ill effects.

At present, in spite of exhaustive research, scientists have not been able to isolate any single factor to explain why this minority suffers such extremely painful and often fatal consequences.

The statement was prophetic. Every study made in the last 20 years produces additional evidence that alcoholics suffer from emotional and personality disorders combined with metabolic disease factors.

Allison C. Brown, executive director of the Arkansas Commission on Alcoholism, insists that a third element is involved. Brown says alcoholics are spiritually sick in addition to the psychological and metabolic aspects and to arrest the illness requires help in all three phases.

The A. A. approach ignores any causes. They take the attitude that causes are actually unknown but that the condition, the disease factor, can be arrested.

Study Paying Out-of-State Veteran Bonus

Frankfort, Ky., April 11 (Spl.) — A study is now underway to determine the cost of paying a bonus to Kentucky war veterans who have moved from the state.

Gov. Bert Combs says he will decide whether he favors such payments after the study is completed.

He told his views to members of the National Organization of Out-of-State Kentucky Veterans who conferred with him recently. Combs added that he hopes the cost of the payment will not be prohibitive.

The organization's president, Edward Hacker, and four other representatives, all from Hamilton, Ohio, issued a statement after the meeting expressing confidence in Combs and declaring their group to be non-partisan.

The statement said: "We resent any efforts by any politician in or out of the state of Kentucky to use our organization for their own selfish purposes . . ."

A meeting at the Lexington courthouse April 9, was not called under the organization's sponsorship, the statement also said.

The bonus bill passed by the 1960 Legislature calls for payment to veterans of four wars at the rate of $9 a month for stateside duty and $15 a month for overseas service—to maximums of $300 and $500 respectively.

CHEVY! YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS . . . UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!
Anyone who's looked around knows the majority of Chevrolet models—6's and V8's together—list for less than comparable models of other low-priced cars. But the price tag alone is only one of a whole raft of reasons a Chevy does better by your dollars.
Nothing near Chevy's size and price can match the Full Coil cushioning of its ride, or the fine, finished workmanship of its Body by Fisher. That even applies to some cars that cost a lot more. You're up in the higher price brackets before you find a car that moves as quietly as a Chevrolet—or offers the inner space that Chevrolet does.
Or look at the extras Chevy gives you —at no extra cost—that others in its class can't offer at any price. Shock-cushioned steering. Safety Plate Glass in every window. Keyless locking of all doors. Crank-operated vent windows. Chevrolet offers the widest choice of power teams, too. Drive a Chevy just once. You'll have a tough time settling for anything less.

Professional Engineers Meet At Lexington

Members of the Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers held their annual meeting April 3 and 4 at the Phoenix hotel, in Lexington.

Arrangements, as presented by the Blue Grass Chapter of the society, host chapter for the meeting, were approved at a directors' meeting recently in Lexington.

The morning session included a welcome address by Lexington Mayor Richard J. Colbert, a talk on "Industrial Development and Its Impact Upon the Engineering Profession," by E. Bruce Kennedy, Commissioner, Department of Economic Development, and a panel discussion on "Specifications of An Engineer." Panel participants include Ralph F. Kessinger, Director of Personnel, General Telephone Company of Kentucky; Dean R. E. Shaver, of the University of Kentucky College of Engineering; A. J. Ronvaux, in charge of engineering recruitment for International Business Machines Corporation in Lexington; H. V. Staggs, Staggs and Fisher, consulting engineers, Lexington; A. O. Neiser, Assistant State Highway Engineer, Frankfort; and Dean R. C. Ernst, of Speed Scientific School, Louisville. Dwight C. Bray, Frankfort, speaking on "Good Roads As Related to Kentucky's Industrial Future," will conclude the morning program.

KSPE joined with the Kentucky Section, American Society of Civil Engineers for luncheon where Dr. Thomas D. Clark, head of the history department at the University of Kentucky, will speak on the "Changing South." Herschel St. Ledger, Louisville, president of the Kentucky Section, ASCE, will preside at the luncheon.

The annual business meeting and election of officers and directors followed the luncheon. Thomas A. Ballantine, Louisville, president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, will be the principal speaker at the dinner April 4, concluding the meeting. At this session the new officers and directors were installed by the Society's first president, J. Stephen Watkins, Lexington.

Eddie Worland, Prestonsburg, and Tom Spencer Combs, of Langley, attended the meeting. Mr. Combs is president of the Big Sandy Chapter of the society.

BAR SESSIONS TALK CHANGE

For Ky. Constitution; Annual Association Meet Held April 6-7

Panel discussion of the convention to redraft portions of the Kentucky Constitution was the most important segment of the annual meeting of the Kentucky Bar Association in Louisville, April 6 and 7. Ben B. Fowler, of Frankfort, president of the Kentucky Bar Association, announced this week. The round table session on the subject will occupy the entire afternoon on Wednesday, April 6.

Ed P. Jackson, of Louisville, editor of the Kentucky Bar Journal, was chairman of the "Constitutional Revision" meeting and scheduled participants were Morris C. Montgomery, chief justice of the State Court of Appeals; Lieutenant Governor Wilson Wyatt; John A. Fulton, Louisville; and Rufus Lisle, Lexington.

More than 700 men and women lawyers attended the Louisville meeting, which was centered in the Kentucky hotel, and the subject of revising part of the State Constitution is considered so important by the legal profession that practically a heentire registration at the Bar Association attended the April 6 meeting.

Discussing the April 6 program, Mr. Jackson said: "Members of the Kentucky bar are practically unanimous in recognizing the need for selected changes in the State Constitution, but we want to initiate wide and thorough consideration of possible provisions of this reform, so that when the Constitutional Convention meets in 1963 every possible contingency will be completely documented for the convention membership."

"All agree that many provisions of our present Constitution, such as the Bill of Rights, are excellent. The act calling for a vote on limited revision makes any change of these basic provisions impossible. The subjects to be considered are mainly concerned with governmental organization. Our present Constitution, adopted in 1892, fixes an organization which is the equivalent of a horse and buggy government in today's jet propulsion age."

"The state is practically committed to the revision program—it has been approved by a special session of the 1958 legislature and the 1960 legislature and the question will go on referendum ballot next Nov. 8, for an anticipated approval by Kentucky voters."

"Of course, from the lawyers' standpoint," continued Mr. Jackson, "one of the most needed constitutional provisions is some reform of the judiciary. The State Bar Association cannot be expected to make specific plans prior to the convention, but there are several points on which there is general agreement. For instance:

"The State Court of Appeals, with seven judges and four commissioners, nowadays must handle 700 to 800 cases per year—a staggering load which can only result in a continually worsening judicial log jam or hasty and almost casual consideration of many individual cases."

"The present constitution prohibits establishment of 'intermediary' courts which some lawyers and judges feel are needed. It also prohibits the establishment of juvenile, traffic, domestic relations and other much needed lower courts."

"All in all, Kentucky's Constitution needs revision in the provisions indicated and our meeting in April at Louisville is designed to outline needs and possible programs, but not to set up specific plans nor recommendations."

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"GIDDAP AND WHOA"

I have written of our losing our ways of calling animals. The whole vocabulary we once used with our animals is certainly growing less well known. It is hardly worth the time and trouble to explain to any young person about "Adam's off ox." In the first place, what is an ox? And why is the right one called the off one? Who wants an ox? Who cares how to drive the hard-headed critters, anyway, when it is unlikely that anyone who reads this column will see an ox team in this year?

Our mule Beck, which was raised as an orphan by the men whom we bought her from, had been taught all the signs that well-bred mules should know. My brother would often show off when other boys were looking by tying the plowlines to the hames of the mule and plow her back and forth across the cornfield merely by calling Gee, Haw and Whoa with a Giddap when Beck decided that she would resort to idling along like a lazy boy. I have seen many an ox team that were even better trained than our tricky mule; sometimes I could not understand the directions given by some soft-voiced colored helper, but the oxen seemed to understand; anyway, they gee-ed at the right time and haw-ed at the right time.

Down Fidelity way we had only right-handed plows; therefore the lead animal was the one on our left sides as we followed the plow. When I came into the Pennyville, I found plows of either type. I wonder whether my hard-headed Beck mule could have adjusted to a left-handed plow. I am afraid that she would have felt like Adam's off ox.

Besides whistles and nonsense words used to call animals or shoo them away, there were and are a lot of clicks, smacks and other sounds that every farm boy of my time knew. One such smack gave rise to a riddle: "What will make a dog come to you, a horse go from you, and a girl stay with you always?" I regret that I cannot spell the smack that we used; but the sound got results. I observed, with dogs, horses and girls. We also used a strange, tonguey sound to call hogs, almost the same ugly sound we used to make fun of somebody. Pigs reacted favorably to this sucking, clicking sound. When we used this sound to make fun of a youngster, we usually crooked our right fore finger, too. That was supposed to produce great shame. I have seen it produce hair-pulling and fist-cuffs.

One of our neighbors, still living and ninety-seven years old, used to say "Steady, Noble" to his horse. I never knew just what he was trying to have the horse do. Maybe he meant for the animal to slow down, "take it easy." Whether Noble steadied I did not find out.

I wish I had recorded the various things I have heard people say to their animals. From "Saw" (probably "so") to the cow to various remarks that could hardly be quoted here. One of our neighbors apparently called his old bay mare what he would have loved to call his wife but did not dare. Since this same fellow was a very pious churchman, some of the neighbor boys twitted him about his foul language to a dumb brute. He said that these fighting words uttered to his old mare were pet names that she would understand. I am glad that she had not studied plain English, for I fear she would have felt badly put upon by her owner. My favorite of all this kind of talk was uttered by Big Mac, a very large colored hired hand, to the mule he was plowing: "Get up, you -----, or I'll jerk your hind leg off and beat you to death with it."

Of course, Big Mac had an audience; for them and not for the mule was he such a maker of mayhem. Anyway, talking to animals often relieves one's feelings, good ones and bad ones. Very few animals can talk back, but a dog certainly seems to try. I wonder what he would really say, however, if he suddenly found human speech. He might shock us with his language, particularly if there were another dog around to hear the language.

Dog's Devotion Story Aids Handicapped Child, Says April Reader's Digest

The story of a Montana sheep dog's five-and-a-half-year vigil for a dead master has brought new purpose in life to hundreds of blind and deaf children, the April Reader's Digest reports.

The dog, named Shep, followed his master's body to the railroad station at Fort Benton, Mont., in 1936. Barred from the train, he waited at the station for his master to return. He met all four trains every day for five and a half years—until a sub-zero day in 1942, when aging reflexes betrayed him and he jumped off the tracks a second too late.

A local clergyman preached at Shep's funeral. Members of Boy Scout Troop 47 were pallbearers. The town erected a profile monument to Shep on a bluff near the tracks. Trainmen focused a permanent spotlight on it, and as the Great Northern streamliners passed, passengers were told the story of the colle's vigil.

Conductor Ed Shields wrote Shep's story in a booklet which trainmen sold. Soon, he had $200 profit. He gave it to the Montana School for the Deaf and Blind at Great Falls, around Christmas time, 1946. The money bought toys, candy skates—"luxuries the legislature can't buy for us," as the superintendent, Glenn I. Harris, phrased it. More money came in. A "Shep Fund" was set up.

Children in institutions often become sullen and destructive because they get only the necessities and are skimped on the frivolous extras which spell love and security to a child. "We estimate the Shep Fund saves us $3,000 a year in breakage," Superintendent Harris said.

To date, a total of $50,000 in contributions has poured into the Shep Fund, plus substantial bequests in wills. The money enabled the school to begin a year-around program of extra care, a whole new therapy of love and security for its deaf and blind. It has financed trips to the state capitol at Helena; week-ends at dude ranches; camp-outs in Yellowstone. A share of the money was put aside for college scholarships.

The program has had a marked effect. Ordinarily, fewer than ten per cent of graduates of state schools for the deaf qualify for college; by this yardstick, Montana would normally send one graduate per year to Gallaudet College for the deaf in Washington, D. C. But recently, the entire graduating class of nine qualifies.

The Digest article, "A Dog Named Shep," by Paul Friggens, of La Grange, Ill., is condensed from the Farm Journal.

"Trial by Lawyers" Blasts Log Jam of Small Suits Piling Up in U. S. Courts

A unique "trial by lawyer" arbitration plan has brought quick justice to more than 14,000 Philadelphians who once had to wait up to nine years for their day in court. The idea is
