This Town-- That World

Comes now that time of the week when it's write something for this column or cut line and go home... Wish it were that simple.

OH, WELL!

I could clip a few paragraphs that pass for jokes, but folks would say I'm too lazy to do something on my own, and those who don't like jokes would gripe about my being too frivolous. And if I inveigh against this or that, they'll want to know who I think I am to criticize. If I let the column go, somebody will want to know why; and, now that I'm writing it, somebody will still wonder why.

HOW IT HAPPENED

We retell this one which comes from Allan Trout via Watt Hale: It was in the depths of the Depression when the next meal was of deep concern to millions of Americans. Two elderly friends met in a town of the region, hailed each other heartily after a separation of many months. Finally, one asked the other, "How's your pa?" "Pa's dead," the other sadly informed him. "Hadn't you heard?" "The other, of course, hadn't," and he inquired about the details. "He was eatin' his dinner, and broke his neck," the bereaved son explained. "Broke his neck? Did he fall out of his chair?" "Nope. He was up in that perimmon tree, out back of the house, and he fell out." (See Story No. 3, Page 8)

AWARDS PACT ON EQUIPMENT

Major Items for Plant Ordered by Power Firm; Work Start Set in June

Kentucky Power Company this week announced the awarding of contracts to Westinghouse Electric Corporation and Babcock & Wilcox Company for major equipment to be installed at its Big Sandy plant, soon to be built in Eastern Kentucky.

The $39-million plant will be located on the Big Sandy river, near Louisa. Construction is expected to be started about June, with completion anticipated for the fall of 1962.

The plant's 265,000-kilowatt steam turbine-generator unit will be built by Westinghouse; the turbine at its Steam Division at Lester, Pa., and the generator at its East Pittsburgh, Pa., plant. The turbine will operate at a steam pressure of 2,400 pounds per square inch and a steam temperature of 1,050 degrees Fahrenheit.

Babcock & Wilcox will build the 150-foot-high steam boiler, which will be of the pulverized fuel-fire, reheat type. It will have a capacity of supplying 1,890,000 of main steam per hour and 1,534,000 pounds of reheat steam per hour. The principal boiler components will be fabricated at B & W's Barborton, O., works.

Kentucky Power is an operating company subsidiary of American Electric Power Company and the new plant will be interconnected and integrated with the other 15 major power stations of the seven-state AEP System.

FLOYD AMONG 30 COUNTIES IN PROGRAM

Kellogg Foundation Fund Assures 7-Year Program For Benefit of Region

A program planned to improve economic conditions in Floyd and 29 other Eastern Kentucky counties was announced Monday, with the Kellogg Foundation contributing $754,000 over a seven-year period toward the wide-scale undertaking.

In announcing the grant Monday, Gov. Bert Combs called it a "break-through in the psychology of gloom" in the 30-county area. He said the new sales tax enabled the state to appropriate sufficient matching funds to make Kentucky eligible for the grant.

A 10-member team of specialists from the University of Kentucky Agricultural College will begin by July 1 a program seeking to elevate the area in these seven categories:

1. Industrial location and development.
2. Community improvement and planning.
3. Career guidance and job placement.
4. Soil, water and crop management.
5. Meat, poultry and milk production.
6. Horticulture, forest management and utilization.
7. Marketing and transportation.

Agriculture College Dean Frank Welch, who will head the university team, said planning for the project already has started.

He said his group will work with residents of the area and guide a block of governmental services seeking to provide new economic opportunities and ease unemployment. The team also will aid local leaders to stimulate residents to improve their own living conditions; and, where there is a surplus of labor, to seek opportunities outside the area.

A survey of 22 of the 30 counties indicated the area had a 17 per cent population loss in the past eight years because of lack of job opportunities.

It also showed per capita income for the 30 counties in 1956 was $680—one-third of the national average. Counties to be included in the project, besides Floyd are:

Hall Bros. Seeks Theft Slow-down Of Go Slow Signs

Thieves are specialists but a new one abroad in this county takes funeral home signs. Hall Brothers Funeral Home, which has been losing the diamond-shaped traffic control signs for months, decided last week when they lost two to offer a reward.

"We offer a liberal reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of these thieves," Johnnie Hall says. "I want to slow this thing down," he added. The traffic signs have the legend, "Slow-Funeral Ahead."

"What earthly use people can have for these signs beats me," Hall said. "A funny thing, they always take just one at a time." He noted that these signs, costing usually $25 each, are for the public's protection.

Wins Scholarship

Stephen Lee Best, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Best, of Cliff, was named as a recipient of a four-week scholarship to Morehead State College this summer. The scholarship was awarded by the National Science Foundation through competitive examinations held over the state. Best was one of 20 high school seniors to receive such a scholarship.

ISAACS HEADS ADVERTISING FOR ROBERTSHAW-FULTON

Richmond, Va., April 25 (Spl.)—Thomas M. Isaacs, Prestonsburg native, has been appointed director of advertising and sales promotion for the Robertshaw-Fulton Controls Company, it was announced last week by A. W. Beck, vice-president of marketing.

Mr. Isaacs, who will have his office at the controls firm's headquarters here, has been program supervisor of industrial advertising for the Reynolds Metals Company. He joined Reynolds in 1952 at Louisville, Ky., and later was transferred to that firm's general offices in Richmond.

Mr. Isaacs is a graduate of the University of Louisville. He lives in Richmond at 3525 Grove Avenue. He is a son of Mrs. Beatrice Blackburn Isaacs, of Cincinnati, and the late Martin Isaacs.

FLOYD FIFTH IN STATE AID

Educational Allotment For County $1,507,879; Added Services Seen

Floyd county is one of the five school districts in Kentucky that will receive an allotment from the state of more than a million dollars for educational purposes in the ensuing school year.

The county will get $1,507,879, according to an announcement last week by Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell P. Butler.

The state allotted $62,418,117 to Kentucky's 212 public school districts for the 1960-61 school year. The increase was $2,743,857 over last year, Butler said.

The superintendent's office here pointed out that this larger amount for education in Floyd county will mean many additional services for the system.

The four districts with greater allotments than Floyd and the amounts given are Jefferson county, $3,560,216; Louisville, $3,419,336; Pike county, $2,111,632, and Harlan county, $1,973,620.

Tentative State allotments of $61,576,494 were made last August. The final ones released Wednesday under the minimum foundation program of State aid to public schools are adjusted figures using exact classroom and transportation units and qualifications of teachers.

Combined with local support to the schools, the 212 districts will spend $99,441,396 for education in this school year.

A sharp increase is expected next year when record-breaking State appropriations for education go into effect.

$68,298,526 goes for instructional salaries. Another $14,720,340 was allotted for current expenses; $9,579,240 for capital outlay, and $6,843,200 for transportation costs.

These figures include both State and local support.

Butler said the number of classroom units allotted in this school year was 24,534, or an increase of 549 over the number allotted in the previous year.

He said the per cent of teachers with college degrees increased from 66 in 1958-59 to 69 in 1959-60.

The number of transportation units increased 182 over the 1958-59 total of 4,094. Butler said this was caused by more children in school and consolidation of smaller schools into larger ones.

Local effort decreased $110,812 in 1959-60 over the previous year, he said, because of a recent Court of Appeals decision affecting assessment of franchise property.

The Revenue Department, however, is revising franchise-tax assessments under a new law passed by the 1960 Legislature and the loss probably will be made up next year. Under the foundation program, a school district is guaranteed at least $80 a pupil in average daily attendance, or the district's per capita allotment for 1955-56 (before the foundation law took effect), whichever is greater.

Hyden Named Regent Of Morehead College; Succeeds Mrs. Shannon

Dr. Joe Taylor Hyden, Martin dentist, was named last week to the board of regents of Morehead State College by Governor Combs.

The appointment gave Morehead's board of regents two members from Floyd county. B. F. Reed, drift coal operator, is a member under appointment by Ex-Governor Chandler.

Dr. Hyden succeeds Mrs. E. E. Shannon, of Louisa. Other regents are Mr. Reed, Charles Gilley, Winchester; Alex L. Chamberlain, Louisville; Bruce Walters, Pikeville; and Dr. Farmell, Maysville.

WYATT URGES STEAM PLANT

For Eastern Kentucky In Conference With TVA Officials At Knoxville

An Eastern Kentucky location for a new TVA steam plant was urged by Lieutenant Governor Wilson W. Wyatt and other Kentuckians in a full scale meeting with the TVA Board of Directors, general manager and key staff members, in Knoxville, Tennessee, last Wednesday.

"Every conceivable factor which might affect TVA's decision was explored to place us in the best possible position to work in close cooperation with TVA, and to advance Kentucky's interest in getting their plant. We were shown every courtesy and received much helpful information," Wyatt said.

Accompanying Wyatt was E. B. Kennedy, commissioner of Economic Development, Leonard Kern, director of Industrial Development, and John D. Whisman, director of Eastern Kentucky Development.

Kennedy outlined four basic requirements upon which the Kentuckians were told TVA's decision would be based.

1. Location of the use area for current to be produced and cost of required transmission lines.
2. Location of adequate and proper coal reserves and suitability of economic transportation systems between coal reserves and the site.
3. Supply of water. Initial raw water supply needed would be approximately 500 cubic feet per second, and twice this amount might be required later. Use of cooling towers and other devices could reduce the actual supply needed, but at added cost.
4. A site of as much as 1,000 acres, with a minimum of 500 acres, and with the major part "reasonably level."

"It will be the site at which the best economic balance of all these factors is found, that TVA will select," Kennedy pointed out. "We will now go to our first to determine which of our Kentucky areas (See Story No. 4, Page 8)

Annual Floyd Festival May 7, at Prestonsburg, Features Band Parade

The annual Floyd County Music Festival will be held in Prestonsburg, May 7, with all its traditional pagentry, it was announced this week.

The parade of high school and grade school bands, with school beauty queens adorning convertible automobiles, will be held about 10 a.m.

A band concert will not be held in the evening, as in previous years.

OFFICIALS, GRAND JURY PROBE OPENING OF 4 ABBOTT GRAVES; YOUTHS' CABIN FOUND NEARBY

County officials began an investigation Wednesday afternoon into the mutilation of four graves in an old cemetery on Abbott Creek, and this morning (Thursday) youths of that neighborhood were being questioned by the grand jury.

Four graves had been opened and re-filled, and a headstone to one grave was missing, authorities said. A small boy was said to have admitted that he and three other juveniles had dug into the graves, but officials believe older youths are involved, since the graves apparently were opened to their full depth.

The violated cemetery is on the Garfield Music farm and is located in the gap between Lick Fork and the Conley Fork of Abbott Creek. Members of the family of Wesley Francis are buried there, and there are about six graves in all. It was said that the first grave in the cemetery dates back to around 1913, and the latest to 1941 or 1942.

Special Council Meeting Fails To Draw Quorum For Tax Problem Talk

A special meeting of the City Council, called by Mayor Edward B. Leslie for last Monday night, failed to draw a quorum as only three Councilmen appeared. The meeting was called for further discussion of tax assessment equalization and possible Council action.

Only Councilmen Tom O. McGuire, Watt Hale and Jody Fannin appeared for the meeting. The Council will hold its regular meeting next Monday night.

FEDERAL JURY INDICTS HAYES

Former Attorney Here Accused in Auto Theft Operations Last Year

Paul E. Hayes, former Prestonsburg attorney and a former assistant attorney-general, was named in a federal grand jury indictment at Pikeville Monday of figuring in the disposition of two stolen autos.

Jointly indicted with him was Helen Hayes. The indictment alleges that on or about January 12, 1959, they received a 1954 Cadillac transported in interstate commerce from Portsmouth, Ohio, to Floyd county, then to Bristol, Va., and to Lexington, Ky.; and on January 30, 1959, of receiving a 1957 Ford transported from Portsmouth, Ohio, to Floyd county and thence to Pound, Virginia.

Other Floyd countians named in federal indictments are:

Junior Collins, Dema, possessing moonshine whiskey; William Sherman Cook and Jake Halbert, both of McDowell, removing non-tax-paid distilled spirits; Ike Hall, Banner, conspiring with Kenneth Gene Stratton and Minnie Frances Murray in passing spurious checks here and elsewhere in this section; Robert Bailey, East McDowell, possessing moonshine whiskey; Ellis Keathley, Galveston, moonshining.

FIRST SECTOR OF ROAD 'LET'

Right-of-Way Office Established at Stanton; Powell Group Protests

First leg of the highway planned by Governor Combs from Winchester into Eastern Kentucky was to contract April 16, and at the same time announcement was made that other preliminary work is planned.

The first sector of the huge highway-building program to be contracted for construction is 6.89 miles, extending from Van Cleve to Stanton. The contract, calling for grade, drain and traffic-bound surfacing, was awarded to C. D. Juett, Inc., Winchester, on its bid of $1,373,645.

Highway Commissioner Earle C. Clements last week announced that a district right-of-way office is being established at Campton to speed work on the high-speed road to the mountains. He said actual work on the road should be begun by Sept. 1.

The highway, as planned, will be four-lane from Winchester to Stanton where one two-lane prong will extend to Prestonsburg and Pikeville and another will drive to Whitesburg. Passing lanes on hills will be a feature of the two branches of the big highway.

While plans were going ahead for the super-type highway linking Eastern Kentucky with the Bluegrass, opposition arose in one area to the idea of toll-road financing of (See Story No. 5, Page 8)

TWO OFFICIALS IN FUNDS TIFF

Treasurer Asks Audit, Claims Jenny Wiley Fund, Others Were Transferred

An immediate audit of the accounts of Jenny Wiley State Park, Kentucky Dam Village and Kentucky Lake State Park was requested Monday by State Treasurer Thelma L. Stovall in a dispute over who has the authority to transfer such accounts.

Mrs. Stovall and Finance Commissioner Robert E. Martin, on opposing sides in the 1959 political campaign, were the principals in the hassle. The former said Martin had ordered the transfer of parks funds to other banks.

"That is a complete misstatement," Martin said. "I have not ordered the withdrawal of funds from any banks, and I have not authorized their placement in other banks."

Martin said he simply had permitted the parks to deposit their receipts in different banks which also qualify as state depositories.

"The law, of course," Martin said, "gives the commissioner of finance authority to permit an agency to place temporary deposits in the bank previously qualified as a state depository by the state treasurer and the commissioner of finance."

Mrs. Stovall asked state Auditor Joe Schneider for the audit, saying Thomas J. Nelson, acting director of parks, had asked her to authorize these transfers: (See Story No. 9, Page 8)

Work, Not Cash, Needed To Ready Squad Building For May 28 Dedication

The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad urgently needs help, and the appeal is not for money.

Dedication of the squad's new building here has been set for May 28, and the structure is not completed. So what is needed just now is help from those who are willing to give an hour or more of their time working to get the building ready for its official dedication.

Men who will help with this work are requested to contact Graham Burchett, W. R. Callihan or Homer D. Neeley, Jr.

Commemorative Stamp Offered For Sale Here; Johnson Notes Purpose

A new postage stamp, commemorative of the Seventh National Watershed Congress at Washington, D. C., in April, went on sale at the Prestonsburg postoffice, it was noted this week.

"The stamp honors the organizations which are engaged in water conservation activities, according to L. R. Johnson, Floyd County soil conservationist. He pointed out that virtually every community in the country has a water problem of some sort—periodic floods, droughts or pollution.

"Water conservation is so closely related to soil conservation that the two must work together. Millions of gallons of water can be conserved in the soil by conservation farming," Johnson said.

FLOYD SOCIAL SECURITY PAY TO PASS $2 MILLION A YEAR

(Special to The Times)

New York, April 25—Merchants in Floyd county can expect an increase in business from the older segment of the population during the next five years. It will stem from some $10,965,000 that will be received in the form of Social Security benefit payments.

That is the estimated amount that will be paid to local workers and their families from the Old-Age and Survivors' Insurance Trust Fund and the Federal Disability Insurance Trust Fund.

It represents the proceeds from insurance and is not in the nature of public assistance.

The amount, which is considerably more than the payments made in Floyd county in the past five years, is in line with estimates prepared on a national scale and presented to Congress recently by the trustees of the funds.

Explaining the general increase, the trustees state that the number of people eligible for benefits is increasing year by year. Also, a larger proportion of those reaching the retirement age of 65 are arriving with fully insured status and are entitled therefore, to bigger pensions.

These factors, combined with Congressional expansion of the scale of benefits, have caused the rise in the amounts the trustees say they will be called upon to pay in the future.

Floyd county beneficiaries covered by OASI were receiving checks at the rate of $1,908,840 annually last year, according to the official figures.

During the next five years, assuming conformance with the national pattern predicted by the trustees, the average annual receipts in the county will be 14.9 per cent higher, or $2,193,000 per year. For the entire period, it will total $10,965,000.

From small beginnings, the federal insurance system has grown to huge size. It now has in its files the work histories of more than 130 million people. Nearly 80 million of them had earnings credited to their accounts during the past year.

MAN ACCUSED IN DYNAMITING IS ACQUITTED

Witness Says Hatfield Forced Him To Dynamite DeRossett Residence

Marion Hatfield was declared innocent last Friday by a Floyd circuit court jury of the dynamiting of the home on Bull Creek of Frank DeRossett.

The not-guilty verdict was made, despite testimony of one man that Hatfield forced him at gun-point to place dynamite under the home and light the fuse, and the testimony of two others that Hatfield had earlier approached them and attempted to hire them to blast the residence.

Two of the three witnesses are federal convicts. "Jap" Harris and Freddy Newsome, Jr. The third was Jackie Hall, of Banner.

Hatfield introduced testimony establishing an alibi, with at least three witnesses corroborating his statement that he was at or near Jackson, Ohio, the night of the dynamiting.

Harris, who was brought here from the Atlanta penitentiary, testified he was at the home of Jackie Hall when Marion Hatfield arrived there during the afternoon preceding the night of the blast, that Hatfield took him near the DeRossett home, then held a gun on him and forced him to place five sticks under the building and another five sticks under the nearby car of the DeRossetts' daughter, and then to light the fuses. He said Hatfield then drove him to the top of Abbott mountain, there ordered him from the car and fired one shot at him. He added that he hitch-hiked a ride with an unknown man back to the Jackie Hall home at Banner.

Newsome said Hatfield offered him $500 to use either gasoline or dynamite in destroying the home and a neighboring church but that he refused the offer.

He told the jury of Hatfield arriving at his home around 6 p.m. the day of the dynamiting, attempting to hire him to do the job. He said he told Hatfield he had been in enough trouble already and refused the offer. "What about Jap there?" he quoted Hatfield as saying. He said Harris then went outside and left soon thereafter, Harris returning about 6 o'clock the following morning.

Bascom Hall also told of Hatfield being at the Jackie Hall home and of his leaving in company with Harris.

The accused man testified he came here from Jackson, Ohio, the day preceding the blast, and went to Weeksburg to visit his son. The latter was not at home, however, and he stopped on the way back down Left Beaver to get his pants (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

INDIANS STUDY FLOYD FARMING

Krishna Lal Basu, left, and Robert M. Jones, Floyd county agent, discuss the agricultural extension program in the United States with Miss Vibha Virmani. The two Indian college instructors spent last week in Floyd county studying agricultural extension programs and vo-ag instruction in the schools.

Floyd county was host last week to two representatives of one of the world's oldest civilizations. They were in America to study many phases of the newer civilization of America.

They were Krishna Lal Basu and Miss Vibha Virmani, of India. They were here to learn, for one thing, about the agricultural extension program and how it could be adapted to conditions in their own country.

Representatives of the intelligence of one of the newest members of the world's fraternity of nations, they revealed facets of their own civilization and noted impressions of ours.

The standard of American living was almost incomprehensible to them. Television is in its infancy in India. Food surpluses commodities distribution are unheard of in their country. They don't like the Americans they meet in India but were delighted with the average people they found here. They think more cordial relations could be established if their countrymen could see the average American instead of the flashy, extrovert American tourist. They observed that our State Department had a lot to learn.

While here they visited Prestonsburg schools, attended a 4-H club meeting at Wheelwright and a club-men's association gathering at the courthouse. They toured the Lafferty farms at Cliff with County Agent Robert Jones.

It was J. L. Lafferty's store of canned goods that impressed them. In India they do little home canning and that only of sweets. Farming methods are much more intensive in India, they observed, as scarcity or arable land for the country's teeming population of 380 millions is great.

Both of the visitors are college professors; he is married, she is not. He teaches political science and is particularly interested in vocational agriculture instruction. Basu obtained (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

ALLEN FAMILY

A letter from W. W. Felts, Box 605, Houston 1, Texas, to Mrs. Irma Wicker Haney, Hodgenville, Ky., is referred to this column.

The letter follows and is of interest to those engaged in research on the Allen family:

"I am a descendant of Nathaniel Allen, Sr., born in Georgia, Nov. 15, 1732, died January, 1852, in Jasper county, Texas. He married first, don't know, but had sons John and William. Second marriage was to Sally Grigsby Glenn, widow of Duke Glenn. They were married in Kentucky in 1826. She was a daughter of Joseph Grigsby and Sarah Mitchell Graham Grigsby. Joseph was son of Nathaniel, Sr., son of James, son of John Grigsby who came to Virginia. Joseph and Sally (sic) married in 1798 in Nelson county, Ky.

"Sally was daughter of Isabella Mitchell Graham and Christopher Graham of Kentucky, formerly of Virginia. Nancy (?) Grigsby married Benjamin Allen, also son William Allen of Nathaniel Allen, Sr., married Ann M. Grigsby. Nathaniel Allen, Sr., and second wife had a son, Nathaniel Allen, Jr., who married Rachel Tweet, daughter of William H. Tweet, born 1808, and C. Graham Tweet, born 1804 in South Carolina. C. Graham, daughter of Thomas Graham, born 1768 and Ann Graham, born 1776. Another kin to Nathaniel Allen, Sr., was John Allen, born in Tennessee, 1795, married to Louanna Taylor in 1811. A daughter married a Turner, from Jackson, Tennessee.

"John Allen was kin to Nathaniel.

Sr. Nathaniel, Jr., was father of Annie Allen, who married in 1878 to Rev. Wesley Robinson, of Mississippi, parent of my mother, Jessica Robinson, who married Frank D. Felts.

"Nathaniel, Sr., set came from Virginia, to Kentucky, to North Carolina, to Illinois. I believe the tradition is that Great-Great-Grandfather Nathaniel, Sr., was a grandson of one of five brothers from Ireland or Scotland. Have searched for the facts since 1936.

"We are connected to Abe Lincoln on the Sarah Lincoln Grigsby side and to President Tyler in the Graham line."

Another letter to Mrs. Haney on the Allen family is from Miss Julia Hatton, Box 420, Benjamin Franklin Station, Washington, D. C.

She wrote, Feb. 30, 1959:

"I am interested to learn that you are connected with the North Carolina Allens and there is a chance in a million that you may be able to help me. As you may know so (See Story No. 8, Page 6)

The Teacher—and the Horns Of an Old Dilemma

What is to be the role of the teacher as an American citizen, outside the classroom?

Both the Kentucky Education Association and the National Education Association recognize the inherent citizenship rights of the teacher, the right to vote, to discuss social, political and economic issues, even the right to support candidates for office.

But what about the part the teacher is to play in this so-called non-political matter of electing members of boards of education on whom fall the responsibility of electing a county superintendent and who are also responsible for important phases of school administration? Shall the teacher fall back into the role of a mere voter, or shall she actively campaign for this or that candidate?

Last year the KEA had its Commission on Tenure and Academic Freedom studying that very problem. Involved was the case of a woman-teacher who had been politically active on behalf of a school board candidate who was not regarded as friendly to the administration. Upshot of the matter, it developed, was that her candidate lost, her job was abolished and she was relegated to a small school, miles away.

The Commission made an informal inquiry into the situation. Its sub-committee investigated the facts, heard testimony, then filed its report.

And out of all that investigating, delving, probing and brow-wrinkling came this remarkable statement which is contained in the Commission's report as published in the Kentucky School Journal:

"It was the general feeling of the members of the commission that, if teachers or other school personnel participated actively for or against school board candidates in local school board elections, they should be prepared to accept the outcome."

As if any two-bit precinct politician could not have told the learned commission that without the trouble of a hearing, even without a moment's hesitation!

If that means that a teacher must be prepared to accept retaliation from the winner if she backs a loser, it would seem the better part of discretion for the poor teacher to become a political nonentity, stick to her classroom knittin', and leave the politics to the politicians.

But what happens to the teacher to whom it is suggested she should keep her "friends" who are candidates for membership to a school board, if she refuses to take part in the hurly-burly of a political fight? Immediately, the winner invokes the old, mountain philosophy, "If you ain't fer me you're agin me," and the teacher, innocent though she is, feels the sting of retaliation as painfully as if she had been in the thick of the fight.

It occurs to us that the Kentucky Education Association and its committee should be able to come up with something more definitely of a protective nature for the teacher. Preparing her "to accept the outcome" if she backs a loser isn't enough, nor is advice to stay out of the scrap sound as long as candidates and superintendents or would-be superintendents hold over her the threat of retaliation if she doesn't "produce."

The teacher deserves some sort of security, if she is worth employing at all. Perhaps the position taken in some states is best, and in relation to the teacher it is this: stay out of board races, your job is secure—and the one sure way you can bring action by the school board which would be adverse to you is to get into a school election.

The KEA should insist on a state law ridding the teacher of this present situation in which she is damned if she does and equally damned if she doesn't.

In State Music Contest

Daniel Craig Greer, of Wheelwright, will compete in the WHAS-TV finals of the State Music Contest conducted by the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, Sunday (May 1) at 3 p.m.

The 14-year-old high school freshman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Violet Lee Greer, won the piano championship of the Seventh district earlier in a preliminary contest. On the Channel 11 program, he will play Rachmaninoff's Polichinelle.

The finals of the contest are divided into two categories, with five pianists competing against each other in one division; and four orchestra instrument players in the other. Each division will receive a first place prize of $75 and a second prize of $50. The money must be used by the winners during the current year to further their musical education.

The group sponsoring Daniel in the contest is the Wheelwright Woman's Club.

Coal Industry Men Slate Mining Meet To Review Progress

Coal industry officials from every mining area of the nation will attend the 1960 Convention of the American Mining Congress, May 9-11, in Pittsburgh, Pa., to review technical progress being made in the industry and to hear Fred A. Sexton, Secretary of the Interior, and other federal government officials discuss policy matters of interest to coal mining men.

President Raymond E. Salvati, who is president of the Island Creek Coal Co., will preside.

Theme of the convention is "Coal Powers America's Progress." More than 50 speakers experienced in some phase of coal mining and preparation will address morning and afternoon sessions of the industry's largest annual event, which will be welcomed to Pittsburgh by Mayor Joseph M. Barr.

An industry-wide committee headed by Robert H. Hughes, president, Clinchfield Coal Co., Dante, Va., has developed a program for the meeting which includes addresses on modern practices and trends in mechanical and continuous mining, strip mining, haulage, roof support, preparation, safety and other topics.

Kentucky residents who will take part in the program include: George E. Evans, Jr., president of the Evans Lavers, Jr., vice-president, South-Sikhorn Co., Inc., Wayland; Harry East Coal Co., Inc., Irvine; Buddie R. Morris, head of the Industrial Engineering Department, West Ky. Coal Co., Inc., Madisonville.

CERTIFIED SEED PAYS

Proponents of certified seed for Kentucky crop work often say the "certified seed doesn't cost—it pays." Laboratory reports this week on an unlabeled lot of seed bought at a farm auction recently proved it. The buyer paid 8.7 cents a pound for 200 pounds of what purported to be Korean lespedeza; and which had had no purity or germination tests. Going price in the regular seed trade for certified lespedeza seed was about 10 cents a pound.

Farmers in types of farm enterprises that cause much worry seem more likely to develop heart trouble. The success of some kinds of farming depends largely on situations the individual farmer cannot control—weather, prices, etc.

served that Indian schools were about on a par with ours but that they do not have enough good buildings and materials. They have a teacher shortage there, too, and it is quite a problem in the trade schools.

Both visitors have good command of English. They explained this by saying that the language is required study in India from the primary grades through college.

"Of course our pronunciation is different from yours," Basu said, "but this is natural. The pronunciation of one's mother tongue is reflected in the pronunciation of a foreign language. Besides, the theory of phonetics says that after every eight miles there will be some difference in pronunciation. Shall I remind you of your Southern drawl?"

Both thought Russia understands Indian problems much better than America but he doesn't believe his country will ever go Communist. India is embarked upon a neutralist course and it intends to accept aid from both countries unless involving strings are attached.

Social security in their country revolves around the family and has no resemblance to ours. Miss Virmani observed that when she wanted to come to America her father readily gave his permission. Her uncle demurred and it was a long time before they agreed. If she had come without their agreement she would have lost status in the family group and the future security penalties would have been too great to risk.

Basu and Miss Virmani are two of a group of 20 visiting this country under joint sponsorship of the governments of India and America. They are associated with the 10 Institutes of Rural Higher Education in India. The two Floyd visitors arrived in this country in September and spent one semester in study at Berea and another at the University of Kentucky.

One outstanding impression a person gets from talking to the visitors are the great contrasts between India and America. India, too, it a land of wide climatic variety, fro Basu observes that while the temperatures may be sizzling at 120 in the shade in one section snow is falling in another.

There too, is his discussion of Indian wildlife.

"In recent years the Indian government has created some national parks where elephants, tigers, rhinos, lions and other animals can be seen in the natural state," he explains. "My state (West Bengal) is famous for its Royal Bengal tigers. These tigers are man-eaters. Sometimes a single tiger may kill as many as 300 to 400 people. Generally the poor people who earn their livelihood from the forest fall victims to this ferocious animal. A Royal Bengal tiger takes only 20 minutes to kill a lion. . . . The coastal waters of West Bengal are also full of crocodiles. Snakes constitute another danger. In our country about 20,000 people die from snake bite annually.

"I think the automobile is responsible for the same number of deaths in your country," Basu concluded.

And we conclude, as we must, with Basu, that, be it snakes or cars, the end result is the same.

CLASSICS OF MOUNTAIN HUMOR ARE JOKES WITH A DIFFERENCE

BY HENRY P. SCALF

Mountain humor IS different. Everybody, everywhere likes a good joke but a mountaineer is partial to those with a difference.

He loves exaggerated ridiculousness and laughs at himself or his friends with gusto.

There is the old classic that has been circulating in the mountains since it appeared years ago in The Democrat, a highly partisan journal published at Martin, Texas. The author is unknown. It reached the mountains via The Democrat and after that circulation was no problem. It was clipped, copied and even memorized by rustic orators who liked to declaim when they were deep in their cups.

"Man born in the mountains of Kentucky is of feud days and full of virus," The Democrat said. "He fisheth, fiddeth, cusseth and fighteth all the days of his miserable life. He shunneth water as a mad dog and drinketh much mean whiskey."

"When he desireth to raise hell he planteth a neighbor and, lo! he repeateth twenty-fold. He riseth even from the cradle to seek the scalp of his grandfathers' enemy and bringeth home in his carcass the ammunition of his neighbor's wife's cousin's Uncle's father-in-law, who avengeth the deed. Yes, verily, his life is uncertain and he knows not the hour when he may be jerked home.

"He goeth forth on a journey, half-shot, and cometh back on a shutter, full-shot.

"He riseth in the night to let the cat out and it taketh nine doctors three days to pick the buckshot out of him.

"He goeth forth in joy and gladness and cometh back in scraps and fragments.

"A cyclone bloweth him into the bosom of his neighbor's wife and the husband bloweth him into Abraham's bosom before he hath time to explain.

"He emptieth the demijohn into himself and his enemy's son lieth in wait for him on election day and, lo! the coroner ploweth up a forty-acre field to bury the remains of that man.

"Woe, woe is Kentucky, for her eyes are red with bad whiskey and her soil is stained with the blood of innocent mountaineers."

That classic must have been written by a mountaineer. Nobody else could have had the insight into the hill sense of humor as did its author. The mountaineer loved it so well that today copies are found pinned to an old almanac or stored away in—of all places!—the family Bible.

Many versions exist of the famous charge to the grand jury by Judge John S. Patton, Martin county native who presided over the old Sixteenth Judicial district from 1892 to 1897. However any variation of the judge's remarks is relished by Eastern Kentuckians.

Patton told the grand jury that if there was evidence of an old man "going cater-cornered across the meadow with an old-fashioned rifle" to leave him alone. "He's just going to kill a squirrel for a sick child," he said solemnly.

"But there is another feller and I want you to attend to him," Patton told the jurors. "I see this young feller sitting on a bank on the upper side of the road under the shade of a big beech tree. He is all alone. Across his lap is a new-fangled Winchester shotgun. He has a purty leather belt around his waist, all filled with cartridges. His hat is tilted to one side with a peacock feather in it. He has got a red silk handkerchief tied around his neck.

"If you get close to him, he smells like musk. He is singing 'Sourwood Mountain'! Indict him, gentlemen, for if he ain't done something he's fixing to."

Speaking of court stories reminds mountain lawyers of the one told on the late Judge Joel Childers, of Pikeville, by his political enemies. Childers defeated the incumbent, Roscoe Vanover, for the circuit judgeship. Vanover resumed practice at the Pike county bar. Several cases appealed by Vanover to the state's highest tribunal were reversed.

Finally, Vanover had an adverse decision in the Pike criminal term and, thinking he was on secure ground to get a reversal from the Court of Appeals, he wrote in his appeal:

"This is an appeal from the Pike Circuit Court but there are other reasons why it should be reversed." Then he properly presented his argument.

Judge Gus Thomas, the beloved and salty old jurist, was then on the appellate bench and he read the Pike county appeal. Thomas rose to the occasion with an opinion, beginning: "This is an appeal from the Pike Circuit Court but there are other reasons why it is being reversed."

There is another story, of a Prestonsburg case wherein a man was fined heavily for bootlegging in county court. Shocked at the walloping fine, he told his lawyer: "Peal her to a higher court." His attorney did just that but when a jury heard the case in circuit court he got a still stiffer fine. He wasn't so shocked that he couldn't react with vigor. He told his attorney: "Peal her back to the other court. Peal her back."

His attorney patiently explained that there was no way a case of this kind could be remanded back to county court for another trial. Jurisdiction had passed, he added. The convicted man replied belligerently: "I said peal ner back. If you don't I'll get a lawyer that will."

Mountaineers laugh at the butchery of the English language perpetrated by the folk. There is the story, according to Allan Trout, told by Dr. Joseph M. Ray, whose father, a doctor, too, ministered to the ill in the hill country around Hyden and Hazard.

"Dad once treated an old river man on the headwaters of Middle Fork of Kentucky River above Hyden," Dr. Ray related to the Courier-Journal's barnyard scientist. "It think it was on Greasy Creek in the spring of 1910. The old man was a hill farmer but most of his cash money came from working in the log woods in winter, then running rafts down on the spring tides as far as Frankfort. . . ."

"The old man died a few days after developing pneumonia. Dad conceded that the deceased's wife probably hit the nail on the head when, upon being asked the cause of his death, replied: 'Well, I don't zactly know. But John worked around them old slash dams an' run the river all his life. He 'sposed hisself, cotched cold, his destitution give away an' he just dropped off.'"

There is the story told on the late

Roy Vaughan who lived through the Civil War years on Buffalo Creek. Roy was noted for his acquisitiveness and a few other things besides. His mother became ill and being possessed of some personal property, including an injured calf, Roy cast covetous eyes on it all.

Relatives and neighbors gathered around the bedside as the Grim Reaper hovered, waiting. Suddenly, Roy arose, said as he approached the bed: "Hush, all of you, Mother wants to say something." Everybody became as still as the proverbial church mouse.

Roy put his ear down near his mother's face, turned away quietly. "What'd she say, Roy?" a sister asked.

Roy answered with a solemn attestation:

"She said I could have everything she had but the broke-legged calf and you could have that."

Thus originated the expression in this region: "Roy wants it all."

Decades ago, mountain folk would gather at the local schoolhouses on Friday nights to laugh at one another. The occasion was the regular weekly meeting of the Literary Society. But it wasn't literary in the conventional sense. Everybody was invited to write out jokes on some particular person and when all the folk who wanted to do so had composed rude jests on some (See Story No. 7, Page 5)

Music Notes

(An Editorial — No. 6 in a Series)

This week the newspapers tell of protests being made by Powell countians against construction of the Bluegrass-to-the-Mountains highway through their county as a toll road.

They want it to be four lanes and all free, regardless of cost, the money available or anything else. They want it to touch every place and to be available to everybody.

Therein lies one of our section's great troubles. Let a road get talked, and then the protests begin. It doesn't please somebody because it misses grandfather's farm, or it displeases because it touches on somebody who is not exactly loved by the one doing the protesting.

We mention these things, not merely to be critical but to point out that we all should get together, get every road offered us and do everything possible to get them all started and completed as quickly as possible.

It's a long pull for us all. Let's all pull together, for a change!

SCIENTISTS WORK WONDERS WITH NATION'S STOCKPILE

Things being done to and with wood are making termites tremble, householders and firemen grateful and the chemical industry cheerful. Many of these things are described in a May Reader's Digest article, "Wonders From Wood."

By putting certain chemicals into this common material, writes Lloyd Stouffer, men are producing wood that won't burn, shrink, swell or warp and wood that defies decay as well as the attack of the terrible termite. By taking other chemicals out of wood, they are creating a diversity of commercial products such as yeast, adhesives, plastics—even vanilla flavoring.

Stouffer's report on wood research deals extensively with work being done by some 450 scientists, technicians and aids at the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wis. There, among other remarkable achievements, has been devised a simple new method of wood soaking called double diffusion which forms deep in the wood a substance permanently deadly both to insects and rot-causing fungi.

The article tells of new chemical approaches to fireproofing, among them processes resulting in woods which are not only fire resistant but which when subjected to the heat of flames give off a gas that acts to snuff out those flames.

Other accomplishments of government and industry scientists seeking to further increase the value of the nation's 20-billion-dollar wood products industry include:

Ways to fully utilize knotty, low-grade lumber, much of which heretofore has had to be destroyed.

Development of a log slicing machine which does away with wasteful sawdust.

Utilization of chemicals contained in lignin, a waste product of the paper manufacturing industry, to produce such things as vanilla, perfume and cosmetic ingredients, a food preservative and even a drug effective against certain skin infections.

Production from sawdust and bark of a useful fertilizer-soil conditioner and from wood itself a solid chemical rocket fuel.

A conclusion of the Reader's Digest article: Once economic utilization of the resources of our replenishable forests is accomplished, mankind may worry less about the nonrenewable assets in the coal and petroleum deposits on which the chemical industry now largely depends.

neighbor they were given to the Reader.

The Reader had to have a bit of courage, as well as elocutionary powers. Some offended "jokee" might think things had "gone too far" and come out swinging. Usually, though, the affairs were well-attended and well-behaved.

Which recalls recollections of the Literary Society in an isolated Pike county community when the custom was dying out, around 1920.

Background of the story pertains to old Uncle Tom, now dead, as are all the principals. Uncle Tom loved to ramble through the hills digging ginseng and golden seal, or as it was called, "yaller root." Neighbors bestowed the name, Yaller-Root Tom, on the old man and he took the appellation good-naturedly.

Then there was the Arbuckle hospital, the name given by the rustics because a certain family were addicted to this particular brand of coffee. They were ill a lot, and neighbors affirmed they were sick from over-use of Arbuckle coffee.

Things stood thus for months and at last a joker thought of a connection between Yaller-Root Tom and the Arbuckle hospital. He wrote it out and on a certain fateful Friday evening the Reader, or as he was sometimes called, the editor, read.

"Yaller-Root Tom, who has been awfully sick the last few days, is better now. He is recovering from an operation at the Arbuckle hospital. He had appendicitis. Dr. Arbuckle took a sang (ginseng) seed out of his side as big as a bird egg."

That was the last issue of the community joke sheet. Yaller-Root Tom swore things had "gone too far" and "they hain't joking now—they're making fun." He came charging through the crowd with a knife. The editor went through the nearest window. The Literary Society in that community adjourned without formality and never met again.

Mountaineers have loved for decades the story of old Judge John S. Patton's appearance before the Floyd county fiscal court to request a picket fence be built around the courthouse at Prestonsburg. The building, completed in 1891, drew a great crowd of litigants before the turn of the last century and since the only feasible method of a quick journey to town was horseback, a "jockey ground" developed on Court street. All to the annoyance of Patton, lawyers and jurors alike, especially when the David Harums loped within a few feet of the front door and challenged others to a swap or race.

Patton went directly to the fiscal court with his problem.

Patton's exact words will never be known but his remarks were said to have been as follows:

"Gentlemen I appear before you in the interest of maintaining some sort of decent and respectable decorum in the courthouse here. Since the erection of this modern edifice it seems that every owner of a horse or mule in the whole environs of the Big Sandy valley comes here on court days to display every specimen of horse, mule, donkey and jackass that the region affords. The owners of these disreputable animals ride up and down the street, punctuating their mud-splashing charges with hideous yells and banter's to race or swap. No sense of propriety daunts these horsemen. They lie and cheat and banter right under the very portals of this temple of justice. Gentlemen, I tell you they would, if possible, ride right up to the Pearly Gate itself and banter Moses for a horse swap."

The judge got his picket fence.

WHEELWRIGHT

The Health and Welfare Department of the Wheelwright Woman's Club was in charge of the club's April program. Due to the absence of the speaker who was scheduled to be at this meeting, a recording of a speech made by Dr. R. L. Hall to a former senior class at Wheelwright high school was heard by members and their guests, girls from the 1960 senior class who are interested in the field of medicine.

Dr. Hall spoke of the great need for better health and welfare of the people of this country. He said that to attain better health and welfare, more and more people are needed in the medical field. He also said there is a great need in all fields in the medical profession, but that at least eight to ten more doctors, alone, per day, are needed to meet the needs of the ever-growing population.

He spoke of scholarships offered by different organizations that might be earned by students who are really interested in entering the medical profession.

The president, Mrs. R. L. Hall, stressed Immunization Week, the first week in May.

Correspondence pertaining to the educational problems in our area was called to the attention of the club. The club resolved to take measures to help raise the levels of education in the county and state, and push Kentucky from near the bottom of the list in education. Letters regarding this will be written to officials in all departments of education in the county and state.

Officers for the coming year were elected. They are: Mrs. Herbert Gillis, president; Mrs. K. E. Moore, vice-president; Mrs. Leon Porter, recording secretary and Mrs. Harrison Sparks, corresponding secretary. Mrs. R. V. May, governor of the Seventh District, will install the new officers at a luncheon on May 14.

Hostesses for the evening were H. M. Wiley, Mrs. J. H. Cantrill, and Mrs. C. C. Dickerson.

Pikeville College's 'Great Lady' Dies at 98 in Bluefield, W. Va.

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Bell Record, 98, called "the great lady of higher education in Eastern Kentucky," were held Sunday at her home in Bluefield, W. Va.

Mrs. Record, the widow of Dr. James P. Record, president of Pikeville College for some 30 years, died about 11 a.m., Saturday, at her Bluefield residence. Burial was to follow in Cochranton, Pa., beside her husband.

For some years she had made her home with a daughter, Miss Alice Record, who was a member of the faculty and registrar at Pikeville college for 28 years before they moved to Bluefield in 1955. Mrs. Record, who had a tripple part in the growth of Pikeville College, not only made a home for her husband and children, but took into it many an education-hungry young Eastern Kentuckian who was unable to pay his way. To keep the young school's expenses down, she also taught in the elementary grades in the early years.

She was credited with being a constant source of inspiration to Dr. Record from the time he became head of Pikeville Collegiate Institute, as the school was then known, in 1899. With an absence of only four years, 1911-1915, because of Mrs. Record's health, they built a tiny, struggling school into a fully accredited junior college before his retirement in 1932.

Dr. and Mrs. Record's daughters and son, known to many who attended school at Pikeville during that time, also include Mrs. Wade W. (Helen) Walker, Bluefield, W. Va., and Dr. Paul R. Record, now a research biochemist in Knoxville, Tennessee.

McCoy corroborated his story, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hatfield told of his son staying at their home that night. Frank Hatfield and wife said they came to this county in response to a telephone call from Lydia Miller to come and get Henry McGuire, Mrs. Hatfield's grandfather, and take him home with them. This they did, returning to Jackson the afternoon preceding the blast. McGuire testified he slept in the same room that night with Marion Hatfield.

Defense Counsel Burnis Martin introduced testimony attacking testimony of Jackie and Bascom Hall. He used the affidavit signed by Jackie Hall, August 23, last, to point to a discrepancy between it and his testimony at the trial. A part of that affidavit stated that Harris told him Hatfield dynamited the house. Hall claimed he knew nothing about such a statement being in the affidavit. Harris claimed he told nobody about the dynamiting till he confessed to the crime last October.

Jim Crum was used in rebuttal by the defense, and he claimed Jackie and Bascom Hall told him Deputy Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis, a leader in the investigation which resulted in arrests in the case, would get $1,200 if Hatfield was convicted. Both the Halls denied making such a statement.

Charles Ray Hamilton, another defense witness, claimed Jackie Hall told him that $1,200 and his citizenship were "worth more than any Hatfield." He also claimed he heard Jackie Hall tell Harris, in effect, that "if everything goes well, we'll buy a truck, go to Ohio, and everything will be all right." Both these statements Hall denied.

J. L. Hays presided as special judge in the trial of the case. The jury deliberated little more than an hour. Trial of Mrs. Mary Allen, Wayland woman, on a charge of shooting to death McKinley Parrigan has been set for Friday. This is the last major case docketed for hearing at the current term.

The grand jury resumed its work Wednesday for an additional three days. Murder trial of Lewis Hall was continued till Sept. 15. Trial of Silas and Earl Patrick, Ruby and Sherman Napier and Bessie Farley on a breaking and entering charge in connection with the looting of the Western Auto Store at Martin was continued "generally" till September, which is the next criminal court session. Also continued was the grand larceny trial of Banner Hall and Charlie Fyffe.

The breaking and entering indictment against Woodrow Elkins and James Johnson was dismissed, marked, "no evidence." The $1,000 bond of John L. Gobie, charged with breaking and entering, was forfeited when he failed to appear for trial. When his bondsman, A. C. Carter, asked the court to be relieved of responsibility for the appearance of Arwin Meade, charged with attempted arson in the radio station case here, a bench warrant was directed to be issued for Meade's arrest.

Tommy Iricks entered a plea of guilty to a breaking and entering charge, was sentenced to three years in the state reformatory but was later granted probation.

Sentence was passed last Friday on three men who had previously been convicted during the term: Frank Moore and Curtis Mullins, each one year for knowingly receiving stolen property; Harold Counts, two convictions for breaking and entering, terms of two years and one year, neither to run concurrently.

To Whom It May Concern:

I sold to Virgil Rowe my Maytown property which is advertised for delinquent taxes. This was done a long time ago, and John Pratt and I went to the Tax Commissioner's office and asked him to change the owner's name to Virgil Rowe, for I don't want people to think I don't pay my debts.

IMMUNIZATION WEEK, MAY 1-7

Check of Immunization For Family Protection Is Urged by Dr. Clardy

A concerted effort to secure complete immunization of Kentuckians against communicable diseases is being conducted by the Kentucky State Medical Association during Immunization Week from May 1-7.

Delmas M. Clardy, M.D., Hopkinsville, who is chairman of the KSMMA Committee on Public Health, urges every Kentucky family to check its immunization needs and to take advantage of the protection given by immunization.

During the coming week, a special effort will be made by the Association to acquaint Kentuckians with the importance of the protection offered them by the Salk Vaccine and, also, the familiar stand-by preventive immunization against typhoid, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and smallpox.

Of particular importance is the fact that approximately 40% of the population under 20 years of age have had the complete series of three injections for preventive measures against polio. It is up to the people over 20 to see that these people under that age are properly inoculated as well as themselves. The series of polio shots are recommended for all under 40 years of age.

"The need for immunization of pre-school age children for protection against diphtheria and whooping cough will be stressed," said Doctor Clardy. "Since most deaths from these two diseases occur under the ages of 5 and 2 respectively, if parents wait until their children enter school, they are taking a grave risk."

"Immunization Week" is one of many projects sponsored by the KSMMA in the interest of securing better health for Kentuckians.

Mosaic Costume Conveys Job's Theme Of Hope

Much of the message of human grief and ultimate understanding in "The Book of Job" is conveyed by make-up and costume inspired by mosaics of early Christian churches in Byzantium.

The outdoor religious drama will be presented by Everyman Players at Pine Mountain State Park, June 24-August 20.

The mosaic design in the actors' Byzantine robes and in masks painted on their faces accents the play's setting in mideastern Biblical culture. The mosaic motif accords with the weird chant of the actors speaking the doleful verses from the King James version of "Job." The bizarre pattern suggests the mystic theme of the Book—that finally joy emanates from misery accepted with resignation to God's will.

Play designer is Irene Corey, wife of the director-producer, Orin Corey, and head of the art department at Georgetown College.

She studied the mosaic art of the Byzantine churches, the first to picture the life of Christ. The bits of glass, colored stones and jewels embedded in the plaster of the church walls imparted some of the radiance of Christ's story to the picture. Mrs. Corey sought the same radiance for the Job story.

And so, patterned after the church mosaics, the players' costume and make-up—masks, robes, gloves and wigs—sparkle and twinkle under the summer stars and the spotlights. Even the actors' formations on the stage, as they glide in and out of more than one hundred living tableaux, assume geometric figures like the early mosaics.

The mosaics are painted directly upon the faces of the players with liquid make-up, continuing the effect of the robes. The players are not recognized by the audience; their "living masks" look like jeweled and colored stone faces. Yet they are flexible enough to assume a wide range of expressions. There is no impediment of voice by the make-up as the actors sing, chant, hum and speak Biblical poetry.

EXEMPTIONS ANNOUNCED

Kentucky has clarified its new 3 per cent sales tax to encourage industrial development. New regulations define broad exemptions for raw materials, machinery, energy and energy-producing fuels used in manufacture and processing. ### 4-H CAMP FUND

Hats off to the Wheelwright Eighth grade and the Garrett 4-H Clubs. They have been very active in raising money to be used on the District 4-H Camp improvement program. The Wheelwright 4-H club has raised $105 through the concrete block sale, cake sales, dance and donations. Garrett 4-H Club held a dance at the school and raised $47. With this kind of spirit, Floyd county should have no trouble raising our quota of $50.

Employees of the Department of Economic Security have also donated $25. We certainly appreciate their fine support, and James Hicks' interest in the camp.

Several other 4-H clubs are working on fund raising projects and reports of their efforts will be made later.

4-H TALENT SHOW

4-H members put on a very entertaining talent show last week at the Allen grade school. There were approximately 300 parents, 4-H members and leaders present. The talent show, is one of several 4-H activities held each year to give boys and girls an opportunity to perform before the public.

The leaders from Maytown, Garrett and Betsy Layne are to be congratulated for the fine job they did in working with their club members. The acts showed originality, and a considerable amount of work.

The show was divided into two parts, club acts and specialty acts. The club acts presented were Betsy Layne sixth grade club—"Running Bear" number and received a red ribbon; Betsy Layne fifth grade club, "Folk Dances" blue ribbon; Garrett Junior club—"Hawaiian Hits" blue ribbon; Betsy Layne 6 and 7 grade clubs—"Grapevine Twist" blue ribbon; Betsy Layne fifth grade club—"Little Liza Jane" number received a red ribbon.

Maytown 4-H Club—"Eand Number" blue ribbon; Betsy Layne seventh grade club—"Round-up Lullaby" blue ribbon; and the Betsy Layne fourth grade club act, "A Twirl by Five Sisters," blue ribbon.

In the specialty acts red ribbon winners were James Lafferty of Garrett club; Gienda Tackett, Betsy Layne fifth grade club; Sherry Conn and Freda Adkins, Betsy Layne sixth grade; The Melo-Tones, of Garrett; Troy Branham, of Betsy Layne fifth grade; and Darrell Stone, of Garrett club.

Chosen to represent Floyd county in the District Talent Show at Paintsville in May were the Betsy Layne seventh grade club act, "Round-up Lullaby," and Ethel Branham and Esta Lou Adkins, of Betsy Layne fourth grade club.

Longevity Formula For Joe Lykins, Age 95, Is Simply, "Serve The Lord"

Everyman, who lives to advanced age, has a reason for his longevity. Joe Lykins, of Hunter, says his is simply, "Serve the Lord."

Lykins celebrated his 95th birthday Friday, for he was born April 22, 1885. At the age of nine he was "bound out" to the late Jess Sturgill, a prominent resident of the Big Mud Creek section.

The aged man has been married three times. His wives were Catherine Salsbury, Sally Moore and Sally Meade. He had no children.

He attended a school conducted by Abbott Barnett for only a few days. That was the sum total of his formal education but he can read and write. He has been a member of the Regular Baptist church for 61 years.

FRALEY'S WINNING EFFORT DEPICTS EARLY COURTHOUSE

Bill Fraley, Prestonsburg high school art student has recreated on canvas the old Floyd county courthouse with the aid of 1818 documents and his painting has won second place in a statewide art contest sponsored by the Kentucky Federation of Woman's Clubs.

The painting reaches back to the time when Prestonsburg's population was approximately 50. It was 35 years after the Revolutionary War and 100 years were to pass before the first bridge or railroad would be built in Prestonsburg.

The youthful artist, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Fraley, of Lancaster, said that courthouse documents of 1818 furnished minute detail as to the construction of the courthouse: the road winding down to the river; an ox, pulling a sled loaded with a barrel filled with water from the same river; a fence without a gate indicating the rustic quality of the early days of Prestonsburg when the city was little more than farmland; a covered well of 142 years ago, now hidden by concrete and a memorial; a jail, now a reality only on the pages of history—and all this recorded on the young artist's canvas.

Dealing back into time is just another project for a class taught by Mrs. Frankie Best in her art class. She has two classes, a beginners and an advanced class. The 18-year-old senior said that Mrs. Best brings out the art in a student and that she could teach theory as well as practice it.

Of his own beginnings in the world of art, Fraley said that he has always loved drawing and painting as long as he could remember.

Fraley has sold some pictures to Floyd county families and has practiced the principles of art through copying the works of well-known artists, he said.

Otto Hatcher Dies At 64 in California

Funeral services for Otto Perry Hatcher, 64, of San Diego, California, who died Sunday, were held Wednesday afternoon at the Lewis Colonial Mortuary in San Diego. Burial will be in Cyprus View cemetery there.

Mr. Hatcher was a brother of George Glenn Hatcher, former Kentucky secretary of state, and of Mrs. Ora Hatcher Lovely, of Hager Hill. A son of George M. and Mary Fairfield Hatcher, he was born and reared in Floyd county.

His widow, a son, Otto Perry Hatcher, Jr., and two daughters, Mary Catherine and Betty Gail, all of San Diego, also survive.

Mr. Hatcher was educated here and at Valparaiso University. An accountant, he left here in 1914, going to Texas, and returned in 1923 to be with his aging parents, being employed at Wayland till 1927 by the Elk Horn Coal Corporation. After the death of his parents he went to California.

Commenting on his painting, he pointed out that the fence surrounding the courthouse had no gate. "They used stiles to get over the fences. They built them that way to keep the animals out."

Fraley said that the windows in the lower front of the courthouse required 32 light squares and 12 squares in each top window. The building was constructed of red brick and roofed with red shingles.

The youth is known about Prestonsburg for his interpretations of hymns which are done in pastels. He said that each drawing requires about eight minutes. He has drawn several at Kiwanis and church meetings.

Another of Fraley's paintings won first prize in the Seventh district K.F.W.C. art contest at Pikeville recently.

Fraley is planning to continue his study of art at Morehead State College.

the four-lane sector from Winchester to Stanton.

Petitions being circulated in Powell county asking Gov. Combs to make the superhighway from Winchester free except instead of toll through the county.

"We feel that our farming and all other business will be seriously affected if a toll road is constructed," the petition states. Signers said much of the county's business comes from out-of-county sources and would be drastically reduced if only two access points are built to the four-lane highway.

A companion petition by land owners asks that all survey and engineering work on the toll road be discontinued.

Under present plans the superhighway won't touch Stanton, the county seat. The approaches reportedly would be at Slade and Powell's Valley in opposite ends of the county.

Mrs. Stovall said she believed the law was plain that joint action of the commissioner and the finance commissioner was required before funds could be transferred.

Martin said, however, that under his interpretation agencies need the permission of neither the treasurer nor the finance commissioner to designate previously established depositories for temporary deposits.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Walter Herdman said an opinion has been asked regarding temporary deposits, but said none would be written this week during the absence of Atty. Gen. John Breckinridge.

Mrs. Stovall said she felt confident the money was safe, but that she felt it her responsibility to make certain.

have sites with some of the desired advantages, and, secondly, to see what can be done at such sites to adjust any deficiencies they may have," he added.

"We certainly do not intend to stop with just a 'plant location effort' in this case," Wyatt asserted. "We will carefully consider possible action by which we might work with any site which has some possibility and try to help it meet the necessary combination of requirements. TVA has made it clear that their final decision will be based upon the best economic determinations, as it should be. Of course we hope it will be located in Kentucky, but whether in Kentucky or in Tennessee there seems to be no question but that this plant will provide an economic benefit to Eastern Kentucky," Wyatt concluded.

Mrs. Belle Hyden, widow of the Rev. Kit Hyden, observed her 99th birthday at West Prestonsburg, April 4, and she is now looking forward to her 100th.

Mrs. Hyden is not a native of Floyd county, but she is almost one. She came to this county 98 years ago from Fleming county, and grew up on the Big Branch of Abbott Creek. She lives with her son, Richard Hyden, at West Prestonsburg.

Although age has slowed down the energetic Mrs. Hyden some, she still washes the dishes and regularly attends church. On a recent Sunday morning, when several others of the congregation were absent, she surprised those present by appearing at church on Town Branch, near here. She is a member of the United Baptist Church. She remains mentally alert, and her recollections of earlier days of the county are always interesting.

She has raised 10 children of her own and three others. And many more owe her much for meals and motherly care.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank my good friends and neighbors for their help and sympathy upon the death of my mother, Delaney Miller, who passed away April 9, and I also want to thank those who sent flowers and brought gifts of food. I am grateful to all those who helped in any way, and I especially thank the Revs. Ashland Shepherd, Ted Nelson and L. P. Tussy for their comforting words and the Moore Funeral Home for its efficient service.

NEW DRUG AND NEW TOOLS AID SURGEONS TO SAVE EYES

New drugs and tiny new tools are helping surgeons save eyes they formerly didn't dare to touch. Robert O'Brien describes eight of the bold but little known techniques in the May Reader's Digest.

One is a light coagulator, a device which seals detached retinas back into place. It shoots a brilliant beam through the pupil of the eye, O'Brien explains. The eye's own lens focuses it on the retina, and in a second or two the concentrated beam painlessly spot-welds the hole. Detachment of the retina threatens the sight of thousands of Americans every year.

Other developments make it possible to graft delicate tissues into eyes which have suffered damage. A "razor" invented by Dr. Ramon Castroviejo, noted New York eye specialist, makes it possible to shave a layer of mucous membrane only 1/4000 of an inch thick from the lower lip of a patient to replace conjunctival tissue covering the front of his eyeball. Dr. John Harry King, Jr., an eye surgeon of Washington, D. C., has grafted the corneas of cats to human volunteers. Dr. King has also dehydrated human corneas so that they can be shipped anywhere in glass vacuum tubes at room temperature and rehydrated for use in 15 minutes.

APRIL is cancer drive month, and I'd like to urge you to fight this serious disease with a Check-up and a Check. The check is important, but just as important are regular physical check-ups for your entire family. If detected in time, cancer can be cured. Over 800,000 Americans have been saved because they saw the doctor before cancer got a head start. The American Cancer Society has listed these 7 danger signals which could mean cancer. If any of the danger signals persist for over two weeks, you should contact your doctor at once.

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Hoarseness or cough.
6. Change in a wart or mole.
7. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.

APRIL SHOWERS . . . Just as their magic brightens the world with May flowers, you can brighten your home with exciting new beauty. One pleasant way to do this is to put colorful extension phones wherever they're handy. Day in and day out they'll save you many a step and many a minute, give protection and privacy, too. ## Baptist Team and Coach Feted at Honor Dinner For Successful Year

Approximately forty people met in the Youth Building of the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church Tuesday night for an appreciation dinner honoring the two church basketball teams which recently won their respective Intermediate and Senior Division tournaments in the local church basketball league.

Following the dinner, the pastor of the church, the Rev. Ira McMillen, Jr., spoke briefly and then introduced high school basketball coach, Bill Goebel, Jr., who presented the winners trophies to Paul Branham, coach of the church teams. The pastor again took charge and expressed the appreciation of the church and the parents to the coach for the successful season he had and for his leadership of the two teams. Paul Branham was then given a trophy bearing the inscription "Church League Winning Coach, 1960." Joe Wheeler Burchett, father of one of the players, expressed to Coach Branham the gratitude of the parents for his leadership and encouragement to their sons during the past season of play.

"Eating out" is more common among U. S. families than it was two decades ago. In 1955, farm families spent 14 per cent of their food money for food and beverages away from home, compared with 6 per cent in 1935-36.

AROUND FLOYD COUNTY

By Quentin Allen

The Cincinnati Reds are currently haunting the leading hitting team, second fielding team, and are among the leaders in runs scored. Then, Matilda, what's the matter? Why aren't the Reds leading the league, carefree in the heady air of victory?

There isn't the pitch-spiration that Huteh (Freddy Hutchinson) needs for a winning team. Can we ever forget the traumatic experience when the Reds lost that game, 5-0, in the last inning at Pittsburgh.

As much as we love the Reds, when a team of supposedly pennant caliber loses up a five-run lead, there isn't much hope for them.

Here's the scene. Raoul Sanchez is breezing along in fine style. Bill Henry, acquired at the expense of slugger Frank Thomas, is brought in for a work-out. He retires one, allows three singles and a homer. Panic strikes. Now there is only one out and Ted Wieland, right-hander, is brought in on the lode. He gets another out. Then lightning strikes again. An infield single and Skinner cleans the sacks.

O, my stars! Wieland pulled another such boner against the Phillies Sunday in blowing a Red lead, 5-2. The game ended 9-5, Phillies, and Wieland was on the way to Havana. Adios, Wieland, we won't miss you.

Red-faced Freddy has a rough job. Second-guessed by yours truly and a thousand other bitter Red fans, Hutch needs to flush some strong-arm lads. He needs a man who can come in and blow the other side down.

In fact, the Red pitching staff would gladden the eye of any 240 hitter, major or minor, who is looking for a soft touch to balloon his average.

Tommy Aaron, brother of Hammerin' Hank Aaron, is a member of the Braves Sally League farm team, and, so far, has distinguished himself as another fine hitter. Most probably, if Tommy Aaron makes the grade with parent club Milwaukee, he will be labeled by some frenetic sportswriters as "Thunderous" Tommy or some corny alliterative nick-name.

That trade we were braying about last winter has evidently turned sour. McLish has failed to finish a game and Gordon Coleman, promising young slugger, has been turned back to the minors.

Billy Martin, however, has brief flashbacks of his old Yankee days and acts the part out most eloquently. An umpire-bater and competitor deluxe, Martin has made the opposition work hard while he is on the bases.

His brash mouth is backed by a bat which can be brasher (in the clutch) and a sure glove at second base.

The Wilt the Stilt of baseball, Frank Howard, now at Spokane, is again hitting home-runs, in spite of criticizing Dodger brass who low-bridged the slugger after he missed a spring training game.

You can read all sorts of ridiculous things written by sports writers, but Frank Howard is one guy that needs no build-up.

Who wants to build a guy up—especially when he is 6 feet, 7 inches tall?

Who is going to be traded on the Reds team?

Certainly, it will be one of the outfielders coupled with a lame-arm pitcher. Gerry Lynch is expendable, although his bat isn't and Brooks Lawrence or Joe Nuxhall could go and we wouldn't have a breakdown.

Lynch cannot field or throw. That is a shame, since he can swing that stick. So far, Gerry has hit the ball hard and seems to be fighting hard to get back into the line-up.

But, as a friend said recently, a man in right field who can catch the ball off the wall, wheel about and throw the man out going into second base is a great asset.

I agree, and old Gerry can't do that. He might dream he can but he can't. Walls might be able to do it and Gonzales certainly can.

Antonio Gonzales is a bright looking prospect. I like his speedamatic running to first base. Those infielders have to hurry or school's out.

Johnny Temple is feeling the pressure of the trade that brought him to Cleveland. He isn't hitting the ball like the Temple we know. But, when Harvey Kuenn and Temple start spanking the ball the way they are accustomed, those Indian sluggers are going to have a lot of chances to drive runs home.

Nothing against Cubans, especially those on the Red's team, but it wouldn't surprise me if Castro gives baseball a whirl.

I wish he would. We could then get an Anti-Revolutionist to beat Fidel on his sugar-coated head.

This column, you may be thinking, should be called "Around Everyplace." Maybe so, but since Floyd countians are interested in the Reds and baseball in general, we thought we would pass along some baseball talk.

SPORTS CHATTER

By GORDON MOORE

STATE OF CONFUSION

The site of the Floyd county district baseball tournament is creating the biggest turmoil in the history of county athletics.

In the past, the coaches, through the Floyd County Coaches Association, have selected the site of the tournament by a vote of its members. Then in turn, the K.E.A. delegate to the annual K.H.S.A.A. meeting in Louisville requests the Commissioner of Athletics to name the site chosen by the coaches. This has been the practice for the past ten years and the Commissioner has always named the site selected by the coaches.

This year, Wheelwright high announced it would be host to the coming tournament, even before the coaches' meeting.

Later at the spring meeting of the Floyd County Coaches Association, the coaches voted to hold the tournament at Drift and the delegate to the K.E.A. meeting was instructed to inform the Commissioner of this action, which the delegate did. However, the Commissioner's office related that the tournament was to be held in Wheelwright and that Don Wallen, Wheelwright coach, would be the tournament manager.

Prior to the Commissioner's directive the coaches had drawn for the tournament games and assigned umpires, but now the coaches' vote appears to be null and void and another drawing is to be made.

Two of the county's six baseball tutors have indicated they will not enter their teams in the tournament unless it is held at the Drift baseball park.

Wheelwright high continues to lead the county-wide baseball race with a 5-0 mark. They hold wins over Virgie 5-4, 14-4; Paintsville 16-4; Martin 16-0 and Prestonsburg 25-0.

The annual East-West All-Star basketball series, sponsored by the Pikeville Senior Scouts, will be staged in these Eastern Kentucky communities in June: Jackson, June 7; Wheelwright, June 9; and Pikeville, June 11.

Bobby Vicars, Wheelwright all-state basketball ace, has accepted an invitation to play for the East team. The East will be coached by Pikeville high school coach, John Bill Trivette, for the 11th consecutive year.

Our Historic Heritage

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky

(No. 90 in a Series)

REUBEN MAYO, SLAVE OF PIONEER BIG SANDY TEACHER LEWIS MAYO

Lewis Mayo came to the Big Sandy region in 1837 from Fluvanna county, Va., to initiate an educational program. His home is pictured here long after the pioneer educator died. Reuben (Uncle Reuben), who lived to the age of 90, is shown gazing into the interior of his dead master's home. The aged slave spent his declining years with William and Sarah Mayo Borders and died at the home of Henry Allen Borders.

The old Lewis Mayo home stood in the curve of Highway 23 at Van Lear. Lewis and Maria Jones Mayo, his wife, (both teachers), are buried in the cemetery at Van Lear a few hundred yards from their homesite. Lewis Mayo died in 1865.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of our region's past as a bit of its friendly service with the hope they will contribute to your understanding of our historic heritage.

CHEVROLET

OVER BACK-COUNTRY ROADS AT 45 WITH A SKY-HIGH LOAD OF TIMBER

Chevy middleweight shows the big rigs how it's done!

That's a 6303 medium-duty Chevrolet powered by a 283-cu.-in. V8. But there's sure nothing medium-duty about the load. Mr. J. E. Blankinship, Arkansas logging contractor, says both of his torsion-spring 6303's "move along at 40 to 50 miles per hour with 55,000 pounds gross weight and maintain a 5-trip-a-day schedule with no trouble at all." Figure the money you save when you've got a medium-duty truck that can cover 30,000 back-country miles a year with a high-tonnage load!

We've never seen anything like the amount of praise truck owners are heaping on Chevy's new torsion spring suspension. Owners like the fact the truck handles a whole lot easier, can move faster off the road without beating the driver to death and shaking loose all the sheet metal. They like the idea of extra thousands of miles before trade-in! . . . Drive a '60 Chevy just once. It's a whole new experience.

Chevy middleweight averages 200 miles of back roads a day dogging timber out of the woods and delivering it to the mill at Crossett, Arkansas.

SCHOOL PRINCIPALS HAVE CONFIDENCE IN CLARK

We, the undersigned principals of the Floyd County School system, believe the office of County Superintendent of schools is the most important office in Floyd county.

We believe that anyone who aspires to this high office should have high moral standards, personal honesty and integrity as well as good common sense. He should meet all the professional and technical qualifications required by law.

After careful consideration we have come to the conclusion that Charles Clark meets all these qualifications. As he begins his four year term of office we want to express our complete confidence in him and wish him a successful administration.

RESOLUTION

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, RELATIVE TO A RE-APPRAISAL OF THE REAL ESTATE LOCATED IN THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, BY THE DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE, FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY.

WHEREAS, a representative of the Department of Revenue appeared before the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, on April 11, 1960, and stated to the Council that for four thousand ($4,000.00) dollars, paid to it, it would be willing to re-appraise all of the real estate located in the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, and

WHEREAS, The City Council has appointed a tax assessor to assess all of said real estate and has appointed a board of supervisors, whose duty it will be to equalize the said tax assess.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, AS FOLLOWS:

1. That while the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky appreciates the visit made to it by the representative of the Department of Revenue, it does not need the services of the Department of Revenue and now officially rejects the contract referred to by said representative of the Department of Revenue at the meeting of the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, held on April 11, 1960.

2. That the City Council does not have the necessary funds to pay for said re-appraisal.

3. That this Council would get no benefit at all from said re-appraisal as any increase in taxes would not be effective until the taxable year of 1962.

4. That the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, now has employed a competent tax assessor and three (3) Prestonsburg citizens as members of the Board of Supervisors whose duty it will be to assess the real estate for taxation and to equalize said taxes and it is wholly unnecessary to employ someone else to do this work when it can be done by its own local citizens.

5. That the same contract has been rejected by at least two other council of the City and no reason has been advanced why the present council should take a different position.

6. That the City Clerk is directed to mail a copy of this resolution to The Floyd County Times for publication and to the Department of Revenue, Frankfort, Kentucky.

Motion was made by Joe W. Jarrell, seconded by W. B. Boyd, that the above Resolution be adopted by the City Council: The motion was put to a vote with the following results:

Voting for Said Resolution: Joe W. Jarrell, W. B. Boyd, Bill May

Voting against Said Resolution: Watt Hale, Theodore J. Fannin

Members present but not voting: Virgil Griffith, Mayor Edward B. Leslie thereupon declared the Resolution duly adopted April 18, 1960.

Sgt. Thelma I. Potts Area's New Recruiter, Announced This Week

Sgt. Thelma I. Potts, a veteran of more than ten years service with the Women's Army Corps, has been appointed WAC recruiter for this area.

Sgt. Potts, whose home is in Mt. Vernon, Ohio, will travel throughout this area in the interest of recruiting young women for service in the WAC.

"I hope to meet as many local residents as possible. From what I have seen of the area thus far, I'm sure that I will enjoy working in this area," she said.

Sgt. Potts first entered the WAC in January, 1950. She has served at several posts in the United States and spent three years on duty in France and Germany. Her last assignment was as a supply sergeant with the WAC detachment at Fort Belvoir, Va.

An avid sports fan, she has won several trophies for her ability as a bowler.

"I'm just as enthusiastic about the Women's Army Corps and the opportunities it offers for young women to travel, get an education or learn a pleasant vocation," Sgt. Potts noted.

She has won the Army's Good Conduct award three times during her service and also holds the American Defense Service Medal and the Army of Occupation Ribbon.

As early as 1802, a crude stone furnace on Red River, near Clay City, Ky., produced iron from ore found in the region. Ruins of the furnace are still visible.

Drink Victim Often Denies He's Alcoholic

By J. Collis Ringo, Executive Director Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism

(This is the last of a series of articles prepared by Mr. Ringo before his recent death.)

One of the hardest jobs in the world is to get an alcoholic to admit to himself that he has a problem or needs help. One of the symptoms of the illness is the rationalization of the drinker as to the reasons for his drinking.

Once the person has reached this point in the illness it quite often takes a shock or disaster to bring him to the point where he will ask for help. This is what is known in Alcoholics Anonymous as "reaching the bottom." This blindness on the part of the drinker is one of the hardest things for the non-alcoholic to understand.

Waiting for the alcoholic to reach this point can be a most trying time for the family, which is completely helpless at this point.

There is an organization, separate from Alcoholics Anonymous, but related to it, called Alanon. This is an organization of families and friends of alcoholics who meet together in order to understand the illness and to help and sustain each other with the problems that arise as a result of active alcoholism in the family. As in Alcoholics Anonymous, help is given mainly in the form of shared experience.

Jerome Ellison says, "The field of Alanon is larger, statistics suggest, than that available to A. A. itself, and the need is scarcely less urgent. The National Committee on Alcoholism, an educational and fact-finding organization, estimates that of the 65,000,000 Americans who drink, 4,000,000 have well developed cases of alcoholism. A Public Affairs Committee summary of the annual cost of the nation charges $31,000,000 to medical care, $25,000,000 to jail maintenance, $89,000,000 to accidents, $188,000,000 to crime, and $432,000,000 to wage losses. Other costs, such as the adding of good brains, the neglect and abuse of children, the disruption of families and friendships, are borne in large measure by those closely associated with problem drinkers. It is this population segment of 20,000,000 that Alanon Family Groups are intended primarily to help."

A free booklet, "Some Facts About Alcohol and Alcoholism," is available, free, to anyone interested in the illness of alcoholism. Address: Kentucky Commission on Alcoholism, 815 First National Bank Building, Lexington, Kentucky.
