

THURSDAY

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

AUGUST 17, 1961

This Town-- That World

When Browning wrote, "God's in His heaven, and all's right with the world," he didn't have in mind such creatures as Khrushchev and associates. Or Bermudas on some people.

A SHINING RECORD

Not all is right with Prestonsburg. Some folks will declare nothing's right. But we declare to you, they're wrong--dead wrong.

Last Friday night a woman was taken to the hospital here, and as the night wore on she drew near death from loss of blood. Finally, at 2 a.m., Saturday, it became obvious that she must have blood, and at once, if she were to survive. At that hour 20 telephone calls were made to residents here known to have O-type blood.

And how many donors responded at that after-midnight hour to the mortal need of a woman none is said to have heard of before that time? Exactly 20.

There's plenty that's right about such folks, we add--or is comment necessary?

WHEREFORE?

Now the gripe Department swings into action.

The Kentucky Boating Division sets forth in a pretty, little brochure the statement that any person who operates a boat recklessly on state waters, or operates a boat while intoxicated, or who skis recklessly or skis in a restricted area shall upon conviction be fined not less than $15 nor more than $100.

That, we are told, is promised the violator in the name of water safety, and Goodness knows we need something of the sort. But will somebody please tell us how in tarnation you're gonna fine a violator if there isn't an officer around to arrest him?

To date, this water safety business is merely a lot of words, plus considerable money from the pockets of those who license their boats and hope to get back alive. (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

NEW STORE OPENS HERE

B. F. Casual Shop Sets Opening This Week-End; Francis Closes Business

The B. F. Casual Store will hold its official opening this week-end on Court street. This is one week following the closing out of Bob Francis, Apparel.

The new store, within the Ben Franklin store, will be operated by Bill Goebel, Jr., former Prestonsburg high school basketball coach. Bob Francis, who is operating a store at Richmond and is half-owner of Lloyd's Men's Shop in Lexington, will open a new business at Sarasota, Fla.

Many of the nationally-advertised brands of merchandise carried by Francis here will be offered in the B. F. Casual Store. It may be entered through an archway in the Ben Franklin store, which is owned and operated by William O. and Sally Goebel.

Francis established his business here seven years ago and although he, like many others, was a victim of the 1957 flood, his business had prospered.

In a statement issued this week, Francis said:

"Some of the finest stores in Eastern Kentucky are here in Prestonsburg and we urge you all to shop your local stores first before driving to some distant city."

TEACHER LIST FOR SCHOOLS IS COMPLETED

At Saturday's Meeting; Bank Official Is Asked To Meet With Members

The only action that drew a negative vote at a meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education Saturday evening was cast by John M. Stumbo when a motion was made to invite Henry D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., of The Bank Josephine, to appear at the next regular meeting and explain why his institution had not fulfilled its promise to extend a grant of $4,000 to the Board.

The First National Bank, at a meeting in August last year, had proposed to provide a $400 scholarship each year for a senior from each of the nine high school senior classes. The Bank Josephine's offer was predicated upon the Board's exercising its discretion as to what educational use was to be made of the grant.

The motion to ask Fitzpatrick to appear was made by Ross Cooley and seconded by Bill Blair.

At the August meeting last year it was decided to leave the matter to be arbitrated by Ray Howard, board chairman, and Wayne Ratliff, assistant county superintendent. To date they have made no report.

The Bank Josephine has been named the school system depository for two-year periods since June, 1956.

In a move to fully staff the system's classrooms for the ensuing year, the Board, upon the recommendation of Superintendent Charles Clark, employed additional teachers, transferred several and accepted resignations of others. Five high school clerks were also employed. Board Member Ross Cooley abstained on the motion to employ the teacher list submitted by Clark.

Teachers placed, and the schools to which they were assigned, follow:

Clyde B. Allen, Needmore, Hazel Clifton, Neeley, Loretta Pratt, Myrtle Pelly Harmon, Upper Little Point, Anna B. Harris, Upper Cow Creek, Charles E. Goodman, Daniel's Creek, John DeRossett, Mare Creek, Mazie Hamilton, Head of Little Mud Creek, Lucille Newcome, Mouth of Branham's Creek, Eva Nadine Hamilton and Joseph Elliott, Beaver school.

Palmer Frasure and Andrew Martin, Tinker Fork, Darlene Stone, Head of Branham's Creek, Arthur Martin, Jr., Neck Branch, Judy Newman, Lee Alley school, Lydia Roberts and Thelma Spears, Forks of Toler school, Leo Roberts. (See Story No. 3, Page 6)

MINE HEAD IS CLAIMED

Harry J. Sherman, 61, Dies At Huntington; Funeral Slated Friday

Harry J. Sherman, 61, of Wayland, long associated with the coal mining industry in this county, died at 3 a.m., Wednesday, at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington, W. Va. A massive abdominal blood clot and complications were given as the cause of death.

A native of Stewarton, Pa., he was a son of Charles and Ella Sherman. He was first associated in this county with the Elk Horn Coal Corporation at Wayland and in West Virginia with Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates at Beards Fork and Stanaford. For the last 12 years he had been general superintendent of the Evans Elkhorn Coal Company at Wayland.

Mr. Sherman was widely known in coal mining circles of the area. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Margaret Lourd Sherman; three sons, Roy Sherman, Wyoming, W. Va., Claydean Sherman, of Wayland, and Thomas Sherman, of the U. S. Air Force, Rapid City, South Dakota; five sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Ada Ohler, Uniontown, Pa., Mrs. Pearl Mellasonos and Mrs. Verna Hiltabidel, both of Connelville, Pa., Mrs. Lucetta Johnson, Elizabeth, Pa., Mrs. Emma Lu Lint, Flint, Michigan, Russell Sherman, Russdale, Pa., Jesse Sherman, Scottsdale, Pa., and Alvey Sherman, Cleveland, Ohio. He also leaves seven grandchildren.

The body was returned to the residence at Wayland, Wednesday afternoon. Funeral rites will be conducted at 10 a.m. Friday from the Wayland Methodist Church, and burial will be made Saturday in Chapel cemetery, Scottsdale, Pa., the Hindman Funeral Home directing.

Dr. Salisbury Named Draft Board Member; To Serve Without Pay

Dr. Herbert G. Salisbury, Jr., has been appointed to serve as a member of Selective Service Local Board No. 25 at Prestonsburg.

Other members of the local board are Bev Sturgill, Prestonsburg, Lawrence Keathley, Martin, Edward M. Pace, Wheelwright, Ellis Martin, Minnie, Robert S. Wellman, Prestonsburg, appeal agent, Dr. George P. Archer, Prestonsburg, medical adviser, and Mrs. Lyda M. Porter, clerk.

There are now 4,000 local boards located in every community throughout the nation. More than 40,000 citizens contribute their services without pay as members of these local boards, and in various capacities as advisers to the local boards and to the registrants.

JURY NAMES ARE DRAWN

For September Term; Indictment of Miller Expected Early In Term

The docket prepared for the criminal term of the Floyd circuit court does not include a murder case, but a murder indictment is expected to be voted, early in the term, against Charlie Miller for the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Wesley Fannin, and trial of the case will probably be held during the month.

Names of 70 Floyd women and men have been drawn by Circuit Judge Edward P. Hill for jury service during the term, which will convene, Tuesday, September 5. Names and addresses of prospective jurors follow:

Vernie Ratliff, Hite; Jobie Click, Martin; Mrs. Mary Thompson, Stanville; Bill Campbell, Water Gap; Amos Carroll, Grethel; Mrs. Don H. Goble, Prestonsburg; Fred Cochran, Hunter; J. A. "GREEN THUMB" SHEPHERD NAMED TO QUICKSAND RESOURCE GROUP

The Floyd countian who supplied Berea College its "greenest green thumb" is returning to his native mountain area.

The Eastern Kentucky Development project, the undertaking being carried out from its headquarters at Quicksand, Breathitt county, in 30 counties of this area by the University of Kentucky, has added Robert L. "Bob" Shepherd, native of the Middle Creek section of this county, to its staff.

Known at Berea, where he has been professor of horticulture and superintendent of gardens and grounds, as "Berea's greenest green thumb," Shepherd began work this month at Quicksand with U.-K. Shepherd now is a specialist with the Development Project, Communitra Lu Lint, Flint, Michigan, Russell Sherman, Russdale, Pa., Jesse Sherman, Scottsdale, Pa., and Alvey Sherman, Cleveland, Ohio. He also leaves seven grandchildren.

In his work with the resource development project, Shepherd will travel in 30 Eastern Kentucky counties, working with community leaders, helping property owners with ideas to develop their own natural resources. It is this "helping people to help themselves" that symbolizes one of the most important aspects of the project.

CLINIC TESTS 105 PERSONS

Work Here Saves Time, Promoters Announce; Woman's Club Assists

One hundred chest X-rays and examination in all of 105 persons made of the quarterly TB outpatient clinic held at the Floyd County Health Department last week the most successful clinic of its kind to be held here.

The outpatient clinic was initiated here as a timesaver and moneysaver for patients who otherwise would be required to return to the Ashland Tuberculosis Sanatorium for examination. The clinic was conducted by Dr. Duane Jones, of the Ashland sanatorium. Members of the Maytown Woman's Club served as hostesses.

Thirteen cerebral palsy sufferers—all but one from Floyd county—were examined at the clinic held Monday and Tuesday by Dr. Harris, of Lexington. The 13th patient is a resident of Martin county, it was said.

ELKS DONATE X-RAY UNIT

TB Contact Cases Urged To Have Examinations; Clinic Dates Are Set

The X-ray trailer, donated for use in Floyd and surrounding counties by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will be in this county August 31, September 1, 6, 7 and 8.

Every person age 20 and over is urged by the Floyd County Health Department to visit the trailer. Persons who have had close contacts with TB cases and have positive tests are especially urged to have an X-ray made.

According to Dr. R. L. Hall, health officer of the Floyd County Health Department, a skin test that is positive does not mean that the individual has tuberculosis. It does mean, however, that someone in his family or close acquaintance may have active tuberculosis to which he has been exposed.

No person under 20 years of age is to come for an X-ray unless he has had a positive skin test, Dr. Hall said. Exceptions will be made only at a physician's request. Nor will any woman in the first three months of pregnancy be X-rayed at the mobile unit. Other pregnant women may come if they have had a positive skin test reading.

Medical and health department policy is to make X-rays of persons 20 years of age and over more likely to have been in contact with the disease. Teachers, restaurant workers, and others in contact with the public are often required by the employers or by law to have proof that TB is not present.

Jack T. Hatcher, Pikeville architect, and Ervin Akers, of Akers & Akers, contractors who will construct the 36-room lodge in Jenny Wiley State Park, go over construction plans as James H. Porter, dozer operator awaits orders to begin moving earth at the lodge site last Friday afternoon.

FAVORITE HYMN POLL SHOWS "OLD RUGGED CROSS" LEADS

The poll being taken by this newspaper, in conjunction with The Christian Herald, shows that "The Old Rugged Cross" is a heavy favorite among readers of The Times. Next in popularity is "How Great Thou Art," the hymn featured in Billy Graham evangelistic campaigns by George Beverly Shea.

Ballots taken from The Times have been mailed in by readers from Michigan, Arizona, California, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin, in addition to those from Kentucky.

Holding third place in the poll is "Rock of Ages." Hymns also receiving votes are "Amazing Grace," "In the Sweet By and By," "In the Garden," "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go," "Beyond the Sunset," "I Love to Tell the Story," "Sweet Hour of Prayer," "He Whispers Sweet Peace to Me," "What a

ARCHERY CLUB TO MEET

The August meeting of the Shawnee Archery Club will be held at the range on Dewey Lake, at 6 p.m., August 21. A short business meeting will be followed by shooting on the range. All members are urged to attend. New members and interested fans are also invited.

Friend, "The Great Physician," and "Whispering Hope."

The ballot is being published in The Times this week for the last time. Readers should mail their ballots for their favorite hymn at once, since all selections will be mailed shortly to The Christian Herald.

DURBIN NAMED COACH HERE

Former Irvine Star Is Eastern Graduate; Was All-Star Mention

Hade Durbin, Jr., former Irvine high school and Eastern Kentucky State College football star, is the new head football coach at Prestonsburg high school.

Durbin earned three letters in football, three in baseball and two in basketball while attending Irvine high. In 1953-1954, he was honorable mention all-state on Joe Orr's football team.

He earned three letters in football at Eastern while playing under Coach Glenn Presnell and was honorable mention for the all-Ohio Valley Conference team in 1958.

After earning his B.S. degree from Eastern in 1960 with majors in health and physical education, he returned to school there where he coached the freshman football team this past season. He will receive his Master's degree in education this summer.

He is married to the former Pat Vencil, Richmond, and she will be employed as head of the women's physical education department in the high school here.

Martin Baptist Church Slates Homecoming Day; Evangelistic Effort Set

The First Baptist Church of Martin will observe the 14th anniversary of its founding with Homecoming Day Sunday, August 20. Dinner will be served at the church at 12:30.

The homecoming event will climax a week of evangelistic effort which is being led by the Rev. James D. Medley, local missionary with the General Association of Baptists in Kentucky, who serves the Martin church as pastor.

The Martin church was founded in August, 1947, under the leadership of the Rev. Winn T. Barr, now pastor at London, Ky. The church now has 206 members and engages with the General Association in the operation of missions at Dinwood, McDowell and Hunter. The program of work at the church includes Sunday School, Training Union, Woman's Missionary Union and Baptist Brotherhood.

FOUR JAILED FOR BREAK-IN

Stratton Is Claimed By Michigan Officers As Violator of Parole

Darrell and Kenneth Stratton, Floyd brothers, had brief reunion last week in jail here, but Kenneth was claimed Sunday by Michigan authorities while his brother remains a prisoner here upon his failure to execute $5,000 bond asked for his release.

Kenneth Stratton was jailed here last Thursday by State Detective Chester D. Potter as a fugitive from Michigan. It was said at the County Judge's office that he was wanted there for violation of parole from a 14-year prison sentence.

Darrell Stratton, Bub Ray Hamilton, Wilburn Gibson and Tivis Colley are in jail, charged with breaking and entering the Wayside Market at Garrett, and Trial Commissioner Harold Stumbo has asked $5,000 bond for the release of each. All have failed to execute this bond.

Colley, Stratton and Gibson were given 30-day jail terms last week on charges of petit larceny growing out of the theft of gasoline from the Halbert Service Station at Martin.

Colley was placed under $1,000 peace bond. A sufferer from tuberculosis, Colley will either be isolated in the jail here or transferred to a sanatorium, it was said. Fellow-prisoners have complained to the Floyd County Health Department that Colley is endangering their health.

Also jailed last week on a breaking and entering charge was James Prater. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Harold Johnson, and was placed under $1,000 peace bond.

Others jailed within the week included: Hollard Meade, driving while intoxicated and driving without an operator's license, arrested by State Trooper W. Williamson; Eddie Johnson, drunk driving, booked by Policeman Troy Mullins, of Wayland.

Wheelwright Man Named Officer of Store Group

Harry F. Moate, general manager of the Island Creek Coal Company store at Holden in Logan county, W. Va., Tuesday of last week, was re-elected president of the National Industrial Stores Association.

Other officers elected on this final day of the organization's 35th annual convention included: Kenneth S. Hobbs, of Huntington, first vice-president; K. E. Moore, of Wheelwright, second vice-president; and Frank Mancari, Kayford, Kanawha county, W. Va., treasurer.

Hull Bronson was re-elected executive director of Nisa with offices in Washington.

JENNY WILEY LODGE START MADE FRIDAY

Ground Broken by Akers On New Park Structure; Original Bid Reduced

Ground was broken for the Jenny Wiley State Park lodge Friday afternoon, and work continued this week, although the contract with Akers & Akers, of Dana, has not been signed and the official work order has not been issued.

The contract will be signed Friday, however, it was learned Wednesday. Inability of the contractor to be in Frankfort Tuesday prevented its signing at that time, as scheduled.

The contract is being awarded to Akers & Akers on its low bid of $775,640. The original low bid was $823,000 but changes in plans reduced the overall cost of the project.

Basically, plans for the lodge and all its appointments remain unchanged, the elimination of a portecochere being the principal modification of plans.

The contractors will have 270 days—roughly, till June 1, 1962—in which to complete the huge lodge, three 12-room dwelling units and a swimming pool.

The lodge and its complements will provide the park one of the most attractive and luxurious vacation spots in Kentucky.

It will overlook Dewey Lake from what is known as Hemlock Point, near the boat dock, and expansive view of glass, will give guests a view of the lake in three directions through pine, spruce and other trees which cover the hillsides.

The construction project first of all includes the clearing of the site of bushes and trees and the moving of between 12,000 and 13,000 cubic yards of earth. The lodge and dwelling units will extend 346 feet in length, fronting on the lake, and a wing will cover an additional 100 feet. At the end of this wing will be the swimming pool for lodge guests. The pool will be 48 feet long and will average 24 feet in width.

The hexagonal lodge building itself will have two levels covering a total of 16,336 square feet of floor space. On the lower level will be a dining room overlooking the lake, 62 by 35 feet and seating 120. This dining room will be so constructed that it can be divided into two private dining rooms at the rear of the main room. These would seat 40 persons each.

The first-floor level will have a sun porch 62 by 35 feet, the full size of the lower-level dining room; a large lobby, a recreation room, TV lounge, office and gift shop. Connected with the main lodge, and also with each other, by breezeways will be three two-story housing units of 12 rooms each. Each room will be about 31 feet by 13 feet, and each will have its private balcony overlooking the lake.

Air-conditioning and heating for lodge and housing units are included in the contract. Appointment. (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

PICK CAUDILL AS NOMINEE

Deceased Justice's Son Named by Party Leaders As Democratic Candidate

The Floyd County Democratic Executive Committee last Sunday afternoon named Edward Caudill, son of the late Magistrate Johnny D. Caudill, as the Democratic nominee for Magistrate in District No. 3 of this county.

Magistrate Caudill won the Democratic nomination at the May primary but died August 7. The selection of a nominee in his stead developed upon the executive committee.

Caudill, an employee of the Inland Steel Company and a veteran of World War II, was the unanimous choice of the committee, which is composed of the two legislative district chairmen, Glenn C. Eurchett and Tommy Ratliff, and County Chairman Sam Hale.

Governor Combs is expected to appoint a successor to Magistrate Caudill to hold the office the remaining few months of his term.

Caudill will be opposed for the office at the November election by Orville Moore, Republican nominee, who was unopposed in the primary.

WHEELWRIGHT HOPING FOR IMPROVED RECORD

Wheelwright high school, the last member to join the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference, hopes that this season's team can better its initial eighth-place standing in the league.

This will be the sixth season of revival of the sport at the Left Beaver Creek school.

In five previous seasons they have won only six games, with three of them coming last season when the Trojans compiled an overall 3-81- mark and had one victory and five losses in the loop.

Departed stars, Major Hall and halfback James Phillips, have signed grants-in-aid with the University of Kentucky and the University of Tennessee, respectively.

Starting his third season as head coach is Ray Brackett, a graduate of Eastern Kentucky State College. He will be assisted by Don Wallen, Georgia State College.

Thirty-three candidates reported for the opening of practice, July 24, and Brackett is conducting only one daily session in preparation for the opening game with Jenkins on Monday, August 28.

Heading the list of returning regulars is L. B. Spradlin, who will be starting his sixth season as a regular. He made the varsity while in the seventh grade and has been the left guard ever since. He is a 5-11, 175-pound senior and was a second-team all-conference choice last season.

Senior Larry Hobbs, 6-1, 190-pound end, will be seeking his fourth letter. He has caught 11 touchdown passes in the past two seasons. The other flankman is Gary Skiles, 6-2, 185-pound two-season regular.

Tackles Lawrence Thornsbury and John Vanosdol are both holdover veterans. Both juniors, Thornsbury is a 6-2, 205-pounder and Vanosdol a 6-foot 210-pounder.

Rounding out the line is center Larry Smith, 200-pound senior regular, and guard Bill Paul Skiles, 200-pound senior.

Six linemen were regulars last season and five have been regulars for two seasons. Their average weight is 195 pounds which should be the heaviest in the league.

Brackett feels that their experience makes up for the lack of speed and believes they could mold into the best line in the area.

The backfield is the "headache" as far as experience is concerned. Only halfback Charles Ed Hall has had any experience. The 170-pounder earned a letter last season, and he is the biggest man in the backfield.

Delmas Hall, 140-pound junior, will probably open at the other halfback spot. Handling the quarterback chores will be either William Mullins or Vernon Hall, both 160-pound beginners. Doug Hall, 8-foot sophomore, should be the fullback.

The Trojans will play an 11-game schedule with six E.K.M.C. teams and four in the regional race in Class "AA," Region 4. They have one open date on September 15.

MINIX STARS

Paul (Red) Minix, former Black Cat all-conference guard, was voted the Kentucky "Star of Stars" in the Kentucky-West Virginia Kivranis Bowl game last Friday night as the Kentuckians won, 8-6.

Minix was in on the majority of tackles for the Kentuckians and did an outstanding job blocking on offense. Several college coaches, viewing his stellar performance, were interested in his future college services.

He was awarded a bronze game-size football in recognition of his play.

Bob Smith, another former Black Cat, gave a good account of himself, offensively, gaining 41 yards in 11 tries.

Kentucky had the far superior defensive team, but failed to muster a serious offensive threat other than M. C. Napier's Jerry Brewer, who was the outstanding back in the game. Brewer tallied the Kentuckians' lone touchdown on the third play of the second period by running 48 yards off tackle.

The West Virginians were twice stopped within the Kentucky 10-yard line after penalties on the more aggressive Kentuckians had placed the ball in scoring position. Leading 8-0 with 1:45 to play, Bill Christian, Welch quarterback, hit end Steve Roberts with a 40-yard pass to the five, from which point Yeager's Jimmy Smith drove over for the losers.

More than 4,500 Tri-State fans turned out for the event in the 75-degree weather.

The victory was the first in five tries for the Kentuckians and one of the happiest persons in Williamson was Al Vipperman, Belfry's head football coach, who has been with the Kentuckians in three of the events. Belfry is only four miles from Williamson, and Vipperman has taken considerable ribbing from his West Virginia friends in past years. Miss Anne Smith, Belfry high school, was selected "Miss Kivranis Bowl" over 17 other entrants.

The Prestonsburg High School Boosters Club, sponsors of Little League Football, will meet this Thursday night at 7:30 in the high school building. All Little League coaches of last season and other league personnel are urged to be present at Thursday's meeting. It is hoped that Little League football will begin practice next Tuesday. More than 128 youths played in the program last season.

Playoffs, Title Game For Babe Ruth Loop To Conclude Season

Garrett, Ky. — The Floyd County Babe Ruth League will conclude its season of play for 13, 14 and 15-year-olds with a divisional play-off and league championship game this week. The divisional play-off will get under way Tuesday the 15th at 5 p.m., when the first place team, Auxier, and the third place team, Prestonsburg, in the northern division meet at the Auxier park. Martin, the second place holder, and David, in Fourth place, will meet in the Martin park. In the southern division, the first place team, Drift, and Garrett, which is in third place, will meet at the Drift park. Wheelwright, in second place will be host to the fourth place team, Hindman, in the Wheelwright park. All four games will start at 8 p. m. on Tuesday. Each of these games will be "sudden-death".

Winners of the games at Martin and Auxier will meet Wednesday, Aug. 16, at 4 p.m., as will winners of the games at Wheelwright and Drift for a two best of three series. These games will be alternated on the fields of the teams in the play. The two divisional champions will meet Sunday, Aug. 20, at 2 p.m., at the Drift ballpark in the championship game.

The championship game at Drift will conclude the season. Admission to all games will be free to the public except for the final game at Drift. A charge of 25 and 50 cents will be made at the final game.

P'BURG BLACK CATS LOOP'S BIG QUESTION

Prestonsburg high school, a perennial contender in the early years of the 10-team Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference, will be the big question in the league this season.

Eight seniors from the team which won six and lost four and finished fifth in the conference last year will form the nucleus of this year's edition that has been practicing twice a day since Monday.

Incoming coach Hade Durbin, Jr., former Eastern Kentucky State College back and freshman football coach, opened with a 38-player squad but hopes that 20 more candidates will report at the opening of school, August 21.

Graduation and last year's injuries have left only 12 lettermen six of whom were regulars. All-conference fullback Bob Smith and guard Paul (Red) Minix have graduated, along with regulars William Prater, Dennis Stephens and John Grant Anderson.

Smith was the team's leading scorer and ground-gainer. However, senior Dixon Nunnery, 180-pound fullback, may be the answer to Smith's departure.

Nunnery was a regular as a sophomore and showed promise of being the best fullback in the school's history, but he broke an ankle in the first game last season and was lost for the year.

Jerry M. Leslie, 165-pound senior quarterback, who took over the signal-calling chores at mid-season last year, suffered a fractured ankle Wednesday, and will probably miss the first half of this season. Moving into his spot probably will be Kelly Moore, 175-pound senior, who was shifted to the backfield last mid-season after earning previous letters as a guard. Kermit Baldrige, 150-pound senior speedster, and Carl Allen, 150-pound junior, are expected to start at halfback. Both saw considerable action last year, but were not regulars.

Lack of experienced backfield players could seriously hamper the Black Cats if any one of the starting four is forced out of action.

Charles Wills, 180-pound senior, and Ronnie Snodgrass, 180-pound junior, should bolster the forward wall this year after missing all of last season. Both have previously earned letters. Snodgrass will be a tackle and Wills a guard.

Returning regulars are speedster Charles Tackett, 155-pound senior end, who is the fastest boy on the squad at 10.2. His running mate is Gordon Young, 6-1 senior, who is a step slower at 10.3.

Filling in the center position is veteran Ashland Joseph, 170-pound senior, starting his third season at the post. He is the "toughest" defensive man on the squad and the oldest in point of service.

Clifford Reynolds, 6-2, 245-pound junior, has earned his tackle position and should be one of the best linemen in the circuit. He is fast and aggressive for his size. Stevie

Stephens, 180-pound senior non-letterman, and Jim McDonald, 150-pound senior, will relieve veteran Dickie Fitzpatrick, 180-pound senior, at one guard position.

Durbin's biggest problem is shaping his reserve power as injuries to any of his experienced 12 could wreck his season.

Prestonsburg will play an 11-game schedule, with one open date yet to be filled at home on October 27. Seven teams are conference opponents and five are Class "A," Region Four foves. All home games this year will be played in the new football stadium adjoining the high school.

TO ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS

The Superintendent of Schools and Principals of all Kentucky schools have been notified that in order to qualify for Federal support for their school lunchrooms, they must operate "closed lunchrooms." A school with a closed lunchroom is one that does not have general dismissal during the noon lunch period but keeps the pupils in a continuous day on school grounds and provides a scheduled period for lunch in a school lunchroom.

We assume that young people who do not care to eat in the lunchrooms would need to bring their lunches to school where they can supplement it with one-half pint of milk at 3 cents.

In the face of the new lunchroom requirement, we face the choice of not trying to operate lunchrooms at all or operating them in compliance with the State Lunchroom Division's requirement so that we may get the Department of Agriculture food and the reimbursement from the Federal Government. We are sure that you know we could not operate a lunchroom which serves a good nourishing meal for 25c or 30c without the donated foods and the federal reimbursement.

We feel that you want us to keep the lunchrooms open and we shall try to do that. We further realize that some restaurants and store operators may be hurt by this new requirement, but the requirement comes from the same agency at Frankfort which mails us our reimbursement checks each month, and we must comply with their rules.

We, the school people want your understanding and your support in our efforts for your sons and daughters, and we ask your understanding in the lunchroom problem.

Yours for greater educational opportunities for all our young people.

Sincerely yours,
CHARLES CLARK
Superintendent of Schools

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT

Geneva Sealf, Plaintiff.
Vs. NOTICE OF SALE
Mary Elizabeth S. Gearheart & c, Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered and entered at the June term, 1961, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 2nd day of September, 1961, at 10 o'clock, a.m., upon a credit of Six (6) months, the following described property, to-wit:

Being one house and lot located on East Avenue in the City of Prestonsburg, Floyd county, Kentucky, in what is known as the Hopkins Addition to the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, and bounded and described as follows:

Fronting on the South side of said avenue and running back with what is known as Short Street about 150 feet to the back of said lot, and bounded on the North by East Avenue; on the West by Short Street; on the South by the lands of and owned by the Hopkins heirs in 1921, and on the East by a lot owned by the F. A. Hopkins Estate in 1921, and being part of the same tract of land conveyed by J. M. Davidson and Anna L. Davidson, his wife, to F. A. Hopkins by deed dated September 9, 1902.

The purchaser may elect to pay cash in lieu of executing bond. For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 15th day of August, 1961.

J. B. CLARKE

Plan to use fresh snap beans within a day or two after buying. Store them dry in a tightly-covered container or plastic bag—in the refrigerator. Wash just before serving—wet beans do not keep well.

Newspapers and magazines will be conveniently at hand if you hang them over a curtain rod fastened to the window apron, wall or door. If hung under the window, use brackets that extend beyond the sill.

AN APPRECIATION

Now that we are about to leave Prestonsburg and Floyd county, and as we look back on our experiences in business and as citizens of the town and county, we cannot but be thankful to many, many people.

We have enjoyed seven years of very successful business in Prestonsburg. We met disaster in the form of flood with many others, and we all suffered because of that, but the courage of others helped us, and we hope we helped some of them. On the whole, these experiences of ours have been most pleasant and rewarding.

For all the kindnesses of friends and neighbors and for your patronage we are deeply grateful.

Perhaps we can say this with better grace now than when we were in business here: Some of the finest stores in Eastern Kentucky are here in Prestonsburg, and we urge you all to shop your local stores first before driving to some distant city.

We leave Prestonsburg to open a new store in Sarasota, Florida, and to continue the operation of stores in Lexington and Richmond, Ky.—Lloyd's Men's Shop in Lexington, Bob Francis, Apparel in both Richmond and Sarasota. When you are in these cities, don't fail to stop and visit with us.

We, of course, appreciate the business we have been given by the people of Prestonsburg and Floyd county. But more even than that we appreciate the friendship and neighborliness of the best friends and neighbors in the world.

BOB and JEAN FRANCIS

ments of the individual rooms will include full bathrooms and TV in each.

Picturesque setting of the lodge, beauty of construction and the appointments of lodge and rooms are expected to constitute a major tourist attraction.

A nine-hole golf course, with grass greens, is under construction, a short distance from the lodge site. Work is expected to begin Friday by Mosey Johnson, Garrett contractor, on a road from a point near the dock site to the lodge location. Graded and nearing surfacing is a road from Stratton Branch to Goble Branch. When completed this will connect a scenic drive all the way from the dam itself to the boat dock.

Next year is expected to see the construction of an amphitheatre in the head of the draw opening onto the boat dock parking area, and this will serve for the presentation of a drama to be written around the life of Jenny Wiley, pioneer heroine, by Paul Green, Pulitzer Prize-winning dramatist.

In the planning stage are extensive improvements at the entrance to the park from U.S. 23 at Lencer and the widening of the road into the park.

THE PROFIT MOTIVE

Before me is copy for Minor Clark's fish and wildlife column, and I note that a woman writes to inquire if her husband could get a license to seine minnows for sale.

Now, isn't that just like a woman—trying to turn minnow-seining into work? Man never was intended to hump and twist and squirm with a minnow net, muddying up the water and getting sand beneath his fingernails, just to catch minnows and sell 'em. Those minnows, my dear lady, were intended to be used by the fellow who went to the trouble to catch 'em.

Speaking of live bait, what ever became of the helgrammite? Now there was a bait, sub, that should command the fanciest prices, if ever it is sold. Anybody who will stand a pinching from those babies and still catch 'em deserves to be well-paid.

Sam Mead was in from East McDowell, the other day, and he and I were off to a flying start till he said he had told his son that if ever the boy caught him with a rooster under his arm or fishing to trot out the butterfly net.

"Hands Off" Is Order To Trucking Industry In War on Gaming, Vice

Frankfort, August 4 (Spl.)—In line with Gov. Bert Combs' concentrated attack on gambling and vice in northern Kentucky, the Department of Motor Transportation in Frankfort has issued a stiff "hands off" warning to the trucking industry.

A "Prohibited Operations" regulation, binding upon all for-hire operations in the state, became effective July 7. This emergency regulation prohibits any carrier from transporting either persons or property to or from a location in Kentucky where unlawful gambling or other illegal activity is carried on.

The scope of this regulation takes in taxi and bus operations, and all types of local as well as long distance deliveries.

What was the first Kentucky newspaper?

First issue of the Gazette, edited by John Bradford, was published in Lexington on August 11, 1787. Its establishment as the official and the first Kentucky newspaper had been authorized by the second constitutional convention which met in 1787 at Danville. An historical marker in downtown Lexington marks the site which the Lexington town council donated for Bradford to establish his newspaper.

I've often heard in Kentucky the expression "treating the devil." Is this only a Kentucky term, if so, of what origin?

The expression is probably not of Kentucky origin, but it does have some application to the state. Religion (so-called) had a vigorous hold on many Kentucky pioneers—often to the point of fanaticism. There are accounts of people gathering around trees in an emotional state of praying in which they yelped like dogs. They themselves called this "treating the devil." There were, however, many other forms of bodily affectations associated with this early revivalism, such as jerking, running, climbing and the playing of childish games.

How many Kentuckians actively participated in the Civil War?

No historian can give more than an approximation in answer to this question. Dr. Thomas D. Clark, of the University of Kentucky, says in his "History of Kentucky" that approximately 100,000 were actively engaged in the struggle. Between 30,000 and 40,000 Kentuckians enlisted in the Confederate service and approximately 64,000 fought in Union ranks. Some 13,000 were engaged in state guard service, Dr. Clark says.

(Readers who have questions about Kentucky are invited to send them to Public Relations Department, University of Kentucky, Lexington. UK staff members, experts in various fields, will supply answers for publication in this newspaper. A postal card may be used.

Tidbits Of Kentucky Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

"THAT MEMORY MAY THEIR DEEDS REDEEM"

When Emerson was asked to write a brief poem to commemorate the setting up of a monument at Concord Bridge, where the first battle of the Revolution was fought, he suggested that the marker would keep alive the memory of their deeds when all the generation gathered at that historic spot had gone:

"That memory may their deeds redeem
When, like our sires, our sons are gone."

Slowly, sometimes reluctantly, we are beginning to see the appropriateness of marking famous places, or showing our appreciation for the people of other times who have done great things to pass on to us. Massachusetts and Virginia have been most active in this valuable work, but the idea is gradually working into remote places. I wished for a more complete account of the great Kit Carson when I stood at his grave at Taos, New Mexico, and heard a well-dressed tourist tell his teen-age daughter that Carson was a famous outlaw.

I remained silent, I who had driven miles out of my way to see the simple grave of the great pioneer of the West, but I wanted to sit down on a near-by tombstone and preach a sermon to the dozens of tourists who came and went, to tell them of men like Carson who, in their own ways, helped add to our country the vast areas of the West and to help us to adjust to living new lives there.

When I set up my tent that night, away up in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains, in the extensive and impressive Carson National Forest, I felt a great deal nearer to the spirit of Kit Carson and would not have felt very strange if he had come by and chatted with my camping partner and me. Hollywood has, I fear, reduced most of our genuine Western heroes to a dead level of two sorts: a mild-mannered, two-gun man who always draws fast enough to survive and the bad, bad man who ultimately gets a dose of lead. But the plodding, commonplace men who pioneered were not spectacular, and, therefore, they did not seem to count in the romantic Westward Movement.

Every community has places that deserve some truthful, simple reminder that there have been people there, that the change from primitive woods or prairies to liveable farmlands and thriving towns did not just happen, that blood and sweat and tears, a lot of each, watered every square foot of what seems so natural and peaceful today. It is not necessary to make the earlier people god-like heroes to do this; we are slowly learning that god-like heroes are not common anywhere, that plain people like you and me have had to do most of the work of the world since history began. Any permanent marker that will help us to get a feeling of our continuity as a people will be valuable and deserves our support. Big places and famous people will, quite naturally, make better reading for the typical tourist, but we may learn some day that for every outstanding hero there were hundreds who lived and died without knowing that they had done anything out of the ordinary.

In my capacity as ornithologist I often rove through deserted graveyards and wonder at our neglect of those who preceded us. It would not take tons of money to place suitable markers for those who opened the ways for us. There would be no need to brag of great achievements by humble people whose very spirits would be offended by our attempt to show them off. Ultimately, of course, all these markers will crumble into dust, but meanwhile they can do much to hearten the average sight-seer to face his world in some of the spirit of brave people of all times. I have often commended the good taste of the community that erected the simple, appropriate monument to John Luther (Casey) Jones at his birthplace, Cayce, Kentucky. That little stone with its simple bronze plate ought to make many a person like you and me glad that John Luther Jones lived and that his dying was to save the lives of many other people. I am glad that no maudlin sentiment and no commercial greed dictated the simple inscription on that marker. Somehow one feels that heroic sacrifice is still possible when he reads the short statements of how Casey Jones lost his life.

Elliott Family Votes Morehead Scholarship; College To Make Award

The R. C. Elliott Corporation, a closed corporation of R. C. Elliott descendants, met Saturday, July 29, at the Lilacs, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mayo, Morehead.

The corporation voted to create an award to be called the Jenny Wells Elliott Scholarship. The scholarship will be given annually to a deserving student at Morehead State College. The officials of the college will select the student to receive the award.

The Elliott descendants also voted to set up a fund for permanent maintenance of the family burial grounds in Memorial Cemetery at Pikeville.

George Elliott, president of the corporation, came from Raleigh, North Carolina, to conduct the annual stockholders meeting. With Mr. Elliott were his wife and granddaughter, Johnna Ruth Elliott.

Also attending were Mrs. H. C. Bohon and her son, Henry, of Harrodsburg, Ky.; and Mrs. George Harp, of Pikeville, and their daughter, Mrs. James Potts, of Dallas, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore and their son, Charles Edward, of Shelby Gap, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Waggoner and children, Mary Anna, Howard, Jeanette and Ruth, of Burgin, Ky.; and Mrs. G. C. Blincoe and daughters, Deborah and Sandra, of Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Home Agent Gives Tips For Vacation Driving

Don't let an accident spoil your vacation. If you and your family are driving some place for a vacation, remember these suggestions for helping keep your vacation free of traffic accidents, says Mrs. Frances H. Pitts, county home demonstration agent.

Have the car checked carefully before you start the trip. Carry a flashlight, flares, fuses, a good spare tire, a first aid kit, maps, and identification. Check tire pressure regularly during the trip.

Before starting, check road routes and allow plenty of time to get a good night's rest each night. If you must drive at night, always use your passing beam, even when the other driver forgets. If oncoming lights blind you, watch the right edge of the road. If you get sleepy while driving, pull off the road, stop the car, and let someone else take the wheel or take a nap yourself before driving further.

When packing the car, no not block the driver's vision in the rear-view mirror. When children are to ride in the back seat, make sure rear doors cannot be opened while the car is moving.

If a bee or wasp gets inside the car, pull off the road, stop the car, and open the doors. It probably wants out as much as you want it out.

When going down steep grades, put the car in second or low gear. Do not use continuous braking. If you must park on a steep hill, wedge a block under one wheel and put your gears in reverse.

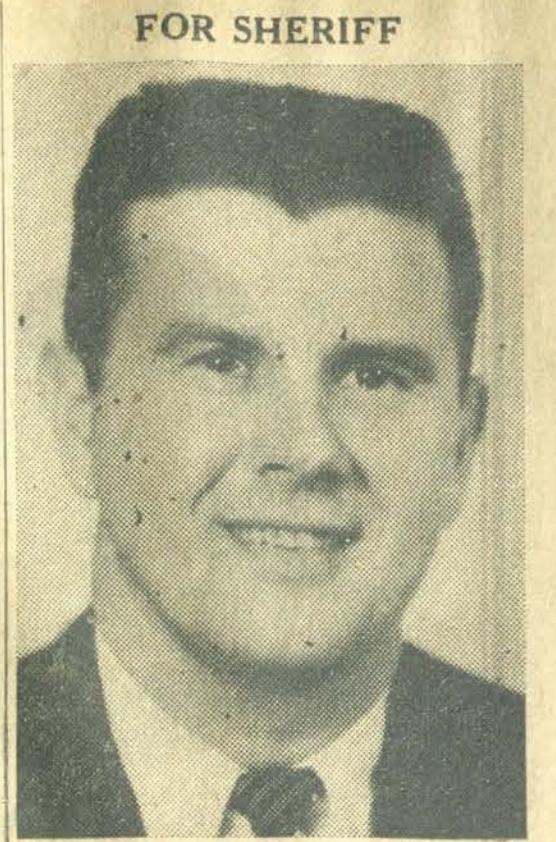

Remember that this is school vacation, so watch for children, especially in urban areas, Mrs. Pitts warns. Here are the main causes of child pedestrian accidents: running off the sidewalk into the street, not crossing at intersections, crossing against traffic lights, playing and roller-skating in the street, hitchhiking, riding on moving vehicles, and careless bicycle riding. These should give you a tip as to where to watch most closely for children.

Monkey Virus Brand Of Vaccine Not Used In State, Says Teague

Frankfort, August 4 (Spl.)—Kentucky's public polio immunization program has not been affected by the announcement last week that two major firms have suspended production of Salk polio vaccine because a monkey virus was found in their products.

Dr. Russell E. Teague, state commissioner of health, said vaccine distributed to county health departments in Kentucky is manufactured by another company. He said that the state has not purchased any vaccine from the two companies affected by the suspension.

Kentucky has about 14,000 miles of running water in its 31 rivers and some 800 smaller streams.

HISTORICAL NOTES

"I have made a visit to Floyd county the past two summers and it is not difficult to see why those old pioneers stopped there or why so many of their descendants still live there. It has been interesting to note that there are so many family names in Floyd county, Ky., which are the same names found in Ashe and Allegheny counties in North Carolina, and in Grayson county, Virginia. Tracing these family names back still further, many of them appear in the colonial records of Essex and Orange counties of Virginia. Most of this group were of English or Scotch-Irish descent and in the early days of our country they were always found on the frontiers. They followed New River into North Carolina before the Revolutionary War and the majority of them participated in the war in one way or another. I am naturally proud of the fact that I descended from such people as these and glad that I had a chance to grow up in the mountains. People sometimes become too sensitive about their backgrounds but I consider it an honor instead of an insult to be called a hill billy.

Auxier Family Dedicates Marker At Grave of Capt. David Auxier

A marker, commemorating Capt. David V. Auxier of the 39th Kentucky Volunteer Infantry who was fatally wounded at the Battle of Saltville, October 2, 1864, was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies, Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock at the McCready cemetery at Saltville, Virginia.

Garland S. Rice, of Paintsville, presided at the memorial service which was attended by members of the Auxier family and several officers and members of the Saltville-Preston Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Captain Auxier's grave, cared for by members of the Frye and McCready families of Saltville, was rediscovered over 30 years ago by Big Sandy valley relatives of the deceased Union soldier who succumbed to his wounds, October 4, 1864.

A welcome was extended to members of the Auxier family and the others attending by Mrs. W. J. Totten, of the Saltville U.D.C. and an introductory talk was given by Mr. Rice. An In Memoriam was read by Mrs. Mabel Auxier Rice, niece of the Union captain and Mrs. Annie Layne Davidson, another niece.

of Prestonsburg, placed a memorial wreath on the marker. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Ruth D. Sowards. The memorial address was delivered by Henry P. Scalf, Prestonsburg.

Attending, besides those named and a group from the Saltville area, were John E. Layne, of Ashland, Mrs. Gertrude A. Holbrook, Miss Madge Auxier, Mrs. Anna A. Dorton, Mr. and Mrs. George Galbraith, Miss Lucille Rice and Mrs. Milt Auxier, all of Paintsville, and Mrs. Henry P. Scalf, of Prestonsburg.

Participating in the dedicatory service from Virginia were Mrs. Anna Grace Rector, secretary of the Saltville-Preston U.D.C., and members Mrs. Bertie Cole Frye, Mrs. Doris Ann Brickley Griffiths, Mrs. Martha Waddle Lambert, Mrs. Mary Barrett Spence, Mrs. Elizabeth Brickley Totten, and Ernest McCready, all of Saltville, and Mrs. Clara Corner, and Mrs. Mary Sievers, both of Marion, Virginia.

Mrs. Anna Layne Davidson, who placed the memorial wreath, is the oldest living niece of Capt. Auxier.

Homeowners' Policies To Cost 5 Per Cent Less

Frankfort, Ky., August 7 (Spl.)—A five per cent reduction has been made in premiums on homeowners' policies in Kentucky, State Insurance Commissioner W. T. Hockensmith has reported.

The new premiums will save Kentucky policyholders about $½ million a year, Hockensmith estimated. He said his estimate was based on the approximately $9-½ million in premiums collected on this type of insurance last year.

The homeowner's policy is a package policy offering fire and extended coverage on dwelling and contents. It also offers protection against theft, personal liability plus medical expenses, additional living expenses caused by damage to the home, and other optional coverages.

With the lower premiums, Hockensmith said, is included an increase in basic personal liability coverage from $10,000 to $25,000 per occurrence and in medical payments from $250 to $500 per person. Hockensmith said the premium reduction is made possible by "favorable loss experience by the companies in this class of insurance."

Let's get the facts straight about

RURAL ELECTRIC CO-OPS

There's a lot of misinformation floating around about Rural Electric Co-ops. We can't tell you the whole story here, but we would like to give you a few straight, simple and accurate facts about rural electrification.

Kentucky's 1935 Rural Electric Co-ops are about 25 years old. They were organized and built by their farmer-user-owners to bring an adequate, and economical, supply of power to rural areas.

Since it takes money to undertake a big project like this, the farmers borrowed — from the Federal Rural Electrification Administration. This money was loaned at a set interest rate and all of it must be paid back within 35 years.

Rural Electric Co-ops are not government-supported. In fact the opposite is true. Just like any other big Kentucky corporation Rural Electric Co-ops support the government... through their proper share of the tax load. In Kentucky Rural Electric Co-ops pay taxes directly to the state... and to the 112 Kentucky counties in which they operate.

Kentucky's farmers originally built their rural cooperatives for one purpose only... to get the electric power they could not buy elsewhere! Out of their cooperation has grown a force powerful enough to keep Kentucky's prosperity growing.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By JOE JORDAN
(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, returns from the August election showed that the forthcoming session of the Kentucky legislature would have in the lower house 76 members who favored the Commonwealth's staying in the Union to 11 secessionists.

"Unquestionably the Unionists of the state have won a great victory," said the Louisville Journal, the biggest pro-Union newspaper in Kentucky. "If, however, this victory should be used unwisely, it would bear some of the bitterest fruits of defeat . . ."

"We look upon the preservation of the peace of the state as the first and chief measure that challenges our care . . . Kentucky, so far as the Union party may control her action, will respect more scrupulously than she has yet done the position of neutrality she has assumed deliberately for reasons altogether sufficient . . . The victory of yesterday will be used as it ought to be used, not to put an end to neutrality, but to enforce it honestly and independently."

(Six weeks and one day after the editorial appeared, the new legislature would abandon neutrality and put Kentucky into the war on the side of the Union. Meantime, the legislators would be influenced by events which George D. Prentice, able editor of the Journal, could not have foreseen on the day after the election.

The Congress at Washington passed, with only two dissenting votes in the House of Representatives and five in the Senate, a resolution that had been introduced by John J. Crittenden of Kentucky. It declared that the war against the seceded states was not being waged with any purpose of "overthrowing or interfering with the rights or established institutions of those states, but to defend and maintain the supremacy of the Constitution and to preserve the Union, with all the dignity, equality and rights of the several states unimpaired, and that as soon as these objects are accomplished the war ought to cease." In those days, "slavery" was a dirty word; it was common to refer to it by some such expression as "established institution." Thus the resolution was an official declaration by the U. S. Congress that the Union side was not fighting to end slavery.

Of the five votes against the Crittenden resolution in the U. S. Senate, two were cast by Kentucky Senators John C. Breckinridge and Lazarus W. Powell. The previous week the Senate had rejected a Powell-proposed amendment to a pending military bill, to forbid the use of U. S. armed forces in abolishing or interfering with slavery. That rejection made the Kentucky senators doubt whether the resolution was a true statement of Union war aims.

Attendance is considerably higher than last year, Preston Slusher, general manager, said. The drama was drawing 87 per cent more than last year until rainy weather began about three weeks ago.

The production, now in its third season, will run through September 4 at Pine Mountain State Park, near Pineville. The unusual, costuming and makeup, patterned after the mosaics of the Byzantine Church, unique choral work of chanting, humming, intoning, meaning and crying, and the play's ancient mystic theme have won universal acclaim.

Polio vaccine urged
In urging Kentuckians to continue in the vaccination program, Dr. Teague pointed out that over 350,000 doses of Salk polio vaccine have been distributed to the counties this year and that there has been no adverse reactions among those receiving the shots. He also added that there is no evidence that the monkey virus found in the vaccine causes illness in man.

Morehead, Ky. (Spl.)—Although only a five-watt radio station, WMSC provides a real service to residents of North Men's Hall on the Morehead State College campus.

The station began broadcasting earlier this summer with equipment owned by Fred Wetzel, of Van Lear, who has been a ham operator for a number of years. Wetzel and roommate, Jim Norsworthy, of West Liberty, managed the miniature station in their room until early in July.

From this meager beginning the station has become a highly popular project. It has been moved into a spacious studio room and a well-planned program has replaced the initial periodic broadcasting.

WMSC serves the purpose of providing an adequate medium of communication to the more than 400 students of the hall and to inform them of dormitory and campus activities as well as to entertain.

Announcers and crew members number five and include: Wetzel, Norsworthy, Joe Williams, Reading, Ohio; Jack Wicker, Wayland, and Jan Willis, Brooksville.

Broadcasting time is from 7 until 11 in the evening at 570 on the dial.

"The Book of Job" Play Has Large Attendance;

Frankfort, Ky., August 7 (Spl.)—Despite adverse effects of unusually rainy weather, Kentucky's religious outdoor drama, "The Book of Job," is attracting a record attendance this season.

Attendance is considerably higher than last year, Preston Slusher, general manager, said. The drama was drawing 87 per cent more than last year until rainy weather began about three weeks ago.

The production, now in its third season, will run through September 4 at Pine Mountain State Park, near Pineville. The unusual, costuming and makeup, patterned after the mosaics of the Byzantine Church, unique choral work of chanting, humming, intoning, meaning and crying, and the play's ancient mystic theme have won universal acclaim.

NATURE TRAILS

By RUFUS M. REED

FLASH FLOODS

Thoughtless and wasteful man creates his own problems through his lack of foresight and his selfishness and extravagance. There is an old but true saying: "It is too late to lock the stable after the horse has been stolen." It may be too late to save our land from devastation caused by the sudden downrush of water from our denuded watersheds all over our land!

In this great country, we once had more than 822 million acres of virgin forests; today all this vast acreage has been cut over, and much of it has been timbered three or four times in the past fifty years. On some lands, the timber has been cut down to the size of ten inches, to furnish mine props and headers. The work of devastation of our forests goes on and on unchecked.

There are now left few large trees with dense foliage to check and retard the rainfall. There is no thick layer of leaf mold on the forest floor, to act as a sponge to absorb and hold the rain water. As a result, when hard rains come, the waters rush headlong down into the streams, where they gather force and flood the land, causing untold damage. The damage can never be fully estimated; it brings suffering and misery, creates unsightly landscapes, damages the reputation of a country, and hurts it in various ways. Men are beginning to reap as they have sown; they have robbed the forests of their treasures and have made money, but the damage is written in heartaches and millions!

Another cause of these flash floods is a lack of lakes, reservoirs and other huge receptacles to catch and hold the excess of water. Many lakes have been filled up to make a way for modern progress; many swamps have been drained and filled, so the water has no place to go except to rush pell-mell down the hillside and into the bed of the stream.

We are going to have to inaugurate a more drastic program of reforestation and the establishment of more forest preserves, if we are to save our land from destruction and our valleys from ruin by floods.

We need far more reforestation on a wider scale; all lands timbered down to the undergrowth should be reforested as soon as possible, and this should be made a state and a national program. All logging companies should be required to help in this work, where they have removed and used the timber from mountain lands. Not all the timber should ever be removed from steep land; a belt of timber should be left to help check the water and hold the soil. We also must build more dams and provide more lakes for catching and holding the water. Every farm should at once establish a good-sized lake or pond, for use in emergency.

Despite the heavy rains of the past summer, our country is yet faced with a serious water famine in the near future. This is because the streams soon run down and the brooks dry up shortly after the rains cease. There is very little moisture retained on denuded hillside lands and the soil quickly dries out.

"In fifteen years," says a writer recently in THIS WEEK MAGAZINE, "we will need twice as much water as we do now. Today 40 million Americans are on the edge of a serious water shortage. And today nearly every major waterway in the United States is polluted."

Modern industry is a great, thirsty giant that literally gulps up our water supply and throws back into it all sorts of poisons, detergents and chemicals, rendering it a deadly killer of fish and all life in the streams, and also making it dangerous for human use. Consider these figures: It takes 70,000 gallons of water to make one ton of steel; 90,000 gallons to make a ton of paper; 200,000 gallons to make a ton of rayon, and 600,000 gallons to make a ton of synthetic rubber.

We have made a suicidal destruction of our watershed; we have destroyed our forested lands and our lakes and swamps, which are the natural reservoirs of water, and we have laid our land open to destruction by flash floods. On top of this, we are today polluting our streams with all kinds of poisonous chemicals, which filter systems cannot remove from the water.

"Pollution of our water systems may bring about the death of our civilization," writes an authority in Science News Letter. "Pollution of our rivers and streams is increasing at a rate that is a national disgrace. Our waters now receive twice as much pollution as before." It is highly necessary for us to build huge reservoirs of water, for use in the future, and these must be located away from the great industrial centers, to keep them free from contamination.

Legends, Lore Feature Pine Mountain Region

A massive formation of sandstone rock, jutting up at a 45-degree angle some 300 feet into the air, is the focal point of the many natural wonders in a rugged 640-acre area near Cumberland which has been presented to the state of Kentucky for development as a state park.

The huge chunk of sandstone, known as Raven's Rock, is imbedded atop Pine Mountain at about 3,000 feet above sea level, but its isolation has caused no dearth of legend and interest down through the years.

This scenic wonderland of extensive caves, a natural bridge, a natural amphitheatre and rocks which appear to be petrified trees is only three miles from Cumberland. But so rugged is the terrain that the park area now is accessible only in dry weather using a four-wheel-drive vehicle.

This is being changed, however. About $30,000 in local and state funds is being expended on an access road. The Kentucky Rural Highway Division is spending approximately $15,000 for gravel, bulldozing, etc.

Raven's Rock was named by early settlers whose stories of huge flocks of ravens nesting in its nooks and crannies and darkening the sky by sheer numbers have been handed down through the generations. But there are no ravens to be found today.

A fanciful legend is that a bonanza of silver is hidden in the area. Capt. John Swift, who allegedly discovered a silver mine in the Cumberland Mountains, is said to have told a confidant that treasure was hidden in a cave near a stream that took origin in a pattern much like a turkey's foot. A number of streams in the Raven's Rock area fit the description.

Geology students from all over the nation have been coming to the area for 50 years or more to study the rock formations in the caves surrounding Raven's Rock.

The land was presented to the state by the Cumberland Lions Club and by A. J. Creech, a Cumberland lumber dealer. The State Parks Department has not set a timetable for developing the area, which includes acreage in both Harlan and Letcher counties, but Gov. Bert Combs in formally accepting the gift said he hopes to dedicate the park during his administration.

LICENSE FEES HARD TO PAY

In Eastern Kentucky;
Coal Field Depression
Is Bar To Compliance

Most difficult area in the state in which to get compliance with motor vehicle license laws is Eastern Kentucky, says Aubrey Childress, director of the Revenue Department's field division. Here the coal truck operators, hard hit by the coal depression, have found it especially difficult to pay required license fees.

Recognizing the difficult situation, the 1960 Legislature limited to $300 the maximum additional fee for licensing coal trucks for weights above 18,000 pounds.

In further deference to economic reality, Governor Bert Combs last spring invoked to the full extent the power granted him under a rarely-used statute. The statute (KRS 134.030) permits the governor, in cases of economic distress to extend for not more than 90 days the time for payment of taxes in one or more counties.

Petitioned by the fiscal courts to do so, Governor Combs used the statute to extend from March 1 to May 30 this year's deadline for licensing and registration of coal trucks in 15 distressed coal-producing counties.

This period of amnesty being past, coal trucks, like all other commercial trucks, are again subject to check-point inspections. The Revenue Department plans to continue the roadside check-points indefinitely.

The burr under the saddle which spurs state officials to press for systematic, uniform collection of the truck license fees is the hunger of the state road fund. Receipts for the fund last year were $2½ million less than Revenue Department forecasts.

Committed to bold highway construction programs and responding to public demand for remedy of Kentucky's historic bad-roads handicap, the state has no choice, Childress points out, but to collect the taxes which the Legislature has made available by law.

Suffering along with the state, when enforcement is lax, are the counties, Childress adds, since half the funds from commercial truck basic registration fees are split equally among Kentucky's 120 counties, with each county receiving a approximately $17,000 from this source for 1960-61.

Source of approximately one-twentieth of the state road fund, truck fees are more difficult to collect, Revenue Department officials say, than all the other road fund taxes combined.

Automobile license fees and gasoline taxes, for instance, make their way systematically from the citizen to the state treasury with relatively little "extra" exertion on the part of Revenue Department officials. But collection of truck fees is often a horse of a different color.

Although 134,000 commercial trucks are licensed in Kentucky, some owners are reluctant to buy for their trucks the proper basic license ($10 to $250) required by law. Many others attempt to avoid payment of the additional fee ($67 to $500) required for weights over 18,000 pounds.

Collections were never easy, even in the most prosperous years, and have been far more difficult in recent years of economic slump.

Using studies conducted by the Department of Highways for the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and statistics compiled by the Department of Revenue, Revenue statisticians estimated last year that the State and county road funds are losing approximately $1 million annually because many trucks are not registered for the proper gross weight. An additional amount is lost because of the trucks which are unlicensed.

At the heart of the problem are intra-state trucks—the trucks owned by Kentuckians and operated solely inside the state borders. Trucks operating inter-state, whether based in Kentucky or in other states, in the vast majority of cases pay the required fees.

Lady Is Free of Rheumatic Pain

One lady told us she had rheumatic pain so bad she had to walk with a cane most of the time. The joints of her knees and ankles were stiff and sore. Recently she got RUGON and says the pains began to go within a few hours, and now after one week the pain is gone entirely.

RUGON is helping so many victims of rheumatism and neuritis because this New Liquid Formula contains Three Wonderful Ingredients. Not a tablet or capsule. RUGON goes to the very source of pain almost at once and costs but a few cents a day to take. So don't go on suffering. Get RUGON at W. A. Rose Drug Co.

MILDEW ON ROSES

One of our worst rose diseases, mildew can be pretty well controlled by proper spraying or dusting. Treatment should begin now and be continued each two weeks until frost. All roses, except "Dorothy Perkins" can be kept fairly free of mildew by proper spraying or dusting. As a spray use wettable sulphur, one tablespoon per gallon of water, or use Karathane W. D. or Mildex one teaspoon per gallon of water. For a good dust for mildew on roses use dusting sulphur. Ordinary flowers of sulphur is not suitable for this purpose. An occasional treatment will do very little good. It takes a dusting or spraying each two weeks from now until frost to really get the job done.

LUMBER GRADING

A hardwood lumber grading short course will be held August 7-11 at the University of Kentucky's Robinson Forest in Breathitt county. Sawmill operators, sawyers, lumber salesmen, scalers and all people in hardwood lumber industry are eligible to attend.

Advanced registration is to take place through James A. Newman, Extension Forester, University of Kentucky, Lexington. A supply and material fee of $10 will be charged for each registrant. Enrollment will be restricted to twenty-five.

GARDENS

Many early vegetable crops are maturing now. When harvest is over the old plants should be removed from the garden. This will help to control insects and keep down weeds. After old tops are removed, work up the soil, fertilize again, and sow a fall crop. August is the time to sow fall lettuce, mustard, radish, and turnips. Any part of the garden, not to be used for fall crop should be seeded to cover crop as soon as possible.

COUNTY FAIR

The County Fair will be held September 11-16. This is two weeks earlier than last year. Garden vegetables should still be in abundance, and some fine vegetables should be exhibited this year. Most every gardener has something in which to be proud. Prepare now to bring something to the Fair. The more people that exhibit, the better the fair.

ALFALFA

Alfalfa is increasing in importance each year. In general farmers have been pleased with their alfalfa crop. There have been some failures, but the cause can usually be traced to poor management. Alfalfa is a highly productive hay crop, that requires a rather sweet soil, with adequate phosphate and potash. Because alfalfa will produce two to three times as much hay per acre as lespedeza it requires fertilization each year.

If a farmer needs some top quality hay, and is willing to properly prepare the soil, topdress with fertilizer each year and cut at the right time, alfalfa is the answer. Fall seeding is usually successful if seeded between August 15 and September 15. A soil sample should be taken first, then come by your Extension Office for further information.

School Reimbursements For Pupil Lunches Cut; Funds Depleted Early

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 7—Reimbursements to schools for pupils' lunches had to be cut off the last two months of the last school year, C. E. Bevins, director of the Kentucky program, said Monday. Bevins said the State depleted all federal funds used to finance the program and had to call on the schools to make their own arrangements for hot lunches. He said he doubted that any financial hardships resulted, since most schools had been able to build up reserves.

They will not need reserves to start the new school year next month because money will be available when it is needed at the end of this month, he said. Surplus commodities used by the schools for hot lunches will be distributed this month.

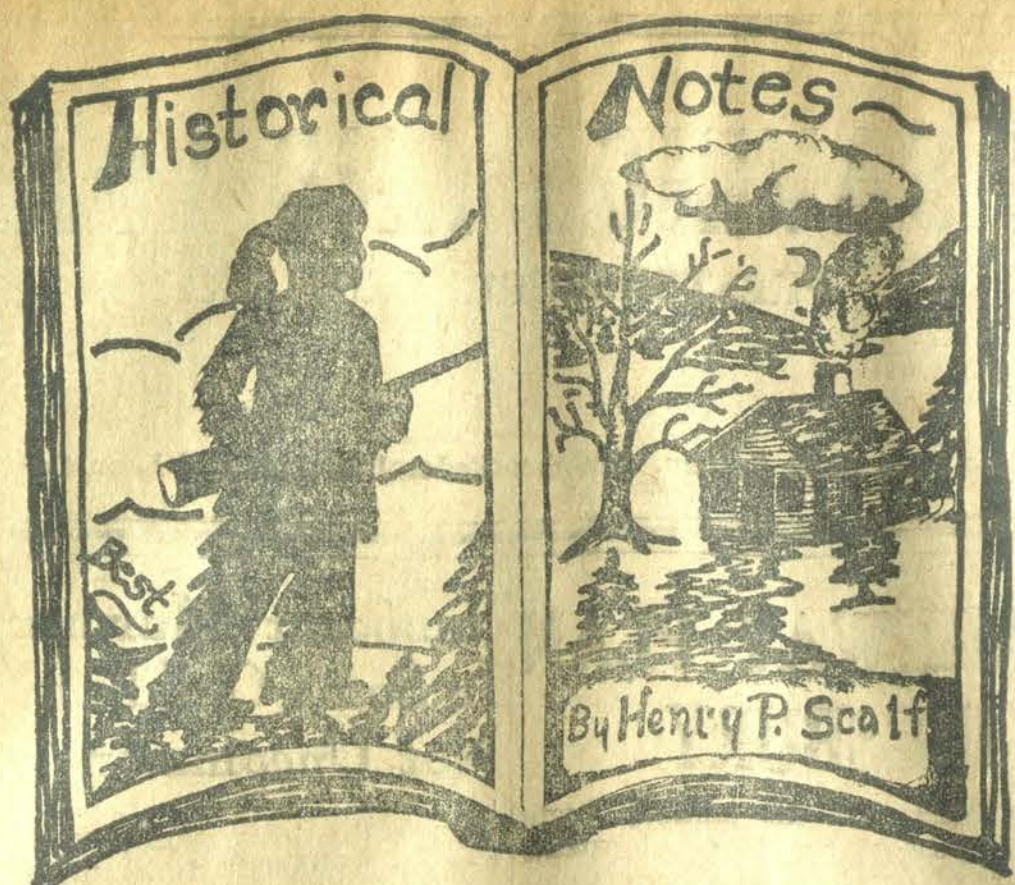

Bevins, director of the Division of School Lunch in the Department of Education, said Kentucky has been running out of school-lunch reimbursement money toward the end of the school year for several years. The fund was depleted earlier than usual last year.

The money is appropriated by Congress and distributed to the states under a formula that considers several factors.

The states, in turn, have a formula of their own to determine how much reimbursement per lunch goes to the individual schools. The amount runs from 4 to 9 cents per lunch. Prime factors include the percentage of free lunches distributed and the cost of lunches to paying pupils.

Bevins said about half of Kentucky's 3,000 schools which have lunchroom facilities participate in the program. A gradual increase in the number participating from year to year has been causing the reimbursement fund to run out earlier each year.

Additional money cannot be expected by Kentucky until Congress approves more funds for the program, or until Kentucky's per capita income drops to a level lower in comparison with the national per capita income.

LINES FAMILY

A letter from Mrs. Richard Lines, 138 Parsons Road, Oak Ridge, Tenn., to Mrs. Peggy Jo Vaughn, of Langley, is relayed to this column.

"I have started the pleasant and yet difficult task of tracing our family history. It is so interesting and a wonderful way to study history. Richard's great-grandfather, John Lines, lived in Kentucky. Richard's grandfather, George Lines, was born in Catlettsburg. John Lines came to this country from England—when I do not know. He is buried somewhere in Kentucky, perhaps Catlettsburg.

"They were a family of geologists and miners. The Lines name is derived from their profession, 'runner of lines.' John Lines died in 1873."

If anyone has information on this family, please contact this column or write Mrs. Lines.

MCCOY BIBLE

From an old Bible in possession of Joe McCoy, of Thomas, we select bits of genealogical lore on the McCoy and Fraley families.

John McCoy, born April 24, 1788; died September 8, 1872. He married Margaret Jackson, at a boat landing near Knoxville. She was born August 24, 1788; died September 8, 1872, only one hour after the death of her husband.

William McCoy, born February 22, 1815; died January 29, 1888. He married Sarah James who was born February 1, 1817; died September 23, 1885. (It was this William, called "Billy" who rode horseback to Frankfort in 1848 to procure a pardon for Abner James, which was the subject of a feature story in The Times several years ago).

Pleasant P. McCoy, born February 15, 1844; died January 18, 1938. He married Sarah Ratliff, born May 27, 1849; died May 26, 1927. William R. "Buddy" McCoy, of Inez, Martin county, was born March 18, 1873. Harlowe W. McCoy, was born May 9, 1875; died November 5, 1931.

C. W. (Wallace) McCoy, born April 29, 1878. Hayes McCoy, an attorney for the Standard Oil Company, Bartlettsville, Okla., was born September 8, 1885. George W. McCoy, who resides at Jenkins, was born April 28, 1888.

Henry P. Fraley was born December 22, 1835; died January 22, 1887. He married Artie Taylor, born March 9, 1840; died October 9, 1906.

CHARLES FAMILY

A letter from C. E. Charles, Box 594, Erwin, Tenn., expresses interest in the memoirs of the Union veterans, Capt. John C. Collins and Major John F. Stewart.

"I have read in the Pike county News with much interest of the drama presented at Prestonsburg at the old Garfield Place, 'The Proud Heritage,' written by you. Reference is made to recently discovered memoirs of Capt. John C. Collins and Major John F. Stewart as the basis for the historical background of the drama.

"My grandfather, A. J. Charles, served in Company E, 39th Kentucky Volunteer Infantry, which, I believe, was a unit and attached to the Eighteenth Brigade, commanded by Col. James A. Garfield. His brother, Magistrate John Charles, officiated at the swearing-in ceremonies at the Old Bowles Home in Pikeville when he (Col. Garfield) was promoted to Brigadier-General. My grandfather's unit served under Col. John Dils who organized the 39th Kentucky Volunteer which was recruited in the Big Sandy Valley area. Captain Louis Swords (Sowards?) commanded grandfather's Company E of this regiment."

STURGILL FAMILY

A letter from David A. Sturgill, 9604-48th Avenue, College Park, Maryland, is relative to his historical research in this region.

"Over the past twenty years I have done considerable research on the history of all of the people of the north west corner of North Carolina and the adjoining counties in Virginia. Most of the old records show that when people migrated away from this area, usually due to overpopulation, they tended to migrate in groups to the same places. One of the first migrations began about 1812 to the western tip of Virginia and into Harlan and Letcher counties in Kentucky. The second wave followed about 1820 and when these found most of the good land already occupied they moved on down the Big Sandy and settled in Floyd county. Another group followed about ten years later and after a year or two of unsuccessful land hunting in western Virginia and eastern Kentucky a large group of them moved on into Missouri and followed the old Oregon Trail into the Pacific northwest where they became some of the first settlers in eastern and central Oregon.

GRAVE OF CAPT. DAVID VALENTINE AUXIER

A marker was dedicated at the grave of Capt. David Valentine Auxier at the McCreedy cemetery, Saltville, Va., Sunday, August 5. Many Big Sandy residents and patriotic organizations of Saltville participated.

Capt. Auxier, of the 39th Kentucky Volunteer Infantry, U. S. A., was fatally wounded October 2, 1864, at the Battle of Saltville, and succumbed to his wounds, October 4. His family were strong supporters of the Union in the Big Sandy Valley.

CUMBERLAND PARKWAY PLAN PROMOTED BY KINGSBURY

A Cumberland Parkway from the Ohio River to the Tennessee border would introduce Eastern Kentucky to the rest of the nation as a wondrous land for tourists.

Such a parkway, following the ridges of the Cumberland Mountains, would itself become a major tourist attraction. The ridges overlook vast expanses of woodland, deep gorges, rocky cliffs, mountain streams, waterfalls and winding valleys—all a sightseer's dream.

Kentucky should urge the Federal Government to build such a route, says Gilbert W. Kingsbury, formerly acting director of the State Division of Tourist and Travel Promotion. He explains that this is especially vital now since the U. S. is setting aside one million acres for scenic parkway development by the National Park Service.

Motorists on the 200-mile Cumberland Parkway would see vista after vista of nature at its most primeval and sublime spread below as far as the eye could see. Many would turn aside to explore this land and would discover Eastern Kentucky's vacation sites. Thus, besides providing easier access, a parkway would be a vivid advertisement for the region. Its towns and communities would profit from this invigorated tourist trade.

Whatever its exact route, a north-south parkway, combined with existing highways and the Eastern Kentucky Toll Road now being built, would improve access to the region. Kingsbury did not specify a route other than to recommend that the parkway begin just east of Haysville and extend, presumably, to a point near Cumberland Gap.

That a roadway through a region as scenic and historic as the Cumberland is popular with tourists has been proved by Virginia's Skyline Drive, which many motorists go out of their way to travel.

Soil Conservation

By L. R. JOHNSON, Soil Conservationist

Alex DeRossett, cooperater in the Floyd County Soil Conservation District, is convinced that many farmers can save much time and money by following the conservation practice of seeding grass with the last cultivation of corn.

His belief in this practice is so strong that he has seeded six acres of Kentucky 31 Fescue and Ladino clover in his corn immediately after the last cultivation for the third consecutive year. As this is written the fescue-ladino mixture is about five inches tall.

"Last year I seeded fescue and ladino after my corn was laid by," said Mr. DeRossett. "As soon as the corn was harvested, I turned 23 head of cattle into the field. The cover crop was about 18 to 24 inches tall. I left the cows and heifers in that pasture until December, and I didn't have to give them any additional feed."

When spring came, the cattle were turned into the field in March where they grazed for about a month. Mr. DeRossett then permitted the grass to grow out and turned it under for this year's corn crop.

Twenty to 25 pounds of Kentucky 31 Fescue and one to two pounds of Ladino clover were seeded per acre. This field is now being used for continuous cultivation of corn and 100 or more bushels of corn per acre are being produced annually.

Alex DeRossett's farm is located on the right fork of Bull Creek. Drive out and look over his corn and cover crop and talk to Dr. DeRossett. Call or visit L. R. Johnson, Soil Conservationist, for additional information.

SLIDES BEING USED

Colored slides are now being used by the Floyd county Soil Conservation District to show farmers some of the conservation practices now being carried out in the county. These color slides have been taken over the past several years in Floyd county. The subjects include tree setting and tree growth, "before and after" pictures of tile drainage and sod waterways, and even a cattle water trough which is filled with clear water from a tile line.

These slides are ready to be shown to you. Stop by the Soil Conservation office and ask to see what your neighbors are doing to improve their farms.

TILING DOES DOUBLE DUTY

Johnnie J. Holbrook, of the Abbott Creek section, found that tiling can sometimes do more than dry up swampy land. Mr. Holbrook installed 550 feet of four inch tile this spring with the engineering assistance furnished by the Soil Conservation Service. Two small fields were tiled, one lying above and the other lying below his home.

Mr. Holbrook has had a problem for some time with his basement, which floods after a hard rain. Since the installation of tile in the adjacent fields, his basement has remained dry even with the unusually heavy rains this season. And the fields which were tiled are now dry and easily cultivated.

One pound of fresh peaches will give you about four servings of sliced peaches. For pie, you'll need two pounds of fresh peaches for an 8 or 9-inch pie. For canning or freezing, a bushel (48 pounds) of fresh peaches yield 18 to 24 quarts.

'Innocent' Murmur In Some Children Not Uncommon

When the doctor says your child has an "innocent" heart murmur and advise you to let him play just like any other child, do just that. And don't worry. The child does not have heart disease. He has the kind of murmur that more than half of all children are likely to have at some time and that generally disappears in adolescence.

This is clearly explained in a new leaflet, "Innocent Heart Murmurs in Children," available free on request from the Kentucky Heart Association, 311 Speed Building, Louisville, Ky.

An innocent murmur is a "functional" or harmless one. It is usually found in children between the ages of three and seven. A child with such a murmur is no more likely to have heart disease than other normal children. There is no need to restrict his activities.

The leaflet explains, it may take several examinations to make sure the child's heart murmur is of the common or "innocent" kind. Some murmurs are hard to diagnose. (And it isn't easy to examine a child when he is restless or a little afraid). If the school doctor detects a murmur he may request the family physician to make another check. This doctor may need to consult a heart specialist who may find it necessary to re-examine the child from time to time. Meanwhile, worry is unjustified.

In addition to a general physical examination, doctors may check on the heart in other ways—through an x-ray or fluoroscope which give a picture of the heart; with an electrocardiograph which records the electrical action of the heart, or by laboratory tests of blood samples to find out whether anemia or infection are causing the murmur.

When murmurs do indicate a disease or defect, care can be started promptly and the condition may be improved, arrested or corrected. Any child with an organic murmur needs the supervision and care of a physician. A frank talk with the doctor can quell many unnecessary parental doubts and fears.

It's the savingest time of the year on the trucks with the workingest ways

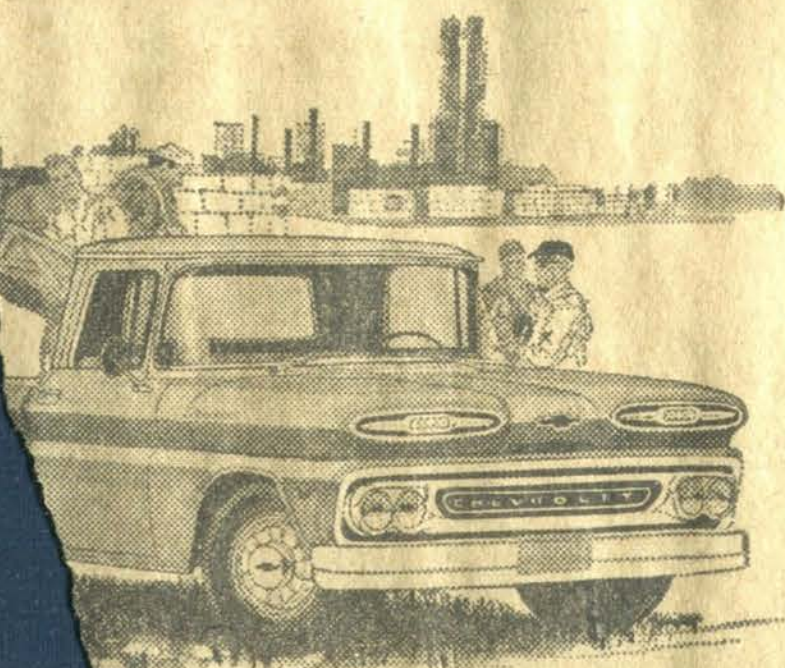

SAVE! You just can't beat August buys for saving. It's the time of year when Chevrolet dealers traditionally pull all the stops. You'll find sweeter-than-ever savings waiting for you on every '61 Chevy truck—from the nimble Corvair 95's, right up to the mighty medium- and heavy-duty jobs. Come in and save a bundle!

SAVE! You just can't beat Chevy trucks for working. With Chevy's easier riding Independent Front Suspension, loads ride easier, drivers stay fresher, the truck lasts longer. You get more work, more hauls, for your truck dollars!

SAVE! And for the frosting on the cake—you just can't beat Chevy trucks at trade-in. Latest official industry reports prove that Chevrolet trucks lead in value, week after week, over every major competitor in Chevy's price range.*
