

Porter-Delong Vows Solemnized

Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here was the scene on Friday, August 4, of the wedding ceremony which united Miss Hettie Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Lafferty, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Joe DeLong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. DeLong, of Louisville.

The Rev. Ira McMillen, Jr., pastor of the church, performed the double-banked ceremony before an altar flanked by white gladioli and flanked by seven-branched candelabra. Preceding the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. McMillen at the organ, who also sang "O Promise Me."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Lucien Lafferty, wore a gown designed and made by her mother. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and tiny cap sleeves. She wore matching elbow-length gloves. Her full skirt,

FLOYD DRIVING COSTS $9,010,000 IN '60

Special to The Times
New York, N. Y., August 14 — Floyd county couples who are bound for the hinterlands on motor trips this summer will spend, if they are average, about $29 a day while on the road, according to the American Automobile Association.

This is based on driving 300 miles a day. It includes $7 for car operation, $10.50 for meals and snacks, $9.50 for over-night lodging and $2 for tolls and miscellaneous expenses.

But before the trip, the cautious driver will have his car checked over. And that is when he will get to wondering: "How much do I spend a year to run it?"

For most car owners that is a difficult question. It means combining all the variable-type expenditures, such as gas, oil and service charges, with the fixed costs, such as insurance, taxes and depreciation.

The AAA has come up with current facts and figures for the average car owner. It follows a survey of such costs in various parts of the country for a standard-size car in the popular-price field.

For normal operation at 10,000 miles a year, the cost is $807 in fixed charges plus 3.96 cents a mile, a total of $1,203.

Applied to Floyd county and to the 7,490 passenger cars in use there, the annual expenditures locally is an estimated $9,010,000.

Every day throughout the year, whether a car is used or not, its owner incurs a bill for $2.21 the AAA reports. This is for depreciation, insurance and license fees.

The variable charges — for gas, oil, tires and maintenance — then enter the picture. They depend upon the amount of driving done.

The combined cost is 12 cents a mile at the 10,000-a-year rate.

Those who go 20,000 miles pay relatively less. Because the fixed charges stay the same, the cost drops to 8.1 cents a mile.

Operation at 5,000 miles a year, however, is much more expensive. It zooms to 20 cents a mile, the bulk of it in fixed charges.

Compact cars take less to maintain, states the AAA. The domestic ones are $248 cheaper and the foreign ones, $536. The figures are for 10,000 miles operation.

The amount of auto travel continues to grow and gas stations in Floyd county have been benefiting by it. Their gross receipts last year reached $2,075,000 as against the previous year's $1,968,000.

HIGH QUALITY TURKEY

For a high-quality turkey, select a bird that is meaty with clean, waxy skin without bruises or discoloration, and a well-distributed layer of fat under the skin. Short legs indicate meatiness. Choose birds with undamaged wrappings; those with torn wrappings become rancid more quickly.

USDA LISTS HELPS IN KEEPING COOL

USDA lists these devices for helping keep your house cooler in summer: a white roof that reflects instead of absorbing the heat of the sun; an attic fan installed with vents so that it can blow hot air out of the attic at night and draw in cool air; and outside blinds or other shading arrangements to help keep hot sunshine from coming through windows. These also help after the house is air-conditioned.

BATTLE OF SALTVILLE

A number of Big Sandy residents went to Saltville, Va., August 5, and dedicated a marker at the grave of Capt. David V. Auxier, who was fatally wounded in the battle there, October 2, 1864. He died two days later and lies buried in the McCready cemetery, a short distance east of Saltville.

Auxier is the only soldier buried in the cemetery but I was told by elderly residents that many graves were scattered over the area. The Auxier grave had been cared for by the Frye family for generations.

Ernest McCready pointed out from the cemetery the terrain over which the contending armies struggled. It was a narrow valley and during the Civil War was chiefly covered with timber and brush. The battle site extended over a large area as both armies probably totaled 8,000 men. The Union General Stephen Burbridge, of Kentucky, was defeated.

The dedicatory service was impressive and beautiful and at times my mind strayed back to that day nearly 100 years ago when the two armies, chiefly Kentuckians, fought with such ferocity there. The flag erected at the grave by Garland Rice waved peacefully with the wind. When Capt. Auxier died near there a century ago the valley resounded with rifle and mortar fire. Men clambered through the brush seeking to kill their enemies and stay alive themselves. The flag and standard bearers then moved grimly down the hill to enter our cars. One hundred years ago other Eastern Kentuckians were charging down that mountainside to fight, suffer wounds and die for a cause in which they believed.

When the memorial service was over we walked down the slope of the hill to enter our cars. One hundred years ago other Eastern Kentuckians were charging down that mountainside to fight, suffer wounds and die for a cause in which they believed. The old divisions and hatreds between the sections are gone now, abated by the long decades. When I thought of the cause for which the men at Saltville died I wondered if America still believes in its cause, if it was still willing like Capt. Auxier and Col. Edwin Trimble, a Confederate victim of the battle, to die for a cause. I think it is.

I think America still has the stamina and courage it always had. I think the journey of the Big Sandians to dedicate the marker at the grave of Capt. Auxier is a bit of evidence of it. Rome, in its decline, forgot the graves of its defenders. Patriotism died there and Rome fell.

As long as love of country exists, as long as people honor the dead who sacrificed for America, the country will remain great and strong. That is the wellspring of greatness and strength.

DEO VINDICE

While at Saltville we found that we were early for the dedication and decided to walk through the city cemetery. Covering several acres, it lay rolling and green, high above the roaring traffic below and the North Fork Holston wending its way westward.

Many graves are those of Confederate veterans who survived the Civil War but were claimed by age or illness years later. These graves, although there is a conventional stone, are marked also by an iron cross, cast at a Southwest Virginia foundry. On the cross is this legend: "C.S.A., 1861-1865. Deo Vindice."

Deo Vindice, I am told by Miss Linda Stephens, Prestonsburg teacher, is Latin for "Under God, the Deliverer" or "With God the Protector."

The Latin phrase also appears on many memorial plates found in souvenir shops.

MUSICK REUNION

While on the Virginia trip we attended the Musick family reunion at Lebanon, Va. Rev. J. J. Musick, pastor of First Christian Church, Bristol, Va., presided. The reunion was held in the Lebanon high school auditorium.

The Musicks of Southern West Virginia, Southwest Virginia and of Eastern Kentucky are of the same tribe, most of them in the area descendants of David Musick, who was killed by the Indians near the present Honaker, Va., August 12, 1792. His wife and four children, who were taken prisoners by the savages, were rescued by the white pursuers at the present Hayti, Virginia.

The Musick family has been in America since 1629 and has spread all over the United States. Members of the family attended the gathering from many states, including Louisiana, the Mid-West and Northern cities. Several Musick family relatives, including Mrs. Douglas Galbraith, of Paintsville, attended.

The reunion was organized a few years ago, chiefly through the efforts of Rev. G. C. Musick, pastor of the Anthony (W. Va.) Baptist Church. It was a pleasure to meet Rev. Musick and Judge E. J. Sutherland, of Dickinson county, Va. Both are accomplished research historians.

We don't believe you gain anything at all by driving long distances to shop at BIG CITY stores. Our local sources have merchandise that's just as good and costs no more.

But merely for the sake of argument, suppose you do save a few dollars on a time-consuming trip many miles from home. And suppose you don't even count the cost of gasoline and oil, car wear, parking fees, etc. Forget, too, if you like, the hazards of driving in today's heavy highway and city traffic.

But don't overlook these things: What you buy here can be in your home in a few minutes—no waiting several days for delivery. And if the merchandise doesn't give full satisfaction, any needed service or adjustment of the purchase can be made without shipping the items back to the BIG CITY or being forced to make a second trip yourself.

Why drive scores of miles looking for trouble? Shop right around the corner and be safe and satisfied.

Shepherd Discharged

Henry Shepherd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Stone, of David, was discharged from the armed service, August 4, at El Paso, Texas. He served three years in the air defense program of the Army. He spent a year at the Air Defense School at Fort Bliss, Texas, where he was graduated as a radar and electronics technician in the Nike system. He later became an instructor of basic radar circuitry and basic electronics.

JOINT STATEMENT ISSUED TO CLARIFY STAFF JOBS

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 18 (Spl).—Gov. Bert Combs and Highway Commissioner Henry Ward have issued statements to the press clarifying the positions and responsibilities of the staff assistants to the district engineers of the Highway Department.

At a press conference in the Governor's office, Ward and Combs told newsmen the statements were being made to "clear up the misunderstanding created by incomplete stories and editorial comments about the duties of the staff assistants." That story had indicated that the staff assistants' duties were concerned with political patronage and had compared their positions with those of the members of the old eight-man Highway Advisory Commission.

Said the Governor, "The staff assistants, which the Highway Department has employed to increase efficiency in its district offices by relieving the district engineers of non-engineering burdens, are not comparable to the Advisory Highway Commissioner system abolished by the 1960 Legislature."

The eight advisory highway commissioners, he pointed out, were statutory and policymaking officers. They were superior in authority to the district engineers and were responsible only to the highway commissioner and Governor. Most of them were provided with offices in their respective districts. Six had secretaries. Seven had automobiles assigned for their special use and were entitled to obtain gas and oil at State pumps.

"The staff assistants are employees of the district engineers," Combs said. "They do not make policy. They are not assigned secretaries. They either use their personal automobiles or temporarily take a car from the department's motor pool."

"The staff assistants are not permitted to handle patronage. It is this administration's policy that no state employee can serve as contact man for patronage purposes. The staff assistants report to no political boss. They report only to the district engineers, all of whom are recognized as men of professional standing with little or no interest in politics."

Carl T. Watson, of Prestonsburg, is one of the staff assistants recently employed. A need for the staff assistants became apparent, Ward reported, when he became commissioner of highways and began a reorganization in which 14 separate offices—eight district and six area offices—were consolidated into 12 district offices, and the district engineers were given more autonomy. In the reorganization it became obvious, he said, that district engineers were spending too much time on work of a non-engineering nature. There also was a shortage of capable assistant engineers and other specialists.

Ward recommended that the position of staff assistant be created to relieve the district engineer of much non-engineering detail.

"The position of staff assistant was created," said the highway commissioner, "to provide flexibility in the handling of varied functions in the district offices. In the development of organizations to handle the functions in each district, we are engaged in attempting to define duties and assign functions in accordance with titles that are descriptive of what actually is being done. The position of staff assistant was created to provide a job through which a variety of functions not easily assigned to another position could be performed."

The staff assistants' duties include much assistance to the district engineers on administrative details, Ward continued. They act for the engineers in trouble-shooting, inspections, working with local officials and fiscal courts on the detail and paperwork involved in the rural secondary road program.

Their duties, Ward pointed out, do not conflict with those of the administrative managers of the 12 district offices, who are in their offices, full-time, managing the administration of the districts.

College To Confer Honorary Doctorate On Florida Pastor

Pikeville, Ky., Aug. 14 (Spl).—Some 125 course degrees and one honorary doctorate were awarded at a summer-ending reception for graduation candidates recently at Pikeville College.

The Rev. Richard E. Neumann, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is to receive the Doctor of Divinity degree. Dr. A. A. Page, college president, announced. A pastor in Florida for only nine years, Mr. Neumann heads the Synod of Florida, the statewide organization of the United Presbyterian Church there.

All the members of the graduating class took part in Pikeville's commencement exercises June 4. Included are 121 candidates for degrees of Bachelor of Science in Education, one for Bachelor of Science in Education, one for Bachelor of Science in Medical Technology, and three for Bachelor of Arts.

Those getting the B.S. in Education—97 per cent of the class—will be prepared for elementary or high school teaching, and eligible for the state's provisional certificate.

8th ANNUAL WHAS CRUSADE SET SEPTEMBER 23-24

WHAS has set Saturday and Sunday, September 23 and 24 for the eighth annual Crusade for Children at Louisville's Memorial Auditorium.

Money raised during the 16½-hour radio and TV show will be used to aid physically and mentally handicapped children in Kentucky and Southern Indiana.

In 1960, 40 children's agencies in Kentucky and Southern Indiana received grants totaling $195,372.30. Money received from Southern Indiana is granted to Southern Indiana children's agencies only, and Kentucky contributions are used only in Kentucky. Grants are allocated each year by the panel of ministers on WHAS Radio's "Moral Side of the News." Panel members are: Dr. Frank H. Caldwell, president of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary; Rabbi J. J. Gittleman, of the Temple Adath Jeshurun; Dr. Duke K. McCall, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary; Rt. Rev. Msgr. Felix N. Pitt, secretary of the Catholic School Board; and Dr. Paul S. Stauffer, of the First Christian Church.

Joining the Crusade this year is Jo Ann Hele, a pretty blonde with a "girl next door" appeal in her voice, who was recently signed as the new WHAS staff singer.

In addition to the numerous popular WHAS personalities, several outstanding guest stars will perform on the Crusade. WHAS' Jim Walton will once again emcee the king-size production, joined by Randy Atcher, "Cactus" Tom Brooks, The Crusaders Chorus, the Johnny Schrader Combo and others.

The rules governing applications for grants from the 1961 WHAS Crusade for Children are available to agencies. Requests for grants should be filed by September 30, 1961, and should be addressed to WHAS Incorporated, 525 West Broadway, Louisville, Kentucky. A complete set of grant rules is available by writing to the same address.

Meat Substitute

Macaroni products combined with meat, egg or cheese make a tasty, nutritious and attractive meat substitute. Macaroni also is a good base for salads and a good thickening agent in soups.

Rheumatic Pain Gone In 8 Hours

"For years I had rheumatic pains in my shoulders, legs and ankles; when I walked I would flinch with agony, but recently I got RUGON and the pains began leaving my body in 8 hours. Now I am entirely free of pain and praise RUGON to the sky." This is a true, sincere testimonial.

RUGON is helping so many victims of rheumatism and neuritis because this NEW Liquid Formula contains Three Wonderful Ingredients. Not a tablet or capsule. RUGON goes to the very source of pain, almost at once and costs but a few cents a day to take. So don't go on suffering. Get RUGON at W. A. Rose Drug Co
